- (b) Notwithstanding this Section 6.3 and the priorities set forth in the Act, the General Partner or liquidator may distribute ratably in kind rather than in cash, upon dissolution, any assets of the Partnership; provided, however, that if any in kind distribution is to be made, (i) the assets distributed in kind shall be valued pursuant to Section 7.2, and charged as so valued and distributed against amounts to be paid under Section 6.3(a) and (ii) any gain or loss (as computed for book purposes) attributable to property distributed in kind shall be included in the Net Profit or Net Loss for the Accounting Period ending on the date of such distribution.

Article VII ACCOUNTING AND VALUATION; BOOKS AND RECORDS

7.1 Accounting and Reports

- (a) The Partnership may adopt for tax accounting purposes any accounting method that the General Partner shall decide is in the best interests of the Partnership and that is permissible for U.S. federal income tax purposes.
- (b) As soon as practicable after the end of each Fiscal Year thereafter, the General Partner shall cause an audit of the financial statements of the Partnership as of the end of each such period to be made by a firm of independent accountants selected by the General Partner. As soon as is practicable thereafter, but subject to Section 7.4, the General Partner shall furnish to each Limited Partner a copy of the set of financial statements prepared in accordance with GAAP, with such adjustments thereto as the General Partner determines appropriate, including the report of such independent accountants.
- (c) As soon as practicable after the end of each taxable year, the General Partner shall furnish to each Limited Partner such information as may be required to enable each Limited Partner properly to report for U.S. federal, state and local income tax purposes its distributive share of each Partnership item of income, gain, loss, deduction or credit for such year. The General Partner shall have discretion as to how to report Partnership items of income, gain, loss, deduction or credit on the Partnership's tax returns, and the Limited Partners shall treat such items consistently on their own tax returns.
- (d) As soon as practicable after the end of each calendar month, but subject to Section 7.5, the General Partner shall arrange for the preparation and delivery to each Limited Partner of an interim report containing such information concerning the affairs of the Partnership (which need not include any financial statements) as the General Partner considers appropriate.

7.2 Valuation of Partnership Assets and Interests

- (a) The General Partner (or its delegate, including the Investment Manager or the administrator of the Partnership) shall value the assets of the Partnership as of the close of business on the last day of each Accounting Period. Such valuations will generally be in accordance with GAAP, with such adjustments thereto as the General Partner reasonably determines appropriate. In addition, the General Partner shall value the assets which are being distributed in kind as of the close of the Business Day immediately preceding the distribution date in accordance with Section 5.5(c) or Section 6.3(b). In determining the value of the assets of the Partnership, no value shall be placed on the goodwill or name of the Partnership, or the office records, files, statistical data or any similar intangible assets of the Partnership not normally reflected in the Partnership's accounting records, but there shall be taken into consideration any related items of income earned but not received, expenses incurred but not yet paid, liabilities fixed or contingent, prepaid expenses to the extent not otherwise reflected in the books of account, and the value of options or commitments to purchase or sell securities pursuant to agreements entered into on or prior to such valuation date.
- (b) To the extent readily available, valuations will be based on independent market quotations obtained by the General Partner from recognized pricing services, market participants or other sources. In the case of any Investment for which a quotation from an independent source is not available or is determined by the General Partner to be unreliable or inadequate, the General Partner (i) shall be authorized, to the extent permitted by applicable law, to value such positions at their fair value in such manner as the General Partner determines in good faith, or (ii) may (but shall not be required to) obtain an appraisal, at the expense of the Partnership, by an independent third party selected by the General Partner. Except as otherwise determined by or at the direction of the General Partner, investment and trading transactions shall be accounted for on the trade date.
- (c) Accounts shall be maintained in U.S. dollars, and except as otherwise determined by or at the direction of the General Partner: (i) assets and liabilities denominated in currencies other than U.S. dollars shall be translated at the rates of exchange quoted by an independent pricing service as in effect as of the close of business on the relevant valuation dates (and exchange adjustments shall be recorded in the results of operations); and (ii) investment and trading transactions and income and expenses shall be translated at the rates of exchange in effect at the time of each transaction.

7.3 Determinations by the General Partner

- (a) All matters concerning the determination and allocation among the Partners of the amounts to be determined and allocated pursuant to this Agreement, including Article III and accounting procedures applicable thereto, shall be determined by the General Partner, unless specifically and expressly otherwise provided for by the provisions of this Agreement, and such determinations and allocations shall be final and binding on all the Partners; provided, however, that all calculations of the Performance Allocation will be made on the basis of, or subject to correction based on, the annual audit of the Partnership's financial statements and appropriate adjustments will be made to all such calculations and related allocations to the extent necessary as a result of that audit.

- (b) The General Partner may make such adjustments to the computation of Net Profit or Net Loss or any other allocations with respect to any Limited Partner, or any component items comprising any of the foregoing, as it considers appropriate to reflect the financial results of the Partnership and the intended allocation thereof among the Partners in a reasonably accurate, fair and efficient manner. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, any provision of this Agreement that requires an adjustment to be made to any Capital Account or sub-account as of any mid-month or mid-quarter date may be made as of the most recent preceding or succeeding date when a regular valuation is being conducted.

7.4 Books and Records

- (a) The General Partner shall keep books and records pertaining to the Partnership's affairs showing all of its assets and liabilities, receipts and disbursements, realized income, gains, deductions and losses, Partners' Capital Accounts and all transactions entered into by the Partnership. The General Partner shall afford to the Partnership's independent auditors reasonable access to such documents during customary business hours and shall permit the Partnership's auditors to make copies thereof or extracts therefrom at the expense of the Partnership.
- (b) The General Partner shall establish such standards as it deems appropriate regarding the access of Limited Partners to the books and records of the Partnership and shall not be obliged to permit access by a Limited Partner to the name or address of any other Limited Partner.

7.5 Confidentiality

- (a) Each Limited Partner agrees to keep confidential, and not to make any use of (other than for purposes reasonably related to its Interest or for purposes of filing such Limited Partner's tax returns) or disclose to any Person, any information or matter relating to the Partnership and its affairs and any information or matter related to any Investment (other than disclosure to such Limited Partner's directors, employees, agents, advisors, or representatives responsible for matters relating to the Partnership or to any other Person approved in writing by the General Partner (each such Person being hereinafter referred to as an "Authorized Representative")); provided that (i) such Limited Partner and its Authorized Representatives may make such disclosure to the extent that (A) the information to be disclosed is publicly available at the time of proposed disclosure by such Limited Partner or Authorized Representative, (B) the information otherwise is or becomes legally available to such Limited Partner other than through disclosure by the Partnership or the General Partner, or (C) such disclosure is required by law or in response to any governmental agency request or in connection with an examination by any regulatory authorities; provided that such governmental agency, regulatory authorities or association is aware of the confidential nature of the information disclosed; (ii) such Limited Partner and its Authorized Representatives may make such disclosure to its beneficial owners to the extent required under the terms of its arrangements with such beneficial owners; and (iii) each Limited Partner will be permitted, after written notice to the General Partner, to correct any false or misleading information which becomes public concerning such Limited Partner's relationship to the Partnership or the General Partner. Prior to making any disclosure required by law, each Limited Partner shall use its best efforts to notify the General Partner of such disclosure. Prior to any disclosure to any Authorized Representative or beneficial owner, each Limited Partner shall advise such Authorized Representative or beneficial owner of the obligations set forth in this Section 7.5(a) and each such Authorized Representative or beneficial owner shall agree to be bound by such obligations.

- (b) The General Partner may keep confidential from the Limited Partners, for such period of time as the General Partner deems reasonable, any information, including the identity of the Partners or information regarding the Partners or Investments, which the General Partner reasonably believes to be in the nature of trade secrets or other information the disclosure of which the General Partner believes is not in the best interests of the Partnership or could damage the Partnership or its business or which the Partnership is required by law or agreement with a third party to keep confidential.
- (c) Subject to applicable legal and regulatory considerations, the General Partner shall use reasonable efforts to keep confidential any information relating to a Limited Partner obtained by the General Partner in connection with or arising out of the Partnership which the Limited Partner requests to be kept confidential.
- (d) Notwithstanding the provisions of this Section 7.5, Partners (and their employees, representatives and other agents) may disclose to any and all Persons, without limitation of any kind, the tax treatment and tax structure of the Partnership and its transactions and all materials of any kind (including tax opinions or other tax analyses) that are provided to such Person by, or on behalf of the Partnership. For this purpose, "tax treatment" is the purported or claimed U.S. federal income tax treatment of a transaction and "tax structure" is limited to any fact that may be relevant to understanding the purported or claimed U.S. federal income tax treatment of a transaction. For this purpose, the names of the Partnership, the Partners, their affiliates, the names of their partners, members or equity holders and the representatives, agents and tax advisors of any of the foregoing are not items of tax structure.
- (e) The General Partner may disclose to prospective investors such information relating to the Partnership or the Investments as it believes in good faith will benefit the Partnership and facilitate investment in the Partnership by such prospective investors.

- (f) The Investment Manager and a Person acting as a service provider to the Partnership shall have the right to access all information belonging to the Partnership.

Article VIII GENERAL PROVISIONS

  - (ix) restate this Agreement together with any amendments hereto which have been duly adopted in accordance herewith to incorporate such amendments in a single, integrated document.
- (e) Following the adoption of any amendments to this Agreement pursuant to 8.1(d), the General Partner shall promptly deliver a copy of such amendments to this Agreement to the Limited Partners.
- (f) The General Partner may agree with a Limited Partner to waive or modify the application of any provision of this Agreement with respect to such Limited Partner without notifying or obtaining the consent of any other Limited Partner (other than a Limited Partner whose rights as a Limited Partner pursuant to this Agreement would be materially and adversely changed by such waiver or modification). Any such waiver or modification may be evidenced by a "side letter" or other document which will govern with respect to the applicable Limited Partner and be incorporated as part of this Agreement.

8.2 Special Power-of-Attorney

- (a) Each Limited Partner hereby irrevocably makes, constitutes and appoints the General Partner (and each of its successors and permitted assigns), with full power of substitution, the true and lawful representative and attorney -in-fact of, and in the name, place and stead of, such Limited Partner with the power from time to time to make, execute, sign, acknowledge, swear to, verify, deliver, record, file or publish:
  - (i) an amendment to this Agreement that complies with the provisions of this Agreement (including the provisions of Section 8.1);
  - (ii) the Certificate and any amendment thereof required because this Agreement is amended, including an amendment to effectuate any change in the membership of the Partnership or in the capital contributions of the Partners;
  - (iii) any financing statement or other filing or document required or permitted to perfect the security interests contemplated by any provision hereof; and
  - (iv) all such other instruments, documents and certificates which, in the opinion of legal counsel to the Partnership, may from time to time be required by the laws of the United States of America, the State of Delaware, or any other jurisdiction in which the Partnership determines to do business, or any political subdivision or agency thereof, or which such legal counsel may deem necessary or appropriate to effectuate, implement and continue the valid and subsisting existence and business of the Partnership as a limited partnership, exchange a portion of a Limited Partner's Interest for similar equity interests in an Alternative Investment Vehicle, or to effect the dissolution or termination of the Partnership.
- (b) Each Limited Partner is aware that the terms of this Agreement permit certain amendments to this Agreement to be effected and certain other actions to be taken or omitted by or with respect to the Partnership without that Limited Partner's consent. If an amendment of the Certificate or this Agreement or any action by or with respect to the Partnership is taken by the General Partner in the manner contemplated by this Agreement, each Limited Partner agrees that, notwithstanding any objection which such Limited Partner may assert with respect to such action, the General Partner in its sole discretion is authorized and empowered, with full power of substitution, to exercise the authority granted above in any manner which may be necessary or appropriate to permit such amendment to be made or action to be lawfully taken or omitted. Each Partner is fully aware that each other Partner relies on the effectiveness of this special power-of-attorney with a view to the orderly administration of the affairs of the Partnership. This power-of-attorney is a special power-of-attorney and is coupled with an interest in favor of the General Partner and as such:
  - (i) is irrevocable and continues in full force and effect notwithstanding the subsequent death or incapacity of any party granting this power -of-attorney, regardless of whether the Partnership or the General Partner has had notice thereof; and

- (ii) survives the delivery of an assignment by a Limited Partner of the whole or any portion of such Limited Partner's Interest, except that where the assignee thereof has been approved by the General Partner for admission to the Partnership as a substituted Limited Partner, this power-of-attorney given by the assignor survives the delivery of such agreement for the sole purpose of enabling the General Partner to execute, acknowledge and file any instrument necessary to effect such substitution.

8.3 Notices

Notices which may be or are required to be given under this Agreement by any party to another shall be given by hand delivery, transmitted by facsimile, transmitted electronically to an address that has been previously provided or verified through another form of notice or sent by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested or internationally recognized courier service, and shall be addressed to the respective parties hereto at their addresses as set forth on the register of Partners maintained by the General Partner or to such other addresses, facsimile numbers or electronic addresses as may be designated by any party hereto by notice addressed to (a) the General Partner, in the case of notice given by any Limited Partner, and (b) each of the Limited Partners, in the case of notice given by the General Partner. Notices will be deemed to have been given (i) when delivered by hand, transmitted by facsimile or transmitted electronically or (ii) on the date indicated as the date of receipt on the return receipt when delivered by mail or courier service.

8.4 Agreement Binding Upon Successors and Assigns; Delegation

This Agreement is binding upon and inures to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective successors, but the rights and obligations of the Partners hereunder are not assignable, transferable or delegable except as provided in Sections 4.1(c), 5.3 and 5.4, and any attempted assignment, transfer or delegation thereof which is not made pursuant to the terms of such Sections will be null and void ab initio.

8.5 Governing Law

This Agreement is, and the rights of the Partners hereunder are, governed by and shall be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to the conflict of laws rule thereof which would result in the application of the laws of a different jurisdiction. The parties hereby consent to the exclusive jurisdiction and venue for any action arising out of this Agreement in the courts located in Dallas County, Texas. Each Partner consents to service of process in any action or proceeding involving the Partnership by the mailing thereof by registered or certified mail, postage prepaid, to such Partner's mailing address set forth in the register of Partners maintained by the General Partner.

8.6 Not for Benefit of Creditors

The provisions of this Agreement are intended only for the regulation of relations among Partners and between Partners and former or prospective Partners and the Partnership. Except for the rights of the Indemnified Persons hereunder, this Agreement is not intended for the benefit of non-Partner creditors and no rights are granted to non-Partner creditors under this Agreement.

8.7 Dispute Resolution

The following procedures shall be used to resolve any controversy or claim ("Dispute") arising out of, relating to or in connection with the Agreement or otherwise involving the Partnership, its Partners and/or any Indemnified Person. If any of these provisions are determined to be invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall remain in effect and binding on the parties to the fullest extent permitted by law.

(a) Mediation

- (i) Any Dispute shall be submitted to mediation by written notice to the other party or parties. In the mediation process, the parties will try to resolve their differences voluntarily with the aid of an impartial mediator, who will attempt to facilitate negotiations. The mediator will be selected by agreement of the parties. If the parties cannot agree on a mediator, a mediator shall be designated by JAMS/Endispute at the request of a party using, if necessary, strike and rank procedures then in effect.
- (ii) The mediation will be conducted as specified by the mediator and agreed upon by the parties. The parties agree to discuss their differences in good faith and to attempt, with the assistance of the mediator, to reach an amicable resolution of the dispute.
- (iii) The mediation will be treated as a settlement discussion and therefore will be confidential. The mediator may not testify for either party in any later proceeding relating to the dispute. No recording or transcript shall be made of the mediation proceedings.
- (iv) Each party will bear its own costs in the mediation. The fees and expenses of the mediator will be shared equally by the parties.

(b) Arbitration

- (i) If a Dispute has not been resolved within 90 days after the written notice beginning the mediation process (or a longer period, if the parties agree to extend the mediation), the mediation shall terminate and the dispute will be settled by arbitration. A party who files a suit in court regarding a Dispute rather than in arbitration waives its claim and must pay all attorney's fees and costs incurred by the other party in seeking to have such suit dismissed. Under no circumstances will a party maintain its right to pursue his/her/its Dispute if that party initiates a judicial suit instead of complying with the mediation and arbitration provisions herein. The arbitration will be conducted through JAMS/Endispute in accordance with the procedures in this document and the commercial dispute arbitration rules then in effect ("Arbitration Rules"). In the event of a conflict, the provisions of this document will control.

- (ii) The arbitration will be conducted before a panel of three arbitrators, regardless of the size of the dispute, to be selected as provided in the Arbitration Rules. Any issue concerning the extent to which any dispute is subject to arbitration, or concerning the applicability, interpretation, or enforceability of these procedures, including any contention that all or part of these procedures are invalid or unenforceable, shall be governed by the U.S. Federal Arbitration Act ("FAA"), and resolved by the arbitrators, provided, however, that the Partnership or such applicable affiliate thereof may pursue a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunctive relief in connection with confidentiality, non-competition, non-solicitation or non-recruitment covenants or agreements binding on any party, with related expedited discovery for the parties, in a court of law, and, thereafter, require arbitration of all issues of final relief. Under no circumstances will a state arbitration act preclude application of the FAA, including any choice of law provisions in this Agreement, or any other agreement. No potential arbitrator may serve on the panel unless he or she has agreed in writing to abide and be bound by these procedures.
- (iii) The arbitrators may not award non-monetary or equitable relief of any sort. They shall have no power to award punitive damages or any other damages not measured by the prevailing party's actual damages, and the parties expressly waive their right to obtain such damages in arbitration or any in other forum. In no event, even if any other portion of these provisions is held to be invalid or unenforceable, shall the arbitrators have power to make an award or impose a remedy that could not be made or imposed by a court deciding the matter in the same jurisdiction. The arbitrator(s) shall be required to state in a written opinion all facts and conclusions of law relied upon to support any decision rendered. Any dispute over whether the arbitrator(s) has failed to comply with the foregoing will be resolved by summary judgment in a court of law.
- (iv) The party initiating arbitration shall pay all arbitration costs and arbitrator's fees, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. All proceedings shall be conducted in Dallas, Texas, or another mutually agreeable site. Each party shall bear its own attorneys fees, costs and expenses, including any costs of experts, witnesses and/or travel, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. The duty to arbitrate described above shall survive the termination of this Agreement.
- (v) No discovery will be allowed in connection with the arbitration unless the arbitration panel, upon a showing of substantial need, expressly authorizes

it. In any event, there shall be no more than (a) two party depositions of six hours each. Each deposition is to be taken pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure; (b) one non-party deposition of six hours; (c) twenty-five interrogatories; (d) twenty-five requests for admission; (e) ten requests for production. In response, the producing party shall not be obligated to produce in excess of 5,000 total pages of documents. The total pages of documents shall include electronic documents; and (f) one request for disclosure pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure. Any discovery not specifically provided for in this paragraph, whether to parties or non-parties, shall not be permitted.

- (vi) All aspects of the arbitration shall be treated as confidential, including its institution and/or settlement. Neither the parties nor the arbitrators may disclose the existence, content or results of the arbitration, except as necessary to comply with legal or regulatory requirements. Before making any such disclosure, a party shall give written notice to all other parties and shall afford such parties a reasonable opportunity to protect their interests. In the event a party who recovered monies by settlement, award by the arbitration panel, or otherwise in connection with the Dispute violates this confidentiality term, he, she, or it shall refund all such sums recovered. The parties expressly intend to waive the right to retain any monies received through settlement, award by the arbitration panel, or otherwise in connection with the Dispute in the event that that party violates the aforementioned confidentiality term.
- (vii) The result of the arbitration will be binding on the parties, and judgment on the arbitrators' award may be entered in any court having jurisdiction.

8.8 Consents and Voting

- (a) Except as provided in Section 5.4, Limited Partners do not have any right to vote for the admission or removal of any General Partner and, except for the right to vote on certain amendments proposed by the General Partner and as otherwise expressly set out herein, have no other voting rights. Upon the request of any Limited Partner, the General Partner may designate an Interest as a Non-Voting Interest, in which case the Limited Partner shall not have the right to vote on any matter including amendments.
- (b) Any and all consents, agreements or approvals provided for or permitted by this Agreement shall be in writing and a copy thereof shall be filed and kept with the books of the Partnership. For the avoidance of doubt, an amendment made pursuant to Section 8.1(c) or pursuant to negative consent under Section 8.1(a) or Section 8.1(b) shall not require any affirmative written response by any Limited Partner who is not electing to withdraw from the Partnership.
- (c) In the event the Partnership seeks the approval, vote or consent of the Offshore Fund with respect to any matter to which it would be entitled to vote as a Limited Partner of the Partnership under this Agreement, the Offshore Fund will: (i) submit such matter for the consent of the shareholders and (ii) shall vote its Limited Partner interest proportionally for and against such matter in the same proportion that the shareholders voted for and against such matter.

8.9 Merger and Consolidation

- (a) The Partnership may merge or consolidate with or into one or more limited partnerships formed under the Act or other business entities pursuant to an agreement of merger or consolidation which has been approved in the manner contemplated by Section 17-211(b) of the Act.
- (b) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained elsewhere in this Agreement, an agreement of merger or consolidation approved in accordance with Section 17-211(b) of the Act may, to the extent permitted by Section 17-211(g) of the Act, (i) effect any amendment to this Agreement, (ii) effect the adoption of a new limited partnership agreement for the Partnership if it is the surviving or resulting limited partnership in the merger or consolidation, or (iii) provide that the limited partnership agreement of any other constituent partnership to the merger or consolidation (including a limited partnership formed for the purpose of consummating the merger or consolidation) shall be the limited partnership agreement of the surviving or resulting limited partnership.

8.10 Miscellaneous

- (a) The captions and titles preceding the text of each Section hereof shall be disregarded in the construction of this Agreement. Use of the word “including” in this Agreement means in each case “without limitation,” whether or not such term is explicitly stated.
- (b) This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, each of which shall be deemed to be an original hereof.
- (c) If any provision of this Agreement is held invalid or unenforceable by any court of competent jurisdiction, the other provisions of this Agreement shall remain in full force and effect. Any provision of this Agreement held invalid or unenforceable only in part or degree shall remain in full force and effect to the extent not held invalid or unenforceable.

8.11 BHCA Subject Persons

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement to the contrary:

- (a) Solely for purposes of any provision of this Agreement that confers voting rights on the Limited Partners and any other provisions hereof regarding consents of or action by the Limited Partners, any BHCA Subject Person that shall have given the General Partner an Election Notice and shall not thereafter have given the General Partner a Revocation Notice, and that at any time has a Partnership Percentage in excess of 4.9% of the aggregate Partnership Percentages of the Limited Partners entitled to participate in such voting or the giving of any consent or the taking of any action, shall be deemed to hold a Partnership Percentage of only 4.9% of the aggregate Partnership Percentages of the Limited Partners (after giving effect to the limitations imposed by this Section 8.11 on all such Limited Partners), and such Partnership Percentage in excess of said 4.9% shall be deemed held by the Limited Partners who are not BHCA Subject Persons, pro rata in proportion to their respective Partnership Percentages; provided that this limitation shall not prohibit a Limited Partner from voting or participating in giving or withholding consent or taking any action under any provision of this Agreement up to the full amount of its Partnership Percentage in situations where such Limited Partner's vote or consent or action is of the type customarily provided by statute or stock exchange rules with regard to matters that would significantly and adversely affect the rights or preference of the Limited Partner's Interest. The foregoing voting restriction shall continue to apply with respect to any assignee or other transferee of such BHCA Subject Person's Interest; provided, however, that the foregoing voting restriction shall not continue to apply if the Interest is transferred: (i) to the Partnership; (ii) to the public in an offering registered under the Securities Act; (iii) in a transaction pursuant to Rule 144 or Rule 144A under the Securities Act in which no Person acquires more than 2% of the Partnership's outstanding Interests; or (iv) in a single transaction to a third party who acquires at least a majority of the Partnership's outstanding Interests without regard to the Transfer of such Interests.

- (b) Except as specifically provided otherwise in this Agreement, a Limited Partner that is a BHCA Subject Person that shall have given the General Partner an Election Notice, and shall not thereafter have given the General Partner a Revocation Notice, shall not be entitled to exercise any rights to consent to actions to be taken with respect to the Partnership, including rights conferred by any applicable law. Such right to consent shall be deemed granted to the Limited Partners who are not BHCA Subject Persons, pro rata in proportion to their respective Partnership Percentages.
- (c) A Limited Partner that is a BHCA Subject Person and that elects to be subject to Section 8.11(a) and (b) shall notify the General Partner thereof (an "Election Notice") and, on the General Partner's receipt of such Election Notice, such Limited Partner shall be subject to Section 8.11(a) and (b) until 10 calendar days after such Limited Partner notifies the General Partner that it elects no longer to be subject to Section 8.11(a) and (b) (a "Revocation Notice"), which period may be reduced by the General Partner.

8.12 RIC Limited Partners

An Interest of a RIC Limited Partner does not entitle the RIC Limited Partner to vote or consent with respect to any Partnership matter unless the RIC Limited Partner's vote or consent with respect to its Interest would not be considered to be "voting securities" as defined under Section 2(a)(42) of the Investment Company Act. Except as provided in this Section 8.12, an Interest held by a RIC Limited Partner as a Non-Voting Interest is identical in all regards to all other Interests held by Limited Partners.

8.13 Bad Actor Limited Partners

Under Rule 506(d) under the Securities Act, the Partnership may be banned from selling Interests under Rule 506 if a Limited Partner beneficially owning 20% or more of the Partnership's voting securities engages in a "bad act" set forth in Rule 506. Accordingly, each Limited Partner agrees that the General Partner may deem the portion of any Bad Actor Limited Partner's Interests to be, or convert any Bad Actor Limited Partner's Interests into, Non-Voting Interests (except for the purposes of voting on any amendment to this Agreement that would materially and adversely change the Bad Actor Limited Partner's rights and preferences as a Limited Partner other than pursuant to an amendment under Section 8.1(c)) to the extent that the General Partner determines that such portion is in excess of 19.99% of the outstanding aggregate voting Interests of all Partners excluding any Interests that are Non-Voting Interests.

8.14 Entire Agreement

The parties acknowledge and agree that, this Agreement, together with any other agreement with a Limited Partner pursuant to Section 8.1(e), constitutes the entire agreement among the parties hereto pertaining to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and understandings pertaining thereto.

The McIntire School of Commerce ranks consistently in the top tier of U.S. business schools and is currently rated #2 among U.S. undergraduate business school programs by BusinessWeek.
6. I earned a Doctor of Philosophy in Finance from the Kelley School of Business at Indiana University, have presented my research at universities and conferences around the world, and published in leading academic journals, including the Journal of Finance, Journal of Financial Economics, Journal of Financial Intermediation, and Journal of Econometrics. I have received competitive research grants from the American Bankruptcy Institute, National Bureau of Economic Research, and Research Council of Norway. Prior to joining the McIntire faculty, I was an economist in the International Finance Division of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington, D.C. and before that, an assistant professor of finance at the Norwegian School of Management in Oslo, Norway.

I specialize in corporate finance and valuation, particularly as they relate to the nature of debt contracts used by mid to large firms, the restructuring of financially distressed companies, and the trading of debt claims against distressed entities. As part of my published research, I have collected and analyzed data from over 3,700 credit agreements of public corporations, and tracked the impact of more than 3,500 debt covenant violations on corporate borrower behavior.<sup>3</sup> I have also studied recent trends in the use of secured debt by risky corporate borrowers.<sup>4</sup>
8. I have served on numerous panels as a credit and distressed debt expert, including for the American College of Bankruptcy, American Bankruptcy Institute (ABI), and Mid-Atlantic Bankruptcy Association, have testified before the ABI Bankruptcy Reform Commission on issues related to valuing bankrupt entities, and am a column editor for the ABI Journal. I have interacted directly with dozens of professionals in credit and distressed debt markets, including agent lenders, investment bankers, debt traders, hedge fund, private equity fund, and Collateralized Loan Obligation (CLO) managers, attorneys, claims agents, and

SUMMARY OF CONCLUSIONS

9. The Note Agreement, as reproduced in Plaintiff's Exhibits 4 and 5, is a standard debt contract, similar in form and substance to debt agreements and indentures commonly used in the commercial sphere, including:
  - (a) A clear statement of the amount raised ($371,458,681), the interest rate paid to the Holders (10%), and the maturity date for the Notes (November 15, 2018).
  - (b) An amortization schedule for the repayment of principal and interest over the life of the loan.
  - (c) Contractual conditions, representations, warranties, covenants, and other protective clauses that are standard in credit agreements and indentures.
  - (d) Grants of security interests in collateral in HFP.
10. The Notes were issued during one of the worst months – if not the worst month – of the 2007-2009 Global Financial Crisis (“GFC”) and subsequent banking panic. During September and October 2008, credit market lending and liquidity provision came to a virtual standstill.
11. Surviving the banking panic required hedge funds and other investment professionals, including entities similar to HFP, to de-leverage and/or seek stable, long-term sources of financing. The Notes issuance provided HFP with just such a source.
12. Evaluated in the context of the 11 factors arising from Roth Steel Tube decision, the Notes appear to meet the standards of a bona fide debt obligation.<sup>5</sup> Of particular note, the fact the Notes were issued at a time of declining capital, and by affiliated parties within the grouping of Highland entities, should have no bearing on the characterization of the Notes as debt. Indeed, issuing secured notes through affiliated parties is an efficient mechanism for raising financing when outside financing is unavailable (as during the Fall 2008 banking panic).
13. Based on the totality of the characteristics summarized above, the Note Agreement and Notes issuance appear to constitute a bona fide debt obligation executed at arm's length.
14. The characteristics of the Settlement Agreement are standard for a negotiated restructuring of debt that is in danger of default. The Settlement Agreement has the form and substance of an arm's length contract.

15. The Settlement Agreement precluded an event of default and a prolonged restructuring or foreclosure process that could have further diminished the value of the Collateral. By agreeing to retire the debt early, the Holders received their Collateral (and additional distributions) immediately, while the Holders were able to extinguish an antecedent debt at less than face value, which greatly reduced the Holders' debt burden.
16. Based on my knowledge of debt restructurings, the Settlement Agreement appears to be negotiated in good faith and at arm's-length, and led to an outcome that preserved asset value for the Holders while extinguishing a large debt obligation against HFP.
17. In my opinion, the analysis put forth in the Dudney Report is flawed when alleging that transfers from HFP to Holders associated with the Settlement Agreement were constructively fraudulent transfers. The Dudney Report fails to recognize that Plaintiffs are not creditors in HFP, and thus, are not subject to transfers out of HFP. The report also fails to recognize that fair consideration was given in exchange for the transfers, and that HFP was balance sheet solvent once the transfer took place.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE NOTE AGREEMENT

18. The Notes were issued by HFP to obtain long-term financing for the purchase, as an investment, of equity and mezzanine tranches of collateralized loan obligations ("CLOs"). The Notes were also used to finance the acquisition of life settlement contracts.
19. Financing from the Notes came primarily in the form of assets transferred from the Holders to HFP. The total amount raised from the Notes issuance equals the market value of the assets transferred at the time of the Note Agreement.
20. The Note Agreement, as reproduced in Plaintiff's Exhibits 4 and 5, is a standard debt contract, similar in form and substance to debt agreements and indentures commonly used in the commercial sphere.
21. The Note Agreement indicates on its cover page the amount to be raised ($371,458,681), the interest rate to be paid to the Holders (10%), and the maturity date for the Notes (November 15, 2018). The interest rate on the Notes appears well within the bounds of a "market rate" on secured bonds at the time the Notes were issued. For instance, Exhibit 3 of this report identifies all secured bonds issued during September and October 2008, as tracked by the Fixed Income Securities Database ("FISD"). The exhibit shows that the 10% interest rate charged on the Notes is well within the range of rates observed on other secured bonds issued around the time of the Notes, and just above the average rate of 8.66%.<sup>6</sup>

22. Exhibit 1 to the Note Agreement attaches the actual form of the “note” provided to each of the Holders, specifying, among other things, the amount borrowed from the individual noteholder and instructions on how to collect principal and interest payments from the issuer. Exhibit 2 similarly contains the form that the noteholder can use to “assign” (sell) the note to a third party.<sup>7</sup>
23. Schedule D of the Note Agreement contains an amortization table that details the principal and interest repayment schedule. According to Schedule D, payments are to be paid in cash to the Holders on a quarterly basis in the amount of $15,078,833, beginning February 15, 2009 and continuing until the maturity date.<sup>8</sup>
24. The sections of the Note Agreement, and the contents within those sections, follow closely the standard format of note purchase agreements, credit agreements, indentures and other debt contracts, including: conditions precedent to closing (Section 4), representations and warranties of the issuer and Holders (Sections 5 and 6), rights for inspection (Section 7), guidelines and conditions for prepayment of the Notes (Section 8), affirmative and negative covenants (Sections 9 and 10), events of default and remedies upon default (Sections 11 and 12), and guidelines for Holders to vote to amend or waive terms and components of the Note Agreement (Section 16).
25. According to Schedule B (“Defined Terms”) of the Note Agreement, the Holders were granted security interests in assets of HFP, including, among other things: (a) the CLO assets transferred from the Holders, (a) life settlement contracts acquired with financing from the Notes, and (c) the equity in the HFP subsidiaries, HFP Asset Funding II, Ltd., (“HFP AF II”) and HFP Asset Funding III, Ltd. (“HFP AF III”), created to house the CLO assets and life settlement contracts (together, the “Collateral”).
26. Schedule C of the Note Agreement contains additional commitments by HFP to, among other things, assure that, within a pre-specified period of time, Holders will receive executed security agreements, evidence that security interests have been perfected in the Collateral, and notice of a collateral account in which HFP, and its subsidiaries, shall deposit earnings and proceeds from the Collateral.
27. The Amended and Restated Note Purchase Agreement includes an additional section (Section 20), in which the Bank of New York Mellon Trust is appointed as “Collateral Agent” to hold security interests in, and liens, on the Collateral for the benefit of the Holders. The Collateral Agent, at the discretion of the Holders, is also charged with creating valid security interests in the Collateral, and to perfect liens against the Collateral on behalf of the Holders.

<sup>8</sup> Note that Section 14.4 of the Note Agreement allows the Issuer to make up to five amortization payments in kind (“PIK”), whereby instead of making cash payments, HFP capitalizes the PIKs into the total amount owed to the Holders through the issuance of additional notes.

28. I am not aware of any security agreements being produced related to the Collateral. I also do not know whether the security interests granted in the Note Agreement were ultimately attached to, and perfected in, the Collateral. However, my understanding of the Note Agreement is that Holders were granted security interests in the Collateral and had the right to pursue a process whereby the security interests would be attached to, and liens would be perfected in, the Collateral.

TIMING OF LOAN AND FALL 2008 BANKING PANIC

29. It is important to put the timing of the Notes issuance in the context of the 2007-2009 GFC. The Notes were issued on September 26, 2008 in the midst of a full-blown, global banking panic, with September 2008 representing one of the worst months in the financial history of the United States.
30. The GFC began during 2007 with the decline in housing prices and subsequent meltdown in the subprime mortgage market, and the bankruptcy of a number of large mortgage institutions. Trouble spread when banks began to experience interruptions in the usually liquid interbank lending markets, fostered by banks' exposures to the risky tranches of collateralized debt obligations ("CDOs"). Banks began to doubt the creditworthiness of their counterparties and reduce their own credit exposures.<sup>9</sup>
31. As shown in Exhibit 4, this retrenching by banks led to a near-immediate slowdown in commercial lending. By the first quarter of 2008, the dollar volume of commercial loan issuances had contracted 64% from its peak in 2007.
32. Lending in short-term credit markets were also seriously impacted by the GFC. Commercial paper ("CP") issuances declined drastically, beginning in the asset-backed CP ("ABCP") market in the Fall of 2007.<sup>10</sup> Exhibit 5 shows how credit spreads on "prime brokers" began to increase markedly during late 2007 and early 2008. Prime brokers provide, among other things, debt financing to hedge funds and other investment professionals for purchases of assets and securities held in their portfolios.<sup>11</sup>

33. The GFC came to a head in September 2008, when as shown in Exhibit 6, the month saw the collapse of seven of the nation's largest financial institutions, including the September 15th bankruptcy filing by Lehman Brothers, losses in the value of short-term, liquid – and typically safe – assets that lead to the decline in the net asset value of a money market mutual fund to less than a $1 (the so-called “breaking of the buck” on September 16, 2008), and massive injections by the Federal Reserve and U.S. Treasury into short-term money markets.
34. Exhibit 4 shows that the severest decline in bank lending occurred in the last quarter of 2008, when the volume of lending declined another 44% compared to the previous quarter. Likewise, Exhibit 4 shows that the credit risk of prime brokers spiked in September and October of 2008, which brought a halt to lending in the prime broker market.
35. Close to 2,000 hedge funds failed between late 2008 through mid-2010, shrinking the amount of assets managed by hedge funds by nearly one-third.<sup>12</sup>
36. Surviving the banking panic required hedge funds and other investment professionals, including entities similar to HFP, to de-leverage and/or seek stable, long-term sources of financing. The Notes issuance provided HFP with just such a source.

THE NOTES IN LIGHT OF ROTH STEEL TUBE FACTORS

37. As described in paragraphs 18 through 28 above, the Notes and Note Agreement have the form and substance of a standard debt contract and, in my opinion, do not reflect characteristics common to equity contributions and equity contracts.
38. However, it may also be instructive to evaluate the Notes in light of the so-called Roth Steel Tube factors, the set of 11 factors utilized in a number of tax and bankruptcy courts for evaluating whether debt can be recharacterized as an equity contribution.<sup>13</sup> Paragraphs 39 through 49 below briefly evaluate the Notes with respect to each factor.

<sup>13</sup> The reference to Roth Steel Tube comes from Roth Steel Tube Co. v. C.I.R., 800 F.2d 625, 86-2 U.S. Tax Case. (CCH) ¶ 9676, 58 A.F.T.R.2d 86-5808 (6th Cir. 1986). In bankruptcy courts, the factors are sometimes referred to the “AutoStyle Plastics” factors, following the bankruptcy case in the court determined that the Roth Steel factors provided a general framework for establishing whether debt could be recharacterized in bankruptcy. My two scholarly references for discussions of debt recharacterization are James H.M. Sprayregen, Jonathan P. Friedland, Jo Ann J.Brighton, and Salvatore F. Bianca, “Recharacterization of Debt to Equity: An Overview, Update, and Practical Guide to an Evolving Doctrine,” Annual Survey of Bankruptcy Law: 2004 Edition, William J. Norton, Ed., Thomson-West (2004), 1-32, and James M. Wilton and Stephen Moeller-Sally, “Debt Recharacterization Under State Law,” The Business Lawyer 62 (2007), 1257-1280.

39. Names Given to Instruments. As recited in Paragraph 9 above, the Notes are issued via the Note Purchase Agreement dated September 26, 2008 and the Amended and Restated Note Purchase Agreement dated October 10, 2008.
40. Presence of a Fixed Maturity Date and Schedule of Repayments. As described in Paragraphs 9a., 9b., 21, and 23 of this report, the Notes had a fixed maturity date of November 15, 2018 and a schedule of repayments, reported as Attachment D to the Note Agreement, that required quarterly amortized payments of principal and interest of $15,078,833.
41. Presence of a Fixed Rate of Interest and Interest Payments. As described in Paragraphs 9a, 9b., 21, and 23, the Notes paid a fixed interest rate of 10%, payable as a component of the quarterly amortized payment of $15,078,833.
42. Source of Repayment. According to the “Proposed Note Settlement Agreement between HFP and its Lenders” attached as Exhibit A to “Minutes of a Meeting of the Board of Directors” of HFP dated March 16, 2009 (Plaintiff’s Exhibit 240), the primary source of repayment was the “high current interest income from CLO equity.”<sup>14</sup> But, as described in Paragraphs 25 through 27 above, the Notes were also granted security interests in the Collateral.
43. Adequacy of Capitalization. HFP appears to have been created as a well-capitalized entity, with little or no debt in its capital structure prior to the Notes issuance. As shown in Exhibit 7, the largest four equity interests in HFP, represented by limited partner contributions, were (partnership interests are in parentheses): (1) third party investors (56.9%), (2) HCM (21.0%), (3) CDO Fund (9.7%), and (4) Crusader Fund (9.0%).<sup>15</sup> While the value of the equity in HFP likely declined as the banking panic accelerated during September 2008, HFP was solvent at the time of the Notes issuance (see Paragraph 74 below). In any case, there are good economic reasons for using secured debt when the value of equity capital is shrinking. In particular, secured debt grants investors a senior position in the capital structure of the company, where they can feel most protected from further declines in the asset value of the firm.<sup>16</sup> Investors are reluctant to put financing into a company in more junior positions because these positions are more likely to be wiped out by further declines in asset value. Thus, companies in need of financing during times of declines in the value of its equity capital can typically only raise financing through senior and secured debt offerings.<sup>17</sup> It would be unusual – on economic grounds –

<sup>17</sup> A common example of this phenomenon is debtor-in-possession (DIP) financing provided to companies during Chapter 11 bankruptcy reorganizations. DIP financing is always providing as debt with at least an administrative claim status, putting DIP lenders senior in priority to all other claimants except prepetition secured lenders. In some circumstances, DIP lenders can also be granted a priority that is equal or superior to prepetition secured lenders via “priming liens.” The legal literature on debt recharacterization and equitable subordination also discuss lending to undercapitalized firms in the context of financial distress; see Sprayregen et al, op. cit., at 9: “if courts subordinated claims solely to recharacterize the Notes as equity because of GFC-related declines in the equity of HFP.

44. Identity of Interest Between the Creditor and Equity Owner. While Holders CDO Fund and Crusader Fund also held limited partner interests in HFP, there is no apparent connection between amounts contributed by Holders and ownership shares held by limited partners. Exhibit 7 shows that little overlap exists between the Holders (as creditors) and the limited partner interests (as equity owners). For instance, the largest ownership interest in HFP is held by third party investors whom, to my knowledge, are not Holders. Meanwhile, Crusader Fund contributed 68.2% of the proceeds from the Notes, but holds only 9% interest in HFP. HCM and CDO Fund make Notes contributions that are smaller than their partnership interests, and 18.9% of the Notes contributions are from creditors that hold no limited partnership interests.

45. Security for Advances. As is detailed in Paragraphs 25 through 27 and 42 of this report, the Notes were granted security interests in the Collateral.

46. Ability to Obtain Outside Financing. Given that the Notes Issuance came at a time when external lending markets had virtually shut down (see Paragraphs 29 through 36 above), it is unlikely that HFP could have obtained financing in September 2008 from a source external to the affiliates of Highland Capital.<sup>18</sup> Indeed, there are good economic reasons for allowing arm's-length lending to occur between affiliated entities. Managers within affiliated entities are often better informed about the future viability of a company than unaffiliated parties, which make the affiliated lenders "efficient" in the sense that they can better select when to finance a valuable project, and when to forego an investment that does not add value. But affiliated parties face the same incentive problems as unaffiliated lenders when investing in an firm with low capital, and therefore can most efficiently deploy needed financing to firm with decline value by offering senior and secured debt.<sup>19</sup> The need for affiliated financing becomes especially useful during times when typical providers of financing – such as banks – are themselves financially distressed, as was the case based on a debtor's undercapitalization, insiders would always be reluctant to lend money to a struggling entity".

<sup>18</sup> The affiliated parties included the following: Holders HCM, CDO Fund and Crusader Fund were equity owners in HFP. HCM was investment manager for HFP and for each of the Holders, and a direct or indirect owner in HFP and the other Holders. Mr. James Dondero was a director in HFP, a director in the HFP subsidiaries, HFP Asset Funding II, Ltd., ("HFP AF II") and HFP Asset Funding III, Ltd. ("HFP AF III"), and President of each of the Holders.

<sup>19</sup> The importance of inside financing to financially distressed firms is also covered in the scholarly legal articles; e.g., see Wilton and Moeller-Sally, op. cit., at 1258:

The doctrine of equitable subordination, as developed under the Bankruptcy Act, established the general principle that money loaned by corporate insiders is as green as money loaned by non-insiders; absent inequitable conduct, an insider's claim to recover a loan to a corporation ranks pari passu with claims of non-insider lenders.

See also Michael R. Tucker, "Debt Recharacterization During an Economic Trough: Trashing Historical Tests to Avoid Discouraging Insider Lending," Ohio State Law Journal

during the Fall 2008. At that time, few external options for financing existed, making a loan from an affiliated source all the more important.

47. Extent to Which Advances Were Subordinated to Claims of Outside Creditors. As described above in Paragraphs 25 through 27, and Paragraph 42, the Notes were granted security interests in the Collateral. The intention under the Note Agreement was to perfect a first priority claim against the collateral in HFP.<sup>20</sup> To my knowledge, no other substantial debt claims existed against HFP at the time the Notes were issued.

48. Extent to Which Advances Were Used to Acquire Capital Assets. Plaintiff's Exhibit 240 at H_008490 explains that proceeds from the notes would be used to "acquire and hold various structured product assets [e.g., CLO equity and mezzanine tranches] to maturity. The Notes were also issued to acquire life settlement contracts." I would characterize the assets obtained with the Notes issuance as assets used for generating income in the ordinary course of business for HFP.

49. Presence of a Sinking Fund to Provide Repayments. There appears to be no sinking fund associated with the Notes. However, to my knowledge, sinking funds are fairly uncommon in today's corporate debt service agreements.

50. In sum, based on my review of the Note Agreement and documents related to the Notes issuance, coupled with my knowledge of corporate debt contracts and markets, my opinion is that the Note Agreement and the Notes issuance exhibit the characteristics of a standard arm's-length debt transaction.

THE SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

51. The 4th quarter of 2008 ended with a sharp increase in credit downgrades to corporate loans. This had a significant negative impact on the cash inflows to HFP from its CLO equity assets because CLO indenture provisions required that income flows to the CLO be retained as cash, rather than paid out to equity tranche holders (such as HFP), to offset the downgraded loans held in the CLO portfolios.<sup>21</sup>

52. The drop in cash inflows from CLO assets was significant enough to make it unlikely that HFP would be able to meet its debt service obligations under the Notes as they came due.<sup>22</sup>

53. During the early months of 2009, the HFP board sought a negotiated resolution to its inability to meet its debt service requirements that would avoid an event of default under the Note Agreement. The process through which the HFP board contemplated its options followed a pattern similar to what would be cogently followed in a distressed-related financial restructuring.<sup>23</sup>
54. On March 20, 2009, the Settlement Agreement was entered into by HFP and the Holders. The Settlement Agreement retired the Notes, in exchange for which HFP transferred collateral and cash to the Holders in satisfaction of the Holders' claims against HFP.
55. The characteristics of the Settlement Agreement are standard for a negotiated restructuring of debt that is in danger of default. The Settlement Agreement has the form and substance of an arm's-length contract, including (a) a complete listing of the collateral assets, pledged equity, and additional cash to be transferred to Holders in satisfaction of their claims (Sections 2.1, 2.5, 2.6 and Exhibits A and B of the Settlement Agreement, and (b) an explicit recognition of the termination of the obligations against HFP under the Note Agreement (Section 2.3 of the Settlement Agreement) and release of the parties from any future causes of action related to the Note Agreement (Section 2.4 of the Settlement Agreement).
56. Exhibit 8 shows the dollar recoveries and recovery rates (dollar recoveries as a percentage of face value of debt) to the Holders under the Settlement Agreement, as reported in Exhibit A of Plaintiff's Exhibit 358 (at H_008515). For comparison purposes, Exhibit 9 reports average U.S. recovery rates for defaulted loans, secured bonds, senior unsecured bonds, and subordinated bonds over the 2000 to 2011 period, as reported by FitchRatings Credit Market Research.
57. Under the Settlement Agreement, the Holders recovered an average of 61% of the face value on the Notes (Exhibit 8). By comparison, secured bonds tracked by FitchRatings that defaulted during 2009 recovered an average of 39% (Exhibit 9). The recovery rate to Holders was higher than the 2009 average because the value of the Collateral backing the Notes remained relatively high. Exhibit 8 shows that the recovery rate on the Collateral alone was 52%. The recovery rate to Holders was more in line with defaulted loans in 2009, which averaged 59% (loans are often strictly monitored and restructured quickly following a default), and defaulted secured bonds over the longer 2001-2011 sample period, which averaged 62%.<sup>24</sup>
58. Recovery rates to each of the Holders varied between 48% and 74%, except to HCM, which as the largest equity owner in HFP, agreed to a lower recovery rate of 36%. The recovery rates to non-HCM Holders varied as function of the market value of the collateral, as contributed by each of the non-HCM Holders under the Note Agreement.

59. The early retirement of the Notes enabled HFP to reduce its debt burden in the midst of continuing declines in the value of the assets in its portfolio at the end of 2008 and beginning of 2009. The Settlement Agreement precluded an event of default and a prolonged restructuring or foreclosure process that could have further diminished the value of the Collateral. By agreeing to retire the debt early, the Holders received their Collateral (and additional distributions) immediately, while the Holders were able to extinguish an antecedent debt at less than face value, which greatly reduced their debt burden.

60. Based on my knowledge of debt restructurings, it is my opinion that the Settlement Agreement appears to be negotiated in good faith and at arm's-length, and led to an outcome that preserved asset value for the Holders while extinguishing a large debt obligation against HFP.

REBUTTAL TO DUDNEY ANALYSIS OF FRAUDULENT TRANSFERS

61. In this section, I analyze and rebut the assertion in the Dudney Report that the transfers made from HFP to the Holders in exchange for the extinguishment of the Notes constituted a constructively fraudulent transfer.

62. As noted in the Dudney Report, New York Debtor & Creditor law defines, "every conveyance made and every obligation incurred by a person who is or will be thereby rendered insolvent is fraudulent as to creditors without regard to his actual intent if the conveyance is made or the obligation is incurred without a fair consideration."<sup>25</sup> There are three features of this definition that are relevant to my rebuttal:

- (a) The conveyances are fraudulent "as to creditors" of the person. A conveyance can only be fraudulent against creditors within the entity that makes the transfer or incurs the obligation.
- (b) The conveyance is fraudulent only when it occurs without fair consideration. Under New York State law, "fair consideration" is defined to be, "When in exchange for such property, or obligation, as a fair equivalent therefor, and in good faith, property is conveyed or an antecedent debt is satisfied. . ."<sup>26</sup>
- (c) The person is, or will be rendered, insolvent by the conveyance or obligation. As covered by the Dudney Report, definitions of entity insolvency come in three forms: (1) the fair value of the assets of the entity drop below the face value of the entity's liabilities, (2) the entity,

following its transfer, has unreasonably low capital, and (3) the entity is unable to meet its obligations as they come due.<sup>27</sup>

63. Dudney asserts that “SOHC and HFP on a combined basis” was insolvent no later than October 31, 2008 or December 31, 2008.<sup>28</sup> This assertion is flawed on several dimensions.
64. First, in relation to point (a) in Paragraph 62, a conveyance can only be fraudulent against creditors of the entity in which the transfer was made. In my review of the documents and agreements associated with this case, I have found no evidence that UBS Securities LLC (“UBS Securities”) or UBS AG (“UBS AG”), London Branch (together, “Plaintiffs”) were creditors of HFP.
65. According to the credit documents associated with the Plaintiff’s lending arrangements known as the “Knox Warehouse”, including the March 14, 2008 Engagement of UBS Securities and Placement Agent in Connection with Proposed Collateralized Debt Obligation (“Engagement Letter”, Plaintiff’s Exhibit 1), the March 14, 2008 Cash Warehouse Agreement (Plaintiff’s Exhibit 2) and the March 14, 2008 Synthetic Warehouse Agreement (Plaintiff’s Exhibit 3), UBS Securities held a claim against SOHC and CDO Fund for the amount of the “Aggregate Collateral Loss” calculated by UBS Securities upon termination of the Knox Facility. There is no indication from these documents that HFP acted as a borrower, issuer, or was in any other way obligated to the Plaintiffs.
66. Nor was HFP obligated to Plaintiffs indirectly via transfers from SOHC to HFP. SOHC was not a holder in the Notes or a creditor of HFP in some other role. HFP was affiliated with SOHC only through HFP’s holding of 100% of the equity interests in SOHC. These interests were subordinate to Plaintiffs’ claims under the Knox Warehouse.<sup>29</sup>
67. Through its participation as a Holder in the Notes, CDO Fund was originally a creditor in HFP. But CDO Fund sold a portion of their Notes for full cash value to HCM and pledged the remainder of their Notes to Citi as collateral for a separate financing facility set up by Citi.
68. The only mechanism through which the Dudney Report connects SOHC to HFP is via its “indicia” of alter ego between Highland entities. While it is beyond the scope of my report to assess the Dudney Report’s assertions of alter ego, I reiterate my contention from earlier sections that: (i) the documents associated with the Notes, Note Agreement, and Settlement Agreement suggest that these transactions were conducted at arm's length, in a manner that is standard to debt markets, and (ii) that transactions between affiliated entities do not by themselves constitute misbehavior by the affiliated parties. My sense from the case documents reviewed for this report is that the Highland entities respected corporate formalities as they conducted affiliated transactions.

69. Second, in relation to point (b) in Paragraph 62, the conveyance is fraudulent only when the transfer is not for fair consideration. But, as detailed in Paragraphs 51 through 60 above, the transfer of assets associated with the Settlement Agreement involved an exchange that "satisfied an antecedent debt", namely the Notes.
70. Moreover, the exchange involved extinguishing the Notes for less than their face value. As discussed in Paragraph 57 and reported in Exhibit 8, Holders received a recovery rate that averaged 61% of their face value. This recovery rate reflected the current market value of the collateral contributed by each Holder, plus additional cash or assets contributed to compensate Holders for assets sold out of the original pool of Collateral.<sup>30</sup>
71. By extinguishing the Notes in exchange for this transfer, HFP obviated the risk that Holders would later assert a deficiency claim against HFP for the difference in the face value of their debt and the value of the collateral. Essentially, HFP received, in exchange for the assets, a reduction in exposure equivalent to  $100\% - 61\% = 39\%$  of the face value of the Notes, which translates to a savings of $143.7 million, compared with the amount HFP would have paid had they made the Holders whole. At the same time, Holders received a recovery that was comparable to loan recoveries in 2009, and was above the average recovery rate for secured bonds in the year the Settlement Agreement took effect (See Exhibit 9).
72. In my opinion, this exchange represents fair consideration for the exchange. Thus, even if UBS Securities somehow had a claim against HFP, my analysis suggests that the March 20, 2009 transfers out of HFP associated with the Settlement Agreement did not constitute a fraudulent transfer because HFP received fair consideration in exchange for the transfer.<sup>31</sup>
73. Finally, in relation to point (c) in Paragraph 62, I will comment briefly on the fair or "salable" value of HFP relative to the face value of its liabilities – that is, the so-called "balance sheet" test of solvency -- at several points in time.

<sup>31</sup> Dudney dismisses the idea that the extinguishment of the Notes constituted fair consideration because, "New York State case law generally provide[s] that a repayment of a preexisting debt qualifies as fair consideration for a transfer of property unless the transferee is an insider of the transferor." (Dudney Report, p. 77). But my understanding is that the New York state and U.S. bankruptcy case law is a lot less "black and white" on the issue of fair consideration.

74. According to contemporaneous valuations of HFP assets performed by the valuation firms Watson Wyatt Insurance & Financial Services, Inc. and Sterling Valuation Group, Inc. at the time of the original Notes issuance (performed on or about September 26, 2008) and after the time of the amended and restated agreement (on or about October 31, 2008), HFP was “balance sheet solvent” at the incurrence of the Notes obligations, in the sense that the fair value of the assets exceeded the value of the Notes liabilities.<sup>32</sup>
75. The fact that HFP transferred a substantial portion of its assets to the Holders at a value that was below the face value of the Notes suggests that, at the time immediately prior to the Settlement Agreement, HFP was balance sheet insolvent. However, once the transfer was made and HFP extinguished the Notes obligation, the entity no longer had significant outstanding financial obligations. According to Plaintiff’s Exhibit 240 at H_008495, the fair value of HFP’s assets post-Settlement Agreement amounted to approximately $45 million (see point 13 on H_008495). As these assets were unencumbered by additional debt, HFP was likely balance sheet solvent again.
76. In sum, I believe Dudney’s analysis is flawed when he asserts that the transfers associated with the Settlement Agreement were constructively fraudulent. My understanding of the credit documents and the organizational structure of the Highland Capital entities indicates that Plaintiffs were not creditors of HFP. In that case, any transfers out of HFP would not be fraudulent with respect to Plaintiffs’ position in other separate Highland Capital entities. Even if Plaintiffs were creditors in HFP, the transfers related to the Settlement Agreement should not, in my opinion, be fraudulent because HFP received fair consideration in exchange for the transfers through the extinguishment of the only antecedent debt within HFP, the Notes.

