RELIEF SOUGHT

An Order directing the presiding bankruptcy judge, Stacey G. Jernigan (the “Bankruptcy Judge”) to recuse herself from presiding over the Highland Capital Management, L.P. bankruptcy proceeding and any adversary proceeding related to any bankruptcy proceeding that involves Petitioners.

ISSUE PRESENTED

Whether 28 U.S.C. § 455(a) requires recusal of the Bankruptcy Judge because: (1) a “personal bias or prejudice concerning a party, or personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding;” or (2) her “impartiality might reasonably be questioned.”

INTRODUCTION

Petitioners James Dondero, Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., The Dugaboy Investment Trust, Get Good Trust, and NexPoint Real Estate Partners, LLC f/k/a HCRE Partners, LLC (collectively, “Petitioners”) seek a writ of mandamus because mandamus is the only avenue through which Petitioners can obtain legal relief from the incessant, animus and partiality displayed by the presiding bankruptcy judge against Petitioners in the proceedings stemming from the chapter 11 bankruptcy of debtor Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCMLP”). Petitioners have sought the recusal of Judge Stacey G. Jernigan (“Judge Jernigan”) for a significant period of time, while continuing to suffer harm because of the Court’s partiality. As set forth in greater detail herein, recusal is necessary because the Bankruptcy Court has repeatedly:

- singled out Petitioners and their attorneys for unfair treatment;
- admonished Petitioners and their attorneys for invoking proper legal process to protect their interests;
- refused to credit evidence (even undisputed evidence) presented by Petitioners; and
- departed from normal procedure, in ways that uniquely harmed the legal position or rights of the Petitioners and, more particularly, HCMLP’s former Chief Executive Officer, James D. Dondero (“Mr. Dondero”).

The disenfranchising effect of these actions cannot be overstated. Perhaps the most revealing evidence of bias is the judge’s recent publication of two novels, both of which roundly criticize the very industry in which HCMLP was engaged prior to bankruptcy and which also pit the protagonist, a Dallas bankruptcy judge, against a Dallas hedge fund manager closely resembling Mr. Dondero, who is caricatured as an evildoer. Judge Jernigan authored these novels while presiding over the bankruptcies of HCMLP and two other firms affiliated with Mr. Dondero, Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC (together, “Acis”), and then promoted her novels through her professional network. This is not how neutral arbiters of facts conduct themselves, and it does not engender public confidence in the impartiality of the Bankruptcy Court. Petitioners easily meet the statutory, mandatory standards governing recusal. This Court should grant the Petition.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. Procedural History

After a series of interactions with Judge Jernigan began to evidence a pattern of animus and bias, Petitioners sought to recuse the Judge on March 18, 2021.<sup>1</sup> The Court denied that motion less than a week later.<sup>2</sup> Petitioners appealed the order denying recusal to the District Court, but on February 9, 2022, the District Court denied the appeal for lack of jurisdiction, concluding the Bankruptcy Court's order was interlocutory and therefore non-appealable.<sup>3</sup>

Thereafter, Judge Jernigan's actions further highlighted her continuing bias. As a result, Petitioners filed an Amended Motion for Final Appealable Order and Supplement to Motion to Recuse ("Motion to Supplement") seeking to: (1) remove the "reservation language" in the Bankruptcy Court's original order denying recusal, and (2) supplement the record on the original recusal motion with additional evidence of bias.<sup>4</sup> At an August 31, 2022 hearing, Petitioners informed the Court that HCMLP was unopposed to the relief requested in the Motion to Supplement. Nonetheless, Judge Jernigan accused Mr. Dondero and his counsel of "carpet-bombing us with paper and causing us to expend resources" and chastised his counsel.<sup>5</sup>

The Court denied Petitioners' Motion to Supplement as procedurally improper,<sup>6</sup> but invited Petitioners to either (1) file a "simple motion" (without attaching additional evidence) seeking removal of the “reservation of rights” language, or (2) file a new motion to recuse based on new evidence or grounds for recusal.<sup>7</sup> Only the second option guaranteed Petitioners a complete record on appeal. Therefore, on September 27, 2022, Petitioners filed a Renewed Motion to Recuse, attaching the entire record supporting recusal.<sup>8</sup> After HCMLP claimed that certain allegations were protected by attorney-client privilege, Petitioners filed an Amended Renewed Motion to Recuse removing those allegations on October 17, 2022.<sup>9</sup> Thereafter, Petitioners learned that Judge Jernigan had published two novels effecting the Amended Renewed Motion and, on Friday, March 3, 2023, Petitioners filed a supplemental memorandum of law explaining why those novels also necessitated recusal.<sup>10</sup> On Monday, March 6, 2023, the Bankruptcy Court issued a Memorandum Opinion and Order Denying “Amended Renewed Motion to Recuse” Pursuant to 29 U.S.C. § 455 (“Recusal Order”).<sup>11</sup> It is that Recusal Order that prompted this Petition for Writ of Mandamus.

B. Judge Jernigan Acknowledges She Formed Negative Opinions About Mr. Dondero During the Acis Bankruptcy

Mr. Dondero’s first encounter with Judge Jernigan came in the context of the chapter 11 bankruptcy of Acis (“Acis Bankruptcy”).<sup>12</sup> In a Bench Ruling confirming the Acis joint plan, the Bankruptcy Court concluded that: various entities were marching to the orders of Mr. Dondero; testimony given by individuals affiliated with Mr. Dondero was not credible; “the Highlands” (i.e., Dondero-affiliated entities) were merely acting in “lockstep”; and the Highlands’ party-in-interest status was “questionable.”

In her Recusal Order, Judge Jernigan states that she “cannot recall” any “specific rulings regarding Mr. Dondero” from the Acis Bankruptcy.<sup>13</sup> Yet Judge Jernigan’s decisions and comments in the HCMLP bankruptcy frequently referenced Mr. Dondero’s role in the Acis , including as a justification for imposing conditions on Mr. Dondero at the outset of the bankruptcy proceedings.<sup>14</sup>

For example, in January of 2021, just following the Highland Bankruptcy’s transfer from Delaware the Bankruptcy Court, before Mr. Dondero had ever testified in the Highland Bankruptcy, Judge Jernigan acknowledged that her opinions of Mr. Dondero from the Acis Bankruptcy were inextricably planted in her mind:

- (1) stated “[she] can’t extract what [she] learned during the Acis case, it’s in my brain”;
- (2) expressed negative opinions about Mr. Dondero (although he had not yet filed any motion or objection in her court);
- (3) opined that Mr. Dondero had a propensity to engage in bad acts (based on Judge Jernigan’s perceptions formed during the Acis Bankruptcy); and
- (4) relied on opinion she formed from the Acis Bankruptcy to sua sponte insist that language be included in her order approving a settlement between the Debtor and the UCC allowing the Court to hold Mr. Dondero in contempt for violating the terms of that settlement.<sup>15</sup>

The Acis Bankruptcy continued to feature prominently enough in Judge Jernigan’s mind that it served as an important backdrop to her Order Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (As Modified) (“Confirmation Order”).<sup>16</sup>

C. Judge Jernigan Publishes Her First Novel Reflecting Her Bias

Judge Jernigan’s first novel, He Watches All My Paths, was published on January 16, 2019, just weeks before confirmation of the Acis plan of reorganization. The novel is remarkable in two respects: (1) it begins a two-novel saga involving a Dallas bankruptcy judge that mirrors Judge Jernigan’s experience on the bench, and (2) it contains harsh commentary about financial services industry stakeholders (despite their presence in cases before her). In particular, the novel describes the “[h]igh flying hedge fund managers” as individuals that “suck up money like an i-robot vacuum,” seem to “make money no matter what,” and show “outrageous amounts of hubris” as part of their “bro culture.”<sup>17</sup> It strongly suggests a judge harboring bias against those operating in the hedge fund industry—an industry in which HCMLP has actively operated.

D. Judge Jernigan’s Animus Continues Throughout The Highland Bankruptcy

The Amended Renewed Motion detailed the many ways in which Judge Jernigan has targeted Petitioners and their lawyers throughout the HCMLP Bankruptcy. The following are examples of some of the Judge’s actions and comments that mandate recusal.

1. The Judge Repeatedly Threatened Petitioners With Sanctions And Accused Them Of Acting in “Bad Faith.”

Judge Jernigan has repeatedly threatened Petitioners and their lawyers, questioned their motives, and accused them of acting in bad faith by raising legitimate legal arguments or defending their rights. For example:

- In June 2020, Judge Jernigan questioned whether lawyers for CLO Holdco—a wholly owned subsidiary of a charitable Donor Advised Fund (the “DAF”), established by Mr. Dondero—were acting in good faith by seeking the release of funds that belonged to CLO Holdco from the Bankruptcy Court’s registry.<sup>18</sup>
- On December 16, 2020, the Judge chastised Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”) and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NexPoint”)—two entities affiliated with Mr. Dondero—for filing a legitimate motion, with a statutory basis, to preserve the status quo pending confirmation of HCMLP’s Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization (“Plan”).<sup>19</sup> Judge Jernigan surmised that Mr. Dondero was behind the motion, that it was filed for an improper purpose, and that it was “almost Rule 11 frivolous.”<sup>20</sup>

- In January 2021, the Debtor accused HCMFA and NexPoint of interfering with its management of certain collateralized loan obligation (“CLO”) portfolios.<sup>21</sup> While the Debtor ultimately admitted that no interference actually occurred,<sup>22</sup> rather than address the Debtor’s baseless accusations, the Bankruptcy Court focused on Mr. Dondero and inexplicitly threatened to hold him in contempt.<sup>23</sup> At this time, the Bankruptcy Court knew that Mr. Dondero had no continuing role with HCMLP and no ability to interfere with management of the CLO portfolios. Nevertheless, without evidence, the Bankruptcy Court concluded that Mr. Dondero had caused independent outside counsel for the movants to undertake the actions on his behalf.<sup>24</sup>
- In February 2021, the Debtor filed another baseless motion. After a seven-hour evidentiary hearing, Judge Jernigan deemed that the issue Debtor raised was moot (as opposed to baseless), yet accused Mr. Dondero of driving up legal fees,<sup>25</sup> and then went beyond the pleadings and the relief requested by the Debtor to issue findings adverse to Mr. Dondero.<sup>26</sup>
- In the Confirmation Order, after two trusts affiliated with Mr. Dondero—The Dugaboy Investment Trust and Get Good Trust—objected to HCMLP’s Plan, Judge Jernigan again questioned the good faith of Mr. Dondero. While the Judge stated no basis for her “belief,” she labeled Mr. Dondero and the trusts

HCMLP’s failures in this regard are detailed in Movants’ Original Recusal Motion, Bankr. Dkt. No. 2016, at 13-16 [App. 55-58]. “disruptors”<sup>27</sup> and concluded that the entities objecting to the Plan were “controlled by” Mr. Dondero.<sup>28</sup>

- In August 2021, the Bankruptcy Court sanctioned Mr. Dondero in connection with a motion that the independent counsel of two entities—the DAF and CLO Holdco—filed. After the Bankruptcy Court denied the DAF and CLO Holdco’s request for permission to add James P. Seery (the Debtor’s CEO and Chief Restructuring Officer) as a defendant in a state-court lawsuit,<sup>29</sup> the Debtor separately sought sanctions against DAF and CLO Holdco and their counsel, as well as on Mr. Dondero (who was not even a party to the state-court lawsuit).<sup>30</sup> Judge Jernigan deemed the lawsuit “wholly frivolous,” concluded that Mr. Dondero was behind it,<sup>31</sup> and ordered Mr. Dondero to pay a $239,655 for his supposed contempt—nearly $70,000 more than the attorneys’ fees invoices submitted by the movant.<sup>32</sup> The Bankruptcy Court added another $100,000 to be paid by Mr. Dondero (or any other individual or entity) if he appealed the sanctions award.<sup>33</sup>

Throughout the HCMLP Bankruptcy, Judge Jernigan has repeatedly: (1) ignored undisputed testimony and evidence; (2) held Mr. Dondero responsible for the actions of other persons and entities; (3) questioned the motives of Mr. Dondero and the other Petitioners; (4) accused Mr. Dondero and the other Petitioners “bad faith”; and (5) reached conclusions hostile to Mr. Dondero without evidence or contrary to uncontested evidence.

Conversely—notwithstanding the questionable legal arguments made by other parties to the case and dubious motions by the Debtor, the UCC, and its constituents—the Judge has never criticized or threatened any other party with sanctions. Instead, other parties have been given wide latitude to take positions that, if alleged by Mr. Dondero or Petitioners, would have resulted in threats of sanctions or be deemed vexatious. For example, Mr. Dondero sought to file a state court

Moreover, although the U.S. Trustee lodged some of the same objections, Judge Jernigan did not question her “good faith basis” for doing so. See Confirmation Order, Bankr. Dkt. 1943, ¶ 20; Bankr. petition under TEX. R. CIV. P. 202 to investigate potential claims against certain non-debtor funds.<sup>34</sup> Ignoring clear case law that such actions are not removable, the funds (seeking to capitalize on the known predilection against Mr. Dondero) improperly removed the state court proceeding to Bankruptcy Court. Judge Jernigan reluctantly remanded the case while openly criticizing it on the merits and chastising Mr. Dondero for seeking information: “[W]hile remand appears to be the correct result under the law, it is done here with grave misgivings ... Dondero’s standing in filing the Rule 202 Proceeding would appear to be highly questionable and his motives highly suspect.”<sup>35</sup> However, the Judge did not sanction anyone for the frivolous removal.

2. Judge Jernigan Labeled Mr. Dondero As A “Vexatious” Litigant, Without Any Evidence To Support That Label.

Judge Jernigan has repeatedly referred to Mr. Dondero as a “vexatious” litigant, notwithstanding that no such allegation or legal finding has ever been made. For example:

- Speaking about a lawsuit that Judge Jernigan knew nothing about and had not even read: “If Mr. Dondero doesn’t think that is so transparently vexatious litigation, yeah, I’m going out there and saying that. I haven’t seen it [the complaint she was condemning as vexatious], but, come on.”<sup>36</sup>
- Offering her sua sponte view: “[A]lthough I have not been asked to declare Mr. Dondero and his affiliated entities as vexatious litigants per se, it is certainly not beyond the pale to find that his long history with regard to major creditors in this case has strayed into that possible realm, and thus this court is justified in approving this provision.”<sup>37</sup>
- Chastising CLO Holdco Ltd. and The Charitable DAF Fund, LP’s counsel for filing a motion based on her view of Mr. Dondero: “I have commented before that we seem to have vexatious litigation behavior with regard to Mr. Dondero and his many controlled entities.”<sup>38</sup>

This “vexatious” refrain has been so ubiquitous that parties opposed to Mr. Dondero and the Petitioners regularly invoke this “finding” as a basis to reject Petitioners’ arguments outright—even when there was no evidence from which the Bankruptcy Court could adjudge credibility.<sup>39</sup>

Importantly, no court has previously found that any of the Petitioners are vexatious litigants. Yet Judge Jernigan included the term in her Confirmation Order, to justify discrediting Mr. Dondero’s testimony, dismissing the objections raised by him (and Petitioners) to the Plan confirmation, and requiring Petitioners to channel any future motions or litigation through her.<sup>40</sup>

3. The Judge Recommended Debtor File Certain Claims To Avoid The Reference From Being Withdrawn.

On June 10, 2021, certain Petitioners moved to withdraw the reference in an adversary proceeding. Judge Jernigan sue sponte recommended the Debtor file fraudulent transfer claims against Mr. Dondero (suggesting that those claims might affect the reference from being withdrawn).<sup>41</sup> HCMLP thereafter amended its complaint per the Judge’s suggestion.<sup>42</sup> Plainly, a Court should not urge one party to assert claims against another. More troubling, Judge Jernigan’s recommendation appeared geared toward allowing it to keep the lawsuit against Petitioners, denying them a jury trial, and requiring a trial to the bench.

Dkt. 3595 (HCMLP’s Response to Movants’ Renewed Motion to Recuse), ¶¶ 2, 67 [App. 3085 and 3110] (describing Mr. Dondero as “quintessentially vexatious” and invoking “the never-ending, meritless, vindictive, and vexatious litigation strategy that Mr. Dondero stubbornly clings to regardless of the burdens imposed on the judicial system...” as a reason to deny recusal); HCMLP Bankr. Dkt. 1828 (Debtor’s Omnibus Reply to Objections to Confirmation of Plan), ¶ 22 (arguing that “[e]xculpation is particularly appropriate in this case to stem the tide of frivolous and vexatious litigation against the Exculpated Parties which Dondero and his Related Entities are seeking so desperately to continue to pursue”).

4. The Judge's Actions Are Prejudicial.

Judge Jernigan's statements and actions against Mr. Dondero, his entities, and his perceived affiliates have substantially prejudiced Petitioners and others. This has manifested in two critical ways.

First, the Judge's bias has caused her to make decisions that are detrimental to creditors and stakeholders of the bankruptcy proceedings more generally. For example, HCMLP was not required to file Rule 2015.3 reports of financial information in bankruptcy. As a result, the true value of the bankruptcy estate has been obscured, undercutting Petitioners' ability to engage in meaningful settlement discussions that should have resolved the estate long ago. A recently filed adversary proceeding alleges that the bankruptcy estate has always been solvent. If true, then the bankruptcy estate could pay all creditors in full and dispense with the bankruptcy, rather than use estate assets to enrich a limited number of HCMLP's insiders and professionals.<sup>43</sup>

Second, Judge Jernigan's bias has had a chilling effect on Petitioners and their counsel. No litigant should be fearful of acting to protect their rights or believe that justice is impossible because of the predilections of a judge. But that is the situation here.<sup>44</sup> Such malice directed to a party's good faith efforts to protect their interests is just what recusal is designed to prevent.

E. Judge Jernigan Authors And Promotes Another Book Mirroring Her Perception Of Highland And Mr. Dondero.

Although it was the Debtor's motions that were out of line (given that a making a proffer was the only means of preserving the record), and while Judge Jernigan denied the Debtor's motions, she still chastised Movant and NexPoint for preserving their rights, calling the Debtor's motion "a close call." Id., Dkt. 161, Apr. 20, 2022 Hr'g Tr. at 51:14-21.

March 2022, less than a year after HCMLP's Plan became effective and while the HCMLP bankruptcy proceedings were ongoing. Hedging Death involves the same bankruptcy judge protagonist and, as shown below, draws unquestionable parallels to Mr. Dondero and his businesses.<sup>45</sup> Petitioners have also recently discovered that Judge Jernigan promoted her novels on social media, a personal website, at live book signing events, and solicited other members of the judiciary to write reviews.<sup>46</sup>

F. The Bankruptcy Court's Issues A Flawed Recusal Order

On March 6, 2023, Judge Jernigan denied the Petitioners' Amended Renewed Motion to Recuse because she: (1) subjectively believes she is not biased; (2) deemed the Motion untimely; and (3) believes that the few examples she addressed do not demonstrate bias (though the Court failed to address most of Petitioners' allegations).<sup>47</sup> Judge Jernigan also noted that criticism of counsel (which was not even a grounds that Petitioners asserted) did not justify recusal.<sup>48</sup>

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In the Fifth Circuit, mandamus relief is available to obtain appellate review of bankruptcy orders, including questions of recusal, that are otherwise non-appealable.<sup>49</sup> Courts entertain such petitions before a final judgment has been entered, because "[i]nterlocutory review of disqualification issues on petitions for mandamus is both necessary and appropriate to ensure that judges do not adjudicate cases that they have no statutory power to hear.”<sup>50</sup> The writ, however, requires exceptional circumstances, and the party seeking the writ has the burden of proving a clear and indisputable right to it.<sup>51</sup> While a writ of mandamus is only available where a litigant has no other adequate means of obtaining the desired relief, courts recognize that this standard is met—and a writ of mandamus disqualifying a judge is required—if petitioner demonstrates bias or even if the judge’s “impartiality might reasonably be questioned.”<sup>52</sup>

REASONS THE WRIT SHOULD ISSUE

A. The Bankruptcy Court Abused Its Discretion Denying Recusal Under Section 455

Under 28 U.S.C. § 455, recusal is required whenever: (1) a judge “has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party, or personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding;” or (2) the judge’s “impartiality might reasonably be questioned.”<sup>53</sup> Notably, the judge’s subjective belief of her impartiality is irrelevant and proof of actual bias is unnecessary.<sup>54</sup> As Congress explained when enacting section 455, litigants “ought not have to face a judge where there is a reasonable question of impartiality.”<sup>55</sup>

This neutrality requirement helps guarantee that no person will be deprived of his interests without a proceeding in front of an impartial arbiter.<sup>56</sup> “[F]undamental to the judiciary is the public’s confidence in the impartiality of [its] judges and the proceedings over which they preside”<sup>57</sup> because “justice must satisfy the appearance of justice.”<sup>58</sup> The Fifth Circuit has held, therefore, that “if the question of whether § 455(a) requires disqualification is a close one, the balance tips in favor of recusal.”<sup>59</sup>

Moreover, because the Due Process Clause entitles every litigant to a full and fair opportunity to make their case in an impartial forum—regardless of their history with that forum—the source of the judge’s bias is not outcome determinative.<sup>60</sup> The Supreme Court has recognized that predispositions developed during the course of current or prior proceedings will support recusal under section 455(a) “if they reveal such a high degree of favoritism or antagonism as to make fair judgment impossible.”<sup>61</sup>

Applying these standards, federal courts have held that recusal (or reassignment to a new judge) is appropriate under several circumstances applicable in this case, including where, among other things:

- (1) the judge made antagonistic statements to plaintiffs and manifested an “apparent distrust” of plaintiffs “early in the litigation,”<sup>62</sup>
- (2) the judge questioned one party’s decision to pursue a course of action and made comments that were critical of the party’s position;<sup>63</sup>
- (3) the judge openly questioned the integrity of one party’s counsel, suggested he was proceeding in “bad faith,” and called certain decisions made by him “suspicious;”<sup>64</sup>

- (4) there was “immediate, continuing, and ever-increasing tension” between the judge and one party’s counsel, the judge questioned in open court “the conduct of the lawyers” for one party, and the judge questioned one party’s “good faith;”<sup>65</sup> and
- (5) the judge’s comments “evidenced his distrust of [one party’s] lawyers and his generally poor view of [one party’s] practices.”<sup>66</sup>

Further, in the context of these standards, it is well-accepted that “[a] judge may not write about or discuss a pending or impending case, or disclose nonpublic information, even in a work of fiction.”<sup>67</sup> Indeed, the Code of Conduct for United States Judges requires judges to abide by various canons in the execution of their judicial duties.<sup>68</sup> Of particular relevance here, Canon 2 requires a judge to avoid impropriety and the appearance of impropriety in all activities.<sup>69</sup> Canon 4 prescribes that a judge may engage in extrajudicial activities only if those activities are consistent with the obligations of judicial office.<sup>70</sup> In this regard, a judge should (1) avoid using information regarding the judicial office in advertising materials, (2) avoid conducting a book signing or discussion directed to attorneys or other members of the legal community, and (3) refrain from engaging in promotional activities relating to any private publication.<sup>71</sup>

The Bankruptcy Court has engaged in all of these prohibited practices in this case, each of which should mandate recusal.<sup>72</sup> Judge Jernigan’s personal bias and animus toward Mr. Dondero and his perceived affiliates (including Petitioners) far exceeds what is permissible in any court proceeding. The evidence is more than sufficient to establish that Judge Jernigan harbors an actual and enduring bias and animus that is “personal rather than judicial in nature.”<sup>73</sup>

Alternatively, even if Judge Jernigan does not harbor actual bias—and all signs demonstrate that she does—the evidence establishes that any reasonable observer would “harbor doubts concerning [her] impartiality”<sup>74</sup> and question whether she ““would have difficulty putting [her] previous views and findings aside.””<sup>75</sup> Allowing Judge Jernigan to continue to preside over any proceeding involving Petitioners would undermine public confidence in the judiciary. Under these circumstances, recusal is mandatory.

B. The Recusal Order Fails To Negate Bias Or The Appearance Of Bias

The Recusal Order fails to refute the grounds mandating recusal. Moreover, the lengths the Judge goes to retain control over proceedings involving Mr. Dondero and Petitioners further evidences why recusal is necessary.

1. Judge Jernigan Abused Her Discretion In Denying Petitioners’ Renewed Motion Pursuant To 28 U.S.C. § 455 As Untimely.

The timeliness of a recusal motion is determined from the point in time that a judge’s bias (or her appearance of bias) has manifested in the case (i.e., after the grounds for recusal, beyond speculation, are actually known).<sup>76</sup> A judge, suspected of bias, cannot sit on that bias and then—after a certain amount of time passes—take action confirming the bias (or appearance thereof) and then claim it is too late to recuse and force a party to be judged by a partial jurist.

Notably, the Fifth Circuit has expressly declined to adopt a “per se untimeliness” rule.<sup>77</sup> The Fifth Circuit has explained that “the closest thing to per se untimeliness” occurs “when a party already knows the facts purportedly showing an appearance of impropriety but waits until after an adverse decision has been made by the judge before raising the issue of recusal.”<sup>78</sup>

While courts—including Delesdernier v. Porterie, which the Bankruptcy Court cites—have denied recusal motions as untimely, those cases generally involve situations in which the complaining party obtained definitive knowledge that the judge had a disqualifying circumstance and either: (1) delayed raising the issue until a strategically advantageous time; or (2) raised the issue for the first time after a final judgment.<sup>79</sup>

Here, Petitioners sought to recuse Judge Jernigan based on an evolving pattern of conduct taken by Judge Jernigan that, when viewed as a whole, reveals both the appearance of bias and actual animus towards Petitioners.<sup>80</sup> That bias and animus represents a continuing and ongoing harm that can only be remedied if a non-biased factfinder presides over the myriad proceedings still before the Bankruptcy Court, including adversary proceedings.

Importantly, that bias and animus did not actually manifest itself until late 2020 and early 2021. It is the manifestation (or appearance) of bias that is the relevant demarcation line as it relates to timeliness of a recusal motion, and Petitioners indisputably filed their Original Recusal Motion a reasonable time thereafter (i.e., March 18, 2021). As a result, there is no timing issue. Neither the 15 months that passed after the HCMLP Bankruptcy was transferred nor the timing of the various recusal motions (or the Bankruptcy Court's suspicions regarding the Petitioners' motivation for the filings) are relevant.<sup>81</sup> Moreover, Petitioners just recently learned of Judge Jernigan's two novels and the overt bias revealed in the publication, contents, and marketing of those books.<sup>82</sup> Any motion based on the novels is untimely.

2. Judge Jernigan Abused Her Discretion In Relying On Its Subjective Denials Of Actual Bias.

While referencing the proper objective standard, Judge Jernigan denied the renewed recusal motion by applying a subjective standard: "[t]he Presiding Judge does not believe she harbors, or has shown, any personal bias or prejudice against the Petitioners. She does not believe she has displayed deep-seated favoritism or antagonism."<sup>83</sup> As explained, a judge's subjective belief of her bias is irrelevant<sup>84</sup> and it is not necessary that the judge actually has a bias (or actually knows of grounds requiring recusal).<sup>85</sup> The Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion to the extent it denied Petitioners' renewed recusal motion based upon her own subjective beliefs regarding her bias.<sup>86</sup>

3. Judge Jernigan Abused Her Discretion In Failing And Refusing To Address Each Basis For Recusal.

Judge Jernigan abused her discretion in denying the renewed recusal motion without addressing each factual basis alleged. The review of a Section 455 recusal request is “‘extremely fact intensive and fact bound,’ thus a close recitation of the factual basis for the [party’s] recusal motion is necessary.”<sup>87</sup>

Here, Judge Jernigan selectively addressed only a few of the identified bases for recusal. That is improper. The Judge avoided addressing most of the allegations in the Amended recusal motion purportedly because the filings contain thousands of pages. However, the “thousands” of pages are largely appendices, including full transcripts. The recusal motions are not “thousands” of pages and contain specific arguments with specific pin citations to relevant portions of the appendices. The length of an appendix does not permit Judge Jernigan to cherry-pick the grounds for recusal that she wants to try to explain away, while avoiding grounds that she cannot. Avoiding most of the grounds for recusal further demonstrates the Judge’s predisposition to rule against Petitioner without objective analysis.

4. The Attempted Explanations To The Selected Bases Reinforce The Need To Recuse.

a. The Judge Attempts To Distance Herself From Opinions She Admittedly Formed During The Acis Bankruptcy.

Judge Jernigan contends that she: (1) does not recall any specific ruling from the Acis Bankruptcy relating to Mr. Dondero; (2) only recalls Mr. Dondero testifying once in court during the Acis Bankruptcy; and (3) has vague recollection that deposition testimony may have been presented another time.<sup>88</sup>

As explained, however, the record refutes this denial. Before Mr. Dondero had ever testified in the HCMLP Bankruptcy, Judge Jernigan conceded that her opinions of Mr. Dondero from the Acis Bankruptcy were inextricably planted in her mind<sup>89</sup> and openly questioned Mr. Dondero's credibility prefacing a statement she made in a hearing by stating, “[i]f you can trust Mr. Dondero....”<sup>90</sup> The Recusal Order does not even attempt to explain away the numerous prior statements. Instead, the Judge acted as if no such statements were ever made. This further demonstrates why recusal is necessary.

The Recusal Order characterizes inquiries made during a July 2020 hearing regarding Paycheck Protection Program (“PPP”) loans that “Mr. Dondero or affiliates” received as simple curiosity and insists that her questions do not matter because no action was taken against Mr. Dondero or his affiliated entities.<sup>91</sup> These justifications are both inaccurate and irrelevant.

First, this was not curiosity. After seeing an article that referenced “Mr. Dondero or Highland affiliates” received PPP loans, Judge Jernigan (1) insinuated that Mr. Dondero had engaged in improper activity; (2) stated that “you can probably imagine the different things going through my brain;” and (3) sua sponte directed HCMLP's counsel to investigate and report who was behind the alleged loans, even if such loans were made to a non-debtor entity affiliated with Mr. Dondero.<sup>92</sup>

Second, the point is not whether action was taken but that the Judge read an article in her personal time, assumed from that article (rather than evidence presented in her court) that Mr.

Dondero had engaged in nefarious conduct, demanded information regarding that conduct, and, broadcast her distrust of Mr. Dondero. That appearance of partiality requires recusal.

c. The Bankruptcy Court’s Use Of Terms “Litigious” or “Vexatious.”

The Bankruptcy Court denies ever “find[ing] or conclud[ing] that Petitioners are ‘vexatious litigants’” and claims it merely “determined that Mr. Dondero’s litigation history supported the inclusion of a gatekeeper provision in the Plan.”<sup>93</sup> However, the Fifth Circuit concluded that the Bankruptcy Court found Petitioners to be vexatious and struck a part of the gatekeeper provision in the Plan because it improperly attempted to enjoin and impose sanctions on Petitioners without following the procedures to designate them vexatious litigations.<sup>94</sup>

Notably, there was no litigation history cited to support any such ruling. While the Recusal Order now lists numerous bases for its finding, the only basis the Bankruptcy Court gave to support its finding at the time consisted solely of pre-petition lawsuits against the Debtor.<sup>95</sup> Petitioners were not parties to these lawsuits and HCMLP maintained that there were meritorious defenses to the claims.<sup>96</sup> The Recusal Order tellingly omits any discussion of this important distinction.

d. The Bankruptcy Court’s Orders Requiring Mr. Dondero’s (And His Sister’s) Attendance At Bankruptcy Court Hearings.

First, to try and discredit Petitioners (and their counsel), Judge Jernigan claims that Petitioner’s recusal motions make “disturbing” allegations that she ordered Nancy Dondero to “appear at all hearings ‘regardless of whether [her] presence [was] needed.’” However, her order requires Nancy Dondero to “appear in [1] all future hearings in this Bankruptcy Case, as well as [2] all Adversary proceedings where either the Trusts are a party or take a position, unless

Second, the order relating to Mr. Dondero—which requires his attendance regardless of whether he is taking a position—departed from the Bankruptcy Court’s usual approach.<sup>98</sup>

e. Hearing On Debtor’s Application To Employ Foley Gardere As Special Counsel On February 19, 2020.

HCMLP filed an Application to Employ Foley Gardere as Special Counsel (the “Application to Employ”) to pursue appeals relating to the Acis Bankruptcy on behalf of Neutra Ltd., a company owned by Mr. Dondero that succeeded to the ownership of Acis. Retired Bankruptcy Judge Russell Nelms, one of the three independent directors appointed to HCMLP’s new board, testified that the board used its business judgment to approve the Application to Employ. The evidence demonstrated that a successful appeal would: (1) defeat a $75 million claim against HCMLP; and (2) result in Neutra owning Acis and HCMLP being reinstated as the advisor to Neutra, which would generate fees and economic benefit for HCMLP.<sup>99</sup> Nevertheless, the Bankruptcy Court concluded that HCMLP failed to prove the estate would benefit<sup>100</sup> and asserted that Mr. Dondero somehow used his “powers of persuasion” to unduly influence the Independent Board’s business judgment.<sup>101</sup> Notably, at no other point during the HCMLP Bankruptcy did Judge Jernigan find any Debtor-related testimony unconvincing, except on one occasion when she expressed hostility to the possibility that HCMLP's position might benefit a Mr. Dondero affiliate.<sup>102</sup>

The novels reveal (or, at least, create a reasonable perception) that she holds negative views about hedge fund managers like Mr. Dondero and the industry in which he operates. In the Recusal Order, Judge Jernigan acknowledges she learned about the CLO industry and the CLO products that are featured in her novels during the Acis Bankruptcy.<sup>103</sup> One can reasonably presume that Judge Jernigan, like many authors, also conducted outside research on the industry and its players, of which Mr. Dondero and HCMLP were pioneers.

Judge Jernigan denies that any characters or entities in her novels were “inspired by or modeled after the [Petitioners],” disclaims any resemblance her novels have “to actual events, locales, or persons, living or dead, [a]s entirely coincidental,” and focuses on aspects of her stories that differ from reality.<sup>104</sup> However, the Bankruptcy Court avoids discussing the important similarities between her novel, Hedging Death, and Petitioners. By way of example:

Hedging Death	Mr. Dondero, HCMLP, and Acis
The novel involves a Dallas-based hedge fund, Ranger Capital , which is described as a “multi-billion-dollar conglomerate, which manage[s] not just hedge funds, but private equity funds, CDOs, CLOs, REITS, life settlement, and all manner of complicated financial products.” <sup>105</sup>	HCMLP: (1) was formerly named Ranger Asset Management ; (2) is a Dallas-based hedge fund; (2) was, at one point, worth more than a billion dollars; and (3) manages exactly the same unusual mix of investments. <sup>106</sup> HCMLP launched one of the first ever CLOs

<sup>106</sup> Notably, there are no other enterprises in Dallas that manage this mixture of product types. Moreover, this mixture includes products not normally found at the same firm because they (1) require divergent skill sets and teams to manage, (2) usually have significantly different time horizons for asset realization (which require a diverse base of investors with different timing needs), and (3) have limited overlap in which managed funds can take investments, such as CLOs and CDOs (which only can invest in debt), private equity (which is equity only), and REITs (which are real-estate only). Highland's unique history created this diversity of product types. The Highland mixture of products and was the world’s largest CLO manager for years.

Ranger Capital’s manager is described as a reckless investment manager and “nasty” litigant. <sup>107</sup>	Judge Jernigan has used the exact same language to describe Mr. Dondero in the Bankruptcy Proceedings.
Ranger Capital experiences economic distress largely due to extensive investor litigation stemming from bad investments. <sup>108</sup>	Judge Jernigan admits that her characterization of Mr. Dondero as litigious “was a view formed against the backdrop of having heard about more than a decade of litigation,” and describes HCMLP as having a “historical inclination toward litigation.” <sup>109</sup>
The novel describes “byzantine” international tax structures and off-shore transactions as pretexts for hiding illegal activity and money laundering. <sup>110</sup>	HCMLP and Mr. Dondero use international tax structures and off-shore transactions (customary in the finance industry), and Judge Jernigan has repeatedly expressed her suspicion of them (calling them “byzantine”). <sup>111</sup>
The novel describes the life settlement industry as “creepy.” <sup>112</sup>	The Bankruptcy Court knows that HCMLP and Mr. Dondero invested in the life settlement industry.

These are just a few parallels, but the only one that Judge Jernigan even attempts to address is the name of Ranger Capital. The Judge claims that: she has never “heard” that HCMLP ever did business under the name of “Ranger”; the name “Ranger” “was never mentioned in the bankruptcy case”; Ranger “is not in the Highland disclosure statement”; Ranger is absent from “the numerous organizational charts that were presented to her in the last three years.”<sup>113</sup> However, this information is publicly disclosed: (1) on NexPoint’s (one of the Petitioners’) website;<sup>114</sup> and (2) in a 2018 filing in the Acis Bankruptcy (but not presented in the last three years).<sup>115</sup> Notably, Judge Jernigan does not deny that Ranger Capital is based upon HCMLP, offers no alternative “inspiration” for the “Ranger” name, and fails to deny that the unscrupulous depiction of hedge fund managers expressed in the first novel, He Watches All My Paths, reflect her own views.

Any reasonable person reading Judge Jernigan’s novel Hedging Death would logically conclude: (1) the novel appears patterned, at least in part, after HCMLP and Mr. Dondero; and (2) the Judge holds bias and prejudice, at the very least highly negative opinions, about hedge-fund managers and private equity industry, generally (if not about Mr. Dondero and his businesses specifically). Indeed, several recent press articles have drawn parallels between Judge Jernigan’s story in Hedging Death and Mr. Dondero/HCMLP.<sup>116</sup> At the very least, these parallels would cause and have caused reasonable people—and should cause this Court—to reasonably question Judge Jernigan’s impartiality, warranting an order of mandamus requiring the Judge’s recusal.<sup>117</sup>

PRAYER

For these reasons, recusal is mandatory.<sup>118</sup> Petitioners respectfully request that the Court grant this Mandamus.

EXHIBIT 1

Harry G. C. Jones
United States Bankruptcy Judge

Partners, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company (collectively, the “Movants”).<sup>1</sup> This Memorandum and Order relates to the one entitled Amended Renewed Motion to Recuse Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 455 (with supporting Brief), filed October 17, 2022 [DE ## 3570 & 3571]—which is either the second or third such motion filed in the main bankruptcy case, depending upon how one counts. For ease of reference, the court will refer to this motion and brief at DE ## 3570 & 3571 as the “Third Motion to Recuse.” This Memorandum Opinion and Order denies the Third Motion to Recuse.

I. FOR CLARIFICATION, THE FOUR MOTIONS TO RECUSE FILED BY MOVANTS.

First Motion to Recuse. Movants filed the first Motion to Recuse Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 455 on March 18, 2021, along with a supporting Brief and an Appendix [DE ## 2060, 2061, & 2062] (hereinafter, the “First Motion to Recuse”). This was collectively 2,763 pages in length. This was approximately one month after the bankruptcy court confirmed a Chapter 11 plan in this case—specifically, the court confirmed a plan (the “Plan”) on February 22, 2021. This was also approximately 17 months after the bankruptcy case was filed in October 2019. The First Motion to Recuse was also filed just two business days before the bankruptcy court was scheduled to hear a motion of Highland to hold Mr. Dondero in contempt of a TRO. The court denied the First Motion to Recuse in an order dated March 23, 2021 (“First Order Denying Recusal”) [DE # 2083]. The Movants appealed the First Order Denying Recusal, and that appeal was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction on February 9, 2022 (“District Judge Kinkeade’s Order”) (reported at 2022 WL 394760). District Judge Kinkeade’s Order held that: (a) an order denying a motion to recuse is an interlocutory order; (b) it is not subject to the collateral order doctrine; (c) it is not an appealable interlocutory order under 28 U.S.C. § 1292(a); (d) Movants were not entitled to leave to appeal under 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b); (e) Movants were not entitled to withdrawal of the reference on the First Motion to Recuse; and (f) Movants were not entitled to have their appeal construed as a petition for writ of mandamus.

Second Motion to Recuse. A new motion was filed on August 25, 2022, five months after District Judge Kinkeade’s Order. It was entitled “Amended Motion for Final Appealable Order and Supplement to Motion to Recuse Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 455 and Brief in Support” [DE ## 3470 & 3471] (“Second Motion to Recuse”). This was six days after the Fifth Circuit ruled on the appeal of the Highland Plan confirmation order, affirming it in substantial part. The Second Motion to Recuse, which, with Appendix, was 162 pages in length, expressed Movants’ interpretation of District Judge Kinkeade’s Order: that the only reason the First Order Denying Recusal was not final and appealable was because of one sentence at the end of the order, wherein the bankruptcy court reserved the right to supplement or amend the order. The bankruptcy court promptly set a status conference (six days later—on August 31, 2022) regarding the Second Motion to Recuse to clarify Movants’ basis for its new motion. For one thing, the bankruptcy court questioned Movants’ interpretation that this one sentence in the First Order Denying Recusal was the actual basis for District Judge Kinkeade’s Order,<sup>2</sup> since he cited a litany of authority for the proposition that a recusal order does not become final until a final judgment has been entered in the overall proceeding. District Judge Kinkeade’s Order, penultimate paragraph (“Appellants must await final judgment, or other final resolution, of their bankruptcy proceeding in order to appeal the Recusal Order.”). In other words, could the bankruptcy court truly “fix” the lack of finality problem by simply deleting that one sentence in the First Order Denying Recusal? Moreover, the court questioned the procedural propriety of Movants’ request to “supplement” the record on the First Motion to Recuse with approximately 154 pages of extra evidence. This request appeared to the court to be either a very untimely Rule 59 motion or, in essence, a new motion to recuse—urging consideration of new grounds/evidence that arose subsequent to the First Motion to Recuse. After a status conference, on September 1, 2022, the court issued an order denying the Second Motion to Recuse [DE # 3479] (“Second Order Denying Recusal”) for procedural defects, but ruled that the order was:

without prejudice to the Movants’ right to file (1) a simple motion (without an appendix or attached proposed supplements to the record) under the appropriate procedural rule(s), seeking only a revised and amended Recusal Order that removes the following language contained at the end of the Recusal Order, but otherwise leaves the Recusal Order unchanged: “The court reserves the right to supplement or amend this ruling;” and/or (2) a new motion to recuse this bankruptcy judge based on any alleged new evidence or grounds for recusal that were not considered by this bankruptcy judge at the time of its consideration of the original Recusal Order.

Third Motion to Recuse. The Movants chose the latter option. Specifically, approximately six weeks later, on October 17, 2022, the Movants filed the current motion before the court entitled Amended Renewed Motion to Recuse Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 455 and supporting brief [DE ## 3570 & 3571] (the “Third Motion to Recuse”). This was 10 days after the Fifth Circuit had issued, on October 7, 2022, a denial of a request for a stay in connection with its ruling on the Plan and confirmation order. The court is aware that there is a petition for writ of certiorari pending at the U.S. Supreme Court regarding the Plan and confirmation order. In any event, the Third Motion to Recuse is 280 pages in length (the motion, brief and appendix combined)—with the additional appendix intended to supplement the 2,763 pages of materials filed with the First Motion to Recuse. The Reorganized Debtor filed a Response and Brief objecting to the Third Motion to Recuse (56 pages in length) and filed an appendix in support (4,035 pages in length), both on October 31, 2022. DE # 3595 & 3596. Movants then filed a motion to file a reply brief in excess of the page limit and a Reply [DE ## 3618 & 3623] on November 10, and November 14, 2022, respectively. These documents were collectively 58 pages. Because more than 7,000 pages of material were submitted, and also because this court has other court business (including typically at least three Highland contested matters or adversary rulings under advisement at any given point in time), this court has had the Third Motion to Recuse under advisement (that is the subject of this Order).

Fourth Motion to Recuse. Meanwhile a fourth motion to recuse the Presiding Judge was filed on February 27, 2023 in the separate Adversary Proceeding #21-3076 by one of the same Movants that is a defendant therein.<sup>3</sup> It appears that some of the same arguments are made in the Fourth Motion to Recuse with one significant new argument: Movant believes that a character in one of the fiction legal thriller novels written by the Presiding Judge is based on Mr. James

<sup>3</sup> See HCMFA's Motion to Recuse pursuant to [2]8 U.S.C. §§ 144 and 455 and brief in support [Adv. Pro. No. 21-3076 DE ## 309, 310]. The court notes anecdotally that this Fourth Motion to Recuse was filed several hours after the bankruptcy court issued an opinion and order conforming the Highland Plan to the ruling of the Fifth Circuit. It may very well be coincidental, but the various motions to recuse have each followed on the heels of a significant case development that Movants may perceive to be adverse to their interests —i.e., the Plan confirmation order; affirmance by the Fifth Circuit of the Plan confirmation order; denial of a stay by the Fifth Circuit of its ruling on the confirmation order; a ruling of the bankruptcy court conforming the Plan to the Fifth Circuit's ruling. Again, this may be purely coincidental.

Dondero and, thus, shows the Presiding Judge has a bias towards him or the hedge fund industry generally. This court will separately rule on the Fourth Motion to Recuse in due course, after the parties have had the chance to respond.

II. THE SPECIFIC GROUNDS URGED IN THE CURRENT MOTION.

Movants are requesting that the Presiding Judge recuse herself from presiding over the Chapter 11 case of Highland (all of it). With regard to the specific grounds urged by Movants, they state that they perceive the Presiding Judge has animus towards Mr. Dondero and parties connected with him or deemed under his control (the “Affected Entities”). Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities argue that the Presiding Judge’s impartiality can be reasonably questioned. Specifically, they express concerns that the Presiding Judge formed negative opinions of Mr. Dondero in a prior bankruptcy case over which the Presiding Judge presided (In re Acis Capital Management, L.P., Case No. 18-30264);<sup>4</sup> that those opinions have supposedly carried over to the Highland case; that the Presiding Judge has been unable to extricate those opinions from her mind; and that this has resulted in an actual bias against Mr. Dondero that has prejudiced or is prejudicing him and the Affected Entities.

Accordingly, the Movants ask that the Presiding Judge recuse herself from any future contested matters and adversary proceedings arising in the Highland case.

III. RELEVANT CASE BACKGROUND.

By way of further background, the Highland case has been pending since October 16, 2019. It was filed in the Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware. Venue was transferred to the Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, on motion of the Official Unsecured Creditors Committee (“UCC”) on December 4, 2019. The UCC in this case consisted of non-insider creditors asserting more than $1 billion worth of claims against the Debtor.

On January 9, 2020, a significant corporate governance settlement between Highland and the UCC was reached and presented to this court. It was approximately one month after the Highland case was transferred to the Presiding Judge. The settlement involved the removal of Mr. Dondero as CEO and from all decision making at Highland, at the insistence of the UCC, and an entirely new corporate governance structure was imposed on the Debtor, with extensive oversight by the UCC. This new corporate governance structure was negotiated by the Debtor under pressure from both the UCC and the United States Trustee—both of whom expressed positions that a Chapter 11 Trustee should be appointed in this case due to Mr. Dondero’s alleged conflicts of interest, inability to act as a fiduciary, and purported mismanagement. Mr. Dondero signed off on the corporate governance settlement and this court approved it. A new three-member independent board controlled the Debtor for the remainder of the bankruptcy case until the Plan went effective in August 2021. That board consisted of a retired bankruptcy judge (Russell Nelms); a second individual with extensive experience serving as an independent board member of companies undergoing bankruptcy or restructuring (John Dubel); and a third individual (later appointed CEO) with broad experience managing distressed debt investments and other products similar to what Highland managed (James P. Seery). Mr. Dondero stayed on with Highland during the entire first year of the bankruptcy case (through October 2020), as an unpaid portfolio manager, but with no governance role, at the request of the Debtor. The UCC acquiesced to that arrangement (although they had not negotiated this and expressed reservations about Mr. Dondero’s role—albeit limited). The United States Trustee was opposed to the new corporate government structure and preferred a Chapter 11 Trustee instead. This court overruled the United States Trustee’s objection and determined that the corporate governance structure negotiated by the UCC was more likely to preserve value and foster reorganization efforts than the more drastic step of appointing a Chapter 11 Trustee.

After more than a year, under direction of the new board, Highland obtained confirmation of a Chapter 11 Plan on February 22, 2021. The Plan was proposed after many months of contentiousness with several large creditors and the UCC. In fact, in August 2020, the bankruptcy court required the key parties to stand down and engage in mediation before two respected co-mediators (Retired Bankruptcy Judge Allan Gropper, S.D.N.Y. and Attorney/Mediator Sylvia Mayer, Houston). Highland (either during or after mediation) reached key settlements with the largest creditors in this case (including Acis, which asserted more than a $70 million disputed claim; the Redeemer Committee for the Crusader Fund, which asserted more than a $250 million claim and had been in litigation in multiple fora with Highland and affiliates for approximately a decade; and UBS Securities, which asserted more than a $1 billion claim and had also been in litigation with Highland and certain affiliates for more than a decade). Mr. Dondero participated in the mediation, but settlements were not reached with him. The independent board members asked for Mr. Dondero's resignation from Highland in October 2020 (i.e., from his role as a portfolio manager). At this point, things became very contentious among the Movants and the Debtor; dozens of contested motions and objections were filed among the Movants and Debtor. Accusations were made by the Debtor that Mr. Dondero was interfering with Highland business, employees, and had even destroyed a company phone to hide evidence. TROs were sought and obtained. Finally, the court confirmed the Plan in February 2021. The Plan was supported by the UCC and overwhelmingly (99%+) by non-insider creditors. Other large, non-insider creditors that supported the Plan, besides those mentioned above, were Patrick Daugherty (a former executive of Highland who has been in litigation with Highland and Mr. Dondero for more than a decade) and HarbourVest—each of whom asserted multi-million dollar claims in this case. In any event, the Movants appealed the confirmation order, and it was affirmed in substantial part by the Fifth Circuit. The plan has been in effect since August 2021.

IV. LEGAL STANDARD APPLICABLE TO THE MOTION TO RECUSE.

Before addressing the substance of the Third Motion to Recuse, the court will address the governing legal authority: 28 U.S.C. § 455, Fed. R. Bankr. P. 5004(a), and certain case law interpreting same. The relevant portions of 28 U.S.C. § 455 provide that:

(a) Any justice, judge, or magistrate judge of the United States shall disqualify himself in any proceeding in which his impartiality might reasonably be questioned.

(b) He shall also disqualify himself in the following circumstances:

(1) Where he has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party, or personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding; . . .

28 U.S.C. § 455(a) & (b)(1).

Bankruptcy Rule 5004(a) further provides that, “A bankruptcy judge shall be governed by 28 U.S.C. § 455, and disqualified from presiding over the proceeding or contested matter in which the disqualifying circumstance arises or, if appropriate, shall be disqualified from presiding over the case.”

A. Timeliness?

The court first notes that the applicable statute and rule do not address the concept of timeliness of a motion to recuse. However, several courts have taken timeliness into account.

The Fifth Circuit has noted, in Delesdernier v. Porterie, 666 F.2d 116 (5th Cir. 1982), that, while there were arguments in favor of not reading a timeliness requirement into the statute,

“the lack of a timeliness rule has its own problems.”<sup>5</sup> The Fifth Circuit, in concluding that it was “convinced that timeliness may not be disregarded in all cases regarding disqualification under § 455(a),” stated,<sup>6</sup>

Lack of a timeliness requirement encourages speculation and converts the serious and laudatory business of insuring judicial fairness into a mere litigation stratagem. Congress did not enact § 455 to allow counsel to make a game of the federal judiciary’s ethical obligations; we should seek to preserve the integrity of the statute by discouraging bad faith manipulation of its rules for litigious advantage.

Regarding the specific motion for disqualification of a district court judge in that case, the Fifth Circuit notes “that the motion raised for the first time on appeal, and after two full trials on the merits, is too tardily made for us to consider it now.”<sup>7</sup>

B. Hearing Needed? If So, Who Presides?

The court next notes that the applicable statute and rule do not expressly state whether the presiding judge or some other judge should decide a motion to recuse/disqualify or whether a hearing—evidentiary or otherwise—is required.

Case authority has interpreted the provisions set forth above to give the targeted judge authority (at least initially) to decide a motion to disqualify. United States v. Bremers, 195 F.3d 221, 226 (5th Cir. 1999) (a motion to recuse is committed to the discretion of the targeted judge, and the denial of such motion will only be reversed upon the showing of an abuse of discretion); Wilborn v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. (In re Wilborn), 401 B.R. 848, 851 (Bankr. S.D.Tex. 2009) (citing United States v. Mizell, 88 F.3d 288, 299 (5th Cir. 1996) (the targeted judge has broad discretion in determining whether disqualification is appropriate)).<sup>8</sup>

<sup>7</sup> Id. at 122-23. The Ninth Circuit and Tenth Circuit have also taken timeliness into account when considering a § 455 motion for recusal. See Davies v. C.I.R., 68 F.3d 1129, 1130-31 (9th Cir. 1995) (a motion for recusal filed “one year after a ruling was considered untimely.”); Willner v. Univ. of Kansas, 848 F.2d 1023 (10th Cir. 1988).

Additionally, the court notes that the applicable statute and rule do not expressly state what type of hearing is required, if any. Case authority has interpreted that a motion for disqualification does not necessarily confer upon a movant a right to make a record in open court, nor does it confer upon them a right to an evidentiary hearing. Lieb v. Tillman (In re Lieb), 112 B.R. 830, 835-36 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. 1990). See generally 13A C. Wright, A. Miller & E. Cooper, Federal Practice and Procedure § 3550, at 629 (a section 455 motion can be supported by an affidavit, a verified memorandum, or a statement of facts in some form). The procedure for a targeted judge to follow, as set forth in Levitt v. University of Texas, 847 F.2d 221, 226 (5th Cir. 1988), and as more specifically articulated in Lieb v. Tillman, 112 B.R. at 836, is: (a) first, the targeted judge should decide whether the “claim asserted” by the movants “rises to the threshold standard of raising a doubt in the mind of a reasonable observer” as to the judge’s impartiality; (b) if not, then the judge should not recuse himself; and (c) if so, another judge should “decide what the facts are,” i.e., hold an evidentiary hearing, and presumably then this other judge would decide whether disqualification is appropriate. If a movant appeals a decision not to disqualify or recuse and the district court finds the record and documents submitted to be inadequate for a determination, it may remand and direct another judge to conduct an evidentiary hearing to enlarge the record. Such procedure is consistent with Levitt. See Lieb v. Tillman, 112 B.R. at 836.

<sup>8</sup> The Fifth Circuit discourages transfer of a disqualification motion because “[t]he challenged judge is most familiar with the alleged bias or conflict of interest” and “is in the best position to protect the nonmoving parties from dilatory tactics.” Chitimacha Tribe of La. v. Harry L. Laws Co., 690 F.2d 1157, 1162 (5th Cir. 1982).

C. Motions to Recuse are Very Fact-Specific.

Next, with regard to evaluating a motion to recuse, the Fifth Circuit has recognized that section 455(a) claims are fact-driven, and as a result, the analysis of a particular section 455(a) claim must be guided, not by a comparison to similar situations addressed by prior jurisprudence, but rather by an independent examination of the unique facts and circumstances of the particular claim at issue. United States v. Jordan, 49 F.3d 152, 157 (5th Cir. 1995). Disqualification is appropriate if a reasonable person, knowing all of the relevant circumstances, would harbor doubts about the impartiality of the judge. Chitimacha Tribe, 690 F.2d at 1165.

D. On the Topic of Bias or Animus.

As a matter of law, the existence of clashes between the court and counsel for a party is an insufficient basis for disqualification, and “Circuit Courts have refused to base disqualification under section 455 upon apparent animosity towards counsel.” In re Lieb, 112 B.R. at 835 (citing Davis v. Board of School Comm’rs, 517 F.2d 1044, 1050-52 (5th Cir. 1975))(holding that disqualification should be determined “on the basis of conduct which shows a bias or prejudice or lack of impartiality by focusing on a party rather than counsel.”))(other citations omitted); see also, Focus Media, Inc. v. NBC (In re Focus Media), 378 F.3d 916, 929-31 (9th Cir. 2004) (adverse rulings and negative remarks ordinarily do not support a bias challenge). More significant, the U.S. Supreme Court has stated that “expressions of impatience, dissatisfaction, annoyance, and even anger, that are within the bounds of what imperfect men and women, even after having been confirmed as federal judges, sometimes display” do not establish bias or partiality” and that<sup>9</sup> judicial remarks during the course of a trial that are critical or disapproving of, or even hostile to, counsel, the parties, or their cases, ordinarily do not support a bias or partiality challenge. They may do so if they reveal an opinion that derives from an extrajudicial source; and they will do so if they reveal such a high degree of favoritism or antagonism as to make fair judgment impossible.

What might amount to a “high degree of favoritism or antagonism”? The example given by the Liteky Court was a 1921, WWI-espionage case where the District Court Judge allegedly said of the German American defendants: “‘One must have a very judicial mind, indeed, not [to be] prejudiced against the German Americans’ because their ‘hearts are reeking with disloyalty.’” A very recent Fifth Circuit case echoes these principles as well. In Brocato, the court noted that “a judge is not generally required to recuse for bias, even if the judge is ‘exceedingly ill disposed towards the defendant,’ when the judge’s ‘knowledge and the opinion it produced were properly and necessarily acquired in the course of the proceedings[.]’”<sup>10</sup>

V. THE UNIQUE FACTS AND CIRCUMSTANCES APPLICABLE HERE.

First, the court determines that the Third Motion to Recuse and the previous motions to recuse have not been timely. Again, the original one was filed more than 15 months after the Presiding Judge was transferred the Highland case from Delaware. It was the 2060th pleading on the docket maintained in the bankruptcy case (this does not count the docket entries in the nine, separate adversary proceedings related to the Highland case), and it was filed after many dozens of orders had been issued by the court, including the confirmation order that was subsequently affirmed on appeal. The current Third Motion to Recuse was the 3570th pleading on the docket of the bankruptcy case and was filed exactly three years after the bankruptcy case was filed. The timing does not seem to pass muster—if, indeed, timeliness is a factor, as Circuit-level authority has suggested.

But, since the Third Motion to Recuse—and all of them for that matter—raise serious issues, the court will nevertheless analyze the pending motion as though it is timely. The court will address whether the overall circumstances might cause a reasonable observer to question or harbor doubts about the bankruptcy court’s impartiality. Would the claims asserted in the Third Motion to Recuse rise to the threshold standard of raising a doubt in the mind of a reasonable observer as to the court’s impartiality?

A. The Acis Case.

The Third Motion to Recuse revisits the Acis bankruptcy case and suggests that the Presiding Judge gained extrajudicial knowledge and developed opinions of Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities during that case and that this has created animus or bias towards them in the Highland bankruptcy case and related adversary proceedings. Evaluating this contention requires some examination of just what the bankruptcy court heard and adjudicated in the Acis case.

Acis Capital Management, L.P. (“Acis LP”), a Delaware limited partnership, and Acis Capital Management GP, L.L.C. (“Acis GP/LLC”), a Delaware limited liability company—were two entities within the approximately 2,000-entity organizational structure of Highland that were forced into an involuntary bankruptcy case in January 2018 (for convenience, the court will collectively refer to them as “Acis”). The Presiding Judge presided over the Acis case. Mr. Dondero was the president of the two Acis debtors, as well as the CEO of Highland at the time. The Presiding Judge’s recollection is that Mr. Dondero testified only once during the lengthy Acis proceedings (during the trial on the involuntary petitions in the Spring of 2018) and, at all other times, various inhouse counsel at Highland (Scott Ellington, Isaac Leventon, and J.P. Sevilla) served as the witnesses for Acis and Highland.

As far as “extrajudicial knowledge,” what the Presiding Judge learned from the Acis case was largely regarding the “CLO Industry.” The court learned that Highland was a pioneer, among registered investment advisors, in the securitization investment product known as a “CLO” (collateralized loan obligations) and Acis, for many years, was the vehicle through which Highland’s CLO business was managed. The court learned about the typical structure of these CLOs (the various tranches of debt and the rights they enjoyed), the typical governing documents for and life cycle of a CLO, the typical portfolio management agreements, the shared services agreements, and the sub-advisory agreements that undergirded the whole operation. The court learned about Highland’s role in these and the role of Acis, historically, and the role of an entity known as Highland CLO Funding (“HCLOF”). If the Presiding Judge made any specific rulings with regard to Mr. Dondero or the Affected Entities during the Acis case, she cannot recall. The court certainly does recall accusations made by Acis against Highland and HCLOF with regard to alleged fraudulent transfers and alleged denuding of Acis assets to thwart a judgment creditor, Josh Terry. The court has never ruled on the actual fraudulent transfer claims and, the claims (at least among Acis and Highland) have been settled.

In summary, the extrajudicial knowledge—if it should be considered that—the Presiding Judge gained from the Acis case, that is now suggested to have created bias or animus, was knowledge about the highly complex CLO products industry, knowledge about the forms of agreements that typically set forth parties’ rights and obligations, and some knowledge about the Highland business structure and the shared services and sub-advisory services model it typically used. The Presiding Judge, at all times, has been aware that Mr. Dondero was a founder of Highland and was the President of Acis and CEO of Highland at relevant times. To be clear, a

Chapter 11 Trustee was appointed in the Acis case soon after an order for relief was entered, and the Presiding Judge only recalls Mr. Dondero testifying once in court during the Acis case. The Presiding Judge has a vague recollection that deposition testimony may have been presented at another time. The court cannot recall any of the other Affected Entities ever being parties appearing in the Acis case or providing testimony.

Assuming, arguendo, that the Presiding Judge gained some knowledge about Highland and at least one of the Movants (i.e., Mr. Dondero) from the Acis case, the governing case law suggests that this sort of awareness would not qualify as extrajudicial knowledge.<sup>11</sup> In Tejero, for example, the Fifth Circuit made it clear that a judge's knowledge of a party gained from previous cases involving that party does not qualify as extrajudicial knowledge.<sup>12</sup> There, the judge relied on knowledge gained from presiding over three previous cases involving the party that moved for the judge's recusal.<sup>13</sup>

The court notes, anecdotally, that 28 U.S.C. § 1408(2) contemplates that venue is proper over a case “in which there is pending a case under title 11 concerning such person's affiliate, general partner, or partnership.” Thus, it is not per se improper (in fact, it is generally proper) for a presiding judge to preside over cases of affiliated business entities of a party. It happens all the time.

Without showing that the Presiding Judge relied on extrajudicial knowledge to form her opinion, the Movants bear the burden of showing that the Presiding Judge ‘display[ed] a deep-seated favoritism or antagonism that would make fair judgment impossible.<sup>14</sup>

B. Bias or Animus, More Generally?

More generally, the court does not believe that the provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 455 are implicated here. The Presiding Judge does not believe she harbors, or has shown, any personal bias or prejudice against the Movants. She does not believe she has displayed deep-seated favoritism or antagonism.

As earlier mentioned, case law has held that clashes between a court and counsel for a party is an insufficient basis for disqualification, and courts “have refused to base disqualification under section 455 upon apparent animosity towards counsel.” In re Lieb, 112 B.R. at 835 (citing Davis v. Board of School Comm’rs, 517 F.2d 1044, 1050-52 (5th Cir. 1975))(holding that disqualification should be determined “on the basis of conduct which shows a bias or prejudice or lack of impartiality by focusing on a party rather than counsel.”))(other citations omitted). Not only has this court shown proper respect for Mr. Dondero’s and each of the Affected Entities’ counsel, but the court has no disrespect or animus toward Mr. Dondero on a personal level or any of the Movants. This court desperately wants to believe (and has, and always will, keep its mind open to the belief) that the foremost goal of the Movants is to preserve their economic and proprietary rights—even though, over time, things have gotten more and more contentious and even seemingly personal among certain parties (the court is reminded of when the former general counsel of Highland sued another prior general counsel of Highland for “stalking” him, and the suit was removed from the state court to the bankruptcy court; the bankruptcy court swiftly remanded it back to state court—believing it had no place in a business reorganization). In any event, the Presiding Judge has commented several times that she believes Mr. Dondero, more than anything else, just wanted to get the company he built back. The Presiding Judge has said this, in spite of hearing sworn testimony that Mr. Dondero has threatened out of court to “burn the place down” if he cannot get what he believes he should get from the bankruptcy process.

This court has merely addressed motions, objections, and other pleadings as they have been presented. It has issued and enforced orders when requested and warranted. This court has provided Movants with a full and fair opportunity to present and pursue their objections and motions. In many situations, the court has issued very lengthy findings of fact and conclusions of law, opinions, or reports and recommendations to the District Court. Sometimes Movants have appealed (in fact, more than two dozen times) and many times they did not. This court’s rulings have mostly been affirmed or otherwise undisturbed in the appeals that have been resolved so far.

C. Misstatements, Partial Descriptions, or Misunderstandings of Various Case Events.

Regrettably, the brief in support of the Third Motion to Recuse (filed by counsel who never appeared during the bankruptcy case until filing the First Motion to Recuse) contains several misstatements or partial descriptions of events during the case, in several places, that create misimpressions. Some of the more problematic examples of this are set forth below (in no particular order).

The Bankruptcy Court’s Orders Requiring Mr. Dondero’s (and Allegedly His Sister’s?) Attendance at Bankruptcy Court Hearings. In the brief in support of the Third Motion to Recuse, Movants assert as one example of the Presiding Judge’s alleged bias, certain of her orders—entered in January 2021, May 2021, and June 2021—“target[ing] Mr. Dondero (as well as his sister Nancy Dondero) by requiring their presence at all hearings, regardless of whether their presence is needed.” Third Motion to Recuse (brief in support), at p. 16 [DE # 3542]. This entirely misstates what happened.

First, almost 100% of the dozens of Highland hearings over the last 3+ years have been conducted virtually through WebEx (due to COVID and the large number of out-of-town participants). The court does not believe Nancy Dondero has ever physically been in the bankruptcy court, and Mr. Dondero rarely has. Certainly, they have never been penalized for that.

More importantly, what Movants omit was that, during a January 8, 2021 hearing to determine whether the court should grant a requested preliminary injunction against Mr. Dondero (regarding his alleged interference with the Debtor’s business and certain employees of the Debtor), Mr. Dondero testified that he had not attended an earlier TRO hearing regarding this alleged conduct, nor read the transcript from the hearing, nor read the TRO itself to know what conduct it addressed.<sup>15</sup> The bankruptcy court was concerned that Mr. Dondero’s failure to attend or participate in bankruptcy court hearings that impacted him or might result in obligations imposed upon him would create an opportunity for “plausible deniability.” Thus, this court ordered Mr. Dondero to appear at all hearings to ensure both awareness of and compliance with this court’s orders. Again, these were almost always video hearings. Mr. Dondero subsequently failed to appear at a hearing, thereby validating the court’s concerns. Consequently, this court entered an order on May 24, 2021, clarifying that Mr. Dondero was required to appear at all hearings in the bankruptcy case [DE # 2362]. Notably, Mr. Dondero did not appeal the preliminary injunction or the May 24, 2021 order.

More generally, it is not atypical for this bankruptcy court to order principals of a party to appear at hearings when there are concerns regarding: (a) the contentiousness of a case, or (b) whether clients and lawyers are completely in sync and in communication with each other.

As for Nancy Dondero, the bankruptcy court has never ordered Nancy Dondero to appear at any hearings. Instead, on June 17, 2021, the court ordered the trustee of the Dugaboy and Get Good Trusts (i.e., Mr. Dondero's family trusts) to appear at all hearings and proceedings but only "where either of the Trusts are a party or take a position" [DE # 2458]. The trusts (Dugaboy, in particular) have been very active during the bankruptcy case and the court believed their standing was very tenuous. The court provided a detailed rationale for its order and it was never appealed. Nevertheless, Movants now disturbingly assert that Nancy Dondero was required to appear at all hearings "regardless of whether [her] presence [was] needed."

August 4, 2021 Order Finding Mr. Dondero in Contempt of Court. In the brief in support of the Third Motion to Recuse, Movants cite an order entered by the bankruptcy court on August 4, 2021, holding Mr. Dondero in civil contempt of court [DE # 2660] (the "Contempt Order"), as "[p]erhaps one of the most telling" examples of the Presiding Judge's bias. Third Motion to Recuse (brief in support), at p. 14-15 [DE # 3571]. Movants do not accurately or fully describe the facts leading up to entry of this Contempt Order (which was appealed and affirmed in all material respects).<sup>16</sup>

Complaint”) filed against Highland in the District Court, by an entity known as CLO Holdco and its parent company that is referred to as the “DAF”—both believed to be under the control of Mr. Dondero (more on that below). The HarbourVest Complaint was filed less than two months after Highland’s Plan was confirmed and before it went effective. Movants allege that the HarbourVest Complaint addressed Highland’s “brokering [during the bankruptcy case] the sale of CLO interests held by HarbourVest ... without prior notice to other CLO investors and without respecting those investors’ right of first refusal” in violation of some alleged duty. Third Motion to Recuse (brief in support), at 14. This is an inaccurate description of the events in the bankruptcy case that are the subject of the HarbourVest Complaint, and it also does not make clear why the bankruptcy court was motivated to enter the Contempt Order regarding the filing of the HarbourVest Complaint.

The facts were that, prior to Highland’s bankruptcy case, a third-party unrelated to Highland called HarbourVest purchased a 49.98% equity interest in a non-Debtor entity called HCLOF for approximately $80 million. Highland and the entity CLO Holdco also owned equity interests in HCLOF. After Highland’s bankruptcy, HarbourVest filed claims against Highland in excess of $300 million and sought rescission of its investment in HCLOF, alleging it was fraudulently induced by factual misrepresentations and omissions made by Mr. Dondero and certain of Highland’s employees prior to the bankruptcy case. Highland and HarbourVest settled HarbourVest’s claims, and Highland filed a Rule 9019 motion seeking court approval of the settlement. DE # 1625. The motion for approval of the settlement went out on normal notice to creditors and parties-in-interest in the bankruptcy case. Under the settlement, HarbourVest received allowed claims in the bankruptcy case totaling $80 million in the aggregate and transferred its interests in HCLOF to a Highland subsidiary, effectively rescinding HarbourVest's investment in HCLOF. All aspects of the settlement were publicly disclosed in Highland's motion. DE # 1625. Mr. Dondero, his family trusts, and CLO Holdco (the same entity that later filed the HarbourVest Complaint) all objected to the settlement with HarbourVest. CLO Holdco argued it had a right of first refusal to HarbourVest's 49.98% interest in HCLOF. However, after reviewing Highland's pleadings, HCLOF's governing documents, and applicable law, CLO Holdco announced through counsel at a bankruptcy court hearing on the settlement that it had determined it had no such right and withdrew its objection. The bankruptcy court approved the settlement, including the transfer of HarbourVest's 49.98% interest in HCLOF to Highland and/or its designee.

Then, three months later, CLO Holdco and its parent company DAF filed the HarbourVest Complaint seeking, among other things, to enforce CLO Holdco's alleged right of first refusal—a right CLO Holdco had conceded did not exist in open bankruptcy court. The HarbourVest Complaint raises claims against Highland for breaches of fiduciary duty under the Investment Advisers Act<sup>17</sup> and/or state law, breach of contract, negligence, violations of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations statute (15 U.S.C. § 1961, et seq. ("RICO")), and tortious interference—all relating to the settlement that the bankruptcy court had approved on notice to creditors and after an evidentiary hearing. With regard to the RICO count, CLO Holdco and DAF alleged that Highland and certain co-Defendants it named were an “association-in-fact” engaged in a pattern of racketeering activity for failing to disclose the valuation of the 49.98% equity interest and ultimately effectuating the HarbourVest Settlement. Shortly thereafter, CLO Holdco sought to add Mr. James Seery (Highland’s CEO) as a defendant in clear violation of various bankruptcy court orders [e.g., DE # 854]. Accordingly, the bankruptcy court, after an evidentiary hearing, issued the Contempt Order finding Mr. Dondero and others in contempt. To be clear, not only were the Plaintiffs seeking to sue Mr. Seery in violation of bankruptcy court orders, but this had the appearance of an end-run around the bankruptcy court—i.e., suing a Debtor (Highland was still a Debtor, with a confirmed plan that had not reached its effective date) for post-petition conduct that had been approved by the bankruptcy court after notice to creditors, and, all the while, one of the plaintiffs had objected to the post-petition conduct, by objecting to the HarbourVest Settlement, and then withdrew such objection. Moreover, even if there was a legal theory to pursue claims against Highland regarding the whole HarbourVest Settlement, there was a process for pursuing administrative claims in the confirmation order and Plan, and this process had not been followed.

Movants state in their brief in support of their Third Motion to Recuse, at p. 15, that Mr. Dondero credibly testified “he was not involved at all in authorizing or preparing the motion to add Mr. Seery” to the HarbourVest Complaint and that there was no evidence to the contrary. This is directly contradicted by the actual record. As the District Court explained when affirming the bankruptcy court’s Contempt Order:

Ample evidence supports the bankruptcy court’s factual findings. Dondero has had a significant role in DAF for over a decade. DAF’s assets come in part from Dondero and his “family trusts.” Dondero “was DAF’s managing member until 2012,” and he remains “DAF’s informal investment advisor.” After Dondero stepped down as managing member, that role went to Grant Scott, “Dondero’s long-time friend, college housemate, and best man at his wedding.” Scott ultimately resigned due to “disagreements with ... Dondero.”

[Mark] Patrick replaced Scott as “DAF’s general manager on March 24, 2021”—19 days before the Seery Motion. Patrick initially had “no reason to believe that Mr. Seery had done anything wrong with respect to the HarbourVest transaction.” Only once “Dondero told [him] that an investment opportunity was essentially usurped” did Patrick “engage[] the Sbaiti firm to launch an investigation” and ask “Mr. Dondero to work with the Sbaiti firm with respect to their investigation of the underlying facts.” After that, Dondero “communicated directly with the Sbaiti firm”—Patrick did not. Dondero “saw versions of the complaint before it was filed” and had “conversations with attorneys” about the complaint pre-filing. That complaint focused on “Seery’s allegedly deceitful conduct” and “mention[ed] Mr. Seery 50 times.” Further, when listing the parties, the complaint listed each party named in the caption along with “[p]otential party James P. Seery, Jr.,” providing his citizenship and domicile.

Further, although Dondero averred that he did not direct the Sbaiti firm to add Seery to the complaint, Dondero also contradicted himself, first claiming that he did not know that “the Sbaiti firm intended to file a motion for leave to amend their complaint to add Mr. Seery,” but then agreeing during the hearing that he “[p]robably” was “aware that that motion was going to be filed prior to the time that it actually was filed.” He also testified to conversations about the Seery Motion, noting that it involved a “very complicated legal preservation” issue.

Based on all that evidence, the Court is not left with a definite and firm conviction that the bankruptcy court erred. After being stymied in the bankruptcy court, Dondero manufactured the exigency for the lawsuit that challenged Seery’s conduct. Dondero’s claim that he “did not suggest that Mr. Seery should be added as a defendant” is not credible. Dondero gave Patrick the idea of challenging Seery’s conduct, and he worked with the Sbaiti firm to bring that idea to fruition in the complaint—a complaint that clearly contemplated adding Seery to the lawsuit. Likewise, his plea that he “had no involvement with the Seery Motion” is not credible. Dondero himself testified to the contents of attorney communications concerning the Seery Motion, eventually admitting that he “probably” had knowledge of the Motion before it was filed. In short, the bankruptcy court did not err, after considering the “totality of the evidence,” in finding that Dondero had “the idea of” suing to “challenge Mr. Seery’s ... conduct,” that he “encouraged Mr. Patrick to do something wrong,” and that Patrick “abdicated responsibility to Mr. Dondero with regard to . . . executing the litigation strategy.”<sup>18</sup>

The District Court, like the bankruptcy court, included ample citations to the record, including the direct testimony of both Mr. Dondero and Mr. Mark Patrick, to support its factual findings concerning Mr. Dondero's direct involvement in violating the bankruptcy court's orders and processes.

Finally, Movants allegations about the lack of support for the amount of bankruptcy court's sanctions is incorrect. Movants alleged that Highland submitted invoices showing it had incurred just $38,796.50 defending against Mr. Dondero's contempt in connection with the HarbourVest Complaint. But, in fact, Highland submitted invoices for $187,795. [DE # 2421-1, 2421-2; Ex. 34, Appx. 4048-4102]. The bankruptcy court added to that amount to compensate for additional costs, and the bankruptcy court's sanction of $239,655 was affirmed by the District Court.<sup>19</sup>

Hearing on Debtor's Application to Employ Foley Gardere as Special Counsel on February 19, 2020. The bankruptcy court held a hearing early in the bankruptcy case on Debtor's application to retain the law firm Foley Gardere to pursue appeals of the Acis involuntary petition and the Acis confirmation order (the "Application to Employ") on behalf of Neutra Ltd. (which is or was a company owned by Mr. Dondero). During this hearing, retired Bankruptcy Judge Russell Nelms, one of the three independent directors appointed to Debtor's new board, testified that, as to the board's business judgment, the Application to Employ was considered by the independent directors, and they concluded that it was in the Debtor's best interest for Foley Gardere to perform this legal work. Movants assert that, despite this testimony, the bankruptcy court displayed a predisposition to contest positions that could possibly benefit Mr. Dondero on the pre-determined basis that any person sharing an opinion with Mr. Dondero (including, apparently, a member of the independent board) was somehow being unduly influenced by him).

Movants are less-than-clear regarding the bankruptcy court's comments and concerns regarding the Foley Gardere Application. To be clear, through the Foley Gardere Application, Highland sought to retain Foley Gardere on behalf of both Highland and the non-Debtor entity, Neutra Ltd., in the appeal of the Acis confirmation order and related matters (the "Acis Appeal"). In support of the Foley Gardere Application, Highland disclosed that: (a) Neutra Ltd. was owned by Mr. Dondero and his partner, Mark Okada, and (b) Highland intended to pay for Foley Gardere's representation of Neutra Ltd. in the Acis Appeal. The UCC and Acis objected to the Foley Gardere Application on the ground that Highland should not be permitted to use estate assets to support Neutra, a Dondero-controlled entity. [DE # 120]

Mr. Nelms testified in support of the Foley Gardere Application and was subject to a lengthy cross-examination.<sup>20</sup> The bankruptcy court approved Highland's retention of Foley Gardere but determined that the evidence was insufficient to justify expending estate assets to pay Neutra, Ltd.'s legal fees, a non-Debtor entity in which Highland held no interest.<sup>21</sup> The bankruptcy court's ruling on the Foley Gardere Application was based on its determination that Highland failed to prove that the estate would benefit by paying a non-Debtor's (Neutra Ltd.'s) legal fees. The bankruptcy court stated: "I cannot believe there is a chance in the world there is economic benefit to Highland if these things get reversed. Economic benefit to Neutra: Yeah, maybe. . . . But benefit to Highland? I just don't think the evidence has been there to convince me

it's reasonable business judgment for Highland to pay the legal fees associated with the appeal.”<sup>22</sup>

The bankruptcy court is at a loss to understand how its comments on the Foley Gardere Application constitute a manifestation of bias towards Mr. Dondero or Movants.

The January 2021 Examiner Motion. On January 14, 2021, Mr. Dondero's family trusts, requested the bankruptcy court exercise its discretion to direct the appointment of a neutral third-party examiner pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1104(c) as an allegedly less costly means to resolve various issues that had arisen in the Highland bankruptcy (the “Examiner Motion”). The Examiner Motion was made 15 months after the case was filed, after months of global mediation had occurred, where most of the significant claims against the estate had been settled, and less than three weeks before the scheduled confirmation hearing, which the court had been told was likely to have support of the major creditor constituencies. Despite the family trusts' request, the bankruptcy court declined to set that motion for an emergency hearing, meaning it was set for hearing in the ordinary course, after the date of the confirmation hearing. It became moot after confirmation of the Plan—although it would not have been moot if confirmation had been denied. Movants assert that the court's failure to set the Examiner Motion on an emergency basis shows bias. No creditor supported the Examiner Motion. When the court ultimately denied the Examiner Motion, nobody appealed.

Questioning of Highland About Possibility of PPP Loans at the July 2020 Exclusivity Hearing. Movants contend that certain questions of the bankruptcy court regarding COVID-related “PPP loans” at a July 8, 2020 exclusivity hearing were evidence of bias against Mr.

Dondero. As fully disclosed by this court, the inquiries were prompted by an extrajudicial source (a newspaper article) that the Presiding Judge happened to read one day, which noted that “Mr. Dondero or affiliates” received PPP loans. Because of the vagueness of the article, the bankruptcy court sought information from Highland—not Movants—and ordered Highland to disclose any PPP loans it had received post-petition. Highland responded to the court at a subsequent hearing that Highland had not obtained any PPP loans. Neither Mr. Dondero nor any of his affiliated entities were directed to provide any information, no action was taken against them, and the issue was never raised again by the bankruptcy court. Movants’ suggestion that this somehow showed biased towards them is hard to understand. The court was merely inquiring about the possibility of Highland having obtained a post-petition COVID loan. Mr. Dondero was not even in control of Highland at this time.<sup>23</sup>

Court’s Usage of Terms Such as “Litigious” or “Vexatious.” This court and all courts sometimes use strong words as part of managing complex and contentious cases. Did the Presiding Judge ever refer to Mr. Dondero or Movants as “litigious”? Yes. This was based on evidence. This was a view formed against the backdrop of having heard about more than a decade of litigation with UCC members and certain other creditors in courts in Texas, Delaware, New York, the Cayman Islands, Bermuda, and Guernsey.<sup>24</sup> For example, one of the new, independent directors of the Debtor, John Dubel—a man with decades of experience working on some of the largest, most complex Chapter 11s around the country—credibly testified as follows:

<sup>23</sup> In mid-2020, it was very unclear whether Chapter 11 debtors were eligible for PPP loans. The Presiding Judge was hearing different things in different court hearings and in the press. The Presiding Judge was partly simply curious as to whether Highland had been able to get one—in addition to being concerned it should be disclosed to creditors if it did.

Q Did you form a view as to the causes of the bankruptcy filing?

A Litigation. That was my clear view. This company had been in litigation with multiple parties, various different parties, since around 2008. Generally, you would see litigation like the types that were, you know, that were here, you know, you'd litigate for a while, then you'd try and settle it. It did not appear to me that there was any intention on the—the Debtor to settle these litigations, but would rather just continue the process and proceed forward on the litigation until the very last minute. And so it was obvious that this was going to—that the Debtor was a, as I said, a highly-litigious shop, and that was one of the causes, obviously, the cause of the filing, along with the fact that judgments were about to be entered against the Debtor.<sup>25</sup>

Continuing on, Mr. Dubel elaborated:

Q And can you elaborate a little bit on I think you said you had done some diligence and you had formed a view as to the causes of the bankruptcy filing, but did this case present any specific concerns or issues that you and the board members had to address perhaps above and beyond what you experienced in some of the other cases you described?

A Well, as I said earlier, the fact that the litigation -- the various litigations with the creditors have been going on for what I viewed as an inordinate amount of years, and that it was clear from my diligence that I had done that this had been directed by Mr. Dondero, to keep this moving forward in the litigation, and to, in essence, just, you know, never give up on the litigation.

It was important that the types of protections that we were afforded in the January 9th order were put in place, because we—none of us—none of the three of us, and myself in particular, did not want to be in a position where we would be sued and harassed through lawsuits for the next, you know, ten years or so. That's not something anybody would want to sign up for.<sup>26</sup>

Did the Presiding Judge ever use the term “vexatious”? Yes. This was as a result of learning of the decade of unresolved litigation in the multiple fora set forth above. But it was also a perception formed after witnessing Movants and other Dondero-affiliates file over 50 proofs of claim (most of which were later withdrawn). It was also a view that any reasonable person might develop after reading the many dozens of motions; the many dozens of objections; and the many dozens of appeals that were pursued by Movants in the bankruptcy case. It was also borne out when multiple witnesses testified that there was a phenomenon in the insurance industry colloquially referred to as the “Dondero Exclusion”—meaning that cost-effective liability insurance could not be obtained for the officers of Highland because of the company’s historical inclination toward litigation.

For example, the new Highland CEO, Mr. James Seery, credibly testified on direct examination by Debtor’s counsel as follows:

Q Did you have any involvement in the Debtor's efforts to obtain D&O insurance for the independent board?

A I did.

Q Can you just describe for the Court what role you played and what issues came up as the Debtor sought to obtain that insurance?

A Sure. The Debtors had been looking to get an insurance policy in place. They were not able to do that. I happen to have worked with an insurance broker on D&O situations in some very difficult situations over the years and brought them into the mix. They were able to go out to the market and find a policy that would cover us, the—kind of the key components of that policy, though, were, number one, the guaranty that HCMLP would give--I'm sorry, the guaranty that HCMLP would give to Strand's obligations, and also the--I'll call it the gatekeeper provision was very important because these parties did not want to have—they wanted to have what was referred to, commonly referred to as the Dondero Exclusion.

So while we were—we purchased a policy that covered us, it did have an exclusion, unless there were no assets left, and then the what I'll call—we refer to as kind of a Side A policy would kick in.

A The insurers did not want to cover the—any litigation that Mr. Dondero would bring against directors. It was pretty commonly known in the marketplace that Mr. Dondero was very litigious, and insurers were not willing to write the insurance without the protections that this order afforded because they did not want to be hit with frivolous—hit with claims on the policy for frivolous litigation that might be brought.<sup>27</sup>

Q And do you recall at confirmation what impediments were described to the Court in terms of obtaining D&O insurance at that time?

A Yes. I think the main impediment which was discussed by Mr. Tauber is what they colloquially refer to in insurance markets as the Dondero Exclusion. Basically, getting coverage to cover Mr. Dondero's actions is very difficult because of his litigious nature. And so one of the keys was to build in and continue the gatekeeper function.<sup>28</sup>

And then, again, more testimony about the “Dondero Exclusion” came on direct examination of Debtor's counsel from an executive in the insurance industry, Marc Tauber, of Aon Financial:

Q Okay. And, finally, you mentioned Mr. Dondero. What role did he play in your ability to obtain insurance for the Strand board?

A Well, that's a very significant role. As, you know, as mentioned, the underwriters are very risk-averse, so the litigiousness of Mr. Dondero is a very strong red flag prohibiting a number of people from writing the insurance at all. And the ones that were writing, that were willing to provide options, were looking for protections from Mr. Dondero.

Q And what kind of protections were they looking for?

A Well, the gatekeeper function was a key factor. That was really the only way we could even start a conversation with any of the people that we were able to engage. And in addition, they wanted a, you know, sort of a belts and suspenders additional protection of having an exclusion preventing any litigation brought by or on behalf of Mr. Dondero.

Q Were you able to identify any carrier who was prepared to underwrite D&O insurance for Strand without the gatekeeper provision or without a Dondero exclusion?

A We were not.<sup>29</sup>

In any event, Movants’ statement that this court found the Movants to be “vexatious litigants” is not consistent with the record. This court did not specifically find or conclude that Movants are “vexatious litigants.” Rather, this court determined that Mr. Dondero’s litigation history supported the inclusion of a gatekeeper provision in the Plan. See Confirmation Order, at ¶¶ 80-81 [DE # 1943]. All of the above-quoted testimony was in connection with the bankruptcy court considering whether gatekeeper provisions proposed in the Plan were necessary and appropriate. Significantly, the Fifth Circuit affirmed this court’s findings and concluded that the gatekeeper provision was justified and “sound.”<sup>30</sup>

The fact that the Presiding Judge commented on litigiousness (often—by the way—in the context of yearning for settlement) should not be interpreted as “bias” or “prejudice” toward Movants or any other party, for that matter. Not only was there significant credible evidence of this, but it is simply about rule enforcement and managing a docket consistent with this court’s duty to the public.

The Presiding Judge’s Fiction Novels. As noted early on, there is now a Fourth Motion to Recuse filed February 27, 2023, in Adversary Proceeding No. # 21-3076 which is styled Kirschner v. Dondero. et al. The Presiding Judge intends to rule on that Fourth Motion to Recuse after all parties in that adversary proceeding have had the opportunity to respond.

While the Presiding Judge had intended to remain silent on this subject until such time as the time had run for parties in the Adversary Proceeding to respond, the court observed that on March 3, 2023, Movants filed a new pleading entitled Supplemental Memorandum of Law in Support of Renewed Motion to Recuse Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 455, in which Movants supplement their Third Motion to Recuse “with information regarding two books published by Judge Jernigan, which Movants recently learned about and read.” DE # 3673. Movants state in this new pleading that the Presiding Judge’s fiction novels “contain derisive commentary about financial industry executives, the financial industry generally, and the financial instruments specifically at issue in HCMLP’s bankruptcy” and that the second novel in particular “appears based on Judge Jernigan’s experiences with HCMLP and Mr. Dondero in the Bankruptcy Proceedings.” The Movants conclude that “any reasonable person would agree appear [that the Presiding Judge’s novels are] patterned after Mr. Dondero, are additional evidence that the Court harbors exceedingly negative views about hedge fund managers and the hedge fund industry, generally, as well as Mr. Dondero specifically.” Id., at 4.

The Presiding Judge’s novels—again entirely fiction—are not about Mr. Dondero or the hedge fund industry in general. The first novel (He Watches All My Paths) is entirely about a federal judge who receives death threats and the impact of that on her family, as well as the U.S. Marshals who provide protection. The ultimate perpetrator of the threats in the novel is not a person in the hedge fund industry but, rather, a young, former tort victim who feels wronged by the American justice system. The second novel (Hedging Death) is partly a sequel to the first—in that it involves a manhunt for a criminal from the first book—and it also happens to involve a bio-medical research firm in a Chapter 11 case in the protagonist judge’s court, whose president is a Chechen immigrant to the U.S. and received funding from a hedge fund manager named Cade Graham. Cade Graham is the book character that Movants believe is “patterned” after Mr. Dondero. The character Cade Graham is an individual who fakes his own death in Mexico (“pseudocide”) after linking up with Mexican drug cartels. He is described as a Dallas native, raised by an oil man, who graduated from Princeton. He has a Brazilian girlfriend with whom he has a son, Ethan, with whom he engages in business. The book mentions a “Ranger Capital” exactly seven times (on six pages in more than 300 pages) as a company of Cade Graham’s. There is another hedge fund mentioned in the book called Toro Capital. Movants state now that Highland once did business under the name of “Ranger.” This was never mentioned in the bankruptcy case. It is not in the Highland disclosure statement. The Presiding Judge cannot find the name in any of the numerous organizational charts that were presented to her in the last three years. The Presiding Judge has never once heard this.

The Presiding Judge regrets this sideshow. Many sitting judges write books—albeit it is more common for them to write legal nonfiction books than fiction books. Ironically, the former can be much more fraught with peril—creating the possibility that someone is going to infer a legal viewpoint that might signal how the judge might rule in a future case. The Presiding Judge made clear that everything in the two books should be viewed as fiction. For example, on the copyright information page of Hedging Death:

Hedging Death is a work of fiction. Names, characters, places, and incidents are the products of the author’s imagination or are used fictitiously. Any resemblance to actual events, locales, or persons, living or dead, is entirely coincidental.

Then, again on the Author's Page before the Prologue:

Because I am a sitting United States judge, and I am also married to a police officer, I feel compelled, at the outset, to clarify certain points regarding this novel. First, with the exception of the Prologue herein (which describes real-life events that happened July 7, 2016, in Dallas, Texas) the following is a work of fiction. While some of the characters and events beyond the Prologue may be loosely based on actual persons and events, and some of the places (in my home state of Texas and in various other faraway spots) are certainly very real, the human characters in this novel are absolutely fictional. Judge Avery Lassiter, the main character in this novel, is not me. Second, one should not assume that any statement or opinion expressed or implied by any characters in this novel are necessarily mine or are somehow a reflection on how I might rule on any particular issue in any case in the future.

That being true, many fiction authors do, indeed, write about "what they know." Many fiction authors write stories where characters are loosely based on real life people or weave plots that are loosely based on real life events. The examples are countless. Agatha Christie wrote a story line about a kidnapping of a child from a wealthy American family (based on the Lindberg child kidnapping) in Murder on the Orient Express. Practically, everything Ernest Hemingway ever wrote was a highly fictionalized story from his past: A Farewell to Arms (story of an American expatriate working as an ambulance driver in the Italian Army who is wounded and falls in love with an Italian nurse—Hemingway was wounded as an ambulance driver working for the Italian Army in World War I); The Sun Also Rises (story of a group of young American and British expatriates who become friends living in Paris and go to the bull fights in Pamplona—once again, Hemingway spent years in Paris, hanging out with the likes of F Scott Fitzgerald, Pablo Picasso, and Gertrude Stein, occasionally going to see the bull fights in Spain); The Old Man and the Sea

(story about an old fisherman in Cuba—again, Hemingway spent several years of his life fishing, writing, and drinking in Cuba on a boat called the Pillar). The Presiding Judge is somewhat embarrassed to discuss these literary greats in the same paragraph in which she is mentioning her own fiction works—it is merely to make a point. While the Presiding Judge’s protagonist characters in her books (Judge Avery Lassiter and Max Lassiter) may resemble herself and her spouse, and while certain judges, lawyers, and U.S. Marshal characters in her books may resemble real life persons (i.e., heroes) that she has been honored to see or know during her lifetime, there are no characters or entities in her books that have been inspired by or modeled after the Movants.

VI. CONCLUSION.

The Presiding Judge has not specifically addressed herein every single ground asserted by the Movants as a manifestation of her alleged bias or animus. The submissions on this issue are enormous (as mentioned, thousands of pages have been filed). Distilled to its essence, the Third Motion to Recuse has failed to present any objective manifestations of bias or prejudice.

The court does not believe any of the assertions of the Movants rise to “the threshold standard of raising a doubt in the mind of a reasonable observer” as to the judge’s impartiality. This court does not believe that any objective person would find that the Movants are the victims of improper judicial conduct rising to the extraordinary remedy of recusal.

WHEREFORE, it is hereby

ORDERED that the Third Motion to Recuse is denied.

It is so ORDERED.

RULES

FED. R. BANKR. P. 5004 ..... 1

James Dondero, Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., NexPoint Advisors, L.P., The Dugaboy Investment Trust, The Get Good Trust, and NexPoint Real Estate Partners, LLC, f/k/a HCRE Partners, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company (collectively, “Movants”) file this Brief in Support of their Motion to Recuse (the “Motion”) Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 455<sup>1</sup> and would, in support thereof, respectfully show the Court as follows:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. Brought with reluctance, this Motion is the necessary result of the undeniable animus that the Presiding Judge (hereinafter, the “Court”) has developed against James Dondero (“Mr. Dondero”) and the resulting prejudicial effect of that animus on Mr. Dondero, The Dugaboy Trust, The Get Good Trust (collectively, the “Trusts”) and any entity the Court deems connected to him or under his control (collectively, the “Affected Entities”).<sup>2</sup> While the Court has presided over many issues in this bankruptcy, numerous adversary proceedings and contested matters involving Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities remain, in which, for the reasons described herein, the Court’s impartiality can be reasonably questioned.

2. Importantly, the Court has essentially acknowledged the foundation of this Motion already—that: the Court formed negative opinions of Mr. Dondero in a prior bankruptcy; those opinions have carried into this bankruptcy; and, despite best efforts, the Court has been unable to extricate those opinions from its mind. Moreover, the record in this bankruptcy reflects that the Court’s negative opinions of Mr. Dondero have resulted in, if not actual bias against Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities, the undeniable perception of bias against Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities that impair the ability of Mr. Dondero (and the Affected Entities) to preserve their legal rights. Specifically, among other things, the record reflects that the Court has:

- (a) repeatedly made statements demonstrating the Court's unfavorable opinions about Mr. Dondero;
- (b) declared that Mr. Dondero (and, by implication, the Affected Entities and each of their licensed attorneys) are vexatious litigants based on actions taken by Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities to: (i) defend lawsuits and motions filed against them; (ii) assert valid legal positions; and/or (iii) preserve legal rights, including on appeal;
- (c) concluded that any entity the Court deems connected to or controlled by Mr. Dondero (i.e., the Affected Entities) is essentially no more than a tool of Mr. Dondero, without evidence being introduced that the corporate status of these entities should be disregarded or that they constitute a single business enterprise;<sup>3</sup>
- (d) summarily and/or preemptively disregarded the testimony of any witness who would testify in favor of Mr. Dondero or any of the Affected Entities, without evidentiary support, as "under [Mr. Dondero's] control" and, if the witness has any connection to Mr. Dondero, per se not credible.

3. At the end of the day, even assuming, arguendo, that the Court's animus toward Mr. Dondero were justified based upon the Court's experience in the Acis Bankruptcy, this Motion would be no less necessary to safeguard the impartiality that Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities are entitled to receive as litigants in these bankruptcy and adversary proceedings—regardless of Mr. Dondero's history with the Court.<sup>4</sup> Consequently, based on the facts stated herein and the trajectory they suggest, the only way to ensure that this required impartiality (and, of equal importance, the public perception of same) exists going forward is through recusal of this Court.

II. BACKGROUND

A. The risk of prejudice to Mr. Dondero in this Court has been apparent since this Bankruptcy's inception in Delaware, including by Debtor itself.

4. On October 16, 2019, the Debtor in this proceeding, Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland” or “Debtor”), filed bankruptcy in Delaware (the “Highland Bankruptcy”). Debtor’s counsel, Jeff Pomerantz, admitted that the bankruptcy was filed in Delaware in order to give Debtor, including its management, a “fresh start.”<sup>5</sup> Shortly thereafter, however, the unsecured creditor’s committee (the “UCC”) moved to transfer the matter to the Northern District of Texas (the “Motion to Transfer”).

5. During the December 2, 2019 hearing on the Motion to Transfer, while the UCC argued that transfer to this Court was appropriate because this Court was further along in the “learning curve” than the Delaware Bankruptcy Court due to this Courts prior presiding over the bankruptcy of Acis Capital Management, L.P. (“Acis”) (the “Acis Bankruptcy”),<sup>6</sup> Mr. Pomerantz expressly acknowledged that the UCC’s actual motive in seeking transfer to this Court was this Court’s pre-existing negative views of Debtor’s management, including Mr. Dondero:

However -- Your Honor pointed to this at the beginning, in mentioning comments about forum-shopping -- the committee and Acis are really being disingenuous, and they have not told you the real reason that they want the case before Judge Jernigan.<sup>7</sup> ... And it's not because she's familiar with this debtor's business, this debtor's assets, or this debtor's liabilities, because she generally is not. It is because she formed negative views regarding certain members of the debtor's management that the committee and Acis hope will carry over to this case.<sup>8</sup>

6. At that time, Debtor effectively acknowledged the risk that this Court's prior opinions of Mr. Dondero would improperly impact this separate, new bankruptcy and the Court would be unable to set aside the negative views of Mr. Dondero it developed in the Acis Bankruptcy; thus, objectively questioning the Court's impartiality. In fact, Mr. Pomerantz specifically referred to the opinions the Court developed in the Acis Bankruptcy as "baggage":

The debtor filed the case in this district because it wanted a judge to preside over this case that would look at what's going on with this debtor, with this debtor's management, this debtor's post-petition conduct, without the baggage of what happened in a previous case, which contrary to what Acis and the committee says [sic], has very little to do with this debtor.<sup>9</sup>

7. The Delaware Bankruptcy Court also acknowledged that it would be improper for this Court to substitute its prior knowledge, experience, or opinions from the Acis Bankruptcy for evidence (or, equally, as a basis to ignore contradictory evidence in the record) in this proceeding:

Yeah, I was going to say that's kind of an interesting argument, because actually it assumes Judge Jernigan's going to ignore the rules of evidence in making factual findings, because you're limited to the record before you on a specific motion. And what fact you may have learned with regard to something a person has done, maybe that goes into questions of credibility on cross-examination or direct testimony, but to actually base your decision on a fact that's not in the record for the specific proceeding would be improper.<sup>10</sup>

8. Ultimately, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court granted the Motion to Transfer and, thus, this bankruptcy was assigned to this Court.

B. The Court has acknowledged that its opinions of Mr. Dondero from the Acis Bankruptcy have remained cemented in the mind of the Court in this proceeding.

9. Following the transfer, Debtor and the UCC entered into a compromise as to the management of Debtor (the “Compromise”), under which, among other things, Mr. Dondero, voluntarily surrendered all control of Debtor to an independent, three-person board appointed per the Compromise (the “Board”).<sup>11</sup>

10. During the January 9, 2020 hearing on the Compromise, the Court acknowledged that it: possessed opinions regarding Mr. Dondero from the Acis Bankruptcy; was unable to extract those opinions from its brain; and was relying on those opinions as bases for certain rulings (e.g., requiring certain language be included in its order, shown below):

Now, there is one specific thing I want to say about the role of Mr. Dondero. When Ms. Patel got up and talked about the newest language that has been added to the term sheet, she highlighted in particular the very last sentence on Page 2 of the term sheet, the sentence reading, ‘Mr. Dondero shall not cause any related entity to terminate any agreements with the Debtor.’ Her statement that that was important, it really resonated with me, because, you know, as I said earlier, I can’t extract what I learned during the Acis case, it’s in my brain, and we did have many moments during the Acis case where the Chapter 11 trustee came in and credibly testified that, whether it was Mr. Dondero personally or others at Highland, they were surreptitiously liquidating funds, they were changing agreements, assigning agreements to others. They were doing things behind the scenes that were impacting the value of the Debtor in a bad way. So not only do I think that language is very important, but I am going to require that language to be put in the order.<sup>12</sup>

11. Later, the Court also indicated that it relied on knowledge of purported actions taken by Mr. Dondero in the Acis Bankruptcy as “evidence” of a presumed propensity of Mr. Dondero to engage in actions (that were allegedly taken in the Acis Bankruptcy) to support the required language and threat of contempt:

And I’m sure most of you can read my mind why, but I want it crystal clear that if [Mr. Dondero] violates these terms, he’s violated a federal court order, and contempt will be one of the tools available to the Court.<sup>13</sup>

12. Notably, at this time, this bankruptcy had only been in front of this Court for approximately a month. Consequently, there was nothing in the record in front of Court to justify its specific rulings and comments related to Mr. Dondero. The Court sustained the United States Trustee’s (“U.S. Trustee”) attempt to use the Acis Bankruptcy as evidence to support the U.S. Trustee’s objection to the Compromise:

“I have to look at what’s presented, and is this reflective of sound business judgment? Is this fair and equitable? Is it in the best interest? So, assuming there are tons of bad facts here reflected in the arbitration award, reflected in other evidence, bad facts that might justify a trustee, a Chapter 11 trustee, is this nevertheless, what’s proposed today, a reasonable compromise of, you know, the trustee arguments from the Committee could make or, you know, is this a reasonable framework for going forward? ... I can assume there are terrible facts out there that might justify a trustee, but I’m looking at what’s proposed.”<sup>14</sup>

13. Nonetheless, just a short time later, the Court confirmed that, based on its knowledge from the Acis Bankruptcy, it would require confirmed that it would require the above-referenced language directed at Mr. Dondero in its order based.

C. The Court's (and Debtor's) actions in this proceeding have demonstrated the Court has a perceptible bias against Mr. Dondero.

1. The February 19, 2020 Application to Employ Hearing

14. The Court has demonstrated a predisposition against Mr. Dondero, including, for example, through its rulings discounting the testimony of demonstrably independent witnesses who testified in support of outcomes that could possibly benefit Mr. Dondero as testimony that is engineered by Mr. Dondero.

15. For example, on February 19, 2020, the Court held a hearing on Debtor's application to retain the law firm Foley Gardere to pursue appeals of the Acis involuntary petition and the Acis confirmation order (the "Application to Employ") on behalf of Neutra Ltd. (which is a company owned by Mr. Dondero and which succeeded to the ownership of Acis). Importantly, during this hearing, former Bankruptcy Judge Russell Nelms, one of the three independent directors appointed to Debtor's Board, testified that, in the Board's business judgment, the Application to Employ was considered by the independent directors, and they concluded that it was in the Debtor's best interest.<sup>15</sup>

16. Despite this testimony, the Court displayed a predisposition to contest positions that could possibly benefit Mr. Dondero on the pre-determined basis that any person sharing an opinion with Mr. Dondero (including, apparently, a member of the independent Board) was somehow being unduly influenced by him:

... But I'm concerned that Dondero or certain in-house counsel has -- you know, they're smart, they're persuasive -- that -- what are the words I want to look for -- they have exercised their powers of persuasion or whatever to make the Board and the professionals think that there is some valid prospect of benefit to Highland with these appeals, when it's really all about Neutra, HCLOF, and Mr. Dondero. That's what I believe.

I mean, this is awkward, right, because you want to defer to the debtor-in-possession, but I have this long history, and I can think through the scenarios. ...And I know, you know, there are multiple ways it might play out, but I cannot believe there is a chance in the world there is economic benefit to Highland if these things get reversed. Economic benefit to Neutra: Yeah, maybe. Economic benefit to HCLOF: Well, they'll get what they want. You know, whether it's an economic benefit, I don't know. But benefit to Highland? I just don't think the evidence has been there to convince me it's reasonable business judgment for Highland to pay the legal fees associated with the appeal.<sup>16</sup>

17. From here, unsurprisingly, Debtor began to leverage the Court's predisposition against Mr. Dondero (i.e., what Debtor had previously described as the Court's "baggage") for Debtor's own benefit. This played out in a variety of ways.<sup>17</sup>

2. The December 2020 Restriction Motion

18. As the Court is aware, Debtor on the one hand, and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (the "Advisors"),<sup>18</sup> on the other hand, previously shared office space, and the Advisors each paid for resources and services, including in-house legal services, pursuant to shared services agreements that each of the Advisors separately entered into with Debtor.

19. As the Court is also aware, Debtor manages more than $1 billion in assets owned by collateralized loan obligation investment vehicles (“CLOs”) pursuant to certain Portfolio Management Agreements. Approximately $140 million of that amount is owned by Highland Income Fund, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, and NexPoint Capital, Inc. (collectively, the “Retail Funds”). Although the Portfolio Management Agreements vary, they generally impose a duty on Debtor, when acting as portfolio manager, to maximize the value of the CLOs’ assets for the benefit of the CLOs’ noteholders and preference shareholders, such as the Retail Funds.

20. For most of 2020, Debtor’s plan with respect to the CLOs was to reject the Portfolio Management Agreements. However, in approximately October 2020, Debtor’s plan changed, and Debtor wanted to assume the Portfolio Management Agreements (i.e., continue managing the assets). However, Debtor’s new plan also contemplated releasing all Debtor’s employees and liquidating all of Debtor’s assets over a two-year period. In the Advisors’ and the Retail Funds’ opinion, this was incompatible with the CLOs’ needs (which required an investment staff) and the belief that the CLOs had more upside. Moreover, Debtor began to liquidate certain assets of the CLOs.

21. Mr. Dondero, who, as stated above, continued to be a portfolio manager and unpaid employee of Debtor, and James Seery (“Mr. Seery”), one member Debtor’s independent Board, disagreed on whether or not to liquidate the CLOs assets. Importantly, the CLOs were not assets of Debtor’s estate but debt and preference equity is owned by third parties (e.g., the Retail Funds, which indirectly own $140 million of same).

22. The Advisors (on behalf of the Retail Funds and pursuant to their obligations under their respective advisory agreements) and the Retail Funds believed that Debtor's decision to liquidate underlying assets held by the CLOs did not maximize the value of the investments for the investors to whom the Advisors and the Retail Funds owed a fiduciary duty. As a result, the Advisors and the Retail Funds raised these concerns with Mr. Seery (Debtor's interim CEO) and requested that Debtor not liquidate the CLOs until the Plan confirmation (which, at that time, was scheduled for early January 2021). Debtor, a/k/a portfolio manager, declined.

23. Consequently, on December 8, 2020, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§105, 363, and 1107, the Advisors and the Retail Funds (not Mr. Dondero) raised these concerns in a motion that requested the Court exercise its equitable discretion to maintain the status quo and stop Debtor from liquidating the CLOs for 30 days (the "Restriction Motion").<sup>19</sup> The Restriction Motion was necessary to legally preserve the legal issue arising from the Advisors' and the Retail Funds' belief that this action by Debtor was contrary to the best interest of their investors.

24. On December 16, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the Restriction Motion and denied same.<sup>20</sup> Rather than simply denying the motion, the Court chastised counsel for the Advisors and the Retail Funds for filing the Restriction Motion (i.e., for advocating a position in good faith that their clients firmly believed in).

<sup>19</sup> Dkt. 1522, a true and correct copy of which is attached hereto as Ex. 4 [APP. 0417] and incorporated herein by reference; see also Ex. 30.

<sup>20</sup> See the December 16, 2020 Transcript, a true and correct copy of which is attached hereto as Ex. 5 [APP. 0443] and incorporated herein by reference. Id. at 63:5-13 [App. 0505]. See also Ex. 30.

25. Going further, the Court stated that it was “dumbfounded” by the Restriction Motion and that it agreed with Debtor’s accusation that Mr. Dondero was behind the Restriction Motion, despite the fact that the Restriction Motion was filed by separate and distinct legal entities. The Court focused on Mr. Dondero’s role with the Advisors to conclude that the Restriction Motion was brought for an improper purpose, despite the fact that the only evidence before the court was that the decision was made by senior management in consultation with the board of trustees and counsel.<sup>21</sup> Thus, the Court implicitly concluded that the Retail Funds (some of which are publicly-traded, highly-regulated entities) cannot independently decide to pursue action they deem in their best interest.

26. The Court further declared the Restriction Motion frivolous, “almost Rule 11 frivolous,” and as having no statutory or contractual basis.<sup>22</sup> As stated above, these comments were made by the Court regarding a motion that: (a) was filed in good faith by fiduciaries seeking to protect the investments of investors; and (b) cited statutory authority which indisputably provided the Court with the discretion to grant the requested relief therein. While the Court had every right to deny the Restriction Motion, the Court additionally condemned Mr. Dondero, demonstrating that it could not set aside its animus towards Mr. Dondero to consider the separate entities involved and the actual issues being raised.

27. In December of 2020, due to the Court’s denial of the Restriction Motion, K&L Gates, as counsel for the Advisors and the Retail Funds, exchanged correspondence with counsel for Debtor (the “K&L Gates Letters”).<sup>23</sup> The K&L Gates Letters were sent for the following reasons: to reiterate the Advisors’ and the Retail Funds’ objection to the Debtor’s handing of the Retail Funds’ investments; to request, again, that Debtor not liquidate the CLOs; to reserve any rights that the Advisors and the Retail Funds might have against Debtor for failure to maximize the value of the investment as required under the Portfolio Management Agreements; and to notify Debtor that the Retail Funds, subject to applicable bankruptcy law (which would include the stay existing by reason of section 362(a) of the Bankruptcy Code and the Compromise) and the underlying agreements, intended to initiate the procedure to remove Debtor as fund manager of the CLOs.

<sup>22</sup> Id. at 64:1-7 [App. 0506]. The statutory basis for the relief requested was section 363(c)(1) or 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code, which generally provides that a debtor-in-possession may engage in its ordinary course of business, “unless the court orders otherwise.” That was all that was being asked.

28. On January 6, 2021, Debtor filed a complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief against the Advisors and the Retail Funds,<sup>24</sup> claiming that: (a) the Advisors’ purported refusal to book certain trades, which Debtor had, in actuality, already executed outside of the Advisors’ process, interfered with Debtor’s business and, thus, tortiously interfered with the prior sales; and (b) the K&L Gates Letters (i.e., correspondence between counsel) violated the automatic stay.<sup>25</sup> Debtor’s overall theme in the complaint was, because Mr. Dondero allegedly controlled the Retail Funds

(he does not), the Court should presume that Mr. Dondero (rather than the independent board and its independent counsel for the Retail Funds) caused the acts complained of by Debtor (thus enabling the Court to extend the prohibitions it imposed on Mr. Dondero to the Advisors and the Retail Funds). As a result, Debtor sought to enjoin the Advisors and the Retail Funds from, among other things, exercising any contractual rights that they may have had to remove Debtor as portfolio manager (which Debtor was then seeking to assume, and ultimately did assume, under its plan) if the injunction were not granted.

29. On January 26, 2021, the Court commenced the preliminary injunction hearing on the matter (the “Injunction Hearing”).<sup>26</sup> The issue in the Injunction Hearing was whether the Advisors and the Retail Funds tortiously interfered with the Portfolio Management Agreements by: (1) hindering the Debtor’s ability to sell certain CLO assets, (2) threatening to initiate the process for removing the Debtor as the portfolio manager of the CLOs, and (3) otherwise attempting to influence and interfere with the Debtor’s decisions concerning the purchase or sale of any assets on behalf of the CLOs.<sup>27</sup>

30. To obtain such an injunction, Debtor was required to, among other things, prove a substantial likelihood of success on the merits of its tortious interference claim and irreparable harm. However, during the Injunction Hearing, it should have become abundantly clear that there was no need or basis for an injunction, due, in large part, to the Debtor’s concession that it did not have a substantial likelihood of success on the merits via its acknowledgment that the alleged acts of interference did not actually interfere with any contract. In addition:

31. First, Mr. Seery admitted that none of the alleged actions caused Debtor to breach any contract with a third party.<sup>28</sup> Moreover, Debtor could not assert a direct breach of contract claim because: (a) there is no claim for contemplating a prospective breach; and (b) the Advisors and the Retail Funds had no contractual obligation to settle the trade.

32. Second, with respect to “hindering Debtor’s ability to sell certain CLO assets,” Mr. Seery admitted that every trade that he attempted to initiate in December closed.<sup>29</sup> In fact, the trades at issue were executed before Debtor even approached the Advisors, and the only thing that the Advisors did not do in connection with the trades was make a ledger entry booking the sale (which was due to the fact that Debtor had executed the trades outside of the historically-used system).<sup>30</sup> Moreover, Debtor itself had numerous authorized traders whose job was to settle Debtor’s trades. Importantly, the Advisors had no obligation, contractual or otherwise, to perform any service for Debtor.

33. Third, with respect to K&L Gates Letters’ contemplation of future action “to initiate the process for removing the Debtor as portfolio manager:” (a) Debtor admitted that the K&L Gates Letters merely stated that the Advisors and the Retail Funds were “contemplating taking steps to terminate the CLO Agreements;”<sup>31</sup> (b) no steps would be taken without seeking relief from the stay;<sup>32</sup> (c) no action was taken to lift the stay;<sup>33</sup> and (d) no action was taken to remove Debtor as the portfolio manager.<sup>34</sup> Moreover, while the Debtor disputed whether the Advisors' and the Retail Funds' right to terminate Debtor had been triggered, it never undisputed that the Advisors and the Retail Funds, as preferred shareholders, were third party beneficiaries under the Portfolio Management Agreements that, in certain instances, expressly provided them with a right to terminate the Portfolio Manager.<sup>35</sup> Generally, one cannot tortiously interfere by exercising one's own contractual rights.<sup>36</sup>

34. Fourth, while Debtor (no doubt in response to the Court's comments in the January 9, 2020 hearing regarding contempt) claimed that Mr. Dondero caused these issues, the Retail Funds have an independent board of trustees (Mr. Dondero is not a board member).<sup>37</sup> The evidence in the record showed that the decision to send the K&L Gates Letters was made by and in consultation with two national law firms, K&L Gates and Blank Rome.<sup>38</sup> Consequently, Debtor's motion was unnecessary and unwarranted.

35. Nonetheless, during the Injunction Hearing, the Court again turned its focus to Mr. Dondero (rather than the impropriety and groundlessness of Debtor's motion), warning him that the January 9, 2020 order (described above) prohibited him from causing any related entity to terminate an agreement with Debtor. Importantly, the Court made the implied finding that Mr. Dondero caused the Retail Funds to send the K&L Gates Letters despite the fact that it had, in a hearing just a week earlier, sustained Debtor's objections to Mr. Dondero being asked about why the K&L Gates Letters were sent on the grounds that: (a) Mr. Dondero lacked personal knowledge; (b) any answer would be hearsay; and (c) because the K&L Gates Letters (executed by K&L Gates, not Mr. Dondero) speak for themselves.<sup>39</sup> In other words, the Court had to "go behind the letter" (which was sent by K&L Gates) in order to threaten Mr. Dondero with sanctions after the Court's ruling sustaining the objection that the letters speak for themselves. Going further, the Court concluded that it was "leaning" toward finding Mr. Dondero in contempt and shifting the "whole bundle of attorney's fees" to Mr. Dondero as a result of this unwarranted motion filed by Debtor.<sup>40</sup>

3. The January 2021 Examiner Motion

36. Separately, on January 14, 2021, two trusts settled by Mr. Dondero, The Dugaboy Investment Trust and The Get Good Trust (collectively, the "Trusts"), requested the Court exercise its discretion to direct the appointment of a neutral third-party examiner pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1104(c) as a less costly means to resolve various issues that had arisen in this bankruptcy (the “Examiner Motion”).<sup>41</sup> Notably, The Dugaboy Investment Trust also has significant holdings in the CLOs.

37. The Examiner Motion was made in connection with the issues raised by the Advisors and the Retail Funds in the Restriction Motion, various objections to the proposed Plan raised by the Advisors and the Retail Funds and the U.S. Trustee (discussed below), and concerns expressed by the Court about costs and expenses. Moreover, when the Trusts made the Examiner Motion, they believed that the motion would cause delay or a continuance of the confirmation hearing on the Plan (defined below).<sup>42</sup> Notably, despite the Trusts’ request, the Court elected not to set that motion for hearing on an “emergency” basis and, instead, set it for hearing long after the date for confirmation, rendering it moot.

4. The February 2021 Confirmation Hearing

38. On February 2 and 3, 2021, the Court held a hearing on Debtor’s Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) [docket no. 1808], as further modified (the “Plan”). At that hearing, the Advisors and the Retail Funds, pursuant to their rights under the Portfolio Management Agreements, objected to provisions in the Plan that would eliminate or alter their legal and contractual claims against Debtor (the “Objections”).

Additionally, Dondero, the Advisors, and the Retail Funds objected to, among other things, the Plan’s significant release and exculpation provisions for the management of Debtor—including the Independent Directors, Debtor’s professionals, the Committee, professionals retained by the Committee, etc.—and the Plan’s “gatekeeper” provision that prohibited lawsuits against any exculpated party without prior permission from the Court.

39. On February 8, 2021, the Court announced its oral ruling regarding the Plan,<sup>43</sup> in which the Court did not rely solely on evidence in the record in front of it but also referred extensively to proceedings in the Acis Bankruptcy.<sup>44</sup> In its ruling, the Court summarily rejected all of the Objections, decreeing them as bad faith: “[T]he Court questions the good faith of the [the Advisors and the Retail Funds]. In fact, the Court has good reason to believe that these parties are not objecting to protect economic interests they have in the Debtor, but to be disruptors.”<sup>45</sup>

40. The Court stated no basis for its “belief,” but concluded that the other entities objecting to the Plan were “controlled by” Mr. Dondero:<sup>46</sup>

To be clear, the Court has allowed all of these objectors to fully present arguments and evidence in opposition to confirmation, even though their economic interests in the Debtor appear to be extremely remote and the Court questions their good faith. Specifically on that latter point, the Court considers them all to be marching pursuant to the orders of Mr. Dondero.<sup>47</sup>

41. To support its conclusion, the Court disregarded witness testimony on the grounds that the witness had previously been engaged with Debtor:

...While the evidence presented was that they have independent board members that run these companies, the Court was not convinced of their independence from Mr. Dondero.<sup>48</sup> None of the so-called independent board members of these entities have ever testified before the Court. Moreover, they have all been engaged with the Highland complex for many years.

The witness who testified on these Objectors' behalves at confirmation, Mr. Jason Post, their chief compliance officer, resigned from Highland after more than twelve years in October 2020, at the same time that Mr. Dondero resigned or was terminated by Highland. And a prior witness recently for these entities whose testimony was made part of the record at the confirmation hearing essentially testified that Mr. Dondero controlled these entities.<sup>49</sup>

Finally, various NexBank entities objected to the Plan. The Court does not believe they have liquidated claims. Mr. Dondero appears to be in control of these entities as well.<sup>50</sup>

42. The Court then went on to question the good faith basis for the Objections based upon the perceived limited economic interest, despite the fact that each Objector had standing to object, irrespective of the size of their economic interest.<sup>51</sup> Indisputably, a Court must presume that anything filed by a licensed attorney, who is bound by ethical obligations, is filed in good faith unless proved otherwise. Therefore, insinuating a lack of good faith in light of this presumption suggests bias, especially when bad faith was not alleged by another party.

43. Next, even though it had "not been asked to declare Mr. Dondero and his affiliated entities as vexatious litigants per se,”<sup>52</sup> the Court summarily decreed that Mr. Dondero and other Affected Entities were “vexatious litigants”<sup>53</sup> in its ruling and held that objected to “gatekeeper provision “appears necessary and reasonable in light of the litigiousness of Mr. Dondero and his controlled entities that has been described at length herein.”<sup>54</sup>

44. In addition to not tied to evidence in the record from this bankruptcy, this finding of vexatious litigation does not meet the requirements set forth by the Court itself. To enjoin future filings due to vexatious litigation, the bankruptcy court must consider the circumstances of the case, including four factors: (a) the party’s history of litigation; in particular, whether he has filed vexatious, harassing, or duplicative lawsuits; (b) whether the party had a good faith basis for pursuing the litigation, or perhaps intended to harass; (c) the extent of the burden on the courts and other parties resulting from the party’s filings; and (d) the adequacy of alternatives.<sup>55</sup> Here, the factors did not weigh in favor of a vexatious litigation finding, much less even being considered.

45. First, the “litigiousness” described in the Court’s ruling were: (a) efforts taken by Mr. Dondero and other entities in the bankruptcy to defend against injunctions filed against them; (b) legitimate objections or responses to certain provisions in the Plan and other motions, made to preserve rights on appeal; and/or (c) lawsuits in which Mr. Dondero or other entities had been sued and were defending themselves (which, notably, Debtor—after Mr. Dondero relinquished control of same—asserted were not frivolous or vexatious in various disclosures):

- (a) Acis Action, in which Debtor filed a 65-page objection that it described as having “numerous basis” and in which USB filed an objection;<sup>56</sup>
- (b) UBS Action, in which Debtor filed an objection to the claim and stated that it had, “meritorious defenses to most, if not all, of the UBS Claim ...”, [ECF 928] and in which the Redeemer Committee of the Crusader Funds also objected;<sup>57</sup>
- (c) Daugherty Action, in which Debtor asserted that the Daugherty Claim lacked merit;<sup>58</sup> and
- (d) HarbourVest Action, in which Debtor “vigorously defen[d]” the HarbourVest Claims on numerous grounds.<sup>59</sup>

Notably, neither Mr. Dondero nor any of the Affected Entities were parties to these lawsuits.

46. Second, the record actually reflects little, if any, litigation and motion practice initiated by Mr. Dondero, individually, as referenced in the charts attached to this Motion as Exhibits 28 and 29.<sup>60</sup>

47. Third, the Objections were made in good faith.<sup>61</sup> In fact, the U.S. Trustee, whose “good faith basis” was not questioned and who was not labeled a “disruptor,” asserted the some of the same objections to the exact same provisions. This demonstrates that, in fact, the record actually shows that the independent boards of the Advisors and the Retail Funds appropriately exercised their right to object to the Plan to preserve various contractual, due process, and appellate rights.

48. Fourth, the Court failed to address the fourth prong of the test to support a vexatious litigant finding and conducted no analysis or consideration of the burden on the Courts or any purported plaintiff or the adequacy of any alternative to the pre-suit injunction.

49. Consequently, nothing in this the record supports a finding that Mr. Dondero is a vexatious litigant or that any of the Advisors’ or the Retail Funds’ independent board members would disregard their fiduciary duties simply to benefit Mr. Dondero.

50. Fifth, as demonstrated herein, the record reflects that the parties are being judged by two different sets of rules that disadvantage Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities while favoring others. While, for example, as stated above, the Court referred to the Restriction Motion as “almost Rule 11 frivolous,” it has not applied the same level of scrutiny to the pleadings filed and positions taken by Debtor or other parties. This is illustrated by the mandatory injunction filed by Debtor in February 2021 seeking the limited relief of mandating the Advisors and the Retail Funds to express a transition plan after Debtor indisputably terminated the shared services agreements (indicating that it would not be providing services going forward).<sup>62</sup> Despite the fact that the Advisors and the Retail Funds did not contest the termination and had no obligation to share their transition plan with Debtor following its termination of the shared services agreement, and Debtor’s termination of the shared services agreement posed no harm to Debtor. As a result, there was no need for the filing the mandatory injunction—much less a seven-hour evidentiary hearing on the issue.<sup>63</sup>

Nevertheless, the Court, who ruled Debtor's mandatory injunction moot, went beyond the pleadings and relief requested by Debtor to issue findings of fact adverse to Mr. Dondero<sup>64</sup> and, the again, specifically blamed Mr. Dondero.<sup>65</sup>

5. Other Issues Demonstrating Bias.

51. In addition to the examples above, the Court's inability to rule impartially as a result of its preconceived opinion of Mr. Dondero has manifested itself in other ways throughout this case.

52. First, the Court has admitted to relying upon extrajudicial information from an article that referenced "Mr. Dondero or Highland affiliates" receiving PPP loans as a basis for the Court to direct Debtor's counsel in this bankruptcy to investigate the loans and report back to it.<sup>66</sup> Neither Mr. Dondero nor the so-called "Highland affiliates" referred to in the article were the property of or governed by Debtor. In fact, the PPP loans had nothing to do with the Debtor.<sup>67</sup>

53. Second, the Court's bias against Mr. Dondero has prejudiced the legal rights of separate and distinct legal entities simply because such entities have a connection to Mr. Dondero. Specifically, with respect to the Retail Funds, regardless of whether Mr. Dondero purportedly controlled the entities at issue, the record does not reflect that any decision at issue was made other than by a vote of the independent board of trustees (which does not include Mr. Dondero).

54. Likewise, CLO Holdco, which is a wholly owned subsidiary of a charitable Doner Advised Fund (“DAF”) established by Mr. Dondero, has an independent trustee who is a licensed attorney, Grant Scott. CLO Holdco moved to have $2.5 million in funds that indisputably belonged to CLO Holdco released from the registry of the Court. There were no objections to the liquidation at issue. There were no objections that bona fide investors, like CLO Holdco, should not receive their portion of the funds received from the liquidation. The Court admitted that CLO Holdco’s lawyer made “perfect arguments” regarding the potential legal issues and whether “holding the money in the registry of the Court that a non-debtor asserts is its property, is that tantamount to a prejudgment remedy?”<sup>68</sup> Despite these “perfect” arguments and the lack of objection, the Court, again concluded that Mr. Dondero was behind the CLO Holdco filing and, therefore, questioned the “good faith” basis,<sup>69</sup> even though the Court had, prior to that time, expressly stated that the parties reserved all rights to file motions requesting the funds be disbursed to them.<sup>70</sup>

55. The Court gave the UCC 90 days to file a complaint asserting a legal basis to the funds,<sup>71</sup> but held that, it could not continue to withhold the funds from CLO Holdco unless the UCC proved an injunction was required to permit the Court to keep the funds (which would be unlikely because the UCC would be seeking quantifiable, monetary damages). After multiple extensions, the UCC ultimately filed an adversary, but never sought injunctive relief. Still, the Court has not released the funds to CLO Holdco and has relieved the UCC of its burden to establish the elements for injunctive relief.<sup>72</sup>

56. Third, and possibly most concerning, the Court has admitted to forming conclusions about Mr. Dondero prior to even seeing evidence. Specifically, in a September 2020 hearing in the Acis Bankruptcy, an issue arose regarding a lawsuit that certain DAFs and other entities filed against Acis (and other non-Acis or Debtor entities) concerning a post-confirmation dispute. That lawsuit was not pending in this Court or anywhere in the Northern District of Texas; nevertheless, the Court, after admitting to having not seen the lawsuit, declared it vexatious:

It's just ridiculous, for lack of a better term, that Dondero and his entities would be doing some of the things it sounds like they're doing: Suing Moody's, for crying out loud, for not downgrading the Acis CLOs. If Mr. Dondero doesn't think that is so transparently vexatious litigation, yeah, I'm going out there and saying that. I haven't seen it, but, come on.<sup>73</sup>

57. It is the Court's admission that, "I haven't seen it," paired with the finding of the Court that the suit was "transparently vexatious litigation" that illustrates, perhaps most clearly, the increasing need for this Motion.<sup>74</sup>

<sup>72</sup> Needless to say, the Affected Entities and every entity that the Court believes has any affiliation with Mr. Dondero is gun-shy about filing any pleading out of fear of "sanctions" or accusations of "bad faith." Conversely, the UCC, which has not alleged any basis for the Court retaining the $2.5 million, has not been chastised or otherwise threatened.

<sup>73</sup> See September 23, 2020 Transcript at 51:10-16 [APP. 1149], a true and correct copy of which is attached hereto as Ex. 11 [APP. 1099] and incorporated herein by reference; see also Ex. 30.

<sup>74</sup> Notably, the claims against Moody's relating to its ratings concerning the CLOs were the same issues raised in various lawsuits against Moody's following the 2008 crash. The action asserting the claims was initiated by DAF, an independent charity originally funded by Highland Capital. As a primary investor in the ACIS Collateralized Loan Obligations (CLO), the DAF lost almost 80% of its investment in ACIS CLOs as Josh Terry and sub-advisor Bridge circumvented CLO indenture covenants and materially increased the risk in the portfolio. Recently, JP Morgan

D. Recusal is necessary in light of the pending and future issues and proceedings.

58. Importantly, there are numerous adversary proceedings currently pending before this Court that involve Mr. Dondero, individually, or one or more of the Affected Entities (collectively, the “Adversary Proceedings”).<sup>75</sup>

59. The claims in the Adversary Proceedings include various tort and breach of contract claims, claw-back claims, and alter ego claims seeking to hold Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities liable for any recovery ordered as to other entities. In addition, the UCC has indicated that there are more suits to come, and Debtor specifically reserved claims against over five-hundred “Dondero related-entities and current or former employees who will be branded with the “Dondero disciple” moniker. Naturally, each of the Adversary Proceedings will require Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities to take legal positions and defend themselves—actions that this Court has indicated that is predisposed to considering vexatious (and has already threatened large fee shifting awards on preliminary injunction matters, even where a defendant has technically prevailed), even, as stated above, in a situation where the Court had never seen the facts, the claims or the legal highlighted ACIS 3-6 as the worst performing 1094 deals outstanding in 2019 through 2020. This action sought relief from the trustee (US Bank) for failing to properly administer the indenture and from Moody’s for failing to update or suspend ratings given the breaches described above.

theories; or where the Court has not admonished another party for the same position or a similar assertion of its rights.

60. For the reasons stated above, the Court has demonstrated what appears to be a high degree of antagonism toward Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities that has grown to such a point that a reasonable question as to the Court's impartiality has arisen and must be resolved. As a result, Movants respectfully request the Court recuse itself from the Adversary Proceedings.

III. ARGUMENTS & AUTHORITY

61. Section 28 U.S.C. § 455 requires a judge to be recused if the judge "has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party, or personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding,"<sup>76</sup> and when the court's "impartiality might reasonably be questioned."<sup>77</sup> These provisions afford separate, though overlapping, grounds for recusal.<sup>78</sup>

62. Under section 455(a), recusal is required whenever a judge's partiality might reasonably be questioned, even if the judge does not have actual personal bias or prejudice.<sup>79</sup> The test under § 455(a) is not whether the judge believes he or she is capable of impartiality<sup>80</sup> and not whether the judge actually has a bias (or actually knows of grounds requiring recusal).<sup>81</sup> Instead, the test is whether the "average person on the street who knows all the relevant facts of a case" might reasonably question the judge’s impartiality.<sup>82</sup> As Congress recognized when enacting section 455, litigants “ought not have to face a judge where there is a reasonable question of impartiality.”<sup>83</sup> At its core, this statutory provision is “designed to promote public confidence in the impartiality of the judicial process.”<sup>84</sup>

63. The words “prejudice” and “bias” mean a favorable or unfavorable disposition or opinion that is somehow wrongful or inappropriate, either because: (a) it is undeserved; (b) it rests upon knowledge that the holder of the opinion ought not to possess; or (c) it is excessive in degree.<sup>85</sup>

64. Despite holding that “judicial rulings alone almost never constitute a valid basis for a bias or partiality motion,” the Supreme Court has also recognized that predispositions developed during the course of a trial will sometimes suffice.<sup>86</sup>

65. Moreover, while the presence of an extrajudicial source is a factor in favor of finding either an appearance of partiality under section 455(a) or bias or prejudice under section 455(b)(1),<sup>87</sup> an extrajudicial source for a judge’s opinion about a case or a party is not necessary for recusal.<sup>88</sup> In addition, while, ordinarily, “opinions formed by the judge on the basis of facts introduced or events occurring in the course of the current proceedings, or of prior proceedings, do not constitute a basis for a bias or partiality motion,” they “may do so if they reveal an opinion that derives from an

extrajudicial source; and they will do so if they reveal such a high degree of favoritism or antagonism as to make fair judgment impossible.”<sup>89</sup>

66. Mr. Dondero and all other non-debtors, like every litigant, are entitled to a full and fair opportunity to make their case in an impartial forum—regardless of their history with that forum.<sup>90</sup>

Beyond that, “fundamental to the judiciary is the public’s confidence in the impartiality of our judges and the proceedings over which they preside.”<sup>91</sup> “[J]ustice must satisfy the appearance of justice.”<sup>92</sup> Notably, the Fifth Circuit has held that “if the question of whether § 455(a) requires disqualification is a close one, the balance tips in favor of recusal.”<sup>93</sup>

67. Here, the facts detailed above, and incorporated herein, including but not limited to specifically paragraphs 1-60, show that the Court’s conduct in this bankruptcy would lead an objective observer to reasonably question the Court’s impartiality. By way of summary, the Court has:

- (a) admitted that the negative opinions about Mr. Dondero formed during the Acis case cannot be excised from the Court’s mind;
- (b) made repeated reference to proceedings in the Acis case to justify findings made in this case that are not otherwise supported by this record and repeated negative statements about Mr. Dondero in connection with the Court’s rulings;
- (c) repeatedly threatened sanctions on and questioned the good-faith basis Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities, for (i) defending lawsuits and motions; (ii) asserting valid legal positions; and/or (iii) preserving their rights, including in the exact same manner in which others are permitted to do so (e.g., the U.S. Trustee’s objections to the Plan), even declaring Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities as behind “vexatious” litigation the Court admits it has not actually seen; and

- (d) Disregarded the presumption that related corporations of separation have institutional independence and concluded, without supporting evidence from this proceeding, that any entity the Court deems connected to or controlled by Mr. Dondero (i.e., including the highly regulated Affected Entities, which are governed by independent boards) is essentially no more than a tool of Mr. Dondero and that Mr. Dondero is the ultimate decision-maker behind all the motions they file and actions they take in this proceeding;<sup>94</sup> and
- (e) disregarded the testimony of any witness with a connection to Mr. Dondero as per se less credible, which includes attorneys and persons who owe fiduciary duties and ethical obligations.<sup>95</sup>

68. This Motion is not being filed because of prior adverse rulings; or because of any predispositions formed by the Court based upon facts or evidence introduced in the course of the current proceeding; or because of ordinary admonishments from a court to a litigant. Instead, this Motion is being filed because the facts and circumstances, including the non-exhaustive examples described above, reveal a deep-seeded antagonism toward Mr. Dondero and the Affected Entities that goes enough beyond “normal” admonishment as to render fair judgment and impartiality toward Mr. Dondero (and the required perception of same) impossible.

69. Importantly, this Court will sit as both judge and jury in the various Adversary Proceedings

(and any additional ones that are filed) and contested matters in the future, and the Court has demonstrated a willingness to retain jurisdiction whenever possible.<sup>96</sup> In doing so, the Court must, but appears unable to despite best efforts, set aside any prejudice or bias against Mr. Dondero in those proceedings. As demonstrated above, the Court is predisposed against Mr. Dondero (on issues that have not yet been tried and evidence that has never been entered in any proceeding in this bankruptcy) and has already disregarded the corporate separateness between Mr. Dondero and entities—which Mr. Dondero does not control—that are defendants in the Adversary Proceedings.

70. Practically and importantly, the Court’s predisposition against Mr. Dondero (and the Affected Entities), including its prior declarations of vexatiousness (and threats of sanctions) and its questioning of counsels’ good faith in taking legally-supported positions, indisputably threaten the ability of counsel for Mr. Dondero (and the Affected Entities or any entity or person that is perceived to be associated or aligned with Mr. Dondero) to put forward any claim or defense or seek certain relief. In effect, counsel is now forced to choose between: (a) raising an issue to preserve it for appeal and risk sanctions; (b) waiving raising a valid issue to avoid sanctions and, thereby, committing malpractice; or (c) withdrawing from its representation.

71. “It is axiomatic that a fair trial in a fair tribunal is a basic requirement of due process.”<sup>97</sup> As described herein, the cumulative weight of both prejudicial comments and peremptory rulings by the Court demonstrate that the Court appears to have developed a personal bias or prejudice concerning Mr. Dondero (and various entities that the Court has deemed “under his control”) that now render the Court unable to be impartial and render fair judgment related to Mr. Dondero. At a minimum, that is the perception that has been created.<sup>98</sup>

72. As a result, the Court should recuse itself from the Adversary Proceedings, any contested matter involving Mr. Dondero or any of the Affected Entities from acting as the “gatekeeper” in determining whether any future claim by Mr. Dondero (or any of the Affected Entities) is valid.

IV. PRAYER

FOR THE FOREGOING REASONS, Movants respectfully request that the Court recuse itself from the Adversary Proceedings and any future contested matters involving Movants or any entity connected to Mr. Dondero; and grant Movants all other further relief, at law or equity, to which they are justly entitled.

2 THE CLERK: All rise.

3 THE COURT: Please be seated.

4 MR. O'NEILL: Good morning, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Good morning.

6 MR. O'NEILL: James O'Neill, Pachulski Stang Ziehl &
7 Jones, here today on behalf of the debtor, Highland Capital
8 Management. With me, Your Honor, at counsel table is Jeff
9 Pomerantz, Ira Kharasch, John Morris, Greg Demo, and Max
10 Litvak, representing the debtor. Also in the courtroom with 11 us, from our client, Isaac Leventon and Frank Waterhouse and,
12 from DSI, Brad Sharp and Fred Caruso.

13 THE COURT: Welcome.

14 MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, we have a number of matters
15 on the agenda today, but we are going to proceed with item
16 number 12 on the agenda, which is the committee's venue motion.
17 So I will yield the podium to them.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: Good morning.

21 MR. CLEMENTE: Matthew Clemente from Sidley Austin,
22 proposed counsel to the official committee of unsecured
23 creditors. With me here today, my colleagues Dennis Twomey and 24 Penny Reid, along with our co-counsel from Young Conaway, Mike
25 Nestor and Sean Beach.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

11

1           Your Honor, we have filed our venue motion. We
2 believe that venue -- it's appropriate to transfer venue to the 3 bankruptcy court in the District of Texas for the reasons that
4 we laid out in the motion. Based on Your Honor's --
5 discussions with Your Honor this morning, we understand that we 6 would proceed with what I believe would be a short proffer from 7 the debtor, we would have an opportunity to cross, and then we 8 would proceed to argument from there. If that's acceptable to 9 Your Honor, that's --

10           THE COURT: That's fine. Thank you.

11           MR. CLEMENTE: -- that's the way we'd proceed.

12           THE COURT: Yes.

13           MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

14           MR. POMERANTZ: Good morning, Your Honor. Jeff
15 Pomerantz, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, on behalf of the 16 debtor. We'd also like at this time, Your Honor, to move into 17 evidence Exhibits A through U, except for Exhibit G. Exhibit G
18 is one of those documents that we refer to in chambers as would 19 be subject to seal. We don't need to refer to it in connection
20 with the venue motion. But if Your Honor would like, I can 21 approach with a binder containing the --

22           THE COURT: Yeah, I don't have those.

23           MR. POMERANTZ: -- exhibits. There have been no
24 objections to them.

25           MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, if Mr. Sharp were called

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

12

1 to testify, he would testify --

2 THE COURT: Hang --

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Oh, sorry.