I. OVERVIEW AND SUMMARY OF OPINIONS

A. OVERVIEW OF ASSIGNMENT

I have been requested by the law firm of Lackey Hershman, L.L.P. on behalf of the Defendants in the actions referenced above to provide an analysis related to the report issued by Mr. Louis G. Dudney on March 8, 2013 (the “Dudney Report”) on behalf of the Plaintiffs referenced above, UBS Securities, LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (collectively, “UBS”). I also provide my own analyses on several of the issues raised herein.

I prepared this report with the assistance of and other Duff & Phelps personnel working under my supervision, and it summarizes my opinions and their bases.

B. SCOPE OF ANALYSIS

In performing our analysis, we undertook the following major tasks:

1. Review and critique of the Dudney Report;
2. Evaluation of the Dudney Report’s assertions of insolvency of SOHC, HFP and CDO Fund,<sup>1</sup> respectively;
  - a. Correction and adjustment of the Dudney Report’s calculations regarding the solvency of SOHC, HFP and CDO Fund, respectively;
  - b. Calculation of month-end balance sheet solvency regarding SOHC, HFP and CDO Fund, respectively, as of August 2008 through December 2008;
3. Evaluation of the Dudney Report’s assertions regarding whether the Notes (as defined below) should be re-characterized as equity;
4. Evaluation of the Dudney Report’s assertions of constructively fraudulent transfers;
5. Evaluation of the Dudney Report’s assertion of “indicia of alter ego at the Highland Entities;” and
6. Consideration of the impact of the Appellate Division’s decision on res judicata on the Dudney Report’s conclusions.<sup>2</sup>

C. SUMMARY OF OPINIONS

It is my opinion, as further discussed herein, that:

1. The Dudney Report (and its analyses) fails to adequately consider all relevant facts and factors and contains various deficiencies.
2. The Dudney Report incorrectly asserts the insolvency of SOHC, HFP, and CDO Fund, respectively as of its selected month-end measurement dates.
  - o Calculation of month-end balance sheet solvency regarding SOHC, HFP, and CDO Fund, respectively, as of months ended August 2008 through December 2008 shows that HFP was solvent through the date of the HFP Notes amended transaction.
3. The Dudney Report's assertions regarding whether the Notes exhibited characteristics of equity as opposed to debt are contradicted.
4. The Dudney Report incorrectly asserts constructively and potential constructively fraudulent transfers.
5. The Dudney Report incorrectly asserts "indicia of alter ego at the Highland Entities."
6. The Appellate Division's rulings on res judicata eliminates much, or all, of the basis of the Dudney Report.

E. MATTER BACKGROUND

THE ORIGINAL WAREHOUSE TRANSACTION<sup>3</sup>

UBS and Highland Capital Management (“HCM,” as servicer), Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund (“CDO Fund”), and Special Opportunities Holding Company (“SOHC”) entered into an agreement (the “Original Agreement”) on April 22, 2007. According to the Original Agreement, UBS was to sponsor a securitization of collateralized debt obligations, based upon a pool of collateralized loan obligations (“CLOs”) securities. UBS agreed to warehouse and finance the purchase of various CLOs, as well as credit default swap obligations (“CDSs”), on HCM, CDO Fund, and SOHC’s behalf until full securitization. The Original Agreement was terminated and was replaced with a new agreement.

THE RESTRUCTURED WAREHOUSE TRANSACTION<sup>4</sup>

UBS and HCM, CDO Fund, and SOHC restructured the terms of their Original Agreement in March 2008, (the “Restructured Agreement”). The Restructured Agreement called for the creation of two warehouses, (i) a warehouse containing CLO tranches, or similarly situated securities, (the “Cash Warehouse”) and (ii) a warehouse containing synthetic assets primarily associated with CLOs (the “Synthetic Warehouse”). The Cash Warehouse and Synthetic Warehouse are collectively referred to as the “Warehouse Agreements.” Each warehouse was accounted for separately within UBS’ financial records. We refer to these two warehouses as the “Knox Warehouse” or “Knox,” as defined above.

Throughout 2008 the Knox transaction failed to achieve securitization. Following three separate margin calls, UBS chose to terminate the Restructured Agreement on December 3, 2008 (the “Termination Date”).

THE HFP NOTES TRANSACTION

HFP issued senior secured promissory notes (the “Notes,” or “HFP Notes”) on September 26, 2008 and later amended on October 10, 2008 with par balances of approximately $316.0 million and $371.0 million, respectively. The note holders were originally other entities managed by HCM who were to receive a 10% annual coupon on a quarterly basis with a maturity of November 15, 2008. Additional details on the Notes are provided in Section III herein.

II. ANALYSIS OF SOLVENCY

In essence, the balance sheet test for solvency (or insolvency) uses the balance sheet with certain economic and valuation adjustments to answer whether the value of the company's net assets exceed its liabilities.<sup>5</sup> The Dudney Report looks to the balance sheet solvency test to assert whether, "SOHC/HFP," a theoretically combined entity, was solvent (or insolvent) as of month-end August 2008 through December 2008.

The Dudney Report embarks on its asserted analysis of solvency by focusing on the wrong subject entity given its hypothetical nature. The focus of the Dudney Report is incorrectly on "SOHC and HFP on a combined basis." The Dudney Report should have focused its analyses on SOHC as a stand-alone entity, and HFP as its own entity with access to its subsidiaries. Consequently, the Dudney Report improperly undertakes an analysis of a hypothetical entity "SOHC/HFP." The Dudney Report's asserted insolvency calculations are incorrect for this and other reasons (e.g., including improper balance sheet adjustments). Consequently, the Dudney Report incorrectly asserts the insolvency of SOHC, HFP, and CDO Fund, respectively, as of its selected month-end measurement dates.

Our analysis of solvency corrects for flaws in the Dudney Report's solvency analysis, including, but not limited to:

- Correcting to focus on the actual respective entities:
  - SOHC and HFP, individually; not the hypothetical combined entity "SOHC/HFP" which the Dudney Report created and used;
- Correcting to be internally consistent:
  - Adjusted the booked liability related to the Knox liability for SOHC and CDO Fund to be consistent with the losses indicated under the Knox governing contracts assuming termination; and
  - To include only subsidiaries, if applicable, with positive economic equity;

Our analysis, corrected for the items above, is presented in Schedules I-VII of Appendix A. Our analyses indicate:

- As of the dates surrounding the HFP Notes transactions and through end-of-year 2008:
  - HFP was solvent beginning August 2008 through November 2008;
  - SOHC was solvent beginning August 2008 through September 2008; and

- CDO Fund was solvent beginning August 2008 through September 2008.
- In this regard, we assumed that the Notes, based on our analyses further discussed herein, are properly characterized as they were at the time of issuance as debt.

For convenience, we also assumed that proration and allocation, if any, of the economic and valuation adjustments, to the minority interest equity ownership level of third parties would have an immaterial impact on our conclusions. Such proration and allocation, if any, in this particular case would have increased the net assets and solvency results.<sup>6</sup>

A. THE DUDNEY REPORT'S CREATED ENTITY

The Dudney Report begins its solvency analysis by asserting that it used a “balance sheet approach on a going concern premise” and undertakes its asserted calculations of the solvency of “SOHC/HFP.”<sup>7</sup> However, analyzing a combined SOHC/HFP is inappropriate given the facts in this matter. The Restructured Agreement is between UBS and both SOHC and CDO Fund, not HFP.

UBS performed due diligence regarding the nature of SOHC as a counterparty before entering into the Restructured Agreement. UBS' Credit risk management control department identified that SOHC and CDO Fund provided no protection in case of default.<sup>8</sup> HFP is not a counterparty to the Restructured Agreement.

Regarding the Notes transactions, the HFP Notes were the responsibility of HFP and not SOHC. The Notes did not affect the financial health of SOHC; SOHC is a bankruptcy remote subsidiary, with no responsibility for SOHC to repay the HFP Notes.<sup>9</sup> As such, we have analyzed the solvency of HFP assuming the Notes were debt (which is supported by our analyses in Section IV).

Considering this, we calculated the balance sheet solvency of SOHC, HFP, and CDO Fund as summarized below.

<sup>6</sup> In our analysis, for example, we deducted unamortized debt issuance costs and subtracted them solely from CDO HoldCo's equity instead of proportioning them to both CDO HoldCo and the minority interest that would also economically suffer.

<sup>8</sup> UBS-000165822-26, specifically “Approval Conditions – Need to recognize the uncertainty re: the counterparty ability to pay.” See also, UBS-000416065, specifically “Credit has assessed each fund's ability to meet their respective share of the warehouse obligation and it is our view that neither fund represents a credit worthy counterparty for the following reasons: - Current levels of cash on the balance sheet are a fraction of what's requires. - Asset liquidity defined as the ability to either sell or leverage the assets is extremely low. - Since the funds obligation to UBS has been recorded as a swap transaction, UBS' claim is subordinate to the funds' other, secured creditors placing us further away from the already scare (sic) resource of free cash.”

<sup>9</sup> Although it was not responsible, HFP would have the ability to access certain cash from SOHC, if appropriate.

B. SOHC

We calculated the balance sheet solvency (or insolvency) of SOHC on a month-end basis from August 31, 2008 through December 31, 2008.

We began our analysis of SOHC adjusted equity using the equity reported for SOHC on the consolidating balance sheets of HFP. We then adjusted the booked liability related to the Knox liability for SOHC and CDO Fund to be consistent with the losses indicated under the Knox governing contracts assuming termination. In this adjustment, we:

- Removed the impact of the GAAP calculated liability carried on SOHC's financial statement related to exposure to the Knox Warehouse.
- Included the impact of our estimate of the liability related to the exposure of the Knox Warehouse under the terms of the Knox governance documents.

ESTIMATION OF KNOX LIABILITY UNDER GOVERNANCE DOCUMENTS

We estimated the contractual liability of SOHC's exposure from its counterparty role in the Warehouse Agreements, using an analysis which is consistent with the analyses set forth in the expert report of Adam L. Warren dated April 19, 2013, with one refinement (adjustment for collateral posted, described below). Under the terms of the Warehouse Agreements, we calculated the exposure of SOHC as of each measurement date:

1. Estimated the mark-to-market losses on cash assets in the Cash Warehouse (increases liability);
2. Estimated realized losses on CDS contracts in the Synthetic Warehouse (increases liability);
3. Calculated total interest and premiums received by UBS from warehouse assets (decreases liability);
4. Calculated total financing costs payable to UBS (increases liability); and
5. Calculated collateral posted by SOHC and related entities; and<sup>10</sup>
6. Multiplied the total from steps (1) through (5) above by the 49.0% exposure percentage applicable to SOHC.

The results of our analyses are in the table below:

CALCULATION OF ADJUSTED EQUITY (SOLVENCY)

We included the adjustments set forth above and calculated adjusted equity as follows:

Table 3: Summary of SOHC Adjusted Equity

SOHC Book Equity	$ 16,807,655	$ (38,198,945)	$ (131,845,834)	$ (207,163,555)	$ (335,261,741)

Our analysis, on a month-end basis, indicates that SOHC was solvent through September 2008 and at least for a portion of October 2008. Additional detail of our calculation is in Schedule IV of Appendix A.

C. HFP

We also assessed the solvency (or insolvency) of HFP on a month-end basis from August 31, 2008 through December 31, 2008. The subsidiaries include SOHC, CDO HoldCo, Highland Asset Funding II ("HAF II") and Highland Asset Funding III ("HAF III"), Highland Financial Corporation ("HFC"), and Highland Financial Real Estate Corporation. In our calculations, we included only subsidiaries, if applicable, with positive economic equity.

HFP STAND-ALONE, BEFORE SUBSIDIARIES

We began our analysis of HFP adjusted equity (stand-alone) using the equity reported on the consolidating balance sheets of HFP. We then made the following adjustments:

1. We removed the impact of the subsidiaries whose adjusted equity balances will be adjusted subsequently.
2. We then adjusted the equity balance for the impact of consolidations of those subsidiaries.

CDO HOLDCo ADJUSTED EQUITY

We also assessed the solvency (or insolvency) of CDO HoldCo on a month-end basis from August 31, 2008 through December 31, 2008. CDO HoldCo incorporates the financial information of certain CLOs into its consolidating reporting structure for GAAP purposes. We adjusted the equity of CDO HoldCo to include only subsidiaries (and CLOs) with positive equity. Our calculation is outlined below:

- We started with CDO HoldCo stand-alone equity.
- We added any positive CDO Construction Company equity to this amount.
- We removed the equity in subsidiaries per the consolidated balance sheet.
- We added positive CDO HoldCo subsidiary adjusted equity, after adjusting each subsidiary's book equity to remove debt issuance costs and negative minority interest.
- We removed the effects of consolidations; by subtracting the difference between CDO HoldCo stand-alone equity less consolidated book equity.

The following table summarizes my calculation as of December 31, 2008. Appendix A includes calculations for each of the months ended which we analyzed.

	August	September	October	November	December
CDO HoldCo	$ 127,685,417	$ 88,300,306	$ -	$ -	$ -

For balance sheet solvency test purposes, CDO HoldCo had positive equity through September 30, 2008. Beginning October 31, 2008, the fair value of the assets did not exceed the liabilities of CDO HoldCo. Although the adjusted equity for CDO HoldCo was no longer positive as of October 31, 2008, due primarily to declining marks on its assets, the underlying CLO assets were still performing and were expected to continue performing. Given the lack of liquidity in the markets at the time, the assets under fair value accounting declined to a point where they no longer covered the liabilities.

While the fair value accounting rules do not typically apply to illiquid, forced-sale environments, for the purpose of this analysis concerning CDO HoldCo we have used the foregoing marks. We have done so, even though from a cash flow standpoint, CDO HoldCo continued to generate significant anticipated income.

HAF II & HAF III

To assess the equity of HAF II and HAF III for balance sheet solvency test purposes, we adjusted the book equity balance to remove negative subsidiary equity. In this regard, we made an adjustment to exclude negative subsidiary equity in November 2008 for HAF II of approximately $8.3 million. The following table summarizes the resulting adjusted CDO HoldCo equity balances:

Table 7: HAF II and HAF III Equity

D. HFP STAND-ALONE EQUITY

In calculating the balance sheet solvency of HFP, we included the above positive adjusted equity amounts of subsidiaries. The results indicate that HFP was not insolvent until December 31, 2008, as summarized below. Additional detail is in Schedule I of Appendix A.

We calculated the solvency (or insolvency) of CDO Fund on a month-end basis as of August 31, 2008 through December 31, 2008. The results of our analyses are in the table below:

Table 9: Summary of CDO Fund Adjusted Equity

Adjusted CDO Fund NAV	$ 408,543,274	$ 276,338,953	$ (7,032,972)	$ (280,613,214)	$ (413,897,679)

A full presentation of our calculation is shown in Schedule VI of Appendix A attached hereto.

Our analysis starts with the same information as the Dudney Report. We begin with CDO NAV values prepared internally by HCM on behalf of CDO Fund, which were then reconciled with similar NAV files created by JPMorgan at the end of each month.<sup>11</sup>

For August 2008 through December 2008, we then included the CDO Fund's liability (51% of the total liability) from the NAV value for each period. This loss adjustment is the estimated amount that would be due from CDO Fund if a termination event occurred, as discussed in SOHC analysis section above.

Our analysis, on a month-end basis, indicates that CDO Fund was solvent through September 30, 2008, and at least some part of October 2008.

III. ANALYSIS OF THE NOTES

As part of our analysis of the Notes, we examined contemporaneous facts and circumstances surrounding the establishment and unwind of the Notes. Our analysis included the following steps:

- Analyzed the terms and structure of the Notes.
- Analyzed the securities exchanged for the Notes.
- Analyzed the credit markets in the period leading up to the establishment of the Notes.
- Performed a synthetic credit rating analysis based on the securities exchanged and used as collateral regarding the Notes.
  - Compared the stated fixed rate on the Notes to the yields (interest rates) on similarly rated indices.
- Analyzed the terms and interest rates on guideline debt transactions in 2007 and 2008.
- Analyzed HFP's ability to repay the Notes at or prior to its maturity in 2018.
- Analyzed the consideration exchanged for the Notes.

These analyses indicate that the Dudney Report's assertions regarding whether the Notes exhibited characteristics of equity as opposed to debt are contradicted.

Furthermore, I reached the following conclusions regarding the Notes:

- The interest rate attached to the Notes was in line with market rates of interest based on contemporaneous market information.
- Cash flow coverage was expected to exist to repay the Notes via a combination of cash inflows from the underlying securities of the Notes and expected cash flow from HFP subsidiaries (i.e., CDO HoldCo).
- The values of assets/securities/notes exchanged in the transactions were similar to each other.
- Other factors exist that support the conclusion that Notes should be characterized as debt.

A. OVERVIEW OF THE NOTES TRANSACTION

The Notes were originally issued on September 26, 2008 and later amended on October 10, 2008 with par balances of approximately $316.0 million and $371.0 million, respectively. One of the primary purposes of the Notes was to transfer Life Settlement Agreement ("LSA") contracts from various funds managed by HCM that may have difficulty making premium payments on these

B. OVERVIEW OF THE NOTES UNWIND

According to a list of interrogatory answers provided by Defendants, “[b]y the end of 2008 to early 2009, once it had become apparent that HFP’s cash flows generated from its assets would no longer suffice to service the life settlement contract premiums and service the debt, amid the then-existing market conditions, HFP realized that it would be necessary to unwind the Notes to preserve the remaining value of the collateral and eliminate HFP’s obligation to repay the Notes. HFP entered into extensive negotiations with the independent committee for Credit Strat, Citibank, and representatives of the noteholders.”<sup>21</sup>

When asked whether it was clear at the time that HFP and its subsidiaries would not be able to repay its creditors, Philip Braner responded:

The Witness: Highland Financial Partners LP as a stand-alone I don’t think had any other creditors. If you are referencing SOHC’s ability to repay creditors in December I can agree with you.

Q: Did SOHC in any way – did SOHC’s financial ability to pay off other creditors in any way deteriorate as a result of the notes unwind?

A: Did SOHC’s ability?

Q: Yes.

The Witness: I don’t recall. I don’t believe so but – again I would have to look at the unwind documentation to ensure but as I sit here today I don’t believe so....

Q: Do you recall taking any efforts to analyze how UBS as a creditor under the Knox agreement could be affected by the notes unwind?

The Witness: Again I don’t specifically recall having that thought but I would have to review the notes, documentation of the unwind to know for sure.<sup>22</sup>

According to Philip Braner, the rationale for the December 31, 2008 Note unwind was because that was the day that the noteholders began paying the premiums on the LSAs:

Q: Do you have an understanding of why, even though the document was not signed until March, it was done retroactively?

A: If I remember correctly, HFP didn’t have the ability to pay for the life settlement assets, so the hedge funds that were going to receive back those assets were paying the premiums on those assets and they retained their value. So that’s the reason why – one of the reasons why it was effective as of that date.

Q: From December 31st forward, the hedge funds were paying the premiums on the life settlement contracts for HFP until the time the notes were terminated?

A: No. Pursuant to the tentative agreement that they had that the notes would be unwound, they were doing that to preserve the value of the assets that were securing the notes.<sup>23</sup>

According to the notes of the BOD meeting occurring on January 5, 2009, “Mr. Braner indicated that an event of default under the Partnership’s Senior Secured Notes due 2018...was likely to occur based on the recent market conditions had had a material effect on the cash flow of the Partnership. Mr. Braner proceeded to update the Board regarding the status of the discussions between the Partnership and the holders of Notes. Mr. Braner indicated that the Partnership and the holders of such Notes had agreed to a framework to cancel such Notes, pending final Board approval.”<sup>24</sup>

According to later HFP Board of Directors (“BOD”) meeting minutes from a January 12, 2009 board meeting, management had completed a preliminary analysis of the notes unwind and, “Mr. Braner updated the Board regarding the analysis that management completed on options for restructuring certain notes (the ‘Restructuring’) between the Partnership and the holders of the Partnership’s Senior Secured Notes due 2018.”<sup>25</sup>

Furthermore, during a January 16, 2009 meeting, “[t]he Board proceeded to discuss the memorandum, dated January 16, 2009 and attached hereto that had been prepared by management to assist the Board in its review of the Partnership’s options with respect to the Partnership’s outstanding Senior Secured Notes due 2018...The Board discussed the benefits and risks to the Partnership of keeping the Notes outstanding versus a negotiated settlement of the Notes.”<sup>26</sup>

The largest risk that faced HFP if the Notes were not unwound was, “...HFP may still be unable to pay the premiums on the life settlement assets it acquired as part of the debt issuance. The life settlement policies are the largest asset class securing the Note. If HFP is unable to meet the required payments on these policies, they would lapse and become worthless.”<sup>27</sup>

Additionally, the Notes unwind was beneficial to HFP because, “[i]f HFP is unable to meet the required payments on those policies a portion would lapse and become worthless starting April 2009 with all remaining policies beginning to lapse by July 2009. If the life settlement assets were allowed to lapse, the difference between the amounts due under the Notes and the value of the collateral backing the notes would increase. Therefore, the Lenders would have a larger deficiency claim in the context of a default and recovery of collateral.”<sup>28</sup>

A memorandum stated that the settlement and unwind would be structured so that “HFP would return the assets originally contributed by each Lender and certain additional assets, a portion of which will be exchanged in lieu of cash flows received by the Partnership from the assets securing the Notes during the time period the Note was outstanding.”<sup>29</sup>

C. FINANCIAL MARKET CONDITIONS

CONDITION OF FINANCIAL MARKETS AT SEPTEMBER 30, 2008

The equity markets ended the third quarter of 2008 with a large decline. The S&P 500 Index decreased 9.6%, the NASDAQ Composite Index decreased 12.9%, and the DJIA decreased 6.0% for the month of September. For the nine months of 2008, the S&P 500 Index was down 303.23 points, or 20.7%, to $1,164.70, the NASDAQ Composite Index was down 562.0 points, or 21.2%, to $2,091.90, and the DJIA was down 2,411.2 points, or 18.2%, to $10,850.70.<sup>30</sup>

A $700 billion bailout package to help financial sectors affected by the mortgage crisis was expected to be proposed to Congress. This news led the markets to improve temporarily; however, during the last week of September, the initial bailout package was not passed, and the markets declined sharply.

The continued slide of the economy led the consensus to estimate that the coming quarters were going to see negative growth in the economy. The consensus believed that real GDP would contract through 2009.

The energy concerns, economic uncertainty, and tighter credit markets were expected to lead to continued business investment declines for the last quarter of 2008 and the first part of 2009. The FOMC released a statement during the month of September indicating that they would not increase interest rates until at least the second quarter of 2009.

CONDITION OF FINANCIAL MARKETS AT DECEMBER 31, 2008<sup>31</sup>

Interest rates remained at near historical lows during December. Three-month bill yields dropped to virtually zero, while yields on 2, 5, 10 and 30-year Treasury securities continue to fall and were predicted to continue to be low for 2009.

Corporate and mortgage-backed spreads tightened at the end of 2009, but remained at historically-wide levels. This was also the case for the municipal market, largely as a result to Fed purchases of agency debt and the promise that it would begin direct purchases of mortgage-backed securities. Mortgage rates dropped to below 5% for a 30-year fixed mortgage which resulted in significant refinancing activity.

CDO MARKET CONDITIONS<sup>32</sup>

Additionally, the global issuances of CDOs, a type of structured asset-backed security, many of which were backed by troubled assets, experienced a significant decline from the first quarter of 2007 through the fourth quarter of 2008. Many of the assets underlying the CDO issuances, such as subprime mortgages, were adversely affected by the burst of the housing bubble which fueled a sharp increase in the number of mortgage defaults in 2007 and 2008. #### D. SYNTHETIC CREDIT RATING ANALYSIS

In our analysis, we evaluated whether the terms of the Notes were consistent with market rates.

Often, this is done by looking at profitability and other risk ratios of operations from sources like CreditStats (S&P). Since HFP was not a typical operating company (e.g., Wal-Mart, Microsoft, etc.), estimating a credit rating using a typical synthetic credit ratings analysis was not applicable as of the Notes transaction dates. Typical statistics such as profitability ratios of operating income to interest expense are largely not meaningful given that HFP was primarily a financial services and/or financial asset holding company. As such, using metrics from CreditStats (S&P) would not be applicable.

CREDIT RATING BY UNDERLYING ASSET

Based upon the facts and circumstances in this case, we estimated a synthetic credit rating using the credit ratings, when available, of the underlying securities used as collateral in forming the Notes (as well as exchanged for the Notes). The following table lists the security and the associated credit rating:

For the equity tranches in various CLOs, no credit ratings were available. Since these are the lowest level amongst the claims on the assets of each CLO, I assigned a credit rating of “D” to each security (the worst credit rating). The following table lists the 11 securities these apply to:

Based on the ratings set forth above, we concluded on an AA- rating for the LSA contracts for determining a synthetic credit rating on the Notes.

CALCULATION OF THE AVERAGE CREDIT RATING

Based on the credit rating scale of S&P, there are 22 different credit ratings ranging from AAA (excellent credit) to D (poor credit/in default). Since we cannot take an average of a lettering system, we assigned a numeric value to each level of credit rating ranging from 1 for AAA to 22 for D. The following table summarizes the value score for each level:

Table 15: Numeric Value Assigned to Credit Ratings

Credit Rating	Numeric Value	Credit Rating	Numeric Value	Credit Rating	Numeric Value
AAA	1	BBB	9	CCC+	17
AA+	2	BBB-	10	CCC	18
AA	3	BB+	11	CCC-	19
AA-	4	BB	12	CC	20
A+	5	BB-	13	C	21
A	6	B+	14	D	22
A-	7	B	15
BBB+	8	B-	16

Next, we calculated the weighted average credit rating using the mark-to-market value of the security and the credit score value based on the methodology set forth above. The following table summarizes my calculations:

Table 16: Weighted Average Credit Rating Summary

Asset Type	Market Value	Weighted Average Credit Rating	Numeric Value
CDO & CLO Assets	$ 208,341,375	CCC+	17.2
Life Settlements	168,217,305	AA-	4.0
Total	$ 376,558,680	BB+	11.2

As indicated above, the average credit rating for the entirety of the underlying securities was approximately 11.2, which yielded a synthetic credit rating of BB+. To account for the PIK structure and to account for the increased difficulty in analyzing the Notes (i.e., lack of liquidity), I added 2 to the 11.2 score above which results in an indicated credit rating of BB- (~13).

YIELDS FROM INDICES WITH SIMILAR CREDIT RATINGS

Using our estimated credit rating of BB- for the Notes, we collected data on yields of similarly rated indices with durations approximately the same as the Notes.<sup>39</sup> The following table summarizes the similar rated indices yields:

Table 17: Similar Rated Index Yields<sup>40</sup>

Market Yield Index Curves	Credit Rating		Credit Rating

5 Year Maturity	N/A	8.05%	N/A	8.40%
10 Year Maturity	N/A	9.01%	N/A	9.68%

As indicated above, the 10% interest rate on the Notes is within the range of the public market indices.

GUIDELINE DEBT TRANSACTIONS<sup>41</sup>

Using our estimated credit rating of BB- for the Notes, we collected data on yields of similarly rated transactions with maturities and PIK structures. Using Bloomberg, we queried for all transactions with durations approximately the same as the Notes.<sup>42</sup> The following table displays the results of our queries:

Table 18: Guideline Debt Transactions

Guideline Debt Issuances	Yield to Maturity

Min	2.50%	N/A	N/A	2.50%
Max	14.05%	N/A	N/A	14.05%

As indicated above, the 10% interest rate on the Notes is within a reasonable range of the guideline transactions.

CONCLUSION OF INTEREST RATE

Based on our analyses, the interest rate charged on the Note transaction appears to be within a reasonable market rate of interest given the underlying securities, guideline market indices and available guideline transactions as of the Notes transaction dates.

E. ABILITY TO REPAY

We also performed an analysis of HFP's ability to repay the principal and interest obligations related to the Notes. In general, we performed the following steps:

1. Forecasted cash inflows from the underlying CLO/CDO assets associated with the Notes.
2. Forecasted cash inflows related to expected death benefits from the LSA contracts.
3. Forecasted cash outflows related to premium payments associated with the LSA contracts.
4. Subtracted the principal and interest payments due under the terms of the Notes with the assumption that the PIK option was used by HFP from steps (1), (2), and (3) above.
5. If the cash flows from Steps (1) through (4) above are negative on a cumulative basis, I then analyzed alternative sources of cash flow for HFP, namely expected dividend cash flow from CDO HoldCo.

Based on the procedures set forth above, we note the following:

- Based on Steps (1) through (4), at the time of each Notes issuance, it was expected for HFP to have sufficient cash flow to cover the P/I on the Notes through the first nine quarters (Q4 2010) for the original Notes and through the first 12 quarters (Q3 2011) for the amended Notes.
  - After those points, the cumulative cash flows are negative and remain negative until Q4 of 2015 for the original Notes and Q3 of 2014 for the amended Notes.
  - Also, the LSA contracts were expected to accrete in value by approximately $70 million to $90 million by the time of the first projected shortfall in cash flow (before expected accretion). Therefore, in such shortfalls it would make economic sense for HFP to use the cash flow it expected to receive as dividends from CDO HoldCo (see Step (5)) to make both payments on the Notes and premium payments on the LSA contracts to retain both title and continue the contracts that were accreting in value.
- Including the cash flows from Step (5) set forth above, the cumulative forecasted cash flow remain sufficient to cover all P/I for both the original and amended Notes.

STEP 1: FORECASTED CASH INFLOWS FROM CLO/CDO ASSETS

Cash inflows to support payments to the note holders are sourced from the cash flows from the collateralized loan obligations backing the amended Note agreement.

Cash flows from the collateralized loan obligations were forecasted by Duff & Phelps using INTEX modeling software. Using the base case assumptions for the CLO assets that were contemporaneous to the time period, we forecasted cash flows over a 14 year period.

STEP 2: FORECASTED CASH INFLOWS FROM LSAs

In addition to the cash inflows from Step 1 above, we forecasted LSA death benefits using the actuarial life expectancy estimates provided in the Watson Wyatt valuation report.<sup>43</sup> The face value of the life insurance benefits totaled $751 million and the benefits are spread across 15 years based upon the life expectancy of the individual. The sum of the CLO cash flows and estimated death benefits represent the cash inflows from the securities available to for the P/I on the Notes payments and premiums due on the LSA contracts.

STEP 3: FORECASTING CASH OUTFLOWS

Cash outflows stem from two sources: the contractual amortization schedule originally outlined in the original Notes and amended Notes and the premiums payments required on the LSA contracts. The contractual quarterly payments on the original and amended Note begin at $12.8 million and $15.1 million respectively. We assume the HFP would employ its PIK option for the first five quarters which increases the quarterly amortization payments to $16.7 million and $19.6 million for the original Notes and amended Notes, respectively.<sup>44</sup>

To maintain the expected death benefit, HFP needed to make premium payments to the insurance carrier. We forecasted premiums using the historical payment data outlined in the Watson Wyatt valuation report and adjusted for the reduction in premiums required due to the expected mortality of the insured individual.<sup>45</sup>

The sum of the new amortization payments under the original Notes and amended Notes coupled with the LSA premiums, represent the quarterly cash outflows for HFP related to the Notes. My calculations are illustrated in the following tables which include cash inflows from the CLO/CDO assets and LSA Payouts, as well as the out flows in LSA premiums for the original and amended Notes for an initial 16 quarters (to provide sample cash flows) following inception:

Next, we calculated the cumulative free cash flows over time to determine if the Notes created enough cash to sustain the ability to repay during quarters of negative free cash flows. The first quarter with negative cumulative free cash flow is forecasted to be the 4th quarter 2010 and 3rd quarter 2011 for the original Note and amended Note, respectively.

STEP 5: ALTERNATIVE CASH FLOW SOURCES - CDO HOLDCO

Although there is a cash shortfall when analyzing the Notes underlying assets, at the time of the issuance and the amended issuance, HFP's subsidiary, CDO HoldCo was generating cash flow and was expected to continue to create cash flow that HFP could expect to receive as dividends. This cash flow could be used by HFP to cover the cash outflows related to the Notes. CDO HoldCo held 14 different equity tranche CLOs as of August 31st, 2008 which were receiving cash flows from the CLOs.<sup>46</sup> We utilized contemporaneous cash flow forecasts as of September 5, 2008 and October 10, 2008 as the basis for forecasting the expected cash flows from these 14 CLOs for the original Notes and amended Notes, respectively.<sup>47</sup>

The cash forecasts (September 5, 2008 & October 10, 2008) are for the periods of Q4 2008 and Q1 2009, including cash on hand. We calculated Q1 2009 cash flows available to fund the Notes

using adjusted forecasted cash data between January 1st, 2009 and March 31st, 2009. The following provides the framework for my calculation of Q1 2009 quarterly cash flows from the equity CLOs for the original Notes and amended Notes:

We have assumed these cash flows to reoccur each subsequent quarter until an expected date for the equity tranches in the CLOs mature in Q2 2012.<sup>48</sup> The following table outlines the forecasted equity CLO cash inflows available to HFP to satisfy the original and amended Note:

<sup>48</sup> The weighted average inception date for the 14 equity CLOs was approximately July 2007. Typically, CLOs has a five-year expected life from the inception date, providing an estimated average maturity of the 14 CLOs to be Q2 2012. After the expected maturity date, I assume no more cash flows would be generated by these 14 CLOs.

The inclusion of the incremental cash flows available from CDO HoldCo provide ample coverage for each forecasted quarter in terms of covering the P/I related to the original Notes and amended Notes. The following table illustrates the impact of adding CDO HoldCo free cash flow:

ECONOMIC INCENTIVE

According to Highland's internal valuation template used by the Sterling Valuation Group, LSA contracts accrete in value each year (i.e., increase in value following payments on premiums and decreasing time until expected death benefit).<sup>49</sup> By the time the expected negative cumulative free cash flows (before CDO HoldCo) occur in Q4 2010 and Q3 2011 for the original Notes and amended Notes, respectively, the LSA contracts will have accreted in value by approximately $70-90 million. Therefore, it would make economic sense for HFP to invest its dividend cash flow from CDO HoldCo to make both payments on the Notes and premium payments on the LSA contracts to retain both title to the LSA contracts and continue the contracts that were accreting in value.

CONCLUSION ON ABILITY TO PAY

Based on our analysis set forth above, when coupled with the expected dividend cash flows available at HFP's discretion from CDO HoldCo, HFP was expected to have sufficient free cash flow to make the payments associated with the Notes. Further, HFP would be economically incentivized to use the cash flows from CDO HoldCo to maintain the LSA contracts which were expected to accrete considerably in value of time. Detailed calculations on each of the categories above are in Appendix A, Schedule IX.

F. FAIR AND ADEQUATE CONSIDERATION

As part of our analyses, we also tested whether HFP received fair and adequate consideration as part of the Notes transactions in terms of both establishment and unwind of the Notes.

The marks on all securities transferred in both the original and amended Notes were performed by third party valuation firms: Sterling Valuation Group and Watson Wyatt. We reviewed the marks on the Notes and they remain consistent with those provided by UBS on similar non-equity CLO assets within the Cash Warehouse. As seen below, non-equity CLO assets were marked at 53.2% while the Cash Warehouse was marked at 55.7% during the original Note inception of September 26, 2008 and the amended Note inception of October 10, 2008. For the reasons addressed above, we conclude that HFP provided fair and adequate consideration to the note holders and HFP as the issuer.

G. OTHER FACTORS

Many factors need to be considered when determining whether an interest in an entity constitutes debt or equity (i.e. stock). Due to a lack of regulations from the IRS regarding this topic, many courts over the years have established recurring factors used for determining whether an interest should be considered debt or equity. For example, the court in Dixie Dairies Corp., 74 T.C. 476 (1980) had to make a decision whether advances made by a shareholder to a corporation constituted loans/debt or capital contributions/equity. We also considered the following list of the 13 factors enumerated in that decision:<sup>52</sup>

1. Name or label

- “The issuance of a stock certificate indicates an equity contribution; the issuance of a bond, debenture, or not is indicative of a bond fide indebtedness” (Estate of Mixon, 464 F.2d 394, 403 (5th Cir. 1972))

2. Fixed maturity date

- “The presence of a fixed maturity date indicates a fixed obligation to repay, a characteristic of a debt obligation. The absence of the same on the other hand would indicate that repayment was in some way tied to the fortunes of the business, indicative of an equity advance” (id. at 404)

3. Source of payments

- “[I]f repayment is possible only out of corporate earnings, the transaction has the appearance of a contribution of equity capital but if repayment is not dependent upon earnings, the transaction reflects a loan to the corporation” (id. at 405)

4. Right to enforce payments

- “If there is a definite obligation to repay the advance, the transaction would take on some indicia of a loan” (id. at 405)

5. Participation in management (as a result of the advances)

- “If a stockholder’s percentage interest in the corporation or voting rights increase as a result of the transfer, it will contribute to a finding that the transfer was a contribution to capital” (Hardman, 827 F.2d 1409, 1413 (9th Cir. 1987))

6. Status in relation to regular corporate creditors

- “Whether the advance has a status equal to or inferior to that of regular corporate creditors is, or course, of some import in any determination of whether taxpayer here was dealing as a shareholder or a creditor” (Estate of Mixon, 464 F.2d at 406)

7. Intent of the parties

- “It is relevant whether the parties intended, at the time of the issuance of the debentures, to create a debtor-creditor relationship. The intent of the parties, in turn, may be reflected by their subsequent acts’ the manner in which the parties treat the instruments is relevant in determining their character” (Monon Railroad, 55 T.C. 345, 357 (1970))

8. Identity of interest between creditor and stockholder

- “If advances are made by stockholders in proportion to their respective stock ownership, an equity capital contribution is indicated. A sharply disproportionate ratio between a stockholder’s percentage interest in stock and debt is, however, strongly indicative that the debt is bona fide” (Estate of Nixon, 464 F.2d at 409)

9. Thinness of capital structure

- “[T]hin capitalization is very strong evidence of a capital contribution where (1) the debt to equity ratio was initially high, (2) the parties realized the likelihood that it would go higher, and (3) substantial portions of these funds were used for the purchase of capital assets and for meeting expenses needed to commence operations” (id. at 408)

10. Ability of corporation to obtain credit from outside sources

- “If a corporation is able to borrow funds from outside sources at the time an advance is made, the transaction has the appearance of a bond fide indebtedness...If no reasonable creditor would have loaned funds to the corporation at the time of the advance, an inference arises that a reasonable shareholder would likewise not so act” (id. at 410)

11. Use to which advances were put

- “A corporation’s use of cash advances to acquire capital assets suggests that an advance is equity. Use of any advance by an ongoing business to expand its operations, e.g., by acquiring an existing business, suggests that the advance is equity” (Laidlaw Transportation, Inc., T.C. Memo 1998-232 at *79)

12. Failure of the debtor to repay

- “The failure of a corporation to repay principal amounts on the due date indicates that advances were equity” (id. at *80)

13. Risk involved in making advances

- “A reasonable expectation of repayment by the provider of an advance when the advance is made suggests that the advance is debt” (id. at *82)

As a result of our review of the Notes Transaction, we came to the following conclusions regarding each of the 13 factors set forth above:

1. The Notes transaction consisted of the issuance of a note which is indicative of debt.

2. The Notes transactions contained the presence of a fixed maturity date which indicates a fixed obligation to repay, supporting characterizing the Notes as debt.
  - While the Dudney Report references the fact that the PIK option was there and a payment was never made, we found market evidence that PIK transactions were occurring, and in general, we find that HFP had expectations to have sufficient cash flows to make the payments on the Notes.
3. The repayment of the Notes Transaction is not dependent upon the earnings of HFP; therefore, the transaction reflects debt characteristics.
  - Refer to Appendix A, Schedule IX which illustrates our calculations relating to the ability to pay from the pledged assets coupled with the CDO HoldCo cash flow.
4. The Notes consist of definitive obligation to repay the loan; indicating the Notes to be debt.
5. None of the Noteholders gained greater voting rights pursuant to the Notes Transaction, therefore supporting the characterization of the Notes as debt and not equity.
6. The Noteholders had claims on specific assets in the transactions and not a general claim on the assets of HFP which indicates the Notes are similar to asset backed debt.
7. At the onset of the Notes Transaction, both parties intended for this transaction to be treated as debt and not equity.
8. From a proportionality perspective, the Note holders in the transactions did not participate in the same proportions as their equity stake. Further, many equity holders in HFP did not participate at all in the Notes. Therefore, this would indicate the transactions were debt in nature.
9. We considered the relative thinness of HFP's capital structure and the relatively high debt to equity ratio of the firm, and whether this may be evidence that the Notes Transaction was actually a capital contribution (equity) and not debt. However, given the financial holding company nature of HFP and its industry, this test is not as meaningful as other tests.
10. We also considered whether the asserted inability, at the exact time, of HFP to obtain funding from a third party may indicate that the transaction should be classified as equity. However, considered in context at the time when the Notes transactions occurred, the economy was experiencing serious economic issues that essentially froze most lending and borrowing activity. Many companies in various industries were temporarily unable to borrow, regardless of financial condition. Therefore, this factor is not as applicable (otherwise, i.e., this would qualify nearly all related-party transactions amongst firms worldwide during the period to be characterized as equity transactions).

Confidential – Expert Report of John Levitske

11. HFP utilized the Notes to fund its ongoing operations of investing in structured financial products which would indicate that the transaction should be classified as debt and not equity.
12. We considered whether the debtor in the Notes Transaction, HFP, would have failed to make required payments on the Notes but for the unwind of the Notes. Based on this condition the Notes would appear to be treated as equity. However, market conditions adversely changed after issuance. Therefore, this test is not as meaningful as other tests.
13. There was a reasonable expectation of repayment by HFP at the time of the Notes Transaction was entered into, therefore suggesting that the Notes were debt.

In the Dixie Dairies case, the court stated that each factor is not equally significant and that no single factor is determinative in deciding whether an advance should be classified as debt or equity. Additionally, the court noted, “due to the myriad factual circumstances under which debt-equity questions can arise, all of the factors are not relevant to each case.” In relation to the Notes Transaction, we have concluded that 10 of the applicable 13 factors indicate that the transaction should be classified as debt. The other three factors are not applicable or meaningful in this case.

H. SUMMARY OF ANALYSIS OF THE NOTES

As a result of our analyses set forth above, we reached the following conclusions:

- The interest rate attached to the Notes was in line with market rates of interest based on contemporaneous market information.
- Cash flow coverage was expected to exist to repay the Notes via a combination of cash inflows from the underlying securities of the Notes and the potential for future liquidation of the underlying securities.
- The values of assets/securities/notes exchanged in the transactions were similar to each other.
- Other factors exist that indicate the Notes should be characterized as debt.

Consequently, the Dudney Report’s assertions regarding whether the Notes exhibited characteristics of equity as opposed to debt are contradicted.

IV. ANALYSIS FOR ASSERTED FRAUDULENT TRANSFERS

We evaluated the Dudney Report's assertions of constructively fraudulent transfers and potential constructively fraudulent transfers.

In this regard, the Dudney Report's assertions of fraudulent transfers are driven by its assertions of insolvency. However, as discussed above, the Dudney Report incorrectly asserts the insolvency of SOHC, HFP, and CDO Fund, respectively, as of its selected month-end measurement dates. Corrected calculations of month-end balance sheet solvency regarding SOHC, HFP, and CDO Fund, as of months ended August 2008 through December 2008, indicate:

- HFP was solvent beginning August 2008 through November 2008;
- SOHC was solvent beginning August 2008 through September 2008; and
- CDO Fund was solvent beginning August 2008 through September 2008.

In addition, the Dudney Report does not evaluate whether some of the specific transactions it highlights protected the interest of the transferor, whether the transferor received some other benefits, or whether SOHC as a result of intercompany transactions during the time period August through December 2008, received a net positive inflow. Our analyses of intercompany transactions are summarized in Schedule VI of Appendix A.

To analyze constructively fraudulent transfers, we looked at HFP's general ledger, focusing on SOHC and HFP only. As discussed below, the general ledger<sup>53</sup> of HFP separates each entity into its own reporting unit.

A. ASSERTED FRAUDULENT TRANSFERS AT HFP

In reviewing for fraudulent transfers at HFP, we isolated transactions booked to HFP using the "Entity" column. We accomplished this by selecting all transactions with "1002-Highland Financial Partners LP" as the entity. We then used the Journal_Line_Description, Batch_Name, and Journal_Name to identify transactions that related to cash or in-kind transactions.

From our data subset, we classified each line item into one of four categories: (i) Transactions between SOHC and HFP, (ii) Transactions Between CDO HoldCo and HFP, (iii) Transactions between Asset Funding II and III and HFP, and (iv) Other. The descriptions made available in the general ledger allowed us to identify into which category to place each transaction.

Finally, we separated the transactions into their respective reporting periods using the "Period_Name" column. We summed the debits and credits for each period, identifying net inflows (debits) or outflows (credits).<sup>54</sup> Our analysis indicates that HFP had net asset outflows

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 2342-20 Filed 05/20/21 Entered 05/20/21 17:12:33 Page 44 of 118

(credits) in August, October, and November 2008, and net inflows (debits) in December 2008. Our HFP solvency analysis indicates that HFP was insolvent at December 31, 2008. Our analysis indicates no fraudulent transfers from the perspective of HFP through December 31, 2008.

When there are net asset outflows from the perspective of HFP in November, these outflows are already accounted for in our solvency analysis. Therefore, these net outflows in November would not reduce our November 2008 solvency calculation, and would not render HFP insolvent prior to month-end November 2008.

B. ASSERTED FRAUDULENT TRANSFERS AT SOHC

We performed the same type of analysis for SOHC as we did for HFP, only changing the entity at which we looked, and the categories to which we assigned asset inflows and outflows.

As discussed above, we isolated transactions booked to SOHC using the “Entity” column by selecting all transactions with “1006-Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company” as the entity. We then used the Journal_Line_Description, Batch_Name, and Journal_Name to identify transactions that related to cash or in-kind transactions.

From our data subset, we classified each line item into one of five categories: (i) Transactions between HFP and SOHC, (ii) Contributions Into/Distributions out of SOHC, (iii) Notes Transactions, (iv) Capital, and (v) Other. The descriptions made available in the general ledger allowed us to identify into which category to place each transaction.

Finally, we separated the transactions into their respective reporting periods using the “Period_Name” column. We summed the debits and credits for each period, identifying net inflows (debits) or outflows (credits). Our analysis indicates that SOHC had net asset outflows (credits) in August and November 2008, and net inflows (debits) in September, October, and December 2008. Our SOHC solvency analysis indicates that SOHC is solvent through September 2008.

The driver of the outflows (credits) from SOHC related to capital. There are no transactions between SOHC and HFP in November 2008. In December 2008, there are net inflows (debits) to SOHC, including approximately $8.1 million from HFP. The transfers into SOHC during the period of August 2008 through December 2008 exceed outflows by approximately $68.3 million. SOHC received a net positive inflow.

C. ADDITIONAL ANALYSES

From our review of the general ledger we were able to match inflows (debits) from one HFP entity to the corresponding outflows (credits) from another HFP entity. The table below shows some examples of the transactions we were able to match.

Using this information, we identified all cash and in-kind transfers to and from the perspectives of SOHC and HFP.

The examples provided were during a time of high financial stress in the market, and Mr. Dondero was making essentially emergency loans to Highland related entities to avoid significant disruptions in operations.

D. ASSERTED FRAUDULENT TRANSFERS AT CDO FUND

The Dudney Report concludes that there were “potential constructively fraudulent transfers.”<sup>55</sup> However, the Dudney Report states that these are “potential” as they lack sufficient information. Nevertheless, the Dudney Report does not consider whether the transactions it flagged, such as in December 2008, have an ordinary course, legitimate business purpose, or whether there is benefit to CDO Fund from the transaction. For example, the December 2008 transactions appear to be related to repo agreements with third-party financial institutions (e.g., Goldman Sachs).

V. ANALYSIS OF ASSERTED “INDICIA OF ALTER EGO AT THE HIGHLAND ENTITIES”

The Dudney Report incorrectly asserts “indicia of alter ego at the Highland Entities.” It is our understanding that to establish alter-ego, for evaluation of potential veil-piercing remedy claims; a plaintiff must establish both of the following factors:

1. Establish that the owners exercised complete domination of the corporation in respect to the transaction attacked; and
2. Establish that such domination was used to commit a fraud or wrong against the plaintiff which resulted in the plaintiff’s injury.<sup>56</sup>

Furthermore, alter-ego analysis is a fact-laden exercise with requires constructive analysis, dependent on the attendant facts and equities, situation specific, not bright-line, not formulaic and not results oriented.<sup>57</sup>

However, the Dudney Report fails in these regards and draws speculative conclusions that it “observed indicia of alter ego at the Highland Entities.” The Dudney Report fails to establish that the owner, HFP, exercised complete domination of SOHC in respect to the transaction attacked. In addition, the Dudney Report also fails to establish that such domination was used to commit a wrong against the plaintiff, UBS, which resulted in the plaintiff’s, UBS’, asserted injury and damages.

It is our understanding that the factors often considered in an alter-ego evaluation include the following ten factors:<sup>58</sup>

1. Formalities and paraphernalia that are part and parcel of corporate existence, i.e., issuance of stock, election of directors, keeping of corporate records and the like;
2. Inadequate capitalization;
3. Whether funds are put in and taken out of the corporation for personal rather than corporate purposes;
4. Overlap in ownership, officers, directors and personnel;
5. Common office space, address and telephone numbers of corporate entities;

<sup>57</sup> These factors are not intended to necessarily be definitive rules governing the varying circumstances as necessitated for each unique situation. For support of the 10 sources listed herein, see, for. See additionally, Piercing the Corporate Veil of a New York Not-For-Profit Corporation, Matthew D. Caudiff, citing Mark S. Cohen, Ground for Disregarding the Corporate Entity and Piercing the Corporate Veil, in 45 American Jurisprudence Proof of Facts 3d §1 (1998). See also, Piercing the Corporate Veil: An Empirical Study, Thompson, Robert at 1036 – 1038.

6. The amount of business discretion displayed by the allegedly dominate corporation;
7. Whether the related corporations deal with the dominated corporation at arm's length;
8. Whether the corporations are treated as independent profit centers;
9. The payment or guarantee of debts of the dominated corporation by other corporations in the group; and
10. Whether the corporation in question had property that was used by other corporations as if it were its own.

It is my understanding that UBS alleges that HFP is SOHC's alter ego. The Restructured Agreement is between UBS and both SOHC and CDO Fund, not HFP. UBS performed due diligence regarding the nature of SOHC as a counterparty before entering into the Restructured Agreement. UBS's Credit Risk Management Department identified that SOHC and CDO Fund provided no protection in case of default.<sup>59</sup> UBS did not appear to consider HFP to be a part to the Restructured Agreement.

In contrast, the Dudney Report embarks on its asserted analysis of the aforesaid ten factors by focusing on the wrong and hypothetical subject entity. The focus of the Dudney Report is incorrectly on "SOHC and HFP on a combined basis." The Dudney Report should have focused its analyses on SOHC as stand-alone entity, and HFP as its own entity. Consequently, the Dudney Report undertakes an analysis of a hypothetical entity "SOHC/HFP."

Furthermore, the Dudney Report asserts certain exceptions to general policies and practices as indicia of alter ego. Additionally, indicia of alter ego asserted by the Dudney Report are taken out of context, disregarding whether there is business purpose or benefit.

The Dudney Report ignores whether factors other than HFP's actions impacted SOHC, or resulted in financial losses for SOHC. Similarly, the Dudney Report ignores asset borrowings or additional capital from HFP that actually improved UBS' situation.

ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE OVERVIEW<sup>60</sup>

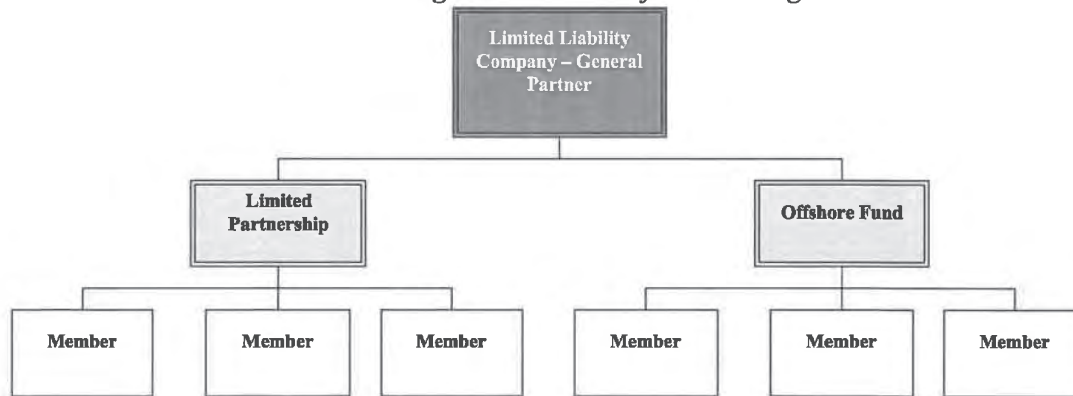

In this case, the Dudney Report fails to acknowledge the common structure of hedge funds, or other unregistered securities firms, when asserting domination by Mr. Dondero over HFP,

<sup>59</sup> UBS-000165822-26, specifically "Approval Conditions – Need to recognize the uncertainty re: the counterparty ability to pay." See also, UBS-000416065, specifically "Credit has assessed each fund's ability to meet their respective share of the warehouse obligation and it is our view that neither fund represents a credit worthy counterparty for the following reasons: - Current levels of cash on the balance sheet are a fraction of what's requires. - Asset liquidity defined as the ability to either sell or leverage the assets is extremely low. - Since the funds obligation to UBS has been recorded as a swap transaction, UBS' claim is subordinate to the funds' other, secured creditors placing us further away from the already scare (sic) resource of free cash."

SOHC, and CDO HoldCo. In the United States, hedge funds are often organized in the structure presented in Chart 3 below.

Chart 3: Recognized Structure of a U.S. Hedge Fund

As evidenced in the chart above, a Limited Liability Company (“LLC”) sits atop a structure comprised of Limited Partnerships (“LP”) and other Offshore Funds. The LPs are funds that have the LLC as its general partner. This depiction is a highly simplified version of a structure. Most hedge fund and unregistered investment fund structures are typically much more complicated in nature.

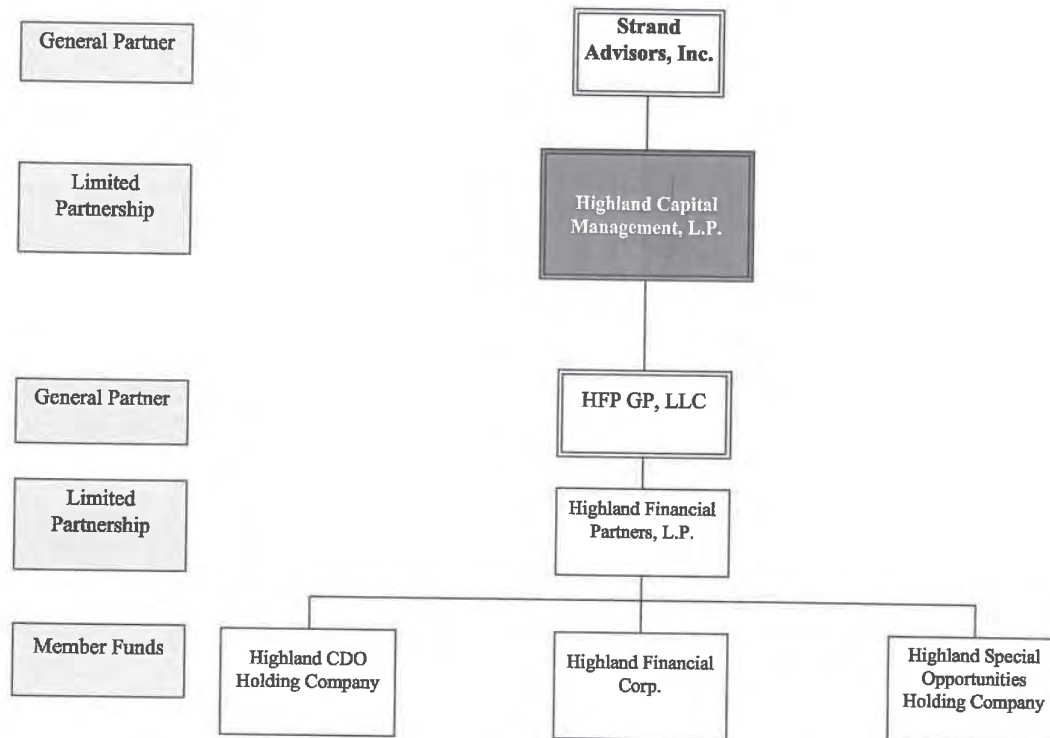

The general partner is typically governed by an operating agreement, which generally sets forth the voting rights of the members, designates the manager, grants power of attorney and authority to the manager, and provides for profit sharing among the members. The LP is governed by its own agreement of partnership.