4 THE COURT: Hang on. Okay.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay.

6 THE COURT: Look at the documents. It's the first
7 I've seen them.

8 (Pause)

9 THE COURT: So you're moving A through U, except for 10 G?

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Correct, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Any objection?

13 MR. CLEMENTE: Sorry, Your Honor, one --

14 THE COURT: No; yeah, that's fine.

15 MR. CLEMENTE: No objection, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: All right, they're admitted without 17 objection, other than G. G is not admitted at this time.

18 (Debtors' Exhibits A through U, except for Exhibit G, were 19 hereby received into evidence, as of this date.)

20 THE COURT: All right, you may proceed with the 21 proffer.

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

23 If Mr. Sharp were called to testify, he would testify
24 that he is the proposed chief restructuring officer of the 25 debtor; he's also the president of Development Specialists,

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 Inc., a financial advisory firm. He would testify that he's
2 been a restructuring professional with over twenty-five years
3 of experience as a trustee, a chief restructuring officer, and 4 a financial advisor, in a myriad of industries. He would
5 testify that he has been appointed as chief restructuring
6 officer in four cases in Delaware, including In re Variant
7 before Judge Shannon, In re Woodbridge before Judge Carey, In 8 re WL Homes before Judge Shannon, and In re Beverly Hills
9 Bancorp before Judge Carey.

10 He would testify that he has a national practice, he's 11 physically headquartered in Los Angeles, and it would be as 12 convenient for him to travel to this court in Delaware than it
13 would be for him to travel to Dallas. He would testify that 14 the debtor's counsel, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, has 15 offices in Delaware and, if the case were transferred, the 16 debtor would need to retain local counsel in Dallas.

17 He would testify that he was initially engaged by the 18 debtor on October 7, 2019 and that, prior to his engagement as 19 a CRO, he had no prior involvement with Highland or any of its 20 senior management employees or principals. He would testify
21 that he was introduced to Highland by Pachulski Stang Ziehl &
22 Jones.

23 He would testify that, since his engagement, he and 24 his colleague, Fred Caruso, who functions as an extension of 25 him in his role as chief restructuring officer, and other

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 employees of DSI have devoted themselves to learning about the
2 debtor's business and financial affairs, knowledge that only
3 increases as the days go by. He would testify that he and 4 others from DSI have spent hundreds of hours meeting with 5 various employees of the debtor and reviewing and accessing the 6 debtor's books and records. He would testify that he's been 7 given complete access to a wealth of information by the debtor,
8 and nothing he or his team have requested from the debtor have 9 been withheld by them.

10 He would testify that the debtor's a limited
11 partnership organized under the laws of Delaware and that the 12 debtor's general partner, Strand Advisors, is a corporation
13 organized under Delaware law as well, and Strand is the manager
14 of the debtor. He would testify that over ninety-nine percent
15 of the debtor's limited partnerships are held by Delaware
16 entities.

17 He would testify that the debtor owns and manages a
18 sophisticated financial-advisory-services and money-management
19 business that has assets and interests all over the world; that 20 the debtor's assets under management, including its own
21 proprietary assets and those of its clients, through various 22 related parties, exist in the United States, Asia, South
23 America, and Europe.

24 He would testify that the debtor has over two-and-a-
25 half billion dollars of assets under management and receives

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 management and advisory fees from a multitude of sources around
2 the world. He would also testify that the debtor provides
3 shared services for approximately 7.5 billion of assets managed
4 by a variety of affiliated and unaffiliated entities, including
5 other affiliated registered investment advisors.

6 He would testify that although the debtor is based in 7 Dallas, the debtor's affiliates and related parties maintain
8 offices or have personnel in many international locales,
9 including Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Singapore, and Seoul.
10 He would testify that the debtor owns and manages targeted
11 funds in Korea, South America, and Singapore.

12 He would testify that the debtor's filed the motion
13 that's pending today to appoint him as foreign representative
14 in order to manage certain foreign interests, including those 15 proceedings pending in Bermuda and Cayman. He would testify
16 that the principal assets in the United States consist of 17 custodial and noncustodial interests and investments located
18 all over the country, and that the debtor's prime brokerage 19 account that holds the bulk of the debtor's liquid assets is 20 located in New York City with Jefferies.

21 He would testify the debtor owes approximately 30
22 million dollars to Jefferies on account of margin obligations
23 that are secured by the securities in the prime account, and 24 that the debtor's other principal secured creditor, Frontier
25 State Bank, is based in Oklahoma City and is owed approximately

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

16

1 5.2 million dollars as of the petition date.

2 He would testify that one aspect of the debtor's
3 business is management advisory services in connection with 4 various investments and collateralized loan obligations, or
5 "CLOs", and that the debtor previously provided submanager,
6 subadvisory, and shared services to Acis CLOs pursuant to 7 certain contractual agreements that were terminated during the 8 course of Acis' bankruptcy in or around August 2018. He would 9 testify that he's informed and believes that the compensation
10 structure for subadvisory and shared-service agreements is 11 different for CLOs than with other types of private equity or 12 hedge funds that the debtor manages.

13 He will testify that a focus of DSI's efforts in this
14 case will be to evaluate the appropriateness and the economics
15 of the shared-service agreements and subadvisory agreements
16 that the debtor's a party to with both affiliated and 17 unaffiliated third parties, and he would determine what 18 modifications are appropriate given the facts and 19 circumstances.

20 He would testify that, since the petition date and, he 21 believes, since August 2018, the debtor has not had any direct 22 business dealings with respect to Acis or the CLO assets for 23 which Acis serves as CLO manager, and that the debtor no longer
24 advises or subadvise any active CLOs; the debtor only has CLOs
25 that are in liquidation and in the process of monetizing their

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 underlying assets and paying off their remaining investors'
2 revenues that will decrease over time; and that the CLO portion
3 of the debtor's business provides just ten percent of the 4 debtor's revenue, which, again, will shrink over time.

5 He would testify that the debtor derives ninety
6 percent of its other revenue from managing asset classes that
7 have nothing to do with Acis, including private equity, hedge
8 fund, mutual funds, open-ended retail funds, and real-estate
9 funds.

10 He would testify that the debtors and Acis assert
11 various substantial disputed and unliquidated claims against 12 each other, and the debtor has outstanding claims against Acis
13 that total no less than eight million dollars for services
14 rendered. He would testify that the debtor and Acis have been,
15 and continue to be, involved in highly contentious litigation,
16 including matters that are subject to multiple appeals from the 17 bankruptcy court and pending fraudulent-transfer claims brought 18 by Acis against the debtor, in Texas. He would testify the 19 debtor is currently supporting two pending appeals of orders of 20 the Texas bankruptcy court, granting the involuntary petition
21 against Acis and confirming Acis' Chapter 11 plan that put Mr.
22 Terry in charge of Acis.

23 He would testify that, although he serves subject to 24 the debtor's ability to terminate him, he has full
25 responsibility with respect to analyzing and pursuing insider

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 transactions and is in charge of the debtor's restructuring
2 efforts, and that he has no prior relationship with either Acis
3 or the Texas bankruptcy court with respect to this matter. He 4 would testify that his goal in this case is to maximize the 5 value of the debtor's estate for the benefit of all
6 constituents, and he intends to evaluate all available
7 strategic options for accomplishing the goal, and hopes to work
8 constructively with the committee in that regard.

9 He believes that the outcome of this case will not 10 turn on the day-to-day management of the debtor's assets but 11 instead will be driven by the debtor's ability to restructure
12 its balance sheet and maximize the value of its assets, many of 13 which are liquid. He would testify that either he or Fred
14 Caruso would provide substantially all the testimony that would 15 be provided for the debtor in this case.

16 Lastly, he would testify that he's been on the job for 17 over a month-and-a-half, that the debtor has been following the 18 protocols set out in the motion for which approval is being
19 sought today. He would testify the debtor's being transparent
20 with the creditors' committee, has met with and communicated
21 with FTI on many occasions, and shared a lot of information.
22 And he would testify that there have been no allegations made
23 by the committee or any other party, regarding any post-
24 petition impropriety by the debtor.

25 That concludes my proffer of Mr. Sharp's testimony.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 THE COURT: All right, thank you very much.

2 Does anyone wish to cross-examine the witness?

3 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Yes, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Yes?

5 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Yeah.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MS. REID: Yes, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Mr. Sharp, would you please take the 9 stand? And remain standing for your affirmation.

10 THE CLERK: Would you step up to the stand, please?
11 Raise your right hand.

12 (Witness affirmed)

13 THE CLERK: Please state and spell your name for the 14 record.

15 THE WITNESS: Bradley Sharp, B-R-A-D-L-E-Y; last name, 16 S-H-A-R-P.

17 THE CLERK: Thank you.

18 THE COURT: Very good.

19 MS. REID: Good morning, Your Honor. Penny Reid on 20 behalf of the creditors' committee.

21 THE COURT: Good morning.

22 Mr. Sharp, just -- you look like a veteran, but if you
23 could stay close to the microphone, I'd appreciate it.

24 THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

25 THE COURT: Thank you.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

20

1 CROSS-EXAMINATION

2 BY MS. REID:

3 Q. Mr. Sharp, you've only met Mr. Dondero once; correct?

4 A. That is correct.

5 Q. And that was in Dallas; correct?

6 A. That is correct.

7 Q. And your team has been at the debtor's offices; correct?

8 A. Yes.

9 Q. And worked over a hundred hours at the debtor's offices;
10 correct?

11 A. Yes.

12 Q. And that's all been in Dallas; correct?

13 A. Yes.

14 Q. Your team has not been to a New York office; has it?

15 A. No.

16 Q. Has your team -- your team has not been to Korea; has it?

17 A. No.

18 Q. Your team has not been to Singapore; has it?

19 A. With respect to this engagement, no.

20 Q. Okay. And you haven't met any employees in the Singapore
21 office; have you?

22 A. No.

23 Q. And under this proposed engagement, you're going to report
24 to Mr. Dondero; correct?

25 A. Yes.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 MS. REID: We will reserve our rights to further
2 question him on the other issues, non-venue issues.

3 THE COURT: Of course.

4 MR. SHAW: Good morning, Your Honor. Brian Shaw on 5 behalf of Acis Capital Management, a creditor.

6 THE COURT: Yes, Mr. Shaw, you may proceed.

7 CROSS-EXAMINATION

8 BY MR. SHAW:

9 Q. Mr. Sharp, you were hired nine days before the bankruptcy
10 petition was filed in this case; correct?

11 A. Correct.

12 Q. Other than the retention of DSI, are there any other new 13 managers at the debtor, that didn't exist prior to the 14 bankruptcy filing?

15 MR. MORRIS: Objection. Beyond the scope, Your Honor.
16 This should be a traditional cross.

17 THE COURT: You're going to need to find a microphone
18 or talk into one that's in front of you.

19 MR. MORRIS: John Morris, Pachulski Stang Ziehl &
20 Jones, for the debtor.

21 This line of questioning is beyond the scope. This 22 should be a traditional cross. The moving parties have called 23 no witnesses, as Your Honor is aware.

24 THE COURT: Well, they reserved the right to call
25 witnesses based on what you did in your direct. So I'm not

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

22

1 going to hold them to technicalities.

2 You may proceed.

3 MR. SHAW: Thank you, Judge.

4 THE COURT: Do you remember the question, Mr. Shaw?

5 THE WITNESS: I do.

6 A. Not that I'm aware of.

7 Q. Okay. So other than -- so DSI is the only difference pre-
8 petition and post-petition; is that right?

9 A. With respect to management. Obviously, the company's now
10 operating in bankruptcy, which is significantly different.

11 Q. You testified, in your proffer, regarding the provision of 12 shared services and subadvisory to Acis; do you remember that 13 proffer your counsel commented about?

14 A. I do.

15 Q. And one of the core parts of the debtor's business is the 16 provision of shared services and subadvisory services to 17 affiliates and nonaffiliates; right?

18 A. Yes.

19 Q. Okay. And so that was true for Acis and it's true for 20 current affiliates of the debtor; right?

21 A. Yes, except for, you know, Acis was primarily CLOs, which 22 is a reducing part of the debtor's business.

23 Q. Do you have any reason to believe that the Northern 24 District of Texas cannot hear this case expeditiously and 25 fairly?

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

23

1 A. No.

2 MR. SHAW: Pass the witness.

3 THE COURT: Any other cross-examination?

4 Hearing none, any -- redirect; that's what it's

5 called. There we go.

6 MR. MORRIS: No, thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, sir. You may step

8 down.

9 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

10 THE COURT: Any further evidence by any party, in 11 connection with the venue motion only?

12 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, I believe we would like to 13 call Mr. Waterhouse to the stand to testify in connection with 14 the venue motion briefly.

15 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Waterhouse. I thought

16 we -- there we go. If you could please take the stand as well,

17 sir, and remain standing.

18 MR. GUERKE: May it please the Court. Good morning,

19 Your Honor. Kevin Guerke on behalf of the creditors'

20 committee.

21 THE CLERK: Please raise your right hand.

22 (Witness affirmed)

23 THE CLERK: Please state and spell your name for the

24 record.

25 THE WITNESS: Yes; it's Frank Waterhouse, F-R-A-N-K,

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 W-A-T-E-R-H-O-U-S-E.

2 THE CLERK: Thank you.

3 THE COURT: Thank you. Please be seated and try to 4 remain close to the microphone, if you would, please. It's a
5 little awkward here.

6 You may proceed.

7 DIRECT EXAMINATION

8 BY MR. GUERKE:

9 Q. Mr. Waterhouse, you've worked for the debtor, Highland 10 Capital Management, L.P., since 2006; correct?

11 A. Yes.

12 Q. You started there as a senior accountant; right?

13 A. That is correct.

14 Q. You were promoted to chief financial officer at the end of 15 2011; correct?

16 A. Yes.

17 Q. That's the title that you hold today; right?

18 A. Yes.

19 Q. You also currently hold the title of partner; right?

20 A. Yes.

21 Q. You were made partner three or four years ago; correct?

22 A. Yes. I mean, I don't remember the exact time but, yeah,
23 approximately three or four years ago.

24 Q. You are an officer in Highland Affiliates; correct?

25 A. Yes.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 Q. James Dondero is the president of Highland Capital
2 Management, L.P.; right?

3 A. Yes.

4 Q. Mr. Dondero owns and controls Highland's general partner,
5 Strand Advisors, Inc.; right?

6 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm just going to object for 7 the record. This is supposed to be a rebuttal witness. This 8 isn't rebutting anything; it's just new facts --

9 THE COURT: He's laying

10 MR. MORRIS: -- that they're seeking --

11 THE COURT: I'm sure he's laying foundation.

12 MR. GUERKE: I am, Your Honor. It's background, it's 13 foundation. It has to go (sic) with the organizational 14 structure.

15 THE COURT: That's fine. Objection overruled.

16 Q. Mr. Waterhouse, Mr. Dondero owns and control Highland's
17 general partner, Strand Advisors, Inc.; correct?

18 A. I don't remember his exact title but, yes, he is 19 president.

20 Q. He owns a hundred percent of the equity in Strand; right?

21 A. Yes.

22 Q. He also has a limited-partnership interest in Highland;
23 correct?

24 A. That is correct.

25 Q. Mr. Dondero's the portfolio manager of all Highland funds;

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

26

1 right?

2 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

3 THE COURT: Overruled.

4 You can answer.

5 A. Yes, he -- he is the portfolio manager or the -- or a co-
6 portfolio manager. We have several funds. I -- I -- I can't 7 recall if he is the sole portfolio manager on every single fund
8 or -- but he -- he -- but yes, he is -- he is a portfolio
9 manager.

10 Q. As the president of Highland, Mr. Dondero promoted you to 11 CFO back in 2011; right?

12 A. Yes. My -- my promotion was recommended by the -- the 13 former CFO and, as president, Mr. Dondero had to, you know, 14 obviously, approve that taking.

15 Q. You report to Mr. Dondero; right?

16 A. Yes.

17 Q. He's your boss; correct?

18 A. Yes.

19 Q. And after the transition period from the old CFO to you,
20 you've reported only to Mr. Dondero; right?

21 A. That is correct.

22 Q. After the bankruptcy was filed, you still report to Mr.
23 Dondero; right?

24 A. Yes.

25 Q. And Mr. Dondero doesn't report to anyone; correct?

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

27

1 A. Yeah, not -- not to my knowledge. Yeah, it's correct.

2 Q. Mr. Dondero has the ability to terminate you; right?

3 A. Again, I -- I assume so. Again, I think I -- I testified
4 earlier last week, I -- I -- I -- you know, again, I don't know
5 through this process -- again, I'm not -- bankruptcy is not
6 something that I -- I am, you know, a specialist. I'm not a
7 bankruptcy attorney. But maybe the CRO can, or Jim, or 8 something in -- in conjunction. But I think, theoretically,
9 yes.

10 Q. Post-bankruptcy, you don't report to Bradley Sharp; right?

11 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. Same objection:
12 beyond the scope.

13 THE COURT: Overruled.

14 A. I do not.

15 Q. Post-bankruptcy, you don't report to Fred Caruso; correct?

16 A. I do not.

17 Q. Mr. Sharp doesn't have the power to terminate your 18 employment; right?

19 A. Again, I'll --

20 THE COURT: Actually, he already answered that 21 question; said he wasn't sure.

22 Q. Mr. Waterhouse, there are six groups below Mr. Dondero in 23 Highland's organizational chart; correct?

24 A. Give or -- give or take.

25 Q. The heads of those groups are the executive-level

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

28

1 management employees that you describe in your declaration that
2 was submitted in association with the first-day motions; right?

3 A. Yes.

4 Q. You manage one of those teams; correct?

5 A. Yes.

6 Q. Your team is made up of the corporate accounting folks,
7 Funding Accounting, the tax group, Valuation, Operations,
8 Retail Fund Operations, Human Resources, and IT; right?

9 A. That -- that is correct.

10 Q. The other Highland teams are the legal-compliance team --
11 correct?

12 A. Yes.

13 Q. The credit-research team; right?

14 A. Yes.

15 Q. Public-relations team; correct?

16 A. Yes.

17 Q. Private-equity team; right?

18 A. Yes.

19 Q. And the trading team; true?

20 A. Yes.

21 Q. The heads of each one of those groups report up to Mr.
22 Dondero; isn't that true?

23 A. Yes, and we -- we -- well, and we also -- and -- but we 24 have a risk-management team as well, at Highland. That -- that 25 risk-management team reports up through the trading team.

1 Q. As the CFO, your office is in Dallas, Texas; right?

2 A. Yes. My -- yes, we office in -- or my office is in 3 Dallas, Texas.

4 Q. That's been the location of your office since you joined 5 Highland; correct?

6 A. My current location in Dallas, Texas, is not the same as 7 it was when I joined Highland Capital in October of 2006.

8 Q. You started in 2006 and your office was in Dallas; right?

9 A. Well, my offices were in Dallas but it was not at the same
10 location as we are currently.

11 Q. Your current offices are also in Dallas; right?

12 A. Yes, their address is in Dallas, Texas.

13 Q. Over seventy Highland employees work out of Highland's
14 Dallas office; right?

15 A. Yes.

16 Q. Dallas is the only location where Debtor Highland 17 employees work; correct?

18 A. Yes.

19 Q. Mr. Dondero's office is in Dallas; true?

20 A. Yes.

21 Q. Members of the legal team have offices in Dallas; right?

22 A. Yes.

23 Q. You meet with Mr. Dondero at a minimum of once a week;
24 correct?

25 A. Yes, give or take.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

30

1 Q. Usually those meetings are in his office in Dallas; right?

2 A. Yes.

3 Q. All the group heads that we just discussed all have 4 offices in Dallas; right?

5 A. Yes. We used to -- our -- our risk-management team used
6 to be officed in New York. But yes, we -- we -- yes.

7 Q. You mentioned New York. There's a location in New York
8 that we discussed at your deposition; do you remember that?

9 A. Yes.

10 Q. That office in New York is not in Highland -- the debtor's
11 name; true?

12 A. That is correct.

13 Q. It's in another nondebtor-entity name; correct?

14 A. Yes.

15 Q. There are no Highland employees in that New York location;
16 correct?

17 A. That is correct.

18 Q. In the proffer that you just heard, and at your 19 deposition, there was some discussion about offices outside of 20 the United States. Do you recall that?

21 A. Yes.

22 Q. The people who work in those locations are not employees
23 of the debtor, Highland Capital Management, L.P.; right?

24 A. That's right.

25 Q. The offices outside the U.S. are subsidiary offices with

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

31

1 subsidiary employees; correct?

2 A. That is correct.

3 Q. You've never been to those offices; right?

4 A. I have not.

5 Q. You have members of team who include David Klos, Clifford
6 Stoops, and some other folks; right?

7 A. Yes.

8 Q. You have standing weekly meetings with those folks --

9 THE COURT: All right --

10 Q. -- right?

11 THE COURT: -- I'm going to reprimand -- this is well
12 beyond -- I was giving you some leeway but, if this is what you
13 wanted to put on -- it's your motion, sir. I mean, this is --
14 you're laying your foundation in your case-in-chief. Why 15 didn't you put this on to begin with?

16 MR. GUERKE: Your Honor, it's rebuttal to the proffer
17 that Mr. Sharp just offered.

18 THE COURT: In what way?

19 MR. GUERKE: Related to the organizational structure
20 and how decisions are made currently at the debtor.

21 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may. I don't believe
22 any aspect of the proffer went to the location of decision-
23 making.

24 THE COURT: Would you like to reply to that?

25 MR. GUERKE: Yes. The proffer was made that decisions

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 are made in California and around the country, and around the
2 world I believe. And this evidence rebuts that; that the 3 organizational structure and the day-to-day operations are 4 still run in Dallas, Texas, as they were before bankruptcy.

5 And, Your Honor, I have three questions, then I'll sit
6 down.

7 THE COURT: Okay. All right, I'll allow it.

8 Q. When you meet with people on your team that we just 9 identified, you meet with them in Dallas; correct?

10 A. That's correct.

11 MR. GUERKE: Those are my only questions. Thank you,
12 Mr. Waterhouse.

13 THE COURT: All right.

14 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

15 THE COURT: That was direct. Any further direct?

16 Yes, sir.

17 MR. SHAW: Real briefly, Your Honor.

18 DIRECT EXAMINATION

19 BY MR. SHAW:

20 Q. Mr. Waterhouse, as the CFO of the debtor, were you aware 21 that the debtor intended to file bankruptcy prior to the 22 filing?

23 MR. MORRIS: Objection. Beyond the scope.

24 MR. SHAW: Judge, we designated any witness that they 25 designated, so I don't know that we necessarily have called --

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

33

1 THE COURT: Well, yeah, but it's your motion --

2 MR. SHAW: Correct.

3 THE COURT: -- and you declined to put any evidence on 4 in support of your motion. They then put on evidence in 5 opposition to your motion. So you're limited, sir, to 6 rebutting the evidence they put on. You had your chance to 7 make your case-in-chief; you decided not to do it. It's not my 8 fault.

9 MR. SHAW: My understanding was that we were -- that,
10 depending upon what the proffer was, which we -- we're not
11 aware of what the proffer was before today, that we reserved
12 the right to call Mr. Waterhouse, which I understood from our 13 chambers conference is what we exercised that right to do. If 14 I misunderstood how procedurally we were going about it,
15 then --

16 THE COURT: Well, I don't understand how -- that 17 doesn't make any sense to me. You get a free shot to hear
18 their case first, and then you get to make your direct case?
19 Why would I allow that? It's your motion.

20 MR. SHAW: Understood.

21 THE COURT: All right, so let's stick to rebutting 22 what they put on.

23 MR. SHAW: Okay.

24 THE COURT: I gave a lot of leeway to your colleague;
25 I'll give you leeway. But I don't really want to sit through

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 forty-five minutes of direct that you could have done in the
2 first place.

3 MR. SHAW: And I promise you, I have a very few
4 limited questions.

5 THE COURT: All right.

6 BY MR. SHAW:

7 Q. With regard -- where is Mr. Dondero today?

8 A. I don't know.

9 Q. For the shared services and subadvisory services that the 10 debtor previously provided Acis -- are you aware of those?

11 A. I'm aware of them generally.

12 Q. All right. Have you ever reviewed the shared-services and 13 subadvisory agreements between Acis and Highland?

14 A. I'm sure I reviewed them at -- at some point, but I
15 honestly can't recall.

16 Q. How are those agreements different than the shared-
17 services and subadvisory agreements currently between the 18 debtor and various affiliates?

19 MR. MORRIS: Objection. No foundation.

20 MR. SHAW: It's directly relevant to -- the foundation
21 being he said he's aware of them. I --

22 MR. MORRIS: The witness just testified that he's not
23 familiar with them as he sits here --

24 THE COURT: I can't hear you.

25 MR. MORRIS: The witness just testified that he's not

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

35

1 familiar with them as he sits here today. He may have seen
2 them in some -- at some point in the past.

3 THE COURT: Well, he can qualify the answer further.
4 Overruled.

5 You can answer.

6 A. You know, again, I -- I don't -- I don't know. I don't 7 have the documents in front of me. I -- I -- like I said, I'm
8 generally aware of -- of the Acis agreements. You know, I
9 don't have these agreements memorized to any certain degree, so
10 I -- I -- I -- I don't know specifically.

11 Q. As -- you're familiar with the -- as the CFO, with the 12 shared-services and subadvisory agreements that govern the 13 seven billion dollars in assets under management that the 14 debtor provides for affiliates and nonaffiliates; right?

15 A. Yes, I'm generally aware of those agreements.

16 Q. And are those agreements typical in form? Do they differ
17 widely in their content?

18 A. Again, I don't know -- I mean, they -- they can. Again,
19 it -- it depends on the nature of the services. And -- you
20 know, it -- there isn't a standard template, I would say, for 21 shared services. Yes, they can differ. As I said, I don't 22 have those agreements memorized, so I can't speak as to how 23 they are similar or how they are not.

24 MR. SHAW: Pass the witness.

25 THE COURT: Thank you.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 I guess it'll be cross of your own witness. Any 2 cross?

3 MR. MORRIS: No, thank you, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: All right, sir, thank you. Mr.
5 Waterhouse, you may step down.

6 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

7 THE COURT: You're welcome.

8 Any further evidence?

9 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, as I referenced, we just have 10 some exhibits; I believe these to be the unobjected-to pieces
11 of it. We -- Acis provided a witness-and-exhibit list. These 12 are the unobjected-to exhibits, and we would just move them in.
13 And --

14 THE COURT: Is this the ones I already have?

15 MS. PATEL: No, Your Honor. I believe you only have 16 the debtor's.

17 THE COURT: Yeah.

18 MS. PATEL: And I will apologize, Your Honor; we've 19 given debtors a copy of the exhibits. Our -- there was 20 miscommunication. They are not bound.

21 THE COURT: That's fine.

22 MS. PATEL: But they are numbered.

23 THE COURT: All right.

24 MS. PATEL: If I may approach?

25 THE COURT: Yes. Please don't hurt yourself. It's a

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

37

1 bit of a mess there.

2 MS. PATEL: There's a little trash back here.

3 THE COURT: These are all not objected to; is that
4 correct?

5 MS. PATEL: (Indiscernible), Your Honor, but I go
6 through them.

7 THE COURT: Are they -- okay.

8 MS. PATEL: What I've handed the Court and to opposing 9 counsel are Exhibits 1 -- Acis Exhibits 1 through 18, with the 10 exclusion of Exhibit 3 and Exhibit 9, which were objected to;
11 and then also Exhibit Numbers 24 and 25, which were not
12 objected to. We do have one additional exhibit, Your Honor, 13 that was objected to, that I would like to move in.

14 THE COURT: All right. Is there any objection to the 15 admission of the documents that counsel has represented there's 16 no objection to?

17 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Okay. They are admitted without 19 objection.

20 (Acis' Exhibits 1 through 18, with the exception of Nos. 3
21 and 9; and Exhibits 24 and 25, were hereby received into 22 evidence, as of this date.)

23 MS. PATEL: If I may approach, Your Honor?

24 THE COURT: Yes.

25 Thank you.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

38

1 MS. PATEL: And, Your Honor, my co-counsel will handle
2 that -- will handle it since we -- this was a late objection
3 and he prepared with respect to this; I prepared with respect
4 to argument.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 Yes, sir.

7 MR. CLEMENTE: I believe there's a hearsay objection
8 regarding this.

9 MR. MORRIS: Relevance and hearsay, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, I'll address hearsay first.
12 Federal Rule of Evidence 807 is a residual exception to the 13 hearsay rule; provides that a hearsay statement is admissible
14 if the statement is supported by sufficient guarantees of 15 trustworthiness, after considering the totality of the 16 circumstances under which it was made and evidence, if any,
17 corroborating the statement, and (2) it is more probative on 18 the point for which it is offered, than any other evidence that 19 the proponent can obtain through reasonable efforts.

20 This is an email exchange between counsel for Acis and 21 the courtroom deputy for Judge Jernigan, just requesting and 22 ask -- inquiring about the court's availability. Everything
23 about that email supports the fact that it is -- that it is 24 authentic and that there's no question about whether or not it
25 is -- it's trustworthy. How would we put on evidence of

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 whether or not Judge Jernigan in the Northern District of Texas
2 has sufficient time to hear these numerous motions that are
3 set, other than by providing something like this? I mean, we 4 can't call or depose the courtroom deputy or the judge. So
5 based upon that, also -- there also is an exception, under the 6 hearsay rule, to a public record. I think this also falls
7 within that exception to the rule. So for that reason, we 8 don't believe the hearsay objection is proper.

9 As far as relevance, it goes to the argument about 10 transfer and whether or not the transferee court can 11 expeditiously hear the matter. And that's one of the elements
12 and one of the core questions about judicial efficiency.

13 So for those reasons, we believe that the objections
14 are not well-founded and we offer this exhibit. And it's 15 Exhibit 26.

16 THE COURT: Reply?

17 MR. MORRIS: Briefly, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Yes.

19 MR. MORRIS: I'm not aware of any case where a court
20 has ever considered, let alone decided, a venue motion on the 21 availability of another court's time. So I don't think it's 22 relevant at all. I do think it's an out-of-court statement
23 being offered for the truth of the matter asserted, and I do
24 believe it's hearsay.

25 MR. CLEMENTE: It most certainly is hearsay, Judge;

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 just to respond. But the question is not whether it's hearsay
2 but whether it's admissible. And of course the Court is well
3 aware that hearsay can be admissible, and one of the exceptions
4 is the exception that I outlined.

5 THE COURT: All right, I'll overrule the objection and 6 admit the document. It is hearsay but it clearly meets the 7 reliability aspects for the exception to hearsay. With regard
8 to the relevance, I think its relevance is very -- well, let me
9 put it this way; I think it's tangentially relevant. I mean,
10 it certainly is relevant whether the Northern District of Texas
11 has the ability to handle the case were it transferred there.
12 To me that's -- I don't even think that's disputed, I mean,
13 it's obvious, it's a fantastic bankruptcy court. They're more
14 than capable of handling it. So I -- it's probably 15 duplicative, if nothing else.

16 Also, it's very carefully written so that you don't 17 actually identify what case you're talking about. So whether 18 the courtroom deputy realized what you were saying or not 19 saying with regard to this specific motion is obviously 20 unclear. But I will allow it for very limited purposes.

21 (Email exchange between Acis' counsel and Hon. Jernigan's
22 courtroom deputy was hereby received into evidence as Acis'
23 Exhibit 26, for the stated limited purposes, as of this date.)

24 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Any other evidence?

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 I'm going to -- all right, last chance. I'm going to
2 close the evidentiary record.

3 All right, the evidentiary record's closed. Let's
4 take a short recess; then I'll hear argument. We will start
5 with the movants and their supporters, and then we'll turn it
6 over to the debtor. Okay? We'll take a short recess.

7 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Thank you, Your Honor.

8 (Recess at 10:48 a.m. until 11:05 a.m.)

9 THE COURT: Be seated. Sorry about the delay. We had 10 some computer difficulties. But they're all ironed out.

11 You may proceed.

12 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor. Again, Matthew 13 Clements from Sidley Austin, on behalf of the committee.

14 Your Honor, to begin, everything we rely on in our 15 venue argument is uncontested and uncontroverted and is in the 16 record that either the debtor's exhibits or the Asic's (sic)
17 exhibits or the record of this case, or published opinions of 18 the Dallas bankruptcy court, and which Your Honor can take 19 judicial notice of -- we believe that that record more than 20 amply carries our evidentiary burden with respect to the venue
21 motion.

22 With respect to the Sharp proffer, Your Honor, it
23 attempted to create the appearance of a debtor with operations
24 in far-flung jurisdictions, employees at nondebtor entities
25 that may be located in places other than Dallas, offices that

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 may be in New York that aren't actually debtor offices. And
2 the testimony of Mr. Waterhouse rebutted that and made clear
3 that the debtor has no employees other than in Dallas and that
4 Mr. Dondero makes all of the decisions, and he is in Dallas.
5 The nerve center of this debtor is in Dallas. And we wanted to 6 make that clear, Your Honor, after the proffer, the rebuttal,
7 and the evidentiary record. We believe that the evidentiary
8 record is largely uncontroverted with respect to the arguments
9 that we're going to be made (sic) in our venue motion, and that 10 Mr. Sharp's testimony has been effectively rebutted.

11 With that, Your Honor, we believe that this case is 12 atypical and presents a set of unique facts which we believe 13 are uncontroverted, that warrant transfer of venue to the 14 Dallas bankruptcy court. And frankly, Your Honor, it does beg
15 the question as to why the debtor chose not to file in Dallas,
16 what we believe the most logical venue is, in the first
17 instance. Let's talk about some of these unique facts here;
18 then we'll move into some of the arguments we made in our 19 motion, and then we'll talk about some of the things that the 20 debtor made (sic) in its reply.

21 First and perhaps most importantly, which is obvious
22 from the nature of this proceeding, not a single creditor or 23 party-in-interest has filed papers supporting the debtor's
24 venue in Delaware, other than, obviously, the debtor. The 25 official committee has unanimously supported venue transfer to

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 Dallas, Texas. Acis, in its own capacity as creditor, has
2 joined the transfer request. It's not surprising to us, Your 3 Honor, that no creditor has affirmatively come out in favor of 4 venue in Delaware, because the debtor is in Dallas and, in 5 fact, that is where its nerve center is.

6 Your Honor, we do believe that it's particularly 7 significant because in this case, although schedules and 8 statements have not yet been filed, the creditors' committee
9 makes up the vast majority of creditors in this case, in terms
10 of absolute dollar amounts. There may be multiple creditors in 11 number, but the vast majority of dollar amount of creditors are 12 represented by the official committee of unsecured creditor
13 (sic).

14 There was reference to Jefferies. They're owed thirty 15 million dollars. There was reference to Frontier Bank.
16 They're owed five million dollars. A single claim of one
17 committee member dwarfs that by multiples, Your Honor. So we 18 believe the fact that no other creditor supports venue in 19 Delaware is a very significant fact, Your Honor, and is not 20 controverted.

21 Second, Your Honor, until a few months ago, the Acis
22 case, which is pending in the Dallas bankruptcy court, was an 23 affiliated case. And again, this can be gleaned from the 24 published decisions and the record that's been put into 25 evidence. Had this case been filed prior to confirmation of

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 the Acis plan, under Rule 1014 the Dallas bankruptcy court
2 would be the appropriate court to determine venue. And
3 although I would never suppose to predetermine how a judge
4 would rule, I think there would have been a high probability
5 that the Dallas court would have taken venue over the debtor's
6 case.

7 This is important, Your Honor, because the third point
8 I'd like to make is that Highland and the debtor, and as we 9 have described in our papers and related attachments, and as 10 Mr. Sharp referred to in his proper -- in his proffer, has 11 itself filed an appeal, seeking to overturn the confirmed Acis
12 plan of reorganization and return the equity that was 13 distributed to Mr. Terry under that confirmed plan, to an 14 entity called Nutro (ph.).

15 Second on Nutro, Your Honor. Nutro's wholly owned by 16 Mr. Dondero and, therefore, if Acis were returned underneath
17 Nutro, it would become an affiliate of this debtor, and Acis
18 would once again be subject to, as an initial matter, a 19 venue -- excuse me, this debtor would be subject to, as an
20 initial matter, a venue determination by the Dallas bankruptcy
21 court. If we have a successful appeal, we would have 22 affiliated cases with dueling jurisdictions, Your Honor, and 23 the Dallas bankruptcy court, as I mentioned, would determine
24 venue.

25 On that, Your Honor, the debtor must believe -- it's

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

45

1 not just me speculating. The debtor must believe that there is
2 a material possibility of this occurrence, as it has been
3 seeking to employ counsel -- and you'll hear about that
4 shortly -- and expend estate resources on behalf of Nutro, a
5 nondebtor affiliate, in an attempt to have the Acis
6 confirmation order overturned, with, again, the result being 7 Acis would, again, be a debtor affiliate. Therefore, the 8 debtor cannot argue that such possibility does not materially 9 impact the venue decision or is remote, in particular where 10 they're trying to convince the committee and this Court to use
11 estate resources to achieve that very outcome. The debtor's 12 effectively arguing for a ruling on appeal, but the debtor is 13 an affiliate of Acis, in which case the current Chapter 11
14 proceeding should be in Dallas, Texas.

15 Fourth, Your Honor --

16 THE COURT: Well --

17 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: -- let me interrupt you for a moment,
19 because that hasn't happened. As we sit here today --

20 MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: -- they're not affiliates. There seems to 22 be an assumption that, were this case to be transferred to the 23 Northern District of Texas, it would be assigned to -- sorry,
24 I'm losing my notes --

25 MR. CLEMENTE: Judge Jernigan, Your Honor.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 THE COURT: Jernigan, yes. Thank you. Sorry. I know
2 Judge Jernigan fairly well.

3 But if they're not affiliates, isn't the case subject
4 to random assignment under the normal procedures in the 5 Northern District of Texas? And if it's not assigned to Judge
6 Jernigan, don't your arguments about judicial knowledge and 7 experience in connection with this case fall away because 8 nobody other than Judge Jernigan has that special knowledge in 9 Texas? And all -- what other colleagues would be able to do
10 there is simply walk down the hall and talk to her. And of 11 course, I can pick up the phone and talk to her any time, as 12 well.

13 So I'm just teasing out this assumption that 14 definitely feels to be behind everybody's arguments, that she's 15 going to get this case. Is there anything in the record that 16 would support that? Is there some sort of rule I'm not aware
17 of in Texas or that I'm -- am I assuming something that's not 18 consistent with practice down there, which is that this case
19 would be randomly assigned?

20 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, I believe you are correct
21 in the sense that the case would be randomly assigned, but I
22 believe Your Honor could look at -- as I understand, there are 23 three judges located in the Dallas court district; one is 24 obviously Judge Houser. I could be getting the name wrong.
25 But she's overseeing the Puerto Rican proceeding --

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

47

1 THE COURT: Um-hum.

2 MR. CLEMENTE: -- so her docket is clearly beyond --

3 THE COURT: She's also --

4 MR. CLEMENTE: -- full.

5 THE COURT: -- about to retire, so I don't even know
6 if she's taking new cases.

7 MR. CLEMENTE: Correct. So that leaves two judges,
8 Your Honor. And we understand -- perhaps Acis' counsel would 9 be able to expand on that, given their familiarity with the 10 Dallas bankruptcy court, but that judge is not being assigned
11 new cases, given a circumstance with that particular judge.

12 But to answer your direct question, Your Honor, I
13 believe you are correct; it would be a random assignment. But 14 we do believe that there is a high probability it would wind up
15 with Judge Jernigan.

16 THE COURT: But it might be a pool of one; right?

17 MR. CLEMENTE: That is correct, Your Honor. And even 18 if it wasn't, I think, clearly, for all the reasons we'll 19 discuss, we would have a very strong case to make that it
20 should be transferred to Judge Jernigan, even if it initially 21 got somebody else on the --

22 THE COURT: Well, you know, I mean, if a judge were a
23 lawyer, a judge couldn't have both these cases. A judge (sic)
24 couldn't have a case with two warring former affiliates,
25 because it would create a conflict of interest. Now, those

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 rules don't apply to judges. We're assumed to be above all
2 that. But -- since we don't have clients. But it does -- it
3 might inform someone's decision about do I really feel
4 comfortable having Acis and Highland, given the situation -- I
5 mean, they wouldn't be jointly administered, certainly, of 6 course. They're --

7 MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Again, they're not affiliates, at least as 9 we stand here today; although the debtors are trying to change
10 that, purportedly. It might create a situation where a judge
11 might take that into consideration in deciding whether to have 12 the case or not. And I --

13 Now, we deal all the time with jointly administered
14 affiliated cases, right, because there's always intercompany
15 debt --

16 MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct.

17 THE COURT: -- and we all just assume it away (ph.).

18 MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: But this is a little different in that 20 they're not affiliates.

21 MR. CLEMENTE: I do think, Your --

22 THE COURT: Again, she would -- the judge wouldn't be 23 required -- Judge Jernigan wouldn't be required -- it's not a 24 recusal issue. It's not a disqualification issue. It's just 25 a -- sort of something to think about in making the decision.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

49

1 MR. CLEMENTE: I don't disagree, Your Honor. I do
2 think Your Honor hit on it, though. Bankruptcy judges are 3 unique in that perspective that they're put in situations all
4 the time where a decision may impact one particular entity to 5 the detriment of another entity that's also before Your Honor
6 in connection with a particular bankruptcy proceeding.

7 THE COURT: Yeah.

8 MR. CLEMENTE: With that, Your Honor, I'll continue to 9 move forward.

10 THE COURT: Yeah, please.

11 MR. CLEMENTE: Fourth, and this gets back to the point
12 we were just discussing with Your Honor, we do not believe
13 there's any credible dispute that the Dallas court has already 14 upped the learning curve relative to this Court. Again, not 15 that Your Honor wouldn't be able to come up to speed and that 16 Your Honor has tremendous capacity to do that, but the record
17 is clear, from our perspective, that the Dallas bankruptcy
18 court has already had to wrestle with issues involving the 19 debtor. There has been extensive proceeding (sic) in the 20 Dallas bankruptcy court, not just the bankruptcy court but also 21 the district court, with respect to the Acis case.

22 There are several written opinions, again, that Your 23 Honor can take judicial notice of and which are also in the 24 record, that provide, after an extensive and developed factual
25 record, that Acis only operated through Debtor Highland -- the

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

50

1 debtor, Highland. It is clear that the Dallas court had to
2 develop an understanding of how the debtor's complex business
3 worked. It is the same business as the debtor engages in here,
4 albeit a subset.

5 That's consistent with Mr. Sharp's testimony. Mr.
6 Sharp didn't say that they no longer are in the CLO business.
7 He characterized it in a certain fashion, but the debtor
8 clearly still manages and advises CLOs. That is a part of the 9 debtor's business. That is what was at issue in the Acis
10 proceeding. And also, as Mr. Waterhouse testified to quite 11 clearly in the rebuttal, and as Mr. Sharp testified to in the 12 cross, it's the same principal actors: Mr. Dondero and others
13 on his management team.

14 Your Honor, this case, although the idea is to get a
15 fresh start, we believe will necessary require a backward-
16 looking review of the facts. And the Dallas court has upped
17 the learning curve from that perspective. The committee
18 recognizes that the Dallas court would take time and determine 19 issues as presented to it. And depending on the issue, the 20 past experience of the court will have varying degrees of 21 relevance. But that experience is nonetheless important to the 22 committee to ensure maximum efficiency, with an entity that has 23 demonstrated itself to be highly litigious, Your Honor. One
24 needs only to review the top-twenty list of creditors, made up
25 largely of law firms and other professionals, to make the

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 determination that the debtor is highly litigious, as well as
2 the record in this proceeding.

3 So Your Honor, those four facts, we believe, are 4 unique, and we believe that they strike in favor of 5 transferring venue to Dallas. I do want to walk through some 6 of the arguments we made in our papers, as well, but I wanted
7 to highlight what we believe are truly distinguishing features
8 of this particular situation.

9 Your Honor, as we more fully lay out in our papers, we 10 do believe the convenience of the parties supports transfer of 11 venue. The debtor's nerve center is in Dallas; Mr. Waterhouse 12 was clear on that. Mr. Dondero is the portfolio manager for 13 all of the Highland funds, and he is the one-hundred-percent
14 owner of Strand. Strand's the general partner of this debtor.
15 All decisions run through Mr. Dondero. And it's clear that Mr.
16 Dondero and all of the other key personnel are located in 17 Dallas.

18 Your Honor, a large number of creditors are located in 19 Dallas; you need not look past the list of twenty largest 20 unsecured creditors to determine that. There are almost a 21 majority of those creditors that are located in Texas. While 22 the committee agrees that the overall organization with several 23 thousand affiliates is complex -- and you'll hear about that as 24 we go on this afternoon -- there's 2,000 affiliated entities
25 with Highland -- the debtor is only Highland. And so the idea

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

52

1 that there may be offices in far-flung jurisdictions, those are
2 not debtor offices.

3 Your Honor, the interests of justice also support the 4 transfer of venue. The Dallas bankruptcy court has clearly
5 invested time and resources that are applicable to this debtor.
6 In this context, the learning curve that is referred to in the 7 cases clearly favors transfer of venue to Dallas. Although 8 this case has been pending for a while, Your Honor, there's 9 only been a first-day hearing with very limited relief granted,
10 and one brief status conference.

11 There are also economic efficiencies in Dallas.
12 Dallas is convenient for all debtor employees. Yes, people can 13 get on planes, but it's hard to argue that being a mile-and-a-
14 half away from the courthouse isn't more convenient.

15 THE COURT: I don't know. Parking's tough.

16 MR. CLEMENTE: And perhaps an overnight trip is 17 helpful for the family life, Your Honor. It depends.

18 Dallas is convenient for the professionals. It's easy
19 to fly in and out of Dallas, as we point out in our papers,
20 Your Honor. There's no real, I believe, disagreement that 21 Dallas would not be convenient.

22 Additionally, Your Honor, and we think that this is a
23 unique factor as well, if the long history of Highland's
24 litigious nature is any indicator here, there will be discovery
25 disputes. And under Rule 45, contested nonparty discovery

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 would likely occur in the Northern District in Texas, in
2 Dallas. Given the massive number of nondebtor affiliates --
3 again, we only have 1 box here; there's, like, 2,000 others.
4 It is highly likely that nonparty discovery will become an
5 issue.

6 The fact that -- I heard Mr. Sharp testify in his 7 proffer that he believes he and Mr. Caruso will provide all of 8 the testimony. That's great and good and well for him to think
9 that. I think the committee's going to take a different view
10 of that, Your Honor.

11 Our own limited history in this case shows the 12 relevance of Dallas. Two of the three depositions occurred in 13 Dallas. I believe we informed Your Honor of that on the status
14 call that we had. And the third didn't, only because we 15 believe Mr. Sharp was not able to travel to Dallas.

16 The justice that the debtor seeks in the Acis case,
17 Your Honor, yields a result that this places -- excuse me, Your 18 Honor. The justice that we talked about in the appeal with 19 respect to the Acis confirmation order yields a result that 20 places this debtor in the Dallas bankruptcy court, which is 21 also in the interest of justice.

22 So, Your Honor, we believe there are several unique
23 factors. We believe that the traditional factors, as we lay
24 out in our papers, support the transfer of venue. And I wanted
25 to just briefly touch on some of the objections that the debtor

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

54

1 raised to our venue motion. First, the debtor thinks too
2 little of the Dallas court, in asserting that we're trying to 3 gain some type -- the committee is trying to gain some type of 4 litigation advantage. We have no doubt, as Your Honor has
5 tremendous respect for the Dallas court, that the Dallas court
6 will take each issue as it comes to it, without prejudice or 7 predetermination. History and experience doesn't mean
8 prejudice or predetermination; it just means familiarity, Your 9 Honor. That's all it means.

10 Our point is simply that the Dallas court clearly had 11 to spend time wrestling with the debtor, how it operated, and 12 its opaque structure. And let me spend a second on how. As we 13 point out in our reply and, again, as the record is clear based 14 on the published opinions, Acis had no employees; it was a box.
15 And it subcontracted its management services to the debtor.
16 The Dallas court examined that contract, that subadvisory
17 agreement that Mr. Sharp and, I believe, Mr. Waterhouse
18 referred to, and had to become familiar with it. That's clear
19 from the published opinions. And the debtor has numerous other
20 similar contracts.

21 The Dallas court also made determinations -- and 22 these, again, are in published opinions -- whether certain of 23 the debtor's contracts with Acis were personal-services
24 contracts. Again, they may differ, Your Honor, in terms of the 25 specifics, but these are clear examples of where the Dallas

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

55

1 bankruptcy court had to wrestle with contracts of Highland, the
2 way Highland operated, and the way that it was managed.

3           Additionally, Your Honor, on the point of litigation
4 advantage, as I thought about this, I think the debtor's, sort
5 of, arguments regarding a litigation advantage, frankly, worked
6 the other way. If I may, here, for a second, Your Honor. Mr.
7 Dondero is the sole controlling party, as the testimonies made
8 clear. He's based in Dallas. As we demonstrated in our 9 papers, Dallas is clearly the most efficient and convenient
10 forum for the creditors. And the creditors have sent this 11 message loud and clear through this motion to transfer and the 12 lack of any party affirmatively supporting the debtor and venue
13 in Delaware.

14           Mr. Dondero, in our view, as he has shown in the past, 15 consistently makes decisions that are in his best interest,
16 potentially fleeing from a jurisdiction and not his creditors.
17 And we believe that fleeing from the Dallas court, that is,
18 steps away from his office -- and that is convenient for his 19 creditors and, frankly, seems to be the most logical choice of 20 venue -- again, understanding -- we don't dispute that the 21 debtor is a Delaware limited partnership. We're not disputing
22 that. But we're talking about what's logical. That's the 23 point that I would like to make here, Your Honor.

24           Again, back to --

25           THE COURT: Well, I mean --

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

56

1 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: -- I mean, a cynic -- and after almost
3 fourteen years, maybe I'm becoming one; I don't know. But a
4 cynic would say -- and not necessarily badly (ph.), that both
5 sides want -- are interested in forum-shopping; the debtor
6 fleeing, obviously, adverse rulings in Texas, and the creditors
7 fleeing Delaware to go back to the home of adverse rulings
8 against the debtor in Texas. And it's six one, half dozen the 9 other. However, at least the cases -- or some of the cases say
10 that the debtor is entitled to some deference in its forum-
11 shopping, as opposed to the creditor, in their opposition, in 12 their forum-shopping. I'm not sure I buy that. And as a 13 matter of fact, I've ruled previously that there is no
14 deference --

15 MR. CLEMENTE: Correct.

16 THE COURT: -- that should be afforded to the debtor,
17 in the EFH case. But --

18 MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: -- I just throw that out there.

20 MR. CLEMENTE: And I believe Your Honor also made a 21 point, in the EFH ruling, regarding the support of the various 22 parties for the venue. And so I believe that is actually a 23 very strong factor that weighs in favor of transfer to --

24 THE COURT: Well, and -- yeah, I mean --

25 MR. CLEMENTE: -- Dallas.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

57

1 THE COURT: -- and that case had -- the government of
2 Texas or the committee, or both, supported venue. That case
3 probably, thankfully, would have been sent to Texas, freed up
4 five years of my life, and twenty appeals and --

5 MR. CLEMENTE: You're stronger for it, though --

6 THE COURT: -- everything else.

7 MR. CLEMENTE: -- Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Yeah -- I don't know about that. I'm 9 heavier, that's for sure.

10 MR. CLEMENTE: I wish I could blame that for my 11 weight, Your Honor, but I can't.

12 Your Honor, back -- very briefly, because we did touch
13 on it already. We do believe that the Dallas court experience
14 is highly relevant, contrary to what the debtor remarks in 15 their objection. The debtor again tries to cast the Acis
16 bankruptcy as being narrow and only involving CLOs. Again, the 17 testimony, I believe, showed, in -- shows, in point of fact,
18 the debtor does manage a significant number of CLOs. Even if 19 they are in liquidation, there are still decisions that are 20 being made. And therefore, exposure to how the debtor operated
21 with respect to CLOs is highly relevant.

22 Your Honor, I already mentioned, so I won't repeat
23 myself, that Acis was a box and it had no employees, and 24 therefore, obviously, the court had to look through to what was 25 going on at Highland in terms of how the debtor was managed.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

58

1           Your Honor, the CRO, unfortunately, I believe, for the 2 debtor, does not cleanse the venue choice. The CRO was not 3 around. The CRO didn't decide venue. And as clear from the 4 testimony, the CRO reports to Mr. Dondero. Nothing has 5 changed. There has been no management changes. I believe that 6 was also consistent with the testimony. And everybody still 7 reports to Mr. Dondero, and he's located in Dallas, and Dallas
8 is the nerve center.

9           Additionally, as I mentioned, the cases will be very 10 much about the past, unfortunately, Your Honor, a time when the 11 CRO was not involved, and about transactions and conduct 12 engaged in by the debtor and Mr. Dondero in the run-up to this 13 bankruptcy.

14           In short, I believe the CRO issue is a red herring,
15 Your Honor; it doesn't erase the history the Dallas bankruptcy
16 court has with the debtor through the Acis proceeding, and it
17 doesn't erase the history of the decision-making process that 18 the debtor engaged in, in the past and currently engages in 19 today.

20           With that, Your Honor -- we already had a colloquy
21 about how we do not believe the Dallas bankruptcy court is 22 conflicted, so I won't spend any further time on that. But I
23 would like to sum up. Your Honor, let me be very clear. We 24 have the utmost respect for you and for this Court, so I want
25 to make sure that Your Honor is very clear on that. However,

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

59

1 the committee respectfully believes that this case presents the
2 unique combination of facts which dictate that the transfer of 3 venue to the Dallas bankruptcy court is appropriate.

4 THE COURT: You don't need to worry. My ego assumes
5 you have respect for me.

6 (Laughter)

7 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you for that, Your Honor. Unless 8 Your Honor has any questions, I'll sit.

9 THE COURT: I do not. There may be others in support
10 who want to be heard.

11 Mr. Pomerantz (sic).

12 MR. LUCIAN: Your Honor, for the record, John Lucian
13 of Blank Rome, local counsel for Acis.

14 Just during the break, we had a binder made for Your 15 Honor so that the exhibits that Ms. Patel had handed up that 16 were admitted -- I know Mr. Morris has no objection to us
17 handing that up, Your Honor. It's the -- 1 through 26, with 18 the ones that were not admitted. This will save you from --

19 THE COURT: Is that these?

20 MR. LUCIAN: Yeah. That's the -- you got them in the 21 binder now.

22 THE COURT: Okay. Is this in there --

23 MR. LUCIAN: Yeah.

24 THE COURT: -- the email?

25 MR. LUCIAN: Yes; 26, yes. If you want to switch to

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

60

1 that. Perfect.

2 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor. For the record,
3 Rakhee Patel on behalf of Acis Capital Management, L.P., who 4 joined in the committee's motion. And I will make reference to 5 those -- certain of those documents. I'm generally loathe to 6 hand up big binders or big stacks of documents without telling
7 the Court of what's been handed up. So, very briefly, Your 8 Honor, I will say, Exhibits 1 and 2 (sic) in the binder are the 9 involun -- the issue -- I'm sorry, the opinion issued by the 10 Dallas bankruptcy court, in connection with the involuntary
11 trial, and Exhibit number 2 is the opinion that was issued in 12 connection with confirmation of Acis' plan. I would also point
13 the Court to Exhibit Number 17, which is the actual 14 confirmation order in Acis Capital Management. And I'll make 15 reference to one other exhibit as I go through my presen -- or 16 a number of other exhibits, but -- one additional ruling by the 17 court, as I go through my presentation.

18 THE COURT: What was the date of -- oh, okay. Never 19 mind. So the confirmation was late January?

20 MS. PATEL: Yes, Your Honor. January 31st, 2019. And 21 the plan went effective on February 15th of 2019.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MS. PATEL: And the Highland bankruptcy, I believe,
24 was just a little bit over eight months later.

25 And, Your Honor, I'll try not to duplicate necessarily

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

61

1 what the committee did, and I will promise to keep this as
2 brief as I can. I'm happy to answer any questions, because 3 standing here before you is the counsel -- at least the 4 bankruptcy counsel that lived and breathed the Acis case from 5 the date that they were filed on January 30th of 2018, through
6 today.

7 Now, Your Honor -- and along with my co-counsel, Mr.
8 Shaw, who has been living and breathing, frankly, the issues
9 longer than I have, even.

10 Your Honor, I will repeat something that was in our 11 moving papers. And I know Your Honor and Your Honor's team has 12 probably read all the moving papers. but I think this bears
13 repeating, and that is that this case is unique. It is, in my 14 mind, exceptionally unique. These facts are so unique, Your 15 Honor, that I would venture to say I don't think that this is 16 necessarily a case that would even possibly or remotely or even 17 tangentially open any floodgates, because these facts are so
18 different from the typical motion to transfer venue.

19 Your Honor, touching quickly on the burden-of-proof
20 issue that Your Honor referenced in your colloquy with Mr.
21 Clemente. Your Honor, Acis concedes, obviously, the burden of 22 proof is clear that it's the preponderance of the evidence.
23 And I won't go through ad nauseum all of the factors. I know
24 the Court is exceptionally familiar with all the factors on 25 both the convenience-of-the-parties and interest-of-justice

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 side. But I would just note that, at least in the Court's
2 prior rulings, you've said that the factors are not really a
3 scorecard, that we're not counting three factors versus three 4 factors, or four versus two.

5 And I would just --

6 THE COURT: Well, that follows with my fundamental 7 tenet, which is that any legal test with more than three 8 factors is useless. It's just a -- it's just a question of 9 discussion.

10 MS. PATEL: I think -- and I think this Court has wide
11 discretion with whether to transfer this case or not.

12 Your Honor, one final quick point that I'll call 13 the -- kind of the four corners or setting the table, for 14 purposes of go-forward, is back to the reference to the -- that 15 there's no real deference, necessarily, to the debtor's choice
16 of venue. That's sort of subsumed in the burden of proof. The 17 movant bears a burden of proof and, if they meet the 18 preponderance of the evidence, then the burden shifts. And 19 that's really kind of where the debtor's choice of forum weighs 20 in.

21 Now, Your Honor, one other quick point is that there's 22 been a lot of discussion in the objections and the responses
23 and the replies, indicating that this whole issue is about Acis
24 as a creditor. And what I'm here to say, Your Honor, is that 25 this, actually, the issue, the motion to transfer venue, is not

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

63

1 really about Acis as a creditor. And I'm here representing
2 Acis as a creditor. This has been painted as there's one
3 creditor that's driving this, and that's Acis. That's just 4 simply not the case, Your Honor.

5 The reality is that you've got hundreds of millions of 6 dollars or claims represented by the committee, as a fiduciary
7 to those claims, that have made this motion. This is not Acis'
8 motion. Yes, we did join with respect to it. And really, it
9 has -- that has more to do with the fact that we're the Texas
10 folks, we're the Texas creditor. And we -- again, I and Mr.
11 Shaw lived and breathed the Texas cases. And I'm here to stand
12 before the Court and answer any questions you may have with 13 respect to what happened, what transpired, but, more
14 importantly, what could happen on a go-forward basis.

15 Your Honor, it's important -- and I -- again, harking
16 back to this concept of this is unique. As Your Honor noted in 17 EFH, had the committee signed on, had the Texas comptroller
18 signed on, perhaps that outcome would have been a little bit
19 different. But here, Your Honor, we've got the committee
20 moving for transfer of venue. And I think that's really 21 significant. And I'll go through in a little bit sort of the 22 debt stack that we're dealing with here, and you'll see that,
23 hands down, the committee is the fulcrum debt here. It is the 24 fulcrum debt, Your Honor.

25 Your Honor, one final quick note on forum-shopping.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

64

1 And there's been conversation with respect to the committee's
2 forum-shopping, the debtor's relationship. Look, I've read
3 Your Honor's prior opinions and I really do think the issue
4 boils down to -- I think it's probably neutral with respect to 5 both sides. As Your Honor pointed out, the debtor has the 6 ability to choose the state of its incorporation as its venue
7 for filing of bankruptcy. And also, the committee has the 8 ability to move, to transfer, pursuant to 1412, to a place that 9 is the interest of justice and the convenience of the parties.
10 I really view that as being the -- there should be no negatives
11 cast on, frankly, either side, with respect to forum-shopping,
12 because it's kind of invited by the structure of the statute.

13 So if the case isn't about Acis as a creditor, what is 14 this case about? Well, I -- or what is this motion about?
15 Here I really do think that -- at its heart, that this
16 particular motion to transfer, and probably motions to transfer
17 in general, boil down to the bankruptcy case itself. So here
18 that would be -- this is all about Highland's bankruptcy and 19 where it should be administered, what makes sense.

20 And, Your Honor, I want to go through a couple of 21 different subtopics on this. First I want to talk about the 22 business lines that the debtor engages in. What does it do?
23 And this is all from the -- what I'm going to refer the Court
24 to is all included in the first-day declaration of Mr.
25 Waterhouse, which is Debtor's Exhibit O.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

65

1 And, Your Honor, in Mr. Waterhouse's declaration, he
2 goes through the three kind of general lines of the debtor's
3 business. First is proprietary trading. And that involves 4 sort of trading with the debtor's money or leveraged money in 5 certain brokerage accounts. And I really think that 6 proprietary trading is probably that line of business -- when 7 we're thinking about which court is best suited to oversee that 8 line of business and what's going to happen with respect to it,
9 I think that's really neutral. I think both Delaware and 10 Dallas could adequately handle that issue.

11 The issue really becomes a lot more focused, though,
12 when we look at the other two lines of business. The next line
13 of business is investment management services. And this is --
14 and a big piece of that is the debtor's operation of its CLOs
15 or collateralized loan obligations.

16 If the 2018 financials -- again, I believe they're 17 contained in debtor's exhibits -- if you take a look at those 18 you'll see that as a part of investment management fee revenue, 19 a lot of the revenue that was generated is related to the 20 debtor's operation of eighteen CLOs along with some managed
21 separate accounts, et cetera.

22 Your Honor, the CLO piece and the separate accounts
23 are issues that the Dallas court was faced with through Acis'
24 bankruptcy and Highland's management of it. And I'll borrow
25 from Mr. Clemente his phrase: Acis was effectively a box. It

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

66

1 had no employees of its own. It only had two officers, Mr.
2 Dondero and Mr. Waterhouse, who was the treasurer of Acis,
3 until their resignation shortly after the appointment of --
4 shortly after the involuntary filings and the appointment of a
5 trustee.

6 Now, Your Honor, the other -- the last piece that's 7 also involved is shared services. So we've got investment
8 management, and there's subpieces of it. And I won't represent 9 to the Court that is Judge Jernigan familiar with every aspect
10 of Highland's investment management services? No, likely not.
11 But neither is this Court. This Court is still, very much so,
12 on the learning curve with respect to that.

13 And I would submit, Your Honor, that Judge Jernigan is 14 frankly just further along that learning curve with respect to 15 the investment management services.

16 On shared services, Your Honor, as Mr. Clemente
17 referenced, the opinions are very clear -- again, Exhibits 1
18 and 2 -- with respect to there is -- it's clear that Judge
19 Jernigan had to evaluate shared services. And I'll kind of 20 summarize what the structure of what Judge Jernigan had to 21 evaluate was. Again, Acis is a box. It was provided its 22 services by Highland, pursuant to two key agreements: a
23 subadvisory agreement and a shared-services agreement. And 24 that shared-services agreement is relatively generic. And all
25 that is is the subadvisory -- I like to think of it as that's

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 the thinking brain stuff. That's the investment advisory.
2 Does this comply with SEC guidelines? Should these trades be
3 made? What does the marketplace look like?

4 Shared services, on the other hand, Your Honor, are 5 all that middle- and back-office typical type stuff. There's 6 no real rocket science with respect to it. It's just providing 7 infrastructure: accounting, legal, bookkeeping functions, all
8 those things that any sort of generic business would provide.

9 And again, that is something that Judge Jernigan is 10 just more familiar with. She is familiar with Highland's
11 business modus operandi.

12 And, Your Honor, if you look sort of across the 13 Highland structure, you will see that Acis really was just a 14 little microcosm. It's a little template, because it gets 15 repeated throughout the Highland empire.

16 And one of the exhibits -- and forgive me; I didn't 17 bring up the other exhibit list, but multiple parties have 18 designated it, and it's the entities list. And there's 2,000
19 entities, approximately. I didn't count them all up. But 20 that's a number that's been thrown around: 2,000 entities
21 under this. And they are all each little microcosms.
22 Certainly, Judge Jernigan is further along with respect to the 23 Acis microcosm, but also with respect to the template as well.

24 Your Honor, with respect to then, therefore, economy
25 or -- judicial economy or efficiency, again, Judge Jernigan,

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

68

1 further along the learning curve.

2 Your Honor, now turning then to the debt stack, as I
3 had referenced earlier -- again, this is all set forth in the 4 declaration of Mr. Waterhouse -- you've got two secured
5 lenders, Jefferies and Frontier. And no one's heard with 6 respect to -- from them with respect to their position. Your 7 Honor, these are two creditors that are vastly oversecured, and 8 so really they -- I'll put them as sort of neutral with respect
9 to what's going to happen in this bankruptcy case.

10 Then the next item in the debt stack that Mr.
11 Waterhouse identifies is Highland CLO Management. Well, Your 12 Honor, it's a note that was transferred -- Highland is the 13 obligor on the note. It's about nine-and-a-half million
14 dollars. And it was a note that was previously held by Acis
15 and that was transferred to an entity by the name of Highland
16 CLO Management, by Mr. Dondero.

17 Highland CLO Management, in turn -- Mr. Waterhouse
18 references that there's sort of -- Highland doesn't have a 19 beneficial interest with respect to it. But if you look at the 20 retention applications that are set for hearing a little bit
21 later today, you'll see that actually the debtors (sic) are 22 claiming there is an interest in this, that the debtor has an 23 interest in making sure that Highland CLO Management has a 24 defense when it comes to the issue of was that transfer from 25 Acis to Highland CLO Management a fraudulent transfer.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

69

1 And again, these are issues that Judge Jernigan has
2 had to grapple with all throughout the bankruptcy case. There
3 have been no -- there has been no adjudication that it was a
4 fraudulent transfer; but certainly she's had to evaluate it in 5 connection with four injunctions that were issued in connection
6 with the Acis case.

7 First there was a -- excuse me -- a sua sponte
8 injunction. Second there came an ex parte injunction. Third 9 there was a preliminary injunction. And then fourth there was 10 a plan injunction. And that plan injunction, Your Honor, is 11 embodied in Exhibit Number 17. And again, all of these 12 transfers and transactions -- part of the debt stack of 13 Highland has been evaluated by Judge Jernigan.

14 Last in the debt stack, but certainly not least, Your 15 Honor, we have the general unsecureds. And Mr. Waterhouse, in 16 his deposition that was held in Dallas, estimated that perhaps 17 the general unsecureds could be upwards of two billion dollars, 18 all told.

19 Now, just looking at the twenty largest, we're still 20 in the hundreds of millions, and we don't have the benefit of 21 schedules yet. But this is -- this is the big dog. This is 22 the big layer of debt. This is who is really the fulcrum here.

23 And keep in mind, Your Honor, this is a free-fall
24 bankruptcy. No one knows where this is going to go. At the 25 first-day hearings, debtor's Counsel referenced that there

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

70

1 could be sales of assets and divestiture of certain things,
2 operational restructuring. There's really no idea where this
3 case is headed. And I think that's significant, Your Honor,
4 because this is an operational restructure or perhaps a
5 liquidation.

6 I hope not. I hope that this is an operational
7 restructure and that all creditors can be paid either in full
8 or close to in full, but that's significant. And the reason
9 why it's significant here is because, Your Honor, you've got 10 the fiduciary for that fulcrum debt voting with their feet with 11 what could happen -- what should happen on a plan.

12 And they're saying we think this case should be 13 administered in Texas. And I think, again, going back to what 14 makes this case so unique, I think that's what makes it so 15 unique is that there are -- just from a dollar perspective and 16 volume perspective, the significant creditors and the committee
17 with respect to who's a fiduciary telling you, Judge, we think 18 this case should be administered in Texas. And those votes are 19 going to be important with respect to any exit that happens
20 here.

21 Your Honor, I'll hit sort of on another factor, the 22 sort of forum's interest or a local interest in the 23 controversy. And I concede, clearly -- and I think Your Honor
24 has referenced in the past -- Delaware, when it -- when an 25 entity is organized under Delaware law, that the forum state

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 has an interest in protecting its entities. However, I will
2 say, I think what's different here is --

3 THE COURT: Say that again?

4 MS. PATEL: I'm sorry, Your Honor. I probably 5 misstated that. That the state of incorporation has an 6 interest in entities that are --

7 THE COURT: Yeah, but --

8 MS. PATEL: -- formed under its state's law.

9 THE COURT: -- you're in the wrong court for that.

10 That's state court. This is --

11 MS. PATEL: I'm sorry?

12 THE COURT: -- the --

13 MS. PATEL: Oh, yeah.

14 THE COURT: You're in the wrong court for that. I
15 don't care about that. This is --

16 MS. PATEL: All right.

17 THE COURT: -- this is federal court.

18 MS. PATEL: Fair enough. I'll take that one, then.

19 THE COURT: This is federal court. That's for the 20 chancery and the governor.

21 MS. PATEL: Well, Your Honor, and going back just to 22 the issue of the unique factors here, usually, Your Honor, in a
23 motion to transfer venue, you have what I'll call relatively 24 similarly situated courts, certainly if you've got a transfer-
25 of-venue motion that was filed as early as the one that was

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

72

1 filed in this case, within the first few weeks of the case, and
2 within, I believe, two days of the committee's formation.

3 That's just not the scenario here, Your Honor. You
4 have a bankruptcy court in Texas who is familiar with various 5 aspects of the debtor's business. Is it familiar with every 6 aspect of the debtor's business? No. But that certainly can't 7 be said as to the Delaware Court either, that you are familiar
8 with every aspect of the debtor's business.

9 Your Honor, in Texas there's not only a bankruptcy
10 court, there's a district court who is familiar with all of 11 the -- with aspects of the debtor's business, and that is the 12 Honorable Judge Fitzwater.

13 And what I will say -- Your Honor was asking questions
14 with respect to the judge -- the bankruptcy judge that it would 15 be assigned to. I'm happy to address those from my 16 perspective. But what I will note is that every appeal that 17 stemmed out of the Acis bankruptcy case -- and there were in 18 excess of ten -- every single one was transferred ultimately to 19 Judge Fitzwater for adjudication.

20 So even if -- even if we look just one layer up from 21 the bankruptcy court to the district court, Judge Fitzwater is 22 intimately familiar. And now we've got three -- in connection
23 with the Acis cases -- three appeals that are pending before
24 the Fifth Circuit, two of which involve Highland or a Highland-
25 related entity.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

73

1 Your Honor, I want to quickly touch on the --

2 THE COURT: Is it the practice in the -- it's the 3 practice in our district court that once a district judge is 4 assigned an appeal in connection with a bankruptcy, any further
5 appeals in that bankruptcy go to that district judge. Is that 6 the practice in Texas?

7 MS. PATEL: It's the practice, Your Honor. I don't 8 believe that there's a specific local rule that says that that 9 will happen, but that's functionally what happens. And 10 sometimes you have to make a motion to transfer between two 11 courts, but invariably, it usually goes to sort of either the 12 first-filed court or kind of the first court to really get into 13 a substantive issue.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, I'll touch on a couple more 16 quick points. It is offensive to me when I read through the 17 debtor's pleadings and that there is an implication that the 18 Dallas court is somehow biased. I think of Judge Jernigan and 19 I think of this Court and I think of virtually every bankruptcy
20 court that I've ever had the privilege of appearing before as 21 being fair and impartial. And this concept of bias, that's 22 only grounded in the fact that the debtors have -- or I'm 23 sorry -- the debtor has lost a few.

24 And I will say, just to kind of forestall that easy
25 conclusion based on the opinions, I would note, in Acis'

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

74

1 exhibits, if you look at Exhibit Number 12, that is -- it's an
2 email that the court sent in connection with Acis' first
3 confirmation hearing. And that was a confirmation hearing that
4 occurred in August of 2018. And the court ultimately denied
5 confirmation of the first sort of plan. And there were kind of 6 three sub-plans. But the court denied it.

7 And so again, I'm offended that there would be even an 8 implication that the court is somehow biased, because this 9 isn't a scenario where there have been only adverse rulings to 10 Highland in connection with the Acis bankruptcy case. Judge
11 Jernigan has called the balls and strikes as she sees them,
12 Your Honor.

13 Your Honor, I'll conclude with the following, which is 14 that I would venture to guess that if this Court were in sort
15 of -- if we reversed the scenario and this Court had expended
16 hundreds of hours, hundreds of pages of opinions, untold hours
17 of its courtroom staff's time, going through and poring through 18 an exceptionally voluminous record, over 100,000 pages, and 19 having expended over forty days of courtroom time, with that 20 significant of an interest in the case and that expenditure of 21 time, I would venture to guess that this Court would want this 22 case transferred back to Delaware, if it had been filed
23 anywhere else.

24 And so I would submit to Your Honor that this Court
25 should -- this case should be transferred to Dallas for all of

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

75

1 the reasons proffered by the committee and as joined by Acis.

2 Thank you, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: You're welcome.

4 Anyone else in favor of the motion?

5 All right. This time it will be short. We're going
6 to take a very short recess, and then I'll hear from the 7 debtor.

8 (Recess at 11:50 a.m. until 12:00 p.m.)

9 THE CLERK: All rise.

10 THE COURT: Please be seated. I apologize. I know
11 it's getting warmer and warmer in here. And we're trying to 12 contact -- we're trying to find someone in Maintenance who's 13 working today.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: It's usually motivation to get the 15 hearings done quickly, in my experience.

16 THE COURT: Yeah, it's -- if I take off my robe, don't 17 be offended. I do have clothes on underneath.

18 MR. BOWDEN: Thank you.

19 THE COURT: I heard you, Mr. Bowden.

20 All right, go ahead.

21 MR. POMERANTZ: Good afternoon, again, Your Honor.

22 Jeff Pomerantz, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, on behalf of the 23 debtors-in-possession (sic). Before I go on to my prepared
24 remarks, I just want to address a couple of the points that 25 were raised by Mr. Clemente and Acis' Counsel.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 First, we are not aware of any formal statement that
2 Judge Hale, in the Northern District of Texas, is not taking
3 cases. So I think Your Honor's point was a good one. There's 4 no definite -- there's no requirement, and it may or may not be
5 that this case gets transferred, if Your Honor were to transfer
6 it.

7 Second, Your Honor, Highland has -- there have been 8 appeals made not only from confirmation of the plan but also 9 from the involuntary itself. If the involuntary appeal
10 succeeded, there wouldn't even be a bankruptcy case to be 11 related to. And in any event, the case law says that events
12 that may or may not happen in the future are not really 13 relevant to the venue analysis.

14 Lastly, Your Honor, Mr. Clemente started by saying he 15 thinks the facts are largely in dispute, and you heard Counsel
16 then go through in detail, as did Acis' Counsel, about how 17 there's no dispute that Judge Jernigan has a learning curve.

18 Of course they need to say that because that is the 19 focus and the crux of their venue-transfer argument. As I will 20 demonstrate in my comments and as the evidence is before the 21 Court, other than the opinions that were written and other than 22 the amount of time the court has spent, there is no real nexus
23 between what happened in that case and what happened in this
24 case.

25 We have no doubt that Judge Jernigan learned all about

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

77

1 Acis, learned all about Acis' relationship to Highland. But
2 the real issue before Your Honor is what does that have to do
3 with this debtor, this debtor's assets and liabilities, and 4 this debtor's operations. And as my comments will show, we 5 think that's a significantly overblown argument.

6 Your Honor, during their presentation, Counsel really
7 strayed a little bit from what the motion and the joinders sort
8 of said. There they went through a painstaking analysis of the 9 various factors supporting venue. I know Your Honor said that 10 over three factors, you don't find that helpful, but the courts
11 have relied on a series of factors.

12 And I think the reason why they have strayed away from 13 that and focused on the committee being the one to support the 14 transfer-of-venue motion and the facts of the Acis case is 15 because when you pare it down, the actual factors demonstrate 16 that there is no way the committee can carry its burden to 17 demonstrate that venue should be transferred.

18 However -- Your Honor pointed to this at the 19 beginning, in mentioning comments about forum-shopping -- the 20 committee and Acis are really being disingenuous, and they have 21 not told you the real reason that they want the case before
22 Judge Jernigan.

23 At the first-day hearing, Your Honor, Acis said they 24 intended to file a motion for an appointed trustee. The 25 committee has told the debtor it intends to file a motion to

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

78

1 appoint a trustee after this hearing. The motion has not yet
2 been filed, Your Honor, because they want Judge Jernigan to 3 rule on that motion. And it's not because she's familiar with 4 this debtor's business, this debtor's assets, or this debtor's
5 liabilities, because she generally is not. It is because she 6 formed negative views regarding certain members of the debtor's
7 management that the committee and Acis hope will carry over to 8 this case.

9 The convenience of the parties and the interests of 10 justice and how this case is so unique are just a pretext.
11 They want a trustee to run the debtor, and they want Judge
12 Jernigan and not Your Honor to rule on that motion. That, Your 13 Honor, is not a proper reason to transfer venue, but rather a 14 transparent litigation ploy.

15 Similarly, Acis also wants the case to proceed in its 16 home court where it has enjoyed success in litigating against 17 the debtor. Your Honor mentioned the conflicts-of-interest
18 theories. They're not just conflicts of interest between two 19 jointly administered debtors. These go to the crux of what the 20 Acis case is about and significant claims against the debtor.

21 The Court may ask, appropriately -- and the Court
22 did -- why would the debtor file the case in Delaware? Chapter
23 11 is all about a fresh start. The debtor recognized concerns
24 that the creditors had with certain aspects of its pre-petition
25 conduct, and proactively appointed Brad Sharp as chief

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

79

1 restructuring officer with expanded powers, to oversee the 2 debtor's operations.

3           Mr. Sharp worked with the debtor and Counsel to craft
4 a protocol for transactions that would be subject to increased
5 transparency. The debtor didn't have to do that. As Your 6 Honor mentioned at the first-day hearing, the debtor operates
7 its business in the ordinary course. But given the 8 circumstances surrounding this case, given the history, we 9 felt, and the CRO, importantly, felt it was important to get on 10 the table what the debtor, through the CRO, believed was 11 ordinary and what was not, so we could have a transparent
12 discussion, discussion that, while we've made headway with the 13 committee, we have not yet been able to come to an agreement.

14           The debtor filed the case in this district because it
15 wanted a judge to preside over this case that would look at 16 what's going on with this debtor, with this debtor's
17 management, this debtor's post-petition conduct, without the 18 baggage of what happened in a previous case, which contrary to 19 what Acis and the committee says, has very little to do with 20 this debtor.

21           These form insufficient grounds, Your Honor, to 22 overturn the debtor's choice of venue, and the motion should be 23 denied.

24           I would like to now walk through the statutory
25 analysis, something that Counsel avoided, because again, I

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

80

1 think it highlights the weakness of their argument.

2 It is clear that the Delaware venue is proper, and
3 1408 says the places where a Chapter 11 debtor can file the 4 case. As the vast majority of debtors who file cases in this 5 district, the debtor filed here because it was domiciled in 6 Delaware. It is a Delaware LP. But it goes further than that.
7 99.94 percent of its LP interests are owned by Delaware
8 entities. And the general partner, Strand Advisors, is a
9 Delaware general partner.

10 While many cases, Your Honor, before this court, rely 11 on the domicile of one affiliate to bring other non-Delaware
12 related affiliates before the court, that's not the case here.
13 All you have, virtually, are Delaware entities, through the 14 ownership structure.

15 As I will also discuss in a few moments, Your Honor, 16 domicile is not the only connection that this debtor has to 17 this district, as significant litigation matters involving the 18 debtor, including those commenced by committee members, that 19 was the catalyst to the filing, are pending in Delaware.
20 Accordingly, the committee acknowledges, as they must, that
21 Delaware is, of course, a proper venue.

22 However, they rely on 1412 which sets forth the 23 standard -- test that the movant has to meet in order to 24 transfer venue, either for the convenience of the parties or 25 the interest of the justice.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

81

1 And courts, including the written opinions in this
2 district by your colleagues, most often cite to the six factors
3 in the CORCO decision in the Fifth Circuit in 1979. And as
4 Judge Gross, in his 2016 opinion in Restaurants Acquisition
5 makes clear, the movant bears the burden of demonstrating that 6 the factors strongly weigh in favor of a transfer.

7 Similarly, Judge Gross stated in that case -- and I
8 know Your Honor may not fully subscribe -- that courts
9 generally grant substantial deference to the debtor's choice of 10 forum.

11 And in the case here, where not only do you have the 12 debtor is a Delaware entity, but virtually all of its holdings
13 are well -- are Delaware entities as well, it is even more
14 appropriate to defer to the debtor's choice of forum. As Judge
15 Walsh said in his 1998 opinion at PWS Holding, it is a 16 fundamental legal tenet that every citizen of a state is 17 entitled to take advantage of the state and federal judicial 18 process in that state.

19 So the question before Your Honor is whether the facts
20 in this case strongly weigh in favor of a venue transfer such 21 that the Court will disregard the debtor's reasoned business
22 judgment to commence the case in this district?

23 We submit, Your Honor, that the committee and Acis
24 have not come close to meeting that standard, and the CORCO
25 factors do not support a transfer.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

82

1           The first one is the proximity of creditors. And the 2 committee is focused on the fact that the committee -- the 3 representative fiduciary of the estate -- has determined that 4 venue is appropriate. But the factor not only looks at the 5 number of creditors, it looks at the dollar amount of the 6 creditors. And if you analyze -- an analysis of either
7 demonstrates that convenience of the parties does not support a
8 transfer of venue in this case.

9           The debtor has two secured creditors. Jefferies is 10 headquartered in New York City. Frontier Bank is headquartered
11 in Oklahoma. There was reference by Acis' Counsel to HCLOF.
12 Their secured claim is unrelated to the note that was at issue
13 in Acis, and there's nothing in the record to say that that 14 secured instrument has anything to do with the Acis case.
15 Neither of those creditors has weighed in on the motion to 16 transfer venue.

17           So let's look at the unsecured creditors. Of the 18 twenty that were listed in the debtor's petition, seven have 19 Texas addresses. Five of those are debtor's either current or 20 former law firms. Two of them are in the courtroom today. And 21 as Your Honor I'm sure appreciates, debtor professionals --
22 former debtor professionals are not usually active in 23 bankruptcy cases. Indeed, none of them filed a notice of 24 appearance in this case.

25           The other two that have Texas addresses are the claims

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

83

1 related to Acis: the Acis claim and the Josh Terry claim.
2 There are no other unsophisticated creditors that the Court
3 needs to worry about that would not be able to travel to 4 Delaware, as needed.

5 The two largest unsecured creditors in the top twenty 6 are the Redeemer Committee and Patrick Daugherty, each of whom 7 had pre-petition litigation pending against the debtor that 8 they each commenced in the Delaware Chancery Court. And the 9 arbitration proceeding that preceded the Redeemer chancery
10 court litigation was pending in New York City.

11 UBS, a member of the committee, listed as number
12 nineteen with a disputed and unliquidated claim, will likely 13 claim it is the largest creditor of the estate. It is based in 14 New York. It has litigation pending against the debtor in New 15 York, and used Latham & Watkins' DC office for that litigation.

16 And lastly, the fifth largest creditor, Your Honor,
17 Meta-e Discovery, is also on the committee. Where is their 18 address? Stamford, Connecticut.

19 As Judge Gross reasoned in Restaurants Acquisition, in 20 order to overcome the strong presumption in favor of the venue
21 transfer, a transfer must substantially improve the 22 administrative feasibility with respect to the creditor body as 23 a whole. So the committee sits out there and Acis sits out
24 there saying that it's convenient for the creditors, it's much 25 more convenient in Dallas. Their actions belie their

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

84

1 statements. All this litigation was focused on either Delaware
2 or the Northeast. It is just simply disingenuous for them to 3 argue otherwise.

4 The next factor, Your Honor, is the proximity of the 5 debtor. And in applying this factor, the courts focus
6 primarily on the parties who appear in court. The debtor
7 retained Brad Sharp, and he has demonstrated its intention --
8 and the debtor has demonstrated its intention of having Mr.
9 Sharp be the face of the reorganization efforts before the 10 Court.

11 Indeed, in cases where a CRO is reported, Your Honor,
12 the CRO is more apt to testify in court than any other debtor
13 representative. And I believe Mr. Sharp's testimony, which was 14 uncontroverted, was that he expects that he and Mr. Caruso will 15 provide the bulk of the testimony required from debtor
16 representatives during this bankruptcy case; and that's because 17 the debtor has given Mr. Sharp broad authority to evaluate the 18 propriety of post-petition transactions and to pursue and 19 analyze insider claims.

20 And at today's hearing the debtor will offer the 21 testimony of Mr. Sharp and his colleague, Mr. Caruso, to 22 support the relief requested. They have developed a
23 substantial amount of knowledge regarding the debtor's assets,
24 liabilities, and operations, in the six weeks they've been on 25 the job; and that knowledge will continue to grow.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 And Mr. Sharp has significant experience, as he
2 testified to, being a CRO in cases in this district; and he
3 could travel just as easily to Delaware as he can to Texas.

4 While the debtor acknowledges that other debtor
5 employees like Frank Waterhouse may be called to testify, as he
6 was today, the involvement of the debtor's personnel in this
7 court is likely to be immaterial. And he was the only Texas
8 person called to testify in this case. And if the committee
9 and Acis felt it was so important that representatives of the 10 debtor be -- it would be easier for them to travel to court,
11 they didn't call any witnesses in today, which is the most
12 important hearing in the case.

13 Also, Your Honor, our offices, as you know, are in 14 Delaware. And while it's true that we practice all around the 15 country, we would need separate counsel if we were to -- if the 16 case was to be -- to move.

17 And similarly, the committee retained Young Conaway,
18 which took a significantly active role in the litigation
19 leading up to today. That information and knowledge and 20 expertise would be lost if the case was transferred.

21 Next, Your Honor, related, is the proximity of 22 witnesses. And a I said, the committee can't demonstrate that 23 witnesses in this case would find Texas a substantially more
24 convenient forum than this court. And you would have expected
25 them to have subpoenaed Texas witnesses if that were so

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

86

1 important.

2 Location of assets, Your Honor, is one of the CORCO
3 factors. And the committee makes a big point that all the 4 decision-making is in Texas and all the people are in Texas and 5 the office is in Texas. The courts that look at location of 6 assets as being critical typically involve cases that are 7 single-asset real-estate cases, or cases that are small local 8 businesses that have significant regional connections.

9 But if you look at the debtor's assets here, it's not 10 the case. Their assets generally include financial instruments
11 and investments in a wide variety of public stock; advisory 12 contracts; shared services; and interests in nonpublic hedge
13 funds and private equity funds.

14 The assets are located throughout the United States
15 and in Latin America, Korea, and Singapore. And the majority
16 of the debtor's liquid assets are in New York. We were not --
17 we don't dispute the point that there aren't significant people
18 in Dallas and that the offices are in Dallas and all the 19 employees. We don't dispute that. But the assets are far-
20 flung around the country, and the cases, again, that focus on 21 the assets, focus on local expertise that the court will bring 22 to bear, particularly in real-estate cases with respect to 23 valuation. You have nothing of that here.

24 The debtor intends to use its Chapter 11 to provide
25 breathing room and to evaluate, hopefully in a constructive way

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

87

1 with the committee, how best to maximize value for the debtor's
2 assets through a consensual restructuring; and there's no
3 reason to believe why Texas rather than this court, would be a
4 more appropriate forum for this restructuring.

5 The last factor, Your Honor, is the economic
6 administration of the estate, which the courts generally point
7 to as the most important factor. And the committee points to 8 five reasons, which is essentially retreads of its previous 9 arguments.

10 Again, they argue a higher concentration of creditors
11 in Texas and Midwest. That's not the case, as I mentioned.
12 They argue that there's a higher concentration of professionals
13 in Texas and Midwest. And if you look at all the 14 professionals, they're all from national firms; they're all
15 metropolitan areas that practice routinely before this Court.
16 And the concept that the flights being different and the 17 mileage being different is in any way -- is in any way
18 important, is just not -- is just not the case.

19 People practice in a global, national world, these 20 days. And if that argument succeeded, most of the -- your 21 brethren and yourself would not have much to do, because that 22 argument could support transfers in most cases.

23 THE COURT: Well, I think really goes to why -- I
24 mean, I know this is the standards that are generally applied,
25 but it's a case from 1979. It's really behind the times. I

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

88

1 don't think the factors reflect corporate practice of 2 bankruptcy reality of 2019.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: And that's exactly what Judge Gross
4 said in the Caesar's opinion --

5 THE COURT: Right.

6 MR. POMERANTZ: -- which is cited in the material,
7 that this argument, given technology, given frequency of air --
8 ease of air travel, it's just not a relevant factor anymore.

9 And the two pages that the movants spent in the brief
10 talking to you about how many direct flights there are from LA
11 to Delaware as opposed to LA to Dallas, that, Your Honor, I
12 think is just silly.

13 The committee also argues that most creditors would 14 need to retain local counsel if they were here. Well, if you
15 look, the case has been pending a month-and-a-half, and other
16 than notices of appearance filed by committee members, there
17 have only been two notices of appearance that have been filed
18 that are unrelated to debtor entities. And one of those is 19 Daugherty, who commenced litigation in chancery court. So the 20 argument that is made typically in cases where they're filed in 21 jurisdictions far off from where the debtor's operating is, is 22 that it'll be burdensome on the mom-and-pop creditor, Your 23 Honor, we don't have mom-and-pop creditors here. And there's 24 nobody out there with material claims against the estate that 25 will not have the ability and have trouble and demonstrated the

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

89

1 willingness to hire Delaware Counsel.

2 The last argument --

3 THE COURT: Even when you do have mom and -- again, to 4 comment on reality, even when you do have mom-and-pop creditors
5 in businesses that are very locally focused, general practice
6 today is to make their claims irrelevant, in that to the extent
7 they have avoidance claims, they're paid on the first day.
8 Their real concern is whether the business will continue or 9 not.

10 Now, it's certainly true that pension claims are 11 important, and proofs of claim are important. But we have 12 many -- all courts have many procedures in place to ensure that 13 those types of creditors can participate without having to go
14 to the courthouse.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. So, Your Honor, Judge Gross also 16 mentioned that in the Restaurants Acquisition case, which was a 17 Texas-based --

18 THE COURT: He's a smart guy.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: We'll be sorry to see him go, Your
20 Honor.

21 THE COURT: Yeah, absolutely.

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Which was a Texas-based restaurant
23 chain that had more of a local flair. But he made the comments
24 Your Honor made.

25 The last argument the committee makes is that Texas is

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 more convenient. And this is really the crux, which I'll spend
2 some time over the next few minutes.

3 Texas is more convenient -- convenient -- because the 4 Texas bankruptcy court, where Acis is pending has, in their
5 words, already expended great time and effort familiarizing
6 itself with the debtor and its operations. You've heard
7 statements like "learning curve". You heard statements about 8 everything that the debtor -- that Judge Jernigan has found out
9 about this debtor, and how important and how helpful it is, and 10 how Your Honor will be behind the learning curve. We just 11 don't buy that, Your Honor.

12 And aside from that argument, the arguments that the 13 committee makes for transfer are arguments that could be made
14 in any case before Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Yeah, I was going to say that's kind of an
16 interesting argument, because actually it assumes Judge
17 Jernigan's going to ignore the rules of evidence in making
18 factual findings, because you're limited to the record before
19 you on a specific motion. And what fact you may have learned
20 with regard to something a person has done, maybe that goes
21 into questions of credibility on cross-examination or direct
22 testimony, but to actually base your decision on a fact that's 23 not in the record for the specific proceeding would be 24 improper.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: Look, I agree, Your Honor. And the

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

91

1 familiarity with the type of business -- if I wasn't speaking
2 to Your Honor or your brethren or many other judges around the 3 country, I'd say well, maybe there are certain judges who 4 haven't dealt with large financial services company, may not
5 know what a CLO, may not know what a hedge fund is or private 6 equity fund is. I'm very confident that Your Honor has had
7 many cases with sophisticated financial instruments, likely CLO
8 obligations, so that Your Honor not only has a good base of 9 knowledge that would give you the same base of knowledge that 10 Judge Jernigan has, but as we've also found, you are a fairly
11 quick study and that I have no doubt that you could come up-to-12 speed without very little effort.

13 So their argument is a grossly overstated
14 interpretation of what the Acis case was about and that what 15 was learned in that case has any relevance. As a part -- as a 16 result of the Acis plan confirmation, Acis is no longer part of 17 the debtor's organizational structure. The debtor owns no
18 equity in Acis. And the debtor no longer provides any advisory 19 services to Acis.

20 We admit that Judge Jernigan conducted many hearings,
21 and she issued several lengthy opinions, and she heard from a
22 variety of witnesses. And I'm sure Your Honor -- if Your Honor
23 has not -- Your Honor might read the opinions that she wrote
24 that are attached to the exhibits, the plan confirmation
25 opinion, the arbitration opinion, the involuntary opinion; and

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 you will conclude, I believe, as I have concluded, that ninety-
2 five percent of that stuff has nothing to do with this debtor.

3 It focused on the CLO obligations -- CLO business, the 4 relationship, the transfers of certain assets away from Acis
5 that basically Acis is claiming were fraudulent conveyances,
6 and that was the real focus; not on any of the debtor's
7 business operations.

8 Acis was the advisory arm through which the debtor
9 structured its collateral loan portfolio. The fees -- the 10 uncontroverted evidence is the fees generated from the CLO
11 business represent approximately ten percent of the debtor's
12 revenue and that that will reduce over time, because since the 13 market crash in 2009 the debtor has not created any new CLO
14 funds. So there's no active management and advisory services
15 going on for the CLOs. They're just being liquidated in the 16 normal course. Their importance will continue to decrease.
17 And even right now, it's only ten percent.

18 The debtor generates its revenues from trading public
19 securities; its equity positions in a variety of nonpublic,
20 private-equity, and hedge funds; and advisory and back-office
21 service provided to third parties. It is the monetization of 22 those assets that will provide the basis for the restructuring
23 of this debtor. And Judge Jernigan's prior experience with the 24 small sliver of what the debtor's business currently is, will 25 be only marginally relevant, at all.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

93

1 Acis didn't have any other balance-sheet assets. They
2 were basically an advisor of CLOs.

3 For example, Judge Jernigan has no experience or 4 knowledge surrounding the debtor's multi-strat. fund; its
5 Korean, Latin American, or Singapore private-equity
6 investments; its investments in the PetroCap funds; or the 7 other myriad of assets that are on the debtor's balance sheet
8 which Your Honor will likely will hear about in connection with 9 the hearings that will go on later.

10 The committee and Acis make a big point of arguing
11 that Judge Jernigan is familiar with the shared-service and 12 management agreements between Acis and the debtor. However,
13 there was a lot of testimony from the podium on that. The only 14 testimony before Your Honor is that the contracts are 15 different. Mr. Waterhouse wasn't even familiar with the 16 contracts, couldn't provide any testimony. But Mr. Sharp
17 testified that the type of shared-service and advisory 18 agreements for CLOs are markedly different than the type of 19 services and advisory agreements for non-CLO entities. While 20 Acis' Counsel stood up there and said there's a template and 21 they're pretty much the same, that was purely argument. There
22 was no evidence in the record to reflect that.

23 And in fact, the only two agreements that involved
24 Highland in the Acis case were these two agreements. But 25 again, they're like apples and oranges.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

94

1 In any event, Your Honor, one of the matters that Mr.
2 Sharp is focusing on will be the appropriate economic 3 arrangement between the debtor and its affiliates and 4 nonaffiliates, through its shared-services and advisory 5 agreements. That has been a focus of DSI's analysis. The 6 committee has indicated that's something that they want to 7 focus on. And Mr. Sharp will come up with a recommendation as 8 to what those should be, and it'll be that recommendation
9 that'll be based on the market rate for these contracts in 10 these particular businesses that will be relevant for Your 11 Honor to consider, at some point.

12 They attached a post-confirmation opinion that Judge
13 Jernigan issued with respect to denial of a motion to seek 14 arbitration regarding provisions of those agreements. But if 15 you read that opinion carefully, you will see that the primary
16 issues in that case were whether an arbitration provision
17 actually survived, given that the last version of the agreement
18 did not have them -- there were five different iterations in 19 each of the agreements. And after concluding that the 20 arbitration provision did survive, she ultimately ruled that 21 that notwithstanding, she would not enforce arbitration because 22 the claims were too related to the other claims that were being 23 asserted. Again, nothing to do with the debtor's business.

24 In fact, Your Honor, after today, I have no doubt that 25 Your Honor will be a lot more familiar -- if Your Honor is not

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

95

1 already -- with what the debtor does. So Your Honor will hear
2 testimony from Mr. Caruso; Your Honor will hear testimony from 3 Mr. Sharp, about various aspects of the debtor's business, what 4 it's doing, its management structure, how that structure is 5 working. All that you will hear, which will put you in an
6 advanced state, compared to Judge Jernigan, as opposed to being 7 behind.

8 And there are other aspects of this case that are on 9 the way that have nothing to do with Acis. For example, we 10 just filed a motion to approve ordinary-course bonuses to 11 employees. And we may also seek approval of a KERP and a KEIP.
12 Acis had their own employees, and Judge Jernigan had no special
13 knowledge of the debtor that would put her in a better position
14 to give her an advantage over this Court in determining an 15 appropriate compensation structure.

16 It isn't that difficult. Your Honor hears it all the 17 time: KEIPs, KERPs. Judge Jernigan hears it all the time. My 18 point is, Your Honor, there's nothing that would help her, from 19 her knowledge of Acis, that would justify a transfer of venue.

20 They also stress that -- in their papers, that Judge
21 Jernigan heard a lot of testimony from debtor's management.
22 But they really don't discuss what the content of that 23 testimony is or how it's, in any event, relevant to this case.
24 They just really want to rely on the sheer volume of 25 information that they have foisted on Your Honor, citing to the

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

96

1 entire record, by saying there's so much; there's been hundreds
2 of pages, dozens of hearings, and then that means Judge
3 Jernigan is in a much better position.

4 If they wanted to point to specific things in the 5 record where the judge had specific knowledge, they could have.
6 They shouldn't (sic) have. And they're trying to do this on a
7 big holistic view, but when Your Honor looks at the record, I
8 think Your Honor will conclude otherwise.

9 In any event, it's not really -- they don't explain
10 why familiarity with the debtor's management is at all 11 relevant. Look, they clearly want a trustee in this case and 12 believe that because Judge Jernigan found debtor's management
13 to not be credible, she'll be more apt to appoint a trustee
14 than this Court. But that argument doesn't withstand scrutiny.

15 This case is different. This case is being managed by 16 a CRO. This case had the debtor file a motion it didn't have 17 to file for ordinary-course protocols. This case has -- thus 18 far, you haven't heard anything about any discovery disputes,
19 you haven't heard anything -- although you heard a couple weeks
20 ago there might be issues with cooperation, we provided a
21 substantial amount of documents, produced witnesses, in a
22 significantly accelerated time frame. You have heard nothing
23 about that.

24 So any un-cooperation or difficulty of any -- that
25 they may have encountered in the Acis case, there's no evidence

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

97

1 that that's occurring here, for good reason; because Mr. Sharp
2 is in charge. And although he is still reporting to Mr.
3 Dondero, as his corporate structure, Mr. Dondero can terminate
4 him, and if he terminates him, he has to give notice. That's 5 appropriate. That's one of the issues we address in connection
6 with the U.S. Trustee's concerns with the CRO motion. In order
7 to file a corporate governance, he has to report. But there
8 are certain things, as you'll hear later, that he has been 9 given primary responsibility for.

10 Your Honor, Chapter 11 is about giving a debtor a
11 fresh start, and this court is no -- this case is no exception.
12 This Court is fully capable of evaluating the veracity of the 13 debtor's witnesses; and transferring the case to Judge
14 Jernigan, when the real motivation is because of how she has 15 dealt with the prior case -- which they may not say it, but 16 that's clearly what's happening here -- would be unduly
17 prejudicial to the debtor.

18 We have nothing against Judge Jernigan. She is a fine
19 jurist. But in this case I think it's a challenge and there's 20 a reason why we decided to have the case filed here.

21 And then I'll also point to Your Honor the significant 22 adversity between the two estates. Your Honor mentioned that.
23 Counsel said, well, it happens in all cases. True. We've been 24 involved in many, many cases with multi debtors, that they have 25 issues in intercompany claims. That's a fact of modern

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

98

1 corporate life.

2 But this is different. The whole -- one of the -- the 3 most significant asset of Acis are their claims against this
4 debtor. How those claims are prosecuted and when they succeed,
5 may make or break the Acis case as to whether unsecured
6 creditors get paid or not.

7 In a case like this, this factor does not support a
8 transfer of venue; we argue that it supports keeping the case
9 before Your Honor so that it can maintain the separateness of 10 the estates.

11 In conclusion, Your Honor, we don't believe the 12 committee has come close to satisfying its burden that a change
13 of venue is appropriate under 1412. And as I mentioned at the 14 beginning of my presentation, the committee's motive in 15 bringing the motion and Acis' motive in joining the motion is 16 clear. Even though the debtor has installed a CRO with 17 expanded powers, with impeccable credentials to address
18 creditor concerns, the committee and Acis are focused on the 19 appointment of a Chapter 11 trustee and believe the transfer of 20 the case to Texas is the most likely to get that goal
21 accomplished.

22 But rather than filing the case -- or filing a trustee
23 motion here, they took their shot on a venue motion and hope
24 that Your Honor will give them a shot to do it in Texas.

25 Your Honor, for those reasons, we respectfully request

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

99

1 that Your Honor deny the motion.

2 THE COURT: Thank you.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Does Your Honor have any more
4 questions?

5 THE COURT: No.

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Reply?

8 MR. CLEMENTE: Briefly, Your Honor. I will be brief.
9 It will be a little less organized, because I'll just run
10 through some points very quickly.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. CLEMENTE: First of all, on Restaurant
13 Acquisitions, I believe in that opinion, Your Honor, there were 14 creditors that supported venue in Delaware. We do not have a
15 single creditor on the record supporting Delaware -- excuse
16 me -- supporting venue in Delaware.

17 Regarding the litigation in New York and Delaware,
18 that's a red herring, Your Honor. They're forced creditors.
19 They were forced to bring lawsuits to achieve their view of 20 justice. It's not relevant to whether -- the location of 21 that -- those lawsuits being in Delaware and New York. They 22 were forced to bring those lawsuits in order to get paid by Mr.
23 Dondero and the debtor.

24 Your Honor, we didn't call witnesses this morning,
25 because we believe -- as I mentioned in my argument -- that the

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

100

1 uncontroverted facts support our venue-transfer motion. The 2 other motions are their burden, Your Honor. And so I wanted to 3 remind Your Honor of that.

4           Regarding Young Conaway, obviously, we shouldn't -- it
5 shouldn't be held against us that we decided that the smart and 6 prudent thing to do is to have able Co-Counsel advise us as we 7 proceed in front of Your Honor. So I believe that that's 8 something that simply is of no moment.

9           The location of the assets, Your Honor, these are 10 financial instruments. They're interests in limited
11 partnerships. They're documents. They're things that are 12 created by documents. And again, it's not controverted.
13 That's all located in Dallas, Your Honor.

14           So this idea of far-flung assets throughout the 15 country just simply isn't true. These are documents. They're 16 interests. They're things that exist on paper.

17           Your Honor, we have not made this about the mom-and-
18 pop creditors. We take Your Honor's comments to heart on that.
19 As Counsel for Acis suggested, this is about the large body of 20 unsecured creditors that are sitting at the bottom of this cap
21 structure with oversecured creditors on top of it. And this 22 large body of unsecured creditors has said we believe that 23 venue is appropriate in Dallas.

24           Regarding the rules of evidence, of course Judge
25 Jernigan is not going to ignore the rules of evidence. But

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

101

1 we're talking about judicial efficiency.

2 For example, when I need to look at an indenture, I
3 know in article 2 it's going to have payment terms. That's the 4 type of thing that we're talking about, Your Honor; not that 5 she's going to pre-judge or ignore the rules of evidence as she 6 makes her determinations.

7 Finally, Your Honor, two things that I would -- that I
8 would like to say. The testimony you may hear this afternoon, 9 obviously that should not factor into what you're up the 10 learning curve today, right now, in terms of considering the 11 venue motion. That would put the cart before the horse, I
12 think.

13 And, Your Honor, I'd be remiss if I didn't talk about 14 this ordinary-course motion that we keep hearing about. If 15 they didn't need it, they shouldn't have filed it. But 16 instead, what they're trying to do is create some type of 17 transparency and legitimacy around transactions that I think
18 we'll make clear, are not in the ordinary course.

19 And the final point that I would make there, Your 20 Honor; it's interesting Mr. Pomerantz referred to the multi-21 strategy transaction. That one is -- Your Honor, I will 22 call -- a doozy. And you will hear more about it this 23 afternoon, to the extent Your Honor decides not (sic) to keep 24 venue.

25 With that, unless you have questions for me, I'll sit

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

102

1 down.

2 THE COURT: No questions.

3 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you.

4 THE COURT: Thank you.

5 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, I'll be brief, and I won't
6 repeat anything that Mr. Clemente, on behalf of the committee,
7 said. But I did want to just address kind of the first point
8 Mr. Pomerantz made with respect to Judge Hale, and he's not 9 aware of any formal statement that Judge Hale is not taking 10 cases. Your Honor, that's accurate. I'm not aware of any 11 formal statement that Judge Hale is not taking cases either.

12 So to answer Your Honor's question, in terms of random
13 assignment, in the Northern District of Texas, where I have 14 practiced my entire career, and primarily practice before the 15 courts that are there -- and I'm a former law clerk to Judge
16 Hale also -- I will say that although there may be a random
17 assignment, it is not -- absolutely not unheard of that when 18 you've got the matter -- for example, if a case were assigned
19 to Judge Hale, but Judge Houser were to hear first-day matters
20 and other significant matters, that Judge Hale would then 21 transfer that case for judicial efficiency and economy within 22 the district, to Judge Houser for further proceedings.

23 In other words, the Northern District of Texas always 24 finds the easiest way in which to handle matters. And I am
25 confident, Your Honor, that if this matter were transferred to

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 the Northern District of Texas, that despite whoever it would
2 be assigned to, that everyone is well aware of the time that
3 Judge Jernigan has spent becoming familiar with Highland, these 4 issues, and the amount of court resources that have been
5 expended, such that this case would be transferred to Judge
6 Jernigan.

7 But perhaps that's just a question for Judge Jernigan
8 and her courtroom staff or the Northern District of Texas and 9 the courtroom -- I'm sorry -- the court clerk or the staff
10 that's there.

11 Your Honor, one last very quick point. The comment
12 was made that -- with respect to CLOs that Highland hasn't had 13 a new CLO since 2009. That, Your Honor, is because every new 14 CLO that was issued from 2009 going forward to 2017, every one
15 of those was issued in Acis. Acis was the structured-credit
16 arm of Highland. It is how it issued new CLOs.

17 Indeed, it issued seven CLOs under Acis, with over two 18 billion dollars in assets under management. The fact that 19 there have been no new CLOs since then, simply means that they 20 haven't been able to get one off the ground.

21 But make no mistake, Your Honor, the CLO business is 22 valuable enough that it is now the subject of significant
23 litigation because of all of the attempts to transfer those CLO
24 assets away. So in terms of the court's familiarity, I would 25 submit, again, that the bankruptcy court is clearly more

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

104

1 familiar with a significant piece of Highland's business.

2 One last thing, Your Honor, and somewhat similar to
3 that, that Judge Jernigan was not familiar with the Korean
4 entities, the Singapore entities, or the multi-strat. I submit 5 to Your Honor that this Court hasn't been exposed to those 6 things as well, other than conclusory statements that well,
7 we've got some Korean assets; oh, we've got some Singapore
8 assets; and we've got multi-strat; and other than Mr.
9 Waterhouse's, like, five-minute testimony at the first-day
10 hearing where I was questioning him with respect to the assets
11 which he didn't really quite know about what's inside a 12 multi-strat.

13 Other than that, this Court hasn't been exposed either
14 to those assets, so when we're looking at the broad playing
15 field rather than looking at specific assets, there is a 16 learning curve. Judge Jernigan is further along it with 17 respect to certain things. Otherwise both courts are similarly 18 situated or neutral to each other. But it's those assets that 19 she is familiar with, the business model of Highland, and that 20 further along the learning curve that she is, that's what's 21 significant here, Your Honor.

22 And that will play into, clearly, what will ultimately
23 be how Highland is going to restructure. Again, the creditors
24 here have voted with their feet in filing this transfer motion.
25 And these are the very same creditors, Your Honor, that will be

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

105

1 necessary in order for this -- if it's going to be a successful
2 restructure, they're the ones that are necessary to make it a
3 successful restructure. Thank you.

4 THE COURT: You're welcome.

5 All right, let's break for lunch until 1:45. And when 6 I come back at 1:45 -- when we come back at 1:45, I am going to 7 issue an oral decision on this motion. All right.

8 (Recess at 12:39 p.m. until 1:47 p.m.)

9 THE CLERK: All rise.

10 THE COURT: Please be seated.

11 Okay, good afternoon. Thank you for coming back. I'm 12 now prepared to rule on the motion to transfer venue, which I'm 13 going to grant.

14 So I think, as I hinted at during argument, that the 15 case law that we're kind of clinging to on motions to transfer
16 venue, really do not reflect the modern reality of Chapter 11
17 practice in the U.S. and internationally. And I think a lot of 18 the parts of the test really don't reflect what's going on 19 generally in Chapter 11 cases.

20 The thing I take greatest umbrage -- no, "umbrage"
21 isn't the right word -- but disagree with the most is the idea
22 that there's somehow a strong presumption of the debtor's
23 choice of forum.

24 Look, every debtor that files bankruptcy -- certainly
25 every sophisticated Chapter 11 debtor that files bankruptcy --

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

106

1 is engaged in forum-shopping. There is an element to that.

2 Where you file will depend on a lot of things that are unique
3 to the forum.

4 I don't think you need to be ashamed of that. I don't 5 think that's bad. As long as the venue you're choosing is 6 appropriate under the law, certainly you're going to make
7 decisions based on what the law is in that particular district,
8 perhaps even a preference to individual judges or judge in that 9 district.

10 To compound that with a strong presumption in favor of 11 the debtor is to really give a boost to the debtor's choice of 12 forum, which is made -- included in the decision-making process
13 is an element of forum-shopping, to a level that makes it very 14 difficult to overcome that presumption.

15 Of course, the creditors that file a motion to 16 transfer venue are engaged in forum-shopping themselves.
17 Otherwise, why would they be switching forums and going for a
18 different location. Again, I don't think that the word "forum-
19 shopping" should have the negative connotation that it has come
20 to have in the law. It is the reality of bankruptcy practice.

21 Now, if that's involved -- if that goes a step further 22 and somehow involves chicanery or something inappropriate just 23 from an ethical standpoint, of course that's problematic. But 24 there's absolutely no indication here whatsoever that anyone,
25 on behalf of the debtor or the creditors or the Dallas court or

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

107

1 the Delaware court, is doing anything other than acting
2 appropriately.

3 The question about a motion to transfer venue is 4 whether the motion should be granted by a preponderance of the 5 evidence. If you add a strong presumption, you're turning it
6 into a harder motion to be granted; and I don't think that's 7 appropriate.

8 However, I find the laundry list of factors that are 9 generally discussed to be irrelevant or almost irrelevant to 10 the actual issues that are going on, particularly in a case
11 like this. And I'll get to that in a second.

12 So six of the debtors are located in Texas; UBS is 13 located in New York. UBS is located everywhere. Wells Fargo
14 is located everywhere. Certainly companies have executive 15 suites. But whether or not that should be the decision about 16 where a case should file, to me, isn't particularly clear. It
17 depends on the facts of the case.

18 I think a more general approach that would involve
19 looking at the facts and circumstances of a case and seeing 20 whether it points to a specific jurisdiction might be a more
21 helpful way of proceeding. And that's what this case is really 22 about.

23 This is a unique case, I think. It is a different
24 case than those that we usually run into. And although maybe
25 not completely different from every case, but in any event,

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

108

1 this case is very focused on responding to existing litigation.
2 And that existing litigation of a former affiliate, as of a few
3 months ago, and a pending appeal that could make it a current
4 affiliate, is located in the Northern District of Texas.

5 The judge in the Northern District of Texas has done a
6 tremendous amount of work and has done -- issued a number of 7 opinions, had a number of trials. That work creates a
8 familiarity with the facts, issues, and players in a case
9 which, while it may not affect the actual decision based on 10 evidence on a motion-by-motion basis, certainly could color a
11 judge's approach to a case.

12 Judges are human. Judges make judgments over time as 13 to the parties, as to the lawyers. That's not inappropriate,
14 as long as you stick by the rules of evidence. But it
15 certainly can color what credibility you might give to a
16 witness or to counsel.

17 I think here we have a situation where the real
18 gravitas of this case is in Dallas. The two facts that really 19 come out to me are, in this case, the fact that the executive 20 suite is very focused and very Dallas-oriented. It's a global 21 empire, but it's clearly focused in Dallas. And the existing 22 litigation in the Acis bankruptcy that's been going on for some 23 time; those are the two predominant factors.

24 Everything else kind of falls away. The creditors are 25 scattered. The assets are scattered. The economic

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

109

1 administration isn't being affected one way or the other. I
2 mean, people can get on planes and you can go to Philly or you
3 can go to Dallas. Either way, you're stuck on American
4 Airlines. But so be it.

5 It can be done. And as a result, I think that the 6 best solution here, to give the debtors a fair shot at 7 reorganization, but to balance the creditors' rights and the 8 creditors' desires, is to move the case to Texas.

9 And on that latter point, just to finish up. As I
10 said with my previous decision in EFH, it was striking in that 11 case that only one creditor moved to transfer venue and that 12 none of the other creditors either actively opposed or simply 13 stayed silent with regard to that motion, including significant 14 creditors, like the official committee.

15 In this case, we have the opposite. We have the 16 debtor defending its venue choice, of course. But there's a
17 lot of silence, because there's no one else on that side. I
18 thought it highly significant that Jefferies and -- is it
19 Fortress?

20 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Frontier.

21 THE COURT: Frontier, thank you. That Jefferies and 22 Frontier did not take a position. And no other creditors
23 opposed the committee's motion. And the committee consists of 24 a series of very large creditors.

25 So I think that given these facts and circumstances,

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1 particularly the unique nature of the ongoing litigation and
2 the existing tie to Dallas, the executive suite and management,
3 principal place of business, if you will, being focused in 4 Dallas, and creditors -- as Counsel said -- voting with their
5 feet to move the case to Dallas, and applying just a good old
6 fashioned preponderance of the evidence standard, that the 7 Court should grant the motion, which I will do.

8 Now, I need an order. And we will get the machinery
9 in place, as soon as I get the order signed, to transfer the 10 file as quickly as possible.

11 I did call Judge Jernigan prior -- right before I came 12 out -- well, right before I went and got lunch and then came
13 out -- to inform her what I was going to do, so the Dallas
14 court is aware that this is -- that this is an issue that's 15 coming their way.

16 Is there anything -- I'm not going to create a lot of 17 law of the case for Judge Jernigan on matters that don't need
18 to be decided today. Is there anything the parties actually
19 agree on that needs to go forward today or can go forward
20 today? If not, I'd rather just save everything for Judge
21 Jernigan to have a fresh look at. I know that she did mention
22 that she has availability on her calendar over the next several 23 weeks. So you should be able to get on it rather quickly, once
24 the case gets transferred.

25 We used to send big boxes in the mail to do this, but

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

111

1 now it's just hitting a couple buttons on a computer to take
2 care of that.

3 So is there anything we could -- we need to decide?

4 Okay. Just a question. Obviously there are estate
5 professionals -- Pachulski not really a problem, since you'll
6 stay in the case, but I'm thinking of Young Conaway -- and I
7 don't know if there are any other firms that are Delaware firms
8 that might fall out of the case that would be subject to the 9 Court. But I'll leave that for Judge Jernigan to decide
10 whether to retain them for a limited period of time or to pay
11 them or not pay them. Hopefully, of course, they've earned
12 their money; they should be paid.

13 Yes, sir.

14 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor, Ira Kharasch of Pachulski.
15 I think Your Honor, there is one vital matter that you should 16 hear today and rule on. I would think it would be generally an 17 easy motion. It is the application to employ the CRO. That is 18 within the debtor's business judgment, given -- as we described 19 the reasons for that, considering the concerns raised by 20 creditors.

21 I think it's critical that the CRO be formally
22 engaged. They've done a tremendous amount of work in the past
23 six weeks. They've been at the company full time, for a team,
24 for a month. They have done a lot of good stuff in this case.
25 They have a lot more things to do.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

1           The CRO has been tasked under the modified -- under 2 the protocols, with broadened authority to take all kinds of 3 and accept all kinds of decision-making over key decisions of 4 this case, involving insider transactions, ordinary-course
5 transactions. We've done a lot of work modifying the protocols
6 that relate to that.

7           This company is operating every day. I think the CRO
8 and his team deserve some comfort that they should get employed
9 as of today, Your Honor. I -- you know --

10           THE COURT: Let me hear from the committee.

11           MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor. Matthew
12 Clemente on behalf of the committee.

13           Your Honor, we don't agree with that. Again, it's not 14 about DSI being paid or not being paid. As Your Honor
15 mentioned with Young Conaway, that isn't the issue. But to the 16 extent Your Honor has any familiarity with the motions, they're 17 all intertwined. The CRO is all part of the protocols that 18 they're advancing in the ordinary-course motion.

19           So this isn't about simply retaining a professional to 20 ensure that that professional gets paid. It really is about 21 setting what I like to call concrete pillars in the ground in 22 terms of how the debtor views the case should be managed going
23 forward. And I think based on Your Honor's ruling, that's 24 something that Judge Jernigan should be given the opportunity
25 to weigh in on.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

113

1           So again, it's not about Mr. Sharp and his firm
2 getting paid. I don't believe that that is the issue. They
3 can continue doing what they've been doing, up to this point,
4 just like we have, for example, at Sidley, and the rest of the 5 professionals that haven't been retained. And I don't see why
6 that should cause a problem.

7           But we do believe that that is integrated with the 8 other suite of motions that would be before Your Honor; and we 9 think it's appropriate for Judge Jernigan to make those 10 decisions.

11           THE COURT: All right. Well, I don't view a retention
12 application to be an emergent basis to hear a motion anyway.
13 But I'm certainly not going to agree to sign it over objection
14 of the committee, given how I just ruled. So --

15           MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

16           THE COURT: -- I'd also say. So I'd ask the committee
17 Counsel to circulate a form of order and submit it under 18 certification of counsel. I think the simpler the better; just 19 for the reasons set forth on the record, and it's transferred.
20 Don't put a lot of findings in there. That'll just cause
21 trouble. That's my belief. But you can negotiate what you
22 want to negotiate, and as soon as that's ready, upload it,
23 inform chambers, we'll get it signed, and we'll start the 24 machinery in place.

25           MR. CLEMENTE: Great. Thank you very much, Your

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

114

1 Honor. We appreciate it.

2 THE COURT: All right. We're adjourned.

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - JANUARY 9, 2020 - 9:56 A.M.

2                   THE COURT: All right. Let's roll to Highland now.
3 Let's get appearances from lawyers in the courtroom, please.

4                   MR. POMERANTZ: Good morning, Your Honor. Jeff
5 Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones. Happy New Year,
6 Your Honor.

7                   THE COURT: Happy New Year.

8                   MR. POMERANTZ: Here on behalf of the Debtor.

9                   THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

10                  MS. HAYWARD: Good morning, Your Honor. Melissa
11 Hayward and Zachery Annable on behalf of the Debtor.

12                  THE COURT: Good morning.

13                  MS. LAMBERT: Lisa Lambert, and I think Ms. Kippes
14 will be joining me, representing William Neary, the United 15 States Trustee.

16                  THE COURT: Thank you.

17                  MS. CHIARELLO: Good morning, Your Honor. Annmarie
18 Chiarello and Rakhee Patel here on behalf of Acis Capital
19 Management, LP and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC.

20                  THE COURT: Thank you.

21                  MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning, Your Honor. Matthew
22 Clemente from Sidley Austin on behalf of the Official
23 Committee of Unsecured Creditors. With me today are my 24 partners Dennis Twomey and Penny Reid.

25                  THE COURT: Okay. Good morning. All right. Is that

1 all of the courtroom appearances?

2 All right. We have several people on the phone. I think
3 most of them are just listening in. If you're on the phone,
4 though, and you wish to appear, you may do so at this time.

5 MR. BENTLEY: Good morning, Your Honor. This is 6 James Bentley of Schulte Roth & Zabel. Also on the line is my 7 co-counsel, Joseph Bain of Jones Walker. We represent the 8 Issuers.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

10 MS. MASCHERIN: Good morning, Your Honor. This is --

11 MR. MAXCY: Good morning. Patrick --

12 MS. MASCHERIN: Good morning, Your Honor. This is 13 Terri Mascherin of Jenner & Block. Also on the line with me
14 is my partner, Mark Hankin. We represent the Redeemer
15 Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund, which is one of the 16 members of the Unsecured Creditors' Committee.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

18 MR. MAXCY: Good morning, Your Honor. This is 19 Patrick Maxcy from Dentons US, LLP on behalf of Jefferies, 20 LLC.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. All right. Well, I
22 guess that is it for the phone appearances.

23 Mr. Pomerantz, we're -- we have just one matter on the 24 calendar, the motion to compromise with the Committee. I saw 25 two limited objections, and then a U.S. Trustee's broader

1 objection. I'll start with, Do you have any of these 2 objections worked out?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, we do.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: We believe we have the Jefferies
6 objection worked out, as well as the objection of the Issuers.
7 And I'll, during the course of my presentation, alert Your
8 Honor to how that's worked out.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: And then we'll have a revised order
11 that basically addresses each of their concerns, or at least 12 Jefferies' concerns, but the statements on the record for the 13 Issuers' concerns.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Very good.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Good morning again, Your Honor. Jeff
16 Pomerantz; Pachulski, Stang, Ziehl & Jones. I'm joined in the 17 courtroom by Ira Kharasch, Greg Demo, and John Morris from my 18 office. I would also like to introduce the Court to the 19 proposed new members of the board of directors of Strand
20 Advisors, which is the Debtor's general partner. They're all 21 sitting in the first row behind counsel's well. And that's 22 Mr. James Seery, --

23 THE COURT: Good morning.

24 MR. POMERANTZ: -- Mr. John Dubel, --

25 THE COURT: Good morning.

7

1 MR. POMERANTZ: -- and the Honorable Russell Nelms.

2 THE COURT: Yes. I've met him before.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: As have we. We thought you would 4 remember him.

5 The resumes of Mr. Seery and Mr. Dubel were attached to 6 the motion filed on December 27th, and those two resumes and 7 the resume of the Honorable Judge Nelms were attached to the 8 reply that was filed last evening. And while Mr. Seery and 9 Mr. Dubel may be new names to Your Honor, we know that you are 10 familiar with Judge Nelms, who sat with you in this district.

11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Also in the courtroom, Your Honor, is 13 Brad Sharp, the Debtor's chief restructuring officer from DSI,
14 --

15 THE COURT: Good morning.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: -- and his colleague, Fred Caruso,
17 who spends most of his working hours at the Debtor's Dallas
18 headquarters.

19 THE COURT: Good morning.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: We have the declaration of Mr. Sharp
21 that we would move into evidence at this point in time.

22 THE COURT: All right. I've got a stack of paper.
23 If you have an extra copy for me to use, --

24 MS. HAYWARD: Your Honor, may I approach with the --

25 THE COURT: You may.

1 MS. HAYWARD: Your Honor, it was filed, the
2 declaration was filed. I'm not sure that we have a copy of --

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, we will also at the 4 appropriate time during my presentation, I'll bring up to Your
5 -- ask to bring up to Your Honor revisions to the term sheet
6 that was attached to the motion.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Copies have been given to Ms. Lambert
9 as well as the Committee.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. All right. Well, what 11 was handed to me was the preliminary term sheet as well as the 12 CVs for the proposed new board members. I don't see the 13 declaration --

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, if I may approach, I have 15 a copy.

16 THE COURT: You may. All right. Very good.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: So we would move that declaration
18 into evidence.

19 THE COURT: All right. The Court will admit this.
20 It was filed on the docket at 327, but I will additionally 21 admit it as Exhibit 1 today.

22 (Debtor's Exhibit 1 is received into evidence.)

23 THE COURT: At some point in time, I want to give 24 parties the opportunity to cross-examine Mr. Sharp. Do you
25 want to do that now, or shall we hear an opening statement?

1 MR. POMERANTZ: However Your Honor prefers. I mean,
2 maybe it's helpful to hear argument first, and then, before
3 the Trustee --

4 THE COURT: I think I'd like to hear opening
5 statements and then we'll --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you.

7 THE COURT: -- make the opportunity available. Okay.

8 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, by way of background, we 10 appeared before Your Honor on December 6th and December 19th.
11 And during each of those hearings, we described for the Court
12 negotiations that were underway between the Committee and the 13 Debtor which, if successful, would have -- would eliminate the 14 need for contested and uncertain and costly litigation
15 regarding the appointment of a Chapter 11 trustee and really
16 put this case in a position where the Debtor and the Committee
17 would be able to work together constructively towards 18 negotiation of a plan.

19 As a result of our hearing on December 19th, Your Honor
20 entered a scheduling order that set deadlines for either the 21 filing of a motion to approve a settlement, or alternatively,
22 the filing of one or more motions for the appointment of a
23 trustee.

24 As set forth and required by the scheduling order, we 25 filed our motion on December 27th, and in that motion we

10

1 sought approval of a term sheet and ancillary documents
2 between the Debtor and the Committee, which I'll describe
3 shortly.

4 While a couple of items had not yet been agreed to at the 5 time the motion was filed, I'm pleased to report that over the 6 last couple of days we've been able to reach closure with the 7 Committee with respect to those items, and there would also be 8 some modifications to the term sheet, which I'll go through in 9 a few moments.

10 The motion, Your Honor, seeks approval of the term sheet,
11 which accomplishes a variety of things that, again, will allow 12 the Debtor and the Committee to put the acrimony that has 13 existed in this case for the first three months behind us and 14 allow us to focus on productive matters. In the last 24
15 hours, as I mentioned, there have been a few changes to the 16 term sheet that I will describe. And I would like to hand up
17 Your Honor a redline and a clean copy of the revised term
18 sheet and exhibits. May I approach?

19 THE COURT: All right. You may. Do you have an 20 extra for the law clerk? Okay. Thank you.

21 (Pause.)

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, the term sheet does a
23 number of things. Would you like me to give Your Honor some 24 time to look through the redlines?

25 THE COURT: No. You may proceed.

11

1 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay. The term sheet does a number
2 of things. The first thing the term sheet does is appointment
3 of an independent board at Strand Advisors. Strand Advisors
4 is the GP of the Debtor. The Debtor is an LP. The Debtor
5 previously had filed a motion to approve the retention of Brad
6 Sharp as the chief restructuring officer, and that initial 7 agreement and motion contain details regarding the scope of 8 Mr. Sharp's authority and the scope of what the Debtor could 9 do without Mr. Sharp's prior consent.

10 The Committee raised concerns that the structure was not 11 sufficient to ensure that decisions were being made for the 12 Debtor only in their best interests and without any 13 inappropriate influence from Mr. Dondero.

14 To address the Committee's concerns, a focal point of the 15 settlement was the Debtor's agreement to appoint an 16 independent board of directors at Strand who would be 17 responsible for managing the operations of the Debtor.

18 Over the last few weeks, a principal aspect of the 19 negotiations between the Committee and the Debtor have been 20 discussing who should the independent directors be.
21 Conceptually, the Debtor and the Committee both agreed that 22 the board should include, first, a person with significant
23 industry experience in which the Debtor operates -- hedge
24 funds, money management; second, a person with deep
25 restructuring experience from the financial advisor side; and

1 third, a person with some sort of judicial or governmental
2 experience.

3 The Debtor originally provided the Committee with three
4 proposed candidates. The Committee considered the Debtor's
5 request, but instead presented the Debtor with four different
6 candidates and asked the Debtor to choose from those four.
7 The Debtors interviewed each of those people and ultimately 8 agreed on Messrs. Dubel and Seery, who were each on the 9 original list.

10 As of the deadline to file the motion on December 27th,
11 the Committee and the Debtor had still not agreed on the 12 identity of the third board member, but the parties were 13 hopeful that an agreement could ultimately be reached and we 14 decided to go ahead and file the motion. As I'm sure Your 15 Honor saw in the motion, it was contingent upon everyone
16 agreeing on the third board member.

17 Ultimately, the Debtor and the Committee both agreed that 18 Mr. Dubel and Mr. Seery could identify the third board member
19 out of a pool of four people: Two of the people originally 20 requested by the Committee and two people identified by the 21 Debtor. This week and over the weekend, Mr. Seery and Mr.
22 Dubel interviewed each of the four candidates, and ultimately
23 decided on the appointment of Judge Nelms as the third
24 independent board member.

25 The board, as it will be constituted going forward, in the

Debtor's opinion, consists of three exceptional individuals who are independent of the Debtor, have a sterling reputation in the community, and bring to the Debtor a variety of the skills that we believe, and believe the Committee agrees, gives the Debtor the best opportunity to achieve a consensual restructuring and otherwise manage the affairs of the Debtor in the best interests of the stakeholders.

It is contemplated that the Debtor will continue to retain the services of DSI as the chief restructuring officer, and ultimately the board will determine if it's important to retain a CEO going forward.

The second thing that the term sheet does, Your Honor, was the removal of Mr. Dondero as an officer and director of Strand and eliminate all of his control over decision-making of the Debtor. The Debtor recognized early on in this case that Mr. Dondero's continuing role with the Debtor in a position of authority made the Committee extremely uneasy. Accordingly, the term sheet provides for him removing himself as an officer and director of Strand and that he would no longer be in a position of control at the Debtor.

However, since the filing of the motion, over the last several days, concerns have been raised about whether removing Mr. Dondero from the business entirely would have unintended consequences. I believe I may have mentioned at prior hearings that, because of his involvement as a portfolio

1 manager under various contracts with third parties, that there
2 could be adverse economic consequences to the Debtor if he
3 didn't stay in some role.

4 As a result of discussions over the last 24 hours, the 5 Committee has agreed and the Debtor agreed to modify the term
6 sheet to allow the new board to decide whether to retain Mr.
7 Dondero in his capacity as a portfolio manager, provided,
8 however, that he will not receive any compensation and he will 9 agree to resign if requested by the board.

10 In any event, he will have no decision-making control at 11 all and he will report to the independent board.

12 The corporate governance documents that create the new 13 independent board of Strand also provide that Mr. Dondero, as 14 the owner of the equity in Strand, may not replace the board
15 without the Committee consent or court order.

16 The third major aspect of the term sheet, Your Honor, was 17 the agreement on operating protocols, and it really relates to 18 the ground rules for the Debtor's operations going forward and 19 when notice to the Committee is required of certain 20 transactions that would otherwise be in the ordinary course of 21 business.

22 Importantly, Your Honor, we are not trying to modify the 23 Bankruptcy Code in any way. Any transactions out of the 24 ordinary course of business would still be subject to Your 25 Honor's approval.

15

1           However, in this case, as we indicated in the initial
2 motion we filed when the case was in Delaware, whether or not
3 something is ordinary is not straightforward in a case such as
4 the Debtor's, given the nature of the Debtor's operations. So
5 we thought it was important to establish ground rules up
6 front, and establishing those ground rules was one of the 7 things we did initially in the case. We had opposition from 8 the Committee, and we've worked through the opposition and 9 ultimately arrived at the operating protocols that are 10 attached to the term sheet.

11           They have been slightly modified in nonmaterial ways in 12 the documents I handed up to Your Honor.

13           They were subject to substantial negotiations between the 14 Debtor and the Committee, and we also expect them to be the 15 subject of future discussions with the Committee and the 16 independent board after the independent board takes -- takes 17 place. Takes over.

18           Two parties in interest, Your Honor, Jefferies and a group
19 of Issuers, the CLOs, have filed comments to the term sheet,
20 which I'll describe in a few moments.

21           THE COURT: Okay.

22           MR. POMERANTZ: The next aspect, Your Honor, of the 23 term sheet was the provision of standing to the Creditors'
24 Committee to pursue certain insider claims.

25           During the negotiations, the Committee requested immediate

1 standing to investigate and potentially prosecute claims
2 against insiders to the extent those insiders were not
3 employed by the Debtor. Granting standing at this stage of 4 the case was a difficult give by the Debtor. However, the 5 Committee impressed upon the Debtor the importance of them
6 being able to control the filing of any actions against the 7 insiders, and the Debtor decided to accede to the Committee's 8 request.

9 It still remains the Debtor's hope that, with the creation
10 of the independent board, that the Debtor, the Committee, and 11 any insiders who might be subject to any such claims will be 12 able to come together and negotiate a consensual resolution of 13 this case. While all parties, I'm sure, can and know how to 14 litigate, hopefully they will agree that a negotiated outcome
15 is better than a litigated outcome.

16 The next aspect of the term sheet, Your Honor, was the 17 document preservation protocols, and it provides for certain
18 procedures to be put in place to address the Committee's 19 concerns about document preservation. They are contained in 20 an exhibit to the term sheet. Again, slight nonmaterial
21 modifications were made in what I handed up to Your Honor.
22 And essentially they provide also for the Committee's access
23 to privileged documents to aid in their investigation and 24 prosecution of claims to which they are granted standing, and 25 also sets forth a procedure to be followed to address concerns

17

1 if the information is subject to shared privileges by several
2 entities.

3 As I mentioned, Your Honor, three parties have filed
4 responses to the motion. The first is Jefferies. Jefferies
5 is a secured creditor of the Debtor with respect to its margin
6 account held at Jefferies, and also has a similar account held
7 by a non-debtor affiliate. They have asked for clarification
8 that, one, nothing in the protocols or the motion affects its 9 rights under the underlying agreements or the safe harbor
10 provisions of the Bankruptcy Code entitling them to enforce 11 their remedies; and two, that the Debtors will not trade in 12 the prime account without Jefferies' consent, and if that 13 consent is sought and not obtained, only subject to court
14 order.

15 The Debtor has agreed to include language in the order to 16 address Jefferies' concern, and at the conclusion of my 17 presentation I'll submit to Your Honor an order and a redline
18 containing that language.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: The second objection -- or not
21 objection, Your Honor -- the second statement was filed by a
22 group of Issuers of CLO obligations.

23 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

24 MR. POMERANTZ: And they were concerned that certain 25 aspects of the operating protocols which require notice to the

1 Committee prior to the Debtor being able to take certain
2 actions could conflict with the provisions of the underlying
3 agreements which might require the Debtor to take action on a
4 more expedited basis.

5 Neither the Issuers or the Debtor are aware of any 6 potential transactions that will arise prior to the next
7 hearing before Your Honor on January 21st. We understand --
8 we were not party to these discussions between the Committee
9 and the Issuers yesterday, but we understand the way it's been 10 resolved is that the Issuers will withdraw their objection as 11 it relates to going forward today, subject to being able to 12 come back to the Court on the 21st and revisit the issue if 13 additional changes are not made acceptable to them to resolve
14 their issues and concerns.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: But I think all parties acknowledge 17 that over the next 12 days this is a theoretical issue rather 18 than a practical issue.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: This brings us, Your Honor, to the 21 United States Trustee's opposition, which is really the only
22 true objection to the motion that has been filed. No creditor
23 has filed an objection, no investor has filed an objection,
24 and no governmental agency -- which the U.S. Trustee in its 25 objection purports to be pursuing their interests -- has filed

1 an objection, either.

2 As Your Honor probably recalls, at the December 19th
3 hearing the Trustee indicated its intent to oppose any 4 agreement between the Debtor and the Committee that would 5 involve corporate governance and to file its own motion for 6 the appointment of the trustee. That motion is currently 7 scheduled for hearing on January 21st. We had asked the U.S.
8 Trustee to reserve judgment on the Committee's and Debtor's
9 agreement until after we had come to an agreement and after we 10 had presented it to the Trustee, in hopes that it would 11 address their concerns. However, as the Court told us -- as 12 the U.S. Trustee told us and Your Honor at the December 19th
13 hearing, there was nothing short of appointment of a trustee
14 that would satisfy the Trustee.

15 The comments really didn't make sense to us, and I believe
16 it perplexed Your Honor, but here we are.

17 At its core, Your Honor, the U.S. Trustee's objection is 18 really a request that the Court substitute its business
19 judgment for that of the Debtor and the Committee, the 20 Committee who represents the substantial majority of all 21 claims in this case, when both of them have decided that 22 agreeing to certain changes in corporate governance, among 23 other things, is preferable to the uncertain, costly, and 24 time-consuming litigation over a trustee, and also the 25 uncertainty, even if a trustee was appointed, on how the case

1 would be administered.

2 To the contrary, under the corporate governance proposal,
3 we have three highly-qualified individuals who are poised to 4 take over management of the Debtor, and each bring with them
5 various skills that one trustee would not have.

6 The Trustee has filed its motion for appointment of a
7 trustee, and I'm sure on the 21st will argue that the Code
8 requires it. However, that's not the issue before Your Honor
9 today. It's not whether a trustee is appropriate. It's 10 whether the motion and the term sheet is a sound exercise of 11 the Debtor's business judgment under Section 363, and,
12 importantly, a reasonable compromise of the pending disputes
13 between the Debtor and the Committee.

14 The Trustee's objection raises three general points, none
15 of which have any merit. First, the Trustee argues that there
16 is a lack of disclosure of significant matters. The first 17 aspect that the Trustee raises to, or points to, is the 18 absence of identification of the third board member and the 19 absence of disclosure of the compensation that the board
20 members will receive, which will be backstopped by the Debtor.

21 As I described before, Your Honor, the identity of the 22 third member of the board was a fluid process which was only
23 resolved earlier this week, and the Debtor did not believe
24 that it was appropriate to reach agreement on director
25 compensation until all board members could provide input.