Additionally, offshore funds may be formed, adopting a master feeder structure to join itself with the U.S. hedge fund. The master-feeder structure is achieved by the offshore fund buying a limited partnership interest in the onshore fund.

The Dudney Report cites to the organizational chart of HCM, stating that it is “complex.”<sup>61</sup> Comparing HCM’s organizational structure to that of common hedge fund structures presented above, HCM organized itself in a recognized and accepted hedge fund, or other unregistered securities fund structure.

The chart above is a simplified structure of HCM and HFP, but is meant to illustrate that the structure employed by HCM and HFP is similar to the common structure of U.S. hedge funds. In the chart above, Strand Advisors, Inc. is the general partner of HCM. HFP GP, LLC, an entity in which HCM is an investor, acts as general partner of the limited partnership, which then sits above the member funds. The structure presented is similar to what is presented in Chart 3, or the recognized structure of U.S. Hedge Funds.

In asserting that HCM's organization structure is "complex"<sup>63</sup> the Dudney Report fails to consider the structure of HCM against what is commonplace among similar entities. Furthermore, UBS's own corporate structure includes at least 341 companies.<sup>64</sup>

There is also evidence that each entity was meant to be its own established entity. The table below indicates HCM entities and their relevant organizational documents available and produced in regards to this litigation.

<sup>62</sup> This organizational chart is for demonstrative purposes only, and does not include, nor does it indicate all relationships within HCM and HCM-managed funds. This is meant only to compare the commonplace hedge fund structure previously discussed to relevant entities in this dispute.

From the chart above, it is evident that HFP and HCM were in the practice of treating each of its subsidiaries or managed as its own entity.

As also noted, separate bank accounts were established for the HFP subsidiaries. There is also evidence in the record that accounting books and records were kept apart from one another. Deposition testimony by HCM and HFP employees also indicates that accounting functions were segregated. Chris Halpin stated that there were numerous accounting teams at HCM including: a corporate accounting team that oversaw HCM, a hedge fund accounting team that oversaw the funds, a team that oversaw the retail funds, a team that oversaw HFP, and a team that oversaw the CDOs & CLOs.<sup>66</sup> Additionally, Patrick Boyce stated that “HFP had a separate distinct accounting staff.”<sup>67</sup>

The Dudney Report asserts that “Mr. Dondero held positions in HCM, SOHC, CDO Fund and HFP (amongst other Highland Entities) that allowed him to control the actions of those entities.”<sup>68</sup> According to emails within Highland, other individuals approved cash movement and other activities within SOHC, HFP, and CDO HoldCo, among others. An example is provided in the graphic below.

Philip,

We have a couple of collateral calls today for SOHC resulting from swings in our CDS positions. First being with Credit Suisse for $380,000. (attached). Second being with Morgan Stanley for $425,496 (also attached). We currently have $273,044 in cash at SOHC. We need approval to transfer $600,000 from HFP to SOHC, then $380,000 to Credit Suisse, and $425,496 to Morgan Stanley. (HFP's balance is currently $1,154,100)

Thanks,

Important to note in the email above is that Mr. Dondero did not give approval for cash movement from HFP to SOHC, and Mr. Dondero was not even carbon copied on this request to meet collateral calls for SOHC. It is evident that decisions were being made by other employees who had authority to do so for companies within HCM.

OBSERVATIONS AND ANALYSIS

Using the ten criteria outlined above, and in the Dudney Report, we have made our own observations on the review of materials available with this matter:

A. FORMALITIES AND PARAPHERNALIA THAT ARE PART AND PARCEL OF CORPORATE EXISTENCE, I.E., ISSUANCE OF STOCK, ELECTION OF DIRECTORS, KEEPING OF CORPORATE RECORDS AND THE LIKE

We observed that formalities and paraphernalia that are part and parcel of “corporate”<sup>70</sup> existence, i.e., issuance of stock, election of directors, keeping of corporate records and the like, do exist.

As summarized above, HFP and its subsidiaries were kept separate from one another and from other HCM-managed entities. This is evidenced by Chart 5 above and also Chart 6 below.

Furthermore, those financial records of SOHC were kept separate from other HCM-managed entities. General ledgers provided to us show evidence of this as they separately list and break out each entity. We also see indications that transactions between entities were recorded, and we can reconcile transactions in or out of SOHC to transactions in or out of other entities. See the examples set forth below:

Table 30: Examples of HCM Financial Reporting<sup>71</sup>

As seen in Table 30 above, we have identified matching transactions both in and out of SOHC, HFP, and CDO HoldCo from the general ledger. Corresponding credits were found for each debit, from the perspective of a different reporting entity.

Additionally, the balance sheets prepared by HFP report SOHC and CDO HoldCo as their own reporting units and entities. The chart below shows this breakout, both prior to, and after, the Restructured Agreement and HFP Notes transactions:

B. INADEQUATE CAPITALIZATION

We calculated month-end solvency of SOHC from August 2008 through December 2008, and note that SOHC is not insolvent until October 31, 2008. A summary of our conclusions are presented in the table below. Additional information on our solvency conclusions are presented in Schedule IV of Appendix A attached hereto.

C. WHETHER FUNDS ARE PUT IN AND TAKEN OUT OF THE CORPORATION FOR PERSONAL RATHER THAN CORPORATE PURPOSES

The inter-company transfers into SOHC during the period of August 2008 through December 2008 exceed outflows by approximately $68.3 million. There are no transactions between SOHC and HFP in November 2008. In December 2008, there are net inflows (debits) to SOHC, including approximately $8.1 million from HFP. We observed no incidents where funds were being taken out of SOHC by Mr. Dondero, or HFP, for personal use. The Dudney Report asserts examples of “personal dealing” between Mr. Dondero and HCM. However, HCM is an entity in which Mr. Dondero is an indirect owner through Strand Advisors, the General Partner of HCM.<sup>73</sup> A transfer to Mr. Dondero from HCM is not an indicia of an alter ego relationship between HFP and SOHC.

Moreover, the examples provided were during a time of high financial stress in the market and Mr. Dondero was making essentially emergency loans to avoid significant disruptions in operations.

D. OVERLAP IN OWNERSHIP, OFFICERS, DIRECTORS AND PERSONNEL

As previously discussed, the Dudney Report fails to consider the common structure of hedge funds, or other unregistered securities firms. HFP was a 100% owner of SOHC, as well as CDO HoldCo and both HFP Asset Funding II and HFP Asset Funding III. HFP also held ownership interests with Highland Financial Real Estate Corporation and Highland Financial Corporation.<sup>74</sup> This ownership structure is not unusual. Furthermore, each of the entities had its own business objectives; several had their own management agreements, and various outside investors as clients. Therefore, mere overlap of ownership of entities alone does not indicate alter-ego.

E. COMMON OFFICE SPACE, ADDRESS AND TELEPHONE NUMBERS OF CORPORATE ENTITIES

The Dudney Report fails to consider that independent company functions were the practice. Although, SOHC shared common office space, address, and telephone numbers with HFP, this is not determinative of alter-ego in this case. In contrast, deposition testimony by Highland employees also indicates that accounting functions were segregated. Chris Halpin stated claimed that there were numerous accounting teams at Highland including: a corporate accounting team that oversaw HCM, a hedge fund accounting team that oversaw the funds, a team that oversaw the retail funds, a team that oversaw HFP, and a team that oversaw the CDOs & CLOs.<sup>75</sup> Additionally, Patrick Boyce stated that “HFP had a separate distinct accounting staff.”<sup>76</sup>

Additionally, our research of UBS indicated that it has approximately 341 of its own subsidiaries.<sup>77</sup> It would be unlikely that UBS had separate offices, personnel, and other corporate functions for each one of its subsidiaries. This alone does not indicate indicia of alter ego.

A Management Agreement between HFP and HCM, where SOHC is a subsidiary listed in Annex 1 and covered by the Management Agreement outlines the responsibilities of the manager, which includes HCM serving as manager of the assets and the day-to-day operations of SOHC, including provided executive and administrative personnel to handle SOHC’s day-to-day business operations.<sup>78</sup> Management Agreements, whereby management fees are charged, are common practice within the hedge fund industry.<sup>79</sup>

F. THE AMOUNT OF BUSINESS DISCRETION DISPLAYED BY THE ALLEGEDLY DOMINATED CORPORATION

The organizational documents of SOHC support that it had the discretion to act on its own behalf, and not at the direction of HFP or Mr. Dondero. Other entities managed by HCM had varying amounts of documentation, as evidenced in the chart below, with each doing business as it sought.

Additionally, the HFP Notes transactions indicate that the interest rate associated with the HFP Notes were in line with market rates. Further discussion of this analysis is found above.

Each entity included in Chart 7 above also had its own purpose. A summary of certain HCM entities is provided below.

HCM is a U.S. based, employee owned investment manager whose primary purpose is to manage accounts for pooled investment vehicles. HCM typically invests in leveraged loans, high yield bonds, and structured products, among other assets.<sup>80</sup>

HFP is an affiliated holding company of HCM.<sup>81</sup>

SOHC is a limited, wholly-owned subsidiary of HFP.<sup>82</sup> HFP stated that SOHC “holds investments such as non-rated debt and distressed assets and enters into derivative transactions.”<sup>83</sup>

Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. is an unregistered, limited partnership investment fund that is managed by HCM.

G. WHETHER THE RELATED CORPORATIONS DEAL WITH THE DOMINATED CORPORATION AT ARM’S LENGTH

As discussed in our analysis of the HFP Notes transactions, and the rate of interest associated with the HFP Notes, it is evident that the stated rate is in line with expected market rates, and that favorable treatment was not given to SOHC or any other related parties.

Furthermore, the decisions of cash movement within SOHC were made by those who were charged with the responsibility to do so.<sup>87</sup> See the example below.

Subject: SOHC Collateral Call - 8/20/08

Philip,

We have a couple of collateral calls today for SOHC resulting from swings in our CDS positions. First being with Credit Suisse for $380,000. (attached). Second being with Morgan Stanley for $425,496 (also attached). We currently have $273,044 in cash at SOHC. We need approval to transfer $600,000 from HFP to SOHC, then $380,000 to Credit Suisse, and $425,496 to Morgan Stanley. (HFP's balance is currently $1,154,100)

Thanks,

As previously addressed, there are documents that indicate that Mr. Braner had authority to approve cash from HFP to SOHC. In addition, corporate formalities exist.

H. WHETHER THE CORPORATIONS ARE TREATED AS INDEPENDENT PROFIT CENTERS

We analyzed the profitability of SOHC from August 2008 through December 2008. Our analysis concluded that SOHC continued to earn profits from management operations during the periods analyzed. The chart below summarizes our analysis.

SOHC also reported profits from management operations for the prior year ended December 31, 2007.<sup>89</sup>

Additionally, accounting records available in this matter indicate that the entities were being looked at on an individual basis, as opposed to solely a consolidated basis.<sup>90</sup>

As discussed above, SOHC was treated as an independent profit center. The summary of transactions and balance sheets are shown below, which are also shown in Table 30 and Table 31 above.

I. THE PAYMENT OR GUARANTEE OF DEBTS OF THE DOMINATED CORPORATION BY OTHER CORPORATIONS IN THE GROUP

The Dudney Report did not appear to identify any guarantees, and we have not seen the types of patterned behaviors that would serve as indicia of alter ego.

J. WHETHER THE CORPORATION IN QUESTION HAD PROPERTY THAT WAS USED BY OTHER CORPORATIONS AS IF IT WERE ITS OWN

As described above, a Management Agreement between HFP and HCM, where SOHC is a subsidiary listed in Annex 1 and covered by the Management Agreement outlines the responsibilities of the manager, which includes HCM serving as manager of the assets and the day-to-day operations of SOHC, including provided executive and administrative personnel to handle SOHC's day-to-day business operations.<sup>91</sup> Management Agreements, whereby management fees are charged, are common practice within the hedge fund industry.<sup>92</sup>

Therefore, based on our observations on the ten criteria related to indicia of alter ego described above, the Dudney Report fails to establish that the owners exercised complete domination over the "corporation" in respect to the HFP Notes transactions.

WHETHER THE ALLEGED DOMINATION WAS USED TO COMMIT A WRONG AGAINST PLAINTIFF

The Dudney Report also fails to establish that such asserted domination was used to commit a wrong against the plaintiff, UBS, which resulted in the plaintiff's, UBS', injury and damages. Regarding SOHC, we observed the following:

Confidential – Expert Report of John Levitske

- The Dudney Report disregards that by the time of entering into the Restructured Agreement, UBS's risk management control department concluded that the counterparties', SOHC and CDO Fund, ability to pay is near zero. At the time of entering into the Restructured Agreement, UBS was aware of the risks attendant to engaging SOHC and CDO Fund as funding counterparties to the Restructured Agreement.
- Factors other than HFP's actions impacted SOHC or resulted in financial losses for SOHC during the time period which the Dudney Report analyzed of August 2008 through December 2008.

a. SOHC's investments suffered due to external market changes.

For example, in a letter issued by HFP to its shareholders on January 27, 2009 ("HFP January Investor Letter"), HFP cites that it has "begun to experience significant liquidity issues due to the continued deterioration of the credit markets and the economy as a whole."<sup>93</sup> The HFP January Investor Letter covers the leveraged loan and CLO markets, briefly addressed in our own independent analysis above. The letter informs investors that the average bid price for S&P LSTA Leveraged Loan Index<sup>94</sup> fell by approximately 25.1% from September 30, 2008 to December 31, 2008.

The HFP January Investor Letter also indicates that the "fourth quarter of 2008 was also one of the worst for ratings downgrades on US leveraged loans. The number of issuers downgraded during the quarter was 119 according to the data tracked by the S&P/LSTA leveraged loan index." This downgrade, according to the letter, "potentially caused the diversion of cash flows."<sup>95</sup> Additionally, the HFP January Investor Letter noted that during the fourth quarter of 2008, the cash flow diversion tests for two of the structured finance subsidiaries was triggered, resulting in a reduction of equity flows to HFP of approximately $2,800,000. As a result of the deteriorating market conditions, HFP anticipated equity flows from the assets held would potentially stop.

In the changing market conditions, Lehman Brothers filed for bankruptcy on September 15, 2008. This announcement was, primarily, responsible for the Dow Jones Industrial Average ("Dow") declining 504 points by close. The next day, on September 16, 2008 the U.S. Government agreed to an $85 billion "bailout" of AIG, making available a credit facility for the company to meet its increased collateral obligations consequent to the ratings downgrade.<sup>96</sup> The U.S. Government, in exchange for the facility, took on a stock warrant for almost 80% of the equity of AIG. Following the announcement of the deal between AIG and The Fed, the Dow dropped an additional 449 points. While the Fed was working toward stabilizing the crumbling economy, it chose not to bailout Lehman Brothers, which left Lehman to file for bankruptcy.

b. Mitigation was undertaken.

SOHC obtained asset borrowings or additional capital from HFP which improved UBS' situation. SOHC transferred $10.0 million to State Street on September 18, 2008, of which $5.1 million was to fund CDO Fund's portion of the collateral call, and $4.9 million was to fund SOHC's portion of the collateral call. A receivable from CDO Fund was booked by SOHC. This $5.1 million receivable was then relieved in December 2008 when CDO Fund transferred $5.1 million of assets to SOHC.<sup>97</sup>

Had SOHC not posted the collateral on behalf of CDO Fund, it is likely that a clause in the Restructured Agreement would have triggered termination. SOHC posting collateral on behalf of CDO Fund for a margin call made by UBS was to the benefit of UBS. HFP's contribution to SOHC to meet the margin call protected its investment in SOHC.

Consequently, the Dudney Report fails to establish that any such asserted domination was used to commit a wrong against the plaintiff, UBS, which resulted in the Plaintiff's, injury and damages.

VI. RES JUDICATA

It is our understanding that pursuant to UBS Securities LLC et al., v. Highland Capital Management, L.P. 86 A.D.3d469 the Appellate Decision (1st Department) has barred Plaintiffs' claims to the extent they implicate events alleged to have occurred through the time of filing on February 24, 2009. The application of res judicata reduces or eliminates the pertinence of the Dudney Report's asserted analysis and conclusions, because he failed to identify relevant conduct occurring after that date.<sup>98</sup>

The Issuer has the power and authority to own or hold under lease the properties it purports to own or hold under lease, to transact the business it transacts and proposes to transact, to execute and deliver this Agreement, the Notes and any Related Documents it is a party to and to perform the provisions hereof and thereof. Each of the Related Documents have been duly authorized by all necessary action on the part of the Issuer Parties, and this Agreement constitutes, and upon execution and delivery thereof each Note (and such other Related Documents) will constitute, a legal, valid and binding obligation of the Issuer Parties party thereto, enforceable against such Issuer Party in accordance with its terms, except as such enforceability may be limited by (i) applicable bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium or other similar laws affecting the enforcement of creditors' rights generally and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether such enforceability is considered in a proceeding in equity or at law).

5.3 Compliance with Laws, Other Instruments, etc.

The execution, delivery and performance by the Issuer Parties of the Related Documents to which it is a party will not (i) contravene, result in any breach of, or constitute a default under, or result in the creation of any Lien in respect of any property of the Issuer or any Subsidiary under, any indenture, mortgage, deed of trust, loan, purchase or credit agreement, lease, corporate charter or by-laws, or any other Material agreement or instrument to which the Issuer Parties is bound or by which the Issuer Parties or any of their respective properties may be bound or affected, (ii) conflict with or result in a breach of any of the terms, conditions or provisions of any order, judgment, decree, or ruling of any court, arbitrator or Governmental Authority applicable to the Issuer or any Subsidiary or (iii) violate any provision of any statute or other rule or regulation of any Governmental Authority applicable to the Issuer Parties.

5.4 Governmental Authorizations, etc.

No consent, approval or authorization of, or registration, filing or declaration with, any Governmental Authority is required in connection with the execution, delivery or performance by the Issuer Parties of the Related Documents, other than UCC or other similar filings to perfect security interests.

5.5 Litigation; Observance of Statutes and Orders.

(a) There are no actions, suits or proceedings pending or, to the knowledge of any Issuer Party, threatened against or affecting the Issuer Parties or any Subsidiary or any property of the Issuer Parties or any Subsidiary in any court or before any arbitrator of any kind or before or by any Governmental Authority that, individually or in the aggregate, would reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect.

(b) Neither the Issuer Parties nor any Subsidiary is in default under any order, judgment, decree or ruling of any court, arbitrator or Governmental Authority or is in violation of any applicable law, ordinance, rule or regulation (including without limitation Environmental Laws) of any Governmental Authority, which default or violation, individually or in the aggregate, would reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect.

5.6 Jurisdiction of Issuer Parties.

5.7 Taxes.

The Issuer and its Subsidiaries have filed all income tax returns that are required to have been filed in any jurisdiction, and have paid all taxes shown to be due and payable on such returns and all other taxes and assessments payable by them, to the extent such taxes and assessments have become due and payable and before they have become delinquent, except for any taxes and assessments (i) the amount of which is not individually or in the aggregate Material or (ii) the amount, applicability or validity of which is currently being contested in good faith by appropriate proceedings and with respect to which the Issuer or a Subsidiary, as the case may be, has established adequate reserves in accordance with GAAP. The Federal income tax liabilities of the Issuer and its Subsidiaries have been determined by the Internal Revenue Service and paid for all fiscal years up to and including the fiscal year ended November 30, 2007.

5.8 Title to Property; Leases.

The Issuer Parties have good and sufficient title to their respective Material properties, in each case free and clear of Liens prohibited by this Agreement, except for those defects in title and Liens that, individually or in the aggregate, would not have a Material Adverse Effect. All Material leases are valid and subsisting and are in full force and effect in all material respects.

5.9 Licenses, Permits, etc.

The Issuer Parties own or possess all licenses, permits, franchises, authorizations, patents, copyrights, service marks, trademarks and trade names, or rights thereto, that are Material, without known conflict with the rights of others, except for those conflicts that, individually or in the aggregate, would not have a Material Adverse Effect.

5.10 Private Offering by the Issuer.

Neither the Issuer nor anyone acting on its behalf has offered the Notes or any similar securities for sale to, or solicited any offer to buy any of the same from, or otherwise approached or negotiated in respect thereof with, any Person other than the Purchasers, each of which has been offered the Notes at a private sale for investment. anyone acting on its behalf has taken, or will take, any action that would subject the issuance or sale of the Notes to the registration requirements of Section 5 of the Securities Act.

5.11 Use of Proceeds; Margin Regulations.

The Issuer Parties will apply the proceeds of the sale of the Notes to buy and hold certain assets for investment purposes. Such acquired assets may be held by any subsidiary of the Issuer which is wholly-owned and who enters into appropriate Security Documents related hereto, and agrees to be bound by a joinder to the terms of this Agreement. No part of the proceeds from the sale of the Notes hereunder will be used, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of buying or carrying any margin stock within the meaning of Regulation G of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (12 CFR 207), or for the purpose of buying or carrying or trading in any securities under such circumstances as to involve the Issuer in a violation of Regulation X of said Board (12 CFR 224) or to involve any broker or dealer in a violation of Regulation T of said Board (12 CFR 220). As used in this Section, the terms "margin stock" and "purpose of buying or carrying" shall have the meanings assigned to them in said Regulation G.

5.12 Foreign Assets Control Regulations, etc.

Neither the sale of the Notes by the Issuer hereunder nor its use of the proceeds thereof will violate the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended, or any of the foreign assets control regulations of the United States Treasury Department (31 CFR, Subtitle B, Chapter V, as amended) or any enabling legislation or executive order relating thereto.

5.13 Solvency.

Issuer is, individually and together with its Subsidiaries on a consolidated basis, Solvent.

5.14 Ownership of Collateral; Collateral Documents.

Except as set forth in the Security Documents and upon the payment of the purchase price for the Notes contemplated in Section 3 hereof and the completion of any associated asset transfers, the Issuer Parties are legal and beneficial owners of the Collateral free and clear of any Lien or adverse claim. The provisions of the Security Documents are effective to create in favor of the Holders a legal, valid and enforceable first priority Lien on all right, title and interest of the respective Issuer Parties in the Collateral described therein. Except for filings completed prior to the Initial Closing Date and the Subsequent Closing Date or as contemplated to be done post Closing in accordance with Section 4.5, no filing or other action will be necessary to perfect or protect such Liens.

6. REPRESENTATIONS OF THE PURCHASER.

Each Holder hereby represents as of the Initial Closing Date, the Subsequent Closing Date and the Restatement Date that such Holder purchased the Notes for such Holder's own account or for one or more separate accounts maintained by such Holder or for the account of one or more pension or trust funds and not with a view to the distribution thereof, provided that the disposition of the Holder's or the owner of such account's property shall at all times be within such Holder's or the owner of such account's control. #### 14.2 Home Office Payment.

(a) The Issuer Parties and the Holders hereby appoint The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, National Association as Paying Agent in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, and The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, National Association hereby accepts such appointment and agrees to serve as Note Registrar in exchange for the compensation it receives as Collateral Agent.

(b) So long as you or your nominee shall be a Holder, and notwithstanding anything contained in Section 14.1 or in such Note to the contrary, the Issuer shall be obligated to pay all sums becoming due on such Note for principal, and interest by the method and at the address specified for such purpose below your name in Schedule A, or by such other method or at such other address as you shall have from time to time specified to the Issuer in writing for such purpose, without the presentation or surrender of such Note or the making of any notation thereon, except that upon written request of the Issuer made concurrently with or reasonably promptly after payment or prepayment in full of any Note, you shall surrender such Note for cancellation, reasonably promptly after any such request, to the Note Registrar at its offices located at 601 Travis Street, 16th Floor, Houston, Texas, 77002. The Note Registrar shall promptly notify the Paying Agent and the Issuer of such surrender. Prior to any sale or other disposition of any Note held by you or your nominee you will, at your election, either endorse thereon the amount of principal paid thereon and the last date to which interest has been paid thereon or surrender such Note to the Note Registrar in exchange for a new Note or Notes pursuant to Section 13.2. The Issuer will afford the benefits of this Section 14.2 to any Holder that is the direct or indirect transferee of any Note purchased by you under this Agreement and that has made the same agreement relating to such Note as you have made in this Section 14.2.

14.3 Timing of Payments of Principal and Interest.

(a) On each Quarterly Payment Date the Issuer shall cause an amount equal to the Quarterly Payment Amount to be deposited into the Securities Account. Such Quarterly Payment Amount shall be in cash, except for payments permitted to be paid in kind pursuant to Section 14.4 hereof. Within three (3) Business Days of each Quarterly Payment Date the Paying Agent shall distribute to each Holder, an amount equal to the product of (i) a fraction, the numerator of which is the aggregate outstanding principal balance of such Holder's Notes, and the denominator is the aggregate outstanding principal balance of the Notes, and (ii) the cash portion of the Quarterly Payment Amount deposited by the Issuer into Securities for such Quarterly Payment Date.

(b) If a prepayment pursuant to Section 8 or if a PIK Option (as defined below) exercised in accordance with Section 14.4, the Issuer shall recalculate the remaining Quarterly Payment Amounts for each Note by using the Amortization Formula and update Schedule C. Upon the Issuer's delivery of such updated Schedule C to the Paying Agent, such Schedule C shall be deemed amended and restated accordingly and shall become a part of this Agreement. The Paying Agent shall deliver each updated Schedule C to each Holder promptly upon its receipt of such updated Schedule C from the Issuer.

14.4 Payment in Kind Option.

The Issuer may, at its option on up to five (5) occasions (the “PIK Option”), in lieu of making payments of principal or interest due on the Notes (and principal or interest due on any PIK Notes, as defined below, outstanding) in cash, pay the principal due and the accrued and unpaid interest on the Notes (and any PIK Notes outstanding) by capitalization of such amounts (the “PIK Amount”), and executing and delivering to each Holder additional Notes in the form of the Notes annexed hereto as Exhibit 1 (the “PIK Notes”) in accordance with this Section 14.4. Subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement, each Holder of a PIK Note agrees to make loans (collectively the “PIK Loans”) to the Holders of the related Note upon exercise by the Issuer of the PIK Option in an aggregate principal amount equal to the PIK Amount on such date calculated at 10% per annum. Each PIK Loan shall be evidenced by a PIK Note (adjusted to reflect the terms of this Section 14.4) payable to each Holder of a Note and representing the obligation of the Issuer to pay the principal amount of the PIK Loan with interest thereon. The PIK Note shall bear interest from the date of issuance, upon the same terms and conditions as the Notes. The Issuer shall deliver in accordance with this Agreement to each Holder executed PIK Notes on such Quarterly Payment Date in an aggregate principal amount equal to the respective PIK Loan. The Issuer shall deliver in accordance with this Agreement to each Holder executed PIK Notes on such Quarterly Payment Date in an aggregate principal amount equal to the respective PIK Loan. The Issuer shall promptly notify the Paying Agent and the Note Registrar of such exercise of the PIK Options, and shall provide the Paying Agent and the Note Registrar with an accounting of such PIK Notes issued (and copies of the actual PIK Notes issued) so that they may be accurately reflected in the Holder Register.

15. SURVIVAL OF REPRESENTATIONS AND WARRANTIES; ENTIRE AGREEMENT.

All representations and warranties contained herein by the Issuer Parties shall survive the execution and delivery of this Agreement and the Notes, the purchase or transfer by you of any Note or portion thereof or interest therein and the payment of any Note, and may be relied upon by any subsequent Holder of a Note, regardless of any investigation made at any time by or on behalf of you or any other Holder of a Note. All statements contained in any Officer's Certificate or other instrument delivered by or on behalf of the Issuer pursuant to this Agreement shall be deemed representations and warranties of the Issuer under this Agreement. Subject to the preceding sentence, this Agreement and the Notes embody the entire agreement and understanding between you and the Issuer and supersede all prior agreements and understandings relating to the subject matter hereof. The Collateral Agent, the Note Registrar and the Paying Agent shall be permitted to rely upon such representations in the performance of its duties under this Agreement.

16. AMENDMENT AND WAIVER.

16.1 Requirements.

This Agreement and the Notes may be amended, and the observance of any term hereof or of the Notes may be waived (either retroactively or prospectively), with (and only with) the written consent of the Issuer and the Collateral Agent (at the direction of the Required Holders), except that (a) no amendment or waiver of any of the provisions of Section 1, 2, 4.1, 4.2, 4.3 or 4.4 hereof, or any defined term (as it is used therein), will be effective as to you unless consented to by you in writing, and (b) no such amendment or waiver may, without the written consent of the Holder of each Note at the time outstanding affected thereby, (i) subject to the provisions of Section 12 relating to acceleration or rescission, change the amount or time of any regularly scheduled payment of principal (but not a mandatory prepayment), or reduce the rate or change the time of payment or method of computation of interest on, the Notes, (ii) change the percentage of the principal amount of the Notes the Holders of which are required to consent to any such amendment or waiver, or (iii) amend any of Sections 8.1, 8.2, 8.3, 11(a), 11(b), 12 or 16.

16.2 Solicitation of Holders of Notes.

(a) Solicitation. The Issuer will provide each Holder (irrespective of the amount of Notes then owned by it) with sufficient information, sufficiently far in advance of the date a decision is required, but in any event at least seven (7) Business Days to enable such Holder to make an informed and considered decision with respect to any proposed amendment, waiver or consent in respect of any of the provisions hereof or of the Notes. The Issuer will deliver executed or true and correct copies of each amendment, waiver or consent effected pursuant to the provisions of this Section 16 to each Holder of outstanding Notes promptly following the date on which it is executed and delivered by, or receives the consent or approval of, the requisite Holders.

(b) Payment. The Issuer will not directly or indirectly pay or cause to be paid any remuneration, whether by way of supplemental or additional interest, fee or otherwise, or grant any security, to any Holder as consideration for or as an inducement to the entering into by any Holder or any waiver or amendment of any of the terms and provisions hereof unless such remuneration is concurrently paid, or security is concurrently granted, on the same terms, ratably to each Holder of Notes then outstanding even if such Holder did not consent to such waiver or amendment.

16.3 Binding Effect, etc.

Any amendment or waiver consented to as provided in this Section 16 applies equally to all Holders and is binding upon them and upon each future Holder and upon the Issuer without regard to whether such Note has been marked to indicate such amendment or waiver. No such amendment or waiver will extend to or affect any obligation, covenant, agreement, Default or Event of Default not expressly amended or waived or impair any right consequent thereon. No course of dealing between the Issuer and any Holder or the Collateral Agent, nor any delay in exercising any rights hereunder or under any Note shall operate as a waiver of any rights of such Holder or the Collateral Agent. As used herein, the term "this Agreement" and references thereto shall mean this Agreement as it may from time to time be amended or supplemented.

16.4 Notes held by Issuer, etc.

Solely for the purpose of determining whether the Holders of the requisite percentage of the aggregate principal amount of Notes then outstanding approved or consented to any amendment, waiver or consent to be given under this Agreement or the Notes, or have directed the taking of any action provided herein or in the Notes to be taken upon the direction of the Holders of a specified percentage of the aggregate principal amount of Notes then outstanding, Notes directly or indirectly owned by the Issuer or any of its Subsidiaries shall be deemed not to be outstanding.

17. NOTICES.

Except as otherwise expressly provided herein, all notices and other communications provided for hereunder shall be in writing (including e-mail, telegraphic, telex, telecopier or cable communication) and e-mailed, mailed, telegraphed, telexed, telecopied, cabled or delivered to the intended recipient at the address given below:

(i) if to you or your nominee, to you or it at the address specified for such communications in Schedule A, or at such other address as you or it shall have specified to the Issuer and Collateral Agent in writing,

Any such notice or communication shall be deemed to have been given or made as of the date so delivered, if delivered personally or by overnight courier; when answered back, if telexed; when receipt is acknowledged, if telecopied or e-mailed; and five (5) calendar days after mailing if sent by registered or certified mail (except that a notice of change of address shall not be deemed to have been given until actually received by the addressee).

18. REPRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS.

This Agreement and all documents relating thereto, including, without limitation, (a) consents, waivers and modifications that may hereafter be executed, (b) documents received by you at the Initial Closing Date and the Subsequent Closing Date (except the Notes themselves) or otherwise required pursuant to this Agreement after the date of the Closing,, and (c) financial statements, Officer's Certificates and other information previously or hereafter furnished to you, may be reproduced by you by any photographic, photostatic, microfilm, microcard, miniature photographic or other similar process and you may destroy any original document so reproduced. The Issuer agrees and stipulates that, to the extent permitted by applicable law, any such reproduction shall be admissible in evidence as the original itself in any judicial or administrative proceeding (whether or not the original is in existence and whether or not such reproduction was made by you in the regular course of business) and any enlargement, facsimile or further reproduction of such reproduction shall likewise be admissible in evidence. This Section 18 shall not prohibit the Issuer or any other Holder from contesting any such reproduction to the same extent that it could contest the original, or from introducing evidence to demonstrate the inaccuracy of any such reproduction.

19. MISCELLANEOUS.

19.1 Successors and Assigns.

All covenants and other agreements contained in this Agreement by or on behalf of any of the parties hereto bind and inure to the benefit of their respective successors and assigns (including, without limitation, any subsequent Holder) whether so expressed or not.

19.2 Payments Due on Non-Business Days.

Anything in this Agreement or the Notes to the contrary notwithstanding, any payment of principal of or interest on any Note that is due on a date other than a Business Day shall be made on the next succeeding Business Day without including the additional days elapsed in the computation of the interest payable on such next succeeding Business Day.

19.3 Severability.

Any provision of this Agreement that is prohibited or unenforceable in any jurisdiction shall, as to such jurisdiction, be ineffective to the extent of such prohibition or unenforceability without invalidating the remaining provisions hereof, and any such prohibition or unenforceability in any jurisdiction shall (to the full extent permitted by law) not invalidate or render unenforceable such provision in any other jurisdiction.

19.4 Construction.

Each covenant contained herein shall be construed (absent express provision to the contrary) as being independent of each other covenant contained herein, so that compliance with any one covenant shall not (absent such an express contrary provision) be deemed to excuse compliance with any other covenant. Where any provision herein refers to action to be taken by any Person, or which such Person is prohibited from taking, such provision shall be applicable whether such action is taken directly or indirectly by such Person.

19.5 Counterparts.

This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, each of which shall be an original but all of which together shall constitute one instrument. Each counterpart may consist of a number of copies hereof, each signed by less than all, but together signed by all, of the parties hereto.

19.6 Governing Law.

This Agreement shall be construed and enforced in accordance with, and the rights of the parties shall be governed by, the law of the State of New York excluding choice-of-law principles of the law of such State that would require the application of the laws of a jurisdiction other than such State.

20. COLLATERAL AGENCY.

20.1 Appointment of Collateral Agent.

(a) The Holders hereby appoint The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, National Association as its Collateral Agent in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, and The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, National Association hereby accepts such appointment. The Holders hereby direct the Collateral Agent, for the benefit of the Holders, to hold a security interest in and continuing Lien on, and the Collateral Agent hereby agrees to hold on behalf of the Holders, a security interest in and continuing Lien on, all of the Holders' right, title and interest in, to and under the following property, in each case whether now owned or existing, or hereafter acquired or arising, and wherever located:

(i) all Collateral; and

(ii) all proceeds, profits, rents, products, earnings, interest, dividends (whether in the form of cash, securities, instruments or other property) and distributions (whether of rights, options, stock, warrants, securities or other property) of any of the foregoing.

(b) The Collateral Agent shall promptly execute and deliver all instruments and documents prepared for its execution, including, without limitation, the Security Documents, and, at the Holders' expense, take all further action that the Holders may reasonably request, in order to create and/or maintain the validity, perfection or priority of and protect any security interest granted under the Security Documents or to enable the Collateral Agent to exercise and enforce its rights and remedies under this Agreement or under such Security Documents with respect to any Collateral, including (without limitation) executing and filing (when and as required by the Required Holders) such financing or continuation statements, or amendments thereto, and executing and delivering such other agreements, instruments, endorsements, powers of attorney or notices, as the Required Holders may reasonably request in order to perfect and preserve the security interests granted or purported to be granted under the Security Documents. The Collateral Agent shall not be required to file any financing statements, continuation statements, to give notices to account debtors, obligors or take any other action whatsoever to perfect or continue any security interest in the Collateral.

20.2 Representations and Warranties of Collateral Agent.

(a) The Collateral Agent has the corporate power to execute, deliver and perform its obligations under this Agreement; and

(b) This Agreement is the valid and legally binding obligation of the Collateral Agent.

20.3 Right of Resignation.

The Collateral Agent may at any time resign hereunder by giving written notice of its resignation to the Issuer and the Holders at least thirty (30) days prior to the date specified for such resignation to take effect, and upon the effective date of such resignation, the Collateral shall be delivered by it to such Person as may be designated in writing by the Required Holders, whereupon all the Collateral Agent's obligations hereunder shall cease and terminate. If no such Person shall have been designated by such date then the retiring Collateral Agent may, on behalf of the Holders, appoint a successor Agent from among the Holders and thereafter, all obligations of the Collateral Agent hereunder shall, nevertheless, cease and terminate. The Collateral Agent's sole responsibility thereafter shall be to keep safely all Collateral then held by it and to deliver the same to such Person designated by them or by the Required Holders, as specified above or in accordance with the direction of a final order or judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction.

20.4 Indemnification and Fees.

(a) The Issuer Parties each agree, jointly and severally, to indemnify, defend and hold harmless the Collateral Agent and each Holder, and their respective officers, directors, employees and agents (each, an "Indemnitee"), from and against any and all losses, claims, damages, demands, reasonable expenses and costs (including the reasonable fees, charges and disbursements of counsel for any Indemnitee), causes of action, judgments or liabilities that may be incurred by any of them ("Indemnified Losses") arising, directly or indirectly, out of, in connection with, or as a result of (i) the execution and delivery of this Agreement, any other Related Document or any agreement or instrument contemplated hereby or thereby, the performance the parties hereto of their respective obligations hereunder or thereunder, the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby or thereby, or in the case of the Collateral Agent, the acceptance or appointment, and performance of duties hereunder or thereunder, and (ii) any actual or prospective claim, litigation, investigation or proceeding relating to any of the foregoing, based on contract, tort or any other theory, whether brought by a third party or by any Issuer Party or its Subsidiary, and regardless of whether any Indemnitee is a party thereto, including the reasonable out of pocket legal costs and expenses as such expenses are incurred (including, without limitation, the expenses of any experts, counsel or agents) of investigating, preparing for or defending itself against any such claim, litigation, investigation or proceeding; provided that such indemnity shall not, as to any Indemnitee, be available to the extent that such losses, claims, damages, liabilities or related expenses (x) are determined by a court of competent jurisdiction by final and nonappealable judgment to have resulted from the gross negligence or willful misconduct of such Indemnitee or (y) result from a claim brought by any Issuer Party against an Indemnitee for breach in bad faith of such Indemnitee's obligations hereunder or under any other Related Document, if any Issuer Party has obtained a final and nonappealable judgment in its favor on such claim as determined by a court of competent jurisdiction. The Collateral Agent shall not be under any duty whatsoever to, institute or defend any legal proceedings which relate to the Collateral.

(b) To the extent that any Issuer Party for any reason fails to indefeasibly pay or reimburse the Collateral Agent for Indemnified Losses within 15 Business Days of the Collateral Agent's delivery of written notice to an Issuer Party of such Indemnified Losses required under clause (a) above to be paid by an Issuer Party to the Collateral Agent (or any sub-agent thereof) or any of its officers, directors, employees and agents, each Holder severally agrees to pay or reimburse to the Collateral Agent (to the extent not paid or reimbursed by the Issuer Parties hereunder and without limiting the obligations of any Issuer Party hereunder) such Holder's share (on a pro rata basis based on the outstanding principal balance of each Holder's Note) for such Indemnified Losses. If any Holder fails to pay or reimburse the Collateral Agent for Indemnified Losses within 15 Business Days of the day on which the Collateral Agent has delivered written notice to any such Holder of any Issuer Party's failure to pay or reimburse the Collateral Agent for such Indemnified Losses, the Collateral Agent may pay or reimburse itself for such Indemnified Losses from the Collateral.

(c) To the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, no Issuer Party shall assert, and each Issuer Party hereby waives, any claim against any Indemnitee, on any theory of liability, for special, indirect, consequential or punitive damages (as opposed to direct or actual damages) arising out of, in connection with, or as a result of, this Agreement, any other Related Document or any agreement or instrument contemplated hereby, the transactions contemplated hereby or thereby, any Note or the use of the proceeds thereof. No Indemnitee shall be liable for any damages arising from the use by unintended recipients of any information or other materials distributed by it through telecommunications, electronic or other information transmission systems in connection with this Agreement or the other Related Documents or the transactions contemplated hereby or thereby.

(d) All amounts due under this Section shall be payable not later than 15 Business Days after demand therefore.

(e) The obligations set forth in this Section 20.4 shall survive the termination of this Agreement, the replacement of any Holder, or the resignation or removal of the Collateral Agent.

(f) The Collateral Agent shall be obligated only for the performance of such duties, responsibilities and obligations as are specifically set forth in this Agreement and no duties, responsibilities or obligations shall be inferred or implied. The Collateral Agent may conclusively rely and shall be fully protected in acting or refraining from acting on any written notice, request, waiver, instruction, consent or instrument reasonably believed by it to be genuine and to have been signed or presented by the proper party or parties. The Collateral Agent shall not be subject to, nor required to comply with, any other agreement between or among any or all of the parties hereto or to which any party hereto is a party, even though reference thereto may be made herein, or to comply with any direction or instruction (other than those contained herein or delivered in accordance with this Agreement) from any party hereto or any entity acting on its behalf. The Collateral Agent shall not be liable with respect to any action taken or omitted to be taken by it hereunder (or under any Security Document to which it is a party), in good faith in accordance with the direction of the Required Holders and each Holder agrees to promptly provide the Collateral Agent with any direction or instruction requested or otherwise deemed necessary or advisable by the Collateral Agent in order to perform its duties and obligations hereunder. The Collateral Agent shall not be required to, and shall not, expend or risk any of its own funds or otherwise incur any financial liability in the performance of any of its duties hereunder. The Collateral Agent shall have no duty to determine or inquire into the happening or occurrence of any event or contingency, and it is agreed that their duties are purely ministerial in nature. The Collateral Agent may consult with and obtain advice from legal counsel selected with due care (which may be in house counsel) as to any provision hereof or its duties hereunder, and the Collateral Agent shall not be liable for any action taken or omitted by it, except for gross negligence or willful misconduct as determined by a court of competent jurisdiction by final and nonappealable judgment, in good faith and reasonably believed by it to be authorized hereby, nor for action taken or omitted by it in accordance with the advice of such counsel.

(g) The Issuer Parties agree, jointly and severally, to pay to the Collateral Agent the fees as set forth in the Collateral Agent's fee proposal. The Issuer Parties also agree, jointly and severally, to reimburse the Collateral Agent for its reasonable expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees incurred in connection with the negotiation, drafting and performance by it of the services rendered by it pursuant to the provisions of this Agreement and the Security Documents to which the Collateral Agent is a party. Any additional services beyond those specified in this Agreement and the Security Documents to which the Collateral Agent is a party, or activities requiring excessive administrator time or out of pocket expenses, shall be deemed extraordinary expenses for which related costs, transaction charges and additional fees will be billed at the Collateral Agent's standard charges for such items. The Issuer Parties' obligation to pay the Collateral Agent's fees and expenses shall survive the termination of this Agreement and the Security Documents to which the Collateral Agent is a party.

20.5 Binding Effect.

Each Holder agrees that (i) any action taken by Collateral Agent or the Required Holders (or, if expressly required hereby, a greater proportion of the Holders) in accordance with the provisions of the Note, this Agreement or the Security Documents, (ii) any action taken by Collateral Agent in reliance upon the instructions of Required Holders (or, where so required, such greater proportion) and (iii) the exercise by Collateral Agent or the Required Holders (or, where so required, such greater proportion) of the powers set forth herein or therein, together with such other powers as are reasonably incidental thereto, shall be authorized and binding upon all of the Holders.

20.6 Delegation of Rights and Duties.

Collateral Agent may, upon any term or condition it specifies, delegate or exercise any of its rights, powers and remedies under, and delegate or perform any of its duties or any other action with respect to, any of the Notes, this Agreement or any Security Document by or through any trustee, co-agent, employee, attorney-in-fact and any other Person (including any Holder). Any such Person shall be entitled to the same benefits, rights and protections as those provided in this Section 20 to the Collateral Agent.

20.7 Release of Liens.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein or in any of the Security Documents, the Collateral Agent and the Holders agree and acknowledge that: (i) upon the consummation of any Disposition permitted hereunder, all Liens created by the Security Documents on the Collateral which is disposed of in connection therewith shall be promptly released by Collateral Agent upon request of the relevant Issuer Party; and (ii) upon the maturity and repayment in full of the Notes, all Liens under the Security Documents shall thereupon terminate and the Collateral Agent and the Holders agree to promptly thereafter deliver to the relevant Issuer Party such Collateral as may be in the possession of the Collateral Agent or any Holder (or any other Person on their behalf). In connection with any release or termination of the Liens on the Collateral, Collateral Agent, or the Holders as contemplated by this Section 20.7, at the relevant Issuer Party's request, the Collateral Agent (being hereby authorized by the Holders to do so) shall promptly execute and deliver any instruments or documents reasonably requested to acknowledge the release or termination of such Liens and to effect the removal or cancellation of such Liens.

20.8 Proof of Claims.

(a) In case of the pendency of any proceeding under any bankruptcy or other debtor relief law or any other judicial proceeding relative to any Issuer Party, Collateral Agent (irrespective of whether the principal of any Note shall then be due and payable as herein expressed or by declaration or otherwise and irrespective of whether Collateral Agent or any Holder shall have made any demand on Issuer) shall be entitled and empowered, by intervention in such proceeding or otherwise (a) to file proofs of claim for the whole amount of the principal and interest owing and unpaid in respect of the Notes and all other obligations that are owing and unpaid under this Agreement and any Related Document and to file such other documents as may be necessary or advisable in order to have the claims of the Holders and Collateral Agent (including any claim for costs expenses, compensation, fees expenses, disbursements and advances of the Holders and Collateral Agent and their respective agents and counsel including as set forth herein) allowed in such judicial proceeding, and (b) to collect and receive any monies or other property payable or deliverable on any such claims and to distribute the same. Any custodian, receiver, assignee, trustee, liquidator, sequestrator or other similar official in any such judicial proceeding is hereby authorized by each Holder to make such payments to Collateral Agent and, if Collateral Agent shall consent to the making of such payments directly to the Holders, to pay to the Holders any amount due for costs, expenses, compensation, fees, disbursements and advances of the Holders and Collateral Agent and their respective agents and counsel including as set forth herein). The permissive right of the Collateral Agent to act hereunder shall not impose upon the Collateral Agent any affirmative duty to so act.

(b) Nothing contained herein shall be deemed to authorize Collateral Agent to authorize or consent to or accept or adopt on behalf of any Holder any plan of reorganization, arrangement, adjustment or composition affecting the Notes and any obligations hereunder or under any Related Document or the rights of any Holder to authorize Collateral Agent to vote in respect of the claim of any Holder or in any such proceeding.

20.9 Reliance on Instructions.

(a) The Collateral Agent may, but is not required to, rely upon and comply with instructions and directions sent by email or facsimile (or any other reasonable communication), by persons believed by the Collateral Agent in good faith to be authorized to provide such instructions or direction; provided, however, that the Collateral Agent may require such additional evidence, confirmation or certification from any such party or parties as the Collateral Agent, in its reasonable discretion, deems necessary or advisable before acting or refraining from acting upon any such instruction or direction.

(b) The Collateral Agent agrees to accept and act upon instructions or directions pursuant to this Agreement sent by unsecured email, facsimile transmission or other similar unsecured electronic methods, provided, however, that each of the Issuer Parties and the Holders shall provide to the Collateral Agent an incumbency certificate listing such designated persons, which incumbency certificate shall be amended whenever a person is to be added or deleted from the listing. If any of the Issuer Parties or the Holders elects to give the Collateral Agent email or facsimile instructions (or instructions by a similar electronic method) and the Collateral Agent in its discretion elects to act upon such instructions, the Collateral Agent's understanding of such instructions shall be deemed controlling. The Collateral Agent shall not be liable for any losses, costs or expenses arising directly or indirectly from the Collateral Agent's reliance upon and compliance with such instructions notwithstanding such instructions conflict or are inconsistent with a subsequent written instruction. The Issuer Parties (or the Holders, as applicable) agree to assume all risks arising out of the use of such electronic methods to submit instructions and directions to the Collateral Agent, including without limitation the risk of the Collateral Agent acting, in good faith, on unauthorized instructions, and the risk of interception and misuse by third parties.

20.10 Enforcement of Security Documents.

Each Holder (or the Collateral Agent upon written Direction of the Required Holders) shall have the right to enforce the terms of any Security Documents against the Issuer and any Subsidiary of the Issuer that is a party to such Security Document.

Section 1: Introduction

Background

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland Capital”) retained Watson Wyatt Insurance & Financial Services, Inc. (“WWIFS”) to provide actuarial consulting services related to the analysis of certain life insurance policies purchased by Highland Capital. This portfolio has been designated as the HFP portfolio. The scope of these services is described in the engagement letter dated April 2, 2008 and all the terms and conditions of that letter apply to this report.

Specifically, as requested by Ricky Sanchez and Vincent Lui from Highland Capital, our actuarial services for the HFP portfolio involved the valuation as of Oct. 1st, 2008 of 84 life insurance policies issued to 51 insureds. Most of the policies are universal life insurance policies and were purchased by Highland Capital about one year ago. The total face amount is about $751 million. The value of a policy is defined as the actuarial present value of death benefit less the actuarial present value of future premium payments at an appropriate discount rate.

This report is not an appraisal of the market value of the HFP portfolio, but rather a valuation of the portfolio using generally accepted actuarial assumptions and methodologies. The market value of any block of business is a matter of informed judgment. The parties involved determine purchase or sale price based on their respective evaluations of all relevant factors, including:

1. The perspective of the buyer and the seller and the level of confidence they feel with respect to the assumptions underlying the projected earnings.
2. The desired rate of return.
3. The degree of urgency attached to the sale or acquisition.
4. Any significant tax or other consequences, unique to the proposed transaction, which can have an effect upon fair market value.
5. The value placed on potential synergy between the company and the purchaser’s existing organization.

Source of Data

Information provided by Highland Capital includes the following items:

- Name of the Insured, Date of Birth, Policy Issue Date, Policy Type
- Underwriting Life Expectancy (“LE”) at purchase
- Actual premiums made since the purchase date through the valuation date
- Gender, Maturity Age and Death Benefit

- Pricing information at purchase generated from the Milliman pricing software version 7.1.1, which has expected Internal Rate of Return (IRR), Cost of Insurance (COI) rates derived from in force illustration, projected premiums based on the minimum funding principle

Our report is subject to the following qualification and limitations:

- We have assumed the genuineness and authenticity of the data
- We have relied solely on the data provided, have assumed the accuracy and completeness of the data, and have not undertaken any independent investigation or audits of the data.

Limitations on Use

The distribution of our report is limited to the management of Highland Capital. Our report may not be distributed, disclosed, copied, or otherwise provided to any other party without the prior written consent of WWIFS.

Our report, or any other of our documents or work papers related to this engagement, may not be used or referenced in any filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Internal Revenue Service, state insurance departments, or any other public bodies without the prior written consent of WWIFS.

Our report does not express any opinion on, or offer, or provide, any investment advice regarding the nature, merits, potential, value, suitability, or profitability of this portfolio.

Any authorized distribution of our report must be in its entirety. Questions regarding our report posed by any authorized recipient must be directed to WWIFS for review and response.

Section 2: Methodologies

Mortality

For each policy, our model calibrates the mortality curve to match the given LE at the time of purchase based on the 2001 VBT Ultimate tables. The 2001 VBT table is the most up-to-date mortality table that is currently being used in the pricing and valuation of life settlement policies. The choice of an appropriate base mortality table is important to ensure that the mortality slope most closely represents the actual mortality pattern of a newly-underwritten life.

We derived the impaired mortality rates for each life using the following steps.

- Based on the attained age as of the purchase date, we obtained the base mortality rates from the 2001 VBT table.
- We determined the force of mortality for each year from the base mortality rates.
- We solved for a constant multiple to the force of mortality so that the resultant impaired mortality rates produce the re-underwritten LE at the attained age as of the purchase date.
- The derived annual mortality rates are converted to monthly rates

Note that the specific impairments for each life could have varying impacts on the slope of the mortality rates, and therefore ultimate valuation. The method we have used is a common approach in valuing life settlements, but there is a range of practices and other approaches could be considered. Highland Capital adopted “sample factors” mortality improvement in the Milliman pricing software for the initial pricing at the purchase date. According to the pricing information provided to us and Vincent Lui’s conversation with Milliman, the incorporation of the “sample factors” mortality improvement only adjusts the shape of the mortality curve, not the overall indicated LE. The adjustment on the shape resulted in worse mortality in the earlier years and better mortality in the later years while the LE remains unchanged. This adjustment to the mortality slope causes the unintended result of increasing the purchase value of the policy. We have therefore removed the Milliman “sample factors” mortality improvement in our valuation of the portfolio.

We have assumed no additional mortality improvement in this analysis, since the base 2001 VBT table already encompasses mortality improvement in its construction. Also, we were not provided with any specific underwriting information on these policies other than the LE estimates at the purchase date to further refine the mortality improvement assumption in the 2001 VBT.

Premiums

The latest in force illustrations available are as of the purchase dates. COI rates were reverse engineered in the Milliman pricing software based on the illustrated premiums and account value progression. As agreed with Highland Capital, we relied on the COI rates derived by the Milliman pricing software when they look reasonable. However, 68 out of the total 84 policies have exhibited some unusual patterns of the COI rates, such as the rates increases to a certain age and then levels off, or the rates decline etc. According to a conversation Vincent Lui had with Milliman, when there is not enough information available in the illustration to derive COI rates, the Milliman pricing software extrapolates to complete the COI rates for all ages, which might result in some unusual COI patterns. Hence, in our valuation, we applied the following rules to smooth the COI rates while maintaining a reasonably increasing pattern:

- Linear interpolation between two ages to smooth out any declining COI rates in the middle
- When linear interpolation does not produce a reasonable increasing pattern of COI rates, use 70% of the corresponding 2001 VBT Select-Ultimate base rates to replace the Milliman COI rates, or use the relationship between the Milliman COI rates and the 2001 VBT Select-Ultimate base rates to estimate COI rates at the tails

Similar to the Milliman pricing software, future premiums are projected based on the minimum funding principle, which means at any time, the account value has to stay above the surrender charge plus a fixed dollar threshold.

Highland Capital has paid out about $8.6 million of premiums since purchase. Our model incorporated the paid premiums into the account value progression since purchase and projected future premiums from the valuation date. Please note that for some policies, although premiums paid by Highland capital within the past year have been below the minimum needed premiums as projected in the Milliman pricing software from the purchase dates, those policies are staying in force. For these cases, to reflect the fact that the policy is still in force, we revised the starting account value as of the valuation date from negative to be equal to the surrender charge plus a fixed dollar threshold.

For multiple policies issued to the same insured, since we were only provided with historical premium payments in aggregate, we allocated premiums based on the weight of the face amount of each policy.

Discount Rates

Highland Capital provided us with rates of return information associated with each policy at initial pricing. However, since our valuation process utilizes different mortality and premium assumptions as described above, the implied rate of return based on the purchase price is thus different from that as of the purchase date. We solved for the implied rates of return at purchase, and then applied them in our valuation.

Section 3: Results

Highland Capital paid $150,720,000 for the acquisition of the HFP portfolio about a year ago. Policies were acquired at different dates. Since purchase, premium payments of $9,368,586 have been paid on this portfolio to keep policies in force. As of Oct 1st, 2008, the value of the portfolio is estimated to be $168,217,305.

The individual policy valuation results are as follows. Please note that the filename referred in the first column is used to identify policies in our valuation process.

TO EACH OF THE PURCHASERS LISTED IN THE ATTACHED SCHEDULE A:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Highland Financial Partners, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (the “Issuer”), agrees with you as follows:

1. AUTHORIZATION OF NOTES.

The Issuer will authorize the issue and sale of $315,970,681 aggregate principal amount of its 10.00% Senior Secured Notes due November 15, 2018 (the “Notes”, such term to include any such notes issued in substitution therefor pursuant to Section 13 of this Agreement). The Notes shall be substantially in the form set out in Exhibit 1, with such changes therefrom, if any, as may be approved by you and the Issuer. Certain capitalized terms used in this Agreement are defined in Schedule B; references to a “Schedule” or an “Exhibit” are, unless otherwise specified, to a Schedule or an Exhibit attached to this Agreement. The Notes shall be secured by the Liens created by the Security Documents.

2. SALE AND PURCHASE OF NOTES.

Subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement, the Issuer will issue and sell to you and you will purchase from the Issuer, at the Closing provided for in Section 3, Notes in the principal amount specified opposite your name in Schedule A at the purchase price of 100% of the principal amount thereof. The obligations of the Purchasers under this Agreement are several and not joint obligations and each Purchaser shall have no obligation to any Person for the performance or non-performance by any other Purchaser under this Agreement.