1 Last night, we filed a reply to the Trustee's objection in 2 which we disclosed the identity of the third board member, and
3 we'll also disclose the proposed compensation to be provided
4 to them, which essentially is as follows. Each member of the 5 board will receive $60,000 a month for the first three months
6 of the case, $50,000 a month for the next three months of the 7 case, and the presumption thereafter would be $30,000 a month.
8 However, people recognize that this case will look a lot
9 differently six months from now, and while the presumption is 10 $30,000, the Debtor, the independent board members, and the 11 Committee will sit down, see how the case looks, and decide
12 whether any modifications are appropriate.

13 The amount of compensation, which at first blush may seem
14 significant, really reflects the significant amount of work
15 that the Debtor, the Committee, and the independent directors
16 anticipate will be required from them not only to get up to 17 speed about the case, but to effectively manage this complex
18 Debtor's business operations. The directors have heard from 19 the Debtor and the Committee of all the issues, of all the 20 concerns, and this is not an enviable task that they are 21 undertaking. The compensation they are being provided thus 22 far we believe is appropriate under the circumstances and 23 commensurate with the work that they are going to be expected
24 to complete.

25 If they are successful and they are able to achieve a

22

1 consensual restructuring here, the million and a half or so
2 that will be spent on them will be best million and a half
3 dollars I think spent in this case.

4 Your Honor, we also have updated corporate governance
5 documents which --

6 (Pause.)

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, may I approach with the 8 updated corporate governance documents?

9 THE COURT: You may. Okay.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: As I will discuss in a moment, Your 11 Honor, there is really no need for the Court to approve the 12 corporate governance documents, as they have been executed by 13 Strand, which is not a debtor before this Court. However,
14 there are a couple of matters in those documents that I want
15 to bring to the Court's attention that do impact on the 16 Debtor.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: First, as is typical for board
19 members, Strand has agreed to indemnify the independent
20 directors to the full extent permitted by law. The 21 independent directors have requested that the Debtors backstop
22 Strand's agreement, and the Debtor and the Committee agree,
23 and the documents so provide.

24 Strand has also committed to obtain directors and officers
25 coverage for the independent directors. It has been located,

23

1 it's in the process of being finalized and bound, and the
2 Debtor will pay the cost of that coverage.

3 The independent directors have also asked for language in 4 the order approving the settlement that requires a party
5 seeking to assert a claim against the independent directors
6 relating to their role as an independent director to 7 demonstrate to this Court that a claim is colorable before
8 filing the claim and providing the Court with jurisdiction
9 over any such claim. This is language that's similar in other
10 similar types of cases.

11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: That will be reflected in the order.

13 Next, the Trustee objects to the failure of the Debtor to 14 identify who the potential chief executive officer of the 15 Debtor will be. And essentially, she's arguing that you have 16 to identify that CEO now; it has to be subject to court
17 approval. However, there's no requirement that any company
18 retain a CEO. It's not a corporate law requirement. And the 19 fact that the board reserves the right to retain a CEO in the 20 future is consistent with corporate law and is not a basis to 21 deny the motion. And in any event, normally, the retention of 22 a CEO is not a subject that is brought to the Court's
23 attention for Court approval.

24 So the lack of any clarity over the identity of the CEO is 25 a reflection of the fact that this independent board does not

1 know if a CEO is required. They will come in, they are going
2 to interview all the employees, they're going to sit down with 3 the CRO, they're going to sit down with counsel, they're going
4 to sit down with the Committee, and ultimately they will 5 decide if a CEO is to be retained. And if a CEO is to be 6 retained, they will go through the process of identifying who 7 that CEO is. But again, it's not a reason to deny the motion.

8 The Trustee has also argued that because the Committee is 9 not granted standing to pursue claims against current 10 employees, as opposed to former employees, that there might be 11 some statute of limitations concerns with respect to claims
12 against those employees. The argument doesn't really make 13 sense to us. In the standard case, the Debtor retains causes
14 of action. And the Committee can investigate causes of 15 action. And at some point during the case, a Committee could 16 come in and could demand that the Debtor prosecute them, and 17 if the Debtor unreasonably refuses, could seek standing before
18 the Court.

19 In this case, the Debtors agreed up front that the 20 Committee has the standing to prosecute certain claims against 21 insiders that are not employees of the Debtor, which obviates
22 the need for standing. So we've gone one step more. But the 23 Trustee is arguing that that leaves a void for the claims that 24 are not subject to the agreement on standing.

25 However, the term sheet provides that the board is going

25

1 to make determinations on what employees should remain, what
2 employees should not remain. To the extent the board
3 terminates any employees and there are claims against them,
4 then basically the Committee will have the ability to bring
5 those claims.

6 To the extent that those people aren't terminated, we have 7 no doubt that the Committee, in the course of its 8 investigation, will determine whether claims should be brought 9 against those people, and at some point in time may ask the 10 Debtor to prosecute those claims or ultimately seek standing.

11 In any event, these things are not being swept under the 12 rug. There's no real legitimate concern that there's any 13 statute of limitations issue that will prevent those claims
14 from being prosecuted.

15 I am very much aware and have no doubt that the Committee
16 is going to be laser-focused on claims, and any concern that 17 statute of limitations is going to lapse I think is not well-
18 taken.

19 The Trustee next argues that the Court does not have the 20 jurisdiction to implement the corporate governance matters,
21 and for that reason the motion should be denied. They -- she 22 argues that because Strand is not a debtor, that the Court has 23 no authority to appoint --

24 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, I object. The United 25 States Trustee is a he. I am not the United States Trustee,

1 and the attacks ad hominem are inappropriate.

2 THE COURT: All right. Well, clarification, the U.S.
3 Trustee is the guy in Washington. But anyway, you may
4 proceed.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: I apologize to Ms. Lambert.

6 MS. LAMBERT: Actually, he's downstairs right now.
7 Bill Neary.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: I apologize to --

9 THE COURT: Oh, well, I thought you meant the big guy
10 in Washington. But anyway, you may proceed.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: I apologize to Ms. Lambert and no
12 offense was meant.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: So, the U.S. Trustee argues that 15 because Strand is not a debtor that the Court has no authority
16 to appointment the independent directors and limit Mr.
17 Dondero's right to remove the independent directors. The 18 Debtor is not really seeking authority to appoint -- to have 19 court authority for the appointment of the directors at 20 Strand. Again, as I mentioned before, that authority exists
21 outside of bankruptcy. Strand is not a debtor. Strand could 22 appoint anyone it wants to carry out its responsibility as the 23 general partner of the Debtor, and it's exercising its 24 corporate authority to do so by installing a board at Strand.

25 Nor is the Debtor seeking court authority for Strand to

1 enter into the corporate governance documents. Other than the 2 couple of items I mentioned before, Your Honor, Strand can
3 enter into these documents without authority from this Court.
4 The only court authority that was required: Debtor to 5 backstop the indemnification obligations, Debtor to pay
6 compensation to the board members, and Debtor to pay for the 7 D&O policy.

8 With respect to the Court's right to limit Mr. Dondero's
9 ability to terminate the independent directors, the term sheet
10 contemplates the Court approving a stipulation which limits
11 Mr. Dondero's ability to terminate the independent directors, 12 and if he does in fact seek to terminate the appointment of 13 the independent directors, he would be in violation of court
14 order. But even more importantly, Your Honor, if he decided 15 to terminate the independent directors without the Committee's
16 consent and without the Debtor's consent, I wouldn't imagine
17 it would take anyone very long to come back before Your Honor
18 and ask Your Honor to very quickly appoint a trustee.

19 Accordingly, Your Honor, I think the argument of lack of 20 jurisdiction over Strand is a red herring and should be 21 denied.

22 Lastly, Your Honor, the Trustee makes a curious argument
23 that a trustee is needed to protect all investors and 24 governmental authorities. The Trustee argues that this case
25 demands transparency which can only be accomplished by a

1 Chapter 11 trustee.

2 One thing I think the Debtor and the Committee and the 3 U.S. Trustee will agree on, this case does demand
4 transparency. And we believe we've installed a corporate
5 governance structure, an operating protocol structure, a
6 document preservation structure, that does just that, provides 7 transparency that this Debtor has not been subject to and 8 which is quite different from the case that was before Your 9 Honor before.

10 So we believe that what the Debtor and the Committee have 11 done is not only in the interests of the Debtor, the 12 creditors, but investors and all governmental entities.

13 And no investor or governmental entity has had any 14 concerns or any problems with what is being done. They 15 haven't filed any objection. The U.S. Trustee apparently is 16 proceeding by proxy asserting those interests.

17 Second, nothing in the term sheet or any of the documents
18 limits the rights of investors or of governmental entities to 19 seek a trustee, to seek documents, or to do anything they 20 would -- that they would be entitled to do under the 21 Bankruptcy Code.

22 In any event, Your Honor, the fact that the Trustee
23 believes that a trustee is more appropriate, again, is an 24 argument that they can make at the January 21st hearing. It's 25 not a basis for denial of this motion.

1 In conclusion, Your Honor, the only economic stakeholders
2 in this case believe that proceeding with the transactions
3 contemplated by the term sheet is in the best interest of the 4 estate, will maximize their ability to achieve a consensual
5 restructuring, and move this case through the system as 6 quickly and efficiently as possible. The term sheet is a
7 valid exercise of the Debtor's business judgment under 363 and
8 an appropriate compromise of controversy, and the Trustee's
9 objections are really nothing more than a rehash of its 10 request for an appointment of a trustee.

11 For all these reasons, Your Honor, we request that the 12 Court overrule the U.S. Trustee's objection and approve the 13 motion.

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, before I hear from our 15 objectors, is there any friendly commentary? Mr. Clemente, I
16 figured you might want to address this.

17 MR. CLEMENTE: I do, Your Honor. And good morning.

18 THE COURT: Good morning.

19 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE OFFICIAL COMMITTEE OF
20 UNSECURED CREDITORS

21 MR. CLEMENTE: For the record, Matthew Clemente from 22 Sidley Austin on behalf of the Official committee of Unsecured
23 Creditors. I do have some comments that I would like to make,
24 Your Honor, some, so please bear with me. I will try and be 25 brief.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. CLEMENTE: I think as late as 1:00 o'clock in the 3 morning I wasn't sure that I would be in front of you with 4 this settlement fully in place in a manner that was 5 satisfactory to my Committee. As I mentioned to you in my 6 prior appearances in front of you, every provision was 7 important to the Committee, and they all work together. As 8 Your Honor can imagine, there was a lot of negotiation that 9 took place, including late in the day and early morning, to 10 come to that conclusion.

11 Some comments on our perspective as a committee, Your 12 Honor. As an initial matter, we were absolutely not okay with 13 the governance structure that was in place when the petition
14 was filed. As we detailed in our objections to the CRO motion
15 and the protocol motion back when the case was in Delaware,
16 the Committee has very real and identifiable concerns about 17 the Debtor's ability to dispatch its fiduciary duty. And the 18 Committee very seriously contemplated moving for a Chapter 11
19 trustee daily. That conversation is something that the 20 Committee continues to -- continued to engage in, Your Honor.
21 So it's something that they considered very, very carefully.

22 That was the lens through which the Committee was 23 approaching negotiations over the settlement agreement and the 24 independent director structure. That's how they viewed it.
25 That's the backdrop against which they came to it.

1       The Committee had two primary goals that it had sought to
2 achieve with the settlement agreement. The first was to 3 ensure that Mr. Dondero does not remain in a position of 4 management authority or control in any fashion with the 5 Debtor. Goal number two was to ensure that the value of the 6 Debtor's estate is preserved and maximized. Those two goals
7 needed to work together.

8       The Committee believes that the carefully-crafted
9 settlement agreement achieves these objectives in a manner
10 that is more beneficial to the estate than a potential Chapter
11 11 trustee and a related fight over its appointment at this 12 time.

13       The lynchpin of the settlement, Your Honor, is the 14 appointment of the three independent directors. And as Mr.
15 Pomerantz outlined for you, that was the subject of intense
16 discussion, negotiation, debate among the Committee and with 17 the Debtor. But we believe that Mr. Seery, Mr. Dubel, and 18 Judge Nelms are fully independent, highly qualified, and bring 19 relevant and complementary skillsets to this board. Mr.
20 Pomerantz referred to that, but we believe that the three 21 directors all bring unique talents and attributes that will 22 allow them to function effectively as a board and provide the 23 appropriate oversight and direction that we believe is 24 necessary here.

25       However, regardless of how independent or highly skilled

1 they may be, they would be of no use if they weren't bestowed
2 with the appropriate power. So that was another point that 3 was very important to the Committee, and we believe that the 4 settlement does this. The settlement makes clear that the 5 independent directors are granted exclusive control over the 6 Debtor, including over all employees. That's absolutely
7 critical to the Committee.

8 The settlement also provides that the CRO and the Debtor's
9 professionals shall report and serve at the direction of the 10 independent directors. That is also very important.

11 And let me be clear, Your Honor, because I think you may 12 have raised this at a prior hearing: This is not a board that 13 we expect to work at 50,000 feet, as demonstrated by the 14 compensation structure that Mr. Pomerantz outlined for you.
15 This will be a board that's hands-on, members of which will be 16 on the ground, at the Debtor, with a strong presence and a
17 clear message of who is in charge. That is critical for this
18 Committee.

19 Additionally, as Mr. Pomerantz mentioned, the new board,
20 in consultation with the Committee, is empowered to determine 21 whether a CEO should be retained. It's possible that one of 22 the independent directors could be that CEO, Your Honor. But 23 we wanted to make clear that that was an important part of the 24 structure, should the board determine that that was the way it
25 wanted to go.

1        So, in sum, Your Honor, we believe that the independent
2 board has the clear authority and the skillset that's 3 necessary to take control and will be actively and 4 aggressively doing so.

5        But let me be clear, rest assured, Your Honor, this is not 6 going to be a board that answers to the Committee in that
7 sense. I think that we will all be moving together
8 directionally, but it's very possible that I will be in front
9 of Your Honor arguing against a decision that this independent
10 board made. So I want to assure Your Honor that although the 11 Committee was very active and in fact picked Mr. Seery and Mr.
12 Dubel, and then Mr. Pomerantz detailed how the third director 13 was picked, we understand who their duty -- what their duty is 14 and we also understand that they're not a rubberstamp for the 15 Committee, Your Honor. And so I wanted to make that point to 16 you to assure Your Honor that that's not the structure that's 17 being set up here, nor are they the type of individuals that 18 would allow that to happen.

19        Additionally, Your Honor, the settlement grants the 20 Committee standing to pursue estate causes of action against 21 the related parties. That was very important to us, Your
22 Honor.

23        And in addition to that, the settlement provides the 24 Committee access to privileged documents and sets forth a
25 discovery protocol that will assist the Committee in its

1 investigation.

2 The Committee strongly believes that Mr. Dondero's
3 repeated past behavior, that there are many questionable
4 transactions that will need to be thoroughly investigated and 5 pursued. And so having those causes of action with the 6 economic party in interest related to those causes of action,
7 the Committee and its constituencies, we thought was very 8 important and very critical.

9 Granting standing, Your Honor, as I mentioned, avoids any 10 issues regarding who will be controlling those claims.

11 I'll touch on this in a moment, but Mr. Pomerantz talked
12 about Mr. Dondero remaining in name as an employee. Let me
13 assure Your Honor that that is not a backdoor around the 14 Committee's ability to investigate and immediately pursue 15 claims against him should that be the course that we choose to 16 take. So he's not part of that carve-out for current 17 employees. That's not at all happening. That would never be 18 something that my Committee would be comfortable with. So I
19 wanted to make clear to Your Honor that that's not something
20 that's happening with sort of this late edition of Mr.
21 Dondero's continuing on in name as an employee.

22 Your Honor, the settlement also lays out a very detailed
23 set of operating protocols which we do believe are appropriate
24 and provides the Committee with transparency, which I've been 25 expressing to Your Honor we've needed since this case has

1 started.

2 Finally, as we point out in our reply and as would always
3 be the case, should new facts develop or the situation demand
4 it, the Committee reserves the right to seek a Chapter 11
5 trustee, as does any other party in interest, to the extent it
6 may be appropriate at that time.

7 In short, Your Honor, the Committee very carefully and 8 diligently weighed the independent director option versus the 9 Chapter 11 trustee option. The Committee had very clear goals
10 in mind, as I expressed to you, and determined that those 11 goals could be achieved in a value-maximizing manner through 12 the independent director structure.

13 The negotiations were very intense, and it was only after 14 the Committee determined that each piece of the settlement was 15 to its satisfaction did it ultimately conclude that the 16 settlement maximizes value for all stakeholders while at the 17 same time protecting those stakeholders from exposure to 18 continuing insider dealing, breaches of duty, and 19 mismanagement.

20 Therefore, the Committee believes approving the settlement
21 is in the best interest of the estate, and therefore it
22 believes it should be approved.

23 I do want to offer a word about Mr. Dondero continuing as 24 an employee. As Your Honor was aware, the term sheet as 25 originally filed provided that Mr. Dondero would, among other

1 things, resign as an employee of the Debtor. Mid to late
2 afternoon yesterday, Mr. Ellington called me and said that the 3 Debtor was now of the view that Mr. Dondero should remain on 4 as an employee in that capacity for the benefit of the estate.
5 The Committee was, very appropriately, very skeptical of this,
6 as well as the sort of last-minute offer, last-minute, you
7 know, addition, however you want to view it -- some might
8 argue retrade -- that Mr. Dondero was to leave the Debtor,
9 period. That was our view. That was the way that the term
10 sheet was initially structured. And under no circumstances
11 was the Committee going to allow Mr. Dondero to have any 12 control over this Debtor.

13 Your Honor, the Committee doesn't know what, if any, the 14 consequences are of removing Mr. Dondero as an employee. And 15 we're not conceding at all that there are any value lost by 16 removing Mr. Dondero as an employee. Instead, what we're 17 doing is we're staying true to our structure with the 18 independent directors and we're empowering them to decide.
19 And so it's consistent with, you know, our goals of having the 20 independent director structure in place. And under the 21 settlement as now constructed, even with this late addition or 22 adjustment, Mr. Dondero would remain as an employee in name
23 only, subject in all respects to the direction, oversight, and 24 removal by the independent board. And importantly, should 25 they decide to do that, Mr. Dondero shall resign. And he

1 shall receive no compensation.

2 So he will not be in control of this Debtor. The
3 independent directors are. And he's not going to be empowered
4 to make decisions on behalf of the Debtor. Instead, we're
5 empowering our independent directors to make those decisions
6 and determinations on behalf of the Debtor.

7 I wanted -- I thought it was important that I provide that 8 perspective to Your Honor, as this is something that came in 9 at a very, very late hour.

10 Overall, Your Honor, for the reasons I have stated and the 11 reasons in our reply, the Committee, as a fiduciary of all 12 creditors in this case, believes that the settlement is in the 13 best interests of the creditors and should be approved. And 14 at this time, it's the better alternative than the cost,
15 delay, and uncertainty resulting from a Chapter 11 trustee
16 fight and the potential appointment of a Chapter 11 trustee.

17 It is time to put the governance issues behind us, Your 18 Honor, and to move forward to determine how to maximize value
19 for the creditors and how to get them paid.

20 Your Honor, just regarding the specific resolutions of 21 objections that Mr. Pomerantz put on the record, I agree with 22 how Mr. Pomerantz characterized those, and the Committee is 23 supportive of those resolutions as well.

24 Those are all my remarks, Your Honor, but I am happy to 25 answer any questions or address any concerns Your Honor may

1 have.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Two follow-up questions. First, I
3 know I asked you this at a previous hearing and you told me,
4 but your Committee, as I recall, is very well constituted.
5 Just remind me of the members.

6 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes.

7 THE COURT: You have a representative from the 8 Redeemer Committee, --

9 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: -- which is a $140 million or so
11 arbitration award?

12 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Okay. And who else is on the Committee?
14 Is an Acis representative?

15 MR. CLEMENTE: Acis is on the Committee, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

17 MR. CLEMENTE: Meta-e Discovery, who is a trade
18 vendor of the Debtor, is on the Committee. And UBS
19 Securities, who is also --

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. CLEMENTE: -- a litigation claimant, is on the
22 Committee.

23 It was the U.S. Trustee in Delaware's parting gift to me
24 to name a four-member committee, Your Honor.

25 (Laughter.)

39

1 THE COURT: Okay. Makes it awkward at times. And
2 then back to the Dondero subject.

3 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: I mean, again, both Mr. Pomerantz and you
5 clarified that the proposal now is the new board will decide
6 if he stays on, Mr. Pomerantz said as a portfolio manager.

7 MR. CLEMENTE: That is correct, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Am I -- I mean, I'm hearing that
9 correctly?

10 MR. CLEMENTE: That is correct, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: So, right now, whatever officer positions
12 he has, he's technically not resigning? Or --

13 MR. CLEMENTE: He is resigning as an officer of the 14 company, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Okay. He's resigning? So the board will 16 just decide, is he going to be a portfolio manager or some -- 17 whatever the employee title is?

18 MR. CLEMENTE: Or they could decide that he's not 19 necessary.

20 THE COURT: Or not necessary? In any event, no
21 compensation?

22 MR. CLEMENTE: That is correct, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. CLEMENTE: And as you can see, the term sheet
25 provides that Mr. Dondero shall not cause any related entity

40

1 to terminate any agreements with the Debtor as well. That was
2 language that was added last night as well.

3 THE COURT: All right. So they're going to make the 4 decision, does he help preserve value by staying in some 5 capacity or not?

6 MR. CLEMENTE: That is correct, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. CLEMENTE: That, cutting through it, that is the 9 way that ultimately the Committee views it.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. CLEMENTE: And if there's an opportunity -- and 12 I'm not conceding that there is. I'm not conceding that he 13 preserves any value.

14 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

15 MR. CLEMENTE: But we wanted to give the option to 16 our independent directors to make that determination. Because 17 if there's an opportunity to preserve value, that's what we're 18 trying to achieve.

19 THE COURT: Okay. And I don't even know if you've 20 thought through this. Would there be some sort of notice
21 filed on record in the case if --

22 MR. CLEMENTE: If --

23 THE COURT: -- if the decision is made to --

24 MR. CLEMENTE: To -- to --

25 THE COURT: -- hire him or keep him as a portfolio

1 manager?

2 MR. CLEMENTE: So, I think the default under the term
3 sheet, as revised, is he stays in that capacity in terms of 4 name. The independent directors will -- they're subject to 5 his control and direction, and they could decide to remove 6 him.

7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

8 MR. CLEMENTE: Perhaps if Your Honor --

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. CLEMENTE: We could provide notice if they make 11 the determination to remove him, but I think the default is 12 that, you know, he's in that -- he's remaining as that 13 employee name currently. So that's the current default.

14 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you.

15 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you very much, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Well, Ms. Patel, you're getting up so
17 I'll hear -- I don't know who all has been in the loop over 18 this overnight development.

19 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF ACIS CAPITAL MANAGEMENT

20 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, Acis has been in the loop as 21 a member of the Committee. And I will be very brief with 22 respect to Acis's individual comments. And I just want to be 23 clear: Obviously, I'm here as counsel for Acis, and so this 24 is Acis's individual position. Mr. Clemente aptly and very 25 ably handled the Committee's overall position with respect to

1 this.

2 But Your Honor, I just want to, on behalf of Acis, make
3 sure that, because of these developments, that's really -- I
4 really had hoped to have zero role today, but I want to make 5 sure that we're -- Acis is on record with respect to our 6 position. And obviously, given Your Honor's knowledge and 7 oversight of the long history of Acis's bankruptcy case and 8 seeing some of the events that transpired there, I'm sure that 9 this will all, against that backdrop, make an awful lot of 10 sense.

11 But, you know, it's this continued role for Mr. Dondero
12 that is of concern. You know, this issue even being raised 13 within like the last 48 hours by Mr. Ellington, the timing of 14 it just creates an issue. I mean, did this -- how could this 15 possibly have come out of left field when this is such a huge 16 part of what the Debtor does in its ordinary course of 17 business, is serve as a portfolio manager, and these are 18 contracts that have been negotiated, generally speaking,
19 internally by Highland. So the fact that if Mr. Dondero were 20 to exit the structure and there would be some potential
21 ramifications to that, I've got to wonder how much of a
22 surprise could that really have been to Highland folks.

23 But I just wanted to highlight, in connection with the 24 term sheet -- this is the preliminary term sheet that was 25 handed up Your Honor, and I believe Your Honor has a redline

1 version of it as well --

2 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

3 MS. PATEL: -- on Page 2, with respect to the role of 4 Mr. James Dondero, there's various provisions in there. And I
5 guess I would be remiss, Your Honor, if I didn't say, at least 6 out of the gate, Acis obviously supports the implementation of 7 this independent board of directors. We believe all the 8 candidates are very capable and are -- we put our reliance
9 upon them.

10 Obviously, we don't concede any issues. We'll see what 11 we're going to do. But certainly, for the time being, we do
12 support the entry of this agreement of the settlement -- or,
13 I'm sorry, approval of the settlement agreement by the Court
14 that lets the independent board be put into place.

15 But what I'll focus the Court on, on Page 2 under the role
16 of Mr. James Dondero, it goes through various provisions as to 17 what he'll resign to -- positions he'll resign from and that 18 he will remain as an employee of the Debtor, including 19 maintaining his title as portfolio manager for all funds and 20 investment vehicles for which he currently holds that title.
21 And then it goes on to provide as to who he'll report to and 22 how he will be governed, which includes by the independent
23 board, he will receive no compensation, and that he will be 24 subject to at all times the supervision, direction, and 25 authority of the independent directors.

1        Again, we have faith that the independent directors will
2        oversee this and will govern his role accordingly. However,
3        given Acis's history with how transactions have transpired at 4        Highland, we remain highly cautious with respect to what 5        happens next.

6        And to that end, Your Honor, the very last sentence there
7        on Page 2, "Mr. Dondero shall not cause any related entity to 8        terminate any agreements with the Debtor," is a key provision 9        of this that keeps Acis, as a Committee member, on board with 10       this agreement. I wanted to highlight that and note that, in 11       the last less than 48 hours, in the last 12 hours, or maybe a 12       little bit more than that, call it 18 to be safe, that's where 13       -- that's a provision that's been -- that's where we've ended
14       up. It's all of these issues have been going at lightning
15       speed, but I did want to just, for the record and so everybody 16       is clear, that is an important piece of this agreement to -- 17       for Acis.

18       And as Your Honor knows, this Debtor, Highland, is wont to 19       try to terminate agreements and to try -- in an attempt to try 20       and transfer valuable contracts away and valuable revenue
21       stream away from an entity to an alternate entity. And that's 22       really the heart of our concern, Your Honor.

23       So, with that, I just wanted to be clear and be on record
24       as to Acis's position. Thank you.

25       THE COURT: Thank you. All right.

1 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, if I briefly may respond
2 to the issues with Mr. Dondero while they are fresh in Your 3 Honor's mind?

4 THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, look, we appreciate the 6 timing of this coming to the attention of the Committee as 7 being less than optimal. As Your Honor can appreciate, this 8 case that's been filed three months ago, a lot of people are 9 looking very carefully at what's happening to the Debtor.
10 Investors are looking. There was a transfer of venue. There
11 have been a lot of reports about potential trustee motions.
12 And we believe a lot of parties are waiting to see the outcome
13 of this hearing and the trustee hearing to determine whether 14 they will determine to continue to do business with the 15 Debtor.

16 It's not only an issue of contractual rights. It's also 17 an issue of whether investors feel comfortable on who is 18 managing, who is managing their investments.

19 This issue of Mr. Dondero's continuing role has been 20 something that at the Debtor we've continued to grapple with 21 over the last several weeks. It's always been our thought
22 that we should do nothing that would unduly harm the company
23 from an economic standpoint. I think the Committee shares
24 that. That if it's determined by an independent board -- and 25 don't take current Debtor professionals, don't take current

1 Debtor employees' word for it -- but if they determine that
2 there's an economic benefit by keeping him on to preserve
3 material revenue stream, they should be able to make that
4 determination. I think that's really at the core here. And I
5 think the Committee got ultimately comfortable with it because
6 it will be an independent board, the majority of the members
7 identified and chosen by them and accepted by the Debtor.

8 So, again, we apologize to the parties and the Court for 9 bringing this on late. It wasn't my intent to come here and 10 present modified versions of the term sheet that hadn't been 11 filed. But that's where we are, and that's why it has come 12 up, and that's why it's an extremely important issue, because 13 preserving whatever revenue we can for the Debtor is 14 important.

15 Now, at the end of the day, the board may either decide
16 that he doesn't preserve the revenue, or the negatives from 17 keeping him involved with the company outweigh any benefits.
18 And that's a decision they will have to make, and it'll be 19 their province to make. So I just wanted to give Your Honor
20 that perspective.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. DAUGHERTY: Your Honor, may I approach?

23 THE COURT: Mr. Daugherty? You may.

24 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF PATRICK DAUGHERTY

25 MR. DAUGHERTY: I apologize. I was not planning to

47

1 address the Court at all today. I would have had my attorney
2 here for it. But I just ask a little bit of indulgence to 3 represent myself pro se for this issue.

4 This is the first I've heard that Mr. Dondero would stay
5 with the company. I think it's an awful idea. There's a
6 litany of reasons for that.

7 By the way, I'm completely in support of this -- of this
8 board that's been chosen. I have every confidence that 9 they'll be able to make good decisions eventually. But 10 they're stepping into this thing new. Obviously, I've been 11 through this in your court with Acis and other matters, and I
12 have deep, deep concerns about Mr. Dondero continuing in that 13 role, simply because of the influence it has on the rest of 14 the organization and the message that it sends, both 15 internally and externally, of where the company goes from 16 here.

17 So I just wanted to let you know my thoughts. I wasn't 18 planning to make them. I haven't filed anything. But that's 19 where I stand.

20 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Daugherty.

21 All right. Before we hear from the U.S. Trustee, who I
22 know is going to have a lot to say, let me just circle back
23 briefly to Jefferies counsel and the CLO Issuers' counsel.
24 You heard the representations of Mr. Pomerantz earlier about,
25 well, first, in the case of Jefferies, that the Debtor has

48

1 agreed to language to address your concerns. Do you want to 2 weigh in on that and confirm that you're content that you're
3 going to have language to work out your concerns?

4 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF JEFFERIES, LLC

5 MR. MAXCY: Thank you, Your Honor. Patrick Maxcy for 6 Jefferies.

7 No, I don't have anything additional to add to what Mr.
8 Pomerantz said. The language that we have worked out will 9 speak for itself and will be included in the order.

10 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

11 And counsel for the CLO and CDO Issuers, do you confirm 12 that you would be in agreement to basically withdraw your 13 objections for now, but perhaps come back and make argument on 14 the 21st if you have not worked out language with the 15 Committee that you think works?

16 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE ISSUER GROUP

17 MR. BENTLEY: James Bentley from Schulte Roth for the 18 Issuers, Your Honor.

19 I believe the deal that Mr. Pomerantz and Mr. Clemente
20 and I have discussed was adjourning our objection to the 21st,
21 --

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. BENTLEY: -- rather than withdrawing it.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. BENTLEY: We're -- we believe we will be able to

1 come up with language acceptable to the Issuers, but we would
2 like to reserve the right to come back to the Court on our 3 limited objection if we cannot, given that our issue is really
4 -- really only relates to the 25 Issuers we represent.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you very much.

6 All right. Ms. Lambert?

7 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE UNITED STATES TRUSTEE

8 MS. LAMBERT: May it please the Court. As the Debtor
9 acknowledges, the motion that they are settling, the issues
10 that they are settling, are the issues that the U.S. Trustee
11 has raised in his motion to appoint a Chapter 11 trustee. As 12 a matter of statutory construction, Section 1104 does not 13 contemplate settlement of these issues. 1112, in contrast,
14 has a provision that if the Court finds and determines that 15 there is cause to convert a case, there are unusual
16 circumstances and the Court can find a reasonable
17 justification for the wrongdoing or the error that occurred 18 that led to cause -- for example, administrative defects in 19 1112, not filing monthly operating reports -- and that can be 20 cured. The Court has to make a finding that those -- these 21 defects can be cured within a reasonable period of time.
22 Section 1104 contains no analog to his.

23 If the Court finds cause to direct the appointment of a
24 Chapter 11 trustee, then the Court is supposed to appoint a
25 Chapter 11 trustee. And Trailer Ferry and AWECO both stand

50

1 for the proposition that, on today's day, we're supposed to
2 have evidence about what the management issues are that led to
3 this agreement. There's been no evidence. There's been no
4 allegations in the motion for settlement. And so the U.S.
5 Trustee is prepared to put that evidence on.

6 And Your Honor, one aspect of this is that the arbitration
7 agreement has been sealed. And there are people on the phone.
8 I don't know who's on the phone. The U.S. Trustee has opposed
9 the sealing of the arbitration -- not arbitration agreement,
10 the arbitration judgment -- has opposed the sealing of that.
11 And then they referenced a confidentiality order as the basis
12 to seal it. The U.S. Trustee also opposed that 13 confidentiality motion, which was filed subsequently to the 14 motion to seal.

15 There is no confidentiality order. An interim order was 16 entered sealing the arbitration award, but -- and the U.S.
17 Trustee has honored that by redacting all of the pleadings
18 that we filed relating to that, but it's important today for 19 the U.S. Trustee to be able to discuss it in argument, and it 20 is here -- and we have it prepared to be admitted into an 21 exhibit.

22 So, to proceed with my argument, Your Honor, I need some 23 clarification about what I can say.

24 THE COURT: You want clarification from me on what 25 you can say?

1 MS. LAMBERT: Well, I mean, either that or we need to 2 clear the room.

3 THE COURT: I've read the arbitration award.

4 MS. LAMBERT: Right.

5 THE COURT: It's in my brain.

6 MS. LAMBERT: Right. Okay.

7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

8 MS. LAMBERT: And so one of the arguments here today
9 is that the U.S. Trustee is representing the SEC and 10 representing other Government agencies and things. No.
11 Obviously, that is not the U.S. Trustee --

12 THE COURT: I didn't hear that.

13 MS. LAMBERT: Okay. The -- one of the positions has 14 been, in the papers, is, well, that we don't have standing to 15 raise their issues. And that's true.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MS. LAMBERT: But the problem is that the U.S.
18 Trustee has been constrained from discussing those issues with 19 the SEC. The arbitration award is very relevant to the SEC's 20 oversight. I anticipate the evidence today will be that the 21 SEC, after the financial crisis of 2008, imposed restrictions
22 on this Debtor on breach of fiduciary duty issues. I
23 anticipate that the arbitration findings would be very 24 relevant to whether those issues are ongoing or not.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Let me weigh in. I view the legal

1 standard that this Court has to weigh today as being: Is the
2 Debtor proposing something that is reflective of sound
3 business judgment, reasonable business judgment? And to the 4 extent this is a compromise of controversies with the 5 Committee, is this fair and equitable and in the best interest
6 of the estate?

7 And as Mr. Pomerantz has said, you know, a lot of this
8 maybe doesn't even need Court approval. But to the extent
9 there are aspects of this that are appropriate to seek Court
10 approval on, you know, this is my task. I have to look at 11 what's presented, and is this reflective of sound business
12 judgment? Is this fair and equitable? Is it in the best
13 interest?

14 So, assuming there are tons of bad facts here reflected in 15 the arbitration award, reflected in other evidence, bad facts
16 that might justify a trustee, a Chapter 11 trustee, is this 17 nevertheless, what's proposed today, a reasonable compromise
18 of, you know, the trustee arguments the Committee could make 19 or, you know, is this a reasonable framework for going 20 forward? Okay?

21 So I guess what I'm saying is I'm confused about, you
22 know, do I need to look at the arbitration award? Do we need
23 to have evidence of all of that? I can assume that there are 24 terrible facts out there that might justify a trustee, but I'm 25 looking at what's proposed. Is this a fair and equitable way

1 to resolve the disputes? Is it sound business judgment?

2 Frankly, is it a pragmatic solution here to preserve value?

3 So that's the legal standard I have in my mind here.

4 MS. LAMBERT: Yes, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MS. LAMBERT: The standard is whether it is fair and 7 equitable to resolve the issues in the Chapter 11 trustee
8 motion, and it is the U.S. Trustee's position that they are 9 not resolved by this. And how are they not resolved? Number 10 one, they're not resolved because the problems that led to the 11 breach of fiduciary duty issues and findings are more
12 pervasive, both based on this Court's finding in the Acis case
13 and in the arbitration court's finding in Mr. Dondero. Other 14 officers are implicated.

15 THE COURT: But how --

16 MS. LAMBERT: Other employees are implicated.

17 THE COURT: Okay. I feel like maybe we're talking at 18 each other, not getting each other. I've got a proposed 19 solution here to totally change the playing field, if you
20 will. Bring in incredibly qualified people to --

21 MS. LAMBERT: Those people --

22 THE COURT: -- to change out the, you know, the 23 person that you say breached fiduciary duties, the, you know,
24 mismanagement, whatever bad labels we have here, but bring in 25 a clean slate.

54

1 MS. LAMBERT: No, Your Honor, because employees
2 remain at the Debtor who are problematic. The board that is
3 appointed owes a fiduciary duty to whom? Strand. Dondero.
4 He's still the board -- he is the sole stockholder. Yes. In 5 addition, --

6 THE COURT: And they won't be taking directions from 7 him.

8 MS. LAMBERT: In addition, --

9 THE COURT: The term sheet is they won't be taking 10 directions from him.

11 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, there is no evidence before
12 the Court today that Mr. Dondero has entered a stipulation.
13 This is part of the problem. This continues --

14 THE COURT: Well, if he doesn't, in five minutes the 15 Committee is going to be filing their trustee motion, right?

16 MS. LAMBERT: Well, then we haven't saved any time or 17 any money. This is the whole issue. They have to put on 18 evidence that this is a resolution of issues. We're going to 19 have the motion to appoint a Chapter 11 trustee either way.

20 THE COURT: All right. Well, we did have the 21 evidence of Mr. Sharp. Would you like to cross-examine him at 22 this point?

23 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, I would like to put the 24 U.S. Trustee's exhibits into evidence and then cross-examine 25 him.

55

1 THE COURT: All right. Your exhibits?

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, we would object to any
3 exhibits. The Trustee has not filed an exhibit list.

4 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, this matter was set on an 5 expedited basis and the Court does not require exhibit and 6 witnesses lists when a matter is filed on an expedited basis.
7 It's impossible, when a response is filed at 5:00 o'clock the 8 evening before and supplements are made in the morning of the 9 hearing, for the U.S. Trustee to put on a witness and exhibit
10 list.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, we were here on the 19th.
12 We set out a briefing schedule. And maybe it was a couple
13 days short of normal notice. Ms. Lambert agreed to issue
14 discovery by a certain date, and she at no point said that 15 because there was 13 days' notice as opposed to longer period
16 that she couldn't comply and provide a witness list.

17 We provided with a witness list. We provided an exhibit
18 list. The Trustee's effort and attempt to now submit exhibits
19 and rely on maybe there were some changes this morning, that 20 just doesn't cut it, and that's not fair and that's not due
21 process.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain the objection. The 23 exhibits won't be admitted since there was no exhibit list.

24 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, I do not have an exhibit
25 list from them. And they --

1 THE COURT: Well, they haven't offered any.

2 MS. LAMBERT: They put on new exhibits this morning.
3 The exhibits that the U.S. Trustee has are all things that 4 they are familiar with.

5 THE COURT: Let me back up. They didn't introduce 6 any exhibits. They --

7 MS. LAMBERT: But they introduced the declaration,
8 they introduced the supplements to the agreement that were 9 drafted this morning, they've introduced the new corporate
10 resolutions, all of which they handed me this morning.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, the declaration of Mr.
12 Sharp, it's two pages long. It is, I don't think, any kind of 13 surprise information.

14 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, --

15 THE COURT: I'll allow you to cross-examine him.

16 MS. LAMBERT: -- the U.S. Trustee's exhibits are no
17 surprise, either. The Acis opinion is no surprise to anybody
18 in this courtroom.

19 THE COURT: Okay. Well, what are your exhibits?

20 MS. LAMBERT: The --

21 THE COURT: I probably should have asked.

22 MS. LAMBERT: The exhibits are the Acis opinion, the 23 arbitration awards or the determinations, both the partial and 24 the final, and the SEC's original judgment. There are four 25 exhibits.

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Pomerantz, what
2 would you like to say? One of them I have obviously seen,
3 since I wrote it.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, you've written it. You wrote
5 it.

6 (Laughter.)

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I think this is a tempest
8 in a teapot. The Committee's brief that it filed in 9 opposition to the CRO retention, the ordinary course
10 protocols, and the cash management motion had a litany of 11 description of the Redeemer litigation, of the SEC litigation.
12 There are plenty of bad facts out here. Okay? We have an 13 interim order to seal. There was no hearing set today for our 14 final hearing.

15 The Trustee has objected to that order, and I suspect that 16 will be heard on the 21st. We don't think it's appropriate to 17 introduce the Redeemer award. However, we have read the 18 redacted provisions or portion of the U.S. Trustee's brief,
19 and we have no problem if the U.S. Trustee limits its argument
20 to the redacted portion in presenting that to the Court.

21 In other words, we don't believe that the few sentences
22 that were redacted need to be redacted.

23 However, to the extent they intend to submit the 24 arbitration award, we don't think it's appropriate, we don't 25 think it's necessary, we think Your Honor hit it right, that

1 the issues today are not whether there's mismanagement at the 2 Debtor. Okay?

3 The U.S. Trustee's position is, notwithstanding this new 4 structure, it doesn't work. She has a trustee motion on. She 5 can argue on the 21st that it doesn't work. Nobody is 6 prejudicing her right to do so.

7 We think it's prejudicial, it's unfair, it's procedurally
8 improper to submit the Redeemer arbitration award and to allow 9 the Trustee to do anything other than describe exactly what 10 she has in her pleading.

11 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain the objection to those 12 exhibits. Again, I've read them. They're in my brain. I
13 wrote one of them. But I will allow you to cross-examine Mr.
14 Sharp. So, Mr. Sharp, would you please come to the witness
15 stand? Please raise your right hand.

16 BRADLEY SHARP, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

17 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated.

18 MS. LAMBERT: To clarify, Your Honor, has the Court
19 considered the Acis opinion and the arbitration opinions based 20 on judicial notice?

21 THE COURT: And we're doing a lot of hair-splitting
22 here. I'm just letting you know I -- the facts are in my 23 brain. You can't extract them from my brain. Okay?

24 MS. LAMBERT: Okay.

25 THE COURT: I know there have been a lot of bad

Sharp - Cross

59

1 things, arguably bad things. But to me, the real issue here
2 today is whether this framework that has been heavily
3 negotiated with the Committee reflects reasonable business
4 judgment on the part of the Debtor, is a fair and equitable
5 resolution of the Committee's, you know, arguments in favor of 6 a trustee, and whether this makes, you know, sense going
7 forward to allow this Debtor to go forward without a trustee.
8 Okay?

9 So I really think that the evidence you want is not 10 terribly relevant. We technically aren't here on a trustee
11 motion today. We're here on whether a new board and the 12 terms, the protocols suggested, reflect reasonable business
13 judgment and reflect a fair compromise of arguments the 14 Committee has raised. All right? So I don't know how much 15 more clear I can make that. I guess the technical answer is 16 I'm not taking judicial notice of those things for purposes of 17 today.

18 All right. You may proceed.

19 CROSS-EXAMINATION

20 BY MS. LAMBERT:

21 Q Mr. Strand, can you state your name for --

22 A Sorry. Bradley Sharp, S-H-A-R-P.

23 Q Sharp. Mr. -- oh, sorry.

24 A No relation to Strand.

25 Q All right. Strand is the general partner of the Debtor,

Sharp - Cross

60

1 right?

2 A That is correct.

3 Q And there has been no change in the board of the Debtor
4 except Mr. Dondero's resignation; is that right?

5 A Well, it's a little different, because the -- Strand is 6 the general partner of the Debtor.

7 Q Yes.

8 A So the new board will be acting and in control of the 9 Debtor.

10 Q Yes. And there is -- Strand is a non-debtor, correct?

11 A That is correct.

12 Q And the stock of the non-debtor, Strand, is owned by 13 Dondero?

14 A Mr. Dondero owns Strand Advisors.

15 Q In its entirety?

16 A That is correct.

17 Q So the board will owe a fiduciary duty to Mr. -- to Mr.
18 Dondero?

19 A The board will have a fiduciary duty to the Debtor and to 20 Strand Advisors.

21 Q All right.

22 A Their duty is to the entity.

23 Q The -- Strand, as the general partner, as an entity, owes 24 a fiduciary duty to the Debtor, right?

25 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the extent it calls for a

Sharp - Cross

61

1 legal conclusion.

2 THE COURT: Sustained.

3 BY MS. LAMBERT:

4 Q Do you know?

5 A As a lay person. I'm not an attorney.

6 Q Okay. So you don't know what the fiduciary roles of the 7 board will be; is that right?

8 A Well, the fiduciary board will be acting -- you know,
9 looking at it from my perspective as the chief restructuring
10 officer, the new board will be acting as the Debtor-in-
11 Possession. And, you know, they will be directing the Debtor-
12 in-Possession. You know, the Debtor-in-Possession has duties
13 to all parties in interest, and they will be directing the 14 Debtor. They will be directing me as CRO.

15 Q And, in addition, there may be a CEO, right?

16 A That is contemplated, correct.

17 Q It is contemplated? It --

18 A It is -- it is an option that the board has if they think
19 a CEO is necessary.

20 Q But you don't know whether a CEO is going to be appointed 21 or not?

22 A That's up to the board.

23 Q And you don't know what the compensation for that 24 individual might be, right?

25 A Again, that's up to the board.

62

1 Q Mr. Dondero is going to be an employee of the Debtor,
2 right?

3 A That's correct.

4 Q And Mr. Dondero started the Debtor, correct?

5 A I believe so.

6 Q And he also started Strand, right?

7 A I believe that's correct.

8 Q And he is also in control of a number of entities that the 9 Debtor does business with; is that right?

10 A That is correct.

11 Q Mr. Ellington is going to remain on with the Debtor?

12 A That -- Mr. Ellington is an employee. All employees are 13 now subject to the board.

14 Q Okay. And Mr. Ellington's role with the Debtor is what?

15 A He is general counsel with the Debtor.

16 Q And there are other in-house attorneys with the Debtor,
17 right?

18 A That's correct.

19 Q And who else is there currently?

20 A I don't have the list in front of me, you know, the 21 employee list. As of now, because obviously this is still --
22 hasn't been effected, so the board has not made any decisions
23 with respect to any employees going forward.

24 Q And the CFO remains the same?

25 A Yeah, that is, again, as of now. I don't know what the

63

1 board is going to do, if anything.

2 Q Do you have any anticipation of what you would recommend
3 to the board regarding the CFO?

4 A You know, I have many recommendations I have not made to 5 the board yet. I just met them this morning.

6 Q Are you aware that historically this Court has found that
7 the lawyers provided bad advice to the Debtor?

8 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

9 THE COURT: Sustained.

10 BY MS. LAMBERT:

11 Q Do you have any knowledge about whether there have been 12 findings that the law firm gave erroneous advice to the 13 Debtor? Or, I mean, the in-house counsel gave erroneous
14 advice.

15 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

16 THE COURT: Sustained.

17 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, I'm asking for the 18 foundation.

19 THE COURT: Rephrase.

20 BY MS. LAMBERT:

21 Q Do you -- are you aware of any concerns about the in-house
22 counsel?

23 A Yes.

24 Q What is your knowledge?

25 A I have read the rulings from this Court.

Sharp - Cross

64

1 Q And what is your understanding of those rulings?

2 A I don't recall specifically. I read that early on when I
3 was first employed. But there have been concerns with respect
4 to, you know, management of the Debtor.

5 Q As the CRO, have you made any recommendations to change
6 employees to date?

7 A As of now, I don't have a -- the board. You know, the 8 board has just been employed. We have not made
9 recommendations up to this point. We are still -- obviously,
10 have been evaluating our position and what needs to happen. I
11 think it's important for the Debtor at this time, a little 12 stability would be a good thing for -- until we develop the 13 direction going forward.

14 Q Are you familiar with the compensation terms for the 15 directors?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And the directors are employees of Strand but paid by the 18 Debtor; is that right?

19 A Oh, I'm not sure they're employees of Strand, but they are 20 paid by the Debtor, their compensation. That's correct.

21 Q And yet the compensation is technically through Strand,
22 right?

23 A They -- they are. They have to act through the general
24 partner of the Debtor because of the corporate structure.

25 Q One of the portions of the agreement is that the Committee

65

1 acquires litigation claims. Are you familiar with that?

2 A I am.

3 Q Have you parsed out which litigation claims those might be
4 at this point?

5 A I think the agreement says they have litigation claims
6 against insiders and related parties. So I don't know what
7 those individual claims are. I don't know what exists.

8 Q Are you aware that the Committee obtains the attorney-
9 client privilege and work product privilege?

10 A Yeah. Subject to the terms of those agreements, correct.

11 Q Have you gone through the documents and determined which 12 ones would fall on -- which attorney files would fall on which 13 side?

14 A Not as of yet.

15 Q Have you been taking direction from Mr. Dondero?

16 A We've had -- I've had limited interaction with Mr. Dondero
17 since my retention. You know, we have been complying with the 18 protocols that we had been negotiating with the Committee and 19 providing information to the Committee. We have been, as a 20 result of those protocols, instructing management of the 21 company on compliance with those protocols. So they have 22 brought to us transactions that they would like to do. We 23 have reviewed those transactions and compared it to the 24 proposed protocols and have been enforcing those. So if 25 management has asked to do a transaction that does not meet

Sharp - Cross

66

1 within those protocols, we have been declining the
2 transaction. And that -- you know, the company has agreed
3 with that decision and accepted that decision.

4 Q When you say management, who are you -- to whom are you
5 referring?

6 A You know, the whole management team at the company. In-
7 house counsel. The CFO. You know, I've had limited
8 interaction with Mr. Dondero. One interaction was he did
9 question one of my decisions that I made. We discussed it and 10 he accepted my conclusion.

11 Q You're at the Debtor every day?

12 A My team is.

13 Q You are not?

14 A I have had some travel restrictions due to a medical 15 issue, but I have three of my team there every day.

16 Q Is Mr. Dondero there every day?

17 A I don't know. I don't think so. In the few days I'm 18 there, I've not seen him.

19 Q Is Mr. Ellington there every day?

20 A No.

21 Q Who on the management team is there every day?

22 A You know, our primary interaction is with Isaac Leventon,
23 Frank Waterhouse, the CFO. You know, primary interaction, you
24 know, with David Klos, who is the controller, in dealing with 25 the financial issues.

Sharp - Cross

67

1 Obviously, we spend a lot -- my team spends a lot of time
2 with the head of compliance.

3 Q Were you surprised by this addition that Mr. Dondero would 4 remain as an employee?

5 A I can't say I was surprised. It is an issue that we 6 struggle with, given the nature of this company's business.
7 You know, I see the change in the language and, you know, as 8 CRO, I am comfortable with it.

9 Q So, as CRO, if Mr. Dondero is necessary now, you recognize 10 that he was necessary three weeks ago?

11 A I'm not saying that he's necessary. I'm saying that it is 12 important for the board to be able to make that decision.

13 Q And it wasn't important when the settlement was filed?

14 A It was the -- it was a struggle at the time. I was 15 concerned at the time it was filed the unintended consequences
16 of Mr. Dondero resigning completely and disappearing, because 17 there are a significant number of funds that the Debtor deals
18 with related parties that are controlled by Mr. Dondero, and I
19 was worried about the financial impact with it. I knew this 20 issue was important to the Committee. And if that's something 21 that the Debtor agreed to and the Committee agreed to, so be
22 it.

23 You know, I think the last-minute compromise is acceptable
24 and appropriate. I think the language as negotiated is going
25 to be very helpful to the Debtor. And I think, then, it's up

Sharp - Cross

68

1 to the board to make the decision, with full knowledge on
2 what's the best avenue forward.

3 Q And the language as negotiated was added because, in the 4 past, there have been problems with Mr. Dondero changing or 5 terminating agreements with related entities, right?

6 A There was that -- I've seen that -- issues raised in the 7 Acis case.

8 MS. LAMBERT: No further questions.

9 THE COURT: All right. Any redirect?

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Not from the Debtor.

11 THE COURT: Anyone have examination? No? All right.
12 Thank you, Mr. Sharp. You're excused.

13 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

14 (The witness steps down.)

15 THE COURT: All right. Are we going to have any 16 other, I guess, witnesses, evidence?

17 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

18 MR. POMERANTZ: No, Your Honor. I just had a couple
19 points. One, Ms. Lambert mentioned that she hadn't seen a
20 copy of the stipulation referred to, which was prohibiting Mr.
21 Dondero from terminating the board. There's a good reason for 22 her not having seen it. I hadn't provided it to her. It just 23 came this morning, right before the hearing. I have one 24 signed copy. I have other copies that I could represent, even 25 though they're unsigned, are the same, so I would like to

69

1 provide Your Honor. I'll keep the signed copy but provide you
2 with an unsigned copy, but it's the same, and also give one to 3 the U.S. Trustee.

4 THE COURT: But you've got a signature of Mr. Dondero
5 on that?

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, I do.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: May I approach?

9 THE COURT: You may. Thank you.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, maybe for the record it
11 would be appropriate for me to show Your Honor the signature,
12 so you could say that you've seen it?

13 THE COURT: Yes. Yes.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: May I approach again?

15 THE COURT: You may. (Pause.) Okay. Thank you.

16 The record will reflect I've seen Mr. Dondero's signature.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, one of the threads that 18 Ms. Lambert said to Your Honor is that there were employees
19 still remaining at the Debtor and that those employees may 20 have been involved in some wrongdoing.

21 I submit, Your Honor, if Your Honor appointed a Chapter 11
22 trustee today, what would a Chapter 11 trustee do? A Chapter
23 11 trustee wouldn't terminate every employee at the Debtor. A
24 Chapter 11 trustee, if he or she was doing what they should 25 do, would go down to the company, would interview members of

1 the company, senior management, and decide who should stay on 2 and who should not stay on.

3 That, I submit, Your Honor, is exactly what this board
4 will do. So the concept of there being something different
5 done, if you have a board here or not, I don't think makes
6 sense.

7 And lastly, Your Honor, Ms. Lambert expressed the issue as 8 whether it's fair and equitable to resolve the U.S. Trustee
9 issues in this way. I don't think that's the standard. The 10 only fair and equitable I understand is in plan confirmation.
11 I think Your Honor said it straight, which is: Is this a 12 valid exercise of the Debtor's business judgment and is it an 13 appropriate compromise of controversy? That is the standard.
14 And, again, we have always acknowledged that, notwithstanding
15 how Your Honor rules today, the Trustee reserves the right to 16 come back to court and argue a trustee is appropriate on the 17 21st.

18 We believe, Your Honor, that many of the cases, in this 19 circuit and elsewhere, look to the continuing management of 20 the company and whether management issues have been addressed
21 as a significant factor in determining whether a trustee is 22 appointed. And it'll come as no surprise, of course, if Your 23 Honor grants our motion today, this will be a lynchpin of our 24 opposition to the trustee motion.

25 But, again, those issues are for another day, and we

1 believe that we have satisfied our standard, and we request
2 that Your Honor approve the motion.

3 THE COURT: All right. Other closing arguments?

4 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE UNITED STATES TRUSTEE

5 MS. LAMBERT: Yes, Your Honor. As the Debtor
6 acknowledges, the Court has no jurisdiction over Strand. This 7 is a complicated structure. A trustee avoids all of the 8 complications involved in the Court exercising jurisdiction
9 over an entity that it doesn't have jurisdiction over.

10 To enter a stock stipulation related to a non-debtor is 11 highly irregular, and Mr. Dondero is the person behind that.
12 It has happened in cases where people have been in these kinds
13 of structures, like that FSLIC used to put in these kinds of 14 structures -- there's published opinion, the Gaubert case --
15 where the person continued to exercise control even though
16 they had a stock trust.

17 The Court needs a person beholden to the Court. The 18 evidence is that, historically, this Debtor has entered into 19 things that breached its fiduciary duty and resulted in self-
20 dealing and liability for the Debtor. The evidence is that 21 these go beyond Mr. Dondero and the Court does not have 22 jurisdiction over his stock. The Court does not have 23 jurisdiction over Strand. The board members of Strand are not 24 employees of the Court, they're employees of Strand, a non-
25 debtor. These members have a fiduciary duty to Strand.

1 Yes, Strand is the general partner of this Debtor and has
2 a fiduciary duty, but all these fiduciary duties intermix in
3 ways that result in conflicts for this case. These conflicts
4 are unnecessary. The Court could just appoint a trustee who 5 only owes a fiduciary duty to the members and creditors of 6 this case, as well as the next (inaudible).

7 There is no evidence that this is cheaper. There is no
8 evidence that this is a total resolution, because issues are 9 left open, such as whether or not a CEO is going to be 10 appointed, how much that person is going to cost.

11 Finally, Your Honor, the sealing has constrained the 12 ability of some of the parties to understand what's going on 13 in this case. And that is material to the argument about who 14 is here, because we don't know who -- that all the people who 15 would have participated in this discussion had an opportunity
16 to participate in it.

17 Yes, the creditors have a fiduciary duty, and I believe 18 that they represented to the best of their ability, but they 19 are not charged with the issues that others are charged with,
20 such as the SEC.

21 There is no evidence that the officers are disinterested.
22 Rather, the new officers are going to be conflicted by the 23 nature of their position. There's no evidence that it's 24 cheaper. And a trustee, if appointed, could be appointed on 25 an hourly basis. This is a Chapter 11 trustee.

1           They argue that the trustee would not have the knowledge,
2           and yet they've been able to find three candidates to serve
3           for the board who are qualified. So there's no evidence that 4           it would not be better to have a trustee for that reason as
5           well.

6           The evidence is that, historically, the Redeemer Committee
7           was set up to prevent these kinds of transactions and have 8           oversight. Historically, the evidence is it did not work.
9           For this reason, the statute provides a solution, and the 10          Court should impose it. The Court should deny this motion as 11          not being in the interest of the estate, as not being a sound 12          exercise of discretion, because it's really the discretion of 13          Strand, not the Debtor, and it will remain the discretion of 14          Strand, not the Debtor.

15          Thank you.

16                THE COURT: All right. Anyone else have comments?

17                MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, just a couple of minor
18          points.

19                THE COURT: Okay.

20                CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

21                MR. POMERANTZ: Ms. Lambert started by saying the 22          Court doesn't have jurisdiction over Strand. I know I just 23          handed her the stipulation, but the last paragraph of the 24          stipulation specifically says that the parties stipulate and 25          agree that the Court shall have exclusive jurisdiction over

1 all matters arising from or related to the interpretation and 2 implementation of this stipulation and the adjudication of any
3 parties breaching the stipulation.

4 So the Court does have jurisdiction now that the 5 stipulation has been signed, assuming that the Court enters
6 it, so I think that addresses that issue.

7 Your Honor, the evidence of the disinterestedness of the 8 members of the board, we've provided their curriculum vitae.
9 We've made representations that they have no connections with 10 the Debtor or any of the parties in interest. We don't think
11 that, just because they become appointed and become a director
12 of Strand, that that renders them disinterested [sic], and we 13 think that the Trustee's arguments that being at a different
14 level creates different duties is just not -- is not accurate.
15 I don't think that the Committee would have had any appetite
16 for this type of structure had they believed that each of 17 these board members wouldn't feel that their fiduciary duty
18 was to the Debtor's estate. And they all are seasoned
19 restructuring people from different aspects, all understand
20 their fiduciary duties well, and all are prepared to carry 21 them out.

22 Lastly, the Trustee points to the historic issues, and 23 specifically mentioned the Redeemer Committee and that 24 structure didn't work. Well, I think it speaks volumes, Your 25 Honor, that not only the Redeemer Committee, are they on the

75

1 Committee and the Committee has supported this motion, but the 2 Redeemer Committee hasn't come to Your Honor and said that,
3 notwithstanding that structure that may or may not have been
4 effective, this structure is ineffective.

5 And at the end, Your Honor, the Trustee is trying to 6 replace the business judgment of the Debtor. The Debtor is 7 entitled to deference of the judgment, again, focusing on the 8 correct standard. And, again, the Trustee will have her day
9 in -- his day in court in connection with the ultimate trustee
10 motion on the 21st.

11 Thank you, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Anyone else?

13 All right. Well, the Court is going to note a few things
14 as part of its ruling, obviously. The new proposed 15 independent board members for Strand, Strand obviously being 16 the general partner of the Debtor, Highland -- Mr. James 17 Seery, Mr. John Dubel, and retired Judge Russ Nelms -- are 18 highly-qualified individuals with respect to the industry.
19 Some of them with respect to restructuring. Certainly, in the 20 case of retired Judge Nelms, with regard to fiduciary duties
21 and the Bankruptcy Code requirements.

22 These three individuals were chosen by the Creditors'
23 Committee, whose constituency is broad, whose constituency is 24 owed well over $100 million. And they were chosen by the 25 Committee after literally months of negotiation. Obviously,

1 this bankruptcy was filed in October, and it appears to this
2 Court, from the representations of counsel, that from the very
3 beginning of the case -- the Committee was, I guess, appointed
4 a week or two after the case was filed in October -- there's 5 been haggling over corporate governance of this Debtor.

6 So we have highly-qualified individuals. We have
7 individuals who were chosen by the well-constituted Creditors'
8 Committee. And what has been proposed to the Court is that it
9 is these independent directors that would have sole and 10 exclusive management and control of the Debtor.

11 An interesting jurisdictional argument has been made, and 12 it's one of those arguments that, frankly, you know, sounds
13 good when you first hear it, but when you really drill down
14 about the governance structure here, I mean, obviously, this 15 Debtor is a limited partnership and it acts through a general
16 partner. It's the general partner that controls the Debtor
17 entity. And while Strand Advisors, Inc., the general partner, 18 may not technically be in bankruptcy, it's the structure of 19 these entities such that it controls the Debtor. So the 20 jurisdictional argument, when you drill down, feels a little 21 off.

22 Moreover, we have language in the stipulation where Strand
23 is stipulating and consenting, if you will, to this Court's 24 exercise of jurisdiction over it.

25 There are many things about the compromise here that have

1 very compelling appeal. Among them, certainly, the Committee
2 that's negotiated this term sheet retains the right at any
3 time to move for a Chapter 11 trustee if it believes there are 4 grounds. The Committee is granted standing to pursue estate
5 claims, certain estate claims right off the bat, without 6 having to come back and ask the Court, without having to rely
7 on the Debtor to pursue that. There are document production
8 provisions, document preservation provisions, a shared
9 privilege negotiated, that are very powerful tools for the 10 Committee, and certainly operating protocols that have been 11 negotiated regarding the Debtor's operations that are very 12 powerful tools for the Committee.

13 I said many times during the Acis case -- those who were 14 here will remember -- that the company, Acis, was not a great 15 fit for Chapter 11. Lots of companies aren't great fits for 16 Chapter 11, I suppose, but the kind of business it was was 17 kind of tough to maneuver in Chapter 11. Human beings and 18 their expertise create value. And while we had a Chapter 11
19 trustee, a stranger come in and take control over Acis, you
20 know, there's great uncertainty whether that stranger is going
21 to be able to preserve value and have the smooth transition
22 into Chapter 11 that's really going to be the best fit.

23 Here, as I've said earlier, the legal standard I view as 24 controlling here is 363 and whether what has been proposed
25 reflects reasonable business judgment. Is there a sound

1 business justification for proposing the independent slate of 2 directors at the GP level for the Debtor, the protocols, the 3 negotiation with the Committee, the document sharing, the 4 standing given to them? Does all of this reflect reasonable
5 business judgment? And I find, quite clearly, it does. I
6 find it to be a pragmatic solution to the Committee's concerns
7 about existing management and control.

8 And I think I used the words "fair and equitable," not 9 just Ms. Lambert, because it is also presented to the Court as 10 a 9019 compromise of disputes with the Committee, and we 11 traditionally use a fair and equitable and best interest of 12 the estate analysis in this context. So, to the extent that 13 applies, I do find this a fair and equitable way of resolving 14 the disputes with the Committee, and I find this to be in the 15 best interest of the estate. So I do approve this.

16 And by approving this motion, I'm approving the term sheet
17 as it's been presented, the various terms therein, the 18 exhibits thereto. I'm specifically approving the new 19 independent directors, the document management and 20 preservation process, the standing to the Committee over 21 certain of the estate claims, the reporting requirements, the 22 operating protocols, the whole bundle of provisions.

23 Now, there is one specific thing I want to say about the 24 role of Mr. Dondero. When Ms. Patel got up and talked about 25 the newest language that has been added to the term sheet, she

1 highlighted in particular the very last sentence on Page 2 of
2 the term sheet, the sentence reading, "Mr. Dondero shall not
3 cause any related entity to terminate any agreements with the 4 Debtor." Her statement that that was important, it really
5 resonated with me, because, you know, as I said earlier, I
6 can't extract what I learned during the Acis case, it's in my 7 brain, and we did have many moments during the Acis case where 8 the Chapter 11 trustee came in and credibly testified that,
9 whether it was Mr. Dondero personally or others at Highland,
10 they were surreptitiously liquidating funds, they were 11 changing agreements, assigning agreements to others. They 12 were doing things behind the scenes that were impacting the 13 value of the Debtor in a bad way.

14 So not only do I think that language is very important,
15 but I am going to require that language to be put in the 16 order. Okay? So we're not just going to have an order
17 approving the term sheet that has that language. I want
18 language specifically in the order. You know, you can figure 19 out where the appropriate place to stick it in the order is,
20 but I want specific language in here regarding Mr. Dondero's
21 role. I also -- the language in there that his role as an 22 employee of the Debtor will be subject at all times to the 23 supervision, direction, and authority of the Debtors, I want
24 that language in there as well. Let's go ahead and put the 25 language in there that at any time, in any event, the 80

1 independent directors can determine he's no longer going to be
2 retained. I want that in the order.

3 And I'm sure most of you can read my mind why, but I want
4 it crystal clear that if he violates these terms, he's 5 violated a federal court order, and contempt will be one of 6 the tools available to the Court. He needs to understand
7 that. Mr. Ellington needs to understand that. You know, if 8 there are any games behind the scene, not only do I expect the 9 Committee is going to come in and highlight that to the Court
10 and file a motion for a trustee or whatever, but we're going
11 to have a contempt of court issue.

12 So, anybody want to respond to that?

13 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, Jeff Pomerantz; Pachulski
14 Stang Ziehl & Jones.

15 We hear Your Honor. What I thought I'd do now is I have a 16 clean redline of the order, of course not including the 17 provision you just requested, --

18 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: -- which we will go back and upload
20 and hope to get an order signed by Your Honor today, if you're 21 around. But to go over the other changes, the changes to 22 Jefferies, the other language changes I discussed before. I
23 gave a copy to Ms. Lambert and to the Committee. May I
24 approach with a --

25 THE COURT: You may.

81

1 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you.

2 THE COURT: Okay. All right. (Pause.) All right.

3 The form of order looks fine to me. Obviously, you'll add the 4 Dondero-related language, and we may have further wording
5 tweaks negotiated with the CLO Issuers. But, again, I approve
6 all of this. I didn't say on the record the compensation, but 7 certainly I am approving that as reasonable. I expect these 8 three directors are going to be working very, very hard. And 9 so, as you said, not 50,000-foot level monitoring, actually 10 rolling up sleeves on-site, so I think the compensation is 11 reasonable.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor. We will 13 submit an order shortly that includes Your Honor's language
14 requested.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: Are you around this afternoon?

17 THE COURT: I am around, --

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay.

19 THE COURT: -- so just pick up the phone or send an 20 email to Traci, my courtroom deputy, --

21 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes.

22 THE COURT: -- so she can tell me, "It's in your 23 queue to sign."

24 MR. POMERANTZ: She has been extremely helpful and 25 responsive.

1 THE COURT: Good. I'm glad to hear that.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes.

3 THE COURT: Now, as far as future scheduling, I did
4 have her sitting by, listening, in case we needed to discuss
5 anything. Obviously, we're going to have a kind of a
6 carryover placeholder on the 21st as part of the trustee
7 motion hearing for any remaining issues with the CLO Issuer.
8 And, you know, that's just a placeholder if necessary to hear
9 language controversies.

10 My courtroom deputy was concerned, because you have a lot
11 of pending motions that have just sort of sat there pending
12 because this was the big issue, right? She wants to make sure
13 she sets anything you need a setting on. And I don't know if 14 you want to discuss that today or go back as a group and --

15 MR. POMERANTZ: We're happy to -- I think, you know,
16 I think that's appropriate to do. We had the motion to 17 appoint the CRO.

18 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: That was pending. That gets resolved
20 by this motion. We will submit an order --

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. POMERANTZ: -- with the new agreement that was
23 attached to the term sheet.

24 We had the cash management order which Judge Sontchi had 25 issued an interim order. We will have a final order with

1 respect to that.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: We will be withdrawing the motion to 4 approve ordinary course protocols which was originally on for 5 hearing.

6 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

7 MR. POMERANTZ: I think on the 21st we have currently 8 set a motion to approve the retention or Mercer, which is the 9 Debtor's compensation consultant, --

10 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: -- and an analog motion that was 12 originally set for today with respect to insiders, non-13 insiders, but is on for non-insiders and insiders on the 21st, 14 --

15 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: -- which is the motion to approve
17 bonuses.

18 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: Of course, the Debtor's new board is 20 going to be wanting to very carefully review that. And we are 21 going back and today having our first new board meeting with 22 the board to start bringing them up to speed. But we 23 presently intend, subject to, obviously, their direction, to 24 go forward on the 21st.

25 We also have the retention of Lynn Pinker and Foley

1 Gardere, which had been filed and was brought on for hearing
2 previously. It had been delayed, again, for the board to look
3 at the issues. We expect to have that on for the 21st. And I
4 believe, I believe that would be it.

5 MS. LAMBERT: No, Your Honor, the --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: No?

7 MS. LAMBERT: -- U.S. Trustee has objected to the 8 motion to seal, which was the second item on the Wilmington
9 Court's docket that got -- and it got transferred here. The 10 U.S. Trustee has also objected to the motion for protective 11 order. The issues overlap. We request that they be set as 12 quickly as possible.

13 MR. POMERANTZ: We're happy to set both of those for 14 the 21st as well.

15 THE COURT: All right. So I think what I'm going to 16 ask you to do is just get on the phone, one of you, with Traci
17 and just make sure she's clear on everything you need set on 18 the 21st, and then you can do a big notice of hearing, just 19 kind of listing all of these matters.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, with respect to the CRO
21 motion -- order and the cash management order, I was wondering
22 if it would be helpful for my colleague Mr. Demo to go over 23 the amendments to those orders -- we would like those to be 24 entered today -- to see if Your Honor has any questions.

25 THE COURT: All right. That would be good. Mr.

1 Clemente, did you have something first?

2 MR. CLEMENTE: Just very quickly, Your Honor. We had
3 filed our retention applications for the Committee
4 professionals and filed CNOs, and your office had indicated
5 you wanted to get through today, which I totally understand,
6 but I just wanted to make sure that Your Honor didn't lose
7 sight of those. I don't believe there were any objections to 8 those, but I think your intent was probably to deal with them
9 after today, but I just wanted to --

10 THE COURT: All right. Yes, it was to get through 11 today.

12 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes.

13 THE COURT: So, since you've had plenty of time run 14 on those, you can submit orders and I'll get them signed in 15 chambers.

16 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you very much, Your Honor.
17 Appreciate it.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Counsel?

19 MR. DEMO: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Greg Demo,
20 Pachulski Stang, on behalf of the Debtor. I'm happy to keep 21 this as brief as possible, but I think walking through the 22 cash management motion has the most changes.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. DEMO: The biggest change there, and we had 25 discussed this with the United States Trustee in Delaware, is

86

1 that in our initial motion we disclosed that the Debtor had 2 bank accounts at BBVA and then also at NexBank. Those
3 accounts have been moved to East West Bank, --

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. DEMO: -- which is a party to a depository
6 agreement with the United States Trustee.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. DEMO: The only exception to that is a
9 certificate of deposit that is at NexBank. It's a relatively 10 small amount of money. It's $135,000. But it also is pledged
11 as collateral on a lease. So that has been -- proven
12 problematic to move. The Trustee for Delaware did say that 13 was okay. I would hope that the Trustee for Texas would agree 14 with that. We did disclose it in the initial debtor
15 interview.

16 But those are the bank accounts. The bank accounts at 17 BBVA and NexBank, with the exception of that CD, were all 18 closed as of yesterday.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. DEMO: So now we are going to be using East West
21 Bank for all operating accounts, all cash, going forward.

22 The other two accounts are the account at Jefferies, which 23 is the prime brokerage account.

24 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

25 MR. DEMO: That account, we are keeping open.

1 Obviously, there have been conversations with Jefferies that 2 are going to be reflected in the proposed order on the 3 settlement, but we do propose to keep the Jefferies prime
4 brokerage account open as well.

5 And then we filed a supplement for another prime brokerage
6 account that we have at a prime broker called Maxim Group.
7 That account has $30 million in securities in it, give or 8 take, and then literally like $100 in cash. The Debtor
9 considers that account more an investment than actual
10 operating account, but we would like to keep that account open
11 as well, just so it can continue holding those securities.

12 Jefferies and Maxim, neither of them are on the depository
13 list, so we are requesting a waiver of 345(b) for those two 14 accounts, and then also requesting a waiver of 345(b) with 15 respect to the certificate of deposit at NexBank.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. DEMO: That's where we're at at cash management.
18 And I guess, sorry, one more thing. In the original cash
19 management motion, we had a series of intercompany
20 transactions that we disclosed, and we had gotten interim
21 relief from the Delaware court to make those payments up to a 22 hundred -- or, $1.7 million. We are below that account, and 23 on a go-forward basis, all of those intercompany transactions
24 are getting subsumed into the settlement motion and the 25 operating protocols and all of that. But we are asking for

1 final relief on the intercompany transactions that we made
2 under the interim order.

3 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Who wishes to be heard
4 on this? I don't know how much discussion we've had outside
5 the courtroom on this.

6 MS. LAMBERT: We haven't -- normally, a bond would be
7 appropriate for the Jefferies and the other small account.
8 The estate is at risk on the CD, but it's not that much money.
9 It's not worth bonding. It'll be more expensive to bond it.

10 NexBank, as you know, Your Honor, is a bank where Mr.
11 Dondero is the CEO. So that was part of the reason that 12 NexBank was carved out. But the -- so I would like them to 13 bid bonds on the Jefferies and the other account. And if we 14 -- let's carry it on those issues so that we can see how 15 expensive bonding it would be, and if it's cost-prohibitive, 16 maybe we reconsider. But in the past, the bonds haven't been 17 very expensive, relatively.

18 MR. DEMO: We're happy to discuss that with the U.S.
19 Trustee. I mean, just for the record, the Jefferies account, 20 you know, does support a margin loan. It's $80 million in 21 securities. It's $30 million at Maxim. They're SIPC. I
22 mean, it's Jefferies and, you know, another large prime
23 broker. Again, we're happy to discuss it with the Trustee. I
24 don't know that it's necessary, but we will discuss it.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Well, you all can discuss it, and

1 if you have an unopposed order, an agreed order, --

2 MR. DEMO: Uh-huh.

3 THE COURT: -- you can upload it and I'll sign it.

4 Otherwise, if you need hearing time on the 21st, --

5 MR. DEMO: Okay.

6 THE COURT: -- we'll get it all figured out then and

7 --

8 MR. DEMO: Okay. All right.

9 THE COURT: -- resolve it then.

10 MR. DEMO: Thank you, Your Honor. And then I guess
11 the other motion is the CRO retention. This one should 12 hopefully be pretty brief. We are just filing a new proposed 13 order that attaches the engagement letter, as has been 14 modified by all of the settlement discussions. I believe the 15 Committee is on board with that, and it's consistent. It was 16 one of the attachments that you approved this morning in 17 connection with the settlement.

18 THE COURT: All right. Comments on that?

19 A VOICE: None, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: Committee, you're good?

21 MS. LAMBERT: The U.S. Trustee had also objected to 22 the CRO motion, but it's some of the same issues that the 23 Committee raised. And the CRO, my understanding, is now not 24 an employee of the board but totally overseen by the board,
25 and with that, we can withdraw our objection.

90

1 THE COURT: All right. Very good. I'll sign your
2 order on the CRO, then.

3 MR. DEMO: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: All right. Well, if there's nothing
5 else, I'll be on the lookout for your orders. And, again, if 6 you could coordinate with Traci to make sure she's clear on 7 everything you need set on the 21st.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you very much, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: All right.

10 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

11 MR. DEMO: Thank you, Your Honor.

12 THE CLERK: All rise.

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - FEBRUARY 19, 2020 - 9:43 A.M.

2                   THE COURT: All right. Well, we have Highland
3 matters. Let's get lawyer appearances, in the courtroom
4 first.

5                   MR. DEMO: Good morning, Your Honor. Greg Demo;
6 Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, on behalf of the Debtor. With 7 me are Jeff Pomerantz and John Morris.

8                   THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

9                   MR. POMERANTZ: Good morning.

10                  MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning, Your Honor. Matthew 11 Clemente and Juliana Hoffman from Sidley Austin on behalf of 12 the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors.

13                  THE COURT: Good morning.

14                  MS. HAYWARD: Good morning, Your Honor. Melissa
15 Hayward and Zachery Annable also on behalf of the Debtor.

16                  THE COURT: Good morning.

17                  MS. LAMBERT: Lisa Lambert with the U.S. Department
18 of Justice on behalf of the U.S. Trustee, William Neary.

19                  THE COURT: Good morning.

20                  MS. PATEL: Good morning, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel, 21 Phil Lamberson, and Annemarie Chiarello of Winstead, P.C., and 22 also Brian Shaw of Rogge Dunn Group, on behalf of Acis Capital
23 Management, LP and Acis Capital Management, GP, LLC.

24                  THE COURT: Thank you.

25                  MR. PLATT: Good morning, Your Honor. Mark Platt

5

1 from Frost Brown Todd on behalf of the Redeemer Committee of
2 the Highland Crusader Fund. I believe that at least Marc
3 Hankin from Jenner & Block is on the line as well.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

5 MS. ANDERSON: Good morning, Your Honor. Amy
6 Anderson with Jones Walker on behalf of the Issuers. And I
7 believe Mr. James Bentley with Schulte Roth is also on the 8 phone.

9 And I apologize for interrupting the flow. I would ask if 10 Mr. Bentley and I could be excused after the uncontested
11 matters are taken up this morning, just to avoid --

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MS. ANDERSON: -- having us -- I don't want to re-
14 interrupt later, if that is all right with Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Okay. That's fine. Thank you.

16 MS. ANDERSON: Okay.

17 THE COURT: All right. That looks like all the 18 courtroom appearances. On the phone, we heard that James 19 Bentley is there. Do you want to appear, Mr. Bentley?

20 MR. BENTLEY: Yes, that's correct, Your Honor. Good
21 morning.

22 THE COURT: All right.

23 MR. BENTLEY: Good morning, Your Honor. James
24 Bentley; Schulte Roth & Zabel; for the Cayman Issuers.

25 THE COURT: All right. And someone else was there

1 for the Redeemer Fund. I can't remember. Was it Mr. Clubok
2 you said, or anyone else on the phone?

3 MR. HANKIN: Marc Hankin from Jenner & Block, --

4 THE COURT: Oh, okay.

5 MR. HANKIN: -- Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Hankin. Anyone else on 7 the phone who wants to appear may go ahead.

8 All right. I guess we're good to go. Well, I'll turn now
9 -- Mr. Demo, are you going to start us off today?

10 MR. DEMO: Yes, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Someone delivered a wonderful notebook
12 and an easy-to-follow agenda. I appreciate whoseever hard work 13 was behind that. It really helps us get prepared back in 14 chambers. So, thank you.

15 MR. DEMO: And we're happy to do it, Your Honor,
16 because, honestly, it helps us, I think, as much as it helps
17 you.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. DEMO: And we do have extra copies if anybody
20 needs a copy of the agenda.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. DEMO: Generally speaking, we'd kind of like to 23 go in the order of the agenda, I think, with two exceptions.
24 I know that Ms. Adams and Mr. Bentley have to move, so I
25 thought maybe we could do their objection to the settlement

1 motion first.

2 THE COURT: Okay. So that's the carryover matter.

3 MR. DEMO: Correct, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: We obviously have an order in place, but 5 we kept it open to accommodate their issues.

6 MR. DEMO: Correct.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. DEMO: And that's Item 7 on Page 7.

9 THE COURT: All right.

10 MR. DEMO: And I think this one -- and anybody can 11 correct if I'm wrong -- will go pretty easily. We've come to 12 an agreement with the Objecting Parties.

13 THE COURT: All right.

14 MR. DEMO: We are planning on submitting, under a 15 notice, a revised copy of the operating protocols that were 16 approved by this Court in connection with the settlement that 17 addresses those Objectors' concerns. And then once that is 18 filed, the Objecting Parties will withdraw their objection.

19 THE COURT: All right. Anyone wish to speak up on 20 this matter?

21 All right. Well, as I recall, the concern had been that 22 they didn't want the agreed-upon operating protocols with the 23 Committee to somehow change contractual rights of the parties,
24 and so --

25 MR. DEMO: That is correct, Your Honor. And we took

8

1 their language and we carved out a small universe of CLO
2 Issuers, --

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MR. DEMO: -- exactly as they asked for.

5 THE COURT: All right. Well, again, I'll ask: Does
6 anyone have any comment about this revised process?

7 All right. Well, that sounds perfectly fine to me, so
8 we'll look for the revised copy of the operational procedures.

9 MR. DEMO: Okay. Great, Your Honor.

10 And then I guess the only other exception to the order of 11 the agenda --

12 (Garbled phone noises.)

13 THE COURT: Is someone on the phone wishing to speak
14 up? (no response) All right. I guess not.

15 MR. DEMO: Yeah. I guess the only other exception to 16 the order in the agenda is the Foley Gardere retention
17 application.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. DEMO: We would like to do that last. It is a 20 contested hearing and I think we are going to have some 21 evidence on that.

22 THE COURT: All right. All right. Sounds fine.

23 MR. DEMO: Then, I guess, just going through the 24 agenda in the order that it's written, the first one is the 25 Lynn Pinker retention application. We had originally filed

1 that retention application back in October. We recently
2 withdrew it. We're not going to go forward on it.

3 THE COURT: All right.

4 MR. DEMO: The second matter, and I guess the second
5 two matters, hopefully, we can take at the same time. These 6 are two uncontested matters. Certificates of no objection
7 have been filed for both of them. The first is the foreign 8 representative motion.

9 THE COURT: Yeah, and I will tell you, I don't know
10 if it's shown up on PACER yet, --

11 MR. DEMO: Okay.

12 THE COURT: -- but I actually already signed an order
13 on that, --

14 MR. DEMO: Okay.

15 THE COURT: -- as well as exclusivity.

16 MR. DEMO: Perfect.

17 THE COURT: But, you know, I saw the certificates of 18 no objection, but perhaps we need to talk about it in case
19 anyone wants to comment in any way.

20 MR. DEMO: If anybody does, I mean, if you've already 21 entered them -- I know PACER was down, so I don't think we've 22 seen it yet.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. DEMO: But we're fine moving on if --

25 THE COURT: Well, yeah. The foreign representative

10

1 motion looked like a no-brainer, if you will.

2 MR. DEMO: Uh-huh.

3 THE COURT: It was filed way back in October, right?

4 MR. DEMO: Correct. Right.

5 THE COURT: And no one had ever objected. It's just 6 that there are some foreign proceedings out there; --

7 MR. DEMO: Right. Right.

8 THE COURT: -- you wanted to make sure that there was 9 a human being who had authority to act in those?

10 MR. DEMO: Correct.

11 THE COURT: All right. So, if no one has any 12 comment, I did go ahead and sign the order approving that.

13 MR. DEMO: Okay.

14 THE COURT: Similarly, exclusivity. I signed an 15 order on that yesterday. In probably nine out of ten cases, I
16 would have had a hearing with evidence.

17 MR. DEMO: Uh-huh.

18 THE COURT: But, again, that one seemed like a no-
19 brainer. We had no objections, and obviously you've been in 20 court a lot, with a lot of things happening.

21 MR. DEMO: Yes.

22 THE COURT: So it seemed like a no-brainer to give
23 more time on that. So, does anyone have anything they wanted
24 to say about that? (no response) All right.

25 MR. DEMO: Okay.

11

1 THE COURT: So that is granted. I can't remember,
2 off the top of my brain, what the extended time frame was. Do
3 you want to say that on the record? Because I've just blanked
4 out at the moment.

5 (Counsel confer.)

6 MR. DEMO: It's -- we extended it for four months,
7 Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Okay. All right. So that was June, June 9 12th as the deadline for filing a plan, and then the 10 solicitation period would expire on August 11th, 2020. That's 11 what I've approved.

12 MR. DEMO: Yes.

13 THE COURT: All right.

14 MR. DEMO: Okay. The next matter is the bar date
15 motion. There was an automatic bar date set for April 8th --

16 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

17 MR. DEMO: -- in connection with the 341 notice. We 18 just wanted to have procedures for filing claims approved by 19 this Court.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. DEMO: You know, we filed the motion. There are 22 no objections. We did have some comments from the United 23 States Trustee, which we've incorporated into a redlined
24 order.

25 Something came up last night where, the way that it works

12

1 because we have a lot of investors, is that a lot of people
2 get notice through their custodians and through the different
3 administrators.

4 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

5 MR. DEMO: And so we worked that into the motion.
6 The United States Trustee has asked for an extension of 45
7 days for those folks to file their claim. We're okay with 8 that. We're going to work with her afterwards, and we will 9 submit a revised form of order.

10 THE COURT: Okay. So, just to be clear, the proposed 11 deadlines, as revised, would be what?

12 MR. DEMO: It depends on when the notice is actually 13 able to be sent out.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. DEMO: We need to work through some technical 16 issues on that.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Lambert?

18 MS. LAMBERT: So, Judge Jernigan, I think the Court
19 is familiar with this from when we solicit Equity Committees.
20 It's the same issue here. You go to TD Ameritrade and then
21 they send the notice to the direct holders, but also asked
22 that they include correspondence to the TD Ameritrade or 23 Merrill Lynch equivalents saying -- instructing them to send 24 the notice of the bar date to their direct holders.

25 So we're going to agree on the phrasing of the letter.

13

1 I'm hopeful that we can attach that to the order so the Court
2 can see what it looks like.

3 THE COURT: All right.

4 MR. DEMO: Okay. And we'll work through those 5 issues, Your Honor, and have something to you as soon as 6 possible.

7 THE COURT: All right. And you're also asking for 8 bar dates, really, bar date for 503(b)(9) claims as well?

9 MR. DEMO: Yeah. We don't think we're going to have 10 any.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. DEMO: So it's really just out of an abundance of 13 caution.

14 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, I'll look for 15 that form of order --

16 MR. DEMO: Okay.

17 THE COURT: -- and be happy to sign it as you all
18 have negotiated it.

19 MR. DEMO: Okay. And then skipping over Foley
20 Gardere, there is one still outstanding objection on that, so
21 we will hear that in due course.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. DEMO: The next one is Item 6 on Page 6, and 24 that's the PensionDanmark motion to lift the stay. We have an 25 agreement in principle with PensionDanmark that the Committee

14

1 has signed off on. We're just going through and working
2 through the paperwork. And so we would like to just push this 3 to the next hearing date, with the expectation that we would 4 get the paperwork filed in between then and we wouldn't have 5 to have it set.

6 THE COURT: All right. So we will carry this to our 7 next omnibus hearing date. I don't know if we have one
8 automatically set at this point or --

9 MR DEMO: It's March 13th.

10 THE COURT: March--?

11 MR. DEMO: 12th.

12 MS. HAYWARD: 11th.

13 MR. DEMO: 11th. I'm sorry. I was in the ballpark.

14 THE COURT: Okay. So, carried to March 11th, as 15 necessary.

16 MR. DEMO: Uh-huh.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. DEMO: And then I guess the next thing, skipping
19 over the CLO Issuers' objection, which we already addressed,

20 --

21 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

22 MR. DEMO: -- is the sealing conference motion.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. DEMO: And I would turn this over to my 25 colleague, John Morris.

1 THE COURT: All right.

2 MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris,
3 Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones.

4 THE COURT: Good morning.

5 MR. MORRIS: I hope that this doesn't take too much
6 time. But following the last hearing that we had, the Court
7 had rendered a ruling with respect to the Committee's sealing
8 motion. And regrettably, the Debtor and the U.S. Trustee's
9 Office were unable to agree on a form of order. And that led 10 to kind of a back-and-forth about the scope of the protective 11 order that had been entered.

12 So, because we couldn't come to an agreement, and because 13 the Debtor had concerns about the interpretation and the 14 position, frankly, that the U.S. Trustee was taking with 15 respect to the protective order, we filed our motion for the 16 entry of an order concerning the sealing motion and for a
17 conference. And that was filed at Docket 397.

18 The Court subsequently entered the Debtor's proposed order
19 on the sealing motion, on the Committee's sealing motion. So
20 that's moot.

21 The only issue, to the extent there is an issue, and I'm 22 not sure that there is, but to the extent that there is an 23 issue, it was just the Debtor's desire to make clear on the 24 record that the words of the protective order are clear and 25 unambiguous and that they apply to any party who receives

16

1 documents in this bankruptcy case, whether it's in connection
2 with a contested matter or an adversary proceeding, and that 3 order applies both to documents previously received and to 4 documents that will be received in the future.

5 We had asked the U.S. Trustee's Office to make -- just to 6 agree that they would abide by the protective order. And I'm
7 not casting aspersions, I'm not saying, you know, they're bad
8 people or anything, but we never got the crystal-clear
9 response that we needed and expected, frankly, that the order
10 says what the order says and the U.S. Trustee's Office would,
11 you know, would abide by it.

12 THE COURT: Okay. So, --

13 MR. MORRIS: So that's why we asked for this status
14 conference.

15 THE COURT: So this is more than just the issue of 16 the Redeemer Committee arbitration award --

17 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

18 THE COURT: -- that was the attachment to the --

19 MS. LAMBERT: No, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: Wait. Oh, okay. Well, what I was about 21 to say is I was understanding from your presentation that you
22 thought this was about more than just the arbitration award,
23 the Redeemer Committee arbitration award that had been 24 attached to that Committee objection and that was subject to 25 the motion to seal.

17

1           You think it is also about items marked Confidential that
2 the U.S. Trustee received before the entry of the protective
3 order?

4           MR. MORRIS: As it explicitly provides for. And I'll 5 just say that the concerns arise from the written
6 communications that we received, where the U.S. Trustee's
7 Office specifically said that they would file matters
8 unredacted and without seal. And we asked them to simply 9 retract that statement, because the order says what the order
10 says. And I think it's a fair concern that the Debtor has in 11 this regard, and it was really a very simple request. Please,
12 please, I mean, you can't file documents unredacted and 13 without seal because there's a protective order in place.

14           THE COURT: Okay. Now, Ms. Lambert, you say -- what 15 were you about to say?

16           MS. LAMBERT: First, Your Honor, I want to be clear
17 that the U.S. Trustee -- everyone in the U.S. Trustee's Office
18 intends to honor the Court's orders. There are many things
19 that we debate hotly and that we feel animated about in terms
20 of legal advocacy, but we intend to honor both the office and 21 the individual that holds that office when the Court has made
22 a ruling.

23           The issue that is presented to the Court is what is the 24 effect of dismissing a motion to seal on the basis that it is 25 moot? There's black-letter law that sealing should be for 18

1 limited time periods and things should be unsealed --

2 THE COURT: Okay. Can I stop you? Are you saying
3 that you think the sole issue here is just the arbitration
4 award?

5 MS. LAMBERT: Yes, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay. So, so --

7 MS. LAMBERT: And this is how it springs back to the 8 protective order.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Let me --

10 MS. LAMBERT: The U.S. --

11 THE COURT: Let me stop you, because what about other
12 documents besides the arbitration award that the U.S. Trustee
13 might have received prior to the Court signing the protective
14 order?

15 MS. LAMBERT: The U.S. Trustee did not receive any 16 other items that --

17 THE COURT: Okay. So we are just talking about the 18 arbitration?

19 MS. LAMBERT: We have not to this date received any 20 other items than those items --

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MS. LAMBERT: -- that were subject to the motion to 23 seal.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MS. LAMBERT: And this is the U.S. Trustee's

1 position. The Court --

2 THE COURT: I will say that one of the Debtor's
3 lawyers is shaking his head. I want to see if there's a
4 disagreement about, did the U.S. Trustee receive more items?
5 Was that --

6 MR. MORRIS: I would say, Your Honor, I don't know
7 exactly what was delivered, because I'm, --

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. MORRIS: -- right, I'm part of a team. But I do
10 know that we gave, for example, information about bonus --
11 about, you know, personnel bonus motions that is confidential.

12 MS. LAMBERT: But the issue about what was going to 13 be filed unsealed was related to the items in the motion to 14 seal and the U.S. Trustee's attendant motion for the 15 appointment of a Chapter 11 Trustee, which had been redacted.

16 THE COURT: Okay. Let me -- I'm going to take a shot
17 at making this go quicker. What I meant when I ruled that,
18 well, the objection of the Committee is moot now because it
19 was resolved by other orders; therefore, I think the motion to 20 file under seal the arbitration award is moot because it was 21 connected to the Committee's objection; you know, that was a
22 quick, off-the-cuff comment. What I was trying to say is I
23 didn't think this needed any more court time. There was no
24 case in controversy anymore. I didn't know why I needed to 25 resolve an objection to the motion to file under seal.

1       What I meant is it's going to be like it never even
2 happened, right? And what I probably should have done is
3 said, Committee, you want to make an oral motion to withdraw
4 your objection and withdraw your motion to seal, you know,
5 orally, I'll grant it orally and just remove it from the 6 record, so to speak.

7       And I thought we were passing off to another day whether 8 that arbitration award, if someone wanted to file it and file
9 it publicly or disclose it, they could then file a motion
10 later.

11               MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

12               MS. LAMBERT: Here's the -- here's the --

13               MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may?

14               THE COURT: Uh-huh.

15               MR. MORRIS: You've done exactly what you've said.

16               THE COURT: Okay.

17               MR. MORRIS: I don't think there is an issue now.

18               THE COURT: Okay.

19               MR. MORRIS: I've heard from the U.S. Trustee's
20 Office what I asked for probably three times in writing, that 21 they are going to abide by the terms of the protective order.
22 With respect to the sealing order, Your Honor has entered an 23 order. It declared the Committee's motion to seal moot, and 24 it specifically provided that anybody who's received the 25 awards has to treat them in accordance with the protective

1 order.

2 THE COURT: Yeah.

3 MR. MORRIS: Nobody's appealed that order.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. MORRIS: It's now the -- it's -- whatever the 6 U.S. Trustee's interpretation is of the law is kind of 7 irrelevant at this point because the order has been entered
8 and it hasn't been appealed.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MS. LAMBERT: Here's the thing, Your Honor. The case
11 law, Omni Video, similar things. There are two issues.
12 Number one is whether the mootness of the underlying issue
13 means that the pleadings should be unredacted, which is black
14 letter that at some point pleadings should be unredacted and 15 made available to the public. And the Court's ruling is that 16 by replacing the management the Court has mooted anything that 17 might be scandalous about that or that might be problematic
18 about it, and therefore --

19 THE COURT: What is the it? I'm not following.

20 MS. LAMBERT: -- the arbitration award and the 21 pleadings attendant were redacted, but the --

22 THE COURT: I haven't said anything about -- I mean,
23 I denied a Chapter 11 trustee motion because I thought the new 24 management was a correct way to go forward in this case.

25 MS. LAMBERT: Correct.

1 THE COURT: The arbitration award, what I meant was
2 it's like it never happened now. And if I --

3 MS. LAMBERT: Right.

4 THE COURT: -- need to do an amended order saying the 5 Committee has permission to withdraw the objection and 6 withdraw the motion to seal, I'll --

7 MS. LAMBERT: That's --

8 THE COURT: -- I'll do that, --

9 MS. LAMBERT: But --

10 THE COURT: -- so there's nothing on the record to 11 make public.

12 MS. LAMBERT: But withdrawing the motion, objection,
13 does not delete it from the record, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Well, I'm going to make it so. I'm going
15 to make it so. And then if, one day, you or someone else --

16 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, currently, --

17 THE COURT: -- wants to be relieved from the 18 protective order and asks that it be publicly filed, I'll 19 consider --

20 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor?

21 THE COURT: -- the merits of that.

22 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, the thing is that the 23 Committee, when it filed its original objection, did not 24 redact. So this information has been in the public domain for 25 months now. And the arbitration --

1 THE COURT: Wait. Okay. This all happened in
2 Delaware, so I don't know their procedure. Are you saying it
3 was on the public PACER?

4 MS. LAMBERT: They didn't redact.

5 MR. MORRIS: No. Your Honor, the Redeemer Award
6 (inaudible). The order says what the order says. It's been 7 entered. I mean, this is the concern, is that we have this 8 never-ending debate. I've heard -- the Debtor has heard what 9 it needed to hear, and that is the U.S. Trustee's Office will 10 abide by the terms of the protective order.

11 With respect to the Committee's motion to seal, we're done
12 with that.

13 MS. LAMBERT: There is no --

14 MR. MORRIS: An order has been entered.

15 MS. LAMBERT: There is no motion to seal. The normal
16 effect of -- the dismissal of a motion to seal on the basis
17 that it is moot is that everything attendant to that becomes 18 unredacted and unsealed.

19 In addition, there's a separate issue that the Debtor gets 20 to talk about what the amounts in the Redeemer awards were 21 unilaterally, without -- and the Committee gets to talk about 22 it unilaterally. They've mentioned what the findings were in 23 four different spots in their objection that are not redacted.
24 And the U.S. Trustee is the only one that's held to the motion
25 to seal, which we have honored, but the --

1 THE COURT: I don't understand why we're having this
2 discussion. For now, I've made it a moot issue, a dead issue.
3 The objection to which the arbitration award was attached as 4 an exhibit became moot. Maybe I'm not using the best legal
5 description, but it was resolved. And I didn't feel the need
6 for us to have a dispute about whether that motion to seal,
7 which related to the objection --

8 MS. LAMBERT: The motion to seal --

9 THE COURT: -- was meritorious or not. If -- again,
10 --

11 MS. LAMBERT: But the motion to --

12 THE COURT: -- to me, there's an easy fix. If you're 13 -- if you think it's necessary, I'll grant the --

14 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

15 THE COURT: This seems like wasted energy, --

16 MS. LAMBERT: But --

17 THE COURT: -- granting the Committee authority to 18 withdraw their objection and their motion to seal --

19 MS. LAMBERT: But, Your Honor, --

20 THE COURT: -- so that it's off the record.

21 MS. LAMBERT: -- the interim sealing order didn't
22 impact just their objection. It impacted the U.S. Trustee's
23 motion to dismiss. It impacted the evidence. The finding 24 that these issues are moot because they're resolved means that 25 the Court should unredact them because it's no longer

25

1 confidential. It's no longer a problem. If the evidence is

2 --

3 THE COURT: Why are we having this discussion? Why
4 is this important in this Chapter 11 case? The arbitration
5 award may get in one day, and someone may ask me, and I may 6 say yes, I may say no. It depends on what the legal arguments
7 are.

8 MS. LAMBERT: It's --

9 THE COURT: Why is this relevant right now?

10 MS. LAMBERT: It's important to the public's
11 perception, and the U.S. Trustee is charged with making the 12 information about a case available to the public.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, there is no motion --

14 MS. LAMBERT: This -- these -- these arbitration --

15 MR. MORRIS: There's no relief that's been sought.

16 MS. LAMBERT: The arbitration awards have been
17 discussed in the press, Your Honor. And the press --

18 THE COURT: Well, let me just say this. Okay? This 19 was obviously -- there was an arbitration award. It was never 20 confirmed with a judgment by a court. And I am presuming -- I
21 don't need to decide today -- but I'm presuming that there is 22 some legal argument that someone feels can be made about why
23 that arbitration award is confidential. You know, it
24 obviously --

25 MR. MORRIS: The Committee made that argument in

1 their motion.

2 THE COURT: Obviously, if there had been a judgment,
3 it all would have been out in the world. And I will say I
4 cannot remember ever being in a situation where someone wanted
5 to keep an arbitration award confidential in a bankruptcy
6 case. Maybe it happens. I'm just -- I've never seen it. So
7 if there is a day where someone wants me to find this
8 arbitration award can be made public, I may very well do it.
9 I don't know. I'll hear the legal arguments. But I am just 10 asking, why are we arguing about this today?

11 MS. LAMBERT: We're arguing about it today because it
12 remains a point of interest and a point of information sharing
13 to government creditors and other creditors that are involved
14 in the case, as well as the public.

15 THE COURT: They're not in here, the SEC or whoever 16 you're --

17 MS. LAMBERT: Well, how would they know to be in
18 here?

19 THE COURT: Because maybe they've seen the press that 20 you're talking about. All right. I don't know --

21 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we -- the Debtor's heard 22 what --

23 THE COURT: The protective order governs. And my 24 prior order with regard to the sealing motion I think made
25 clear, but if it didn't, I'm going to say right now: As far

27

1 as I'm concerned, the arbitration award, nothing gets unsealed
2 on the Court's docket, and no one will file it or disclose it
3 without bringing a motion, and we'll have a legal argument and 4 evidence or whatever we need and I'll rule on the issue.

5 MS. LAMBERT: So, Your Honor, my understanding is 6 that the Court is striking the objection to the CRO that the 7 Committee filed and striking the U.S. Trustee's motion to 8 dismiss, which was redacted, and striking the evidence, and 9 those will not be on the docket available to the public at 10 all.

11 THE COURT: That's not what I'm doing. I don't -- I
12 don't even know -- I don't understand why you're saying that.

13 MS. LAMBERT: Well, you can't just withdraw the 14 objection. The objection had the exhibits attached to it.
15 The issue that the U.S. Trustee -- I'm sorry, but I'm always 16 charged with this issue -- is trying to unseal documents and 17 trying to determine the proper date for unsealing them. They 18 attached to the arbitration award, like a motion for summary
19 judgment. That's the practice in Delaware. And so the issue
20 is, at what point will that become unsealed? It's a higher
21 standard --

22 THE COURT: The answer is no, without an order from
23 this Court.

24 MS. LAMBERT: It is a higher standard than for 25 confidentiality. And in addition, --

1 THE COURT: All right. If you want to file a motion
2 and we set it for hearing and we have briefing, we'll do that.
3 But, for now, there's -- there are two orders that I will tell
4 you on the record what they mean is, right now, the 5 arbitration award is not to be publicly disclosed. Not by the 6 Court on the docket system. Not by any person.

7 If someone wants to publicly disclose it, they can file a
8 motion and we'll talk about whether it's protected or not.

9 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

10 THE COURT: Whether there are grounds, legal grounds,
11 to protect it.

12 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: I've told you I'm skeptical. I'm 14 skeptical. But, you know, we'll see. Okay?

15 MS. LAMBERT: Okay. Your Honor, the FJC publication
16 is very clear that the Court should be trying, when issues are 17 moot, to unseal items. And this is why our advocacy is this 18 way. And I will move to unseal it.

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 MR. DEMO: For the record, Your Honor, again, Greg 21 Demo; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; for the Debtor.

22 Before we move on to the Foley retention, two quick
23 housekeeping matters.

24 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

25 MR. DEMO: We would like to set the next omnibus

29

1 hearing date on April 22nd. At that date, we would do the
2 quarterly fee applications and whatever else comes up onto the 3 docket.

4 THE COURT: All right. Have you run that by Traci
5 Ellison yet?

6 MR. DEMO: We have not.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. DEMO: We've talked to the Committee about it,
9 though.

10 THE COURT: So I will call her right now.

11 MR. DEMO: And then, I guess, Your Honor, before you
12 do that, we are actually asking for a hearing date on March
13 4th at 1:30 as well. We're going to have an expedited motion
14 that we'll be filing, I think, this week. So if you're going 15 to check with her, I guess it might make sense to check on 16 both of those dates.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 (Court confers with Clerk telephonically.)

19 THE COURT: Okay. We can give you April 22nd, as you
20 requested, at 9:30.

21 MR. DEMO: Okay. Thank you.

22 THE COURT: Okay. So that's going to be an omnibus.

23 (Court confers with Clerk telephonically.)

24 THE COURT: All right. We can give you March 4th at 25 1:30.

30

1           How about a preview of what we're going to -- what are we 2 going to be seeing?

3           MR. DEMO: And, Your Honor, I guess we had also 4 reserved March 2nd, and we can release that date.

5           THE COURT: What? I'm sorry.

6           MR. DEMO: We had previously reserved March 2nd at 7 9:30 for the expedited motion, which I'll describe briefly in 8 a second. We don't need the March 2nd date.

9           THE COURT: So, okay.

10          MR. DEMO: Yeah.

11          THE COURT: All right. So I'll tell Traci that one 12 --

13          MR. DEMO: Yeah. Okay. Perfect. Thank you.

14          THE COURT: -- is off. Okay. What is this going to 15 be?

16          MR. DEMO: The expedited motion, we obviously run a
17 series of investment funds. From time to time, those funds,
18 either through liquidation or just through normal proceeds
19 generation, make distributions out to their investors.

20          Under the protocols, distributions out to what are 21 related, called related entities under the protocols, which 22 include Mr. Dondero, entities owned by Mr. Dondero, and 23 numerous other categories, those entities cannot receive their 24 distributions from those investment vehicles if the Committee
25 objects to those distributions unless we come to the Court and

31

1 we get Your Honor's approval.

2 That issue has come up. We are hoping to make those
3 distributions to these related entities. The Committee has 4 said that they will object, but they've also agreed to the 5 motion to expedite.

6 THE COURT: All right.

7 MR. DEMO: So that's the issue that's going to be in 8 front of Your Honor on March 4th.

9 THE COURT: All right. When are you going to file
10 the motion?

11 MR. DEMO: We are hoping to file it, I think, by 12 Friday.

13 THE COURT: Okay. So that would be -- what are we at 14 now, the 19th?

15 MR. DEMO: Yeah.

16 THE COURT: Okay. So that'd be --

17 MR. DEMO: Yeah. And obviously, --

18 THE COURT: -- a couple weeks.

19 MR. DEMO: -- yeah, we'll endeavor to get it filed as 20 soon as possible.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. DEMO: And then I guess the last item, Your 23 Honor, is the Foley Gardere retention application.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. DEMO: And, you know, this should be a relatively

32

1 simple retention application. You know, we'll get into it a
2 little bit more. There are two objections that were
3 originally filed, one by the Committee and one by Acis.
4 Yesterday morning, the Committee withdrew their objection, so
5 the only objection to the Foley Gardere retention application
6 is by Acis.

7 In the courtroom with me are Holland O'Neil with Foley
8 Gardere -- she's the partner in charge of that representation
9 -- and then also The Honorable Russell Nelms, who's a member
10 of the Independent Board of Directors of Strand Advisors, the 11 party that manages the Debtor. And I should be remiss if I
12 didn't mention that the two other independent directors, James
13 Seery and John Dubel, are also in the courtroom, --

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. DEMO: -- as is the Debtor's chief restructuring
16 officer.

17 And as I said, Your Honor, really, the only thing, the 18 only substantive thing we're here this morning on is this 19 retention application. The retention application is under 20 Section 327 of the Bankruptcy Code, and it's to represent the 21 Debtor in three matters related to the Acis bankruptcy and the 22 resulting litigation.

23 Judge Nelms is going to be testifying in support of the 24 Foley retention this afternoon.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. DEMO: We filed the retention application on
2 October 29th, along with the retention application of Lynn
3 Pinker. As I mentioned earlier, the Lynn Pinker retention
4 application was withdrawn. Two objections were filed to the 5 Foley retention: One by the Committee, one by Acis.

6 The Committee -- or, sorry, the Debtor addressed those two
7 objections in an omnibus reply that we filed on November 21st.
8 The primary response to those objections was providing 9 additional disclosure to this Court concerning the parties
10 being represented by Foley, the proceedings in which Foley was 11 going to represent those parties, and the allocation of fees,
12 of Foley's fees, across those parties.

13 The reply disclosed, and Judge Nelms will also testify,
14 that the Debtor had originally intended to engage Foley on 15 four matters, not three. The first matters is general matters
16 just relating to the Acis bankruptcy, status conferences,
17 proof of claim issues. The second matter is the appeal to the 18 Fifth Circuit of the confirmation order. The third matter was 19 the appeal, again to the Fifth Circuit, of the entry of the 20 involuntary petition. And then the fourth matter was the 21 appeal of Winstead's retention as counsel to both Mr. Terry,
22 who is a pre-petition creditor of Acis, and Robert [sic]
23 Phelan as the Chapter 11 trustee.

24 The two appeals, the appeal of the confirmation order and 25 the appeal of the involuntary petition, have been fully

1 briefed to the Fifth Circuit, and some of that briefing was
2 done, by necessity, post-petition, because of the drag in time
3 between when we filed the retention and now. And the Fifth
4 Circuit has actually set both of those appeals for oral
5 argument. They've been consolidated for purposes of oral
6 argument, and both of the appeals are set for March 30th, so
7 about six weeks away.

8 Now, it's an understatement to say a lot has happened in 9 this case since we filed the reply on November 21st. One of 10 the most major things in this case, as the Court knows, is the 11 appointment of the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors
12 was appointed on January 9th and it oversees the management of 13 the Debtor. Judge Nelms is in this courtroom and will be 14 testifying as to what the Board did to familiarize itself with 15 the Acis litigation and with Foley's retention. And you'll 16 hear from Judge Nelms that the Board had extensive
17 conversation with the Debtor's employees, including the 18 Debtor's internal legal team, Ms. O'Neil with Foley Gardere,
19 attorneys from Pachulski regarding the status of the Acis
20 litigation and the bankruptcy and Foley's retention.

21 You'll also hear that Judge Nelms reached out directly to 22 Josh Terry, the major party in the Acis litigation, and that 23 Judge Nelms met with both Josh Terry and Ms. Patel to discuss
24 the status of the Acis litigation.

25 And then finally you'll hear, as part of that diligence,

1 that the Board analyzed the economic benefit of proceeding
2 with Foley's retention in all three of those matters that I
3 mentioned and also conducted their own diligence on the claims
4 that are being raised in those matters.

5 As a result of that diligence, and I'll discuss the 6 explicit reasons later, the Board determined that it is in the 7 best interest of the Debtor and its estate to proceed with 8 Foley's retention with respect to the three matters I
9 mentioned earlier: the Acis general bankruptcy, the appeal of 10 the confirmation order, and the appeal of the involuntary
11 petition.

12 The Debtor has also asked for Foley's assistance on 13 certain ancillary matters, like including about disclosures of 14 the Acis litigation, including what needs to go on the 15 schedules and things like that.

16 As a result of this diligence, however, the Board decided 17 to drop the Winstead appeal. So Acis -- I'm sorry, Foley is 18 not going to be retained to challenge Winstead's retention in 19 that proceeding. And assuming that Foley is retained, Foley
20 will prepare the papers to withdraw that objection as soon as 21 possible.

22 As a quick aside, though, you know, Foley was directed by 23 the Debtor to continue with the Winstead matter post-petition.
24 Incurred about $25,000 of fees. And we believe that Foley was 25 working in good faith on that. So although we're not going to

36

1 proceed with the Winstead matter, we would still ask that
2 Foley be entitled to file a fee application for those fees.
3 The Committee has agreed with this, and we have a form of 4 proposed order with the Committee that contemplates Foley's
5 payment or Foley's receiving payment for the Winstead fees of 6 $25,000.

7 THE COURT: Wait. You're talking about, if I approve
8 their retention, rolling that into the retention order?

9 MR. DEMO: We are, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. DEMO: No?

12 THE COURT: That's a no-go, I'll tell you right now.

13 MR. DEMO: Okay.

14 THE COURT: I mean, --

15 MR. DEMO: And we can, we can deal with that.

16 THE COURT: Yeah.

17 MR. DEMO: But I --

18 THE COURT: I'm not going to say yes or no to any 19 fees I haven't seen.

20 MR. DEMO: Okay. And -- well, I'm sorry. What's 21 going to be rolled into the order is their ability to file for 22 those fees. Everybody would still have the right to object to 23 those fees. You would have the right to say yes or no on 24 those fees. The only thing that we would be asking for is 25 that they would be able to apply for those fees and that the

37

1 fact that they weren't retained on that matter specifically
2 would not be a basis for an objection to those fees. So it's 3 a little bit different.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. DEMO: We're not trying to cut off anybody's
6 right to object to those fees.

7 THE COURT: Okay. But I don't want to put some 8 imprimatur on their ability to ask for them.

9 MR. DEMO: Okay.

10 THE COURT: Okay? So, you know, it's just another
11 day.

12 MR. DEMO: Yeah.

13 THE COURT: If they ask for that in a fee app -- if I
14 approve their retention and they ask for it in a fee app,
15 we'll --

16 MR. DEMO: Okay. Understood, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: -- decide whether it's meritorious or 18 not.

19 MR. DEMO: Okay.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. DEMO: And then I guess, just moving on, you
22 know, as you'll hear from Judge Nelms, all of the elements of 23 227(e), you know, have been met. You know, first, Foley is 24 being retained for a special purpose. Nobody has objected on 25 that basis.

1 Second, Foley is not being retained to conduct the
2 Debtor's bankruptcy case. That's my firm, Pachulski Stang.
3 Again, nobody has objected on that basis.

4 Third, Foley represented the Debtor prior to the petition
5 date on these matters. Again, nobody has objected on that 6 basis.

7 And, fourth, you know, as Judge Nelms will testify, the 8 retention of Foley and Foley's continued prosecution of the 9 Acis matters is in the best interest of the Debtor's estate.

10 And then fifth and finally, Foley has no adverse interest
11 with respect to the matters on which it is being retained.

12 Now, as I mentioned, there were two omnibus objections
13 that were filed. There was the Committee's objection and then 14 there was Acis's objection. Both of these objections really
15 had one common theme, which was that there was insufficient
16 disclosure as to how the fees were going to be allocated, and,
17 honestly, whether or not Mr. James Dondero would benefit from 18 Foley's retention without paying his share of those fees.

19 Now, we had a meeting with the Committee on Friday and we 20 walked through this issue. And as a result of that, the 21 Committee withdrew its objection.

22 What we told to the Committee is that, prior to the Acis
23 bankruptcy -- and this goes primarily to the retention -- or,
24 the prosecution of the involuntary petition appeal. In that 25 appeal, Foley is representing just Neutra. Foley is not

1 representing the Debtor. Now, the economic benefit to the 2 estate, though, in that appeal accrues almost solely to the 3 Debtor. It does not accrue to Neutra or to Neutra's economic
4 interest owners, which, full disclosure, are Mr. James Dondero
5 and Mr. Mark Okada.

6 The reason why the Debtor -- and you'll hear, again, hear
7 this from Judge Nelms -- believes that it's in the economic 8 best interest of its estate to pay for Neutra's fees in that 9 appeal is that, if Neutra is successful in that appeal, the 10 involuntary petition obviously will be struck, the involuntary
11 will be unwound, and the economic interest and the economic 12 ownership of Acis will revert to Neutra.

13 Upon that reversion, Highland Capital Management will be 14 reinstated as the advisor to Neutra.

15 Now, if Neutra -- I'm sorry, if Acis then generates fees,
16 those fees are going to be paid about 85 percent to satisfy
17 the contractual obligations under that advisory agreement.

18 So, on a go-forward basis, again, if Neutra is successful,
19 85 percent of the revenue generated by Acis will go to Neutra.
20 That remaining 15 percent will be used to satisfy the claim
21 that Acis -- I'm sorry, that Highland Capital Management has 22 against Acis for the pre-, post-petition, and gap period
23 services that it provided to Acis under the advisory 24 agreements. That claim is about $8 million.

25 So, 85 percent of the revenue on a go-forward basis is

1 going to be used to satisfy the obligations under the
2 management agreement. The balance of that is going to be used
3 to satisfy that $8 million claim.

4 That means that, you know, if our math is right -- and 5 obviously, the numbers are not static -- that there's not 6 going to be any contributions or any distributions to the 7 upstream equity, to Mr. Dondero or Mr. Okada, for about four 8 years. After that four years, 85 percent of the revenue is 9 still going to go to Highland Capital Management, the Debtor,
10 under those advisory agreements.

11 So for that reason, we do believe, and Judge Nelms will 12 testify, that the true economic beneficiary of the Neutra
13 appeal of the involuntary petition is actually Highland
14 Capital Management.

15 THE COURT: I don't want to jump ahead too much, but 16 are we going to talk today about mootness as a potential issue
17 with both of these appeals? I mean, you know, I have to say
18 it's very compelling to me that you tell me all the briefing
19 has been done --

20 MR. DEMO: Uh-huh.

21 THE COURT: -- and oral argument is set in March, so
22 -- but is mootness a --

23 MR. DEMO: We don't --

24 THE COURT: Was there ever a motion to dismiss for 25 mootness or --

41

1 MR. DEMO: Not that I'm aware of, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. DEMO: And all the briefing has been done.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. DEMO: Again, oral argument is set. And as far
6 as I know, nobody has raised that issue.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. DEMO: So I think that we're still proceeding as 9 to whether --

10 THE COURT: And, again, I'm leaping ahead, but I'm 11 just -- you know, you went through the scenario --

12 MR. DEMO: Uh-huh.

13 THE COURT: -- to show that, you know, Dondero and -- 14 if the involuntary was reversed, you know, no money would ever
15 get there. But you're painting a picture, to me, that, again,
16 it feels a little farfetched. But the evidence will either,
17 you know, bear it out or not.

18 MR. DEMO: Again, the evidence, you know, I think,
19 will bear it out.

20 And I think what's important also is, when you're thinking
21 about this, is to think of the actual universe of post-
22 petition fees that Foley is going to incur for those services,
23 for the briefing of the two appeals and then for the 24 bankruptcy services, versus the actual economic gain that the 25 Debtor could and hopefully will get if those appeals are

1 successful.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. DEMO: So, Foley --

4 THE COURT: And hopefully the evidence will really go
5 to this.

6 MR. DEMO: Yes.

7 THE COURT: I'm trying to think of -- I'm trying to 8 decide what life looks like --

9 MR. DEMO: Right.

10 THE COURT: -- if there is a successful reversal.

11 MR. DEMO: Right.

12 THE COURT: And I'm not at all clear. So the 13 evidence and argument will hopefully make me clear.

14 MR. DEMO: Yes. And, honestly, Your Honor knows the 15 facts and circumstances --

16 THE COURT: Right.

17 MR. DEMO: -- better than me and probably better than 18 anyone.

19 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

20 MR. DEMO: But I think what's --

21 THE COURT: I mean, we've had -- we had terminated
22 contracts --

23 MR. DEMO: Right.

24 THE COURT: -- with Highland. We have a Reorganized
25 Debtor now, which, you know, --

1 MR. DEMO: Right.

2 THE COURT: -- has new contractual arrangements.

3 MR. DEMO: Right.

4 THE COURT: I just, I'm not sure how that all goes
5 away if there's a reversal. So I'm --

6 MR. DEMO: Right.

7 THE COURT: I'm really wanting to drill down on the 8 benefit --

9 MR. DEMO: Okay. And --

10 THE COURT: -- to Highland.

11 MR. DEMO: And we can do that. But I think --

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. DEMO: -- it's helpful to talk about --

14 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

15 MR. DEMO: -- the universe of fees first and then
16 talk about the related benefit for that.

17 Foley Gardere has helpfully filed two post-petition fee
18 applications. Those fee applications disclose that, on all 19 three of these matters, Foley has billed about $330,000. We 20 believe that Foley was probably going to bill, up through the 21 end of oral argument, about $500,000.

22 And then, you know, again -- and not getting too deep into 23 it, because I do think this is something that's better for 24 testimony because I think it goes to, you know, what the Board
25 believes is the economic benefit to the estate -- but if the

1 Neutra appeal is successful, if the confirmation order appeal
2 is successful, then the post-petition fees that are going to 3 accrue or we believe are going to accrue to Highland Capital
4 Management under those contracts are tens of millions of 5 dollars a year.

6 The post-petition and gap period and pre-petition fees
7 that we believe that Acis owes to Highland are $8 million a
8 year. And then there's the go-forward fees.

9 So we believe that, for spending $500,000, the benefits to 10 the estate are actually going to be in the tens of millions of 11 dollars. So, you know, even though, you know, reasonable 12 minds can differ as to the merits -- and, again, we'll put on 13 some testimony about that, although there's obviously 14 privilege issues and things like that -- the actual economic 15 benefit to the estate is $500,000 versus the possible benefit
16 of $50 million, possibly more dollars, plus the removal of a
17 substantial portion of Acis's proof of claim, which is -- I
18 think it says not less than $75 million. So you're looking 19 at, if we're successful, fees into the estate --

20 THE COURT: Well, that's a different issue, though.
21 Isn't that --

22 MR. DEMO: It is, but it --

23 THE COURT: Isn't that the Acis adversary proceeding
24 component?

25 MR. DEMO: Yes.

45

1 THE COURT: So, --

2 MR. DEMO: But if the -- if the -- and, again, I
3 don't want to get too far into this --

4 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

5 MR. DEMO: -- because I don't want to get into, you
6 know, legal arguments that are going to be on appeal.

7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

8 MR. DEMO: But what we believe is that, and what 9 Judge Nelms will testify to and what you'll hear, is that if 10 the confirmation order and the involuntary petition are 11 erased, especially the involuntary petition, and we go back to 12 status quo ante, the benefit to the estate is going to be in 13 the tens of millions of dollars, at a minimum, plus the 14 possible diminution, to a large extent, of a proof of claim 15 that is not less than $75 million, and we've heard numbers of 16 up to $300 million.

17 So you're looking to spend $500,000 on these two matters
18 for a benefit to the estate that's going to be astronomically
19 more than that. So the benefit to the estate versus the money
20 that is going out of the estate, especially since everything
21 has been briefed and set for oral argument, I guess,
22 personally, I find it difficult to not see that benefit and 23 not to see that spending that half a million dollars to 24 possibly get back $50-plus million, I just don't see how 25 that's not a benefit to the estate and how that does not

46

1 warrant the retention of Foley Gardere in the limited matters
2 that we're honestly asking them to be retained for.

3 THE COURT: All right.

4 MR. DEMO: Okay.

5 THE COURT: I'll hear other opening statements on 6 this.

7 MR. LAMBERSON: Good morning, Your Honor. Phillip
8 Lamberson on behalf of Acis Capital Management.

9 First of all, let me start off with outlining exactly what 10 our limited objection relates to. We are not objecting to the 11 Debtor retaining Foley Gardere to handle the litigation
12 matters for the Debtor. So, for example, the Acis litigation, 13 anything related to the Acis bankruptcy, that's fine. We 14 don't have any objection to that.

15 THE COURT: So the mega-adversary proceeding against 16 Highland and affiliates that is stayed, --

17 MR. LAMBERSON: Uh-huh.

18 THE COURT: -- I have a giant Report and 19 Recommendation on my desk that was ready to go about the time
20 the Highland bankruptcy was filed -- but it's stayed: You
21 would have no objection to Gardere defending Highland --

22 MR. LAMBERSON: Correct.

23 THE COURT: -- in that if ever a motion to lift stay
24 is filed and that goes forward?

25 MR. LAMBERSON: Correct.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. LAMBERSON: And, for example, I believe counsel
3 mentioned this: To the extent that there's a status
4 conference in the Acis case or something like that, we don't
5 have any issue with Foley representing the Debtor as it
6 relates to that.

7 We don't have any objection to the representation of the 8 Debtor as it relates to the Debtor's appeal of the 9 confirmation order. We don't have any objection to Neutra's
10 retention of Foley at all. In fact, we don't have any basis
11 to object to Neutra's retention of Foley Gardere. Neutra is 12 not a debtor.

13 We fully expect and anticipate that we'll be opposite
14 Foley Gardere in the appeal which is going to be argued at the 15 end of next month, as well as any matters in front of this
16 Court.

17 What we do object to is the Debtor agreeing -- frankly,
18 pre-agreeing -- to pay Foley Gardere for litigation costs
19 incurred by non-debtors, and, specifically, Neutra. And as 20 counsel outlined, and the reply filed by the Debtors is very 21 clear on this point, Neutra is not a subsidiary of the Debtor.
22 Neutra is ultimately owned one hundred percent by Mr. Dondero
23 and Mr. Okada.

24 So why, why are we objecting? There's a couple of 25 reasons. Number one, this is obviously an extremely unusual

1 request. It's not really a --

2 THE COURT: Okay. Let me just make sure I heard you
3 correct. The only thing that Acis is objecting to is the 4 Debtor paying fees for Gardere -- Foley Gardere's
5 representation of Neutra?

6 MR. LAMBERSON: Correct.

7 THE COURT: Okay. So, --

8 MR. LAMBERSON: Right. And let me --

9 THE COURT: -- you don't have a problem with Foley
10 representing the Debtor in these appeal -- well, the Debtor
11 isn't an appellant in the involuntary appeal, right? Or no?

12 MR. LAMBERSON: It is -- no. So, the Debtor is an 13 appellant in the --

14 THE COURT: The confirmation order.

15 MR. LAMBERSON: -- confirmation order appeal.

16 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

17 MR. LAMBERSON: It's one of two appellants.

18 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

19 MR. LAMBERSON: The other one is Neutra.

20 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

21 MR. LAMBERSON: Neutra is the only appellant in the 22 confirmation order -- I'm sorry, in the order for relief
23 appeal.

24 THE COURT: Okay. So you don't have any problem with 25 Foley's retention; it's just you don't want the Debtor to pay

1 Neutra's legal fees?

2 MR. LAMBERSON: Correct.

3 THE COURT: And there needs to be some allocation in 4 the confirmation appeal between Neutra and the Debtor, and it
5 needs to all be paid by Neutra, --

6 MR. LAMBERSON: Correct.

7 THE COURT: -- not the Debtor? Okay.

8 MR. LAMBERSON: Yeah. That's exactly correct, Your
9 Honor.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Just --

11 MR. LAMBERSON: So I wanted to be clear on that, --

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. LAMBERSON: -- that we're not -- we understand 14 that they're --

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. LAMBERSON: -- going to be our opponents going 17 forward, and we're fine with that.

18 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

19 MR. LAMBERSON: I actually like Mrs. O'Neil.

20 So, why are we objecting? So, there's a couple of 21 reasons. One is procedural and one is really more
22 substantive. So, this is obviously a strange request under 23 Section 327. 327 is to approve counsel for the Debtor, for 24 the estate. And this request doesn't really fit.

25 So, for example, you engage Foley Gardere. You agree that

50

1 the Debtor is going to pay fees under 330. Okay. Well, how
2 do we apply 330 in this situation, right? What constitutes 3 reasonable and necessary as it relates to the Debtor when the 4 work wasn't done for the Debtor? What constitutes a
5 determination of whether it was beneficial to the Debtor when,
6 again, the work wasn't done for the Debtor?

7 There's other issues, obviously. Who controls Neutra?
8 It's not controlled by the Debtor. The Debtor doesn't own any 9 of Neutra. Who is making litigation decisions for Neutra?
10 All we know is that the Debtor is paying the freight for 11 whatever Neutra decides to do going forward.

12 The other issue, Your Honor, and this is probably the 13 broader issue, is this decision evidences a continuation of a
14 failed litigation strategy that precipitated this bankruptcy
15 in the first place. Right? So, we all heard that the reason
16 Highland Capital Management had to file bankruptcy is because 17 they couldn't pay the Crusader judgment. Right? They had a
18 $190 million judgment, or about to be judgment against them,
19 and they couldn't pay it.

20 So let's look at the Committee. Right? We have a 21 Committee with four members on it. Three of them are 22 litigants. Three of them are in active litigation against the 23 Debtor.

24 If you look at the Top 20 List in this case, of the Top
25 10, only one of them is not a litigation creditor, and that's

1 -- I'm trying to -- is an insider creditor. The rest of the 2 Top 10 are either litigation adversaries or they're law firms
3 that were paid to fight the litigation adversaries.

4 So why is the Debtor continuing its strategy of fighting
5 every last issue, and using various instrumentalities to do
6 it, and then paying the freight for all of it? That's exactly
7 how we got to where we are today in this case.

8 So, let me address also the benefit from the Neutra
9 appeal. And, Your Honor, I think that's definitely an area
10 that we need to probe. Because, like you, I don't get it. I 11 think what they're outlining is sort of a fantasyland where 12 money is going to rain from the sky when they win this appeal,
13 or if they win this appeal. And obviously, their reply goes
14 on for pages about the benefit to the Debtor.

15 So, just using basic odds of winning -- and I'm not going 16 to go to the substance of this appeal, which I think is 17 probably worse than the basic odds -- there's a 90 percent
18 chance that the Fifth Circuit just affirms the -- Judge
19 Fitzwater's ruling. Right? I mean, there's a 90 percent
20 chance that what the Debtor gets out of this is an affirmance
21 that says, "You lose." Right?

22 But even if it's reversed, --

23 THE COURT: What are you basing that on? Because 24 Fitzwater affirmed 90 percent of the time?

25 MR. LAMBERSON: Well, so, actually, Judge -- and Ms.

1 Chiarello can probably address this more specifically -- Judge
2 Fitzwater actually gets affirmed, I think, more than 90
3 percent of the time, --

4 THE COURT: Probably, yes.

5 MR. LAMBERSON: -- but the general reversal rate at 6 the Fifth Circuit is about ten percent. So, and that 7 obviously includes things like 1983 appeals and things like
8 that.

9 But even if it is reversed, which I think we'd all agree
10 is fairly unlikely, again, money isn't just going to start
11 raining down on Highland Capital. So what's most likely going 12 to happen if the Fifth Circuit decides to reverse -- and let 13 me, let me point out one issue, Your Honor. The only issue on 14 appeal, I should say the only -- there are various issues on 15 appeal, and I'll just click through them. So, one of them is 16 whether Neutra has standing to appeal. Right? Whether they 17 qualify under the person aggrieved standard that the Fifth
18 Circuit uses. That's obviously a gating issue. And, by the 19 way, that's the basis of Judge Fitzwater's ruling affirming
20 this Court's ruling, which was basically Neutra doesn't have 21 standing to appeal the order for relief. They're not the 22 Debtor.

23 So the first issue is whether Neutra is a person
24 aggrieved. Okay?

25 The second issue, and this is the substantive bankruptcy

1 issue, the only substantive bankruptcy issue, is whether the
2 order for relief should have been arbitrated. Right? So
3 that's the next issue. That would be, frankly, the issue that
4 the Fifth Circuit would have to reverse on, is that well, yes,
5 this should have been arbitrated. Right? The order for 6 relief should have been arbitrated.

7 And then the final issue that we raised on appeal is 8 whether, even if Neutra has standing and even if there was 9 some right to arbitration, whether Neutra, via the putative
10 debtor, waived its right to arbitration by waiting until 11 literally, and you'll remember this, literally the day before 12 the order for relief file started, to raise its request for 13 arbitration. Right?

14 So, assuming that they get some reversal, what's really
15 likely to happen is that the Court, the Fifth Circuit is going 16 to send it back to you on a remand and say, This is the 17 standard you should have applied, you need to make this 18 finding, or something like that, right? It's very unlikely
19 the Fifth Circuit is going to say, We're going to reverse and 20 we're just going to render, right, and this thing just goes
21 away forever, particularly considering that the only live
22 substantive issue is whether the order for relief should have 23 been arbitrated, right?

24 But even if Neutra wins and its relief is wholly granted, 25 well, what does that mean? That doesn't mean that the

1 involuntary goes away. It doesn't mean the order for relief
2 permanently goes away. It means that we go arbitrate it.
3 Right? That's what they asked for, is that we go arbitrate
4 it. So now we go arbitrate it. Right?

5 So, basically, if you break it down, if, in the unlikely
6 event Neutra wins on appeal, it doesn't mean the bankruptcy
7 permanently goes away. What it means is we have more
8 litigation. Right? And that's what normally happens when 9 there's a reversal on appeal, right? You relitigate the 10 issues that were litigated in the first place.

11 So this concept -- you're exactly right, Your Honor. This 12 sounds like fantasyland. This concept that money is just 13 going to fall out of the sky and onto Highland because Neutra
14 got a reversal is just not going to happen.

15 There's some other problems here, obviously. Counsel just 16 spent a lot of time talking about how all of Acis's funds are 17 going to get paid to Highland. Well, that completely misses 18 the point that Josh Terry has an eight, probably somewhere in 19 the neighborhood of maybe $12 million judgment now against 20 Acis. They're just going to ignore that? They're just going
21 to ignore the fact that their largest creditor has a judgment
22 against them and is just hanging out there? That's going to 23 have some impact on what happens to all that cash flow.

24 And then, finally -- and we'll talk about this in more
25 substance when we get to the testimony -- as you recall, this

1 was the entire basis of the Acis case: Mr. Dondero and
2 Highland Capital were aggressively trying to liquidate Acis
3 when we showed up in your Court asking for relief. So what
4 makes anybody think that that isn't going to continue
5 happening if there's not a bankruptcy anymore? Right?

6 And Your Honor will recall that you had to twice enjoin
7 Dondero affiliates, HCLOF, from liquidating the PMAs and 8 Acis's assets during the bankruptcy. Right? So the concept
9 that if they win on appeal and there is no bankruptcy,
10 everything just goes away and we're not in this Court at all,
11 that Acis is going to have all of these valuable PMAs and cash
12 flow and it's all going to go to the benefit of Highland, is 13 completely contrary to what happened during the Acis case and 14 what precipitated the Acis case.

15 One other issue that we raised in the objection and in the 16 Debtor's omnibus reply is what we call the DAF litigation,
17 which is litigation filed in the Southern District of New 18 York. And Your Honor, I think you probably remember that from 19 the pleadings. I do want to point out that -- so this, this 20 is a serious issue for Acis. And the reason is because,
21 contrary to what was stated in the reply -- admittedly, this
22 happened after the reply -- but contrary to what happened --
23 was stated in the reply, that litigation has now been expanded
24 to include Acis and Mr. Terry and Brigade, and with basically 25 the same allegations of CLO mismanagement that were raised in

1 this Court during the confirmation hearing.

2 So this is a very significant matter to us. We are very
3 concerned that this Debtor is involved in that and is 4 promoting it in some way. And we want Your Honor to be aware
5 of that litigation and the actions that are taken challenging
6 your rulings in a court that's miles and miles away from here.

7 Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, are you ready to 9 call your witness?

10 MR. MORRIS: Yes, I am, Your Honor. The Debtor calls
11 Russell Nelms.

12 THE COURT: All right.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have some exhibit binders.
14 May I hand up?

15 THE COURT: You may. All right. Well, odd as it is,
16 I suppose I in this context need to swear you in.

17 RUSSELL NELMS, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

18 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated.

19 MR. MORRIS: John Morris for Pachulski Stang Ziehl &
20 Jones on behalf of the Debtor, Your Honor.

21 Before we get to the testimony, the Debtor has put on its 22 exhibit list nine specific documents that are in the binder
23 before you, and the Debtor moves for the introduction of those 24 documents into evidence.

25 THE COURT: All right. Any objection?

Nelms - Direct

57

1 MR. LAMBERSON: No objections, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Exhibits 1 through 9 are admitted.

3 (Debtor's Exhibits 1 through 9 are received into
4 evidence.)

5 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

6 DIRECT EXAMINATION

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q Mr. Nelms, do you currently have a relationship to the 9 Debtor?

10 A I do.

11 Q And what is that relationship?

12 A I am one of three independent directors of the Debtor.

13 Q And when were you appointed?

14 A January the 9th of this year.

15 Q Did you just listen to the opening statement on behalf of 16 Acis?

17 A I did.

18 Q And did you hear the reference to the DAF litigation?

19 A I did.

20 Q And did you hear the allegation that the Debtor somehow
21 was involved in the prosecution of the DAF litigation?

22 A I heard that, yes.

23 Q Okay. Did there come a time last week that the Board
24 learned of the possibility of a filing with respect to the DAF
25 litigation?

Nelms - Direct

58

1 A We learned about the filing of the DAF litigation sometime
2 within the last two weeks.

3 Q And what did the Board do in response to learning that
4 information?

5 A Well, first of all, I -- we met with Ms. Patel and her
6 client, Josh Terry. They expressed their concerns about the 7 DAF litigation. And so the Board used its influence to 8 encourage the trustee of the DAF, Grant Scott, to dismiss that 9 litigation, and we have gotten Mr. Scott's commitment to 10 dismiss the litigation.

11 There's a little bit of an issue there concerning about 12 whether some of the claims can -- they may need to be 13 dismissed without -- the preference is, of course, to dismiss
14 them without prejudice, but there are some issues about that.
15 But I'm told by Mr. Scott that he's going to dismiss the
16 litigation.

17 Q Let's go back in time before this was filed. Did the 18 Board express its view as to whether there should be a filing
19 at all?

20 A It was really a very brief thing. This was probably a 21 couple weeks or so ago, kind of late in the day at the end of 22 a long, long day, one of those long days we've been having.
23 Someone brought into a board meeting I guess a copy of this 24 new DAF complaint. It had not been filed at that time. They 25 showed it to Mr. Dubel. He looked at it and just kind of

Nelms - Direct

59

1 asked what it was. There was a brief explanation of what it
2 was. And Mr. Dubel said, Tell them not to file this. He 3 goes, This is only going to cause us problems. And that's the 4 last we heard of it before it was filed.

5 Q And what law firm filed that complaint?

6 A That was filed by the Lynn Pinker firm.

7 Q And after the Board learned that Lynn Pinker filed this,
8 in spite of the Board's instructions, did the Board take any 9 steps with respect to Lynn Pinker?

10 A Well, of course, we -- one of the matters that previously
11 was before the Court was the Lynn Pinker application to be 12 retained in this case. And I'll just say that it was -- it
13 was a factor that went into our deliberations concerning our 14 decision not to go forward with the Lynn Pinker litigation.

15 Q So, I just want to make sure I have this right. So the 16 Board, upon learning of a possible filing, gave instructions
17 not to do so; is that right?

18 A It did.

19 Q And upon learning that it was filed, it became one of the 20 factors that the Board relied upon in determining not to 21 pursue the Lynn Pinker retention; is that right?

22 A That's correct.

23 Q And you personally reached out to Mr. Terry and Ms. Patel
24 to discuss the issue; is that right?

25 A Mr. Seery and I did, the two of us.

Nelms - Direct

60

1 Q And you used whatever influence you had to try to reach an
2 agreement for the withdrawal of that complaint without
3 prejudice; is that right?

4 A That's correct.

5 Q Okay. Now, let's get back to the issues that are relevant
6 to the actual motion. Are you aware that the Debtor has 7 sought the Court's approval to retain Foley Gardere as special
8 counsel?

9 A I am.

10 Q And have you reviewed the court filings with respect to 11 that motion?

12 A Yes, I have.

13 Q Okay. Can you describe for the Court generally the 14 matters for which the Debtor seeks to retain Foley Gardere?

15 A There are three matters, essentially. One is an appeal in 16 the Fifth Circuit which concerns the entry of the order for 17 relief in the involuntary petition itself. The second is an 18 appeal in the Fifth Circuit that concerns the confirmation of 19 the Acis plan. And the third matter is the assertion of,
20 prosecution of a proof of claim that Highland Capital
21 Management would have in the Acis bankruptcy.