3. CLOSING.

The sale and purchase of the Notes to be purchased by you shall occur at the offices of the Issuer, 13455 Noel Road, 8th Floor, Dallas, Texas, 75240, at 11:59 p.m., Dallas time, at a closing (the “Closing”) on September 26, 2008 or on such other Business Day thereafter as may be agreed upon by the Issuer and you. At the Closing the Issuer will deliver to you the Notes to be purchased by you in the form of a single Note

(or such greater number of Notes in denominations of at least $1 as you may request) dated the date of the Closing and registered in your name (or in the name of your nominee), against delivery by you to the Issuer (or its order) of the purchase price in the form of either immediately available funds by wire transfer, or in the form of assets having a market value equal to the purchase price as mutually agreed by the Issuer and you prior to the Closing. If at the Closing the Issuer shall fail to tender such Notes to you as provided above in this Section 3, or any of the conditions specified in Section 4 shall not have been fulfilled to your satisfaction, you may elect to be relieved of all further obligations under this Agreement, without thereby waiving any rights you may have by reason of such failure or such nonfulfillment.

4. CONDITIONS TO CLOSING; COLLATERAL MATTERS; POST CLOSING DELIVERIES

Your obligation to purchase and pay for the Notes to be sold to you at the Closing is subject to the fulfillment to your satisfaction, prior to or at the Closing, of the conditions set forth in Sections 4.1, 4.2, 4.3 and 4.4.

If requested by you, you shall have received an Officer's Certificate certifying as to such matters of fact as you may reasonably require to enable you to determine whether such purchase is so permitted.

The Issuer has the power and authority to own or hold under lease the properties it purports to own or hold under lease, to transact the business it transacts and proposes to transact, to execute and deliver this Agreement, the Notes and any Related Documents it is a party to and to perform the provisions hereof and thereof. ### 5.3 Compliance with Laws, Other Instruments, etc.

The execution, delivery and performance by the Issuer Parties of the Related Documents to which it is a party will not (i) contravene, result in any breach of, or constitute a default under, or result in the creation of any Lien in respect of any property of the Issuer or any Subsidiary under, any indenture, mortgage, deed of trust, loan, purchase or credit agreement, lease, corporate charter or by-laws, or any other Material agreement or instrument to which the Issuer Parties is bound or by which the Issuer Parties or any of their respective properties may be bound or affected, (ii) conflict with or result in a breach of any of the terms, conditions or provisions of any order, judgment, decree, or ruling of any court, arbitrator or Governmental Authority applicable to the Issuer or any Subsidiary or (iii) violate any provision of any statute or other rule or regulation of any Governmental Authority applicable to the Issuer Parties.

5.4 Governmental Authorizations, etc.

5.5 Litigation; Observance of Statutes and Orders.

(b) Neither the Issuer Parties nor any Subsidiary is in default under any order, judgment, decree or ruling of any court, arbitrator or Governmental Authority or is in violation of any applicable law, ordinance, rule or regulation (including without limitation Environmental Laws) of any Governmental Authority, which default or violation, individually or in the aggregate, would reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect.

5.7 Taxes.

The Issuer and its Subsidiaries have filed all income tax returns that are required to have been filed in any jurisdiction, and have paid all taxes shown to be due and payable on such returns and all other taxes and assessments payable by them, to the extent such taxes and assessments have become due and payable and before they have become delinquent, except for any taxes and assessments (i) the amount of which is not individually or in the aggregate Material or (ii) the amount, applicability or validity of which is currently being contested in good faith by appropriate proceedings and with respect to which the Issuer or a Subsidiary, as the case may be, has established adequate reserves in accordance with GAAP. The Federal income tax liabilities of the Issuer and its Subsidiaries have been determined by the Internal Revenue Service and paid for all fiscal years up to and including the fiscal year ended November 30, 2007.

5.8 Title to Property; Leases.

Such acquired assets may be held by any subsidiary of the Issuer which is wholly-owned and who enters into appropriate Security Documents related hereto, and agrees to be bound by a joinder to the terms of this Agreement. No part of the proceeds from the sale of the Notes hereunder will be used, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of buying or carrying any margin stock within the meaning of Regulation G of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (12 CFR 207), or for the purpose of buying or carrying or trading in any securities under such circumstances as to involve the Issuer in a violation of Regulation X of said Board (12 CFR 224) or to involve any broker or dealer in a violation of Regulation T of said Board (12 CFR 220). As used in this Section, the terms “margin stock” and “purpose of buying or carrying” shall have the meanings assigned to them in said Regulation G.

5.12 Foreign Assets Control Regulations, etc.

The provisions of the Security Documents are effective to create in favor of the holders a legal, valid and enforceable first priority Lien on all right, title and interest of the respective Issuer Parties in the Collateral described therein. Except for filings completed prior to the Closing or as contemplated to be done post closing in accordance with Section 4.5, no filing or other action will be necessary to perfect or protect such Liens.

6. REPRESENTATIONS OF THE PURCHASER.

You represent that you are purchasing the Notes for your own account or for one or more separate accounts maintained by you or for the account of one or more pension or trust funds and not with a view to the distribution thereof, provided that the disposition of your or their property shall at all times be within your or their control. You understand that the Notes have not been registered under the Securities Act and may be resold only if registered pursuant to the provisions of the Securities Act or if an exemption from registration is available, except under circumstances where neither such registration nor such an exemption is required by law, and that the Issuer is not required to register the Notes.

7. INSPECTION.

The Issuer Parties shall permit the representatives of each holder of Notes:

The Issuer will give each holder of Notes written notice of each optional prepayment under this Section 8.1 not less than 30 days and not more than 60 days prior to the date fixed for such prepayment. Each such notice shall specify such date, the aggregate principal amount of the Notes to be prepaid on such date, the principal amount of each Note held by such holder to be prepaid (determined in accordance with Section 8.2), and the interest to be paid on the prepayment date with respect to such principal amount being prepaid.

I've noticed the deposition of the debtor who is a -- in essence a party to the motion and listed certain areas of inquiry. Are you the party designated by the debtor who can best identify or address the areas of inquiry?

A. Yes.

Q. The first area is the Highland Credit Opportunity CDOLP, now known as Highland MultiStrat Credit Fund LP subscription agreement and any operating agreement, partnership agreement, including any amendments, addendums or modifications thereof.

So you're the party best able with respect to that item?

A. To generally discuss that item, yes.

Q. Okay. And I will note that those documents have -- the documents that give rise to those -- that issue have already been provided to me.

The next --

MR. MORRIS: Douglas, I apologize for interrupting, but I just want to make sure the record is clear. You can go through all of these and it's just subject to the objections that I sent to you yesterday. Agreed?

MR. DRAPER: That's fine.

J. SEERY

MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Then the next area was the investment advisor agreement between MultiStrat and the debtor. I note that rather than there being an investment advisor agreement, there's an investor management agreement.

Is that correct, Mr. Seery?

A. That's correct.

Q. And that is between both the debtor and what I'll call MultiStrat and then MultiStrat's general partner; is that correct?

A. I'd have to go back and look. It would certainly be between the debtor and MultiStrat. Typically the GP would be on it as well.

Q. All right.

I'll note, I have here before me -- just so we can be clear, if you look at the document -- I was provided a Third Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement by and among Highland Multi Strategy Credit Fund, Limited, Highland Multi Strategy Fund, L.P. and Highland Credit Management L.P.

Just, out of curiosity, who is

J. SEERY

Highland Multi Strategy Credit Fund, Limited?

A. Do you not -- you don't know?

Q. I've asked you the question. This is not you to ask me questions. I'm asking you the question: Who is that entity?

A. It's a limited Cayman Island company.

Q. Okay. This will be a whole lot easier if you just answer my questions and don't ask me questions like you don't know. That's not necessary.

A. I answered your question.

Q. Thank you. The assertion that the debtor has the corporate authority to settle the claim as proposed in the settlement motion, I gather you're the party with respect to that? And I have been provided documents that I've -- I can ascertain the authority of the debtor to do that.

The next area is any notice or analysis of the UBS claim and/or the May 20th -- May 2020 settlement you sent to MultiStrat or any of the limited partners or owners of an interest in MultiStrat that discusses the UBS claim, the May 2020 settlement agreement, and the settlement proposed in the settlement motion.

I note that in the documentation produced, there's nothing sent to any -- to MultiStrat or any of its limited partners or owners.

Is that fair to say?

MR. MORRIS: I'm going to object to the --

THE WITNESS: Yeah, I don't understand what you just asked me.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) I basically asked you, is there -- in looking at the documents that have been produced, I see nothing that was sent to any limited partner in MultiStrat advising them of the May 2020 settlement, the UBS claim and analysis of the UBS claim or the settlement agreement. Is it fair to say that there was no correspondence between the MultiStrat limited partners, the MultiStrat owners, and Highland as investment manager?

A. Other than the notices in the case.

Q. Well, the notices in the case, are the MultiStrat limited partners parties in interest in the bankruptcy?

J. SEERY

A. I don't know, but you're here.

Q. That's not my question. You got --

A. Hold on a second, Mr. Draper. You asked me a question. I answered it, I told you the notice is in the case. You represent Dugaboy, which is -- I think is some kind of partner in -- limited partner in MultiStrat, and you're here. So somehow you got notice and I believe others got notice; but other than that, I'm not -- I don't know of any notices.

Q. Okay. Let me ask the question in a different way.

May 2020, there was a settlement involving MultiStrat and UBS. Correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you signed that agreement.

A. I did.

Q. Do you know if that agreement was brought before the bankruptcy court?

A. Yes.

Q. And the answer is?

A. No.

Q. And did Dugaboy receive any notice of the May 2020 settlement agreement at the time it

1 J. SEERY

2 was entered into?

3 A. I don't know.

4 Q. Well, did you send it -- anything to 5 them?

6 A. No.

7 Q. Did the debtor as investment manager
8 of MultiStrat send anything to them?

9 A. Not to my knowledge.

10 Q. Okay. You're the person best able to 11 discuss the May 2020 settlement agreement?

12 MR. MORRIS: Douglas, I'm just going
13 to interrupt and see if we can cut through a 14 little bit of this.

15 Mr. Seery is being tendered today as 16 the debtor's 30(b)(6) witness to cover all topics
17 on your list subject to the objections that I
18 provided to you. I hope that's helpful.

19 MR. DRAPER: Okay. That's fine.

20 And, Mr. Seery, just so you know, if 21 I ask you a question and you think there's 22 somebody else who has better knowledge than you
23 and you don't know, please advise as to who that 24 party is. Okay? That's a question.

25 A. Oh, it wasn't phrased as a question.

1 J. SEERY

2 What's the question?

3 Q. Okay. Will you -- it's a statement,
4 then. We'll do it this way.

5 A. Okay.

6 Q. Please, if in fact there is a party
7 at the debtor who has better knowledge than you
8 about an area of inquiry, please identify for me
9 who that party may be.

10 A. Okay.

11 Q. Thank you.

12 (Technical discussion off the 13 record.)

14 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Now, let me move
15 with respect to the documents that I've asked you
16 to produce. Again, I've gone through this, and 17 just to sift my way through this, I notice that 18 there was no notice or analysis sent to 19 MultiStrat's limited partners relative to the UBS
20 claim, the May 2020 settlement agreement, and the 21 settlement proposed in the settlement motion.

22 Is that correct, Mr. Seery?

23 A. I believe so.

24 Q. That there is no material regarding 25 the specific transfers by the debtors or the funds of the assets that were transferred to MultiStrat giving rise to the UBS claim. There's no listing.

J. SEERY

A. I'm sorry, I didn't understand the --

Q. What I'm trying to find out is, is there a list of the assets that were alleged to be fraudulently transferred to MultiStrat?

A. Is there a list? Yes.

Q. Do you know the list?

A. Yes. Not the -- I can't off the top of my head recite the policies that were in it as well as the CLOs; yes.

MR. DRAPER: Can I get that list, Mr. Morris? I don't have that list.

MR. MORRIS: If we have it, Mr. Draper, I promise to give it to you.

MR. DRAPER: Okay.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Do you have documentation as to what MultiStrat paid for the assets that were transferred to it?

A. The 2009 transfers?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

MR. DRAPER: Can I also get that

1 J. SEERY

2 list, Mr. Morris?

3 MR. MORRIS: I'll take it under 4 advisement.

5 A. And also, paid to whom?

6 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Whoever they paid to,
7 whoever they made a payment to.

8 A. Yeah, they -- when they got them
9 back, they didn't make a payment to anybody.

10 Q. No, let me ask the question.

11 There were assets that were 12 transferred by somebody to MultiStrat that gave 13 rise to the UBS lawsuit; correct?

14 A. Correct.

15 Q. Is it your -- is it -- did MultiStrat
16 pay anything or give anything for those assets?

17 A. No. It satisfied a note.

18 Q. Okay. Can I have a copy of the note
19 that was satisfied?

20 A. Yes. Referred to as the note unwind
21 transaction.

22 MR. DRAPER: Mr. Morris can I have a
23 copy of that also?

24 MR. MORRIS: I'll take that under 25 advisement too, Mr. Draper.

1 J. SEERY

2 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) I've asked for a
3 list of the entities that own an interest in 4 MultiStrat. Nothing has been provided in 5 connection with that.

6 Do you have a list, Mr. Seery?

7 A. Yes.

8 MR. DRAPER: Mr. Morris, I've asked
9 for that also. And again, whatever
10 confidentiality you need.

11 MR. MORRIS: I think it's something
12 that we have to create for you, Doug. I don't 13 think an actual list exists. I think what 14 Mr. Seery is referring to may be the information 15 in his head, but it's going to be included in our 16 omnibus reply later this afternoon, but we'll get 17 that to you either way.

18 MR. DRAPER: Right. And again, there
19 is a reporting that they do and something they 20 give to the limited partners on a yearly basis,
21 so it -- there must be something there separate
22 and apart from a new creation.

23 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Well, you're 24 going to have that information before the end of 25 the day, I promise.

J. SEERY

MR. DRAPER: Okay.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Was there a third-party analysis of the UBS claim on behalf of MultiStrat?

A. Third-party analysis on behalf of MultiStrat --

(Technical interruption.)

A. We did innumerable analyses of the claim -- I think you said of the claims? Yes.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Let me ask the question in a different way.

You did an analysis, your staff did an analysis; is that correct?

(Technical interruption.)

A. I believe I was asked did I and my team do analyses? The answer is yes.

Q. No, my question is a different question than that. Did a third party other than you or Pachulski do an analysis of the claim on behalf of -- against MultiStrat?

A. In the early part of the case, certainly UBS's expert did analyses of the claim, yes.

Q. Did somebody other than on behalf of

J. SEERY

UBS or Pachulski or your group do an analysis on behalf of MultiStrat? Was an independent contractor hired by MultiStrat to do an analysis of the claim?

A. Not recently, no.

Q. How about previously?

A. There may have been early in the litigation, yes.

Q. But do you have -- do you have a copy of that report?

A. No.

Q. You've never seen it?

A. I don't -- I believe I have, actually, but I haven't looked at it in a while.

MR. DRAPER: Can I get a copy of that, Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: If we can find it, because I'm not familiar with that document either, but we'll follow up.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Now, again, this is a rather complex transaction, and I am a latecomer to this, so I'm going to ask you a series of questions. You may look at me and do the same thing you did before, say, Douglas, why are you asking that question? But again, this is -- this is education for me also, so let's go through this.

I'm going to ask you a series of questions about the relationship of the debtor to certain entities that are called affiliates.

The first entity is Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund LP.

Are you familiar with that entity?

A. I'd have to go back and check each of the evolving names of these entities, but clearly that was a Highland-related entity. CDO Fund was the -- one of the defendants, if that's the same one -- they have very similar names -- one of the defendants in the UBS litigation.

Q. And who was the general partner of that fund?

A. There would have been an intermediate general partner between CDO Fund and HCMLP, and then HCMLP.

Q. All right. Ultimately if you traced the lineage, the debtor would have been the general partner; correct? Or controlled the general partner?

1 J. SEERY

2 A. Yes.

3 Q. All right. What about Highland
4 Select Opportunity Fund?

5 A. Similarly, but Highland Select is not
6 involved in this particular dispute.

7 Q. Well, who is the other defendant that 8 there's a judgment against?

9 A. SOHC. But you've already -- I think
10 you brought an action related to Highland Select 11 Opportunity Fund to pierce the veil.

12 Q. No, let me -- again, Highland Select 13 Opportunity Fund is a defendant in this case
14 also; correct?

15 A. I think it's a different name than 16 that, but we call it SOHC.

17 MR. MORRIS: Objection --

18 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Now, the next entity
19 is Highland Financial Partners. Who is that?

20 A. That was an intermediate holding 21 company that Highland formed that owns certain of 22 the defendants in this case.

23 Q. When I -- let me break up the term
24 "defendants," because you have two classes of 25 defendants or two groups. You have the

1 J. SEERY

2 defendants in Phase 1; and then you have the 3 defendants, what I'll call in Phase 2.

4 Highland Financial Partners is a
5 defendant in Phase 2; correct?

6 A. Yes. The answer is yes. I think it
7 was also -- I'm not sure, but I thought it was a
8 defendant added in Phase 1 as well. I don't
9 recall off the top of my head.

10 Q. Right. Well, then --

11 All right. Who owns Highland
12 Financial Partners?

13 A. It's owned by a combination of 14 limited partners and its GP.

15 Q. Who is its GP?

16 A. It had intermediate companies,
17 ultimately rolling up to Highland, HCMLP.

18 Q. Now, in some of the pleadings I've 19 read, HFP, which is Highland Financial Partners,
20 is described as a parent corporation and alter
21 ego of Highland Select Opportunity Fund; is that
22 correct?

23 A. That is the -- that was one of the 24 allegations, yes.

25 Q. Is that factually correct?

1 J. SEERY

2 A. That that is an allegation, yes.

3 Q. No, that -- no. I understand it's an 4 allegation. What I'm asking you is the 5 allegation correct?

6 A. There is a heck of a lot of evidence
7 to support it. There are also defenses.

8 Q. No, that -- again, let me ask the 9 question just from a document point of view.
10 Just looking at the face of the documents, is 11 Highland Financial Partners the parent
12 corporation of Highland Select Opportunity Fund?

13 A. Yes, but you asked me if it was the 14 alter ego.

15 Q. No, I asked you both. Now I'm 16 focusing on parent.

17 A. Yeah, parent is easy. Yes.

18 Q. Now, in terms of alter ego, you made 19 the statement that there's a lot of evidence to 20 support the concept that it is the -- or the 21 allegation that it is the alter ego. What facts
22 give rise to your statement?

23 A. The way that Highland HFP was managed
24 by Highland, but really by Mr. Dondero for years
25 and years, moving money in and out, moving money and assets in and out without real consideration to people like MultiStrat. Hiding assets in the subsidiaries, stripping those assets out in a criminal fraud. We could go on, but it's innumerable. There are defenses, but it's pretty bad.

J. SEERY

Q. So your basis to saying it's an alter ego deals with the transfer of assets between entities; correct?

A. I didn't say it was an alter ego. You asked me if it was an alter ego and a parent, and I said that there was evidence to support that claim.

Q. Okay. Well, the parent would be just by documentation; correct?

A. That's correct, and that's when you asked me that. I said yes, it's the parent.

Q. Okay. And with respect to the alter ego, the things that concern you with respect to the alter ego claim deal with the movement of assets in and out of that entity; correct?

A. Among other things, yes.

Q. Now, they did in fact have separate books and records and separate bank accounts;

J. SEERY

correct?

A. Separate books and records.

Sometimes. Separate bank accounts, sometimes.

Q. UBS in its complaint alleges that the debtor devised an elaborate scheme to not just impede UBS's ability to recover what it was owed but to prevent UBS from recovering any of such amounts; correct? That's a -- that's a statement? Is that what your understanding of the UBS claim against the debtor is?

A. That's one of the claims in the large ten-year litigation, yes.

Q. What -- do you understand the scheme to mean that assets were transferred out of either Highland Select, HFP, or Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund to impede the ability of UBS to collect on its judgment?

A. Among other things, that's the allegation, yes.

Q. Now, what I'd asked you to look at -- and we sent it up -- there is a chart that was in one of the UBS pleadings. It shows the recipient and the market value of assets.

Do you have that in front of you?

J. SEERY

A. No.

Q. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: It's the first e-mail that I sent to you this morning, Jim. I think it's one of the three documents in the first e-mail that I sent to you.

THE WITNESS: Hold on.

I want to make sure I open the right e-mail, John. Is that 9:07? Or was there a --

MR. MORRIS: That sounds right.

A. What am I looking for, Mr. Draper?

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) There's a chart that's there. Do you see it?

A. Of the recipient market values?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. If you note in there, it says MultiStrat entities, which implies two entities or more than one. Do you know what entities are referred to here?

A. I don't recall. I thought that the credit fund was the recipient. The MultiStrat credit fund has 10, 12 entities at least in it.

Q. Do you know how much of the

J. SEERY

25,000,782 was transferred to the settling party under the settlement agreement?

A. I believe all of it.

Q. So the reference to MultiStrat entities is incorrect, in essence that the $25 million should just go to the settling party?

A. No, the -- it could have been to one of its 100 percent owned and controlled subsidiaries.

Q. So again, do you know which went to the settling party versus one of its wholly-owned or controlled subsidiaries?

A. I don't recall specifically.

Q. Do you have any information in your list that is going to be provided to me that tells you who got what?

A. I don't know. I'd have to look back at the list. I'm not sure if there's specifics as to whether it went directly to the credit fund, which is the LP, or it went to one of its 100 percent owned SPVs, which were not really SPVs.

Q. When you say they're not really SPVs, can you give me the names of the entities you're talking about?

A. There's at least eight of them.

Q. Okay. And why do you say they're not SPVs?

A. Because they sometimes were used for more than one purpose.

Q. Okay. Where were these SPVs incorporated or set up?

A. Different places.

Q. Delaware?

A. I believe there's some Delaware.

Q. Caymans?

A. I believe there's some Caymans.

Q. And have you been able to track which assets went into what MultiStrat entity?

A. We certainly have had that information. I don't recall off the top of my head whether it went to one of those subs or whether it went directly to the credit fund.

MR. DRAPER: John, if you have that documentation -- I realize -- I'm not asking the witness to remember everything, but if there's documentation with respect to that, I'm entitled to that.

1 J. SEERY

2 MR. MORRIS: Okay. If we have it,
3 we'll give it to you.

4 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Now, with respect to 5 the assets that were transferred, I think earlier
6 you said that they were life settlement amount --
7 life settlement amounts? Life settlement claims?

8 A. No.

9 Q. Okay. What were the assets that were 10 transferred to MultiStrat?

11 A. Life settlement policies.

12 Q. Okay.

13 A. They were life policies.

14 Q. And so there would be a list of the 15 people? Or the policies; correct?

16 A. There would be a list of the policies
17 that -- the personal information is confidential.
18 And then there is a -- but it's available subject
19 to confidentiality agreements. And then there
20 were some CDO assets as well.

21 Q. Okay. What were the CDO assets that 22 were transferred?

23 A. There were a couple of CDO assets.
24 Off the top of my head, I don't recall the 25 specific assets that were transferred.

J. SEERY

Q. All right. Let me ask you a question. If you go to the May 2020 settlement agreement, there's a list of assets in that document.

A. Do I have that document in front of me?

MR. MORRIS: I think you just received an e-mail. Let me see if I can figure out -- at 10:23 with a zip file.

THE WITNESS: Got it.

MR. MORRIS: And then another one a few minutes after that.

So, Douglas, can you please describe the document again that you want the witness --

MR. DRAPER: Yes, it's the May 2020 settlement agreement execution version. I don't know if this is my Bates number or yours. It's UBS 407.

And let me read you the first few items on it, and that may help. There's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Class A Common Stock, OmniMax International Inc.

A. Those are the assets that are held by MultiStrat.

J. SEERY

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Okay. So do you know what was transferred? Do you have that list?

A. Life settlement policies and some CDO assets.

Q. Okay. Can I get a list of the CDO assets that were transferred?

A. We should be able to find that.

Q. Okay. Now, in connection with the valuation, the $25 million valuation that's in the UBS chart, do you know when that valuation was done?

A. I believe this was a valuation as of March 2009, by UBS's expert.

Q. And did Highland or MultiStrat do a valuation of the same assets as of that date?

A. I believe that Highland had the pleadings at the time.

Q. Do you have a copy of that valuation?

A. We would, yeah.

Q. What is the differential between the $25 million that UBS contains and the Highland valuation?

A. I don't recall off the top of my head. There was -- there were some differences and they were different amounts in the various valuations depending on the time they were done.

Q. Well, if this $25 million is March of 2009, I guess my question is, do you remember the extent of the differential? Is it 10 percent? 20 percent? 5 percent?

A. I don't recall. It's probably -- the variations are not huge, but I'm going to guess in the 10 percent-ish range.

Q. All right. Now, in this list also, the debtor received $17 million; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And is that -- what did it -- did it ever get cashed or something else?

A. I believe the debtor got CDO assets. I'd have to go back and look.

Q. Citibank?

A. I believe they also got assets.

Q. Are you aware of any claim against Citibank for the assets it received?

A. Yes.

Q. Who filed that claim?

A. I believe that UBS did. There was also litigation between the debtor and Citibank.

J. SEERY

Q. When did the litigation with the debtor and Citibank take place?

A. Ten years ago. Eight years ago.

Q. Did it relate to the assets that Citibank received?

A. There were a number of disputes between Citibank and the debtor that were litigated.

Q. Is it fair to say that the facts that give rise to the claim against MultiStrat is MultiStrat's receipt of the assets from these entities?

A. From which entities?

Q. From the entity -- from HFP as well as the two defendants in the Phase 1 case.

A. Yes. That's fair.

Q. And that had --

A. Or entities they control.

Q. Had MultiStrat not received any of the transfers, it wouldn't be a defendant; correct?

A. I don't know that. That's the basis of it, but UBS may have claimed something else.

J. SEERY

Q. Whereas the claim against the debtor is the debtor devised a scheme as opposed to receiving assets.

A. Among other things.

Q. And just so we're clear, the party transferring assets to MultiStrat was not the debtor. It's either the two defendant funds or HFP; correct?

A. The actual transferor, yes, that's correct.

Q. Is it your contention that the actual transferor was an alter ego of the debtor?

A. That's UBS's contention.

Q. No, I'm asking you if you have that contention also.

A. I was a defendant. I didn't have a contention.

Q. Well, let me ask the question in a different way.

As the debtor, right now, do you believe the assets of MultiStrat and these other entities are the assets of Highland?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

J. SEERY

A. Yeah, I think the question is a bit misplaced, but I think there's material risk that Highland and in particular your client, Mr. Dondero, controlled a scheme with other officers of Highland to defraud both Highland and UBS, and that scheme certainly ran over to defrauding investors in MultiStrat, including Highland.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Let me ask the question a different way, because you didn't answer my question. And you may not have understood it.

What I'm asking you, you're representing -- you're the debtor; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You're also going to be the reorganized debtor once the plan goes effective; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Is it your contention that the assets of the funds as well as MultiStrat are in fact the assets of the debtor or the reorganized debtor under a theory of single business enterprise or alter ego?

J. SEERY

MR. MORRIS: Objection, asked and answered.

A. That is not my contention, no.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Okay. Great.

Now, let me ask you a question.

As -- you're the investment manager of MultiStrat; correct?

A. No.

Q. The debtor is?

A. Correct.

Q. Is it your belief that the actions of the debtor as investment manager are subject to the rules and regulations contained in the Investment Advisor Act?

A. Yes.

Q. And, in fact, the limited partnership agreement for MultiStrat refers to the Investment Advisor Act.

Have you reviewed that document?

A. I have.

Q. And is my statement correct?

A. I believe so. I'd have to go back and check. Do you have a specific reference?

Q. Okay.

J. SEERY

Do you consider the Investment Advisor Act to be something -- there's a term in the documents, it says otherwise prescribed by applicable law.

Does the Investment Advisor Act in fact require the investment advisor to do certain things?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the extent it calls for a legal conclusion.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Is it your understanding?

MR. MORRIS: Objection, vague.

A. I don't know the phrase that you're referring to. Applicable law typically would have been some -- referring to something else. So I'm not sure what you're asking.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) I'll ask it in a different way.

Is it your view or your understanding that as the investment advisor for MultiStrat, the Investment Advisor Act requires that you take or that the investment advisor take certain actions that may not be prescribed by the documents such as the limited partnership agreement or the investment management agreement?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the extent it calls for a legal conclusion and vague and ambiguous.

A. I believe the Investment Advisor Act actually prohibits certain actions. It doesn't necessarily give a prescription for what you are supposed to do, but it outlines a way that -- and a set of rules of which you are required to adhere.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Great. Do you know what entity regulates the Investment Advisor Act?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. No entity regulates the Investment Advisor Act.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Well, let me put it -- who oversees its enforcement?

A. The SEC.

Q. Okay. That's fine.

In fact, the debtor and you in this settlement agreement are representing two parties; correct? Both MultiStrat and Highland, the debtor; correct?

J. SEERY

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. I am an officer of the debtor. The debtor is the manager of MultiStrat.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Let me state it in a different way, though.

The -- there is a legal differentiation between the debtor and MultiStrat; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And they're two separate legal entities?

A. Correct.

Q. They are co-defendants in a single lawsuit.

A. Yes.

Q. And that, in reality, the goal of each one of them is to pay as little as possible to UBS.

A. I don't know if it's fair to say that's the goal. I think that oftentimes entities like to pay as little as possible, but when entities have stolen or done damage, oftentimes they'll settle them for a fair amount.

J. SEERY

And if that fair amount is easy to determine,
it's not for the entity or the entity's responsibility or even a fiduciary's responsibility to try to steal from a counterparty.

Q. That's -- my question is a different question.

When you have co-defendants, the goal of one defendant is to pass the settlement amount or the larger portion of the liability onto the other defendant; correct?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. Not necessarily, no.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Mr. Seery, have you read the subscription agreement for MultiStrat?

A. I've looked at it. I don't think it's fair to say that I've read it.

Q. Let me read you a portion of it: And the general partner on behalf of the fund may elect to serve on a creditors committee, equity holders committee, or other group to ensure preservation or enhancement of the fund's position as a creditor or equity holder.

J. SEERY

A member of such committee or group may owe certain obligations generally to all parties similarly situated to the -- that the committee represents. If the general partner concludes that its obligations owed to the other parties as a committee or a group member conflict with the duties owed to the funds, it will resign from that committee or group and the fund may not realize the benefits, if any, of a participation on the committee or group.

Do you understand what I just read to you?

A. Yes.

Q. So here, looking at the hat that the debtor has, it's a fiduciary to the creditors of Highland; correct?

A. No. It's fiduciary to the estate.

Q. Okay. And that involves the creditors; correct?

A. It does.

Q. Now, with respect to its role as investment manager of MultiStrat, its fiduciary duty is to look out for the best interests of MultiStrat?

J. SEERY

A. Correct.

Q. Now, have you brought in an advisory group to look at what's in the best interest of MultiStrat with respect to the settlement?

A. We have counsel, yes.

Q. And the counsel is Pachulski; correct?

A. And WilmerHale.

Q. Okay. Has WilmerHale, on behalf of -- well, let me ask the question.

Has MultiStrat retained WilmerHale?

A. No.

Q. Has MultiStrat retained Pachulski?

A. No.

Q. The sole retention agreement between the parties, i.e., WilmerHale and Pachulski, is through the debtor; correct?

A. They each have their own agreements with the debtor.

Q. No, I understand that, but the debtor is the retaining party.

A. Correct.

Q. Now, in connection with the May 2020 settlement agreement, as well as the settlement agreement before this Court, who represented

J. SEERY

MultiStrat?

A. The investment manager.

Q. Well, there is a statement in the agreements that they were represented by counsel.
Who is the counsel that represented MultiStrat in connection with the two settlement agreements?

A. MultiStrat didn't have its own separate counsel for the -- for either of those agreements.

Q. So do you -- can you tell me why the agreements say that each party, MultiStrat being a party, has independent legal counsel?

A. The investment manager made the decisions on behalf of MultiStrat.

Q. No, it talks about independent counsel. So let's -- who was counsel for MultiStrat, and who was independent counsel for MultiStrat, or there was anyone?

A. Asked and answered, there was none.

Q. That's fine. So the statement in the settlement agreement is incorrect?

A. If you limit it to them having their own individual separate lawyer, then it would be incorrect.

J. SEERY

Q. What does the word "independent" mean to you?

A. Not affiliated.

Q. Okay. Now, let me ask a question about the settlement agreement before the Court, just so I understand what's meant and what's intended.

Can you please look at the settlement agreement before the Court? And what I'd call your attention to is paragraph C on page 5.

A. Is this a document that you guys have put in front of me?

MR. DRAPER: John?

MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry, I was taking a note. Which document are you referring to?

MR. DRAPER: The settlement agreement that's before the Court.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah, that's one of the e-mails that I sent to you this morning, Jim. Maybe 923.

THE WITNESS: Okay. It's attached to Mr. Feinstein's declaration?

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) What I'd ask you to look at is page 5.

A. Numbered page 5?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Paragraph (c).

A. Mm-hmm.

Q. So let me sort of set the table for this.

In connection with this settlement agreement, MultiStrat is paying $18,500,000 to UBS; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And there is, in the settlement agreement on page -- there's a release by Multi -- by UBS of claims against MultiStrat; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. There is no release, however, of claims by the debtor against MultiStrat.

A. Is that a question?

Q. Is that correct?

A. Yes, there's -- there is no such release, yes.

Q. And, in fact, in the retained claims section of your plan, the debtor has specifically retained its claims against MultiStrat.

J. SEERY

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, let's move on to page 5 of the settlement agreement.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) In the settlement agreement, it uses the term, and it requires HCMLP, the debtor, to: ... obtain rights to the MSCF interests, including but not limited to the redemption payments in connection with the MSCF interests.

What does that mean to you?

A. Can you point me to the provision you're talking about?

Q. Look at paragraph (c). Do you want to take a few minutes to read it, and it's --

A. It's two pages.

Q. Okay. Basically it says -- first of all, you're going to try to collect from Sentinel. And then it says if you can't collect from Sentinel, there's certain things that the debtor is going to do.

And one of the things it says, it says: ...in addition shall provide reasonable assistance to UBS in accordance with any legal action UBS takes to recover the insurance proceeds or to return the transferred assets to the fund to satisfy a Phase 1 judgment. Or -- it then goes on -- obtain rights to the MSCF interests, including but not limited to the redemption payments in connection with the MSCF interests.

What does that mean?

A. Can you point me to where you're reading from? In the --

Q. One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten. It's about nine or ten lines down in (c).

A. (c) (3) in the hole?

Q. Yes.

A. Okay.

Q. And it's before the three little Is. It's the sentence before that. So 2.

A. 2, Sentinel. Okay.

In addition shall provide reasonable assistance to UBS in connection with any action UBS takes to recover the insurance proceeds or to return the transferred assets to the funds to satisfy the Phase 1 judgment or obtain rights to the MSCF interests.

J. SEERY

Q. Right. Now, what we know is MultiStrat received assets from -- that UBS claims are improperly given and were fraudulent conveyances; correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And MultiStrat is paying $18.5 million to UBS. Also correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Does this also require MultiStrat to give back to UBS anything else it required?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. No.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) What does this sentence mean or what does this -- what is this obligation that's here insofar as it affects the MultiStrat investors and the assets held by MultiStrat?

A. The investors? Which investors?

Q. The investors in MultiStrat.

A. The limited partners. The current limited partners?

J. SEERY

Q. Yes.

A. I don't think this specific sentence or phrase affects the current limited partners.

Q. Well, doesn't it require MultiStrat -- or limiting distributions MultiStrat can make to its limited partners?

A. I don't believe it does, no.

Q. What does this sentence do, then?

A. It says that HCMLP is going to provide reasonable assistance to UBS to help recover on the insurance proceeds, or get the transferred assets that were stolen from the subsidiaries back to satisfy the Phase 1 judgment or to obtain rights to the MSCF interests.

Q. What are the MSCF interests?

A. They're defined above.

Q. And what are they?

A. They are the interests that are -- that were transferred to Sentinel. They're part of the stolen interests.

Q. All right. So this has nothing to do with the assets that -- and -- that MultiStrat has today.

A. No, it does have to do with the assets that MultiStrat has today.

J. SEERY

Q. What does it have to do with the assets that MultiStrat has today and the possibility that those assets are going to be used to pay UBS?

A. The settlement agreement requires $18.5 million to be paid to UBS.

Q. Right.

A. That's pretty clearly an asset of MultiStrat.

Q. Yes.

A. The settlement agreement also requires HCMLP to assist in certain recoveries related to the stolen assets, as well as with respect to the MSCF interests.

Q. Okay. Does it require the debtor to go after MultiStrat in order to help satisfy the UBS claim?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Well, then let's move down further.

If you'll look in -- and what I'm looking at is 4 in the hole.

As well as 5, 6, and 7. Doesn't it

1 J. SEERY

2 require the debtor to take certain actions or 3 file certain complaints or transfer certain
4 claims the debtor has to UBS?

5 MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry, where are you
6 referring to, Douglas?

7 MR. DRAPER: It's all in paragraph
8 (c).

9 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Okay.

10 A. No.

11 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Well, what about 7
12 in the hole?

13 A. You asked me about 4 and 5, correct?
14 So I'm getting to 7.

15 Q. No, I went past that.

16 A. Oh, okay. I think if we check the 17 transcript, you said 4 or 5, but we'll go to 7
18 now.

19 Okay.

20 Q. Doesn't it require the conveyance of 21 certain assets that may belong to the debtor to 22 UBS?

23 A. That may belong to the debtor?

24 Q. Yes.

25 A. If the debtor has assets that actually belong to UBS, you would transfer them to UBS, but this doesn't deal with that.

J. SEERY

Q. Well, it basically says cooperate with UBS to assign or convey any such assets described to UBS.

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. Correct. I said "Correct." That's what it says.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Okay. So it believes that there's a conveyance of debtor assets to UBS.

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. I'm sorry, it is a document. It doesn't believe anything. It's not sentient.

But the document says that we'll cooperate with UBS.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) It also says it will convey things to UBS.

A. The document says that, but the document doesn't convey. HCMLP will cooperate with UBS to assign or convey such assets described in the above section, which was 1(c), 6 in the hole, or any other assets owned or controlled by the funds; those are the funds that it had the assets stolen from them, or HFP, including for the avoidance of doubt, assets currently unknown to the debtor that we discover in the future, or more theft, which we, you know, seem to come across on a relatively regular basis.

Q. So if I understand this, what's happening here is the conveyance by a debtor is in its capacity as investment manager or general partner of those entities as opposed to the conveyance of the -- by the debtor of its own assets.

A. It will depend on the particular asset.

Q. So there may in fact be an instance where the debtor is conveying its own asset to UBS?

A. If it's not -- if it's not the debtor's assets and it was in fact stolen from a subsidiary that was a counterparty or a defendant to UBS against whom UBS had a judgment, we would convey those back over, yes.

1 J. SEERY

2 Q. Well, wait. But that conveyance in 3 that instance is in a representative capacity as 4 investment manager or general partner; correct?

5 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form.

6 A. You asked me if the -- yeah, you
7 asked me if the debtor had the assets and owned
8 the assets. That's different than in a
9 representative capacity.

10 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) No, I didn't ask that 11 at all, Mr. Seery. Let's start over.

12 A. Let's read the question again. Come
13 on, let's --

14 Q. No, let's not read the question.
15 Let's start over. I'll ask it in a better way.

16 A. That would be nice.

17 Q. Thank you.

18 There are three instances here. One
19 is the debtor can convey assets to UBS in a 20 representative capacity on behalf of the funds or 21 entities in which it's deemed investment manager
22 or general partner; correct?

23 A. Are we talking about generally or in 24 this 7 in the hole?

25 Q. Let's do generally.

J. SEERY

A. The debt -- if the debtor manages assets and it receives reasonably equivalent value, it can transfer assets from a fund it manages consistent with its investment management agreement.

Q. And now under this provision in this document, to the extent the debtor determines that there are assets in the funds that were stolen from UBS in its representative capacity as general partner -- general manager -- general partner or investment manager, it will convey those assets back to UBS; correct?

A. No. If they were stolen from the funds against whom UBS has a judgment, then the debtor would seek to return those to that fund so that UBS could collect against those assets.

Q. But what I'm trying to get at -- and what you're missing a step -- so we can go through this for a while -- is the debtor in that instant is acting as general partner and investment manager for those funds.

A. They may or may not be funds. You are conflating a whole bunch of different concepts. Certain of the companies are companies. They may or may not have an investment management. Certain others may be managed by the debtor as a general partner. Other -- and the general partner manages a limited partnership in a plenary fashion according to its limited partnership agreement, and they can satisfy creditors of that limited partnership.

The debtor also acts as an investment manager related to funds. It has authority under its investment management agreement to do certain things. Consistent with those things, if it was a fund, we would seek to transfer and satisfy this obligation. If it was a company that didn't have an investment management agreement but for whom we were the general partner and had management authority, we would seek to satisfy obligations that way.

Q. Okay. Now, under this provision, will the debtor be obligated to transfer its own assets as opposed to those it holds in a representative capacity to UBS?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form to the extent it calls for a legal conclusion.

J. SEERY

Document speaks for itself.

You can answer.

A. Potentially. I'd have to -- the paragraph in totality conceives of a number of assets that were stripped from these entities. If those assets ended up in the debtor and they were stripped out, I think we would have an obligation to return those to the entity against whom they were stripped from if we had not paid for them.

And then to the extent that entity had an obligation to UBS, we would seek to satisfy that obligation.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Okay. That's fine. Next, under (c)(3) in the hole, if you look: Cooperate with UBS and participate, in the investigation or prosecution of claims or request for injunctive relief against the funds; then you see MultiStrat there.

So doesn't this envision litigation against MultiStrat with respect to assets that it has?

A. No.

Q. Well, doesn't it say in here, prosecution of claims against MultiStrat?

J. SEERY

A. It says against a number of entities. I'm not -- claim against MultiStrat is being settled. If there are other assets, which we've talked about earlier, then they would -- they could be addressed in that cooperation provision.

Q. No, what it -- it doesn't only say cooperate. It also says participate as applicable in the prosecution of claims.

A. Yes, it says that.

Q. And doesn't this paragraph envision two things: One is UBS may prosecute claims against MultiStrat; and two, the debtor may prosecute claims against MultiStrat?

A. No, it does not envision that.

Q. Well, why is it they use the word "prosecution of claims" if it doesn't envision that?

A. There's a list of seven or eight different entities and people and then it has a further catchall at the end. Some of those are injunctive relief; we talked about it earlier.

Some of them will be direct claims.

Q. And so MultiStrat is included in that

1 J. SEERY

2 list of entities. I don't care about the others.
3 I care about MultiStrat.

4 A. MultiStrat is included in the list.

5 Q. Right. So in connection with this
6 paragraph (c), if UBS prosecutes claims against 7 MultiStrat, it's inconsistent with the release
8 that MultiStrat is getting in this document.

9 A. UBS is releasing MultiStrat. There
10 will be no inconsistency. It does not have other
11 claims against MultiStrat.

12 Q. Then isn't the language of 3 in a 13 hole: Cooperate with UBS and participate (as 14 applicable) in the prosecution of claims against 15 MultiStrat? If there's a release, why would UBS
16 be prosecuting claims against MultiStrat?

17 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of
18 the question.

19 A. Again, it's a litany of a number of 20 individuals --

21 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) No, I -- I don't
22 care about the other individuals. What I care
23 about is --

24 MR. MORRIS: The document says what
25 it says. You're arguing with the witness at this point. You can put that language in front of the judge and make the argument that you're making to Mr. Seery now.

J. SEERY

MR. DRAPER: Okay.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Now, can you explain to me the May 2020 settlement that you were a part of, what did that attempt to accomplish?

A. The May 2020 settlement?

Q. Yes.

And let me -- before you go, let me mark that as an exhibit to this deposition, as Exhibit 1.

(Seery Deposition Exhibit 1 marked.)

MR. DRAPER: And, John, we'll put that under seal.

MR. MORRIS: Yes, please. Thank you.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Okay, Mr. Seery, you can answer.

A. I'm not looking at the document, but the document provided for a settlement with UBS. UBS had filed a claim, which is the ultimate settlement we have here involving MultiStrat. MultiStrat in the ordinary course of its business was looking to sell certain life settlement policies, the proceeds of which would be used partially to satisfy a loan to, surprise, surprise, NexBank -- is another interrelated, you know, whatever, with your client.

We needed to sell those policies because your client had left MultiStrat in a terrible position without any cash and unable to satisfy the payment obligations. Those policies had a value of north of $30 million, and the challenge that we had is we didn't have cash to pay the premiums and they would expire worthless.

So UBS, having a claim against those assets, stood in the way of our being able to execute that transaction and certain of those assets were also pledged to, again, NexBank.

So that settlement permitted us to complete that sale of those assets, which was very advantageous to MultiStrat.

Q. All right. Let's talk about the settlement.

In looking at the settlement, $8.9 million went to MultiStrat to pay operating costs of the funds; correct?

A. I believe that's the right number.

J. SEERY

It's not in front of me, but if you're reading it, I'll --

Q. So in connection with that settlement, UBS agreed, and the debtor participated in it, that $8.9 million would go to MultiStrat for its use; correct?

A. If that's the amount. There were certain monies that were left, and there was a waterfall of money that went through to make sure MultiStrat had both cash to satisfy its then current obligations post the settlement -- or post the sale of the life policies. It had to be able to satisfy NexBank for the lien it had on the life settlement policies, and then, of course, NexBank held us up, so we had to reserve a sufficient amount to make sure we could service NexBank over the next year until the maturity of the NexBank loan.

Q. All right. Now, let's break this up.

Who was the borrower that NexBank made a loan to?

A. MultiStrat.

Q. And that's the $15.8 million, if you want to look on page 3 of the document.

1 J. SEERY

2 A. I don't have the document in front of 3 me. Where did this one come in? Is that in the 4 zip?

5 MR. DRAPER: John?

6 MR. MORRIS: Yes. I'm sorry, I was
7 on mute.

8 THE WITNESS: I was having trouble
9 pulling up the zip. I could pull up the 10 document.

11 For some reason I had trouble, John,
12 opening that zip file.

13 Do you recall which number it is?
14 There's 20 documents in here.

15 MR. MORRIS: What's the exact title
16 of it, Douglas?

17 MR. DRAPER: It's the May 2020,
18 May 11, 2020 settlement agreement that you
19 produced for me. It's the last document in the 20 material that you gave me.

21 THE WITNESS: Is it one of these
22 Bates numbered documents?

23 MR. DRAPER: I have -- it's 395
24 through -- I may have different Bates numbers
25 than John.

J. SEERY

THE WITNESS: That's correct.

MR. MORRIS: That's the right

document.

So if you look at -- try and open up the second e-mail that I sent to you, Jim.

THE WITNESS: May 20th. I've got it.

MR. MORRIS: Go ahead, Douglas.

MR. DRAPER: If you look on page 3, is $15.8 million going to NexBank Life's -- NexBank; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) And that was a loan from NexBank to MultiStrat?

A. Correct.

Q. Then there's 1.7 going to the debtor.

A. Correct.

Q. And that is in connection with a loan by the debtor to MultiStrat?

A. A post-petition loan, correct.

Q. Was court approval sought for that post-petition loan?

A. No.

Q. And so the debtor transferred its own assets to a wholly-owned -- to a subsidiary?

J. SEERY

A. Correct.

Q. Was that authorized in the protocols?

A. It was approved by the committee.

Q. Was it approved by the Court?

A. You already asked me that, I said no.

Q. No, I'm talking about the settlement.

That's what I'm talking about. I'm talking about this loan of a million seven?

A. That's what you just asked me two questions ago, and I said no.

Q. Okay. Then you have money going to MultiStrat of $8.9 million.

A. Correct.

Q. And then you have $10.1 million being set aside in an escrow account.

A. Correct.

Q. And what was the -- there was a two-year hold on the escrow account being released?

A. Yeah, I'd have to go in and look at the specific terms, but that sounds correct.

Q. And the release of that did not go to the limited partners of MultiStrat; correct?

It couldn't be used to make

J. SEERY

distributions to them.

A. It was in escrow.

Q. No, I understand that, but after the escrow -- after the escrow, it couldn't go out.

A. I think after the escrow, it would be subject -- it could go wherever it was appropriate to go, but it wouldn't go to the limited partners, no. Because there's $89 million of unredeemed nonpartner -- they're now treated not with partners, but they're nonredeemed because the debtor prepetition just decided not to pay those people back.

Q. Wait. I don't understand what you just said.

A. It couldn't go to the limited partners.

Q. It couldn't go to the MultiStrat limited partners?

A. No.

Q. So there are no distributions that can be made ever to the MultiStrat limited partners?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

1 J. SEERY

2 A. No, not until the redeemed interests
3 are satisfied.

4 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) So there's 5 $89 million of MultiStrat redemptions that are 6 unpaid?

7 A. Correct.

8 Q. All right. Do you have a list of 9 those people?

10 A. Yes.

11 MR. DRAPER: Could I have that, John?

12 MR. MORRIS: Sure.

13 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Have those people
14 been notified that the $18 million -- eighteen
15 five is being paid to UBS by MultiStrat?

16 A. No.

17 Q. Now, how did the eighteen five 18 number -- settlement number be -- get arrived at?
19 Because it's sort of looking coincidental that 20 MultiStrat got 9 million, there's $10 million set
21 aside and, you know, the true numbers are roughly 22 equivalent.

23 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of 24 the question, if there was one.

25 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Mr. Seery, did you

1 J. SEERY

2 negotiate the $18.5 million number?

3 A. I was part of negotiating it, yes.

4 Q. How was the number arrived at?

5 A. It was arrived at by negotiation.

6 Q. Okay. Is it a coincidence that the 7 two numbers, the escrow and the money MultiStrat
8 received from the May 2020 settlement and the 9 settlement number are pretty close to each other?

10 A. I don't understand the question
11 you're asking.

12 Q. In May 2020, there's $10 million set
13 aside in escrow.

14 A. Yes.

15 Q. And there is $9 million going to
16 MultiStrat.

17 A. Correct.

18 Q. In the settlement, there is 19 $18.5 million going to UBS from MultiStrat.

20 A. Yes.

21 Q. So the two numbers are within 22 $500,000 of each other.

23 A. You mean if you add 8.9 million and 24 10.1 million, and then you compare it to the 25 18.5, is that --

J. SEERY

Q. Right.

A. They have nothing to do with each other.

Q. That's fine. That was my question.

And again, the statement in the settlement that was independent counsel is incorrect vis-à-vis MultiStrat.

A. Which --

Q. Or at least it didn't -- MultiStrat didn't have independent counsel in connection with this one either.

A. MultiStrat did not have its own independent counsel, no.

Q. Great.

MR. MORRIS: Douglas, could I trouble you for a break at an appropriate time?

MR. DRAPER: Oh, no, that's fine.

MR. MORRIS: Not right at this moment but whenever it's convenient.

MR. DRAPER: No, I'm at a breaking point, John.

MR. MORRIS: We just -- my time is 11:23. Can we just come back in seven minutes? Or --

1 J. SEERY

2 MR. DRAPER: Take 10. Take 15.

3 MR. MORRIS: Okay, let's just make it

4 11:35 Eastern Time.

5 MR. DRAPER: Great.

6 (Recess taken, 11:23 a.m. to

7 11:36 a.m. EDT)

8 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Mr. Seery, you
9 mentioned something that struck me. You said
10 that the -- in exchange for the transfer of the 11 assets to MultiStrat, the consideration that the 12 transferor received was the cancellation of a
13 note. Is that correct?

14 A. I'm sorry, you're going back to --
15 we're off the 2020, we're going back to 2009?

16 Q. I'm going back to a question that I
17 asked earlier, yes.

18 A. Okay.

19 Q. And I think your testimony was that 20 in exchange for the assets that were transferred 21 to MultiStrat that UBS contends were fraudulently
22 transferred, the transferor was excused from a
23 note that it owed to MultiStrat; correct?

24 A. Yeah, it was called the note unwind
25 transaction. That's correct.

J. SEERY

Q. Okay. Did you happen to undertake any due diligence or investigation as to whether the note -- whether there was consideration for the issuance of the note?

A. Yes.

Q. And you concluded that there was no asset -- there was -- nothing gave rise to the note?

A. No.

Q. So in exchange -- in content -- in -- with respect to the note, what did the maker of the note receive?

A. The maker of the note received the assets.

Q. Okay. Let me sort of unpack that.

So at some point there was a note issued where the -- where HFP, or the -- executed a note in favor of MultiStrat; correct?

A. I'm sorry. I'm blown away.

Q. Okay. Then let's start all over again.

A. I'm blown away that you don't know this.

There was a -- and don't -- let's just -- we can leave that. I mean, some preparation would be appreciated.

There was a note in 2009 that's the underlying part of this transaction. MultiStrat transferred assets to HFP at the direction and control of Dondero. In exchange it gave a note. Eventually that was unwound in something that they called the note unwind transaction, and that was -- the assets were given back, and the note was unwound.

Q. Okay. Now let's -- let me ask the question.

In exchange for the assets that were transferred by MultiStrat to HFP in exchange for the note, did those assets have value or were they illusory?

A. They had value.

Q. What was the value of those assets that were transferred to HFP in exchange for the note?

A. I don't have it off the top of my head.

Q. Were the -- was there a reasonably equivalent value in exchange -- exchanged between the two parties?

J. SEERY

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question to the extent it calls for a legal conclusion.

A. That really depends on whether the note was good, the provisions relating to the note. So it --

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) I'm just looking at the assets that were transferred. If -- for example, if I give you a pen and you execute a note to me for $10 million, we know it's not a good transfer. But if I give you $10 million or give you $10 million of MGM stock and you execute a note, then that's a fair transaction; correct?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. It totally depends.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) What does it depend on? I'm giving you $10 million of MGM stock and you're giving me a note. What --

A. It can depend on a ton of things.

Q. Okay. Have you done an analysis as to the reasonable equivalence of the consideration given to HFP in exchange for the note?

J. SEERY

A. We did look at it, yes.

Q. And who looked at it, and was it your conclusion that it was fair value, not fair value, what was the value given in exchange for the note? What was the dollar value?

A. The dollar value was similar to the value of the note. There were a number of other questions around the note and then the unwind.

Q. Okay. So let's go to the unwind. In the unwind, the note goes back to get satisfied, and in exchange MultiStrat receives insurance policies; correct?

A. That's the argument, correct.

Q. Now, is that why initially your settlement with UBS was for a lower dollar figure, and then -- correct? That was announced by the Court -- to the Court in February of 2021.

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. That's not correct.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Okay. Didn't you have an earlier settlement figure with Multi -- with UBS that was less than the settlement figure

1 J. SEERY

2 that you have today?

3 A. HCMLP did, yes.

4 Q. Okay. What was the reason for the 5 increase?

6 A. Of the HCMLP?

7 Q. Settlement amount.

8 A. Correct. We uncovered a massive
9 fraud committed by Dondero, Ellington, Leventon,
10 Sevilla, DiOrio. I mean, it's 300 million face
11 amount of securities related to transfers out of 12 HFP and its subsidiaries and CDO Fund.

13 Q. Okay. So what you believe, then, is 14 the amount was increased to take into account
15 that the debtor's participation in the scheme was 16 greater than you had originally believed?

17 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of
18 the question.

19 A. No, that's incorrect.

20 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Tell me what's wrong
21 with that.

22 A. We didn't know about the scheme at 23 all.

24 Q. No, I understand that. That, I
25 understand you didn't know. You ultimately

1 J. SEERY

2 learned --

3 Mr. Seery, the faces don't work.

4 A. Do you know what? Can you read back
5 the question? You asked me if my belief was 6 that -- we increased our belief that we were more
7 involved in the scheme than we knew before. We 8 didn't know about the scheme.

9 Can you be precise? Can you do a 10 little bit of work before you get to the 11 deposition, just a little bit so you don't waste
12 everybody's time? Sorry, everybody.

13 Q. You know what? It's unprofessional
14 and it's unwarranted.

15 A. No, it --

16 Q. Just answer my questions. Here's my
17 question --

18 A. You are being unprofessional.

19 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry, John.

20 MR. MORRIS: Jim, all right, Jim.
21 Let's get this done.

22 Go ahead, Mr. Draper.

23 THE WITNESS: I'm good.

24 Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) All right. You
25 learned -- you had an original settlement with

J. SEERY

UBS for -- and I'm talking about you, "you" being Highland, the debtor, had an original settlement amount that you in fact announced to the Court; correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. All right. That amount ultimately got increased.

A. Correct.

Q. The increase was due to the fact that you uncovered a massive fraud that you felt warranted a greater recovery to UBS.