22 Q Okay. And are these the special purposes for which the 23 Debtor seeks to retain Foley?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Do you know whether there are matters that were part of

Nelms - Direct

61

1 the original motion but which the Debtor no longer seeks to 2 pursue?

3 A One of the matters that was pending when we took office
4 was an appeal, and I believe it was still in the District
5 Court, and that related to an alleged conflict of interest by 6 the Winstead firm. And so there was an objection to their 7 fees and an appeal concerning payment of Winstead fees. And 8 the Board has decided not to go forward with that appeal.

9 Q Okay. So the Board -- did you hear the opening from 10 Acis's counsel that charged that the Debtor was just doing
11 more scorched-earth litigation tactics? Did you hear that 12 charge?

13 A I heard that, yes.

14 Q Okay. But yet the Board has instructed Foley not to 15 pursue the Winstead matter; is that right?

16 A That's correct.

17 Q And just again, for the record, why did the Board make 18 that decision?

19 A The Board made that decision because we just thought it
20 was in the best interest of the Debtor and this estate not to 21 do that.

22 Q And did the Debtor see any benefit to pursuing that 23 particular litigation?

24 A You know, there -- a benefit could be articulated, but we 25 decided not to pursue it.

Nelms - Direct

62

1 Q Okay. So, that, plus the Neutra appeal, are two -- I
2 mean, I apologize, withdrawn. That, plus the DAF matter, are 3 two examples where the Board exercised its judgment not to 4 pursue pending litigation; is that fair?

5 A That's correct.

6 Q Okay. Is the Board supportive of the Debtor's application
7 to retain Foley for the three matters you have described?

8 A It is.

9 Q And without revealing privileged communications, can you
10 describe generally the diligence that the Board conducted to 11 reach that decision?

12 A Well, we met with some of the people that work at 13 Highland. We met with the Debtor's attorneys, the Pachulski
14 firm. We did have a couple of meetings with Ms. Patel and Mr.
15 Terry. Some of us have reviewed the pleadings, some more than 16 others. And, well, we may have done other things, but those 17 are the ones that come to mind right now.

18 Q I don't know if you mentioned it, but did you confer with 19 Ms. O'Neil?

20 A Oh, yes, we did. We talked with Ms. O'Neil about it.

21 Q Okay. And what was the purpose of the diligence that you
22 just described for the Court?

23 A Well, ultimately, what we as a board were trying to do was 24 to conduct kind of a cost-benefit analysis to the estate: How 25 much will this potentially cost us? What's the potential

Nelms - Direct

63

1 upside of pursuing it? And based upon that cost-benefit
2 analysis, we thought that this was the best thing to do.

3 Q Okay. Let's just focus on a couple of very narrow 327(e)
4 issues. Is the Debtor seeking to retain Foley to act as 5 general bankruptcy counsel?

6 A No.

7 Q And which firm serves as general bankruptcy counsel?

8 A That would be the Pachulski firm.

9 Q Okay. And do you know whether Foley Gardere represented
10 the Debtor's interest in each of the three matters that you've 11 described?

12 A It has been representing the Debtor previously.

13 Q Okay. So let's talk about those three matters. The first
14 one I believe you said was with respect to the representation
15 of the Debtor in connection with an $8 million claim that it
16 has against Acis; is that right?

17 A That's correct.

18 Q And is that the claim -- is that the subject of a formal 19 proof of claim?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay.

22 A It is a claim filed in the Acis case.

23 Q I've placed before you an exhibit binder, and I would ask
24 you to turn first to Exhibit 4.

25 A Okay.

Nelms - Direct

64

1 Q And is that one of the proofs of claim that the Debtor has
2 filed against Acis?

3 A It is.

4 Q And you'll see that attached to the proof of claim a few
5 pages in there's a document called the Third Amended and 6 Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement. Do you see that?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Do you know what that document is? Generally?

9 A Well, generally, I know what this document is.

10 Q All right. And what's your general understanding of the 11 document?

12 A This is an advisory agreement that -- the only thing that
13 I know, I can tell you, really, about this agreement is it 14 gives rise to and generates fees that would inure to the 15 benefit of the Debtor.

16 Q Okay. And a few pages past that, you'll see something
17 called a Fourth Amended and Restated Shared Services
18 Agreement. Do you see that?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Is it your understanding that that was another source of 21 revenue that the Debtor generated when it had this agreement
22 in place with Acis?

23 A Yes.

24 Q Okay. Do you have an understanding as to, you know,
25 ballpark, what the annual fees were that the Debtor received

Nelms - Direct

65

1 pursuant to these agreements prior to the Acis bankruptcy?

2 A Well, I think, prior to the bankruptcy, it was more, and
3 perhaps significantly more, than it is today. It may have 4 been in the $12 million range per annum. I think it's less
5 than that today.

6 Q Okay. And can you turn to Exhibit 5, please? Is that
7 another proof of claim that was filed in the bankruptcy case,
8 the Acis bankruptcy case?

9 A Yes. This is a little bit different. This is an 10 application for an administrative expense claim. The prior 11 proof of claim that we looked at related to a pre-petition
12 claim that the Debtor had, then a gap period claim that the 13 Debtor had, and this is post-petition. So this is an 14 administrative claim. It's basically for the same services,
15 but just different time periods.

16 Q Okay. And who was responsible for preparing Exhibits 4,
17 5, and 6?

18 A Ms. O'Neil and the Foley firm.

19 Q Okay. And has the Board reached a conclusion that it's in 20 the Debtor's best interest to retain Foley on a post-petition
21 basis to prosecute these claims?

22 A It has.

23 Q And why -- what's the justification for that? Why did the 24 Board reach that decision?

25 A Well, we believe it's in the best interest of the Debtor.

Nelms - Direct

66

1 Obviously, a couple of things there. I realize we may have a
2 very long road ahead of us with respect to these things. But
3 the overall aspirational goal is to have an income stream
4 that's associated with these agreements. The goal is to have 5 an amount of money out there that's available to pay our pre-
6 petition claims, the gap claims, the administrative claims,
7 while at the same time acknowledging that this company has the 8 obligation to satisfy and fulfill Mr. Terry's claim as well.

9 Q All right. Let's just focus for the moment on the three
10 proofs of claim. The aggregate amount is approximately $8
11 million. Do I have that right?

12 A Yes, that's right.

13 Q And from the Board's perspective, is the -- are those 14 claims an asset of the estate?

15 A They are.

16 Q And does the Board want to retain Foley for the purpose of 17 trying to recover that asset?

18 A It does.

19 Q And has the Board concluded that Foley is familiar with 20 these particular claims?

21 A Foley is familiar with these claims, yes.

22 Q And -- okay. Let's move on, then, to the second task for 23 which the Debtor seeks approval to retain Foley, and that is 24 with respect to the confirmation order. That's one of the 25 tasks, right?

Nelms - Direct

67

1 A It is.

2 Q Okay. And this is one of the Fifth Circuit arguments
3 that's scheduled for six weeks from now; is that right?

4 A That's correct.

5 Q Okay. And has Foley represented the Debtor throughout the 6 proceedings that are leading up to this oral argument?

7 A It has.

8 Q And did Foley prepare all of the briefing in connection
9 with the arguments?

10 A It did prepare the briefing. It did that, in some 11 respects, along with Lynn Pinker.

12 Q Okay. Did you personally review the Debtor's briefs that 13 were filed in connection with the appeal?

14 A I have reviewed those.

15 Q Okay. Have you reviewed every single piece of the record
16 on appeal?

17 A I would doubt that I have.

18 Q Okay. Do you have a general understanding of the nature
19 of the appeal? Of -- and this would --

20 A Are we talking now about the confirmation appeal?

21 Q Yes. Just the confirmation. Yeah.

22 Q Well, the appeal has basically two broad elements, and the 23 first is an argument that the plan was not brought in good
24 faith. Section 1129(a)(3). And that goes back to the 25 arbitration issue. Generally speaking, that because -- the

Nelms - Direct

68

1 allegation is that because Mr. Terry refused to arbitrate,
2 then the plan was tainted by that lack of good faith. And the 3 second issue, broad issue that's involved in that appeal has 4 to do with, oh, the injunction, the breadth and scope of the 5 injunction, which the Debtor contends is -- was improper.

6 Q And if the Fifth Circuit reverses the underlying decision,
7 has the Board made a determination of the possible benefits
8 that the Debtor may receive?

9 A Well, there's two aspects of that appeal. One would be a
10 narrower decision. I suppose, if it's just related to the 11 injunction, it's -- it's hard to quantify exactly what that 12 would mean.

13 Q Okay.

14 A The bigger issue, of course, has to do with the 15 arbitration. And if the -- theoretically, at least, the 16 arbitration, if the Fifth Circuit agreed on the issue of 17 arbitration, then the argument would be that we would -- that 18 in the arbitra... well, it is true to say that -- well, I
19 think I'm kind of getting ahead of myself here.

20 Q You are, just a bit. Let's just focus on the confirmation
21 appeal. That's been consolidated for oral argument purposes
22 --

23 A It has.

24 Q -- with the appeal of the involuntary; is that right?

25 A That's correct.

Nelms - Direct

69

1 Q Okay. And just to sum up this piece of it, did Foley
2 represent the Debtor with respect to all of the underlying
3 proceedings?

4 A It did.

5 Q And why does the Board believe it's in the Debtor's best
6 interest to retain Foley to conduct the oral argument and to 7 finish up this proceeding?

8 A Well, first of all, I think the Court would agree with me
9 that Foley is a very competent law firm. It's competent to do
10 the work that they've been charged to do.

11 Second, pretty much all the work on the appeal is already 12 in the can. The only thing that's left to be done at this 13 point in time is to make the oral argument. Obviously, if we 14 didn't go forward with the Foley firm, we'd have to find 15 somebody who could make the argument. So, we would -- but we 16 would lose the benefit of Foley's experience that they have in 17 the case so far.

18 I think there will be a cost element that would be 19 associated with bringing somebody new up to speed with respect
20 to this.

21 So, those, generally speaking, are the benefits that we 22 see.

23 Q Okay. Let's turn then, finally, to the Neutra appeal. Do
24 you have a general understanding of that matter for which the 25 Debtor seeks to retain Foley?

Nelms - Direct

70

1 A Yeah. The Neutra appeal, what happened in Neutra is that
2 Neutra, to my understanding, moved to intervene in the 3 involuntary proceeding. I think that intervention was denied.
4 And so that appeal has to do with the fact that Neutra
5 contends that it should have been permitted to intervene, that 6 the matter of collections should have been arbitrated.

7 I think that one of the issues in there is this -- in that
8 appeal is who decides on the issue of arbitrability. Is it
9 this Court, or is it the arbitrators themselves?

10 So, those are the issues that are present in the Neutra
11 appeal.

12 Q Okay. Is the Debtor named a party to the appeal?

13 A The Debtor is not a named party in the Neutra appeal.

14 Q But the Board nevertheless wants to retain Foley on a
15 post-petition basis to prosecute that appeal; is that right?

16 A That's correct.

17 Q And why is that?

18 A Well, I think both -- we recognize and I think the Fifth
19 Circuit recognizes as well that these two things, that these 20 two appeals kind of go hand-in-glove. The 1129(a)(3) argument
21 basically is dependent upon the arbitration issue, which is 22 fleshed out in the Neutra appeal.

23 And so, at the end of the day, the way that the Board sees 24 this is that the Debtor is the most immediate beneficiary of 25 the economic benefit of the Neutra appeal. We see the

Nelms - Direct

71

1 possibility of an income stream there. We see the possibility
2 of the ability to pay our claims in the Acis case. And I
3 think -- one of the things I think that is of particular focus
4 when it comes to all of this litigation is the fact that, as I
5 understand it, Mr. Terry started out with an $8 million claim,
6 and I think he bid $1 million of that claim for the interest
7 that he got in Acis, which reduced it, say, to $7 million.
8 And I think Mr. Terry's interest now over time I believe it's 9 been reduced to somewhere between $4 to $6 million. So
10 that's, that's a claim.

11 But in this case, Mr. Terry has filed a proof of claim for 12 $70 million. And my understanding from our visit with Mr.
13 Terry and his counsel is that that claim could get up to $300
14 million. And so, as a board, we look at that and what we're 15 concerned about is the migration, the alleged migration of a 16 tremendous amount of value from Highland down to Acis. So, at 17 the end of the day, it doesn't really matter who you regard as 18 the ultimate equity owner of Acis, whether it's Mr. Terry or 19 whether it's Mr. Dondero: The migration of that value
20 downstream to Acis is of no real benefit to Highland Capital
21 at all.

22 Q Is this one of the issues that the Board discussed with 23 the Committee last week in connection with this motion?

24 A Yes. It is.

25 Q Okay. And let's just go back to the income stream for a

Nelms - Direct

72

1 second. The income stream that the Board is hoping it will
2 get if the decision is reversed, is that income stream derived
3 from the two agreements that we just looked at?

4 A It is.

5 Q So those are the two very agreements that the Board would 6 look to have reinstated if it were to succeed on the appeal;
7 is that right?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Now, does the Board know exactly the form of relief the 10 Fifth Circuit is going to grant?

11 A I have no earthly idea.

12 Q Right? But has the Board made a determination that the 13 outcome of Neutra obtaining control of Acis is one
14 possibility?

15 A It's certainly a possibility.

16 Q And is that the potential benefit that the Board focused
17 on in deciding to pursue this motion?

18 A Yes. I mean, I'm glad to adopt the percentages that Mr.
19 Terry's counsel has mentioned today. I guess if the cost-
20 benefit analysis is that we're going to pay a couple hundred 21 thousand dollars here to get to the end of the road, and the 22 benefit is millions of dollars, well, even if our chances are 23 only ten percent, I think that's a shot worth taking.

24 Q Thank you very much. If the Fifth Circuit reversed,
25 because this is a point that was also made in the Acis

Nelms - Direct

73

1 opening, what would happen to Mr. Terry's claim? Or what's 2 your understanding or what's the Board's view as to whether or 3 not it would intend to satisfy Mr. Terry's claim?

4 A I know, speaking on my behalf, that I'd -- the claim that
5 Mr. Terry got through arbitration I regard as a valid claim.
6 I think it's one that would have to be addressed no matter who
7 is in charge of paying the obligations of Neutra.

8 Q Has the Board concluded that it's in the Debtor's best
9 interest to retain Foley for the purpose of prosecuting the 10 Neutra appeal, or at least in issuing the oral argument?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. And when is the argument scheduled for?

13 A March the 30th.

14 Q And is the fact that that's all that's left with respect
15 to this aspect of the engagement a factor that the Board took 16 into account in its decision?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Has the Board reached a decision as to who the real
19 economic party in interest is with respect to the Neutra
20 appeal?

21 A Yes. We believe ultimately that our Debtor would bear the 22 most economic interest in the outcome. And, really, because 23 of the amount of the obligations that are owed, both to Mr.
24 Terry, to Highland Capital, by the time that you have this 25 kind of runoff of all the revenue streams, I'm not really sure

Nelms - Direct

74

1 that there would be anything left for either Mr. Dondero or
2 Mr. Okada.

3 Q So, --

4 A That's -- that's a view from 50,000 feet, not even 30,000
5 feet.

6 Q Okay. Well, let's talk about the specific benefits,
7 potential benefits, if it's reversed on appeal. Does the 8 Board believe it's possible that the two contracts get 9 reinstated?

10 A It is possible.

11 Q And is that a motivating factor in supporting this motion?

12 A It is.

13 Q What would happen to the $8 million claim that the Debtor
14 has against Acis right now in the Acis bankruptcy? Does the 15 Board have a view as to what would happen to that?

16 A It would be our aspiration to collect that claim on behalf
17 of our client, which is Highland Capital Management.

18 Q And would -- is it the Board's expectation that if it was 19 in that position it would get paid hundred-cent dollars,
20 rather than at least a portion of it as a general unsecured
21 claim?

22 A Again, that would be our aspiration.

23 Q Uh-huh. What would happen to the adversary proceeding?
24 Do you have an understanding as to what would happen in the 25 adversary proceeding with respect to Mr. Terry if the Fifth

Nelms - Direct

75

1 Circuit reverses and Neutra regains control of Acis?

2 A Well, I'm assuming -- I'm assuming that that adversary
3 proceeding would go away.

4 Q Okay. And would that -- is that a potential benefit to 5 the estate?

6 A That would be a benefit to the estate if it did.

7 Q And do all of the factors that we just discussed go into 8 the cost-benefit analysis that the Board did in deciding to 9 pursue only these three very limited aspects of the 10 engagement?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. Has the Board considered the potential harm to the 13 Debtor if the motion is denied?

14 A We have.

15 Q And have -- can you share with the Court the issues that 16 the Board has identified as potentially being adverse if the 17 motion is denied?

18 A It's really just the other -- the flip side of the coin of 19 benefit, which is added expense, loss of the experience that 20 the Foley firm has, perhaps delay of time in finding somebody
21 else, bringing them up to speed, not just with respect to the 22 two appeals but with respect to the proof of claim. And there
23 may be others that I'm not thinking of right now.

24 Q Did the Board consider the potential loss of the 25 institutional knowledge that Foley has and the potential

Nelms - Direct

76

1 adverse impact it would have on the quality of the oral
2 argument?

3 A It did.

4 Q Okay. So, two of the three matters that the Debtor seeks 5 to retain Foley for are appeals to the Fifth Circuit; is that
6 right?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And did those matters originate in this courtroom?

9 A They did.

10 Q And you were colleagues with Judge Jernigan at one time,
11 weren't you?

12 A Yes. We were bench colleagues for twelve years.

13 Q And do you believe Judge Jernigan is a good judge?

14 A I do.

15 Q Do you believe she's a fair judge?

16 A I do.

17 Q Do you believe she tries to get it right every single 18 time?

19 A I know she tries to get it right every time.

20 Q So then why is the Board seeking to prosecute these 21 appeals of Judge Jernigan's decision?

22 A Well, it's in the best interest of our client to do that.
23 And I have not -- I have to say there's always a little bit of 24 discomfort that comes with something like this, but I do know
25 this from my time on the bench, and that is that when you take

Nelms - Direct

77

1 the job that Judge Jernigan has, you take it with full
2 understanding of how the system works. And in the system,
3 half the people lose at any one given time. And when you
4 lose, you tend to be disappointed in the result, and the 5 result of that is that you get the right to go to the next
6 court and have someone say that the judge got it wrong.

7 So those of us that take the bench understand that that's 8 the system, and I don't think -- for the most part, we're not 9 threatened by that. And so I, you know, as uncomfortable as 10 this may -- this may put -- a position it may put me in from 11 time to time, I think that -- I think Judge Jernigan
12 understands the roles that we all play in this system. And so
13 --

14 Q Just, okay, just to summarize: If the motion is granted,
15 what's the absolute worst-case scenario here for the Debtor?

16 A I'm sorry. Would you say that again?

17 Q If the motion is granted and the Debtor is allowed to 18 retain Foley for the three tasks which you have described, do
19 you have an understanding as to what -- what's the worst that 20 could happen? They'd have to pay Foley's fees, right?

21 A We'd have to pay -- well, subject to Judge Jernigan's
22 approval, --

23 Q Right.

24 A -- those fees would be paid.

25 Q And subject to everybody's opportunity to object, right?

Nelms - Direct

78

1 A Right.

2 Q But if the fees were paid at a hundred percent, nobody
3 objected and Judge Jernigan approved of them, what's the 4 maximum exposure that the Debtor has from this?

5 A I think Foley has about $311,000, I believe, right now in 6 time. And I think they would probably have about maybe
7 another $100,000 more. And I know -- I hate to scoff at the 8 notion that $400,000 is a lot of -- is not a lot of money.
9 But, you know, in the grand scheme of things in this case,
10 it's -- I won't say it's a rounding error, but it's not a lot
11 of money.

12 Q And forget about, I mean, not forget about, but in 13 addition to its relative size to the overall case, how does
14 that compare to the relative economic benefit that the Debtor
15 believes it will recover if the appeal is successful?

16 A Well, I think the cost is -- the cost is less than half a
17 million, and the potential benefits are in the millions.

18 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Just one moment, Your Honor, if I 19 may?

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 (Pause.)

22 MR. MORRIS: All right. Just a few more questions,
23 Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Nelms - Direct

79

1 Q Mr. Nelms, did Neutra pay a portion of the fees, Foley's
2 fees prior to the petition date in connection with an April
3 litigation? Do you know?

4 A If they did, I'm not aware of it.

5 Q Okay. Do you know what would happen to the appeal if 6 there was no funding for the appeal?

7 A Well, I think I know what the result of the appellant not 8 showing up for an appellant argument would be.

9 Q And what would that be?

10 A Well, I think that would be a pretty quick resolution.

11 Q Do you think the case would be dismissed, the appeal would 12 be dismissed?

13 A I think so.

14 Q And would that be the loss of a potential material benefit
15 and asset of the Debtor's estate?

16 A It would be.

17 Q Can you think of any way to ensure the appeal is 18 prosecuted today other than making sure the Debtor funds it?

19 A I'll put it this way. I think the most certainty can be 20 added to this case by having the Debtor fund this matter
21 through the end of March.

22 Q And from --

23 A I think that's -- that's -- for the time being, that's the 24 easiest, most simple path.

25 Q And you say for the time being. Has the Board reached an

1 agreement to never request, from Neutra or anybody else,
2 contributions for the funding of this case?

3 A No. Ultimately, there is going to be at some point in 4 this case a settling of accounts between the Debtor and Mr.
5 Dondero, just as there are -- will be a settling of accounts
6 between the Debtor and other parties in interest. We, as the 7 Board, have just chosen not to have that fight today.

8 Q And why did the Board reach that decision?

9 A Because we just thought it was in the best interest of the 10 Debtor to proceed that way.

11 Q And is that because you need this appeal argued on March 12 30th?

13 A It is.

14 Q And that's because of all of the potential benefits that 15 you've identified; is that right?

16 A Right.

17 Q Okay.

18 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Okay. Cross?

20 MR. LAMBERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

21 CROSS-EXAMINATION

22 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

23 Q Good morning, Mr. Nelms.

24 A Good morning.

25 Q How's it to be on that side of the bench?

Nelms - Cross

81

1 A Not so fun.

2 Q It's not great, right?

3 MR. LAMBERSON: And Your Honor, we have an exhibit
4 notebook, which we're not -- we're not going to use all these 5 exhibits. We actually -- you'll notice that there are some 6 empty tabs in here. We downsized the exhibits from the 7 exhibit list, and I'm not going to use all these. So I'll 8 just introduce them as I get to them.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

11 Q Let me pick up on your last point.

12 MS. CHIARELLO: Your Honor, may we approach? We have 13 binders.

14 THE COURT: You may.

15 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

16 Q So, let me pick up on your last point, Mr. Nelms. So, who 17 -- who owns Neutra?

18 A Well, if you follow the stream all the way up, it is owned
19 75 percent by Mr. Dondero and 25 percent by Mr. Okada.

20 Q Okay. And Mr. Dondero is one of the richest men in 21 Dallas. Correct?

22 A I don't know.

23 Q Presumably? Mr. Okada is also one of the richest men in 24 Dallas?

25 A I don't know. I haven't lived in Dallas in 17 years.

Nelms - Cross

82

1 Q Okay. Fair enough. But they can't -- they can't pay the
2 litigation costs for their own entity?

3 A Well, I don't know that they -- whether they can or 4 whether they can't.

5 Q Right. So, are you familiar with an entity called
6 Highland CLO Funding?

7 A Vaguely, yeah.

8 Q Okay. And Highland CLO Funding is one of the appellants
9 in the appeal of the confirmation order, correct?

10 A That's correct.

11 Q Okay. And one of the issues on appeal is actually the 12 plan injunction that's embedded in the confirmed plan,
13 correct?

14 A That's correct.

15 Q Right. And is your understanding that that's really
16 Highland CLO Funding's main appeal issue?

17 A I think it probably would be, yes.

18 Q Okay. And is there any reason that Highland CLO Funding
19 can't pay Neutra's legal fees to have -- have another
20 appellant in the Fifth Circuit?

21 A I don't know the answer to that question.

22 Q Okay. So, let me -- let me -- I'm going to try to keep 23 this coordinated, but my notes are a little bit over the 24 place, so I apologize in advance if I move around a little 25 bit.

83

1        So, you had testified earlier that -- and I'm just trying
2        to synopsize your testimony -- that you -- that the Board
3        believes the primary benefit of paying Neutra's legal expenses
4        related to the order for relief appeal and the confirmation
5        appeal is the income stream that would be evidenced by the 6        sub-advisory agreement, right?

7        A     Yes.

8        Q     Okay. And I'm -- when I say sub-advisory agreement, I'm 9        talking about this is the attachment to the Debtor's Exhibit
10       4, which is the proof of claim.

11       A     Right.

12       Q     Right? And so it's your understanding that the way that 13       works is Acis Capital Management, my client, is the portfolio
14       manager for a bundle of CLOs, right?

15       A     That's my understanding.

16       Q     And that before the Acis bankruptcy, the sub-advisory 17       agreement allowed Highland Capital Management to sub-advise 18       those CLOs for a fee, correct?

19       A     That's correct.

20       Q     Okay. So, I'm going to focus on the confirmation appeal.
21       So, you understand that the plan injunction prevents the 22       liquidation of the CLOs and the Acis portfolio management
23       agreement?

24       A     That is my understanding.

25       Q     Okay. And the reason that, frankly, we had to get the

84

1 plan injunction is because HCLOF three times tried to
2 liquidate, redeem the CLOs, including twice in the bankruptcy
3 case?

4 A I understand that was an issue. But -- I have a general
5 understanding as to what you're saying, but not a specific
6 understanding. But I'm not disagreeing with you.

7 Q Yeah. Okay. And so if the plan goes away, the plan
8 injunction goes away, then is there any reason to think that 9 HCLOF isn't going to liquidate the CLOs?

10 A I would not know.

11 Q And in that case, there's not going to be any cash flow
12 under the portfolio management agreements or the sub-advisory 13 agreements, right?

14 A If you're asking me if that's a possibility, I'd say it's 15 certainly within the realm of possibilities.

16 Q Okay. So, staying on the confirmation appeal, so let's --
17 let's assume that, for whatever reason, the Fifth Circuit
18 decides that the confirmation order needs to be reversed and 19 they send it back down to Judge Jernigan and say, "Try again."
20 Would you agree that that would effectively reactivate the 21 Acis case?

22 A Well, I don't know, because, you know, one of the issues
23 in the appeal is who gets to make the decision with respect to 24 arbitrability. Because I know that it's the Appellants'
25 position that the decision as to whether or not it should be

85

1 arbitrated, something such as collections, should they go to
2 be decided by the arbitrator, --

3 Q Let me stop you, just to be clear. I'm talking about the 4 confirmation appeal, the appeal of the confirmation order.

5 A Uh-huh.

6 Q Right? Okay. I'm not talking about the order for relief
7 appeal.

8 A I may be conflating the two, so I'm sorry.

9 Q Yeah, yeah, and I -- and it's -- yeah, it's -- but it is 10 confusing. But I'm talking about the confirmation appeal. So
11 the appeal of the Court's confirmation order confirming the -- 12 I think was the third amended plan. Okay? So, I'm focusing 13 on that appeal only. If the Fifth Circuit says, "Nope. Try 14 again," then you would agree with me that that effectively
15 reactivates the Acis Chapter 11 case?

16 A Well, I think it depends. If you -- would you like me to 17 explain why I think it depends?

18 Q Yeah. Go ahead. I don't -- because, I mean, honestly,
19 I'm not exactly sure what happened, so I would actually -- I
20 would like your opinion.

21 A Well, given that the first issue in the confirmation
22 appeal is the issue of good faith, and the foundation of that 23 pretty much is the whole arbitration issue, if the Fifth
24 Circuit were to reverse on that basis, then I don't
25 necessarily know that it would go back to the Bankruptcy

Nelms - Cross

86

1 Court.

2 If it was reversed just on the narrower issue with respect
3 to the injunction, and maybe whether the injunction was too
4 broad or something like that, --

5 Q Uh-huh.

6 A -- and that was the only basis for reversal, I would agree
7 with you it would go back to Bankruptcy Court.

8 Q Okay. So there's some possibility that a result of the 9 confirmation appeal is that the Acis Chapter 11 case is 10 reactivated and we're back in front of Judge Jernigan on that 11 case, too?

12 A That would be a possibility.

13 Q Okay. And then you'd get to talk with Mr. Phelan, right?
14 That would be fun.

15 A Right.

16 Q So, so how much money did Highland Capital spend in the 17 Acis bankruptcy case?

18 A I don't know.

19 Q Was it -- it was millions and millions, right?

20 A I don't know, but I'm -- I'm assuming it exceeded a
21 million.

22 Q Okay. Well, aren't there -- aren't there claims of unpaid
23 fees just in the Top 20 list, which we'll point to here in a 24 minute, in the millions of dollars that relate to the 25 attorneys that represented Highland in the bankruptcy -- in

Nelms - Cross

87

1 the Acis bankruptcy case?

2 A I don't know.

3 Q Okay. So, why, you know, assuming that a result of the 4 confirmation appeal is that the Acis bankruptcy case is
5 reactivated, how is that in Highland's best interest? And I'm 6 not talking about Neutra, and I'm not talking about HCLOF.
7 I'm talking about Highland.

8 A Well, the -- what would be in our best interest would be 9 to once again control the sub-advisory agreement and to 10 generate revenues for the benefit of this estate. Use those 11 -- that revenue stream both to address any claims that 12 Highland might have, as well as Mr. Terry. That would be the 13 benefit as we see it.

14 Q Right. But by the time of the confirmation order, --

15 A But if your question is, oh, but you're going to be 16 involved in a lot of other litigation and so how does that 17 benefit, then I guess my answer to that is it's a -- my answer
18 is a "Yes, but," and but may exceed the scope of your
19 question, so I won't --

20 Q Okay.

21 A -- I won't give you the but answer unless you want me to 22 do it.

23 Q That's fine. I just -- if we go back, if we go back to 24 where we were before confirmation, I mean, I'm not talking 25 about the order for relief, I'm talking about confirmation,

Nelms - Cross

88

1 the sub-advisory agreement had been terminated. Highland had
2 been fired and Brigade was managing everything.

3 A Right.

4 Q So, there wouldn't be any cash flow going to Highland
5 based on the -- just the reversal of the confirmation order.

6 A Well, what would have to happen, of course, is that Neutra
7 would have to -- would have to appoint us as -- would have to 8 allow us to come in under the sub-advisory agreement to 9 perform those services.

10 Q Right. Except that there's a trustee, right? Robin
11 Phelan was in charge of everything.

12 A Well, you're assuming there's still a bankruptcy.

13 Q Right. Yeah. Well, I am. I mean, again -- and maybe I'm 14 being simplistic about this, but if the confirmation order is 15 reversed, --

16 THE COURT: Counsel is standing. Do you have an 17 objection?

18 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I do, Your Honor, to this whole
19 line of hypothetical questions. We do understand, I think 20 everybody understands, that we don't know if the appeal will 21 be granted. I think we do all understand that we don't know
22 what the form of relief, the exact form of relief will be.
23 But the testimony here is that the Board has decided that one
24 possible form of relief is that -- is that Neutra will regain
25 control of Acis and get these contracts reinstated, get the

89

1 adversary proceeding dismissed, and get paid on its $8 million
2 claim.

3 If there's questions about that, I think it's relevant,
4 but I don't know why we're spending a lot of time on 5 hypotheticals with a fact witness.

6 THE COURT: But the --

7 MR. MORRIS: Not an expert witness.

8 THE COURT: The business judgment of the Board of the 9 Debtor is at issue here, correct?

10 MR. MORRIS: Correct. Absolutely.

11 THE COURT: Don't these hypotheticals go to, is 12 reasonable business judgment being exercised here?

13 MR. MORRIS: I think he has to lay a foundation and 14 say, Is this -- is this a hypothetical you considered? Is 15 this a hypothetical that you considered? Because we're just 16 -- this is like expert testimony almost. There is no evidence
17 that any of these factors were considered. And at the end of 18 the day, there is no dispute that the scenario that the Board
19 is saying is worth the investment, basically, is also a
20 possibility.

21 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the objection.

22 MR. LAMBERSON: Okay.

23 THE COURT: You can proceed.

24 MR. LAMBERSON: And Your Honor, I'm just about done.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

Nelms - Cross

90

1 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

2 Q So, okay. So, we -- but we can agree that -- okay. Let
3 me -- let me hopefully do this. Okay. So, I mean, I think
4 that's fine for the confirmation appeal, so now I want to talk
5 about the order for relief appeal. Right? So this is the 6 appeal of the order for relief or the -- and I stated this 7 earlier to the Court, but the sole substantive issue in that
8 appeal is whether this Court should have compelled the order
9 for relief to arbitration. Is that right?

10 A The sole substantive issue? I think, if you paint with a
11 broad brush, yeah. I would agree with you, yes.

12 Q Okay. Well, and again, I'm not trying to --

13 A I know. So, --

14 Q I'm not trying to trap anybody. The three issues --

15 A And I'm not trying to be evasive, either.

16 Q Yeah.

17 A Yeah.

18 Q Are the standing issue, which, in my mind, isn't really a 19 substantive issue. And then there's the issue about the 20 arbitration of the order for relief. And then, finally, as I
21 mentioned, we've raised a waiver argument that basically, if 22 they had a right to arbitrate, which we think they don't, they 23 waited too long to raise it. Right? Those are the three 24 issues. Correct?

25 A That's correct.

91

1 Q Okay. So, let me ask you. And I'm not going to -- I'm
2 not going to hold this against you at the Fifth Circuit level,
3 but, I mean, do you -- do you think an order for relief is 4 subject to arbitration?

5 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. Calls for a
6 legal conclusion.

7 THE COURT: Overruled.

8 MR. LAMBERSON: Sure it does.

9 THE COURT: Overruled.

10 THE WITNESS: I think the -- I think it's a -- I
11 think there's a colorable argument.

12 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

13 Q Uh-huh.

14 MR. MORRIS: Objection withdrawn.

15 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

16 Q So you don't think National Gypsum and Gandy would apply
17 to an involuntary petition and order for relief?

18 A Well, I'll put it this way. I guess they'll apply if the 19 Fifth Circuit tells us they do.

20 Q Right.

21 A That's as much as I can tell you.

22 Q Okay. So, so if that ruling is reversed, right, as I
23 mentioned earlier -- and let me ask you, actually, another 24 thing. So, how often, when you were a judge, how often were 25 -- I shouldn't say how often -- how many times were your

92

1 rulings reversed? Just roughly?

2 A Was I reversed?

3 Q Yeah.

4 A I think six.

5 Q Not very many claims, right?

6 A No.

7 Q So how many times was there a reverse and a render?

8 A I'm sorry. Say again?

9 Q How many times was there a reverse and a render, where 10 nothing came back to you, that basically the higher court just 11 said, It's done?

12 A Well, it was rendered every time except on one occasion, 13 and that --

14 Q Uh-huh.

15 A -- Stern v. Marshall had just been decided, and so --
16 gosh, I can't remember the district judge.

17 Q Okay.

18 A One of the judges reversed but sent it back to me to 19 reconsider it under the light of the ruling in Stern v.
20 Marshall, a jurisdictional issue. So, in all those instances,
21 it was rendered.

22 Q Okay. So there was nothing -- there was no issue that 23 came back to you? The case was just resolved?

24 A No. No issue came back to me.

25 Q Okay.

Nelms - Cross

93

1 A No, you know what, there was a second one. I think the 2 second one was In re Mirant. Commerzbank versus -- MCAR v.
3 Commerzbank. That came back as well.

4 Q Right. Okay. So, again, but focusing on the order for 5 relief appeal, one possibility is that the Fifth Circuit says,
6 okay, this may be subject to arbitration, and sends it back to 7 Judge Jernigan to make additional findings, apply a different
8 standard, right? That's possible, right?

9 A That's possible.

10 Q Okay. So, in that case, nothing necessarily came out of 11 the appeal, right? Like you're just basically back in front
12 of her on the same issues?

13 A Well, I -- that may very well be the case, but --

14 Q Okay. Well, let's assume that the Fifth Circuit does 15 reverse and render. Wouldn't -- isn't what they would render 16 would be a -- compelling this case to arbitration? Right?
17 Not that the bankruptcy goes away, disappears. It would 18 basically be, "Should have been arbitrated. Go arbitrate."

19 A It's a good question, what the effect of reversing it
20 would be and sending it back, remanding it. They -- I mean, 21 one of the things that they might decide is to say that the 22 whole issue of arbitration should be decided by an arbitrator.

23 Q Uh-huh.

24 A That's a possibility.

25 Q Right. But in that situation, the bankruptcy doesn't go

Nelms - Cross

94

1 away. It just moves to a different forum, right?

2 A No, I mean, you're probably right. That, in and of 3 itself, would not eviscerate the bankruptcy filing.

4 Q Uh-huh.

5 A That's true.

6 Q And so, in that situation, the result is -- and this is --
7 that's, frankly, the best situation, is --

8 A But, of course, I mean -- can I go back to that? Just,
9 I'm not sure about that. Because, after all, this was an 10 involuntary petition.

11 Q Uh-huh.

12 A If it was a voluntary petition, then I would certainly 13 agree with you wholeheartedly. Inasmuch as it was an 14 involuntary petition, I'm not sure about the answer to that 15 question.

16 Q Uh-huh. Okay.

17 A That's a good question.

18 Q But you would agree with me that a possible result of even 19 a reversal of the order for relief appeal would just be more
20 litigation?

21 A Yes. That's certainly a possibility.

22 Q Right. In this Court? Maybe in front of an arbitrator?
23 Maybe both?

24 A Yes. That's possible.

25 Q Okay. All right. So, still focusing on the order for

Nelms - Cross

95

1 relief appeal, but I want to go to this idea that, again,
2 there's this cash flow stream that is going to be reinstated
3 for the benefit of Highland Capital under the sub-advisory
4 agreement. Okay?

5 A Right.

6 Q All right. So, before the Acis bankruptcy was filed,
7 Dondero, and at that time, in control of Highland, were 8 actually in the process of liquidating Acis, weren't they?

9 A Were they in the process of liquidating Acis?

10 Q Uh-huh.

11 A And I take it these are the transfers that were -- 12 concerning your client that prompted the filing of the 13 involuntary petition itself?

14 Q Correct.

15 A Is that what you're referring to as the --

16 Q Yes.

17 A -- liquidation?

18 Q Yes.

19 A Well, I certainly know that -- I understand those 20 transfers were taking place. Now, whether you'd call that a 21 liquidation or not, I don't know, but I know what you're 22 referring to --

23 Q Okay.

24 A -- and I think the answer to your --

25 Q So, --

Nelms - Cross

96

1 A Yeah.

2 Q Yeah. So there were a variety of transfers of assets away
3 from Acis before --

4 A Right.

5 Q -- the Acis bankruptcy filing, right? And, actually, are 6 you aware that there was actually an agreement between 7 Highland CLO Management and Acis to transfer those PMAs to 8 HCLOF Management?

9 A No, I'm not aware of that.

10 Q Okay. And as we talked about earlier, HCLOF repeatedly
11 attempted to redeem the CLOs, even during the Acis bankruptcy,
12 right?

13 A I read about that in Judge Jernigan's opinion, so I'm 14 assuming that's the case.

15 Q Right. Okay. And then -- and, in fact, if HCLOF was 16 successful, that would liquidate the CLOs and it would 17 effectively terminate the Acis portfolio management
18 agreements, right?

19 A I don't know.

20 Q Okay. But if that was the case, if the portfolio
21 management agreements went away or no longer had assets to 22 manage, then the sub-advisory agreement would have no income,
23 right?

24 A If you're asking me if that's something within the realm
25 of possibilities, I suppose so.

Nelms - Cross

97

1 Q Okay. So, if, because of the appeal, the Acis bankruptcy
2 -- because of the order for relief appeal, if the bankruptcy
3 -- if the Acis bankruptcy just went entire away, just 4 disappeared, right, so Mr. Dondero would be in control of 5 Acis, not you, right?

6 A He would be in control. That's correct.

7 Q Okay. And so if he wanted to terminate the PMAs and enter 8 new PMAs with Dondero Capital Management, you couldn't keep 9 him from doing that, could you?

10 A Well, I -- no, I could not keep him from doing that.

11 Q Okay. Or if he wanted to terminate the sub-advisory 12 agreement and enter into a different agreement, I mean, you
13 couldn't keep him from doing that, either, could you?

14 A No, I couldn't.

15 Q Right. So what makes you think that Highland Capital
16 Management, a debtor that he lost control of, just like Acis,
17 would benefit from Acis's PMAs, when he was actively trying to 18 take Acis's PMAs away from Acis?

19 A Well, I have -- I spoke to Mr. Dondero about this, and he 20 -- I asked him the question, and he said that he would 21 reinstate Highland under the sub-advisory agreement and the 22 shared services agreement.

23 Q Okay. So, on that point, you did mention earlier that, as 24 part of your -- as part of the Board's diligence, you talked
25 with Mrs. O'Neil and you talked to Pachulski. Obviously,

Nelms - Cross

98

1 you've analyzed the issues. I can tell you're familiar with
2 all these, all of the pleadings. But you also talked with 3 different Highland Capital employees about the litigation and 4 the appeals, correct?

5 A I did.

6 Q Okay. Who did you talk with?

7 A Well, I have to say that the interaction with Highland
8 employees was actually fairly abbreviated.

9 Q Uh-huh.

10 A We spoke very, very briefly about this with Isaac Leventon
11 on the day that we were appointed. I don't know if the Court
12 is aware of this or not, but we spoke about it very briefly,
13 and then he was injured later that night and he really hasn't 14 been back at the office since then. So, --

15 Q Oh.

16 A -- I would say, for the most part, I have relied mainly on 17 Pachulski.

18 Q Okay. But you did indicate you talked to Mr. Dondero as
19 well?

20 A I talked to him about this issue about reinstatement, yes.

21 MR. LAMBERSON: So, Your Honor, I'd like to turn to 22 --

23 THE WITNESS: Oh, you don't have to call me Your
24 Honor.

25 THE COURT: There are two Your Honors.

Nelms - Cross

99

1 MR. LAMBERSON: Your Honors. How about that?

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 THE WITNESS: Yeah, there's only one judge in the 4 court today.

5 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

6 Q Could you turn to Exhibit 16, please? This is Acis's
7 Exhibit 16. I'm sorry. Do you have that, Mr. Nelms?

8 A I do.

9 Q And could you identify Acis Exhibit 16?

10 A Yes. This is Official Form 204 in the current case, the 11 one we're here for today.

12 Q Right. So it's the Top 20 List of Creditors for Highland
13 Capital Management?

14 A Yes, that's correct.

15 Q Okay. And have you seen Exhibit 16 before?

16 A Pardon me?

17 Q Have you seen Exhibit 16 before, the Top 20 List?

18 A No, I have not seen it before.

19 Q Okay.

20 MR. LAMBERSON: Your Honor, we'd ask for the 21 admission of Exhibit 16.

22 THE COURT: Any objection?

23 MR. MORRIS: Just on relevance grounds. Can we at 24 least establish a foundation as to which element of 327(e)
25 this goes to?

100

1 THE COURT: Response?

2 MR. LAMBERSON: Well, Your Honor, what I'm going to 3 point out is that the top ten creditors, other than an insider
4 creditor, are all litigation-based, and that the, as I pointed 5 out in my opening, the origin of this case was a bad
6 litigation strategy.

7 MR. MORRIS: No objection to the introduction of this 8 exhibit for that limited purpose.

9 THE COURT: All right. It's admitted.

10 (Acis Capital Management GP, LLC's Exhibit 16 is received 11 into evidence.)

12 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

13 Q All right. So, Mr. Nelms, you said you hadn't seen this 14 before, but I think you'll probably be familiar with the 15 information on it generally. So let's walk through this 16 quickly. So, this is the Top 20 List of Creditors. The first
17 creditor is Redeemer Committee, listed as litigation, do you
18 see that, for about $190 million?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And that's the arbitration award that precipitated this 21 filing, correct?

22 A It is.

23 Q Okay. So the next claim is Pat Daugherty, litigation
24 claim. It's $11.7 million. Do you see that?

25 A Yes.

Nelms - Cross

101

1 Q So, do you know what is Mr. Daugherty's history with
2 Highland Capital? And try to keep it under five minutes.

3 A Yeah. Mr. Daugherty is a former employee. And I know he 4 has some contractual disputes with the company based upon his 5 separation.

6 Q Right. And he's a long-time litigant with Highland
7 Capital, correct?

8 A He is, yes.

9 Q Yes. So the next one is CLO HoldCo. This is about $11.5
10 million. CLO HoldCo is an insider of the Debtor, correct? If 11 you know.

12 A Is -- is it an insider? I don't know.

13 Q Okay. Well, Grant Scott, the party here, is Mr. Dondero's
14 college roommate. Do you know that?

15 A That's my understanding, yes.

16 Q Okay. So, Creditor #4, McKool Smith, for two point --
17 roughly $2.1 million. Do you see this? This is for 18 attorneys' fees incurred by Highland Capital, correct?

19 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. I still fail to 20 see how this is at all connected to any of the elements of 21 327(e) or the retention of Foley.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule.

23 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

24 Q So, this is -- this -- these are fees incurred by Highland
25 Capital, you know, a variety of venues, right, including this

Nelms - Cross

102

1 one, state court fights against Mr. Terry, right?

2 A I thought -- McKool Smith, I thought they were involved in
3 the Redeemer litigation, but they may be involved in other
4 litigation as well.

5 Q Okay. Fair enough. And do you know, this claim is 6 disputed by the Debtor, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. And do you know, obviously subject to the stay, but 9 do you know if this claim is being arbitrated or has been sent 10 to arbitration?

11 A No, I don't know any -- no, I don't know.

12 Q Okay. That's fair enough. So, then #5 -- I'll move it
13 along here. Meta Discovery, Meta-e Discovery, they're a 14 litigation vendor, right?

15 A I'm sorry, would you ask your question again?

16 Q Meta-e Discovery, the next creditor. They're a litigation
17 vendor and they provide litigation support services?

18 A I don't know what they do.

19 Q Okay. Fair enough. Foley Gardere. Obviously, that's the 20 law firm you all are seeking to have engaged. DLA Piper.
21 This relates to fees incurred in connection with the Terry
22 arbitration award, correct?

23 A I think so.

24 Q Okay. Reid Collins. These are fees related to the UBS
25 lawsuit, correct?

Nelms - Cross

103

1 A I don't know.

2 Q Okay. Josh and -- Joshua and Jennifer Terry. This is a
3 litigation claim, right? This is -- this is an IRA claim,
4 right?

5 A It is.

6 Q NWCC. This is also a litigation claim? In other words, a
7 litigant fighting with Highland?

8 A I can only intuit that just because of the fact that it's 9 a law firm.

10 Q Okay. Fair enough. So, out of the Top 20 -- or, out of 11 the Top 10 Creditors, basically, they're all litigants or 12 attorneys paid to fight litigants, with the exception of 13 Dondero's college roommate. Right?

14 A With the exception of what?

15 Q Mr. Dondero's college roommate that has a claim based on 16 some entity.

17 A Yes. They're -- they all have some nexus to litigation.

18 Q Okay. And let me just ask you: If you were able to 19 completely set aside all of Highland Capital's litigation
20 issues, right, just like -- just like the concept of the order
21 for relief appeal makes the Acis bankruptcy go away forever,
22 if you could snap your fingers and make all of Highland's
23 litigation go away forever, would Highland have any financial 24 problems at all?

25 A Well, I don't know that I know the answer to that, but I

Nelms - Cross

104

1 -- but it's certainly to say that litigation up to this point
2 has been the driving force behind its bankruptcy filing.

3 Q Okay. Fair enough. Okay. So, Mr. Nelms, would you turn
4 -- could you turn to Acis Exhibit 27?

5 A Okay.

6 Q Do you have that?

7 A I do.

8 Q Okay. And can you identify Exhibit 27?

9 A Yes. My understanding is that this was the lawsuit that 10 was filed by the DAF and CLO HoldCo in the Southern District
11 of New York.

12 Q Okay. And so I had mentioned this in my opening, and I
13 believe counsel had asked you about what we call the DAF
14 litigation. Is this the complaint that's the basis of the DAF
15 litigation?

16 A Yeah, that's my understanding. It is.

17 Q Okay. And I think you had testified earlier that the 18 board was actually shown a copy of this complaint, was before
19 it was filed, and --

20 A I wouldn't call it -- I'm sorry, go ahead, ask your 21 question.

22 Q No, no, I -- that's fine.

23 A I wouldn't call it a board presentation. I just remember
24 it being handed to Mr. Dubel and Mr. Dubel looking at it,
25 asking what it was, and saying, Tell them not to do this.

Nelms - Cross

105

1 Q Okay. Thank you. And -- but it's your understanding that
2 the complaint was filed anyway?

3 A It is my understanding it was filed later.

4 Q Okay. And in fact, this has a file-stamp at the top,
5 which I'm sure you're very familiar with. Correct? Has a
6 PACER file-stamp at the top.

7 A Right.

8 Q Right.

9 MR. LAMBERSON: So, Your Honor, we'd ask for the 10 admission of Exhibit 27.

11 THE COURT: Any objection?

12 MR. MORRIS: No objection.

13 THE COURT: Admitted.

14 (Acis Capital Management GP, LLC's Exhibit 27 is received
15 into evidence.)

16 MR. LAMBERSON: And I'll be relatively quick.

17 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

18 Q I had mentioned in my opening that we -- I should say Acis
19 was concerned that Highland Capital Management had some 20 participation in this, and I probably should have been clearer
21 in saying that Highland Capital Management employees had some 22 participation in Exhibit 27. Has the Board done any 23 investigation as to whether any Highland Capital employees
24 were involved in the preparation of Exhibit 27 or the filing
25 of Exhibit 27?

Nelms - Cross

106

1 A No, we have not. At least, let me speak for myself. I
2 haven't done that investigation.

3 Q Uh-huh. And your counsel had mentioned that -- I believe
4 this is correct -- your counsel had mentioned that you all had
5 reached out -- the Board, I should say -- reached out to Grant
6 Scott, who's the -- who's in control of the DAF as well as CLO
7 HoldCo, and, you know, had sort of convinced them that it
8 probably -- to dismiss this lawsuit. Correct?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. And but do you -- as far as you know, it hasn't 11 been dismissed yet?

12 A It hasn't been dismissed. There's some kind of technical 13 things there, and I don't know if you want to go into them or 14 not, but it hasn't been dismissed, but I have a high degree of 15 certainty that this is going to get dismissed.

16 Q Okay. Fair enough. And are you aware that there was 17 already a press release issued related to this lawsuit that 18 was picked up by various CLO publications?

19 A When you say "already," are you talking about a specific 20 time?

21 Q Well, that -- I guess what's I'm getting at is are you
22 aware that the filing of this lawsuit has already resulted in 23 various articles in CLO journals, periodicals?

24 A I'm aware of it having appeared in one publication.

25 Q Okay. And so is it fair to say that the damage is already

Nelms - Cross

107

1 done and that, you know, dismissal of these claims probably
2 isn't really all that -- isn't really all that significant
3 when they've already, you know, put it in the press?

4 A I don't know if the damage has already been done or not.

5 Q Okay.

6 MR. LAMBERSON: Give me just a second, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 (Pause.)

9 BY MR. LAMBERSON:

10 Q So, there is actually one other -- there is one point.
11 And I told you in advance that I was afraid I might be jumping
12 around a little bit, so I'm going to jump around a little bit.
13 Let me go back to the order for relief appeal. So, this is 14 the appeal of the Court's order for relief that started the 15 Acis bankruptcy.

16 One of the things you testified about related -- on your 17 direct testimony is one of the benefits, one of the potential
18 benefits, understanding we don't know what's going to happen,
19 of the order for relief appeal is that if the -- if that 20 ruling was reversed and the Acis bankruptcy went away, then
21 the adversary would go away, the adversary between Acis
22 Capital Management and Highland Capital Management. Correct?
23 A Well, yes. In my opinion, the adversary opinion -- excuse
24 me, the adversary proceeding would go away. Would a lawsuit
25 under TUFTA be avoided altogether by Mr. Terry?

Nelms - Cross

108

1 Q Right.

2 A I don't know that it would take that away.

3 Q Okay. And that's -- you actually anticipated my question,

4 --

5 A Uh-huh.

6 Q -- which was: It's fair to say that, even if the

7 adversary went away between Acis and Highland Capital

8 Management, that the -- certain of the claims in the adversary

9 -- for example, the fraudulent transfer claims or derivative

10 claims -- would not necessarily go away because they could be

11 asserted by Mr. Terry as a judgment creditor, correct?

12 A They could, but the consequences of asserting that claim

13 outside of bankruptcy are vastly different than asserting them

14 inside of a bankruptcy case.

15 Q Uh-huh. Right.

16 A At least potentially.

17 Q And just to close the thought here, are you aware that one

18 of Acis's main arguments during the order for relief trial was

19 that we didn't need an involuntary, that Mr. Terry could just 20 go litigate all that stuff in state court?

21 A Yeah, I think so. I think I am aware of that. Yes.

22 Q Okay. So you'd agree with me that, even on your possible

23 day on the order for relief appeal, that doesn't make the --

24 what I'll call the Terry litigation, right, the judgment

25 litigation, go away?

Nelms - Redirect

109

1 A No. No. The reversal on appeal would not necessarily
2 make the Terry litigation go away.

3 Q Okay. Thank you.

4 MR. LAMBERSON: That's all I have, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: All right. Redirect?

6 MR. MORRIS: I just have a few questions, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Can you turn to Exhibit 16 in your binder, sir?

11 A Which one?

12 Q I guess it's the Acis exhibits.

13 A The Acis? Okay.

14 Q Yeah. The List of Top 20 Creditors.

15 A Okay.

16 Q You were taken through each and every one of those to make 17 the point that they're largely litigation claims. Is that 18 fair?

19 A Say again, please?

20 Q You were taken through many of those creditors to 21 establish that --

22 A I was.

23 Q -- that the Debtor was involved in a lot of litigation; is
24 that right?

25 A It was.

Nelms - Redirect

110

1 Q Okay. And the Board was appointed on January 9th; is that
2 right?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Did the Board have anything to do with any of the claims
5 that are set forth in Exhibit 16?

6 A No.

7 Q Did the Board authorize the filing of any suits that are 8 related to any of the claims that are set forth in Exhibit 16?

9 A No.

10 Q Did the Board direct the defense of any suits that were 11 commenced against Highland with respect to Exhibit 16?

12 A No.

13 Q Okay. Has the Board been trying to diminish and eliminate
14 litigation where it thought it was in the Debtor's best
15 interests?

16 A It has.

17 Q And is that, for example, why the Board decided not to 18 pursue the Winstead matter?

19 A It is.

20 Q Is that why the Board has used its efforts to try to 21 thwart the DAF litigation?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Does the Debtor control DAF?

24 A The Debtor does not control the DAF.

25 Q Okay. Did the Debtor authorize -- withdrawn. Did the

Nelms - Redirect

111

1 Board authorize the filing of the DAF complaint?

2 A It did not.

3 Q Did the Board know the DAF complaint was going to be
4 filed?

5 A Well, I mean, I know Mr. Dubel was presented with a copy
6 of the complaint. We had noticed that that document existed.
7 But it came as somewhat of a surprise to us when it got filed.

8 Q It came as a surprise to you?

9 A It did.

10 Q Because that's not what was expected after Mr. Dubel said,
11 Don't file it. Right?

12 A Right.

13 Q Okay. You were asked a bunch of questions on cross about 14 different possibilities and results and potential orders from 15 the Fifth Circuit on the assumption that the appeal was 16 granted. Do you remember that?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And some of them were purported to be better or worse for 19 the Debtor. Do you remember that?

20 A Yes.

21 Q If the appeal is not prosecuted, is there any chance that 22 the contracts that the Board has focused on will be 23 reinstated?

24 A No.

25 Q Is it fair to say that if the appeal is not prosecuted the

112

1 chances of the Debtor recovering the tens of millions of
2 dollars of revenue will be exactly zero?

3 A Well, I don't know that it's exactly zero, but severely
4 diminished.

5 Q Yeah. How about getting paid a hundred-cent dollars on 6 the $8 million claim that's in the Acis litigation? If the 7 appeal is not prosecuted, is there any chance that the Debtor
8 is likely to recover hundred-cent dollars?

9 A Again, that possibility is severely diminished.

10 Q Uh-huh. How about with respect to terminating the 11 adversary proceeding in the Acis litigation? If the appeal is 12 not prosecuted, is there any possibility of that adversary
13 proceeding just going away and being left with the arbitration
14 that you've described?

15 A Again, a severely diminished possibility.

16 Q You mentioned that the $8 million fraudulent transfer as 17 part of an arbitration would be very different outside of a 18 bankruptcy case. Do you remember saying that?

19 A I do.

20 Q Can you explain to the Court why you believe it would be 21 different outside of a bankruptcy case?

22 A Well, it actually goes to a case that started in my court.
23 This was the MCAR v. Commerzbank case in In re Mirant, and the 24 issue in that case, Mirant, when it filed its petition in 25 bankruptcy, was insolvent, but by the time that its bankruptcy

Nelms - Redirect

113

1 concluded, Mirant was a solvent entity. And so all of its
2 creditors were paid in full, but the trust that was
3 established in the Mirant case brought some fraudulent
4 transfer claims that were predicated on solvency, where these 5 were constructively fraudulent as opposed to actual.

6 And so the question was, if all the creditors had been
7 paid in full, is there standing to bring fraudulent transfer
8 claims that would basically not benefit creditors but would go
9 to equity?

10 I originally -- I ruled that there was no such -- that you
11 couldn't bring such a cause of action, that the satisfaction
12 of claims in full extinguished those claims. And I do recall
13 that one of the interesting things about that case is that a
14 lady named Elizabeth Warren wrote -- or proposed -- she 15 submitted -- they submitted an expert opinion on her behalf,
16 which I wouldn't let them file because I took the position
17 that I was an expert, the expert in the Court.

18 And in any event, it turns out I wasn't the expert. I was 19 reversed by Judge Means on that, who said that it's not 20 limited. It went up to the Fifth Circuit, and the Fifth
21 Circuit ruled the same thing.

22 So my takeaway from all of this is that, in a bankruptcy
23 setting, as opposed to just a state court setting, that the 24 potential recovery on account of fraudulent transfers is much
25 broader, much more unlimited than it would be in the context

Nelms - Redirect

114

1 of a state court lawsuit.

2 So, now, there may be things that would distinguish that,
3 but that's something to be -- that's something to be troubled
4 about if you're a director of this company.

5 Q And are these the types of things that, without, you know,
6 just divulging privileged communications, are these the type
7 of experiences and perspectives that you've shared with the 8 other board members in the context of considering the various 9 motions, the various matters for which Foley's retention is 10 sought?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay.

13 MR. MORRIS: Just one second, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 (Pause.)

16 MR. MORRIS: Nothing further, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: All right. Any recross on that redirect?

18 MR. LAMBERSON: No, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Nelms.

20 (The witness steps down.)

21 THE COURT: Any other evidence from Highland?

22 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we have had admitted our 23 exhibits. Among those exhibits are two declarations from Ms.
24 O'Neil, and so she's available in the courtroom today if 25 anybody wants to cross-examine on those issues.

O'Neil - Cross

115

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, I will accept those
2 declarations as direct evidence. Any desire to cross-examine
3 Ms. O'Neil?

4 MS. PATEL: Yes, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: All right. Ms. O'Neil, we'll go ahead
6 and swear you in on this today.

7 HOLLAND O'NEIL, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

8 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated.

9 CROSS-EXAMINATION

10 BY MS. PATEL:

11 Q Good afternoon, Ms. O'Neil.

12 A Good afternoon.

13 Q Ms. O'Neil, do you concurrently represent both Highland 14 Capital Management and Neutra, which is a Cayman entity,
15 correct?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Okay. There are other entities that you either represent 18 or have represented that are kind of affiliated or within the 19 Highland umbrella; is that correct?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. And that includes, for example, CLO HoldCo was one
22 such representation. Isn't that right?

23 A Previous. Previously.

24 Q Okay.

25 A Not currently.

O'Neil - Cross

116

1 Q Okay. So, and I believe you say that in your declaration,
2 right, that you didn't -- that you no longer represent CLO
3 HoldCo?

4 A Correct.

5 Q Okay. And when did that representation cease?

6 A It was -- it was very brief. I came into the case after 7 the involuntary -- after the orders for relief were entered.
8 And at that time, there had been the motion to intervene that 9 included that entity, and it was determined to proceed with an 10 appeal on that motion to intervene, or the denial of the 11 motion to intervene, as well as the orders for relief.
12 Actually, there was a compendium of orders that were appealed
13 all at the same time.

14 And so, because that entity had also filed a motion to 15 intervene, we had included that in the appeal. And at that 16 time I was retained, but then by the time we kind of analyzed
17 the issues, determined it was not necessary to proceed with 18 that appeal, then I no longer represented that entity and 19 disengaged.

20 Q Okay. But CLO -- to be clear, CLO HoldCo was actually an 21 appellant for the order for relief appeal that we've been 22 talking about today, correct?

23 A Initially, yes.

24 Q Okay. And it still remains an appellant; it just didn't 25 file a brief in the involuntary appeal. Isn't that right?

117

1 A It has not filed any brief. And I would have to look at 2 the record if it even filed a notice to the Fifth Circuit. It
3 did -- was included in the notice to the District Court. I
4 just honestly can't recall if it was included in the -- in any
5 notice to the Fifth Circuit.

6 Q Okay. And did you ever withdraw from your representation
7 of CLO HoldCo in the District Court appeal?

8 A What do you mean, withdraw?

9 Q Well, I mean, you entered an appearance.

10 A You mean file a notice with the -- with the Court?

11 Q Right.

12 A I can't recall.

13 Q Okay. Ms. O'Neil, with respect to Neutra, you understand
14 and you've heard testimony, and I believe it's in the 15 declarations in support of the retention papers for Foley, and 16 if you need to look at that I can direct you to the exhibit
17 book, but it's -- is it your understanding that ultimately 18 Neutra is owned 75 percent by Mr. Dondero and 25 percent by 19 Mr. Okada?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. And Ms. O'Neil, in connection with your 22 representation of Neutra, who are the human beings that you
23 interact with? Who directs your services?

24 A At -- currently? Are you --

25 Q Just on behalf of Neutra.

O'Neil - Cross

118

1 A Predominantly, I get direction from Highland's in-house
2 counsel.

3 Q Okay. And who would that be? Who are the people?

4 A The people are Mr. J.P. Sevilla, Mr. Isaac Leventon, Ms.
5 Stephanie Vitiello. Those are the primary individuals that
6 direct vis-à-vis Neutra.

7 Q Okay. Have you ever spoke with Mr. Dondero regarding your
8 representation of Neutra?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. And when was that? When was the last time?

11 A It has -- it's been a while. Certainly, it hasn't been 12 since this bankruptcy was commenced. I think the last time I
13 recall discussing that specifically is when we were together
14 at the mediation during the course of the bankruptcy. And I'd 15 have to look at my calendar. I can't recall exactly when that 16 was.

17 Q Okay. And what about Mr. Okada? Have you -- when was the 18 last time you spoke with Mr. Okada?

19 A I have never spoken with Mr. Okada.

20 Q During the course of your entire representation of Neutra,
21 you've never spoken with Mr. Okada?

22 A That is correct.

23 Q Okay. And under -- do you have an understanding of under 24 what authority Mr. Sevilla or Mr. Leventon or Ms. Vitiello
25 would have to direct your legal services on behalf of Neutra?

O'Neil - Cross

119

1 A Generally, yes, through the direction from the owners of 2 Neutra.

3 Q Okay. That would be Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada?

4 A Correct.

5 Q Okay. And it's your understanding, then, that Mr. Dondero
6 and Mr. Okada have directed Highland's legal department to 7 direct your services?

8 A Yes. Previously, yes.

9 Q Okay. Do you have -- is there a contract between Neutra
10 and Highland, or --

11 A I don't know.

12 Q Okay. Did you ever ask if there was one?

13 A No, I did not.

14 Q Okay. In connection with your representation of Neutra,
15 do you bill separately for the Neutra representation?

16 A Since the bankruptcy was -- since the Highland bankruptcy
17 was commenced, we set up a separate task code to track the 18 fees being incurred on the Neutra appeal. Prior to the 19 bankruptcy, we did not have a reason to do that.

20 Q Okay. So let's talk about prior to the bankruptcy. I
21 believe in your declaration it was disclosed that there were 22 approximately $2.1 million in billings relating to your 23 representation of Highland, Neutra, and certain of the 24 Highland Cayman entities: Highland CLO Management, Highland
25 CLO Holdings, and HCF Advisor, amongst others. Right?

O'Neil - Cross

120

1 A That sounds about right. I might want to look at the
2 declaration just to confirm on the number, but that sounds
3 about right.

4 Q Okay. Well, your declaration can be found under Tab 10.

5 A Okay. (Pause.) And are you referring to Paragraph 16?

6 Q Well, if you look at Page -- at the bottom, you'll see
7 that there's page numbers, and it says Page 15 of 48. And 8 this would be your declaration.

9 A Oh, thank you. I was looking at the --

10 Q Uh-huh. Paragraph 3.

11 A -- at the application, that's all. Correct. Yes. Thank 12 you.

13 Q Firm-earned fees of two point -- roughly $2.15 million,
14 almost, correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Okay. And there's about $1.4 million of that that was 17 unpaid from the pre-petition period, correct?

18 A Correct.

19 Q Okay. And is it your testimony that, of the $2.15 million
20 in fees, that there was no apportionment between Highland,
21 Neutra, and the Cayman defendants?

22 A Correct.

23 Q Okay. So, --

24 A Not -- not in my account -- not through my accounting
25 processes. Obviously, the time entries, you could parse them

O'Neil - Cross

121

1 out, if need be.

2 Q Okay. But you didn't keep your time necessarily that way,
3 where they were already apportioned and parsed?

4 A Not under separate task codes, --

5 Q Okay.

6 A -- as we have done post-bankruptcy.

7 Q So, in connection with the billings that would have 8 represented that $2.15 million, were those bills submitted to 9 Highland, to Neutra, to the Cayman defendants?

10 A They are submitted through an e-billing process that it
11 goes through a Highland portal and -- in the aggregate. So
12 they're submitted through that portal.

13 Q Okay. But the portal goes to Highland, correct?

14 A I do not know. I honestly -- our e-billing department
15 handles it and I just know it goes through e-billing, an e-
16 billing portal, and I don't know exactly. I'm assuming 17 obviously it goes to Highland. They certainly get copies of 18 it.

19 Q Okay. Did you or Foley ever submit a bill to Neutra?

20 A I mean, my understanding is that, going through the 21 portal, we would go to the various parties that are affiliated 22 with Highland.

23 Q Okay. But you've never directly sent a bill to Neutra for 24 your representation of Neutra?

25 A As I said, it goes through e-billing, so that could be

O'Neil - Cross

122

1 interpreted to go directly to them if it goes through an e-
2 billing process.

3 Q Okay. But I'm asking, have you ever --

4 A I'm -- maybe I'm being hyper-technical, but I'm just --

5 Q Right.

6 A It's being submitted through --

7 Q I understand, but I just -- here's where I want to just 8 direct us, is: Have you ever addressed a bill to Neutra, Ltd.
9 care of either Mr. Dondero, Mr. Okada, or its formal business
10 address?

11 A As I indicated, post-petition, we have been segregating
12 them under a different task code and indicating it's Neutra.
13 Pre-petition, it was all under the same invoice.

14 Q That was submitted to Highland only?

15 A Submitted through the e-billing process.

16 Q To Highland only, right?

17 MR. LAMBERSON: Objection to the form of the 18 question. This has been asked about four times. The witness
19 is very clear.

20 THE COURT: Overruled. I think she's trying to get 21 an exact answer to her question, and she feels like she's not 22 getting it. So, overruled.

23 THE WITNESS: Okay. Then I apologize, Your Honor.
24 I'm not -- I just don't know technically, once it goes through 25 the e-billing, how it's distributed on the other side. I

O'Neil - Cross

123

1 just, I honestly --

2 THE COURT: I think the question is, to whom was the 3 invoice directed?

4 THE WITNESS: In terms of the -- not where it was 5 sent, but who it's directed to?

6 BY MS. PATEL:

7 Q Yes.

8 A It would have -- I believe it has the entities on it. It
9 definitely has Highland on it for sure.

10 Q Okay. Does it have Neutra on it?

11 A Neutra is subject to the engagement letter, so it would be 12 applicable to -- if our accounting department didn't 13 technically put Neutra on it, that is not necessarily at any 14 moment being -- as the engagement letter is -- was with all
15 those parties. So I would have to look at the invoice, if it
16 has all of the clients listed on there. I honestly -- I just 17 can't remember right now.

18 Q Okay. Well, --

19 A We do have some post-petition invoices, and you'll see
20 where they're segregated with Neutra.

21 Q You raise an interesting point. If Highland and Neutra
22 and the other entities are all part of the engagement letter,
23 is Neutra also liable for all of Highland's legal fees?

24 A I don't know the answer to that.

25 Q Okay. Is it your position that because Highland, Neutra,

O'Neil - Cross

124

1 and the Cayman defendants are all part of the engagement
2 letter, that Highland is responsible for Neutra's legal fees?

3 A From my firm's standpoint?

4 Q Yes.

5 A I think the, you know, our perspective is that they were
6 -- we were primarily working for Highland, so the beneficial
7 work, and as I think the Court knows, most of the work here
8 was on behalf of Highland Capital Management. And it's in our 9 engagement letter to that effect, effectively.

10 Q Sitting here today, Ms. O'Neil, post-petition, who's 11 calling the legal shots for purposes of Neutra?

12 A The -- well, where we have been is the process with the 13 Fifth Circuit. The Fifth Circuit schedule was already set
14 pre-petition, and we have just been complying with the pre-
15 petition -- or, rather, that schedule, which has rolled post-
16 petition. And so our direction pre-petition has just 17 continued in terms of proceeding with the briefing. And so,
18 again, going back to who it was pre-petition, it's the same
19 legal team giving instructions on behalf of Neutra.

20 Q Okay. And if the question were to be posed, for example,
21 whether the Neutra involuntary or the order for relief appeal
22 should be dismissed, for example, who would call the legal 23 shots on that? Who would make the decision on that?

24 A To dismiss the appeal?

25 Q Yeah.

O'Neil - Cross

125

1 A Not proceed with it up to this point? Despite where we
2 are at this point, to just -- to just drop it?

3 Q Yes.

4 A It would be the owners of Neutra.

5 Q So that would be Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada, right?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Okay. You -- Ms. O'Neil, were you in the courtroom when 8 Mr. Demo or -- and Mr. Nelms -- when Mr. Demo made the opening
9 statement and then when Mr. Nelms was testifying?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Okay. And you heard, again, the opening statement and 12 then the testimony regarding the benefit to Highland of 13 Highland paying for Neutra's legal fees in connection with the 14 appeals, correct?

15 A I did hear that, yes.

16 Q Okay. All right. And can you, in your words, then,
17 articulate, from your perspective as legal counsel to both
18 entities, what the benefit is to Highland in this bankruptcy
19 for Foley's representation of Neutra and Highland paying the 20 bill for it?

21 A I just want to make sure I'm not, you know, getting onto 22 attorney-client privileged discussions in terms of the 23 benefit. I think I would agree with what has been stated in 24 court today.

25 Q Okay. So, so, and just to kind of recap that, if I

126

1 understand it, it's that if Neutra is successful in its appeal
2 of the involuntary orders for relief and also its appeal of 3 the confirmation order, then everything goes back and Highland
4 gets this revenue stream, correct, of about $12 million, plus
5 it gets paid on an $8 million, approximately, purported claim.
6 Right?

7 A That the -- the agreements would be reinstated, which 8 would then yield approximately that type of revenue stream as 9 -- pursuant to the sub-advisor and sub-management agreements
10 that were in place.

11 Q Okay. And one of the entities -- and I know that the 12 retention application doesn't actually go to, anymore, Foley's
13 representation of the Cayman entities, but -- that's kind of 14 been put to the side. But you do -- and you do represent 15 Highland CLO Management, correct, which is a Cayman entity?

16 A Correct.

17 Q All right. And it's one of the defendants in the Acis
18 adversary proceeding, right?

19 A And that is the only engagement that we have for that 20 party, is in conjunction with that adversary proceeding, which 21 is stayed. So nothing is going on with that right now.

22 Q Well, I understand that, but you --

23 A Okay.

24 Q My question was, you represent Highland CLO Management,
25 correct?

O'Neil - Cross

127

1 A In that adversary proceeding.

2 Q Okay. So -- but you also represent it in connection with
3 -- in -- generally with the bankruptcy as well, Acis's
4 bankruptcy?

5 A There was no involvement until the adversary proceeding,
6 until they were sued in the adversary proceeding.

7 Q Okay. And in the adversary proceeding, Highland CLO
8 Management was sued for a few things, correct?

9 A In the adversary proceeding?

10 Q Yes.

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. Highland CLO Management, for example, received a 13 $9.5 million note that Acis was previously the holder of and 14 that was transferred after Mr. Terry's judgment, correct?

15 A Are you asking if that was an allegation in the adversary
16 proceeding?

17 Q Sure.

18 A I --

19 Q Right.

20 A That sounds right. That's been stayed, and I would have 21 to defer to the -- obviously, the second amended complaint and 22 the allegations therein. So, --

23 Q Okay. And are you aware that your client, Highland CLO
24 Management, was also sued because it was to receive the 25 portfolio management agreements under which Acis represents --

O'Neil - Cross

128

1 or, I'm sorry, manages the Acis CLOs?

2 A That was -- that sounds like one of the allegations from 3 that point in time.

4 Q Okay. So I guess let me -- let me ask you a slightly
5 different way. Are you aware that there was a pre-petition
6 agreement that was entered into and signed by Mr. Dondero that 7 transferred the PMAs from Acis to Highland CLO Management?

8 A I cannot recall the -- all the evidence at the -- in 9 conjunction with that at this time, but if that's one of your 10 representations. I wasn't representing any of the parties at 11 that time, but I do recall that there may have been some 12 evidence presented in that regard. But I would have to look.
13 It's been a long time. And that record is hundreds of 14 thousands of pages. I would need to check back on that.

15 Q Okay. But if there were such an agreement, for example,
16 that transferred the portfolio management agreements from Acis
17 to another entity, a Cayman entity, can you agree with me,
18 then, that Mr. Dondero's ownership interest in Neutra would 19 really be of no import anymore because there wouldn't be a $12
20 million revenue stream anymore, would there, if Acis wasn't
21 the portfolio manager of the Acis CLOs?

22 A I don't agree with the premi... at the end, when you said,
23 if Acis isn't the CLO manager, then there would be no revenue
24 stream from the CLOs if it's not reinstated as the -- as the 25 manager.

129

1 Q Okay. So you agree that if Acis isn't the portfolio
2 manager of the Acis CLOs, there's no $12 million revenue
3 stream potential to Highland by virtue of Highland coming back
4 in as the sub-advisor and shared services provider, right?

5 A Okay. Now, the -- no, I don't know that that's 6 necessarily the case.

7 Q Well, why not?

8 A It could be appointed to be the sub-advisor, sub-manager
9 for -- through a different entity.

10 Q Okay. So it would basically be -- but, again, going back,
11 it would be through a different entity. Again, Mr. Dondero's
12 ownership of Neutra would be of no import then, right?

13 A Perhaps I'm not understanding your question.

14 Q Well, --

15 A I -- it's a hypothetical, and I --

16 Q If Acis -- if Acis didn't have these portfolio management
17 agreements, it doesn't matter if Mr. Dondero wins the Neutra
18 appeal or not, right? Because he wouldn't have control of the 19 Acis entity within which to redirect, through Acis, the sub-
20 advisory and the shared services agreements, correct?

21 A He could direct it through another entity, as I think it's 22 been well-discussed that Highland had -- Highland had the 23 personnel to manage the CLOs. In fact, Mr. Terry was a 24 Highland employee when he managed the CLOs. So he could 25 certainly direct that management through another entity, even

O'Neil - Cross

130

1 if it wasn't Acis. But vis-à-vis Neutra, Neutra would be --
2 well, before the confirmation of the plan, Neutra owned Acis.
3 So, vis-à-vis through Neutra, I believe your statement would 4 be correct.

5 Q Okay. Ms. O'Neil, also as sort of a participant during
6 the Acis bankruptcy cases --

7 MS. PATEL: And Your Honor, I know you're intimately
8 familiar with all of these.

9 BY MS. PATEL:

10 Q But Ms. O'Neil, do you recall the multiple attempts during 11 the bankruptcy case to effectuate what was called an optional
12 redemption, which sought to liquidate the Acis CLOs?

13 A By HCLOF, I believe there were two instances, yes.

14 Q Okay. HCLOF executed those optional redemptions, correct?
15 Mr. Bill Scott, one of the independent directors? Is that
16 right?

17 A I believe the evidence was presented before the Court --

18 Q Okay.

19 A -- in that regard.

20 Q And during the course of the -- all of those proceedings
21 with the optional redemptions, Highland was the ultimate
22 advisor to HCLOF, was it not?

23 A I'm not sure I understand what you mean by the ultimate 24 advisor.

25 Q Well, the technical contractual advisor was an entity by

O'Neil - Cross

131

1 the name of Highland HCF Advisor, right? Is the portfolio
2 manager for Highland CLO Funding?

3 A It has been a while since I looked at that org chart or 4 those issues, so I do not recall off the top of my head.

5 Q Okay. Well, you said that you interacted, for example,
6 with Neutra -- on your Neutra issues with JP Sevilla, Mr.
7 Leventon, and Stephanie Vitiello, correct?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Okay. Wasn't it really, from a legal perspective, at 10 least, Mr. Sevilla, Mr. Leventon, who were all advising
11 Highland CLO Funding as well?

12 A I don't know the answer. You'd have to inquire of them.

13 Q So, is it your testimony, then, that Highland had nothing
14 to do with the optional redemption notices that were issued
15 during the course of the Acis bankruptcy cases?

16 A I'm not sure that I understand the relevance of that as to 17 whether Highland had any -- had nothing to do with it. I
18 think they were certainly involved and were aware. But they 19 weren't the -- independently making those determinations.

20 Q Okay.

21 A As you know, Ms. Patel, there were directors that were
22 involved. They testified before this Court. There -- HCLOF
23 was represented by counsel as well. King & Spalding. So
24 there were multiple parties involved.

25 Q Okay. So is it, again, your testimony that Highland had

O'Neil - Cross

132

1 nothing to do with the optional redemption notices that were
2 issued during the Acis bankruptcy case?

3 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. It may be me,
4 but I don't understand what this has to do with the Foley
5 retention application.

6 THE COURT: Okay. We do seem like we're getting a
7 little far afield. What's your response to that?

8 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, the contention has been made 9 that if these bankruptcy appeals are somehow granted or in the 10 District Court and this Court are reversed, --

11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

12 MS. PATEL: -- that these cases are going to come
13 back and that suddenly, magically, there's going to be a $12
14 million revenue stream flowing out of Acis back into Highland,
15 and they're going to be able to collect on an $8 million
16 objected-to claim.

17 I'm just trying to get to how likely is that really to 18 happen. I mean, given the course -- and again, I know Your 19 Honor was a viewer of all of this -- of the multiple attempts
20 to try to liquidate these assets, --

21 THE COURT: Okay. I'll allow the question, but it'll 22 be the end of the line of questioning. Okay?

23 MS. PATEL: Understood. And Your Honor, just 24 additionally, it's -- that's part of the appeal that Foley is 25 handling on the confirmation appeal. As Mr. Nelms said, it's

O'Neil - Cross

133

1 also based on the plan injunction.

2 THE COURT: All right. She can answer the question,
3 but then we move on to another area.

4 MS. PATEL: Okay.

5 BY MS. PATEL:

6 Q So is it your testimony, Ms. O'Neil, that Highland had 7 absolutely nothing to do with the optional redemptions --

8 A I did not --

9 Q -- during the bankruptcy case?

10 A That is not what I said.

11 Q Okay. So, -- and I get it. Highland CLO Funding is a 12 different entity, and the Bankruptcy Court made findings with 13 respect to the fact that it is controlled in every way by 14 Highland. Do you recall that finding?

15 A Preliminary findings in conjunction with determining 16 whether there was a likelihood of success on the merits. I do
17 recall that --

18 Q Okay.

19 A -- those conclusions by the Court.

20 Q As a part of the bench memorandum in support of the 21 confirmation order, correct?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay.

24 A Actually, I will -- I will -- I'll correct that. I'll let 25 that -- the Court's order speak for itself. You may have said

134

1 a few things that were more or less than what the Court's
2 order said, so I'd just defer to what the Court's order said.

3 Q Okay. Well, part of the representation for Foley here is 4 to represent Highland and Neutra in connection with the 5 confirmation appeal, correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And part of that confirmation appeal is also -- one of the 8 grounds there is that you're appealing the plan injunction,
9 which the plan injunction is what stops the CLOs from being 10 redeemed, correct?

11 A Correct.

12 Q Okay. So, how is Highland damaged by the plan injunction?

13 A I think it's fairly obvi... again, I want to not tread too
14 much on attorney-client privilege. But, obviously, I have yet
15 to have a client over my 30-plus years of practicing law that 16 likes to be subject to any kind of injunction. It limits --
17 that injunction is more than just on the -- it's a very broad
18 injunction. So I'd like -- if I had the injunction in front
19 of me, there's -- there's lots of restrictions under that 20 injunction, and that is prejudicial to Highland to be able to 21 act freely.

22 Q Able to act freely to liquidate CLOs?

23 A Among other things, as it may do in the ordinary course of 24 business, in its opinion, that may be beneficial to his 25 clients.

O'Neil - Cross

135

1 Q Okay. Now, Ms. O'Neil, --

2 A If I may, may I add one more thing?

3 THE COURT: You may.

4 THE WITNESS: Okay. Highland, at least in that role,
5 could not liquidate CLOs. So I think that was an improper
6 statement. Or suggestion.

7 BY MS. PATEL:

8 Q Okay. Well, then, what specific actions that Highland
9 would like to take is it being damaged by the injunction?

10 A I would need to look at the -- the injunction is very,
11 very broad. So, anything that it can't do freely that is 12 covered by the injunction is obviously a detriment to 13 Highland.

14 Q Okay. Now, Ms. O'Neil, if you would turn to Tab 31 in the 15 book, --

16 A All right.

17 Q -- please. And I will ask you, this is the declaration of 18 Bradley Sharp that was in support of the order authorizing the 19 retention of Foley Gardere. Have you had an opportunity to 20 review this?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Any dispute with any of the statements in here?

23 A I don't recall having a -- I don't -- I think it was 24 accurate, but --

25 Q Okay. Well, when you read it, did you have any disputes

O'Neil - Cross

136

1 with the statements that were in here?

2 A I did not see it before it was filed, so -- but having
3 read it after it was filed, I don't recall having any disputes
4 with anything that was in it.

5 Q Okay. And I'll turn you specifically to Paragraph 13,
6 which is found on Page 4 of 5.

7 A Okay.

8 Q And I'll -- well, let's look at this together. (reading)
9 Prior to the petition date, the majority of Foley's and Lynn
10 Pinker's fees and expenses were paid by a non-debtor entity,
11 Highland CLO Funding Limited.

12 Do you see that?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Okay. And were Foley's bills sent to Highland CLO
15 Funding?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Okay. And is -- were those bills separate and apart from 18 the $2.15 million that we talked about earlier that were 19 remitted through the Highland e-billing system?

20 A Separate, yes.

21 Q Okay. About how much in fees has Highland CLO Funding
22 paid to Foley to date?

23 A Nothing post-petition. Prior -- I mean, during -- from 24 the inception of the representation of Highland, probably 25 approximately -- over a million dollars, for sure.

O'Neil - Cross

137

1 Q Over $2 million?

2 A I do not believe it is over $2 million. It's somewhere
3 between $1 and $2 million.

4 Q Okay. And those separate matters that were billed to 5 Highland CLO Funding, how did those differ from what was 6 billed to Highland or to Neutra or to the Cayman defendants?

7 A If it was a matter that was clearly of some benefit to 8 HCLOF, it was billed directly. Otherwise, there was an 9 allocation billing for just the general work. And that was 10 primarily through an indemnity agreement, as I understood it,
11 between Highland and HCLOF.

12 Q Okay. And who did the allocation between Highland and 13 Highland CLO Funding?

14 A I was instructed as to what the allocation should be or 15 asked what I thought the allocation should be on any given 16 time, and I believe it was the -- it was discussed with the 17 board of HCLOF as to the allocation.

18 Q Okay. And who were you directed as to the categories of 19 allocation by that you just referenced?

20 A You mean in terms of a person?

21 Q Yes.

22 A I most frequently discussed this with Mr. Sevilla, but 23 also had conversations with Mr. Maloney, with King & Spalding,
24 who was representing HCLOF, and occasionally would have direct
25 conversations with Mr. Maloney and Mr. Scott and Ms. Bestwick,

O'Neil - Cross

138

1 who were the two independent directors of HCLOF.

2 Q Okay. And what types of work generally either were
3 allocated or apportioned or billed in full to Highland CLO
4 Funding. What was the benefit there?

5 A The work was -- the work that was going on in the 6 bankruptcy case.

7 Q Okay. But I -- I understand that it was work in the 8 bankruptcy case because that's where Foley represented
9 Highland and various other entities, but I'm asking you
10 specifically: What types of categories, and I don't -- you
11 don't have to go task by task -- but categories of work that 12 you performed for Highland or Neutra or for the Highland
13 Cayman defendants that benefited and were billed to Highland
14 CLO Funding?

15 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm going to again assert a
16 relevance objection to any of this post-petition stuff. This 17 is an application to retain Foley on a post-petition basis
18 for the benefits to this estate, not with respect to what 19 happened on a pre-petition basis.

20 THE COURT: Your response?

21 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, there's been much discussion
22 about what -- whether Neutra should have to pay this bill or 23 whether it should not have to pay its own way here. This is 24 -- this is, in my mind, a bit of an extraordinary application
25 in that we're asking a debtor entity to pay for non-debtor

139

1 representation.

2 I want to inquire as to sort of this jumbled mix of work
3 that's been performed. There's -- clearly, Ms. O'Neil said
4 she hasn't been paid by HCLOF post-petition, but I think we 5 need to separate out all of these representations, who's 6 controlling what, and how -- how these bills really should be 7 paid.

8 THE COURT: How the allocation has worked --

9 MS. PATEL: Yes.

10 THE COURT: -- thus far?

11 MS. PATEL: Yes, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: I overrule the relevance objection, but 13 let me tell you a pickle we're getting into timewise. I have 14 a confirmation hearing starting at 1:30. And we've gone three 15 hours on this without a bathroom break. How much longer do
16 you think you're going to need? Because we might have to stop
17 and come back at 2:30 if you're going to need much longer.

18 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, I would say give me ten
19 minutes and I can wrap it up.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Ten minutes.

21 MS. PATEL: Okay.

22 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. What was the question? I
23 apologize.

24 BY MS. PATEL:

25 Q I'm trying to remember it myself, Ms. O'Neil. The

O'Neil - Cross

140

1 question was, what specifically -- what -- and I don't -- you
2 don't have to go task by task. But categorically, what was
3 the work that was performed that you would have billed
4 directly to HCLOF?

5 A Prior to King & Spalding's involvement, you may recall
6 that we were representing HCLOF as well. So there was direct
7 bill for the work during the bankruptcy by Foley Gardere for 8 specific work for HCLOF.

9 The -- the -- pursuant to the indemnification, as I
10 understood it, although I never read the indemnification
11 personally, that there would be an allocation between Highland 12 to HCLOF for that, for work that they performed that was of 13 benefit to HCLOF or its equity interest in the CLOs.

14 And so I was more directed as to what that allocation
15 should be vis-à-vis the work that was going on. I think,
16 generally speaking, because the CLOs were being impacted, as 17 was well-discussed during the course of the Acis bankruptcy,
18 by the issues in the bankruptcy, by the temporary injunction
19 that were in place vis-à-vis their inability to seek an 20 optional redemption during the course of the bankruptcy, that 21 they were being significantly impacted by the actions in the 22 bankruptcy, even though they were not specifically a creditor
23 in the bankruptcy.

24 Q So you performed services on behalf of your client,
25 Highland, that you then billed to Highland CLO Funding because

O'Neil - Cross

141

1 Highland CLO Funding couldn't effectuate an optional
2 redemption?

3 A It was -- it was in conjunction with the overall
4 activities that were going on in the bankruptcy.

5 Q Okay.

6 A Not that specifically, no.

7 Q All right, Ms. O'Neil. I've only got a few minutes left.
8 So let me ask you: Towards the end of January, did there come
9 a time where you sent me an email regarding Acis's quarterly
10 operating reports?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. And you copied Mr. Hurst on that email as well,
13 correct?

14 A Correct.

15 Q Okay. And your email was to say, hey, can we set up a
16 time to talk because I've got -- Highland's got some questions
17 about the quarterly operating report. Do you recall that?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Okay. And again, just so we're clear, this is around end
20 of January 2020, right, after the appointment of the Board?

21 A Yes. You --

22 Q Okay.

23 A I think there's an exhibit. One of your exhibits is that.

24 Q There is. If you turn to --

25 A Or it's a portion of that email communication.

O'Neil - Cross

142

1 Q It is. It's -- if you turn to Tab 28, this is sort of 2 your initial email to me, correct?

3 A Yeah. This is not the entire email dialogue, because --

4 Q There were other emails afterward.

5 A -- I did not get a response and sent a couple of emails
6 later, several days later, asking for a response.

7 Q Right. And I actually did respond to you after that,
8 correct?

9 A Approximately a week later, yeah.

10 Q Okay. Because I was out sick, actually.

11 A Yeah. That's what you said.

12 Q Right. So, --

13 A You didn't say sick, but you were out, so it's okay.

14 Q Yeah. I was out. And so -- and I will tell you, I was 15 sick. So I responded, albeit a little bit late, but I did
16 respond to you and say, Ms. O'Neil, could you tell me what 17 your questions are so that I can be prepared?

18 Does that sound about right?

19 A Yeah.

20 Q Okay.

21 A Yes.

22 Q And I never -- I never got a response to that. You never 23 told me what your questions were with respect to the quarterly
24 operating report, right?

25 A Yes. And I --

O'Neil - Cross

143

1 Q Okay.

2 A I can explain that. Because Mr. -- I believe Mr.
3 Pomerantz said that there was a meeting that was -- and they
4 would discuss it then, so --

5 Q Okay.

6 A Or Mr. Demo. I'm sorry. Somebody from Pachulski told me
7 that that would be addressed. Also, the status conference --
8 I mean, the questions we had were because there was a February
9 3rd status conference coming, and I wanted to see if we could 10 get some clarity so that when we appeared before the status
11 conference we could limit what we were going to be discussing
12 with the Court, if anything.

13 Q Okay. Well, what were -- what were the nature of your 14 questions? Because there was a conversation between Mr. Terry
15 and myself and the Board and -- well, certain members of the 16 Board. But what were your questions pertaining to?

17 A Oh, okay. Happy to discuss that. It's kind of awkward to 18 have it in -- on this, in this --

19 Q On Q and A.

20 A -- forum, but --

21 Q I hear you.

22 A We sent -- as the Court will recall, the confirmation
23 injunction can be lifted if all the claims are paid. So,
24 since the plan, the Acis plan was confirmed, we have been 25 tracking -- and the only way to track it is through the QORs

144

1 -- what the revenues were coming in and what has been paid.
2 And so -- in terms of expenses and then claims. And so we
3 have been -- my paralegal has been tracking this.

4 As the Court may know from looking at the record, almost
5 all of -- any other claims that were in the case were either
6 disallowed or withdrawn. And so, really, the only claim,
7 other than Highland's, was Mr. Terry's that was really left to 8 be paid, other than administrative claims. And I believe the 9 administrative claimants had agreed to deferral on some of 10 their payments after the effective date.

11 So we had been tracking the payments, which you can track
12 through the QORs, and it appeared that all of -- including Oak
13 Tree's most recently allowed administrative claim -- that all 14 of the administrative claims had been paid, and it appeared at 15 least approximately a half of Mr. Terry's claim had been paid.

16 When you look at the QORs, it doesn't specifically say,
17 "Here's who got what payment," but it shows the claims being 18 paid down, in addition to just general expenses of the post-
19 confirmation Debtor. And I'm -- this is taking a little bit, 20 but in the disclosure statement to the plan, there had also 21 been plan projections that set forth the revenues that were 22 anticipated post-confirmation to pay the claims. And so
23 likewise -- as well as the expenses, including to Brigade or 24 just general operating expenses for Acis.

25 So, likewise, through the QORs, we had been comparing

O'Neil - Cross

145

1 those against what was in the plan projection. And there were
2 some things that weren't matching and we simply were having
3 questions about the expenses seemed to be much higher.
4 However, the claims were being paid down, so it looked like
5 Mr. Terry was the only claimant left and was probably owed, by 6 our calculation, around $4-1/2 million, and that was the only
7 thing left to be paid. And, but the revenues per the QOR was 8 showing cash available of over five and -- $5.3 million.

9 So, one of the things we wanted to discuss was the 10 application of using the cash to go ahead and pay down what 11 was left of Mr. Terry's claim so that the injunction could be 12 lifted. But wanted to discuss that with you. That was the 13 purpose of that.

14 Q Okay. And I guess let me back up. One, let me kind of 15 correct you on a technical point, which is Mr. Terry's claim
16 isn't the only claim that's left outstanding. There were also 17 law firm claims that were lodged as against Acis, correct?

18 A I believe there were two --

19 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. Just relevance.
20 I don't get it.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Sustained. You've gone seven
22 minutes. So, three more minutes and we need to wrap it up.

23 MS. PATEL: Okay.

24 BY MS. PATEL:

25 Q Well, I guess, Ms. O'Neil, kind of in line with the email,

O'Neil - Cross

146

1 the email came in shortly before Acis was sued by your co-
2 counsel, Lynn Pinker, on behalf of the Charitable DAF and CLO
3 HoldCo. Are you aware of this lawsuit?

4 A After it was filed. I was not aware of it before it was 5 filed. The second one. I had seen the first one after it was 6 filed. I had not seen the second one until after it was 7 filed. We have a conflict with one of the defendants in that,
8 so --

9 Q Okay. So, and when you say "the first one," are you
10 talking about when it was originally the Charitable DAF versus 11 U.S. Bank National Association and Moody's Investors Service?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Okay. And that all involved claims by the DAF brought 14 against U.S. Bank and Moody's at the time relating to the Acis
15 bankruptcy, right? It's claims that U.S. Bank didn't manage 16 --

17 A Ms. --

18 Q -- as a trustee correctly, correct?

19 A Ms. --

20 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. She's got no
21 foundation. She said she has a conflict and wasn't involved
22 with this case.

23 THE COURT: Sustained.

24 THE WITNESS: That's correct.

25 BY MS. PATEL:

O'Neil - Cross

147

1 Q Okay. I guess, Ms. O'Neil, let me just ask you: Did you
2 have any involvement with -- if you look at Tab 27, that's a
3 copy of the lawsuit, so that we're all clear exactly which one
4 I'm asking you about. This is the lawsuit between the 5 Charitable DAF and CLO HoldCo, your former client, versus U.S.
6 Bank National Association, Moody's Investors Service, Acis
7 Capital Management, Brigade, and Josh Terry. Did Foley have 8 any involvement in the drafting or formulation of this 9 lawsuit?

10 A None.

11 Q Okay.

12 MS. PATEL: No further questions, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: All right. Any redirect?

14 MR. MORRIS: Very briefly.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q Ms. O'Neil, you've been representing a number of different
19 entities associated with Highland since 2018, right?

20 A Correct.

21 Q And are those entities identified in Plaintiff's Exhibit
22 #2 in the engagement letter?

23 A Plaintiff's 2 or -- sorry.

24 Q The Debtor's.

25 A The Debtor's 2. Okay. Let me switch. They are.

O'Neil - Redirect

148

1 Q Okay. And since the Board has been appointed, have you
2 met with board members to discuss the status of the matters
3 that your firm has been handling?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And without disclosing attorney-client communications, did
6 that involve providing a history of the work that you'd done?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Did that involve providing a history of the work that you
9 expected to do in the future?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Did the Board have an opportunity to ask questions of you?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And did you, in fact, answer the Board's questions?

14 A I endeavored to do so to the best of my ability, yes.

15 Q Okay.

16 A Or I followed up if -- with information via email if I
17 needed to get additional information.

18 Q And is it your understanding that the Board supports your 19 retention for the purposes that were described earlier by Mr.

20 Nelms?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Any recross on that redirect?

25 MS. PATEL: No, Your Honor.

O'Neil - Redirect

149

1 THE COURT: All right. Ms. O'Neil, you're excused.

2 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

3 (The witness steps down.)

4 THE COURT: All right. Highland, any more evidence?

5 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor. We rest.

6 THE COURT: All right. Is there any evidence from 7 Acis?

8 MR. LAMBERSON: No, ma'am.

9 THE COURT: All right. Let's take a five-minute --
10 please, five-minute break -- and then we'll hear your closing
11 arguments.

12 THE CLERK: All rise.

13 (A recess ensued from 12:47 p.m. until 12:56 p.m.)

14 THE CLERK: All rise.

15 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're 16 going back on the record in Highland. I'll hear closing
17 arguments.

18 I'm going to ask a question. I need clarification --

19 MR. DEMO: Of course.

20 THE COURT: -- on this. First off, in the Acis
21 adversary that's stayed in the Acis bankruptcy case, Foley,
22 it's proposed, would represent Highland. But is Foley also 23 representing co-defendants in that adversary? You know, I
24 think King & Spalding is representing all the co-defendants,
25 or someone else is, but am I wrong or right about that?

150

1 MR. DEMO: Yes and no, Your Honor. I think there's 2 been some miscommunication on that. The adversary, as we
3 understand it, is stayed, and because of that we are not
4 seeking to represent -- or retain Foley in that adversary,
5 although we will if that comes up again. So, in the 6 adversary, pre-petition, Foley did represent the Debtor and 7 then a handful of other creditors who were brought into that
8 adversary, as we understand it, as defendants. On a go-
9 forward basis, though, we are proposing to retain Foley on 10 three things: General matters in the bankruptcy proceeding;
11 the appellate --

12 THE COURT: General matters in the Acis bankruptcy
13 proceeding?

14 MR. DEMO: Correct, Your Honor. The appeal involving 15 the confirmation order. And the appeal involving the Neutra
16 litigation. And --

17 THE COURT: Okay. On the appeal of the involuntary, 18 --

19 MR. DEMO: Yes, ma'am.

20 THE COURT: -- only Neutra --

21 MR. DEMO: That is correct.

22 THE COURT: -- is an appellant. Okay. So what 23 you're asking is for authority for Highland to pay the legal 24 fees of Neutra on that?

25 MR. DEMO: Yes, Your Honor.

151

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. DEMO: We are. And we, again, to the --

3 THE COURT: And let me -- let me -- and then the 4 appeal of the confirmation order, are the appellants Highland
5 and Neutra only, or is HCLOF an appellant?

6 MR. DEMO: In terms of Foley's representation, it's -
7 -

8 THE COURT: No, no, no. Just answer the question.
9 Who are the appellants in the confirmation order?

10 MR. DEMO: Highland, Neutra, and HCLOF.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Who is representing HCLOF?

12 MR. DEMO: King & Spalding.

13 THE COURT: Okay. And Foley has thus far been 14 representing Neutra and Highland?

15 MR. DEMO: Correct, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Okay. Well, okay. You may proceed.

17 MR. DEMO: And I will be brief. And I think
18 ultimately this, this is a relatively simple thing, and I
19 think you've nailed it.

20 What are the benefits to the estate of -- because nobody 21 has objected, again, to Foley representing the Debtor. What 22 are the benefits to the estate for Foley representing Neutra
23 and being paid for that by the Debtor? And to answer that 24 question, I think you have to look to all the testimony that 25 we've heard today, and you also have to look at who's

152

1 objecting, Your Honor. The Committee is not objecting. There
2 is no other committee member objecting besides Acis. The only
3 party objecting to Neutra -- or, I'm sorry, to Highland paying 4 Neutra's fees in the appeal, which, again, are a portion of 5 the $500,000 that we think is going to be incurred post-
6 petition on this, excluding today, because today has obviously
7 gone a little bit long -- the only party objecting to paying a
8 portion of that $500,000 to have Foley represent Neutra in an
9 appeal that is happening less than six weeks from now is Acis.

10 Acis is the party opponent in that. Acis is the party
11 that stands to benefit, not just because the involuntary
12 petition will not be overturned, but because there will be a
13 lack of leverage and a lack of ability to contest their $75
14 million, which is where it started, but it keeps growing.
15 It's at $300 million now. The only party who's objected to 16 that is Acis. None of the other creditors have objected.

17 THE COURT: Well, until the past 24 hours, the 18 Committee was objecting.

19 MR. DEMO: Correct, Your Honor. And we had a --
20 finally had a chance, with the new Board in place, to discuss 21 it with the Committee. And the new Board explained to the 22 Committee that, in their business judgment, spending this
23 money, this $500,000 -- which, again, is going to be allocated
24 across these three matters; not all of it's going to be 25 allocated to Neutra; a portion of it is going to be allocated

153

1 to Neutra -- $500,000 for the possibility of a recovery to the
2 estate, the possibility of the ability to challenge a $300
3 million proof of claim that impacts not just the estate but 4 the other creditors in the estate, substantially, because
5 there's only so much money here. So, --

6 THE COURT: Okay. Let me ask you to recap what the 7 evidence was on benefit to Highland --

8 MR. DEMO: On benefit --

9 THE COURT: -- from the overturning of the order for 10 relief in Acis.

11 MR. DEMO: In terms of the overturning of the order
12 for relief in Acis, there were -- there was testimony on the 13 possibility -- and again, it's a possibility, and we're not 14 disputing that. Acis's attorneys said it was 10 percent.
15 That's fine. Maybe it's 10 percent. There was evidence
16 presented by Mr. Nelms on the possibility that if the Acis
17 involuntary is overturned, that the contracts at issue, the 18 advisory and the sub-management agreements, --

19 THE COURT: Well, let's take it sequentially, because 20 you've got to, you know, look at benefit of the estate --

21 MR. DEMO: Understood.

22 THE COURT: -- versus time and cost, to some degree,
23 right?

24 MR. DEMO: Right.

25 THE COURT: So, Neutra wins.

154

1 MR. DEMO: Okay.

2 THE COURT: Okay? That means, according to Mr.
3 Lamberson's argument, which I think is the correct argument,
4 that we send to arbitration whether it's appropriate for Acis
5 to be in a bankruptcy.

6 MR. DEMO: Correct, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. DEMO: Well, may be correct.

9 THE COURT: So, --

10 MR. DEMO: I think we did hear there's a different
11 possibility from Mr. Nelms.

12 THE COURT: Well, what is the other possibility?

13 MR. DEMO: Well, okay. Understood, Your Honor.
14 Okay.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. DEMO: So, say we -- assuming we send it to 17 arbitration, --

18 THE COURT: So that means an arbitration panel is 19 convened, and at some point, many months from now, an 20 arbitration panel will either say yes or no, involuntary, you
21 know, should have gone forward.

22 MR. DEMO: Okay.

23 THE COURT: Okay? Let's say the arbitration panel
24 says no, should not have gone forward. Then what does the 25 world look like for Highland?

155

1 MR. DEMO: I guess, taking it a step back, Your
2 Honor, assuming that this does go to arbitration, it also
3 means that the involuntary petition was not entered. If the 4 involuntary petition was not entered, which means that the 5 Acis equity did not go to Mr. Terry, it stayed under Neutra,
6 at that point --

7 THE COURT: Wait, wait, wait.

8 MR. DEMO: -- you also go into arbitration.

9 THE COURT: Wait, wait. Wait, wait. So you're 10 saying that everything is wiped out in the involuntary, the 11 Acis bankruptcy case?

12 MR. DEMO: Your Honor, and I do want to be really,
13 honestly, very, very clear about this. I am -- I am not
14 saying anything. I'm not -- trying very hard not to draw a 15 legal conclusion. What I'm saying is that the Board has 16 analyzed this, the Board has applied business --

17 THE COURT: But I'm trying to understand --

18 MR. DEMO: -- judgment to this, and that there is a -
19 - there is a possibility. Now, --

20 THE COURT: I'm trying --

21 MR. DEMO: -- obviously, reasonable minds can --

22 THE COURT: Okay. Here's where I'm coming from. And 23 you can tell me if I'm analyzing this incorrectly, in your 24 view. Okay. We used to have this terrible Fifth Circuit case
25 -- you know, God help me if this transcript gets sent -- but

156

1 called Pro-Snax. Okay?

2 MR. DEMO: Okay.

3 THE COURT: I think the Fifth Circuit has decided 4 itself that it was terrible, so it's not going to come back to 5 haunt me, saying that. So, Pro-Snax said basically the 6 Bankruptcy Court is a Monday-morning quarterback in looking at 7 the reasonableness of fees. You know, did it provide a
8 benefit to the estate?

9 MR. DEMO: Uh-huh.

10 THE COURT: And then that got reversed a few years
11 ago. I think it was the Woerner case -- Baron & Newburger
12 (Woerner) -- where the Court said, no, you don't do a 13 hindsight look. You look at, at the time fees were expensed, 14 --

15 MR. DEMO: Uh-huh.

16 THE COURT: -- was there something like a reasonable
17 possibility they would benefit the estate?

18 MR. DEMO: Yes.

19 THE COURT: Okay? So I'm looking through it in that 20 lens, so to speak, and I'm like, what benefit to the Highland 21 estate could there be if the confirmation -- well, if the 22 order for relief is unwound or the confirmation order is 23 unwound? And I'm not there. I'm not there understanding any 24 benefit for Highland.

25 I can understand a benefit, maybe, for Neutra, although I

157

1 am even hard-pressed to see that, because it looks like years
2 of more litigation.

3 MR. DEMO: And Your Honor, I mean, I do think that 4 there was -- and again, I'm not going to challenge your legal 5 conclusions -- I do think that there was evidence that in the 6 Board's business judgment they did analyze this and they see
7 it, I think, a little bit differently.

8 THE COURT: And I should defer heavily to a Board's
9 reasonable exercise of business judgment. I've got trouble.
10 So I'm just trying to --

11 MR. DEMO: Understood. And I think, when you look at 12 that business judgment, --

13 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

14 MR. DEMO: -- you know, obviously, I don't disagree.
15 I do think that when you have a three-person independent board
16 of this caliber who's come into a difficult situation, has 17 reviewed all of the evidence, talked to all the applicable
18 people, when things happened with the DAF litigation that they 19 didn't like, they took action to stop that. When they looked 20 at the Winstead appeal and they said, you know, there's not a
21 benefit to the estate here, let's drop they, they dropped it.

22 THE COURT: But again, work with --

23 MR. DEMO: When they --

24 THE COURT: Work with me. Fifth Circuit reverses the 25 order for relief. I don't think you have disagreed with

158

1 Lamberson's argument that best-case scenario in that reversal
2 scenario is that an arbitration panel now looks at, should
3 this Acis -- you know, should it have gone forward in a
4 bankruptcy?

5 MR. DEMO: Well, I guess, Your Honor, then maybe I --

6 THE COURT: So, in that many --

7 MR. DEMO: -- I'm not being clear.

8 THE COURT: -- months, let's say eight months that an 9 arbitration panel takes to decide, what happens during that 10 eight months?

11 MR. DEMO: Well, then I guess, Your Honor, I need to 12 step back, because I have not -- absolutely not been clear.
13 If it goes to an arbitration panel, our view -- and I think
14 Ms. O'Neil's briefs to the Fifth Circuit are clear on this -- 15 the arbitration panel is going to arbiter or arbitrate whether 16 or not there was a fraudulent conveyance. It's going to 17 arbitrate how to resolve the claims. It's not going to 18 arbitrate whether or not the involuntary petition should ever
19 have been entered.

20 THE COURT: Wait, wait. What does that mean? Of 21 course. That's the starting point of it all, right? The 22 appeal is the Bankruptcy Court wrongly held a trial on the 23 involuntary petition and ordered for relief. It should have 24 deferred to an arbitration panel to do that. Isn't that 25 appeal number one that we're talking about?

159

1 MR. DEMO: Yes, but --

2 THE COURT: Neutra's appeal?

3 MR. DEMO: Yes, it is.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. DEMO: But I do think there's a nuance. And I do
6 want to defer to the pleadings that were filed with the Fifth
7 Circuit, because I don't want here to get myself out in front
8 of that Fifth Circuit appeal, because obviously I do very much
9 want that appeal to go forward. And maybe we lose and maybe
10 we win, but if we win, I think the --

11 THE COURT: If Neutra wins.

12 MR. DEMO: If Neutra wins, one of the outcomes -- and 13 again, I understand that, you know, reasonable minds can 14 differ that there --

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. DEMO: -- of the outcomes.

17 THE COURT: But one of the outcomes.

18 MR. DEMO: One of the outcomes is that the 19 involuntary petition is unwound, withdrawn, and the parties go
20 to arbitration on the claims. If that were to happen, --

21 THE COURT: Wait. It's unwound and they go to 22 arbitration on what claims? The claims in the adversary
23 proceeding that's been filed in Acis?

24 MR. DEMO: Again, Your Honor, I'm not the appellate 25 lawyer here. I mean, this is why we are here.

160

1 THE COURT: But how do you skip over the arbitration
2 of the order for relief? Because if Joshua Terry, who 3 commenced it, you know, he has the right now to argue to an
4 arbitration panel that this should have been in bankruptcy,
5 right? He doesn't have to just agree that the adversary
6 proceeding is now arbitrated. Right?

7 MR. DEMO: Well, again, Your Honor, I don't want to 8 substitute my judgment for the judgment of the Board. I think
9 the judgment of the Board is that there is a scenario and that 10 it's worth exploring and that it's worth the -- what we 11 honestly think is a limited amount of money to explore.
12 Because I think, if we explore that, we explore the 13 possibility, quite honestly, of taking it out of bankruptcy,
14 then, yes, in that scenario, and which we do it think is 15 possible, in that scenario, and call it whatever probability
16 you want, but if you're going to spend half a million dollars
17 to get to a scenario that could reap you -- and I don't want
18 to put a number on it -- but millions of dollars in future
19 revenue, millions of dollars in terms of --

20 THE COURT: You're melding. You're collapsing. And 21 we all know as lawyers that's not how it works. Things happen
22 sequentially, okay?

23 MR. DEMO: Okay. Then I guess, going --

24 THE COURT: There's a setting aside -- well, there's 25 a reversal of the Bankruptcy Court's issuance of an order for 161

1 relief.

2 MR. DEMO: Okay.

3 THE COURT: And that means you should have deferred
4 to an arbitration panel, Judge Jernigan. And so they remand
5 so that I can, consistent with that appellate ruling, say,
6 We're staying the bankruptcy and it's going to arbitration to 7 decide whether an order for relief. Is there really any 8 realistic scenario where we skip that step?

9 MR. DEMO: We think that there's a scenario that is 10 worth exploring.

11 THE COURT: I feel like your colleagues are really 12 dying to chime in because they think they've got the answer to 13 my question, no offense to you.

14 MR. MORRIS: I really -- I don't, Your Honor, but if 15 I may.

16 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

17 MR. MORRIS: I think Ms. O'Neil is the appellate
18 lawyer. Maybe she should speak on this very precise point, --

19 THE COURT: Okay. Because --

20 MR. MORRIS: -- if that's okay with the Court.

21 THE COURT: Because I see many miles --

22 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

23 THE COURT: -- to go before we sleep if there's a
24 reversal, and I'm trying to figure -- well, you know, we all
25 know that, right?

162

1 MS. O'NEIL: Your Honor, if I may.

2 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

3 MS. O'NEIL: And I did not want to interrupt Mr.
4 Demo, and he's done a great job, but obviously we've been
5 involved with the appeal.

6 THE COURT: Right.

7 MS. O'NEIL: We've prepared the briefs.

8 THE COURT: So how does it play out if there's a
9 reversal in favor of Neutra --

10 MS. O'NEIL: If I may, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: -- of the order for relief?

12 MS. O'NEIL: The issue on the appeal is not to send 13 the concept to arbitration of the involuntary petitions.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MS. O'NEIL: It is that Mr. Terry was not a qualified
16 petitioner because he was bound by an arbitration, a binding
17 arbitration agreement, and that the issue that he -- by 18 proceeding with these involuntary petitions, he commenced a
19 suit, a proceeding that was, at its core, about fraudulent
20 transfers, and that that should have gone to arbitration. And 21 to proceed and try to engage this Court's jurisdiction on 22 something that he had contractually agreed to go to 23 arbitration on was improper.

24 So, if Neutra wins on that argument, and I would encourage 25 the Court, we -- I think the briefs are in one of the 163

1 exhibits, but certainly I would provide them to the Court
2 before the Court makes a determination if it would help. If
3 there -- if Neutra wins on that appeal, then our position
4 would be that yes, the bankruptcy is effectively void ab
5 initio, and that's what we believe the case law supports.

6 Where that would put the parties, potentially -- and 7 again, we're speculating what the Fifth Circuit may or may not
8 due to instruct this Court to do -- could reverse and render,
9 as it were, as Mr. Nelms testified happened to him previously,
10 but could instruct this Court to abstain, which I think was -- 11 and that is one of the various motions and the orders that the 12 Court had denied. All of these are wrapped up in the appeal,
13 Your Honor. And in doing so, instruct the petitioner, Mr.
14 Terry, and Acis to go arbitrate the issue of the fraudulent
15 transfers. That would reinstate Acis. Acis could reinstate
16 Highland as the manager of the CLOs.

17 THE COURT: So every single order in the Acis case
18 would be null and void?

19 MS. O'NEIL: We believe that the case law is that it
20 would be void ab initio. And now, Your Honor, practically 21 speaking, --

22 THE COURT: Void ab initio? Okay. That could only 23 -- is that hinged to a subject matter jurisdiction, lack of 24 subject matter jurisdiction --

25 MS. O'NEIL: Partially, that's part of the argument.

164

1 THE COURT: -- theory?

2 MS. O'NEIL: That's part of the argument. Yes, Your
3 Honor.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MS. O'NEIL: Practically speaking, it is our belief,
6 although it is not clear, is what I've tried to kind of convey 7 to the Court, and in conjunction with this conversation I was 8 trying to have with Mr. Terry's counsel/Acis's counsel, is 9 that we believe Mr. Terry has been paid down. Practically 10 speaking, if that happens and he's only left with a claim or 11 currently has a claim of $4 million, $4-1/2 million, which is 12 what we think it is, or it's somewhere in that neighborhood,
13 that -- and there's sufficient cash in Acis to pay that claim
14 off -- it is a claim Judge -- Mr. Nelms testified to the fact
15 that it would need to be paid -- then there may not even need
16 to be a fraudulent transfer lawsuit because the claim would -- 17 what's left of the claim would just be paid off. And then 18 Acis -- Neutra would be back in ownership of Acis, Acis would 19 engage Highland to come back in and do what it was doing
20 before, Mr. Terry got his claim paid off, and there we are.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. DEMO: That's honestly pretty much it, Your 23 Honor. And we think that -- and the Board thinks that the 24 benefit of pursuing that is worth it, quite honestly. And 25 they think, in their business judgment, that it's worth paying

165

1 those Neutra fees -- which again, are a portion of the 2 $500,000, only a portion -- because that benefit accrues to
3 the estate, or could accrue to the estate in a situation
4 where, in their business judgment, it's worth going forward on 5 this.

6 THE COURT: Okay. The appeal -- okay. Let me make
7 sure I heard this correctly. The appeal of the confirmation
8 order, whereas we have Neutra only on the appeal --

9 MR. DEMO: Correct.

10 THE COURT: -- of the order for relief, the appeal of 11 the confirmation order is Highland, Neutra, and HCLOF.

12 MR. DEMO: Correct.

13 THE COURT: And King & Spalding still represents
14 HCLOF in connection with that appeal.

15 MR. DEMO: Correct. And they're the only law firm
16 representing HCLOF in that appeal.

17 THE COURT: So here's what I'm struggling with. You
18 know, what initially seemed like kind of a compelling argument
19 -- all the briefing has been done, oral argument is set in 20 March -- it feels like to me the main beneficiaries of a
21 reversal of that confirmation order are HCLOF and Neutra.
22 Foley can represent Neutra. Neutra can pay. King & Spalding
23 can represent HCLOF. HCLOF can pay. And that seems like the 24 reasonable scenario to me.

25 MR. DEMO: And I hear that. But I think -- and I

166

1 think Mr. Nelms --

2 THE COURT: Because let's --

3 MR. DEMO: -- testified to it, but --

4 THE COURT: Work with me. Let's say they don't

5 reverse the order for relief --

6 MR. DEMO: Okay.

7 THE COURT: -- but they do reverse the confirmation
8 order.

9 MR. DEMO: Okay.

10 THE COURT: So, Chapter 11 Trustee is in place
11 representing Highland, and he can -- I'm sorry -- he is the 12 spokesperson for the Acis, the controller of the Acis estate.
13 He might go forward with plan number four, five, whatever it 14 would be.

15 MR. DEMO: Okay.

16 THE COURT: Or say, I think it's time to convert this
17 to 7. I mean I'm just trying to figure out --

18 MR. DEMO: And I guess I do want to go back to one
19 thing, --

20 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

21 MR. DEMO: -- because I do not think there is another
22 economic beneficiary that would pay Neutra's fees. I think if 23 the Debtor is not allowed to pay Neutra's fees, nobody will 24 pay Neutra's fees, and that portion of the appellate argument
25 will fall by the wayside. Because --

167

1 THE COURT: So Neutra loses, but I don't see how
2 Highland loses. You have not painted a scenario where it's 3 clear to me there's any economic benefit to the estate.

4 MR. DEMO: I would, I would, with all --

5 THE COURT: And you're telling me, Defer to the 6 Board's business judgment. But I'm --

7 MR. DEMO: Well, I --

8 THE COURT: I'm concerned that the evidence hasn't 9 shown me --

10 MR. DEMO: I would also ask, Your Honor, --

11 THE COURT: -- all of the --

12 MR. DEMO: -- in all --

13 THE COURT: -- scenarios that lead to their 14 reasonable business judgment on this.

15 MR. DEMO: As Ms. O'Neil just said, I mean, this is 16 above the Fifth -- to the Fifth Circuit. The Fifth Circuit is 17 set to hear this in six weeks. And if the Fifth Circuit rules
18 the way that Ms. O'Neil just said, I do think, and I think the 19 Board thinks -- actually, I know the Board thinks -- that 20 there is a tangible benefit to the estate here. And so I know
21 that I'm asking you to defer to their judgment, --

22 THE COURT: All I heard was --

23 MR. DEMO: -- but I'm also asking just for --

24 THE COURT: -- that they'd reinstate the sub-advisory 25 and shared services agreements.

168

1 MR. DEMO: Which are --

2 THE COURT: Which, by the way, Highland moved to 3 terminate, moved to compel rejection at one point during the 4 case, and then, when that didn't work, HCLOF started calling
5 for redemption.

6 MR. DEMO: And it's not the --

7 THE COURT: This is nuts for me --

8 MR. DEMO: It's not -- it's not the -- Your Honor, 9 it's --

10 THE COURT: Tell me why it's not nuts for me to think 11 --

12 MR. DEMO: Because it's not the same Highland.

13 THE COURT: -- that Highland would be thrilled to 14 have Acis back managing the CLOs and subcontracting with 15 Highland. I mean, that --

16 MR. DEMO: It's not, it's not the same Highland. The 17 stuff that happened prior to the institution of the Board was 18 the stuff that happened prior to the institution of the Board.
19 There is new management of Highland. That new management is 20 working very hard. As you've seen, Your Honor, that new 21 management is willing to push back. That new management, with 22 the DAF, which you've heard testimony of, that new management
23 is working to get that motion withdrawn. That new management
24 is not going forward with Lynn Pinker because of actions that 25 it took that it thought subverted their control and their

169

1 management of the Debtor. The new management decided to drop
2 an appeal that they did not think had any merit.

3 It's not the same Debtor, Your Honor. It is a board
4 consisting of three highly-qualified people who are exercising
5 their own judgment. So all of that stuff that happened prior 6 to January 9th, I don't want to say hey, it's a clear line in 7 the sand, but it is. Mr. Dondero is not in control of 8 Highland Capital Management.

9 THE COURT: But he is in control of Neutra.

10 MR. DEMO: He is the economic beneficiary of Neutra.
11 That is correct. But Mr. Dondero did tell Mr. Nelms, as Mr.
12 Nelms testified, that he would reinstate those contracts. And 13 I understand that. But again, as you've seen, Mr. Nelms and 14 the Board have been able to push back, have been able to exert
15 control, to exert influence, and to exert management over an 16 institution that is very difficult to manage.

17 And I do think that deference to that is something that 18 should very much be considered, because it's very easy to 19 think of this as Old Highland, but this is New Highland, who 20 has done an independent, objective review of these claims, who 21 has sat with Ms. O'Neil, who has sat with Pachulski, who has 22 sat with Mr. Terry and Ms. Patel and talked about this stuff,
23 and still thinks that there is a benefit here to the estate, 24 and that spending the $500,000 to pursue that benefit, which 25 is not just a benefit to Highland but it's a benefit to

170

1 Highland other -- to Highland's other creditors, I guess, Your
2 Honor, quite honestly, I would ask that you to defer to that
3 new management, because it is not -- it is not Old Highland.

4 All that stuff that people have talked about -- I mean,
5 you've seen today in court, you've heard testimony about very 6 qualified people working to stop that and working to put this 7 estate into a position where it can reorganize, where it can
8 come to agreements with its creditors, where it can work
9 through this process, where it can come out the other side.

10 But if we take away that Board's ability to manage
11 litigation with one of their biggest creditors, whose 12 litigation claim keeps growing, all you're doing is 13 benefitting that one creditor, not to the detriment of Mr.
14 Dondero but to the detriment of the other creditors in this
15 case.

16 UBS has a claim. Redeemer has a claim. Meta-e has a
17 claim. McKool's has a claim. You can run through that whole
18 list. And if you take away the Board's right to direct 19 litigation that is going directly to the Board's ability to 20 control runaway claims, to negotiate with creditors, and to 21 come up with an idea of how to split the pie, then, with all
22 respect, Your Honor, you are infringing on that Board's 23 business judgment and that Board's ability to reorganize this
24 case.

25 This case isn't just about --

171

1 THE COURT: It wouldn't be taking away. And here is
2 a nuance that -- I think it is perfectly reasonable, in case
3 you don't know where I'm heading on this, for Foley to 4 represent Highland in the Acis case, in that adversary
5 proceeding, if it goes forward, because heck yeah, Highland
6 has been sued for huge amounts of money.

7 MR. DEMO: Understood.

8 THE COURT: Their claim, that is many millions, has 9 been objected to. So, heck yeah, this estate needs good
10 representation of Highland in that case, where there are many 11 unresolved issues still in the Acis case.

12 But on the appeal, I am just still lost as to how there is 13 any chance in the world Highland benefits in those appeals.
14 Neutra, heck yeah. Maybe they get their Acis back and can 15 instruct it to, you know, stop suing Highland or whatever.
16 Dondero controlling Neutra can do that. Okay? And HCLOF, it
17 doesn't want Acis to have anything to do anymore with managing 18 its equity piece of those CLOs. Sure. But how -- I mean, 19 you're telling me that there could be a scenario -- here's 20 what I'm hearing. That there is a benefit in having all those 21 fraudulent transfer claims arbitrated, I guess, not litigated
22 in the Bankruptcy or District Court, and there's a benefit in 23 having all of the management agreements, portfolio management
24 agreements reinstated. And I just, I don't see how that 25 happens anytime soon based on how I perceive a reversal of 1 orders on appeal happening.

2 MR. DEMO: And I guess I don't know what else to say
3 on that point. We do think there's a $12 million tangible
4 benefit to reinstating those contracts. We think there's a
5 tangible benefit to allowing Neutra to go forward with its
6 appeal. And again, there is nobody else who I think would pay
7 that freight besides the Debtor, because that benefit, we
8 believe, goes to the Debtor.

9 THE COURT: How many years of life are there left on 10 the CLOs that Acis manages?

11 MR. DEMO: I would have to check, Your Honor. I
12 don't know off the top of my head. I can ask. But --

13 THE COURT: I mean, you're saying $12 million. I
14 mean, I don't --

15 MR. DEMO: I, you know, --

16 THE COURT: There's not a -- I'm just not sure where 17 that number is coming from. I never heard direct evidence of 18 that.

19 MR. DEMO: Okay. Well, I guess, Your Honor, I mean,
20 again, I would just ask that you defer to the business
21 judgment of the Board and allow them to position this 22 litigation in a way that best enables them to deal with every 23 creditor's claim, and not just the claims of one creditor.
24 And if they cannot fight the claims of the creditor, then they 25 can't negotiate how that pot is going to be split in a fashion

173

1 that benefits everybody.

2 So I guess, Your Honor, I mean, I don't know what else to 3 say about the benefits of the Neutra appeal except that the 4 testimony, I think, speaks for itself. But, you know, I --
5 and in terms of --

6 THE COURT: Again, fight the claim of a creditor.
7 Foley can represent Highland in the adversary proceeding,
8 wherever that goes forward.

9 MR. DEMO: Yeah.

10 THE COURT: Probably District Court, not this Court.
11 At least some of it, if not all of it. But anyway, I'm 12 digressing. They can object to Acis's proof of claim. They 13 can object to Terry's proof of claim. I mean, --

14 MR. DEMO: And conversely, Your Honor, if -- if --

15 THE COURT: -- this has nothing to do with -- I mean,
16 I don't get the appeal. I mean, I --

17 MR. DEMO: Right.

18 THE COURT: Neutra can appeal, HCLOF can appeal, but 19 I'm not seeing the benefit to Highland.

20 MR. DEMO: And I guess the only thing I would say,
21 Your Honor, is if there is an improper benefit, we are not
22 saying that the fee applications are sacrosanct. People can 23 challenge the improper benefit there.

24 And again, the settlement gave broad discretion to the 25 Committee to pursue insider claims. So if an insider is

174

1 receiving a benefit from this, the Committee has standing to
2 pursue that.

3 So it's not a null set, Your Honor, whereas cutting off
4 the appeal now does take away that possibility.

5 THE COURT: How would I be cutting off the appeal?
6 I'm not cutting off the appeal. King & Spalding can go in 7 there and fight hard. Foley can go in there and fight hard
8 for Neutra. So, --

9 MR. DEMO: One second, Your Honor.
10 (Counsel confer.)

11 MR. DEMO: And I guess, you know, Your Honor, and I
12 do want to reiterate that there is no other party with an 13 economic incentive to fight the Neutra appeal the way that the 14 Debtor has an economic incentive.

15 THE COURT: That makes no sense to me. HCLOF is the 16 one who hated this injunction.

17 MR. DEMO: That's not the Neutra appeal, Your Honor.
18 That's the confirmation order.

19 THE COURT: Well, okay. Neutra gets its company back
20 if they win.

21 MR. DEMO: And we would get our contracts back.

22 THE COURT: And arguably, it can control Acis, maybe,
23 okay, and it can assign management contracts to whoever it
24 wants. That just -- and it says it'll assign them to 25 Highland. If you can trust Jim Dondero, then Highland's going

175

1 to benefit if Neutra wins that appeal. Right?

2 MR. DEMO: Yes. Yes, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Okay. So that --

4 MR. DEMO: Highland would benefit greatly --

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. DEMO: -- if Neutra were to win that appeal.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Okay. Well, but first Neutra
8 benefits, right? And then --

9 MR. DEMO: No.

10 THE COURT: -- Highland only secondarily benefits --

11 MR. DEMO: I -- I --

12 THE COURT: -- if Jim Dondero keeps his word and 13 gives the management contracts back to Highland.

14 MR. DEMO: Jim Dondero would also have to repay the 15 $8 million in claim, even if he didn't reinstate those 16 contracts. And that $8 million would be hundred-cent dollars.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. DEMO: So, worst case, --

19 THE COURT: It would have been nice to have him
20 testify as to all of this.

21 MR. DEMO: Worst --

22 THE COURT: It would be more compelling if I had him.

23 MR. DEMO: Well, --

24 THE COURT: Okay? But I don't think --

25 MR. DEMO: -- I can only do so much, Your Honor.

176

1 THE COURT: -- that's going to happen anytime soon.

2 MR. DEMO: But I guess worst-case scenario is that
3 it's $8 million in hundred-cent dollars.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. DEMO: And that's not nothing for $500,000. And 6 only a portion of that $500,000.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. DEMO: Thank you, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Lamberson?

10 MR. LAMBERSON: Your Honor, do you want a closing
11 from me? Or no?

12 THE COURT: I don't really need it. Thank you.

13 MR. LAMBERSON: Okay.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. LAMBERSON: Because I know your hearing starts in 16 about two minutes.

17 THE COURT: All right. So, I just hate it that we 18 spent so much time on this. I hate it that we spent so much
19 time, but, I mean, I understand. I understand. You know, I
20 think the employment application was filed pretty early in the 21 case, right, and -- October 29th. And it was continued, 22 continued, continued, because we were getting objections from 23 the Committee, or they wanted time to look at it, I guess.
24 And now you're kind of up against the wire, right, because 25 oral arguments are set at the Fifth Circuit next month. So I,

177

1 you know, I hate it that we were here, but I understand it.

2 But I'm concerned. I'm concerned -- well, here's the 3 deal. We have a great board, and I totally get that
4 Bankruptcy Courts should defer heavily to the reasonable
5 exercise of business judgment by a board. And we've got great
6 professionals. And we've got this case, I think, on a good
7 track as a general matter now. But I'm concerned that Dondero
8 or certain in-house counsel has -- you know, they're smart,
9 they're persuasive -- that -- what are the words I want to 10 look for -- they have exercised their powers of persuasion or 11 whatever to make the Board and the professionals think that 12 there is some valid prospect of benefit to Highland with these 13 appeals, when it's really all about Neutra, HCLOF, and Mr.
14 Dondero. That's what I believe.

15 I mean, this is awkward, right, because you want to defer
16 to the debtor-in-possession, but I have this long history, and 17 I can think through the scenarios. If this is reversed, here
18 is how it will play out. If this is reversed, here is how it
19 might play out. And I know, you know, there are multiple ways
20 it might play out, but I cannot believe there is a chance in 21 the world there is economic benefit to Highland if these 22 things get reversed. Economic benefit to Neutra: Yeah,
23 maybe. Economic benefit to HCLOF: Well, they'll get what 24 they want. You know, whether it's an economic benefit, I
25 don't know. But benefit to Highland? I just don't think the 178

1 evidence has been there to convince me it's reasonable
2 business judgment for Highland to pay the legal fees
3 associated with the appeal.

4 And even more concerning to me is a valid point was made
5 that Highland is in bankruptcy because of litigation,
6 litigation, litigation. The past officers and directors and 7 controls' propensity to fight about everything. This isn't a
8 balance sheet restructuring, okay? It's not a Chapter 11
9 caused by operational problems or revenue disruption or who 10 knows what kind of disruption. It's about years of litigation
11 finally coming home to roost. And this just appears to be 12 more of the same, potentially.

13 Okay. Parties have a right to appeal. I respect that.
14 Neutra, go for it. HCLOF, go for it. But this estate and its 15 creditors should not bear the burden of having Highland pay
16 for that, when, again, I don't think there's any evidence to 17 suggest they could benefit at the end of the day.

18 So what I'm going to do is I'm going to approve the 19 retention of Foley to represent Highland in the Acis case. We 20 all know the adversary is stayed right now. It may or may not 21 ever be un-stayed, depending on what strategies people want to 22 pursue. But Highland, I think a meritorious case has been 23 presented, and under 327(e) I will approve Foley representing 24 Highland in all Acis matters. Okay? The Acis bankruptcy
25 case. The adversary proceeding, if it goes forward. And so

179

1 that's my ruling.

2 I will additionally rule, for the avoidance of doubt, that
3 if Foley wants to represent Neutra in the appeals and get paid
4 by Neutra, I don't have any problem with that. In other
5 words, I'm not going to find something like there's a conflict
6 with the estate, you know, because of its simultaneous
7 representation of Neutra. That's fine. But I'm not going to 8 approve Highland paying anything in connection with either of 9 those appeals. So that is the ruling of the Court.

10 Have I left any gaps here?

11 MR. DEMO: Your Honor, just one clarification.

12 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

13 MR. DEMO: Foley is representing Highland Capital
14 Management in the appeal of the confirmation order to the 15 Fifth Circuit. I just want to clarify that your ruling that 16 Highland can represent -- I'm sorry -- Foley can represent 17 Highland in all Acis matters extends to their representation
18 of Highland Capital Management in the appeal of the 19 confirmation order that's set for March 30th.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Let me think through that.

21 MR. DEMO: And again, Your Honor, there's been no
22 objection to that.

23 THE COURT: King & Spalding is in there representing 24 HCLOF. Foley would be representing both Neutra and Highland 25 in connection with the confirmation order?

180

1 MR. DEMO: Technically, but Neutra really has
2 nothing. It's a coattail party in that case. Highland
3 Capital Management, to the extent that they could bifurcate
4 Neutra, it would still be doing the exact same work. So if
5 there is an issue there with the representation of Neutra,
6 we'd still ask that Foley be allowed to represent Highland
7 Capital Management in that appeal.

8 THE COURT: Okay. So you're telling me Neutra
9 doesn't really benefit from that appeal, so you want Highland 10 to pay all of the fees of Foley in connection with the 11 confirmation order appeal?

12 MR. DEMO: All I'm asking, Your Honor, is that Foley
13 can represent Highland Capital Management in that appeal. And 14 again, there's been no objection to that. What happens with 15 Neutra, I, you know, I understand your position. I am simply 16 asking for a clarification that Foley can continue
17 representing the Debtor in the Debtor's appeal of the 18 confirmation order.

19 THE COURT: All right. I will say yes to that, but 20 they need to be prepared to have their fees split. I'm not 21 saying 50/50, I don't know what the percentage is, but they 22 are going to be allocated between Neutra and Highland, and 23 they should not expect to get a hundred percent of those 24 covered by Highland at the end of the day. Okay? There's 25 going to be a deep dive into looking at how that allocation

1 should work, okay?

2 MR. DEMO: And they will be filing fee apps,
3 obviously, on all of the matters that they are --

4 THE COURT: Okay. Anything else?

5 MR. POMERANTZ: One moment, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 (Pause.)

8 MR. DEMO: Yeah. And Your Honor, I do just want to 9 clarify that when we talk about the involuntary petition
10 appeal, that when we talk about its effect on the fraudulent
11 conveyance action, to the extent that -- and I would like to 12 clarify your position on this, Your Honor. Is your position
13 that the appeal of the involuntary, if successful, would have 14 no impact on the fraudulent conveyance actions in the Acis
15 litigation?

16 Because I do think that it is clear that --

17 THE COURT: I think we don't know. We would have to 18 see --

19 MR. DEMO: And I guess that's -- that's --

20 THE COURT: -- what the Fifth Circuit states.

21 MR. DEMO: And my --

22 THE COURT: And it may be: Bankruptcy Court, stay
23 the proceedings and defer, send it to arbitration. "It" being 24 re-litigation of --

25 MR. DEMO: Understood.

182

1 THE COURT: -- the involuntary.

2 MR. DEMO: And --

3 THE COURT: That may be, to me, a likely scenario,
4 but maybe not.

5 MR. DEMO: And -- and --

6 THE COURT: Maybe they'll say something else.

7 MR. DEMO: Understood. And I think we're honestly on 8 the same page with that.

9 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

10 MR. DEMO: Because to the extent that it does put it
11 into arbitration, to the extent that there is that 12 possibility, that it changes the color of those fraudulent
13 conveyance claims, changes the color of Acis's $300 million
14 proof of claim, which goes to settlement strategy, which goes
15 to the benefits to other creditors, which goes to a whole
16 panoply of other things that tie into a benefit to the estate.
17 And I don't want to re-argue what we've already argued, but I
18 think, as Your Honor said, that chance that there is going to 19 be a change to the fraudulent conveyance, either because it
20 throws them into an arbitration or because it somehow
21 otherwise colors it, is, in and of itself, a substantial
22 benefit to the estate -- leaving aside the dollars from the 23 contracts, leaving aside the $8 million proof of claim --
24 because that benefit goes to, again, that $300 million proof
25 of claim that Acis has filed, which impacts the estate, which

183

1 impacts other creditors, and which impacts the settlement
2 mechanics in this case.

3 So to the extent that there is a chance that the 4 involuntary changes that and recolors it, there is a
5 substantial benefit to the estate in that, because it allows
6 the estate to work with creditors --

7 THE COURT: I mean, --

8 MR. DEMO: -- to figure out a way to settle claims in 9 a way that are --

10 THE COURT: I get what you're saying, but guess what?
11 You can object to that $300 million proof of claim. And we 12 might have a very interesting conversation about --

13 MR. DEMO: What --

14 THE COURT: Well, it's the same judge either way, but 15 -- well, I guess I don't get what you're saying. You have the 16 ability to object to the proof of claim whether there's 17 affirmance or --

18 MR. DEMO: Yeah. But --

19 THE COURT: -- reversal, right? I'm just --

20 MR. DEMO: We don't have a -- you know, we may not 21 have to get -- I'm sorry, Your Honor, and I'll stop it -- but 22 we may not have to get there. Objecting to the proof of claim
23 is quali... it is quantitatively and qualitatively different
24 than a Fifth Circuit order saying that there are changes to 25 the fraudulent conveyance, there are changes to the

1 distribution of equity under the plan. Maybe there is no plan
2 -- or maybe there is no bankruptcy at all.

3 Those things fundamentally change the dynamics of this
4 case in a way that's good for the estate. And those things
5 can only happen if there's an order from the Fifth Circuit
6 entering that. We can object all down the pipe, and we are 7 going to object, Your Honor, and I assume other people will
8 object as well. But our objecting does not have the same
9 benefit to the estate as a Fifth Circuit opinion saying,
10 Fraudulent conveyance claims go to arbitration; saying, There
11 is no involuntary petition.

12 Now, I understand that there are questions as to the 13 probability of those things, but the fact that there is a 14 probability of those things happening and the cost to the 15 estate is a hundred thousand dollars, I understand what Your 16 Honor has said and I don't want to overstay my welcome, but I
17 do think we are -- at least maybe I am presenting it wrong --
18 but that Fifth Circuit order either way is going to calcify
19 and solidify this in ways that are beneficial to the estate
20 and beneficial to how this bankruptcy is going to progress.

21 THE COURT: Okay. I understand you feel passionately
22 about that, but just so you know, for future purposes or not,
23 I'm not there because, you know, among other things, we -- you
24 know, life has changed. You know, if the Fifth Circuit says
25 reversal, not a darn thing should happen in a bankruptcy case

185

1 of Acis, you know, it can all go to arbitration, well, that's
2 the Acis litigation, right? But Acis has filed a proof of 3 claim now. And are you going to tell me the Fifth Circuit is 4 going to say the arbitration that should have happened in the 5 earlier Acis case trumps, if you will, adjudication of a proof
6 of claim now in a new case?