A. Not correct.

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

Why don't you just ask him why did you increase it?

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Why did you increase the amount, Mr. Seery?

A. We thought the -- we uncovered significant evidence of a fraud that put the estate at significantly more risk.

Q. Right. So, in fact, the amount of the assets that were transferred out were greater than you had originally thought.

J. SEERY

A. Incorrect.

MR. MORRIS: Object to the form of the question.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) What does the fraud have to do with the increase in the amount?

A. I'd go with asked and answered, but we thought that --

MR. DRAPER: Look, Mr. Morris can make that objection.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah, let him finish.

A. When we uncovered the fraud, we believed that that evidence significantly increased the risk to the estate of a larger judgment or claim ultimately found against the estate in favor of UBS.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) That's because the estate -- I'm not talking about the estate -- the former management of the debtor had significantly moved additional assets away from UBS and their ability to collect on their judgment; correct?

A. Completely different set of facts, but the reason was because we uncovered this fraud that related to UBS's defendants, and we believed that that significantly increased our

1 J. SEERY

2 risk of an adverse finding and an adverse
3 amount -- and a higher amount.

4 Q. Right. Because the amount of the 5 scheme to move assets away from them was greater
6 than you had originally anticipated.

7 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of
8 the question.

9 A. Incorrect.

10 MR. MORRIS: If I may, Douglas, it's 11 a completely different transaction, so every time
12 you use the word "increase," I'm going to object
13 and Jim's going to tell you that you're not --

14 MR. DRAPER: Okay.

15 MR. MORRIS: It's a new -- we 16 discovered a new transaction. So it's not an 17 increase. It's not -- it changed the risk
18 profile because we uncovered a new fraud.

19 MR. DRAPER: Right. Understand what 20 I'm saying. So it may be -- what I'm saying is 21 you uncovered one fraud for, let's say,
22 $100 million. You then uncovered a new fraud for 23 $200 million. So, in fact, the total fraud
24 amount was $300 million. That's -- "a new fraud"
25 just means they moved additional assets.

J. SEERY

MR. MORRIS: Yeah, but it's --

THE WITNESS: They're unrelated.

MR. MORRIS: They're completely separate.

THE WITNESS: They're completely separate things.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) All right. Can you explain to me what the new fraud you uncovered was that gave rise to increasing the amount of the claim?

A. Yes, we uncovered the fact that HFP,
CDO Fund, SOHC and their direct subsidiaries in the two different lines had significant assets.

And in 2017, when the walls were caving in on Highland and Mr. Dondero, from the credit Strat lawsuit, Redeemer lawsuit, UBS's successful summary judgment motion, ultimately Terry began his litigations later. Dougherty had begun litigations. He decided to direct the team to strip the assets, 300 million face amount of securities out of those subsidiaries and away from UBS who had a claim against those entities.

Q. Right. So, in fact, assets were moved out of entities that could previously have answered to any judgment.

J. SEERY

A. Correct.

Q. And that is the reason for the increase in the amount of the UBS claim.

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. Yes.

MR. DRAPER: Okay. That's fine.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Now, in connection with the defenses and the analysis of your defenses to the UBS claim, was a large presentation made to the board of the debtor with respect to the ultimate liability?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. We had many, many presentations to the board of the debtor regarding the risk and the ultimate liability.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Did you in fact tell creditors that UBS really didn't have a claim against the debtor and that you had dealt with a lot of warehouse agreements and that, you know, you believed that there was no liability?

A. I didn't say that.

J. SEERY

Q. What did you say?

A. UBS clearly had a claim against the debtor. They filed it. My belief was that UBS was not entitled to recover against the debtor because of the structure of the agreement and my extensive conversations with the in-house legal team at Highland and Mr. Dondero and how that structure related to those claims.

Q. And what I also gather from what you are saying or implicit in what you are saying is what they told you was incorrect?

A. That is correct. What they told me was incorrect.

Q. That's fair.

Now, with respect to the bankruptcy court approval that you're seeking, who required that the MultiStrat limited partners part of the transaction be brought before the bankruptcy court?

A. Certainly we did, the debtor.

Q. Now, you haven't brought before the bankruptcy court other transactions involving nondebtors. You haven't brought --

A. That's not correct.

J. SEERY

Q. You haven't brought before -- sales of nondebtor assets before the bankruptcy court, have you?

A. That's incorrect.

Q. What sale of a nondebtor asset did you bring before the bankruptcy court?

A. Post-petition, Mr. Dondero ill-advisedly sold 1.7 million shares of our -- of MGM out of RCP. He did that transaction by attempting to steal from underlying investors, by buying from them at 67.50 and selling it to MGM where he sits on the board and knowing that he had that trade at 72.50. For reference to stock trades around 102 right now, one -- par to 101, 102 right now. So that's about a $55 million fiduciary duty breach by Mr. Dondero.

We brought that transaction in front of the bankruptcy court because there was significant exposure as manager, as Mr. Dondero had control of the entity at that time, and the Court ultimately approved the transaction to sell the stock but not to rip off the underlying investors in RCP.

Q. Right. Now, in fact, though, there are other transactions that you've not brought before the bankruptcy court; correct?

A. Each one depends on the circumstances with respect to the particular transaction, yes.

Q. And, in fact, the May 2020 agreement, you did not bring before the bankruptcy court?

A. No, we did not.

Q. And, in fact, you have not filed your 30 -- your bankruptcy rule requirements with respect to what's going on in the subsidiaries, have you?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to form.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) The 2015 -- Bankruptcy Rule 2015.3, have you filed any reports?

A. We've filed innumerable reports.

Q. No, have you filed the reports of the underlying subsidiaries in compliance with Bankruptcy Rule 2015.3?

A. I don't believe we've filed those reports, no.

Q. And, in fact, that was brought to your attention in February, and you said it slipped through the cracks; correct?

J. SEERY

A. I believe I said something to that effect, yes.

Q. Have you done anything to rectify what slipped through the cracks since then?

A. With respect to those filings?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. If in fact the Court does not approve the MultiStrat portion of the settlement, does the entire UBS settlement fall?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question. Calls for a legal conclusion.

A. I don't know the answer to that. That would be a legal conclusion. We can go through the document.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) Don't you in fact possibly have the authority under the general partnership agreements under the investment manager agreement to do this without bankruptcy court approval on behalf of MultiStrat?

A. Did you say "potentially"?

Q. Don't you believe you have the authority to do it without bankruptcy court approval?

J. SEERY

MR. MORRIS: Object to the form of the question.

Go ahead.

A. Yeah, I think this was a -- this was a more difficult call because it's a material exercise of the debtor's property right as the manager to settle this claim, and I think it's appropriate to bring it before the Court.

Q. (BY MR. DRAPER) In fact, though, didn't you cite to the Court cases that say, look, the debtor's property right is only the right to manage the asset and it's not the right to control the underlying assets that the asset has?

A. I don't think that's what those cases
say. I don't think you're correct.

Q. I suggest you -- you do your due diligence and read the case as cited by Pachulski in connection with the judgment motion.

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, and please don't speak to my client and my witness that way. Thank you.

MR. DRAPER: Notwithstanding the fact that it's gone the other way?

1 J. SEERY

2 MR. MORRIS: Excuse me. You're --
3 that's what comes -- that's what you -- that's 4 the job that you and I get to do. And that's
5 the -- that's what we have to take. The client
6 is --

7 MR. DRAPER: Oh, I understand that,
8 John.

9 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I know.

10 MR. DRAPER: I've done this --

11 MR. MORRIS: I've taken my bullets
12 too.

13 MR. DRAPER: That's fine. All right.
14 I have nothing further.

15 MR. MORRIS: Okay. I appreciate
16 that, Douglas.

17 Is there anybody from the Bonds Ellis
18 firm on the line?

19 MR. DRAPER: No.

20 MR. MORRIS: Okay. We've got no
21 questions.

22 So, Douglas, I will follow up and try
23 to get to you the various documents that you've 24 asked for. I've tried to take notes. If there's 25 any way that you or any colleague who might be on the line could send us a list so that I don't miss anything, that would be appreciated.

J. SEERY

MR. DRAPER: Great. All right.
Thank you.

MS. POSIN: We would like a copy of the transcript, yes. Whenever the debtor gets it, we would like a copy concurrently, please.

MR. DRAPER: Our hearing is what, Friday?

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

MR. DRAPER: When can you get it to me?

COURT REPORTER: The transcript will be prepared in probably an hour, hour and a half.

MR. DRAPER: That's fine. I'm good, then.

COURT REPORTER: You want it today?

MR. DRAPER: Yes.

Seery - Direct/Hayward

65

1 fiduciary duties to the estate in the opening statement. Do
2 you think that by presenting this motion the debtor -- does
3 this motion contemplate protecting the fiduciary duties that 4 the debtor owes to the estate?

5 A To me, it absolutely does. But to be fair, I think that 6 the rhetorical flair and opening remarks and missing the duties
7 to the estate, we're very conscious as a board of our duties to 8 the estate. We're also very conscious of our duties as an 9 asset manager. And what is in the pleadings is absolutely the 10 case, it's been -- it's my experience, my understanding of the 11 law, and it's being confirmed by both Cayman counsel, and by 12 fund counsel in the U.S. separate from bankruptcy counsel.

13 We owe a duty under the Advisor's Act to the funds
14 and to the investors in those funds. That duty actually 15 supercedes the benefit to the estate, but it doesn't undercut
16 it because by vindicating the duty to the funds, you actually 17 vindicate the duty to the estate. If you create liability at 18 the funds, it will roll to the estate. So by exercising your 19 duty correctly, you do in fact, vindicate the duty of the 20 estate.

21 And what's important in the Advisor's Act, and it's 22 an interesting part of U.S. law. At least my understanding,
23 it's been confirmed by outside counsel, is if the manager,
24 which would be Highland, has an interest, it's actually 25 required to subordinate that interest to the interest of the

Seery - Direct/Hayward

66

1 investors in the funds it managed. And it makes sense.

2 If you have funds invested in a fund with an outside
3 investor, you want to make sure that that investor is not --
4 that manager is not using your funds to aggrandize itself as 5 opposed to looking out for your best interest. And so, I think
6 by vindicating our obligations with respect to the funds, we 7 actually enhance our obligations with respect to the estate.

8 Q Let's talk a little bit about the funds now. So
9 originally, the motion pertained to three different funds.
10 Could you just briefly explain to the Court the status of those 11 funds and how they got there?

12 A Yeah. I'll try to go quickly, and if I skip something or 13 I go too quickly, Your Honor, please let me know.

14 The Highland Dynamic Fund, which is the primary one
15 we're talking about now, I think you'll see at the end of Tab 1
16 how it's set up right before Tab 2. And I haven't looked at 17 these exhibits in a long time, so I apologize. I didn't know I
18 was getting this. But it's really straightforward.

19 These funds are set up, and this is a pretty typical 20 structure. It's a limited partnership structure. It's got a 21 master feeder structure. And what does that mean? The master
22 is the main fund. That's the King Exemptive Limited
23 Partnership at the bottom.

24 It's fed by two feeders, a domestic feeder and an
25 offshore feeder. Why is it done that way? Purely tax.

24 Proceedings recorded by electronic sound recording;
25 transcript produced by transcription service.

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - MAY 21, 2021 - 8:57 A.M.

2           (Proceedings called to order at 8:57 a.m. Counsel
3 appearances made by Robert Feinstein and Jeffrey Pomerantz for 4 the Debtors; by Andrew Clubok and Kimberly Posin for UBS
5 Securities; by Douglas Draper for Dugaboy Trust; and by Clay
6 Taylor and Bryan Assink for James Dondero. Andrew Clubok
7 announced stipulated agreement on admission of parties'
8 exhibits. Audio recording begins at 9:10 a.m.)

9           THE COURT: All right.

10          MR. DRAPER: This is Douglas Draper.

11          THE COURT: Okay.

12          MR. DRAPER: I'm sorry. I have no objection, just so
13 the record is clear.

14          (Interruption.)

15          MR. DRAPER: I think the agreement is I will 16 stipulate for the Debtors' exhibits and the Debtors can 17 stipulate with respect to my exhibits, that all of these are 18 in solely for purposes of this hearing today.

19          THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. So, the UBS exhibits,
20 which are at Docket Entry 2336, are admitted by stipulation.

21          (UBS's exhibits at Docket Entry 2336 are received into 22 evidence.)

23          THE COURT: And let's talk about where everyone
24 else's appear. I just want to double-check, because sometimes 25 amendments are filed.

1 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, this is John Morris for the 2 Debtor.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MR. MORRIS: So the Debtors' exhibit list appears at 5 Docket 2331.

6 THE COURT: All right.

7 MR. MORRIS: And after conferring with Mr. Draper, we 8 do -- we do have an agreement that all of the exhibits will 9 come in, with the following exception.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: The Debtor is not going to offer into 12 evidence Exhibits 41 to 64.

13 THE COURT: I'm sorry.

14 MR. MORRIS: They were just --

15 THE COURT: I didn't hear the first number you said.

16 MR. MORRIS: 41. Four-one.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. MORRIS: Through 64. They were mistakenly
19 included.

20 THE COURT: Okay. 41 through 64 are not being 21 offered?

22 MR. MORRIS: Correct. But the Debtor is offering and 23 I think Mr. -- I think the Objectors have no objection to the 24 introduction into evidence of Exhibits 1 through 40 and 65
25 through 73.

1 THE COURT: All right. Anyone disagree there's a
2 stipulation on those?

3 MR. TAYLOR: No, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: All right. So Debtors' Exhibits 1
5 through 40 and 65 through 73 are admitted, and they are at 6 Docket Entry 2331.

7 (Debtors' Exhibits 1 through 40 and 65 through 73 are 8 received into evidence.)

9 THE COURT: All right. Next?

10 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor?

11 THE COURT: Mr. Draper, you were going to tell me
12 where your exhibits are. (No response.) Mr. Draper, are you
13 on mute?

14 THE CLERK: He is, Judge.

15 THE COURT: Yes. You're on mute.

16 MR. DRAPER: Can you hear me now?

17 THE COURT: Yes.

18 MR. DRAPER: Okay. Thank you. I apologize. This 19 technology stuff is a little bit beyond me. I'm too old for 20 this. My documents are in Supplemental Exhibit List 2339.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. DRAPER: And it's Exhibits 1 through 29.

23 THE COURT: All right. Anyone have any disagreement
24 about those? (No response.) All right.

25 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor? Your Honor, this is John

1 Morris.

2 THE COURT: Go ahead.

3 MR. MORRIS: I apologize. I don't have the exhibit
4 in front of me, but I think Mr. Draper's last exhibit is an
5 excerpt of a transcript, and I forgot to reach out to him to 6 ask what the transcript is from and could we possibly put the 7 whole transcript in the record so that I could see the context
8 in which the proffered testimony is being offered.

9 MR. DRAPER: I have no problem --

10 MR. MORRIS: Other than that --

11 MR. DRAPER: I have no problem with that.

12 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Other than that, the Debtor has 13 no objections.

14 THE COURT: All right.

15 MR. DRAPER: And Your Honor, just --

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. DRAPER: Just for the record, that's from Docket
18 571.

19 THE COURT: Okay. So the full transcript is at 20 Docket 571?

21 MR. DRAPER: Yes.

22 THE COURT: Okay. So the Trust's Exhibits 1 through 23 29, which appear at Docket Entry 2339, are all admitted, but 24 we'll supplement, I guess you're saying it's Exhibit 29, an 25 excerpt --

1 MR. DRAPER: Yes, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: -- excerpt from a transcript, with the 3 full transcript, which appears at Docket Entry 571. Okay.

4 (Dugaboy Investment Trust's Exhibits 1 through 29 are 5 received into evidence as supplemented.)

6 THE COURT: Any Dondero exhibits?

7 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor. They are found at 8 2330. And they are actually all pleadings in this case, so we 9 -- I don't believe there's any objection from any party as to 10 their admission.

11 THE COURT: All right. Anyone want to speak up on 12 that? Okay. So, --

13 MR. MORRIS: No objection from the Debtor.

14 THE COURT: So it looks like there are Exhibits 1
15 through 72; is that correct? Or 73. 73.

16 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, I'm looking at 2330. We 17 actually --

18 THE COURT: Oh, wait, wait, wait. I'm sorry. I'm 19 sorry. I'm looking at the wrong one. Go back.

20 MR. TAYLOR: I think you were looking at the 21 Debtors', maybe.

22 THE COURT: I was. I was. So let me go back.

23 MR. TAYLOR: We have ours A through X. We were 24 trying to keep it different, --

25 THE COURT: Thank you.

1 MR. TAYLOR: -- since they had numbers.

2 THE COURT: Okay. A through X at 2330 are admitted
3 as Dondero's exhibits. All right.

4 (Dondero's Exhibits A through X are received into
5 evidence.)

6 THE COURT: Well, let's go to closing -- I mean,
7 opening. Wow, my brain was way ahead. Let's hear opening
8 statements, please. So, --

9 (Interruption.)

10 THE COURT: All right. I don't know what I'm 11 hearing. If you're -- please put your device on mute if 12 you're not the one talking. All right.

13 Mr. Feinstein, would you like to go first?

14 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. FEINSTEIN: Thank you, Your Honor. Good morning.

17 Just a bit of housekeeping, Your Honor, just to let you
18 know how we intend to proceed today. We plan on presenting 19 our opening argument. I believe UBS has opening argument as 20 well. I would then turn to deal with certain documents that 21 have just been admitted into evidence. And we have 22 demonstratives to bring out what those documents signify in 23 terms of the Multi-Strat co-authority issue. And then we 24 intend to put on Mr. Seery for direct examination and 25 obviously present him for cross.

1           My review of the witness statements from the Objectors,
2   Your Honor, they listed Mr. Seery as a witness and Dugaboy
3   Trust listed, quote, a representative of the trust that they
4   may call, but they didn't name anybody, so that's -- that 5   wasn't particularly helpful. And no other witnesses. So it
6   could very well be that Mr. Seery is our only witness today.
7   With that, Your Honor, I'm ready to proceed.

8           THE COURT: All right.

9           OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTORS

10          MR. FEINSTEIN: So, Your Honor, we are obviously very 11   pleased to be here today to present a motion to settle the UBS
12   matter pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019. And also we've 13   sought authority, pursuant to Section 363 of the Bankruptcy
14   Code, for Highland Capital, as the investment manager of 15   Multi-Strat, to have its decision to act on Multi-Strat's
16   behalf and settle the claim against it that's part of the UBS
17   state court litigation also approved by the Court.

18          I want to note that we're not seeking the Court's approval
19   of the Multi-Strat settlement so much as, if you will,
20   blessing the Debtors' conduct, arguably outside the ordinary 21   course of business, acting as investment manager for Multi-22   Strat, to settle litigation. And that branch of the motion is 23   governed by Section 363(b) and, of course, the business
24   judgment rule.

25          So, Your Honor, I'm sure Your Honor is very well aware of

1 the UBS litigation, the claims that were presented into it, in
2 it, because Your Honor has held extraordinary hearings in this
3 case, first on a stay relief motion, and then in last December
4 there were motions for a partial summary judgment by the 5 Debtor and a motion by UBS pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 3018 to 6 allow its claim for voting purposes of the -- for the -- for 7 the plan.

8 So Your Honor has already heard significant argument,
9 significant description, of a state court litigation that's 10 over a decade long. And we now come to Your Honor to settle
11 that litigation.

12 And just briefly, the terms of the settlement are set
13 forth in the motion. UBS filed two proofs of claim for over a 14 billion dollars arising out of the state court judgment
15 against the Funds and the continuing claims that remained 16 against the Debtor for breach of an implied duty of -- 17 covenant of good faith and fair dealing and for fraudulent
18 transfer.

19 So the settlement terms, briefly, Your Honor, is that, in 20 full satisfaction of UBS's proofs of claim, they would receive 21 an allowed Class 8 general unsecured claim under the plan in 22 the amount of $65 million and a Class 9 subordinated claim of 23 $60 million.

24 In addition, with respect to the Multi-Strat settlement, 25 Multi-Strat will pay $18-1/2 million to UBS in satisfaction of

1 the UBS fraudulent transfer claim against Multi-Strat asserted
2 in the state court action.

3 This settlement, if approved, Your Honor, will effectively
4 resolve all of the New York state court action. There are 5 obviously judgments out there against the Funds. There may be 6 post-judgment proceedings. But I believe, as a result of the 7 settlement, the pending unresolved claims will be fully 8 resolved, ending a dispute that started in 2009. And we think 9 that's a remarkable achievement.

10 The settlement, if approved today, will pave the way for 11 the Debtor to begin making distributions to creditors
12 following the effective date of the plan, with this disputed
13 billion-dollar claim resolved to a more manageable size of $65
14 million and then $60 [million] in Class 9.

15 It is, we believe, Your Honor, a very important
16 achievement in this case. The UBS claim was certainly the 17 largest filed proof of claim in the case. As Your Honor, 18 knows from the history in this court, this claim has been the 19 subject of over a decade of litigation in state court, it has 20 prompted litigation in this court, surrounding some very 21 complicated issues. The claims in the state court action
22 sounding in a breach of implied covenant, fraudulent transfer,
23 alter ego against HFP, and, you know, just the complexity of 24 the underlying contractual and legal arrangements, made this a
25 very complicated litigation.

1       So we're really pleased that we've managed to sort through
2       the issues. And of tremendous help, Your Honor, was the 3       hearing held last December on the Debtors' motion for partial 4       summary judgment on what we believed were gating issues that 5       had been unresolved. Those favorable rulings led to continued
6       negotiations between the Debtor and UBS. We involved the 7       mediators. There was obviously a mediation session. But 8       after Your Honor's rulings, we went back, talked to the 9       mediator some more. There were client-to-client discussions.
10      And finally, after all that, we reached this deal.

11       And Your Honor, notably, with the exception of our 12      Objectors, no creditor in the bankruptcy case has objected to 13      the settlement. The only objections come, as one would expect 14      in this case, from Mr. Dondero and one of his entities, the 15      Dugaboy Trust, and the -- his other trust as well. So those 16      objections, Your Honor, you can see just -- they don't have 17      any merit to them. They appear to be yet another effort by 18      Mr. Dondero to throw sand in the gears of the Debtors' plan
19      and distributions to creditors and its major settlement. So
20      there's not a motion that goes by in this case, Your Honor, 21      that doesn't draw an objection from Mr. Dondero or one of his 22      proxies, and this motion is no exception. Nor is it an 23      exception that the objections don't have merit. And we're 24      going to -- we're going to turn to that shortly, Your Honor.

25       But before we do that, I think it's worth noting just the

1 issue of standing, just how tenuous the Objectors' standing is 2 in this matter.

3 I mean, Mr. Dondero's objection rather defensively spends 4 the first five pages trying to justify that he does have
5 standing to appear today, and the Dugaboy Trust is not a whole
6 lot better. I mean, they have a limited partnership interest
7 in Multi-Strat. But arguments could well be made, Your Honor,
8 that these objections are not appropriate to be considered
9 because of the standing issue.

10 But, obviously, we're not going to stop there, Your Honor.
11 We'll assume, for the sake of argument, that they have 12 standing, and we'll give them the benefit of the doubt, and 13 then go to the merits of the objections, which are severely
14 lacking.

15 First of all, you know, the objections really kind of 16 focus on Multi-Strat and there's very little said about the 17 UBS settlement. And certainly the Objectors, and you'll hear
18 this today, the Objectors could not possibly dispute the fact
19 that this settlement is the product of substantial arm's-
20 length negotiations between the Debtor and UBS and their 21 principals and their counsel, following years and years of 22 litigation in the state court and then in this court. And as 23 I noted, Your Honor, the parties worked with the mediator and 24 they continued to work after Your Honor's rulings to reach the 25 settlement that's now before the Court.

1           We'd submit to Your Honor that the evidence will bear out
2           today that the proposed settlement is fair and reasonable,
3           that it results from a valid and proper exercise of the 4           Debtors' business judgment, and represents a successful
5           resolution of an incredibly complicated and substantial claim
6           asserted in this bankruptcy case.

7           Equally clear, Your Honor, we believe that the Multi-Strat
8           settlement is also fair, reasonable, and appropriate, and in 9           the context of 363(b), the sound exercise of the Debtors'
10          business judgment, acting as investment manager for Multi-11          Strat.

12          So, Your Honor, I'd like to provide really just an 13          overview of the facts. I know Your Honor's intimately
14          familiar with them, but I do think it would be helpful to set 15          the table and just, you know, recite some of the basic factual
16          background. I don't think any of it is really in dispute, but 17          I think it'll provide a good introduction to the rest of our 18          evidence for the hearing.

19          So, as Your Honor well knows, the two funds, CDO Fund and 20          SOHC, were parties to warehouse agreements that were breached
21          in late 2008. Litigation was commenced in 2009 in the New 22          York state court. And fast-forwarding to November of 2019, 23          UBS obtained a judgment in the state court action against just 24          the two Funds, CDO Fund and SOHC, on account of their breach 25          of the warehouse agreement, for approximately $500 million,

1 and then add to that interest and you get to a little over one
2 billion dollars.

3 Again, as Your Honor knows, the remainder of the 4 litigation, the Phase II of the litigation was stayed by the 5 bankruptcy, but that was to try the claims, among others,
6 against the Debtor for breach of implied covenant of good
7 faith and fair dealing, for fraudulent transfer.

8 The allegations in that regard are that -- UBS alleged 9 that a number of entities controlled by the Debtor, who at the 10 time was controlled by Mr. Dondero, including Multi-Strat,
11 engaged in a series of orchestrated transfers they've attacked
12 as fraudulent transfers, with the goal of moving assets away
13 from the Funds and then to put them beyond the reach of UBS.
14 And as you'll see, Your Honor, there's certainly merit to 15 that, and we've discovered there's even more merit to that 16 based on the recent revelations regarding the Sentinel matter, 17 which I'm sure Your Honor will hear about today, particularly 18 from Mr. Seery when he testifies.

19 The allegation of breach of implied covenant and good
20 faith against the Debtor was that the Debtor was interfering 21 with UBS's ability to recover its -- on its judgment and its 22 claims against the two Funds. And the matter -- again, that 23 Phase II trial, those issues were stayed by the bankruptcy.

24 As noted, in this court, UBS moved for relief from the 25 stay to continue the state court action. The Debtor opposed

1 that on a variety of grounds, including, at the time, that the
2 New York state court system was essentially shut for jury
3 trials. Since that time, the presiding judge in the New York
4 State Supreme Court retired. But fortunately, Your Honor
5 denied the stay relief motion and then entertained our partial 6 judgment -- summary judgment motions, and here we are with a
7 settlement to be presented to the Court.

8 In respect of the partial summary judgment motion, Your 9 Honor's ruling was stated on the record in December. And 10 also, importantly for today's purposes, Your Honor, at the 11 same time that motion was heard, UBS -- Your Honor held a 12 hearing on UBS's motion for allowance of their claim for 13 voting purposes under the Debtors' plan. And Your Honor
14 issued a fairly detailed ruling. In the aggregate, Your Honor
15 allowed UBS's claim for voting purposes at $94.7 million, and 16 Your Honor broke that $94 million number down into component
17 parts based on the various claims that were asserted against 18 the Debtor and the various allegations that UBS had made.

19 And what's notable today, Your Honor, is that among those 20 determinations that you made was that the -- with respect to 21 the fraudulent transfer claim against Multi-Strat that's part
22 of the settlement today, there were $25 million of payments
23 made to Multi-Strat that were challenged as fraudulent
24 transfers in the complaint. Your Honor determined that UBS
25 had a 90 percent chance of success on that $25 million, so on

1 a risk-adjusted basis, $25 million became $23 million, and 2 then you add interest to that, so -- and generally that
3 doubles things. So now we're looking at a potential claim
4 against Multi-Strat in the approximate amount of $46 million,
5 call it $47 million. And, as noted, the settlement amount
6 that Multi-Strat will pay to settle that claim is $18.5
7 million. So, on its face, that's a good settlement, and 8 you'll hear more about that today.

9 So then things got a little crazy, Your Honor. We had --
10 we had an agreement in principle reached with UBS after Your 11 Honor's rulings to settle the claims. And again, the mediator
12 was very helpful in this regard. So the original agreement in 13 principle provided for an allowed claim of $50 million, a
14 general unsecured claim to UBS, and then a subordinated claim 15 of $25 million. And Multi-Strat would make a payment, as 16 noted, of $18-1/2 million.

17 In early February, Your Honor -- well, let me just go back
18 a step. So, the aggregate of those claims against the Debtor
19 was $75 million. So, relative to Your Honor's ruling on the 20 voting allowance motion of $94 million, an aggregate claim of 21 $75 million is a pretty good deal. Certainly, is well above
22 the lowest point in the range of reasonableness, in that it
23 was less than the amount Your Honor determined in the context
24 of that motion.

25 So that, we think, would have breezed through the Court,

1 given Your Honor -- you know, the unusual fact that, you know,
2 we're settling a matter that Your Honor has already heard a
3 substantive hearing on.

4 So, on that basis, Your Honor, at the confirmation hearing
5 held in the beginning of February, with UBS's agreement, we 6 put the proposed, you know, the settlement-in-principle terms
7 on the record for the $75 settlement and $18-1/2 [million] to 8 -- for Multi-Strat.

9 But then, Your Honor, interesting things happened. As we 10 were documenting the settlement and investigating -- 11 responding to UBS's questions about the historic facts, we 12 found something that was truly astounding. And you'll hear 13 Mr. Seery testify about that today in some detail. What we 14 uncovered, Your Honor, was a scheme -- there's no other way to 15 describe it -- a scheme by the Debtors' former management that 16 includes Mr. Dondero and Mr. Ellington as in-house counsel,
17 Mr. Leventon and others to cause a transaction to take place
18 in 2017 whereby the Funds who -- and again, these were funds
19 who had been sued for a billion dollars in state court --
20 transferred more than $300 million in face amount of 21 securities to Sentinel. Sentinel is a Cayman-based 22 reinsurance company that we now know is owned by Mr. Dondero
23 and by Mr. Ellington, a former in-house lawyer for the 24 company. And on top of that, that there were ongoing efforts
25 to hide those transactions from the independent directors and

1 to us as outside counsel.

2 And it's frustrating, Your Honor, I guess to put it
3 mildly, that at the hearing on summary judgment we were 4 repeating things that our in-house lawyers told us that
5 weren't true. And I apologize to the Court for being misled
6 and for spreading the misinformation, the misinformation being
7 that there was nothing left in those funds, that there --
8 money was spent on legal fees but that there were no material
9 assets. And yet we now know in 2017 that there were $300
10 million face amount of securities that had a street value, if 11 you will, in excess of $100 million that was transferred to an 12 entity owned and controlled by Mr. Dondero and by Mr.
13 Ellington. And, as I said, there was a concerted effort
14 postpetition by confederates of Mr. Dondero's who continued to 15 work for the company to hide this information from the board
16 and from counsel.

17 And their lack of candor, Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon, 18 led to their being terminated. And then after they were 19 terminated, the Debtor, as you'll hear from Mr. Seery, 20 continued to dig and found all sorts of troubling, very 21 troubling information, more of the details, the operative
22 documents in regard to the Sentinel transaction, that there
23 was a supposed insurance policy, the premium for which was 24 paid by this asset transfer. And, you know, from the 25 perspective of those were not in the know, including the board

1 and outside counsel, you know, we were told, oh, there's --
2 you know, Sentinel, we don't know who Sentinel is. Well, we
3 know who Sentinel is now. It's a related party owned by Mr.
4 Dondero and Mr. Ellington that was used to perpetrate a fraud.
5 There's no other way to put it. And as Your Honor is aware,
6 there's now litigation pending by UBS with regard to those 7 transactions.

8 So where did that leave our settlement? One could imagine
9 UBS, after learning that one of its judgment debtors -- and 10 now, again, there's -- there are judgments entered against the 11 Funds -- that prior to the entry of that judgment, their 12 Defendants transferred over a hundred million dollars in value
13 of assets out of harm's way, meaning out of UBS's grasp as the 14 Plaintiff, that maybe UBS is going to pull out of the deal.
15 And again, given the importance of this settlement to the 16 bankruptcy case, to resolve the largest claim in the case, we 17 were certainly concerned that this might lead to the demise of 18 a very favorable settlement.

19 Fortunately, UBS -- and you'll hear from Mr. Seery -- was 20 still willing to engage, but we had to take into account the 21 reality that these transfers were game-changers, for lack of a 22 better word. That, number one, the existence of these 23 transfers strengthen the merits of UBS's claims that there was 24 a breach of implied covenant, that HFP was an alter ego,
25 because here was ongoing conduct eight years after the lawsuit

1 was brought, and as you'll see in our papers and hear from Mr.
2 Seery, the transfers came at a time when the Debtor wasn't
3 faring very well in litigation. Hence, you know, this looks 4 like an intentional fraudulent transfer to get assets out of 5 harm's way before judgment day comes.

6 So we continued to engage with UBS. We had -- oh, the 7 other thing, I guess, Your Honor, is that, aside from 8 strengthening the claims, it also increased the ad damnum
9 on the breach of implied covenant claim because of the 10 magnitude of the transfers that were made, fitting in with 11 UBS's theory of breach of implied covenant, which was that Mr.
12 Dondero, acting on behalf of Highland, was orchestrating a 13 series of transfers over time to take assets out of the reach
14 of the Funds and out of the reach of UBS as it was progressing
15 towards obtaining a judgment against those Funds in the 16 litigation.

17 So, the parties reengaged. We reached new settlement
18 terms that are now embedded in -- embodied in the settlement
19 agreement attached to the motion. The new terms are the 20 general unsecured claim, Class 8 claim, instead of $50
21 million, is now $65 million, and the Class 9 subordinated
22 claim, instead of $25 million, is now $60 million. The Multi-
23 Strat settlement payment of $18-1/2 million is unchanged.

24 And you'll see, Your Honor, that, you know, this 25 settlement is more than fair and reasonable. It was, once

1 again, negotiated at arm's length. And, you know, we think
2 it's beyond doubt, Your Honor, that the settlement meets the 3 Rule 9019 standards and that it's fair and reasonable and it's 4 certainly in the best interest of creditors.

5 I do note that the Objectors really don't take on the 6 settlement amount. I'll talk about that in a moment. But 7 they really focused more on Multi-Strat, Your Honor, and 8 before the day is out you'll see documentary evidence, Your 9 Honor, that addresses that objection head on, that the Debtor
10 does have authority to act on Multi-Strat's behalf as the 11 investment manager. Also, through the corporate structure and 12 ownership, it has the ability to manage Multi-Strat's matters.
13 And that the wild allegations of conflict of interest are 14 baseless. And, in fact, you'll see, Your Honor, the private 15 placement memorandum for the Multi-Strat interests that were 16 basically drafted when Mr. Dondero was in control have 17 extensive disclaimers about conflict of interest, that 18 Highland has a variety investments, et cetera, et cetera, and 19 there is just -- there's just no merit to any suggestion that 20 this settlement on behalf of Multi-Strat is somehow infected
21 by conflict of interest.

22 With regard to the -- and again, I'll just, I'll be brief,
23 Your Honor, and then I'll stop. With regard to the UBS
24 settlement claim amount, Dugaboy doesn't address it at all,
25 but Mr. Dondero does, and he doesn't -- he really can't

1 challenge and doesn't challenge the fact that there was a 2 settlement of $55 million and $25 million in claims before the 3 Sentinel revelations. Rather, he's arguing, after those
4 revelations were made, why'd the settlement go up? I mean,
5 it's remarkable in its lacking in any sense of shame or irony
6 that it would be Mr. Dondero who would question why the 7 settlement amounts went up after a fraud that he orchestrated
8 came to light.

9 So, Your Honor, I'm going to stop and turn the podium over 10 to UBS, who I know wants to make an opening statement. But we 11 hope to persuade Your Honor through the evidence --

12 (Interruption.)

13 THE COURT: Okay. Please -- I know you've all --

14 (Interruption.)

15 THE COURT: -- been through this many times. Put 16 your device on mute. If you're not speaking, put your device
17 on mute.

18 MR. FEINSTEIN: This is a good place for me to stop
19 anyway, Your Honor. You'll hear plenty more in closing 20 arguments. So I'm going to yield the podium to Mr. Clubok.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. FEINSTEIN: Thank you.

23 THE COURT: The technology version of the hook. All 24 right. Mr. Clubok?

25 (Interruption.)

1 THE COURT: Mike, can you figure out who that is?

2 (Court confers with Clerk.)

3 THE COURT: Okay. Apparently, we're having multiple 4 people calling in and not immediately putting their devices on 5 mute, I guess.

6 All right. Mr. Clubok? (No response.)

7 THE CLERK: He's on mute, Judge.

8 THE COURT: You're on mute, Mr. Clubok.

9 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor. I was trying to 10 adhere to the keep-on-mute. So I guess I overshot that 11 slightly.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. CLUBOK: I apologize.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF UBS SECURITIES, LLC

16 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, good morning. I will say --
17 Mr. Feinstein started out by saying he was very pleased to be 18 here to announce a settlement, and in one sense we certainly 19 agree with that. It's been 12 long years of hard-fought 20 litigation. It's clear that this is the time to settle with 21 the Debtor and with Multi-Strat. We have heard loud and clear
22 the Court's justifiable, appropriate reminders to all the 23 parties to think hard and to try hard to settle the case, and 24 we appreciated the assistance of the mediators who, you know,
25 we spent many formal sessions and countless informal sessions

1 with to help reach a very hard-negotiated, I'd say many, many
2 arm's length, in terms of the negotiation, as the evidence
3 would show, and is apparent from what Your Honor has witnessed
4 throughout the course of these proceedings, and obviously the 5 fact that UBS was the last major creditor, I believe, to reach
6 a settlement, or one of the last.

7 And in that sense, we are pleased to be here and to 8 resolve the case with Highland Capital Management and with
9 Multi-Strat.

10 In another sense, you know, it reminded me of my judge
11 that I clerked for always said that a great settlement is one 12 where neither side is happy with the amount. That's what 13 makes a good settlement. And I'd say, with respect to that,
14 certainly also UBS would probably agree that they are not 15 terribly happy with the amount, because you'll see the 16 evidence and the record will show there's a real question as 17 to why the settlement is as low as it is with the Debtor. And 18 there are reasons for that, particularly given the change in 19 -- now controlled by the Debtor and the fact that UBS retained 20 its judgment and ability to hopefully collect as much as 21 possible in that judgment from the Funds and their alter egos
22 themselves.

23 But I would guess that -- and you heard Mr. Feinstein a
24 few times refer to the original deal being a very good deal,
25 and this one you'll hear, too, and you'll see easily meets the

1 fair and reasonable standard I think by any measure, given the 2 evidence you're going to see today, given the evidence that's 3 already in the record, given the evidence that is reflected in 4 the documents that you, Your Honor, can consider, and that 5 clearly the Debtor has considered in terms of evaluating the 6 settlement from the Debtors' perspective and from the other
7 creditors of the estate, this would be an extremely good
8 settlement, certainly easily meets the fair and reasonable
9 test, given the amount, given the fact that it resolves claims
10 that, as Mr. Feinstein said, you know, clearly have merit to 11 them, and the merit grows and is made more clear by the 12 recent, you know, uncovering of evidence of, you know, even 13 greater fraud and greater concealment of fraud than any of us
14 were aware of, including that led there to be misstatements
15 made to this Court in the context of a summary judgment
16 proceeding, which we very much appreciate Mr. Feinstein and 17 would not -- of course, don't blame him or his colleagues.
18 But that is all in the background.

19 As a result of that, and, frankly, even before that, given 20 what UBS believed it has suffered at the hands of the -- of 21 Highland Capital Management, it was -- it was difficult to 22 come to the settlement. But you'll see, in the evidence
23 you're going to see the rest of today and from all the papers, 24 that it certainly is, from the estate's perspective, a very 25 good settlement.

1 And beyond that, I'm just going to rest, at least for the 2 opening statement. I'm just going to refer to the statements
3 we made in our reply to the objections, and will save any 4 remarks, if any, for closing argument.

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Taylor or Mr.
6 Draper, who wants to go next?

7 MR. DRAPER: Yes, Your Honor. I'll go first.

8 Firstly, let me clear up something for the record. The -- 9 my exhibits are at 2342. That's where they're -- they are 10 located. We had filed without the exhibits attached at the 11 docket entry I gave you, but the exhibits are located at 2342.

12 THE COURT: Okay. I'll note that.

13 MR. DRAPER: All right. Thank you.

14 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DUGABOY INVESTMENT TRUST

15 MR. DRAPER: The omnibus opposition they filed starts
16 from the proposition that Dugaboy has a minimal interest in 17 both Multi-Strat, the Delaware limited partnership, and then
18 has a limited interest in the Debtor. Well, the truth is, I
19 am a limited partner and Multi-Strat's a limited partnership,
20 and this transaction and this settlement affects me as a
21 limited partner in Multi-Strat.

22 I am also an equity owner in the Debtor, as well as a 23 creditor of the Debtor at this moment, though my claim is 24 objected to.

25 So, again, I do have standing. Whether it's classified as

1 minimal or not, I am a party in interest. I have a vested
2 interest in the settlement. And I don't think my rights are 3 dependent on the size of my claim. I think they're dependent
4 upon the actual claim that I have.

5 So let me start with -- and I truly agree -- there's a lot
6 of things that have been said by counsel for the Debtor as 7 well as counsel for UBS. My focus with respect to this
8 settlement goes to Multi-Strat. It goes to a number of items.
9 Number one, no matter how they package this, this Court has no
10 jurisdiction, under 363(b) or otherwise, to address the Multi-11 Strat settlement. I don't think the Court has jurisdiction to 12 rule on the propriety of Mr. Seery acting on behalf of or in 13 his representative capacity as either the investment manager
14 or general partner of Multi-Strat. I think that's a separate 15 matter that the Court has no jurisdiction over, and I think
16 we've cited cases to it.

17 But they've -- they've sort of packaged it up, and today
18 in oral argument they've ship-shaped their argument that he's 19 -- they're now only seeking his authority as a reasonable 20 businessperson to make that decision. But I still think the 21 jurisdiction of this Court is lacking with respect to that.

22 And honestly, the Court can approve this settlement and 23 strip out the Multi-Strat portion of it. They're two separate 24 settlements and they're two separate matters. And whatever 25 happens with Multi-Strat afterwards and Mr. Seery does in

1 whatever capacity will just go forward without the immunity
2 grant he is seeking from this Court and the court order.

3 Number two. I believe that the settlement on the Multi-
4 Strat side is an awful settlement. I believe when you look at 5 the documentation we -- that will be put before you, you will 6 see that Multi-Strat, LP -- and you have to focus solely on 7 Multi-Strat, LP, the entity, as to Multi-Strat, Limited or the 8 other Multi-Strat entities. When this matter came before you
9 in November and you calculated a 90 percent chance, if you
10 look carefully at what they presented to you, it was Multi-
11 Strat entities. That's a plural term, not a singular term.
12 And in fact, there may be other distributions that have been 13 made to other Multi-Strat entitles such as Multi-Strat, 14 Limited. I don't -- you'll see some evidence today that 15 Multi-Strat entity -- Limited, in fact, received money. That 16 is not the party who's settling or paying $18-1/2 million.
17 So, yes, you may have looked at certain things, but you have 18 to understand that the term is plural, not singular, and we 19 have a singular party here.

20 Number three. I believe, quite frankly, that there's an 21 inherent conflict here. The settlement agreement in Paragraph 22 11 has a provision saying that Multi-Strat was represented by 23 independent counsel. That's absolutely not true. Multi-Strat
24 didn't have independent counsel according to Mr. Seery's
25 deposition. Pachulski appeared before them. There was no

1 independent counsel for Multi-Strat.

2 And, quite frankly, under the partnership agreements and 3 the subscription agreements, what the proper methodology that 4 should have been done in connection with this case or the 5 Multi-Strat portion of the settlement was Mr. Seery could have 6 gone out, gotten an independent advisory committee, had the 7 independent advisory committee look at the receipt by Multi-
8 Strat, the limited partner, and then made a recommendation. I 9 think, had that been done, my issue of conflict would have 10 fallen by the wayside.

11 I also believe, had that been done, the representation
12 that Multi-Strat was represented by independent counsel would 13 have been accurate.

14 But, in fact, that was not done. It was a simple task,
15 but it wasn't done. So Mr. Seery and Highland is sitting on 16 all sides of this transaction. They're sitting on -- as 17 investment manager and general partner for the other Multi-18 Strat entities, they're sitting there as Highland counsel, as 19 general partner and investment manager. They are sitting 20 there in a number of other capacities.

21 So it is not whether an actual conflict exists. It's as 22 the Court, you know, reached back yesterday and looked at her 23 earlier days as a law student, and it's -- the question is, is 24 there an apparent conflict? And I think clearly, with being 25 on all sides of this transaction, there is an apparent

1 conflict, and for that reason alone the Court should just
2 strip away the Multi-Strat part and let Multi-Strat do what it
3 needs to do under applicable state law to avail itself of 4 either settling with UBS or not or renegotiating.

5 The last part deals with the settlement. And honestly, I
6 cannot honestly state before this Court in good faith that the 7 settlement before the Court is not the product of good-faith
8 negotiations between capable counsel on the UBS side, on the 9 Debtors' side. I think they've done a good job and done a
10 number of things. What I am concerned about are two things,
11 and I think they're important.

12 Number one is this settlement has the potential to be a 13 modification of the Debtors' plan. I'd ask the Court -- and 14 look, I've done this a long time, as the Court is aware.
15 Please read and just spend the same mind-numbing hours that I
16 did over Paragraph -- Page 5, Paragraph C, and what the Debtor
17 is obligated to do and what the Debtor is obligated to 18 transfer, which, in effect, means that the Debtor is 19 transferring assets or acting on behalf of UBS, when, again, 20 if you look at this conflict issue, they also must act on 21 behalf of Highland.

22 So they are taking or acting in some fashion under 23 Paragraph -- Page 5, Paragraph C, where assets of the Debtor
24 or potential assets of the Debtor are going to UBS. And I'd 25 ask you, when you read it again, to focus on the term "or

1 prosecute." It's not cooperate. It's not give them
2 information. It's prosecute claims and turn over assets.
3 That's the problem with this settlement.

4 Again, it's something that can be fixed. But again, that
5 paragraph, I hate to tell you, is mind-numbing. Whoever wrote
6 it should be writing IRS regulations. But it's just 7 difficult.

8 So, again, this -- my objections are limited. They are 9 focused. It is not to throw water or blow something up.
10 There are pieces of this that are enormously problematic.
11 They start with the Court's jurisdiction. They end up in 12 connection with Multi-Strat. And nobody's really done an 13 analysis as to what Multi-Strat, the payer, the party paying 14 $18-1/2 million, got in terms of fraudulent conveyances. And 15 then it goes to Paragraph 5 -- Page 5, Paragraph C as to 16 exactly what their settlement means vis-à-vis Highland, the 17 Debtor, and its obligations to both UBS under the document as 18 well as its obligations to the estate.

19 So this, this is not a blow-it-up. This is a focused
20 objection for things that can be fixed and need to be fixed.

21 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

22 Mr. Taylor?

23 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES DONDERO

24 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor. We have heard Your 25 Honor loud and clear over the past few weeks, and even months,

1 that your time is very valuable. We do respect that time.
2 And as such, we have conferred with Mr. Draper and our client
3 and allowed Mr. Draper to be our speaking voice today, and he
4 is going to be the lead presenter. And as such, I'm not going
5 to belabor the points that he has made and will just wait
6 until closing arguments, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Taylor.

8 All right. Mr. Morris, I think we heard you're going to 9 present the evidence today. Are you ready to call your 10 witness?

11 MR. MORRIS: Yes, I am, Your Honor. Thank you very 12 much. John Morris; Pachulski, Stang, Ziehl & Jones; for the 13 Debtor. The Debtor calls James P. Seery, Jr. to the stand.

14 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, we'll ask you to 15 say, "Testing, one, two" so we can hear and see you.

16 MR. SEERY: Testing, one, two.

17 THE COURT: All right. Let's see. Can everyone see 18 him? I can hear him but not see him, but it usually takes my 19 screen -- there you are. Okay. Got you now. My screen seems 20 to be a little slower than the computer screens.

21 All right. Please raise your right hand.

22 (The witness is sworn.)

23 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris?

24 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. I appreciate Mr.
25 Draper's opening in which he made it clear that his singular

1 focus is on Multi-Strat. But nevertheless, the Debtor does
2 have the burden and the obligation to put forth sufficient
3 evidence to meet the 9019 motion, so I would ask your Court to 4 just -- ask the Court to just be a little patient because I do
5 want to make that evidentiary record so that -- so that
6 there's a solid basis for the granting of the motion.

7 JAMES P. SEERY, JR., DEBTORS' WITNESS, SWORN

8 DIRECT EXAMINATION

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Mr. Seery, can you hear me okay?

11 A I can, yes.

12 Q Okay. Let's begin with just a discussion about your 13 understanding of the nature of the UBS claim. Is it fair to 14 say that you, over the last year-plus, have familiarized
15 yourself with that claim?

16 A Yes, I have.

17 Q And do you understand that the claim is based in 18 substantial part on certain prepetition litigation claims?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And are you generally familiar with those prepetition
21 litigation claims?

22 A Very much so.

23 Q Okay. Can you describe for the Court your understanding
24 of the nature and scope of those claims?

25 A Yes. From a high level, and I'll go quickly, and if Your

1 Honor wants to dig in deeper, we can. But, in essence, UBS
2 and the Debtor had entered into an arrangement whereby UBS was 3 going to be the banker, underwriter, structuring agent for a 4 CDO square fund that the Debtor (garbled) together in 2007 and 5 ultimately with a revised agreement in the beginning of 2008.
6 That was structured with two warehouse agreements. The 7 counterparties to those warehouse agreements were CDO Fund and 8 SOHC, which is the Highland Special Opportunity Fund. Both 9 were Highland funds owned, directly or indirectly, by 10 Highland.

11 The structure of the warehouse was, in essence, that the 12 Debtor would direct, as the manager, UBS to buy certain 13 assets. UBS would buy those assets into the warehouse. The 14 Debtor had equity in the warehouse. And then they would 15 continue to build the portfolio. Ultimately, the idea was 16 that when the portfolio was built, they would sell notes, and 17 the Debtor, through various vehicles, would own the equity.
18 UBS would receive fees. And that would be the structured 19 vehicle, with the noteholders being the debt, and ultimately 20 the SOHC, CDO Fund, and other Debtor entities or related 21 entities owning the equity, unless they could sell some of 22 that equity off. And that was the structure of the fund
23 originally structured in 2007, revised in 2008.

24 When the financial crisis hit in 2008, there were defaults
25 or margin calls, because the way the structure, as I alluded

005198

Seery - Direct

36

1 to, was set up was UBS was, in essence, providing the debt,
2 Highland was providing the equity, and UBS was looking for a
3 certain debt-to-equity ratio to make sure that they were 4 protected. When market values of the assets moved, UBS would 5 call a margin. When the margin was called, the Debtor had an 6 obligation to assure that the equity cushion was topped up.
7 The Debtor made some margin calls, but ultimately defaulted on 8 those calls. And then in two thousand -- at the end of 2008,
9 UBS called a default and terminated the agreements.

10 Litigation ensued in the beginning of 2009, basically
11 claiming that UBS lost money on the transaction with respect
12 to the warehouse and that CDO Fund and SOHC were responsible 13 for that loss, which was pretty clear from the documents. But 14 in addition, Highland was a party to the documents, and UBS
15 alleged that Highland breached its covenant of good faith and 16 fair dealing by actively working to prevent CDO Fund and SOHC
17 from paying back the debt.

18 Litigation ensued. There are at least -- at least five to 19 seven reported decisions. Some are -- some reported, some not 20 reported, but there are numerous that are reported. And the 21 litigation was meandering for considerable time. More efforts
22 to settle. But ultimately, UBS received a judgment in its 23 favor against CDO Fund and SOHC in the fall of 2019 for five 24 hundred and -- approximately $550 million, which, with New 25 York State prejudgment interest of 9 percent, doubled the 005199

Seery - Direct

37

1 judgment to $1.04 billion.

2 Q Okay. And was that judgment obtained against the Debtor
3 itself?

4 A It was not. The judgment was against CDO Fund and SOHC.
5 And the way the trial court in New York had structured the 6 litigation was that there would be a Phase I on the 7 immediately liability on the contract. Highland raised
8 numerous and sundry defenses, procedural arguments, and that's 9 what took the 10 years to get to the judgment against the two 10 clear counterparties who were clearly liable under the 11 contract. There's really no dispute about that. The contract
12 was clear. In fact, it said CDO Fund and SOHC will bear one
13 hundred percent of the losses on the warehouse.

14 What was going to be tried in Phase II were a number of 15 ancillary claims that UBS had brought, including implied
16 covenant of good faith and fair dealing breached by Highland
17 for preventing SOHC and CDO Funds from paying the judgment,
18 claims by UBS to pierce the veil against HFP, Highland 19 Financial Partners, which was another entity in the Highland 20 chain that sat above SOHC and some other entities. Basically,
21 that claim was that that entity engaged in actual fraud, and 22 that included transfers to Multi-Strat, Credit-Strat,
23 Redeemer, Citibank, and HCMLP.

24 Q We heard mention in the opening statements about Multi-
25 Strat. How does Multi-Strat -- what's your under -- 005200

Seery - Direct

38

1 withdrawn.

2 Do you have an understanding as to whether Multi-Strat is 3 implicated by the prepetition UBS litigation?

4 A Yes, it is. Yes, it was a defendant. And so just to --
5 to level-set it, I think there was a little bit of discussion,
6 but Multi-Strat is a fund, a -- really, a master feeder fund,
7 but it's set up with a limited partnership that was an 8 investor with third-party investors in various assets. The 9 allegation is that in 2008 Multi-Strat contributed assets to 10 HFP to prop up the -- HFP and its ability to put money into 11 SOHC, and ultimately CDO Fund, to make margin payments.
12 Notwithstanding the current state of the markets then, HCMLP
13 was somehow still bullish on the markets and moved the assets
14 in to support the structure of the CDO square that was being 15 worked on by UBS and the Debtor.

16 That when -- the allegation is that when the financial 17 crisis hit and the deal defaulted, that UBS alleges that 18 Highland, directing HCMLP, and there's no question that 19 Highland dominated and controlled HFP, moved the assets out in 20 an actual fraud to prevent UBS being able to pierce into HFP
21 to recover its losses against CDO Fund and SOHC.

22 Q Okay. So I just want to make sure that I understand who 23 the Defendants were in the UBS litigation. I think you've 24 identified CDO Fund, correct?

25 A Correct. CDO Fund was one of the funds that the Debtor

005201

39

1 had set up. It's also a structure with limited partners and
2 partners that's controlled by Highland.

3 Q And what about SOHC?

4 A SOHC --

5 Q Is --

6 A -- is another fund that sat below HFP. HFP was also
7 dominated and controlled by Highland. It did have out --
8 originally had outside investors, which were a lot of the 9 investment banks on Wall Street that Highland pressured to put 10 money into HFP as a way of getting business. And that 11 structure -- it was a defendant, and it was one of the 12 counterparties to the UBS warehouse agreements.

13 Q Was HCMLP a defendant?

14 A HCMLP was a defendant. HCMLP was the manager of those 15 funds, but also the investment manager of the vehicle, and was 16 responsible for both structuring and purchase -- picking the 17 assets that would go into the CDO square.

18 Q Was HFP a defendant?

19 A HFP was a defendant. So, HFP was the parent of SOHC. It
20 had an indirect relationship with CDO Fund. It was -- that's 21 the -- I mentioned. It had outside investors, but was 22 dominated and controlled by Highland as the controlling party
23 of the GP and the special limited partner.

24 Q How about Multi-Strat? Was Multi-Strat a defendant in any 25 of the prepetition UBS litigation?

005202

Seery - Direct

40

1 A Multi-Strat was a defendant in that litigation, yes.

2 Q Okay. Are there any defendants that I have forgotten to 3 mention that you can recall?

4 A I don't have the caption, but it was pretty fulsome.

5 Q Do you understand who represented each of the Defendants
6 in the prepetition UBS litigation?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And who was that?

9 A Well, Highland controlled it, but we had various -- 10 various law firms, including Lackey Hershman, and then 11 ultimately Reid Collins.

12 Q Did Multi-Strat have independent counsel in connection
13 with the UBS lawsuit?

14 A No. That would be extremely unusual.

15 Q And did, at the time of the UBS lawsuit, was Mr. Dondero
16 in control of the Debtor?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And are you aware of any independent counsel that was 19 obtained for any of the Defendants you just identified,
20 separate and apart from Highland's counsel?

21 A I am not aware, but to be fair, I read the decisions, not 22 the -- I didn't go through them and review every counsel that 23 was involved. But I think Highland had one counsel. The 24 litigation was directed by Highland. So, notwithstanding 25 outside counsel, it was directed by Leventon and Ellington and 005203

41

1 Dondero.

2 Q And are you aware of any independent analysis that was
3 done to assess the risk to Multi-Strat, separate and apart
4 from whatever Highland was doing?

5 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, object to the form of the 6 question. It's irrelevant. What we're focusing on now is 7 whether Highland and Multi-Strat had independent counsel when
8 it entered into the settlement. What Mr. Dondero did in 2009
9 and 2010 has no relevancy to this.

10 THE COURT: Response, Mr. Morris?

11 MR. MORRIS: If I may? Yes. The fact that the same 12 person objecting is the person who didn't care about the 13 conflicts when he was in control I think goes to the 14 credibility of the entire argument.

15 The fact is, it's not 2008 and 2009. It's 2008 and 2009
16 up until at least the petition date. Frankly, up until 17 January 9th, 2020, Mr. Dondero was in control. And at no time
18 did he ever take any steps to get independent counsel or an 19 independent assessment for Multi-Strat. And I think it's -- I 20 think it's highly relevant and it goes to undermine the 21 credibility of the whole argument.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the objection.

23 THE WITNESS: I apologize, I've forgotten the 24 question.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

005204

Seery - Direct

42

1 Q There was no question pending.

2 Okay. So, can you describe for the Court your
3 understanding of the exposure that just the Debtor, HCMLP,
4 faced in terms of the claims that were asserted against it
5 prior to the petition date?

6 A Well, prior to the petition date, it was pretty clear that 7 the allegation by UBS was that the Debtor should be 8 responsible for the entire amount of the judgment. And the 9 reason for that was its argument that, through either alter
10 ego or breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair
11 dealing, that the Debtor controlled, dominated, SOHC and CDO
12 Fund. It caused those entities to not pay UBS, or not pay as 13 much as it could to UBS. It actively engaged in thwarting
14 UBS's recovery. And UBS's allegation was that, because of 15 those actions, and because those entities likely had assets,
16 at least in UBS's view, that the Debtor should be liable
17 because it controlled, dominated, and caused that failure to 18 pay.

19 The reason that HCMLP could be gotten that way is it was a 20 party to the contract. So, notwithstanding that the 21 counterparties were CDO Fund and SOHC, they were managed and 22 controlled by Highland, and Highland was the party driving
23 everything. There's no -- there were no people at SOHC and 24 CDO Fund. This was a Highland-dominated and controlled
25 entity.

005205

43

1 Q All right. Let's fast forward --

2 A That's the allegation.

3 Q Let's fast forward just a bit. Postpetition.

4 MR. MORRIS: I apologize for the leading questions.

5 If anybody wants to object, they should feel free, but I'm

6 trying to be efficient here.

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q On or about January 9th, you were one of three people
9 appointed as independent directors at Strand, Inc.; is that 10 right?

11 A That's correct.

12 Q Okay. And you subsequently became the CEO of the Debtor;
13 is that right?

14 A That's correct.

15 Q Okay. In your capacity as an independent director and as 16 the CEO, did you and the Debtor undertake any analysis to 17 determine the strengths and weaknesses of UBS's claim?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Okay.

20 A So, when we joined in January of 2020, it was pretty clear
21 that there were three or four main claims that had to be dealt
22 with in order for the case to be resolved. Redeemer, there
23 wasn't that much to defend, because, frankly, the arbitration
24 decision was very full and very damning. So we thought we had 25 some defenses there and we spent a lot of time trying to 005206

44

1 figure them out, but we thought the bigger thrust of our fight
2 would be with the Acis group as well as with UBS. I
3 personally read every underlying agreement. These are 4 agreements with which I'm familiar. I read every decision. I
5 reread every agreement. I spent countless hours with the 6 Highland legal team.

7 Recall that I said that the Highland legal team directed
8 this litigation. Everything from start to finish. I spent 9 countless hours with them going through the defenses, the 10 asset transfers, the fact that, in their opinion, which they 11 expressed to me multiple times, there were no assets at CDO
12 Fund and SOHC, that they were what they called "ghost funds," 13 that they couldn't -- they couldn't satisfy any judgments, and 14 there -- but there were always some puzzling questions,
15 including, well, if they were ghost funds and they had no
16 assets, then why did you fight so hard? And the answer was,
17 well, UBS was trying to pierce through. And, in fact, I was 18 told that Highland even offered to give UBS everything that 19 was in SOHC and CDO Fund, and that wasn't accepted.

20 We actually spent days going through each of the 21 documents. In-house counsel laid out charts of the various 22 defenses. It's a short way of saying -- and I know it took a 23 little extra time -- but a short way of saying we spent 24 countless hours reviewing and analyzing the claims, the 25 defenses, the prior litigation. And it wasn't just me. I

005207

Seery - Direct

45

1 spent considerable time with Russ Nelms, who's a former
2 bankruptcy judge and an independent director with me, very 3 experienced in these matters -- analyzing each of the 4 underlying agreements, each of the allegations, each of the 5 underlying transfers, and with John Dubel, who's the third
6 director, who's got significant experience in managing and 7 settling these kinds of litigations. So that, that was the 8 basis of our work, and it formed the basis of our defense and 9 our litigation strategy against UBS.

10 Q And just to complete the picture, did you obtain any 11 outside counsel with respect to the analysis of the strengths,
12 weaknesses, and merits of the UBS claim?

13 A Absolutely. We spent a significant amount of time, I
14 would venture to say millions and millions of dollars' worth
15 of legal time, with your firm and multiple lawyers at your 16 firm, looking at virtually every aspect of the case,
17 reviewing, as I did, every one of the underlying decisions, 18 considering particular bankruptcy strategies to attack the 19 decisions that were against the Debtor and to enhance the ones
20 that were in the Debtors' favor.

21 Q Did you form a view as to the strengths and weaknesses and 22 the Debtors' exposure, risk exposure, let's say as of last 23 summer?

24 A I did. I formed it before that, but yes.

25 Q Can you just describe for the Court what your impressions

005208

46

1 were as of that time?

2 A My belief was that the Debtor had very strong defenses to 3 these claims. Ultimately, I thought the Debtor would prevail.
4 My basis -- the basis for my view was, number one, the 5 contract was very clear that CDO Fund and SOHC were the 6 counterparties, that UBS did not have the right to rely on 7 other third parties, that their only counterparties were SOHC.
8 And I was told by in-house counsel that SOHC and CDO Fund
9 didn't have any assets.

10 So the idea that UBS could claim that it could reasonably 11 rely on something more than that, I thought, to me, was a very 12 strong defense, or a weak argument by UBS and a strong defense
13 for us.

14 I didn't think much of the implied covenant of good faith
15 and fair dealing argument that UBS had because, in our view
16 and the work we had done, there was no there there, that UBS
17 had not been thwarted, that there weren't other assets that 18 had been transferred, that there was a significant defense to 19 what I felt was a pretty weak claim.

20 The alter ego claim, I thought was not a strong claim
21 either, because while Highland dominated and controlled HFP,
22 there's no doubt about that, the other aspect of alter ego,
23 which is that the corporate vehicle was used to abuse the 24 counterparty, I didn't think was strong. And I didn't think 25 it was strong because I didn't have an appreciation as to 005209

Seery - Direct

47

1 assets that were moved out and UBS's reliance on -- on HFP or 2 any other part of the corporate structure, including HCMLP, to 3 support the UBS claim.

4 UBS, to be fair, UBS took the opposite view. They said we
5 did -- we did get information about the financial wherewithal
6 of HFP. There were public filings that HFP had made. HCMLP
7 had made certain representations to UBS regarding support of 8 CDO Fund and SOHC. And they had deposition testimony of 9 former Highland officers that, again, to be fair, was quite 10 damning. We discounted it a fair bit because we thought that 11 those folks had a negative view of Highland's former 12 management and that's perhaps why they were taking a view that 13 was negative to Highland.

14 So that was my perspective when we -- you know, by the 15 late spring, early to late spring and into the beginning of 16 the summer. And it wasn't just mine. Mr. Draper made some 17 remarks earlier that show he doesn't understand our corporate 18 structure. We have a board of directors. It's not Jim Seery
19 who directs this. I just --

20 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor?

21 THE WITNESS: -- happen to be the CEO --

22 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, I'd ask that that part of 23 the record be stricken. It's gratuitous and unnecessary.

24 THE COURT: Overruled.

25 THE WITNESS: I'm the CEO. All of these analysis

005210

Seery - Direct

48

1 were done -- analyses were done with the full board of 2 directors and with outside counsel's support. So these are
3 not decisions that I make. This -- these are the decisions
4 that the board made.

5 And to be fair, on the board we had different views about 6 the strengths and merits of the case. I probably thought most 7 strongly that HCMLP had the best arguments. And I tend to get 8 to my rationale and my position slowly, through a lot of work,
9 but when I get to it, I do understand the shortcoming of being
10 pretty firmly wed to it, and I thought we had a very strong
11 case going into what we've designed as our litigation strategy
12 as a summary judgment -- would be ultimately a summary
13 judgment motion.

14 Q Now, before that happened, did the Debtor participate in 15 mediation with UBS and other parties in late August and early 16 September?

17 A In late August or early December -- I think it was August
18 -- approximately August 25th, the Court ordered the Debtor and 19 related parties to engage in mediation regarding three things,
20 really: the UBS claim, front and center; the Acis claim,
21 which was, at that point, you know, equally important; and to 22 some degree around the grand bargain to the extent that we 23 could potentially get a deal done using the offices of the 24 mediators.

25 And so we prepared for a mediation with, you know, former

005211

Seery - Direct

49

1 Bankruptcy Judge Allan Gropper and former Weil Gotshal
2 bankruptcy partner Sylvia Mayer. We -- again, the amount of 3 documents that we reviewed, once again, the detailed mediation
4 submissions, I thought we actually put together some pretty 5 outstanding pieces, and we took a pretty aggressive view with 6 respect to the UBS claim, similar to what I just outlined in 7 terms of, you know, the fact that we thought HCMLP had minimal
8 liability.

9 Q And without disclosing any numbers or anything like that,
10 is it fair to say that the mediation ended unsuccessfully?

11 A It did end unsuccessfully. I think that it was not 12 because of the mediators. It was probably because the 13 parties, both ourselves and UBS, were a bit dug into our 14 positions and not really willing to move.

15 We did make some progress around certain of the issues.
16 We identified at least one asset that had been really hidden
17 from us coming into the mediation, and we started working on 18 that asset, which was an asset out of CDO Fund, preference
19 shares in a CLO called Greenbrier. UBS hadn't been able to 20 get any discovery, notwithstanding some orders prepetition,
21 and we felt going into the mediation that we needed to respond
22 to some of their requests, and we did, and we tasked the legal 23 department, Ellington and Leventon, with reviewing some of 24 these assets, because UBS had claims, and echoed them
25 strongly, but they -- they were contrary to what the legal

005212

Seery - Direct

50

1 department told us, that CDO Fund and SOHC had assets and that
2 those assets should be available for their judgment.

3 So, we -- we did work on that, and it was reported to us
4 that there were some shares in -- which were valued at 5 somewhere between $8 million and $10 million at the time,
6 which were valuable, called Greenbrier preference shares, that
7 somehow Highland couldn't locate, which was a very unusual
8 answer. But that came out in the mediation and we discussed
9 it.

10 Right around that time, Mr. Dondero told me that he
11 thought those shares had been subject to a participation
12 agreement and there were no assets there, so I shouldn't worry
13 about it. I tended to take that with a bit of a grain of salt
14 because that was an extremely remote thing for that specific a 15 memory. And that changed our dynamic negotiating with UBS
16 around that piece.

17 But that was, I think, a relatively successful part. And 18 it was small, the mediation with UBS, in that we identified
19 that if there were assets in CDO Fund, including these 20 Greenbrier shares, those were clearly going to be UBS's assets
21 because they had a judgment against that entity.

22 Q And after being unable to reach a settlement at mediation,
23 did the Debtor make the decision to file its motion for 24 partial summary judgment?

25 A We did.

005213

Seery - Direct

51

1 Q And what was the purpose of that? What was the Debtors'
2 goal in filing that motion?

3 A Well, suffice it to say, at least on paper, our bid ask
4 was zero billion. We certainly moved some degree closer than 5 that in mediation, but we didn't have any -- any agreement.
6 And so our strategy was to try to narrow as many of the 7 issues, using a summary judgment motion, to narrow those 8 issues as much as we could.

9 So we were looking for very specific rulings on Debtor
10 liability with regard to alter ego, with regard to certain of 11 the transfers, particularly a release provision that was in 12 the Redeemer settlement, and how that would then shrink the 13 litigation number into what we thought would be a manageable
14 number, where we could then, post-confirmation, litigate with 15 UBS about that or determine that there was -- worthwhile
16 getting to a settlement.

17 Q All right. And you understood at the time -- withdrawn.
18 Did you understand at the time that UBS had filed its 19 competing motion for an estimate of their claim for voting
20 purposes under Bankruptcy Rule 3018?

21 A Yes. So, we expected that, because -- because we were 22 trying to move towards a plan and confirmation. We were 23 negotiating with the Committee, of which UBS is a part, and 24 they certainly would need to move to have their claim allowed,
25 at least for voting purposes.

005214

Seery - Direct

52

1           So we did anticipate that, and ultimately the hearings
2           were merged into one hearing.

3           Q     And do you recall the outcome of the hearing?

4           A     I do. It was, in our view, extremely successful for the 5           Debtor. We felt that we had narrowed a significant number of 6           issues, including alter ego, on a proof of claim argument, the 7           release provision with respect to the Redeemer release, which 8           really reduced a significant amount of what we thought was 9           probably the higher-level risk that we had, and narrowed a
10          certain number of other issues, that made it, we thought, much 11          more difficult for UBS to prevail.

12          So the headline number of a billion at that point, coming
13          into the hearing, while it was an estimation, we really felt 14          like $95 million, roughly, that Judge Jernigan ruled on in a 15          combination of pieces to reach that number was effectively a 16          ceiling for us at that point. We felt very strongly about our 17          success at that hearing.

18          Interestingly, UBS had a -- not surprisingly, because of 19          the nature of our dealings -- the opposite view. They felt 20          that they had prevailed on a significant number of issues, 21          that the Court had not gotten the full briefing on assets at 22          HFP and other transfers that were going to be kept alive, 23          particularly the implied covenant of good faith, which they 24          continued to believe was an extremely strong claim for them 25          because of what they -- some of the evidence they had from

005215

Seery - Direct

53

1 prior testimony of certain employees about assets moving
2 around, the domination and control, and that that domination
3 and control, even if it didn't get alter ego up to the Debtor,
4 would get alter ego to HFP, and then hold the Debtor liable
5 for the implied covenant because of the way assets were moved
6 in and out of those entities.

7 So they looked, they looked at the $95 million, I think,
8 what we looked at as a ceiling, they looked at it as a floor,
9 and so -- but we did feel very good about where we came out of 10 that hearing.

11 Q And do you recall if the Court made any determination with 12 respect to UBS's claims against Multi-Strat?

13 A It did. So, the Court looked -- recall that -- that --

14 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, let me object. What the 15 Court -- the Court ruling is the Court's ruling, and it
16 is -- the question is unclear because the ruling goes to 17 Multi-Strat entities as opposed to Multi-Strat, LP.

18 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, what's your response?

19 MR. MORRIS: I'll just use the phrase Multi-Strat. I
20 don't have the decision in front of me. But I think, I think 21 we're asking for the witness's understanding, and we're going
22 to later find out how the witness's understanding comports
23 with the proposed settlement. Mr. Draper, --

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. MORRIS: -- whatever objection -- you know, he 005216

Seery - Direct

54

1 can make whatever argument he wants.

2 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule. He can answer.

3 THE WITNESS: So, with respect to the Multi-Strat
4 transfer, recall there were a number of transfers, including
5 some direct transfers to Highland. The original number was -- 6 it included Redeemer, Credit-Strat, Citibank, Highland, Multi-
7 Strat. I think the original number was around $233 million of 8 transfers. The transfers to Multi-Strat really left what the 9 judge, from my recollection of the decision, was looking at 10 those transfers, what was the likelihood that we -- that UBS
11 would prevail?

12 Recall that the claim that UBS has is for actual fraud.
13 This is not -- so their recovery could be from Multi-Strat, 14 but their recovery could also be from Highland. Remember the 15 implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing and the 16 domination and control and moving the assets in and out.
17 Highland could be liable for that amount as well. But that 18 would reflect on what the transfers were and what the 19 likelihood of success against Multi-Strat would be, too.

20 The number was around twenty -- the ultimate court number
21 was around $23 million, but it's a higher number of $25
22 million and change, with a 90 percent likelihood of success.
23 That was without interest. So if you factored in the 24 interest, it would have been around mid-60s, discounted 90
25 percent likelihood of success. But I believe it was right

005217

Seery - Direct

55

1 around $24 million, $23,700,000, some -- a number like that.
2 I don't recall the exact number.

3 Q Okay. After the Court issued its rulings on the 4 preliminary -- on the partial summary judgment motion and the 5 3018 motion, did the Debtor and UBS engage in further
6 discussions and negotiations about a possible settlement?

7 A We did. We actually reengaged with the mediators. So, so
8 both former Judge Gropper as well as Sylvia Mayer held at 9 least -- there was one session -- I believe it was one
10 session, but we prepped before it, and a significant 11 discussion with principals, including the principals of UBS, 12 at the -- at the mediation. We then had a number of 13 discussions with just principals, where we took lawyers out
14 and decided to try to see if there was a way to cut a deal.

15 Recall that around the $25 million, UBS felt really 16 strongly about this claim. I think they thought that this 17 was, in their view, as close to a slam dunk as you could get.
18 In my view, I thought the Debtor had significant defenses.
19 And I think, with the mediators' help, you know, both their 20 slam dunk got trimmed back and our significant defenses maybe 21 got -- got shaken a little bit. And ultimately, towards the 22 end of December, we started coalescing around what could be a
23 potential structure of a deal, with multiple pieces.

24 Without going into specifics, UBS had felt so good about 25 this position that they had that they were willing to settle

005218

Seery - Direct

56

1 and not settle against Multi-Strat, which we thought would
2 have been terrible because the facts, as they kept evolving,
3 you know, would have been problematic, and on a standalone
4 basis, with the testimony that they had, it was going to be 5 very difficult, without what we think is a view around the 6 estate and the impact on creditors, to defend against some of 7 the prior employees' testimony in the original UBS case, which 8 they had on videotape.

9 Q Does the Debtor have an interest in Multi-Strat?

10 A It does. The Debtor has about 58 percent of the, directly
11 and indirectly, of the partnership interest in Multi-Strat.

12 Q So it's a majority owner; is that right?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Okay. Going back to the negotiations --

15 A Well, it's the majority owner of the limited partnership
16 units. We also control a hundred percent the general partner.

17 Q Okay. Just going back to the negotiations, I want to make 18 sure that we've touched all the bases. Did Mr. Dubel play any 19 direct role in the negotiations with UBS?

20 A Well, as I mentioned earlier, both Mr. Nelms and Mr. Dubel
21 were extremely active. This was a big claim, and it was key,
22 one, to getting it to a manageable number postpetition, but 23 even at $95 million, whether you look at that as a ceiling or 24 a floor, it was going to be significant litigation,
25 significant expense, and a significant hindrance to any kind

005219

Seery - Direct

57

1 of distributions in the case.

2 In addition, if UBS was voting against the plan, we might 3 not have gotten it done. And so this was critical to the 4 board and was front and center of everything we did.

5 When we broke out into the mediation, we started -- we 6 were trying to figure out who were the best parties to have
7 more direct discussions, to see if we could get a transaction
8 done. Because I was probably the most strong in favor of 9 litigating, it -- we determined that it probably made more
10 sense to have -- to have Mr. Dubel take the lead in trying to 11 work through the negotiations around the framework to see if 12 there was something that we could get done. But any of those 13 decisions would be subject to full board approval, after 14 analysis with counsel and sufficient -- a review of what the 15 pros and cons of that settlement might be.

16 Q And did there come a time in January, prior to the 17 confirmation hearing, when the Debtor and UBS reached an 18 agreement in principle?

19 A Yes. So, as I said, late December, we started getting the 20 framework of what a decision could -- could -- or, a 21 settlement could be. We had already had some idea based upon 22 the multiple mediation sessions that we'd had, and then the --
23 and the direct negotiations among the principles. I think it
24 was around January 5th that we reached an agreement in 25 principle on what the terms of the settlement could be with

005220

Seery - Direct

58

1 UBS.

2 Q And can you just describe for the Court, to the extent
3 that you can recall, what the terms were that were presented 4 at the confirmation hearing, the principle terms of the 5 settlement?

6 A Yes. After going through significant back-and-forth and 7 offers and counteroffers, we reached an agreement where UBS
8 would get a claim in Class 8 of $50 million, they would get a
9 claim in Class 9, which is the subordinated class, of $25
10 million, they would have a claim and a settlement with Multi-11 Strat in the amount of $18,500,000, and then they would -- we 12 would use our best efforts to help them recover the Greenbrier
13 preference shares and any other assets that might be in CDO
14 Fund or SOHC.

15 So, at that point, as I mentioned, what -- we had proposed 16 different things around those assets, which included that we 17 would buy those assets from them so they could get payment.
18 That was going to be a little bit difficult for cash crunch,
19 but we thought it -- we would be best able to manage those 20 assets and find the upside in them. We would just give those 21 assets to them.

22 And then they kept pushing us on, okay, if you're going to 23 just give them to them, then just give them. That made me,
24 frankly, nervous. And so, from a mechanical standpoint, I
25 urged our counsel and our financial advisors to go find these

005221

Seery - Direct

59

1 preference shares. It shouldn't be very hard. If we own
2 them, they should be sitting with a custodian. Make sure
3 they're there. Are they owned by CDO Fund? Just, are there
4 any other claims against CDO Fund?

5 What I didn't want to do is turn assets over to UBS and 6 then find out that we are accused of a fraudulent conveyance
7 or a preference down in the Caymans. Actually, CDO Fund is 8 Bermuda. But, so I was a little bit nervous about those 9 assets, particularly because we couldn't get a straight answer
10 out of our legal department at all as to where these were, and 11 it should have been very, very easy.

12 Q Well, --

13 A The ultimate -- the settlement on that piece was we'll do
14 what we can, best efforts, to get those to you when I figure 15 out what we have.

16 Q And at the time of confirmation, did the board and the 17 Debtor generally believe that that proposed settlement was in 18 the Debtors' best interests and was favorable to the estate?

19 A Yes. I think, you know, referring back to Mr. Clubok's
20 opening remarks, it certainly didn't feel good. I thought it
21 was expensive. But versus the risk of the downside and versus 22 the costs of litigation and versus the impact on the estate
23 and the ability to actually confirm and then consummate a 24 plan, we thought it was a good deal.

25 Q And did there come a time after the confirmation hearing

005222

Seery - Direct

60

1 that negotiations with UBS were reopened?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Can you describe for the Court the circumstances that
4 caused the Debtor to reopen negotiations with UBS?

5 A Well, after we reached the agreement, we started working
6 on documenting that with UBS. And as maybe the flavor gives 7 you a little bit of past as prologue, negotiations around the 8 document were not easy. It was extremely difficult. We were 9 concerned about risks in the document and wanted to make sure
10 it was tied up very tightly. UBS, similarly, they just had a 11 different -- wanted a different way to tie it up. And so
12 those negotiations took some time. While that was going on,
13 we were also working on trying to figure out these Greenbrier
14 shares independently.

15 Separately, right around I think it was the beginning of 16 January, we terminated Ellington and Leventon for cause, and 17 that termination really related to some very -- didn't relate 18 to this issue. It related to specific things we found with 19 respect to their work with Mr. Dondero to try to thwart the 20 plan and inflict damage on the Debtor in the fall and the 21 winter -- beginning in the winter of 2020.

22 When we terminated Mr. Leventon, in the course of sending 23 him an email, the auto-populate in Outlook filled in something 24 called LeventonSASManagement.com. Basically, an email of 25 something I'd never heard of. That sent us looking for what 005223

Seery - Direct

61

1 the heck is SAS Management. So, while we were going towards
2 confirmation, separate from UBS, we had our professionals
3 doing some work around what -- what is this thing that -- the 4 secret company that is on our server, at least to some degree,
5 that I haven't heard of in a year and no one's mentioned it to 6 me.

7 It turns out, shortly after confirmation, I think it was 8 actually just a day or two after confirmation, counsel came to 9 me and said, we've got a problem, and described what was found
10 going through the SAS Management issues and CDO Fund issues, 11 of a massive transfer of $300 million face amount of 12 securities in 2017 for basically what appeared to be no
13 consideration to a Cayman Island entity.

14 We did a fair amount of digging, as we're not trained
15 investigators, but we did a fair amount of digging on these 16 issues. And really, it was -- we discovered it because there
17 was one employee that we had not yet terminated, Matt DiOrion,
18 who kept giving us a runaround on where the Greenbrier
19 preferred shares are.

20 Again, this is a very simple thing. Shares are, when 21 they're physical, are kept in a -- with a custodian. They're 22 kept in a vault. They don't leave the vault. Bank of New 23 York doesn't lose shares. These were moved out as part of 24 this transfer in 2017, which just happened to occur in August
25 of 2017, a few months after UBS had had a significant win in a

005224

Seery - Direct

62

1 summary judgment motion in the New York state court. It also
2 coincided with the Credit-Strat settlement, the Redeemer
3 litigation, the Josh Terry litigation commencing, the Pat
4 Daugherty HERA litigation commencing. So things were coming
5 apparently a little bit unraveled at Highland at that time.
6 And we discovered this massive transfer right out of the 7 counterparties SOHC, CDO Fund, and then certain subsidiaries
8 of -- of HFP, that were really in the crosshairs of UBS's
9 litigation.

10 So there's a lot of detail we have on that. It involves 11 tax schemes and frauds. It's -- I've never actually been 12 around something like this. But we'll get to that, I suppose,
13 at some due course. But we couldn't cut the deal with UBS
14 without telling them this.

15 So, within a few days, we -- we didn't have a great 16 roadmap, but we called them up and told them what we knew, and 17 said, look, this is what we've discovered with your 18 counterparty, and, you know, we'd still like to go forward
19 with the settlement. What do you think? They thought about 20 it, came back to us. Our analysis, and we did a lot of 21 analysis very quickly, is it significantly impacted our risk.
22 And why did it significantly impact our risk? Recall the 23 implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing. They're the 24 basis of UBS's claim against Highland. Highland would have no
25 liability whatsoever under this contract if Highland just did

005225

Seery - Direct

63

1 what the contract said. UBS specifically brought a claim
2 saying, you dominated and controlled these entities, they were
3 our counterparty, and you made it so we couldn't recover.

4 We had been told by Highland's legal team that that was 5 nonsense, that those funds didn't have anything, they were 6 shell corporations. Turns out that wasn't true. And so UBS's
7 claim that Highland dominated and controlled this -- and this
8 was done by a small cabal of the folks at Highland, including 9 Dondero, Ellington, Leventon, and others in the legal 10 department to move these assets out from UBS -- that made the 11 claim against HCMLP way better.

12 In addition, it made the actual fraud claim regarding HFP
13 against Multi-Strat way better, because where I thought we 14 could argue around the transfer or the satisfaction of the 15 notes and so-called note unwind transaction, now we were 16 getting into a realm where no, you knew that UBS was 17 progressing with a claim against you, you saw it coming
18 against HFP, and you stripped the assets out because you were 19 an LP in Multi-Strat. So you, rather than leave them there to 20 help satisfy the judgment or defend against the piercing of 21 the veil of HFP, you stripped them out. And so we thought
22 that that materially increased the risk that UBS could prevail
23 on that claim as well.

24 Q And having done the risk assessment and having shared the 25 preliminary findings with UBS, did the Debtor and UBS continue

005226

Seery - Direct

64

1 negotiations and ultimately reach a revised settlement?

2 A We did. So, the negotiations continued. You know,
3 frankly, the Debtor was in a difficult position. Because we
4 had a confirmed plan. If we were really litigating with UBS
5 about a billion-dollar claim, it would have been very
6 difficult to consummate the confirmed plan. You know, as I
7 said, it materially increased our risk. We still had defenses
8 and we don't throw away our defenses, but this was a material
9 body blow, if you will, to a boxing analogy, you know, in a --
10 what we had hoped was a late round, and it certainly weakened
11 our position and our case.

12 But I think we were fortunate that we had set up our case
13 well from the start. UBS had certain risk based upon the 14 summary judgment motion and the limited parts -- certain parts
15 of their claim that had gotten knocked out. And so we recut
16 the deal. Where we had a $50 million Class 8 claim, we agreed
17 to a 68 -- oh, I'm sorry, a $65 million Class 8 claim. Where 18 we had a $25 million Class 9 claim, we agreed to a $60 million
19 Class 9 claim for UBS.

20 The $18-1/2 million, we kept at $18-1/2 million. And the 21 reason for that was I felt really strongly that there were 22 still some defenses, I had to think about third parties in 23 that one, and I really didn't want to increase that,
24 notwithstanding that the risk to Multi-Strat had been 25 increased. Certainly, UBS had argued for an increase, a

005227

Seery - Direct

65

1 material increase in that amount, because they thought, as
2 they had previously, that they had a great claim, and this
3 certainly augmented the position that they had.

4 And then we agreed to use our best efforts, similar to the 5 decision -- the original settlement, which is our best efforts
6 with regard to CDO Fund, but we agreed to use our best efforts
7 to help figure out what happened with the assets down at CDO
8 Fund and SOHC or with their counterparties that we dominated 9 and controlled and help them recover on those to the extent
10 that they were valid claims. And we agreed to actually expend 11 funds to do that, up to $3 million, which would be -- we would 12 be reimbursed for, the estate would be reimbursed for,
13 depending on which assets they came out of.

14 And that was a -- the -- so that, that was the settlement
15 that we reached. The board analyzed again the risks of going 16 forward with the litigation, what we thought the benefits of 17 prevailing, where we would end up with respect to the estate
18 and the expenses that we would have to incur. We thought
19 about the New York state litigation, the cost there, as well
20 as the costs in the bankruptcy estate, and then any issues
21 with respect to CDO Fund, SOHC, HFP. We did that analysis
22 with outside professionals, both DSI and your firm, with the 23 Pachulski firm.

24 We also had engaged as fund counsel Wilmer Hale, and they 25 have been active in reviewing what we do with respect to each

005228

Seery - Direct

66

1 of the funds, including the Multi-Strat settlement, and
2 they've been an active part of those.

3 Q All right. Let's just finish up with a discussion about 4 Multi-Strat. Can you describe for the Court your 5 understanding of how the Multi-Strat family of entities is 6 related, what the corporate structure is?

7 A It's a pretty straightforward mini master fund, with 8 limited partners in a Cayman Island -- it's a Delaware LP, a 9 Cayman Island feeder, which is -- which is pretty typical, and 10 then a GP structure. So we had various limited partners, a 11 Cayman Island feeder, and then a multilevel general partner
12 structure.

13 So the -- I don't recall the actual names, but there's two 14 entities between Highland and Multi-Strat on the GP side, and 15 they're either LPs or -- they -- they're GP structured as an 16 LP or an LLC, so we control a hundred percent of those.

17 Q And as part of the settlement, can you just remind the 18 Court what Multi-Strat will be paying to UBS?

19 A Multi-Strat is going to pay $18-1/2 million to UBS. We 20 had escrowed money in the spring, in a dispute with UBS, at 21 Multi-Strat. We were selling some life insurance policies
22 because we didn't have funds to continue to pay the premiums,
23 and if you don't pay the premiums they expire worthless. We 24 sold those for $32 million. UBS took the position that you
25 can't -- you can't give a good rep, and the buyer wanted a

005229

Seery - Direct

67

1 clean rep, because UBS had a claim against Multi-Strat for 2 either the policies or their value, plus interest. So we 3 reached a deal with UBS at that time which allowed us to --
4 and there were certain of the policies were also subject to a
5 secured lien in favor of, and it's always the same, NexBank.
6 And so we reached a deal where we could sell those policies,
7 pay off the piece to NexBank, escrow $10 million, and satisfy
8 certain other obligations at Multi-Strat, including reserving
9 so that we knew we could pay the P&I to Multi-Strat, principal
10 and interest to Multi-Strat, over the -- to NexBank over the 11 next year.

12 So that money had already been put in escrow, but we 13 hadn't agreed with anything. We figured, with UBS, we would 14 litigate. But their litigation would tie up any distributions
15 out of Multi-Strat until it was concluded. So we will settle
16 with UBS at $18-1/2 million. We'll use the $10-plus million
17 cash at Multi-Strat, and we have additional significant assets
18 at Multi-Strat.

19 Multi-Strat is a little bit unusual. In my experience, 20 actually, extremely unusual. There are $90 million of 21 redeemers, they redeemed from the Multi-Strat fund, and they 22 hadn't been paid for years. They get very little information.
23 We're now providing information to them. But the Debtor
24 treated them pretty much as an afterthought. They were sort
25 of treated as if you would treat a non-(inaudible) threat,

005230

Seery - Direct

68

1 that they have a fixed claim, but their -- the value of their
2 claim or the dollar amount of their claim doesn't rise and 3 fall with the assets. And then we had 58 percent at HCMLP of 4 the limited partnership, with the other partnerships in 5 Dondero-controlled entities. I suspect there were will be 6 litigation around that because of the damages they have caused 7 to Multi-Strat. But the assets in Multi-Strat are 8 approximately a hundred --

9 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor? Your Honor, let me -- let 10 me ask that that part be stricken. That has nothing to do
11 with this case, either. That's just an extemporaneous comment
12 made by Mr. Seery --

13 (Overspeaking.)

14 MR. DRAPER: -- future litigation.

15 THE WITNESS: -- so we can make distributions.

16 THE COURT: All right. I sustain that objection.

17 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q Mr. Seery, can we just -- who is -- who is the Multi-Strat
20 investment manager?

21 A It's Highland Capital Management, --

22 Q It's not you --

23 A -- the Debtor.

24 Q It's not you personally, is it?

25 A No.

005231

Seery - Direct

69

1 Q Okay. And you mentioned the redeemed interest holders.
2 Will this settlement, based on your understanding, will this
3 settlement have any impact whatsoever on any redeemed interest
4 holder?

5 A No. Other than $32 million of redemptions which are in 6 Sentinel, a large portion of which came out of the CDO Fund
7 transfer, those -- those redeemers won't be affected. And the 8 reason I say that is because the assets in Multi-Strat are 9 approximately $135, $136 million today, so that, of the 10 approximately $66 million of third-party redeemers, I don't 11 anticipate any issue ultimately paying them, although there's 12 -- the Fund is not currently in liquidation, so they're not 13 required to be paid now. And the assets far exceed the value
14 of the amount of their redemption claims.

15 Q Okay. Did the Debtor, as the investment manager for 16 Multi-Strat, seek or obtain an independent view on behalf of 17 Multi-Strat with respect to this settlement?

18 A Not a -- not separate from the view that we get from your 19 firm, from Wilmer Hale, and from DSI. We didn't go out and 20 get a third party specifically for Multi-Strat, no.

21 Q And why didn't you do that?

22 A That would be very unusual. We're the controlling -- we 23 have a majority of the limited partnership interest and we are 24 the investment manager of the fund, as well as being the GP.
25 We have plenary authority as the general partner to dictate

005232

Seery - Direct

70

1 the affairs of Multi-Strat. In addition, we have significant
2 authority under the investment management agreement to handle
3 the affairs of Multi-Strat and engage in or settle
4 litigations.

5 Q And is that investment management agreement an agreement
6 that has been assumed by the Debtor as part of the bankruptcy?

7 A I believe it has, yes.

8 Q Okay.

9 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, can we just take a short
10 break? I may be finished, but I just want to check my notes.

11 THE COURT: All right. Let's do it. Let's take a 12 10-minute break.

13 THE CLERK: All rise.

14 MR. MOORE: Come back at--?

15 THE COURT: 11:01, we'll come back.

16 (A recess ensued from 10:51 a.m. until 11:03 a.m.)

17 THE CLERK: All rise.

18 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're back
19 on the record in the Highland matter. Mr. Morris, are you
20 ready to resume your direct?

21 MR. MORRIS: I am. And I just have a bit more, Your 22 Honor.

23 THE COURT: Okay. You may proceed.

24 DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

005233

Seery - Direct

71

1 Q Okay. Mr. Seery, are you ready? Can you hear me?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Does -- to the best of your knowledge, does Mr. Dondero
4 have any direct ownership interest in any part of the Multi-
5 Strat group of families?

6 A No. He does not have that.

7 Q Okay. Do you have an understanding as to whether Dugaboy,
8 the Dugaboy Investment Trust has any interest in any aspect of 9 the Multi-Strat family?

10 A I believe they have 1.7 percent of the limited partnership
11 units.

12 Q Okay. I'm trying to see if we can establish what 13 Dugaboy's interest in -- is in the $18-1/2 million. Does that 14 mean that, if you rounded it up to 2 percent, that Dugaboy
15 would have an interest in the settlement amount that would be 16 valued at $37 million -- $370,000?

17 A You know, you can do that math. I think that the --
18 that's not how a limited partnership works. They have a 19 limited partnership interest, and claims get paid before
20 limited partners receive distributions. And in our structure,
21 as I mentioned earlier, first you pay the claims, then you pay
22 the redeemers, then the residual interests go to limited
23 partners.

24 Q Okay. So in my hypothetical, the maximum that Dugaboy
25 could get if you rounded it up to 2 percent would be 005234

Seery - Direct

72

1 approximately $370,000, and that assumes that there are no
2 claims; is that fair?

3 A That's correct.

4 Q Okay. And if the Court excised this part of the 5 settlement -- withdrawn.

6 MR. MORRIS: I'd like to -- I'd like to put up on the 7 screen Exhibit 68, which I believe is the organizational chart
8 for Multi-Strat.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Are you familiar with this document, sir?

11 A I am, yes.

12 Q Can you just describe generally what role Highland Capital
13 Management plays in connection with the management of the 14 entities on this page?

15 A Sure. When we talk about Multi-Strat, we're talking about 16 the Credit Fund, which is a limited partnership. That's the 17 long box slightly below the middle of the page. Highland 18 Multi-Strat Credit Fund Limited Partnership.

19 A limited partnership is managed by its general partner.
20 Its general partner is a Delaware limited partnership called 21 Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund GP, LP.

22 As a limited partnership, it has limited partners, which 23 are HCMLP, is all the limited partners. And it has a GP,
24 which is Highland Multi-Strategy Credit GP, LLC. The LLC, 25 being an LLC, is managed by its managing members, or its 005235

Seery - Direct

73

1 members if it doesn't have a managing member. All of the 2 membership units are controlled and owned by HCMLP.

3 In addition, HCMLP is the investment manager of the 4 Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, LP, what we call Multi-
5 Strat today. It's also the investment manager of the offshore
6 fund, which is a limited partnership fund called Highland
7 Multi-Strategy Credit Fund. However, it doesn't have any real 8 authority over that fund because that's hard -- its 9 investments are hardwired. It invests into the Highland
10 Multi-Strat Credit -- Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, LP, and it
11 can do nothing else.

12 Q Okay. Are these -- are these -- are these organized on a 13 consolidated basis for reporting purposes?

14 A Yes. This is -- this is really treated as one fund, and 15 the entities below Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, LP are 16 various subsidiaries where certain assets were put at certain 17 times.

18 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness.

20 Mr. Clubok, I'll stick with friendlies first. Do you have
21 examination?

22 MR. CLUBOK: Very brief, Your Honor.

23 CROSS-EXAMINATION

24 BY MR. CLUBOK:

25 Q Mr. Seery, just one clarifying point. You referred you

005236

1 generally to this entity as Highland Multi-Strat. I think at 2 one point it had a different name, that it was Highland Credit
3 Opportunities. Is that correct?

4 A Yes. And if you look at the chart that Mr. Morris put up,
5 below Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, a lot of those
6 entities have the old name. So, Highland Credit Opportunities
7 CDO Fund; HCOF, which would be Highland Credit Opportunity
8 Fund Preferred; et cetera. So you'll see that that older name
9 is reflected down below. I believe there was a -- I don't
10 have the exact date, but there's an amended and restated 11 limited partnership agreement that dealt with the changing of 12 the name.

13 Q And that name change occurred after the New York
14 litigation was filed. So when you said repeatedly things to 15 the effect that Multi-Strat was a defendant in New York, you
16 mean Multi-Strat and/or the entity that it was formerly known
17 as, Highland Credit Opportunities, correct?

18 A Yes. It was a name change. It's not a -- it's not a 19 complete change of the entity.

20 Q Okay.

21 A It's not a successor. It was a name change.

22 Q Thank you. Sir, you also referred at one point to the 23 warehouse agreements. Those were agreements that involved the 24 Funds. And you, kind of just very briefly paraphrasing, said
25 something to the effect that there was a provision that

1 required the Funds to pay a hundred percent of the losses as 2 part of the -- which is sort of part of the underlying
3 litigation with UBS. Do you recall that testimony?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And I believe, for the record, that those warehouse
6 agreements are exhibits of the Debtors, Exhibits 6 and 7 to 7 this proceeding, just for reference.

8 I just wanted to note that in -- well, first of all, those 9 -- those warehouse agreements, in addition to being signed by 10 the Funds, were also signed by Highland Capital Management,
11 correct?

12 A Yes. Highland was clearly a party to those agreements as 13 the manager.

14 Q And there was a third document that collectively formed
15 the contract between the parties at the time that was known as 16 the engagement letter, which I believe the Debtor has 17 identified as Exhibit 8 to this proceeding. Are you familiar
18 with that?

19 A I'm familiar with that document, yes.

20 Q And that document, which was an agreement that was just 21 between Highland and UBS, generally governed the terms of the 22 warehouse agreements and so forth, correct?

23 A Yes. A very standard structure, where the manager
24 organizing the funds signs that document. The underlying 25 funds don't sign it because they're not -- they're not the

1 structurer, they're not the manager, they're not really --
2 they're not -- they're just shell -- typically, they're just
3 shell entities here obviously that had assets.

4 Q And that engagement letter that was signed on behalf of 5 HCM also referenced obligation for the Funds to cover a
6 hundred percent of the losses, correct?

7 A Correct. It laid out the, really, it's the master
8 agreement, if you will, though it doesn't dominate the other
9 agreements. It just lays out the entire structure of the 10 transaction and the agreements between Highland and UBS on how 11 the transaction would go forward.

12 Q And in the New York proceeding, the Court has now
13 determined that those Funds have owed UBS over $500 million
14 since at least going back to 2009, when UBS first filed the 15 lawsuit in New York, correct?

16 A That's correct. Plus interest.

17 Q Right. It was originally some -- a little over $500
18 million, and since then, because of interest, it's over a 19 billion. Correct?

20 A Yes.

21 Q But in all the time since UBS filed its lawsuit in 22 February of 2009 through today, has Highland ever caused 23 either of the Funds to pay a single dollar to UBS with respect
24 to these losses?

25 A Not to my knowledge. And we certainly -- Highland did not

Seery - Cross

77

1 pay anything to UBS during the case.

2 MR. CLUBOK: That's all I have, Your Honor. Just,
3 although I would like to note that I believe technically this
4 witness has been called by both the Debtor and the Objectors,
5 and I think we're combining the testimony all into one, so I
6 just would ask to reserve the right to potentially ask follow-
7 up questions based on different questions that are asked by 8 the Objectors' counsel.

9 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. And I'll just 10 clarify with everyone. Mr. Draper, I guess you'll go next,
11 but if you all have named Mr. Seery as a witness, then I
12 guess, rather than, you know, having you all recall him after 13 we're finished here, we'll just let you go beyond the scope of 14 direct with your examination. And if you do, that means, I
15 guess, the Debtor and the UBS are going to get the last shot
16 at questioning, because, instead of direct/cross/redirect/
17 recross, there would be your -- you know what I'm saying. So
18 I'm allowing you to go beyond the scope of direct if you so
19 choose, but that means that Movants get the last word on 20 examination.

21 Whoops, you must be on mute.

22 MR. DRAPER: Can you hear me now?

23 THE COURT: I can hear you now.

24 MR. DRAPER: Okay. I promised Mr. Clubok that I
25 would try to make this end rather quickly and try to -- try to 005240

Seery - Cross

78

1 walk my way through things. And a lot, look, a lot of my
2 stuff is based on documentation, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MR. DRAPER: So, I'm ready. Can you put back up
5 Debtors' 68, Bryan, the Multi-Strat org chart?

6 CROSS-EXAMINATION

7 BY MR. DRAPER:

8 Q Mr. Seery, you've identified this chart. What I'd ask you
9 to look at is the entity Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund,
10 LP. That is the Delaware entity that is paying the $18-1/2
11 million, correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Now, in looking at this org chart, in your pleadings you
14 made the statement that the Debtor owns 58.7 percent of the 15 Delaware LP?

16 A I don't recall if I gave a point-something, but it's right
17 in that range, 58.67, 58.7.

18 Q Okay. So is that under the various limited partners'
19 percentage? Or is that something else?

20 A It's consolidated, but it's -- it's under the limited
21 partnership percentage, I believe.

22 Q All right. Well, how much does Highland Multi-Strat
23 Credit Fund, Limited, the Cayman entity, own in Highland 24 Multi-Strat Credit Fund, LP?

25 And let me make a statement. What I'm trying to do, and 005241

Seery - Cross

79

1 I'll go through this, when I refer to LP, I'm talking about
2 Highland Multi-Strat Credit Fund, LP. When I'm talking about
3 Limited, I'm talking about Highland Multi-Strategy Credit
4 Fund, Limited. Do you understand that?

5 A I'll figure it out.

6 Q All right. So, one's a Cayman entity. How much -- what
7 is the limited partnership interest that Limited owns in LP?

8 A Right now, I believe that's extremely small. Not -- we 9 look at it on a consolidated basis. But that offshore would 10 be the foreign investors. And so I don't recall. I think
11 virtually all of them have redeemed. So we wouldn't treat
12 them as limited partners. We'd treat them as redeemers. So 13 when it mentions the Japanese feeder on this chart, there were 14 also Australian superannuation funds, all of them have 15 redeemed.

16 Q Let me --

17 A The only --

18 Q Let me try to piece that together. Aren't they only 19 owners of or members of Credit Fund, Limited, not Credit Fund,
20 LP?

21 A They -- they would have been, but they're redeemers, and 22 the fund they're in is hardwired to Credit Fund, LP.

23 Q All right. And so since one's a limited partner of the 24 other, LTD can take no role in the management or operation of 25 LP, correct?

005242

1 A That's correct.

2 Q All right. And in terms of raising money, both -- LTD had 3 its own separate subscription agreement, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And LP had its own separate subscription agreement?

6 A I believe that's correct.

7 Q So, basically, though you may report them together, they
8 both have different investors, they both have different
9 subscription agreements, one's a Cayman company and one's a
10 Delaware company; is that correct?

11 A The master fund is a Delaware company.

12 Q Right.

13 A And it -- these are limited -- the Cayman company is a 14 limited partner in the Delaware company.

15 Q Right.

16 A And the offshore investors invest in the Cayman company.
17 That's a pretty standard structure.

18 Q Okay. And is there a written agreement with respect to 19 the redemption, the $89 million of redeemers that exist or 20 that existed?

21 A There's no separate written agreement. They redeemed and 22 submitted redemptions, but there's no separate redemption
23 agreement.

24 Q Let me ask the question a different way. Is there an 25 agreement that they will be paid when certain assets are sold?

Seery - Cross

81

1 A That's part of the underlying documentation of the fund,
2 yes.

3 Q And what -- what assets were they to be paid out of under 4 that agreement?

5 A Any assets of the fund after claims are paid.

6 Q So your testimony is that there was no specific assets set
7 aside to satisfy the claims of the parties making a
8 redemption?

9 A I don't believe so, no.

10 Q Is that a no, or you don't know?

11 A I don't know.

12 Q Okay. And, again, just so we're very clear, when we look
13 at the defendants to the UBS lawsuit, and I'll -- when I use
14 the term UBS lawsuit, I'll talk about the second amended
15 complaint -- the defendant in that lawsuit is Highland Multi-
16 Strategy Credit Fund, LP. It is not Highland Multi-Strategy
17 Credit Fund, Limited?

18 A I believe that's correct, yes.

19 Q Now, in connection with the deposition and my 20 documentation, you produced the fourth amended articles of 21 partnership for the Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, LP.
22 Is that the last document in connection with the 23 organizational structure of LP?

24 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

25 THE WITNESS: I -- I'm not sure.

005244

1 THE COURT: Overruled.

2 THE WITNESS: I believe it is. We would -- we would
3 have produced -- sorry, Your Honor. We would have produced
4 the most recent one we had.

5 BY MR. DRAPER:

6 Q So, so the operative document for the organizational 7 structure for LP is the -- is the fourth amended that's been 8 produced and is part of my exhibits?

9 A I believe so.

10 Q All right. And the -- Highland Multi-Strategy Credit
11 Fund, Limited has its own operating agreement and its own
12 organizational documents?

13 A I believe so, yes.

14 Q And that's also been produced and you've given me the 15 latest copy of those documents?

16 A I believe so, yes.

17 Q And you've also given to me a third amended investment
18 management agreement that covers the Debtor as investment
19 manager for Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, Limited as 20 well as Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, LP. Has that 21 document been -- been amended?

22 A I'm sorry. Has that document been--?

23 Q Amended. The one I have is the third amended document.

24 A I believe we gave you the most recent ones.

25 Q All right. Now, you did a mathematical calculation before

1 as to the Dugaboy interest, but let's -- let's sort of break
2 that down. If I understand your mathematics, you had a
3 hundred -- roughly $140 million of assets in what I'll call
4 LP?

5 A $135 to $136 million.

6 Q Okay. Let's use $135 million.

7 A (overspoken) exhibits.

8 Q Okay. Let's use $135 million. In terms of the 9 redemption, what -- how much is being redeemed or pending
10 redemption?

11 A Approximately $89 million.

12 Q Okay. And of that, Sentinel has a piece, but there are 13 others separate and apart from Sentinel who -- who have 14 redeemed, correct?

15 A That's correct.

16 Q How much is the Sentinel redemption versus the other --
17 outside redemption?

18 A I believe the Sentinel is about a third. $32 million-ish.

19 Q Okay. So if you take the redemptions out, what's the net
20 equity value in LP?

21 A It's about $45 million right now.

22 Q So if you multiplied the Dugaboy 2 percent interest in the 23 -- in LP, it's much greater than $360,000, correct?

24 A That's correct.

25 Q And that the effect of the settlement reduces the Dugaboy

1 interest or value of our interest by $360 million? $360,000?

2 A Again, based on that math. Whatever the claims are at the 3 Credit Fund, including the -- first, the claims have to get
4 paid first. All the expenses and claims. Then the redeeming
5 partners get paid. Then the non-redeeming partners get paid.

6 Q So, my math reflects that, correct?

7 A I'm not sure which math you're talking about.

8 Q I --

9 A It would have a partnership interest and it would get a 10 distribution on the net equity.

11 Q Right. Thank you. Now, Debtors' 73.

12 MR. DRAPER: Can you put that up, Bryan?

13 BY MR. DRAPER:

14 Q That is a settlement agreement that was entered into May 15 11th, 2020 between Multi-Strat, LP and UBS, correct? And you
16 -- you've testified about that earlier.

17 A That's correct.

18 Q And that's where various life settlements were sold by 19 Multi-Strat to raise money?

20 A They -- they were sold for money, yes. It wasn't -- we 21 didn't have an obligation to raise money. We sold them
22 because --

23 Q Okay.

24 A -- we thought it was good value and we sold them because 25 we didn't have the money to pay the premiums.

1 Q And court authority was not -- not sought for this
2 transaction?

3 A That's correct.

4 Q Does Multi-Strat, in its ordinary course of business, sell
5 these life policies?

6 A Yes, it sells assets.

7 Q No. Does it sell -- in the ordinary course of its 8 business, does it sell these policies?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. And how many has it sold in the last year other 11 than this transaction?

12 A These were all of them.

13 Q Okay. Now, doesn't it also get money in from people dying
14 and benefit -- as a beneficiary under the policy?

15 A If people died. But they didn't.

16 Q Okay. Over the time period the prior five years, how many 17 life policies did Multi-Strat, LP sell?

18 A I don't believe it sold any. There may -- there are two 19 that expired worthless. I don't believe it sold any.

20 Q So, really, in connection with your testimony, for the 21 five years prior it didn't sell any life policies?

22 A It did not sell any, no.

23 Q Okay. Now, in looking -- let me go back to the org chart
24 that we had. Each one of those entities on that org chart,
25 Highland has some relationship to -- and I'm talking about

1 Highland, the Debtor -- either as a fiduciary, as a general
2 partner, or through an investment management agreement; is
3 that correct?

4 A If you mean directly or indirectly, yes.

5 Q Okay. So, indirectly or indirectly, it owes a fiduciary
6 duty to everybody on here?

7 A I'd have to go through each one, so I wouldn't make that 8 as a blanket statement.

9 Q Which ones -- let's do it this way. Which ones doesn't it
10 owe a fiduciary duty to? There are not that many entities on 11 here, so you can pick out the ones that it doesn't directly or 12 indirectly owe a fiduciary --

13 A I can't get down to the -- to the bottom interests. But,
14 for example, I don't know that -- I think it's a legal 15 conclusion -- I don't know, starting up at the top, that --
16 well, I know we -- that we don't owe a fiduciary duty --
17 Highland Capital Management doesn't owe a fiduciary duty to 18 Strand Advisors.

19 I don't know whether Highland owns a fiduciary -- owes a
20 fiduciary duty to GP, LLC, Highland Multi-Strategy GP, LLC, 21 notwithstanding that it owns a hundred percent of the 22 membership units. It -- that would act as a break, then, with 23 respect to whether it owes a fiduciary duty to Highland Multi-
24 Strategy Credit Fund GP, LP, because the LLC, if it serves
25 effectively as a blocker, doesn't owe a -- the L -- as an LP,

1 you don't owe a duty to the limited partnership.

2 So, I mean, we could go through each of these if you'd
3 like, but I'd be just speculating.

4 Q Okay. And I think you've testified before that Highland,
5 the Debtor, is subject to the Advisers Act?

6 A Highland, the --

7 Q Investment Act?

8 A Highland, the Debtor, as an investment manager, is subject
9 to the Advisers Act, yes.

10 Q And didn't you testify that, under the Advisers Act,
11 you're required to put the interests of the entity you're the 12 management advisor for over the interests of any other
13 Highland entity where it's a fiduciary?

14 A I think where it's a fiduciary you owe a fiduciary duty to 15 that entity. Then if you have two fiduciary duties, you
16 balance those -- those interests. So, while you have 17 fiduciary duties to -- Highland Capital Management has a
18 fiduciary duty to Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, LP, it
19 may have fiduciary duties to other entities as well.

20 Q And just looking at this, it would have a fiduciary duty
21 to Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, Limited as investment 22 manager as well as Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, LP as 23 investment manager?

24 A I believe that's the case, yes.

25 Q And how would you rank the fiduciary duty to those

1 entities where you're the investment manager to the duty that
2 Highland has to the estate?

3 A I think they're similar. Again, I think you have to 4 balance those fiduciary duties. Certainly, in the disclosure
5 that Highland made, there can be conflicting -- potentially 6 conflicting interests, and it represents that it will balance
7 those interests.

8 In certain other instances, it's -- it's more easy to 9 balance, but, for example, Highland Multi-Strategy Credit
10 Fund, Limited is hardwired to invest in Highland Multi-11 Strategy Credit Fund, LP, so there are no real decisions that 12 get made at Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, Limited
13 because it has to invest in Highland Multi-Strategy Credit
14 Fund, LP.

15 Q Okay. And let me ask a question. In connection with the 16 May 2020 settlement agreement, did UBS have a lien on the 17 assets of Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, LP?

18 A No, it did not.

19 Q Did it have a -- was there an injunction prohibiting 20 Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, LP from selling those 21 life settlements?

22 A No, there was not.

23 Q And are you sure that the life settlements that you sold
24 in May of -- or, not you sold -- Multi -- LP sold in May of 25 2020 were, in fact, owned by LP, as opposed to owned by

1 Limited?

2 A They were owned by a subsidiary of LP.

3 Q Which subsidiary owned them?

4 A They were owned by Highland Credit Opportunities CDO Asset
5 Holdings, LP, Delaware.

6 Q Okay. Are you aware at any point of Highland Multi-
7 Strategy Credit Fund, Limited owning life settlement policies?

8 A Limited? No, I'm not.

9 Q And both LP and Limited issue their own financial 10 statements, correct?

11 A Typically, the offshore fund would do its own. I haven't
12 looked at the financial statements from Limited.

13 Q And they would have to do that because they have separate 14 investors, correct?

15 A They do. Again, they're mirrors, because it's hardwired.
16 There are no other investments that it made. But typically 17 they would -- they would report separately.

18 Q Well, let me go back to when you say they're hardwired.
19 The various limited partners in the org chart for LP are not 20 investors in Limited, correct? For example, Dugaboy doesn't 21 own an interest in Limited; it owns an interest in LP.