7 MR. DEMO: And the claims are --

8 THE COURT: I mean, I'm just -- someone mentioned
9 Gandy and National Gypsum, and there's even a more recent 10 Fifth Circuit case dealing with arbitration which --

11 MR. DEMO: The claims, Your Honor, are state law
12 claims if there's no bankruptcy, and I think --

13 THE COURT: But there is a bankruptcy. There's a
14 Highland bankruptcy now. And there's a proof of claim --

15 MR. DEMO: Not if the Fifth Circuit --

16 THE COURT: -- in the Highland case.

17 MR. DEMO: -- overturns the involuntary petition.

18 THE COURT: Yeah. I just -- okay. We're just, we're 19 having academic conversations, and I'm probably guilty for 20 going down this trail. So, anyway, is there anything further,
21 then?

22 MR. LAMBERSON: No, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: I need a few orders.

24 MR. LAMBERSON: If they want to prepare an order and 25 send it to us, we're happy to look --

186

1 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you all.

MOTION FOR ORDER IMPOSING TEMPORARY
RESTRICTIONS ON DEBTOR'S ABILITY, AS PORTFOLIO
MANAGER, TO INITIATE SALES BY NON-DEBTOR CLO VEHICLES

Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. ("HCMFA") and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. ("NexPoint", and together with HCMFA, the "Advisors"), and Highland Income Fund, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, and NexPoint Capital, Inc. (together, the “Funds”), by and through their undersigned counsel, hereby submit this motion for an order of the Court under Bankruptcy Code §§ 105(a), 363, and 1107 imposing temporary restrictions on Highland Capital Management, L.P.’s (the “Debtor”) ability to initiate sales as portfolio manager (or other similar capacity) for certain non-debtor investment vehicles (the “CLOs”). In support of the Motion, the Funds and Advisors submit the Declaration of Dustin Norris (the “Declaration”) attached hereto and state as follows:

BACKGROUND

A. General Background on the Advisors and their Advised Funds

1. Each Advisor is registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) as an investment advisor under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the “Advisers Act”).

2. Each of the Advisors advises several funds, including the Funds. Each of the Funds is a registered investment company or business development company under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (as amended, the “1940 Act”).

3. As an investment company or business development company, each Fund is overseen by a majority independent board of trustees subject to 1940 Act requirements. That board reviews and approves contracts with one of the Advisors for the respective Fund. The Funds do not have employees. Instead, each Fund relies on its respective Advisor, acting pursuant to advisory agreements, to provide the services necessary to the Fund’s operations.

B. The CLOs

4. The CLOs are Aberdeen Loan Funding, Ltd., Brentwood CLO, Ltd., Eastland CLO, Ltd., Gleneagles CLO, Ltd., Grayson CLO, Ltd., Greenbriar CLO, Ltd., Jasper CLO, Ltd., Liberty CLO, Ltd., Red River CLO, Ltd., Rockwall CDO, Ltd., Rockwall CDO II Ltd.,

Southfork CLO, Ltd., Stratford CLO Ltd., Loan Funding VII, LLC, and Westchester CLO, Ltd.

5. The CLOs are securitization vehicles formed to acquire and hold pools of debt obligations. They also issued various tranches of notes and preference shares, which are intended to be repaid from proceeds of the subject CLO's pool of debt obligations. The notes issued by the CLOs are paid according to a contractual waterfall, with the value remaining in the CLO after the notes are fully paid flowing to the holders of the preference shares.

6. The CLOs were created many years ago. Most of the CLOs are, at this point, past their reinvestment period and have paid off all the tranches of notes or, in a few instances, all but the last and most junior tranche. Accordingly, most of the economic value remaining in the CLOs, and all of the upside, belongs to the holders of the preference shares. The repayment status of the notes in the CLOs as of November 2020 is shown on Exhibit A to the Declaration, and the Funds' collective ownership of the preference shares is shown on Exhibit B to the Declaration. As shown on Exhibit B, the Funds hold a majority of the preference shares in three of the CLOs, Grayson CLO, Ltd., Greenbriar CLO, Ltd., and Stratford CLO Ltd., and material interests in most of the other CLOs.

7. The CLOs have each separately contracted for the Debtor to serve as the CLO's portfolio manager.<sup>1</sup> In this capacity, the Debtor is responsible, among other things, for making decisions to sell the CLOs' assets. Although the portfolio management agreements vary, the agreements generally impose a duty on the Debtor when acting as portfolio manager to maximize the value of the CLO's assets for the benefit of the CLO's noteholders and preference shareholders.

<sup>1</sup> The title given to the Debtor by the CLOs varies from CLO to CLO based on the relevant agreements, but the Debtor has the same general rights and obligations for each CLO. In this Motion, the Funds and Advisors have used the term "portfolio manager" when referring to the Debtor's role for each CLO regardless of the precise title in the underlying documents.

C. The Operating Protocols

8. As part of the resolution of certain disputes between the Debtor and the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Committee”), the Debtor is operating under the restrictions and provisions of certain operating protocols (the “Operating Protocols”) approved by the Court. See Notice of Debtor’s Amended Operating Protocols (Docket No. 466). Among other things, the Operating Protocols include provisions regulating the Debtor’s actions on behalf of other entities. With respect to the CLOs, however, the Operating Protocols generally exempt the Debtor from the regular approval process involving the Committee where the Debtor acts as portfolio manager for the CLOs. See, e.g., Operating Protocols at § IV(B)(3)(a).

C. Recent Asset Sales and the Advisors’ Requests for a Temporary Pause in Sales

9. The Court recently approved the Debtor’s Disclosure Statement for the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (Docket No. 1473) (the “Disclosure Statement”).

10. The Disclosure Statement discusses the Debtor’s role as portfolio manager for the CLOs (which the Disclosure Statement defines as “Issuers”) in Article II(U) (pg. 32). After explaining the Debtor’s role and noting some proofs of claim filed by the CLOs, the Disclosure Statement states as follows:

The Issuers have taken the position that the rejection of the Portfolio Management Agreements (including any ancillary documents) would result in material rejection damages and have encouraged the Debtor to assume such agreements. Nonetheless, the Issuers and the Debtor are working in good faith to address any outstanding issues regarding such assumption. The Portfolio Management Agreements may be assumed either pursuant to the Plan or by separate motion filed with the Bankruptcy Court.

The Debtor is still assessing its options with respect to the Portfolio Management Agreements, including whether to assume the Portfolio Management Agreements.

11. The Financial Projections attached as Exhibit C to the Disclosure Statement make clear that, assuming confirmation of the Debtor's chapter 11 plan in its current form, the Debtor intends to liquidate its remaining assets over the next two years, concluding in December 2022.

12. The Funds and Advisors do not agree with recent sales executed by the Debtor in certain CLOs, including sales during the historically light Thanksgiving trading week, because the Funds and Advisors view those assets as having greater value if held as long-term investments. When the Advisors became aware the Debtor was considering these transactions, NexPoint requested that the Debtor not consummate the sales.

13. NexPoint has requested in two letters that the Debtor refrain from causing the CLOs to sell further assets without prior notice and consent of NexPoint. Counsel to the Funds and Advisors has also requested by email that the Debtor agree consensually to temporarily suspend further sales of the CLOs' assets and/or confirm that the Debtor is not presently planning further sales in the immediate future. The Debtor has refused these requests.

D. HCMLP Decisions Illustrating Its Short-Term Approach

14. Consistent with its proposal to liquidate all of its assets by the end of 2022 per the Disclosure Statement, HCMLP has engaged in transactions taking a short-term approach to value.

15. In addition to the sales noted above during Thanksgiving week, during the chapter 11 case, the Debtor has directed the disposition of other assets in a manner that suggests a focus on quick monetization at the expense of maximizing returns for investors and/or the estate. For example, Debtor-controlled entities sold a collective majority interest in an unsecured term loan to OmniMax International, Inc. Other non-Debtor controlled entities, advised by the Advisors, were able to secure a substantially better price for their stake in the same asset by being willing to hold it and transacting at a later date. Given the Debtor-controlled entities large ownership in the unsecured loan, the Advisors believe the Debtor was well-positioned to realize a higher price.

16. Also, upon information and belief, the Debtor, through its wholly owned subsidiary Trussway Holdings, LLC (“Trussway”), consummated a sale transaction where Trussway sold a division, SSP Holdings, LLC, in which Trussway had a majority interest. Upon information and belief, the sale was conducted without a formal competitive bidding process and resulted in a loss of $10 million, despite certain metrics of SSP Holdings, LLC having improved materially since it was acquired in 2014.

REQUEST FOR RELIEF

17. The Funds and Advisors request that the Court, under Bankruptcy Code sections 105(a), 363, and 1107(a) impose a temporary restriction on the Debtor’s ability, as portfolio manager, to cause the CLOs to sell assets. The Funds and Advisors request that the Court prohibit the Debtor from authorizing any such sales for a period of 30 days, absent further order of the Court.

18. Bankruptcy Code section 363 governs the Debtor’s use of estate property. 11 U.S.C. § 363. Section 363 authorizes the Debtor to use that property outside of the ordinary course of business “after notice and a hearing,” and in the ordinary course of business without notice and a hearing “unless the court orders otherwise . . . .” 11 U.S.C. § 363(b-c). Bankruptcy Code section 1107(a) grants the Debtor, as debtor-in-possession, the powers of a chapter 11 trustee, subject to “such limitations or conditions as the court prescribes . . . .” 11 U.S.C.

§ 1107(a). And Bankruptcy Code section 105(a) empowers the Court to “issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions” of the Bankruptcy Code. 11 U.S.C. § 105(a).

19. Consistent with these powers, the Court implemented the Operating Protocols earlier in this case regarding the Debtor’s actions on behalf of other non-debtor entities. Unlike where the Debtor directs sales of assets for other entities, however, the Operating Protocols generally do not restrict the Debtor’s actions as portfolio manager for the CLOs. See Operating Protocols at IV(B)(3)(a).<sup>2</sup> The Funds and Advisors submit that the relief requested does not conflict with the Operating Protocols, but to the extent necessary, the Funds and Advisors request that the Court modify the Operating Protocols in the limited and temporary way requested in this Motion.

20. The Funds and Advisors seek this relief to preserve the status quo at the CLOs while the Funds and Advisors explore replacing the Debtor as portfolio manager either

Except (x) as set forth in (b) and (c) below and (y) for any Transaction involving a Specified Entity and the sale or purchase by such Specified Entity of an asset that is not an obligation or security issued or guaranteed by any of the Debtor, a Related Entity or a fund, account, portfolio company owned, controlled or managed by the Debtor or a Related Entity, where such Transaction is effected in compliance with the collateral management agreement to which such Specified Entity is party, any Transaction that decreases the NAV of an entity managed by the Debtor in excess of the greater of (i) 10% of NAV or (ii) $3,000,000 requires five business days advance notice to Committee and if the Committee objects, the burden is on the Debtor to seek Court approval, which the Committee agrees may be sought on an expedited basis.

(emphasis added). “Specified Entity” is defined in section I(K) of the Operating Protocols to include the CLOs referenced in this Motion.

consensually or through the contractual processes laid out in the relevant underlying agreements.

21. In the Disclosure Statement, the Debtor states that it has not determined if it wants to continue to serve as portfolio manager for the CLOs. The Debtor also has not sought input from the Funds and Advisers, even though the Funds are among the largest stakeholders indirectly and significantly affected by the Debtor's actions with respect to the CLOs.

22. The Advisers Act places a fiduciary duty on investment advisers comprising a duty of care and duty of loyalty. See, e.g., SEC Release No. IA-3248, "Commission Interpretation Regarding Standard of Conduct for Investment Advisers," (July 12, 2019). This means an adviser, like the Debtor, must, at all times, serve the best interest of its client and not subordinate its client's interest to its own. See id. This combination of care and loyalty obligations has been characterized as requiring the investment adviser to act in the "best interest" of its client at all times. See SEC v. Tambone, 550 F.3d 106, 146 (1st Cir. 2008) ("Section 206 imposes a fiduciary duty on investment advisers to act at all times in the best interest of the fund . . . ."); SEC v. Moran, 944 F. Supp. 286, 297 (S.D.N.Y. 1996) ("Investment advisers are entrusted with the responsibility and duty to act in the best interest of their clients.").

23. Although the Debtor's nominal "clients" are the CLOs themselves, the true parties in interest are the holders of beneficial interests in the CLOs, such as the Funds. Most or all of the other layers of CLO interests have been paid out, and the Funds hold either the majority or a substantial portion of most of the remaining CLO interests. In these circumstances, the Funds and the other preference shareholders are the parties who are economically affected by the Debtor's actions as portfolio manager.

24. The Funds and Advisors believe replacing the Debtor as portfolio manager is appropriate in light of the reduced staffing the Debtor anticipates having once the Debtor's chapter 11 plan goes effective. The Funds and Advisors also believe it is appropriate in light of the Debtor's reduced investment time horizon under the chapter 11 plan. As noted above, the Debtor intends to liquidate its investments in the next two years. The Funds, on the other hand, have a much longer investment time horizon and, as a result, have very different financial incentives with respect to their investments. The Funds and Advisors accordingly believe that the Funds and the other preference shareholders would be best served by a portfolio manager with a similar long-term perspective.

25. Upon information and belief, none of the CLOs needs liquidity at the current time, as the next quarterly waterfall payments are not due until February 2021. The Funds and Advisors accordingly submit that none of the CLOs, the other holders of preference shares and notes issued by the CLOs, or the Debtor will be harmed by the temporary restriction proposed by this Motion. Notably, the Funds and Advisors are not seeking to restrict the Debtor from performing any of its other functions for the CLOs or to modify the Debtor's compensation from the CLOs in any way.

[Remainder of Page Intentionally Left Blank]

CONCLUSION

26. For the reasons set forth above, the Funds and Advisors respectfully request that the Court grant the relief requested in the Motion and such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

DECLARATION OF DUSTIN NORRIS

I, Dustin Norris, hereby declare pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746, that the following is true and correct.

1. I am the Executive Vice President of NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NexPoint”).
2. I submit this Declaration based on my personal knowledge and information supplied to me by other members of NexPoint’s management. I submit this Declaration in support of the Motion for Order Imposing Temporary Restrictions on Debtor’s Ability, as Portfolio Manager, to Initiate Sales by Non-Debtor CLO Vehicles (the “Motion”) by NexPoint, Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”, and together with NexPoint, the “Advisors”), Highland Income Fund, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, and NexPoint Capital, Inc. (together, the “Funds”).
3. The Motion concerns the following non-debtor investment vehicles: Aberdeen Loan Funding, Ltd., Brentwood CLO, Ltd., Eastland CLO, Ltd., Gleneagles CLO, Ltd., Grayson CLO, Ltd., Greenbriar CLO, Ltd., Jasper CLO, Ltd., Liberty CLO, Ltd., Red River CLO, Ltd., Rockwall CDO, Ltd., Rockwall CDO II Ltd., Southfork CLO, Ltd., Stratford CLO Ltd., Loan Funding VII, LLC, and Westchester CLO, Ltd. (collectively, the “CLOs”).

4. The Funds each hold interests in the CLOs.

5. The CLOs are securitization vehicles formed to acquire and hold pools of debt obligations. They also issued various tranches of notes and preference shares, which are intended to be repaid from proceeds of the subject CLO's pool of debt obligations. The notes issued by the CLOs are paid according to a contractual waterfall, with the value remaining in the CLO after the notes are fully paid flowing to the holders of the preference shares.

6. The CLOs were created many years ago. Most of the CLOs are, at this point, past their reinvestment period and have paid off all the tranches of notes or, in a few instances, all but the last and most junior tranche. Accordingly, most of the economic value remaining in the CLOs, and all of the upside, belongs to the holders of the preference shares. The repayment status of the notes in the CLOs as of November 2020 is shown on Exhibit A hereto, and the Funds' collective ownership of the preference shares is shown on Exhibit B hereto.

7. The CLOs have each separately contracted for Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the "Debtor") to serve as the CLO's portfolio manager. The title given to the Debtor by the CLOs varies from CLO to CLO based on the relevant agreements, but the Debtor has the same general rights and obligations for each CLO. In this capacity, the Debtor is responsible, among other things, for making decisions to sell the CLOs assets. Although the portfolio management agreements vary, the agreements generally impose a duty on the Debtor when acting as portfolio manager to maximize the value of the CLO's assets for the benefit of the CLO's noteholders and preference shareholders.

8. During the chapter 11 case, the Debtor has directed the disposition of other assets in a manner that suggests a focus on quick monetization at the expense of maximizing returns for investors and/or the estate. For example, Debtor-controlled entities sold a collective majority interest in an unsecured term loan to OmniMax International, Inc. Other non-Debtor controlled entities, advised by the Advisors, were able to secure a substantially better price for their stake in the same asset by being willing to hold it and transacting at a later date. Given the Debtor-controlled entities large ownership in the unsecured loan, the Advisors believe the Debtor was well-positioned to realize a higher price.

9. Also, upon information and belief, the Debtor, through its wholly owned subsidiary Trussway Holdings, LLC (“Trussway”), consummated a sale transaction where Trussway sold a division, SSP Holdings, LLC, in which Trussway had a majority interest. Upon information and belief, the sale was conducted without a formal competitive bidding process and resulted in a loss of $10 million, despite certain metrics of SSP Holdings, LLC having improved materially since it was acquired in 2014.

10. The Advisors did not agree with the Debtor’s decision to execute recent sales for certain of the CLOs, because the Advisors viewed those assets as having greater value if held as long-term investments. When the Advisors became aware the Debtor was considering these transactions, NexPoint requested that the Debtor not consummate the sales.

11. Upon information and belief, none of the CLOs need liquidity at the current time, as the next quarterly waterfall payments are not due until February 2021.

I declare under the penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States that the foregoing is true and correct.

Executed this 8th day of December, 2020, in Allen, Texas,

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - DECEMBER 16, 2020 - 1:35 P.M.

2                   THE COURT: All right. This is Judge Jernigan. We
3 have settings in Highland. We have -- I guess the very first
4 thing that we had set today was a motion of Dondero, Mr.
5 Dondero wanting some sort of revised procedures for "future
6 estate transactions occurring outside the ordinary course of 7 business." Then, related to that, we received the other day
8 -- I'm not showing it on the calendar, I'm not sure if that 9 means it's moot now or not, but we had a motion for protective
10 order and a motion to quash with regard to certain depositions
11 that Mr. Dondero wanted in connection with his motion. The 12 Debtor filed that motion to quash. It was to quash a
13 deposition of Mr. Dubel, Mr. Nelms, Mr. Sevilla, and Mr.
14 Caruso. And then we have the CLO Motion, what I'm calling the 15 CLO Motion, of --

16                   (Interruption.)

17                   THE COURT: Okay. Let's --

18                   MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.
19 The first two motions have been resolved. And after Your 20 Honor takes appearances, I'm happy to inform the Court of the 21 proposed resolution, and there's an agreed order that we would 22 upload after the hearing.

23                   THE COURT: Okay. Well, that is certainly music to 24 my ears. All right. So I was just trying to lay out the 25 program for what I thought was set, potentially three motions,

1 one of which was a deposition dispute.

2 All right. So let's go ahead and get appearances. Mr.
3 Pomerantz, you're obviously appearing for the Debtor team.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. Or
5 good afternoon, Your Honor. Jeff Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang
6 Ziehl & Jones. Also on the video with me today are John
7 Morris and Greg Demo. They will be handling the CLO Motion,
8 and I will be reporting to the Court on the resolution of Mr.
9 Dondero's motion and our corollary discovery motions.

10 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, why don't I take 11 an appearance from Mr. Dondero next. Mr. Lynn, I see you
12 there.

13 MR. LYNN: Yes, Your Honor. I am here with Bryan
14 Assink, who will replace me after the preliminaries when our 15 business is done. Other than concurring with Mr. Pomerantz, I
16 wanted to advise Your Honor that in the last 30 minutes we 17 filed an additional motion where we're seeking a clarification
18 with respect to the temporary restraining order that the Court
19 entered last week.

20 THE COURT: All right. Well, I did see an email from 21 my courtroom deputy right before walking in about that motion,
22 and so that's why I was a little surprised and said "Music to 23 my ears" that there was an agreed order on the Dondero
24 motions. But I'll get the details --

25 MR. LYNN: Well, we're --

5

1 THE COURT: I'll get the details about that in a
2 minute. Let me go ahead and get the other appearances.

3 For the Movants on what I've called the CLO Motion, who do
4 we have appearing?

5 MR. WRIGHT: Good afternoon, Your Honor. It's James
6 Wright of K&L Gates for the -- I guess I'll call them the 7 Movant for this motion.

8 THE COURT: Yes. Sometimes you're referred to as the 9 Advisors and the Funds and -- but Movants on Docket Entry
10 1528.

11 All right. For the Committee, I know you have weighed in 12 on a couple of these motions. Who do we have?

13 MR. CLEMENTE: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Matt
14 Clemente with Sidley Austin on behalf of the Committee.

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, we have a lot of folks
16 on the phone. I think I've covered everybody who filed a 17 pleading for today. Is there anyone else who would like to 18 appear? I'd really like to restrict it only to those who have 19 filed pleadings today.

20 MS. MATSUMURA: This is Rebecca Matsumura from King &
21 Spalding representing Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. I don't 22 expect I'll be weighing in today, but there are a couple 23 issues that I may say a sentence on, so I want to go ahead and 24 make my appearance now.

25 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Anyone else?

1 MR. BAIN: Yes, Your Honor. Joseph Bain; Jones
2 Walker; on behalf of the CLO Issuers.

3 THE COURT: All right.

4 MR. BAIN: And Your Honor, if we may make certain
5 comments at the requisite time, we'd appreciate it.

6 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Anyone else?

7 All right. Well, Mr. Pomerantz, let's hear about the 8 agreements you have on the Dondero-related motions.

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Happy to, Your Honor. And yes, Mr.
10 Lynn is correct, we saw also an emergency motion that came 11 through that I'll have a couple of comments at the end of my 12 presentation.

13 So, as I mentioned before, Your Honor, I'm pleased to 14 report that with respect to the two motions that Your Honor
15 scheduled for today's hearing, we have an agreement with Mr.
16 Dondero. One was the motion of Mr. Dondero requiring 17 transactions out of the ordinary course to be brought before
18 this Court. The second was the Debtor's motion to quash a
19 series of subpoenas that had been issued in the last two days,
20 requiring board members and others to testify.

21 As part of the agreement, we have agreed with Mr. Dondero
22 that his motion, which is presently set for today, shall be 23 continued to January 4th, which is the same date set as the 24 continued hearing on the preliminary injunction relating to 25 the TRO that Your Honor had entered last week.

1 As part of that agreement, the Debtor has agreed that it
2 will provide Mr. Dondero with three business days' notice
3 before selling any non-security assets from any managed funds
4 accounts through and including January 13th, which is the date
5 set for confirmation.

6 While, as the Court is aware, the Debtor doesn't believe
7 that any notice, opportunity for hearing, or an order from the 8 Court is required in connection with such transactions, as the 9 Debtor does not have any current plans to sell non-security
10 assets from managed funds before confirmation, it was willing 11 to agree to the notice requirement as essentially a way of 12 resolving the motion before Your Honor today and continuing 13 until the 4th.

14 As part of the agreement as well, Your Honor, the parties
15 have agreed that there will be no further discovery in 16 connection with the motion that is set. That'll be no
17 additional discovery by Mr. Dondero, so he is withdrawing the 18 subpoenas as it relates to this motion, and there will be no
19 further discovery as -- by the Debtor. As Your Honor, I
20 think, is aware, there were depositions conducted of both Mr.
21 Seery and Mr. Dondero on Monday in connection with this 22 motion, but the discovery will not happen over the next couple 23 of weeks.

24 Mr. Dondero wanted to make sure, and the Debtor didn't 25 have any opposition, that that agreement with respect to no

1 discovery only relates to the pending motion before the Court.
2 And in connection with any other matters relating to this
3 bankruptcy case, Mr. Dondero would reserve the right to pursue
4 discovery, and of course the Debtors would reserve the right
5 to challenge discovery if we believed it was inappropriate or 6 unduly burdensome.

7 With respect to the motion that was just filed, Your
8 Honor, we had a chance to briefly review it. We haven't had a
9 chance to discuss it with the board. In any event, we don't 10 think there's an emergency. Mr. Dondero wants the opportunity
11 to approach and communicate with the board. I've told Mr.
12 Lynn that communications regarding the plan are to go through 13 Mr. Seery. Mr. Seery is the Debtor's chief executive officer.
14 He's the chief restructuring officer. And at this point, the 15 board doesn't see a reason or have a desire to meet with Mr.
16 Dondero to talk about his plan, but, again, would be happy to 17 receive any written communications that Mr. Dondero has.

18 Mr. Dondero has sought to modify the TRO to allow him to 19 speak to the board. Again, if the board agreed to speak with 20 Mr. Dondero, that wouldn't violate the TRO, provided that 21 counsel would be present. But at this point, the board has 22 decided that it would be inappropriate and not a good use of 23 anyone's time to have that communication and that Mr. Dondero
24 should continue to communicate through Mr. Seery, the Debtor's
25 chief executive officer.

1           If Your Honor, after reading the motion and hearing my
2       comments, and I'm sure Judge Lynn's comments that he will make
3       to Your Honor, Your Honor wants to set it for hearing, we
4       would submit, Your Honor, there's no emergency and that a
5       hearing could be set next week, but we would think Your Honor
6       might be able to dispose of the motion just on the papers and 7       the limited argument that would go on today.

8           THE COURT: All right.

9           MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

10          THE COURT: All right. Mr. Lynn, first, could you
11       confirm the terms of the agreed order that Mr. Pomerantz just 12       announced are consistent with what you and your client
13       believed was negotiated?

14          THE CLERK: He's on mute.

15          THE COURT: You're on mute, sir.

16          MR. LYNN: Mr. Pomerantz has correctly stated the 17       agreement of the parties. I am pleased to advise Your Honor
18       that I expect that we will withdraw the motion that is 19       presently pending to be heard on January 4th, since all we 20       were asking for was notice until confirmation date. If those 21       sales are going to take place before then, we don't have a
22       problem any longer with the pre-confirmation activity of Mr.
23       Seery.

24          With regard to the motion that we filed requesting that 25       the temporary restraining order be modified, we would point

10

1 out, respectfully, that the independent board is the board of
2 directors of Strand Advisors. Strand Advisors belongs to Mr.
3 Dondero. It is not unreasonable for the sole stockholder of 4 Strand Advisors to ask the board questions or present thoughts
5 to the board or ask its advice. Mr. Seery, on the other hand,
6 while being a member of the board of Strand, is the chief
7 executive officer and the chief restructuring officer of 8 Highland, which is not the same as Strand.

9 Furthermore, Your Honor, Mr. Dondero has been attempting 10 for several months to negotiate an arrangement by which the 11 Debtor can continue as a going concern. It is his desire to 12 discuss further with the board as a whole what he can do in 13 that regard. I think the Court, by directing him originally 14 to participate in the mediation that took place in September, 15 expected him to do so. He has attempted to do so. And while 16 he has not gotten a response from the Creditors' Committee
17 that is definitive, he has at least caught the interest of Mr.
18 Seery, though that interest may have died for a variety of 19 reasons in recent weeks.

20 And by the way, next week is fine with us. We're not in a 21 hurry beyond that if the Court feels further discussion would 22 be useful.

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, just a couple of points
24 in response.

25 Mr. Dondero has the right to request an audience with the 11

1 board. He has requested the audience with the board. The
2 board has considered it and decided not to communicate in that
3 fashion with Mr. Dondero at this time. There is nothing that 4 Your Honor can do in the TRO that would change that, other
5 than ordering the board to speak with Mr. Dondero, which I
6 highly doubt Your Honor would do.

7 Having said that, this board in general and Mr. Seery in 8 particular have been very supportive of an overall resolution
9 to this case, not only with the creditors, but with Mr.
10 Dondero. Mr. Seery has spent tens if not hundreds of hours
11 over the last several months working with Mr. Dondero to try 12 to get him in a position to present something that would have 13 traction with the Unsecured Creditors. Unfortunately, that 14 hasn't occurred. We understand there have been communications
15 between Mr. Lynn and Mr. Clemente. And if there is any hope
16 of a plan and any traction with the creditors, this Debtor in 17 general and Mr. Seery in particular stands ready, willing, and 18 able to do anything within the Debtor's power to help that 19 out.

20 So, it's not really the Debtor standing in the way. It's 21 an economic agreement ultimately that needs to be reached with 22 Mr. Clemente and his constituents and Mr. Lynn. And if that 23 can be reached, we will be the first to jump on that bandwagon
24 and do everything humanly possible to have that occur.

25 Thank you, Your Honor.

12

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, again, I've not read
2 the motion. I've just seen an email that I have this motion.
3 I'm a little bit confused. I don't want to spend too long on 4 this because we have another motion to get to. But I'm a
5 little bit confused on how Dondero wants the TRO to be 6 modified. If he has the right already to request an audience
7 of the board, what is it that is problematic about the TRO
8 that he wants modified?

9 THE CLERK: He's on mute.

10 THE COURT: You're on mute.

11 MR. LYNN: Sorry, Your Honor. As I told you before, 12 you must forgive me, my command of technology is not great.

13 In response, I would say that I question whether it is 14 appropriate, in advance of a meeting with the board of his 15 company, that what he wants to talk about should be screened.
16 And that is what has occurred in our effort to meet by 17 telephone with the board.

18 Any such meeting would, of course, be subject to the 19 restraints that are included in the temporary restraining 20 order, in that both Mr. Pomerantz or his designee and I would 21 participate in any such discussion. I respectfully submit 22 Strand is his. Nobody may like that, but it is his, and he 23 ought to be able to talk to his own board.

24 THE COURT: Is this about having a conversation
25 without the Committee's involvement? I just don't -- hmm. I

13

1 just need to see the motion.

2 Mr. Clemente, anything you want to add at this juncture?
3 Have you even reviewed the motion yet?

4 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, I apologize. I haven't
5 actually even seen the motion. And so I have no comment on 6 it, Your Honor. I apologize for not having been able to look 7 at it.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Well, what about the agreed order
9 that's been announced? Any comment on that?

10 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, we support the resolution
11 that Mr. Pomerantz announced on the record.

12 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, I assume there's 13 nothing further, then, on the Dondero motions that were 14 scheduled today?

15 All right. So I will happily accept the agreed order that 16 has been announced. For now, we will continue the Dondero
17 motion that was Docket Entry No. 1439 to January 4th, when the 18 preliminary injunction hearing is set. And we -- I understand
19 there are going to be no more discovery requests in connection
20 with these matters that were set today.

21 And I will review the motion that Mr. Dondero has filed
22 shortly before today's hearing in chambers later, and I will
23 have my courtroom deputy communicate to the lawyers whether I
24 see fit to set it for an emergency hearing next week or rule
25 on the pleadings or set it for January 4th. Those are, I

14

1 guess, the three possibilities I can think of that I might 2 decide upon.

3 So, again, I'm not making any ruling at all on a motion I
4 haven't read yet. So I'll -- the courtroom deputy will let 5 you all know, if not later today, tomorrow. Probably 6 tomorrow, because I have a confirmation hearing set later
7 today in another case.

8 All right. So, thank you all for working these issues
9 out. And Mr. Pomerantz, Mr. Dondero -- or, excuse me, Mr.
10 Lynn, anything further on the Dondero disputes?

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Nothing from the Debtor, Your Honor.

12 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, nothing from Mr. Dondero. May 13 I be excused?

14 THE COURT: Is anyone anticipating needing Mr.
15 Dondero's counsel for the other matter? All right. If not,
16 then I certainly have no problem with you dropping off the 17 line, Mr. Lynn. Thank you.

18 MR. LYNN: Thank you, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Okay. All right. So let's turn next to 20 the CLO Motion. I take it there are no agreements on this 21 one?

22 MR. POMERANTZ: There are not, Your Honor.

23 MR. WRIGHT: There are not, Your Honor. I can 24 confirm that.

25 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Wright, do you have 15

1 anything you want to say as far as an opening statement before
2 we go to the evidence?

3 MR. WRIGHT: I don't, Your Honor. My intention, if
4 it's okay with you, you asked me to bring a witness, so I do
5 have Mr. Norris from my client, and I was going to just remind
6 the Court who I am and state the name of all of my Movants,
7 and then I was going to move directly to put him on the stand
8 and go through a brief direct.

9 THE COURT: All right. I think I heard Mr. Morris is 10 going to handle this phase of the hearing.

11 MR. DEMO: And Your Honor, this is Greg Demo from 12 Pachulski on behalf of the Debtor.

13 THE COURT: Oh, okay.

14 MR. DEMO: We would like to make a brief opening 15 statement before we have witnesses, if that's all right with 16 Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: All right. I'm fine with that. So, --

18 MR. DEMO: All right.

19 THE COURT: -- go ahead.

20 MR. DEMO: All right. Well, thank you, Your Honor.
21 Again, Greg Demo; Pachulski Stang; on behalf of the Debtor.

22 We are here today on what really amounts to the third of 23 three motions that deal with Mr. Dondero's attempts, either
24 directly or through a proxy, to transfer control away from the 25 Debtor and back to Mr. Dondero.

1 The current motion is filed by NexPoint Capital and 2 Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors and three of their 3 managed funds: Highland Income Fund, NexPoint Capital, and 4 NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Funds.

5 Mr. Dondero owns and controls NexPoint Capital and 6 Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors. While both
7 NexPoint Capital and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors
8 are governed by boards, the boards have no investment
9 authority with respect to the funds they manage, nor was the 10 boards' approval necessary to file the motion, or obtained.

11 Mr. Dondero is the sole portfolio manager for NexPoint
12 Strategic Opportunities Fund and Highland Income Fund. Mr.
13 Dondero is one of three portfolio managers for NexPoint
14 Capital. Mr. Dondero's decisions are not subject to 15 oversight.

16 The Movants disclosed these facts in their recent SEC
17 filings, and there can be no dispute that Mr. Dondero is the 18 controlling figure behind the Movants in the relief being
19 sought in the motion which seeks to impede the Debtor's
20 efforts to exercise its rights as a CLO manager.

21 The fact that this motion was even filed is quite
22 surprising, since on December 7th the Debtor filed a complaint
23 and TRO based upon Mr. Dondero's unlawful efforts to frustrate
24 the Debtor's efforts to sell assets from the very CLOs that 25 are the subject of this motion.

1 The Court granted the TRO on December 10th. Mr. Dondero
2 also filed a motion seeking similar relief in November, which
3 has now been adjourned to January 4th.

4 The Movants are essentially now seeking an order from this
5 Court enjoining the Debtor from exercising its rights as a CLO
6 manager and requiring the Debtor to seek the Movants' and Mr.
7 Dondero's permission to fulfill its obligations as a manager
8 for the CLOs.

9 The Movants, however, do not come right out and say this,
10 and instead couch the motion as seeking to simply pause the 11 CLOs' asset sales while the Movants and the Debtor engage in 12 discussions regarding the future of the CLOs' management.

13 In the motion, the Movants also argue the Debtor has made
14 decisions detrimental to the interests of the preference
15 shareholders because the Debtor is trying to monetize its 16 assets in a manner inconsistent with the preference shares'
17 objectives.

18 The Movants simply mischaracterize the facts, the parties'
19 respective rights under contracts, and the law.

20 First, to the extent the Movants hold interests, they hold
21 only preference shares in the CLOs and are minority investors
22 in the preference shares of 12 of the 15 CLOs at issue. In 23 one third of the CLOs, the Movants' interests sit behind
24 senior debt which must be paid first.

25 Notably, Your Honor, no other investors in the CLOs are

1 here or have expressed support for the Movants' position.

2 Second, the Movants simply have no right under the 3 contracts governing the CLOs to the relief they are 4 requesting. The CLOs are governed by a series of agreements
5 which were agreed to long ago and dictate the rights of all
6 investors of the CLOs. The enforceability of those agreements
7 is relied on by all investors, not just the Movants.

8 Under these agreements, investment discretion is given to 9 the CLOs' manager -- in this case, the Debtor -- and no
10 investor has the right to direct the CLO manager. The manager
11 was chosen to manage the CLOs' assets. No individual investor
12 was chosen to manage the CLOs' assets.

13 Simply said, there will be no evidence that the Movants
14 have the right to do what they're trying to do, and there will 15 be no evidence that the Movants' preferences with respect to 16 the CLOs' assets is in line with that of the other investors
17 in the CLOs.

18 Under the relevant agreements, if an investor is not happy
19 with a manager's performance, the investor's rights are 20 generally limited to replacing the manager. The investors
21 here -- excuse me, the Movants here -- have not done that and 22 cannot do that. Under the agreements, replacement requires at 23 least the majority of the preference shares that are not
24 affiliates of the managers. In 12 of the 15 CLOs, the Movants
25 hold a substantial minority interest position. They are not

1 the majority. In the three CLOs in which they are the
2 majority, the Movants still cannot replace the Debtor as the 3 investment manager because they are the Debtor's affiliates.

4 It is indisputable that, prior to January 9th, when Mr.
5 Dondero was removed from control of the Debtor, that the 6 Debtor, NexPoint Advisors, Highland Capital Management Fund
7 Advisors, and the three funds were the Debtor's affiliates
8 because of Mr. Dondero's common control.

9 After January 9th, where the Court removed Mr. Dondero
10 from control of the Debtor, the Debtor is arguably, under the 11 documents, not an affiliate. However, Your Honor, the Movants
12 have disclosed in their recent proxy statements filed in 2020
13 that they still consider themselves the Debtor's affiliate,
14 and they should be bound by that statement. The Movants, by 15 virtue of Mr. Dondero's being removed from control of the 16 Debtor, should not be able to use that removal to reassert
17 control over the CLOs that were taken away from Mr. Dondero
18 when he was removed in January 2020.

19 The Debtor believes that additional briefing may be needed
20 on this issue, and that a ruling specifically on this issue
21 and the parties' relative rights under the CLO management
22 agreements may be needed. The Debtor reserves its right to 23 brief this issue and to bring it before this Court, either as 24 a declaratory judgment or any other procedurally-appropriate
25 motion.

1           Because the Debtor -- excuse me. The Movants have no
2 right to the relief requested. They argue that the relief is 3 justified because of the mismatch between the investors'
4 timelines and the Movants'. This is not true. The Movants
5 cite to three transactions to justify their statement in the 6 motion: SSP, OmniMax, and certain recent transactions.

7           The recent transactions were the attempted sales of two
8 public equities immediately before Thanksgiving that Mr.
9 Dondero interfered with. You'll hear testimony from Mr. Seery
10 about each of these transactions and how each was in the best
11 interest of the CLOs.

12           First, SSP. SSP is a steel business that was suffering
13 for a number of reasons. The Debtor's investment team
14 believed SSP should be sold since 2019. The Debtor received
15 multiple offers for SSP, the Debtor evaluated these offers,
16 and the Debtor choose the one that was the best. The SSP sale
17 closed in early November.

18           Notably, Your Honor, none of the CLOs held an equity
19 interest in SSP, its parent, or in Trussway. Instead, they 20 held debt, and they got exactly what they bargained for,
21 repayment of their debt obligations in full.

22           OmniMax, Your Honor, is the second one. It is a
23 fabricator of building materials. The CLOs and the Movants
24 held an interest in OmniMax debt which they have been trying
25 to refinance or equitize since 2019. That deal was intended

1 to include the Movants, but instead of working with the
2 Debtor, Mr. Dondero held out and used the threat of litigation
3 against OmniMax to secure a higher price for the Movants, to 4 the detriment of the CLOs.

5 As Mr. Seery will testify, these two transactions were all
6 about maximizing value and have nothing to do with investment
7 timelines.

8 Finally, Your Honor, the Movants reference the 9 Thanksgiving transactions. These transactions were discussed
10 in the context of Mr. Dondero's TRO. Mr. Seery directed 11 Debtor personnel, on the advice of his investment team, to 12 sell these securities. Mr. Dondero blocked those trades. Now
13 the Movants argue that the reason those trades were blocked
14 was because of a mismatch between the Movants' and the 15 Debtor's investment timelines. That is not the case. Mr.
16 Seery will testify as to these trades. The Debtor is an 17 investment manager and appreciates that its decisions with 18 respect to how it manages its assets are -- is a judgment
19 call. The evidence, however, will show that the Debtor at all 20 times exercised that judgment in good faith based on all
21 available information.

22 The Movants may disagree with the Debtor's judgment, Your 23 Honor, but that is irrelevant. The Movants have no right to 24 interfere with the Debtor's management of the CLOs. There is 25 simply no statutory or contractual basis for this, not under

1 Section 363 and not under the CLO agreements.

2 Finally, Your Honor, -- I guess not finally. There's one
3 more point I want to make. But Your Honor, this -- what we're 4 here on today is notably similar to the Acis bankruptcy that 5 Your Honor noted last time we were here last week. In that 6 bankruptcy, HCLOF tried to direct the collateral manager to 7 take certain actions that HCLOF thought were in the best
8 interest of the CLOs. In this case, the Movants, through Mr.
9 Dondero, are trying to file an action that functionally seeks
10 to direct the Debtor to take interests that the Movants
11 believe are in their best interest. There is substantial
12 overlap between the litigation in Acis and the litigation
13 here.

14 Finally, Your Honor, the Debtor has been in discussions
15 with the CLOs' counsel on this issue. And the Debtor has been 16 informed that the CLOs' position is that the Debtor's ability
17 to operate under the management agreements should not be 18 interfered with, not by the Movants or not by any other party.

19 Thank you, Your Honor. With that, I will turn it over to 20 Mr. Norris. Or, I'm sorry, Mr. Wright.

21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Wright, you may call your 22 witness.

23 MR. WRIGHT: All right, Your Honor. Dustin Norris
24 should be -- should be dialed in and should be available on 25 screens.

Norris - Direct

23

1 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to --

2 MR. WRIGHT: I'll pause and have him confirm that.

3 THE COURT: I'm going to ask you, Mr. Wright, to 4 speak up or closer to your device. I didn't hear the name of 5 your witness.

6 MR. WRIGHT: Sure. Sorry. It's Dustin Norris. I --
7 last time, you were having trouble hearing me, and so I'm 8 trying a different device this time. I actually followed the 9 instructions that I found very helpful, so I'm trying my phone
10 in hopes that it will work better.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. WRIGHT: But, yeah, it's Dustin Norris. D-U-S-T-
13 I-N, N-O-R-R -- N-O-R-R-I-S.

14 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Norris, can you say
15 "Testing one two" so we pick up your video?

16 MR. NORRIS: Testing one two.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. NORRIS: Testing one two.

19 THE COURT: All right. Please raise your right hand.

20 DUSTIN NORRIS, MOVANTS' WITNESS, SWORN

21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Wright, you may proceed.

22 MR. WRIGHT: Thank you, Your Honor.

23 DIRECT EXAMINATION

24 BY MR. WRIGHT:

25 Q Mr. Norris, you're employed by NexPoint Advisors?

Norris - Direct

24

1 A I am. That's correct.

2 Q And what is your title and role there?

3 A Yeah. I am the executive vice president of NexPoint
4 Advisors. In that role, I oversee business development,
5 marketing, sales, investor relations. And as far as the funds
6 advised by the advisor, I'm the liaison with the independent
7 board on the business side.

8 Q Thank you. Do you also have a role for Highland Capital
9 Management Fund Advisors?

10 A I do. I'm also the same executive vice president and 11 fulfill that same role as it pertains to business development, 12 sales, investor relations. And in both, I'm also working on 13 product development. So, launching, developing new products
14 and investment funds.

15 Q Do you also have a role for Highland Income Fund, NexPoint
16 Strategic Opportunities Fund, and NexPoint Capital, Inc.?

17 A I do. I'm also executive vice president for each of those 18 funds.

19 Q Thank you. Have you ever served on the boards of these 20 three funds?

21 A I have. I've served as the interested trustee, sole 22 interested trustee for each of these funds. I'm no longer the 23 board member or interested trustee, but still serve as an 24 officer, executive vice president, for each fund.

25 Q At times, I'm going to refer to NexPoint Advisors, LP and

25

1 Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, LP simply as the
2 Advisors, to avoid having to keep saying their long names.
3 And similarly with the three funds that are part of the 4 motion, I may just call them the Funds.

5 Can you explain the relationship between the Advisors and 6 the Funds, briefly?

7 A Yeah. So, each of these are investment companies that are 8 registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940. So, with 9 that comes a unique relationship between an investment advisor
10 and the funds themselves. The Funds don't have employees.
11 They rely on the investment advisor and investment advisor
12 employees. And between the Funds and the Advisors is an 13 investment advisory agreement. And the Funds themselves are 14 also overseen by an independent board, and that's by statute
15 by the 1940 Act.

16 Q Okay. And just to be clear, when you said that these are 17 -- entities are investment companies, you meant that the three 18 Funds are investment companies?

19 A Correct. Correct. The three Funds are investment
20 companies. The investment advisors are not investment
21 companies.

22 Q Thank you. Can you explain the role of the board for the 23 Funds?

24 A Yeah. So, as prescribed by the Investment Company Act of 25 1940, there are certain obligations related to an investment

Norris - Direct

26

1 company, and one of those is they must be overseen by an
2 independent board. And the independent board has a
3 responsibility to oversee the -- certain material agreements,
4 including the advisory agreement. And we meet regularly with 5 the boards. They overseas certain processes and, again, all
6 material contracts. And the board is, by Section 15(c) of the 7 1940 Act, required by law to annually review the capabilities
8 of the Advisor and to either approve or reject the advisory 9 contracts. So, each year, those contracts are renewed by the 10 independent board.

11 There are certain obligations of the Fund and operations
12 that are delegated responsibility to the investment advisors.
13 That includes portfolio management and investment decisions.
14 But all those are overseen by the board.

15 Q Okay. And are the boards involved in the day-to-day
16 operations of the Funds?

17 A They're not.

18 Q Okay. And do you know who the members of the boards of 19 these three Funds are?

20 A I do.

21 Q Could you share that with us?

22 A Yeah. So, the -- there is one interested trustee of each
23 board, and that's John Honis. And then for the Highland
24 Income Fund and the NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund --
25 sorry, for NexPoint -- for Highland Income Fund and NexPoint

Norris - Direct

27

1 Capital, we have the same three disinterested or independent
2 trustees, and that's Bryan Ward, Dr. Bob Froehlich, and Ethan
3 Powell. And for NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, we 4 have the same four trustees, one interested, three
5 independent, but there's another fourth independent trustee,
6 Ed Constantino.

7 Q And when you refer to independent trustees, do you mean
8 independent for purposes of the Investment Company Act of 9 1940, as amended?

10 A That's correct. They, by statute, they are independent
11 trustees. They also have an independent legal counsel. Stacy
12 Louizos represents them from Blank Rome. And also two of 13 these Funds are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, and the 14 New York Stock Exchange has various independence requirements
15 that each independent director has met.

16 Q Thank you. And which are the two Funds that are listed on 17 NYSE?

18 A The Highland Income Fund and the NexPoint Strategic 19 Opportunities Fund are both NYSE-listed.

20 Q And I know you probably haven't memorized everybody who 21 invests in the Funds, but can you give us a general idea of 22 who invests in these Funds?

23 A Certainly. I definitely have not memorized them. There
24 are thousands of individual investors in each of these Funds.
25 Part of my role overseeing investor relations and sales, I do

Norris - Direct

28

1 talk to a lot of those investors. But the majority of the
2 investors in each of these Funds are individual investors.

3 As '40 Act Funds, almost anybody with a brokerage account
4 can buy them. They have tickers, particularly the Funds that 5 are listed. Closed-end funds. And so, with that, it is mom-
6 and-pop investors. It's retail investors, including myself.
7 I've allocated my 401(k) to these funds, the majority of my
8 401(k) to these funds. But there are also institutional
9 investors. There's hedge funds. There's ETFs. There are 10 large high-net-worth individuals. But the majority of it is 11 individual investors that have invested through their 12 brokerage firms, be it Wells Fargo, Morgan Stanley, or Cetera.
13 These are -- these are -- these are the individual investors.

14 Q Thank you. Does Mr. Dondero have investments in the 15 Funds? Do you know?

16 A He does. He's invested in each of the Funds.

17 Q Does he have a majority investment in any of the Funds?

18 A He does not have a majority investment in any of the 19 Funds.

20 Q Thank you. Does Mr. Dondero have a control relationship
21 with the two Advisors?

22 A Yes. He does. With the Advisors.

23 Q And does he have a control relationship with the Funds?

24 A As it pertains to portfolio management, he is a portfolio
25 manager of each Fund. But as discussed, as I mentioned, the

Norris - Direct

29

1 independent board on an annual basis has the ability to
2 terminate or renew our advisory contracts, and that -- that
3 dynamic removes the control, overall control, of the Funds in 4 that regard.

5 Q Are you familiar with the motion that the Court I think
6 has accurately referred to as the CLO Motion that was filed by 7 the two Advisors and the three Funds?

8 A Yes. I am familiar with it.

9 Q And I'm going to ask you a question now that I think is of 10 interest to the Court, based on the last time I was in front
11 of Judge Jernigan. Were any employees of the Debtor involved
12 in deciding to bring this motion or in preparing the motion?

13 A No. None of the HCMLP employees, to my knowledge, were 14 involved in preparing or deciding to bring the motion.

15 Q Okay. And you investigated who was involved in preparing 16 the motion, so your knowledge is pretty good on this point?

17 A Correct. I have. And none were involved, based on that 18 investigation.

19 Q (garbled) involved in deciding to bring a motion,
20 preparing it, other than outside counsel and my firm?

21 A Yeah. So, the initial cause for concern was raised by Mr.
22 Dondero himself to our legal -- internal legal team and 23 compliance team. And working together with them, myself, and 24 outside counsel, and senior management of Highland Capital
25 Management Fund Advisors, including Joe Sowin, we prepared the

Norris - Direct

30

1 order. Or, sorry, not the order, the motion.

2 Q All right. Thank you. Were the boards of the three Funds
3 involved at all with bringing the motion?

4 A They were not involved in the preparation of the motion
5 itself. They were aware and supportive, but they did not 6 prepare the motion.

7 Q You provided a (audio gap), correct?

8 A Sorry. You did cut out there. I didn't hear the
9 question.

10 Q I'll try again. You provided a declaration (garbled)
11 motion, correct?

12 A I did, yes.

13 Q And there are two exhibits to your declaration. There's 14 an Exhibit A and an Exhibit B.

15 A Correct.

16 Q Exhibit A, does this reflect the current repayment status
17 of the various CLOs as we -- as you understand it to be as of 18 December 1st?

19 A Yes, it does.

20 Q And does Exhibit (garbled) of the three Funds --

21 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. --

22 BY MR. WRIGHT:

23 Q -- and the various CLOs, --

24 THE COURT: Mr. Wright?

25 BY MR. WRIGHT:

Norris - Direct

31

1 Q -- as you understand it?

2 THE COURT: Mr. Wright, time out. Two things.

3 First, I don't know what you can do to improve --

4 MR. WRIGHT: Sure.

5 THE COURT: -- your connection, but you're
6 occasionally breaking up a little.

7 But second, can we be clear for myself, the record,
8 everyone else, what you're referring to right now? We have an 9 Advis... your witness and exhibit list is at Docket 1573. Is 10 that what I should be looking at first?

11 MR. WRIGHT: Yes, Your Honor. The declaration of Mr.
12 Norris. It's Docket 1522-1. And it's on our exhibit list.
13 It may be the only exhibit on our exhibit list, frankly.

14 THE COURT: Okay. So you're talking about his 15 declaration now, not the witness and exhibit list with the 16 attachments to it? Actually, it is attached here. Exhibit A.
17 Okay. I'm there. I went to Exhibit A in your attachments to 18 your exhibit list at 1573.

19 All right. Let's try again with your question you just 20 asked.

21 MR. WRIGHT: Sure.

22 BY MR. WRIGHT:

23 Q So, Mr. Norris, Exhibit A, this reflects the current 24 repayment status of the CLOs that are the subject of the 25 motion as of December 1. Correct?

Norris - Direct

32

1 A Correct.

2 Q And then --

3 MR. WRIGHT: Your Honor, if you turn to Exhibit B,
4 which is just a couple pages forward.

5 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I would ask that this be put 6 up on the screen, if possible.

7 THE COURT: Yes. Can you do that, please?

8 MR. WRIGHT: I'm sorry. I couldn't hear that, John.

9 THE COURT: He asked if you could --

10 MR. MORRIS: I would --

11 THE COURT: -- share your screen. Can you share your 12 screen as to what you're looking at?

13 MR. WRIGHT: Can I share my screen? Last time I was 14 using a computer and you were having trouble hearing me, so
15 this time I'm doing it on my phone. So my phone, no, I don't 16 have this on my phone to share my screen that way. It's 17 Docket 1522-1, and it's the only exhibit that was on our 18 exhibit list.

19 MR. MORRIS: No objection, Your Honor.

20 MR. WRIGHT: All it shows is the holdings in Funds in 21 the CLOs. That's all it is.

22 MR. MORRIS: No objection, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. NORRIS: I'm sorry, John. I didn't hear.

25 THE COURT: Give me a minute, because I was at 1573,

Norris - Direct

33

1 your witness and exhibit list.

2 (Pause.)

3 THE COURT: Okay. That's not the correct docket
4 number.

5 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

6 THE COURT: Yes?

7 MR. MORRIS: If I may, it's John -- it's John Morris.
8 It's Docket No. 1528. And the declaration can be found at 9 Page 12 of 26.

10 MR. WRIGHT: Thank you.

11 THE COURT: 1528?

12 MR. WRIGHT: That's bizarre, because I have a
13 printout of it and it says Docket 1522-1.

14 THE COURT: Okay. 1528 is the -- the actual motion
15 we've set for hearing.

16 MR. MORRIS: And it's attached to that, yes. If you
17 -- if you go to PDF Page 12, it's the first page of the 18 declaration.

19 THE COURT: Okay. I'm there now. Okay. So we're on 20 that declaration. And then you were having the witness look 21 first at Exhibit A to that declaration. And then where are 22 you having him look next? Exhibit B, which is entitled
23 "Holdings of Preferred Shares in CLOs"?

24 MR. WRIGHT: Exhibit B, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Continue.

Norris - Direct

34

1 MR. WRIGHT: (garbled) I think some of the exhibits
2 that I have had the wrong docket number printed on the top,
3 and I --

4 BY MR. WRIGHT:

5 Q Exhibit B. So, Mr. Norris, Exhibit B to your declaration
6 shows the holdings of the preference shares of the Funds in 7 the various CLOs that are the subject of the motion, correct?

8 A That's correct. One clarification. It shows the 9 percentage ownership of each of those preference share
10 tranches that each Fund owns.

11 Q Thank you. Mr. Norris, do the three Funds have a date by 12 which they have to liquidate their investments?

13 A Sorry, you did skip out there. If you could you repeat
14 the question. I apologize.

15 Q It's frustrating. Do the three Funds have a date by which 16 they must liquidate their investments?

17 A No. They do not.

18 Q Okay. Can you briefly explain why the Advisors and the 19 Funds brought this motion?

20 A Yeah. The Advisors and the Funds were concerned with 21 certain transactions, as described in the motion. As 22 preference share owners, we own the majority or a substantial
23 portion of the economics of most of these CLOs, and in three 24 instances the majority of the economic benefit. And there was 25 concern with the way that the sales were executed. And so,

Norris - Cross

35

1 with that, we're simply asking for a temporary relief in order
2 to benefit and to maximize the recovery for our preference
3 shares that we own.

4 Q Thank you.

5 MR. WRIGHT: All right, Your Honor. I have no
6 further questions for Mr. Norris, although I guess I reserve
7 the right to redirect.

8 THE COURT: All right. Cross-examination?

9 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

10 CROSS-EXAMINATION

11 BY MR. MORRIS:

12 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Norris. Can you hear me?

13 A I can. Thank you, Mr. Morris.

14 Q All right. I'm going to go into a little bit more detail
15 about some of the topics that you discussed. To be clear
16 here, there are five moving parties; is that right?

17 A That's correct. The two Advisors and the three Funds.

18 Q And one of the advisory firms is Highland Capital
19 Management Fund Advisors, LP; is that right?

20 A That's correct.

21 Q And I'll refer to that as Fund Advisors; is that okay?

22 A That's great.

23 Q James Dondero and Mark Okada are the beneficial owners of 24 Fund Advisors, correct?

25 A That is my understanding, yes.

36

1 Q And your understanding is that Mr. Dondero controls Fund
2 Advisors, correct?

3 A That's correct.

4 Q And the other advisory firm that brought the motion is 5 NexPoint Advisors, LP; is that right?

6 A That is correct.

7 Q And Mr. Dondero is the beneficial owner of NexPoint; is
8 that right?

9 A A family trust where Jim is the sole beneficiary, I
10 believe, controls or owns NexPoint Advisors.

11 Q Okay. And Mr. Dondero --

12 A Or 99.9 percent of NexPoint Advisors.

13 Q Thank you for the clarification. Mr. Dondero controls
14 NexPoint; is that right?

15 A Correct.

16 Q All right. And I'm going to refer to Fund Advisors and 17 NexPoint as the Advisors going forward; is that fair?

18 A That's fair.

19 Q Each of the Advisors manages certain funds; is that right?

20 A That is correct.

21 Q And three of those funds that are managed by the Advisors
22 are the Movants on this motion, correct?

23 A Correct.

24 Q All right. The Advisors caused these three Funds to 25 invest in CLOs that are managed by the Debtor; is that right?

Norris - Cross

37

1 A The portfolio managers working for the Advisors did.

2 That's correct.

3 Q And Mr. Dondero is the portfolio manager of the Highland
4 Income Fund; is that right?

5 A He is one of the portfolio managers for that Fund.

6 Q And he's also --

7 A I believe there are two.

8 Q And he's also a portfolio manager of NexPoint Capital,
9 Inc., one of the Movants here, right?

10 A That is correct.

11 Q And he's also the portfolio manager of NexPoint Strategic 12 Opportunities Fund, another Movant; is that right?

13 A Yes. That is correct.

14 Q Okay. And I think you testified earlier that each of 15 these Funds has a board. Is that right?

16 A That is correct.

17 Q But the boards don't make investment decisions for the 18 Funds, do they?

19 A They do not. They have delegated that authority.

20 Q And that authority to make investment decisions is 21 delegated to the Advisors; is that right?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. And none of the boards of the Funds who are Movants
24 here adopted any resolution authorizing the Funds to file this 25 motion; is that right?

Norris - Cross

38

1 A To my knowledge, that is correct.

2 Q And in fact, the boards were not required to approve the 3 filing of this motion, correct?

4 A I'm not -- I believe that's a legal question, but to my 5 knowledge, there was not a requirement of the board to -- or,
6 to adopt a resolution for that.

7 Q Okay. Let's talk a little bit about your background. I
8 think you testified that you're the executive vice president
9 at NexPoint Advisors, one of the Movants. Is that right?

10 A That's right.

11 Q Who's the president of NexPoint Advisors, LP?

12 A Mr. Dondero.

13 Q And you report directly to him; is that right?

14 A I do.

15 Q You're also the executive vice president of Fund Advisors,
16 another Movant; is that right?

17 A Correct.

18 Q And Mr. Dondero is the president of Fund Advisors; is that
19 right?

20 A He is not. There is no president of Fund Advisors. But 21 he -- yeah.

22 Q You're the president of another entity called NexPoint
23 Securities; is that right?

24 A That's correct.

25 Q And you're also the executive vice president of the 11 or

Norris - Cross

39

1 12 funds that are managed by the Advisors here, right?

2 A Yes. That is correct.

3 Q Okay. You've been working for Highland Capital Management
4 or other Highland-related entities for a little more than a
5 decade; is that right?

6 A That's correct. Since June 2010.

7 Q Okay. Now, you don't personally make any investment
8 decisions for -- for the Funds. Is that right?

9 A That's correct.

10 Q And you don't hold yourself out as an investment manager,
11 do you?

12 A I do not.

13 Q And you've never worked for a CLO, have you?

14 A Never worked for a -- for a C -- employed by a CLO.
15 Worked on accounting, various other aspects, but never worked
16 for a CLO.

17 Q Okay. You referred earlier to the declaration that you've 18 submitted in support of the motion. Do you remember that?

19 A I do.

20 Q I've got an assistant on the line here.

21 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Cantey, can we put up onto the 22 screen Debtor's Exhibit C, which I believe was Mr. Norris's
23 declaration? And if we could go to Page 12 of 26. Oh, all
24 right.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Norris - Cross

40

1 Q And, again, Mr. Norris, as we did in the deposition
2 yesterday, I'll remind you of the difficulty of doing a
3 virtual examination. And if at any time I ask you a question
4 about your declaration that prompts you to think you need to 5 see another portion of the declaration, will you let me know
6 that?

7 A Yes, I will.

8 Q Okay. Because I'm not here to test your memory. I'm just 9 here to ask you certain questions. So please let me know if 10 you need to see something that's not on the screen itself.

11 You didn't write any portion of this declaration; is that
12 right?

13 A I did not.

14 Q And you didn't provide any substantive comments to the 15 declaration as drafted because you agreed with -- with the 16 declaration as written by others; is that fair?

17 A Correct.

18 Q And all of the key information in your declaration was 19 supplied by NexPoint's management; isn't that right?

20 A Correct.

21 Q The individuals who provided the information that's in 22 your declaration include D.C. Sauter, Jason Post, Mr. Dondero,
23 and outside counsel at K&L Gates; is that right?

24 A Correct.

25 Q And Mr. Sauter is in-house counsel at the Advisors; is

Norris - Cross

41

1 that right?

2 A That is right.

3 Q And Mr. Post is the chief compliance officer at NexPoint;
4 is that right?

5 A That's correct.

6 Q The whole idea for this motion initiated with Mr. Dondero;
7 isn't that right?

8 A The concern, yes, the concern originated, and his concern
9 was voiced to our legal and compliance team.

10 Q Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: Can we take the declaration down for -- 12 oh, actually, no, I'm sorry, leave it there, and let's talk
13 about Exhibit B. Now we can all see it. If you can scroll
14 down to Exhibit B, please. Okay.

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q This page is attached to your declaration, right?

17 A That's correct.

18 Q And this page is intended to show the percentage of 19 preferred shares owned by each of the Movant Funds and the 15
20 different CLOs, right?

21 A That's right.

22 Q And the Debtor is the portfolio manager for each of these 23 CLOs; is that right?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And it's your understanding that the Debtor's management

Norris - Cross

42

1 of the CLOs on this page is governed by written agreements
2 between the Debtor and each of the CLOs, right?

3 A Yes.

4 Q None of the Movants are parties to the agreements between 5 the Debtor and each of the CLOs pursuant to which the Debtor
6 serves as portfolio manager; is that correct?

7 A I believe that is correct. One, I think, important --
8 even though they're not subject to the agreement, they are the 9 -- they have the economic ownership of each of these CLOs.

10 Q But they're not party to the agreement; is that right?

11 A Not that I'm aware of.

12 Q Okay. And in preparing for this motion and preparing for 13 your testimony, you didn't personally review any of the 14 agreements between the Debtor and any of the CLOs listed on 15 this page, right?

16 A No. I relied on legal counsel for that review.

17 Q Okay. And, but even though you didn't review the 18 agreements, it's your understanding that among the 19 responsibilities that the Debtor has as the portfolio manager
20 is buying and selling assets on behalf of the CLOs; is that
21 right?

22 A Yes. And I believe I specifically stated in my statement,
23 if you want to turn to it, what I (audio gap) to regarding the 24 CLOs' duties under the agreements.

25 Q Okay. It's your understanding, in fact, that nobody other

43

1 than the Debtor has the right or the authority to buy and sell
2 assets on behalf of the CLOs listed on Exhibit B, correct?

3 A That's my understanding.

4 Q Okay. And it's also your understanding, your specific 5 understanding, that holders of preferred shares do not make
6 investment decisions on behalf of the CLO; is that right?

7 A Correct.

8 Q And that's something that the Advisors knew when they 9 decided to invest in the CLOs on behalf of the Movant Funds;
10 is that fair?

11 A That's right. And at that time, the knowledge in the 12 purchase was with Highland Capital Management, LP and the 13 portfolio management team at that time.

14 Q And it's still with Highland Capital Management, LP; isn't
15 that right?

16 A That's correct. I'm not sure that the portfolio
17 management team looks the same, but it was HCMLP.

18 Q Okay. Let's just look at this document for a second. The 19 first column has the list of the CLOs in which the Movant
20 Funds have invested; is that right?

21 A Correct.

22 Q And the second column, HIF, that stands for Highland
23 Income Fund; is that right?

24 A Yes, sir.

25 Q And Highland Income Fund is one of the Funds who are the

44

1 Movants here, right?

2 A That is correct.

3 Q And the percentages below that show the percentage of the 4 preference shares of each of the CLOs that that particular
5 fund holds; is that right?

6 A That's right.

7 Q And then the third column relates to NexPoint Strategic 8 Opportunities Fund, one of the Movants here; is that right?

9 A That's correct.

10 Q And the next column, the fourth column, relates to 11 NexPoint Capital, Inc.'s holding of preference shares in the 12 15 CLOs, right?

13 A That's right.

14 Q So, NexPoint Capital doesn't hold any preference shares in 15 any of the CLOs except for a less-than-one-percent interest in 16 Grayson; am I reading that correctly?

17 A Yes, that's correct.

18 Q Okay. And then the last column is intended to show the 19 aggregate portion or percentage of preference shares that the 20 three moving Funds have in each of the 15 CLOs; is that right?

21 A Yes, that's right.

22 Q Okay. Am I reading this correctly that, for 12 of the 15
23 Funds, the moving Funds own less than a majority of the 24 outstanding preferred shares?

25 A Yes, that's correct.

Norris - Cross

45

1 Q And is it also -- am I also reading this correctly to 2 conclude that the moving Funds owned less than 70 percent of 3 every one of these CLOs; is that right?

4 A That's correct.

5 Q You don't know who owns the preferred shares in the CLOs
6 that are not owned by the Movant Funds, do you?

7 A I don't know any -- any specific owners.

8 Q And some of these CLOs still have notes that are 9 outstanding; is that right?

10 A Yes. Very small amounts as a percentage of the overall
11 CLO original capital structure, but yes, some still have small 12 --

13 Q So, --

14 A -- notes. Small amounts of notes.

15 Q Okay. I'm sorry to interrupt. If we looked at Exhibit A,
16 if we took the time to look at Exhibit A, Exhibit A would 17 show, for each of the 15 CLOs, which of those CLOs still had 18 notes outstanding and the amount of out -- the dollar value of 19 those notes. Is that right?

20 A That's correct.

21 Q Okay. And your understanding is that -- your 22 understanding -- withdrawn. The payment -- the distributions
23 from the CLOs are made pursuant to a waterfall; is that right?

24 A Yes, that's correct.

25 Q And your understanding of the waterfall process is that

Norris - Cross

46

1 the notes that are still outstanding at any CLO must be paid
2 -- must be paid in full before the preferred shares receive
3 any recovery; is that right?

4 A So, I would say that my understanding is slightly
5 different. It's going to be dependent on each indenture.
6 But, in general, interest payments are made to the debt
7 holders, and anything extra is then allocated to the equity.
8 But ultimate recovery, to your point, would be once those --
9 once the debt is paid off. And that's the critical thing
10 here, where the preference shares here now with most of these 11 CLOs almost all the way wound down, with the exception of a 12 small piece of debt. The equity owns the lion's share of the 13 economic interest of every one of these CLOs. And I think
14 that's important.

15 Q Okay. Some of the CLOs still have outstanding notes. Is
16 that right?

17 A Yes. As we discussed on -- Exhibit A will have the notes
18 that are -- that are remaining on those.

19 Q And you don't know who holds the notes in the other CLOs,
20 right?

21 A I don't.

22 Q The only holders of preferred shares that are pursuing 23 this motion are the three Funds managed by the Advisors,
24 right?

25 A In this motion, yes.

Norris - Cross

47

1 Q You're not aware of any holder of preferred shares
2 pursuing this motion other than the three Funds managed by the
3 Advisors, correct?

4 A No, I'm not aware of any others.

5 Q You didn't personally inform any holder of preferred
6 shares, other than the Funds that are the Movants, that this 7 motion would be filed, did you?

8 A No, I did not.

9 Q You're not aware of any steps taken by either of the 10 Advisors to provide notice to holders of preferred shares that 11 this motion was going to be filed, are you?

12 A I'm not, no.

13 Q And you're not aware of any attempt that was made to 14 obtain the consent of all of the holders of the preferred
15 shares to seek the relief sought in this motion, correct?

16 A That's correct.

17 Q You don't have any personal knowledge, personal knowledge, 18 as to whether any holder of preferred shares other than the 19 Funds managed by the Advisors wants the relief sought in the 20 motion, correct?

21 A Correct.

22 Q You don't have any personal knowledge as to whether any of 23 the CLOs that are subject to the contracts that you described
24 want the relief that's being requested in this motion, right?

25 A That's correct. I have not spoken or been involved at all

Norris - Cross

48

1 directly with the CLOs. I'm representing the Funds.

2 Q Okay. Now, two of the Funds, two of the three Movant
3 Funds, I believe you testified are publicly traded; is that
4 right?

5 A That's correct.

6 Q And that's the Highland Income Fund and the NexPoint
7 Strategic Opportunities Fund; is that right?

8 A That's right. That's right.

9 Q And because they are publicly-traded, the shareholders in 10 those two funds can sell their shares any time the market is 11 open; is that right?

12 A If they're willing to take the price that the market is 13 willing to give, yes.

14 Q Yes.

15 A Between market hours.

16 Q And if they -- if they don't like the way the assets that 17 are -- that the Funds have been invested, one of the things
18 they could do is simply sell their shares, right?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And the third fund, the shareholders in the third fund
21 have the right to sell out not on a public market but on a
22 quarterly basis; is that right?

23 A Correct.

24 Q That third Movant Fund is NexPoint Capital; do I have that
25 right?

Norris - Cross

49

1 A Correct.

2 Q So they also have the ability to exit if they don't like
3 management on a quarterly basis; is that right?

4 A Correct.

5 Q All right. Can we turn to Paragraph -- Paragraphs 8 and 9
6 of your declaration? Okay. Paragraph 8 describes a
7 transaction that's been referred to as OmniMax; is that right?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And Paragraph 9 refers to a transaction involving SSP
10 Holdings, LLC; do I have that right?

11 A That's correct.

12 Q Do you know what SSP stands for?

13 A See if we say it in there. SSP Holdings, LLC.

14 Q Right. Do you know what SSP stands for?

15 A I don't. Something Steel Products. I --

16 Q Okay. You don't need to guess. These are the only two 17 transactions that the Movants question; is that right?

18 A These transactions, as well as certain transactions around
19 Thanksgiving time.

20 Q Okay. We'll talk about those. But those transactions
21 about -- around Thanksgiving time aren't in your declaration, 22 are they?

23 A Not specifically mentioned by name.

24 Q Okay. Let's talk about the two that are mentioned by 25 name, Trussway and SSP. The Movants do not contend that

Norris - Cross

50

1 either transaction was the product of fraudulent conduct, do
2 they?

3 A No.

4 Q The Movants do not contend that the Debtor breached any 5 agreement by effectuating these transactions, do they?

6 A I don't believe so.

7 Q In fact, the Movants do not contend that the Debtor
8 violated any agreement at any time in the management of the 9 CLOs listed on Exhibit B; is that right?

10 A That's right.

11 Q The Movants don't even question the Debtor's business
12 judgment, only the results of the trans -- of these two 13 transactions. Is that right?

14 A That's right. And results is the key here and the 15 approach.

16 Q I see. And the reason the Movants do not question the 17 Debtor's business judgment is because you don't know what 18 factor or factors the Debtor considered in executing these 19 transactions, right?

20 A That's right. I can't look into the mind or know the 21 business judgment and the inputs that went into this. We do
22 know the outcomes. And to us, that's troubling, right, as the 23 owners of the lion's share or the majority or even significant 24 amounts of the economic ownership of the CLOs. And having 25 insight into those transactions, as mentioned in my statement,

Norris - Cross

51

1 really just trying to maximize recoveries for our Funds.

2 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I move to strike the portion
3 of his answer following that which was responsive to the 4 question.

5 THE COURT: All right. I grant that motion.

6 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q Sir, you never asked the Debtor what factors it considered
9 in making these trades, right?

10 A I did not.

11 Q And you have no reason to believe that anyone on behalf of 12 the Movants ever asked the Debtor why it executed these 13 trades, right?

14 A I don't have any knowledge. There could have been 15 somebody from -- from the Movants. But I did not.

16 Q Okay. On OmniMax, the Movants disagree with the price at 17 which the Debtor effectuated the trade, right?

18 A Correct.

19 Q And I believe there was a meeting of the boards of the 20 Funds back in August at which Mr. Seery appeared. Do I have
21 that right?

22 A I believe it was August, but he did appear.

23 Q And the purpose of the appearance was so that Mr. Seery
24 could give an update on the bankruptcy; is that right?

25 A That's correct, and on the services provided by Highland

Norris - Cross

52

1 Capital Management, LP to our Advisor. Advisors. They
2 provide various shared services.

3 Q And it was during that meeting that Mr. Seery forthrightly
4 told the boards the price at which he was planning to execute
5 the OmniMax transaction, correct?

6 A Correct.

7 Q The transaction hadn't yet occurred, right?

8 A I'm not sure if it had been finalized. He had a price,
9 and these -- these things are negotiated. This was, I
10 believe, a company in restructuring. So I don't know whether 11 it had been transacted or not.

12 Q Okay. The board didn't ask Mr. Seery not to execute the 13 transaction, did it?

14 A Not to my knowledge. The board wouldn't -- I don't think
15 the board would have that authority, either.

16 Q Okay. But it's here asking the Court to cause the Debtor
17 to pause in the execution of any trades in the CLOs; is that
18 right?

19 A I think the order speaks in that regard.

20 Q Yeah. Okay. Let's talk about the SSP transaction for a
21 moment. It's your understanding that Trussway Holdings, LLC
22 owned a majority interest in SSP Holdings, LLC, right? That's 23 in Paragraph 9.

24 A Yes. The statement in Paragraph 9 is what I believe is
25 correct.

53

1 Q Okay. And it's also your understanding that Trussway is a
2 wholly-owned subsi... I'm sorry, that SSP Holdings is a
3 wholly-owned subsidiary -- withdrawn. It's also your 4 understanding that Trussway is a wholly-owned subsidiary of 5 the Debtor, right?

6 A Yes.

7 Q But Trussway is not a debtor in bankruptcy, right?

8 A I'm not sure.

9 Q Okay. You have no reason to believe that; is that fair?

10 A That it's not a debtor in bankruptcy? That Trussway is 11 not in bankruptcy itself?

12 Q Correct.

13 A Yeah. I have no knowledge of Trussway's situation.

14 Q Okay. But you -- but according to your declaration that 15 was prepared by the Advisors' management team, Trussway and 16 not the Debtor owned SSP Holdings, LLC. Is that right?

17 A I'm looking here at the statement just to make sure.

18 Q Sure.

19 (Pause.)

20 A I -- again, I -- the statement is correct, and I believe 21 speaks for itself regarding entity ownership.

22 Q The only things you know about the SSP transaction are,
23 one, that you believe it was made without a formal bidding
24 process; and two, that it resulted in a $10 million loss. Is
25 that right?

Norris - Cross

54

1 A Correct.

2 Q Okay. But, again, neither you, or to the best of your 3 knowledge, anybody at Advisors, ever spoke with anybody at the 4 Debtor about the circumstances concerning either of the 5 transactions, right?

6 A I don't know the conversations that were had at anyone
7 else from our Advisors, but this is the knowledge that -- that 8 I have.

9 Q Okay. And it's the only knowledge you have, right? You
10 don't know anything about the SSP transaction other than those 11 two facts, right?

12 A Correct.

13 Q In fact, I think you testified yesterday that you've been 14 very remote from the SSP transaction, right?

15 A That's correct.

16 Q And that it's not a transaction that you have much
17 knowledge on. Fair?

18 A Fair.

19 Q Let's just talk briefly about the transactions that 20 occurred (garbled) Thanksgiving. They're not specifically
21 referred to in your declaration; is that right?

22 A That's correct.

23 Q And you have no knowledge about any transaction that Mr.
24 Seery wanted to execute around Thanksgiving; is that right?

25 A I know there were transactions and there were concerns

Norris - Cross

55

1 from our management team, but I'm not aware of what the 2 transactions were.

3 Q In fact, you can't even identify the assets that Mr. Seery
4 wanted to sell around Thanksgiving, or at least you couldn't
5 at the time of your deposition yesterday. Is that right?

6 A That's correct.

7 Q And you have no knowledge as to why Mr. Seery wanted to 8 make those particular trades at around Thanksgiving?

9 A No, I don't.

10 Q And in fact, you don't even know if the transactions that 11 Mr. Seery wanted to close around Thanksgiving ever in fact
12 closed. Is that fair?

13 A Correct.

14 Q Okay. Let's just -- let's just finish up with a few
15 questions about the boards.

16 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Cantey, can we put up Debtor's
17 Exhibit EEEE? Four E's, Your Honor. Thank you.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q This particular page identifies the directors for each of 20 the three Movant Funds; is that right?

21 A Let me take a look and confirm. (Pause.) Yes. That 22 looks correct.

23 Q Okay. And this was prepared by the Movants; is that
24 right?

25 A I'm not sure who prepared it.

Norris - Cross

56

1 Q Okay. To the best of your knowledge, does this document
2 accurately reflect the composition of the boards of each of 3 the three Movant Funds?

4 A Yes, it does.

5 Q Okay. John Honis, I think you mentioned him earlier.
6 He's on all three boards. Is that right?

7 A That's correct. And the reason being we have a unitary
8 board structure, so -- which is very common in '40 Act Fund
9 land, where the board sits, for efficiency purposes, on 10 multiple fund boards, and there's a lot of economies of scale
11 from an operating standpoint. So, yes, they sit on multiple 12 boards.

13 Q Okay. And for purposes of the '40 Act, Mr. Honis has been 14 deemed to be an interested trustee. Is that right?

15 A That's correct.

16 Q Okay. But you don't specifically know what facts caused 17 that designation; you only know that the designation exists.
18 Right?

19 A That's right. And I know they are disclosed in the proxy
20 -- or, in the -- the relative filings related to those Funds.

21 Q Okay. Three other people are common to all three of the 22 Movant Funds. I think you've got Dr. Froehlich, Ethan Powell, 23 --

24 A Froehlich.

25 Q Froehlich. Ethan Powell and Bryan Ward. Right?

Norris - Cross

57

1 A That is correct.

2 Q Okay. All three of those individuals actually serve on 3 the 11 or 12 boards that you mentioned earlier that are 4 managed by the Advisors, right?

5 A Yes, that is correct.

6 Q And they're the same Funds for which you serve as an
7 executive vice president, right?

8 A Yes. That's correct.

9 Q So, for all of the Funds that are managed by the Advisors,
10 you serve as executive vice president and all four of these 11 directors -- trustees serve as trustees on the boards, right?

12 A Yes, that's correct.

13 Q Okay. In exchange for serving on all of these boards, the 14 three individuals -- Dr. Froehlich, Mr. Ward, and Mr. Powell
15 -- each receive $150,000 a year for services across the 16 Highland complex; is that right?

17 A That's correct.

18 Q Dr. Froehlich has been serving as a board member across 19 the Highland complex for seven or eight years now; is that
20 right?

21 A That's correct.

22 Q Mr. --

23 A I believe it's about seven or eight years.

24 Q And Mr. Powell, he actually was employed by Highland or 25 related entities from about 2007 or 2008 until 2015, right?

Norris - Cross

58

1 A That's correct.

2 Q And Mr. Ward, the third of the independent trustees, he's 3 been serving as a board member on various Highland-related
4 funds on a continuous basis since about 2004. Do I have that
5 right?

6 A Yeah, I believe that's correct.

7 Q Okay. Just a couple of final questions. You would agree,
8 would you not, sir, that portfolio managers have an obligation
9 to effectuate transactions concerning the assets that they 10 manage based on their business judgment?

11 A Yes. And in accordance with whatever governing documents
12 govern the fund structure.

13 Q And you would personally expect a portfolio manager to 14 execute a transaction that he or she reasonably believes in 15 good faith and in their business judgment would maximize value
16 for the CLO, even if the CLO did not need cash at that 17 particular time. Is that right?

18 A I think it would come down to the governing documents.
19 And I think what you're getting at here is, in this instance,
20 these sales and the intent of the portfolio manager. And our 21 view, again, is -- and the request for the motion is simply 22 there is a lot at play here. Several negotiations. And in 23 order to maximize returns, simply asking for a pause on 24 transactions.

25 Q All right. Let me -- let me ask the question again, and I

Norris - Cross

59

1 would ask that you please listen carefully to the question.
2 You would expect a portfolio manager would execute a
3 transaction that he or she believes maximizes value, even if 4 the CLO didn't need cash at that particular moment in time.
5 Correct?

6 A Yeah. As long as that is maximizing value for the 7 stakeholders, and in the instance of a CLO, the economic 8 interest is owned by the equity holders. So, to their 9 benefit, yes, that -- that would be the idea.

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no further questions.

11 THE COURT: Any redirect, Mr. Wright?

12 MR. WRIGHT: Only briefly, Your Honor.

13 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

14 BY MR. WRIGHT:

15 Q Mr. Norris, I think you were asked at one point about how 16 long you'd been working for Highland Capital Management, which 17 there's -- there's Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors
18 and then there's Highland Capital Management, LP, Debtor. And 19 I wanted to give you an opportunity to just explain when and 20 what years you worked for HCMLP and then when and what years
21 you worked for NexPoint Advisors or Highland Capital
22 Management Fund Advisors.

23 A Yes. From June 2010, I was employed by Highland Capital
24 Management, LP, until July or August of 2012, at which time I
25 was then hired by Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors,

Norris - Redirect

60

1 not HCML -- no longer employed by HCMLP, and have worked since
2 that time for HCMFA and NexPoint Advisors and not for the 3 Debtor, HCMLP.

4 Q Okay. So -- and I'm sorry if I missed a year, but it's 5 been about ten years since you had worked for HCMLP or been an 6 employee of HCMLP, correct?

7 A Yeah. It's been over eight years since I have left
8 employment by HCMLP. Ten and a half years ago, I started
9 working for HCMLP, and then two years after that transitioned
10 away and started working for the Advisors that are part of 11 this motion.

12 Q Thank you for clarifying.

13 MR. WRIGHT: Your Honor, I hope -- you directed us to 14 have a witness here today, and so we do. And I know that you 15 had asked me at the last hearing some questions about the 16 involvement of people at HCMLP, which I tried to address with 17 Mr. Norris in my direct. But I, you know, I do want to make 18 sure that we've answered any questions that you have.

19 THE COURT: All right. Yes, that's fine. Are you
20 -- does that conclude your redirect?

21 MR. WRIGHT: It does, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Any recross, Mr. Morris, on that 23 redirect?

24 MR. MORRIS: No, thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right, then. That concludes the

1 testimony of Mr. Norris.

2 Any other evidence, Mr. Wright?

3 MR. WRIGHT: I do not, Your Honor, although I guess I
4 would offer the Exhibit A and Exhibit B to Mr. Norris's
5 declaration --

6 THE COURT: Any objection to that?

7 MR. WRIGHT: -- into evidence.

8 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: All right. Those are admitted.

10 (Movants' Exhibits A and B are received into evidence.)

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Morris, did you
12 want to put on any evidence?

13 MR. MORRIS: Does the -- do the Movants rest, Your
14 Honor?

15 THE COURT: I understood that they rest. Correct,
16 Mr. Wright?

17 MR. WRIGHT: That's correct, Your Honor.

18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I would move, effectively, 19 for a directed verdict here. The Movants have the burden of 20 establishing a prima facie case to entitlement to the relief 21 that's been requested, and they have failed to meet that 22 burden. The Debtor has -- we -- the undisputed facts are the 23 Debtor has the contractual right, and indeed, the obligation,
24 to serve as the portfolio manager of the CLOs pursuant to 25 written agreements.

1       The Movants are not parties to those agreements. The 2 testimony is undisputed that there are many holders of 3 preferred shares and notes that have had no notice of this 4 proceeding that will undoubtedly be impacted by the tying of 5 the hands of the portfolio manager. The chart that was 6 attached as Exhibit B expressly shows just what a large
7 portion of interested parties and people who would be affected
8 by this motion are not -- they didn't get notice. There was 9 no attempt to get notice. There was no attempt to get their 10 consent. All of that testimony is now in the record, and I
11 think due process alone would prevent the entry or even the 12 consideration of an order of this type.

13       There is nothing improper that's been alleged. There is 14 no -- there is no allegation of fraud. There is no allegation
15 of breach of contract of any kind. There's not even a
16 question of business judgment. The Movants didn't even do
17 their diligence to ask the Debtor why they made these 18 transactions. There is nothing in the record that shows that 19 the Debtor, as the portfolio manager of the CLOs, did anything
20 improper.

21       The only thing that the Movants care about is that they 22 don't like the results in two particular trades. I don't 23 think that that meets their burden of persuasion that the 24 Court should enter an order of this type, and I would like to 25 relieve Mr. Seery of the burden, frankly, and the Court, of 1 having to put on testimony to justify transactions that really

2 aren't even being questioned, Your Honor.

3 So the Debtor would respectfully move for the denial of 4 the motion and the relief sought therein.

5 THE COURT: All right. Your request for a directed
6 verdict, something equivalent to a directed verdict here, is 7 granted. I agree that the Movant has wholly failed to meet
8 its burden of proof here today to show the Court, persuade the 9 Court that, as Mr. Morris said, I should essentially tie the 10 hands of the Debtor as a portfolio manager here, as stated.
11 Nothing improper has been alleged. There has been no showing 12 of a statutory right here, or a contractual right here, on the 13 part of the Movants.

14 I am -- I'm utterly dumbfounded, really. I agree with the 15 -- I was going to say innuendo; not really innuendo -- I agree
16 with part of the theme, I think, asserted by the Debtor here
17 today that this is Mr. Dondero, through different entities,
18 through a different motion. I feel like he sidestepped the 19 requirement that I stated last week that if we had a contested
20 hearing on his motion, Dondero's motion, that I was going to 21 require Mr. Dondero to testify. He apparently worked out an 22 eleventh hour agreement with the Debtor on his motion to avoid 23 that. But, again, these so-called CLO Motions very clearly,
24 very clearly, in this Court's view, were pursued at his sole
25 direction here.

64

1           This is almost Rule 11 frivolous to me. You know, we're
2 -- we didn't have a Rule 11 motion filed, and, you know, I
3 guess, frankly, I'm glad that a week before the holidays begin
4 we don't have that, but that's how bad I think it was, Mr.
5 Wright and Mr. Norris. This is a very, very frivolous motion.
6 Again, no statutory basis for it. No contractual basis. You
7 know, you didn't even walk me through the provisions of the 8 contracts. I guess that would have been fruitless. But you
9 haven't even shown something equitable, some lack of 10 reasonable business judgment.

11           Bluntly, don't waste my time with this kind of thing
12 again. You wasted my time. We have 70 people on the video.
13 Utter waste of time.

14           All right. So, motion is denied. Mr. Morris, please
15 upload an order.

16           MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

17           THE COURT: All right. Do we have any other business
18 to accomplish today?

19           MR. POMERANTZ: I don't think so, Your Honor. I know
20 we will see you tomorrow in connection with Mr. Daugherty's
21 relief from stay motion.

22           THE COURT: Well, yeah, we do have that. Okay. We 23 will see you tomorrow. We stand adjourned.

24           MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

25           MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

65

THE CLERK: All rise.

PLAINTIFF HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.'S VERIFIED ORIGINAL COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

---

Plaintiff Highland Capital Management, L.P., the above-captioned debtor and debtor-in-possession (“Plaintiff” or the “Debtor”), by its undersigned counsel, files this Original Complaint for Declaratory and Injunctive Relief (the “Complaint”) against defendants Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”), NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NPA,” and together with HCMFA, the “Advisors”), Highland Income Fund, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, NexPoint Capital, Inc. (collectively, the “Funds”), and CLO Holdco, Ltd. (“CLO Holdco” and together with the Advisors and the Funds, the “Defendants”) seeking declaratory and injunctive relief pursuant to sections 105(a) and 362 of title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”) and Rules 7001(7) and 7065 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the “Bankruptcy Rules”). In support of its Complaint, the Debtor alleges upon knowledge of its own actions and upon information and belief as to other matters as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. Mr. James Dondero (“Mr. Dondero”) directly or indirectly owns and/or controls each of the Defendants. The Defendants have interfered with, and impeded, the Debtor’s business, and they have threatened to initiate a process aimed at removing the Debtor as the portfolio manager of certain collateralized loan obligation vehicles (“CLOs”) – although they have refused to actually bring a motion to lift the automatic stay for that purpose, thereby contributing to the necessity of these proceedings. The Funds invested in certain of the CLOs at the direction of the Advisors. CLO Holdco also invested in the CLOs.

2. As alleged below, the Defendants have damaged the Debtor and threaten to upset the status quo by interfering with the Debtor's contractual rights.

3. Thus, the Debtor seeks damages, declaratory relief, and an order preliminarily and permanently enjoining the Defendants from: (a) interfering with or otherwise impeding, directly or indirectly, the Debtor's business, including but not limited to the Debtor's (i) management of the CLOs, (ii) decisions concerning the purchase or sale of any assets on behalf of the CLOs, or (iii) contractual right to serve as the portfolio manager (or other similar title) of the CLOs; (b) otherwise violating section 362(a) of the Bankruptcy Code; (c) seeking to terminate the portfolio management agreements and/or servicing agreements between the Debtor and the CLOs ((a)-(c), the "Prohibited Conduct"), (d) conspiring, colluding, or collaborating with (x) Mr. Dondero, (y) any entity owned and/or controlled by Mr. Dondero, and/or (z) any person or entity acting on behalf of Mr. Dondero or any entity owned and/or controlled by him, to, directly or indirectly, engage in any Prohibited Conduct, and (e) engaging in any Prohibited Conduct with respect to any of the Successor Parties (as that term is defined below).

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

4. This Court has jurisdiction over this adversary proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and § 1334(b). This adversary proceeding is a core proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(A) and (O).

5. Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1409.

6. This adversary proceeding is commenced pursuant to Bankruptcy Rules 7001 and 7065, Bankruptcy Code sections 105(a) and 362, 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202, and applicable Delaware law.

THE PARTIES

7. Plaintiff is a limited liability partnership formed under the laws of Delaware with a business address at 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, Texas 75201.

8. Upon information and belief, HCMFA is a limited partnership with offices located in Dallas, Texas.

9. Upon information and belief, NPA is a limited partnership with offices located in Dallas, Texas.

10. Upon information and belief, Highland Income Fund is an investment fund managed by HCMFA in Dallas, Texas.

11. Upon information and belief, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund is an investment fund managed by NPA in Dallas, Texas.

12. Upon information and belief, NexPoint Capital, Inc. is an investment fund managed by NPA in Dallas, Texas.

13. Upon information and belief, CLO Holdco is a holding company that is directly or indirectly owned and/or managed by Mr. Dondero and others acting on his behalf in Dallas, Texas.

CASE BACKGROUND

14. On October 16, 2019 (the "Petition Date"), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware (the “Delaware Court”), Case No. 19-12239 (CSS) (the “Highland Bankruptcy Case”).

15. On October 29, 2019, the U.S. Trustee in the Delaware Court appointed an Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Committee”) with the following members: (a) Redeemer Committee of Highland Crusader Fund, (b) Meta-e Discovery, (c) UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG London Branch (collectively, “UBS”), and (d) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP LLC (collectively, “Acis”).

16. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Court entered an order transferring venue of the Highland Bankruptcy Case to this Court [Docket No. 186].<sup>2</sup>

17. The Debtor has continued to operate and manage its business as a debtor-in-possession pursuant to Bankruptcy Code sections 1107(a) and 1108. No trustee or examiner has been appointed in this chapter 11 case.

18. On November 24, 2020, the Debtor filed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [Docket No. 1472] (the “Plan”). The Court has scheduled a confirmation hearing on the Plan for January 13, 2021. If confirmed, the Debtor will be succeeded by the Reorganized Debtor and Plan will create a Claimant Trust and a Litigation Sub-Trust (as those terms are defined in the Plan) (the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trust, and the Litigation Sub-Trust are collectively referred to herein as the “Successor Entities,” and together with the Successor Entities’ directors, officers, employees, professionals, and agents, including but not limited to the Claimant Trustee and the Litigation Trustee (as those terms are defined in the Plan), and any professionals engaged by the Claimant Trustee and Litigation Trustee, the “Successor Parties”).

STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. Mr. James Dondero Owns and/or Controls Each of the Defendants

19. Mr. Dondero directly or indirectly owns and/or effectively controls each of the Defendants.

The Advisors and the Funds

20. On December 16, 2020, Mr. Dustin Norris (“Mr. Norris”) testified under oath in support of the Motion for Order Imposing Temporary Restrictions on Debtor’s Ability, as Portfolio Manager, to Initiate Sales by Non-Debtor CLO Vehicles [Docket No. 1528] that was brought by the Advisors and Funds (the “Restriction Motion”).

21. Mr. Norris is the Executive Vice President of each the Advisors and each of the Funds.

22. During the hearing on the Restriction Motion (the “Hearing”), Mr. Norris testified that Mr. Dondero (a) directly or indirectly owns and controls each of the Advisors, and (b) is the portfolio manager of each of the Funds, each of which is advised by one of the Advisors.

23. Mr. Norris’s testimony is corroborated by, among other things, (a) the Funds’ public filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission in which each of the Funds disclosed that the Advisors were owned and controlled by Mr. Dondero, and that Mr. Dondero was the portfolio manager for each of the Funds, and (b) the assertion in a letter dated December 31, 2020, sent on behalf of the Advisors and the Funds, that “Mr. Dondero is the lead (and in some cases the sole) portfolio manager for certain of the Funds. He is intimately involved in the day-to-day operations and investment decisions regarding those Funds and the operations of the Advisors.”

CLO Holdco

24. CLO Holdco is a wholly-owned and controlled subsidiary of the DAF. On information and belief, the DAF is managed by the Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd. (“DAF Holdco”), which is the managing member of the DAF.

25. On information and belief, DAF Holdco is owned by three different charitable foundations: Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc., Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, Inc., and Highland Kansas City Foundation, Inc. (collectively, the “Highland Foundations”). On information and belief, Mr. Dondero is the president and one of the three directors of each of the Highland Foundations. On information and belief, Mr. Grant Scott (“Mr. Scott”), is an intellectual property lawyer based in Raleigh, North Carolina, Mr. Dondero’s college roommate, is also an officer and director of each of the Highland Foundations.

26. Although the Debtor is the non-discretionary investment advisor to the DAF, the Debtor does not have the right or ability to control or direct the DAF or CLO Holdco. Instead, on information and belief, the DAF takes and considers investment and payment advice from the Debtor, but ultimate decisions are in the control of Mr. Scott who acts substantially at Mr. Dondero’s direction.

B. This Court has Entered Two Orders that are Implicated by the Defendants’ Actions and Threatened Actions

27. This Court has entered two Orders that are relevant to the injunctive relief sought by the Debtor.

28. On December 27, 2019, the Debtor filed that certain Motion of the Debtor for Approval of Settlement with the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course [Docket No. 281] (the “Settlement Motion”). On January 9, 2019, this Court entered an Order granting the Settlement Motion [Docket No. 339] (the “Settlement Order”).

29. As part of the Settlement Order, this Court also approved a term sheet (the “Term Sheet”) [Docket No. 354-1] between the Debtor and the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Committee”) pursuant to which Mr. John S. Dubel, Mr. Russell Nelms, and Mr. Seery were appointed to the Board.

30. As required by the Term Sheet, on January 9, 2020, Mr. James Dondero resigned from his roles as an officer and director of Strand and as the Debtor’s President and Chief Executive Officer.

31. Among other things, the Settlement Order directed Mr. Dondero not to “cause any Related Entity to terminate any agreements with the Debtor.”

32. Each of the Defendants is a “Related Entity” as defined in the Term Sheet because each of the Defendants is directly or indirectly owned and/or controlled by Mr. Dondero and/or Mr. Scott.

33. Defendants’ actions and threatened actions also implicate the Order Granting Debtor’s Motion for a Temporary Restraining Order Against James Dondero [Adv. Pro. No. 20-03190-sgj, Docket No. 10], entered on December 10, 2020 (the “TRO” and together with the Settlement Order, the “Orders”).

34. Pursuant to the TRO, the Court temporarily enjoined and restrained Mr. Dondero from, among other things, “interfering with or otherwise impeding, directly or indirectly, the Debtor’s business” and from “causing, encouraging, or conspiring with (a) any entity owned or controlled by [Mr. Dondero], and/or (b) any person or entity acting on his behalf, from, directly or indirectly, engaging in any Prohibited Conduct [as defined in the TRO],” including interfering or impeding the Debtor’s business.

C. Defendants Interfere with and Impede the Debtor's Business and Threaten to Terminate the Debtor's Management Contracts

35. In addition to filing the Restriction Motion, on at least four separate occasions the Defendants have either interfered with and impeded the Debtor's business or have threatened to do so by initiating the process for removing the Debtor as the portfolio manager of the CLOs. Such conduct violates the Orders and flouts the Court's decision on the Restriction Motion and the Court's observations made at the Hearing.

36. First, on December 22, 2020, employees of NPA and HCMFA interfered with and impeded the Debtor's business by refusing to settle the CLOs' sale of AVYA and SKY securities that Mr. Seery had personally authorized. The Advisors engaged in this conduct notwithstanding (a) the denial of the Restriction Motion and the Court's pointed comments during that Hearing on the Restriction Motion, and (b) Mr. Norris's sworn acknowledgments on behalf of the Advisors and Funds during the Hearing that (i) the Debtor's management of the CLOs is governed by written contracts as to which none of the Advisors or Funds are parties; (ii) the Debtor has the exclusive duty and responsibility to buy and sell assets on behalf of the CLOs; and (iii) as the Advisors knew when they invested in the CLOs on behalf of the Funds, that holders of preference shares (such as the Funds) have no right to make investment decisions on behalf of the CLOs.

37. Notably, the Advisors' interference with trades that Mr. Seery authorized on behalf of the CLOs is the same type of conduct that led the Court to impose the TRO against Mr. Dondero. See Declaration of Mr. James P. Seery, Jr. in Support of Debtor's Motion for a Temporary Restraining Order Against Mr. James Dondero [Adv. Pro. No. Docket No. 4] ¶¶21-23, Ex. 8.

38. Second, also on December 22, 2020, the Defendants wrote to the Debtor and renewed their “request” that the Debtor refrain from selling any assets on behalf of the CLOs until the confirmation hearing (the “December 22 Letter”). In support of their “request,” the Debtor re-asserted almost verbatim the arguments advanced in connection with the Restriction Motion – all of which were soundly rejected by the Court.

39. The Debtor responded on December 24, 2020, demanding that Defendants withdraw their December 22 Letter and confirm that neither the Defendants nor anyone acting on their behalf will take any further steps to interfere with the Debtor’s directions as the CLOs’ portfolio manager by the close of business on December 28, 2020. The Defendants failed to comply with the Debtor’s demands.

40. Third, the Defendants threatened to seek to remove the Debtor as the portfolio manager of the CLOs. Specifically, in a letter dated December 23, 2020 (the “December 23 Letter”), the Defendants informed the Debtor that one or more of them “intend to notify the relevant trustee and/or issuers that the process of removing the Debtor as fund manager should be initiated, subject to and with due deference for the applicable provisions of the United State Bankruptcy Code, including the automatic stay of Section 362.”

41. The Debtor responded to the December 23 Letter the next day and advised the Defendants that the Settlement Order prohibited the termination of the Debtor’s management agreements with the CLOs, and that there was no factual, legal, or contractual basis to remove the Debtor as the CLOs’ portfolio manager in any event. The Debtor demanded that the Defendants withdraw their December 23 Letter and commit not to take any actions, directly or indirectly, to terminate the CLO management agreements, by the close of business on December 28, 2020. The Defendants failed to comply with the Debtor’s demands.

42. Because Mr. Dondero owns and/or effectively controls the Defendants, the Debtor forwarded the correspondence between the Debtor and the Defendants, including the Defendant's Letters, to Mr. Dondero's counsel. In response, Mr. Dondero's counsel contended that "[w]hile there are relationships between my client and some of the movants, I believe they are separate entities and should be treated as such."

43. On December 30, 2020, the Debtor specifically requested that the Defendants promptly bring the matters to the Court for resolution by bringing a motion to terminate the CLO management agreements and for related relief, or the Debtors would be forced to commence an action for declaratory relief and bring this Motion in order to bring clarity to the Debtor's contractual rights. In response, Defendants' counsel would not commit to bring any motion, only that they would file an objection to Debtor's plan of reorganization. The Debtor believes that its disputes with the Defendants can and must be promptly resolved.

44. Finally, because Mr. Dondero continues to interfere with the Debtor's business and engage in disruptive behavior, the Debtor gave notice to Mr. Dondero on December 23, 2020, that the Debtor would evict him and terminate all services provided to him, as of December 30, 2020. On December 31, 2020, counsel to the Advisors and the Funds sent a letter to Debtor's counsel (the "December 31 Letter") and together with the December 22 Letter and December 23 Letter, the "Defendants' Letters") contending that the Debtor's decision to remove Mr. Dondero from the Debtor's offices and services was damaging the Advisors and the Funds and implied that the Debtor would be economically responsible for such damage.

45. On January 4, 2021, the Debtor responded to the December 31 Letter by noting that (a) Mr. Dondero did not seek judicial relief, make any of the contentions the advanced in the December 31 Letter, or even complain to the Debtor, (b) no action was taken against Entities, only against Mr. Dondero, (c) Mr. Dondero was given reasonable notice of his eviction and the termination of the Debtor's services to him, such that he could have and should have made alternative arrangements to avoid any disruption, and (d) nothing prevents Mr. Dondero from continuing to work on behalf of the Entities. The Debtor also noted that it will take all steps to protect its interests against any further frivolous claims and threats made by the Defendants.

46. Upon information and belief, Mr. Dondero has taken no steps to cause the Defendants – entities that he owns and/or effectively controls and that are each a “Related Entity” under the Term Sheet – to comply with the Debtor's demands made in response to the Defendants' Letters.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(For Declaratory Relief: -- 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) and Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7001)

47. The Debtor repeats and realleges each of the allegations in each of the foregoing paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

48. A bona fide, actual, present dispute exists between the Plaintiff and the Defendants concerning their respective rights and obligations concerning the CLOs.

49. A judgment declaring the parties' respective rights and obligations will resolve their disputes.

50. Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 7001, the Debtor specifically seeks declarations that:

- Each of the Defendants is directly or indirectly controlled by Mr. Dondero;
- Each of the Defendants is an “affiliate” of the Debtor for purposes of the CLO Management Agreements;
- The Plaintiff has the exclusive contractual right to manage the CLOs;
- The Plaintiff has the exclusive duty and responsibility to buy and sell assets on behalf of the CLOs;

- Holders of preference shares have no right to make investment decisions on behalf of the CLOs;
- The Debtor's decision to evict Mr. Dondero from the Debtor's offices, and to terminate the provision of services to him, did not violate any contract with, or duty owed to, any of the Defendants; and
- The demands and requests set forth in Defendants' Letters constitute interference with the Plaintiff's business and management of the CLOs.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Violation of the automatic stay under section § 362(a) of the Bankruptcy Code)

51. The Debtor repeats and realleges each of the allegations in each of the foregoing paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

52. The Defendants' interference with the Plaintiff's contractual rights and course of dealing violates the automatic stay pursuant to § 362(a) of the Bankruptcy Code.

53. To the extent Defendants engaged in such conduct after the entry of the Court's Order on the Restriction Motion, such conduct was willful.

54. The Plaintiff is entitled to damages in an amount to be determined at trial arising from, and related to, the Defendants' violation of the automatic stay.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Tortious Interference with Contract)

55. The Debtor repeats and realleges each of the allegations in each of the foregoing paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

56. Since November 2020, Defendants have tortuously interfered with the Debtor's CLO management contracts.

57. The Debtors' CLO management contracts constitute are valid contracts, and, upon information and belief, the Debtor knows of the terms and conditions of such contracts because they were prepared and executed at Mr. Dondero's direction.

58. The Defendants have willfully and intentionally impeded the Debtor's ability to fulfill its contractual duties and obligations pursuant to its CLO management contracts, by, among other things, (1) hindering the Debtor's ability to sell certain CLO assets, (2) threatening to initiate the process for removing the Debtor as the portfolio manager of the CLOs, and (3) otherwise attempting to influence and interfere with the Debtor's decisions concerning the purchase or sale of any assets on behalf of the CLOs.

59. Defendants' conduct has proximately caused, and will continue to cause, damage and loss to the Debtor's estate.

60. The Plaintiff is entitled to damages in an amount to be determined at trial arising from, and related to, the Defendants' tortious interference with its CLO management contracts.

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(For Injunctive Relief -- 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) and Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7065)

61. The Debtor repeats and realleges the allegations in each of the foregoing paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

62. Pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 105(a) and Bankruptcy Rule 7065, the Debtor seeks a preliminary and permanent injunction enjoining Defendants from (1) engaging in any Prohibited Conduct, and (2) conspiring, colluding, or collaborating with (a) Mr. Dondero, (b) any entity owned and/or controlled by Mr. Dondero, and/or (c) any person or entity acting on behalf of Mr. Dondero or any entity owned and/or controlled by him, to, directly or indirectly, engage in any Prohibited Conduct.

63. Bankruptcy Code section 105(a) authorizes the Court to issue “any order, process or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title.” 11 U.S.C. §105(a).

64. Bankruptcy Rule 7065 incorporates by reference rule 65 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and authorizes the Court to issue injunctive relief in adversary proceedings.

65. The interference and threats described herein are embodied in written communications and are without any justification, and constitute willful and intentional interferences with the Debtor’s management contracts that, if not prohibited, will cause the Debtor irreparable damages; the Debtor is therefore likely to prevail on its underlying claim for tortious interference with contract.

66. In the absence of injunctive relief, the Debtor will be irreparably harmed because Defendants are likely to engage in some or all of the Prohibited Conduct, thereby interfering with the Debtor’s operations, management of assets, and contractual obligations, all to the detriment of the Debtor, its estate, its creditors and the creditors and stakeholders of the Successor Entities.

67. In light of, among other things, (a) the Debtor’s status as a debtor in bankruptcy subject to the jurisdiction of this Court, (b) the Settlement Order and Term Sheet, (c) Mr. Dondero’s resignations as the Debtor’s President and CEO and later as portfolio manager and an employee, (d) the authority vested in the Board and Mr. Seery, as CEO and CRO, (e) the TRO, (f) Mr. Norris’s testimony during the Hearing, and (g) the Court’s denial of the Restriction Motion, there is no legal or equitable basis for Defendants to engage in any of the Prohibited Conduct, and the balance of the equities strongly favors the Debtor in the request to enjoin Defendants from engaging in any Prohibited Conduct.

68. Injunctive relief would serve the public interest by re-enforcing the implicit mandate in the Bankruptcy Code that debtors and their successors are to be managed and controlled only by court-authorized representatives, free from threats and coercion.

69. Based on the foregoing, the Debtor requests that the Court preliminarily and permanently enjoin Defendants from engaging in any Prohibited Conduct or from causing, encouraging, or conspiring with Mr. Dondero, or any entity controlled by Mr. Dondero or agent acting on Mr. Dondero's behalf, from engaging in any Prohibited Conduct.

PRAYER

WHEREFORE, the Debtor prays for judgment as follows:

- (a) On the First Cause of Action, a judgment declaring that: (i) each of the Defendants is directly or indirectly controlled by Mr. Dondero, (ii) each of the Defendants is an “affiliate” of the Debtor for purposes of the CLO Management Agreements; (iii) the Plaintiff has the exclusive contractual right to manage the CLOs; (iv) the Plaintiff has the exclusive duty and responsibility to buy and sell assets on behalf of the CLOs; (v) holders of preference shares have no right to make investment decisions on behalf of the CLOs; (vi) the Debtor’s decision to evict Mr. Dondero from the Debtor’s offices, and to terminate the provision of services to him, did not violate any contract with, or duty owed to, any of the Defendants; and (vii) the demands and requests set forth in Defendants’ Letters constitute interference with the Plaintiff’s business and management of the CLOs;
- (b) On the Second Cause of Action, damages in an amount to be determined at trial arising from Defendants’ violation of the automatic stay;
- (c) On the Third Cause of Action, damages in an amount to be determined at trial arising from the Defendants’ tortious interference with the Plaintiff’s CLO management contracts;
- (d) On the Fourth Cause of Action, a preliminary and permanent injunction enjoining Defendants from conspiring, colluding, or collaborating with (a) Mr. Dondero, (b) any entity owned and/or controlled by Mr. Dondero, and/or (c) any person or entity acting on behalf of Mr. Dondero or any entity owned and/or controlled by him, to, directly or indirectly, engage in any Prohibited Conduct;
- (h) For such other and further relief as this Court deems just and proper.

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - JANUARY 26, 2021 - 9:40 A.M.

2                   THE COURT: All right. We have Highland settings
3 this morning: a Motion for Approval of a KERP, which I didn't
4 see objections to, and then a Preliminary Injunction hearing.
5 Let me get appearances from the parties who have filed
6 pleadings.

7                   For the Debtor team, I see Mr. Morris. Who do we have 8 appearing?

9                   MR. POMERANTZ: Good morning, Your Honor. It's Jeff
10 Pomerantz and John Morris appearing on behalf of the Debtor.
11 I will handle the KERP motion, which we'll propose goes first 12 and quickly, and then Mr. Morris will handle the adversary
13 proceeding.

14                  THE COURT: All right. Very good.

15                  All right. Let me get appearances from the Defendants in 16 the preliminary injunction matter. Do we have Mr. Kane or 17 someone for CLO Holdco?

18                  MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. John Kane for CLO
19 Holdco, Ltd.

20                  THE COURT: All right. What about for the Funds and 21 Advisors? I guess we have a couple of law firms involved.
22 Who do we have appearing for the K&L Gates firm?

23                  MR. HOGEWOOD: Good morning, Your Honor. This is Lee
24 Hogewood with K&L Gates, and also with our firm appearing 25 today is Emily Mather.

1 THE COURT: Okay. I didn't get Emily's last name.
2 Could you repeat that?

3 MR. HOGEWOOD: I'm sorry, Your Honor. Emily Mather,
4 M-A-T-H-E-R.

5 THE COURT: Thank you.

6 All right. For the Munsch Hardt team, do we have Mr.
7 Rukavina or someone else appearing?

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, good morning. This is 9 Davor Rukavina. I represent all of the Defendants in the 10 adversary except CLO Holdco.

11 Pursuant to the Court's instructions, Mr. Dondero is also 12 present here in my conference room, so he is here. He is not 13 on the camera, but he is here.

14 THE COURT: Okay. All right. And does Mr. Dondero
15 have counsel, his individual counsel appearing today?

16 MR. WILSON: Your Honor, John Wilson for Jim Dondero.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Do we have Creditors'
18 Committee lawyers on the phone today?

19 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor. Good morning.
20 Matthew Clemente; Sidley Austin; on behalf of the Official
21 Committee of Unsecured Creditors.

22 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

23 All right. Well, obviously, if any other lawyer is dying
24 to chime in at some point today, I will consider letting that 25 happen. But, again, I think we've got the parties who have

1 filed pleadings having appeared at this point. So, let's turn
2 to the KERP motion. Mr. Pomerantz?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, Your Honor. Good morning again.
4 On January 19th, the Debtor filed its motion for approval of a
5 Key Employee Retention Program which would substitute out its 6 annual bonus plan.

7 We have not received any opposition to the motion,
8 although the United States Trustee did ask some questions
9 which we are prepared to address in connection with the 10 proposed proffer of Mr. Seery's testimony. I'm happy to make 11 a full presentation of the motion to Your Honor, if you would 12 like, or I could just present Mr. Seery's proffer, which I
13 should -- which I believe will establish the factual predicate
14 and the evidence to support the motion.

15 THE COURT: All right. Let's just go straight to the 16 proffer, please.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.

18 PROFFER OF TESTIMONY OF JAMES P. SEERY

19 MR. POMERANTZ: Mr. Seery is on the video today, and 20 if he was called to testify he would testify that his name is 21 James P. Seery, Jr. and that he is the chief executive officer
22 and chief restructuring officer of Highland Capital
23 Management.

24 He would also testify that he was one of the independent
25 directors appointed to the Court on January 9th, 2020.

1 Because of his role with the Debtor, he is familiar with the
2 company's day-to-day operations, including its -- the 3 company's employee and wage benefit and bonus plans relating 4 to the employees.

5 He would testify that he has been involved in the 6 negotiation and drafting of the company's plan of 7 reorganization, and is familiar with the expected operation of 8 the Claimant Trust and Reorganized Debtor post-confirmation in 9 connection with the plan.

10 He would testify that the plan generally provides for the 11 monetization of the company's assets for the benefit of 12 creditors and stakeholders, and he would testify that, as part
13 of the plan process, he worked closely with DSI, the company's 14 financial advisor, to assess both the costs of the Debtor's 15 current employee base and the projected cost of operations in 16 connection with the Reorganized Debtor and Claimant Trust
17 following the effective date.

18 He would testify that, to ensure the continued smooth
19 operation of the company in connection with the continuation
20 and consummation of the plan for the benefit of all
21 stakeholders, that he worked with DSI to determine the 22 appropriate staffing needs necessary for the company's 23 remaining operations.

24 He would testify that he analyzed the current employees to 25 determine which, if any, would need to be continued to be

1 retained by the Debtor and operate during the Reorganized
2 Debtor and Claimant Trust period following the effective date
3 of the plan.

4 He would testify as part of that analysis he reviewed the 5 roles and functions of the non-insider employees with respect
6 to the services that they needed, and he reviewed the wages,
7 benefits, and bonuses for those remaining non-insider
8 employees necessary for those functions.

9 He would testify, that based upon his review, the company
10 determined that it was in the best interests of the estate to 11 terminate the existing annual bonus plan, as it was no longer
12 necessary to effectively incentivize the remaining non-insider
13 employees who would be terminated prior to being entitled to 14 any further payments under the annual bonus plan.

15 He would testify that, instead, the company developed a 16 new retention plan that was designed to incentivize the non-17 insider employees to remain with the company for as long as 18 they are needed to assist in the effectuation of the plan.

19 He would testify that Mr. Waterhouse and Surgent, arguably
20 two insiders of the Debtor, are not eligible for the retention
21 plan, and that's not because there is any concern regarding 22 their loyalty, but the Debtor is looking at ways to 23 appropriately incentivize and compensate those people as 24 appropriate in the future.

25 He would testify that there are a few persons on the list

1 of people who are part of the retention plan with a title that
2 includes director or manager; however, he would testify that
3 none of those individuals are corporate officers or directors
4 of the Debtors -- the Debtor, and that the titles are for 5 convenience only. He would testify that the individuals who 6 are employed in these roles do not have any authority
7 whatsoever to make any decisions on behalf of the Debtor.

8 He would testify that in connection with the new retention
9 plan, the non-insider employees may be offered the opportunity
10 to enter into a termination agreement with the company that 11 will provide specified benefits and payments in return for the 12 non-insider employee remaining as an employee in good standing
13 with the company through the separation date.

14 He would testify that a key component of the retention
15 plan is that non-insider employees will be entitled to the 16 specific bonus payments provided that they do not voluntarily
17 terminate their employment with the Debtor prior to the 18 separation date and are not terminated for cause.

19 He would testify that that is in contrast to the existing 20 or the prior annual bonus plan, which provided that non-21 insider employees would not receive their bonus payments if 22 they were not employed by the Debtor on the vesting date for 23 any reason except on account of disability, including 24 termination without cause.

25 Mr. Seery would further testify that the retention plan is

10

1 being offered to approximately 53 employees, and the projected
2 aggregate amount of payments under the retention plan is
3 approximately $1,481,000, which is $32,000 approximately less
4 than the amount that would have been paid to such employees
5 under the annual bonus plan.

6 He would testify that the retention plan includes 20
7 employees who are not entitled to benefits under the annual
8 bonus plan. Fourteen employees are entitled to receive more
9 under the retention plan than they would have received under 10 the annual bonus plan.

11 With respect to the 20 employees I've previously mentioned
12 who are not otherwise entitled to receive anything under the 13 annual bonus plan, the vast majority of those -- 18 -- will be 14 entitled to payments of $2,500 each, and the other two 15 entitled to payments of $10,000 and $7,500, respectively.

16 Mr. Seery would testify that he believes that these 17 additional payments are reasonable in light of the current 18 status of the company and the value to be added to the estate
19 through the retention of these employees, and that this plan
20 is more accurately and narrowly-tailored to achieve the 21 company's reorganization goals.

22 On this basis, Your Honor, Mr. Seery would testify that he 23 presented the proposed retention plan to the independent
24 directors and they agreed with Mr. Seery's assessment that 25 entry into the retention plan was in the best interests of the 11

1 estate and its creditors.

2 He would also testify that he had negotiations with the 3 Creditors' Committee and its advisors regarding the retention
4 plan and that the Committee is supportive of the retention
5 plan.

6 And that would conclude my proffer of testimony from Mr.
7 Seery, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, if you could say
9 "Testing, one, two" so we can catch your audio and video,
10 please?

11 MR. SEERY: Testing, one, two, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: All right. There you are. Please raise 13 your right hand.

14 JAMES P. SEERY, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

15 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Is there anyone
16 who has questions at this time for Mr. Seery?

17 (No response.0

18 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'll just double-check
19 with the Committee. It's been represented that you all are in 20 support of this. Mr. Clemente, if you could confirm that on 21 the record?

22 MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct, Your Honor. The 23 Committee has no objection to the motion, so Mr. Pomerantz's
24 statements are accurate.

25 THE COURT: All right. Anyone else?

1 MS. LAMBERT: This is Lisa Lambert for the United
2 States Trustee. The U.S. Trustee has reviewed the actual data
3 about the comparatives, and the U.S. Trustee, based on the 4 stipulations, has no objection.

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Anyone else?

6 All right. Well, the Court will approve this motion.
7 First, while the notice was expedited, the Court finds that it
8 was sufficient under the circumstances. We are many months
9 into the case, it's been vetted by the Committee, and the 10 Court is satisfied with the level of notice here.

11 The Court finds that this is a KERP that is justified by 12 all the facts and circumstance of this case, to use the 13 wording of Section 503(c)(3) of the Bankruptcy Code. There
14 also appears to be a very sound business purpose justifying
15 the proposed KERP. It appears to be reasonable in all ways,
16 and fair under the circumstances, so I do approve it.

17 All right. So if you all will get the order uploaded
18 electronically, I will promise to sign it promptly.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: We will do so, Your Honor. Thank
20 you.

21 THE COURT: All right. So, the preliminary
22 injunction. Mr. Morris, I heard you were going to be taking 23 the lead on that, so go ahead.

24 MR. MORRIS: Indeed. Good morning, Your Honor. John
25 Morris; Pachulski, Stang, Ziehl & Jones; for the Debtor.

1 THE COURT: Good morning.

2 MR. MORRIS: A few items before I give what I hope
3 will be an informative opening statement. I trust that Your
4 Honor has not had the opportunity, because it was just filed a
5 moment ago, to see that the Debtor filed on the docket notice
6 of a settlement with CLO Holdco, Ltd., one of the Defendants
7 here today.

8 THE COURT: I have not seen that. Okay.

9 MR. MORRIS: Right. So you'll find that at Docket
10 1838.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. MORRIS: It really is a very simple settlement,
13 Your Honor. In exchange for the withdrawal of CLO Holdco's
14 objection to the Debtor's plan of reorganization, the Debtor
15 is dismissing CLO Holdco from this adversary proceeding with 16 prejudice. There are, you know, some other bells and whistles
17 there, the most important of which to the Debtor is simply 18 that, under the CLO management agreements, most of them but 19 not all of them require that a level of cause be established
20 before the contracts can be terminated, and CLO Holdco has 21 agreed that, before it seeks to terminate a contract for 22 cause, there will be a gating provision or a gatekeeping
23 provision that requires them to come to this Court to simply 24 establish whether or not there is a colorable claim -- not for 25 a determination on the merits, but simply to protect the

1 Debtor from frivolous lawsuits.

2 So that's really the sum and substance of it. Mr. Kane is 3 on the line now, and if I've either inaccurately or 4 incompletely characterized the settlement, I'm sure he'll take
5 the opportunity to supplement the record. But we don't see
6 any need, really, to go through a full 9019 motion here.
7 There's no releases. There's no exchange of money. It's the 8 withdrawal of a plan objection in consideration for the 9 dismissal of an injunctive proceeding.

10 So we did want to alert you to that. And as a result,
11 there was one witness that we intended to call today, Grant
12 Scott. Mr. Scott is the director of CLO Holdco. And with the 13 resolution of the issues between the Debtor and CLO Holdco, we 14 have no intention of calling Mr. Scott today. But I'd like to 15 give Mr. Kane an opportunity to be heard just in case he's got 16 anything to add.

17 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Kane, can you confirm?
18 Do you have anything to change about what you heard?

19 MR. KANE: Your Honor, I do not. The settlement
20 agreement speaks for itself. We did reach an agreement with 21 Debtor's counsel and the Debtor yesterday evening, fairly late
22 in the evening. Mr. Morris's synopsis of the proposed
23 settlement is accurate. The Debtor has agreed to dismiss CLO
24 Holdco from the preliminary injunction adversary proceeding
25 with prejudice.

15

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, thank you. I've pulled
2 it up on my screen. It's very short and to the point. And I
3 agree with the comment of Mr. Morris that I don't think a
4 formal 9019 motion is required here, given no consideration is
5 going back and forth, or releases. It's just exactly as you
6 described orally. So, I appreciate that. It simplifies a
7 little bit what we have set today. And we will accept this
8 settlement as being in place as we roll forward. All right?
9 Thank you.

10 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

11 So, before I get to the substance of the argument, I would 12 like to take care of some housekeeping items relative to 13 today's proceedings.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. MORRIS: You know, this has been a bit of a
16 challenge for me personally, and it's going to be a little bit
17 of a challenge today for Ms. Canty, my assistant, in part
18 because it's almost like Groundhog's Day. This is, I think,
19 the third time that we're covering some of the same issues.
20 We had covered them the first time on December 16th in 21 connection with what I'll now just simply refer to as the 22 Defendants, the Defendants' motion to try to limit the Debtor
23 from trading the CLO assets. We heard a lot of what we're 24 going to hear today again on January 8th in connection with 25 the preliminary injunction motion against Mr. Dondero. And so

16

1 there's already a ton of evidence in the record. We do
2 believe that we need to present our evidence today, but one of 3 the challenges that we'll face, and I think we'll be able to 4 do it efficiently, Your Honor, is there may just be some back
5 and forth between various documents. But everything's gone
6 pretty smoothly, and I'm optimistic we'll get through that 7 part of it today.

8 So I want to deal with the exhibits themselves, Your 9 Honor. As you may have seen, there have been a number of 10 different filings relating to the Debtor's exhibits for this
11 particular motion, and I just want to go through the exhibits
12 and make sure that we're all on the same page here. I want to 13 tell the Court exactly what happened and why and where we are 14 today.

15 The Debtor timely filed its original witness and exhibit
16 list on January 22nd. They filed that witness and exhibit
17 list at Docket 39 in this Adversary Proceeding 21-3000. The 18 exhibit list referenced Exhibits A through I'll just say
19 AAAAA. It was a lot of exhibits, and somebody had the wise
20 idea to convert them to numbers, but it wasn't me, so I can't 21 take credit. But we're left with letters, and they go from A
22 through AAAAA.

23 After filing that initial exhibit list, we realized that 24 --

25 (Interruption.)

1 THE COURT: All right. Does someone have their
2 device unmuted? Okay. It went away. Go ahead, Mr. Morris.

3 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. So, shortly after filing
4 that initial exhibit list, we realized that we forgot to file
5 among the exhibits AAAAA. So at Docket #40 in the adversary
6 proceeding, the Court can find Debtor's Exhibit AAAAA.

7 And then we're going to -- I'm going to refer in a few
8 minutes -- I'm going to use in a few minutes some 9 demonstrative exhibits, and I'm going to use them again with 10 Mr. Seery. And these exhibits concern trading in AVYA and SKY
11 securities that you've heard about previously.

12 But I'm pointing that out now because I'm kind of old
13 school, Your Honor, and I won't use a demonstrative exhibit if 14 it doesn't have the evidence in the record. And what we 15 realized, Your Honor, is we made two additional mistakes on 16 Friday with all the papers that we filed. The backup for 17 these demonstratives was mistakenly included on the exhibit
18 list for the confirmation hearing as opposed to the 19 preliminary injunction hearing. That was error number one.
20 And error number two, we hadn't redacted the information to 21 show only the SKY and AVYA.

22 And that's why, Your Honor, at Docket #48, you will find
23 our amended exhibit list that includes what we have identified
24 as Exhibits BBBB as in boy through SSSS as in Sam. And 25 those exhibits, Your Honor, are the backup to the

1 demonstrative exhibits. I don't expect to use them at all,
2 but I do believe strongly that one should not use a
3 demonstrative exhibit unless the evidence is in the record to 4 support it, and now it is.

5 So that's why, Your Honor, I do appreciate your court
6 staff. I do appreciate Your Honor. I think you either had 7 before you and you may have signed an order on redacting.
8 This is what it was all about. It was just to make sure we 9 had the proper evidence in the record, so I appreciate that.

10 At this time, Your Honor, I think, just because I'll be 11 referring to it in the opening, the Debtor would move for the 12 admission into evidence of Exhibits A through SSSSS.

13 THE COURT: All right. Is there any objection?

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, there is. Your Honor, I
15 object to UUUU. I'll object to VVVV as in Victor. I object
16 to AAAAA. That's it, Your Honor.

17 I will note that there are several exhibits in here of 18 relevance to CLO Holdco that may not be relevant to my 19 clients, but those are my limited objections for now.

20 THE COURT: All right. Before we ask the nature of 21 your objection, let me ask Mr. Morris: Shall we just --

22 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

23 THE COURT: -- carve these out for now, and then if 24 you want to offer them the old-fashioned way, we'll hear the 25 objection then?

19

1 MR. MORRIS: Yes, although I can make it very clear
2 that UUUU should not be in there precisely because it's
3 demonstrative. We had talked that yesterday and I agreed; I
4 just forgot that. UUUU should not be part of the record.

5 THE COURT: Okay. And so you'll just decide later do
6 you want to offer VVVV and AAAAA the old-fashioned way?

7 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

8 THE COURT: All right. So, for the record, I am
9 admitting by stipulation -- with three exceptions I'll note --
10 all of the exhibits of the Debtor that appear at Exhibits 39
11 and, well, and 48. And we're carving out of that admission
12 UUUU, VVVV, and AAAAA, which actually appears at Exhibit --
13 Docket Entry 40. Those are not admitted at this time.

14 (Debtor's Exhibits A through SSSS, exclusive of Exhibits
15 UUUU, VVVV, and AAAAA, are received into evidence.)

16 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead, Mr. Morris.

17 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, Your Honor, while we're talking
19 about housekeeping -- Mr. Morris, I apologize. Is there more
20 housekeeping?

21 MR. MORRIS: I'd like to continue. I was going to 22 describe the witnesses.

23 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

24 MR. MORRIS: So, Your Honor, the Debtor is going to 25 call three witnesses today. The first witness will be Mr.

1 Dondero, the second will be Jason Post, and then the third
2 will be Mr. Seery.

3 Obviously, Mr. Dondero and Mr. Seery are very familiar to 4 the Court and they will cover much but not all of the same
5 ground that you've heard previously.

6 Mr. Post, I believe, is a new witness appearing in this
7 court for the first time. I understand that he is the chief
8 compliance officer of each of the Debtors [sic]. He had 9 worked at Highland Capital Management, the Debtor, for more
10 than a decade, I believe, but moved over to NexPoint to work
11 with Mr. Dondero shortly after Mr. Dondero resigned from 12 Highland Capital on or about October 10th last year.

13 So those are the three witnesses that we plan to present
14 today, and I'd like to describe briefly kind of what we think
15 the evidence will show.

16 The theme from our perspective here, Your Honor, is that 17 this is a case that is about power and not rights. The Debtor
18 brings this motion for preliminary injunction in order to 19 protect itself from the interference of Mr. Dondero and the 20 Defendants, entities that there will be no dispute he owns and 21 controls.

22 You may have read in the papers, and I suspect you will 23 hear today from the Defendants, the clarion call for 24 contractual rights and the need for this Court to protect 25 their contractual rights. This is a red herring, Your Honor.

1 There are no contractual rights at issue here. What Mr.
2 Dondero and the Defendants really want is to maintain control,
3 or at least to deny Mr. Seery from exercising the Debtor's
4 valuable contractual rights. If there are any contractual
5 rights at issue here, it is the Debtor's. The Debtor is the 6 party to the CLO management agreements, and it's those very 7 rights that are being infringed upon.

8 This was supposed to have been resolved 53 or 54 weeks ago
9 now, Your Honor, when Mr. Dondero agreed and this Court
10 ordered that Mr. Dondero could not use related entities to 11 terminate any of the Debtor's agreements. There is no dispute
12 that each of the Defendants is a related entity for purposes
13 of the January 9th order, since Mr. Dondero and Mr. Norris
14 have already testified that the Defendants are owned and/or 15 controlled by Mr. Dondero.

16 Notwithstanding the plain language of the January 9th
17 order, which Mr. Dondero not only agreed to, but it may be one
18 of the very few orders in this case that he hasn't appealed,
19 notwithstanding the plain language, Your Honor, he persists,
20 and that is why we are here.

21 How do we know that this is about power and not rights?
22 How do we know that everything that's going to be described
23 for you, what the evidence is going to show that this is about 24 power and not rights, is very simple. Mr. Dondero and Mr.
25 Post will testify -- I'm just going to give four, five, six

22

1 examples here -- are going to testify that Mr. Seery's AVYA
2 trades were not in the Funds' best interests. It's an
3 irrelevant point, Your Honor. There is no contractual right
4 that gives them the ability to terminate because they don't 5 like trades that are being made. They can sell. If they
6 don't like it, they can sell. That's what's really funny
7 about this.

8 But what's -- what makes it even more clear that this is 9 about power and not rights is the evidence is going to show
10 that Mr. Dondero sold AVYA shares throughout 2020. He sold
11 those shares right up until the day he resigned. And yet six
12 days after resigning, NexPoint sends a letter saying, Don't 13 sell any assets.

14 Ms. Canty, can we put up Exhibit number -- Demonstrative
15 Exhibit 1, please?

16 Okay, Your Honor. We have redacted this to shield from 17 public disclosure the name of each fund that's trading, but 18 the backup, as I alluded to earlier, in Exhibits BBBBB through 19 SSSSS, some portion of those documents, that's where these 20 demonstrative figures come from.

21 And as you can see, beginning on January 29, 2000,
22 continuing through the bottom of the page, October 9th, 2020,
23 when Mr. Dondero left Highland Capital, he traded millions and 24 millions and millions of dollars in AVYA stock.

25 Can we go to Demonstrative Exhibit #2, please?

1 This chart is really -- no, I apologize if I -- the other
2 one. The AVYA trading activity chart. Yeah.

3 This one is really interesting, Your Honor, because it
4 shows the trading throughout the year of AVYA stock, and you
5 can see the brown bars there represent Mr. Dondero's trades.
6 And you can see just how many trades there are. There are 7 over a million shares, I think, if you added it up. They're 8 represented by the brown bars. You can see him selling AVYA
9 stock throughout the period, sometimes at a price really near 10 its bottom.

11 And then Mr. Seery tries and actually does sell some stock
12 toward the end of the year. That's the green bars on the 13 right. A very, very tiny amount compared to Mr. Dondero. And 14 he sells it at a substantially greater price than Mr. Dondero
15 sold the AVYA stock. And yet they're here telling you, Your 16 Honor, that somehow Mr. Seery is mismanaging the CLOs and they 17 disagree with what he's doing and he's not acting in the best
18 interests of the investors. That's what they want -- but this 19 is what the evidence shows, Your Honor.

20 With respect to SKY, if we could go to the next slide,
21 please.

22 So this is SKY. Now, Mr. Dondero did not trade any SKY
23 securities, but Mr. Seery did. And this was another security
24 -- and we'll get to the evidence in a moment -- that Mr.
25 Dondero interfered with and tried to stop. So Mr. Seery

1 succeeded sometimes and he was stopped sometimes, but the
2 point is, Your Honor, look at the price that Mr. Seery sold.

3 And remember, you heard this before and you're going to 4 hear it again. Nobody from the Defendants ever asked Mr.
5 Seery, Why do you want to trade this? Not that they even had 6 to. Not that Mr. Seery needs to defend himself, frankly.
7 He's got the authority under the management contracts to act
8 in the way that he thinks is in the best interest. But look 9 at this chart. He made these sales, Your Honor, at more than 10 twice the price of the bottom.

11 How can they have any credibility? How can Mr. Dondero
12 and Mr. Post come into this courtroom and assert that Mr.
13 Seery is doing anything other than a fabulous job? He is 14 selling at the top of the market. Because they think that 15 some high -- in the future, it's going to go higher? It's 16 prudent, Your Honor.

17 Mr. Seery is going to tell you the work that he did. He 18 is going to give you the rationale for his decisions. And the 19 only conclusion that I hope and believe the Court will be able 20 to reach is that these were not only rational decisions but 21 they were prudent, taking some money off the table when the 22 stock was near its high.

23 That's how we know, this is more evidence how we know this 24 is about power. It's not about rights. It's not about 25 justice. It's not about anything having to do with anything

1 other than Mr. Dondero wanting to maintain control.

2       How else do we know? What other evidence is there that 3 this is about power and not rights? Again, the timing. The 4 calendar here is going to be very, very important. The first
5 demand from NexPoint from the Defendants that Mr. Seery stop
6 trading came on October 16th. It was less than a week after 7 Mr. Dondero -- like, where does this come from? There's no
8 right to demand stopping of trading. You don't get to do it.
9 And they're going to minimize it. They're going to spend the 10 whole day, Your Honor, either -- either focusing on the law or 11 trying to minimize. And they'll say, well, it was just a 12 request, Your Honor. And if it was a third-party request, I
13 bet Mr. Seery -- Mr. Seery is going to tell you, if it was a
14 third party, he wouldn't care. But when you put all of this 15 together, it is oppressive. It is an exertion -- it's an 16 attempt at exertion of control. That's how it's perceived and 17 that's actually what happened.

18       Do you need more evidence? Again, they'll talk about 19 termination for cause and how they have the right and the 20 Court -- you, Your Honor, don't have the power to infringe
21 upon their contractual rights. But there will be no evidence.
22 Absolutely none. Mr. Post is going to tell you, in fact, that 23 he has no evidence of any breach, of any default, of any 24 reason whatsoever that cause might exist for the termination
25 of these contracts. That's how you know this is about power

1 and not rights.

2 Last point on the issue of power versus rights: Who were
3 the counterparties to the CLO agreements? Did the CLO Issuers
4 -- where are they? They're not here. They're not here to 5 tell the Court that Mr. Seery is breaching his duty. They're 6 not here to tell the Court that the Debtor is in default. In 7 fact, what Mr. Seery is going to tell you, and it won't be
8 rebutted, is that the CLO Issuers are close to finalizing a
9 deal that will permit the Debtor to assume the CLO management
10 contracts.

11 Mr. Post or Mr. Dondero might get up on the stand today
12 and say, oh, because people have left the firm, that somehow
13 they don't have the ability to service the contracts anymore.
14 You know who doesn't believe that? The contractual
15 counterparty, the Issuers. It's about power, Your Honor.
16 It's not about rights.

17 There is substantial evidence that warrants the imposition
18 of a preliminary injunction, substantial evidence, much of 19 which you've heard already.

20 The October and November letters demanding or requesting 21 that the Debtor halt trades. There's no right to that.

22 Mr. Dondero's interference with the support of Joe Sowin,
23 the Advisors' trader, around Thanksgiving, when they actively 24 moved in. And it's in the emails. It's in the record. We'll 25 put in the record again.

1 And then he made the threat to Thomas Surgent -- Mr.
2 Dondero made the threat to Thomas Surgent about potential
3 personal liability.

4 The ridiculous -- remember the ridiculous motion that was 5 heard on December 16th, a motion so devoid of factual or legal 6 basis that the Court granted the Debtor a directed verdict and 7 dismissed the motion as frivolous? Notably, neither Mr.
8 Dondero nor Mr. Post testified at that hearing. Yet, within a
9 week, Your Honor -- the hearing was on a Wednesday. The 10 hearing was on Wednesday, December 16th. The Court entered 11 the order on Friday, December 18th. On Monday, December 21st, 12 the next business day, Mr. Dondero and Mr. Post and the 13 lawyers for the Defendants held conference calls to figure out
14 what to do next.

15 And the very next day, the evidence is going to show --
16 it's already in the record -- Mr. Dondero again actively 17 stopped Mr. Seery's trades from being effectuated. They sent 18 their first letter. This is less than a week after that 19 hearing, Your Honor. They sent another letter asking the 20 Debtor -- again, they requested -- minimize -- this is what 21 you're going to hear: Well, we just sent a letter requesting 22 no more trading.

23 What happened the next day, December 23rd? They send 24 another letter and they say, We're thinking about terminating
25 the contracts. Now we think we're going to terminate the

1 contracts. And we just want to let you know we're thinking
2 about terminating the contracts.

3 And we call them -- and Mr. Seery is going to testify to 4 this -- we say, What are you doing? Every time we just said,
5 Please withdraw your letter. There's no basis for doing this.
6 Leave us alone and let us do our job. They wouldn't -- they 7 refused to withdraw the letter.

8 And finally -- again, Mr. Seery will testify to this -- we 9 told them, If you think you really have a basis for 10 terminating the contract, make your motion to lift the stay.
11 And if you don't, the Debtor will file the motion that brings
12 us here today.

13 And that's how we got here, because they continued to 14 interfere with the trading. They continued to send these 15 specious letters that are implicit threats. Mr. Seery is 16 going to tell you that every one of these, he -- is an 17 implicit threat. We asked them, Just withdraw the letters and 18 stop it. We asked them to make their own motion if you think 19 so strongly of it. They wouldn't do that, either. They just 20 want it hanging out there. They just want it all hanging out
21 there over Mr. Seery's head so that he knows somebody's --
22 somebody's watching and somebody's planning, you know, to take 23 action.

24 It's not right, Your Honor. They have no right to any of 25 this. There's nothing in the contract that allows them to

1 make even a good-faith -- to make any claim that they have
2 cause to terminate the contract. They have no right under any
3 circumstances to stop Mr. Seery from trading.

4 What they are going to tell you is there's no agreement
5 between the Advisors and the Debtor that requires the Advisors
6 to execute the trades. And they're right about that. They're 7 actually right about that. But here's the thing, Your Honor.
8 What Mr. Seery is going to tell you is that Advisors has the 9 trading desk. For more than a decade, they executed the 10 trades. Through the entirety of this bankruptcy case, until 11 Mr. Dondero left Highland, they executed the trades. Even 12 after Mr. Dondero left Highland in October, they continued to 13 execute the trades. And on December 22nd, they fold their 14 hands and they say, Nope, I don't care about the course of 15 dealing, I don't care what impact it has, you can't make me do
16 it. So Mr. Seery has tried end-arounds, and that'll be in the 17 record, too, and that's when the threats to Surgent come.
18 That's when the threat to Surgent come, when we try to do the 19 workaround. Cannot do it.