22 A I think that's correct. And I think the ones in Limited
23 have all been redeemed.

24 Q Okay. So, again, just so we're clear, the Debtor owns an 25 interest in LP; it doesn't own an interest in Limited?

1 A I believe that's correct, but to be fair, we do look at it
2 on a consolidated basis.

3 Q All right. So, --

4 A For example, to be -- to be -- one of our interests that
5 the Debtor controls is owned through -- I think it's an entity
6 called Stark. And so we hundred-percent own that entity, and 7 it owns the limited partnership interests. So when I give the 8 58-and-change percent, that's an aggregated amount.

9 Q Where is Stark on this org chart?

10 A It's not on this org chart. It would be a limited
11 partner.

12 Q But -- okay. Now, in connection with the Defendants in 13 the -- what I'll call the Highland -- the UBS Complaint No. 2,
14 and let me just read through them, because it may be easier.
15 If you'll look on the org chart, is Highland Capital
16 Management, LP on the org chart?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay. And that's -- that's the Debtor, correct?

19 A That's correct.

20 Q Is Highland Special Opportunities Fund Holding Company on 21 the org chart?

22 A Not on the Multi-Strat org chart, no.

23 Q Okay. Is Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, LP on the 24 org chart?

25 A No.

1 Q Is Highland Financial Partners, LP on the org chart?

2 A No.

3 Q Same question. Highland Strategies Master Fund, LP.

4 A I'm not -- I'm not aware of that entity. I don't see it
5 on this chart.

6 Q Same question for Highland Crusader Offshore Partners.

7 A No.

8 Q And we know Strand is the general partner of the Debtor,
9 correct?

10 A Correct.

11 Q Okay. Now, how did you arrive at paying the $18.5 million
12 to UBS in connection with the Multi-Strat settlement?

13 A Arm's-length negotiations with UBS.

14 Q Well, you had to have some -- some analysis. Did you 15 review the transfers that were made to Multi-Strat, LP by the 16 prohibited entities?

17 A Yes. Multi-Strat, LP and its -- and its affiliated 18 entities, yes.

19 Q And you concluded -- you say affiliated entities. I am
20 just asking right now for Highland Multi-Strat, LP
21 specifically. I'm focusing on that entity and that entity
22 alone. Did you did review the transfers that were received by 23 Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, LP from the Debtors to 24 UBS?

25 A The predicate is not correct. And as I testified, the

92

1 policies, for example, went to a-hundred-percent-owned 2 subsidiaries. So there are -- certain of the transfer -- the 3 assets went to different places within the structure. I don't 4 recall whether they went directly to LP or one of those 5 entities below LP.

6 Q Okay. Now, you've testified or you referenced that there
7 are two transactions within the UBS lawsuit, correct, that 8 affect what I'll refer to as LP? And if you want, I'd ask --
9 I'll pull up and please look at Paragraph 109 of the UBS
10 second amended complaint.

11 MR. DRAPER: And that's Debtor 21. (Pause.) It's 12 Paragraph 109, so you need to go a little bit further down.

13 BY MR. DRAPER:

14 Q If you'll note in the last sentence of that paragraph, it
15 talks about Debtor and Highland Capital tried to hide this 16 fraudulent conveyance by tying it to the cancellation of the 17 Fall 2008 notes. Do you see that reference?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Have you looked at the Fall 2008 note transaction?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And how -- what were the dollar amount of the notes that 22 were issued to LP?

23 A I don't recall specifically.

24 Q Okay. Well, let's pull up the document. And if you'll --

25 MR. DRAPER: Bryan, can -- I think it's Exhibit 24.

005255

1 BY MR. DRAPER:

2 Q This is the -- the note purchase agreement in September
3 26, 2008. Is this the note purchase agreement that you've 4 reviewed?

5 A Yes. It looks like it.

6 Q Okay.

7 MR. DRAPER: Okay. Can you go to Page 47 of that
8 document, Bryan?

9 BY MR. DRAPER:

10 Q What was the note that was issued in favor of LP?

11 A According to this, $6.6 million.

12 Q And if you'll go on, please look at Page 49 through 59.

13 A Hold on a second. (Pause.) Yeah. This is one of the 14 prior names of -- of LP.

15 Q Right. This is -- this is -- this is L -- this is, in 16 essence, the note LP got in connection with the note
17 transaction, correct?

18 A At least it appears to be, yes.

19 Q And then if you'll look at Exhibit Pages 49 through 59,
20 there were other notes issued. Can you read -- can you look 21 and see, the first one is $29 million. Who received that?

22 A Highland Credit Opportunity Holding Corporation.

23 Q All right. Then the next one?

24 A Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund.

25 Q The next one?

Seery - Cross

94

1 A Highland Crusader Holding Corporation.

2 Q How much?

3 A $138,625,041.

4 Q All right. The next one?

5 A Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, LP.

6 Q How much did they get?

7 A The note, the face amount of the note is $59,295,955.

8 Q And I think there's one other note, or is that it?

9 (Pause.)

10 All right. Now, Mr. Seery, did you review what was 11 transferred by LP in exchange for the notes?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And what was transferred?

14 A The life policies that were ultimately sold, two other
15 life policies that expired, and some CDO assets.

16 Q Those were transferred upstream, correct?

17 A Correct.

18 Q They were transferred to the -- to the maker of the note?

19 A I think the maker -- what --

20 Q Correct?

21 A I don't understand your question.

22 Q The question is, LP, in exchange for the note, transferred 23 assets to the maker of the note?

24 A Correct.

25 Q And did you review the assets that were transferred up to 005257

1 the maker of the note?

2 A They -- they were transferred down, if you will.

3 Q No, that -- I'm talking about this transaction where LP
4 got the note and the maker of the note received assets.

5 A Correct. Highland Financial Partners received the assets
6 from Multi-Strat.

7 Q Right. What was the value of the assets that were 8 transferred from Multi-Strat up to Highland Financial 9 Partners?

10 A I would say down, that's the direction I would -- doesn't
11 make -- doesn't make a difference. But they -- I don't recall
12 the value off the top of my head, but it was insurance --
13 these life policies and CDO assets.

14 Q And didn't you, in fact, look at it and conclude that the 15 value of the assets transferred were equal to the value of the 16 -- the amount of the note?

17 A I don't -- I don't think I ever looked at that and made
18 that conclusion, sir.

19 Q All right. I'd ask you to look at your deposition. And 20 let me -- let me ask it in a different way. Have you seen,
21 Mr. Seery, have you seen two valuations that were performed in 22 the Debtors' records as to the value of the Credit Fund
23 assets, the life policies that were going upstream?

24 A I've seen a number of valuations, yes.

25 Q One done by -- let me just get this straight. One by

1 Silver Group and one -- and then another complete analysis
2 done of those assets?

3 A I don't recall the specific documents or analyses that 4 you're referring to.

5 Q Did you draw the conclusion that the value of the assets
6 going up were -- going to the maker were not equal to the 7 amount of the note?

8 A At the time that LP put them in, I didn't make a -- I
9 didn't make a determination of that, no.

10 Q Okay. All right. Next. Now, that transaction was 11 subsequently unwound, correct?

12 A That's correct.

13 Q And in connection with that, what I'd ask you to look at 14 is Exhibit 29, which -- I'm sorry. It's Debtor 9.

15 MR. DRAPER: Go to the next page.

16 BY MR. DRAPER:

17 Q And this is the unwind transaction that you've reviewed,
18 correct?

19 A Yes. It appears to be.

20 Q All right. Now, take a look. Who received the assets
21 when the transaction was unwound?

22 A They went to various entities who were the original
23 recipients of the notes.

24 Q Is that true, Mr. Seery?

25 A I believe so.

1 Q Well, why don't you look at Highland Credit Opportunities
2 CDO, LTD, as successor in interest for the notes previously
3 purchased by LP?

4 A Okay.

5 Q So, in fact, in the unwind transaction, LP received
6 nothing and its limited partner, Limited, received the assets
7 that were transferred?

8 A I see that that may appear here. That's not my 9 understanding.

10 Q But this is what the document is that you reviewed and 11 analyzed. This is -- this is the documentation for that,
12 isn't it, Mr. Seery?

13 A This is the unwind transaction.

14 Q Right. And --

15 A (overspoken) when we sold the policies. We know exactly
16 where they sat.

17 Q I understand that. But when the policies came down in the 18 unwind transaction, it was not LP who received them, it was 19 Limited that received them, correct?

20 A I don't know that from this document.

21 Q Do you want to read the document? Or do you want to just 22 let the document stand --

23 A I would --

24 Q -- on its own?

25 MR. MORRIS: Objection. Argumentative, Your Honor.

Seery - Cross

98

1 THE COURT: Sustained.

2 MR. DRAPER: Okay.

3 BY MR. DRAPER:

4 Q Now, what I'd ask you to look at, Mr. Seery, in your
5 exhibits you had an expert report that was prepared by the UBS
6 expert, Mr. Dudney. Correct?

7 MR. DRAPER: And can you put up, Bryan, the expert
8 report, Debtor 23?

9 BY MR. DRAPER:

10 Q Have you reviewed this report, Mr. Seery?

11 A I have certainly looked at it in the course of our 12 examination of the UBS claims.

13 Q All right. Well, let's --

14 MR. DRAPER: Please turn to Page 23, Bryan.

15 BY MR. DRAPER:

16 Q Do you see that chart?

17 A I do, yes.

18 Q How much did Credit Opportunities Fund receive in the 19 issuance of the note?

20 A According to this, 29.6.

21 Q Well, does this say $6.6 million? The one you read is 22 Credit Opportunities Holding. That's not LP. LP is Credit
23 Opportunities Fund. Correct?

24 A Oh, you -- I thought you were asking Credit Opportunities.

25 Q No, I was not.

005261

1 A Then I read -- the one at the bottom, I don't recall this 2 chart, but I see $6.6 million at least on this chart going to 3 Credit Opportunities Fund.

4 Q All right. And then if you'll look of the next chart,
5 that confirms the Credit Opportunities Fund getting $6.6
6 million?

7 A I'm sorry, it's far too small for me to read.

8 Q All right. Then if you'll look at Page 28. See where it
9 says Original Notes Issuance, Face -- For Face of Assets
10 Exchanged, Market Value of Assets Exchanged? If you see 11 Credit Opportunities Fund, it's listed at $6.6 million? Or 12 you can't read that, either?

13 A No, I can see that, yes.

14 Q Moving on to the next chart on Page 29, if you'll note, it
15 shows the recipient to be Highland Credit Opportunities CDO
16 Limited, which is the Cayman Island entity.

17 A Of the CLOs and cash, correct.

18 Q And that's the same six point some-odd million dollars?

19 A With respect to the CLOs and cash. Not obviously to life
20 settlement contracts.

21 Q All right. Now, if you'll look on the next chart, it says
22 CLO Notes Terminate -- Termination, Assets Returned. How much
23 did the UBS expert determine that Highland Credit
24 Opportunities CDO Limited, the Cayman Island entity, receive?

25 A CDO Limited, it says $3.6 million.

Seery - Cross

100

1 Q So, based upon this report, what we have is HFP satisfied
2 a $6 million note and Limited received $3.6 million worth of 3 assets?

4 A With respect to Limited only, yes.

5 Q Right. And, in fact, you don't see on this chart LP?

6 A No, you don't see LP.

7 Q All right. And then, moving on, you'll see --

8 MR. DRAPER: And let's move on to Page 32.

9 BY MR. DRAPER:

10 Q What the UBS expert says is that Highland Credit
11 Opportunities CDO Limited terminated $3.6 million worth of 12 remaining amount of notes.

13 A I'm just looking at the chart. I don't -- is that a
14 question?

15 Q Well, I'm just -- what the chart -- do you agree that the 16 chart shows that the notes that were terminated had a value of 17 $3.6 million?

18 A I don't -- I don't agree that the chart shows that. I'll 19 agree that the chart says that's what they did with respect to 20 those Limited assets, not with respect to --

21 Q Okay.

22 A -- life policies.

23 Q Well, tell me. They're talking about assets in here.
24 There's no distinction. This is an unwind transaction. So --

25 A It's incorrect.

005263

Seery - Cross

101

1 Q Okay. Mr. Seery, what does this -- okay. The Court will 2 read this.

3 Tell me what other assets, what other value went to LP, as
4 opposed to Limited, in the unwind transaction. Because the LP
5 is never mentioned in the unwind transaction.

6 A I'm not -- I'm not sure exactly what your question is, but 7 this chart and the previous charts you gave separated the CLOs
8 and the cash from the life policies. The overall consolidated
9 transaction was the transact... the transfer of both.

10 Q Okay. And --

11 A But they went to Credit Fund, Limited, that's what this 12 said. We treat it as consolidated. We had the policies. I
13 know where they were. We sold them. So I know -- I know 14 exactly where those policies are.

15 Q Well, --

16 A 'Til we sold them.

17 Q Mr. Seery, again, what does it show -- let's go to Page 18 33. What does it show that the total received by Limited was?

19 A By Limited?

20 Q Yes. By --

21 A It says $6.6 million.

22 Q Okay. So, again, in connection with this report that was 23 done by the UBS expert, it shows that LP got nothing in 24 connection with the unwind transaction?

25 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

005264

Seery - Cross

102

1 THE COURT: Overruled.

2 THE WITNESS: I -- I think it -- I think it got the
3 $6.6 million, just to LP. I forget --

4 BY MR. DRAPER:

5 Q No, it doesn't -- doesn't this show that it went to 6 Limited and the unwind transaction, in and of itself, is 7 written that it went to Limited?

8 A This shows that it -- that it went to Limited, at least
9 with respect to the CLO and the cash assets.

10 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, can we take a few-minute
11 break here, or can we take a lunch break, and then -- I don't
12 have that much longer, but it would be helpful.

13 THE COURT: Well, --

14 MR. DRAPER: It may shorten where we're going.

15 THE WITNESS: Can -- can I --

16 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, are you trying to comment?

17 THE WITNESS: I'm trying to read this, this chart,
18 and I apologize, but Highland Credit Opportunities Holding 19 Corporation, if we go back to the original chart with the LP,
20 it's a hundred-percent owned by LP. I'm sort of -- I
21 apologize for my confusion, but this is a -- it's an odd -- I 22 just couldn't -- I couldn't understand where Mr. Draper was 23 going.

24 THE COURT: All right. Fair enough.

25 MR. DRAPER: Well, let -- 005265

Seery - Cross

103

1 THE COURT: And I'll just -- Mr. Draper, I'll let you
2 know that I'm kind of confused about all of this questioning
3 as well. But let's take a 30-minute break. It's 11:55
4 Central. We'll come back at 12:25 and finish up. All right.

5 MR. DRAPER: Thank you.

6 THE CLERK: All rise.

7 (A luncheon recess ensued from 11:55 a.m. until 12:28
8 p.m.)

9 THE CLERK: All rise.

10 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We are 11 going back on the record in the Highland-UBS motion to 12 compromise.

13 When we took a break, Mr. Draper was examining Mr. Seery.
14 Mr. Draper, are you ready to proceed? (No response.) Are you
15 on mute, Mr. Draper?

16 THE CLERK: No, he's not on mute, Judge.

17 THE COURT: You're not on mute. Mr. Draper, can you 18 hear me? Are you ready to proceed? Oh, what's going on? Is 19 he frozen?

20 Mr. Seery, can you hear me?

21 Is it me? Oh, I'm on mute. All right. The Court was on 22 mute. Sorry about that. So, I don't know if you heard
23 anything I said. I guess you didn't. I said, we're going 24 back on the record in the Highland-UBS proposed compromise.
25 When we broke at lunch, Mr. Draper was examining Mr. Seery.

005266

104

1 Mr. Draper, are you ready to proceed?

2 MR. DRAPER: Yes, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, are you ready to 4 proceed?

5 THE WITNESS: I am, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. So, --

7 BY MR. DRAPER:

8 Q Mr. Seery, I asked --

9 THE COURT: Go ahead.

10 MR. DRAPER: I'm sorry.

11 THE COURT: Go ahead.

12 MR. DRAPER: I'm sorry, Your Honor. It -- this 13 electronic stuff, at times I can't tell what's going on. But 14 I apologize.

15 BY MR. DRAPER:

16 Q Mr. Seery, I asked you earlier if you evaluated the value
17 of the assets that were being transferred in exchange for the 18 note, and I think your testimony was you didn't.

19 A I don't think -- I don't think that was my testimony. We 20 didn't do a separate valuation. We looked at the life
21 policies and the CLO transfers that were initially exchanged
22 for the note, and then we looked at them when they got 23 transferred back, and then we looked at the value of the 24 policies, because we sold them, so we could know exactly what 25 they were worth in fair market value.

005267

1 Q Let's take dates. The date of the first note transfer was
2 2008, correct?

3 A That's correct.

4 Q The unwind was 2009?

5 A Early 2009. Correct.

6 Q You sold them roughly 11 years later?

7 A I -- I didn't sell anything. The Debtor made those 8 transfers.

9 Q Okay. They were sold -- they were sold 11 years later?

10 A Correct.

11 Q Okay. So, obviously, there's an 11-year change in value.
12 Correct?

13 A There is, yes.

14 Q Okay. Now, let's go back. Let's look at the transfer in 15 2008. Is your testimony we looked at it or we didn't look at 16 it?

17 A We looked at it.

18 Q And what was your conclusion?

19 A That the original transfer, I forget the exact numbers,
20 but roughly in line, I think it was five -- five-ish million,
21 five or six million dollars on the CLO assets and right around
22 $15 to $20 million for the life settlement assets.

23 Q Well, let's talk about LP. That's where I'm focusing 24 right this moment. Did you look at what LP transferred in 25 exchange for the note?

1 A Yeah, but I didn't break it down in the -- in the 2 particular boxes, I don't recall, that you're saying. But we
3 looked at it very closely, and this has been looked at 4 extensively by Highland legal. And so --

5 Q Well, --

6 A -- there was significant documentation and support for the 7 numbers.

8 Q Well, and this is fair. I asked you this question at your 9 deposition: "What was the value of the assets that were 10 transferred to HFP in exchange for the note?" Your answer, "I 11 don't have it off the top of my head." "Were there -- was 12 there a reasonably equivalent value in exchange exchanged
13 between the note?" Your answer, "We did look at it."
14 Question, "And who looked at it, and was it your conclusion
15 that it was fair value, not fair value? What was the value
16 given in exchange for the note? What was the dollar value?"
17 Your answer, "The dollar value was similar to the value of the 18 note. There were a number of other questions around the note
19 and then the unwind."

20 So, basically, what you're saying is that the assets that 21 went up were equivalent in value to the note that was 22 received, correct?

23 A The face amounts were, yes.

24 Q All right. And have you seen a valuation done by Sterling
25 Valuation Group dated September 26, 2008?

107

1 A I don't recall it specifically.

2 MR. DRAPER: Well, can you pull up Exhibit No. 18,
3 Bryan?

4 BY MR. DRAPER:

5 Q Mr. Seery, have you seen this document?

6 A I don't recall -- I don't recall this document
7 specifically, no.

8 Q And this went to Highland Capital Management, LP, correct?

9 A I'm sorry?

10 Q This went to Highland Capital Management, LP? This is in 11 your records? And quite frankly, we got it from you.

12 A I see that we were the addressee, yes.

13 Q And the Bates number is your Bates number?

14 A Okay.

15 Q All right. If you look at the document, this is basically 16 contemporaneous with the purchase agreement, correct?

17 A In and around that time. You'll note -- you'll note that 18 that was right after being filed.

19 Q And if you'll look, this is a certificate of consent to 20 trade. So, in fact, under this document, Highland Capital
21 Management went to a third party outsider, under the 22 Advisement Act -- Advisers Act and other things, and said,
23 look, is this a fair trade? And it got back something saying,
24 yes, there's a consent to the trade. Correct?

25 A I don't -- I don't know that to be true.

005270

108

1 Q Okay. But the document will speak for itself. Correct?

2 A The document says what it says.

3 Q Okay. Now, also in connection with that, there was a
4 valuation done of the life settlement policies by Watson
5 Wyatt. Have you seen that?

6 A I don't recall it specifically, no.

7 MR. DRAPER: Can you pull up, Bryan, Exhibit 23?

8 BY MR. DRAPER:

9 Q Again, this is -- have you seen this document?

10 A I believe I have, but I don't recall it specifically.

11 Q And this is a valuation of the life settlement policies?
12 It's an actuarial valuation?

13 A That's correct.

14 Q Right. Now, let me go back to the report by Mr. Dudney,
15 which is Exhibit 23. And what I'd ask you to look at, I think
16 it's on Page 3 of 3. I'm sorry. (Pause.)

17 MR. DRAPER: Bear with me a moment, Your Honor.

18 BY MR. DRAPER:

19 Q Doesn't basically Table 4 -- Table 5 and Table 6 show that 20 what's going on here is that the assets that were previously 21 transferred a year earlier are coming back in exchange for the 22 cancellation of the notes?

23 A That's -- that was the position, yes.

24 Q That's what happened, isn't it?

25 A That is what happened, yes.

005271

Seery - Cross

109

1 Q So let me ask you a question. If I transfer you a car in 2 exchange for a note, and the car -- I give you the car, and
3 you give me a note for $10,000, and one year later you give me
4 the car back and I cancel the note, you wouldn't have had the 5 car but for the note, and now I've canceled the note in 6 exchange for the car. How have -- how has HFP been harmed
7 when it wouldn't have had the assets in the first place but 8 for the note and then the note was transferred and it just 9 gave back the same assets?

10 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

11 THE COURT: Overruled.

12 MR. MORRIS: He's not an expert. Okay.

13 THE WITNESS: That's a position one could take.

14 BY MR. DRAPER:

15 Q And that's a logical position, isn't it, Mr. Seery, 16 because basically you got back exactly what you gave up and 17 you just canceled the indebtedness?

18 A That's not -- that's not necessarily logical where you
19 control both sides of the transaction. UBS --

20 Q Ahh.

21 A -- was that -- that it was really an equity contribution
22 that moved the assets into HFP to bolster HFP's position in 23 the -- in the CDO assets that they were -- they were trying to 24 turn into the CDO square.

25 Q But, in fact, there is a note that was issued, there were

005272

Seery - Cross

110

1 assets transferred, and in fact, the assets came back. So
2 what you're saying is, in order to get to this position, you
3 have to ignore the fact that, but for the note, they wouldn't
4 have gotten the assets?

5 A You have to ignore that there's a note that papers the 6 transaction and you have to disregard it and treat it as 7 equity.

8 Q Okay. And I think you used the term earlier, you looked 9 at this flowchart, Highland Credit Opportunities Holding 10 Corp.?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Which -- but that's a hundred-percent owned by Multi-
13 Strat? It's a separate corporation, isn't it?

14 A It appears to be, yes.

15 Q Now, let's look at the settlement agreement. And what I'd 16 ask you to look at, unfortunately, is Page 6, Paragraph C.

17 (Pause.) The first question I have for you, and it's not 18 related to Paragraph C, but just there is no release by the 19 Debtor of Multi-Strat, LP or any of its subsidiaries.

20 Correct?

21 A I don't recall specifically. I think there is a 22 satisfaction of all claims. I don't really recall if we have 23 a special release provision.

24 Q No. I'm asking in a different -- between two different 25 parties. I'm talking about the Debtor and Multi-Strat. Is -- 005273

Seery - Cross

111

1 does the Debtor -- does the release in this agreement release
2 Multi-Strat from all claims by the Debtor?

3 A Does the Debtor release Multi-Strat? No.

4 Q Okay. And in fact, the Debtor has retained all of its 5 claims against Multi-Strat in the claims retention section of 6 the plan?

7 A To the extent that the Debtor has claims against Multi-
8 Strat, the entity that it manages, I suppose so. I don't 9 recall a specific provision in the plan that --

10 Q Did you --

11 A -- addressed --

12 Q Did you look at -- did you look at the retained claims
13 section?

14 A Of the plan?

15 Q Yes.

16 A When we were working on the plan, yes.

17 Q And are you aware that Multi--Strat, both LP and Limited,
18 are included in that list?

19 A I wasn't cognizant of it currently, but if it -- if it is,
20 it is.

21 Q And so, in fact, there -- the Debtor has claims against
22 Multi-Strat?

23 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

24 THE COURT: Sustained.

25 THE WITNESS: Not to my knowledge.

005274

112

1 THE COURT: Sus...

2 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. Not -- sustained. I'm 3 sorry.

4 THE COURT: Sustained.

5 THE WITNESS: Okay.

6 THE COURT: Just, you can rephrase.

7 BY MR. DRAPER:

8 Q All right. The Debtor has retained its claims against 9 Multi-Strat, correct?

10 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

11 THE COURT: Overruled. If he knows.

12 THE WITNESS: To the extent that the Debtor has 13 claims against Multi-Strat.

14 BY MR. DRAPER:

15 Q So there's a possibility that the Debtor will assert
16 claims against Multi-Strat?

17 A It would be pretty infinitesimal unless it was done as a
18 nominal defendant, because the Debtor manages Multi-Strat.
19 It's kind of difficult to have claims against Multi-Strat,
20 save -- save for there could be -- there could be 21 indemnification claims down the road with the amount of 22 litigation going on in this case.

23 Q And I also note in Paragraph C there are a list of 24 entities in here, and that's down in the middle. Does the 25 Debtor manage each one of those? And I'm talking about

005275

1 (inaudible) Breyers, CLO, Aberdeen, Eastland, Grayson.

2 A Yes.

3 MR. MORRIS: Objection. Objection to the form of the 4 question. Your Honor, this is well beyond the scope of the 5 objection that's been filed by Dugaboy.

6 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, Dugaboy --

7 THE COURT: Well, it's a relevance objection.

8 MR. MORRIS: Please let me finish.

9 MR. DRAPER: Okay.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: Please let me finish. His objection is 12 focused solely, as is both his papers and his opening
13 statement said, on Multi-Strat. And so I think questions
14 beyond Multi-Strat are irrelevant to his objection.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Draper?

16 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, that's incorrect. That's 17 incorrect. We mentioned in our opposition that this 18 transaction may, in fact, be a plan modification. And these 19 questions go to that issue.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Overruled.

21 BY MR. DRAPER:

22 Q Now, Mr. Seery, in Paragraph C, is the Debtor required to 23 participate in the prosecution of claims against certain 24 people and entities? And what I call your attention to is 25 C(iii).

1 A It says we're supposed to cooperate with UBS and
2 participate as applicable in the investigation or prosecution
3 of claims or requests for injunctive relief against the Funds,
4 Multi-Strat, Sentinel, Dondero, Leventon, Ellington, Dean,
5 Walter, Sevilla, DiOrio, and Irving. And then it -- it has a
6 catchall.

7 Q And the two operative words are cooperate and prosecution
8 of claims. Correct?

9 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

10 THE WITNESS: I would say it's --

11 THE COURT: Overruled.

12 THE WITNESS: -- the operative words are cooperate
13 and participate as applicable. And then it's either cooperate 14 or participate in what.

15 BY MR. DRAPER:

16 Q All right. And then later on in the document it basically 17 says -- and you can read this, please -- that if funds -- if 18 the Debtor receives funds or has funds that were stripped out
19 of other entities, it will take those funds or assets and give 20 them to UBS. Is that correct?

21 MR. DRAPER: Objection.

22 THE WITNESS: I don't believe that's exactly true.
23 Where are you pointing me to?

24 THE COURT: Overruled.

25 BY MR. DRAPER:

1 Q Well, look at the bottom. (vii). Cooperate with UBS to 2 assign or convey such assets described in Section 1C(iv) or 3 any other assets owned or controlled by the Funds and/or HFP,
4 including, for the avoidance of doubt -- so what I'm asking
5 you to look at is (vii).

6 A Yes. I'm looking at it.

7 Q Okay. So is that -- is that correct?

8 A With respect to the assets in Section 1C(vi).

9 Q And basically I think it was your testimony when I took 10 your deposition that if assets -- if you discovered there were 11 assets that were transferred to the Debtor that were stripped 12 out of other entities, it would be your obligation under this 13 agreement to return them to UBS.

14 A I -- I think that's right. I think this has a very 15 specific reference to 1C(vi), and so you should -- should go
16 back and consult that. But I think that if we determined that 17 assets were stolen or stripped out of other entities, we would 18 -- we would return those assets to UBS if they were defendants
19 of UBS's.

20 Q And in fact, that -- would it also include assets that 21 went into the Debtor?

22 A It -- it potentially could, if they were stolen out of 23 those entities. But we have a release of the Debtor, so I
24 don't think there's really a backdoor claim in for the Debtor.
25 We didn't find any such assets. But I don't think that really

Seery - Cross

116

1 contemplates that, that specific --

2 Q But isn't that what the document says and that's what you
3 testified to at your deposition, Mr. Seery?

4 A I don't think that's what the document says. I think that
5 might be an interpretation one might have, but we have a
6 release.

7 Q Okay. Now, wait. You have a release, but you have to 8 comply with this agreement. There's an exclusion in this 9 release that requires you to comply with the agreement,
10 correct?

11 A Correct.

12 Q So, if, in fact, the Debtor has an asset that was stripped 13 out of another entity, under this agreement, notwithstanding
14 that release, it's required to give that asset back to UBS?

15 A That's not the case. It's the Funds and/or HFP.

16 Q Well, okay.

17 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I object. I mean, the 18 document speaks for itself. Mr. Draper can make whatever
19 argument he wants, but I don't know why we're wrestling over 20 what the language means when that's for Mr. Draper to argue
21 and for the Court to decide.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I'll overrule --

23 MR. DRAPER: Well, that -- Your Honor?

24 THE COURT: I'll let you continue to some extent.

25 MR. DRAPER: All right. Bryan, can you pull up Mr.

005279

Seery - Cross

117

1 Seery's deposition?

2 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I object. Until -- until 3 he's impeaching the witness, I just don't think it's 4 appropriate. He did it once before and I remained quiet. I
5 think he ought to just ask the question, and if he thinks that 6 he's deviating from prior testimony, he's welcome to cross-
7 examine.

8 MR. DRAPER: Your --

9 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain.

10 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, I have asked the -- I have 11 asked the question. I asked him, was it his view of this 12 document that, if assets were stripped out of a fund and then 13 transferred to the Debtor, whether the Debtor would be 14 obligated to transfer it, and he said he didn't know.

15 THE WITNESS: That's not what you asked me. You said
16 any -- any entity. Out of --

17 MR. DRAPER: Okay.

18 THE WITNESS: -- the Funds and HFP, I said that's 19 what the sentence says.

20 MR. DRAPER: So, so my question, Your Honor, is: Mr.
21 Seery, if an asset was stripped out of the HFP and transferred 22 into the Debtor, the Debtor would be required under this 23 agreement to transfer it back to UBS?

24 THE WITNESS: We would be required to cooperate, if 25 you have that language back up, exactly what -- what it says.

005280

1 BY MR. DRAPER:

2 Q And it's your view, based -- and I asked you this 3 question, that if that was the case, you would be required to 4 transfer it to HFP? I mean, to --

5 A Right.

6 Q -- to UBS?

7 A I think it's a fair -- fair reading. We do, as I said,
8 have a release. But if there is an asset that we determine 9 was stripped out of one of these entities, that's our 10 cooperation provision, yes.

11 Q All right. Now, in connection with the -- you mentioned a 12 subscription agreement. Isn't there a provision in the 13 subscription agreement for LP that gives an example where, if 14 in fact the general partner is a member of the Creditors'
15 Committee -- of a Creditors' Committee and also owns -- owes a 16 fiduciary duty to the partnership, that it will resign from 17 one -- one of those roles? It'll step down?

18 A I don't recall the specific provision. There's something
19 to that effect. I'm not sure if it says it will resign or it 20 may.

21 Q Okay. It says it will. But the Court can read that in 22 the subscription agreement.

23 Mr. Seery, don't these partnership agreements, each one of 24 them, have the ability for the general partner, where it faces
25 a conflict or a potential conflict, to hire an -- bring in an

119

1 advisor and make its recommenda... and base its actions based
2 upon the hiring of that advisor?

3 A The GP has complete control over the partnership. It can
4 do that if it thinks that's appropriate.

5 Q And, in fact, in connection with the note transaction in 6 September of 2008, Highland did that? They hired Sterling to 7 obtain a valuation?

8 A They did that, yes.

9 Q Okay. Now, in connection with the settlement agreement,
10 and I may have asked you, it says -- and look at Paragraph 11.
11 It discusses advice of counsel. Do you see that?

12 MR. MORRIS: Can we just --

13 THE WITNESS: Not yet.

14 MR. MORRIS: -- give him a moment?

15 (Pause.)

16 BY MR. DRAPER:

17 Q And basically it uses the term, instead of legal counsel,
18 it uses the term "independent legal counsel." In connection
19 with this transaction, who represented Multi-Strat? Was it
20 Pachulski?

21 A Not -- not separately, no.

22 Q Who -- did -- who else represented Multi-Strat?

23 A WilmerHale and Pachulski represented HCMLP in doing the 24 transaction for Multi-Strat.

25 Q And so Multi-Strat never had separate independent legal 005282

Seery - Cross

120

1 counsel?

2 A Not independent from counsel that HCMLP has, no.

3 Q And that would be the same thing in connection with the 4 May 20 -- May 11, 2020 agreement?

5 A That's correct.

6 Q Now, isn't it true that Highland -- when you have 7 codefendants in a case, one of the goals of one of the 8 defendants is to have the other defendant pay a larger share
9 of the settlement?

10 A Not necessarily, no.

11 Q Well, why do you say that? If I'm a defendant, wouldn't I
12 want to pay as little as possible?

13 A Some people reach settlements for what they owe. They 14 don't try to chisel their obligations.

15 Q Well, in this case, you're on two sides of the settlement
16 group. As a matter of fact, you're on multiple sides of the 17 settlement group. You're on the Multi-Strat side and you're 18 on the Highland side.

19 A I disagree. We're on the same side.

20 Q You're on the same side? Aren't you both codefendants?

21 A Highland is a codefendant, yes, with Multi-Strat.

22 Q And -- and the claims against Highland are far more
23 extensive than the claims against Multi-Strat, LP?

24 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

25 THE COURT: Sustained.

005283

Seery - Cross

121

1 THE WITNESS: I think that's probably --

2 THE COURT: Sustained.

3 THE WITNESS: I think that's fair.

4 BY MR. DRAPER:

5 Q Mr. Seery, how many counts -- in looking at the agreement,
6 Multi-Strat, LP is not liable for the entire amount, but 7 Highland may be. Correct?

8 A Correct.

9 Q All right.

10 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, I think I have nothing
11 further for the witness.

12 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness.

13 Mr. Taylor, I think you indicated earlier you were 14 deferring to Mr. Draper today, but I'll double-check that.

15 MR. TAYLOR: I largely am. I'm just, if the Court
16 will indulge me, I just have about probably five to ten
17 minutes, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

19 CROSS-EXAMINATION

20 BY MR. TAYLOR:

21 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Seery. When did you start to control
22 the Debtor?

23 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

24 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, --

25 THE COURT: Well, it was a little garbled. I

005284

122

1 couldn't hear. Repeat the question or rephrase it.

2 MR. TAYLOR: Sorry. Is it -- can everybody hear me
3 okay?

4 THE COURT: That's better.

5 BY MR. TAYLOR:

6 Q Mr. Seery, when did you -- when did you start controlling
7 the Debtor?

8 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

9 THE COURT: Sustained.

10 MR. TAYLOR: Okay.

11 BY MR. TAYLOR:

12 Q What is your role with the Debtor?

13 A I'm an independent director. I was appointed in January.
14 In July -- in July, I was appointed as CEO and CRO.

15 Q Okay. So, in August, did you direct your attorneys to 16 file an objection to the UBS claim, as found -- found at 17 Docket No. 928 and has been admitted as Exhibit A in this 18 case?

19 A I don't think it's fair to say that I did. The board
20 certainly did, and authorized it.

21 Q Okay. It was filed by your -- the Debtors' attorneys in 22 this case, Pachulski Stang, correct?

23 A That's correct.

24 Q And in its claim for relief in that objection, the Debtor
25 asked for the UBS claim to be valued at zero. Is that 005285

1 correct?

2 A That's correct.

3 Q Okay. In fact, later on, you filed a partial motion for 4 summary judgment against UBS, saying that, as a matter of law,
5 all of UBS's claims should be disallowed, except for $61
6 million worth, which you said or the Debtor said needed to --
7 it needed to go to trial on. Is that correct?

8 A I believe that's correct. The Debtor, not me.

9 Q Right. When I say you, I'm talking about you in your 10 representative capacity for the Debtor.

11 A Again, it wasn't in my representative capacity. The 12 Debtor did it. It's authorized by the board. I'm the CEO and 13 a board member.

14 Q Okay. And in fact, the Redeemer Committee actually filed
15 their own motion for summary judgment against UBS, correct?

16 A They did, yes.

17 Q And this Court entered an order granting UBS's motion for 18 temporary allowance in this case, and found at Docket No.
19 1518. Is that correct?

20 A I'm not aware of the docket numbers.

21 Q Okay. But you are aware of the order, correct?

22 A Yes, I am.

23 Q Okay. And what did this Court value the UBS claims at?

24 A Approximately $95 million.

25 Q Okay. Which is substantially less than what -- the amount

1 of claims that they're getting in cash today, correct?

2 A Than they're getting in cash? No, that's incorrect.

3 Q No. Than they would be awarded today in their Class 8 and 4 9 and cash? When you total all that up, it's substantially
5 more than $95 million, correct?

6 A Yes. Sixty plus sixty-five plus eighteen and a half is 7 more than $95 million.

8 Q Okay. This settlement agreement, as you just went through 9 with Mr. Draper, requires the Debtor to cooperate with UBS; is 10 that correct?

11 A In specific instances, yes.

12 Q Okay. And in fact, you have to return any securities by 13 the certain list of the Funds that you may recover; is that
14 correct?

15 A It's -- it's a very specific document as to what we have 16 to do. So if there's a specific question, I'd prefer to read
17 the document.

18 Generally, we have a cooperation provision related to the 19 theft of the securities from CDO Fund, SOHC, and the related 20 entities. And if we find other things, that may also be 21 implicated by those cooperation provisions.

22 Q Okay. And will this settlement, if approved, take care of 23 all disputes between UBS and the Debtor?

24 A I believe it will, yes.

25 Q Okay. Then -- then I have to ask, what is the live

1 dispute that is ongoing by and between the Debtor and UBS,
2 such that there was the necessity of the filing of an
3 adversary?

4 A The Debtor is the manager of Multi-Strat. So, with 5 respect to UBS's disputes with Multi-Strat and Funds, we have 6 certain obligations under the documents that -- that were 7 touched on a little bit today, but only a very little bit, in 8 isolated, specific instances. So we have obligations as the 9 manager.

10 You may recall that when there was an issue with 11 distributions early in the case which were going to Dondero-
12 related entities and the Committee didn't want those 13 distributions to be made, we took a strong position that we 14 would go to court and seek to have the distributions made.
15 Subsequently, they were put into the Court registry by a
16 settlement agreed to by Mr. Dondero. But the Committee
17 objected and we took the position that that was our duty under 18 the docs.

19 So we have certain obligations, which Mr. Draper touched 20 on but didn't go through, to do certain things. And we will 21 continue to adhere to those obligations.

22 Q Okay. Thank you. Does your agreement to cooperate and -- 23 and/or prosecute any causes of action that it needs to 24 participate in, would that include Highland Capital breaking 25 privilege and giving documents to UBS?

126

1 A I don't -- I don't think there's a requirement in there.
2 It will depend. There will be a significant amount, in my
3 opinion, of overlap on actions that the estate has, and there
4 may be good reason in certain of those actions to work
5 together. There may be other instances where it was -- our -- 6 they may not agree with how we're cooperating under the 7 document.

8 It was slightly unnerving to have Judge Jernigan refer to 9 Mr. Clubok and yourself as friendlies, because those who have 10 seen our deliberations, with all respect, will know that 11 they're -- they're often heated and contentious.

12 Q Okay. So, thank you for your response, and I'm sorry, you 13 cut out just a little bit. So I'm just going to ask a very 14 similar question because I'm not exactly sure I got the direct 15 answer to my question. Are you or are you not going to have 16 to provide what would otherwise be privileged documents to UBS
17 in this -- under the cooperation agreement?

18 A I don't believe there's a specific requirement to, in 19 answer.

20 Q Okay.

21 MR. TAYLOR: All right, Your Honor. I have no
22 further questions.

23 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, this will be, I
24 guess, both redirect and cross, technically.

25 MR. MORRIS: Right. I'll try and be narrow and I'll 005289

Seery - Redirect

127

1 try to be quick.

2 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Mr. Seery, do you recall being asked some questions about
5 that settlement from May 2020?

6 A I do, yes.

7 Q Okay. Did the Debtor take any steps to inform the 8 Unsecured Creditors' Committee about that document and that 9 settlement?

10 A Yes, we did.

11 Q And why did the Debtor do that?

12 A Because we wanted to be open and transparent. We are a --
13 a limited partnership holder, a limited partnership interest
14 holder, in addition to being the manager. So there is value
15 that rolls to the estate through Multi-Strat.

16 We had already worked on our sale and had consulted with 17 Mr. Dondero about the sale of the life settlement policies, so 18 he was aware of it. And we wanted to get those -- he 19 disagreed with it, but we needed to get those sold because we 20 didn't have the cash coming in to us to pay premiums, and 21 otherwise, if we didn't pay the premiums, they would have 22 expired worthless. And so we sold them for approximately $32
23 million.

24 Q And when you say that Mr. Dondero was aware of it, did you
25 personally have conversations with him or communicate with him

005290

1 the terms upon which the Debtor was going to sell those
2 assets?

3 A I believe he got the terms, but there may have been the 4 terms after he was asked if he wanted to participate and he
5 had declined through DSI.

6 Q Okay. And to the best of your knowledge, did Mr. Dondero
7 ever object to the Debtors' -- at least the authority that it
8 had to enter into that agreement in the ordinary course of its 9 business?

10 A No. He -- he had certainly objected to us doing it. He 11 would have preferred that we not sell the policy. But he was 12 not willing to put in cash to pay the continuing premiums. He 13 had already put in some, as had the Debtor. And he didn't 14 otherwise file anything in court.

15 Q Did the Debtor reach a conclusion as to whether or not 16 that transaction was in the ordinary course of its business?

17 MR. DRAPER: Object to the form of the question, Your 18 Honor. It's a legal conclusion.

19 THE COURT: Overruled.

20 MR. DRAPER: It's -- this witness is --

21 THE COURT: I overrule.

22 THE WITNESS: Yeah. The sale -- the sale of the 23 policies was clearly in the ordinary course of business. So
24 the -- the Fund is a very elongated fund. As we talked about,
25 $90 million of redemptions. It manages just a very few assets

1 remaining, and we were looking for ways to monetize assets in 2 the context of the market that we thought were favorable. If
3 we had not been able to service those assets and pay for them,
4 they would have expired worthless. So it's very much in the 5 ordinary course of business as a manager to sell assets.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q And is that why the Debtor didn't seek Court approval at 8 that time?

9 A That's correct, yes.

10 Q And why is the Debtor seeking Court approval today of -- 11 of the Multi-Strat piece of the UBS transaction?

12 A Oh, I think this is a very different situation. We're 13 settling claims that are combined, as we've seen today, with 14 certain claims against the Debtor. Settling this claim is not 15 out of the ordinary -- is not in the ordinary course, in my 16 opinion. It's a -- it's a very material claim dating back to 17 2009, and really relates to activities of the manager. So we 18 are in seeking approval from the Court to advise with respect
19 to -- not advise, but to tell us that we -- we've laid out our 20 case and that our exercise of our business judgment here is 21 eminently reasonable.

22 Q All right. Did the Debtor -- I believe you testified to 23 this earlier, but just to be clear -- did the Debtor do any 24 analysis to determine whether it had the authority to enter
25 into this agreement on behalf of Multi-Strat?

Seery - Redirect

130

1 A Yes. Absolutely.

2 Q All right.

3 MR. MORRIS: I'm going to just ask Ms. Canty to put 4 up on the screen some demonstratives that we have, just to 5 walk through them quickly, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: And, as always, the demonstrative is 8 tied to specific evidence that's already in the record.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q So let's just look at the first page. Can you tell --
12 this is at Exhibit 65, Page 30. Can you tell from the left
13 side of the page what document is Exhibit 65?

14 A Yeah, this is the private placement memorandum for -- for 15 Multi-Strat Credit Fund.

16 Q And can you just read into the record the excerpt that we
17 have from Page 30?

18 A "Investment Authority. Substantially all decisions with 19 respect to the management of the Fund are made by the general
20 partner and the investment manager. Limited partners have no
21 right or power to take part in any management of the Fund.
22 The investment manager also makes all of the trading and 23 investment decisions of the Fund."

24 Q Okay. And is Highland -- is the Debtor the general
25 partner?

005293

Seery - Redirect

131

1 A Indirectly.

2 Q And is the Debtor the investment manager?

3 A It is.

4 Q And is the Debtor relying on this provision in coming to 5 the conclusion that it believes it has the authority to enter
6 into the agreement on behalf of Multi-Strat?

7 A This is a -- this is a disclosure provision in the PPM.
8 The actual authority is in the -- in the corporate documents
9 and the way a general partner is managed by its limited
10 partnership, as well as any investment management agreement.

11 Q Okay. So this was the disclosure -- is it your 12 understanding that this is the disclosure that was made to all 13 prospective limited partners?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: Let's go to the next slide, please.

17 Okay.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q Can you describe for the Court, based on the document on 20 the left, what this is?

21 A Again, this is another disclosure in the PPM to advise all
22 partners that the Fund's management as well as investment
23 decisions at the partnership level are effectively controlled
24 by the investment manager or its affiliates.

25 Q Okay. And this is Exhibit 66 at Page 6. Can you just 005294

1 read what was disclosed in this offering memorandum?

2 A I actually did.

3 Q Verbatim?

4 A Yes.

5 Q I appreciate it.

6 MR. MORRIS: Let's go to the next slide, please.

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q Is it your understanding that slide -- that this slide
9 depicts a portion of the investment management agreement?

10 A Yes. And this, as opposed to the disclosure, is actually 11 an operative agreement.

12 Q And is this the agreement that you referred to earlier as 13 having been assumed by the Debtors' estate?

14 A Yes.

15 Q And is this the provision that the Debtor is relying on 16 for the authority to enter into the agreement on behalf of 17 Multi-Strat?

18 A Among others.

19 Q Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: Let's go to -- and this is Exhibit 69 at 21 Pages 3 and 4. If we can go to the next slide, please.

22 BY MR. MORRIS:

23 Q And can you describe for the Court what this document is?

24 A This is the Delaware limited partnership agreement. So,
25 again, where the prior document was the investment management

1 agreement, granting the authority of the Debtor to manage
2 assets, compromise and settle all suits, and manage the day-
3 to-day activities of the Fund, this is document that governs
4 the actual operation of the Fund away from the investment
5 management agreement.

6 Q Okay. And this is at Exhibit (garbled), Pages 22, 23, and 7 25. Looking at the bottom box, is there a provision there for 8 the rights of limited partners?

9 A Yes. Just as in every limited partnership. And this is 10 done very purposefully. It's not simply to exclude limited
11 partners from control, because they can't have any control; it
12 excludes them from liability. So the limited partners may not 13 take part in any part in the management, control, or operation
14 of the partnership's business and have no right or authority
15 to act for the partnership. It's probably basic in every --
16 in every partnership agreement.

17 Q So, as the CEO of Highland, who is the investment manager
18 for Multi-Strat, if the limited partners may not take any part
19 in the management, control, or operation of the partnership's
20 business, is there anybody other than the investment manager
21 and the general partner who's authorized to act on behalf of 22 the limited partnership?

23 A No.

24 Q Okay. So if it's -- so if -- is it fair to say that if 25 Highland as investment manager didn't have the authority and

1 the right to exercise the control necessary to enter into this
2 settlement agreement, nobody would?

3 A No, because Highland as general partner would have that 4 authority.

5 Q Right. But just in those two capacities, right?

6 A Correct.

7 Q Can you think of anybody else in the world, under the 8 governing documents, who could possibly enter into this 9 settlement other than the general partner or the investment
10 manager?

11 A No.

12 Q Okay.

13 MR. MORRIS: Can we call up Exhibit 66, please? And 14 if we can go to PDF Page 11. Oh, I apologize. Can we go to 15 the first page? I just want to make sure that everybody
16 understands what we're looking at here.

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q Do you see that, Mr. Seery?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Is this the offering memorandum for the Cayman entity in 21 which Dugaboy has an interest?

22 A Again, I'm not sure that Dugaboy has an interest in the 23 offshore entity. I just haven't checked, because we treat it 24 as consolidated. But this is the offshore entity that is 25 usually used by foreign investors to address certain tax

1 issues.

2 Q When you say that you treat it as a consolidated entity,
3 what do you mean?

4 A Well, the -- Credit Fund, Limited is required to invest
5 all of its assets into the Credit Fund, LP. So all of the 6 interests, notwithstanding their -- where they come from,
7 whether they're direct LP interests in the LP or they come
8 through the Credit Fund, have the same rights and the same
9 recoveries based upon the same assets.

10 Q Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 11, please, PDF Page 12 11? All right. How about Page 9 of the document, at the 13 bottom? Yeah, right there. If we could just go -- yeah,
14 scroll down a little bit.

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q Do you see where it describes the partnership?

17 A Yes.

18 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Can you go back up? We just want
19 the partnership. Yeah.

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q Just take a moment to look at that and describe for the 22 Court your understanding of what's being described here.

23 A This is a -- remember, this is a PPM for Limited. So it
24 describes Limited as a limited partners -- limited partner in 25 the Multi-Strat Credit Fund, LP. And it says that the Fund is

1 a limited partner in the partnership -- that's LP -- and 2 invests all of its investable assets in and conducts all
3 investment activities through the partnership.

4 That is what -- what I was referring to as being 5 hardwired.

6 Q Oh, okay, very well.

7 MR. MORRIS: All right. We can take that down for 8 the moment.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Let's talk about the $18-1/2 million for a second. I
11 think you were asked a number of questions by Mr. Draper as to 12 how you arrived at that. One question I don't believe he 13 asked you is whether or not the Court's decision on the 3018
14 motion was a factor that the Debtor took into account. Was 15 the Court's decision on the 3018 motion a factor that the 16 Debtor took into account?

17 A Well, certainly. I mean, we had an independent judge
18 looking at the claims that UBS brought and making an 19 assessment -- for voting purposes, but certainly it informs us
20 as to the third-party validity -- view of the validity based 21 on that evidence of what those claims might be.

22 Q And I think we heard in Mr. Taylor's questioning some 23 questions about, you know, the Debtors' view of the strength
24 of its claims. Did the Debtor present its best case to the 25 judge when it both sought partial summary judgment and a

1 ruling on the 3018 motion?

2 A We did, and I thought we presented an outstanding case.

3 Q Okay. Can we call up that Sterling report that I think
4 you were asked about by Mr. Draper? Okay. Do you see the 5 Sterling report there?

6 A I see it, yes.

7 Q Who -- who obtained -- withdrawn. Can you tell from this 8 document who the client was, who Sterling's client was?

9 A Highland. HCMLP.

10 Q So is it fair to say, at least based on the document, that 11 this document was not an independent valuation obtained by
12 Multi-Strat?

13 A It appears to be just a valuation obtained -- obtained by 14 HCMLP.

15 To be fair, and obviously it controls every one of these 16 entities, because they're not -- they're not separate 17 companies, they're funds, and the manager controls them, just 18 as we discussed earlier with respect to this settlement.

19 Q Okay. Just before lunch, Mr. Draper had asked you a whole
20 series of questions, and he was showing you some excerpts from 21 an expert report. And one of your answers -- let me just ask
22 the question. Do you have anything to add? I mean, is there
23 anything about the questioning that Mr. Draper engaged in with 24 respect to all of those charts in that expert report that you
25 want to share with the Court?

1 A Sure. I think with respect to that chart, and we could
2 bring it up, it's a typical Highland company naming exercise.
3 They had very similar and confusing names and they needed to 4 change them.

5 It's very clear on that chart that Highland Credit
6 Opportunities Holding Corporation, which is a Delaware corp,
7 received a significant amount of assets. Mr. Draper was, I
8 guess, indicating that Limited got assets. I don't recall
9 that being something that happened. Because when we sold the 10 assets, they came out of a specific fund called Highland
11 Credit Opportunities CDO Asset Management, LP Delaware Limited
12 Partnership. So that's where they resided in 2020, and that's 13 where we made representations regarding UBS's claims that -- 14 we had to make representations to the buyer, which 15 necessitated the settlement with UBS. The buyer didn't want
16 to buy those assets subject to a potential fraudulent
17 conveyance claim from UBS. So that's the seller. That's 18 where the assets were. There's multiple boxes on the chart, 19 but that's where those -- those assets resided. And they --
20 and they are listed on the other chart with $20-something
21 million of value, I think.

22 Q Okay. Mr. Taylor pointed out in questioning to you that 23 the total consideration under the settlement exceeds the 24 amount that the judge estimated for voting purposes. Do you
25 remember that?

1 A I do.

2 Q Do you know if the Debtor presented any evidence during 3 the 3018 hearing related to the transfer of assets to 4 Sentinel?

5 A No, that became -- we became aware of that only after the 6 fact.

7 Q And --

8 A Go ahead. That was --

9 Q And -- and --

10 A That was hidden from us. We did not know that at the time
11 we made the presentation to the Court. We did not know. We 12 represented to the Court that all of the redeemers, the $90
13 million, were third-party unrelated. We did not know that 14 Sentinel, you know, owned by Ellington and Dondero, was 15 actually a, you know, Cayman offshore structure where they --
16 they owned -- we just didn't -- we had never been informed,
17 and in fact, we'd been specifically informed that they were 18 all unrelated third parties.

19 Q And when you learned of the transfer and the ownership of 20 that entity, that's what caused the Debtor to agree to a 21 settlement that was in excess of the amount estimated at the 22 3018 hearing; is that right?

23 A With respect to the Class 8 and the Class 9 claims. It --
24 we held firm on the $18-1/2 million vis-à-vis Multi-Strat.

25 Q And the Debtor didn't try to use the opportunity to use

Seery - Redirect

140

1 Multi-Strat to fund some portion of the additional risk that
2 was identified, did it?

3 A No. We spent a significant amount of time thinking about
4 Multi-Strat standalone, the risks to Multi-Strat, the ability
5 to make distributions with UBS's claim hanging out there, and 6 the merits of UBS's claim against Multi-Strat. So we treated
7 them separately.

8 Q And so if the Debtor wanted to, though -- withdrawn. I'll 9 just leave it at that.

10 MR. MORRIS: No further questions.

11 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Clubok, any further
12 questions?

13 MR. CLUBOK: No, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Draper?

15 MR. DRAPER: Just a few questions.

16 RECROSS-EXAMINATION

17 BY MR. DRAPER:

18 Q Mr. Seery, the redeeming parties, in connection with 19 Limited or LP, is it your testimony that there was no written 20 agreement for assets to be frozen for them?

21 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.
22 Beyond the scope of redirect.

23 THE WITNESS: Yeah, I don't -- I don't --

24 THE COURT: Overruled.

25 THE WITNESS: I'm not aware of any written agreement

005303

1 -- I'm not aware of a written agreement to freeze assets for
2 them.

3 BY MR. DRAPER:

4 Q If that's the case, why haven't they done anything for 5 five years?

6 A Well, you're walking into this one, sir. Your client
7 managed the estate and simply rebuffed these people. They did
8 make inquiry. They asked if they can transfer their assets.
9 The Debtor has always just stiffed them. They're 10 superannuation funds in Australia, mostly, as well as some 11 Japanese investors, and the Debtor has continually, before the 12 filing, rebuffed their attempts to get liquidity.

13 Q Couldn't they have filed suit?

14 A They could. And in fact, you probably don't know this,
15 but a claim of -- of NexBank and their lien was -- actually 16 came from Alberta Investment Management Company. Alberta also 17 redeemed, but Alberta couldn't be pushed around, as a hundred
18 billion dollar plus investor from -- from the -- from Canada,
19 who could actually show up and do something. So, so the 20 Debtor, pre-filing, went out and borrowed money to take care
21 of that redemption. And borrowed, of course, from NexBank, 22 and secured it. And there are other redeemers who were 23 smaller and weren't a real threat, didn't -- didn't get paid.

24 Q All right. Now, you talked about the life settlement
25 policies. If I understand it, your testimony that they

1 belonged to LP is based upon the fact that they were in LP in
2 2020? You have no information as to where they were in 20 --
3 2009, 2010, 2011, correct?

4 A Yeah. I'm not aware that they bounced around among the 15
5 boxes on that page, no.

6 Q So, so in fact, again, your statement that they were LP's
7 assets is based solely upon your analysis and where they were 8 in 2020?

9 A Yes. And we did due diligence on that. LP did own them.
10 The buyer wanted those representations. We did give -- we did
11 research to make sure we did it.