20 This is just not right, Your Honor. It's just not right.
21 There's order -- there's the January 9th order. There was the 22 TRO that was in effect that we're going to hear about again,
23 because that TRO not only applied to Mr. Dondero, it prevented
24 him from conspiring with or even encouraging a related entity
25 from engaging in prohibited conduct. And that prohibited

1 conduct, as Your Honor knows, because it's your order, is
2 plain and as unambiguous as can possibly be: Don't interfere
3 with the Debtor's business. It's all we're asking for. It's 4 the only reason we're here today.

5 Interestingly, Your Honor, probably the best piece of 6 evidence that I'll put in front of you today are going to be 7 the words out of Mr. Post's mouth, because basically what he's 8 going to tell you is that, as chief compliance officer, he has 9 never once in the history of his employment told Mr. Dondero
10 to stop. In fact, what he's going to tell you is that he 11 defers to the investment professionals, and that but for the 12 TRO that is consensually in place today, it would depend on 13 the facts and circumstances as to whether or not he actually 14 does anything as chief compliance officer to stop this 15 conduct. Depends on the -- maybe he can explain to Your Honor
16 what facts and circumstances he thinks, as chief compliance
17 officer, would allow the Advisors to interfere with the 18 Debtor's business. It'll be interesting to hear him answer
19 that question.

20 That's all I have, Your Honor. I look forward to 21 presenting the evidence today. I'd like this done once and 22 for all. It's time to move on. And the Debtor -- the Debtor
23 is in bankruptcy. Your Honor, I think, has every power, every 24 right, and frankly, you know -- I feel very strongly about 25 this, obviously, Your Honor -- the Debtor needs the breathing

31

1 space and to be left alone so it can do its job. And we'll
2 respectfully request at the end of this that the Court enter
3 an order allowing it to do so.

4 Thank you, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: All right. We were hearing some 6 distortion there, I'm not sure where it was coming from, but 7 we'll try to keep it reined in.

8 Mr. Rukavina, your opening statement.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, thank you. Can the Court
10 hear me?

11 THE COURT: Yes.

12 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF CERTAIN DEFENDANTS

13 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I think it's important
14 first to note a few obvious things. One, what we're talking
15 about today is enjoining future rights, future rights under a
16 contract. Hearing Mr. Morris's opening, it sounds like we're 17 trying a breach of contract case. There is no declaratory
18 relief sought for whether there is grounds for a breach of 19 contract case. And prior to assumption and prior to 20 confirmation, the automatic stay applies.

21 So let me be clear that what they're asking the Court to 22 do today is to excise from these contracts our rights in the 23 future, effectively for all time, as I'll explain.

24 The second thing that merits real consideration is that it
25 is the Funds, Your Honor, not the Advisors, it is the Funds

1 that have the right to remove the Debtor as manager.

2 Those Funds, as you will hear, have independent boards.
3 Mr. Dondero doesn't own those Funds. He's not on those
4 boards. He doesn't control them.

5 When Mr. Morris talks about Mr. Norris's prior testimony,
6 that testimony was limited to the Advisors. And yes, Mr.
7 Dondero does own the Advisors, and Mr. Dondero, while I won't
8 say controls the Advisors, certainly has a lot of input. That 9 is not the case for the Funds, which are the ones with the 10 contractual powers here to remove the Debtor.

11 You will hear that those -- that that board or those 12 boards meet frequently, they have independent counsel, and 13 they take separate actions, including very recently where they 14 did not do something that was advised and acted independently.

15 And the third thing that makes this case different and 16 that all of us should bear in mind is that we're talking today
17 about other people's money. There's more than one billion
18 dollars of investment funds, retirement funds, pension funds,
19 firefighter funds, school funds, wealthy individuals, having 20 nothing in the world to do with Mr. Dondero or anyone in this
21 case.

22 So what we're talking about here today, Your Honor, is 23 that if my retirement manager files bankruptcy, that I for all
24 time would be effectively enjoined from removing him, no
25 matter what he may do in the future, just because he needs

1 that revenue.

2 That is an absolutely inappropriate use of a preliminary
3 injunction. It is the modification of a contract that the 4 Debtor seeks to assume, and there is going to be no evidence
5 on the underlying elements that the Court must consider.

6 I say that, Your Honor, because I'm new to -- I'm late to 7 this case but I have studied in detail what Your Honor did in 8 the Acis case. And I think that we have to qualitatively
9 differentiate today from Acis. In Acis, there were 10 allegations of fraudulent transfer. When Your Honor enjoined
11 future actions, I believe in part it was because the 12 legitimate owner of those rights might not have been having 13 those rights.

14 So that was a very important difference. Here, there's no
15 question that we have more than billion dollars of other
16 people's funds at issue.

17 Also in Acis, as confirmed by the District Court, there
18 was the exercise of an optional redemption right, which could 19 have very well been used as a weapon to strip the manager of 20 its rights. That's not the case here today. We are talking
21 about removing the Debtor in the future -- not today, not 22 prior to assumption, in the future -- for such things as if 23 the Debtor commits fraud, if Mr. Seery is indicted for 24 felonies, if the Debtor absconds with our funds. We are 25 talking about potential hypothetical actions in the future

1 that are not even ripe based on the Debtor's potential
2 wrongful actions, not based anything on our motivations or our 3 intentions.

4 So this is a different case than Your Honor has heard so
5 far in these cases. And what it boils down to, Your Honor, is 6 will the Court give judicial immunity to the post-assumption,
7 post-confirmation Debtor over the next two or three years as 8 it manages and liquidates more than a billion dollars of other
9 people's funds? It is their money at issue.

10 So, in order to do this, the Debtor first has to tell Your 11 Honor that it has a likelihood of merits on the success [sic]
12 of some claim. The Debtor cannot just come to you -- because 13 the Debtor knows Your Honor's opinion on 105(a) and the 14 Supreme Court law -- and the Debtor cannot just say, Judge,
15 please give us an injunction because it's convenient or 16 because we don't want to comply with our obligations. So they 17 concoct a tortious interference claim. They argue that there
18 is an automatic stay violation, which, as Your Honor knows,
19 all of us bankruptcy lawyers take most seriously. And they 20 argue that, well, whatever Mr. Dondero has been enjoined from 21 doing, somehow we a priori are also enjoined. Basically, an 22 alter ego with no facts, law, trial, or due process.

23 On the tortious interference, Your Honor will hear
24 absolute evidence that cannot be refuted that all that we did,
25 all that we did was we refused, our employees refused to make

1 a ministerial entry into a computer program of two trades that
2 Mr. Seery authorized. Those trades closed exactly as Mr.
3 Seery wanted. Those trades closed, were executed, before Mr.
4 Seery asked our employees to do his bidding. And the reason
5 why our employees were instructed not to do what Mr. Seery
6 wanted was because our chief compliance officer looked at it,
7 those employees looked at it, and they all said, What is this?
8 Our internal protocols were not followed. We don't know
9 anything about these trades. We have fiduciary duties, we 10 have SEC obligations, and Mr. Seery has his own employees whom 11 he can instruct to enter these two trades into the computer 12 and our employees aren't going to do it. It's as simple as 13 that.

14 Mr. Dondero did not command that decision. Mr. Dondero
15 did not instruct that decision.

16 Our employees not doing what Mr. Seery requested of them
17 is not tortious interference. It is not interference as a
18 matter of law. There was no breach of contract as a result.

19 So the two elements -- two of the elements required for 20 tortious interference, there will be zero evidence on. But in 21 the bigger picture, what they're talking about again is 22 restraining our rights in the future. And whether -- whether 23 we are party to these contracts or a third-party beneficiary,
24 it doesn't matter, because we are not a stranger to these 25 contracts. These contracts expressly give us rights. And a

1 party exercising their right under a contract, it could be
2 breaching that contract, but it cannot be tortious
3 interference as a matter of law.

4 And if Your Honor is concerned about us tortiously
5 interfering in the future, then the Court should enjoin us
6 from tortious interference in the future, not excise from the 7 contract the remedies that the Debtor must accept if it wants 8 to assume these contracts.

9 Moving to the automatic stay issue, the sole and exclusive
10 argument for why we violated the stay is because our counsel,
11 a seasoned, gentlemanly bankruptcy lawyer of many years'
12 experience, sent two letters to seasoned veteran bankruptcy
13 lawyers for the Debtor. Communications. Communications
14 amongst counsel.

15 The first, the December 22nd letter, is a request: Okay,
16 we lost in front of Judge Jernigan, Judge Jernigan called our 17 motion frivolous, we get that, but we ask you to please stop
18 trading until the plan is confirmed. A request which the 19 Debtor ignored. Or that's not true, didn't ignore: refused 20 to comply with.

21 The second letter, a day later, after various 22 communications, was: Okay, we are going to initiate the 23 process of terminating you as the servicer.

24 Mr. Dondero had nothing in the world to do with these 25 letters. Mr. Dondero did not direct these letters. This was

1 professional advice from outside counsel and the independent
2 boards of the Advisors believing that their fiduciary duty
3 compelled that.

4 And guess what, that letter even said: subject to the 5 automatic stay. You heard from Mr. Morris that they basically
6 said, File your stay motion.

7 Our follow-up letter clarified anything that we might do
8 is subject to the automatic stay. We never said we're going
9 to act in a way that the stay doesn't permit. We said we're 10 going to come to this Court first.

11 But even all that, all those communications, while it may 12 be interesting, are irrelevant, because we never took any 13 action. You will hear that we never communicated with the 14 CLOs, the Trustees, or the Issuers, anything like we went over 15 with the Debtor, anything like, Please start the process of 16 removing the Debtor. We have done nothing of the sort, we 17 will do nothing of the sort, precisely because of the 18 automatic stay.

19 So I equate this, Your Honor, to your average home lender
20 whose lawyer sends a letter to the borrower saying, You don't 21 have insurance; we're going to start the process of 22 foreclosure. You're past due on your post-petition adequate
23 protection payments; we're going to start the foreclosure
24 process; we're going to go seek a list of stay. That is not 25 actionable. It is not a stay violation. Those are

1 communications, not actions. And that is precisely what
2 seasoned professional counsel should be doing.

3 And now, Your Honor, we move to the Mr. Dondero issue.
4 The argument is, well, on January the 9th, Mr. Dondero,
5 apparently for all time, in perpetuity, agreed that he will
6 not cause the related entities to terminate these agreements.
7 And then the argument is, well, the Court entered a TRO
8 against Mr. Dondero and the Court entered a preliminary
9 injunction against Mr. Dondero. Okay?

10 I don't see where the problem is. Mr. Dondero is 11 prohibited from causing us to terminate these agreements.
12 There are many ways, with independent boards, that Mr. Dondero
13 has nothing to do with that. And he will have nothing to do
14 with that in the future. So if the concern is enjoining us
15 because of an injunction against Mr. Dondero, enjoin Mr.
16 Dondero. Just like if the concern is that we're going to 17 tortiously interfere, you enjoin us from tortious
18 interference. Or if we're going to violate the stay, enjoin
19 us from violating the stay. But do not for all time assume 20 that any right that we may exercise in the future will 21 necessarily be tainted and the corrupt product of Mr.
22 Dondero's instructions. You will see today on the evidence
23 that that has not happened and it will not happen.

24 And whatever Mr. Dondero may have agreed to, we are 25 separate entities. Again, the Funds have -- are not

1 controlled or owned, and Mr. Dondero is not on the board. So
2 whatever he may have agreed to is between the Court and the 3 Debtor and him, but he never agreed to that on behalf of the 4 Funds. He never agreed to that on behalf of the Advisors, who 5 have their own independent fiduciary duties and duties under 6 the law.

7 So, Your Honor, there will be no substantial likelihood of 8 success on the merits. There will be no likelihood of success
9 on the merits. And I'm talking about the post-assumption,
10 post-confirmation time frame. The issue is fundamentally
11 different pre-assumption and pre-confirmation. But post-
12 assumption and post-confirmation, the Debtor will not show a
13 likelihood of success on the merits. The Debtor will not show
14 any irreparable injury. None.

15 Mr. Seery will testify that managing these agreements for 16 the coming couple or three years will have some value to the 17 Debtor. He doesn't know what the profitability of that is to 18 the Debtor. You will hear that, in fact, managing these 19 contracts for the next two years does not bring any 20 profitability to the Debtor. The Debtor will lose money
21 managing of them. But whatever damages there are are monetary 22 damages, and monetary damages are not an irreparable injury as 23 a matter of law.

24 Now, the Debtor says, well, the Court can enter an 25 injunction in the aid of restructuring, but this injunction

1 will happen after restructuring.

2 On the balance of harm and public interest, Your Honor, I
3 think we're dealing with more than a billion dollars of clean,
4 innocent third-party funds. The balance of harm here weighs
5 against granting this injunction. If we try to do anything in 6 the post-confirmation world, the Debtor has all of its rights
7 and remedies to contest what we do. If we do it wrong, we're 8 liable in contract or in tort, there's monetary damages, and 9 the Debtor has already successfully organized.

10 But if the Debtor does something wrong in the future and 11 we cannot take action to stop a gross mismanagement or a
12 denution [sic] of the Debtor or an abscondence with funds,
13 then think about the harm to the innocent investors here.
14 Because if we even go to court, your Court, any court, we will 15 be in violation of a federal court injunction.

16 Your Honor, this is not the appropriate purpose of an
17 injunction for the preservation of the status quo. The status
18 quo, by definition, cannot extend post-assumption or post-
19 confirmation. This is not a proper exercise of equity. We 20 have done nothing wrong, we have threatened to do nothing
21 wrong, and we will do nothing wrong to justify forever being 22 prejudiced and enjoined from exercising our contractual and 23 statutory rights.

24 Your Honor, this TRO extends through February the 15th.
25 We asked the Debtor to continue this hearing. We asked the

41

1 Debtor to go to our independent boards and seek approval of
2 the same settlement that the Debtor has with CLO Holdco, which
3 we learned about last night. We simply haven't had the time
4 to get those boards aligned up and present a settlement to 5 them. We're trying to put together a competing plan.

6 Your Honor, there is no reason to go forward today except,
7 like Mr. Morris said, power. Power. Mr. Seery's power, Your 8 Honor. Not ours. Mr. Seery's power in perpetuity or for 9 judicial immunity, get out of jail free card. Thank you.

10 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, you may call your 11 witness.

12 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I just want to make a motion to 13 strike the notion of a get out of jail free card. I
14 appreciated everything counsel had to say, but I think that's 15 a little -- a little over the top.

16 We call Mr. James Dondero, please.

17 THE COURT: Mr. Dondero, --

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, bear with me.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, bear with me. I'm going
21 to get out of this chair. Mr. Dondero will get in this chair.
22 And so that there's no reverberation, I will be sitting next
23 to Mr. Dondero in case I have to make any objections.

24 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Good morning, Mr.
25 Dondero.

Dondero - Direct

42

1 MR. DONDERO: Good morning.

2 THE COURT: Please raise your right hand.

3 JAMES DONDERO, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

4 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Morris, go ahead.

5 MR. MORRIS: May I proceed, Your Honor?

6 THE COURT: Yes.

7 DIRECT EXAMINATION

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q Good morning, Mr. Dondero. Okay. John Morris; Pachulski,
10 Stang, Ziehl & Jones; for the Debtor. Can you hear me okay, 11 sir?

12 A Yes.

13 Q There are no board members here on behalf of any of the 14 Funds to testify or offer any evidence; isn't that right?

15 A Not that I'm aware of.

16 Q Okay. And you knew the hearing was going to be today on 17 the preliminary injunction, right?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And you had an opportunity to confer with the boards of 20 the Funds in advance of this hearing, right?

21 A No.

22 Q There's no -- there's no -- no board member is expected to 23 testify, fair?

24 A Correct.

25 Q So the Court isn't going to hear any evidence as to the

43

1 board's perception of what's happening here, right?

2 A Not that I'm aware of.

3 Q Okay. Until January 9th, 2020, you controlled the debtor
4 Highland Capital Management, LP; isn't that right?

5 A I don't remember exactly when these -- when the 6 independent board was put in place, but up until around that 7 time, I believe.

8 Q Okay. So, January 2020?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And during that month, you completed an agreement with the 11 Creditors' Committee where you ceded control of the Debtor
12 pursuant to a court order, right?

13 A Pursuant to a court ...? I thought it was pursuant to a 14 negotiation where they would have fiduciary responsibility to 15 the estate in my absence. That's -- that's what I think the 16 (garbled).

17 Q Okay. You're aware -- so you entered into an agreement
18 with the Creditors' Committee pursuant to which you ceded
19 control of the Debtor, right?

20 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll object. That 21 agreement speaks for itself. And if Mr. Morris wants to 22 present it to Mr. Dondero, he can.

23 THE COURT: Um, --

24 MR. MORRIS: Sure. Ms. Canty, can we please put up

25 --

Dondero - Direct

44

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, I --

2 MR. MORRIS: I'm happy to put it up, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: I overrule that objection. You can ask.

4 And then if he's not sure, you can present the agreement. All
5 right? Go ahead.

6 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q Mr. Dondero, is there any doubt in your mind that in 9 January of 2020 you gave up control of Highland in favor of an
10 independent board at the Strand Advisors level?

11 A No. I -- yes, I agree with that.

12 Q Okay. And do you recall that, in connection with that 13 agreement, the Court entered an order?

14 A Several orders. Which one?

15 Q Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: Can we please put up Docket No. 339?

17 MS. CANTY: Sure, just one second.

18 MR. RUKAVINA: And you have it here.

19 John, I have the order if just want Mr. Dondero to review
20 it.

21 MR. MORRIS: I think -- I think everybody should have 22 the benefit of seeing it. But thank you very much.

23 Your Honor, while we take this moment, can you just remind
24 me of when the Court needs to take a break today, so that I'm 25 mindful of that and respectful of your time?

Dondero - Direct

45

1 THE COURT: 11:30.

2 MR. MORRIS: Okay. And what time will we reconvene?

3 THE COURT: Well, I have said 1:00. I hope it can be 4 a little sooner, but let's just plan on 1:00, okay, so there's 5 no confusion.

6 MR. MORRIS: Okay. All right. All right. So, on 7 the screen here, we have Exhibit 0000, which is in the record.
8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q This is an order that was entered by the Court on January
10 9th, 2020. Do you see that, sir?

11 A Yes.

12 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll down to Paragraph 9,
13 please? (Pause.) Are you having problems, Ms. Canty?

14 MS. CANTY: It's on the screen. You can't see it?

15 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Can you scroll down to Paragraph 16 9?

17 MS. CANTY: It's on Paragraph --

18 MR. MORRIS: That's on Page 2, I believe.

19 MS. CANTY: Yeah, I have it up. I'm not sure what 20 the disconnect is, because I can see it on my screen. I'm 21 going to stop it and reshare it.

22 MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much.

23 (Pause.)

24 MS. CANTY: Do you see it now?

25 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Beautiful.

Dondero - Direct

46

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q Mr. Dondero, if you'd just read Paragraph 9 out loud.

3 A (reading) Mr. Dondero shall not cause any related entity
4 to terminate any agreements with the Debtor.

5 Q Okay. So you understood, as part of the corporate 6 governance settlement pursuant to which you avoided the 7 imposition of a trustee, that you agreed that you wouldn't 8 cause any related entity to terminate any agreements with the 9 Debtor, right?

10 A Uh, --

11 Q Is that correct? You understood that paragraph?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Okay. And you didn't appeal this particular order, did
14 you, sir?

15 A I -- I believe I've refuted -- I've adhered to that order
16 entirely.

17 Q Okay. NexPoint Advisors LP, is one of the defendants in 18 this matter, right?

19 A Yes.

20 (Pause.)

21 Q Can you hear me, sir?

22 A Yes. Yes, I said, "Yes."

23 MR. NICHOLSON: Well, John, did you -- did you ask a
24 question? Because you went offline for a few seconds there.

25 MR. MORRIS: I asked whether NexPoint Advisors, LP

Dondero - Direct

47

1 was an advisory firm.

2 THE WITNESS: Yes.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q And you have a direct or indirect ownership interest in 5 NexPoint Advisors, LP, correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And you understand that, based on that direct or indirect
8 ownership interest, NexPoint Advisors, LP is a related entity
9 under Paragraph 9 of this order, right?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Okay. Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, LP is 12 one of the other defendants in this case, right?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And we'll refer to that entity as Fund Advisors; is that 15 fair?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And we'll refer to Fund Advisors together with NexPoint
18 Advisors, LP as the Advisors; is that fair?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Okay. Fund Advisors is also an advisory firm; is that 21 (audio gap)?

22 A I missed that last question.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: John, you're freezing up on us. Is it
24 on our end, Your Honor, or is it on Mr. Morris's end?

25 MR. MORRIS: Just let me know -- just let me know

Dondero - Direct

48

1 when it happens.

2 THE COURT: Yes. I'm hearing him. But go ahead, Mr.
3 Morris. Let's try again.

4 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q You have a direct or indirect ownership interest in Fund
7 Advisors, correct, sir?

8 A Yes.

9 Q (audio garbled) And based on that direct or indirect
10 interest, you would agree that Fund Advisors is a related 11 entity for purposes of this order, correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q In addition to your ownership interest, you're also the 14 president of Fund Advisors; is that (audio gap)?

15 THE COURT: All right. Now --

16 THE WITNESS: I believe so.

17 THE COURT: Yes. Now I'm starting to have some 18 trouble, Mr. Morris. Every once in a while, you're freezing
19 towards the end of a sentence. So I don't know what can be 20 done, but it's --

21 MR. MORRIS: All right. Let me know if that 22 continues.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q To use your words -- to use your words, Mr. Dondero, it's

Dondero - Direct

49

1 fair to say that you generally control Fund Advisors, right?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And based on that, you acknowledge that Fund Advisors is a
4 related entity under the Court's order, correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And together, the Advisors that you own and control manage
7 certain investment funds, correct?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And three of those funds are defendants in this case,
10 correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And you are the portfolio manager of each of those funds;
13 is that right?

14 A I believe so.

15 Q Okay. Let's talk about the events that led to this 16 matter. CLO stands for Collateralized Loan Obligations,
17 correct?

18 A I'm sorry. Repeat that, please?

19 Q Sure. CLO stands for Collateralized Loan Obligations,
20 correct?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Years ago, the Advisors that you own and control caused 23 the investment funds that they manage to buy the interests in 24 CLOs that are managed by the Debtor, correct?

25 A Yes. Yes.

Dondero - Direct

50

1 Q Okay. And those Funds still hold an equity interest
2 today, correct?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And K&L Gates is one of the law firms that represents the 5 Advisors and the Funds that are managed by the Advisors,
6 correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q You would agree that the Debtor is party to certain 9 contracts that give it the right and the responsibility to 10 manage certain CLO assets, right?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And you recall that --

13 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Mr. Morris is frozen on 14 our end.

15 THE COURT: Yes. Mr. Morris, you just froze.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: We heard nothing, Mr. Morris.

17 THE COURT: Yes.

18 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q Sir, do you recall that you resigned from the Debtor on or 21 around October 10th, 2020?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. And shortly thereafter, K&L Gates sent a couple of 24 letters to the Debtor on behalf of the Advisors and the Funds,
25 correct?

Dondero - Direct

51

1 A Yes.

2 Q Okay.

3 MR. MORRIS: Can we take a look at these? These are 4 documents that were admitted into evidence in a different
5 matter, but they're actually referred to in his prior 6 testimony, which is in evidence in this case. So I would just 7 ask Ms. Canty to go to Trial Exhibit B, which was filed in the 8 Adversary Proceeding 20-3190 at Docket 46. And for the 9 record, it's PDF Page #184 out of 270. I just want to take a 10 look at these two letters.

11 BY MR. MORRIS:

12 Q Okay. Do you see this letter, sir?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And NexPoint is one of the defendants here; is that right?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And that's one of the Advisors that you own and generally
17 control, correct?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And so this letter is sent less than a week after you've 20 left Highland Capital Management, right?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Do you recall this particular letter?

23 A No.

24 Q Can -- you're familiar with the substance of this letter
25 and the other one that was sent in November, correct?

Dondero - Direct

52

1 A Could you pull it a little higher and let me read it?

2 Q Yes. Sure.

3 MR. RUKAVINA: If this is an exhibit, I can show it
4 to him as an exhibit, Mr. Morris.

5 MR. MORRIS: I don't know that this is one of the 6 marked exhibits. It's one of the exhibits that's used within 7 his prior testimony. So, but I want to give Mr. Dondero a
8 chance to review it. And please let us know if you need to 9 scroll further down.

10 (Pause.)

11 MR. RUKAVINA: You're going to have to scroll down.

12 THE WITNESS: Scroll down a little further, please.

13 (Pause.)

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Morris, can you please scroll
15 down? Neither Mr. Dondero nor I can read the balance.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q There you go. (Pause.) So, you see at the top of the 18 page there there is a reference to the sale of assets and a,
19 quote, "a rush to sell these assets at fire sale prices." Is 20 that what you think -- did you think that Mr. Seery was 21 selling (audio garbled) CLO assets at fire sale prices in 22 October 2020, --

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, --

24 MR. MORRIS: -- less than a week after --

25 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll object. We did not

Dondero - Direct

53

1 hear Mr. Morris's question.

2 THE COURT: All right. Could you repeat the
3 question?

4 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Yes, Your Honor.

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q Mr. Dondero, on or about October 16th, did you personally
7 believe that Mr. Seery was in a rush to sell CLO assets at 8 fire sale prices?

9 A I believe he had no business purpose to sell any of the 10 assets, which I believe he stated that to Joe Sowin, our 11 trader. I -- I -- there was no business purpose stated or 12 ever given or obvious from the sales. And --

13 Q Okay.

14 A -- I (indecipherable) draft this letter.

15 Q Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor. It's a
17 very simple question --

18 THE COURT: Sustained.

19 MR. MORRIS: -- and it has to do solely with Mr.
20 Dondero's state of mind.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q Mr. Dondero, on or about October 16th, did you personally
23 believe that Mr. Seery was in a rush to sell CLO assets at 24 fire sale prices?

25 A He was in a rush to sell them for some reason with no

Dondero - Direct

54

1 business purpose. I don't know the reason.

2 THE COURT: All right. Can you --

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Okay. And you never asked him, right?

5 THE COURT: Yes. Yes or no answer, Mr. Dondero.

6 THE WITNESS: Never asked him.

7 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Can we turn to the next exhibit,
8 which is Exhibit C on that same docket?

9 (Pause.)

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q While we're waiting, can you just read the last sentence
12 of the paragraph that ends at the top of the page, Mr.
13 Dondero, beginning, "Accordingly"?

14 A (reading) Accordingly, we hereby request that no CLO
15 assets be sold without prior notice and prior consent from the 16 Advisors.

17 Q Are you aware of any contractual provision pursuant to 18 which the Funds or the Advisors can -- can expect that the 19 Debtor will refrain from any -- selling any assets without 20 giving prior notice and obtaining prior consent from those
21 entities?

22 A I think the documents have an overall good-faith/fair-
23 dealing clause which would cover something like this, I
24 believe.

25 Q Your -- is it your testimony, sir, that the duty of good

Dondero - Direct

55

1 faith and fair dealing requires the Debtor to give notice to
2 the Advisors and to obtain the Advisors' prior consent before
3 they can sell any CLO assets?

4 A Well, I think -- yes, I do. I think --

5 Q All right.

6 A Yes. Yeah.

7 Q Okay. And then the next month, another letter was sent by 8 NexPoint to Mr. Seery. Do you recall that?

9 A Not specifically. If you bring it up, we can talk about
10 it.

11 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll down a little bit?

12 (Pause.)

13 MS. CANTY: John, are you talking to me? I was 14 frozen out. I just got back on. I apologize.

15 MR. MORRIS: That's okay. Can we just scroll down so
16 Mr. Dondero can see more of this particular letter?

17 MS. CANTY: Okay.

18 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q Can you just read out loud, Mr. Dondero, out loud the last
21 two sentences, please, beginning with, "We understand"?

22 A (reading) We understand that Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd.
23 has made a similar request. Accordingly, we hereby re-urge 24 our request that no CLO assets be sold without prior notice to 25 and prior consent from the Advisors.

Dondero - Direct

56

1 Q What's the Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd.?

2 A I think that's who you settled with yesterday.

3 Q Do you have an interest in that entity?

4 A No. It's a bona fide charity. It was one of the largest
5 in Dallas before it got cut in half by Acis.

6 Q Does -- are you familiar with the Get Good and the Dugaboy
7 Investment Trusts?

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, at this time I would 9 object to relevance. I don't see what this has to do with 10 tortious interference and stay violation on December 22nd and 11 December 23rd, 2020.

12 THE COURT: Response?

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm trying to establish that 14 Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd. is another entity in which Mr.
15 Dondero holds a beneficial interest.

16 THE COURT: Okay. Overrule the objection.

17 MR. RUKAVINA: John, you're not only frozen, now
18 you're off.

19 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, I can see myself. You can't hear
20 me?

21 MR. RUKAVINA: We can now, but Your Honor, we lost
22 Mr. Morris for a bit there.

23 THE COURT: All right. I think we were --

24 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

25 THE COURT: -- waiting on an answer from Mr. Dondero,

Dondero - Direct

57

1 actually.

2 THE WITNESS: We didn't hear the question at --

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Sure. Are you familiar with the Get Good and Dugaboy
5 Investment Trusts?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Are you the beneficiary of those trusts?

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, again, objection to 9 relevance. These are non-parties, and what his personal 10 interests are has no relevance to this.

11 THE COURT: Overruled.

12 THE WITNESS: The Get Good Trust, Get -- I believe
13 those are defective grantor trusts. I don't believe I have 14 any interest whatsoever in those. Dugaboy is a perpetual
15 Delaware trust. I don't know how that's set up, but I believe 16 I do have an interest there until I pass.

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q In fact, you're -- you're the sole beneficiary of the 19 Dugaboy Investment Trust, right?

20 A Until I pass. It's a -- it's a estate planning trust.

21 Q I appreciate that. And the Dugaboy and the Get Good
22 Trusts are the owners of the Charitable DAF Holdco Ltd.,
23 correct?

24 A No. Not as far as I know.

25 Q Okay.

Dondero - Direct

58

1 A (garbled) time at all.

2 Q All right. So we just looked at these two letters, sir.

3 And you were familiar with the substance of the letters before
4 they were sent, right?

5 A Uh, just --

6 MR. MORRIS: You can take it down, Ms. Canty.

7 THE WITNESS: Just generally. Again, I wasn't
8 involved directly with the letters.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q You were aware of the letters before they were sent,
11 right?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And you discussed the substance of the letters with 14 NexPoint, correct?

15 A Not the substance of the letters, just the substance of 16 the issue.

17 Q You actually discussed the substance of the letters with 18 NexPoint, correct?

19 A I -- Again, I remember it being the substance of the 20 issue. Generally, at most, the substance of the letters.

21 Q And you discussed the substance of the letters with the 22 Advisors' internal counsel, too, right?

23 A The sub -- generally, the substance, yes, but more the 24 issue than the letter.

25 Q Okay. If I pull up your transcript from the TRO hearing,

Dondero - Direct

59

1 would that refresh your recollection that you discussed the 2 substance of these letters with NexPoint and with the
3 Advisors' internal counsel?

4 A I'd like to clarify with the testimony I just gave.

5 Q Okay. Would you -- do you have any reason to believe that 6 you did not previously testify that you discussed the 7 substance of the letters with NexPoint and with NexPoint
8 Advisors' internal counsel?

9 A I repeat the same testimony. Generally. Like, those 10 letters that you put on the screen, I have no recollection of 11 those specifically.

12 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, can we please call up on the 13 screen Exhibit NNNN, which was the transcript from the January
14 8th, 2021 preliminary injunction hearing?

15 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Morris, just one sec. I'm trying 16 to find it on paper.

17 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. It's four Ns.

18 MR. RUKAVINA: One, two, three, four. (inaudible)
19 put that on the screen.

20 MS. CANTY: John, I'm not sure what's going on, but 21 it won't come up on the screen. I've tried three times. I'm 22 going to keep trying.

23 MR. MORRIS: All right. I have it in front of me.
24 Do you have it, too?

25 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, the witness has it --

Dondero - Direct

60

1 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

2 MR. RUKAVINA: -- in front of him. This is NNNN,
3 just to confirm?

4 MR. MORRIS: Yes. And it is the January 8th
5 transcript.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Mr. Dondero, were you asked these questions and did you
8 give these answers? Question: Are you familiar with --

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Where are you, John? Where are you?
10 Where are you? We -- we -- we --

11 MR. MORRIS: I apologize. Page 40. I'm going to 12 read Page 40, Lines 1 through 14.

13 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay. He has it in front of him, if 14 you just want him to read it.

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q Did you give these answers at Page 40, beginning Line 1:

17 "Q And were you -- and you were familiar, you were 18 aware of these letters before they were sent; is that
19 correct?

20 "A Yes.

21 "Q And you generally discussed the substance of these 22 letters with NexPoint; is that right?

23 "A Generally, yes.

24 "Q You discussed the letters with the internal 25 counsel; is that right?

Dondero - Direct

61

1 "A Yes.

2 "Q That's D.C. Sauter?

3 "A Yes.

4 "Q And you have been on some calls with K&L Gates
5 about these letters, right?

6 "A I believe so.

7 "Q And you knew these letters were being sent,
8 correct?

9 "A Yeah. They're -- they're reported.

10 Q Did you give those answers to those questions at the prior 11 hearing?

12 A I -- I believe it's what I -- it's almost exactly what I
13 just said, but yes.

14 Q And you supported the sending of the letters; isn't that
15 right?

16 A Absolutely.

17 Q And you encouraged the sending of the letters, right?

18 A Absolutely.

19 Q Around Thanksgiving, you learned that Mr. Seery had given
20 a direction to sell certain securities owned by CLOs managed
21 by the Debtor, correct?

22 A Yes.

23 Q And when you learned that, you personally intervened to 24 stop the trades, correct?

25 A Yes.

Dondero - Direct

62

1 Q Let's -- I want to look at that email string that we
2 looked at once before. It can be found at Trial Exhibit D
3 found on Docket No. 46 in the adversary proceeding. It's PDF
4 Number -- it's PDF Page 189 of two (garbled).

5 MR. RUKAVINA: Did you catch that?

6 THE COURT: Which -- which exhibit number -- letter
7 is it?

8 MR. MORRIS: It's on the docket in the Adversary
9 Proceeding 20-3190. And in that adversary proceeding, at 10 Docket No. 46, you've got the Debtor's exhibit list. And 11 Exhibit D, which can be found at PDF Page 189 of 270, is the 12 email string I'm looking for.

13 I apologize, Your Honor. It wasn't until I was reading
14 the transcript yesterday that I realized I needed these 15 documents. But they are in the record. Obviously, they're 16 referred to in the transcript that is in the record.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I would like to interject
19 for the record here that this is the first time my clients
20 have been sued. They have a right to be confronted with the 21 witnesses and testimony and evidence against them. So if Mr.
22 Morris wants to introduce this as an exhibit here today,
23 that's one thing, but I object to any notion that there's a 24 prior record that is going to tie my clients' hands. It might 25 tie Mr. Dondero's hands, but not my clients' hands.

Dondero - Direct

63

1 MR. MORRIS: I'd move for the introduction into
2 evidence of this document that has emails not only from Mr.
3 Dondero, but from Joe Sowin, the head trader of the 4 Defendants.

5 MR. RUKAVINA: And Your Honor, I have no problem with 6 that admission. I just want to make it clear that we're not 7 conceding that whatever happened in this case previous to this
8 is a part of today's record. That's all. So I do not have a
9 problem with the admission of this. I would, however, ask
10 you, Mr. Morris, to have someone email it to us so that I can 11 use it today if I need to.

12 THE COURT: All right.

13 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Will do.

14 THE COURT: So, I'll --

15 MR. MORRIS: We'll do that at the --

16 THE COURT: I'll admit it into evidence. You'll need
17 to not only email it Mr. Rukavina, but you'll need to file a 18 supplement to your exhibit and witness list after the hearing
19 showing the admission of --

20 MR. RUKAVINA: And Mr. Morris, if you could email it
21 to Mr. -- if you could email it to Mr. Vasek as well, because 22 obviously I can't get to it now. Thank you.

23 MR. MORRIS: Sure.

24 THE COURT: All right. So this --

25 MR. MORRIS: Okay. So, --

Dondero - Direct

64

1 THE COURT: For the record, let's just be clear what
2 the record is -- this is going to be called on the record. I
3 think you are up to SSSSS, so this would be TTTT when you
4 file it on the record. All right? Go ahead.

5 MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much, Your Honor.

6 (Debtor's Exhibit TTTT is received into evidence.)

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q Mr. Dondero, you recall looking at this email string at 9 the last hearing, right?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Let's start at the bottom, please, with Mr. Covitz's
12 email.

13 (Pause.)

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Hey, John, real quick, now we've lost
15 you. We've lost you and we're not seeing anything from your 16 assistant. Do you have the email, Mr. Vasek?

17 MR. MORRIS: I'm here. Can you hear me?

18 MS. CANTY: I'm here. (garbled) on the screen.

19 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Can we scroll down to the bottom?

20 MS. CANTY: I did. I don't know why it's not showing
21 on you guys' screen.

22 MR. MORRIS: Hopefully this gets fixed. Yeah. We've 23 never had this problem before, Your Honor. I'm not sure what 24 the issue is, but I do apologize.

25 THE COURT: All right. Well, I can hear you, but we

Dondero - Direct

65

1 don't see movement of the exhibit.

2 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. When I began earlier today by 3 suggesting that this was going to be challenging, this was not
4 one of the challenges I anticipated.

5 THE COURT: Okay. All right.

6 MR. RUKAVINA: Do you have the email yet?

7 MS. CANTY: I'm sorry. I don't know what's happening
8 on this end. I have three streams of Internet going, and I
9 don't think it's the Internet. I don't know what's going on.

10 MR. MORRIS: Hmm.

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Yeah, John, what I'm suggesting is 12 that you have an associate email it to Mr. Vasek immediately
13 and then we can present it to Mr. Dondero.

14 MR. MORRIS: I'll tell you what. While that -- one
15 more try.

16 MR. CANTY: Can you see it now?

17 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Yes.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q All right. Mr. Dondero, Hunter Covitz is an employee of 20 the Debtor, right?

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Hold on a sec. Hold on a sec.

22 Your Honor, I believe that I have the right to see the 23 full email here. I believe that Mr. Dondero does. And we've 24 just seen the first little bit and now some middle piece.

25 THE COURT: All right. So are you saying --

Dondero - Direct

66

1 MR. MORRIS: And in the order that --

2 THE COURT: -- you want to see the whole string?

3 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, I think -- Mr. Dondero, do you
4 need to see the whole string? I don't know what this is, but 5 maybe you do.

6 MR. DONDERO: It depends on what the question is. I
7 can answer some questions off of this email.

8 THE COURT: Okay, let's go.

9 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q All right. So, for the moment, Mr. Covitz is an employee
12 of the Debtor, correct?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And he's the author of this email in front of us, correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And Mr. Covitz helps to manage the CLO assets on behalf of 17 the Debtor, correct?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Mr. Covitz is giving directions to Matt Pearson and Joe 20 Sowin to sell certain securities held by the CLOs, correct?

21 A Yes.

22 Q And if we can scroll up, I think we can see that you
23 received a copy of this email?

24 (Pause, 11:15 a.m.)

25 MR. MORRIS: What I would like to do instead, we'll

Dondero - Direct

67

1 take a break in about 15 or 20 (audio gap). When we
2 disconnect, we'll get a better connection after the break.
3 And in the interim, I've got testimony that I would like
4 that's already been admitted into the record but there's 5 portions of which I would like to read into the record from 6 Dustin Norris, who is the executive vice president for each of 7 the Defendants. And maybe it would be easiest for me to do
8 that.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: All right. On Docket No. 39.

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I apologize. Your Honor,
12 I apologize. We did not hear --

13 MR. MORRIS: I'm going to read into the record a 14 portion of Mr. Norris' testimony from the December 16th
15 hearing.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I do not see that 17 transcript in the exhibits. If Mr. Morris could give me an 18 exhibit.

19 MR. MORRIS: Exhibit B as in boy.

20 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you.

21 MR. MORRIS: All right. Instead of putting it on the 22 screen, if we could take the exhibit down, Ms. Canty. He can 23 just follow along. Beginning at Page 38, Line 7 through -- 7
24 through 17.

25 Are you there, Mr. Rukavina?

Dondero - Direct

68

1 MR. RUKAVINA: I am. Thank you. I have it in front
2 of Mr. Dondero.

3 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Page 38, Lines 7 through 17:

4 "Q I think you testified that you're one of the 5 executive vice presidents at NexPoint Advisors, one of 6 the Movants. Is that right?

7 "A That's right.

8 "Q Who is the president of NexPoint Advisors, LP?

9 "A Mr. Dondero.

10 "Q And you report directly to him; is that right?

11 "A I do.

12 "Q You're also the executive vice president of Fund
13 Advisors, another Movant; is that right?

14 "A Correct."

15 MR. MORRIS: Beginning on Page 38, Line 25:

16 "Q You're also the executive vice president (audio
17 gap) that are managed by the Advisors here, right?

18 "A Yes. That is correct."

19 MR. MORRIS: Then going back to Page 35, beginning at 20 Line 15:

21 "Q To be clear here, there are five moving parties;
22 is that right?

23 "A That's correct. The two Advisors and the three
24 Funds.

25 "Q And one of the advisory firms is Highland Capital

Dondero - Direct

69

1 Management Fund Advisors, LP; is that right?

2 "A That's correct.

3 "Q And I'll refer to that as Fund Advisors; is that
4 okay?

5 "A That's great.

6 "Q James Dondero and Mark Okada are the beneficial
7 owners of Fund Advisors, correct?

8 "A That is my understanding.

9 "Q And your understanding is that Mr. Dondero
10 controls Fund Advisors, correct?

11 "A That's correct.

12 "Q And the other advisory firm that brought the 13 motion is NexPoint Advisors, LP; is that right?

14 "A That is correct.

15 "Q And Mr. Dondero is the beneficial owner of 16 NexPoint; is that right?

17 "A A family trust where Jim is the sole beneficiary,
18 I believe, controls or owns NexPoint Advisors.

19 "Q Okay. And Mr. Dondero --

20 "A Or 99 percent of NexPoint Advisors.

21 "Q Mr. Dondero controls NexPoint; is that right?

23 MR. MORRIS: Continuing at Line 16 on Page 36:

24 "Q All right. And I'm going to refer to Fund
25 Advisors and NexPoint as the Advisors going forward; is

Dondero - Direct

70

1 that fair?

2 "A That's fair.

3 "Q Each of the Advisors manages certain funds; is
4 that right?

5 "A That is correct.

6 "Q And three of those funds that are managed by the 7 Advisors are Movants on this motion, correct?

8 "A Correct.

9 "Q All right. The Advisors caused these three Funds
10 to invest in CLOs that are managed by the Debtor; is 11 that right?"

12 "A --"

13 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I object. Is there a
14 question at the end of this? I mean, Mr. Dondero can't 15 possibly remember all this and then be asked a question.

16 MR. MORRIS: He doesn't have to answer any questions.
17 I'm just reading the evidence into the record.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor?

20 MR. MORRIS: Since we're having difficulty --

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, that's a matter for 22 summation. That's -- this is a question and answer, I submit.

23 THE COURT: Well, I overrule.

24 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, here's -- here's --

25 THE COURT: This has been admitted into --

Dondero - Direct

71

1 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

2 THE COURT: -- evidence. And if he wants to 3 highlight to the Court portions of the evidence, he can.

4 Go ahead.

5 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

6 "A The portfolio managers working for the Advisors
7 did. That's correct.

8 "Q And Mr. Dondero is the portfolio manager of the 9 Highland Income Fund; is that right?

10 "A He is one of the portfolio managers for that Fund.

11 "Q And he's also --

12 "A I believe there are two.

13 "Q And he's also a portfolio manager of NexPoint
14 Capital, Inc., one of the Movants here, right?

15 "A That is correct.

16 "Q And he's also the portfolio manager of NexPoint
17 Strategic Opportunities Fund, another Movant; is that
18 right?

19 "A Yes. That is correct."

20 MR. MORRIS: Going to Line -- Page 41, Lines 6
21 through 9:

22 "Q The whole idea for this motion initiated with Mr.
23 Dondero; isn't that right?

24 "A The concern, yes, the concern originated, and his 25 concern was voiced to our legal and compliance team."

Dondero - Direct

72

1 MR. MORRIS: Page 42, Lines 4 through 11:

2 "Q None of the Movants are parties to the agreements
3 between the Debtor and each of the Debtors pursuant -- 4 each of the CLOs pursuant to which the Debtor serves as 5 portfolio manager; is that correct?

6 "A I believe that is correct. One, I think,
7 important -- even though they're not (audio gap), they 8 are the -- they have the economic ownership of each of 9 these CLOs.

10 "Q But they're not party to the agreement; is that
11 right?

12 "A Not that I am aware of."

13 MR. MORRIS: Page 42, Line 25:

14 "Q Okay. It's your understanding, in fact, that 15 nobody other than the Debtor has the right or the 16 authority to buy and sell assets on behalf of the CLOs
17 listed on Exhibit B, correct?

18 "A That is my understanding.

19 "Q Okay. And it's also your understanding, your 20 specific understanding, that holders of preferred
21 shares do not make investment decisions on behalf of 22 the CLO; is that right?

23 "A (audio gap)

24 "Q And that's something the Advisors knew when they 25 decided to invest in the CLOs on behalf of the Movant

Dondero - Direct

73

1 Funds; is that fair?

2 "A That's right. And at that time, the knowledge in
3 the purchase was with Highland Capital Management, LP
4 and the portfolio management team at the time.

5 "Q And it's still with Highland Capital Management,
6 LP; isn't that right?

7 "A That's correct. I'm not sure that the portfolio
8 management team looks the same, but it was HCMLP."

9 MR. MORRIS: Moving on to Page 46, Line 22:

10 "Q The only holders of preferred shares that are 11 pursuing this motion are the three Funds managed by the 12 Advisors, right?

13 "A In this motion, yes.

14 "Q You're not aware of any holder of preferred shares
15 pursuing this motion other than the three Funds managed
16 by the Advisors, correct?

17 "A No, I'm not aware of any others.

18 "Q You didn't personally inform any holder of 19 preferred shares, other than the Funds that are the 20 Movants, that this motion would be filed, did you?

21 "A No, I did not.

22 "Q You're not aware of any steps taken by either of 23 the Advisors to provide notice to holders of preferred
24 shares that this motion was going to be filed, are you?

25 "A I'm not, no.

Dondero - Direct

74

1 "Q And you're not aware of any attempt that was made
2 to obtain the consent of all of the noteholder -- of 3 all the holders of the preferred shares to seek the 4 relief that is sought in this motion, correct?

5 "A That's correct.

6 "Q You don't have any personal knowledge, personal
7 knowledge, as to whether any holder of preferred shares
8 other than the Funds managed by the Advisors wants the 9 relief sought in this motion, correct?

10 "A Correct.

11 "Q You don't have any personal knowledge as to 12 whether any of the CLOs that are subject to the 13 contracts that you described want the relief that's 14 being requested in this motion, right?

15 "A That's correct. I have not spoken or been 16 involved at all directly with the CLOs. I'm 17 representing the Funds."

18 MR. MORRIS: Moving to Page 49. I just have a bit
19 more, Your Honor. Page 49, Line 9. And this is the reference 20 to his declaration.

21 "Q And Paragraph 9 refers to a transaction involving 22 SSP Holdings, LLC; do I have that right?

23 "A That's correct.

24 "Q Do you know what SSP stands for?

25 "A See if we say it in there. SSP Holdings, LLC.

Dondero - Direct

75

1 "Q Right. Do you know what SSP stands for?

2 "A I don't. Something Steel Products. I --

3 "Q Okay. You don't need to guess. These are the 4 only two transactions that the Movants question; is
5 that right?

6 "A These transactions, as well as certain
7 transactions around Thanksgiving time.

8 "Q Okay. We'll talk about those. But those 9 transactions about -- around Thanksgiving time aren't
10 in your (audio gap)?

11 "A Not specifically mentioned by name.

12 "Q Okay. Let's talk about the two that are mentioned
13 by name, Trussway and SSP. The Movants do not contend
14 that either transaction was the product of fraudulent
15 conduct, do they?

16 "A No.

17 "Q The Movants do not contend that the Debtor
18 breached any agreement by effectuating these 19 transactions, do they?

20 "A I don't believe so.

21 "Q In fact, the Movants do not contend that the 22 Debtor violated any agreement at any time in the 23 management of the CLOs listed on Exhibit B; is that
24 right?

25 "A That's right.

Dondero - Direct

76

1 "Q The Movants don't even question the Debtor's
2 business judgment, only the results of the trans -- of 3 these two transactions. Is that right?

4 "A That's right. And the results is the key here,
5 and the approach."

6 MR. MORRIS: Moving on to Page 51, Line 8:

7 "Q Sir, you never asked the Debtor what factors it
8 considered in making these trades, right?

9 "A I did not.

10 "Q And you have no reason to believe that anyone on 11 behalf of the Movants ever asked the Debtor why it
12 executed these (audio gap), right?

13 "A I don't have any knowledge. There could have been 14 somebody from (audio gap) Movants. But I do not."

15 MR. MORRIS: Page 54, Line 19:

16 "Q Let's just talk briefly about the transactions
17 that occurred (garbled) Thanksgiving. They're not 18 specifically referred to in your declaration; is that
19 right?

20 "A That's correct.

21 "Q And you have no knowledge about any transaction
22 that Mr. Seery wanted to execute around Thanksgiving;
23 is that right?

24 "A I know there were transactions and there were 25 concerns from our management team, but I'm not aware of

Dondero - Direct

77

1 what those transactions were.

2 "Q In fact, you can't even identify the assets that
3 Mr. Seery wanted to sell around Thanksgiving, or at 4 least you couldn't at the time of your deposition
5 yesterday. Is that right?

6 "A That's correct.

7 "Q And you have no knowledge as to why Mr. Seery
8 wanted to make particular trades around Thanksgiving?

9 "A No, I don't.

10 "Q And in fact, you don't even know if the 11 transactions that Mr. Seery wanted to close around
12 Thanksgiving ever in fact closed. Is that fair?

13 "A Correct."

14 MR. MORRIS: Last one. Page 56, Line 1:

15 "Q Okay. To the best of your knowledge, does this 16 document accurately reflect the composition of the 17 boards of each of the three Movant Funds?

18 "A Yes, it does.

19 "Q Okay. John Honis, I think you mentioned him
20 earlier. He's on all three boards. Is that right?

21 "A Yeah, that's correct. And the reason we're -- 22 we're being -- we have a unitary board structure, so --
23 which is very common in '40 Act Fund land, where the 24 board sits, for efficiency purposes, on multiple fund
25 boards, and there's a lot of economies of scale from an

Dondero - Direct

78

1 operating standpoint. So, yes, they sit on multiple
2 boards.

3 "Q Okay. And for purposes of the '40 Act, Mr. Honis
4 has been deemed to be an interested trustee. Is that
5 right?

6 "A That's correct.

7 "Q Okay. But you don't specifically know what (audio
8 gap) caused that designation; you only know that the 9 designation exists. Right?

10 "A That's right. And I know they are disclosed in 11 the proxy -- or, in the -- the relative filings related
12 to those Funds.

13 "Q Okay. Three other people are common to all three 14 Movant Funds. I think you've got Dr. Froehlich, Ethan
15 Powell, --

16 MR. MORRIS: I think he -- pronunciation.

17 "A Froehlich.

18 "Q Ethan Powell and Bryan Ward. Right?

19 "A That is correct.

20 "Q Okay. All three of those individuals actually
21 serve on the 11 or 12 boards that you mentioned earlier
22 that are managed by the Advisors, right?

23 "A That is correct.

24 "Q And they're the same Funds for which you serve as 25 the executive vice president, right?

Dondero - Direct

79

1 "A This is correct -- yes. That's correct.

2 "Q So, for all of the Funds that are managed by the
3 Advisors, you serve as executive vice president and all
4 four of these directors -- trustees serve as trustees
5 on the boards, right?

6 "A Yes, that's correct.

7 "Q Okay. In exchange for serving on all of these 8 boards, the three individuals -- Dr. Froehlich, Mr.
9 Ward, and Mr. Powell -- each receive $150,000 a year
10 for services across the Highland complex; is that
11 right?

12 "A That's correct.

13 "Q Dr. Froehlich has been serving as a board member
14 across the Highland complex for seven or eight years
15 now; is that right?

16 "A That's correct.

17 "Q Mr. --

18 "A I believe it's about seven or eight years.

19 "Q Mr. Powell, he actually was employed by Highland
20 related -- Highland or related entities from about 2007
21 or 2008 until 2015, right?

22 "A That's correct.

23 "Q And Mr. Ward, the third of the independent
24 trustees, he's been serving on a board or various of -- 25 on various Highland-related funds on a continuous basis

Dondero - Direct

80

1 since about 2004. Do I have that right?

2 "A Yeah, I believe that's correct."

3 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, that concludes the reading
4 of the portions of Mr. Norris's testimony that I wanted to 5 present to the Court.

6 I know it's 11:30 now, and I would respectfully request
7 that we simply adjourn and let Your Honor tend to your 8 business.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: And hopefully when we come back at 1:00
11 o'clock, we'll have a better connection.

12 THE COURT: All right. So, we are going to go into 13 recess until 1:00 o'clock Central. Mike, can people just stay
14 connected, or should they --

15 THE CLERK: Yes. They can stay. Yes.

16 THE COURT: You can stay or reconnect, whichever you
17 want. But we'll see you at 1:00.

18 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

19 THE CLERK: All rise.

20 (A luncheon recess ensued from 11:33 a.m. until 1:37 p.m.)

21 THE CLERK: All rise. The United States Bankruptcy
22 Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is 23 now in session, the Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

24 THE COURT: Good afternoon. Please be seated.
25 Apologies. I was a little ambitious in my time estimate. So,

Dondero - Direct

81

1 anyway, I didn't have any control over getting in and out of
2 Parkland Hospital, so I'm just grateful to be here.

3 All right. We were in the middle of direct examination of 4 Mr. Dondero. Mr. Morris, are you ready to proceed?

5 MR. MORRIS: I am, Your Honor, and I'm hopeful that 6 the computer issues have resolved themselves. It remains to 7 be seen once we try. If problems arise again, I plan on just 8 putting this on mute and dialing in through the telephone,
9 kind of the other alternative.

10 THE COURT: All right.

11 MR. MORRIS: So (garbled) and I apologize to Mr.
12 Dondero, too. I know I'm testing his patience. But it's not 13 for any reason other than technological.

14 THE COURT: All right.

15 MR. MORRIS: And Your Honor, you don't have to 16 apologize for keeping us waiting. That's okay.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. MORRIS: But thank you.

19 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, --

20 MR. MORRIS: All right. So, --

21 THE WITNESS: Yeah.

22 THE COURT: I was just going to remind you, I have to 23 remind you you're still under oath.

24 Are you ready, Mr. Morris?

25 MR. MORRIS: I am, Your Honor.

Dondero - Direct

82

1 THE COURT: All right. You may proceed.

2 MR. MORRIS: And we're going to begin with the 3 document that we had difficulty scrolling through earlier,
4 which we have now sent to counsel, and that would be what was 5 marked as Exhibit D on Docket No. 46.

6 THE COURT: All right.

7 MR. MORRIS: That's the email string that we had seen
8 earlier that I think Your Honor admitted into evidence. Do I
9 have that right?

10 THE COURT: Yes.

11 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

12 DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q So, let's just start at the bottom and see if we can do
15 this more easily, Mr. Dondero. And again, I apologize for 16 keeping you waiting before. Starting at the bottom, that's an 17 email from Hunter Covitz. Do you see that?

18 A Yeah, I see it.

19 Q And he's an employee of the Debtor, right?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And your understanding is that Mr. Covitz actually helps
22 the Debtor manage the CLO assets, right?

23 A Yes.

24 Q And in this email, Mr. Covitz is giving directions to Matt
25 Pearson and Joe Sowin regarding certain securities held by the

Dondero - Direct

83

1 CLOs, right?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And if we could scroll up, hopefully, we can see that you
4 received a copy of this email.

5 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Right there.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Do you see that?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And then -- and then you instructed the recipients of Mr.
10 Covitz's email not to sell the SKY securities as had been 11 instructed by Mr. Seery, correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And you understood when you gave that instruction that the
14 people on the email were trying to execute trades that Mr.
15 Seery had authorized, correct?

16 A Incorrect.

17 Q You didn't know that, sir?

18 A What I knew was that Seery had not authorized the trade,
19 he had orchestrated the trade. Hunter is not an analyst with 20 any particular knowledge. I called Hunter, why would he sell
21 those? And he said Seery told him to sell those. So it
22 wasn't that Seery authorized Hunter trading it. It was Seery
23 told Hunter to trade it, which is -- which is a material
24 difference in my mind.

25 Q Okay. So I'll ask you again. At the time you gave the

Dondero - Direct

84

1 instruction, "No, do not," you knew that you were stopping
2 trades that had been authorized and directed by Mr. Seery,
3 correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q You didn't speak with Mr. Seery before sending this email,
6 did you?

7 A No.

8 Q And you took no steps to seek the Debtor's consent before
9 instructing the recipients of this email to stop executing the 10 SKY transactions. Is that right?

11 A I'm sorry. I missed the first part of that question.

12 Q Okay. You took no steps to seek the Debtor's consent
13 before instructing the recipients of this email to stop
14 executing the SKY transactions that were authorized by Mr.
15 Seery, correct?

16 A I don't -- I'm not sure I was permitted to talk to Seery
17 at this point, but I don't recall specifically, no.

18 Q You didn't seek consent, did you, before stopping these 19 trades?

20 A No.

21 Q Okay. In response to your instruction --

22 MR. MORRIS: If we could scroll up to the next
23 response.

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q You see the response from Mr. Pearson?

Dondero - Direct

85

1 A Yes.

2 Q And in response to your instructions, Mr. Pearson canceled
3 all of the SKY and AVYA sales that the Debtor had directed but 4 which had not yet been executed, right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll up to the next email,
8 please?

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q And you responded again, right? That's your response?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Can you read your response out loud, please?

13 A (reading) HFAM and DAF have instructed Highland in writing
14 not to sell any CLO underlying assets. There is potential
15 liability. Don't do it again, please.

16 Q And the writings that you refer to there are the two 17 letters that we looked at earlier, the October 16 and the 18 November 24 letter, right?

19 A I believe so. If not, if there's a third or fourth
20 letter, all the letters in aggregate.

21 Q All right. And you, you interpreted those letters not as 22 requests but, as you tell the recipients of your email here,
23 that they were actually instructions, right?

24 A That was -- that was my choice of words. I don't know if 25 I thought about it that clearly.

Dondero - Direct

86

1 Q Okay. But the reci... you have no reason to believe that
2 the recipient of this email wouldn't understand that you
3 believed that Highland had been instructed not to do these
4 trades, right?

5 A I'm sorry. Can you ask that again? I had no reason to 6 believe what?

7 Q That's okay. I'll move on. At this juncture, the 8 reference to potential liability was intended for Mr. Pearson,
9 right?

10 A Frankly, when you violate the Advisers Act, the CFO has 11 liability. I mean, I'm sorry, the chief compliance officer
12 has liability, and anybody who has an awareness that it
13 violates the Advisers Act has potential liability also.

14 Q And is it -- is it your testimony and your position that 15 Mr. Pearson had potential liability under the Advisers Act for 16 carrying out Mr. Seery's trade requests?

17 A Yes, once he was informed that the underlying investors
18 didn't want assets sold and Seery had stated he had no
19 business purpose in selling those assets.

20 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike the latter part of the 21 answer, Your Honor. Mr. Dondero has testified repeatedly
22 multiple times that he has never communicated with Mr. Seery
23 about why he wanted to make these transactions.

24 THE COURT: I grant that.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Dondero - Direct

87

1 Q Mr. Sowin responded and indicated that he would follow
2 your instructions, right, if we scroll to the next email?

3 A I'm sorry. What part are you saying, or what part are you
4 referring to?

5 Q Mr. Sowin. Who is Mr. Sowin?

6 A He's Matt Pearson's boss. He's the head trader.

7 Q And he works for the Advisors, right?

8 A Yes.

9 Q He's one of your employees, right?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Mr. Sowin followed your instructions as set forth in this 12 email, right?

13 A He did a bunch of things, but, yes, I believe -- yes,
14 that's a fair way to characterize.

15 Q And the only information that you know of that he's 16 relying upon to state that Compliance should never have 17 approved this order was your email that preceded it, right?

18 A No.

19 Q No? There's nothing else on this email other than your 20 email that preceded it, correct?

21 A Correct.

22 Q Okay. A few days later, you learned that Mr. Seery was 23 trying a workaround to effectuate the trades anyway, right?

24 A I believe so.

25 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll up to the next email?

Dondero - Direct

88

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q This is your response to Mr. Surgent, right?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Now, Mr. Surgent hasn't written anything. He is not part 5 of this conversation, is he?

6 A No.

7 Q But you bring him into the conversation, right?

8 A Because he's the chief compliance officer at Highland,
9 yes.

10 Q He's not -- he's not the chief compliance officer for the 11 Advisors. He's the chief compliance officer for a company
12 that you no longer work for, right?

13 A Correct, but he has personal liability for violations of 14 the Advisers Act.

15 Q Okay. And you thought it was your responsibility to 16 remind him of that, right?

17 A It was my view of the situation, and at least he could 18 evaluate it himself if I reminded him of it, yes.

19 Q Uh-huh. What does it mean to do a workaround? What did 20 you mean by that?

21 A There's a concept in compliance called you can't do
22 something indirectly that you can't do directly, and that's 23 what I was referring to there.

24 Q Does that mean that he was trying to effectuate the trade
25 without the assistance of the Advisors?

Dondero - Direct

89

1 A I believed he was trying to do it without compliance and 2 without proper regard for investors, so that's why I described
3 it as a workaround.

4 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike.

5 THE COURT: Sustained.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q I'm asking you a very specific question.

8 MR. MORRIS: Can I have a ruling, Your Honor? Thank
9 you.

10 THE COURT: Yes.

11 BY MR. MORRIS:

12 Q Did you, when you used the phrase workaround, did you mean 13 that he was trying to effectuate the trade without relying on 14 the Advisors' employees?

15 A No.

16 Q Okay. But you found out about the trade and you thought
17 it was a good idea to send Mr. Surgent this email, right?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Can you read the last line of your email?

20 A (reading) You might want to remind him and yourself that 21 the chief compliance officer has personal liability.

22 Q Personal liability for effectuating a trade that Mr. Seery
23 had authorized, correct?

24 A For violating the Advisers Act, is what I meant.

25 Q Uh-huh. Did you report anybody to the SEC?

Dondero - Direct

90

1 A I would be happy to if it's permitted by the Court.

2 Q But you didn't -- you never asked the Court to do that,
3 right?

4 A No.

5 Q It didn't seem important enough for you to take that step,
6 right? But you wanted -- you had to make sure that you told
7 Mr. Surgent that he might be personally liable, right? That 8 was what you needed to do?

9 A Could you repeat that question, please?

10 Q You needed to make sure that Mr. Surgent knew that you
11 were threatening him with personal liability if he followed
12 Mr. Seery's instructions, right?

13 A No.

14 Q As a factual matter, you never asked Mr. Seery why he 15 wanted to make these trades, right?

16 A I asked Joe Sowin to ask him.

17 Q As a factual matter, you never asked Mr. Seery why he 18 wanted to make these trades, correct?

19 A I believe I wasn't permitted to talk to him.

20 Q In November 2020? What would have prevented that?

21 A I believe Scott Ellington was the go-between at that 22 point in time.

23 Q Is it your testimony that you never spoke with Jim Seery
24 in November 2020?

25 A I believe in an unauthorized fashion, the day after

Dondero - Direct

91

1 Thanksgiving I talked to him, but that's the only day I can
2 remember.

3 Q Should we call up the email where you threatened him not
4 to do it again?

5 A That was an email.

6 Q Ah. So you could communicate by email? Did you ever send 7 Mr. Seery an email and say, Why do you want to do these 8 trades?

9 A No.

10 Q But somehow you thought you couldn't even speak to him?
11 You couldn't speak to him but you can send him emails? That's 12 the world that you live in, right? That's what you think?

13 A I have no comment on that.

14 Q All right. So, after this exchange, --

15 MR. MORRIS: And this is what I read out-of-order
16 before, Your Honor. We moved to the December 16th hearing.

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q And you remember, Mr. Dondero, that the Defendants made
19 that motion that asked the Court to stop the Debtor from 20 trading in the CLO assets? Do you remember that?

21 A I'm sorry. You're asking me do I remember letters were 22 sent? Yes.

23 Q No. Do you remember that there was a hearing in mid-
24 December?

25 A Yes.

Dondero - Direct

92

1 Q Okay.

2 MR. MORRIS: And Your Honor, for the record, Exhibit
3 A is the Debtor -- is the Defendants' motion. Exhibit B is 4 the transcript that we had looked at earlier or that I had 5 read portions of earlier.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: And Exhibit C is the order that the 8 Court entered denying the Defendants' motion.

9 Can we call up Exhibit C, please?

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q All right. Do you see --

12 MR. MORRIS: If we could scroll to the very top,
13 please. All right.

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Do you see this document is dated December 18th, sir?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And if we scroll down, this is the order denying the 18 motion of the Advisors and the Funds for an order trying to 19 temporarily restrict the Debtor's ability as portfolio manager
20 from initiating sales. Do you see that?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. So, this is December 18th. And if you'll recall,
23 the TRO was issued against you on December 10th. Do you
24 remember that?

25 A I don't believe it was the 10th.

Dondero - Direct

93

1 Q Okay. It was in December, and it was just before this.

2 Is that fair?

3 A I believe there was an intent, and then the actual filing
4 I think was much later. I don't have -- I don't have the 5 knowledge. I don't have the knowledge of when the TRO was put 6 in place.

7 Q Okay. (Pause.) Okay. We talked earlier about how you
8 interfered with Mr. Seery's trading activities around
9 Thanksgiving. Do you remember that?

10 A Yes, I do. I do remember the trading then, also.

11 Q Okay. And do you remember that just before Christmas you
12 interfered with Mr. Seery's tradings again?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Okay.

15 MR. MORRIS: If we can call up Exhibit K from Docket
16 No. 46, which I have shared with counsel?

17 THE WITNESS: You know what?

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q Yeah.

20 A Let's handle these each incident one at a time. And I
21 don't want to use the word "interfering" or accept the word
22 "interfering" as an answer because I think my participation in 23 each situation was very different.

24 MR. MORRIS: All right. Can we scroll down?

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Dondero - Direct

94

1 Q This is a letter that my firm wrote to Mr. Lynn. Mr. Lynn
2 is your lawyer. Is that right?

3 A Yes.

4 MR. MORRIS: And if we could start down at the first
5 page. We've seen these letter before. A little further.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Do you see there is a reference there to the Debtor's
8 management of CLOs?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And there is a recitation of the history that we talked
11 about a bit earlier. If we -- if we look further in that 12 paragraph to around Thanksgiving, when you intervened to block
13 the trades.

14 A Yes, I see that sentence.

15 Q Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: And then if we can go to the next page, 17 the next paragraph. Yeah, that's where.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q Then we referred to the December 16th hearing, right? And 20 then the next paragraph says, "On December 22, 2020" --

21 MR. MORRIS: Can you scroll down just a little bit?
22 Nope, the other way. Yeah, right there.

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q "On December 22, 2020, employees of NPA and HCMFA" --
25 those are the Advisors, right?

Dondero - Direct

95

1 A Yes.

2 Q -- "notified the Debtor that they would not settle the 3 CLO's sale of the AVYA and SKY security." Have I read that 4 correctly?

5 A Yes.

6 Q All right. On or about December 22nd, you personally
7 instructed employees of the Advisors not to trade the SKY and 8 AVYA securities that Mr. Seery had authorized. Is that right?

9 A No.

10 Q You personally instructed, on or about December 22, 2020,
11 employees of those Advisors to stop doing the trades that Mr.
12 Seery had authorized with respect to SKY and AVYA, right?

13 A No. You know, we need to look at source documents. My 14 recollection is I encouraged Compliance to look at those 15 trades. But I'm willing to be -- I'm willing to be -- get 16 source documents again, if you'd like.

17 Q All right. My source document is your prior testimony.

18 MR. MORRIS: Can we please call up Exhibit NNNN at 19 Page 73? Beginning at Line 2? Okay.

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q Page 73, beginning at Line 2, did you give the following
22 answer to my question?

23 "Q And you personally instructed, on or about
24 December 22nd, 2020, employees of those Advisors to 25 stop doing the trades that Mr. Seery had authorized

Dondero - Direct

96

1 with respect to SKY and AVYA, right?

2 "A Yeah. Maybe we're splitting hairs here, but I
3 instructed them not to trade them. I never gave 4 instructions not to settle the trades that occurred,
5 but that's a different ball of wax."

6 Q Did you give that answer, sir?

7 A I believe I confused dates or misspoke there, but I did
8 give that answer.

9 Q Okay. Thank you. Stated a different way, you personally
10 instructed the Advisors' employees not to execute the trades
11 that Mr. Seery had authorized but which had not yet been made,
12 right?

13 A No. Not -- not on December 22nd. That was in November.
14 November 22nd, I did not do that.

15 Q Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 76, please? Line 15.

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q Did you give this answer to my question?

19 "Q And you would agree with me, would you not, that 20 you instructed the employees of the Advisors not to 21 execute the very trades that Mr. Seery identifies in 22 this email, correct?

23 "A Yes."

24 Q Did you give that answer, sir?

25 A Well, like I said, I -- I confused the Thanksgiving

Dondero - Direct

97

1 trades, the week of Thanksgiving, with my more nuanced
2 responses to later trades.

3 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor. It's a
4 very simple question.

5 THE COURT: Granted.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Did you give that answer to my question, sir?

8 A I -- yes, I did.

9 Q Thank you. Now, all of this is just a week after that 10 December 16th hearing, right?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And right after that hearing, the K&L Gates firm sent, on 13 behalf of the Defendants, more letters to the Debtors, right?

14 A Yes.

15 MR. MORRIS: Can we please pull up the first letter?
16 It's Exhibit DDDD. And if we can go not to our response but 17 to the original letter that was sent that's attached to this.
18 I think it is Exhibit A. Right there.

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q That's the first of the letters, December 22, 2020. Do
21 you see that?

22 A Yes.

23 MR. MORRIS: And can we scroll down to the end of the 24 letter to see what the request is here? Right there.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Dondero - Direct

98

1 Q Can you read the end of that letter right there, sir?

2 A (reading) Sincerely, A. Lee Hogewood, III.

3 Q Nice. I meant the actual substance.

4 A (reading) For the foregoing and other reasons, we request
5 that no further CLO transactions occur, at least until the 6 issues raised by and addressed in the Debtor's plan are 7 resolved at the confirmation hearing.

8 Q Okay. And that's similar in substance to the letter that 9 was sent on behalf of the Defendants on October 16th that you
10 saw and approved, right?

11 A I did not see and approve.

12 Q All right. The record will speak for itself. And it's 13 similar in substance to the letter that was sent on November
14 24th by the K&L Gates clients on behalf of the Defendants,
15 right?

16 A I don't know.

17 Q We looked at it before. Should we get it again?

18 A It's a -- all the letters, as far as I understand, were 19 similar in requesting that the -- the beneficial owners of the 20 CLOs were requesting that no wholesale liquidation of their 21 assets occur. That's how I understand it.

22 Q And that's --

23 A You asked my understanding. That's my understanding.

24 Q Okay. And notwithstanding the request in this letter,
25 when you were -- when you were talking to the traders at your

Dondero - Direct

99

1 shop, you actually told them that the Debtor was instructed
2 not to do these trades, right?

3 A Are you parsing "instructed" versus "requested"? I don't 4 understand the question.

5 Q I am, in fact. You used a very different phrase when 6 speaking to your employees than you did -- then your lawyers
7 did when they wrote to the Debtor, right?

8 A It seems to be a difference, yes.

9 Q Okay. So, this is on December 22nd. Now, the night
10 before, you participated in a meeting with Grant Scott and 11 with the lawyers for the Defendants, right, to talk about what
12 you guys were going to do with respect to the Debtor's
13 management of the CLOs. Isn't that right?

14 A I don't remember specifically.

15 Q Okay. But is it fair to say it's true, is it not, that 16 during the week leading up to Christmas you participated in 17 several phone calls with the K&L Gates firm and with other 18 members of the Defendants' -- the Advisors, Mr. Sowin or Mr.
19 Post or Mr. Sauter, and the lawyers, right? You were all
20 together talking about these issues during the week before
21 Christmas, right?

22 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'm going to object. If 23 counsel is asking what was discussed with counsel present for 24 the purpose of legal advice, that is an inappropriate
25 question.

Dondero - Direct

100

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. MORRIS: I'm certainly not. I'm asking if the 3 conversations took place.

4 MR. RUKAVINA: And the conversations -- the question
5 was, did they discuss what to do with respect to the CLOs?
6 That would be privileged, Your Honor. If they discussed
7 football, that's not privileged, but what to do with the CLO
8 management agreements is privileged.

9 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain.

10 MR. MORRIS: Can we please call up Exhibit TT? I'm 11 sorry, TTT. Nope, TTTT. TTTT. Can you scroll down a bit?
12 Right there.

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q Do you see -- this is an email from Grant Scott to Scott
15 Ellington; do you see that?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And at this point, Mr. Ellington is still working for the 18 Debtor, right?

19 A Yes. I believe he was settlement counsel.

20 Q Uh-huh. And do you see that this is an email that refers
21 to your availability for a 9:00 a.m. call?

22 A Yes.

23 Q And do you see that there's a question as to whether the 24 K&L people can make it?

25 A Yes.

Dondero - Direct

101

1 Q And you understand that refers to K&L Gates, right?

2 A I -- I guess so.

3 Q And so does this refresh your recollection that at or 4 around Christmas, or in the days leading up to Christmas, you
5 participated in calls with Mr. Scott, with Scott Ellington,
6 and with the K&L Gates folks?

7 A I -- I don't know. I don't know if -- if I actually did
8 or not. But I was highly concerned with inappropriate
9 behavior.

10 Q And you were available -- and did you tell somebody that 11 you were available for this call on the morning of the 23rd?

12 A I don't know.

13 Q This is the day after you stopped the trades, right?

14 A Again, I didn't stop the trades on the 23rd.

15 Q You stopped them on the 22nd, right?

16 A No, I stopped them on the week of Thanksgiving.

17 MR. MORRIS: Can we go back to Exhibit NNNN, the 18 transcript? Page 73?

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q Let me see if I can refresh your recollection. Tab 2.
21 Did you give this answer to this question:

22 "Q And you personally instructed, on or about
23 December 22, 2020, employees of those Advisors to stop
24 doing the trades that Mr. Seery had authorized with 25 respect to SKY and AVYA, right?

Dondero - Direct

102

1 "A Yeah. Maybe we're splitting hairs here, but I
2 instructed them not to trade them."

3 Q Did you give that answer to the question?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Okay.

6 A But we -- we corrected.

7 Q All right. You didn't correct it at the preliminary
8 injunction hearing, did you?

9 A No, I did not.

10 Q Okay. So as far as the Court knows as of this moment,
11 that's the only testimony that you've ever given on the topic,
12 right?

13 A I'm trying to give some now.

14 Q Okay. And on December 22nd, that's the date that the 15 first letter was also sent, right, we just looked at?

16 A All right. Okay.

17 Q You agree with that, right?

18 A I don't remember the date on the letter. If you want to 19 pull it up, I'll say it is the 22nd or the 23rd, whatever it
20 says. I don't know.

21 Q Sure.

22 MR. MORRIS: Let's go back to DDDD, please. And if 23 we can just go to the top of the letter. Thank you.

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q K&L Gates. December 22nd. That's the letter, right?

Dondero - Direct

103

1 A Yes.

2 Q And according to the testimony that you gave at the
3 preliminary injunction hearing on January 8th, that's the day
4 that you also stopped AVYA and SKY trades, right?

5 A I'm not agreeing to that testimony. I am changing the 6 testimony.

7 Q Okay. And then we just saw that other exhibit where they 8 were trying to arrange a phone call with you, the K&L Gates
9 lawyers, and Mr. Ellington and Grant Scott for the 23rd. Do 10 you remember that one we just looked at?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And then later on the day on the 23rd, K&L Gates sends 13 another letter, right?

14 MR. MORRIS: Can we call up EEEE? And can we scroll
15 to the Exhibit A, to our response? Right there.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q That's the 23rd. Do you see that letter?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Again, this is one week after the hearing, right?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. And this is a letter where K&L Gates states on 22 behalf of the Defendants that they are contemplating taking 23 steps to terminate the CLO management agreements, right?

24 A I don't know. Can you scroll down, if you want to ask me

25 --

Dondero - Direct

104

1 Q Sure.

2 MR. MORRIS: Can we flip to the next page, please?

3 Keep going. Right there.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Can you read the first sentence of the paragraph
6 beginning, "Consequently"?

7 A (reading) Consequently, in addition to our request of 8 yesterday, where appropriate and consistent with the 9 underlying contractual provisions, one or more of the entities
10 above intend to notify the relevant Trustees and/or Issuers
11 that the process of removing the Debtor as fund manager should 12 be initiated, subject to and with due deference to the 13 applicable provisions of the United States Bankruptcy Code,
14 including the automatic stay of Section 362.

15 Q Okay. So, on December 23rd, the Defendants told the 16 Debtor that they intended to notify the relevant Trustees
17 and/or the Issuers that the process of removing the Debtor as 18 the fund manager should be initiated, right?

19 A That's what it says.

20 Q And then the K&L Gates firm sent yet another letter to the 21 Debtor, right? Do you remember that?

22 A No.

23 MR. MORRIS: Can we get up FFFF, please?

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q This is dated December 31st. Do you see that?

Dondero - Direct

105

1 A Yes.

2 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll down a bit?

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Do you recall this is the letter where they claim that 5 they've been damaged by the Debtor's eviction of you from the 6 Highland offices?

7 A I don't remember specifically, but that's true.

8 Q Okay. So we just saw these three letters, in addition to 9 your -- the -- at least the testimony you gave regarding your 10 conduct on the 22nd of December. You were aware that all of 11 these letters were being sent by K&L Gates, correct?

12 A Yes, generally.

13 Q And you were supportive of the sending of these letters,
14 right?

15 A Absolutely. They were appropriate.

16 Q And you pushed and encouraged the chief compliance officer
17 and the general counsel to send these letters, right?

18 A I'd like to think that they believed and they acted 19 largely on their own judgment, but I strongly believed it was 20 a violation of the Advisers Act, and stated that numerous 21 times.

22 Q Sir, you pushed and encouraged the chief compliance
23 officer and the general counsel to send these letters,
24 correct?

25 A No, I wouldn't use those words.

Dondero - Direct

106

1 Q Do you understand that the Debtor demanded that the K&L
2 Gates clients or the Defendants withdraw these letters?

3 A I believe they requested it. I didn't -- I didn't know
4 the former, what you mean by demand, but --

5 Q Well, it's fair to say you never instructed the K&L Gates
6 clients or the Defendants to withdraw these letters, right?

7 A No. I still believe they are appropriate and accurate. I
8 wouldn't withdraw them today.

9 Q Okay. Sir, throughout 2020, when you were still the 10 portfolio manager at Highland Capital Management, it's true
11 that you sold AVYA shares on numerous occasions on behalf of 12 both the CLOs and on behalf of the Funds outside of the 13 holdings of the CLOs?

14 A Always with a business purpose, yes. That is still a 15 small percentage of our total AVYA holdings, and we still 16 liked AVYA.

17 Q Sir, I'm going to ask you just one more time. In 2020,
18 you sold AVYA stock many times on behalf of the CLOs and on 19 behalf of the Funds?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Thank you.

22 MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina?

24 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I will reserve my 25 questions to my case in chief, and I would request a very

2 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, we're --

3 MR. RUKAVINA: And I do mean short. I will --

4 THE COURT: I'm sorry. What?

5 MR. RUKAVINA: And I do mean short, Your Honor. I
6 just need to run and be back -- I can be back in three 7 minutes.

8 MR. MORRIS: No problem, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Okay. You're finished for now, Mr.
10 Dondero, but you're going to be recalled, so hang tight.

11 Your next witness, Mr. Morris?

12 MR. MORRIS: The Debtor calls Jason Post.

13 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, may I be excused to run to 14 the restroom and Mr. Vasek take over for a few minutes?

15 THE COURT: Oh. Okay. I'm sorry. If you made that 16 request, I didn't hear you. So that's fine.

17 All right. Mr. Post, --

18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, can we just -- I apologize
19 for interrupting. Can we just direct Mr. Dondero not to speak
20 with anybody about anything at any time? Not by phone, not by 21 text, not by email, not by meeting, not by anything? Because 22 he's still on the stand.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, Your Honor, anything at any 24 time. I think I know that Mr. Morris is being facetious, but 25 if he's trying to get the rule invoked, that's different.

Post - Direct

108

1 MR. MORRIS: Okay. I'm trying to get the rule
2 invoked.

3 THE COURT: Okay. All right. I'm not going to make
4 that instruction. All right. So, --

5 MR. RUKAVINA: I've got to run to the restroom. I'll 6 be -- listen for the instructions.

7 THE COURT: Jason Post, you've been called to the 8 witness stand. Could you say, "Testing, one, two"?

9 MR. POST: (Indiscernible.)

10 THE COURT: All right. Please raise --

11 MR. POST: Testing, one, two.

12 THE COURT: Thank you. Please raise your right hand.

13 JASON POST, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

14 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, go ahead.

15 DIRECT EXAMINATION

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Post. We met the other day. Do you 18 remember that?

19 A I do.

20 Q Okay. So, again, just to remind you, my name is John 21 Morris. I'm an attorney at Pachulski, Stang, Ziehl & Jones.
22 We represent the Debtor here. You're the chief compliance
23 officer for each of the Defendants; is that right?

24 A I am.

25 Q And in your role as the chief compliance officer, your job

1 is to act as a liaison between regulatory bodies and internal
2 working groups with respect to the rules and regulations for 3 the funds advised by the Advisors; is that correct?

4 A Correct, that's -- that's the (inaudible). Correct.

5 Q All right. And internally, you report to Mr. Dondero.
6 Isn't that right?

7 A Correct.

8 Q And you've been working with Mr. Dondero since 2008 when 9 you joined Highland Capital Management, correct?

10 A I worked at Mr. Dondero's firm since 2008, but I reported
11 to other direct reports during that time outside of Mr.
12 Dondero. I started to report to him directly in October of 13 2020.

14 Q Okay.

15 A (overspoken)

16 Q But you've -- you've worked at Highland -- you worked at 17 Highland since 2008, fair?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Okay. And you were employed by Highland up until October
20 2020, correct?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. And at that time, Mr. Dondero left and he went to 23 NexPoint and you went to NexPoint. Is that right?

24 A Shortly after Mr. Dondero left Highland, I transitioned
25 over to NexPoint.

1 Q And that's where Mr. Dondero is, right?

2 A Correct.

3 Q Okay. You joined Highland in 2008, and in around 2011 you
4 joined Highland's internal legal and compliance team, correct?

5 A That's correct.

6 Q And in 2015, while still employed by Highland, Mr. Dondero
7 appointed you as the chief compliance officer of the Advisors
8 and the Funds, right?

9 A Technically, the retail board appointed me the CCO of the 10 Funds, and then I was appointed internally. I believe Mr.
11 Dondero was part of that decision for the Advisors.

12 Q Had you ever worked with the retail boards before that?

13 A There was about -- I worked with them for about a year
14 prior to that.

15 Q Okay. And you've served as the CCO, the chief compliance
16 officer, of each of the Advisors and each of the Funds since
17 September 2015 on a continuous basis, right?

18 A That is correct.

19 Q You know Thomas Surgent; is that right?

20 A I do.

21 Q Mr. Surgent has been the Debtor's chief compliance officer
22 since around 2013 or 2014; is that right?

23 A I believe -- uh -- I -- I think that's correct. It may be 24 a year or two off. He took the role after the former CO
25 resigned, which I don't know if that was 2011 or 2012. I

1 can't recall specifically.

2 Q Okay. But he's been -- he's been in that position for a
3 long time, right? Fair enough?

4 A Yes, that's fair.

5 Q And during the whole time that you were employed by 6 Highland and serving as the chief compliance officer for the 7 Funds and the Advisors, you reported to Mr. Surgent?

8 A Internally. Yes, that's correct.

9 Q Yeah. And you respect Mr. Surgent; isn't that right?

10 A During the time I reported to him, yes.

11 Q Yeah. And you believed that he did his job well, right?

12 A As far as I could see, yes.

13 Q You viewed it as -- you viewed him as a mentor, did you
14 not?

15 A Yes. I mean, when I joined the legal compliance team, you
16 know, he was there. He was a senior member on the team. And 17 he, you know, helped educate me, along with other, you know,
18 external sources, et cetera, on the compliance function.

19 Q Uh-huh. He trained you for the work you're doing now,
20 right?

21 A With respect to the on-the-job training, yes.

22 Q Uh-huh. Despite all of that, throughout all the 23 proceedings, the court hearings, all of the issues that we're 24 talking about in this case, you never, ever stopped to discuss 25 any of these issues with your former mentor, Mr. Surgent; is

1 that right?

2 A The -- with respect to, for example, the trade (garbled)
3 that you were talking about earlier?

4 Q Let's do it this way. From the time that you left
5 Highland until today, you've never discussed with Mr. Surgent
6 Mr. Seery's trades; is that right?

7 A I believe there was a discussion after -- I can't recall
8 exactly the context. There was a discussion after the trades
9 in the November time frame. And then I believe there was a --
10 I responded to an email exchange in the December time frame
11 regarding booking of the trades.

12 Q Sir, you -- you've never spoken with Mr. Surgent about any 13 issue concerning the Debtor's management of the CLOs, correct?

14 A I don't recall directly, no.

15 Q In fact, you're not aware of anyone acting on behalf of 16 the Advisors or the Funds who has reached out to Mr. Surgent
17 to get his views on any of the issues related to this motion.
18 Isn't that right?

19 A I believe previously there's correspondence that Mr.
20 Dondero had with Surgent. But aside from that, I'm not aware 21 of any.

22 Q Is that the email where he reminded him of his personal 23 liability? Is that the one you're thinking of?

24 A Correct.

25 Q Yeah. Do you know of any other communication -- do you

113

1 know of any other communication that any of the Defendants had
2 with Mr. Surgent concerning the Debtor's management of the 3 CLOs?

4 A With Mr. Surgent directly, I don't -- I don't -- I don't 5 believe so.

6 Q Yeah. You graduated from Baylor; is that right?

7 A Correct.

8 Q But you don't have any certifications or licenses
9 applicable to your work, correct?

10 A Correct.

11 Q You don't have any specialized training or education
12 that's relevant to your work as a chief compliance officer,
13 correct?

14 A Correct.

15 Q Your job -- your training is limited to on-the-job
16 training; isn't that right?

17 A That is correct.

18 Q You've never spoken at any conferences on compliance
19 matters, have you?

20 A Spoken, no. Attended, yes.

21 Q You don't recall presenting any papers at any compliance-
22 related conferences, do you?

23 A That is correct.

24 Q You've never published anything in connection with your 25 work as a compliance officer; isn't that right?

Post - Direct

114

1 A Not that I can recall.

2 Q Let's talk about the CLO management agreements briefly.

3 You're aware that the Debtor is party to certain management

4 agreements pursuant to which it serves as the portfolio

5 manager for certain CLOs, correct?

6 A Correct.

7 Q And until your lawyers recently asked you to review them,

8 you last had reason to review a CLO management agreement about 9 five or six years ago; isn't that right?

10 A I believe that's correct.

11 Q And the request from your lawyers to look at the CLO

12 management agreements, that request came in late November/

13 early December; isn't that right?

14 A I believe that's around the right time frame.

15 Q And the portions of the management agreements that you

16 read were the portions that your counsel asked you to read;

17 isn't that right?

18 A Correct.

19 Q And other than the general recollection of having read

20 something about the rights of preference shareholders, you

21 don't recall much about the agreements at all; isn't that

22 right?

23 A I mean, the agreements are very lengthy in nature. You

24 know, I think it was probably rights that the preference

25 shareholders had, and, you know, possibly indemnification

1 provisions. But aside from that, I don't recall anything else
2 specifically right now.

3 Q As the chief compliance officer of the Advisors and the 4 Funds, you don't know whether any of them are party to the CLO
5 management agreements between the Debtors and -- between the 6 Debtor and the Issuers, correct?

7 MR. RUKAVINA: And Your Honor, I would just object to 8 the extent that that calls for a legal conclusion. This 9 witness is not a lawyer.

10 THE COURT: Overruled.

11 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. Can you repeat the 12 question, please?

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q Sure. As the chief compliance officer for each of the 15 Defendants, you don't know whether any of them are party to 16 the CLO management agreements between the Debtor and the 17 Issuers, correct?

18 A They're not the named collateral manager, but they're a
19 security holder of the CLOs, so they should be entitled to,
20 you know, the rights that those security holders are afforded
21 under those agreements.

22 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Granted.

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q All right. So, now, Mr. Post, I know this is difficult,

Post - Direct

116

1 and I do appreciate that it's difficult just to focus on the
2 question. Your counsel will have the opportunity to ask you
3 whatever he wants. But I would respectfully request that you
4 listen to my question and only answer my question. It really
5 is very likely to require just a yes or no answer.

6 So, let me try again. As the chief compliance officer of 7 the Advisors and the Funds, you don't know whether any of them
8 are a party to the CLO management agreements between the 9 Debtor and the Issuers, correct?

10 A I don't believe they are, correct.

11 Q Okay. Let's talk about that prior hearing. Now, by the 12 way, Mr. Post, did you listen in to Mr. Dondero's testimony
13 earlier?

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Post was here with me --

15 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: -- as my representative..

17 MR. MORRIS: Okay. I -- there's no problem. I just 18 -- I just -- that way there's some background and he has some 19 context. That's the only reason I asked.

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q You're aware that the Funds and the Advisors previously
22 filed a motion in the Bankruptcy Court asking the Court to 23 institute a pause in the Debtor's ability to sell CLO assets,
24 correct?

25 A Correct.

Post - Direct

117

1 Q And you recall that that happened in mid-December, around
2 December 16th; is that right?

3 A That sounds correct.

4 Q And in connection with that motion, you provided
5 information to counsel that they requested from you, right?

6 A Yes. I was part of the working -- internal working group,
7 with internal and external counsel.

8 Q Other than providing that information, you generally
9 agreed with the position being taken that it wasn't in the 10 best interest of the Funds involved for Highland to make any 11 trades; isn't that right?

12 A Yes. And that was based off of discussions with the 13 investment professionals.

14 Q And the investment professionals are Mr. Sowin and Mr.
15 Dondero, correct?

16 A Correct.

17 Q Okay. So you're the chief compliance officer, and they 18 made a motion that was based on the idea that the fund
19 manager, Highland Capital Management, shouldn't trade any 20 assets in the CLOs. Do I have that right?

21 A I believe that's what the motion contained.

22 Q But you don't even remember who authorized the filing of 23 the motion; isn't that right?

24 A I believe it was pursuant to discussions internally and 25 with external counsel, and I believe Mr. Norris signed the

Post - Direct

118

1 filing, if I -- if I recall correctly.

2 Q Sir, you don't remember who authorized the filing of the
3 motion, correct?

4 A It -- it was pursuant to a discussion with the investment
5 professionals and counsel, and it was in the best interest of 6 the Funds to make the filing. So I think it was a
7 collaborative determination.

8 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Granted.

10 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, can we please pull up Mr.
11 Post's deposition transcript? And let's go to Page 35. Line
12 21. Okay.

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q Do you remember giving the following answer to the 15 following question:

16 "Q Who authorized the filing of this motion?

17 "A I can't recall specifically who authorized it."

18 Q Did you give that answer to my question just the other
19 day?

20 A That's -- that's what it says there, yes.

21 Q And it says that because that's, in fact, what you
22 testified to under oath the other day, right?

23 A Correct.

24 Q Okay. And the one thing that you know for certain is that 25 you didn't authorize the filing of the motion; isn't that

119

1 right?

2 A I didn't sign anything in connection with the filing.

3 Q All right. Listen carefully to my question. The one
4 thing that you're certain of is that you did not authorize the 5 filing of the motion as the chief compliance officer of the 6 Debtors, correct?

7 A Correct.

8 Q Okay. But you did participate in conversations with Mr.
9 Dondero and counsel concerning the motion; is that fair?

10 A There were conversations with Mr. Dondero initially, and 11 then the conversations were then more so with internal and 12 external counsel in terms of the filing.

13 Q Okay. So they started just with Mr. Dondero, and then 14 they moved on to counsel. Is that what you're saying?

15 A I can't recall specifically. It may have been part of a
16 discussion internally with internal counsel and Mr. Dondero.
17 I just -- I can't recall the specifics.

18 Q Okay. But Mr. Dondero certainly supported the filing of 19 the motion, right?

20 A Yes. From an investment perspective, it was in the best
21 interest of the Funds in terms of the sales that were 22 occurring.

23 Q Okay.

24 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike.

25 THE COURT: Granted.

Post - Direct

120

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q It's a very simple question. Mr. Dondero supported the 3 filing of the motion; is that correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q You did not file a declaration in support of the motion;
6 is that correct?

7 A Me personally, no.

8 Q Okay. So you're the chief compliance officer of the 9 Defendants; is that right?

10 A Correct.

11 Q But instead of you filing a declaration, Mr. Norris filed
12 the declaration. Do I have that right?

13 A Correct. My understanding is one person needs to sign the 14 declaration.

15 Q And remind me, what is Mr. Norris's position? He's the 16 executive vice president, right?

17 A Correct.

18 Q What responsibilities does he have? Does he have trading
19 responsibility?

20 A He does not.

21 Q Does he have compliance responsibility?

22 A Not directly, no.

23 Q Does he have investment responsibility?

24 A He's familiar with the composition of the portfolios in 25 his role as a product strategy team member.

Post - Direct

121

1 Q Does he have investment responsibility, sir?

2 A He is not making direct investments for the -- for the
3 Funds.

4 Q Okay. So he doesn't -- and he's not a compliance person,
5 right?

6 A Correct.

7 Q And he's not a lawyer, right?

8 A Correct.

9 Q But nevertheless, as the chief compliance officer, you
10 believed that Mr. Norris's declaration contained all of the 11 information that was relevant to support the motion, right?

12 A It was a determin... or a collaborative determination in 13 conjunction with counsel. But I, you know, I don't -- yeah,
14 it was -- it was a collaborative determination. There were 15 multiple elements that went into that -- the letter.

16 Q Okay. You believed that the motion and Mr. Norris's
17 declaration contained all the relevant facts that supported
18 the Advisors and the Funds' requests to the Court, correct?

19 A Yes.

20 Q In fact, you believed that Mr. Norris was the most 21 knowledgeable person to testify on behalf of the Movants;
22 isn't that right?

23 A I think it was -- he was identified pursuant to 24 discussions with counsel to be the most knowledgeable.

25 Q I'm going to ask you just about you and not counsel. You

Post - Direct

122

1 believed at the time that Mr. Norris was the most
2 knowledgeable witness to testify on behalf of the Movants;
3 isn't that right?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And you didn't testify -- not only didn't you submit a
6 declaration, but you didn't testify at the hearing, did you?

7 A Correct on both.

8 Q Okay. And you listened to parts of the hearing, but not 9 all of it, because you were busy doing other stuff, right?

10 A Correct.

11 Q You didn't listen to Mr. Norris's testimony at all, right?

12 A I don't believe I did.

13 Q You didn't listen to the Court when the Court rendered its 14 decision, did you?

15 A I don't -- I don't believe I did.

16 Q And you didn't read the transcript from the hearing, did
17 you?

18 A I don't -- correct. I did not.

19 Q Okay. So in your capacity as the chief compliance
20 officer, you didn't believe that you should take the time to 21 review the transcript, did you?

22 A Correct. I mean, just it was filed based off of the 23 belief that the -- that the trades weren't in the best
24 interest, and I -- and no, I didn't read it personally.

25 Q And you didn't believe, in -- that in your capacity as the

Post - Direct

123

1 CCO, the chief compliance officer, that it was in the scope of 2 your responsibility to listen to the hearing, correct?

3 A I was -- I wasn't asked to listen, and quite frankly, I
4 don't -- I don't recall if I remember the timing, but I did
5 not listen.

6 Q Okay. And in your capacity as the chief compliance
7 officer, you didn't believe that it was in the scope of your 8 responsibilities to listen to the hearing; isn't that right?

9 A Correct.

10 Q And because you didn't listen to the hearing or review the 11 transcript, you were unaware of what the Court said or how 12 Judge Jernigan described the motion or the people involved in 13 presenting the case on behalf of the Defendants, right?

14 A Correct, but I -- I believe I probably would have received 15 some guidance from counsel who attended or listened to the 16 hearing.

17 Q Well, after the hearing was over, you did speak to Mr.
18 Norris, right?

19 A Very briefly.

20 Q In fact, --

21 A Very --

22 Q In fact, the only thing you can remember about your 23 conversation with Mr. Norris following the hearing was 24 discussing with him how long the hearing took. Isn't that
25 right?

Post - Direct

124

1 A Correct, because I -- I believe I heard it was a short
2 hearing.

3 Q And that's -- that's all -- that's all you asked Mr.
4 Norris about, about the hearing, right? That's all you
5 remember talking to him about?

6 A I believe so, correct.

7 Q You don't recall discussing with Mr. Norris any other 8 aspect of the hearing other than the length of time it took to 9 conduct, correct?

10 A I don't recall specifically.

11 Q And you have no recollection of ever discussing with Mr.
12 Dondero what happened at the hearing, right?

13 A I don't think I talked with Jim, Jim Dondero about that.

14 Q Nor did you talk to Mr. Dondero about the Court's ruling;
15 isn't that right?

16 A Correct.

17 Q Okay. Let's talk about the events that occurred after the 18 hearing, in the two weeks following the hearing. The 19 Defendants for which you serve as the chief compliance officer
20 sent three separate letters to the Defendant [sic], correct?

21 A If you could bring them up, I can confirm.

22 Q Sure.

23 MR. MORRIS: Let's start with DDDD, please. Okay.

24 Okay. Can we scroll to the attachment, please?

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

1 Q All right. So this is the first letter, Mr. Post. Do you
2 recall, on or about December 22nd, the K&L Gates firm sent, on 3 behalf of the Advisors and Funds for which you serve as the 4 chief compliance officer, a letter to the Debtors?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: And can we call the next exhibit? I
8 guess it's EEEE.

9 And I don't mean to be quick about these. If there's any 10 reason that you want to read them, I wasn't planning on asking
11 any questions about the substance of the letters of this 12 witness.

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q But Mr. Post, I don't mean to be quick here. So if you
15 think there's a benefit to you to reading the letters, please
16 let me know.

17 Do you see, December 23rd, the next day, another letter
18 was sent by K&L Gates?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Okay. And do you recall generally that the Advisors and 21 Funds for which you serve as chief compliance officer told the 22 -- told the Debtor that they were going to begin the process
23 of seeking to terminate the CLO management agreements?

24 A I believe -- I believe that was contained in the letter,
25 so long as it was done in compliance with the Court.

126

1 Q Uh-huh. And do you remember there was a third letter that
2 was sent?

3 A If you wouldn't mind pulling it up.

4 Q Yeah, not at all.

5 MR. MORRIS: Can we get the December 31st letter? I
6 think it might be -- yeah.

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q Now, here's the December 31st letter. Do you remember the 9 December 31st letter was the one where K&L Gates suggested
10 that the Advisors and the Funds had suffered damages because 11 the Debtor evicted Mr. Dondero from the Highland suite of 12 offices?

13 A I -- I had heard of that letter being drafted, but I don't 14 recall -- I obviously don't recall a specific date. But if it
15 says December 31st, --

16 Q Okay. Mr. Dondero was one of the main voices in the 17 decision to send these letters, correct?

18 A He was part of the preliminary conversation and expressed
19 his opinion, and then myself and others internally, and with 20 external counsel, then worked to draft the letters.

21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Post, I am going to 22 interject. I have heard Mr. Morris give you this instruction
23 many times. Maybe it's time for me to. Maybe it's past time 24 for me to.

25 Most of his questions simply require a yes or no answer.

127

1 If you feel like there are other things that you want to

3 a chance to question you, and that would be the situation
4 where maybe you could give more fulsome answers. But please
5 listen to the question. If it's a yes or no answer, that's 6 all we want you to give right now. Okay? Got it?

7 THE WITNESS: Understood.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q Mr. Post, Mr. Dondero was one of the main voices in the 12 decision to send the letters; isn't that correct?

13 A He was a voice.

14 THE COURT: That was not a yes --

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 A And he was -- he --

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 THE WITNESS: I'm --

19 THE COURT: Please, just a yes or no answer, okay?

20 THE WITNESS: No.

21 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Can we go to Mr. Post's
22 transcript, please, Page 47? Line 22?

23 And Your Honor, when we pull it up on the screen, there is 24 an objection, and I would respectfully request that the Court
25 rule on the objection before I read the question and the

2 THE COURT: All right.

3 MR. MORRIS: So if we could just call up Page 47
4 beginning at Line 22.

5 MR. RUKAVINA: Page 47, Line 22.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: One moment. Give her a moment. She's 8 not there.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Do you remember what exhibit this is?

10 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. There it is. Beginning at Line
11 22, "Do you know?" And there is Mr. Rukavina's objection.

12 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, it's very simple. He 13 can't go into Mr. Dondero's head. But he -- but if Mr.
14 Dondero told him something, that's different. So I think 15 counsel can rephrase the question and it's perfectly fine, but 16 he can't go into Mr. Dondero's state of mind.

17 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm not asking for Mr.
18 Dondero's state of mind. I'm asking for Mr. Post's knowledge.
19 "Do you know?"

20 THE COURT: Okay. I'll overrule the objection. He 21 can answer.

22 BY MR. MORRIS:

23 Q All right. So, Mr. Post, do you remember giving this 24 answer to the following question:

25 "Q Do you know whether Mr. Dondero supported the

2 "A I don't -- I don't recall specifically. I think
3 he had his views on certain of the transactions that 4 were occurring, and he wasn't in agreement with those 5 transactions, as one of the main voices."

6 Q Do you see that?

7 A I do.

8 Q Does that refresh your recollection that Mr. -- that you
9 testified that Mr. Dondero was one of the main voices?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Okay. Mr. Dondero --

12 MR. MORRIS: You can take that down now for the 13 moment, please.

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Mr. Dondero had his views on certain of the transactions
16 that were occurring, and he wasn't in agreement with those 17 transactions. Isn't that right?

18 A Yes.

19 Q All right. Going back to the letters that we just looked 20 at quickly, you recall the Debtor responded to each of those 21 letters, but as the chief compliance officer, you couldn't
22 really recall what the Debtor said in response. Is that fair?

23 A I'm -- I believe they -- I'm sorry. I can't recall
24 specifically without seeing the letters.

25 Q Okay. So you don't recall that, in response, the Debtor

1 requested that the Advisors and the Funds withdraw the 2 letters, right?

3 A I believe that was requested in the letters.

4 Q Okay. But the Funds and the Advisors didn't comply with 5 that request, right?

6 A To my knowledge, they have not withdrawn the letters.

7 Q You do recall that the Debtor specifically asked the 8 Defendants to file their lift stay motion so that they could 9 finally resolve the issue of whether or not the Advisors and 10 the Funds could actually terminate the agreement, right?

11 A I -- I'm sorry. Can you repeat that question, please?

12 Q Do you recall that the Funds and the Advisors informed the 13 Debtor that they were going to initiate steps to terminate the 14 CLO management agreements, including moving to lift the stay?

15 A I think they indicated that they were going to take steps,
16 but it would be pursuant to what was permitted in the court.

17 Q And do you remember that the Debtor specifically asked the 18 Defendants to do exactly that, to bring this matter to a
19 conclusion, to file the motion so that the Court could resolve 20 the issue of whether or not they had a right to terminate the 21 agreement? You remember that, right?

22 MR. RUKAVINA: Objection, compound, Your Honor.

23 THE WITNESS: I can't --

24 THE COURT: I'm sorry.

25 MR. MORRIS: I can't recall.

1 THE COURT: Was there an objection?

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, Your Honor. That's four
3 questions in one. That's compound.

4 MR. MORRIS: I'll rephrase, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay. And let me interject a minute.
6 Mr. Post, you have this habit of not looking squarely at the 7 camera but looking over to your right. And in a normal
8 courtroom setting, that might be fine, but I have no way of 9 knowing if some lawyer or some other person is -- you're 10 looking at them and they're somehow instructing you. I would 11 certainly hope that's not what's going on, but it just kind of 12 leaves room for me to wonder when you're not looking squarely
13 at the camera. So can you start looking squarely at the 14 camera, please?

15 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I can explain that, and 16 certainly there's no funny business going on. There are two 17 cameras on Mr. Post. One is on a laptop. We're looking at 18 the Court on the big camera. I'm sitting behind Mr. Post. So 19 if the Court would prefer that Mr. Post look directly into the 20 laptop, then that's what he'll do, or if the Court would 21 prefer that he look into the big camera.

22 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I prefer he look into the 23 big camera just because it --

24 MR. RUKAVINA: So keep looking there? Yeah.

25 THE COURT: No, no, no, no. Okay. I don't know what

Post - Direct

132

1 -- I thought -- okay. Do you see what I'm seeing? I don't
2 know if you can see what I'm seeing.

3 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

4 THE COURT: I'm seeing the left side of his face.

5 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. I'll just look at the 6 laptop. Sorry. I was -- I was looking at who was speaking to 7 me.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I don't --

9 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

10 THE COURT: I don't know the setup, so it was 11 confusing to me.

12 All right. This is better. Thank you.

13 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I apologize.

14 MR. RUKAVINA: We'll focus on the laptop, Judge.

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q All right. So the question, Mr. Post, is: You do recall
17 that the Debtor specifically asked the Defendants to file
18 their motion to lift the stay so that the issue could finally 19 be resolved; isn't that right?

20 A I can't recall that specifically.

21 Q You believe that may be one of the options that the Debtor
22 specifically proposed, right?

23 A It -- yes.

24 Q Okay. But the Defendants never filed their lift stay
25 motion to terminate the agreements; isn't that right?

Post - Direct

133

1 A I don't believe so.

2 Q Right. So the Debtor filed its complaint and its request
3 for the injunction, right?

4 A Correct.

5 Q As the CO -- as the CCO, you may have reviewed the 6 Debtor's complaint and motion, but you can't recall, given all
7 the documentation that's involved, right?

8 A Correct.

9 Q You can't recall any facts that the Debtor asserted in 10 support of its motion; isn't that right?

11 A I can't recall specifically. Correct.

12 Q But the one thing you do know is that the Debtor's motion
13 is based on its entitlement to transact business pursuant to 14 their arrangement with the CLOs as collateral manager,
15 correct?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Now, you heard that there was supposed to be an initial 18 hearing on the Debtor's motion for a temporary restraining
19 order against the Defendants, right?

20 A Correct.

21 Q But you don't believe the motion for the TRO got heard,
22 and you presume it got resolved, right?

23 A I don't believe it was heard.

24 Q Okay. And you understand that there is a TRO in place
25 now, pursuant to which the Advisors and the Funds are

134

1 prevented from interfering with the Debtor's execution of its
2 rights under the CLO management agreements, right?

3 A Correct.

4 Q Before the TRO was resolved, you weren't personally
5 involved in the process of deciding what witnesses would be 6 called and what exhibits would be offered into evidence; is
7 that right?

8 A No.

9 MR. MORRIS: During the deposition, Your Honor,
10 subject to correction from Mr. Rukavina, I believe that the 11 Defendants and the Debtor reached the following two 12 stipulations.

13 First, the Defendants and the Debtor stipulate that Mr.
14 Post was not going to be called as a witness at the TRO
15 hearing.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: That is correct.

17 MR. MORRIS: And second, the Defendants and the 18 Debtor stipulate that the Defendants were not going to offer
19 into evidence any exhibits other than those specifically
20 listed on their witness and exhibit list.

21 MR. RUKAVINA: That being the witness and exhibit
22 list filed before the TRO. That is correct.

23 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q Let's talk about Mr. Seery for a minute. You know who Mr.

Post - Direct

135

1 Seery is, correct?

2 A Correct.

3 Q You understand he's an independent director and the CEO of 4 the Debtor, right?

5 A Correct.

6 Q And you also understand that his -- in his capacity as the 7 Debtor's CEO, Mr. Seery is authorized to sell certain
8 securities and assets that are owned by the CLOs, correct?

9 A Correct.

10 Q In your opinion as the CCO, the chief compliance officer
11 of the Advisors and the Funds, Mr. Seery has the knowledge and 12 experience to trade securities on behalf of the CLOs, correct?

13 A Correct.

14 Q But you don't believe that it's in the Funds' best
15 interest for Mr. Seery to sell SKY and AVYA securities, right?

16 A Correct.

17 Q But even though you reached that decision about Mr. Seery,
18 you have no knowledge as to whether Mr. Dondero ever traded
19 either of those securities before he resigned from Highland;
20 isn't that right?

21 A I saw some trades that were shown on the screen earlier.
22 I don't think I recalled at the time I was asked on Friday.

23 Q As of the time -- as of Friday, you had no knowledge as to 24 whether Mr. Dondero had traded in AVYA securities prior to his 25 departure from Highland, correct?

Post - Direct

136

1 A Correct.

2 Q And before, before forming your view as the chief
3 compliance officer that Mr. Seery's trading of AVYA was not in 4 the best interest of the Funds, you made no effort to see if 5 Mr. Dondero had sold the exact same securities Mr. Seery was 6 selling, correct?

7 A Correct.

8 Q And the sole source of information that you relied upon to 9 reach your opinion that the trades weren't in the best
10 interest of the Funds is Jim Dondero and Joe Sowin, correct?

11 A I'm sorry. Can you repeat that? You kind of cut out at 12 the beginning.

13 Q Sure. And please, any time that happens, let me know. We 14 had some problems this morning.

15 The sole source of information that you relied upon to 16 reach your opinion that the trades weren't in the best
17 interest of the funds is Jim Dondero and Joe Sowin; isn't that
18 correct?

19 A Correct. They're the investment professionals, yes.

20 Q And you have no understanding as to why Mr. Seery wanted
21 to sell the AVYA and SKY securities, do you?

22 A I was told that -- I don't know why he wanted to sell them
23 personally, correct.

24 Q Okay. In fact, before reaching your conclusion as the CCO
25 that Mr. Seery's trades were not in the best interest of the

Post - Direct

137

1 Fund, you did not undertake any investigation of any kind to
2 try to determine why Mr. Seery wanted to sell AVYA or SKY
3 stock, correct?

4 A Correct. I didn't reach out to Mr. Seery.

5 Q All right. You believe that Mr. Dondero and Mr. Sowin's
6 opinion that Mr. Seery's trades aren't in the Funds' best
7 interest should be heard pursuant to the Advisers Act, right?

8 A Correct.

9 Q Specifically, Section 2000 -- 206 of the Advisers Act,
10 right?

11 A Correct.

12 Q Have you ever read Section 206 of the Advisers Act?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Okay.

15 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, can you please put up the 16 demonstrative for Section 206 of the Advisers Act?

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, the witness just asked me
18 for water. Nothing more.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. No problem.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q I've put on the screen Section 206 of the Advisers Act,
23 Mr. Post. Can you please tell the Court what provision of 206
24 you believe Mr. Seery allegedly breached when he sought to 25 sell AVYA and SKY securities?

Post - Direct

138

1 A It would be Number 4.

2 Q Do you believe that Mr. Seery engaged in fraudulent,
3 deceptive, or manipulative practices by trying to trade AVYA
4 and SKY securities?

5 A The -- as collateral manager for the CLOs, they're 6 supposed to maximize returns for the preference shares, which 7 we didn't believe the sales reflected that, and so they 8 weren't acting, --

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 THE WITNESS: -- you know, pursuant to their duties
11 --

12 THE COURT: Here I -- here I go --

13 THE WITNESS: -- under the collateral management --

14 THE COURT: Here I go again. Here you go again.

15 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

16 THE COURT: It really was a yes or no question. All
17 right?

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q You're the -- you're the chief compliance officer, right?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And this is the provision in Section 4 that you cite to as 22 the provision that Mr. Seery violated when he attempted to 23 sell SKY and AVYA securities, correct?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Did Mr. Seery engage in an act, practice, or course of

Post - Direct

139

1 business which was fraudulent when he looked to sell those
2 securities?

3 A No.

4 Q Do you believe that Mr. Seery engaged in an act, a
5 practice, or a course of business which was deceptive when he
6 went to sell the SKY and the AVYA securities?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Who did he deceive?

9 A The investors of the CLOs, --

10 Q How?

11 A -- the preference shareholders.

12 Q How?

13 A By selling securities that the preference shareholder
14 investors believed had further upside to them.

15 Q Did he lie to them?

16 A I don't believe he talked to the investors.

17 Q But you're putting your reputation on the line here and 18 you're swearing under oath that Mr. Seery deceptively tried to 19 sell SKY and AVYA securities?

20 A I believe that based off of a review and discussion with
21 counsel.

22 Q Do you think he was manipulative?

23 A No.

24 Q Did you -- did you check in with the SEC to tell them that 25 you had a bad actor here?

Post - Direct

140

1 A No.

2 Q You first formed your view that the Debtor violated
3 Section 206 of the Advisers Act after the sales started to 4 occur in the CLOs, correct?

5 A Correct.

6 Q But you don't know when the sales actually started, right?

7 A I believe there were sales --

8 Q And I assume, since you were the chief compliance officer
9 since 2015, you don't believe that Mr. Dondero's sale of AVYA
10 stock was deceptive, right?

11 A You would have to ask Mr. Dondero that, but I believe he 12 was selling for cash, cash needs for other funds.

13 MR. MORRIS: Okay. I move to strike. I'm asking him
14 not --

15 THE COURT: Sustained.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q I'm asking about you. I'm asking about you. You're the 18 chief compliance officer, right?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And you don't believe that when Mr. Dondero sold AVYA
21 stock that he was engaged in deceptive practices, do you?

22 A No.

23 Q And that's because you don't even know whether he sold
24 AVYA stock; isn't that right?

25 A On Friday, I -- that is correct.

Post - Direct

141

1 Q In fact, the only reason you learned that Mr. Seery wanted
2 to sell AVYA and SKY stock is because Mr. Dondero told you;
3 isn't that right?

4 A I believe I was forwarded the email after -- after there
5 was communications on the sales.

6 Q And that's the email where Mr. Dondero told Mr. Sargent
7 that he had personal liability, correct?

8 A I -- I believe it was an email prior to that about were 9 trades being requested and Mr. Dondero responding.

10 Q You're familiar with the email where Mr. Dondero
11 interfered with Mr. Seery's trades?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Okay. And you're aware that Mr. Dondero told Mr. Sargent
14 that he faced potential liability if he continued to follow
15 Mr. Seery's instructions, correct?

16 A Correct. Based off of Mr. Dondero's view.

17 Q Notwithstanding all of that, in your capacity as the chief
18 compliance officer, you don't believe it's ever appropriate
19 for an investor to step in and impede transactions that have 20 been authorized by the portfolio manager unless the contract
21 permits the investor to step in; isn't that right?

22 A I believe -- I'm sorry, can you repeat that, please?
23 There was a lot of question.

24 Q Sure. Sure. In your capacity as the chief compliance
25 officer, you don't believe it's ever appropriate for an

Post - Direct

142

1 investor to step in and impede transactions that were
2 authorized by the portfolio manager unless the contract
3 permits the investor to do so; isn't that correct? Isn't that
4 correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay. I know you're not a lawyer, but you are the chief
7 compliance officer of the Funds; isn't that right?

8 A Correct.

9 Q And you can't point to anything in any contract that gives 10 Mr. Dondero the right to step in and impede transactions that 11 have been authorized by Mr. Seery; isn't that correct?

12 A He's entitled rights as preference shareholders for the --
13 for the Funds that hold those preference shareholders. So,
14 indirectly, he should be afforded those rights as portfolio
15 manager for those Funds.

16 Q Sir, you can't point to anything in any contract that 17 gives Mr. Dondero the right to step in and impede transactions
18 that have been authorized by Mr. Seery; isn't that correct?

19 A Correct.

20 Q Okay. But yet you have never told Mr. Dondero that he 21 should not interfere with Mr. Seery's trades; isn't that a 22 fact?

23 A Correct.

24 Q In fact, you never personally took any steps at any time
25 to make sure that there would be no further interference with

Post - Direct

143

1 the Debtor's trading activities; isn't that correct?

2 A Correct.

3 Q And that's because you believe, as the chief compliance
4 officer of the Funds, that Mr. Dondero should have the leeway
5 to make the determination as to whether or not the 6 transactions are appropriate; isn't that correct?

7 A He should be able to be heard in the transactions that are 8 being made, correct.

9 Q Sir, not to be heard, but to make the determination. Let 10 me ask the question again. You believe, as the CO -- CCO of 11 the Funds, that Mr. Dondero should have the leeway to make the 12 determination as to whether or not the transactions are 13 appropriate; isn't that correct?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay. And you completely deferred to Mr. Dondero; isn't
16 that right?

17 A For the investment determination, yes.

18 Q And based on that deference, you never took any steps at 19 any time to make sure no one on behalf of the Advisors or the 20 Funds impeded or stopped transactions authorized by Mr. Seery,
21 correct?

22 A Correct.

23 Q You understand there's a TRO in place today that prevents 24 Mr. Dondero and the Advisors and the Funds from interfering 25 with Mr. Seery's trading activities; isn't that right?

Post - Direct

144

1 MR. RUKAVINA: I'm going to object to that, Your
2 Honor, to the extent that calls for a legal conclusion. And I
3 do think it mischaracterizes the testimony. I'm sorry. The 4 TRO.

5 THE COURT: Overruled.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q You can answer, sir. Would you like me to repeat the
8 question?

9 A Yes, please.

10 Q You understand that there is a TRO in place -- TRO in 11 place today that prevents Mr. Dondero, the Advisors, and the 12 Funds from interfering with Mr. Seery's trading activities on 13 behalf of the CLOs, correct?

14 A Correct.

15 Q But in the absence of the TRO, in your view, whether you
16 tell Mr. Dondero not to interfere with Mr. Seery's trades
17 depends on the facts and circumstances that exist at the time,
18 right?

19 A Correct. From a -- yes.

20 Q Okay. And up until this point, there have been no facts
21 and circumstances that have caused you to tell Mr. Dondero not 22 to interfere with Mr. Seery's trades on behalf of the CLOs,
23 correct?

24 A He can't because of the TRO.

25 Q Correct. But if the TRO wasn't in place, it's possible

Post - Direct

145

1 that you wouldn't take any steps to stop Mr. Dondero from
2 impeding Mr. Seery's trades; isn't that right?

3 A I mean, if Mr. Dondero or other investment professionals
4 have a view, that they should be -- they should have a right
5 to be heard as preference shareholders of the CLOs.

6 Q Okay. But if the TRO wasn't in place, you wouldn't act to 7 stop Mr. Dondero from interfering or impeding the Debtor's
8 trades on behalf of the CLO; isn't that right?

9 A He would -- if he would be permitted to talk to Mr. Seery.

10 Q Okay. Prior to the imposition of the TRO, you took no
11 steps to stop Mr. Dondero from interfering with Mr. Seery's
12 trades, correct?

13 A Correct.

14 Q And if the TRO wasn't in place, it's possible you wouldn't 15 take any steps to stop Mr. Dondero from impeding -- impeding
16 Mr. Seery's trades again; isn't that right?

17 A If there's an investment rationale as to why they feel the 18 trades shouldn't be done, I -- again, I feel like Mr. Dondero
19 or the other investment professionals should be able to raise
20 those points with Mr. Seery.

21 Q Do you think they should be able to stop the trades?

22 A I -- I -- I think they should be able to question the 23 trades. But flat-out stop them, I'd probably say no.

24 Q Then why didn't you do anything before the TRO was 25 entered?

146

1 A Um, I'm sorry, can you repeat the -- do anything in -- in
2 what manner?

3 Q Why didn't you take any steps before the TRO was entered
4 to stop Mr. Dondero from interfering and stopping and impeding
5 the Debtor's trades?

6 A I think, as I recall, there was only one -- one set of 7 trades in question that he stepped in on.

8 Q So, one is okay? How about two?

9 A Or, sorry. There were two trades on one day that -- that,
10 you know, he questioned. Or stepped in on. I don't -- I
11 don't recall him stopping any other trades thereafter.

12 Q That's all you know about, right?

13 A Correct.

14 Q And with that knowledge, it never occurred to you to tell
15 Mr. Dondero to knock it off, did it?

16 A He believed the trades weren't in the best interest for 17 the investors, so I did not.

18 Q And that's what you mean by deferring to him; isn't that
19 right?

20 A From the investment perspective, yes.

21 Q Thank you for your -- thank you for your honesty. As the 22 CCO, you have never communicated with the Issuers about the 23 Debtor's performance under the CLO management agreements;
24 isn't that right?

25 A Correct.

Post - Direct

147

1 Q And that's because you didn't believe it was in your
2 responsibility as the CCO to check with the Issuers to see if
3 the Issuers believed that the Debtor was in compliance with 4 the CLO management agreements, correct?

5 A That communication would have involved counsel and that 6 communication didn't occur. I wouldn't have reached out to 7 them directly.

8 Q Yeah. You didn't believe it was within your 9 responsibility as the chief compliance officer to communicate
10 with the Issuers to see if they had any views as to Mr.
11 Seery's performance as portfolio manager, correct?

12 A Correct, because it would have involved me working with 13 counsel and there was never direction to do that.

14 Q As the chief compliance officer of the Defendants, you
15 have no idea if anyone on behalf of the Advisors or the Funds
16 ever asked the Issuers whether they believed the Debtor was in 17 default under the CLO management agreements, correct?

18 A Correct.

19 Q As the CCO, you have no idea if anyone on behalf of the 20 Advisors or the Funds ever asked the Issuers whether they 21 believed was in breach under the CLO management agreements,
22 correct?

23 A Correct. I believe there was a call that I wasn't a part 24 of, that it was just involving lawyers, that I don't know what 25 was discussed on the call. So, correct.

Post - Direct

148

1 Q As the CCO, you have no idea if anyone on behalf of the
2 Advisors or Funds ever asked the Issuers whether they believed
3 it was appropriate to try to take steps to terminate the CLO
4 management agreements; isn't that right?

5 A Correct.

6 Q None of the Issuers joined any of the letters that were 7 sent on behalf of the Funds and the Advisors, right?

8 A I didn't -- I don't recall seeing their names listed.

9 Q As the CCO, you don't have any understanding as to what
10 the standard is for terminating the CLO management agreements
11 unless you get legal advice; isn't that right?

12 A Yes. It was -- it would be a discussion with counsel,
13 given the complexity of the agreements.

14 Q But as a factual matter, you're not aware of any facts
15 that would support the termination of the CLO management
16 agreements except that there were trades that Mr. Dondero
17 didn't think were in the best interests of the Funds; isn't
18 that right?

19 A Yes. And because the belief was those trades weren't 20 maximizing value for the preference shareholders.

21 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike everything after the 22 word yes, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Granted.

24 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions.

25 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina?

1 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll reserve my questions
2 for my case in chief.

3 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Post, that concludes your
4 testimony for now. Stick around.

5 Mr. Morris?

6 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, last witness, and I hope
7 it's rather brief, actually. The Debtor calls James Seery.

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, may we have a brief
9 restroom break, all of us in this room, before we start the 10 next witness?

11 THE COURT: All right. We'll take a five-minute
12 restroom break. I know part of the long day is because of my 13 commitment at the lunch hour, but you all did estimate three 14 or four hours for this hearing, right? That's what I recall.

15 MR. MORRIS: We did.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I was never consulted on a
17 time estimate. I had no idea that someone said three to four 18 hours.

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 MR. MORRIS: And part -- part of that is my fault and 21 the technological problems we had this morning, so I take 22 responsibility for that, Your Honor, and I sincerely
23 apologize.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Well, just so you know, we cannot 25 come back tomorrow. I've got two -- too booked today tomorrow

150

1 to come back, so --

2 MR. MORRIS: I don't expect Mr. Seery to be more than 3 about 15 minutes.

4 THE COURT: Okay. We'll take a five-minute break.

5 THE CLERK: All rise.

6 (A recess ensued from 3:22 p.m. until 3:32 p.m.)

7 THE CLERK: All rise.

8 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. I wanted
9 to clarify one thing I said, just so no one is confused. I
10 know that originally you had today, Wednesday, and Thursday,
11 26th, 27th, and 28th, for confirmation. So if anyone thought,
12 oh, we're coming back tomorrow on this if we don't finish,
13 because originally you had all three of those days, you know,
14 as soon as we continued the confirmation hearing, we started
15 filling in Wednesday. So we have three different Chapter 11
16 case matters set tomorrow. And so it was, you know, you give 17 up time and we have people usually wanting to get that time,
18 so that's what happened.

19 But anyway, people, we'll talk fast and we'll get it done
20 today, right?

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, my -- Your Honor? Oh,
22 wait. I need to --

23 THE COURT: Ooh, it sounds like you're in a cave.
24 Let's get those headphones on.

25 MR. MORRIS: I promise to be as quick as I can, Your 151

1 Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Rukavina, were you trying to 3 say something?

4 MR. RUKAVINA: I was, Your Honor. Can you hear me?

5 THE COURT: Yes.

6 MR. RUKAVINA: This darn video. Too many -- Your 7 Honor, we have an agreed TRO that goes through February the 8 15th. And I'm certainly not suggesting taking any more of the 9 Court's time than is necessary, but I cannot commit to 10 finishing today, especially because Mr. Morris has taken so
11 much time. So I think we will do our best, but I just want 12 the Court to know that there's no urgency to this, and if we 13 have to come back at some point after Tuesday or Wednesday,
14 there's no possible harm to the Debtor.

15 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, it's my hope that we can get 16 this done, and I think the sooner we begin the better.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we're going to try to get it 18 done. All right, Mr. Seery. You've called Mr. Seery to the 19 stand now?

20 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor. The Debtor calls James
21 Seery.

22 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, please raise your 23 right hand.

24 JAMES P. SEERY, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

25 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

Seery - Direct

152

1 MR. MORRIS: May I proceed?

2 THE COURT: You may.

3 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

4 DIRECT EXAMINATION

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Seery. Can you hear me okay?

7 A I can, yes.

8 Q Okay. Let's just cut to the chase here. You're the CEO
9 of the Debtor; is that right?

10 A That's correct.

11 Q And in that capacity, do you understand that the Debtor is 12 party to contracts pursuant to which it manages certain CLO
13 assets?

14 A Yes.

15 Q And are you personally involved in the management of those 16 assets?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Do you have any prior experience managing other people's 19 money or other people's assets?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Can you please explain to the Court your experience and 22 your knowledge as to investing other people's money?

23 A Yes. I was a finance lawyer -- I'll go quickly, if it's 24 okay. I can fill in later, if you like. I was a finance and 25 bankruptcy lawyer for ten years before I went to Lehman on the

153

1 business side in 1999.

2 In that role, I started immediately in distressed
3 investing. I worked as part of a team of analysts and traders
4 to build distressed positions in prop (phonetic) business,
5 trading Lehman Brothers balance sheet at the time. This was 6 in 1999 and 2000. We were one of the most significant
7 investors on the Street, and I was part of that team, and a
8 leading part of the team, putting on significant investments
9 of our balance sheet, which was Lehman's money, into different
10 kinds of stressed, distressed, high yield investments. That 11 included bonds, that included loans, unsecured, subordinated.
12 Sometimes equity. Typically, we stayed in credit, but a lot 13 of this was very distressed credit, which often ended up as 14 reorg equity.

15 After that, I began running different teams for making
16 distressed loans to companies that no one else would lend
17 money to. These investments were significant, anywhere from 18 fifty to a billion dollars. Some of the largest transactions
19 in the world at the time were transactions I ran, like a
20 rescue loan to PG&E for a billion dollars. That was in 2000.

21 After that, I continued to grow my career there, running
22 distressed investments. In 2005, I took over the loan
23 business at Lehman. That included all high-grade loans, high-
24 yield loans, trading and sales of those loans; managing that 25 portfolio, which was in excess of $10 or $20 billion,

Seery - Direct

154

1 depending on the time; exposure both in committed transactions
2 as well as funded loans; the hedging of that portfolio;
3 traders and salespeople working for me. In addition, I had 4 significant responsibility for the distressed book, as well as 5 all restructuring business at Lehman.

6 After Lehman, I -- and I was one of the people who sold
7 Lehman -- I became a senior investing partner at RiverBirch
8 Capital. We were about a billion and a half dollar long/short
9 investor, mostly stressed and distressed, but a lot of high-
10 grade trades as well, particularly in preferred stocks. That 11 was a global business, but primarily U.S., Europe, some Asian 12 investments as well.

13 Since then, I've gotten to Highland. I've been 14 responsible for Highland's investments. After the first 15 quarter, when the performance managed by Mr. Dondero was 16 absolutely disastrous -- we lost about $80 million in equity
17 securities, positions that he managed, about $50 million in 18 the Select Equity Fund, and about $30 million in the -- in the 19 Highland internal account. After Jefferies seized the Select 20 account, I took over the --

21 A VOICE: I think Mr. Seery has sort of gone beyond
22 the question of his background.

23 THE WITNESS: He's asked me if I was experienced in 24 investing other people's money. I was giving that background.
25 But we -- I can stop or I can keep going, if you like.

Seery - Direct

155

1 THE COURT: Okay. If that was an objection, --

2 MR. MORRIS: Let's --

3 THE COURT: -- I overrule it. Go ahead.

4 THE WITNESS: I've been managing that portfolio. In
5 addition, after Mr. Dondero left, but I actually started
6 looking at it before that, started taking over the CLO
7 portfolio, or taking a look at it, frankly. We have a -- we
8 have an experienced professional sitting on top of it, Hunter
9 Covitz, who manages the day-to-day exposure. But those 10 portfolios -- we call them CLOs, Your Honor, but I think 11 you've heard testimony before, they're not really. Acis 7 is 12 a CLO. The 1.0 CLOs are very old investment vehicles that are 13 primarily structured as, right now, closed-end investment
14 funds. They don't have the typical diverse portfolio of loans
15 that a CLO has. They have mostly reorg equity or positions in 16 real estate and in MGM. So the -- the securities we've been 17 talking about in these trades are publicly-traded liquid
18 securities that Highland took as post-reorganization equity.

19 Q Thank you, Mr. Seery. Let's cut to the chase on the AVYA
20 and the SKY. Nobody seems to have asked you this question,
21 but did you -- have you looked to sell AVYA and SKY securities
22 since the time that Mr. Dondero left in October?

23 A I have, yes.

24 Q Can you please explain to the Court your investment
25 rationale, the reason why you wanted to sell -- let's just

Seery - Direct

156

1 take them one at a time. Let's start with AVYA. In the last
2 couple of months, why have you wanted to sell AVYA?

3 A Well, the original impetus to sell AVYA came from Mr.
4 Covitz when it started moving up as a post-reorg security in 5 the communications space that had -- had really performed
6 extremely poorly post its Chapter 11. Mr. Covitz over the 7 summer felt we should start lightening up on that position. I
8 agreed. He did that. And Mr. Dondero eventually cut him off.

9 As it got to the fall, what I did was I got Mr. Covitz, as 10 well as then the analyst -- the analyst on that is Kunal
11 Sachdev. That's the Highland analyst on the position -- as 12 well as Joe Sowin and Matthew Gray, who's another senior 13 analyst. And I looked at all of the equity positions in the 14 CLOs and wondered why we had them. What was the view? Were 15 they worth keeping?

16 Primarily, the ones we looked at were four of the post-
17 reorg equities that were liquid. A company called Vistra, a
18 company called Arch Coal. Vistra is the old TXU, a well-known
19 bankruptcy. Arch Coal, another well-known bankruptcy. Avaya,
20 a bankruptcy; and Sky Champion, a less -- less-known
21 bankruptcy but came out of there.

22 Mr. Gray is the analyst on Vistra and Arch. We 23 determined, based upon his recommendations, not to sell those.
24 Mr. Sachdev was the analyst on Avaya, and he believed that it
25 had reached its peak, and even though it could continue to go

Seery - Direct

157

1 up or down -- stocks often do that -- he did not think that
2 the value was there. His recommendation was to sell.

3 Mr. Sowin was in those meetings. Prior testimony to the 4 contrary or any statements that were said before are 5 completely false, they're completely made up, so I know it's 6 frustrating and I apologize for -- for being frustrated.

7 So we decided that we would sell the Sky Champion. A
8 pretty simple answer. Highland didn't have an analyst.
9 Literally didn't have an analyst. Nobody had a view as to 10 what the stock was. It just sat in there, in two CLOs,
11 without anybody paying any attention to it.

12 I had Matthew Gray take a look. He felt that it was at 13 fair value. I did my own work on it, felt it was at fair
14 value, notwithstanding some good tailwinds in -- secular
15 tailwinds in the home building space, and determined that that 16 CLO should sell those securities.

17 Q Thank you, sir. Prior to his departure at Highland, did 18 Mr. Dondero have responsibility over the management of any of 19 the CLO assets?

20 A He did, yes.

21 Q And do you understand, do you know whether Mr. Dondero
22 sold AVYA securities on behalf of the CLOs and on behalf of 23 the Funds during the time that he was employed as the 24 portfolio manager from January until October 2020?

25 A I do. And he did sell those securities. The chart you

Seery - Direct

158

1 put up, based upon our business record, is accurate, and he
2 engaged in significant sales of those securities throughout
3 the year.

4 Q Okay.

5 MR. MORRIS: Can we please put upon Demonstrative #1?

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Okay. And can you just explain to the Court what this 8 document is?

9 A It's a trade report, one of Highland's -- this shows the 10 whole platform, so it's the aggregate sales. The name of the 11 email -- I apologize, I forgot the system; it just left my 12 mind. But the email you saw before is anybody on the platform
13 used for various trades if they're part of a trading group.
14 And that's to make sure that, across the portfolio, in its
15 corporate platform, you aren't running into either compliance
16 problems or allocation problems that could lead to a
17 compliance problem.

18 Q So this shows sales of Avaya on these particular dates.
19 The trade is -- the trade symbol is AVYA. This is a liquid
20 security. Trades in, you know, liquid equity markets. I
21 believe its average trading volume is somewhere about a
22 million and a half a day, approximately. So you have a trade
23 date. You have the type of transaction. It could be a buy or 24 a sell. These are all sales. The quantity. And then the 25 price. And then it would have the Fund, and then the

159

1 aggregate dollars, which is simply multiplying the price times
2 the quantity.

3 Q And if we just scroll down to the end of the document,
4 October 9th, is that around the time that Mr. Dondero left
5 Highland?

6 A Right around that time. This was coming into a number of 7 hearings that we thought it was most important to have Mr.
8 Dondero depart, particularly in light of some of the positions
9 that he and his companies were taking vis-à-vis the Debtor.

10 MR. MORRIS: Can we put up Demonstrative Exhibit #2, 11 please?

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q Can you explain to the Court what this is?

14 A Uh, --

15 MR. MORRIS: And again, just for -- just for the 16 record -- sorry to interrupt, Mr. Seery -- the backup for this
17 information can be found at Debtor's Exhibits BBBB to SSSS

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q Go ahead, sir. Could you explain to the Court what this 20 is?

21 A Yeah. This is just a pretty straightforward chart showing
22 the bars being sales and the lines being the -- the closing
23 sale price of a buy on that day. And so you can see, you
24 know, with the market fallout in the early part of the year,
25 AVYA hit a low, but like most of the securities in the market,

Seery - Direct

160

1 it has come back very strongly. And you see Mr. Dondero's
2 trades earlier in the year, the rest of it during the middle
3 part of the year, sales in the third quarter, and then, when 4 he's gone, I began selling in November and December.

5 Q Now, so is it fair to say that Mr. Dondero and the 6 Defendants didn't completely impede and stop the Debtor from 7 selling AVYA shares?

8 A That's fair. What -- there's a little bit of confusion.
9 The way the trading desk worked previously is that you have 10 these separate companies but they're not really separate 11 companies. HCFMA is populated by about seven employees. Many 12 of them have functions across a number of different companies.
13 HCFMA exists solely because Highland funds it. They haven't 14 paid fees of about three million bucks this year. They owe 15 $10 million related to a disastrous bailout of what was an 16 open-end fund called Global AI a couple years ago where the 17 SEC, you know, came in and took significant action, almost 18 shut significant parts of Highland down. And these traders do
19 the trading of all the equities across the platform.

20 So I typically would call them, and this is how we worked 21 in the spring when I took over the internal account after the 22 seizure by Jefferies of Mr. Dondero's management of the Select 23 Equity account. I would work with Joe Sowin as the trader, 24 make decisions on what we wanted to do for the day, he would 25 execute those trades by going out in the market with a broker,

Seery - Direct

161

1 selling them to -- to the dealer on the other side, run it
2 through our automated system, and then the trades get closed
3 with the back office.

4 So there's the trade, which is your agreement to buy or 5 sell at a particular dollar price. That gets inputted into 6 the OMS system, and then from there it's the back office takes 7 over, and then ultimately securities are delivered versus 8 payment to the counterparty.

9 Q Okay. And can you just describe, you know, in one or two 10 sentences, your interpretation of this chart and how your 11 sales and the green bars compare to Mr. Dondero's sales and 12 the brown bars?

13 A Well, the two simple obvious answers are, one, they're 14 smaller, and two, they're at higher prices.

15 Q Okay. You also traded, since Mr. Dondero's departure,
16 securities known as SKY; is that right?

17 A That's correct. It's Sky Champion Corp. The ticker is 18 SKY.

19 Q And did Mr. -- to the best of your knowledge, Dr. Mr.
20 Dondero trade in SKY securities prior to his departure?

21 A I don't believe so. As I said earlier, we didn't appear
22 to have an analyst on that for some time. I don't even know
23 how far back it goes. It was a bit of an orphan security
24 sitting in the portfolio. It's only -- it was only in two of 25 the CLOs.

Seery - Direct

162

1 Q Okay.

2 MR. MORRIS: Can we please put up Demonstrative #3,
3 please? Okay.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q And can you just explain to the judge what's depicted on 6 this page?

7 A Again, similar to the last chart, you have the dollar
8 price of the security at the close each day, throughout the 9 year, and then the green bar showing where we began to sell
10 securities for those CLOs.

11 Q And so, again, is it fair to say that Mr. Dondero and the 12 Defendants haven't completely stopped the Debtor from engaging
13 in SKY transactions?