12 And, in fact, the reason we found out about the issue --
13 because, frankly, we had just not seen the UBS effective claim
14 against it; we knew that it was out there, but we didn't think 15 it would grab the policies -- was that a buyer raised it with 16 us.

17 Q That's -- my question is a different question. Your 18 diligence and your analysis is based upon where the assets
19 were in 2020. You have no -- nothing to dispute the fact that 20 the assets came back under the unwind agreement in 2019 --
21 2009 to Limited?

22 A No, I -- I'm not aware that that's -- I don't even know
23 that to be true because --

24 Q Well, you looked at the document, and the document
25 specifically is -- the signatory is Limited, not LP?

Seery - Recross

143

1 A The signatory with respect to that note and that unwind is
2 Limited. I don't know that the assets went back there. I
3 think the assets went to the entity that they were in.

4 Q But you have -- you have no evidence to support that, but 5 you have a document that says these assets were going into 6 Limited?

7 A I don't think I have a document that says that, sir, but 8 -- but, you know, I know where they were and I know that the 9 buyer traced title and was comfortable, as we were, that when 10 we sold them out of the subsidiary of LP, that's where they --
11 they were properly housed.

12 Q Okay.

13 MR. DRAPER: I have nothing further for this witness.

14 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Taylor, anything from 15 you?

16 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor. Just --

17 RECROSS-EXAMINATION

18 BY MR. TAYLOR:

19 Q Mr. Seery, just a very precise question, so if you'll 20 listen to it carefully and give me a yes or no answer. As we 21 sit here today, there has been no finding or adjudication that 22 the Sentinel transaction was a fraudulent conveyance.
23 Correct?

24 A Correct.

25 Q Thank you.

Seery - Recross

144

1 MR. TAYLOR: No further questions.

2 THE COURT: All right. Final-final opportunity. Any
3 recross on that last set of questioning, Mr. Morris?

4 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: All right. And I assume nothing from 6 you, Mr. Clubok?

7 MR. CLUBOK: No, Your Honor. Thank you.

8 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Seery. You're 9 excused from the virtual witness stand.

10 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

11 (The witness is excused.)

12 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, do you rest?

13 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor. The Debtor rests.

14 THE COURT: Okay. And Mr. Clubok, I presume you do
15 as well?

16 MR. CLUBOK: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you.

17 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Draper, any further
18 evidence from the Objectors? (No response.) You're on mute.

19 MR. DRAPER: The sole reason I had a Dugaboy
20 representative on the list was to establish our ownership in 21 the LP. I think that's been established by Mr. Seery and that 22 we do have an active ownership in that entity, so I have 23 nothing further.

24 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Taylor?

25 MR. TAYLOR: No, Your Honor.

005307

1 THE COURT: Okay. Why don't we take a 10-minute
2 break, and we'll come back and have closing arguments.

3 MR. DRAPER: Thank you, Your Honor.

4 THE CLERK: All rise.

5 (A recess ensued from 1:27 p.m. until 1:37 p.m.)

6 THE CLERK: All rise.

7 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. All right.
8 We're back on the record in the Highland matter, UBS
9 compromise. We'll hear closing arguments. Mr. -- is it going
10 to be Mr. Feinstein or Mr. Morris?

11 MR. FEINSTEIN: It's going to be me, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Okay. You may proceed.

13 MR. FEINSTEIN: Thank you.

14 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

15 MR. FEINSTEIN: Your Honor, the settlement agreement
16 that's before Your Honor accomplishes two things. One, it
17 compromises and allows UBS's disputed claims, pursuant to Rule
18 9019. And second, it settles the state court lawsuit claim
19 that UBS has against Multi-Strat. And as to that, this branch
20 of the motion is governed by 363(b), where the Debtors asked 21 for authority to take an action outside the ordinary course of 22 business as investment manager of Multi-Strat to settle that 23 claim.

24 So I want to take them each separately, Your Honor. And 25 let me start with the 9019 branch of this, which actually has

1 gotten very little attention in the hearing today. The 9019
2 motion aspect of this is to allow two proofs of claim, two
3 allowed claims to UBS, a Class 8 claim for $65 million and a
4 Class 9 claim for $60 million.

5 The -- I'm sure the Court is well familiar with the 6 standards for Rule 9019 settlements, but I do want to just 7 make a few brief comments from Fifth Circuit authorities to 8 set the table.

9 First, it's well-settled that settlements are favored in 10 bankruptcy. They minimize litigation expense. They expedite
11 the administration of the estate. And here, as we've noted, 12 the resolution of the UBS claim will expedite distributions to 13 creditors now that the largest disputed claim in the case
14 would be resolved at fixed amounts.

15 The Fifth Circuit also clearly holds -- I'm citing to the 16 AGE Refinery case, that the Court may approve a settlement if 17 it's fair and reasonable, in the best interests of the estate,
18 and that a settlement should be approved unless it falls below
19 the lowest point in the range of reasonableness based on a 20 comparison between the terms of a settlement and the costs and 21 benefits of further litigation.

22 And in evaluating a settlement, the Court -- courts
23 generally consider a number of factors: the probability of 24 success in the litigation, with consideration for the 25 uncertainty of the facts and the law in the case; the

1 complexity and likely duration of the litigation, and any
2 attendant expense, inconvenience, delay; and -- and, quote,
3 Other Factors. This is according to the Cajun Electric case.
4 Those Other Factors include the best interests of creditors,
5 with proper deference to their reasonable views, as well as 6 the extent to which the settlement is truly the product of 7 arm's-length bargaining and not of fraud or collusion.

8 Your Honor, we believe that we have easily, readily,
9 satisfied these standards. The only evidence you heard today
10 was testimony from Mr. Seery, and it showed beyond doubt, Your 11 Honor, that the settlement is fair and reasonable, that it's 12 well above the lowest point on the range of reasonableness,
13 and it's in the best interest of the estate and the creditors.
14 And it is so, Your Honor, because it resolves a disputed proof
15 of claim for over one billion dollars on very favorable terms
16 and brings about an end to over a decade of contentious and 17 extremely expensive litigation between UBS and the Debtor, 18 arising out of events that occurred in 2008 and 2009 and in 19 subsequent years.

20 And I'd hasten to add, Your Honor, that the projected
21 expense of continuing to litigate with UBS, were this case not 22 settled today, would be extraordinary, because not only was it
23 already an extremely complicated case and one that was very 24 expensive to litigate over the last 11 or 12 years, but it
25 became more complicated and more expensive as a result of the 1 revelation of actions that were taken by Mr. Dondero and his

2 confederates in 2017, which, as I noted before, Your Honor,
3 fall squarely within UBS's theory of the case, that the Debtor
4 breached its implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing
5 because it was orchestrating maneuvers by entities that it
6 controlled, including those two funds, who were -- judgments
7 against them, to denude those entities of assets.

8 So the -- were we to litigate the underlying transactions
9 from 2008, 2009, the alleged fraudulent transfers that -- and 10 the note unwind, and then going forward, adding to that, the 11 complexity surrounding this Sentinel transaction with offshore
12 funds and the like, it became that much more complicated, that 13 much more expensive to litigate, and we avoid all that by 14 settling, on terms that we're very pleased with, given that 15 those revelations about the 2017 transaction upped the ad
16 damnum by over a hundred million dollars. And yet we managed
17 to increase the claims, but only by a modest amount, and hold
18 on to the settlement.

19 And the settlement is -- really, it does bring about a 20 complete resolution to the New York State action. It avoids 21 the Debtor having to return to New York state court. And in 22 our view, Your Honor, it's a great outcome.

23 Now, it appears that the only objection to the 9019 aspect
24 of this comes from Mr. Dondero. And there's almost nothing
25 said there, Your Honor. I mean, the Dugaboy objection is

1 candid that they're not dealing with the UBS claim aspect of
2 this. They're just focused on Multi-Strat, which I'll deal
3 with later.

4 But Mr. Dondero, in his objection -- the docket number of 5 the pleading is 2295 -- there are several paragraphs in there
6 that I guess come as close to a stated objection as I can
7 discern from the document. In Paragraph 28, Mr. Dondero says,
8 through counsel, that the settlement appears to inflate UBS's
9 claim against the Debtor as a result of claims UBS may have,
10 which are unproven, against nondebtor entities.

11 He says in the next paragraph that the Movants have not 12 "sufficiently demonstrated the nexus between the purported
13 transferred assets and the pending UBS claim and why it should 14 increase UBS'S recovery against the estate."

15 And then in the next paragraph, Paragraph 30, he -- and 16 I'm quoting it, not the entire paragraph, but Mr. Dondero
17 argues that, "Increasing the payment to UBS on these issues
18 may not be warranted because the payments do not relate to 19 claims against the estate and it's unclear whether UBS has a 20 claim against the estate relating to these alleged 21 allegations."

22 So, Your Honor, you heard testimony today directly linking 23 the revelation of these 2017 fraudulent transactions to the 24 underlying complaint. UBS sued the Debtor for breach of 25 implied covenant for moving assets out of the Funds, away --

1 so that they -- those Funds would not be able to respond to 2 UBS's contractual claims. They're directly related.

3 So, other than those few statements, I don't think you
4 heard anything today, Your Honor, by either of the Objectors
5 that challenges the resolution of the UBS claim, the 9019
6 branch of this motion.

7 And at the risk of taking up more of Your Honor's time,
8 I'm happy to march through -- we've briefed all this -- but 9 march through the application of those factors -- probability
10 of success, expense and delay -- and the Court can only come,
11 I think, to the conclusion that this settlement passes muster
12 under the applicable legal authorities, that there -- that the 13 underlying claims, that were they to be litigated, there is no
14 comfort at all that future litigation would end up with claims
15 in the dollar amounts that are stipulated to in the settlement
16 agreement. Moreover, further litigation would be extremely 17 expensive, would be hugely delayed because -- particularly 18 because of the new evidence. But if we didn't settle,
19 eventually, we would have to go to trial, either in this Court
20 or in the state court. And the underlying facts and 21 circumstances are tremendously complicated and we would be --
22 and we would be here for months, if not years, and spending
23 millions and millions of dollars to pursue this dispute
24 instead of settling it.

25 The other factors that the Court -- courts look to in

1 evaluating settlements are the benefit to creditors and
2 whether this is a sound exercise of business judgment.

3 In terms of benefit to creditors, even granting for the 4 sake of argument that Mr. Dondero is a creditor -- again,
5 Dugaboy has not objected to the 9019 branch; only Mr. Dondero
6 has. But giving him the grand benefit of the doubt that he's 7 a creditor, all the other creditors support this. The 8 Creditors' Committee supports this. No creditor has filed an 9 objection.

10 And Your Honor can fairly infer that this settlement is 11 very beneficial to the creditors. It brings the billion-
12 dollar claim in at a far lower number. It resolves the claim,
13 which is otherwise a huge disputed claim that would delay
14 distributions to other creditors. And that's why they didn't 15 object. This is in their best interest.

16 And finally, is this a sound exercise of business
17 judgment? You heard Mr. Seery testify the extent to which the 18 Debtor undertook an intensive investigation of the claims
19 asserted against the Debtor in the state court litigation.
20 We've had extensive motion practice before this Court. We 21 have done as deep a dive as you can do on these claims since 22 the bankruptcy was filed that I think is possible. And the 23 judgment that came away from that is that there is material
24 risk to the estate if this claim is not resolved, and that the 25 -- ultimately, that the settlement is the product of sound

1 business judgment, extensive input from legal and financial 2 advisors, and ultimately we get to a number that, again, every
3 creditor in the case supports except, if he's a creditor, Mr.
4 Dondero.

5 And you can consider the source and his history of 6 objecting to everything when you gauge his arguments. But his 7 arguments are paper thin, Your Honor. It's a few sentences in 8 his objection. He put on no evidence about the underlying 9 merits of the claims against the Debtor for breach of implied
10 covenant, et cetera. It is simply a nonexistent objection.
11 It's a few lines on a page, backed up by no evidence, and no
12 real argument, either.

13 So we think there's a compelling case, Your Honor, to 14 approve the 9019 branch of this motion to resolve the claim.

15 So now let me turn to the Multi-Strat piece of this. As 16 we've explained, Your Honor, Multi-Strat is a defendant in the 17 same court -- in the same state court action as the Debtor.
18 It was sued for a fraudulent transfer in the note unwind. The 19 Debtor was sued for the same facts and circumstances, for a 20 breach of implied covenant. Those claims are obviously 21 intertwined and interrelated. And more so, they're 22 interrelated because UBS was prepared to settle only on the 23 basis that it get a full resolution.

24 So it's not like we readily could have settled with UBS on 25 the Highland piece of this but not the Multi-Strat piece. It

1 was always part and parcel. That makes sense. That's a sound
2 exercise of business judgment. So we come to the Court with a
3 request for Your Honor to authorize the Debtor to take action
4 outside the ordinary course of business.

5 Again, I want to be clear. We're not asking Your Honor to 6 evaluate the merits of the settlement so much as authorizing
7 the Debtor to act outside the ordinary course in approving
8 this settlement. But I do note, Your Honor, that we served
9 all the limited partners of Multi-Strat. We treated this like
10 a 9019 in that we put everybody on notice. The only objector, 11 again, who's affected by this is Dugaboy, and they've been 12 here and they've been heard.

13 And on the merits, you know, we think this is a good
14 settlement, despite Mr. Draper's effort to obfuscate which 15 subsidiary entities were involved in these asset transfers.
16 We know, as Your Honor does, from the 3018 hearing, that $25
17 million were transferred to the Multi-Strat entities -- and 18 that, with interest, you double that; that's almost $50
19 million gone of exposure -- that's being settled for $18-1/2
20 million.

21 So, what are the arguments that Dugaboy, and I guess Mr.
22 Dondero, to make with respect to the Multi-Strat settlement?
23 I think it's fair to state that they challenge this Court's 24 jurisdiction. They challenge the Debtors' authority to act on 25 behalf of Multi-Strat. They allege that the Debtor didn't

1 comply with its fiduciary duty because it has conflicts of 2 interest. And ultimately argue that, I guess, the $18-1/2
3 million was too much.

4 So, let me take them piece by piece. First, jurisdiction.
5 Undoubtedly, Your Honor has jurisdiction over the Debtor,
6 Highland Capital Management. Nobody can possibly dispute that
7 the Court has jurisdiction over the Debtor, and Your Honor
8 happens to have before it a debtor that has been and is 9 engaged in the business of investment management. So, in its 10 capacity as a business operator, managing funds, it has the 11 authority to take certain actions. You've seen that in the 12 documents.

13 But by the same -- it's a debtor before this Court that,
14 in our view, was taking actions that were outside the ordinary
15 course of business, as Mr. Seery testified. The May 2020
16 transaction involved the liquidation of assets, sale of 17 assets. Investment funds buy and sell assets all the time.
18 So that was not extraordinary or outside the ordinary course
19 of the normal role that an investment manager plays for a 20 managed fund.

21 This situation is different, that insofar as we're dealing 22 with not a sale or transfer of assets but a settlement of very 23 substantial litigation claims against the managed fund.

24 And as you heard Mr. Seery testify in response to Mr.
25 Morris's questions, only Highland Capital Management can act

1 for a Multi-Strat in this context. And you saw that, pursuant
2 to the investment management agreement, Highland Capital is
3 vested with the managerial authority over these funds. You
4 also saw, as part of the corporate organizational chart and 5 the discussion in the private purchase -- placement
6 memorandum, that, you know, Highland Capital is a majority
7 owner of Multi-Strat, and through its position as the general
8 partner of the general -- of the limited partnership, it has 9 managerial authority under the organic corporate documents, in 10 addition to the investment management agreement.

11 So, we think, Your Honor, based on all of that, that Your 12 Honor does have jurisdiction. This is undoubtedly related the 13 bankruptcy, at the very least, insofar as, you know, Highland 14 is an investment manager. It is before the Court, asking to 15 take action outside, you know, its ordinary course of 16 business.

17 I think an argument can be made that, beyond this being 18 related to, that this is core because it is intertwined with a 19 settlement of the claims against the Debtor by UBS, and 20 certainly those are core matters, beyond dispute.

21 We don't think that there is a credible case here, Your 22 Honor, that this Court lacks jurisdiction to hear the Debtors'
23 motion pursuant to 363(b).

24 So, their arguments are jurisdiction, authority, and the 25 other stuff. So let me turn to authority.

1           It is beyond doubt, Your Honor, when you see the corporate
2 documents, that -- that -- of the investment management
3 agreement, that, despite the allegations, I guess, and the 4 objections about a lack of authority, that the Debtor clearly
5 does have authority to act as investment manager/general
6 partner of Multi-Strat to effect this settlement.

7           So, once you get past those sort of gating arguments about 8 jurisdiction and authority, then you get to other arguments, I
9 guess, that the Objectors have raised. One which we really 10 didn't touch on extensively, Your Honor, is the notion that 11 the Debtor somehow has a conflict of interest here and that 12 this is something that Dugaboy, as a limited partner, can 13 raise. So, Your Honor, I want to -- the passage is too long.
14 It runs five pages. But in the private placement memorandum
15 that Dugaboy signed -- and, of course, that Mr. Dondero had a 16 heavy hand in putting together -- there's five pages of 17 disclosures about the potential for conflicts of interest by 18 the investment manager, in very specific terms. And rather 19 than burden the record, I'm just going to ask that, at the 20 appropriate time, that Your Honor read -- the numeric pages
21 are 49 to 53 in the private placement memorandum that is the 22 Debtors' Exhibit No. 55.

23           But on a high level, it says in repeated ways that the 24 relationship between the investment manager and the fund may 25 give rise to conflicts of interest, that everybody

1 acknowledges that Highland is not precluded from engaging in 2 other businesses or owning other assets, managing other
3 clients' accounts, on and on and on.

4 So, there's -- and again, Mr. Dondero created this regime
5 such that he would never be accused, in his capacity as 6 investment manager -- the Debtors' capacity as investment
7 manager, of doing anything that could ever present an argument
8 for conflict of interest.

9 In short, the limited partners have essentially
10 acknowledged that there may well be conflicts, but they're not 11 in a position to raise them. It's just simply not one of 12 their rights in their bundle of rights under the limited
13 partnership agreement.

14 Moreover, Your Honor, and even though they can't raise it,
15 as a factual matter, there is no actual conflict. And I think
16 Mr. Seery's final statements, I think, made that very clear.
17 Probably the best indicator that the Debtor was not using or 18 leveraging the Multi-Strat settlement claims to improve its 19 own position is that when -- after the initial agreement in 20 principle is reached for $55 million and -- $50 and $25
21 million claims, the revelation about Sentinel came to light
22 and we all realized that the settlement amounts were going to 23 have to go up. The Multi-Strat settlement was unchanged. It
24 remains at $18-1/2 million. Why? This is not a Multi-Strat
25 problem. This was a -- this is a Debtor problem because of

1 the breach of implied covenant claim.

2 So the additional consideration to settle this new --
3 revised claim, if you will, with expanded exposure, came
4 entirely out of the Highland Capital estate. There was no
5 sense that Multi-Strat should pay more to try to fill the 6 hole. These -- and then Mr. Seery testified at some length as 7 to the analysis that he undertook and that the company
8 undertook using its advisors to evaluate the claims that UBS
9 has against the estate as well as the underlying Multi-Strat
10 -- claim against Multi-Strat by UBS.

11 THE COURT: And Mr. Feinstein, just to make sure I 12 understood that last point, the discovery, if you will, of the 13 $300 million or so of assets that went to Sentinel, those were 14 from the Funds? Those were from CDO Fund and SOHC Funds?
15 Those --

16 MR. FEINSTEIN: That's correct, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

18 MR. FEINSTEIN: That's correct. And this was the 19 heart of the accusation against the Debtor in connection with 20 the breach of implied covenant claim.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. FEINSTEIN: So, so Your Honor, this was a very 23 thoughtful approach to the settlement. There was no conflict.
24 The Debtor has authority to make this decision.

25 So what are we left with in the way of an objection here?

1 Mr. Draper has attempted to make the case that this was -- I
2 think he said in his opening, this was -- the Debtor got a bad
3 deal in this settlement.

4 So let's examine that proposition. Because Your Honor
5 heard testimony -- there was a full-blown hearing on the 3018
6 motion by UBS -- and Your Honor came away with a -- and made a
7 determination that the $25 million that was transferred to 8 Multi-Strat was handicapped as a fraudulent transfer to the 9 extent of 90 percent. So that yields a $23 million principal 10 liability, and then add to that interest, and now you're at 11 call it $46 million. And it's a -- and here's a claim for $46
12 million that's being settled for $18.5 million, without 13 further litigation expense, without going back to New York
14 state court where we'd have to be in front of a new judge and 15 start over.

16 So, you know, the objective -- an objective analysis, Your 17 Honor, is that that is not only a good settlement, it's an 18 excellent settlement. And again, it's not a 9019 motion, so 19 we're not talking about above the lowest point of range of 20 reasonableness. It would satisfy that standard easily. But 21 the issue is whether this was a sound exercise of business
22 judgment. And just given the numbers that I recited, Your 23 Honor, we think undoubtedly that it is, and that Mr. Draper's
24 efforts to muddy the water by looking at certain assets that 25 were in subsidiary funds as opposed to the Multi-Strat entity,

1 Your Honor, which we -- you've heard testimony was treated as
2 a unit. The foreign feeder fund, the master fund, that's all
3 Multi-Strat. That -- those entities got the assets in the 4 note unwind. And now we're going to settle that litigation,
5 subject to Your Honor verifying that this is a sound exercise
6 of business judgment by the Debtor.

7 And I have to note, Your Honor, that that $18-1/2 million
8 number has been around for a while. At the confirmation
9 hearing at the beginning of February, the Debtor put that 10 proposed settlement on the record, and -- and I think that was 11 February 3rd, 4th, 5th, somewhere in there. So it's now late
12 May, and we've never heard boo from Mr. Dondero until this 13 pleading filed last week that he had an issue or takes issue
14 with the $18-1/2 million settlement amount.

15 And it's not like Mr. Dondero is shy. Any time the Debtor
16 does something, we get a letter, we get a motion, we get sued.
17 So, you know, if there was some issue about $18-1/2 million,
18 it is unclear at best why it took him four months to first 19 raise this issue. We don't think it's credible. And we 20 continue to point to the underlying potential liability of 21 nearly $50 million from Multi-Strat and ask Your Honor to 22 verify that the determination by the Debtor as an investment
23 manager of Multi-Strat to settle that claim for $18-1/2
24 million constitutes a sound exercise of business judgment.

25 I think that that might cover our arguments, Your Honor.

1 I'm happy to answer any questions. We've obviously briefed
2 this very extensively. I'm not going to recite all the 3 underlying case law. But I think that makes our point.

4 THE COURT: All right.

5 MR. FEINSTEIN: I'm happy to answer questions.

6 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Clubok, anything more
7 from you?

8 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF UBS SECURITIES, LLC

9 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor. I, too, am not 10 going to repeat all the arguments. As Your Honor well knows,
11 we're not here today to talk about whether or not we would win
12 at trial. It probably goes without saying that UBS thinks
13 that it would. And you know, frankly, hearing the evidence 14 and reliving the evidence as we've heard it today, and the 15 statements by Mr. Seery that are now informed by uncovering,
16 frankly, lies that were told to him and his colleagues
17 previously by Mr. Dondero and his colleagues, does make it,
18 you know, let's just say opens up probably some -- some wounds
19 that certainly does not indicate that this settlement is a bad
20 settlement for the purpose -- from the perspective of the 21 Debtor. And so that is the issue here, is whether the 22 settlement is fair from the perspective of the Debtor. It's 23 more than fair, if anything.

24 I would like to note, with respect to the Multi-Strat
25 claim, just to be clear, it actually is a different claim even

1 than you heard. Just to remind everyone, under the New York
2 Debtor-Creditor Law, Sections 276, 276(a), which involve
3 actual fraud -- and we have a mountain of evidence that 4 suggests that the March transfers were actual fraud, not just 5 -- not just constructive fraud, which they also would have 6 been because they lacked for fair value and they were from an
7 insolvent entity -- but under that New York Debtor-Creditor
8 Law, we're entitled also, if we prevail, to attorneys' fees,
9 as Your Honor recognized might be the case in the estimation
10 proceeding. And we'd be entitled potentially to punitive 11 damages from a jury determination of those claims against 12 Multi-Strat.

13 So when I hear -- you know, we heard the perspective, and 14 there was some testimony where Mr. Seery was asked basically,
15 well, it's $18-1/2 -- you know, he was -- I think Mr. Seery
16 testified today that the estimated equity value remaining in 17 Multi-Strat, other than our claim, after you pay off the 18 redeemers, and of course our claim comes ahead of those 19 redeemers, but if you paid off the redeemers and we -- and 20 absent our claim, there was, I think, an estimate of about $45
21 million in equity value. And the issue that was raised in the 22 examination of Mr. Seery was, well, if you settle for $18-1/2
23 million and Dugaboy has about a 2 percent, a little less than 24 2 percent, let's round up, then we're talking about $360,000-
25 some that supposedly Dugaboy is losing because of this

1 settlement.

2 Of course, if we went forward to litigate with Multi-Strat
3 and we were to prevail on a claim that Your Honor estimated,
4 and it was just an estimate, but estimated at a 90 percent
5 chance of success, that in light of the mountain of evidence
6 we have, including evidence that Mr. Dondero lied repeatedly
7 under oath when he described that transaction in March 2009,
8 claiming falsely that it was negotiated by the then-general
9 counsel and head of compliance, Michael Colvin, who testified
10 to the contrary -- all of this is in the exhibits that we've 11 submitted today -- but if we were to prevail on that claim, it
12 would be $25 million, plus interest, which is now more than a
13 hundred percent, because it's been 12 years times 9 percent,
14 so that's 108 percent, and climbing every day, plus attorneys'
15 fees, plus punitives. And so you easily could get into that 16 mid-$60 million or more range, even without accounting for 17 punitives, and then Dugaboy's interest would be zero, as would 18 the estate and every equity holder, because that would -- and 19 it would actually affect the redeemers as well of Multi-Strat.

20 So this settlement for $18-1/2 million is not costing 21 Dugaboy $360,000 unless you assume, you know, full success on 22 our claims and zero cost of litigating them, even though we 23 are, in New York, on the cusp of litigating those claims.
24 There is -- we are past summary judgment. We're past five --
25 we're more than half dozen, I think, opinions that relate to

1 every argument in the book from a legal matter that could have
2 been brought with respect to those claims, all of which were
3 denied, and the case is otherwise ready for trial with a judge
4 now that would be very eager to proceed if it was not for this
5 settlement.

6 So, that's what the Multi-Strat agreement is about. It's 7 certainly, from just an exercise of business judgment, a
8 standard that's -- no different than 9019. With respect to 9 that, it certainly is a smart -- it's a smart move by the 10 controllers of Multi-Strat right now to settle that claim for 11 that amount.

12 The other thing I just wanted to remind, you know, there
13 was a little bit of evidence or a little bit of questioning
14 with Mr. Draper that seemed to try to cast some doubt, and 15 there was repeated questions, and even Mr. Seery sometimes, 16 you know, accepted the premise of the question, that the 17 transaction that occurred in March of 2009 was an unwind of a
18 note or even a termination of a note. Your Honor mentioned
19 last week, I think, or even -- I don't know when. I've lost
20 track of the days now. But we were talking before about note
21 litigation. I think Your Honor talked about how note 22 litigation is some of the easiest litigation when there is an 23 actual real note and you're just litigating on a note. These 24 notes were, of course, nothing of the kind. They were equity
25 infusions, as, again, we have a mountain of evidence that

1 showed, in the fall of 2008, designed to prop of HFP.

2 I'm not going to relitigate all of our claims here, but
3 suffice it to say that the exhibits that we entered into 4 evidence today, which are the exhibits that were a part of our 5 opposition to summary judgment, our response to objections to 6 our claim, the 9019 exhibits, and those -- certainly, at a 7 minimum, put a real risk of litigation that that transfer in 8 March of nine -- of twenty nine -- I'm sorry, that transfer in 9 March of 2009 cannot possibly be considered an "unwind" of 10 notes.

11 There was different amounts to different parties, for more
12 than fair value, from a then-insolvent entity, by the way, all 13 negotiated by one person, Mr. Dondero, on behalf of every 14 single party, notwithstanding his testimony under oath that 15 others had negotiated it, who then later denied that.

16 So, so again, all of that is not to argue that we should 17 -- Your Honor obviously doesn't have to decide whether I'm 18 right when I say these things, but it's clear that Your Honor
19 can recognize and obviously the directors who chose to settle
20 these claims could recognize the serious, serious litigation
21 risks to Multi-Strat and to the Debtor, which orchestrated
22 those transactions at the time.

23 And then, finally, with respect to the overall claim,
24 again, I just want to end with Your Honor's view of our claim,
25 and the estimate, and that we all know is just an estimate, in

1 that 9019 stage, at the time we were told that there was only
2 about $10 million left between the Funds that we held a
3 judgment against and that the documents that we had that show
4 there was something closer to $70 million back in 2009, and we
5 kind of lost the trail, that all of that was, you know,
6 impossible to know what happened to it, it was probably almost 7 all spent on legal fees, defending against our litigation, and 8 it was just gone and nothing could be done.

9 And we now know that all of that was based on statements
10 that were provided by Mr. Dondero's then-associates, the folks
11 who were at Highland Capital at the time who falsely claimed 12 that story, when it turns out that those assets we know were,
13 in fact, transferred to Dondero-affiliated entities, even 14 though Highland Capital Management had signed an engagement
15 letter and two other documents that promised that a hundred 16 percent of losses suffered by UBS would be paid by CDO and 17 SOHC.

18 Instead, all of their assets have been transferred over
19 the years, first in March 2009, then later in 2017, and not 20 one penny to this day, as Mr. Seery acknowledged, has ever
21 been paid to UBS, notwithstanding the contractual liabilities
22 dating back to 2008 and the judgment that was received.

23 And this settlement will finally change that, although not 24 come close to the amounts that we obviously believe that we 25 would have been able to prevail on if we had been able to go

1 forward with the litigation.

2 Your Honor, in particular, and I'm going to close with 3 this, said in response to the summary judgment part of the 4 hearing, said, I think UBS has put summary judgment evidence
5 in the record that there may be a fact issue here with regard
6 to those Funds. And this was in response to our claim that,
7 you know, there was more money in the Funds and we just, you
8 know, even though all that's supposedly left is $10 million,
9 something fishy was going on here. Your Honor said they may 10 -- they meaning UBS -- may be able to prove, have a potential
11 theory here that Highland breached the covenant of good faith
12 and fair dealing by somehow exercising control over CDO Fund
13 and SOHC and causing them to dissipate those assets and not 14 pay them to UBS. There might be a theory here.

15 So I hope that it's clear that I did not bring a summary
16 judgment declaring that UBS is barred from asserting something 17 more than the $61 million of March 2009 transfers. That's the 18 hearing transcript from November 20, 2021 [sic] at Page 212 to 19 -- 212-21 to 213 to 18. And I think that, you know, with the 20 recognition that we may well have a better claim for breach of 21 implied duty of good faith and fair dealing than your 22 estimation proceeding found. And, of course, Your Honor was 23 not at the time given the information, nor was Debtor or its 24 counsel, at least those who control the Debtor or its counsel,
25 given the information, and indeed there was significant

1 additional evidence to support our breach of duty of implied
2 good faith and fair dealing that has now come to light that 3 should have affected even your estimation proceeding, but in 4 any event is still now being settled at an incredibly good
5 deal, I would say, for the estate, one that UBS has come to 6 agree to for all the reasons why settlements make sense for 7 all parties.

8 Thank you, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Draper?

10 MR. DRAPER: Yes, Your Honor. Can you hear me?

11 THE COURT: Yes.

12 MR. DRAPER: Okay. Great.

13 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF DUGABOY INVESTMENT TRUST

14 MR. DRAPER: Let me start with the first thing, and 15 that is this whole record -- and I hear this in hearing after 16 hearing -- is basically there's a lot of noise with respect to 17 what happened, who did what when, and throwing things at Mr.
18 Dondero. Let's just focus on the legal issues that are before
19 the Court. And what my feeling is, that a lot of this is done
20 to obfuscate what's really going on here.

21 First, the Court's jurisdiction. The Court does not have 22 jurisdiction. What they're really asking you to do is render 23 an advisory opinion that authorizes Mr. Seery or Highland to 24 take action when -- in a fiduciary capacity with respect to a
25 nondebtor, and the assets that are in fact being paid are

1 nondebtor assets. So the Court has really no jurisdiction
2 over that. This is an issue, they've repackaged this pig
3 today different than what they put before the Court and in 4 their motion papers, but there's a huge jurisdictional issue,
5 --

6 THE COURT: Okay. Let me --

7 MR. DRAPER: -- no matter how you shape it.

8 THE COURT: Let me stop you right there. Well, there
9 are a lot of things I wonder about. You know, Mr. Feinstein
10 says, at a bare minimum, this is related to the bankruptcy
11 estate being administered. You know, has conceivable effect
12 on the estate being administered. So there's that issue. But 13 I guess my real question is how is this different from the 14 many, many, many, many global settlements this Court approves
15 involving nondebtor parties?

16 I mean, I approve -- bankruptcy courts approve settlements
17 all the time that involve, you know, a very large number of 18 parties. And moreover, we have documents in the record
19 showing the Debtor controls Multi-Strat. It's the investment-
20 managing -- the investment manager. It's the general partner.
21 It has a majority of the limited partnership interests. I 22 mean, they're -- under your argument, they're darned if they 23 do, they're darned if they don't, right? If they didn't get 24 the blessing of the Court, they would get attacked for not 25 getting the blessing of the Court.

1 I'm very confused. So elaborate on your jurisdictional
2 argument.

3 MR. DRAPER: Okay. There's two parts. Let's start
4 with the first premise, that the assets of Multi-Strat, LP do
5 not do not belong to this Debtor and are not property of the 6 estate. Do we both agree on that?

7 THE COURT: We both agree on that.

8 MR. DRAPER: Okay. Number two, that you're asking --
9 that they're asking this Court to bless a settlement between a 10 nondebtor and a debtor. I mean, a nondebtor -- two 11 nondebtors. Do we both agree that the Court has no
12 jurisdiction to bless that?

13 THE COURT: Well, --

14 MR. DRAPER: Notwithstanding the fact that --

15 THE COURT: -- I don't know -- I don't know if it's a 16 jurisdictional problem or not. I mean, I have to look at, is 17 there related-to jurisdiction? You know, is there a 18 conceivable effect on the estate being administered?

19 MR. DRAPER: Well, I --

20 THE COURT: For one thing.

21 MR. DRAPER: Look. I understand the questions you're 22 asking.

23 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

24 MR. DRAPER: I can tell you that the case law is very 25 clear that the fact that the value of some related entity to

1 the Debtor is diminished during the course of the case due to
2 something they do does not make that related-to jurisdiction.

3 And look. You're going to do what you're going to do, and 4 my ability to convince you I don't think is great. But,
5 again, my -- I'm asserting my position. You'll take your 6 issue on jurisdiction.

7 I understand what you're saying about related-to, but I
8 would tell you, from a case law point of view, starting from 9 the Bankruptcy Act forward, the value and the assets within a
10 subsidiary entity of the debtor that's a nondebtor is not
11 property of the estate and the court has no jurisdiction over 12 it. And, quite frankly, the court has no jurisdiction to 13 approve a settlement involving that nondebtor and another
14 nondebtor.

15 And you start with In re Beck Enterprise Industries, which 16 is a Second Circuit case. You move past that to In re Tower
17 Automotive out of New York. There are -- I'd ask you to --

18 THE COURT: I don't know what those facts are. Are 19 they the similar -- are they similar, where you've got a 20 debtor, a wholly-controlled sub, if you will, using that term
21 --

22 MR. DRAPER: Yes.

23 THE COURT: -- loosely, and then other parties, and 24 they say the court doesn't have jurisdiction to bless the 25 settlement? I mean, --

1 MR. DRAPER: Yes.

2 THE COURT: -- again, we have settlements all day
3 long every day involving a myriad of nondebtor parties.

4 MR. DRAPER: Well, all I can say to you is I'm not
5 involved in those cases and I -- and maybe they didn't raise
6 the issue. I don't know if -- I haven't seen anything you've 7 written on that issue. But I'm just saying, from my
8 perspective and the way I read the case law, I don't think you
9 have jurisdiction over it.

10 THE COURT: Okay. What Fifth Circuit case is your 11 best case on this?

12 MR. DRAPER: I have a Second Circuit case with 13 respect to that. There's also a case, Walker, if -- and, you 14 know, look, again, there -- as we both know, there are how 15 many bankruptcy judges?

16 THE COURT: 340?

17 MR. DRAPER: Three hundred and some? Right. You
18 basically, on any given issue, you can probably get 300 on one
19 side, 40 on the other side, but ultimately some issues go up
20 to the Fifth Circuit, some don't. Again, my position that I
21 truly believe, and from what I've researched and what I've 22 just given you the cases we've cited in our brief and these 23 two cases, stand for the proposition you don't have 24 jurisdiction over two nondebtor parties and approving that
25 settlement.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. DRAPER: I don't know what more I can say, and
3 I'd invite you to research that and look at it. I understand
4 that, in the normal course, a lot of cases come through. A
5 lot of joint settlements happen. But that doesn't mean it's 6 right.

7 Second, let me address the so-called authority that
8 Highland has. Yes, I agree, number one, that the general
9 partnership agreement gives it to them. Number two, the -- as 10 investment manager, they probably have authority over these 11 two entities.

12 However, where there's a conflict, the -- and the Court's 13 been made aware of the Investment Adviser Act -- that 14 overrides that. And so I think it's very clear that Highland 15 is on multiple sides of this transaction and wears multiple 16 hats and has multiple interests.

17 And so what should have been done and what the partnership
18 agreements provide for is go form an advisory opinion with 19 outside third parties, hire them, give them the report, and 20 then you have a justification for your action. You cannot 21 rely on Pachulski to give you a report or to give you an 22 analysis because they owe a fiduciary duty to the Debtor.
23 They don't owe a fiduciary duty to Multi-Strat. Multi-Strat, 24 LP is a completely different entity than Limited. It just --
25 and the same with Mr. Seery. So, really, there is a procedure

1 to do it.

2 THE COURT: Should I be scratching my head about the 3 possibility of an estoppel argument here? I mean, okay, with 4 respect, Mr. Dondero and Dugaboy suddenly have scruples about 5 conflicts of interest, when they were on every side of this 6 forever?

7 MR. DRAPER: Well, let me answer that. First of all,
8 Dugaboy was not on any side of this. Dugaboy is a limited
9 partner, and there is nothing in the record that says Dugaboy
10 is Mr. Dondero.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Well, okay.

12 MR. DRAPER: And so --

13 THE COURT: Fair enough.

14 MR. DRAPER: And so you're using an outside view.

15 THE COURT: It's the family trust of Mr. Dondero. It
16 is a separate entity. But did Dugaboy, throughout the history
17 of Highland's existence, have problems with Dondero signing
18 for Highland, Multi-Strat, you name it, --

19 MR. DRAPER: Well, --

20 THE COURT: -- any of the 2,000 entities? I have 21 seen more than a hundred documents since my time presiding
22 over this case where Dondero signed for multiple parties in a
23 transaction or in an agreement.

24 MR. DRAPER: Let's take --

25 THE COURT: It feels kind of like estoppel. I don't

1 know if it is, but it kind of feels like estoppel at this
2 point, to raise the issue.

3 MR. DRAPER: Well, no, I don't -- I don't think it
4 is, number one. And if you look at this transaction, the 5 agreement that I gave you, in fact, there was an independent
6 third party who looked at the 2008 transaction and said, I
7 consent to it. It was hired -- yes, Mr. Morris is right, it
8 was hired by the Debtor, but they went out and got a third-
9 party opinion to base their reliance on.

10 There's no third-party opinion here. There's no reliance
11 on something that somebody was retained to go look at it
12 specifically and look at Dugaboy's interest or look at Multi-
13 Strat's interest. There's nobody.

14 And so, yes, there are ways to do this and to act properly
15 and act in accordance with the Investment Advisers Act and act
16 in accordance with the partnership agreement, the subscription
17 agreement, and the Investment Managers Act.

18 And, again, that -- you asked for closing argument. That 19 -- that's -- there are ways that this could have been done.
20 They weren't done. And that's part of my problem.

21 Next, let's move to this concept of the May 2020
22 transaction being out -- outside the ordinary -- not -- within 23 the ordinary course of business, and this one outside the 24 ordinary course of business. And they justify the first one
25 by being in the ordinary course of business because investment

1 entities buy and sell assets every day. Well, the truth is
2 the testimony of Mr. Seery is very clear: this entity hadn't
3 bought or sold one -- one of these life policies for five
4 years. How does that make it in the ordinary course of 5 business and no court authority is required, when this is he's 6 acting authority again and now he requires Court authority?
7 What's going on here is basically an effort to shield Highland
8 from an act and obtain an opinion by this Court. I understand
9 that. Quite frankly, it could have been done in a whole
10 different way.

11 Next, there's no evidence that says these two settlement
12 -- these two transactions are linked. They're in one
13 document, but there's no reason why they can't be unpacked.
14 There's no reason why this Debtor can't settle with them. And 15 quite frankly, if Mr. -- if Highland goes out and obtains a 16 third-party opinion and gets authority and somebody says it's 17 right, pay the $18-1/2 million to UBS and everybody goes down
18 the road.

19 So, you know, that -- I'm troubled by that, because there
20 were ways this could have been done.

21 Now let's talk about the settlement itself. And here's 22 where my problem lies. I don't dispute that this is probably 23 a good deal. It -- I don't dispute that everybody acted in 24 good faith. I really don't. I think this has been a hard-
25 fought negotiation. I've had a few seconds on with Mr.

1 Clubok. Not pleasant. I've been on with Mr. Seery a great
2 deal. Not very pleasant. Mr. Morris is a little bit better.
3 But -- thank you. But the real point is these are very good
4 advocates and know how to articulate a position, stick to the 5 position, and being able to move them is sort of like moving
6 the -- some large tower when you just have a handrail. It
7 doesn't happen.

8 So, look, I get that. My problem with the settlement is 9 really -- lies in Paragraph -- Page 5, Paragraph C. And it in 10 essence creates an interminable and unsolvable conflict
11 between the Debtors' obligations to UBS and the Debtors'
12 obligations to its constituents and the Debtors' obligation as 13 investment manager.

14 And let me just read one thing to you, because I think I
15 could close here and address this conflict. This is Mr.
16 Seery's statement to me in the deposition. I'd have to -- in 17 the paragraph in -- totally -- conceive of a number of assets
18 that were stripped from these entities. If those assets ended
19 up in the Debtor and they were stripped out, I think we would 20 have an obligation to return them to the entity against whom 21 they were stripped from if we had not paid for them.

22 That, in and of itself, tells you that assets of the 23 estate are going to be returned under Mr. Seery's view of -- 24 of this -- I'm sorry, Mr. Seery's view of this page and what 25 -- that the intent here is to take any asset that the Debtor

1 -- may be property of the estate, and if it was stripped out
2 from an entity, to return it to UBS.

3 That is an impermissible plan modification, and, in fact,
4 should either be taken out or rewritten so that it is either
5 (a) brought to the Court; or (b) that the Debtor is not faced
6 with this conflict.

7 And so it's not the settlement is a bad settlement. It's 8 that some of the obligations that the Debtor is required to 9 make or do under this settlement may have an adverse effect on 10 the estate and violate the plan that this Court spent 11 a-hundred-and-some-odd pages confirming.

12 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Taylor?

13 MR. DRAPER: So that --

14 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES DONDERO

15 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor. I won't repeat 16 anything that Mr. Draper said. I just wanted to point out and 17 carry on his thought on that last point.

18 If you look at what's happening here, UBS is essentially 19 getting a double recovery. On the one hand, in Paragraph C on 20 Page 5 that continues to Page 6 of the settlement agreement,
21 essentially conveys any claims that the Debtor may have to UBS
22 and UBS can prosecute those claims. And it's going to be 23 centered around this Sentinel transaction.

24 Now, we believe it's defensible and there will be no
25 recovery had, but they're getting that asset.

1           At the same time, there has been testimony from Mr. Seery
2           that the price of poker went up when they uncovered this
3           transaction, and that accounts for the approximately -- if you
4           valued the UBS claim at $95 million for purposes of voting,
5           today there's been a $48 million increase in that number,
6           approximately. And so they're going to get an increased claim
7           amount, okay, both Class 8 and Class 9, which, to the extent
8           that there is ever a recovery generated to ever get back down
9           to equity, my client, then they have to burn through and pay
10          all of those. But at the same time, UBS is also getting the 11          ability to go pursue and recover on those estate assets, which 12          is an alleged fraudulent transfer claim.

13          So they're getting it twice, and we think that is 14          improper. We think, based on that alone, Your Honor, that you 15          can and should deny this motion.

16                 THE COURT: All right. Any final word in rebuttal, 17          Mr. Feinstein?

18                 REBUTTAL CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTORS

19                 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes, Your Honor, just very briefly.

20                 Mr. Draper, I think it was, tried to distinguish between 21          Mr. Dondero and Dugaboy, that Dugaboy is just some entity.
22          But if you look at Exhibit 72, Your Honor, it's the Dugaboy
23          subscription agreement. You'll never guess who signed it.
24          Mr. Dondero.

25                 In terms of the language in the cooperation provision that

1 counsel was just focusing on, Your Honor, cooperation
2 provisions are in written agreements all the time. This is an
3 unusual set of circumstances, but it's because we keep finding 4 new frauds and fraudulent transactions that there needs to be 5 ongoing cooperation, because the independent board is the only 6 party really that has the best evidence and best records of 7 what happened to this Debtor and its affiliated entities over
8 the last 12 years.

9 It is not -- it should be surprising to no one that UBS
10 wanted the Debtor's cooperation in evaluating whether there
11 were further transfers and further frauds and in assisting UBS
12 in recouping assets that were fraudulently transferred away
13 from its judgment Debtors, SOHC and CDO Fund.

14 So we think that provision is unremarkable. It's not a 15 plan modification. It's, I mean, it's a typical provision in 16 a settlement agreement. This was on notice to all parties in 17 interest. So we think this is just another nonissue, Your 18 Honor, that the Debtor -- that Mr. Dondero is trying to throw
19 up to hold up progress in this case. We think that this was a 20 sound exercise of business judgment by the Debtor as 21 investment manager of Multi-Strat, and we encourage Your Honor
22 to make an explicit finding, given the -- just the outright
23 litigiousness of Mr. Dondero in multiple fronts.

24 We came to this Court for Your Honor's blessing because of 25 these constant attacks on the Debtor and its management and

1 its professionals by Mr. Dondero. And this is very different
2 than the monetization of assets that occurred in May '20.
3 This is a settlement of litigation. This is not the ordinary
4 course of a manager's -- investment manager's business. We 5 think it's totally appropriate to come to Your Honor. And as 6 Your Honor noted, there's -- there is jurisdiction here.

7 So we -- I'll close, Your Honor, and simply ask that Your
8 Honor approve the motion in all respects. Thank you.

9 THE COURT: All right. And if I was looking away
10 from you, it's because I did pull up Exhibit 72 to see that 11 Mr. Dondero signed on behalf of the Dugaboy Trust. We also 12 have some signatures, or secondary contact information of a 13 Melissa Schroth on that one, from a Highland employee.

14 But, all right. Well, thank you all for your courtesy and 15 your presentations today. You gave us a lot, a lot of reading
16 material that my law clerk and I have endeavored to get on top
17 of. You know, I've got two stacks. I've got mostly 18 electronic files, I'm not a dinosaur, but I have two stacks of 19 paper that deal solely with UBS. Okay? Of all of my 20 different Highland stacks of paper -- I've accumulated flow
21 charts and special notes I took in hearings and in reading
22 pleadings -- because UBS was especially vexing to me from the 23 beginning. And my notes on my UBS stack, we had a motion to 24 lift stay early on when UBS wanted to go back to the New York
25 state court for Part 2 of its litigation. Motion for partial

1 summary judgment. Motion to estimate 3018. They objected
2 here and there to different things. And, of course, today's
3 9019. So I have had a lot of education on UBS, the warehouse
4 agreements, CDO Fund, SOHC, Multi-Strat, Highland Financial 5 Partners, LP, and the 11, almost 12 years of history there.
6 It was vexing to me. But I have evolved, let's say, in my 7 thinking very much over the months of this case.

8 Let's get to the ruling here. This is before the Court,
9 the Motion to Compromise and Settle the Claims with UBS,
10 Docket Entry 2199.

11 First, this Court believes it has jurisdiction and 12 authority to issue a final ruling on this motion pursuant to 13 28 U.S.C. § 1334 and 157(b), as well as under U.S. Supreme 14 Court authority. The relevant substantive law here is both
15 Bankruptcy Rule 9019 as well as a whole host of case authority
16 setting forth standards bankruptcy courts should use in 17 evaluating settlements. The case law that is primarily 18 applicable is the United States v. AWECO case from the Fifth
19 Circuit, Cajun Electric from the Fifth Circuit, Foster
20 Mortgage from the Fifth Circuit, and, of course, the old TMT
21 Trailer case from the U.S. Supreme Court.

22 I look at whether the proposed compromise is fair and 23 equitable and in the best interest of creditors. And in 24 evaluating that, I look at such things as the probability of 25 success in litigation, with due consideration of the

1 uncertainty of certain facts and law, the complexity and
2 likely duration of future litigation and attendant expenses,
3 inconvenience and delay, and all other factors.

4 Among those all other factors are the paramount interest
5 of creditors, giving due deference to any creditors that have 6 weighed in.

7 All right. So those are the legal standards. But I'm 8 going to delve into a couple of arguments that have been made.
9 One, the standing of our only two Objectors, okay? We have 10 many, many large creditors in this case. We've had a 11 Creditors' Committee from day one, almost. And none of those 12 creditors -- whether it be Acis, the Redeemer, or the 13 transferees of those claims, HarbourVest, Meta-e, Patrick
14 Daugherty -- of the many, many active creditors we've had 15 during this case, none of them have objected to the 16 settlement. The only Objectors we have are Mr. Dondero, the 17 founder and former CEO of the Debtor, who has filed, I don't 18 know, one or two proofs of claim. The last I looked, were 19 contingent and unliquidated. I don't even know if those are 20 still pending, but they at least were filed. I think they're 21 still pending. And then the other objector, Dugaboy and Get 22 Good Trusts, which are the family trusts of Mr. Dondero, they 23 have filed proofs of claim as well.

24 So, as I've said in other hearings where these parties
25 have objected, I think they do have standing. It's perhaps

1 very tenuous, as I have said before, but I'm not going to say
2 they have no standing. They do have technical standing with 3 these proofs of claim pending, at least because of those.

4 Now, turning to the jurisdictional argument that has been
5 made by the Dugaboy Trust, I overrule the argument, the 6 objection of lack of jurisdiction. I agree with Mr. Feinstein
7 that, at a bare minimum, this is related to the Highland
8 bankruptcy estate. There is a conceivable effect on the 9 estate being administered here with regard to this compromise.

10 I'll secondly say that bankruptcy courts all the time,
11 let's just say frequently, approve global settlements that 12 involve debtor, creditors, other parties that are nondebtors, 13 maybe even noncreditors. It happens frequently. It's the 14 nature of bankruptcy to be a grand compromise. And here, if 15 the first two comments I've made are not enough to convince 16 one of jurisdiction, I mean, you have to look at the evidence.
17 And the evidence, through multiple documents that were put up
18 on the screen and through the testimony of Mr. Seery, which 19 were not disputed, were that Highland is the investment
20 manager, with full authority over Multi-Strat. Highland is 21 the general partner. There may be levels in between,
22 indirect, but is the general partner. It has a majority
23 58-point-something percent interest in the limited
24 partnerships. The documents show that Highland is in control
25 of this entity.

1 And so I meant it when I said they were darned if they do,
2 darned if they don't. If they hadn't sought the Court's
3 blessing on Highland exercising its control over Multi-Strat
4 by having it participate in this settlement, someone would
5 have argued you took an out-of-ordinary-course-of-business
6 decision without court approval.

7 So I think we have jurisdiction here, and I think this is 8 an erroneous argument that we don't.

9 Again, the Debtor has convincingly presented to this Court
10 that it had concern that binding Multi-Strat to this
11 settlement could be perceived as outside the ordinary course
12 of business in the Debtor's management of this entity and the 13 Debtor's control of this nondebtor entity. So I'm blessing
14 the Debtor's management decision here, and I think I have 15 jurisdiction to do that.

16 I reserve the right to supplement on that point in a
17 written ruling.

18 So, getting more into the actual settlement, I do approve
19 the compromise presented to me and overrule all pending
20 objections.

21 To reiterate some points on the record here, this 22 compromise settles two $1 billion proofs of claim filed by 23 UBS. These claims were based on litigation that UBS had waged
24 against the Debtor and affiliates that had been ongoing since 25 2009. This settlement allows distributions to occur under the

1 plan that the Court has confirmed. Hasn't gone effective yet.
2 It allows distributions to occur much sooner rather than 3 later, with such a large, uncertain claim being resolved.

4 Again, I stress that no creditors have objected except for 5 Mr. Dondero and his family trusts. And in the Foster Mortgage
6 case, the Fifth Circuit has directed bankruptcy courts to give 7 due deference to the views of the creditor body on 8 compromises.

9 I will elaborate that these $1 billion proofs of claim of 10 UBS were the subject of co-mediation with retired Bankruptcy
11 Judge Allan Gropper and mediator Sylvia Mayer. So when you
12 consider the mediation efforts along with the long history of 13 contentious litigation, the arm's-length nature of the 14 settlement cannot be credibly questioned. These parties, in 15 my perception, were bitter enemies for over a decade. So,
16 again, we have a history of contentiousness. There were co-
17 mediators involved in the process of ultimately getting to 18 this settlement.

19 And again, this Court has spent extensive time looking 20 into these claims at prior hearings on a motion to lift stay,
21 a motion for partial summary judgment, and a claims estimation
22 motion. As I said, I have evolved in my thinking, through 23 hearing all of the arguments and seeing evidence unfold. I
24 was highly skeptical about UBS's claims directly against the 25 Debtor, based on the warehouse agreements and the earliest

1 evidence, but again, it's been an evolving process, and we've
2 heard disturbing evidence along the way that has definitely
3 made me have a different view about the bona fides of 4 ultimately potential claims against the estate.

5 I find there's been good faith in reaching this 6 settlement. And again, I find it's fair and equitable and in 7 the best interest of creditors and reflects sound and 8 reasonable business judgment on behalf of the Debtor.

9 A couple of additional points. I do not accept the 10 argument that the settlement, in effect, creates a plan
11 modification without going through the steps of 1127. I
12 looked at Page 5, Paragraph C of the settlement agreement. I
13 just don't think that's what we have going on here. So I
14 overrule that.

15 And I guess I'll make one last point on my evolution of 16 thinking. You know, it wasn't just the evidence I heard at 17 the claim estimation hearing, and I guess the motion for 18 partial summary judgment. It was, you know, I've had 19 recently-revealed evidence, if you will. I had testimony from 20 Mr. Seery, and no refuting of that evidence, about this $300
21 million that, in August 2017, went from these Funds, the 22 obligors, the judgment debtors to UBS, went from them to 23 Sentinel Reinsurance, a Cayman Islands entity that Mr. Dondero
24 allegedly ultimately owns 70 percent of and Scott Ellington
25 ultimately owns 30 percent of, for reinsurance for after-the-

1 event insurance.

2 Interestingly, one of my law clerks and I are writing an
3 opinion right now on the Fortuity Doctrine and the Known
4 Claims Doctrine and how Texas was at the forefront of Texas
5 courts on that doctrine. The old doctrine that you can't 6 insure a burning house, okay, that may seem like a third or 7 fourth or fifth subsidiary issue here compared to, I think,
8 what is really being a subject of concern. We had litigation
9 well underway eight years, UBS versus these two Funds, and 10 then suddenly $300 million goes out the door. I mean, I know
11 -- well, this is a game-changer. As someone said, this is a 12 game-changer.

13 So, am I shocked that the settlement was tweaked so that 14 UBS is getting a larger Class 8 claim and Class 9 claim? Of 15 course I'm not shocked. The evidence supported the 16 reasonableness. Certainly, this is in the range of 17 reasonableness. And I didn't have any evidence to contradict
18 that, and I'm kind of not surprised.

19 So, and I reserve the right to supplement and amend in a
20 more detailed form of order, but I do approve this.

21 Mr. Feinstein, you'll be the scrivener on the order, I
22 presume?

23 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes, Your Honor. If it'll help the 24 Court, we're happy to put together proposed findings of fact,
25 conclusions of law, and an order, yes.

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, if there's nothing
2 further, we'll probably see you next week on something. I
3 think next Tuesday. All right. We're adjourned.

4 MR. FEINSTEIN: Thank you, Your Honor.

5 THE CLERK: All rise.