14 A That's correct. What we did was the so-called workaround
15 previously mentioned, was that we decided that I would have to 16 do the trading directly. So I'd literally look at the stock
17 each day, talk to the broker at Jefferies, determine what 18 level to sell at, communicate with him throughout the day,
19 work through transactions. Then he reports in whether he's 20 been able to sell and execute on our behalf. When he's done
21 that, then we have the back office manually enter the trades,
22 as opposed to doing it from the automated trading desk, and 23 then have those trades close. So, so far, knock on wood, we 24 haven't failed on any trades.

25 Q Okay.

Seery - Direct

163

1 MR. MORRIS: We can the demonstrative down, please.

2 BY MR. MORRIS:

3 Q Just two more topics here, sir. Can we talk briefly about
4 what efforts, if any, the Debtors have made to avoid this
5 litigation? I'll just ask them one at a time. Has the Debtor
6 made any attempt to transfer the CLO management agreements to 7 the Defendants or to others?

8 A Well, our original construct of our plan was to do that.
9 We've since determined, when we tried to do that, we got 10 virtually no response from the Dondero interests. The 11 structure of the original thought of the plan was if we didn't 12 get a grand bargain we would effectively transition a 13 significant part of the business to Dondero entities, they 14 would assume employee responsibilities and the operations, and 15 then assure that the third-party funds were not impacted.

16 As I think I testified on the -- I can't recall if it was 17 the deposition or my prior testimony in court -- Mr. Dondero, 18 true to his word, told me that would be very difficult, he 19 would not agree, and he has made that very difficult.

20 So we examined it. We've determined that we're going to 21 maintain the CLOs and assume them. But we originally tried to 22 contemplate a way to assign those management agreements.
23 We've had --

24 Q All right.

25 A -- significant discussions with the CLO Issuers, and

Seery - Direct

164

1 they're supportive of us retaining them.

2 Q Okay. You were on the -- you've been participating or 3 listening in to the hearing throughout the day; is that right?

4 A I have, yes. I apologize. I didn't leave the screen on 5 because I didn't want to suck up bandwidth.

6 Q Are you familiar with all of the K&L Gates letters that 7 that were reviewed today?

8 A I am, yes.

9 Q Did the Debtor request that the Defendants withdraw those 10 letters?

11 A Yes, we did.

12 Q Had the Defendants withdrawn those letters, might that 13 have avoided this whole litigation?

14 A I think it would have. What we wanted to have here is a 15 withdrawal of the letters and an agreement by the clients for 16 the -- the K&L Gates clients that they wouldn't interfere with 17 the operations of the Debtor and our drive towards a plan.
18 They could take their legal positions and object to the plan,
19 if they like, but interfering on a day-to-day basis was 20 unacceptable to us in terms of trying to operate this business
21 in the most efficient manner.

22 We specifically requested that they do that. This is, I
23 don't think, lost on anybody, certainly not on me in my 24 experience here for years: These entities are all dominated 25 and controlled by Mr. Dondero, and each of these attacks is

Seery - Direct

165

1 specifically coordinated for the purpose of diverting the
2 Debtor, causing confusion, and forcing us to spend estate
3 resources.

4 Q Do you know if the Debtor also asked the Defendants to 5 avoid this whole injunction proceeding by simply filing their
6 motion to lift the stay and see if they could actually win a
7 motion to terminate the contract?

8 A Well, what we did was we contemplated the best, most 9 efficient way out, and it was either withdrawing the 10 agreement; if they didn't agree, then we'd said you should 11 file your stay motion immediately and let's have this 12 determined. We told them, short of that, if they weren't 13 willing to do that, then we would have to put this in front of 14 the Court to try to make sure that we could operate the 15 business.

16 Q All right. So, just to summarize, you attempted to sell
17 the CLO management agreements, but were unable to do so; is
18 that right?

19 A I would say assign. We would have looked for a payment,
20 there is a cure payment that we have to make, but we didn't
21 we didn't conduct an auction for the CLO assets.

22 Q And to the best of your knowledge, the Defendants never 23 withdrew the letters; is that right?

24 A They did not.

25 Q And to the best of your knowledge, the Debtors -- the

Seery - Direct

166

1 Defendants never brought their contemplated lift stay motion,
2 right?

3 A They have not, no.

4 Q And so why did the Debtor bring this action?

5 A Well, quite clearly, to try to prevent the managers and 6 Mr. Dondero and the Funds from interfering with the way that 7 we operate the business. We intend to continue to manage the 8 CLOs, we intend to assume those contracts, we intend to manage
9 them post-confirmation, after exit from bankruptcy. And 10 causing confusion among the employees, preventing the Debtor
11 from consummating trades in the ordinary course, deferring
12 those transactions, we thought put the estate at significant
13 risk, in addition to the cost.

14 Q Did you hear Mr. Rukavina in the opening suggest that 15 these might, in fact, be money-losing contracts?

16 A I did, yes.

17 Q Why would the Debtor want to assume money-losing
18 contracts?

19 A They're not money losing contracts.

20 Q And why, why do you say that?

21 A They generate fee income. So the fees on each of these 22 CLOs get paid to the Debtor. Now, not all of these CLOs, as I
23 mentioned earlier, are -- none of them are ordinary CLOs,
24 other than Acis 7. But not all -- because they don't all have 25 liquid assets that are able to pay their fees each quarter,

Seery - Direct

167

1 some are deferred. There are some CLOs that will probably
2 never pay any deferred fee because they are underwater. Those
3 are not CLOs that Mr. Dondero or the Funds own any of. That's 4 not really a surprise. But we will continue to manage those 5 and look for ways to exit for those investors who are 6 noteholders who are underwater in those CLOs.

7 Q Okay. Can you describe for the Court the Debtor's
8 contentions as to how the conduct that has been adduced
9 through today's evidence, how is the Debtor harmed by Mr.
10 Dondero's interference in the trades and the sending of these 11 letters?

12 A I think it's clear in terms of operational risk. Being 13 forced to construct a workaround to consummate trades that we 14 think are in the best interest of the Funds.

15 It's telling not only that neither Mr. Dondero nor Mr.
16 Sowin nor -- Mr. Sowin was on the calls and agreed to the 17 analyst view, by the way -- nor anybody from MHF ever asked me
18 a question, their lawyers in the deposition never asked me why
19 we were selling these securities. They simply want to get in 20 the way, cause additional risk to the estate, and cause
21 additional exposure with respect to legal fees, divert our 22 attention from trying to consummate the case. I think that's,
23 in my opinion, that's pretty clear.

24 Q Is there any concern on the part of the Debtor that 25 that Mr. Dondero's emails and conduct is creating uncertainty

Seery - Direct

168

1 among the staff as to who's in charge?

2 A I think they did initially, and if they continued, they
3 would. Right now, the workaround is working pretty well. We
4 still do keep Mr. Sowin on the emails to make sure that, you
5 know, from a compliance perspective, that our sales, he knows
6 about; that we're not stepping on each other's markets, if you
7 will; that we're not getting in the way that -- in the way if 8 he wants to sell assets from a different MHF other managed
9 asset holding, but we do have a workaround that works right
10 now.

11 I think the biggest risk is, because it's much more
12 manual, you have risk of so-called fat-finger trades, where 13 you think you're selling a thousand and you sell 10,000, you
14 think you're executing a sale and you're executing a buy, you
15 think you're executing from an account that has the securities
16 and end up selling short from an account that doesn't. So
17 we've got to be very careful of that, but the team is doing
18 that now. There certainly was confusion at the start.

19 Q And can you just explain to the Court your view as to how 20 the Debtor is able to -- how the Debtor will be able to 21 service the contract on a go-forward basis?

22 A The CLO contracts?

23 Q Yes.

24 A We'll have a team of folks able to manage these assets
25 with professionals that are experienced credit analysts,

Seery - Direct

169

1 equity analysts. I think we'll be able to manage this --
2 these assets in a pretty straightforward manner. It's not
3 going to be very difficult.

4 Q Has the Debtor been harmed through the diversion of your 5 personal attention as CEO in responding to all of this?

6 A I like to think that I can juggle a lot of different
7 things. I would prefer not to have to be looking at the 8 securities levels each day and feeding out securities that we 9 determine to sell through the broker at Jefferies, who,
10 notwithstanding, is doing a great job. It's the job of the 11 trader to actually do that and day-to-day -- throughout the 12 day monitor the markets and look for the best place to sell.

13 So do I think I'm getting the best execution? I think the 14 trader at Jefferies is excellent. Do I think if a trader on 15 the Highland side was involved every step of the way, I think
16 it would be better.

17 Q Have the Debtor's professionals' attention and resources
18 been diverted to deal with all of this stuff?

19 A That -- I think that's -- that's quite clear as well.
20 It's a significant expense.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no further questions
23 of this witness.

24 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina?

25 MR. HOGEWOOD: Your Honor, if you please, Lee

Seery - Cross

170

1 Hogewood from North Carolina. You've admitted me pro hac
2 vice. If I may do cross-examination, I would appreciate it.

3 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

4 MR. HOGEWOOD: Thank you, Your Honor.

5 CROSS-EXAMINATION

6 BY MR. HOGEWOOD:

7 Q Mr. Seery, let me ask you about the letters that came from 8 our firm, and especially from me, beginning on December 22nd.
9 I think you spoke about those generally. If you need them to 10 be called up, I think my questions will be crisp as to the 11 letters generally, but we could certainly look at them
12 specifically, if need be.

13 There was initially a letter dated December 22nd, 2020,
14 that's Debtor's Exhibit DDDD, at Docket 39. I take it you've 15 read that letter?

16 A I have, yes.

17 Q And it's fair to say that was a request you had seen
18 before?

19 A I don't think that's fair to say, no.

20 Q You had not seen a request to discontinue trades until the 21 confirmation hearing?

22 A I don't believe so, no.

23 Q Okay. So that, that was the first time a request had been 24 made not to trade in the CLO securities prior to confirmation?

25 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

Seery - Cross

171

1 THE COURT: Overruled.

2 THE WITNESS: I --

3 THE COURT: Go ahead. You can answer.

4 THE WITNESS: I don't recall you sending me a letter
5 before that, but I -- if you have, then I apologize. I
6 thought I was pretty familiar with them, but I don't recall
7 you sending me that request previously.

8 BY MR. HOGWOOD:

9 Q Okay. I'm sorry. That was the first request you had 10 received from me, is that -- that's correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q But there had been prior requests of a similar nature?

13 A Not to my recollection. Is there a letter?

14 Q All right. Well, let me -- let me move on. You
15 weren't intimidated by my letter, were you?

16 A Was I intimidated by your letter? No, I was not 17 intimidated.

18 Q And it didn't cause -- the letter itself did not cause you
19 or the Debtor to alter your investment strategy?

20 A It did not, no.

21 Q And it did not cause you or the Debtor to refrain from 22 operating the company in the manner that you perceived to be 23 in its best interest?

24 A It did not.

25 Q It did not cause you to change any of your trading

172

1 decisions?

2 A No.

3 Q You and your counsel responded -- or, your counsel
4 responded to the letter a couple of days later; isn't that
5 correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And the response rejected the request that had been made
8 and demanded that the letter be withdrawn; is that right?

9 A Yes.

10 Q So the range of communication is a set of lawyers
11 representing adverse parties asserting their respective 12 positions? Is that a fair characterization of that set of 13 communications?

14 A No.

15 Q Okay. Would you characterize it differently?

16 A Yes.

17 Q All right. How so?

18 A I believe you sent a letter with no good-faith basis,
19 knowing what the contracts say as an experienced lawyer,
20 knowing there was not cause, yet still making the same
21 threats, basically couching them as a request. But I don't 22 think there was any good-faith exchange of ideas. No one even 23 asked me why I was making the trades. I think you were aware 24 of that.

25 Q You -- but you testified that, nonetheless, the letter did

173

1 not cause you to conduct yourself in any other manner than you
2 would have conducted had you not received the letter; isn't
3 that right?

4 A That's correct.

5 Q So I think there's some confusion, then, and I just want
6 to clear this up. There was earlier testimony, both at your 7 deposition, that -- that my clients actually interfered with 8 and caused trades not to occur on or around December 22nd and 9 23rd of 2020. And that's not correct.

10 MR. MORRIS: Objection. Your Honor, the evidence is 11 in the record.

12 MR. HOGWOOD: Okay. Well, let me --

13 THE COURT: All right. You're going to have to 14 rephrase.

15 BY MR. HOGWOOD:

16 Q Yeah. Let me -- let me say it differently. Focusing 17 solely on December of 2020, every trade that you initiated
18 closed; isn't that correct?

19 A Every trade. Yes. We did not fail one trade.

20 Q Okay. And so the issue that you have raised in your 21 pleading is that there were -- there was an expectation that 22 employees of my clients would book trades, which is 23 essentially a backroom operation, after the trade has closed.
24 Isn't that right?

25 A That's incorrect.

Seery - Cross

174

1 Q Okay. So, once again, let me just get -- there were no
2 trades that you initiated that failed to close; is that right?

3 A That's correct.

4 Q And nothing that was done by the Defendants resulted in a
5 trade that you wished to make in December of 2020 to fail to 6 occur or fail to close; isn't that right?

7 A That incorrect.

8 Q So you initiated a trade that did not close?

9 A Yes.

10 Q In December of 2020? And when was that?

11 A I believe that's the case, yes.

12 Q And specifically what trade did not close that you
13 initiated?

14 A I'd have to check the notes, but the specific trades were 15 my attempt to initiate the trade with the desk. Then the 16 trading desk goes into the market and makes the sale. Once
17 it's inputted into the order management system, referred to as 18 an OMS, then it gets processed for closing. In November and 19 in December, Mr. Dondero instructed those employees not to 20 initiate those trades. So there was never an agreement. When 21 I initiated a trade, which was the workaround you saw referred 22 to, I quite simply called Jefferies directly and I had the 23 back-office folks manually input it instead of the trading
24 desk.

25 Sorry. I just wanted to make sure we cleared that up.

Seery - Cross

175

1 Q No, just -- that -- that's helpful to understand. But I
2 think, focusing again solely on December, every trade you
3 initiated closed?

4 A Every trade that I actually went and made in the market
5 closed.

6 Q And indeed, if --

7 MR. HOGEWOOD: I observed your demonstrative
8 exhibits, and if I could ask that the one related to the Avaya
9 trades be called up, Mr. Morris. is that possible?

10 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, sure. Is that the first one with 11 Mr. Dondero's trades, or do you want the chart?

12 MR. HOGEWOOD: The -- the -- I think it was your 13 Demonstrative #2 that showed the timeline of the trades.

14 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. You bet.

15 (Pause.)

16 MR. HOGEWOOD: Thank you. Thank you very much.

17 BY MR. HOGEWOOD:

18 Q So, just so I understand this document, the bottom axis is 19 the passage of time, and when we get into the period between 20 November of 2020 and the end of 2020, 12/31/2020, there are -- 21 there's a green bar that has the numbers 50,000 at the top of 22 it. That reflects what, Mr. Seery? The number of shares or 23 the dollar amount of the trades?

24 A Number of shares.

25 Q And while this is not date-specific, do you know when

Seery - Cross

176

1 those sets of $50,000 trades happened? Or --

2 A I don't --

3 Q -- 50,000 shares trades happened?

4 A I don't know the specific dates off the top of my head,
5 no.

6 Q But looking at it just in comparison to the calendar, that 7 -- that's awfully close to December 22nd and 23rd, is it not?

8 A It appears to be, yes.

9 MR. HOGWOOD: And Mr. Morris, if the I guess it's 10 the SKY document could be pulled up as well? I just want to 11 be clear --

12 MR. MORRIS: Demonstrative #3, please.

13 MR. HOGWOOD: Yes. Thank you.

14 BY MR. HOGWOOD:

15 Q The timeline on this demonstrative is similar, is it not?

16 A Yes, it is.

17 Q It's showing trades by day throughout the course of the 18 year?

19 A That's correct.

20 Q And again, there are a significant number of trades in SKY
21 on what looks awfully close to the few days before Christmas
22 of 2020; is that right?

23 A That's correct.

24 Q Okay. And this is the period of time that we're talking 25 about there being interference by the Defendants' employees;

Seery - Cross

177

1 is that right?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Okay. I'll move on. So, the next letter in question was 4 one that came the day after, on December 23rd. Again, that 5 was a letter from me to your counsel. Do you recall that 6 letter?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And the letter of the 23rd, if we need to look at it, is 9 the EEEE, Docket 39. You read that letter as well?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And you disagreed with the position taken in the letter?

12 A I'm trying to remember the specific position in that one.
13 Was that the one threatening to try to terminate the CLOs
14 without having checked whether there's cause? I just don't 15 recall.

16 Q Why don't we call it up, if we can?

17 MR. HOGWOOD: Mr. Morris, if you could help us,
18 because it's one of your exhibits, that would be great. But 19 Ms. Mather has got it up, so that's great.

20 BY MR. HOGWOOD:

21 Q Mr. Seery, can you see the December 23rd letter?

22 A I can, yes.

23 Q And I think you referred to it as a threat to terminate
24 the portfolio management contracts?

25 A I wasn't sure. That's why I was just asking if this was

178

1 that one. I don't -- I don't recall.

2 Q Right. And if you review the first page and the second
3 page, does that confirm your recollection that that is the one
4 related to portfolio management contracts?

5 A I can't see the second page. I believe it is. I'm not 6 trying to --

7 Q Yeah, no, --

8 A If you represent, I'll accept it.

9 Q Take your time.

10 A (Pause.) Yes.

11 Q Okay. And I think you already said this: You strenuously
12 disagreed with the positions stated in the letter?

13 A Yes.

14 Q But again, you were not intimidated by the letter?

15 A Intimidated? No.

16 Q The letter didn't cause you to change your investment
17 strategy?

18 A No.

19 Q It didn't cause you to trade or not trade in a particular
20 manner?

21 A No.

22 Q You continued to function the Debtor's operations as you
23 deemed appropriate?

24 A Yes.

25 Q To your knowledge, no CLO or Issuer has taken any steps to

179

1 remove the Debtor as the portfolio manager?

2 A The CLO or the Issuers?

3 Q Yeah. No one's -- no one's taken a position that you

4 should -- that the Debtor should be removed as a portfolio

5 manager?

6 A Not -- not from the Issuers, no.

7 Q And -- or, I'm sorry. And so when you -- when you brought

8 a distinction between the Issuer and the CLO, are you -- are

9 you referring to CLO Holdco?

10 A No.

11 Q Okay. Has a CLO taken steps to remove the Debtor as a

12 portfolio manager?

13 A The CLO is the Issuer.

14 Q Okay.

15 A So the answer is no.

16 Q Okay. So no one has -- no one has acted to take any -- to 17 do anything as it relates to the removal of the Debtor as the 18 portfolio manager?

19 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

20 THE COURT: Overruled.

21 THE WITNESS: I'm quite sure the CLO Issuers haven't,

22 as they agreed and we've been working with them on an

23 assumption. With respect to what your clients have done, I

24 don't know.

25 BY MR. HOGEWOOD:

180

1 Q But you don't have any evidence that my clients have taken
2 any action in violation of the automatic stay to -- to move or 3 encourage the removal of the Debtor as the portfolio manager,
4 do you?

5 A Other than the letter? No.

6 Q Other than the letter between me and your counsel?

7 A Correct.

8 Q All right. So, and that letter expressly states that any 9 of those actions that would be taken are subject to the 10 automatic stay and the Bankruptcy Code; is that right?

11 A That's correct.

12 Q And as we sit here today, the Debtor is not in breach of 13 any contract with any of the Issuers; is that right?

14 A That's correct.

15 Q And the letter didn't cause the Debtor to breach any 16 contract with any Issuer, did it?

17 A Did not.

18 Q And I think you've already testified today and you also 19 testified in deposition that you anticipate that the -- all of 20 the CLOs will consent to the assumption of the portfolio
21 management agreements in the context of confirmation; is that
22 right?

23 A Yes.

24 Q And the plan supplement that you recently filed, you
25 provide a mechanism by which the issue of for-cause

181

1 termination is to be resolved, do you not?

2 A I don't recall if there's a specific provision in the plan
3 supplement. We certainly have, either in the plan or in the 4 plan supplement, a provision related to the gatekeeper
5 function.

6 Q And that's similar to the settlement that you entered into 7 with CLO Holdco in terms of resolving both their objection to 8 confirmation and the lawsuit against them today; is that
9 right?

10 A I believe it's similar.

11 Q Okay. And the gatekeeper is the Bankruptcy Court to 12 determine, short of a full-blown trial, that if cause exists,
13 isn't that correct, under the plan?

14 A Among other functions, yes.

15 Q So if the Court confirms the plan, then the concerns that 16 you have are resolved by the gatekeeper function that is the 17 subject of this motion; is that right?

18 A I think it depends on the contents of the confirmation
19 order.

20 Q And if the Court denies confirmation, then the stay
21 remains in effect and the letter related to the removal of the 22 portfolio manager was expressly subject to the stay; isn't
23 that right?

24 A If the letter says it's subject to the stay? It does say
25 that, but it says other false things as well, so I'm not sure

Seery - Cross

182

1 -- I don't know exactly what you're asking me there.

2 Q All right. It wasn't a very good question, frankly.

3 Your counsel responded to the December 23rd letter as well
4 and demanded a retraction; isn't that right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And that was sort of a separate (audio gap) with counsel?

7 A I'm sorry. You broke up for a second there, sir. I'm 8 sorry.

9 Q I'm sorry. That -- that' -- let's just skip that. You
10 had testified that neither letter was withdrawn?

11 A I believe that's correct, yes.

12 Q Are you familiar -- and -- are you familiar with the fact
13 that, in the response letters, your counsel insisted that 14 there be a response and withdrawal by not later than, I
15 believe, 5:00 on December 28th? Do you recall that?

16 A I don't recall that specifically, but I accept your 17 representation.

18 Q And do you know whether or not there was a response dated
19 December 28th?

20 A I don't believe there was a written response. I don't -- 21 I don't recall.

22 Q All right.

23 MR. HOGWOOD: Ms. Mather, can you call up
24 Defendant's Exhibit 84, which is at Docket 45, please? Thank 25 you.

183

1 BY MR. HOGWOOD:

2 Q So, Mr. Seery, have you ever seen this letter dated
3 December 28?

4 A I believe I have, yes.

5 Q And this letter was not attached to the complaint nor your 6 declaration nor the request for a TRO or preliminary
7 injunction, was it?

8 A If you say it wasn't. I don't recall specifically.

9 Q Okay. So, you, by seeing this, you realize now there was 10 a response by the 28th. Is that right?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And in the -- let me just direct your attention to the 13 final sentence of the first paragraph. It says -- it makes 14 once again clear that the -- any efforts to remove the Debtor
15 as manager would be subject to applicable orders of the 16 pending bankruptcy case, provisions of the Bankruptcy Code,
17 and specifically, the automatic stay. Do you see that?

18 A I apologize. I don't see it. Which paragraph?

19 Q I'm at the very last sentence of the first paragraph.
20 There's a sentence that --

21 A (reading) Subject to applicable orders in the pending
22 bankruptcy case, provisions of the Bankruptcy Code,
23 specifically, the automatic stay.

24 I read that, yes.

25 Q Yes. Okay. There was some testimony about the letter

184

1 related to Mr. Dondero's eviction. I don't intend to belabor
2 that. But once again, that was a letter between counsel, was 3 it not?

4 A I believe it -- I believe it was. I don't recall
5 specifically now. I assume -- I assume all of these were 6 directed to counsel.

7 Q Right. And again, the fact that counsel wrote a letter
8 requesting that the eviction not occur did not change your 9 process and you proceeded with the eviction, did you not?

10 A I think the letter came after Mr. Dondero was no longer
11 permitted. Eviction is an odd word. He was no longer an 12 employee, so employee not being able to come into the office
13 and hang around and disrupt business isn't exactly an 14 eviction. So I disagree with your characterization there.

15 Q Okay. Well, so I'll just leave that. I mean, the -- 16 since this exchange of letters, are you aware -- I mean, there
17 was some testimony about the Debtors presenting the Defendants
18 with the choice of either filing a motion for relief from stay
19 or this injunction proceeding would be brought. Isn't that 20 right?

21 A Yes.

22 Q And no motion for relief from stay was filed, and 23 therefore this injection proceeding was brought. Is that
24 correct?

25 A Yes.

Seery - Cross

185

1 Q So the other thing that you know was filed by the
2 Defendants was an objection to confirmation, which was due on 3 January 5th of 2020, correct?

4 A I'm sorry, Mr. Hogewood. You broke up. Did you say the 5 other paper or pleading that was filed?

6 Q The pleading that was filed by the -- these who are 7 Defendants as well as other parties to this case was an 8 objection to confirmation, the deadline for which was January
9 5, 2020. Are you familiar that an objection to confirmation
10 was filed?

11 A I'm familiar that one was filed, yes.

12 Q And so the objection to confirmation raised many of these 13 same issues regarding the circumstances under which the 14 various CLO agreements could be assumed; isn't that right?

15 A I'm not aware of the specifics of the objection.

16 Q Okay. But nonetheless, my client was under no obligation
17 to initiate yet another motion or lawsuit or pleading against 18 the Debtor beyond objecting to confirmation, was it?

19 A An obligation? No.

20 Q And since the objection to confirmation has been filed,
21 there have been a number of pleadings filed in the case. We 22 obviously were required to respond to the motion for 23 preliminary injunction, and it says there's been an objection
24 filed to that. Are you aware of that?

25 A That -- that you objected to the preliminary injunction?

Seery - Cross

186

1 Q Yes.

2 A Yes, yes, I'm aware of that.

3 Q And --

4 A I'm very aware.

5 Q And you're aware that there was a proposed settlement with

6 HarbourVest; is that correct?

7 A We have an approved settlement with HarbourVest.

8 Q Right. And there were objections filed to that particular

9 -- or, to that particular settlement agreement, were there

10 not?

11 A Yes.

12 Q But none of my clients participated in that objection, did

13 they?

14 A I don't recall the specifics of your clients versus the 15 other Dondero entities, but I'm certain Mr. Dondero

16 participated.

17 Q But the De... the parties that we represent did not object

18 to the settlement?

19 A I don't recall specifically.

20 Q Okay. And another motion that was filed was for an

21 examiner. Isn't that correct?

22 A I believe that's the case, yes.

23 Q Yeah. And my clients didn't join that motion, either?

24 A No. It's a bit of whack-a-mole, but they did not -- they

25 did not -- I don't -- I don't know. To be honest, I don't

187

1 know if they did or not.

2 Q All right. Toward the end of your testimony, you were
3 giving some information about the value of these management
4 contracts in terms of income over the course of the coming
5 year or two. What is the projected revenue with respect to 6 these management contracts?

7 A Do you mean the CLO 1.0 management contracts?

8 Q Yes.

9 A They generate about four-and-a-half to five million
10 dollars a year, depending on the asset base in total, but 11 that's accrual, as I mentioned earlier. It doesn't all come
12 in in cash. It depends on the waterfall. Expect about two-13 and-a-half to 2.7 million to come in per year during the 14 course of the projected time period.

15 (Echoing.)

16 Q Have you done any sort of profitability analysis on the 17 management contracts?

18 A Not specifically on those contracts, no. We look at the 19 --

20 Q Okay.

21 A -- aggregate of the Debtor's receipts versus its costs.

22 Q Can you -- so, --

23 MR. HOGWOOD: Ms. Mather, can you call up the 24 disclosure statement? This is Docket 1473. And in 25 particular, Page 176.

Seery - Cross

1 BY MR. HOGEWOOD:

2 Q So, I'm, Mr. Seery, I'm trying to square the 779 for the 3 month ended -- month period ended in March '21 and no further
4 revenue coming in on management fees with what you just said.

5 A I'm not -- I'm not sure why. This should -- certainly 6 should have the management fees according to the CLOs if this
7 was included in the assumption of those. We have revenue,
8 they do generate revenue, they currently generate and they 9 will continue to generate.

10 Q But this is the disclosure statement approved by the 11 Court, right?

12 A Yes. I'll have to come back and check why that for the 13 year doesn't have it, unless we were assuming that we wouldn't 14 receive any into the -- into this vehicle. I just, I don't 15 know the answer.

16 MR. HOGEWOOD: Your Honor, that's all the questions I
17 have. Thank you very much.

18 THE COURT: All right. Redirect?

19 MR. MORRIS: Can we just leave this up on the screen
20 for a second, very quickly, for Mr. Seery? Can we put the 21 document back?

22 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q Mr. Seery, do you recall that the disclosure statement was 25 approved back in November?

Seery - Redirect

189

1 A Yes.

2 THE COURT: Could you repeat the question? I
3 couldn't hear it.

4 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. That is -- I don't know if
5 somebody's phone is not on mute.

6 THE COURT: Yes. Please put your device on mute if 7 you're not the one talking. Okay. Someone did. Go ahead.

8 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Mr. Seery, do you recall that this disclosure statement
11 was approved back in November?

12 A Yeah. What I'd said earlier was that I'm not sure if the 13 -- this plan projection conforms with our decision to maintain 14 the CLO management contracts, and so there certainly should be 15 revenue, while it comes in quarterly on the management fee, 16 the base management fee. And it's not always -- each CLO is 17 not always able to pay it in cash. It will depend on our 18 ability to monetize assets, because they don't -- a lot of the 19 assets are not cash-generative. Some are. For example, the 20 Trussway loan is cash generative. The CCS loan is not.

21 But I'm just not sure why this doesn't show the management
22 fees at all. At least for the whole year, we certainly will 23 have them, unless this is prior to the determination to assume 24 those agreements.

25 Q Okay. So if the assumption in November was that the

Seery - Redirect

190

1 agreements would be assigned, there would be no revenue shown.

2 Is that fair?

3 A That would have been the assumption prior to us
4 determining that we wanted to assume them, yes.

5 Q Okay. And do you recall whether the Debtor became more
6 convinced that it would assume the contracts rather than 7 assign them before or after the disclosure statement was 8 approved?

9 A I don't recall the specific timing, but a number of things
10 happened around this time. First, the Dondero entities were 11 unwilling to even engage on assignment because they were on a
12 much more aggressive, quote, blow up the place strategy.
13 That's Mr. Dondero's quote.

14 Number two, we settled with HarbourVest, and that 15 significantly increased the value of maintaining the CLO
16 management. The HarbourVest -- or the HCLOF entities own
17 significant preferred shares in the 1.0 CLO structures, and 18 having management of those and being able to monetize those in 19 accordance with the agreement, maximizing value for the 20 benefit of HCLOF, would be far, far better for the estate than 21 letting these assets just sit. We're not trying to drive the 22 price down, because we wouldn't be in the business of trying 23 to buy back those securities on the cheap. We're in the 24 business of trying to maximize value.

25 Q All right.

Seery - Examination by the Court

191

1 MR. MORRIS: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Any recross on that redirect?

3 MR. HOGEWOOD: No, thank you, Your Honor. Appreciate
4 the opportunity to appear before you.

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

6 Mr. Seery, before we let you go, I have a couple of 7 follow-up questions.

8 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

9 THE COURT: These CLOs, I mean, you've said a couple
10 of times they're not really traditional CLOs, except for the 11 Acis 7 one. But I have this question. I've learned back in 12 the Acis case most of what I know about CLOs, I suppose. And 13 what the witnesses told me there were they typically had a 12-
14 year life, and then, yeah, there was some period, you know,
15 the first five years, seven years, something like that, where 16 it was in a reinvestment/refinancing phase, but then after 17 that, you know, we couldn't do that anymore and it was kind of 18 heading towards wind-down.

19 Anyway, my long-winded question is: Do these CLOs work
20 generally like that or not? Because you said they're 21 atypical.

22 THE WITNESS: They -- they --

23 THE COURT: Go ahead.

24 THE WITNESS: They used to.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

Seery - Examination by the Court

192

1 THE WITNESS: So these are extremely old. These go
2 back to 2006, '07, '08. These are very old CLOs. So they're
3 far beyond their investment periods. Some of them are coming
4 up on their maturities on their debt. Many of them don't have 5 any debt at all.

6 So you'll recall, Your Honor, that a CLO is a vehicle
7 where you take x-hundred million -- we'll use 400 for fun --
8 million dollars. You ramp up $400 million of assets. You
9 sell off, for our purposes, $350 million of securities. You
10 have the AAA securities, the AAs, all the way down. And then 11 you have these preference shares.

12 During a period of time, as cash is generated in the CLO,
13 the CLO is entitled to reinvest it. And that keeps it going.
14 And then it gets beyond its reinvestment period and it's in 15 what folks usually refer to as its harvest period. That's 16 when oftentimes, depending on where rates are, depending on 17 asset value, the rates for the debt obligations or the rate
18 you can receive on your assets, you may see refinancings or 19 resets. Otherwise, the CLOs begin to wind down. They have -- 20 they don't have a life, like a partnership with a final date, 21 but there's maturities on the debt and then there's an 22 expectation that they would wind down.

23 These CLOs -- which typically CLOs only invest in 24 performing loans, and oftentimes, particularly Highland -- and 25 I could regale you with stories how Highland would take

Seery - Examination by the Court

193

1 virtually non-interest-bearing, seventh lien debt -- that's a
2 bit of an exaggeration -- but just to keep the fees going, and
3 not actually convert to equity. A lot of these, that wasn't
4 an option, so they've converted to equity. So I just have one
5 that I happen to have on my screen, Your Honor, Gleneagles.
6 The assets in Gleneagles (echoing) are 16 -- MGMs.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Someone needs to put their phone
8 on mute. All right. I'm sorry.

9 THE WITNESS: So it has -- it has -- the specifics
10 aren't particularly important, but its assets are -- just this 11 one I just pulled up; they're all a little different, and -- 12 but mostly the same -- MGM stock. This is MGM Studios, which 13 you read about with James Bond, a very valuable asset. Across 14 the Highland platform, there's roughly $500 million worth of 15 stock. It doesn't pay off any income. So if it had debt --
16 and I'm not sure if Gleneagles still has any; I'd have to 17 switch screens; I don't believe it does; if it does, it's 18 small -- it wouldn't get any income-generating -- that's not 19 income generating asset.

20 Vistra, which is the TXU stock I talked about before, is 21 the next biggest asset. Skyline Corporation, which was the 22 one we were selling. That's no longer in there. TCI
23 portfolio, which is a Dondero real estate asset it has, it's 24 an old Las Vegas and Phoenix, Arizona real estate
25 developments. Not income-generating. Not that they don't

Seery - Examination by the Court

194

1 have value, but this is much more like what would be referred
2 to as a closed-end fund. It's not going to go out and buy
3 anything. It can't. It can only generate cash by selling
4 assets, give that cash to the trustee, and then the trustee
5 pays it through the waterfall. And that's the way all of 6 these CLOs work.

7 Now, some of them do have debt. And some of them have a
8 lot of debt, and the preferred shares will never be worth any 9 money, so we refer to those as being underwater. No surprise,
10 the Dondero-related entities don't own any of those junior
11 securities.

12 The -- some do have debt. A lot of that debt is going to 13 get paid off in the first half of the year because there'll be 14 refinancings at Trussway and a refinancing at Cornerstone.
15 They own debt, and that'll generate cash. It'll go to the 16 CLOs, go to the trustee. First it goes to pay the obligations
17 for the outstanding debt of the CLO, and then the asset
18 dollars, they get put through the waterfall to pay the more
19 junior securities.

20 THE COURT: Okay. And --

21 THE WITNESS: And I --

22 THE COURT: The --

23 THE WITNESS: I was going to give you -- I contrast
24 that to a more typical CLO, which is whether it's beyond its 25 investment period or not, will have something like 150 to 250,

Seery - Examination by the Court

195

1 sometimes more, loans in it. 150 would be on the loan side.
2 It'll own -- own those in smaller amounts. It has
3 requirements as to what its concentrations are in different
4 buckets of types of assets. It has to return -- it has to 5 have an income-generating ability to satisfy certain covenants
6 in its debt obligations and in the indenture. And then it
7 will, once it gets past its investment period, it will start
8 to harvest those assets.

9 There are different ways for the CLO manager to swap
10 assets, to stay in compliance, to extend out the tenure, but 11 usually markets start to move and there's some reason for the 12 CLO manager to do something like a reset or a refinancing or 13 to call the CLO.

14 So you'll see a number -- there was one this week, and 15 there'll be a number because of the conditions in the market
16 -- of CLOs called by the, effectively, the equity, saying,
17 Great time to sell, I don't need the short income, call the 18 CLO, do a BWIC or some other way to get dollars for all of the 19 assets, pay off all of my debt, and give me the balance of the 20 proceeds.

21 THE COURT: Okay. All right. And the plan
22 contemplates that these will all be wound down over a two-year
23 period, correct?

24 THE WITNESS: It's not a hard -- it's not a hard
25 period.

Seery - Examination by the Court

196

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 THE WITNESS: So it's not a two-year period. We're
3 going to -- we're going to manage these assets, as any asset
4 manager would, and we've had direct discussions with some of 5 the underlying holders, including one of the biggest investors
6 in the world who's an investor in the CLO but also has a
7 couple separate accounts which they want us to manage, and 8 we'll look for opportunities, depending on the market. We're 9 not going to -- we're not going to just sell. It's not a 10 liquidation. We're going to find opportunities where, if we 11 believe it's the right value, we'll sell. That doesn't mean
12 we'll sell it all in a big chunk. We may manage pieces. We 13 may hold on to some.

14 Some of them may perform -- some of the assets may 15 actually do things differently than others. For example,
16 Cornerstone, for unknown reasons, has $60 million of MGM
17 stock, not an asset that you'd think you'd stuff into a
18 healthcare business, but this is Highland. That may be sold
19 before, for example, Gleneagles sells its MGM. It'll just 20 depend on, you know, market and the need of the specific 21 investor.

22 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. That's all the 23 questions I have.

24 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right. So, Mr. Seery, I think we're

Seery - Examination by the Court

197

1 done with you, but we hope you'll stick around for however
2 longer this goes.

3 THE WITNESS: I will indeed.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

6 THE COURT: Does the Debtor rest, Mr. Morris?

7 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor. There were those 8 couple of documents that we had used from the different docket
9 that we'll certainly put on the docket with the supplement
10 witness and exhibit list. I just wanted to point that out.
11 And I, you know, I don't recall, frankly, if I moved into 12 evidence each of those extras, and I'm happy to go through it, 13 but it's very important to me that those documents be part of 14 the record. So --

15 THE COURT: Okay. I think what you added was TTTT,
16 and I think I admitted it. You moved to admit it, and I said
17 yes, but you're going to have to file it on the docket --

18 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

19 THE COURT: -- as a supplemental exhibit.

20 MR. MORRIS: Right. And then there were the couple
21 from the other -- let me see if I can get them.

22 THE COURT: I admitted everything else that you filed
23 on the docket except UUUU, VVVV, and AAAAA.

24 MR. HOGWOOD: Yeah. And that's fine.

25 Can we, Ms. Canty, going from Docket No. 46, can we just

198

1 call up Exhibit K to make sure that that's in evidence?

2 Docket 46 from the Dondero adversary proceeding.

3 Okay. So this was the letter, Your Honor, that I used
4 earlier today with Mr. Dondero. If you scroll down, where I
5 examined him on the trading. This is what led into the 6 December 22nd trading, if you go to the next page. So if it's 7 not in evidence, I would respectfully request that this
8 document be admitted into evidence, Your Honor.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I object. This document
10 is hearsay of Mr. Pomerantz.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. MORRIS: Mr. Dondero has already -- I'm sorry,
13 Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Okay. So this is -- I wholesale-admitted
15 all of your exhibits with those three carved out that I
16 mentioned. So you're saying I've not admitted this one yet?

17 MR. MORRIS: I just don't recall, because this wasn't
18 on the exhibit list. I will point out that we had no objection
19 to the entry into the evidence of all of K&L Gates letters,
20 and I'm really a little surprised, having heard the testimony
21 from Mr. Dondero on this particular letter, that there would 22 be an objection. But I would respectfully request that it be 23 admitted as an exception to the hearsay rule.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm going to overrule
25 the objection. I'll admit it.

199

1 So, again, it has to be supplemented on the docket.

2 (Debtor's Exhibit K is received into evidence)

3 MR. MORRIS: Yes. And there's just one other
4 document, Your Honor, from that same docket. It's Exhibit D,
5 Ms. Canty. I just want to make sure that's in the record as 6 well. And I do apologize again, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. MORRIS: I didn't realize until I was reading --

9 THE COURT: We're getting terrible distortion. I
10 don't know where it's coming from, but --

11 MR. MORRIS: Okay. And this is, this is the email
12 that I -- it's Mr. Dondero's own statement, so it's not even 13 hearsay, but I just want to make sure this is part of the 14 evidentiary record, Your Honor. So I move for the admission
15 of this document as well to our exhibit list.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: I believe this document has been 17 admitted. I believe -- I believe --

18 (Echoing.)

19 MR. RUKAVINA: Is that us? Testing.

20 THE COURT: All right. Mike, where is that coming
21 from?

22 (Clerk advises.)

23 THE COURT: Okay. Mike thinks it's Mr. Morris, but 24 -- so put yourself on mute.

25 Mr. Rukavina, go ahead.

200

1 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I think this exhibit is in
2 already. If it's not, no objection.

3 THE COURT: All right. So it will be admitted, and 4 again, you need to file it as a supplement, Mr. Morris.

5 (Debtor's Exhibit D is received into evidence)

6 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Thank you, Your Honor. The 7 Debtor rests.

8 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina, I want to go a
9 while longer, so let's at least -- do you have Mr. Dondero as 10 well as Mr. Post?

11 MR. RUKAVINA: I do, Your Honor. I have both.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let's go. You may call your 13 witness.

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, we'll call Jason Post.

15 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Post, I swore you in 16 earlier and I consider you still under oath. Do you
17 understand that?

18 MR. POST: I do.

19 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

20 JASON POST, DEFENDANTS' WITNESS, PREVIOUSLY SWORN

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Oh, turn on the video. Can you see
22 how to do that? Is Jason on the video? Okay. All right.
23 Mr. Post? Hold on a second. I'm hearing myself.

24 THE WITNESS: I'm hearing the same.

25 MR. RUKAVINA: Let me turn down my volume. Testing.

201

1 Okay. Mr. Post, can you hear me?

2 THE WITNESS: Yes.

3 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

4 DIRECT EXAMINATION

5 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

6 Q You were asked about some of your background and 7 qualifications. Just so that the record is clear, you are the 8 chief compliance officer for both two Advisors and each of the 9 Funds, correct?

10 A Correct.

11 Q And I think we refer to these three defendant funds as 12 retail funds; is that correct?

13 A Correct.

14 Q Describe what we mean or what you mean by a retail fund.

15 A I look at it two ways. There's private funds, which are 16 institutional in nature, and retail funds, which are comprised
17 of open-end funds, closed-end funds, BDCs, ETFs, and that 18 constitutes the suite of funds that are advised by Highland 19 Capital Management Fund Advisors and NexPoint Advisors. And 20 they generally have a broad swath of investors, including 21 institutional investors, but also, you know, just regular mom-
22 and-pop investors.

23 Q Okay. So, for the Highland -- I'm sorry, for the three 24 retail funds, how much in ballpark investments do they have in 25 the CLOs that are at issue today? Ballpark.

Post - Direct

202

1 A Maybe call it a hundred million, ballpark. Or a hundred
2 million, give or take.

3 Q Okay. And for all of the CLOs that Highland manages that 4 the Advisors and other Funds have an interest in, do you have 5 an estimate of how much it manages of CLO assets?

6 A I believe it's approximately a billion, a little over a
7 billion that HCMLP manages for its CLO assets.

8 Q Do you have an estimate of how many individual investors
9 there are in the three retail funds?

10 A I -- thousands. I don't have an exact number.

11 Q Okay. And I think you mentioned some of the types. Do
12 you have any names of the types of investors that Her Honor
13 might know or have heard of before?

14 A Off the top of my head, I do not, just -- but they're 15 generally constituted or characterized of the investor types
16 that I mentioned earlier.

17 Q Okay. Now, these three retail funds, do they own voting
18 preference shares in any of the CLOs that the Debtor manages?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Okay. Do they own a majority in any of those CLOs' voting
21 preference shares?

22 A In aggregate, across the three, they would.

23 Q Okay.

24 A With other CLOs.

25 Q What are those three CLOs, sir?

Post - Direct

203

1 A I believe it's Greenbrier, Graceland, and Stratford, if I
2 recall correctly.

3 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, have you received a
4 couriered binder of our exhibits?

5 THE COURT: I have. I've got them right here.

6 MR. RUKAVINA: Now I can't hear the judge. What's 7 she saying?

8 THE COURT: Yes. I've got them.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: I think you're on mute, Judge.

10 MR. VASEK: No, you turned your volume down.

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Oh. I apologize, Your Honor.

12 So, Mr. Vasek, if you'll please put Exhibit 2 up.

13 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

14 Q Mr. Post, are you the custodian of records for the Funds
15 and Advisors?

16 A Yes. We're required to keep records of ownership and 17 trades for the Funds involved.

18 Q And you are an actual officer of these Funds and Advisors,
19 correct?

20 A Correct.

21 Q Okay. Are you familiar with this Exhibit 2?

22 A I am.

23 Q Did you participate in pulling together the underlying
24 information with others to prepare Exhibit 2?

25 A I did.

Post - Direct

204

1 Q Does Exhibit 2 accurately reflect the current ownership of
2 the various CLOs by the three retail funds that are --

3 A At the time it was put together, I believe it did.

4 Q And approximately when was that?

5 A I believe it was in the November time frame, middle of 6 November, end of November.

7 Q Do you have reason to believe that the numbers we're
8 referring to would be materially different today?

9 A I don't believe they would be materially different.

10 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I move for the admission
11 of Exhibit 2 as a summary of underlying data.

12 THE COURT: All right. Any objection?

13 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor. It's hearsay. I
14 understand that the witness has testified to it, but just as I
15 put in the backup for my demonstrative, where's the backup?
16 We're just supposed to take his word for it? There's no
17 ability to check this. This is not evidence. It's a
18 demonstrative.

19 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina, do you have 20 backup?

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Let me ask the witness a couple more
22 questions.

23 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

24 Q What would be the backup for this Exhibit 2?

25 A We'd have to pull the holdings from the intranet and that

Post - Direct

205

1 would identify the quantity that's held by each of the 2 respective funds and then an aggregate that, over the
3 preference shares outstanding, would give you the percentages
4 that are outlined in this exhibit.

5 Q Okay. And is that a database that you have personal
6 access and authority over?

7 A I have personal access to it. Yes.

8 Q Okay.

9 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, voir dire?

10 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

11 Q Can you easily take that data from a computer and show it
12 to the Court here today?

13 A Yes. It would just require the CUSIPs for each of the 14 preference shares and then plug it into the intranet and then
15 that would provide a screenshot of the ownership of the CLOs.

16 Q And is this what that is, basically?

17 A This is an aggregation -- or, this is a percentage of the 18 shares outstanding, the preference shares. So what would be 19 shown on the intranet would be the quantity and then you'd 20 have to tie that back to the shares outstanding and that would 21 give you the percentages that are shown on this exhibit.

22 MR. MORRIS: Voir dire, Your Honor?

23 THE COURT: I'm sorry?

24 MR. MORRIS: May I inquire before this --

25 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, is that you? Okay. You want

1 to take him on voir dire?

2 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

3 THE COURT: Go ahead. Uh-huh.

4 VOIR DIRE EXAMINATION

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q Yes. Mr. Post, did you prepare this document?

7 A I provided information and the document was ultimately 8 prepared by counsel.

9 Q So you didn't personally prepare this, right?

10 A I didn't personally put this chart together.

11 Q And you didn't personally make the calculations on this
12 chart, right?

13 A I would have supplied or assisted in supplying the 14 holdings with reference to the shares outstanding and then 15 they would have done the math to place the percentages.

16 Q I'm asking a very specific question. You didn't do the 17 calculations necessary to come up with the percentages on this 18 chart, right?

19 A Me personally, no, I did not.

20 Q And you can't verify that this chart is accurate, can you?

21 A I provided, provided the information. Then it's a
22 mathematical calculation.

23 Q Okay. You didn't take any steps to determine the accuracy
24 of this chart, right? You relied on others?

25 A There's a -- I would have cross -- you know, maybe cross-

1 referenced some of the percentages against another spreadsheet
2 that was -- that we had internally.

3 Q Sir, I didn't want to know what you would have done. You
4 didn't do anything to confirm the accuracy of all of the 5 numbers on this page, correct?

6 A I believe I may have spot-checked a couple of them. I
7 can't recall specifically.

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, not only don't we have the 9 backup, but this witness isn't even competent to testify to 10 the accuracy of the chart. I renew my objection.

11 THE COURT: All right. I sustain the objection.

12 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll --

13 THE COURT: It's not allowed.

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Going back to the -- take that down.

15 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina, we're -- our 16 connection to your office is suddenly not very good. Both you
17 and Mr. Post are very hard to hear. So let's see what we can 18 to improve.

19 MR. RUKAVINA: Is it a question of loudness or 20 quality?

21 THE COURT: Quality. And I heard you fine just then,
22 but -- so let's try again.

23 DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

24 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

25 Q Mr. Post, let's go back to those retail funds. How are

Post - Direct

208

1 those funds managed at the top level?

2 A They're overseen by a board of trustees.

3 Q Okay. Do you interact with that board of trustees
4 periodically?

5 A I do.

6 Q Okay. Approximately how often?

7 A At least quarterly, and generally intervening periods.

8 I'd probably say anywhere from every five to six weeks, if not 9 more frequent.

10 Q Have you been communicating with them more frequently
11 recently?

12 A Yes.

13 Q As the CCO of the funds, who do you ultimately report to?

14 A The board.

15 Q Is Mr. Dondero on any of those boards?

16 A He is not.

17 Q Okay. Are those boards capable, to your experience, of 18 making independent decisions?

19 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

20 THE COURT: Overruled.

21 THE WITNESS: I think the question, is are they 22 capable of making independent determinations? Yes.

23 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

24 Q Okay. Explain the interaction between the Fund Advisors
25 and the retail funds. What -- what does the one do for the

209

1 other, if you will?

2 A I'm sorry. Can you repeat that? I didn't -- I didn't
3 hear the question.

4 Q So, we have the three retail funds.

5 A Yes.

6 Q What relationship, if any, is there between the two
7 Advisor defendants and any retail fund defendants?

8 A So, there's an investment advisory agreement that the 9 Funds have entered into with the investment advisor, and the 10 investment advisor performs investment functions on behalf of 11 those Funds, along with other noninvestment functions.

12 Q Okay. So is it fair to conclude that, for investment
13 purposes, the Advisors make pretty much all, if not all,
14 decisions for the three Funds?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Okay. What about other matters that the board might 17 consider? Do the Funds make -- I'm sorry. Do the Advisors
18 make other decisions for the Funds, or is it an advisory role?

19 A The Advisors may make other decisions or recommendations, 20 which they then set forth to the board for their approval, if 21 needed.

22 Q Okay. Does the board have independent counsel?

23 A They do.

24 Q Okay. Have you interacted before?

25 A I have.

Post - Direct

210

1 Q And is it fair to conclude that the board not only is
2 capable of making independent decisions but has made
3 independent decisions recently?

4 MR. MORRIS: Objection. Leading.

5 THE COURT: Sustained.

6 THE WITNESS: They have.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

8 THE COURT: That was --

9 MR. RUKAVINA: And we'll get --

10 THE COURT: You don't answer.

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Go into that in another bit.

12 THE WITNESS: Oh. Sorry.

13 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

14 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

15 Q Explain to the Court what your role as the chief
16 compliance officer for the Advisors and the Funds is.

17 A I think, as you mentioned earlier, it's interaction with 18 the board. Also with regulatory bodies to the extent
19 examinations occur. It could be to ensure oversight and 20 compliance with a fund's prospectus and SAI limitations, and 21 then it's establishing policies and procedures and ensuring 22 that those policies and procedures are adequate to detect any 23 sort of violations that could occur by the Funds.

24 Q And are you an attorney?

25 A I am not.

Post - Direct

211

1 Q Do you frequently work with attorneys?

2 A I do.

3 Q Both in-house and external?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Good. And do you frequently rely on the advice of
6 counsel?

7 A I do. At times will present, you know, if there is a
8 question or an issue, present the background to either
9 internal or external counsel and then request their advice on 10 certain matters.

11 Q So when counsel was asking about why you wouldn't appear
12 at a hearing or listen to a hearing or read a transcript of a 13 hearing, are those the kinds of things that you would rely on
14 counsel?

15 A Yes. If counsel were to tell me to, you know, attend the 16 hearing, I would have attended the hearing.

17 Q Okay. Does -- do the Funds and Advisors also have in-
18 house counsel?

19 A Yes.

20 Q I think we established that's D.C. Sauter?

21 A He's been the primary point of in-house counsel more
22 recently, I'd say, within the past three to four months.

23 Q Okay. And would you expect that perhaps he would be 24 attending hearings and reading transcripts instead of you for 25 some of these litigated matters?

Post - Direct

212

1 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

2 THE COURT: Overruled.

3 MR. MORRIS: Leading.

4 THE COURT: Overruled.

5 THE WITNESS: I believe he would be.

6 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

7 Q Okay. Well, the implication was made, Mr. Post, that

8 somehow you were negligent as CCO by not following the 9 December 16th hearing. I'd like to know, --

10 THE COURT: Okay. Could you -- could you repeat --

11 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

12 Q -- Did you have counsel at the hearing and did you hear

13 from --

14 THE COURT: Mr. Rukavina, start over with your 15 question. It was a little hard to hear.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

17 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

18 Q Mr. Post, the implication had been made that, because you

19 weren't at the December 16th hearing and because you had not

20 read the transcript, that you were somehow deficient as a CCO.

21 I'd like to know, Did you have the benefit of outside

22 counsel's views both before and after that hearing as to that

23 hearing and what happened?

24 A Yes.

25 Q It's not that you put your head in the sand and ignored

213

1 what's happening, is it?

2 A That is correct.

3 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that when you deal with 4 compliance, you deal with complicated statutes and
5 regulations?

6 A That is correct.

7 Q Okay.

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if you'll please pull up
9 (garbled).

10 (Pause.)

11 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

12 Q Okay. Taking you back to Mr. Morris's questions, do you
13 recall Mr. Morris asking you whether you believe that any of 14 the trades that were being discussed were deceptive?

15 MR. MORRIS: Hold on one second, Your Honor. What 16 exhibit is this?

17 THE COURT: I don't know. What is it?

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Can you hear me, Mr. Post?

19 THE WITNESS: They're asking a question as to what 20 exhibit this is.

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, this is not an exhibit.
22 This is a Commission Interpreting Regarding Standard of 23 Conduct for Investment Advisors, an SEC regulation in 24 conjunction with 17 CFR 276.

25 THE COURT: Okay. How are we --

214

1 MR. RUKAVINA: So, Your Honor, these are the actual
2 regulations.

3 THE COURT: I mean, it's -- okay. The answer to the 4 question is it's not an exhibit. You have pulled up 17 CFR
5 part 276. Is that what the answer is?

6 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, Your Honor. And I haven't
7 offered this as an exhibit.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 MR. MORRIS: You have -- Your Honor, I don't know why
10 this is being put up on the screen now. It's not an exhibit.
11 It's not in the record like a couple of those that I had. I
12 used the statute that he relied on to cross-examine him with 13 the 206. I don't know what this is. I don't know if it's 14 accurate. I don't know anything about it.

15 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, this is a rule and 16 regulation. This is not an exhibit. If it is an exhibit, I
17 haven't moved to admit it yet. I'm going to use this to 18 refresh his memory and explain why he believed that the 19 actions were deceptive, a door opened solely by Mr. Morris.

20 MR. MORRIS: His recollection hasn't -- there's no
21 need to refresh it yet. He hasn't even answered a question
22 where he says, "I don't remember."

23 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain the objection here. I
24 mean, you can ask him a question, but, again, it's kind of 25 hard for us to tell what this is, actually. I mean,

Post - Direct

215

1 Commission Interpretation Regarding Standard of Conduct for
2 Investment Advisors. I mean, is this actually a -- I mean,
3 it's not a statute. I'm not even sure it's a reg. It's --

4 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

5 THE COURT: I don't know what it is. So, --

6 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, we'll lay a predicate
7 later. First, let me ask some other questions.

8 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

9 Q Again, you recall that you were asked whether, pursuant to 10 Section 206 of the Advisers Act, you believed the trades that 11 have been discussed were deceptive. Do you recall?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Okay. And you answered that you believed that they were 14 deceptive?

15 A Correct. I did.

16 Q As the CCO, do you have an understanding of what role, if 17 any, conflicts of interest play in an advisor's duties under 18 the Advisers Act?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Okay. What is your understanding?

21 A All -- all known material conflicts of interests need to 22 be disclosed -- need to be disclosed by the advisor to the 23 underlying investors.

24 Q Okay. And why, why do those conflicts of interests have 25 to be disclosed?

Post - Direct

216

1 A Because an advisor could have a view that may deviate from 2 the underlying investors' view of how the portfolio could be
3 managed and in contradiction to it.

4 Q And do you have an understanding as to whether, pursuant
5 to your experience as the CEO [sic], the Advisers Act and the 6 SEC regulations (garbled) it require an advisor to adopt the 7 principal's goals as opposed to his or her own goals?

8 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.
9 Your Honor, he has not been offered as an expert. He 10 shouldn't be permitted to provide -- this is -- this would be,
11 at best, expert testimony. I asked him 30 different questions
12 about his background. He's got no training. He's got no
13 licenses. He's taken no special courses. He doesn't have 14 anything except on-the-job training. This is not right.

15 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Mr. Morris got to ask yes-
16 and-no questions all day, leading questions, and the witness
17 was told that he could explain his answers. The Court told 18 him that. And I am trying to explain his answer as to why he 19 believed that these transactions were deceptive, especially 20 because the allegation is that we willfully and intentionally
21 violated the stay by sending letters that this witness
22 authorized. So understanding his understanding is very 23 important to Your Honor's determination of the actual --

24 THE COURT: Well, I sustain the objection.

25 MR. RUKAVINA: And Mr. Morris opened this door.

Post - Direct

217

1 THE COURT: You can ask him why he thought the
2 actions were deceptive, but he's starting to go into what may 3 or may not be CFRs and conflicts of interest. No. This is 4 going well beyond asking him, Why do you think it was 5 deceptive? And I agree: It's straying into expert testimony.

6 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

7 Q Mr. Post, you are familiar with the December 22nd AVYA
8 and SKY sales and transactions which you were asked about by 9 Mr. Morris and that you previously have testified about,
10 correct?

11 A Correct.

12 Q Okay. How are you familiar with those sales and 13 transactions as they were occurring? How did you learn about 14 them?

15 A There was some internal email correspondence. If I recall
16 from memory, at the bottom it provided fill information that 17 Jefferies provided to, I believe, Mr. Seery and others on the 18 email. And then it kind of worked its way up to get the 19 trades that had been executed administratively booked into the 20 OMS.

21 Q Why did you get involved with those transactions?

22 A They were requesting that employees of HCMFA book those --
23 I'm sorry, Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors -- book
24 those into the system. And those employees were not a party
25 to the trade. I don't believe --

Post - Direct

218

1 Q Well, let me pause you. Let me pause you. Those two
2 employees, who were they?

3 A Joe Sowin and Matt Pearson.

4 Q Were they at that time employees of the Debtor?

5 A They were not.

6 Q Okay. So, how did you come to learn about this ask that 7 those two employees book -- book it?

8 A I believe there was an email that was sent to me, or I was 9 on it. I can't recall specifically.

10 Q Okay. And did you undertake any review as to whether 11 those two employees should or should not do what was being 12 asked of them?

13 A Once it was brought to my attention, I discussed with -- I
14 looked at it. It looked like, pursuant to prior 15 correspondence with -- that Joe Sowin made, he wasn't aware of 16 the trades.

17 You know, I also had a discussion with K&L based off of -- 18 our legal counsel based off of a prior letter that was sent,
19 and just it didn't -- it didn't look right that they would be 20 booking trades on behalf of the two Advisors that are named in 21 the letters when they had nothing to do with it and weren't --
22 weren't a part of any of the pre-trade compliance checks, et 23 cetera.

24 Q What is a pre-trade compliance check?

25 A Well, there's an electronic system, a -- or a management

Post - Direct

219

1 system we have, the OMS, which is called Verda (phonetic).
2 And generally, trades are entered into the system by the
3 portfolio manager, and they then go through pre-trade
4 compliance checks. And once those compliance checks are 5 passed, they're then routed to the trading desk for direction
6 or execution, where the executing brokers and the trading desk
7 will then monitor that execution over the course of the day.
8 And at the conclusion of the trading day, those trades, if 9 they weren't already allocated, would be allocated, and then a 10 trade would be sent to custodian prime brokers to identify the 11 trades that occurred in the respective Funds for those -- or,
12 on that day, and then they would then be dropped into the 13 database and our -- the settlement team would kind of work to 14 settle those trades or ensure that those trades were settled
15 based off of the stipulated time frame for settlement on the 16 trades.

17 Q So, in all that course of a transaction, what exactly was 18 it that those two employees of the Advisors were being asked 19 to do on behalf of the Debtor? What exactly were they being 20 asked to do?

21 A To just book them in the system because they are trades
22 that already have been executed.

23 Q Did you stop that?

24 A I believe I responded and said, you know, it -- they're 25 employees of, if I recall, employees of one of the named

Post - Direct

220

1 Advisors, and believe those trades are in the best interest of 2 those Advisors, and separately, you know, the Debtor has 3 designated operators/traders that should be able to enter
4 those trades as well, aside from Mr. Sowin and Matt Pearson.

5 Q So can you think of any reason why Mr. Seery would ask
6 your employees, as with his own employees, to book these
7 trades?

8 A I believe based off of past practice.

9 Q Okay. But nevertheless, those two trades did not comply
10 with internal compliance?

11 A They weren't run through the OMS. We try and route trades
12 through the order management system because there's pre-trade
13 compliance checks that can be performed, and it reduces any 14 sort of back-end reallocation or trade errors that may occur
15 as a result of, you know, trades being entered after the fact,
16 because quantities could be, you know, referenced incorrectly
17 or funds could be identified incorrectly.

18 Q Based on prior practices, have these internal policies
19 been followed when perhaps employees of the Debtor asked 20 employees of the Advisors to take a particular action in the 21 course of a transaction?

22 A Yes.

23 Q When internal practices are not followed, what is your 24 job? What are you supposed to do?

25 A When internal practices are followed, --

Post - Direct

221

1 Q Are not followed.

2 A Oh. Not followed? To the extent that they're not
3 followed, we would question, you know, number one, why weren't
4 they followed? You know, we -- we try and have all trades
5 booked in the OMS so that the necessary checks could be 6 performed, and as I mentioned earlier, to avoid any 7 reallocation or trade errors. So I would then question, you
8 know, why was this done outside of the system?

9 Q And if you did not get an appropriate response back to 10 your question, what are you supposed to do?

11 A If I didn't get an appropriate response, would, you know,
12 research it further and elevate it to senior management and/or 13 any of the board if it was ultimately an issue.

14 Q Are you supposed to stop trades or stop the process if you
15 see something that you believe is not compliant with your 16 obligations and the fiduciary obligations of the Advisors?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Have you done that in the past?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Have you done that frequently, or infrequently?

21 A I would say it's -- it's infrequent, but they do occur.
22 For example, if a fund is trading in a security that it's not
23 permitted to invest in based off of a prospectus limitation,
24 it would get flagged in the OMS and we would then not permit
25 the trade to go forward because it could cause the breach to

222

1 go further offsides or it could cause it to go offsides.

2 Q Okay. And these December 22nd trades, were they the type
3 of, in your past experience, problematic trades like you have 4 interfered or stopped or intervened to stop in other
5 situations in the past? Do you understand my question? That 6 was an inartful question. Do you understand it?

7 A If the question is because they were done outside of the 8 system?

9 Q Yes.

10 A And repeatedly?

11 Q Yes.

12 A I would have raised the question with the trading desk or 13 the portfolio manager as to why that's being done, because it 14 was not in -- not consistent with how we instruct trades be 15 booked.

16 Q Did Mr. Dondero, for these December 22nd transactions,
17 tell these two employees not to book the trades?

18 THE COURT: Okay. Please repeat the question. It
19 was garbled.

20 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor.

21 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

22 Q For these December 22nd trades, did Mr. Dondero tell those 23 two employees not to book the trades?

24 MR. MORRIS: I object, Your Honor. No foundation.

25 This witness has no personal knowledge to testify to this --

Post - Direct

223

1 to answer this question.

2 THE COURT: Overruled. If he knows.

3 THE WITNESS: I do not know.

4 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

5 Q Okay. Do you have a reason to believe that he did?

6 A I don't know. I just saw the email traffic and Mr. Sowin,
7 I believe, was questioning the trades, you know, more in the 8 sense that he wasn't aware of them. So, I don't -- I don't 9 know what kind of conversations, what happened in the 10 background, just that he -- he didn't recognized that rates.

11 Q Let me try it this way. You determined that these trade
12 would have violated the Advisors' policies and procedures,
13 correct?

14 A Yes, because they were done outside of the OMS.

15 Q Did Mr. Dondero tell you to come to that conclusion?

16 A He did not.

17 Q Did Mr. Dondero pressure you to come to that conclusion?

18 A He did not. He had indicated that there -- there are 19 these trades, and you should take a look at it from a legal 20 compliance perspective, which I did.

21 Q And you talked to K&L Gates?

22 A Correct.

23 Q And when Mr. Dondero told you to look at these trades, did
24 he suggest to you in any way, shape, or form what you should 25 conclude or decide to do, if anything, with respect to these

224

1 trades?

2 A I don't believe so.

3 Q Okay. Let's go back to that question about your view that
4 some of what Mr. Seery was doing was deceptive under the 1940
5 Investors Act. When did you form that view?

6 A I believe it was after it was identified that there was 7 not (inaudible) on certain of the trades that were entered
8 into at the end of the November time frame, the SKY and AVYA
9 trades.

10 Q And why did you form the opinion that those trades that 11 Mr. Seery was attempting to do or had done were deceptive
12 under the statute that Mr. Morris asked you about?

13 A It was pursuant to reviewing them and supplemental 14 discussion. A review with the portfolio managers and then
15 supplemental discussion with K&L be it from a (inaudible)
16 perspective, through, you know, perform in the best interest
17 of your clients, it was expressed that, at least with respect
18 to preference shareholders, they were supposed to maximize
19 value, and those sales, they're not really maximizing value.

20 And it was also identified that the Debtor was planning to 21 liquidate the CLOs based off of a filing within the Court
22 within a few-year period. And the investors -- or, the Funds
23 that invested and the preference shareholders, or preference
24 shares, had a longer-time view in those assets.

25 So the sales, coupled with the short duration, or the

225

1 anticipated, you know, two-year duration, didn't line up with
2 the investment objective that they were seeking to maximize
3 returns.

4 Q To your understanding and your experience, does the
5 servicer of the CLOs owe fiduciary duties to anyone?

6 THE COURT: Okay. I cannot -- someone is flipping
7 paper. Please stop flipping paper. Okay. Repeat your 8 question, Mr. Rukavina.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor.

10 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

11 Q In your experience and in your knowledge, does the 12 servicer of the CLOs owe fiduciary duties to anyone?

13 A They should, yeah, the underlying investors in the CLO,
14 whether it be the Debtor or the equity holders.

15 Q Do the Advisors owe fiduciary duties to anyone?

16 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm sorry, I apologize. I
17 really do move to strike. He's not a lawyer. There is no
18 foundation. He's not here as an expert. There's no basis for 19 this witness to be talking about who owes who fiduciary 20 duties. I don't even think that's the law, what's just been 21 stated.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

24 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

25 Q Well, let me make it very easy, then. Do you have an

1 understanding as to whether Advisors subject to the 1940 Act
2 owe a fiduciary duty?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Do you have an understanding of how a conflict of interest
5 plays into a fiduciary duty?

6 A Yes.

7 Q What is your understanding?

8 A If there's a material conflict of interest, it should be
9 disclosed.

10 Q And what did you conclude with respect to Mr. Seery and 11 the Debtor once the Debtor stated that it will liquidate
12 within two years?

13 A That's not the investment horizon that the underlying 14 preference shareholders have, especially with respect to the 15 underlying assets held in those CLOs. More or less, you're -- 16 they're now put on a clock, and those preference shareholders
17 may have a longer-term view on the underlying assets of those 18 CLOs.

19 Q Let's move on to those December 22nd and December twenty 20 -- well, let me strike that. You heard Mr. Seery testify that 21 those December 22nd trades closed, correct?

22 A I did.

23 Q And did you independently look at whether that's true?

24 A I did.

25 Q And what did you conclude?

Post - Direct

227

1 A They showed a sale in the -- on the intranet.

2 Q Okay. Let's move on to the December 22nd and December
3 23rd letters. Are you familiar with those letters from K&L
4 Gates to counsel for the Debtor?

5 A I am.

6 Q And did you participate in preparing those letters?

7 A I did.

8 Q Okay. And I think Mr. Morris asked you and I think you
9 testified you supported or agreed with the sending of those 10 letters. Is that generally accurate?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Why? Why did you support sending those letters?

13 A It wasn't in the best interest of the Funds pursuant to 14 discussions with the portfolio managers and the investment
15 objectives that they were looking to seek any of those 16 investment in the preference -- preference securities and 17 CLOs.

18 Q Was that a purpose that you were trying to achieve by 19 sending those?

20 THE COURT: Repeat the question.

21 THE WITNESS: Ah, --

22 THE COURT: Repeat the question.

23 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

24 Q Was that a purpose that you were trying to achieve by
25 sending those letters?

Post - Direct

228

1 A Yes. I believe there was something towards the end of one
2 or both letters that said, to the extent, you know,
3 transactions occur, if, for lack of better words, a courtesy
4 heads up could be given to the Funds and the Advisor.

5 Q Did you intend in any way to intimidate the Debtor by 6 authorizing or supporting the sending of those letters?

7 A No.

8 Q Did you intend in any way to violate the automatic stay by 9 sending those letters?

10 A No.

11 Q Were you trying to engage the Debtor in a dialogue at that 12 time as to what to do with these CLO management agreements?

13 A Yes. I believe that was stated at one -- at the end of 14 one or both of the letters.

15 Q And I think Mr. Morris discussed with you that the Debtor
16 sent back letters asking you to withdraw these two letters.
17 Do you recall that discussion?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And do you recall saying that we never withdrew these 20 letters, right?

21 A Correct.

22 Q Why did we not withdraw these letters?

23 A Because we don't believe that the trades that are being 24 entered into are in the best interest of the shareholders --
25 i.e., the Funds.

1 Q To your knowledge, did we ever, or did you ever,
2 communicate to the Trustees or Issuers anything in the nature
3 of instructing them to terminate the CLO management agreements
4 with the Debtor?

5 A I did not.

6 Q To your knowledge, did anyone, for the Funds or Advisors?

7 A I don't believe so.

8 Q Did you or anyone to your knowledge communicate to the 9 Issuers or Trustees that the process of removing the Debtor as 10 manager should commence?

11 A I don't believe so.

12 Q Okay. To your knowledge, have any of the Issuers or 13 Trustees undertaken any steps to remove the Debtor or 14 terminate these contracts?

15 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the extent it calls for the 16 conduct or knowledge of the Issuers.

17 THE COURT: Overruled. He can answer if he knows.

18 THE WITNESS: I don't believe so.

19 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

20 Q Had they, is that something that you would have expected
21 them to inform the Funds of?

22 A Yes. The Funds would have received some type of 23 notification if there was a new Advisor on the CLOs.

24 Q So, other than these two letters -- let me stop there.
25 Did any discussion of trying to terminate these contracts

1 basically cease with the sending of these two letters and the 2 Debtor's responsive letters?

3 A That's my understanding, yes.

4 Q Okay. And we never did file a motion for lift stay. Can 5 you explain to the judge why we didn't file a motion for 6 relief from the stay?

7 A It's my understanding that the intent was that the 8 management of the CLOs was going to be heard in conjunction 9 with the confirmation hearing.

10 Q And do you recall when that confirmation hearing was 11 originally set for?

12 A I believe it was supposed to start today. Or tomorrow.

13 Q Well, wasn't it earlier in January? Around January 11th?

14 A Uh, I -- I don't recall specifically.

15 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if we could pull up the 16 Form CLO agreement. What exhibit is that?

17 (Pause. Counsel confer.)

18 MR. RUKAVINA: No, that's not.

19 THE COURT: Can I ask what we're about to start
20 doing?

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Eight.

22 THE COURT: Can I ask what we are about to start
23 doing?

24 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I apologize. I'm trying
25 to find one of the CLO portfolio management agreements. I'm

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. RUKAVINA: It should be in your binder.

5 MR. RUKAVINA: Where is it, Julian?

6 MR. VASEK: It should be 8.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: I'm sorry?

8 MR. VASEK: 8.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, it's Exhibit 8 in your 10 binder.

11 THE COURT: Exhibit --

12 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

13 Q And Mr. Post, you have that in front of you, right?

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if you'll go to Page 14,
15 please. Section 14. Termination by the Issuer for Cause.

16 MR. VASEK: Okay.

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, the contract speaks for 18 itself, and I'm not about to read the contract to the Court.
19 The Court can read. I want to ask him certain questions about 20 this. And you'll note that the contract gives the requisite
21 holders of voting preference shares certain rights.

22 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, respectfully, the witness
23 has testified that he hadn't seen any of these contracts for 24 five or six years, until the lawyers asked him to look at it,
25 and they told him which specific provisions to look at.

1       The document does speak for itself. Counsel should just
2 make it part of his closing argument. There's no evidence
3 that there's a quote/unquote Form CLO Management Agreement.
4 And I would just respectfully suggest that this is better
5 saved for closing argument.

6           THE COURT: Yes. What are we going to do here? He 7 did not seem like he was an expert on these CLOs in his 8 earlier testimony. He hadn't read much of them until 9 recently. So where are we going with this?

10          MR. RUKAVINA: Well, Your Honor, the question, again, 11 is -- can you hear me? The question again is, Are we going to 12 be enjoined from exercising any rights in the future, so I
13 would like to take the witness through the importance from a 14 regulatory perspective and a fiduciary perspective of some of 15 these rights. If Your Honor thinks that that's for closing
16 argument, that's fine. But I will note that that Your Honor
17 allowed Mr. Morris for some forty minutes to read prior 18 testimony into the record.

19          MR. MORRIS: I'm happy to respond if Your Honor needs
20 me to.

21          THE COURT: Go ahead.

22          MR. MORRIS: There is a complete difference, Your 23 Honor. To read statements against interest, to read defense's 24 own sworn statements that they made at a prior proceeding, as 25 opposed to trying to get a witness who has admitted that he's

Post - Direct

233

1 not familiar with these documents, to try to convince the 2 Court that they said something that the witness doesn't have
3 any personal knowledge or expertise about. It's completely
4 different.

5 THE COURT: All right. I sustain the objection. You
6 can make whatever argument you want in the closing arguments
7 about whatever provisions of whichever CLO agreements justify
8 actions. I guess that's where we're going.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Then, if you could pull up Exhibit 78,
10 and if Your Honor could turn to Exhibit 78.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. RUKAVINA: Is this a confidential -- Julian, what 13 does it mean, it's confidential? 78. Is this confidential?

14 MR. VASEK: It says confidential on the --

15 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, apparently this is a 16 confidential document, so how does the Court want to proceed
17 on this WebEx?

18 THE COURT: All right. We're stopping. We're
19 stopping. We have protocols in place in this case, and people
20 usually file motions to present things under seal or 21 redactions. My patience is shot, so we're going to stop.
22 Let's talk about where we go from here.

23 MR. MORRIS: If I may, Your Honor?

24 THE COURT: Yes.

25 MR. MORRIS: John Morris from Pachulski Stang --

234

1 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

2 MR. MORRIS: -- for the Debtor.

3 MR. RUKAVINA: We filed this under seal, right?

4 MR. MORRIS: We were --

5 MR. RUKAVINA: Oh, I thought we had.

6 MR. MORRIS: -- hoping that we would get this 7 finished today, Your Honor, and the Debtor was really hoping 8 to get a ruling before confirmation. But given all that's in 9 front of us, including the contempt hearing next Friday, just 10 a couple of days after the confirmation hearing, I think the 11 Debtor at this point is prepared to agree, if it's okay with 12 the Defendants' counsel, to push this to the following week,
13 since the -- you know, with the understanding that everybody
14 stipulate on the record that the TRO stays in place. And if 15 we could have this particular motion heard, I guess, somewhere
16 -- it's the week of February 8th, the Debtor would consent to 17 that.

18 THE COURT: All right. Do we already have a --

19 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, can the Court --

20 THE COURT: -- setting that week? Because I know we 21 have confirmation, what, are we set for the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th?
22 Three days next week.

23 MR. MORRIS: I believe -- yeah. I think it's just 24 two, Your Honor. I think --

25 THE COURT: Okay.

235

1 MR. MORRIS: -- confirmation is the 2nd and the 3rd,
2 and then I think the 5th is the contempt hearing. I'm not
3 aware, but I don't -- I don't profess to know the entirety of 4 the calendar. I'm not aware of anything that's on for the 5 following week.

6 THE COURT: Does it make sense to continue this to 7 the 5th? Because the issues are so overlapping here. I feel 8 like it's been a contempt hearing half of today, actually.

9 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

10 THE COURT: So, shall we just set it for -- is it
11 Friday, the 5th?

12 MR. MORRIS: It is.

13 THE COURT: At 9:30?

14 MR. MORRIS: And I think that's a great idea, yeah.
15 Yeah.

16 THE COURT: What do you want to say about that, Mr.
17 Rukavina?

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor. We're fine
19 with that.

20 Let me just point out, so that if the Court is impatient
21 or frustrated, we did move Exhibit 78 to be filed under seal.
22 The Court did enter an order allowing it to be filed under 23 seal. So that the Court doesn't think that somehow we were 24 negligent in that.

25 But February the 5th works for us.

236

1 THE COURT: Okay. All right. So I have an
2 unredacted clean copy up here, which, if and when I admit it,
3 we will put it under seal in our exhibit room, or I guess our 4 electronic exhibit room.

5 So, we'll come back on the 5th at 9:30. But I am not -- I
6 am not done. Yes, I am frustrated. Yes, I'm impatient. I
7 have asked myself "Why are we here?" so many times today. Why
8 are we here? I mean, I've had this conversation before. I
9 mean, we had a, as you know, a very lengthy hearing on the 10 motion for a TRO or preliminary injunction against Mr. Dondero
11 personally. And I think it was Mr. Morris who said, it's a
12 little bit like Groundhog Day. You know, that was actually a
13 more flattering way of describing it than I might have. I
14 might have said this is reminding me of Albert Einstein's
15 definition of insanity. You all know what I'm talking about?
16 When you're doing the same thing over and over again and 17 expecting a different result.

18 And, you know, no offense, Mr. Dondero, if you're still 19 there listening, but that's what it feels like to me. I mean,
20 it is -- it's the same thing over and over again. And we've 21 spent very, very, very little time talking about the January 22 9th, 2020 corporate governance settlement agreement. Of 23 course, it was mentioned extensively in the pleadings, at 24 least by the Debtor. But, you know, I've heard all of this 25 evidence today, and I'm going to hear more evidence,

237

1   apparently, on the 5th. But Paragraph -- was it 9? --
2   Paragraph 9 of the January 9th, 2020 settlement agreement.
3   The order directed Mr. Dondero not to "cause any related
4   entity to terminate any agreements with the Debtor."

5       And, you know, I thought to myself as I was reading,
6   preparing for this hearing, that, you know, I seem to remember
7   those words meant so, so much to me. And then this reply
8   brief was filed by the Debtor at 6:00 or 7:00 o'clock last
9   night, and it gave an excerpt of the transcript, the hearing
10   where I approved this corporate governance settlement
11   agreement, and I said, that language is so important to me
12   because of my history in the Acis case, I want it in the 13   order. I don't even -- I don't want it merely in the term
14   sheet, and then, of course, the order cross-references,
15   approves the term sheet. I want that in the order. Because,
16   you know, I knew, even with this highly-qualified independent
17   board of directors, and even with this very sophisticated
18   Creditors' Committee with very sophisticated professionals
19   monitoring everything that happened, and having not just the 20   monitoring rights but the standing to pursue things, I knew,
21   even with this great system that had been negotiated in the 22   January term sheet, there was the possibility of things
23   happening through Dondero-controlled entities indirectly. And 24   so that's why we had that Paragraph 9. So, --

25       (Interruption.)

238

1 THE COURT: I don't know what that was I just heard,
2 but someone needs to put me on mute.

3 So, I mean, we've heard a lot. We've heard a lot, but --

4 MR. DONDERO: Hello? Your Honor? Your Honor?

5 THE COURT: Okay. I --

6 MR. DONDERO: Hi. Jim Dondero.

7 THE COURT: Oh, okay. I'm still talking. I'm still 8 talking. But I --

9 MR. DONDERO: Okay.

10 THE COURT: But I said --

11 MR. DONDERO: I'm sorry.

12 THE COURT: I said at the hearing on the preliminary 13 injunction as to Mr. Dondero personally, do you remember what 14 I said, I said life changed when you put your company in 15 Chapter 11. And, you know, even if you had stayed on as 16 president of the Debtor, life changed. Okay? Because you're 17 a debtor-in-possession. You have to say, "Mother, may I?" to 18 the Court. Creditors get to object to things. So things
19 changed.

20 But things really, really, really changed, you know, they 21 changed in October 2019, and then they changed dramatically in 22 January 2020, when independent board members were put in place
23 and you were taken out of management.

24 So, the reason I'm coming back to that concept is this:
25 I've heard a lot about the preferred shareholders didn't like

239

1 the trades Mr. Seery was implementing, the sale of AVYA, the 2 sale of SKY. They didn't like it. Well, I mean, I hate to 3 say something flippant like tough luck, but really: Tough
4 luck. Okay? We all know that with a company like this, with 5 a company like Acis, it's complicated, right? Because you've 6 got a fiduciary duty to your creditors to maximize value of 7 the estate so creditors get paid in Chapter 11, right? But
8 meanwhile, you know, you've got to have fiduciary duties, I
9 don't know if it's directly to preferred shareholders or just 10 to the CLOs. But whatever it is, you know, there may be 11 differing views that individual preferred shareholders have.
12 But Mr. Seery is in charge. The Debtor is in charge. You
13 don't like it, I'm sorry, but he's in charge.

14 So, you know, I thought, am I going to come in here today
15 and see all kinds of specific contractual references, where, I
16 don't know, somehow you have an argument that you can control
17 buys and sells? Of course, in this case, it would just be 18 sells at this point. You know, no. I knew I wasn't going to 19 see that. And I haven't.

20 So I don't know what I'm going to hear more on the 5th
21 that is going to tilt me a different way, but right now, if I
22 had to rule right now, this would be a total no-brainer to 23 issue this preliminary injunction. Okay? I feel like it's 24 been teed up almost like find Dondero in contempt, find these 25 entities in contempt. What I'm here on today is whether I

240

1 should issue a preliminary injunction, and the December
2 letters, the emails, the communications, they lead me to 3 believe that this preliminary injunction is needed because 4 someone doesn't understand that Mr. Seery is in charge and the 5 preferred shareholders, the Funds, the Advisors, they don't 6 have the ability to interfere with what he's doing in running
7 the company.

8 And the threats of we're going to, you know, direct -- we 9 may direct the CLO Issuer to terminate the Debtor: I mean,
10 it's just -- there's no sound business justification for that.
11 Okay? I don't know what we're doing, where we're going.

12 Mr. Dondero, I said to you in December, you know, I really
13 wanted to encourage good-faith negotiations on your possible
14 pot plan because I thought you wanted to save your baby. But 15 the more I hear, the more I feel you're just trying to burn
16 the house down. Okay? Maybe it's an either/or proposition
17 with you: I'll either get my company back or I'll burn the 18 house down. That's what it feels like. And I have no choice 19 but to enter preliminary injunctions with this kind of 20 behavior.

21 So, I'm very frustrated. I'm very frustrated. I don't 22 know if anyone wants to say anything or we just end it on this 23 frustrating note.

24 Mr. Rukavina, did you want to let your client speak, or 25 no?

241

1 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor?

2 THE COURT: Not your client.

3 MR. RUKAVINA: No, but --

4 THE COURT: The client representative.

5 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I take issue with what the 6 Court has said, but we did file a motion yesterday to file a
7 plan under seal. It is -- Mr. Dondero, can you mute your 8 phone? The Court should have seen that by now. It is a pot
9 plan with much more cash consideration. We have discussed it
10 with the Debtor and the Committee. We are in earnest
11 negotiations. I have no reason to believe or disbelieve that 12 we're close to a settlement.

13 But recall what I said at the beginning. We asked the 14 Debtor to continue this hearing. We said, You have a TRO that 15 ends February the 15th. Why are you doing this? Well, the 16 Debtor did it to smear Mr. Dondero on a very carefully crafted
17 record, without telling you the other half of it. And when I
18 tried to have Mr. Post explain it, opposing counsel won't let 19 me even tell you our views. So there is a competing plan. We 20 want to try --

21 THE COURT: You tried to get him to testify about
22 comments to CFRs when he has shown no expertise whatsoever --

23 MR. RUKAVINA: That's fine.

24 THE COURT: -- to permit that.

25 MR. RUKAVINA: And I understand, Your Honor. I don't 242

1 want -- Your Honor has made her evidentiary rulings. I'm not
2 here to second-guess them.

3 I'm telling you that Mr. Dondero -- and more importantly,
4 the other companies, i.e., NexPoint -- we heard you loud and
5 clear. We did not just send forward some cocktail-napkin term
6 sheet. I spent the weekend and Friday preparing a
7 comprehensive plan and disclosure statement. I hope that the 8 Court will allow it to be filed under seal. Exclusivity has 9 expired. I am asking to file it under seal only.

10 THE COURT: Tell me what utility that has. What 11 utility does that have if you don't have one plan supporter?
12 I mean, where are we going with this? I have invited, I have 13 encouraged, I have directed good-faith negotiations with the 14 Committee. If you don't have the Committee on board, what 15 utility is there in allowing you to file a plan under seal?

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, if it's filed under seal, Your 17 Honor, then, really, no one is going to be prejudiced or hurt.
18 But we have not been told --

19 THE COURT: Then why --

20 MR. RUKAVINA: -- from the Committee --

21 THE COURT: Then why are we doing it? Help me to 22 understand the strategy. Maybe I'm just naïve.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, there is no strategy and 24 the Court is not naïve. Pursuant to an agreement of the 25 Committee and the Debtor, I sent that draft plan to them over

243

1 the weekend, and they agree it's not solicitation. It has not
2 gone to the creditors. No one has seen it.

3 The reason why we sent it to the Committee and the Debtor
4 was to foster ongoing negotiations. We had negotiations last
5 night. The Committee and the Debtor had negotiations last 6 night. We've been promised a response in the next couple of 7 days, and we have a follow-up meeting scheduled for Thursday.

8 The reason why I wanted the plan filed under seal is so
9 that there is a record of what is being discussed so the U.S.
10 Trustee can see it, if she wants to, and so that other key
11 constituents, if they want to or have a reason to, can see it.

12 But I agree with you: That plan ain't going nowhere if we 13 don't have some material creditor support. We won't know that 14 for a couple more days.

15 So my only point in saying this to Your Honor is that we 16 are working earnestly, we are increasing our consideration, we 17 have heard you loud and clear, and all the parties are 18 negotiating.

19 Again, we did not want this hearing to happen today
20 because it's a step backwards from negotiations, not a step
21 forward. Thank you.

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, may I be heard?

23 THE COURT: Go ahead, Mr. Pomerantz. Go ahead.

24 MR. POMERANTZ: Mr. Rukavina sent us over the plan,
25 and we had no problem with it being sent to the Committee. He

244

1 then sent us over the motion. Now, aside from the fact that
2 the motion contains some statements which the Debtor strongly
3 disagrees with, with respect to the ability of administrative 4 claims or other claims to be assumed, but putting that aside,
5 we were concerned that the filing of a plan on the docket,
6 unsealed, would be a distraction.

7 Having said that, we also saw utility in the plan being 8 put in the hands of the largest creditors so that they can 9 evaluate what was being proposed.

10 We told Mr. Rukavina we have no problem if the plan was 11 filed under seal, stayed under seal until after confirmation,
12 and then, in exchange, we would agree to something that we 13 don't think we had to agree: That he could send the plan to 14 UBS, to Acis, to Redeemer, to Meta-e, to HarbourVest, and 15 Daugherty. Essentially, all the players in the case. Mr.
16 Rukavina said he would consider that, and then just filed his 17 motion.

18 We don't have any problem with him doing that still,
19 sending it to the six creditors so they can look at it. We 20 don't think it should be unsealed on the docket.

21 And the discussion of status of negotiations, Your Honor,
22 as we've told you many times before, we would love there to be
23 a plan. We would love there to be support of a plan. Mr.
24 Dondero asked to approach the board and speak to the board
25 yesterday. We heard him out. The plan essentially is the 245

1 same document and the same term sheet, I think, that has been
2 floating around for several weeks.

3 Having said that, we said, We are not going to stand in 4 the way of Mr. Dondero and the Creditors' Committee. And if 5 the Creditors' Committee and Mr. Dondero have a meeting of the 6 minds, if there's any desire of them to have more time, we 7 would be supportive of it. I'll let Mr. Clemente respond as 8 to whether there's any negotiation -- (echoing.) But when Mr.
9 Rukavina said that last night there were negotiations between 10 the Debtor and Mr. Dondero, that's just not accurate. We, we 11 look at ourselves as the honest broker. But at the end of the 12 day, as Your Honor has remarked many times throughout this 13 case and just remarked a few moments ago, unless the 14 Creditors' Committee supports this plan, it is DOA. And we 15 have communicated that several times to Mr. Dondero and his 16 team.

17 So, I just wanted to speak to correct the record. We're,
18 again, supportive of a plan if there can be one. But at this
19 point, we haven't seen anything, the parties coming any closer
20 or any more negotiations, and we just have to get confirmed
21 sooner rather than later (echoing), prepared to go forward.

22 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, it's Matt Clemente at 23 Sidley. I'm happy to make some comments to Your Honor, --

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. CLEMENTE: -- if you -- if you wish.

246

1 THE COURT: Please do.

2 MR. CLEMENTE: I think it's fair to say that the
3 Committee believes the plan needs to go forward next week,
4 Your Honor. We have, of course, taken your direction very 5 seriously, and we very seriously consider all of the 6 communications we get from Mr. Dondero. There exists still a
7 material value gap in what is being offered under Mr.
8 Dondero's plan, as well as a quality of the value.

9 So, Your Honor, while we continue to consider the plan and 10 what we receive from Mr. Dondero, I do not want to leave Your 11 Honor with the impression that the Committee feels like we are 12 close to an agreement, and we anticipate going forward with 13 the plan next week.

14 That being said, we of course will respond to Mr. Dondero
15 as we review the plan, but as I sit here today, I don't 16 believe that we are close. But, again, the Committee will 17 continue to review it, and we should anticipate going forward
18 with confirmation next week.

19 THE COURT: All right. So, you don't have any 20 problem with the plan being filed under seal?

21 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, we -- the Committee does 22 have the plan, and I guess I'm not sure I'd see the point of 23 having it filed it under seal. I think it serves to confuse
24 issues. But, you know, hearing what Your Honor said earlier, 25 I don't think we need to continue to bring different fights in 247

1 front of Your Honor, so I'm not sure that I see necessarily 2 the harm in a plan being filed under seal, again, with the 3 idea that, you know, why bring -- continue to bring fights to 4 Your Honor if we don't need to?

5 THE COURT: All right.

6 MR. CLEMENTE: But what I do think is clear, Your 7 Honor, that I do want to express to you is that the 8 representations in that motion the Committee do not believe
9 are accurate. We do not believe that there's been a
10 significant value increase. We do not believe that we are 11 close. That would be the point that I would make in 12 connection with a response to that motion. So, but in terms
13 of filing it under seal, I'm not sure the Committee has a 14 strong feeling that that should not happen.

15 THE COURT: Yes.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: And Your Honor, very quickly, --

17 THE COURT: The words --

18 MR. RUKAVINA: -- I never represented that we're 19 close.

20 THE COURT: The words I remember in the motion were 21 significant value increase, something to that effect. But 22 also more recovery than the plan that's on file.

23 (Echoing.)

24 THE COURT: So I was kind of darn curious to see it 25 just for that.

248

1 MR. RUKAVINA: And Your Honor, obviously, because
2 there's many people on this call, I don't want to run afoul of 3 any kind of procedures. I'd be happy to walk Your Honor
4 through, but I can't, not with 90 people on the call.

5 THE COURT: Right.

6 MR. RUKAVINA: I did not represent that we're close
7 to a settlement in that motion, and I did not send the plan to 8 those people that Mr. Pomerantz mentioned.

9 So, right now, the Committee, the Debtor, and the 10 employees, because they requested it after Mr. Pomerantz
11 approved it, have what I would like to file under seal. I'm 12 not suggesting here today that it go any farther than being 13 filed under seal, but at least it be there for some record.

14 THE COURT: Well, didn't you -- did I dream this? -- 15 didn't you say that there would be something like 48 hours for 16 people to object or then it would be filed not under seal?
17 Did I dream that?

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, that was my proposal, and 19 Your Honor can certainly reject that. Mr. Pomerantz asked 20 that the plan should never be unsealed pending confirmation of 21 the Debtor's plan. I have a different proposal. Your Honor
22 will rule and we'll comply with Your Honor's ruling.

23 MR. DONDERO: Jim Dondero here. Can I have two -- 24 two quick minutes and just say two quick things?

25 THE COURT: Well, only if your counsel permits it. I

249

1 don't want to get in --

2 MR. RUKAVINA: I just don't -- yeah. Mr. Dondero, if 3 you would please just not describe the substance, the economic 4 substance of our proposed plan, not with so many people on the 5 line.

6 MR. DONDERO: Sure. I just want to make two quick
7 points. I couldn't apologize more for taking the Court's time
8 today. It wasn't our 'druthers. You heard, I think, at least
9 five or six hours from the Debtor. You never once heard them
10 say that their activities didn't violate the Advisers Act.
11 And they never once said that violating the Advisers Act
12 wasn't a big deal. You know, they never said that.

13 What they tried to say, oh, we have these other contracts.
14 Let's try and turn this into an injunction against Dondero
15 interfering. But they never -- they never denied that Dondero
16 and the NexPoint team was trying to do what was in the best
17 interest of investors and that they had violated the Advisers
18 Act.

19 I think, in normal course, each side would have had an 20 expert and you could have opined on whether it was a violation
21 of the Advisers Act, but they know they did something wrong so
22 they're trying to make it an injunction against me. Okay.
23 That's all I have to say about that point.

24 As far as the alternative plan, Your Honor, we heard you
25 loud and clear. And the economics that we put forward, I

250

1 can't talk them about specifically, but they're at least 20
2 percent better than what the Debtor has put forward as far as
3 a plan. And what we put forward is elegant, it's simpler, it
4 treats the employees fairly, it gives the business continuity,
5 it gives investors continuity, and it's not just a harsh,
6 punitive liquidation that's going to end up in a myriad of
7 litigation.

8 We're paying a premium, it's a capitulation price, to try
9 and get to some kind of settlement. And I encourage you to 10 look at it. It's elegant. It's straightforward. It's 11 simple. And now that you've encouraged and gotten us up to a
12 number that's well in excess of the Debtor, maybe a little 13 pressure on other people to treat employees fairly, maybe not 14 liquidate a business that's important in Dallas, that has been 15 a big business for a number of years, doing enormous good
16 things for a lot of people.

17 You know, we went into bankruptcy with $450 million of 18 assets and almost no debt. And we've been driven into the 19 ground by the process. And then the plan is to just harshly
20 liquidate going forward. I -- I -- it's crazy. I don't know 21 what else to do to stop the train other than what we've 22 offered.

23 THE COURT: All right. Well, I hear what you're 24 saying, and I do, just because -- I don't know if you left the 25 room or not, but we did have discussion of Section 206 of the

251

1 Investment Advisers Act today. It was put on the screen. Mr.
2 Post was asked what was unlawful as far as what had happened
3 here, what was going on here, what was fraudulent, deceptive,
4 or manipulative, in parsing through the words of the statute.
5 And he said Mr. Seery engaged in deceptive acts because he 6 wasn't trying to maximize value. Okay? I'm not an expert on 7 the Investment Advisers Act, but I know that that was not a
8 deceptive act.

9 And so I'll allow the plan to be filed under seal, but
10 it's not going to be unsealed absent an order of the Court.
11 Okay? So we'll just leave it at that for now. And while I
12 still encourage good-faith negotiations here, I've said it
13 umpteen times, where you're tired of the cliché, probably:
14 The train is leaving the station. And if you want the Court
15 to have patience in the process and if you want the parties to 16 cooperate in good faith, it might help if we didn't have 17 things like Dugaboy and Get Good Trust filing a motion for an 18 examiner 15 months into the case.

19 I mean, it feels to me, Mr. Dondero, whether I'm right or 20 wrong, that it's like you've got a twofold approach here: I
21 either get the company back or I burn the house down. And I'm 22 telling you right now, if we don't have agreements, --

23 MR. DONDERO: That's not true.

24 THE COURT: -- if we don't have agreements and we 25 come back on the 5th for a continuation of this hearing and a

252

1 motion to hold you in contempt, you know, I'm leaning right
2 now, based on what I've heard so far, and I know I haven't
3 heard everything, but I'm leaning right now towards finding
4 contempt and shifting a whole bundle of attorneys' fees.
5 That, to me, seems like the likely place we're heading.

6 I mean, I commented at the December hearing on the 7 preliminary injunction against you personally that it had been
8 like a $250,000 hearing, I figured, okay, just guesstimating
9 everybody's billable rate times the hours we spent. Well,
10 here we were again, and I know we've got all this time outside
11 the courtroom preparing, taking depositions. I mean, what 12 else is a judge to think except, by God, let's drive up
13 administrative expenses as much as we can; if we can't win,
14 we're going to go down fighting? That's what this looks like.
15 Okay? So if it's not really what's going on, then you've got 16 to work hard to change my perceptions at this point.

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I hear everything what 18 you're saying, and I'm going to discuss it very bluntly with 19 my clients. But we're being asked not to exercise contract
20 rights in the future. This is not a contempt hearing. And 21 Your Honor, we did ask and offered the estate a million
22 dollars, found money, plus to waive almost all our plan
23 objections, if they would just put this case on pause for 30
24 days.

25 So we are trying. We are trying creative solutions here.

253

1 We know that the train is leaving. We've put our money where
2 our mouth is. We will continue trying. But Your Honor, this
3 is not a contempt proceeding, and my clients are not Mr.
4 Dondero. You've heard they're independent boards.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: I can't leave that last comment
6 without a response. Yes, there was an offer of a million
7 dollars, by an entity that owes the estate multiples of that.
8 So they are offering to pay us something that they already owe 9 us. So Mr. Rukavina continues try to do this. We will not 10 stand for it.

11 MR. RUKAVINA: That is not a fair statement, sir. I
12 misrepresented nothing. We were offering you a million
13 dollars, with no conditions, earned upon receipt, with no
14 credit, no deduction for any of our liability. So you're free
15 to say no, sir, but you're not going to tell the judge that I
16 misrepresented something.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Should tell the Court --

19 THE COURT: You know what?

20 MR. POMERANTZ: -- that that entity owed the Debtor.

21 THE COURT: You know what? You know what? I am more
22 focused on, Mr. Rukavina, your comment that this Court can't 23 enjoin your clients from exercising contractual rights when,
24 again, in January of 2020, the representation was made and it
25 was ordered, "Mr. Dondero shall not cause any related entity

254

1 to terminate any agreements with the Debtor." Okay? That was
2 -- go back and look at the transcript. That was so meaningful
3 to me.

4 We were facing a possible trustee. And that's what I did
5 in the Acis case. Okay? I had a Chapter 11 trustee. And it
6 was not a perfect fit, to be sure. But it is where we were 7 heading in this case, had the lawyers and parties not
8 negotiated what they did. That was a very important
9 provision, convincing me that, you know what, I think the 10 structure they've got will be better than a trustee. And it
11 has, for the most part. But the fees have gone out the roof,
12 and I lay that at the feet of Mr. Dondero, for the most part.
13 Okay? We have a bomb thrown every five minutes by either him
14 personally or the Dugaboy or the Get Good Trust or the Funds
15 or the Advisors or I don't know who else. Okay?

16 So the train is leaving the station, unless you all come
17 to me and say, okay, we've maybe got a -- Mr. Pomerantz's word
18 -- grand solution here. Okay? If you get there in the next
19 few days, wonderful. Okay? But I don't know what else to say
20 except I'm tired of the carpet-bombing, and if I had to rule
21 this minute, there would be a huge amount of fee-shifting for 22 what we went through today, for what we went through in 23 December, for the restriction motion that, after I called it
24 frivolous, the lawyers were sending letters pretty much
25 regurgitating the same arguments. All right. So, not a happy

255

1 camper.

2 But upload your order on the motion to seal the plan.
3 And, again, it's not going to be unsealed absent a further
4 order of the Court. And if you all come to me next week and 5 say, hey, we've got something in the works here, okay, I'll 6 consider unsealing it and letting you go down a different
7 path. But I'm not naïve. I feel like this is just more
8 burning the house down, maybe. I don't know. I hope I'm 9 wrong. I hope I'm wrong. But all right. So I guess we'll 10 see you next week.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

12 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: All right. We're adjourned.

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 THE CLERK: All rise.

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - JANUARY 8, 2021 - 9:41 A.M.

2                   THE COURT: All right. We are here for Highland
3 Capital Management, L.P. versus James Dondero, a preliminary
4 injunction hearing. This is Adversary 20-3190.

5                   All right. Let's start out by getting appearances from 6 counsel. First, for the Plaintiff/Debtor, who do we have 7 appearing?

8                   MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, John Morris; Pachulski Stang
9 Ziehl & Jones. I'm here with my partner, Jeff Pomerantz, and 10 others.

11                  THE COURT: All right. Good morning. All right.
12 For Mr. Dondero, who do we have appearing?

13                  MR. LYNN: Michael Lynn, together with John Bonds, 14 for Mr. Dondero.

15                  THE COURT: Good morning.

16                  All right. I know we have a lot of parties in interest
17 represented on the video or phone today. I'm not going to go
18 through a roll call, other than I'll see if we have the 19 Committee, the Unsecured Creditors' Committee counsel on the 20 line. Do we have anyone appearing for them?

21                  MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, good morning, Your Honor.
22 Matthew Clemente from Sidley Austin on behalf of the
23 Committee.

24                  THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. All right.

25                  MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Well, as I said, I'm not going to do a
2 roll call. I don't think we had any specific parties in 3 interest, you know, file a pleading, or any other parties
4 other than the Debtor and Mr. Dondero in this adversary. So
5 I'll just let the others kind of listen in without appearing.

6 All right. Mr. Morris, are you going to start us off this 7 morning with, I don't know, an opening statement or any
8 housekeeping matters?

9 MR. MORRIS: I have both an opening statement and 10 housekeeping matters. I just wanted to see if Mr. Pomerantz
11 has anything he wants to convey to the Court before I begin.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: (garbled)

13 THE COURT: Mr. Pomerantz, if you could take your 14 device off mute, please.

15 THE CLERK: He's off mute. I don't know what --

16 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we're showing you're not on 17 mute, but we can't hear you. What now?

18 THE CLERK: He's not on mute now. He's --

19 THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead, Mr. Pomerantz.

20 (Pause.)

21 THE CLERK: He's not coming through.

22 THE COURT: We're -- you're not coming through, and 23 we're not sure what the problem is. We're not showing you on 24 mute.

25 (Pause.)

1 THE COURT: All right. Should we have him call back
2 in on his phone? All right. If you could, if you have a
3 phone, maybe you can try calling in on your phone and speak
4 through your phone, not your computer.

5 MR. MORRIS: You know what, Your Honor? I'm going to 6 proceed, and Mr. Pomerantz will address the Court at the 7 conclusion of the hearing on the motion.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. We usually hear him
9 loud and clear, so I don't know what's going on this morning.
10 Go ahead, Mr. Morris.

11 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE PLAINTIFF

12 MR. MORRIS: Yes. Thank you very much, Your Honor.
13 John Morris; Pachulski Stang; for the Debtor.

14 We are here this morning, Your Honor, on the Debtor's
15 motion for preliminary injunction against Mr. Dondero. We 16 filed last night also an emergency motion for an order to show
17 cause as to why this Court should not hold Mr. Dondero in 18 contempt of court --

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 MR. MORRIS: -- for violating a previously-issued
21 TRO.

22 THE COURT: Yes. Let me just interject, in case
23 there's any confusion by anyone. I am not going to hear the 24 motion for show cause order this morning. While I understand 25 you think there might be some efficiency and overlap in

1 evidence, it's not enough notice. So we'll talk about
2 scheduling that at the end of the presentations this morning.
3 All right?

4 MR. MORRIS: Thank you for addressing that, Your
5 Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, then let's just proceed
8 right to the preliminary injunction motion. There is ample
9 evidence to support the Debtor's motion for a preliminary 10 injunction. There would have been substantial evidence to 11 support it based on the conduct that occurred prior to the 12 issuance of the TRO, but the conduct that did occur following
13 the TRO only emphasizes the urgent need for an injunction in 14 this case.

15 I want to begin by just telling Your Honor what evidence
16 we intend to introduce here today. We filed at Docket 46 in 17 the adversary proceeding our witness and exhibit list. The 18 exhibit list contains Exhibits A through Y. And at the 19 appropriate time, I will move for the admission into evidence
20 of those exhibits.

21 The exhibit list and the witness list also identifies
22 three witnesses for today. Mr. Dondero. Mr. Dondero is here
23 today. Notwithstanding Your Honor's comments on December 10th
24 and on December 16th, when I deposed him on Tuesday he was 25 unsure whether he was going to come here today to testify.

1 And he will inform Your Honor of that on cross-examination.
2 And so the Debtor was forced to prepare and serve a subpoena
3 to make sure that he was here today. But Mr. Dondero is here
4 today.

5 Following the conclusion of Mr. Dondero's deposition on 6 Tuesday, and based in part on the evidence adduced during that
7 deposition, the Debtor terminated for cause Scott Ellington
8 and Isaac Leventon. We had asked counsel for those former 9 employees to accept service of a trial subpoena so that they 10 would appear today. We were told that they would do so if we 11 gave them a copy of the transcript of Mr. Dondero's
12 deposition.

13 We thought that was inappropriate and we declined to do
14 so, and they declined to accept service of the subpoenas. We 15 have spent two days with a professional process server
16 attempting to effectuate service of the trial subpoenas for 17 Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon, but we were unsuccessful in 18 doing that. So we'll only have one witness today, unless we 19 have cause to call anybody on rebuttal, and that witness will 20 be Mr. Dondero.

21 I want to talk for a few moments as to what Mr. Dondero
22 will testify to and what the evidence will show. Mr. Dondero
23 will testify that he never read the TRO, Your Honor. He will 24 testify that he didn't participate in the motion on the 25 hearing for the TRO, that he never read Mr. Seery's

1 declaration in support of the Debtor's motion for the TRO,
2 that he never bothered to read the transcript of the 3 proceedings on December 10th so that he could understand the 4 evidence that was being used against him. He had no knowledge
5 of the terms of the TRO when he was deposed on Tuesday.

6 And that's the backdrop of what we're doing here today,
7 because he didn't know what he was enjoined from doing, other
8 than speaking to employees. He actually did testify and he 9 will testify that he knew he wasn't supposed to speak with the 10 Debtor's employees, but he spoke with the Debtor's employees
11 in all kinds of ways, as the evidence will show.

12 The evidence will also show that Mr. Dondero violated the 13 TRO by throwing away the cell phone that the company bought
14 and paid for after the TRO was entered into. He's going to be 15 unable to tell you who threw it away. He's going to be unable 16 to tell you who gave the order to throw it away. He's going 17 to be unable to tell you when after the TRO was entered the 18 phone was thrown away.

19 But we do have as one fact and as I believe one violation
20 of the TRO --

21 MR. POMERANTZ: So, I'm on a WebEx.

22 MR. MORRIS: Jeff, --

23 THE COURT: Mr. Pomerantz, we heard you. We heard
24 you say something. So, apparently, you got your audio
25 working.

1 All right. Mr. Morris, continue.

2 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. And what Mr. Dondero may tell
3 you, Your Honor, is that it's really Mr. Seery's fault that 4 the phone got thrown away, because Mr. Seery announced that 5 all of the employees were going to be terminated at the end of 6 January, and because Mr. Seery did that, he and I believe Mr.
7 Ellington thought it was appropriate to just throw their 8 phones away, without getting the Debtor's consent, without 9 informing the Debtor, and switching the phone numbers that 10 were in the Debtor's account to their own personal names. So
11 that's Item No. 1.

12 Item No. 2 -- and this is in no particular order, Your 13 Honor. I don't want you to think that I'm bringing these 14 things up in terms of priority. But they're just the order in 15 which they came up in the deposition, and so I'm just 16 following it as well.

17 Item No. 2 is trespass. On December 22nd, you will hear
18 evidence that Mr. Dondero personally intervened to yet again
19 stop trades that Mr. Seery was trying to effectuate in his 20 capacity as portfolio managers of the CLOs. He did that just 21 six days after Your Honor dismissed as frivolous a motion
22 brought by the very Advisors and Funds that he owns and 23 controls.

24 Therefore, the very next day, the Debtor sent him a 25 letter, sent through counsel a letter, evicting him from the 10

1 premises, demanding the return of the phone, and telling him
2 that he had to be out by December 30th.

3 I was stunned, Your Honor, stunned, when I took his
4 deposition on Tuesday and he was sitting in Highland's
5 offices. He hadn't asked for permission to be there. He
6 hadn't obtained consent to be there. But he just doesn't care
7 what the Debtor has to say here. He just doesn't.

8 I don't know when he got there or when he left. I don't 9 know if he spoke to anybody while he was there. But he just 10 took it upon himself to show up in the Debtor's office, 11 notwithstanding the very explicit eviction notice that he got 12 on December 23rd.

13 Mr. Dondero, as I mentioned, clearly violated the TRO by 14 knowingly and intentionally and purposely interfering with the 15 Debtor's trading as the portfolio manager of the CLOs. This 16 has just gone on too long. There have been multiple hearings
17 on this matter, but he doesn't care. So he gave the order to 18 stop trades that Mr. Seery had effectuated. That's a clear
19 violation of the TRO, and it certainly supports the imposition
20 of a preliminary injunction.

21 Mr. Seery -- Mr. Dondero is going to testify that multiple 22 letters -- that I'm going to refer to them, Your Honor, as the 23 K&L Gates Parties, and those are the two Advisors and the 24 three investment funds and CLO Holdco that are all owned and/25 or controlled by Mr. Dondero -- after that hearing on the 11

1 16th, K&L Gates, the K&L Gates Parties sent not one, not two,
2 but three separate letters. They said they may take steps to
3 terminate the CLO management agreements. After we evicted Mr.
4 Dondero, sent a letter suggesting that we would be held liable
5 for damages because we were interfering with their business.

6 And Mr. Dondero is going to tell you, Your Honor, that he 7 encouraged the sending of those letters, that he approved of 8 those letters, that he thought those letters were the right
9 things to send to the Debtor, even after -- even with the 10 knowledge of what happened on December 16th.

11 He's going to tell you he knew about that hearing and he 12 still, he still approves of those letters, and never bothered
13 to exercise his control to have those letters withdrawn upon 14 the Debtor's request. We asked them to withdraw it, and when 15 they wouldn't do it, Your Honor, that's what prompted the 16 filing of yet another adversary proceeding. And we're going
17 to have another TRO hearing next Wednesday because they won't 18 stop.

19 Next, a preliminary injunction should issue because Mr.
20 Dondero violated the TRO by communicating with the Debtor's
21 employees to coordinate their legal strategy against the 22 Debtor. The evidence will show, in documents and in 23 testimony, that on December 12th, while he was prohibited from 24 speaking to any employee except in the context of shared
25 services, you're going to see the documents and you're going

1 to hear the evidence that on December 12th Scott Ellington was
2 actively involved in identifying a witness to support Mr.
3 Dondero's interests at the December 16th hearing.

4 You will receive evidence that on December 15th Mr.
5 Ellington and Mr. Leventon collaborated with Mr. Dondero's
6 lawyers to prepare a common interest agreement.

7 You will hear evidence that on the next day, December
8 16th, the day of that hearing, that Mr. Dondero solicited Mr.
9 Ellington's help to coordinate all of the lawyers representing
10 Mr. Dondero's interests, telling Mr. Ellington that he needed
11 to show leadership, and Mr. Ellington readily agreed to do 12 just that.

13 You will hear evidence that on December 23rd Mr. Ellington
14 and Grant Scott communicated in connection with calls that 15 were being scheduled with Mr. Dondero and with K&L Gates, the 16 very K&L Gates Clients who filed the frivolous motion that was 17 heard on December 16th and that persisted in sending multiple 18 letters threatening the Debtor thereafter.

19 You will hear evidence that late in December Mr. Dondero
20 sought contact information for Mr. Ellington and Mr.
21 Leventon's lawyer, and he will tell you that he did it for the 22 explicit purpose of advancing their mutual shared interest
23 agreement, while they were employed by the Debtor. While they 24 were employed by the Debtor.

25 Finally, you will hear evidence, and it will not be

13

1     disputed, you will see the evidence, it's on the documents,
2     that Mr. Dondero personally intervened to stop the Debtor from 3     producing the financial statements of Get Good and Dugaboy,
4     two entities that he controls, that the U.C.C. had been asking
5     for for some time, that the Debtor had been asking of its 6     employees for some time to produce. And it was only when we
7     got, frankly, the discovery from Mr. Dondero when there's a
8     text message that says, Not without a subpoena.

9             The documents are on the Debtor's system. We just don't 10    know where they are because they're hidden someplace. But Mr.
11    Dondero knows where they are. He can certainly force -- he 12    can certainly get them produced. And one of the things we'll 13    be asking for when we seek the contempt motion is the 14    production of those very documents.

15            So, Your Honor, that's what the evidence is going to show.
16    I don't think there's going to be any question that a
17    preliminary injunction ought to issue. But I do want to spend 18    just a few minutes rebutting some of the assertions made in 19    the filing by Mr. Dondero last night.

20            Of course, they offer no evidence. There is no
21    declaration. There is no document. There is merely argument.
22    It's been that way throughout this case. For a year, Mr.
23    Dondero has never stood before Your Honor to tell you why
24    something was wrong being done to him, why -- he hasn't 25    offered to be here at all, and he's here today, again, only

1 because he got a subpoena. That's the only reason we know
2 he's here today.

3 So let's just spend a few minutes talking about the 4 assertions made in the document last night. Mr. Dondero
5 complains about the scope of the injunction, and I say to 6 myself, in all seriousness, Are you kidding me? You didn't 7 even read the TRO and you're going to be concerned about what
8 the scope of the injunction is? You didn't even have enough
9 respect for the Court to read the TRO and we're going to worry
10 about the scope of some future injunction? Doesn't make any 11 sense to me.

12 But let's talk about the specific arguments that they 13 make.

14 Third parties. They're concerned that somehow third
15 parties don't have notice of the injunction. Your Honor,
16 third parties are not impacted by the injunction. The only 17 third parties that are impacted by the injunction are those 18 that are owned and/or controlled by Mr. Dondero. If he 19 doesn't tell them, that's his breach of duty. He created the 20 Byzantine empire of over 2,000 entities, and he wants the 21 Debtor to have the burden of notifying all of them so that 22 they can all come in here and make 2,000 arguments as to why
23 they shouldn't be enjoined?

24 He owns and controls them. They are the only third
25 parties who are impacted by this proposed preliminary

15

1 injunction, and he has the responsibility, he has the duty to
2 inform them, because he owns and controls them.

3 We know of the K&L Gates Parties. We know Get Good and 4 Dugaboy are in this courtroom. We know CLO Holdco. So many 5 of these parties have been so -- they're on the phone now.
6 They don't have notice? It is insulting, frankly, to suggest 7 that the Debtor somehow has some obligation to figure out who 8 Mr. Dondero owns and controls. He should know that. That's 9 number one.

10 Number two, there is a statement in there about employees
11 and how he should be able to speak with them about personal
12 and routine matters. As to that, Your Honor, he has forfeited
13 that opportunity. He cannot be trusted. There cannot be any 14 communication because nobody can police it. And so we think a 15 complete bar to any discussion with any employee, except as it
16 relates to shared services -- because we do have a contractual
17 obligation; that's what was in it -- ought to be barred.
18 That's number one.

19 Number two, there's a reference in the objection to Mr.
20 Dondero's personal assistant. I'd like to know who that is,
21 Your Honor. I wasn't aware that he still was using a personal
22 assistant at the Debtor. I want to know specifically who that 23 is. I don't know that they -- you know, I just -- we need to 24 cut that off. And he should not be communicating with any 25 employee. The Debtor should not be paying for his personal

1 assistant.

2 It's offensive to think that he's still doing that,
3 particularly after he was terminated or his resignation was 4 requested back in October precisely because his interests were 5 adverse to the Debtor.

6 Number three, he's concerned that the Debtor is somehow
7 preventing him from speaking to former employees. We now
8 know, Your Honor, that that's a, I'm sure, a very specific 9 reference to Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon. Right? He wants
10 a green light to be able to do that. And you know, I'll leave
11 it to Your Honor as to whether that's appropriate. I'll leave
12 it to their counsel as to whether, going forward, colluding
13 together against the Debtor at this point in time is in 14 anybody's best interest. But I will -- what I will demand in 15 the preliminary injunction is a very explicit statement that 16 Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon are not to share any 17 confidential or privileged information that they received in 18 their capacity as general counsel and assistant general
19 counsel of the Debtor.

20 The pot plan. He's afraid somehow the order is going to 21 prevent him from pursuing the pot plan. He's had over a year
22 to pursue this pot plan, Your Honor. Frankly, I don't, you
23 know, I don't know what to say. He has never made a proposal
24 that has gotten any traction with the only people who matter.
25 And it's not the Debtor. It's the creditors. It's the

1 Creditors' Committee.

2 If you want to put in an exception that he can call Matt
3 Clemente, I don't mean to put this on Mr. Clemente, he can
4 decide whether or not that's appropriate, but the creditors
5 are the only ones who matter here. Your Honor, it's not the 6 Debtor.

7 And I'll let Mr. Dondero's counsel explain to Your Honor
8 why he thinks he still needs to pursue a pot plan, and Your 9 Honor can decide. I trust Your Honor to decide what 10 boundaries and what guardrails might be appropriate for him to 11 continue to pursue his pot plan.

12 That's all I have, Your Honor. Not much.

13 THE COURT: All right.

14 MR. MORRIS: But I think there's going to be -- 15 there's going to be an awful lot of evidence. This is going 16 to be a lengthy examination. I ask the Court for your 17 patience.

18 THE COURT: I've got --

19 MR. MORRIS: But that's all I have.

20 THE COURT: I've got all day, if we need it.

21 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

22 THE COURT: I hope we don't, but I've got all day if 23 we need it. All right.

24 MR. MORRIS: That's what I have, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero's counsel, your

1 opening statement?

2 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I would reserve my opening
3 statement to the end of the hearing.

4 I would also point out that anything that Mr. Morris just 5 said was not evidence, and we think that the evidence will
6 show completely differently than argued or articulated by Mr.
7 Morris.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 MR. BONDS: That's all.

10 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Bonds.

11 Mr. Morris, you may call your witness.

12 MR. MORRIS: The Debtor calls James Dondero.

13 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, this is Judge
14 Jernigan. I would ask you to say, "Testing, one, two," so we 15 pick up your video so I can swear you in.

16 All right. Mr. Dondero, if you're speaking up, we're not 17 hearing you, so please make sure you're unmuted and have your 18 video --

19 (Echoing.)

20 MR. DONDERO: Hello. One, two.

21 THE COURT: Okay. We got you.

22 MR. DONDERO: One, two three.

23 THE COURT: We got you now.

24 JAMES D. DONDERO, PLAINTIFF'S WITNESS, SWORN

25 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

Dondero - Direct

19

1 Mr. Morris, go ahead.

2 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

3 (Echoing.)

4 THE COURT: I'm going to ask everyone except Mr.
5 Dondero and Mr. Morris to put your device on mute. We're 6 getting a little distortion.

7 All right. Go ahead.

8 DIRECT EXAMINATION

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Good morning, Mr. Dondero. Can you hear me?

11 A Yes.

12 (Echoing.)

13 THE COURT: Ooh. Okay. We're having a little echo
14 when you speak, Mr. Dondero. Do you have -- well, first, you 15 have headphones. That always helps.

16 (Echoing.)

17 THE COURT: Okay. That may help as well.

18 (Pause.)

19 THE COURT: Okay. Let's try again. If you could 20 say, "Testing, one, two."

21 THE WITNESS: Is that better?

22 THE COURT: That is better, yes.

23 All right. Go ahead.

24 THE WITNESS: Okay. Great.

25 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

Dondero - Direct

20

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q Can you hear me, Mr. Dondero?

3 A You're a bit faint. Give me one second. Okay. Got you.

4 Q Okay. Thank you. Who is in the room with you right now?

5 A Bonds, Lynn, and a tech.

6 A VOICE: Bryan Assink.

7 THE WITNESS: Oh, is Assink here? Oh, okay, I'm 8 sorry. All right. I'm sorry. Bonds, Lynn, and Bryan Assink.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Okay. You're testifying today pursuant to a subpoena,
11 correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Okay.

14 MR. MORRIS: And Your Honor, that subpoena can be 15 found at Docket No. 44 in the adversary proceeding.

16 THE COURT: All right.

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q In the absence of a subpoena, in the absence of a 19 subpoena, you didn't know if you would show up to testify at 20 this hearing; is that right?

21 A I -- I do what my counsel directs me to do, and I didn't 22 know at that time whether they would direct me to come or not.

23 Q Okay. And when I -- when I deposed you earlier this week,
24 you agreed that you may or may not testify; is that right?

25 A It depends on what counsel instructs me to do, correct. I

21

1 didn't know at the time.

2 Q Okay. And you didn't mention anything about counsel when
3 I asked you the questions earlier this week, correct?

4 A That was the undertone in almost all my answers, that I
5 relied on counsel.

6 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I move to strike. I'm 7 asking very specific questions. And if I need to go to the 8 deposition transcript, I'm happy to do that.

9 THE COURT: All --

10 MR. MORRIS: Just going forward, Your Honor, this is 11 cross-examination. It's really yes or no at this point.
12 That's what I would request, anyway.

13 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, do you
14 understand --

15 (Echoing.)

16 THE COURT: Do you understand what Mr. Morris was 17 raising there? We really need you to give specific answers --
18 and usually they're going to be yes or no answers -- to Mr.
19 Morris's questioning. Okay? So let's try again. Mr. Morris,
20 go ahead.

21 THE WITNESS: Yeah.

22 BY MR. MORRIS:

23 Q Mr. Dondero, you're aware that Judge Jernigan granted the 24 Debtor's request for a TRO against you on December 10th,
25 correct?

Dondero - Direct

22

1 A Yes.

2 Q But you never reviewed the declaration that Mr. Seery
3 filed in support of the Debtor's motion for a TRO, correct?

4 A I relied on counsel.

5 Q Sir, you never reviewed the declaration that Mr. Seery
6 filed in support of the Debtor's motion for a TRO, correct?

7 A Correct.

8 Q You didn't even know the substance of what Mr. Seery
9 alleged in his declaration at the time that I deposed you on 10 Tuesday, correct?

11 A Correct.

12 Q And that's because you didn't even think about the fact
13 that the Debtor was seeking a TRO against you; isn't that 14 right?

15 A No.

16 Q That's not right?

17 A No.

18 Q All right.

19 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, could I ask my assistant, 20 Ms. Canty, to put up on the screen what had been designated as 21 the Debtor's Exhibit Z in connection with the motion for 22 contempt? Exhibit Z is the transcript from Tuesday's hearing.

23 THE COURT: All right.

24 MR. MORRIS: And I would like to -- I'd like to 25 cross-examine Mr. Dondero on his testimony on Tuesday.

23

1 THE COURT: All right. You may.

2 MR. MORRIS: Can we put up Page 15, please? And go
3 to Lines 15 through 17.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Sir, you recall being deposed on Tuesday by my -- by me,
6 correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. Did you hear this question and did you hear this 9 answer?

10 "Q Did you care that the Debtor was seeking a TRO
11 against you?

12 "A I didn't think about it."

13 Q Is that -- is that your testimony from the other day?

14 A Yes.

15 Q You didn't dial in to the hearing when the Court
16 considered the Debtor's motion for a TRO against you, did you?

17 A I -- I don't recall. I don't think so.

18 Q You never read the transcript in order to understand what 19 took place in this courtroom when Judge Jernigan decided to 20 enter a TRO against you; isn't that right?

21 A I relied on counsel, which has been my testimony all
22 along.

23 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 13 of the transcript,
24 please? Beginning at Line 24.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

1 Q (reading)

2 "Q Did you read a transcript of the hearing?

3 "A No."

4 Q Did you testify on Tuesday that you did not read a
5 transcript of the hearing?

6 A Yes.

7 Q In fact, as of at least last Tuesday, you hadn't even 8 bothered to read the TRO that this Court entered against you.
9 Isn't that right?

10 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'm going to object.

11 (Echoing.)

12 THE COURT: Okay. We're getting that echo from you
13 now, Mr. Bonds. So maybe you need to turn your volume down a 14 little. But what is the basis for your objection?

15 (Echoing.)

16 MR. BONDS: Leading and rhetorical.

17 MR. MORRIS: I think it's because they're in the same
18 room.

19 THE COURT: Okay. Do you have -- I don't know what 20 you're doing. I guess you're moving to a different room?

21 MR. BONDS: I am, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 (Echoing.)

24 THE COURT: Okay. I'm waiting for the objection
25 basis.

Dondero - Direct

25

1 MR. BONDS: The basis of the objection, Your Honor,
2 is that --

3 (Echoing.)

4 THE COURT: Okay. We're going to have to do
5 something different here. We can't have this issue for the 6 entire hearing. Do you need to get a tech person in there, or 7 maybe call in on your phone? I don't know.

8 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'm going into the conference
9 room.

10 (Pause.)

11 THE COURT: Okay. Are we going to try again here?

12 MR. BONDS: Yes. Is this working?

13 THE COURT: Yes.

14 MR. BONDS: Perfect. Your Honor, my objection is 15 that Mr. Dondero has already testified that he relied on his 16 lawyers. I don't know where Mr. Morris is going with this,
17 but it's pretty clear that Mr. Dondero simply relies on his 18 lawyers to tell him what happened. I don't know that that's 19 that different than any other layperson.

20 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if this is --

21 THE COURT: Well, --

22 MR. MORRIS: If I may?

23 THE COURT: Yes.

24 MR. MORRIS: I believe it's terribly relevant to know
25 how seriously Mr. Dondero takes this Court and this Court's

Dondero - Direct

26

1 proceedings and this Court's orders. If the Court decides
2 that it doesn't matter whether or not he read the transcript,
3 you're the fact-finder and you'll make that decision. But I
4 believe it's at least relevant.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I agree and I overrule the 6 objection.

7 Go ahead.

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q Mr. Dondero, as of at least Tuesday, you never bothered to 10 read the TRO that was entered against you, correct?

11 A I'm sorry. We're dealing with some tech stuff here for a 12 second. Can you repeat the question?

13 Q Yes.

14 (Echoing.)

15 Q As of Tuesday, you had not bothered to read the TRO that 16 was entered against you?

17 (Echoing.)

18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, can we take a break? I
19 can't do this. I just --

20 THE COURT: Okay. I agree. Okay. Mr. Bonds, what 21 do we need to do to fix these technical problems? Do I need
22 to get my IT guy in here and help you? This is terrible.
23 This connection is terrible. And I understand people have 24 technical problems sometimes, but we've been doing these video
25 hearings since March, so --

Dondero - Direct

27

1 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I have simply gone to another
2 conference room. The Debtor (garbled) I think that Mr.
3 Dondero should be fine.

4 THE COURT: Okay. I don't know what you said except
5 that you think Mr. Dondero should be fine. I --

6 MR. MORRIS: Is there anybody in that room with a
7 cell phone on, Mr. Dondero?

8 THE WITNESS: No.

9 MR. BONDS: And I'm completely over in --

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: Can I try and proceed?

12 THE COURT: Try to proceed.

13 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

14 (Echoing.)

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q Mr. Dondero, as of Tuesday you only had a general view of 17 what this Court restrained you from doing; is that correct?

18 (Echoing.)

19 MR. MORRIS: I'd still -- I -- there's too much
20 noise, Your Honor. I can't do it.

21 THE COURT: Okay. We're going to take a five-minute
22 break. Mr. Bonds, can you get a technical person there to 23 work through these problems?

24 And Mike, let's get Bruce up here to --

25 THE CLERK: It's because they're in the same room.

Dondero - Direct

28

1 That's the problem.

2 THE COURT: They're -- they're --

3 THE CLERK: Judge Jernigan, this is Traci. Bruce is 4 on his way up there.

5 THE COURT: Thank you.

6 Mike, explain it to me, because I don't understand.

7 You're saying if they have two devices on in the same room?

8 THE CLERK: The same -- that's the problem. They're 9 so close. And they're trying to use the same device, give it
10 back to you.

11 A VOICE: He has a phone on in the room.

12 MR. MORRIS: I asked that question.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. MORRIS: Please instruct the witness to exclude
15 everybody from the room, to turn off all electronic devices
16 except the device that's being used for this (garbled). At 17 least have --

18 THE COURT: All right. So, the consensus of more
19 technical people than me is you've got two devices on in the 20 same room and that's what's causing the distortion and echo.
21 So I don't know if it's somebody's phone that needs to be
22 turned off or if you have two iPads or laptops.

23 (Court confers with Clerk.)

24 (Pause.)

25 MR. BONDS: I think I'm unmuted. Can people hear me?

Dondero - Direct

29

1 THE WITNESS: Yes.

2 (Pause.)

3 THE COURT: Okay. Bruce, can you walk their office
4 through? They have, I think, two devices in the same room.
5 It's a horrible echo. So, Mr. Bonds or some --

6 MR. BONDS: Yes, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: We have a lawyer and the lawyer's client
8 who is testifying right now in the same room.

9 I.T. STAFF: Uh-huh.

10 THE COURT: And --

11 I.T. STAFF: Yeah. Yeah. Because -- is one a call-
12 in user on a telephone?

13 THE COURT: I don't know. I don't --

14 I.T. STAFF: Yeah. Whatever's coming -- the audio is 15 feeding back in. They need to separate if they're both on.
16 Or just use one and the attorney can slide over and the client
17 can --

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 I.T. STAFF: -- go in his place. Just use one --

20 THE COURT: Our IT person is confirming what everyone
21 else has been saying, that you really can only have one device
22 in the same room. It's just unavoidable, the echoing.

23 I.T. STAFF: Unless everybody has --

24 THE COURT: Unless everyone has headphones on.

25 I.T. STAFF: Right.

Dondero - Direct

30

1 THE COURT: So we either need everyone to have
2 headphones on, or one device in the room. And you all,
3 awkward as it is, just have to share. Or I guess you could 4 have two laptops, but one person has to --

5 I.T. STAFF: Has to have a headset.

6 THE COURT: Has to --

7 I.T. STAFF: Because the other one, the audio is 8 going to be feeing into the microphone of the other one.

9 THE COURT: Okay. So, Mr. Bonds, I don't know if 10 you've heard any of that, but --

11 THE CLERK: He needs to unmute himself.

12 THE COURT: You're on mute, Mr. Bonds.

13 MR. BONDS: I'm sorry, Your Honor. I'm going to sit 14 next to Mr. Dondero and answer any questions that may come up.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. BONDS: If any objections --

17 THE COURT: Okay. So we're going to have one device?

18 MR. BONDS: Yes.

19 THE COURT: Okay. Let's try again.

20 Okay. Go ahead, Mr. Morris.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q Mr. Dondero, is Mr. Ellington listening to this hearing?

23 THE COURT: I didn't hear you, Mr. Morris. What?

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q Mr. Dondero, is Mr. Ellington listening to this hearing?

Dondero - Direct

31

1 A I have no idea.

2 Q Is Mr. Leventon listening to this hearing?

3 A I have no idea. I haven't spoken with him.

4 Q Okay. So let's try again. At least as of today, you
5 never bothered to read the TRO that was entered against you,
6 correct?

7 A Correct.

8 Q As of Tuesday, you only had a general understanding of 9 what the Court restrained you from doing, correct?

10 (Echoing.)

11 A I had an adequate understanding.

12 Q You had a what?

13 A Adequate understanding.

14 Q Your understanding --

15 A VOICE: Your Honor?

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q -- was that you were prohibited from speaking to the 18 Debtor's board without counsel and from speaking to the 19 Debtor's employees; is that right?

20 A No.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 13, Line 8, please?

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q Were you asked this question and did you give this answer?

25 "Q Tell me your understanding of what the temporary

Dondero - Direct

32

1       restraining order restrains you from doing.

2       "A To talk to Independent Board directly or talking
3 directly with employees.

4       "Q Is there any other aspect of the temporary
5 restraining order that you're aware of that would
6 otherwise constrain or restrain your conduct?

7       "A Those are the points I (garbled)."

8 Q Did you give those answers to the questions that I asked?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And even with that general understanding, you went ahead
11 and communicated directly (garbled) employees many, many, many 12 times after the TRO was entered?

13 A Only with regard to shared services, pot plan, and 14 Ellington, the settlement counsel.

15 Q Does the restraining order permit you to speak with 16 Debtor's employees about the pot plan?

17       (Echoing.)

18       THE COURT: Mr. Morris, let me stop.

19       MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I appreciate that, Your Honor.

20       THE COURT: Even --

21       MR. MORRIS: It's not working.

22       THE COURT: Even your sound is not coming through 23 clearly. And I think it's the echo coming out of their 24 speakers, Mr. Dondero and Mr. Bonds' speakers. But before we 25 conclude that, would you turn off your video and ask your

Dondero - Direct

33

1 question again and see if it's any better, just to confirm
2 it's not a bandwidth issue on your end? I doubt it is, but --
3 okay. So, try asking your question again, and I'm going to 4 see if it's still distorted.

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q There's nothing in the TRO that permitted you to speak
7 with Debtor employees about the pot plan, correct?

8 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Morris, it's not at your end.
9 It's -- it's their end. Okay. So you can turn your video 10 back on.

11 Mr. Bonds?

12 MR. BONDS: Yes, ma'am.

13 THE COURT: You all are going to have to use earbuds,
14 apparently. We're getting -- we're getting a feedback loop,
15 okay? Whenever Mr. Morris talks or I talk, we're hearing
16 ourselves echo through your speakers.

17 MR. BONDS: Can you check right now to see if it's 18 true, if we're experiencing the same problem?

19 THE WITNESS: In other words, is this better? We 20 unplugged the cord here.

21 THE COURT: Well, when you all speak, it's -- it's 22 better now. But when --

23 MR. MORRIS: It is better.

24 THE COURT: But when Mr. Morris asks a question, it's 25 echoing through your speakers. But I don't hear myself

Dondero - Direct

34

1 echoing through your speakers.

2 I.T. STAFF: Can Mr. Morris say something, please?

3 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, say something.

4 MR. MORRIS: They may have solved the problem. They
5 may have solved the problem. How's that?

6 THE COURT: Okay. I think the problem is solved,
7 whatever you did, so let's try once again.

8 Go ahead, Mr. Morris. Repeat your last question. I
9 didn't hear it.

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q Mr. Dondero, the temporary restraining order doesn't 12 permit you to speak with the Debtor's employees about a pot
13 plan; isn't that right?

14 A There was a presentation on the pot plan given to the 15 Independent Board after the restraining order was put in 16 place. What are you implying, that that wasn't proper?

17 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I move to strike. It's a
18 very simple question.

19 THE COURT: Okay. Sustained. If you could just 20 answer the specific question, Mr. Dondero.

21 THE WITNESS: I don't know.

22 BY MR. MORRIS:

23 Q Fair enough. Sir, let's talk about some of the events
24 that led up to the imposition of the TRO. I appreciate the 25 fact that you hadn't read Mr. Seery's declaration or any of

Dondero - Direct

35

1 the evidence that was submitted in connection with the TRO, so
2 let's spend some time talking about that now. CLO stands for 3 Collateralized Loan Obligation, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And the Debtor is party to certain contracts that give it
6 the exclusive right and responsibility to manage certain CLOs,
7 correct?

8 A Yes.

9 Q NexPoint Advisors, LP is an advisory firm. Do I have that
10 right?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And we can refer to that, that firm, as NexPoint; is that 13 fair?

14 A Yes.

15 Q You have a direct or indirect ownership interest in 16 NexPoint, correct?

17 A Yes.

18 Q You're the president of NexPoint; isn't that right?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And as the president of NexPoint, it's fair to say that 21 you control that entity, correct?

22 A To a certain extent.

23 Q Sir, as the president of NexPoint, it's fair to say that
24 you control that entity, correct?

25 A To a certain extent.

Dondero - Direct

36

1 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 18 of the transcript,
2 please? Lines 19 and 21.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Were you asked this question and did you give this answer?

5 "Q As the president of NexPoint, it's fair to say
6 that you control that entity?

7 "A Generally."

8 Q Is that the right answer that you gave the other day?

9 A I think it's similar to what I just said, yeah, yeah.

10 Q Sir, you're familiar with Highland Capital Management Fund
11 Advisors, LP; is that right?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And we'll call that Fund Advisors; is that fair?

14 A Yes.

15 Q And we'll refer to Fund Advisors and NexPoint together as 16 the Advisors; is that okay?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Fund Advisors is also an advisory firm, correct?

19 A Yes.

20 Q You have a direct or indirect ownership interest in Fund
21 Advisors, correct?

22 A Yes.

23 Q You're the president of Fund Advisors, correct?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And you also have an ownership interest in the general

Dondero - Direct

37

1 partner of Fund Advisors; isn't that right?

2 A I believe so.

3 Q It's fair to say that you control Fund Advisors, correct?

4 A Generally.

5 Q NexPoint and Fund Advisors manage certain investments
6 funds; is that right?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Among the funds that they manage are High Point Income
9 Fund; is that right?

10 A I don't think that's a name that we manage.

11 Q Let's put it this way. There are three funds that are 12 represented by K&L Gates that are managed by the Advisors,
13 correct?

14 A I don't know.

15 Q Okay. You're the portfolio manager of the investment
16 funds advised by NexPoint and Fund Advisors, correct?

17 A Largely.

18 Q And NexPoint and Fund Advisors caused the investment funds
19 that they manage to invest in CLOs that are managed by the 20 Debtors, correct?

21 A Years ago, they bought the equity interests, if that -- if 22 that's what you're asking me, in various CLOs.

23 Q The two Advisors that you own and control caused the 24 investment funds to purchase interests in CLOs that are 25 managed by the Debtor, correct?

Dondero - Direct

38

1 A Not recently. Not recently. Years ago. Yes.

2 Q And they still hold those interests today, correct?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And K&L Gates represents all of those entities, correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And we'll call those the K&L Gates Clients; is that fair?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Before the TRO was entered, the K&L Gates Clients sent two 9 letters to the Debtor concerning the Debtor's management of 10 certain CLOs, right?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I just want to take a moment
14 now, because we're going to start to look at some documents.
15 The Debtor would respectfully move into evidence Exhibits A
16 through Y that are on their exhibit list.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, we have no objection.

19 THE COURT: A through Y are admitted. And for the 20 record, these appear at Docket No. 46 in this adversary.

21 (Plaintiff's Exhibits A through Y are received into 22 evidence.)

23 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Can we please put up Exhibit B as 24 in boy? (Pause.) Ms. Canty? If you need a moment, just let 25 us know.

Dondero - Direct

39

1 MS. CANTY: Yeah. I'm pulling it up right now.

2 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. (Pause.) Can you scroll
3 down just a bit?

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q All right. Can you see this letter was sent on October
6 16th?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And we see the entities that are reflected on this letter.
9 We've got Highland Capital Management, LP. That's the 10 question that they're asking. And the questions and the 11 statements are being asserted on behalf of NexPoint Advisors, 12 LP. Do you see that?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, LP. Those
15 are the two Advisors that you own and control, correct?

16 A Control to a large extent.

17 Q Okay.

18 MR. MORRIS: And can we put up Exhibit C, please?

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q This is a second letter sent by NexPoint on November 24th.
21 Do you see that?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. And you're familiar with the substance of these 24 letters, correct?

25 A Yes.

Dondero - Direct

40

1 Q And you were familiar -- you were aware of these letters
2 before they were sent. Is that correct?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And you generally discussed the substance of these letters
5 with NexPoint; is that right?

6 A Generally, yes.

7 Q And you discussed the substance of the letters with the
8 Advisors' internal counsel; is that right?

9 A Yes.

10 Q That's D.C. Sauter?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And you have been on some calls with K&L Gates about these 13 letters, right?

14 A I believe so.

15 Q And you knew these letters were being sent, correct?

16 A Yeah, they're -- they're reported.

17 Q You knew these letters for being sent; isn't that right,
18 sir?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And you didn't object to the sending of these letters,
21 correct?

22 A No.

23 Q In fact, you supported the sending of these letters. Is 24 that right?

25 A Yes.

Dondero - Direct

41

1 Q And you have never directed NexPoint to withdraw these
2 letters, correct?

3 A No.

4 Q Around Thanksgiving, you learned that Mr. Seery had given
5 a direction to sell certain securities owned by the CLOs
6 managed by the Debtors, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And when you learned that, you personally intervened to
9 stop the trades, correct?

10 A Yes. I believe they were inappropriate.

11 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike the latter part of the 12 answer, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: It's stricken.

14 MR. MORRIS: Can we put up Exhibit D, please?

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q We looked at this email string the other day. Do you
17 recall that?

18 A Yes.

19 MR. MORRIS: Can we start at the bottom, please?

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q There's an email from Hunter Covitz. Do you see that?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Now, this is November 24th. It's before the TRO. Is that 24 fair?

25 A Yes.

Dondero - Direct

42

1 Q Mr. Covitz is an employee of the Debtor, right?

2 A I believe so.

3 Q And Mr. Covitz helps manage the CLOs on behalf of the 4 Debtor. Is that your understanding?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And Mr. Covitz in this email is giving directions to Matt
7 Pearson and Joe Sowin to sell certain securities held by the 8 CLOs. Is that correct?

9 A No. He's giving Jim Seery's direction.

10 MR. BONDS: And Your Honor, I'm going to object.
11 This is all before the TRO was ever entered. It doesn't have 12 anything to do with today's hearing.

13 THE COURT: Overruled.

14 MR. MORRIS: May I respond, Your Honor?

15 THE COURT: I --

16 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you.

17 THE COURT: I think it's relevant. Go ahead.

18 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. Okay.

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q Mr. Seery is the CEO of the Debtor; is that right?

21 A Yes.

22 Q And the Debtor is the contractual party with the CLOs
23 charged with the exclusive responsibility of managing the 24 CLOs, correct?

25 A I don't believe so. The Debtor is in default of the

43

1 agreements.

2 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Sustained.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Sir, the Debtor has the exclusive contractual right and

9 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll up to the -- just --

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q Do you see that Mr. Pearson acknowledges receipt of Mr.
12 Covitz's email?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And you received a copy of Mr. Covitz's email, did you --
15 did you not?

16 A Yes.

17 MR. MORRIS: Can you scroll up a little bit, please?

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q And can you just read for Judge Jernigan your response
20 that you provided to Mr. Pearson, Mr. Covitz, and Mr. Sowin on 21 November 24th?

22 A (reading) No, do not.

23 Q You instructed the recipients of Mr. Covitz's email not to 24 sell the SKY securities as had been specifically instructed by 25 Mr. Seery, correct?

Dondero - Direct

44

1 A Yes.

2 Q And you understood when you gave that instruction that the
3 people on the email were trying to execute trades that Mr.
4 Seery had authorized, correct?

5 A No. I -- no, that isn't how I would describe it.

6 MR. MORRIS: A second, Your Honor?

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 (Pause.)

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Sir, when you gave the instruction reflected in this 11 email, you knew that you were stopping trades that were 12 authorized and directed by Mr. Seery, correct?

13 A I don't think -- I -- I wasn't -- I wasn't sure at the 14 moment I did that. I didn't find out until later that it was 15 Seery who directed it.

16 MR. MORRIS: Can we please go back to the deposition
17 transcript, Debtor's Exhibit Z, at Page 42? Line 12.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q Were you asked this question and did you give this answer?

20 "Q At the time that you gave the instruction, "No, do
21 not," you knew that you were stopping trades that had 22 been authorized and directed by Mr. Seery, correct?

23 "A Yes."

24 Q Did you give that answer to my question on Tuesday?

25 A I'd like to clarify it, but yes, I did give that answer.

Dondero - Direct

45

1 Q Okay. You didn't speak with Mr. Seery before sending your 2 instructions interfering with his trade, the trades that he
3 had authorized, correct?

4 A No, I did not.

5 Q And you took no steps to seek the Debtor's consent before
6 instructing the recipients of your email to stop executing the 7 SKY transactions that had been authorized by Mr. Seery,
8 correct?

9 A I'm sorry. Can you repeat the question?

10 Q You took no steps to seek the Debtor's consent before
11 stepping in to stop the trades that Mr. Seery had authorized,
12 correct?

13 A I took other actions instead.

14 Q Okay. But you didn't seek the Debtor's consent? That's 15 not one of the actions you took, right?

16 A No, I educated the traders as to why it was inappropriate.

17 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Sustained.

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q Sir, did you seek the Debtor's consent before stepping in 21 to stop the trades that Mr. Seery had authorized?

22 A No, I did not seek consent.

23 Q In response to your instruction, Mr. Pearson canceled all
24 of the trades that Mr. Seery had authorized, correct?

25 A Yes.

Dondero - Direct

46

1 MR. MORRIS: Can we go back to the exhibit, please?

2 And if we could just scroll -- stop right there.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q That's -- that's Mr. Pearson's response to your email,
5 confirming that he had canceled both the SKY and the AVAYA
6 trades that had not yet been executed, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll to the response to that?

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Is this your response?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Can you read that aloud, please?

13 A (reading) HFAM and DAF have instructed Highland in 14 writing not to sell any CLO underlying assets. There is 15 potential liability. Don't do it again, please.

16 Q The writings that you're referring to are the two letters
17 from NexPoint, Exhibits B and C that we just looked at,
18 correct?

19 A Yeah. There might have been a third letter. I don't 20 know. But, yes, generally, those letters.

21 Q Okay. And at this juncture, the reference to potential
22 liability was a statement intended for Mr. Pearson. Is that
23 correct?

24 A Um, I -- no. Pearson wouldn't have had any personal 25 liability. It was -- it was meant for the -- there was

Dondero - Direct

47

1 potential liability to the Debtor or to the compliance
2 officers at the Debtor.

3 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 45 of the deposition
4 transcript, please? Line -- beginning at Line 11, through 18.

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q Did I ask these questions and did you give these answers?

7 "Q Do you see the reference there in the latter
8 portion of your email, 'There is potential liability.
9 Don't do it again'?

10 "A Yes.

11 "Q Who was the intended recipient of that message?

12 "A At this juncture, it's Matt Pearson, I believe."

13 Q Did you give those answers to my questions on Tuesday?

14 A Yeah. That's not inconsistent.

15 MR. MORRIS: Let's go back to the email, please.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q Mr. Sowin responded to your email; is that right?

18 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll up?

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q Okay. Who's Mr. Sowin?

21 A He's the head trader.

22 Q Who's he employed by?

23 A I believe he's employed by HFAM but not the Debtor.

24 Q Okay. So he's -- he's somebody who's employed by one of 25 the Advisors; is that right?

Dondero - Direct

48

1 A I believe so.

2 Q And Mr. Sowin responded to your email and he indicated
3 that he would follow your instructions. Is that right?

4 A Yeah. He understands that it's inappropriate. That's 5 what he's reflecting. Yes.

6 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Sustained.

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q Sir, Mr. Sowin responded and indicated that he would 10 follow your instructions, correct?

11 A (no audible response)

12 Q Did you answer? I'm sorry.

13 A No, I didn't answer. It's -- I don't know if you could 14 expressly say that from that email. Maybe we should read the 15 email.

16 MR. MORRIS: Let's just move on, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q A few days later, you learned -- you learned that Mr.
20 Seery was trying a workaround to effectuate the trades anyway,
21 correct?

22 A I believe so.

23 Q Uh-huh. And when you learned that, you wrote to Thomas
24 Surgent; is that right?

25 A I -- I believe so.

Dondero - Direct

49

1 Q I don't -- I don't mean to -- this is not a test here.

2 MR. MORRIS: Can we just scroll up to the next email,
3 please? Okay. Stop right there.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q When you -- when you learned that Mr. Seery was trying a
6 workaroud, you wrote to Mr. Surgent when you learned that,
7 right?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And Mr. Surgent is an employee of the Debtor; is that
10 correct?

11 A I believe he's still the chief compliance officer of the 12 Debtor.

13 Q Okay. Now, as a factual matter, you never asked Mr. Seery
14 why he wanted to make these trades; isn't that right?

15 A I -- I did not.

16 Q Okay. And before the TRO was entered, there was nothing
17 that prevented you from picking up the phone and asking Mr.
18 Seery why he wanted to make these trades, correct?

19 A That's not true.

20 MR. MORRIS: One second, please, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 (Pause.)

23 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 60 of the transcript?
24 Mr. Bonds says -- beginning at Line 14. There is an objection
25 there, Your Honor, and I would ask that the Court rule on the

Dondero - Direct

50

1 objection before I read from the transcript.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. MORRIS: There you go.

4 THE COURT: (sotto voce) (reading) Is there
5 anything that you're aware of that prevented you from picking
6 up the phone and asking Mr. Seery for his business
7 justification for these trades prior to December 10.
8 Objection, form.

9 I overrule the objection to the form of that question.

10 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

11 BY MR. MORRIS:

12 Q Mr. Dondero, were you asked this question and did you give 13 this answer?

14 "Q Is there anything that you're aware of that 15 prevented you from picking up the phone and asking Mr.
16 Seery for his business justification for these trades
17 prior to December 10, 2010?

18 "A No. I expressed my disapproval via email."

19 Q Is that right?

20 A I'd like to adjust that answer to the answer I just gave.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: And I move to strike.

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q I'm just asking you if that's the answer you gave on 25 Tuesday.

Dondero - Direct

51

1 THE COURT: Sustained.

2 THE WITNESS: Yes.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Thank you. Now, you wrote to Mr. Surgent because you
5 wanted to remind him of his personal liability for regulatory 6 breaches and for doing things that aren't in the best interest
7 of investors, correct?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And you actually thought about this and you -- because you
10 didn't believe that Mr. Surgent had extra insurance and 11 indemnities like Mr. Seery, right?

12 A No.

13 Q Didn't you testify to that the other day?

14 A I don't remember, but that isn't the only reason.

15 Q I didn't ask you if it was the only reason. Listen
16 carefully to my question. Did you send this email because you
17 -- because you wanted to remind him of his personal liability
18 for regulatory breaches and for doing things that aren't in 19 the -- I apologize. Withdrawn.

20 You did not believe at the time that you sent this email
21 that he, Mr. Surgent, had insurance and indemnities like Mr.
22 Seery, correct?

23 A Yes.

24 Q Okay.

25 MR. MORRIS: Can we go back to the email, please?

Dondero - Direct

52

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q Can you just read the entirety of your email to Mr.

3 Surgent out loud?

4 A (reading) I understand Seery is working on a workaround
5 to trade these securities anyway, trades that contradict
6 investor desires and have no business purpose or investment
7 rationale. You might want to remind him and yourself that the 8 chief compliance officer has personal liability.

9 Q Okay. That's -- that's the message you wanted to convey 10 to Mr. Surgent, right?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And, again, you never bothered to ask Mr. Seery what his 13 businessperson -- purpose or investment rationale was,
14 correct?

15 A I -- I didn't believe I could talk to him directly.

16 Q This is before the --

17 A That's why I never picked up the phone.

18 Q Okay. You intended to convey the message to Mr. Surgent
19 that, by following Mr. Seery's orders to execute the trades,
20 that Mr. Surgent faced personal liability, correct?

21 A Yes, he does.

22 Q And that's the message you wanted to send to him, right?

23 A It's a true and accurate message, yes.

24 Q Okay. Just a few days earlier, you also threatened Mr.
25 Seery, right?

Dondero - Direct

53

1 A I wouldn't use the word "threatened."

2 Q Okay. Let's let -- let's let it speak for itself.

3 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Exhibit E, please? Keep 4 scrolling down just a bit.

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q This is an email that you sent to Mr. Seery on November
7 24th. And as always, Mr. Dondero -- this is the third time
8 we're meeting -- if there's something in the document that you
9 need to see, please just let me know, because I don't -- I
10 don't mean to test your memory if the document can help
11 refresh your recollection.

12 MR. MORRIS: Can we just scroll up a little bit
13 further to the top to see the date?

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Okay. So, Jim, there, JD, who is that?

16 A That's me.

17 Q Okay. And can you tell by the substance of the email, of 18 the text messages, this is communications between you and Mr.
19 Seery, right?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. And you see that it's dated November 24th there?

22 A Yes. Right after we were discussing the pipeline. Or 23 right when we were working on the pipeline.

24 Q Okay.

25 MR. MORRIS: Can you scroll down a little bit,

Dondero - Direct

54

1 please?

2 BY MR. MORRIS:

3 Q At 5:26 p.m., you sent Mr. Seery a text, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Can you read that, please?

6 A (reading) Be careful what you do. Last warning.

7 Q Okay. This was a warning telling Mr. Seery to stop
8 selling assets out of the CLOs or the beneficial owners would 9 take more significant action against him, correct?

10 A It was a general statement that what he was doing was 11 regulatorily inappropriate and ethically inappropriate and he 12 was in breach of the contracts he was operating.

13 Q Neither you nor any entity owned or controlled by you are 14 parties to the contracts you just referred to; isn't that
15 correct?

16 A I believe they're indirectly parties to those contracts,
17 especially when they're in default.

18 Q Neither you nor any entity owned or controlled by you is a 19 signatory to any CLO management contract pursuant to which the 20 Debtor is a party, correct?

21 A I -- I don't know and I don't want to make legal 22 conclusions on that.

23 Q Okay. At the deposition the other day, some of the things
24 that you suggested the beneficial owners of the CLO interests
25 might do against Mr. Seery and the Debtor are class action

Dondero - Direct

55

1 lawsuits. Is that right?

2 A I -- I did not suggest the entities I control would do
3 that. If anybody on this call were to call a class action
4 lawsuit -- a class action law firm and tell them what's been 5 going on with the CLOs, I think a class action law firm would 6 file it on their own regard, not on the behalf of my entities.

7 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Sustained.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Let's talk about that cell phone. Okay? Until at least 11 December 10th, the day the TRO was entered, you had a cell
12 phone that was bought and paid by the Debtor, right?

13 A Yes.

14 Q But sometime after December 10th, your phone was disposed 15 of or thrown in the garbage; is that right?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And you don't know when after December 10th the cell phone
18 that was the Debtor's property was disposed of, right?

19 A I don't believe at that point it was the Debtor's
20 property. I think I paid it off in full and the Debtor had 21 announced that they were canceling everybody's cell phones so
22 it was appropriate for me to get another one.

23 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Sustained.

25 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, at some point, I mean, Mr.

Dondero - Direct

56

1 Morris just ought to go on and testify.

2 MR. MORRIS: No, this is Mr. Dondero's testimony,
3 Your Honor. He gave it the other day. I'm just asking him to 4 confirm it, basically.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the objection, if any 6 there was, on the part of Mr. Bonds.

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q Sometime after December 10th, the cell phone that prior to 9 that time had been owned and paid for by the Debtor was thrown 10 in the garbage or otherwise disposed of, correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And you don't know when after December 10th that was --
13 the phone was disposed of, correct?

14 A It was on or about that date, I'm sure.

15 Q Well, we know it was after December 10th, right?

16 A Okay. Or about that date.

17 Q You testified the other day that you just don't know who 18 made the decision to throw your phone away, right?

19 A I could find out, but I don't know. I would have to talk
20 to employees.

21 Q Did you make any request of the Debtor since your 22 deposition to try to find out the answer as to who made the 23 decision to throw your phone away?

24 A No.

25 Q How did you learn that your phone was thrown away?

Dondero - Direct

57

1 A As I testified, it's standard operating procedures every
2 time a senior executive gets a new phone.

3 Q Hmm. You don't know exactly who threw the phone away; is
4 that right?

5 A No, but I can find out.

6 Q Okay. I'm just asking -- I'm not asking you to find out.
7 I'm just asking you if you know. Do you know who threw your 8 phone away?

9 A No.

10 Q Do you know who made the decision to throw your phone
11 away?

12 A It -- there wasn't a decision. It was standard operating 13 procedure.

14 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike.

15 THE COURT: Sustained.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q You and Mr. Ellington disposed of your phones at the same
18 time, correct?

19 A I don't have specific awareness regarding what Mr.
20 Ellington did with his phone.

21 Q It never occurred to you to get the Debtor's consent
22 before throwing the phone that they had purchased away, right?

23 A I'm not permitted to talk to the Debtor.

24 Q Sir, it never occurred to you to get the Debtor's consent
25 before throwing the phone away, correct?

Dondero - Direct

58

1 A I'm going to stick with the answer I just gave.

2 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 75 of the transcript?
3 Lines 12 through 15. There is an objection there, Your Honor.
4 I would respectfully request that the Court rule on the 5 objection before I read the testimony.

6 THE COURT: Okay. Starting at Line 12?

7 MR. MORRIS: 12.

8 THE COURT: (sotto voce) (reading) Did it ever
9 occur to you to get the Debtor's consent before doing this?
10 Objection, form.

11 That objection is overruled.

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q All right. Mr. Dondero, did you give this answer to my 14 question on Tuesday?

15 "Q Did it ever occur to you to get the Debtor's
16 consent before doing this?

17 "A No."

18 A Yes, I gave that testimony.

19 Q Okay. And you also had the phone number changed from the 20 Debtor's account to your own personal account; is that right?

21 A The phone number changed? The phone number stayed the 22 same.

23 Q But you had the number changed from the Debtor's account
24 to your own personal account, correct?

25 A The Debtor said they wouldn't pay for it anymore. Who

Dondero - Direct

59

1 else could I change it to?

2 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I move to strike. It's a
3 very simple question.

4 THE COURT: Sustained.

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q I'll ask it one more time, Mr. Dondero. You had the phone
7 number changed from the Debtor's account to your personal
8 account, correct?

9 A I didn't change the number. I had the billing changed to 10 my personal account versus the company account.

11 Q And you never asked the Debtor for permission to do that,
12 correct?

13 A No.

14 Q And you never told Debtor you were doing that, correct?

15 A No.

16 Q And nobody ever told Mr. Seery or anybody at my firm that 17 the phone was being thrown in the garbage, correct?

18 A Well, --

19 MR. BONDS: To the extent he knows.

20 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I have no idea. But I didn't.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q You didn't believe it was necessary to give the Debtor
23 notice that you were taking the phone number for your own
24 personal account and throwing the phone in the garbage,
25 correct?

Dondero - Direct

60

1 A Correct.

2 Q The phone --

3 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'm going to object. He -- 4 Mr. Dondero did not testify he personally threw the phone in 5 the garbage.

6 MR. MORRIS: Withdrawn.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q Mr. Dondero, the phone was in Highland's offices on 10 December 10th, the date the TRO was in effect, correct?

11 A I -- I don't -- I -- I -- I don't know. You know, I don't
12 know. It's -- I remember going over to -- well, anyway, I -- 13 I don't know. We'll leave it at that.

14 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Exhibit G, please?

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q Who's Jason Rothstein, while we wait?

17 A Jason, Jason is our -- is the Highland head of technology.

18 Q Okay. And did you text with him from time to time? On or 19 about December 10th?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: Can we just scroll up a little bit?

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q Is that Mr. Rothstein there?

25 A Yes. Yeah.

Dondero - Direct

61

1 Q Okay. And do you see that there's a text message that you
2 sent to him on December 10th, right at the top? Can you read
3 -- can you read the text message Mr. Rothstein --

4 A He sent that to me. At the top.

5 Q I apologize. Thank you for the correction. Can you read
6 what Mr. Rothstein told you on December 10th?

7 A That my old phone is in the top drawer of Tara's desk.

8 Q And who's Tara?

9 A My assistant.

10 Q Is she still your assistant today?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And has she been serving as your assistant since the TRO
13 was entered into on December 10th?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay. Is it fair to say that you were informed on 16 December 10th that the phone was not thrown in the garbage,
17 had not been disposed of, but was instead sitting in Tara's
18 desk?

19 A As of that moment, yes.

20 Q Okay. And it's also fair to say that, as of December 21 10th, Mr. Rothstein didn't take it upon himself to throw your 22 old phone in the garbage, right?

23 A Not as of that moment. But like I said, I can find out
24 how it was disposed of.

25 Q If you were curious to do that, would you have done that

Dondero - Direct

62

1 before today?

2 A I haven't been curious.

3 Q Thank you very much. Someone you can't identify made the 4 decision after December 10th to throw the phone in the garbage
5 without asking the Debtor for permission or seeking the 6 Debtor's consent, correct?

7 MR. BONDS: I'm going to object, Your Honor. To the 8 extent that the witness knows, he can answer.

9 THE COURT: I -- I didn't hear --

10 THE WITNESS: I don't know.

11 THE COURT: I didn't hear what your objection was,
12 Mr. Bonds. Repeat.

13 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, my objection was along the 14 lines of to the extent that the witness knows, he could 15 testify, but if he doesn't know, he doesn't need to speculate.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, I don't hear an 17 objection there, but go ahead, Mr. Dondero, if you have 18 knowledge and can answer the question.

19 THE WITNESS: I don't know.

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q Do you recall that the Debtor subsequently gave notice to 22 you to vacate its offices and to return its cell phone?

23 A I don't know.

24 Q Did you ever --

25 A I know I -- I know I was told to vacate the offices. I

Dondero - Direct

63

1 didn't see the specific --

2 Q Uh-huh. Your lawyer -- your lawyers never told that
3 Debtor that the cell phone had been disposed of or thrown in 4 the garbage, consistent with company practice, right?

5 A I don't know.

6 MR. MORRIS: Can we put up Exhibit K, please?

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q This is the letter that my firm sent to your lawyer on 9 December 23rd. Do you see that?

10 A Yeah, I see it.

11 Q Okay.

12 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll down a little bit? Keep 13 going. Okay. Stop right there.

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Do you see that it says that, as a result of the conduct 16 described above, that the Debtor "has concluded that Mr.
17 Dondero's presence at the HCMLP office suite and his access to 18 all telephonic and information services provided by HCMLP are 19 too disruptive"?

20 A Yeah, I see it.

21 Q And this is the letter that gave you notice that you had 22 to vacate the premises by December 30th, correct?

23 A I believe so.

24 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll down a little bit?

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Dondero - Direct

64

1 Q You see at the bottom there's a reference to a defined
2 term of "cell phones"?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And it says that the Debtor "will also terminate Mr.
5 Dondero's cell phone plan and those cell phone plans
6 associated with parties providing personal services to Mr.
7 Dondero." Do you see that?

8 A Yes. Yeah.

9 Q Have I read that accurately?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And then my colleagues went on to write, "HCMLP demands
12 that Mr. Dondero immediately turn over the cell phones to 13 HCMLP by delivering them to you, Mr. Lynn." Do you see that?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Have I read that accurately?

16 A Yes.

17 Q The last sentence on the page begins, "The cell phones
18 and."

19 MR. MORRIS: And let's scroll down further.

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q "The cell phones and the accounts are property of HCMLP.
22 HCMLP further demands that Mr. Dondero refrain from deleting
23 or wiping any information or messages on the cell phone.
24 HCMLP, as the owner of the account and cell phones, intends to 25 recover all information related to the cell phones and

Dondero - Direct

1 accounts, and reserves the right to use the business-related
2 information." Have I read that accurately?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Okay. We were a couple of weeks too late, huh?

5 A It sounds like it.

6 Q Yeah. Because the phones were already in the garbage,
7 right?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Uh-huh. But that's not what Mr. Lynn told the Debtor on 10 your behalf, right?

11 A I don't know.

12 Q Mr. Lynn -- all right. Let's -- let's see what Mr. Lynn 13 said.

14 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Exhibit U, please?

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q It took Mr. Lynn six days to write a one-paragraph letter
17 in response, right? December 29th, he responded?

18 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll down a bit?

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q Let me read beginning with the second sentence of the 21 first substantive paragraph. "We are at present not sure of 22 the location of the cell phone issued to Mr. Dondero by the 23 Debtor, but we are not prepared to turn it over without 24 ensuring the privacy of the attorney-client communications."
25 And then he goes on.

Dondero - Direct

66

1 Have I read that correctly?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Okay. So Mr. Lynn didn't say anything about the phone
4 being thrown in the garbage, right?

5 A No.

6 Q He didn't say that it was disposed of, did he?

7 A No.

8 Q He didn't refer to any company practice or policy, right?

9 A No.

10 Q Mr. Lynn's not a liar, is he?

11 A No, he's not.

12 Q He's a decent and honest professional. Wouldn't you agree
13 with that?

14 A Yes.

15 Q And is it fair to say that he conveyed only the 16 information that he had at the time?

17 A I don't know.

18 Q Do you have any reason to believe that Mr. Lynn would 19 withhold from the Debtor the information that the cell phone
20 had been thrown in the garbage, consistent with company
21 practice?

22 A No, I don't believe he would withhold whatever he knew.

23 Q All right. Let's talk about -- let's talk about other 24 matters. You do know, sir, do you not, that the Debtor is 25 subject to the Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction?

Dondero - Direct

67

1 A Yes.

2 Q Okay. And we just saw in the December 23rd letter that
3 the Debtor demanded that you vacate their offices a week
4 later, right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And you knew that at or around the time the letter was 7 sent on December 23rd, correct?

8 A I -- I don't remember when I knew.

9 Q Well, in fact, in fact, you or through counsel asked for 10 an accommodation and asked for an extension of time to 11 December 31st; isn't that right?

12 A I had to pack up 30 years of stuff in three days. I -- I
13 know we asked for some forbearance. I don't think we got any.
14 I don't remember the details. I don't understand why it's 15 important.

16 Q Okay. It was actually -- withdrawn. The Debtor actually 17 gave you seven days' notice, right? They sent the letter on 18 December 23rd and asked you to vacate on December 30th,
19 correct?

20 A I don't -- I don't remember. But, again, I think the 21 initial response was it was inconsistent with shared services
22 agreement. No Highland employees are coming into the office
23 anyway. So kicking me out of my office was -- seemed 24 vindictive and overreaching. And we tried to get some, you
25 know, forbearance.

Dondero - Direct

68

1 Q Okay.

2 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Sustained.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Mr. Dondero, you were given seven days' notice before --
6 before you were going to be barred from the Debtor's office,
7 correct?

8 A I don't know.

9 Q Okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: Can we go back to Exhibit K, please?
11 Oh, actually, it's okay.

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q We just read, actually, the piece from the Debtor's letter
14 of December 23rd barring you from the Debtor's office. Do you
15 remember that? And we can go back and look at it if you want.

16 A Yes.

17 Q Was there anything ambiguous that you recall about the 18 Debtor's demand that you not enter their offices after
19 December 30th?

20 A Ambiguous? I can tell you what my understanding was or I
21 can tell you what the letter says. What would you like to 22 know?

23 Q I'd just like to know if, as you sit here right now, you
24 believe there was anything ambiguous about the Debtor's demand
25 that you vacate the offices as of December 30th?

Dondero - Direct

69

1 A I mean, I did vacate the offices as of December 30th.

2 Q Correct. And you knew that -- and you were complying with
3 the Debtor's demand you do that, right?

4 A Well, with the Court's demand, I guess.

5 Q Okay. And it's your understanding that you would not be 6 permitted in the Debtor's offices after that time, correct?

7 A Um, (pause), uh, I don't know how to answer that question.
8 I knew I wouldn't be residing in the offices anymore. But for 9 legitimate business purposes, to visit the people at NexPoint
10 who were in the office, since there are no Highland people in 11 the office, or to handle a deposition, you know, there was 12 nothing I thought inappropriate about that.

13 Q Did the Debtor tell you that they would allow you to enter
14 the offices any time you just believed that it would be 15 appropriate to do that?

16 A I used my business judgment.

17 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q I'm asking you a very --

20 THE COURT: Sustained.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q -- specific question, sir. Did the Debtor ever tell you
23 that they -- that you would be permitted to enter their 24 offices after December 30th if you, in your own personal
25 discretion, believed it to be appropriate?

Dondero - Direct

70

1 A No.

2 Q Did the Debtor provide you any exception to their demand
3 that you vacate the offices, without access, by and after
4 December 30th?

5 A I always do what I think is appropriate and in the best
6 interests. I don't know. I didn't know the specifics of the 7 Debtor's -- okay, yeah, what the specifics of the Debtor was.

8 Q Despite the unambiguous nature of the Debtor's demands
9 letter, on Tuesday you just walked right into the Debtor's
10 office and sat for the deposition, correct?

11 A I believe that was reasonable, yes.

12 Q Okay. But you didn't -- you didn't have the Debtor's
13 approval to do that, correct?

14 A We didn't have technology to do it anywhere else, so if 15 the deposition was going to occur, it had to occur there.

16 Q Sir, --

17 MR. MORRIS: Move to strike.

18 THE COURT: Sustained.

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q And I ask you to just listen very carefully. And if it's 21 not clear to you, please let me know. You did not have the 22 Debtor's approval to enter their offices on Tuesday to give 23 your deposition, correct?

24 A No.

25 Q And you did not even bother to ask the Debtor for

Dondero - Direct

71

1 permission, correct?

2 A I'm prohibited from contacting them, so no, I did not.

3 Q Okay. Let's talk about other events that occurred after 4 the entry of the TRO. We talked earlier about how you
5 interfered with Mr. Seery's trading activities on behalf of 6 the CLOs around Thanksgiving. Do you remember that?

7 A Yes.

8 Q But after the TRO was entered, the K&L Gates Clients also 9 interfered with the Debtor's trading activities, correct?

10 A No.

11 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Exhibit K, please? Can we 12 start at the first page? And scroll down just a bit.

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q Do you see there's an explanation there about the Debtor's
15 management of CLOs?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And there's a recitation of the history that we talked
18 about earlier, where around Thanksgiving you intervened to 19 block those trades?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And then the next paragraph refers to the prior motion
22 that was brought by the CLO entities? I mean, the K&L Gates
23 entities, right?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And you were aware of that motion at the time it was made,

Dondero - Direct

72

1 right?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And you were supportive of the making of that motion,
4 right?

5 A Supportive? Yes.

6 MR. MORRIS: And scroll down to the next paragraph,
7 please.

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q Okay. So, my colleague wrote that, "On December 22nd,
10 2020, employees of NPA and HCMFA notified the Debtor that they
11 would not settle the CLO sale of the AVAYA and SKY
12 securities." Have I read that right?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And that took place six days after the motion that the 15 Court characterized as frivolous was denied on December 16th?

16 A Yes. I wasn't aware of that, for what that's worth.

17 Q Okay. You personally instructed the employees --
18 withdrawn. NPA -- that refers to NexPoint, correct?

19 A Yes.

20 Q That's an entity you own and control, right?

21 A I -- largely.

22 Q And that's one of the Advisors we defined earlier, right?

23 A Yes.

24 Q And HCMFA, that's Fund Advisors, another advisory firm
25 that you own and control, correct?

Dondero - Direct

73

1 A Yes.

2 Q And you personally instructed, on or about December 22nd,
3 2020, employees of those Advisors to stop doing the trades
4 that Mr. Seery had authorized with respect SKY and AVAYA,
5 right?

6 A Yeah. Maybe we're splitting hairs here, but I instructed
7 them not to trade them. I never gave instructions not to 8 settle trades that occurred. But that's a different ball of 9 wax.

10 Q Okay. But you did instruct them not to execute trades
11 that had not been made yet, right?

12 A Yeah. Trades that I thought were inappropriate, for no
13 business purpose, I -- I told them not to execute.

14 Q Okay. You actually learned that Mr. Seery wanted to 15 effectuate these trades the Friday before, right?

16 A I don't know, but what did I do? When did I know it?
17 What did I do? When I knew things are inappropriate, I
18 reacted immediately. I don't -- I don't -- whenever -- 19 whenever I found out about inappropriate things, I reacted to 20 the best of my ability.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Sustained.

24 Mr. Dondero, I'm going to -- I'm going to interject some 25 instructions once again here. Remember we talked about early

Dondero - Direct

74

1 on, and I know you've testified before, but I'll repeat it:

2 You need to just give direct yes or no answers.

3 And let me just say that we see witnesses all the time do
4 what you're doing here, and that is they feel they need to say
5 more than yes or no. They feel the need to clarify or 6 supplement the yes or no answer they give. And just to remind
7 you how this works, your lawyer, Mr. Bonds, is going to be
8 given the opportunity when Mr. Morris is through to ask you
9 all the questions he wants, and that will be your chance to 10 clarify yes and no answers to the extent he asks you to 11 revisit certain of these questions and answers. Okay?

12 So I'm going to remind you once again: yes or no or 13 direct -- you know, other appropriate direct answers. Mr.
14 Bonds can let you clarify later. All right?

15 Mr. Morris, continue.

16 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.

17 Can we please put up on the screen Exhibit L? And at the,
18 I guess, the bottom of Page 1.

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q This is an email string. And --

21 MR. MORRIS: Go to the email below that, please.

22 Yeah. Okay. Right there.

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q This is an email from Mr. Seery dated December 18th at 25 (garbled) :30 p.m. Do you see that?

Dondero - Direct

75

1 A Yes.

2 Q And in the substantive portion of his email, continuing on
3 to the next page, he's giving instructions to sell certain SKY
4 and AVAYA securities that are held by CLOs, correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And Mr. Sowin forwarded this email to you, right?

7 A Yes.

8 MR. MORRIS: If we can scroll up.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q And you forwarded it to Mr. Ellington, right? I'm sorry.
11 Let's just give Ms. Canty a chance.

12 MR. MORRIS: Keep scrolling up.

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q So, Mr. Sowin forwarded it to you at 3:34 p.m. Do you see 15 that?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And if we scroll up, you turn around and give it to Mr.
18 Ellington a few minutes later, right?

19 A Yes.

20 Q So that you and Mr. Ellington and Mr. Sowin are all aware 21 that Mr. Seery wants to sell AVAYA and SKY securities on 22 behalf of the CLOs, right?

23 A Yes.

24 Q Why did you decide to forward this email to Mr. Ellington?

25 A Ellington's role has been of settlement counsel that

Dondero - Direct

76

1 supposedly everybody is able to talk to to try and bridge some
2 kind of settlement. Ellington, I thought, should be aware of 3 things that would make settlement more difficult or create 4 liabilities for the Debtor. And so I thought it was 5 appropriate for him to know.

6 Q Okay. This is the email that caused you to put a stop to 7 the trades that Mr. Seery wanted to effectuate, correct?

8 A This is the -- I'm sorry. Ask the question again. This 9 is the email that what?

10 Q This is -- this is how you learned that Mr. Seery wanted
11 to effectuate rates in AVAYA and SKY securities, right?

12 A I -- I learned about it pretty early on of him trading it.
13 I don't know if it was this email or -- or one of the others.
14 But yes, it was from -- it was from Joe Sowin.

15 Q And you would agree with me, would you not, that you
16 personally instructed the employees of the Advisors not to 17 execute the very trades that Mr. Seery identifies in this 18 email, correct?

19 A Yes.

20 Q At no time after December 10th, when the TRO was entered
21 into, did you instruct the employees of the Funds that you own
22 and control not to interfere or impede the Debtor's management
23 of the CLOs, correct?

24 MR. BONDS: Can you repeat the question? I'm sorry.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Dondero - Direct

77

1 Q At no time after December 10th, when the TRO was entered,
2 did Mr. Dondero instruct any employee of either of the 3 Advisors that he owns and controls not to interfere or impede
4 with the Debtor's business and management of the CLOs,
5 correct?

6 A I did not.

7 Q Okay. Neither you nor anybody that you know of ever
8 provided a copy of the TRO to the employees of the Advisors
9 that you own and control, correct?

10 A I don't know.

11 Q Okay. After the TRO was entered, the K -- after the TRO
12 was entered, and after the hearing on December 16th, the K&L
13 Gates Clients sent three more letters to the Debtor, right?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, those are Exhibits M as in 17 Mary, N as in Nancy, and X as in x-ray.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. MORRIS: Unless the witness thinks there is a
20 need to look at them specifically -- oh, let me just ask a 21 couple of questions.

22 BY MR. MORRIS:

23 Q Mr. Dondero, in those letters, it's your understanding
24 that the K&L Gates Clients again requested that the Debtor not 25 trade any securities on behalf of the CLOs, right?

Dondero - Direct

78

1 A Yes.

2 Q And it's your understanding that in those letters the K&L
3 Gates Clients suggested that they might seek to terminate the 4 CLO management agreements to which the Debtor was a party,
5 correct?

6 A I don't know specifically, but that wouldn't surprise me.

7 Q Okay.

8 A So, --

9 Q Is it your understanding that the K&L Gates Clients also 10 sent the letter a Debtor -- the Debtor a letter in which they 11 asserted that your eviction from the offices might cause them
12 damages and harm?

13 A I know there was objections to me -- I assume so. I don't 14 know specifically.

15 Q And you were aware of these letters at the time that they 16 were being sent, right?

17 A I'm sorry, what?

18 Q You were aware of these letters at the time they were 19 being sent by the K&L Gates Clients, right?

20 A Generally, yes.

21 Q And you were generally supportive of the sending of those 22 letters, right?

23 A I'm always supportive of doing what we believe is the 24 right thing, yes.

25 Q And in this case, you were supportive of the sending of

Dondero - Direct

79

1 these three letters, correct?

2 A I -- yes.

3 Q In fact, you pushed and encouraged the chief compliance
4 officer and the general counsel to send these letters, right?

5 A I push them to do the right thing. I didn't push them
6 specifically.

7 Q Okay. At the time the letters were sent, you were aware
8 that the K&L Gates Clients had filed that motion that was 9 heard on the 16th of December, correct?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And you were aware that they advanced the very same --
12 withdrawn. You're aware that in the letters they advance some 13 of the very same arguments that Judge Jernigan had dismissed
14 as frivolous just six days earlier, right?

15 A I wasn't at the hearing. I don't know if it was the same
16 arguments or similar arguments. I -- I can't -- I can't 17 corroborate the similarity or contrast the differences between 18 the two.

19 Q All right. So it's fair to say, then, that you were 20 supportive of the sending of these letters, you were aware of 21 the December 16 argument, but you didn't take the time to see 22 whether or not any of the arguments being advanced in the 23 letters were consistent or any different from the arguments
24 that were made at the December 16th hearing, correct?

25 A Correct. I wasn't directly involved, but still believed

Dondero - Direct

80

1 that fundamentally Seery's behavior was wrong.

2 Q You never instructed the K&L Gates Clients to withdraw the 3 three letters that were sent after December 10th, correct?

4 A No.

5 Q And you're aware that the Debtor had demanded that those 6 letters be withdrawn or it would seek a temporary restraining
7 order against the K&L Gates Clients, correct?

8 A I'm not aware of the back and forth.

9 Q Okay. Let's talk about your communications with Mr.
10 Ellington and Mr. Leventon. You communicated with them on 11 numerous occasions after December 16th, correct?

12 A No.

13 Q No, you didn't communicate with them many times after
14 December 10th?

15 A You're lumping in Ellington and Isaac, and numerous times
16 is a bad clarifier, so the answer is no.

17 Q I appreciate that. You communicated many times with Mr.
18 Ellington after December 10th, right?

19 A Not -- not outside shared services, pot plan, and him
20 being the go-between between me and Seery. I would say
21 virtually none.

22 Q Okay. On Saturday, December 12th, two days after the 23 temporary restraining order was entered against you, Mr.
24 Ellington was involved in discussions with your personal
25 counsel about who would serve as a witness at the upcoming

Dondero - Direct

81

1 December 16th hearing, correct?

2 A I don't -- I don't remember.

3 Q Let's see if we can refresh your recollection.

4 MR. MORRIS: Can we please put up Exhibit P? Can we 5 scroll down? Okay.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Do you see where Mr. Lynn writes you an email on Saturday,
8 December 12th, and he says, among other things, it looks like 9 trial?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And then if we scroll up a little bit, he wrote further,
12 "That said, we must have a witness now." Have I read that 13 accurately?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll back up?

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q And this is Mr. Ellington's response, right?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Can you read Mr. Ellington's response for Judge Jernigan?

21 A (reading) It will be J.P. Sevilla. I'll tell him that he 22 needs to contact you first thing in the morning.

23 Q Is it your testimony that this email relates to --
24 withdrawn. Mr. Ellington is not your personal lawyer, right?

25 A No. Mr. Ellington has been functioning as settlement

Dondero - Direct

82

1 counsel, trying to bridge settlement, --

2 Q Okay.

3 A -- which is what this email looks like to me.

4 Q Okay. I'll let -- I'll let the judge --

5 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Sustained.

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q So, after the TRO was entered, you and Mr. Ellington not 9 only communicated but Mr. Ellington was actively involved in 10 identifying witnesses to testify on behalf of your interests
11 at the December 16th hearing, correct?

12 A I -- I don't know what the witness was for, but I believe 13 Ellington was doing his job as settlement counsel, trying to 14 facilitate settlement. I don't -- I have no reason to think 15 this was anything more nefarious.

16 Q Okay. You looked to Mr. Ellington for leadership in 17 coordinating with all of the lawyers who were working for you
18 and your personal interests, right?

19 A I'm not agreeing with that.

20 Q No? All right.

21 MR. MORRIS: Let's look at the next exhibit. I think
22 it's Exhibit Q. And if we could stop right there.

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q There's an email from Douglas Draper, do you see that, on 25 December 16th?

Dondero - Direct

83

1 A Yes.

2 Q So this is after the TRO was entered into, right?

3 A I believe so.

4 Q And Mr. Draper represents Get Good and Dugaboy; is that
5 right?

6 A I believe so.

7 Q And he was new to the case at that moment in time, right?

8 A On or about, I believe so.

9 Q And he was looking to -- he was looking for a joint 10 meeting among all of the lawyers representing your personal
11 interests, right?

12 A No. I think he was trying to coordinate -- coordinate or 13 understand whatever. But not everybody -- he doesn't just 14 talk to lawyers around my interests. I mean, and he hasn't 15 sought agreements with just lawyers reflecting my interests.

16 Q You forwarded Mr. Draper's email to Mr. Ellington, right?

17 A Yes.

18 Q But you can't remember why you did that, right, or at 19 least -- withdrawn. You couldn't remember as of Tuesday's 20 deposition why you forwarded this email to Mr. Ellington,
21 right?

22 A Not specifically. But, again, Ellington is settlement
23 counsel.

24 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor, after the 25 initial phrase "Not specifically."

Dondero - Direct

1 THE COURT: Sustained.

2 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll up a little bit, please?

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Mr. Lynn responded initially with a reference to the 5 assumption that a particular lawyer was with K&L Gates, right?

6 A Yes.

7 MR. MORRIS: And if we could scroll up a little bit.

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q That's where you forward this email to Mr. Ellington,
10 right?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And can you read to Judge Jernigan what you wrote at 1:33
13 p.m.?

14 A (reading) I'm going to need you to provide leadership
15 here.

16 Q But at least as of Tuesday's deposition, you couldn't 17 remember why you needed Mr. Ellington to provide leadership,
18 right?

19 A Correct. Nor if he did.

20 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike the latter portion of 21 the answer, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Sustained.

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q So you have no --

1 MR. MORRIS: We're getting --

2 THE WITNESS: Can I -- can I hold -- can I hold on
3 for one second here? Can I just put you guys on mute, please?

4 MR. MORRIS: Sure.

5 (Pause.)

6 THE COURT: All right.

7 THE CLERK: John, there's some feedback again. I'm 8 sorry.

9 MR. MORRIS: That's okay.

10 THE COURT: Mr. Bonds, --

11 MR. MORRIS: We lost Mr. --

12 THE COURT: Mr. Bonds, what's going on?

13 MR. MORRIS: We've lost -- the screen --

14 THE COURT: You know you can't counsel your client in 15 the middle of court testimony. I thought maybe Mr. Dondero
16 had some non-legal thing going on in the background. Mr.
17 Bonds?

18 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I -- I did not in any way
19 counsel Mr. Dondero.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'll take your
21 representation on that. Are we ready to go forward?

22 MR. MORRIS: I'll readily accept Mr. Bonds'
23 representation as well, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. MORRIS: But I'd ask that it not happen again.

Dondero - Direct

86

1 THE COURT: Well, fair enough. I think Mr. Bonds
2 understands.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Mr. Dondero, you have no recollection of why you forwarded
5 this email to Mr. Ellington and why you told him you needed
6 him to provide leadership, correct?

7 A Correct.

8 MR. MORRIS: And if we can scroll up, can we just see
9 how Mr. Ellington responded?

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q All right. And can you just read for Judge Jernigan what 12 Mr. Ellington said on December 16th in response to your 13 statement that you're going to need him to provide leadership
14 here?

15 A (reading) On it.

16 Q Thank you. In your deposition, you testified without 17 qualification that Scott Ellington and Isaac Leventon did not 18 participate in the drafting of a joint interest or mutual
19 defense agreement. Do you recall that testimony?

20 A Yes, as far as I knew.

21 Q And you also testified that you never discussed with 22 either of them the topic of a joint defense or mutual defense
23 agreement; is that right?

24 A Correct. That was Draper.

25 Q Okay.

Dondero - Direct

87

1 MR. MORRIS: Can we put up Exhibit 11, please? I
2 apologize. It's Exhibit W. Okay. Can we stop right there?
3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q This is an email between some of your counsel and Mr.
5 Ellington. Do you see that?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And a common interest agreement is attached to the 8 communication. Is that a fair reading of the portion of the 9 exhibit that's on the screen?

10 A Yes.

11 MR. MORRIS: And can we scroll to the top of the 12 exhibit, please?

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q And do you see that there is an email exchange between Mr.
15 Ellington and Mr. Leventon concerning the common interest
16 agreement?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay. So it's your testimony that this email may exist
19 but you had no idea that Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon were 20 working with your lawyers to draft a common interest
21 agreement? Is that your testimony?

22 A I wasn't part of this. It looks to me like they were just 23 included in a -- a final draft. And, again, Ellington is 24 settlement counsel. I -- but I don't want to speculate why or 25 what they were doing.

Dondero - Direct

88

1 Q Do you remember that I asked you a few questions the other
2 day about Multi-Strat financial statements and whether or not
3 you'd ever given -- you'd ever received any of those documents
4 from Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay. And you testified under oath that you never got any 7 financial information, including balance sheets, concerning
8 Multi-Strat from either of those lawyers, correct?

9 A I -- hmm. I -- I don't remember. Yeah, I don't remember.
10 I may have to clarify that, but I don't remember.

11 Q You testified under oath the other day that you wouldn't 12 even think to ask them for financial information relating to 13 Multi-Strat because it's not natural for them to have it,
14 right?

15 A I -- I'm sorry.

16 THE WITNESS: Your Honor, do I just have to answer
17 these questions yes or no, or is that the -- can I clarify at 18 all, or can I --

19 THE COURT: Well, I mean, if the question simply 20 directs a yes or no answer, that's correct, you just answer
21 yes or no. And I think this one did.

22 Again, your lawyer is going to have the chance to do
23 follow-up examination later.

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q So let me try again. During your deposition, you

Dondero - Direct

89

1 testified under oath without qualification that you never got
2 any financial information, including balance sheets,
3 concerning Multi-Strat from Scott Ellington or Isaac Leventon,
4 correct?

5 A I believe I might have misspoken there.

6 Q Okay. But that was your testimony the other day, right?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And today, you believe you might have gotten that 9 information from them, right?

10 A Only because Ellington was supposed to be the go-between 11 and I couldn't go directly to somebody. But he wouldn't 12 normally have that information, which is what I was saying.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have an exhibit that's not 14 on the Debtor's exhibit list, and I was going to use it for 15 impeachment purposes to establish the fact that Mr. Ellington
16 and Mr. Leventon in fact gave to Mr. Dondero, after December
17 10th, financial information concerning Multi-Strat, which Mr.
18 Dondero had previously denied receiving. May I -- may I use
19 that document to impeach Mr. Dondero?

20 THE COURT: You may.

21 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'm going to object. This is 22 pretty clearly something that should have been disclosed and 23 it wasn't.

24 THE COURT: Well, he says it's purely to impeach the 25 testimony that Mr. Dondero just now gave. So we'll -- we'll

Dondero - Direct

90

1 see the document and, you know, I'll either agree with that
2 being impeachment or not. So, he may proceed.

3 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I think that the testimony
4 -- Your Honor, I'm sorry. I think that the testimony that was 5 (inaudible) given was that he thought that he may have talked
6 to Scott or Isaac, not that he did not.

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may, the testimony the 8 other day was unequivocal and unambiguous that not only didn't 9 he get this information from the two lawyers, but that he had 10 no reason to believe he would ever get the information from 11 those two lawyers.

12 I appreciate the fact that Mr. Dondero today is suggesting 13 that he may have, but I -- I would still like to use this 14 document to refresh his recollection and to impeach even the 15 possibility that he's giving this qualified testimony that he 16 may have.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. MORRIS: There's no doubt that he did.

19 THE COURT: I overrule the objection. You can go
20 forward.

21 MR. MORRIS: Can we please put up on the screen -- I
22 believe it's Debtor's Exhibit AA. And if we can scroll down,
23 please. And just stop, yeah, towards the top. All right.
24 Stop right there.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Dondero - Direct

91

1 Q Do you see in the first email Mr. Klos -- he's an employee
2 of the Debtor, right?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And he provides Multi-Strat balance sheet and financial 5 information to Mr. Leventon, Mr. Ellington, and Mr.
6 Waterhouse. Do you see that?

7 A Yes. He's the person I would normally go to.

8 Q Okay. And they're all Debtor employees, right?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. And then Mr. Leventon sends it to you and Mr.
11 Ellington on February 4th, 2020; is that correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And this is confidential information; is that fair?

14 A No.

15 Q Okay. Let's -- let's talk about the next --

16 A No, it's not -- wait, wait, hold on a second. Judge, I
17 need to clarify this. I -- it's not confidential information.
18 It's available to every investor, of which I was one of them.

19 Okay? So, let's -- let's not mischaracterize this as some 20 corporate secret.

21 Q Okay. You interfered with the Debtor's production of 22 documents; isn't that right?

23 A No.

24 Q Several times in the last year, various entities have 25 requested that Dugaboy produce its financial statements,

Dondero - Direct

92

1 correct?

2 A Dugaboy is my personal trust. It's not an entity of the 3 Debtor in any form or fashion.

4 Q Sir, you're aware that several times in the last year
5 various entities requested that the Debtor produce Dugaboy
6 financial information, correct?

7 A The Debtor is not in a position to do it. I -- I don't 8 know if it's been several times or whatever, but it's not
9 appropriate.

10 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Sustained.

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q I'll try one more time. If we need to go to the 14 transcript, we can. It's a very simple question. You knew 15 and you know that several times in the last year various 16 entities have requested that the Debtor produce Dugaboy
17 financial statements, correct?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Do you recall at the deposition the other day I asked you
20 whether you had ever discussed with Mr. Ellington and Mr.
21 Leventon whether or not the Dugaboy financial statements
22 needed to be produced, and you were directed not to answer the 23 question by counsel and you followed those directions?

24 A Yes.

25 Q But you communicated with at least one employee concerning

Dondero - Direct

93

1 the production of the Dugaboy financial statements, correct?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And that's Melissa Schroth; is that right?

4 A Yes.

5 Q She's an executive accountant employed by the Debtor,
6 right?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And on December 16th, after the TRO was entered into, you
9 instructed Ms. Schroth not to produce the Dugaboy financials
10 without a subpoena, correct?

11 A That was the advice I had gotten from counsel, yes.

12 Q Okay. The Dugaboy and Get Good financial statements are 13 on the Debtor's platform, correct?

14 A I do not know.

15 Q There is no shared services agreement between Dugaboy or 16 Get Good and the Debtor, correct?

17 A I don't know.

18 Q You're not aware of any; is that fair?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Okay.

21 MR. MORRIS: Can we put on the screen Exhibit R? And 22 can you scroll down a bit?

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q Okay. That's Melissa Schroth at the top there; is that
25 right?

Dondero - Direct

94

1 A Yes.

2 Q And these are texts that you exchanged with her after the 3 TRO was entered into, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll down a little bit?

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q And do you see on December 16th you sent Ms. Schroth an 8 email -- I apologize -- a text that says, "No Dugaboy details 9 without subpoena"?

10 A Yeah.

11 Q But you can't remember why you sent this text, correct?
12 At least you couldn't as of Tuesday?

13 A I believe it was on advice of counsel.

14 Q But that's not what you said on Tuesday, correct?

15 A I don't remember.

16 Q You sent this text even though you knew that various 17 entities had requested the Dugaboy financials, but you have no
18 recollection of ever talking to anyone at any time about the 19 production of those documents, right?

20 A Can you repeat the question?

21 Q I'll move on. Let me just -- last topic, and then I'm 22 going to respectfully request that we just take a short break.
23 You're familiar with the law firm of Baker & McKenzie; is that
24 right?

25 (Echoing.)

Dondero - Direct

95

1 A I'm sorry. You broke up on us there.

2 Q No problem. You're familiar with the law firm Baker &
3 McKenzie, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q That firm has never -- never represented you or any entity
6 in which you have an ownership interest, correct?

7 A Correct.

8 Q But in December, the Employee Group, of which Mr. Leventon
9 and Mr. Ellington was a part, was considering changing counsel
10 from Winston & Strawn to Baker & McKenzie, right?

11 A I believe so.

12 Q And you asked -- and because of that, you specifically
13 asked Mr. Leventon for the contact information for the lawyers
14 at Baker & McKenzie, right?

15 A I believe so.

16 Q Okay.

17 MR. MORRIS: Can we put up Exhibit S, please?

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q And who is that email sent from? I apologize. Withdrawn.
20 Who is that text message exchange with?

21 A Isaac Leventon.

22 Q Okay. And Mr. Leventon was an employee of the Debtor
23 after December 10th, correct?

24 A Yes.

25 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll down a little bit?

Dondero - Direct

96

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q And on December 22nd, you asked Mr. Leventon for the 3 contact information at Baker & McKenzie, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And the reason you asked Mr. Leventon for the contact
6 information, that was in connection with the shared defense or 7 mutual defense agreement, right?

8 A I -- I don't remember why. It might have just been for my 9 records. I don't know.

10 Q The only reason that you could think of for asking for 11 this information was for the shared defense or mutual defense
12 agreement, correct?

13 A I -- no, it -- I don't know and I don't want to speculate.
14 I don't want to -- I don't want to speculate. I -- did -- I
15 don't think I ever got -- I don't know what your point is.

16 MR. MORRIS: May we please go back to the transcript
17 at Page 136? At the bottom, Line 23.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q Were you asked this question and did you give this answer?

20 "Q Do you recall asking Isaac Leventon for the 21 contact information for the -- for the lawyers at 22 Bakers & McKenzie?

23 "A I -- I don't -- I don't -- it might have been for 24 part of the shared defense, mutual defense whatever
25 agreement, but that's -- that's the only reason I would

Dondero - Direct

97

1 have asked for it."

2 Q Did you give that answer to my question?

3 A Yeah. I shouldn't have speculated.

4 Q Okay. But that's the answer you gave the other day; is
5 that right?

6 A I shouldn't have speculated. That's my answer today.

7 Q And today -- withdrawn. In fact, you wanted the Baker
8 contact information in order to help Mr. Draper coordinate the 9 mutual defense agreement, correct?

10 A I don't want to speculate.

11 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 139, please? Lines 2
12 to 5.

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q Did you -- did you hear this question and did you give 15 this answer on Tuesday?

16 "Q Why did you want the Baker & McKenzie contact
17 information?

18 "A I was trying to help Draper coordinate the mutual
19 shared defense agreement, period."

20 Q Did you give that answer to my question on Tuesday?

21 A Yes.

22 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'd respectfully request a
23 short break to see if I've got anything more.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, I was going to ask you
25 how much more do you think you have. We've been going almost

Dondero - Direct

98

1 two hours.

2 So we'll take a break. Let's make it a ten-minute break.

3 And then, depending on how much more you have and how much Mr.

4 Bonds is going to have, we'll figure out are we going to need

5 a lunch break in just a bit.

6 All right. So it's 12:00 noon Central. We'll come back

7 at 12:10. Ten minutes.

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I have an instruction of 9 the witness not to check his phone for any purposes, not to 10 make -- not to communicate with anybody until -- until his 11 testimony is completed?

12 THE COURT: All right. Any -- any --

13 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, he's going to speak with me.

14 THE COURT: Pardon?

15 MR. BONDS: I assumed he will speak to me about just 16 general events. I mean, I don't want to be in breach of some
17 order.

18 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I would -- I would -- I would ask
19 for -- you know, it's not -- he's on the stand. He's still on 20 the stand.

21 THE COURT: Yeah. He --

22 MR. MORRIS: He shouldn't be conferring with counsel,
23 either. No disrespect to Mr. Bonds at all.

24 THE COURT: Exactly. I mean, you all can talk about,
25 you know, the national champion football game or whatever, but

Dondero - Direct

99

1 it would be counseling your client in the middle of testimony
2 if you -- if you talk about this case at the moment. So, you
3 know, --

4 MR. BONDS: I understand, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: All right.

6 MR. BONDS: I just didn't want to be --

7 THE COURT: All right. So now we'll come back at 8 12:11.

9 THE CLERK: All rise.

10 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

11 (A recess ensued from 12:01 p.m. until 12:12 p.m.)

12 THE CLERK: All rise.

13 THE COURT: Please be seated. This is Judge
14 Jernigan. We're going back on the record in Highland Capital
15 versus Dondero. We have taken an 11-minute break. It looks 16 like we have Mr. Dondero and counsel back. And Mr. Morris,
17 are you out there, ready to proceed?

18 MR. MORRIS: I am, Your Honor. And I do have just a 19 few more questions.

20 THE COURT: Okay. I'm sorry. Mr. Lynn, I see you're 21 there in the room with Mr. Dondero. Now, did you want to --

22 MR. LYNN: Here's Mr. Bonds. I apologize. He was in 23 the restroom.

24 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Everyone ready to 25 proceed?

Dondero - Direct

100

1 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Morris, go ahead.

3 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

4 DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q Can you hear me, Mr. Dondero?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Did you ever discuss the request of any party to produce
9 the financial statements of Get Good and Dugaboy with Scott
10 Ellington?

11 A Not that I recall.

12 Q Did you ever communicate with Mr. Leventon on the subject
13 matter of whether or not the financial statements for Get Good
14 and Dugaboy needed to be produced by the Debtor?

15 A No.

16 Q Those are the two questions that you were directed not to 17 answer the other day, right?

18 A I don't remember.

19 Q Okay. You mentioned that Mr. Ellington serves in some 20 capacity as settlement counsel. Do I have that right?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Do you know if there's any exception in the TRO that 23 permits you to communicate directly with Mr. Ellington in his 24 so-called capacity as settlement counsel?

25 A There was no change in his status in the TRO. It's -- and

Dondero - Direct

101

1 I think he was still used by both the Debtor and by me in that
2 function.

3 Q You said that -- you testified earlier that you understood
4 that you were prohibited from speaking with the Debtor's
5 employees, correct?

6 A Except for -- except for with regard to the pot plan,
7 shared services, and Ellington as settlement counsel. But I
8 continued to talk to employees about the pot plan as recently
9 as the end of the year, and I continued to talk to employees
10 about shared services based on the shared services proposal
11 that was sent to Ellington and forwarded to me as recently as 12 two days ago.

13 Q You never -- you never read the TRO, right?

14 A No.

15 MR. MORRIS: Can we have it put up on the screen? I
16 don't know the exhibit number, Ms. Canty, but hopefully it's 17 clear on the exhibit list.

18 MS. CANTY: I'm sorry, John. Can you repeat what 19 you're looking for?

20 MR. MORRIS: The TRO. (Pause.) Can we scroll down
21 to Paragraph 2, please? Okay.

22 BY MR. MORRIS:

23 Q I appreciate the fact that you've never seen this before,
24 Mr. Dondero, but let me know if I'm reading Section 2(c)
25 correctly. "James Dondero is temporarily enjoined and

Dondero - Direct

102

1 refrained from" -- subparagraph (c) -- "communicating with any
2 of the Debtor's employees, except for specifically -- except 3 as it specifically relates to shared services currently
4 provided to affiliates owned or controlled by Mr. Dondero."

5 Have I read that correctly?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Does that provide for any exceptions concerning the pot
8 plan?

9 A The Independent Board requested a meeting on the pot plan.

10 Q Okay. But does it -- I appreciate that, and we'll talk
11 about that in a moment, but my question is very specifically
12 looking at the order. And I, again, appreciate that you've 13 never seen it before. But looking at the order now, is there
14 any exception for you to communicate with the Debtor's
15 employees concerning the pot plan?

16 A I would think the pot plan would fall under that, since
17 some of the pot plan value is coming from affiliated entities
18 that are subject to the shared services agreement. I would 19 think that would be reasonable, again, plus the -- well, it
20 was the subject of a meeting with the Independent Board at the 21 end of the month.

22 Q Okay.

23 A I still think it's the best alternative for this estate.

24 Q Okay. Did you -- did you ever -- did you ever ask 25 anybody, on your behalf, have asked the Debtors whether they

Dondero - Direct

103

1 agreed with what you believed was a reasonable interpretation
2 of the restraining order?

3 A I did not.

4 Q Okay. And let's just deal with the notion of settlement
5 counsel. Do you see anywhere in this TRO -- and if you want
6 to read anything more, please let me know -- do you see
7 anything in this TRO that would permit you to speak with Mr.
8 Ellington in his so-called role as settlement counsel?

9 A Well, I would say, more importantly, I don't see anything
10 that takes away his role as settlement counsel, which was 11 formally done six months ago.

12 Q Okay. I did read Section 2(c) correctly, right?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And the only exception that's in Judge Jernigan's
15 restraining order that she entered against you relates to 16 shared services. Have I read that correctly?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay. Let's talk about the pot plan for a moment. After 19 the TRO was entered, you were interested in continuing to 20 pursue the pot plan; is that right?

21 A I still believe it's the best possible result for this 22 estate.

23 Q And you sought a forum with the Debtor's board, correct?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And you knew that you couldn't speak directly with any

Dondero - Direct

104

1 member of the Debtor's board unless your counsel and the
2 Debtor's counsel was -- was present at the same time.
3 Correct?

4 A Yeah. As a matter of fact, I didn't go. I just had 5 counsel go.

6 Q And the Debtor's board gave Mr. Lynn a forum for him to 7 present your pot plan after the TRO was entered. Isn't that
8 right?

9 A I believe so.

10 Q And are you aware that the Debtor's board spent more than 11 an hour and a half with Mr. Lynn talking about your pot plan
12 after the TRO was entered?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And is it fair to say that, notwithstanding Mr. Lynn's
15 goodwill and Mr. Lynn's efforts to try to get to a successful
16 resolution here, the terms on which the pot plan were offered
17 were unacceptable to the Debtor?

18 A I wasn't there. I -- I don't know.

19 Q The Debtor never made a counteroffer, did it?

20 A Not that I heard.

21 Q You'll admit, will you not, that over the last year you or 22 others acting on behalf -- on your behalf have made various 23 pot plan proposals to the Official Committee of Unsecured
24 Creditors?

25 A Quite generous pot plans that I think will exceed any

Dondero - Direct

105

1 other recoveries.

2 Q Okay. So you're aware that your pot plan was delivered
3 either by you or on your behalf to the U.C.C., correct?

4 A I -- some were. Some, I don't know.

5 Q Okay. Has the U.C.C. ever made a counterproposal to you?

6 A Nope.

7 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness.

9 Mr. Bonds, do you have any time estimate for me,
10 guesstimate?

11 MR. BONDS: My guess is, Your Honor, it'll be about 12 an hour. I would hope that we could take some type of a 13 break, just because I'm a diabetic and need to have some --

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, --

15 MR. MORRIS: I have no objection, Your Honor.

16 Whatever suits the Court. I'm willing to accommodate Mr.
17 Bonds always.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Let's take a 45-minute break.
19 Forty-five minutes. So, it's 12:22. We'll come back at seven
20 minutes after 1:00 Central time.

21 All right. We're in recess.

22 THE CLERK: All rise.

23 (A luncheon recess ensued from 12:23 p.m. to 1:15 p.m.)

24 THE CLERK: All rise.

25 THE COURT: Please be seated. This is Judge

Dondero - Cross

106

1 Jernigan. We are going back on the record in Highland Capital
2 Management versus Dondero. We took a lunch break. And when
3 we broke, Mr. Bonds was going to have the chance to examine
4 Mr. Dondero.

5 Let me just make sure we have, first, Mr. Dondero and Mr.
6 Bonds. Are you there?

7 MR. BONDS: Yes, we are.

8 THE COURT: All right. Very good. I don't see your 9 video yet, but -- there you are. All right. Mr. Morris, are 10 you there?

11 MR. MORRIS: I am here. Can you hear me, Your Honor?

12 THE COURT: I can. All right.

13 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

14 THE COURT: Well, we've got lots of other people, but 15 that's all I'll make sure we have at this moment. All right.
16 Mr. Bonds, you may proceed.

17 And, Mr. Dondero, I know you know this, but I'm required
18 to remind you you're still under oath.

19 Okay, go ahead.

20 CROSS-EXAMINATION

21 BY MR. BONDS:

22 Q Before you resigned as portfolio manager, how long had you
23 had with Highland Capital Management?

24 A Since inception in 1994.

25 Q Okay. And how long have your offices been at the

107

1 Crescent?

2 A Eight years.

3 Q Okay. Before you resigned as portfolio manager, did you
4 spend a lot of time in the office?

5 A Yes. I spent every business day this -- or 2020,
6 including COVID, in the office.

7 Q Okay. And this is the first time that you are not in the 8 office, is that right, in decades?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Can you tell us about the shared services agreement that 11 exists between the Debtor and the other entities in which you
12 have an interest?

13 A NexPoint, NexBank, the DAF, HFAM, primarily. I don't know
14 what other entities paid. Shared services, which is typical 15 in finance, for centralized tax, accounting, RICO function, so
16 that we don't have to have redundant, multiple high-paid
17 people in different entities. We'd have them centralized and 18 with collective experience and collective functionality. And 19 so, historically and recently, they pay Highland for those --
20 fees for those services. And I, as a non-paid employee, or a 21 non-employee of Highland but a paid employee of NexBank -- of 22 NexPoint, was -- and my occupancy and support were part of 23 those shared services agreement.

24 Q What do those agreements allow those entities to do?

25 A Would it allow those entities to do? Well, to access the

108

1 Highland functionality as appropriate, because most of those
2 entities, as is typical in finance, did not have their own
3 functionality, legal, tax, and -- legal, tax, and accounting,
4 but although they've been -- they've been building it lately
5 in anticipation of the pot plan not going through at Highland.

6 Q Okay. Do those agreements allow you to share office space
7 with --

8 MR. MORRIS: Objection --

9 THE WITNESS: Yes.

10 MR. MORRIS: -- to the form of the question, Your 11 Honor. I think the exhibits and the agreements themselves
12 would be the best evidence. They're not in evidence. They 13 haven't been offered in evidence. I have no way to challenge
14 the witness on anything he's saying. And on that basis, I'd 15 -- it's not fair to the Plaintiff.

16 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Bonds, can I ask you to 17 repeat your question? It was muffled and I was about to ask 18 you to repeat it before I got the objection. So, repeat the 19 question so I can --

20 MR. BONDS: Okay. I'm going to repeat it and amend
21 it.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 BY MR. BONDS:

24 Q Is it your understanding that those agreements allow you
25 to share office space with the Debtor?

109

1 A Yes. Virtually all of NexPoint's employees share the
2 Highland office space as part of a shared services agreement.

3 Q Do those agreements allow you to share -- I'm sorry,
4 excuse me. Strike that. What else do they allow?

5 A Typically is used in coordination of systems, servers,
6 software, cloud software, Internet software, office software,
7 tax, accounting, and legal functionality are all part of the 8 shared services agreement, although, you know, much of -- much
9 of that was stripped, you know, four or five months ago,
10 especially legal functionality and the accounting
11 functionality, without the concurrent adjustment in the 12 building.

13 Q Okay. And you previously testified that you generally
14 control NexPoint; is that correct?

15 A Generally. And the distinction I was trying to make is,
16 you know, following the financial crisis in '08, compliance
17 and the chief compliance officer has personal liability. along
18 with the rest of the C Suite, and operates independently, with 19 primary loyalty to the regulatory bodies. And they're -- 20 they're not controlled, bamboozled, or segued away from their 21 responsibility. And at all times, they're supposed to be 22 doing what they believe is right, regulatorily-compliant, and 23 in the best interest of investors.

24 So that was the distinction I was drawing between, A, what 25 I was trying to remind Thomas of, that he should be

Dondero - Cross

110

1 independent of Seery, in terms of following what he believes
2 is correct and regulatory-compliant. And I don't have to push
3 the NexPoint compliance people and general counsel to do
4 anything specific, nor could I. They are supposed to do what
5 is right from a regulatory investor standpoint, and I believe
6 that's what they've done.

7 Q All right. And what do you mean by the term or the usage
8 of the word "generally"?

9 A Well, that's the distinction I was just drawing. I mean,
10 generally, on regular business strategy, you know, major
11 investments, you know, other business items, I'm in control of 12 those entities. But in terms of the content and allegations,
13 regulatory opinions that come from compliance and the general
14 counsel, that is their best views on their own, knowing they 15 have compliance obligations and personal liability.

16 Q Do you believe that NexPoint and its other owners and 17 interest holders have rights independent from your own in this
18 case?

19 A Right, yes, and obligations, and responsibilities to 20 investors. I believe the attempt by the Debtor or Seery to 21 hide behind contracts that the Debtor has with the CLOs are -- 22 are a spurious, incomplete argument. You know, they're not in 23 compliance with those contracts. Bankruptcy alone is an event
24 of default. Not having the key man -- the key men, the 25 required requisite professionals that they're obligated to

Dondero - Cross

111

1 contractually have working at the Debtor is a clear breach, in
2 violation of those CLO contracts. Not having adequate staff
3 or investment professionals to analyze, evaluate, or follow
4 the investments in the portfolio is a clear violation. And 5 specifically telling investors in the marketplace that you
6 plan to terminate all employees, a date certain January 24th,
7 is a proclamation that you're not going to be in any form able 8 to be a qualified registered investment advisor or qualified
9 in any which way to manage the portfolio or be in compliance
10 with the CLO contracts.

11 I would -- I would further add that the selling of the 12 securities, and the SKY securities, represent incomplete
13 intentional incurring of loss against the investors. You have 14 securities that are less liquid with, you know, restructured
15 securities that have been owned for ten years, and they were 16 sold during the most illiquid weeks of the year, the couple
17 days before and after Thanksgiving, couple days before and 18 after Christmas, where the investors could have gotten 10 or 19 15 percent more on their monies if they were just sold in a
20 normal week. It's -- it's preposterous to me. It's 21 consistent with Seery not being an investment (garbled).

22 But it's preposterous to me that -- that this treatment of 23 investors is allowed or being camouflaged as some kind of 24 contractual obligation, when the investors have said these 25 funds are clearly in transition and the manager clearly is

112

1 incapable of managing them. You know, please don't transact
2 until the transition is complete. But Jim Seery has traded
3 every day, including -- I don't know about today, but every 4 day this week, selling securities for no investment rationale
5 and no business purpose.

6 Q Are you also portfolio manager for NexPoint?

7 A Yeah, I'm a portfolio manager for the closed-end retail
8 funds, which do have a higher fiduciary obligation than 9 anything on the institutional side. I'm a portfolio manager
10 for those '40 Act funds that are the primary owners of the 11 CLOs that Seery is selling securities in for some unknown
12 reason.

13 Q And what shared service agreements exist between NexPoint
14 and the Debtor?

15 A Those are the shared service agreements I spoke of. I
16 don't want to repeat myself.

17 Q And I'm going to call Highland Capital Management Fund
18 Advisors, LP just Fund Advisors. Is that okay with you?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Okay. And you testified generally -- that you generally
21 control Fund Advisors; is that correct?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Do you believe that Fund Advisors and its owners and 24 interest holders have rights independent from your own in this
25 case?

113

1 A Yes.

2 Q Are you the portfolio manager for Fund Advisors?

3 A Yes.

4 Q What shared services agreements exist between Fund
5 Advisors and the Debtor?

6 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. The agreements
7 themselves are the best evidence of the existence in terms of 8 any agreement between the Debtor and these entities.

9 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I can fix that.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 BY MR. BONDS:

12 Q I'm just asking: What is your understanding, Mr. Dondero,
13 of the shared service agreements between the Debtor and Fund
14 Advisors?

15 A It's similar to the agreement I mentioned earlier. It
16 covers a broad range of centralized services historically
17 provided by Highland, but now those, while still paying 18 smaller than historic fees, those entities now have been 19 required to incur the expenses of duplicating those functions.

20 Q Okay. Do you recall the email string dated November 24th
21 regarding SKY equity that the Debtor talked about?

22 A Yes.

23 Q What did you mean when you sent that email about the 24 trade? What did you mean, I'm sorry?

25 A I was trying to inform the traders, and once they knew --

114

1 they weren't willing to do the trades anymore once they knew
2 that the underlying investors had requested that their
3 accounts not being traded until the transition be -- until the 4 transition of the CLOs was effectuated.

5 It's -- it's standard by, you know, statute or 6 understanding, in the money and management business, when 7 you're moving accounts from one asset manager to another, and 8 someone requests that you don't do anything to their account,
9 you don't trade it whimsically. And so I was -- I was making
10 sure the traders knew that the underlying investors had 11 requested that no trades occur in their accounts.

12 And then I believed it was a clear violation of the 13 Registered Investment Adviser's Act. I believe that people
14 involved at a senior level or at a compliance level could have 15 material liability, and could create material liability for 16 the Debtor. And I think if, as I said before, I think if 17 anybody on this call were to call the SEC, they would start on 18 audit on this.

19 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I move to strike the first 20 portion of the answer prior to when he started to describe 21 what he believes and what he thinks. The first portion of the 22 answer was devoted to testifying about what is in the 23 knowledge of the people who he was communicating with.
24 There's no evidence. Mr. Dondero, of course, was free to call
25 any witness he wanted. He could have called the chief

115

1 compliance officer. He could have called the general counsel.
2 He could have called all the people he's now testifying on 3 behalf of, and he did not.

4 So I move to strike anything in the record that purports
5 to reflect or suggest the knowledge on behalf of any party
6 other than Mr. Dondero.

7 THE COURT: Okay. I'm --

8 MR. BONDS: Let me rephrase -- Your Honor, I'm going
9 to rephrase the question.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Very well.

11 MR. BONDS: I'm sorry.

12 THE COURT: So the motion to strike is granted. If 13 you're going to rephrase, go ahead.

14 MR. BONDS: Okay.

15 BY MR. BONDS:

16 Q Mr. Dondero, what did you mean when you said -- that the 17 emails about the trade?

18 A Okay. I'll give my intention by sending emails to stop
19 the trade and my basis for those emails. My intentions were 20 to inform the traders and to inform the compliance people that 21 I believe there was a trade that wasn't in the best interest
22 of the employees that had no business purpose for its 23 occurring. And the people involved weren't aware that the 24 investors had sent over requests not to trade their accounts
25 while they were in transition.

Dondero - Cross

116

1       So I made the traders aware of that. I made compliance
2 aware of that also. And it's my belief, based on 30 years'
3 experience in the industry, that it is entirely inappropriate
4 to trade the accounts of investors that are in transition, and 5 especially when you're not -- you're not contractually -- you
6 are contractually in default with that client, to trade their
7 account whimsically, for no business purpose. And I thought
8 it was a clear breach of both regulatory, ethical, and 9 fairness with regard to the investors.

10       So I -- what did you know, when did you know it, what did
11 you do? I did what I felt was the right thing, which I try 12 and do every day, and made all the relevant parties aware of 13 what was going on.

14       Q    Mr. Dondero, do you recall the text message you sent to 15 Mr. Seery in which you said, "Be careful what you do"?

16       A    Yes.

17       Q    What did you mean by that message?

18       A    It's -- I even said, Last warning. I mean, I -- he's 19 doing things against the interests of investors. He's 20 purposely incurring losses by trading in days and weeks and 21 time of the year, the day before and after Thanksgiving, where 22 any novice knows the markets are illiquid and anybody who can
23 read a computer screen can see you get ten percent less -- 24 five or ten percent less than you would the week before or the 25 week after. And with as much professional umbrage as

117

1 possible, I was recommending that he stop.

2 Q Did you intend to personally threaten Mr. Seery in any 3 way?

4 A No. It was bad -- bad intentional professional acts
5 against the interests of investors that flow through to '40
6 Act retail mom-and-pop investors. I was trying to prevent
7 those losses and those bad acts from occurring. And I believe
8 everybody who's -- everybody around that issue should be 9 ashamed of themselves, in my opinion.

10 Q Do you now regret sending the text?

11 A No. No, I mean, I could have worded it differently. I
12 was angry on behalf of the investors.

13 Q And Mr. Dondero, you have management ownership interest in 14 that entity; is that right?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Do you believe the interests or other entities in which 17 you are involved are independent from your personal rights in 18 this case?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And do you believe you caused anyone to violate the TRO?

21 A No. I've been -- I've been very conscious to just try and 22 champion the thing that -- things that I think are important
23 and the things that I've been tasked to do, like an attractive
24 pot plan to help resolve this case. I spend time on that.
25 But every once in a while, do I have to access, let's say,

Dondero - Cross

118

1 David Klos, who is the person who put the model together, who
2 has been working on it for six or nine months, and no one else
3 S has a copy of? Yes. Yeah, I have to -- I have to access
4 him. I don't believe that's the -- inappropriate or in any 5 way violating the spirit of the TRO.

6 I believe settlement in this case is only going to happen
7 with somebody fostering communication. And Ellington's role,
8 which I thought was a good one and I thought he was performing 9 well as settlement counsel, was an important role. And I used
10 him for things like -- and Seery also used him for things. As 11 recently as two days before Ellington was fired, Seery gave 12 him a shared services proposal to negotiate with me.
13 Ellington has always been the go-between from a settlement and 14 a legal standpoint. I think his role there was -- it was 15 valued. To try to honor the TRO was things like Multi-Strat,
16 that I didn't remember correctly. Ninety percent of the time
17 or for the last 20 years I would have gone directly to 18 Accounting and Dave Klos for it, but I purposely went to 19 settlement counsel in terms of Ellington in order to get the 20 Multi-Strat information which we needed in order to put the 21 pot plan together that we went to the Independent Board with 22 at the end of December.

23 Q (faintly) And do you recall the questions that Debtor's
24 counsel had regarding the letters sent by K&L Gates to clients
25 of the Debtor?

119

1 MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry, Your Honor. I had trouble
2 hearing that question.

3 THE COURT: Please repeat.

4 MR. BONDS: Sure.

5 BY MR. BONDS:

6 Q Do you recall the questions Debtor's counsel had regarding
7 the letters sent by K&L Gates to the clients of the Debtor --
8 to the Debtor?

9 A Yes.

10 Q You testified on direct that the letters were sent to do
11 the right thing; is that correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q What did you mean by that?

14 A I don't want to repeat too much of what I just said, but 15 the Debtor has a contract to manage the CLOs, which in no way
16 is it not in default of. It doesn't have the staff. It
17 doesn't have the expertise. Seery has no historic knowledge
18 on the investments. The investment staff of Highland has been 19 gutted, with me being gone, with Mark Okada being gone, with 20 Trey Parker being gone, with John Poglitsch being gone.

21 And there's -- there's a couple analysts that are a year
22 or two out of school. The overall portfolio is in no way
23 being understood, managed, or monitored. And for it to be 24 amateur hour, incurring losses for no business purpose, when 25 the investors have requested numerous times for their account

120

1 not to be traded, is crazy to me. Where the investors say, We
2 just want our account left alone. We just want to keep the 3 exposure. And Jim Seery decides no, there's -- I'm going to 4 turn it into cash for no reason. I'm just going to sell your 5 assets and turn them to cash and incur losses by doing it the 6 week of Thanksgiving and the week of Christmas. I think it's 7 -- it's shameful. I'm glad the compliance people and the 8 general counsel at HFAM and NexPoint saw it the same way. I
9 didn't edit their letters, proof their letters, tell them how 10 to craft their letters. They did that themselves, with 11 regulatory counsel and personal liability. They put forward
12 those letters.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor (garbled) the testimony that 14 Mr. Dondero just gave about these people saw it. They're not 15 here to testify how they saw it. We know that Mr. Dondero
16 personally saw and approved the letters before they went out.
17 He can testify what he thinks, what he believes. I have no
18 problem with that. But there should be no evidence in the 19 record of what the compliance people thought, believed,
20 understood, anything like that. It's not right.

21 THE COURT: All right. That's essentially a --

22 MR. BONDS: Your Honor?

23 THE COURT: -- a hearsay objection, I would say, or 24 lack of personal knowledge, perhaps. Mr. Bonds, what is your 25 response?

121

1 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, my response would be that
2 there are several exhibits the Debtor introduced today that 3 stand for the proposition that the compliance officers were 4 concerned. So I think there is ample evidence of that in the 5 record.

6 THE COURT: I didn't --

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, the letter --

8 THE COURT: I did not understand what you said is in 9 the record. Say again.

10 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'm sorry. The -- there are 11 -- there are references that are replete in the record that 12 have to do with the compliance officers' understanding of the 13 transactions.

14 THE COURT: I don't know what you're referring to.

15 THE WITNESS: Your Honor?

16 THE COURT: I've got a lot of exhibits. You're going
17 to have to point out what you think --

18 THE WITNESS: Can I -- can I -- can I -- can I answer
19 for -- that for a second? The letters that were signed by the 20 compliance people or by the businesspeople at NexPoint and 21 HFAM objecting to the transactions, those letters were their 22 beliefs, their researched beliefs. They weren't --

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 THE WITNESS: -- micromanaged by me. You know, they 25 weren't -- I agree with them, but those weren't my beliefs

122

1 that they've stated. Those were their own beliefs and their
2 own research, --

3 THE COURT: All right.

4 THE WITNESS: -- and the record should reflect --

5 THE COURT: This is clearly hearsay. I mean, it's 6 one thing to have a letter, but to go behind the letter and 7 say, you know, what the beliefs inherent in the words were is 8 inadmissible. All right? So I strike that.

9 THE WITNESS: Maybe ask your question again.

10 BY MR. BONDS:

11 Q Yeah. What is your understanding of the rights that these 12 parties had and what do you believe that was intended to be 13 conveyed by the compliance officers?

14 MR. MORRIS: Objection. Calls -- calls for Mr.
15 Dondero to divine the intent of third parties. Hearsay.

16 THE COURT: I sustain.

17 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, --

18 MR. MORRIS: No foundation.

19 MR. BONDS: -- I don't agree. I think that this is 20 asking Mr. Dondero what he thinks.

21 MR. MORRIS: The letters speak for themselves, Your
22 Honor.

23 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain --

24 MR. MORRIS: And Mr. --

25 THE COURT: I sustain the objection.

Dondero - Cross

123

1 MR. MORRIS: All right. Thank you.

2 THE WITNESS: Ask me what I know. Or ask me what my
3 concerns --

4 BY MR. BONDS:

5 Q Let me ask you this. What were your concerns relating to 6 the compliance officers' exhibit?

7 A My concerns regarding the transaction, the transactions,
8 which may repeat what I've said before, but I do want to make 9 sure it gets in the record. So if we have to make a -- these 10 were my concerns, whether or not they were the compliance
11 people's concerns. I believe they were, and I believe they 12 were similar, but I'm just going to say these are -- these 13 were my concerns.

14 The Debtor, with its contractual -- with its contract with 15 the CLOs, were in no way -- was in no way compliant with that 16 contract or not in default of that contract. Bankruptcy is a 17 reason for default. Not having the key men specified in the 18 contract currently employed by the Advisor is a violation.
19 Not having adequate investment staff to manage the portfolio
20 is a violation of that contract. Announcing that you're 21 laying off everybody and will no longer be a registered
22 investment advisor is proclaiming that you, if you even have 23 any -- any -- pretend that you're qualified or in compliance
24 with the contract now, you're broadcasting that you won't be 25 in three weeks, are -- are all mean that you're not in good

124

1 standing. Okay? Number one.

2 Number two, when the investors know that it's in 3 transition, you're not in compliance as a manager, you're not 4 going to be an RIA in three weeks, the accounts are going to 5 have to transition to somebody else in three weeks, and the 6 investors ask you, Please don't trade my accounts between now
7 and then, that is -- that is a -- if it's not a per se, it's 8 an ethical and a spirit violation of any relationship between 9 an investor and an asset manager.

10 To then sell assets -- not replace assets, just sell
11 assets for cash -- and purposely do it on the least liquid
12 days of the year -- the day before Thanksgiving, the day after 13 Thanksgiving, the week of Christmas, this past week, whatever
14 -- to purposely incur losses so that the investors suffer ten
15 or fifteen percent losses that other -- on each of those sales
16 that they wouldn't otherwise have to incur, and for no stated
17 business purpose, for no investment rationale, with no staff
18 to even say whether the investment is potentially going up or 19 down, is -- is -- is -- I've never seen anything else like it.

20 And I will stand up and say it every day: I'm glad the 21 letters went out from HFAM and from NexPoint. I would never 22 recommend they get retracted. And I believe everybody who 23 signed those letters meant everything in those letters. And I
24 believe the letters are correct. And I believe the whole
25 selling of CLO assets is a travesty.

125

1 My personal opinion, we need an examiner or somebody here
2 to look at this junk and look at some of the junk that 3 occurred earlier this year. This -- this stuff is 4 unbelievable to me.

5 Q Generally, who holds interests in the CLOs?

6 A A vast majority of the CLOs that we're speaking of that
7 Seery has been selling the assets of are owned by the two
8 mutual funds, the two '40 Act -- the two '40 Act mutual funds
9 and the DAF. Between them, I think out of -- eleven out of 10 the sixteen CLOs, they own a vast majority, and then I think,
11 whatever, two or three they own a hundred percent, and I think
12 two or three they own a significant minority.

13 And just because they don't own a hundred percent doesn't 14 somehow allow a registered investment advisor to take 15 advantage of an investor. And I -- I've never understood that 16 defense. I wouldn't be able -- in my role of 30 years, I
17 wouldn't be able to tell that to an investor, that, hey, you
18 had a contract with us, we did something that wasn't in your 19 best interest, but we got away with it because you didn't own
20 a hundred percent, you only owned eighty percent.

21 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I move to strike. There's 22 no contract between the Debtor and Mr. Dondero's -- and the 23 entities that he owns and controls for purposes of the CLO.
24 The only contract is between the Debtor and the CLOs
25 themselves.

126

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, I overrule whatever
2 objection that is. Again, if you want to bring something out
3 on cross-examination or through Mr. Seery, you know, you're 4 entitled to do that.

5 All right. Please continue.

6 BY MR. BONDS:

7 Q Do you believe these letters were sent by the Funds to the 8 Advisors because they are trying to protect the independent
9 entities?

10 A They're trying to protect their investors. They were 11 trying to protect their regulatory liability for activities
12 they see that are not in the best interests of investors.

13 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. I move to 14 strike. He's again testifying as to the intent of the people
15 who sent the letters who are not here to testify today.

16 THE COURT: Sustained.

17 BY MR. BONDS:

18 Q Mr. Dondero, what is your belief as to the letters that 19 were sent by the Funds and Advisor? Is -- are they trying to 20 protect their independent interests?

21 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. Asked and
22 answered.

23 THE COURT: Sustained.

24 THE WITNESS: Ask me --

25 BY MR. BONDS:

Dondero - Cross

127

1 Q What is your understanding of why the letters were sent?

2 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. Asked and
3 answered.

4 THE COURT: Sustained.

5 BY MR. BONDS:

6 Q Mr. Dondero, would you have sent the letters?

7 A I would have sent the letters exactly or very similar or 8 probably even more strongly than the letters were stated, for 9 the purposes of protecting investors, to protecting mom-and-
10 pop mutual fund investors from incurring unnecessary losses by 11 an entity that was no longer in compliance with their -- with 12 their asset management contract and because the investors had 13 requested that their account just be frozen until it was 14 transitioned.

15 That's why I would have sent the letter. That's why I
16 believe the letter should be sent. That's why I'm happy they 17 were sent. That's why we've never retracted.

18 Q Mr. Dondero, who is Jason Rothstein?

19 THE COURT: I did not hear the question.

20 THE WITNESS: Jason -- Jason --

21 MR. BONDS: Who --

22 THE COURT: Please repeat.

23 MR. BONDS: Yes. I asked Mr. Dondero who Jason
24 Rothstein was.

25 THE WITNESS: Jason Rothstein heads up our systems

Dondero - Cross

128

1 department at Highland Capital.

2 BY MR. BONDS:

3 Q Can you explain what your text message to Mr. Rothstein
4 was about?

5 A Which text message? The one where it was in the drawer?

6 Q Yeah.

7 A Uh, --

8 Q And that was actually from him, not you.

9 A Yeah. That was from him. I think he transferred icons or 10 set up personal stuff to the new phone, and he was just saying
11 that the old phone was in Tara's drawer.

12 Q And you don't know whether -- what's happened to the 13 phones, do you?

14 A No. Like I said, I believe they've been destroyed, but I
15 -- I can find out. I mean, I can query and find out who 16 destroyed it, if that's important.

17 Q And you understood that you were not supposed to talk to 18 the Debtor's employees; is that correct?

19 A Like I said, except for my roles regarding shared 20 services, the pot plan, and trying to reach some type of 21 settlement, I've had painfully few conversations with the 22 Debtor's employees.

23 Q When you talked to certain employees, did you think it was 24 an -- under an exception to the TRO, like shared services,
25 related to the pot plan, or settlement communications?

129

1 A Yes.

2 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I move to strike. Mr.
3 Dondero never read the TRO. He's got no basis to say what the 4 TRO required and didn't require.

5 MR. BONDS: That wasn't the -- that wasn't the
6 question.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. BONDS: I'm sorry.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Rephrase the question, please.

10 MR. BONDS: Okay. I'm sorry.

11 BY MR. BONDS:

12 Q When you talked to these -- to certain employees, did you
13 think it was under an exception to the TRO, like shared
14 services, relating to the pot plan, or settlement
15 communications?

16 A Yes. Absolutely.

17 MR. MORRIS: I object. No foundation.

18 THE COURT: Sustained.

19 BY MR. BONDS:

20 Q Mr. Dondero, do you understand -- did your lawyers explain
21 to you the TRO?

22 A Yes.

23 Q And who was the lawyer that explained the TRO to you?

24 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I don't know if we're 25 getting into a waiver of privilege, but I just want to tell

Dondero - Cross

130

1 you that my antenna are up very high.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Mine are as well, Mr. Bonds. Are
3 you about to waive the privilege?

4 MR. BONDS: No, Your Honor, I am not.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Well, it sounded like perhaps we 6 were about to have the witness testify about conversations he 7 had with lawyers.

8 MR. BONDS: I'm sorry, Your Honor. That was not my 9 intention. Again, I'm asking Mr. Dondero to explain for us
10 his contact with -- or, his impression of the TRO.

11 BY MR. BONDS:

12 Q What did the TRO mean to you?

13 A The TRO meant to me that I was precluded from talking to 14 Highland employees -- which, again, very few, if any, were 15 coming into the office. I was not talking to Highland 16 employees with any regularity anyway. But there was an 17 exception with regard to Scott Ellington regard -- Scott
18 Ellington in terms of him functioning as settlement attorney
19 to try and bridge the U.C.C., the Independent Board, Jim 20 Seery, other people, and things that impacted me or other
21 entities.

22 I also viewed that there was an exception for the pot
23 plan, which had been presented and gone over as recently as 24 December 18th and 20th. And -- or December 18th, I think, was 25 the date.

Dondero - Cross

131

1 And you know what, I want to clarify a characterization of
2 the pot plan. I still believe it's the best and most likely
3 alternative for this estate in the long run. I think what 4 we've proposed numerous times is more generous than what
5 anyone will receive in a liquidation and in a more timely
6 fashion.

7 And the last time we presented it to the Independent
8 Board, the Independent Board thought it was attractive and 9 thought we should go forward with it to the U.C.C. and other
10 parties.

11 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I move to strike the last 12 portion of the answer that purports to describe what the 13 Independent Board thought.

14 THE COURT: Well, --

15 MR. MORRIS: No foundation. Hearsay.

16 THE COURT: What is your response to the hearsay
17 objection, Mr. Bonds?

18 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I don't have one.

19 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain.

20 BY MR. BONDS:

21 Q What exceptions did you believe there were for 22 communications with employees?

23 A Okay. Thank you. Yeah. Like I said, I covered Scott
24 Ellington and settlement counsel. I covered the pot plan.

25 Q Okay.

Dondero - Cross

132

1 A My -- my view of the pot plan as -- my view of the pot
2 plan was that it was very attractive, and I had received
3 encouragement to go forward with it as something that should 4 be workable. That's my testimony on that.

5 And then -- and we talk about negotiating shared services.
6 So, there's shared services in terms of overlap in 7 functionality, but there's also, in terms of negotiating the 8 shared services agreement, which, as I said, was something
9 that Ellington was put in charge of three or four days ago by 10 Jim Seery to negotiate with us. And he reached out to me to 11 negotiate it. And I think the Pachulski deadline on it was 12 three days later. That whole process was something that I
13 viewed as separate from the TRO, especially since it was 14 initiated by Jim Seery, DSI, et cetera, and consistent with 15 what Scott Ellington's role had been for the last six, nine
16 months.

17 Q As to the Debtor's request that you vacate the office
18 space, did you comply with this request?

19 A Yes.

20 Q What did you think that vacating meant?

21 A I moved out all my -- my personal items to a new office at 22 NexBank.

23 Q (faintly) And, in fact, did you work on the last day over
24 to 3:00 a.m.?

25 A Yes. 4:00.

Dondero - Cross

133

1 THE COURT: Mr. Bonds, I didn't hear your question.

2 I didn't hear your question.

3 MR. BONDS: Okay. I'm sorry.

4 BY MR. BONDS:

5 Q Did -- isn't it true that you worked through the night, to 6 3:00 or 4:00 a.m., to vacate the premises?

7 A Yes. Until 4:00 a.m. on the last day, to organize and 8 pack up all my stuff, yes.

9 Q Did you think your presence in the office, with no other
10 employees there, violated the spirit of the TRO?

11 A No. I thought it was over the top and meant to tweak me,
12 but, yeah, there's no -- there's not Debtor employees coming
13 in since COVID.

14 Q (faintly) Okay. And you thought you could talk to Mr.
15 Ellington and -- as settlement counsel; is that correct?

16 MR. MORRIS: I'm having trouble hearing it, Your
17 Honor.

18 THE WITNESS: Yes.

19 THE COURT: Yeah. We're -- Mr. Bonds, please make 20 sure you speak into the device.

21 MR. BONDS: I'm sorry. I'll try to get closer.

22 Okay. I asked the Debtor -- or I, excuse me, I asked Mr.

23 Dondero if he thought he could talk to Ellington as a go-

24 between or settlement counsel. And I asked him if that was

25 correct.

134

1 THE WITNESS: Yes. For settlement, shared services,
2 the pot plan. Nothing that interrupts or affects the Debtor,
3 but for those purposes, as has consistently occurred for the 4 last six months.

5 BY MR. BONDS:

6 Q Okay. And you saw the texts and emails presented by the 7 Debtor between you and Mr. Leventon; is that correct?

8 A The one regarding Multi-Strat?

9 Q Yes.

10 A Yes.

11 Q In your understanding, did you believe those 12 communications were allowed under the TRO?

13 A Well, yes. And, again, to clarify my -- my contrasting
14 testimony, I would never typically have gone to them for that 15 kind of information, but to be compliant with the TRO, for 16 Multi-Strat information, which I needed in order to put 17 together the pot plan that the Independent Board audienced on 18 December 18, I needed the information on Multi-Strat, and I
19 requested it as appropriate through settlement counsel
20 Ellington. And I think Ellington requested it from Isaac, who 21 requested it from David Klos.

22 The whole purpose, I believe -- my belief is the whole
23 purpose of this TRO is to make it impossible for us to get 24 information to come up with alternatives other than a -- the 25 plan proposed by Jim Seery. It's our -- if -- if -- without

Dondero - Cross

135

1 Ellington in the go-between, which he's now no longer an
2 employee, I assume the only way we get any information,
3 balance sheet or anything from Highland Capital, is with a
4 subpoena.

5 And as much as I've tried to engage or make an attractive
6 pot plan for everybody, each one of them has been a complete
7 shot in the dark, without even knowing the assets and 8 liabilities of Highland, but just estimating where they were 9 or were likely to be.

10 Q Do you believe your text message with Leventon caused any 11 harm to the Debtor's business?

12 A No. It potentially fostered a pot plan, because, you have 13 to know, the pot plan needed -- one of the aspects of the pot
14 plan was the --

15 Q Do you still want to advocate for your pot plan?

16 A I think that's eventually where we ultimately end up. Or 17 -- or should end up. Otherwise, I fear it's going to be an 18 extended, drawn-out process.

19 Q And how much did you initially propose to pay creditors in 20 this case?

21 A The most recent -- the most recent pot plan?

22 Q No. The -- initially.

23 A The initial pot plan, I believe, was $160 million.

24 Q And what about the notes?

25 A There was $90 [million] of cash and I believe $70

Dondero - Cross

136

1 [million] of notes.

2 Q And what is Multi-Strat?

3 A Multi-Strat is a fund that's managed by Highland. They 4 used to have $40 or $50 million in value. It used to contain
5 a lot of life settlement policies. And I believe now has $5
6 or $6 million of value, after assets have been sold.

7 Q Do you recall the email Debtor's counsel presented
8 regarding the balance sheet today?

9 A The balance sheet of Multi-Strat?

10 Q Correct.

11 A Yes.

12 Q Do you believe you were entitled to see that document?

13 A Yes. It's just -- again, for the pot plan, I needed it.
14 But also I'm an investor in that fund and I'm entitled to it.
15 It's -- there was nothing in there that was improper or 16 untoward or in any way damaged the Debtor.

17 Q And you recall the request for documents sent by the 18 Debtor; is that correct?

19 A On my -- my personal estate plan?

20 Q No, on Multi-Strat.

21 A The Debtor's request on -- I'm sorry. What was that?

22 Q The Debtor sent you a request for Multi-Strat. For Duga
23 -- I'm sorry.

24 A For Dugaboy? Okay.

25 Q Dugaboy.

Dondero - Cross

137

1 A Yeah. There's -- there's personal estate planning trusts.
2 Some are active. Some are inactive. Some have been around
3 for 15 years. But they're -- they're not assets or anything
4 that's related to the estate. And that was -- that was my 5 text to Melissa that said, you know, Not without a subpoena.

6 Q Mr. Dondero, if you remember back on Exhibit K, there was 7 some request that you terminate your offices at the Crescent,
8 and I think you were given seven days' notice to do that. Do
9 you know if Christmas occurred during that time?

10 A I believe it did.

11 Q So, if Christmas and Christmas Eve are both holidays, how 12 many days, business days, did they give you to terminate or to 13 get out of the space?

14 A There would have been three business days. It was Monday
15 through Wednesday that I moved out.

16 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'll pass the witness.

17 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris?

18 THE WITNESS: Take a break. I hope.

19 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'm sorry, can I take a ten-
20 minute break? I think that I'm going to be through, but I
21 don't know.

22 THE COURT: All right. I'll give you a ten-minute
23 break.

24 MR. BONDS: All right. Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: We're coming back at 2:15.

Dondero - Cross

138

1 THE CLERK: All rise.

2 (A recess ensued from 2:06 p.m. until 2:16 p.m.)

3 THE CLERK: All rise.

4 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're back
5 on the record in Highland versus Dondero. Mr. Bonds, do you
6 have more examination?

7 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I have one question.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. BONDS: And that's --

10 MR. LYNN: And one more witness.

11 MR. BONDS: And one more witness.

12 CROSS-EXAMINATION, RESUMED

13 BY MR. BONDS:

14 Q Do you think that Scott Ellington and Isaac Leventon were 15 treated appropriately by the Debtor?

16 A No, I do not. I don't think they've been treated fairly,
17 nor do I think other senior employees have been treated
18 fairly. I've never seen a bankruptcy like this where, during 19 complex unwinding of 20 years of various different entities
20 and structures, relying on the staff, working them hard,
21 working overtime, a lot of investment professionals like
22 lawyers and DSI just putting their name on the work of stuff
23 that was done by internal employees, getting to the end of the 24 year, trying to pay people zero bonuses and retract prior 25 years' bonuses, and try and come up with legal charges against

139

1 those people is unusual to this case and my experience, in the 2 bankruptcies we've been involved in, where typically
3 management teams get paid multiples of current salary to stay
4 on and be the experts.

5 I also think they were put in difficult spots from the 6 very beginning. It was Jim Seery that made Scott Ellington
7 the settlement counsel six, seven months ago. It was a
8 broadly-defined role that was never retracted, never adjusted,
9 never modified, yet somehow he and Isaac violated it. I don't
10 know. I haven't spoken to them since they've been terminated.
11 They aren't allowed to speak to me, from what I hear. But I
12 wish them luck in their claims.

13 THE COURT: Okay. You pass the witness?

14 MR. BONDS: Yes, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, do you have 16 further examination?

17 MR. MORRIS: Just a few questions.

18 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

19 BY MR. BONDS:

20 Q Mr. Dondero, you knew about this hearing for some time,
21 right?

22 A No.

23 Q When did you first learn this hearing was going to take 24 place?

25 A Two days ago.

Dondero - Redirect

140

1 Q Two days ago?

2 A When was the depo, three days ago? Whatever.

3 Q And you didn't know prior to the deposition that we would
4 be having a hearing today on the Debtor's motion for a
5 preliminary injunction?

6 A No. I thought it was going to be postponed or canceled.
7 I was waiting for the text last night.

8 Q You had an opportunity to call any witness in the world
9 you wanted to today, right?

10 A I guess.

11 Q You could have called -- you could have called the chief
12 compliance officer at the Advisors if you thought the Court
13 should hear from him as to the compliance issues that you've 14 testified to, right?

15 A I think their letters stand on their own.

16 Q Okay. So you didn't think that it was important for the 17 Court to hear from Mr. Sowin directly, correct?

18 A Sowin is a trader.

19 Q I'm sorry. Who's the chief compliance officer of the 20 Advisors?

21 A Jason Post, as far as NexPoint is concerned. He's the one
22 that would have been behind the K&L -- K&L letters.

23 Q And he is not here today to testify, right?

24 A I think his letters stand on their own and I think
25 everybody should read them, make sure they read them.

Dondero - Redirect

141

1 Q Okay. But Mr. Post is not here to answer any questions;
2 is that right?

3 A I don't know if there are any questions beyond what's
4 obviously stated in the letters. You should read the letters
5 carefully. They're -- they're -- they talk about clear
6 violations.

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I move to strike. It's a
8 very simple question.

9 THE COURT: Sustained. That was another yes or no
10 answer, Mr. Dondero. Go ahead.

11 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q Mr. Dondero, Mr. Post is not here to testify in order to 14 explain to the Court what he thinks the regulatory issues are,
15 correct?

16 A He's not here today.

17 Q And you could have called him as a witness, correct?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And you thought Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon were 20 treated unfairly, right?

21 A Yes.

22 Q And there's no reason why they couldn't have come today to 23 testify, correct?

24 A I guess they could have.

25 Q And there's no reason why anybody on behalf of the K&L

Dondero - Redirect

142

1 Gates clients couldn't have been here to testify, correct?

2 A I didn't deem it necessary, I guess.

3 Q Okay. You could have offered into evidence, at least
4 offered into evidence, any document you wanted, right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And you could have offered the judge, for example, the 7 shared services agreement, the shared services agreements for 8 which you gave the Court your understanding, right?

9 A Which shared services, the one that Seery gave Ellington
10 three days ago or the original one from years ago?

11 Q Any of the ones -- any of the ones that you have referred 12 to today. You could have given any of them to the judge,
13 right?

14 A Correct.

15 Q And you didn't, right?

16 A I did not.

17 Q In fact, there's not a single piece of evidence in the 18 record that corroborates anything you say; isn't that right?

19 A I -- I believe all those documents are in the record.
20 They're just not in the record of this TRO. But they're all 21 --

22 Q Oh.

23 A They're all in the record.

24 Q Do you remember that there was a hearing on December 16th?
25 I think you -- you testified that you're fully aware of that

143

1 hearing that was brought by the K&L Gates Clients. Do you
2 remember that?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Who testified at that hearing on behalf of the K&L Gates
5 Clients? Dustin Norris?

6 A I believe -- I believe Dustin Norris testified.

7 Q Uh-huh. And what's Mr. Norris's role at the Advisors?

8 A He's one of the senior managers.

9 Q Is he a compliance officer?

10 A No.

11 Q Is he a trader?

12 A No. But he's one of the senior managers.

13 Q Okay. They could have called anybody they wanted, to the 14 best of your understanding, right?

15 A I don't think they got a chance to. Wasn't it an 16 abbreviated hearing?

17 Q They offered Mr. Norris as a witness. Do you understand
18 that?

19 A I -- all I -- I wasn't there. I didn't attend virtually.
20 I -- but I did know that Norris testified. But I don't know
21 who else was called, wasn't called, was going to be called,
22 was on the witness list. I have no awareness.

23 Q Okay. You were pretty critical of the trades that Mr.
24 Seery wanted to make that you interfered to stop, right?

25 A I think he's subsequently done most of those trades.

Dondero - Redirect

144

1 Q And you called them preposterous because he wanted to do
2 it around Thanksgiving or around Christmas, at least based on 3 your testimony, correct?

4 A That's when it did occur.

5 Q And is it your testimony -- is it your testimony that
6 every single person in the world who trades securities near a
7 holiday is making a preposterous trade?

8 A I think it's amateur and not what an investment
9 professional would do.

10 Q So you never trade on holidays; is that your testimony?
11 You've never done it once in your life?

12 A Very rarely, unless there's another overriding reason.
13 And there was no overriding reasons, period.

14 Q How would you know that when you didn't even ask Mr. Seery
15 why he wanted to make the trades?

16 A I asked Joe Sowin, who asked Jim Seery. And Joe Sowin
17 said that Jim Seery just said for risk reduction.

18 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike on the grounds that 19 it's hearsay, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: Sustained.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q You never asked Mr. Seery why he wanted to make the 23 trades, correct?

24 A I'm not allowed to talk to Mr. Seery.

25 Q You certainly were around Thanksgiving; isn't that right?

Dondero - Redirect

145

1 A I don't know.

2 Q There was no TRO in place at that time, correct?

3 A That's true.

4 Q You're pretty critical of Mr. Seery and his capabilities;
5 is that right?

6 A He's a lawyer. He's not an investment professional.

7 Q Did you object to his appointment as the CEO of the 8 Debtor?

9 A No.

10 Q Have you made any motion to the Court to have him removed 11 as unqualified?

12 A Not yet.

13 Q Okay. But with all the knowledge of all the preposterous
14 things that he's been doing for months now, you haven't done
15 it, right?

16 A No.

17 Q When you -- when -- before you threw the phone in the 18 garbage, did you back it up?

19 A No.

20 Q Did it occur to you that maybe you should save the data?

21 A No.

22 Q You said that the only way you think you might be able to 23 get information going forward is through a subpoena. Do I
24 have that right?

25 A I mean, that's how it seems. I mean, it seems at every

Dondero - Redirect

146

1 turn -- and now with Scott Ellington being gone and Isaac
2 being gone -- I have no idea how the Debtor is ever going to 3 defend against UBS.

4 THE COURT: I did not --

5 THE WITNESS: I have no idea how --

6 THE COURT: I didn't hear the answer after with 7 Ellington and Leventon being gone. I didn't hear the rest of 8 the answer. Could you repeat?

9 THE WITNESS: I said I have no idea how the Debtor is 10 ever going to defend itself against UBS. But I also have no
11 idea how we're ever going to get any information or ever push 12 forward any kind of settlement without having any access to 13 information or anybody to talk to.

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Do you trust Judge Lynn?

16 (Echoing.)

17 A Yes.

18 Q Is he a good advocate?

19 A Yes. If anybody returns his phone calls.

20 Q Do you recall that on October 24th Judge Lynn specifically 21 asked my law firm to provide information on your behalf in 22 connection with the Debtor's financial information, their 23 assets and their liabilities?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Do you recall that the Debtor simply asked that you

Dondero - Redirect

147

1 acknowledge in an email between and among counsel that you
2 would abide by the confidentiality agreement that was entered
3 by the Court?

4 A I wasn't involved in those details.

5 Q Didn't you send an email in which you agreed to receive
6 the financial information subject to the protective order that 7 this Court entered?

8 A I'm sure I would. I just don't remember.

9 Q That was a condition that the Debtors made. That doesn't
10 refresh your recollection?

11 A I'm not denying it. I just don't remember, and --

12 Q Okay. And --

13 A (overspoken)

14 Q I'm sorry, I don't mean to cut you off. And in fact, on 15 December 30th, the day you were supposed to vacate the office,
16 the Debtor voluntarily provided to Judge Lynn all of the 17 information that had been requested on your behalf without the 18 need for a subpoena, right?

19 A Yeah. It took a week. It's 40,000 pages of mixed
20 gobbledygook that we're -- we're going through. But it should 21 provide enough information for us to negotiate a pot plan if 22 anybody so chose.

23 Q So you didn't need to (echoing) the 40,000 pages of 24 financial information from the Debtor; all you needed was an 25 agreement that you would abide by the protective order.

Dondero - Redirect

148

1 Correct?

2 A I think that was the first thing that was ever produced on
3 request that I can remember. But yes.

4 Q And it was just a week ago, right?

5 A Yes.

6 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Bonds, do you have 8 anything else?

9 MR. BONDS: I do not, Your Honor, as to this witness.
10 I have one other witness.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I don't know who they plan
13 on calling, but he's not on the witness list.

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, --

15 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, this other witness --

16 THE COURT: Just a moment. This concludes, for the 17 record, Mr. Dondero's testimony. But, obviously, stick 18 around, because we're going to have a lot to talk about when 19 this is finished as far as the evidence.

20 All right. Now, who are you wanting to call that you did
21 not identify?

22 MR. BONDS: I'd like to call Mike Lynn for the 23 purpose -- or, to -- as a rebuttal witness.

24 THE COURT: Lawyer as witness?

25 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

149

1 THE COURT: Well, you know, first off, rebuttal of
2 what? Rebuttal --

3 MR. MORRIS: Exactly. He's going to rebut his own
4 client, Your Honor? He's going to rebut his own client?
5 There's only been one witness to testify here. He was on 6 their exhibit list. How do they call a witness to rebut their 7 own client?

8 THE COURT: Yes. What -- I don't --

9 MR. BONDS: Your Honor?

10 THE COURT: Go ahead.

11 MR. BONDS: Mr. Morris testified or attempted to 12 testify that the pot plan didn't gain any traction. We will 13 submit Mike Lynn on that issue.

14 THE COURT: No.

15 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

16 THE COURT: I'm not going to allow a lawyer to 17 testify to rebut lawyer argument. That's very inappropriate,
18 in my view. So, not going to happen.

19 MR. LYNN: (garbled)

20 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, he would be a fact witness to 21 discussions with the other side.

22 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I strenuously object.
23 They're -- he's only rebutting -- my questions are not
24 evidence. The only evidence in the record is Mr. Dondero's 25 testimony. Mr. Dondero is their client. Mr. Dondero was on 150

1 their witness list. They should not be permitted to call any
2 witness, with all due respect to Mr. Lynn, to rebut their own
3 witness.

4 THE COURT: All right.

5 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, we're not rebutting our 6 witness. We are rebutting the testimony that Mr. Morris gave.

7 THE COURT: Mr. Morris is a lawyer. He makes
8 argument. He asks questions. He was not a witness today.

9 Okay?

10 So if you want to say whatever you want to say as lawyers
11 in closing arguments, then obviously you can do that. But I'm 12 not going to allow a lawyer to be a witness to rebut something
13 another lawyer said in argument or in a question. I -- it's 14 -- so, I disallow that.

15 Anything else, then?

16 MR. BONDS: No.

17 THE COURT: Okay. And while we're talking about 18 procedure, actually, Mr. Morris, it's the Debtor's motion, and 19 I'm not even sure that's all of your evidence. So, do you
20 have any more evidence as Movant?

21 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor. The Plaintiff and the 22 Debtor rest.

23 THE COURT: All right. So, at the risk of repeating,
24 now that the Movant has rested, it would be Mr. Dondero's
25 chance to put on supplemental evidence. But what I'm hearing

151

1 from Mr. Morris is there were no witnesses identified on your
2 witness list?

3 MR. BONDS: Other than Mr. Dondero, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, was there any 5 stipulated documentary evidence that -- that you had --

6 MR. BONDS: No, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Well, I guess we're done with
8 evidence.

9 Mr. Morris, your closing argument?

10 MR. MORRIS: All right. Before I get to that, Your 11 Honor, I just want to make a very brief statement. When the 12 Debtor objected to Mr. Dondero's emergency motion for a 13 protective order, the Debtor stated that it sought discovery
14 from Mr. Dondero to determine whether Mr. Dondero may have 15 violated the TRO by interfering and impeding the Debtor's
16 business, including by potentially colluding with UBS. After 17 that motion was decided, both Mr. Dondero and UBS produced
18 documents to the Debtor.

19 Based on the review of that information, the Debtor found
20 no evidence that Mr. Dondero and UBS colluded to purchase
21 redeemed limited partnership interests of Multi-Strat, nor any 22 inappropriate conduct by UBS or its counsel.

23 The Debtor appreciates the opportunity to clear that part 24 of the record.

25 THE COURT: All right.

152

1 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE PLAINTIFF

2 MR. MORRIS: Now, with respect to the motion at hand
3 today, Your Honor, I want to take you back just about a month
4 ago to December 10th, 2020. At that time, we had a hearing on 5 the Debtor's motion for a TRO. The motion had been filed in 6 advance. Mr. Dondero had filed an objection. He had concerns
7 about the scope and the language of the terms of the proposed
8 TRO.

9 And at that hearing, Your Honor, if you'll recall, you
10 listened carefully to the arguments that were made on behalf
11 of Mr. Dondero. You heard carefully -- you listened carefully
12 to the proposed changes that he sought to make. And you went 13 through that proposed TRO word by word, Paragraph 2 and 3, and 14 you read them out loud, and you made decisions at that time as 15 to whether the Court believed any portion of that was 16 ambiguous or whether it was clear. You made determinations at 17 that time whether or not the provisions were reasonable.

18 Mr. Dondero wasn't there. He didn't read the transcript.
19 He has no idea what you said. But his lawyers were there, and 20 they had an opportunity to object and they had an opportunity
21 to make comments, and the order is what the order is. And for 22 whatever reason, Mr. Dondero chose not to read it, or,
23 frankly, even understand it, based on his testimony.

24 The fact is, Your Honor, the one thing that the evidence
25 shows very clearly here is that Mr. Dondero thinks that he is

153

1 the judge. He believes that he is the decider. He believes
2 that he decides what the TRO means, even though he never read
3 it. He believes that he decides what exceptions exist in the 4 TRO, even though he never read it.

5 He believes that he decides that it's okay to ditch the 6 Debtor's cell phone without even seeking, let alone obtaining,
7 the Debtor's consent. I guess he decides that he can ditch
8 the phone and trash it without seeking to back it up or 9 informing the Debtor.

10 Mr. Dondero believes that he gets to decide that it's okay
11 to take a deposition from the Debtor's office, even when the 12 Debtor specifically says you're evicted and you're not allowed
13 to have access.

14 Mr. Dondero believes that he gets to decide that Mr. Seery
15 has no justification for making trades, even though he 16 couldn't take the time to pick up the phone or otherwise
17 inquire as to why Mr. Seery wanted to do that.

18 Mr. Seery -- Mr. Dondero believes that he is the arbiter
19 and the decision-maker and gets to decide to stop trades,
20 notwithstanding the TRO, notwithstanding the CLO agreements
21 that he is not a party to, that his entities are not a party
22 to.

23 Mr. Dondero thinks that he gets to decide that the Debtor
24 has breached the agreements with the CLOs. He gets to decide 25 that the Debtor is in default under those agreements. He gets

154

1 to decide that it's perfectly fine for Ellington and Leventon
2 to support his interests while they have obvious duties of 3 loyalty to the Debtor.

4 It is not right, Your Honor. It is not right. I stood
5 here, I sat here, about four hours ago, five hours ago, and 6 told the Court what the evidence was going to show, and it
7 showed every single thing that I expected it to show and
8 everything I just described for the Court about Mr. Dondero's
9 belief that he's the decider.

10 He's not the decider, Your Honor. You are. And you made
11 a decision on June -- on December 10th that he ignored.

12 There is ample evidence in the record to support the 13 imposition of a preliminary injunction. And Your Honor, I'm 14 putting everybody on notice now that we're amending our 15 complaint momentarily to add all of the post-petition parties,
16 because this has to stop. The threats have to stop. The 17 interference has to stop. Mr. Dondero can always make a
18 proposal if he thinks that there's something that will capture
19 the imagination and the approval -- more importantly, the 20 approval -- of the Debtor's creditors. We have no interest in 21 stopping him from doing that. He's got very able and 22 honorable counsel, and he can go to them and through them any 23 time he wants.

24 But the record is crystal clear here that, notwithstanding
25 Your Honor's order, one entered after serious deliberation, is

155

1 of no meaning to him. And we'll be back at the Court's
2 convenience on the Debtor's motion to hold him in contempt.
3 It'll just be a repeat of what we've heard today, because,
4 frankly, the evidence is exactly the same.

5 With that, Your Honor, unless you have any questions, the 6 Debtor rests.

7 THE COURT: All right. I do not.

8 Mr. Bonds?

9 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, we would like to divide our 10 time between Mike Lynn and myself. Is that a problem?

11 THE COURT: That's fine. Go ahead.

12 MR. LYNN: Are we on mute?

13 MR. BONDS: No.

14 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEFENDANT

15 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, I'm taking a leaf out of Mr.
16 Phelan's book. I happened to read the confirmation hearing in 17 the Acis case regarding what was referred to as Clients A, B,
18 and C. And Mr. Phelan, who testified, really gave an oral 19 argument to the Court which was very persuasive and very 20 thorough. So I'm going to sort of do the reverse, because I
21 hope that the Court would find useful some information
22 regarding the pot plan about which you've heard many words
23 spoken but very little to do with what that plan was or how it 24 came about.

25 The pot plan was proposed by Mr. Dondero for the first

156

1 time in September of 2020, shortly after the conclusion of the
2 first round of mediations. Though there had been versions of 3 it before, and lesser versions, the pot plan was finally in 4 the form that would more or less survive it in September.
5 Under the pot plan, Mr. Dondero proposed to come up with $90
6 million of cash and $70 million in promissory notes, and that 7 was to form a pot which creditors would share in.

8 The proposal was provided to the Debtor and then shared
9 with the Committee. Mr. Seery responded with a degree, a
10 degree only, of enthusiasm to the pot plan, and indeed
11 provided a counter-term sheet to the pot plan. He also, so he 12 said, and I believe him, approached the Committee and said
13 this is a proposal to be taken seriously.

14 He proposed some improvements in his view to the pot plan.
15 No response was received from the Creditors' Committee at that 16 time.

17 After going back and forth with the Debtor -- and Mr.
18 Seery, not unreasonably, was unwilling to propose the pot plan
19 without some support on the Creditors' Committee -- I
20 contacted Matt Clemente. We had a nice conversation. And at 21 that time, Mr. Clemente raised two particular concerns. The 22 $160 million, which creditors did not think was enough, was 23 not enough, in part, because that included no consideration
24 for the acquisition of promissory notes executed some by Mr.
25 Dondero and some by entities controlled by Mr. Dondero, which 157

1 notes total approximately $90 million.

2 The second concern was that Mr. Dondero would get a
3 release under the plan. During that call, I said the issue of 4 the notes is subject to negotiation and might well result in a
5 transfer of those notes, possibly with some amendments, to the 6 pot, and that Mr. Dondero was prepared, in all likelihood, to 7 forego a release.

8 Mr. Clemente agreed to get back to me. He did. And he 9 said to me, I have talked to the Committee about this and they
10 would like you to go to or they want you to go first to Mr.
11 Seery, work off of his revised timesheet -- or term sheet,
12 sorry -- and after you have reached an agreement with him,
13 come to us, come to the Committee, and we'll negotiate with 14 you.

15 Now, I might have agreed that that was a reasonable
16 approach if there were a possibility that Mr. Seery would 17 propose a plan without the agreement of creditors. But the 18 way I took it was that the Committee was saying go make a deal
19 with Seery and then we'll start negotiating, and we know,
20 correctly, that Mr. Seery will not propose a plan that does
21 not have our support.

22 So, effectively, we get to go through two rounds of 23 negotiations, even though effectively everything that is in 24 the estate, everything -- causes of action against Mr.
25 Dondero, promissory notes from Mr. Dondero -- everything that

158

1 they would get under a plan or under a liquidation, they would
2 get under the pot plan.

3 Now, I wanted you to know that, Your Honor, not because 4 I'm now trying to get you or anyone else to sell the pot plan.
5 But I think it's important that Your Honor know that Mr.
6 Dondero's approach in this case has not been a hostile
7 approach.

8 I know the Court had what it found to be an unsatisfactory
9 experience with Mr. Dondero in the Acis case. But from the 10 time I became involved in this case and Mr. Bonds became 11 involved, we have been quiet, we have said nothing, and we've 12 done virtually nothing in the case, up until the time after 13 the mediation, when negotiations regarding a pot plan broke
14 down.

15 Since that time, regrettably, there has been a good deal
16 of hostility, and it's spreading. I would like to see it stop
17 spreading. I will do what I can to make it stop spreading.
18 But I need others to help me on that. And it's my hope that I
19 can count on the Pachulski law firm, the Sidley law firm, and 20 the firms representing the major creditors to help make that 21 happen.

22 I do not think, and I would submit that it is not to the 23 benefit of the estate, it is not to the likely workout of this 24 case, that it would be best served by entering a preliminary 25 injunction, which it appears to me prevents Mr. Dondero from

159

1 saying good morning to one of the employees of the Debtor that
2 he knows.

3 It seems to me, Your Honor, that the injunction, by its 4 terms, as Mr. Morris would have it, is an injunction that
5 would prevent Mr. Dondero from discussing politics with Mr.
6 Ellington. And it seems to me that an injunction that broad,
7 that extensive, and one which lasts, as far as I can tell,
8 until infinity, that such an injunction is not the right thing
9 to do, given, if nothing else, the First Amendment to the 10 United States Constitution.

11 That will conclude my presentation, and I will turn it
12 over to the wiser and better-spoken colleague, John Bonds.
13 Thank you, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Bonds, what else do you
15 have to say?

16 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEFENDANT

17 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, has the Debtor met the 18 requirements for the issuance of a preliminary injunction? We 19 submit that they have not. And the Fifth Circuit's rules are 20 fairly clear as to the awarding of a preliminary injunction.

21 First, let's look at the type of preliminary injunction
22 that the Debtor would like you to enter today. It provides 23 that Mr. Dondero cannot talk to any employee, regardless of 24 what is being communicated. Mr. Dondero can pass an employee
25 on the street, but he can't acknowledge the employee, with

160

1 whom he may have worked for years. Nor can he talk to his
2 personal assistants, again, which he has worked with for 3 years. Does that violate the First Amendment of the 4 Constitution?

5 What about the shared services agreement? What about the 6 pot plan which he is advocating as a means of reorganizing the 7 Debtor? Not the liquidation proposed by the Debtor. Can Mr.
8 Dondero communicate with creditors about the pot plan and the 9 other proposals without violating the TRO or the preliminary
10 injunction which deals with interfering with the Debtor's
11 business?

12 Your Honor, I think it's important to note that a
13 preliminary injunction is an extraordinary remedy that may 14 only be awarded upon a clear showing that the Plaintiff is 15 entitled to such relief. Plaintiffs are entitled to a 16 preliminary injunction if they show, one, a substantial
17 likelihood that they will prevail on the merits of their 18 claims; two, a substantial threat that they will suffer an 19 irreparable injury if the injunction is not granted; three,
20 their threatened injury outweighs the harm to the estate or 21 the other party; and four, the public interest will not be 22 disserved, misserved, if the preliminary injunction is 23 granted.

24 The party seeking the preliminary injunction bears the 25 burden of persuasion on all four requirements. We believe

161

1 that the Debtor today has failed to carry its burden of 2 persuasion of proof with regard to the second element, which
3 I'm going to refer to as the irreparable injury requirement.
4 In order to show irreparable harm to the Court, the Plaintiff
5 must prove that if the District Court denied the grant of a
6 preliminary injunction, irreparable harm would be the result.
7 Injuries are irreparable only when they cannot be undone
8 through monetary remedies. There is no evidence before the 9 Court today that Mr. Dondero cannot respond to any judgment
10 that is rendered against him by this Court.

11 Your Honor, this preliminary injunction does not involve
12 real property. Unlike the Saldana case, this request for the 13 issuance of a preliminary injunction involves personal
14 property only. The request that Mr. Dondero cease and desist
15 all contact with employees is just wrong and may violate the 16 First Amendment of the Constitution, as I previously stated.

17 We have other concerns regarding the issuance of a
18 preliminary injunction. We feel that the preliminary
19 injunction is too broad. It lacks a beginning and an end.
20 When does the preliminary injunction terminate? What about 21 the former employees? Once they are terminated, can Mr.
22 Dondero speak to them? What about the pot plan? Is it gone
23 forever? Can Mr. Dondero talk with the mediators about the 24 pot plan? Can Mr. Dondero speak with the members of the 25 U.C.C.?

162

1           It is easy to criticize Mr. Dondero. Did he violate the 2 TRO? We submit that he didn't and the Debtor says that he 3 did. What matters going forward is the lack of evidence of 4 irreparable harm.

5           Mr. Seery sure wants to keep Mr. Dondero from talking to 6 anyone in this case. Why is that? Does Mr. Seery believe 7 that the only way to get his liquidation plan confirmed is to 8 keep Mr. Dondero from talking to anyone? How will the 9 preliminary injunction help the Debtor's creditors? Does
10 keeping Mr. Dondero from talking with anyone mean that there
11 will be a greater return to the creditor body? Does
12 precluding Mr. Dondero from talking about his pot plan mean
13 that the creditors will take home more money on their claims,
14 or does it eliminate the possibility that they may take home
15 more money on their claims?

16           Your Honor, what we are seeing here today is an attempt by 17 a group to destroy what Mr. Dondero has built over the last 18 few years. That isn't the way Chapter 11 should work.

19           Just one last thing to keep in mind, Your Honor. Mr.
20 Seery's plan is a liquidation of the Debtor. Mr. Dondero's
21 pot plan is a reorganization of the Debtor.

22           Thank you, Your Honor.

23           THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, you get the last 24 word. Anything in rebuttal?

25           MR. MORRIS: I would just point out, Your Honor, that 163

1 nobody here has objected to the Debtor's motion for the entry
2 of a preliminary injunction except Mr. Dondero. While I
3 appreciate that this is an adversary proceeding, anybody who 4 felt strongly about the matter certainly could have moved to 5 intervene. The Creditors' Committee could have moved to 6 intervene. Mr. Clemente could have stood at the podium and 7 begged Your Honor not to impose the injunction because he 8 thought it was in the best interest of creditors to allow Mr.
9 Dondero to interfere with the Debtor's business and to speak
10 with their employees. Nobody has done that, Your Honor.
11 Nobody's here speaking on behalf of Mr. Dondero. Nobody's
12 here to testify on his behalf. Nobody's -- there's no
13 evidence in the record that supports or corroborates anything
14 that he said at all, Your Honor.

15 Unless Your Honor has any specific questions, the Debtor
16 is prepared to rest.

17 THE COURT: All right. I do not have any follow-up
18 questions.

19 All right. I have a lot to say. I'm sorry, I apologize
20 in advance, but I've got a heck of a lot to say right now.
21 I'm going to give you a ruling on the motion before me, but 22 I've got a lot to add onto that, so I hope all the key parties
23 in interest are listening carefully. Mr. Bonds, in the video,
24 I can only see you. I hope Mr. Dondero is just right there
25 out of the video camera view. Okay, there you are. I wanted

164

1 to make sure you didn't wander off to take a bathroom break or
2 anything. So, again, I have a whole lot to say here today.

3 First, I'm going to rule on the motion. The Court does
4 find there is sufficient compelling evidence to grant a
5 preliminary injunction that is completely consistent with the 6 prior TRO. Okay? So, specifically, the Court today is going 7 to continue to prevent Mr. Dondero from (a) communicating in 8 any way, directly or indirectly, with any of the Debtor's
9 board members -- I think that's really Strand board members --
10 unless Mr. Dondero's counsel and counsel for the Debtor are 11 included. Okay. I'm saying those words slowly and carefully.
12 There is no bar on Mr. Dondero talking to the board about a 13 pot plan or anything else in the universe Mr. Dondero wants to 14 talk to them about. There's just a preclusion from him doing
15 it without his counsel and the Debtor's counsel present.
16 Okay?

17 I did that before and I'm doing it now because I've seen
18 concerning evidence that some communications to Mr. Seery and 19 others had an intimidating tone, a threatening tone one or two 20 times, an interfering tone. So, guess what, we're just going
21 to have lawyers involved if any more conversations happen.
22 Okay.

23 So (b) the preliminary injunction, just as the TRO did, is 24 going to prevent Mr. Dondero from making any threats of any 25 nature against the Debtor or any of its directors, officers,

165

1 employees, professionals, or agents. Okay. It's almost 2 embarrassing having to say that or order that with regard to
3 such an accomplished and sophisticated person, but, you know,
4 I saw the evidence. I've got to do what I've got to do. You
5 know, words in a text like, Don't do it, this is your last
6 warning, and some of the other things, that has a threatening
7 tone, so I'm going to order this.

8 Third, the preliminary injunction will prevent Mr. Dondero
9 from communicating with any of the Debtor's employees except 10 as it specifically relates to shared services provided to 11 affiliates owned or controlled by Mr. Dondero.

12 Now, I'm going to elaborate in a couple of ways here. I
13 think in closing argument there was a suggestion that he can't 14 even talk to his friend, Mr. Ellington, about anything. Well,
15 I heard today that Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon are no
16 longer employees of the Debtor, so actually that's not an 17 issue. But while this is very restrictive, while this 18 prevents Mr. Dondero from engaging in small talk with Debtor
19 employees about the weather or the football game or whatever,
20 it's regrettable, but I feel like I'm forced to order this 21 now, because, again, the communications that were put in the 22 record. Okay? We just can't take any chances, as far as I'm 23 concerned, with regard to there being potential interference
24 with the Debtor's operations that might be harmful or contrary
25 to creditors' interests.

166

1 Fourth, the preliminary injunction, just like the TRO,
2 will prevent Mr. Dondero from interfering with or otherwise
3 impeding the Debtor's business, including but not limited to 4 the Debtor's decisions concerning its operations, management,
5 treatment of claims, disposition of assets owned or controlled
6 by the Debtor, and pursuit of any plan or alternative to the 7 plan.

8 Now, I understand the argument that this is pretty broad
9 and might be, I don't know, subject to some disputes regarding 10 was it interference, did it impede the Debtor's business or 11 not? You know what, if you follow the other prongs of the 12 preliminary injunction, that you don't talk to the board
13 without your counsel, Mr. Dondero, and the Debtor's counsel, 14 and you don't talk to Debtor's employees except with regard to 15 matters pertaining to the shared services agreement, and,
16 bottom line, if you just run everything by your attorneys,
17 you'll be okay. We won't have this ambiguous, vague,
18 problematic territory.

19 Fifth, I will go ahead and, for good measure, belts and 20 suspenders, whatever you want to call it, prevent Mr. Dondero
21 from otherwise violating Section 362(a) of the Bankruptcy
22 Code.

23 Now, I read the response filed at 9:30 last night by Mr.
24 Dondero's counsel. It's a good response. It makes legal 25 arguments about that being, you know, it just being too vague.

167

1 Well, to the contrary, it just restates what's already in the 2 Bankruptcy Code, right? Persons are prohibited from violating
3 Section 362(a) of the Bankruptcy Code. If anything, it's the 4 sky is blue, right, just stating what is true. But I
5 understand Debtor wanting some clarity in an order, because we
6 want you to take this seriously, Mr. Dondero, and not just do
7 something and then say, well, you didn't know what was in the 8 Code. You know, you need to consult with your lawyer. That's 9 going to be in there.

10 Bottom line, I want that language in there because, Mr.
11 Dondero, I want you to see an order that this Court expects 12 you to comply with the Bankruptcy Code. And again, if you
13 don't understand, if you're unsure whether you can take action
14 x or y, consult with your very capable lawyers.

15 I note that if you listened carefully to these words,
16 there was nothing in here that stopped Mr. Dondero from 17 talking to the Creditors' Committee about a pot plan. Nothing
18 in this injunction, nothing in the previous TRO, ever 19 prohibited that.

20 Last, with regard to the ruling -- and again, I've got a
21 lot more to say when I'm done -- I am going to further enjoin
22 Mr. Dondero from what we said in the TRO: causing,
23 encouraging, or conspiring with any entity controlled by him
24 and/or any person or entity acting on his behalf from directly
25 or indirectly engaging in any of the aforementioned items.

168

1 This is not an injunction as to nonparties to the adversary
2 proceeding. It is an injunction as to Mr. Dondero from doing
3 the various enjoined acts that I previously listed under the 4 guise of another entity or a person that he controls.

5 Again, if you're dealing with and through your attorneys,
6 Mr. Dondero, I don't think this will be hard to maneuver.

7 I guess I'm actually not through with my ruling yet. I do
8 want to add that the Court rules that the injunction shall 9 last through the time of confirmation of a plan in this case
10 unless otherwise ordered by this Court.

11 And as to the legal standards, I want to be clear for the 12 record that the Court believes this injunction is necessary to 13 avoid immediate and irreparable harm to the Debtor's estate
14 and to its reorganization prospects. I believe that there's a 15 strong likelihood the Debtor will succeed in a trial on the 16 merits of this adversary proceeding. I believe the public
17 interest strongly favors this injunction. And I believe the 18 balance of harms weighs in favor of the Debtor on all of these 19 various issues.

20 Again, I want to reiterate, the intimidation and 21 interference that came through in some of these email and text
22 communications was concerning to the Court and is a motivation
23 for this preliminary injunction.

24 Now, I'm going to add on a couple of things today. The 25 first thing I'm going to add on -- and I want this, Mr.

169

1 Morris, in the order you submit. You didn't ask me for this,
2 but I'm going to do it. I'm going to order you, Mr. Dondero,
3 to attend all future hearings in this bankruptcy case unless 4 and until this Court orders otherwise. And I'm doing this --
5 it's not really that unusual a thing for me to do. I
6 sometimes order this in cases when I'm concerned about, you
7 know, is the businessperson paying attention to what's going 8 on in the case and is he engaged, is he invested, is he 9 available when we need him?

10 In this case in particular, the evidence was that you
11 didn't read the TRO. You were not aware of its basic terms
12 and you didn't read it. Okay? So that was what sent me over 13 the edge as far as requiring this new element that you're 14 going to attend every hearing. Obviously, we're doing video
15 court, so that's not that much of a burden or imposition. You
16 can pretty much be anywhere in the world and patch in by 17 video, since we're in the pandemic and not doing live court.
18 But I think it's necessary so I know you hear what I rule and 19 what goes on in this case.

20 I will tell you that I was having a real hard time during 21 your testimony deciding if I believe you didn't read the TRO
22 or know about the different things that were prohibited. You
23 know, I was thinking maybe you're not being candid to help
24 yourself in a future contempt hearing, or actually maybe
25 you're being a hundred percent honest and candid but you're

170

1 kind of hiding behind your lawyers so that you can argue the
2 old plausible deniability when it suits you.

3 But no more. No more. I'm not going to risk this 4 situation again of you not knowing what's in an order that
5 affects you. So you must be in court by video until I order
6 otherwise.

7 Second, and I regret having to do this, but I want it
8 explicit in the preliminary injunction that Mr. Dondero shall 9 not enter Highland Capital Management's offices, regardless of 10 whether there are subleases or agreements of Highland 11 affiliates or Dondero-controlled entities to occupy the 12 office, unless Mr. Dondero has explicit written permission
13 that comes from Highland's bankruptcy counsel to Dondero's
14 bankruptcy counsel. Okay? If he does, it will be regarded as 15 trespassing.

16 And, I don't know, are there security guards on the 17 premises? I mean, gosh, I hate to be getting into this 18 minutia, but -- well, I just want it explicit in the order
19 that Mr. Dondero, I'm sorry, but you can't go to these offices
20 without written permission. And again, that can only be given
21 from Debtor's counsel to Mr. Dondero's counsel. Okay? So 22 it's going to be trespassing. You know, someone can call the 23 Dallas Police Department and have you escorted out. Again, I
24 hate having to do that. It's just, it's embarrassing for me.
25 I think it's embarrassing for everyone. But I'm backed up in 171

1 that corner.

2 Next, I am going to ask that it be clear that Mr. Dondero
3 can deal with the Unsecured Creditors' Committee and its 4 professionals with regard to talking about a pot plan.

5 And next, I'm going to add -- and I think, Mr. Morris, you
6 requested this at some point today in oral argument -- Mr.
7 Ellington and Mr. Leventon shall not share any confidential
8 information that they received as general counsel, assistant
9 general counsel for the Debtor, without Debtor's counsel's
10 explicit written permission. Okay? So we've got that in 11 writing.

12 And, you know, that's a little awkward because they're not 13 here, they weren't parties to the injunction, but they were 14 Debtor employees until recently. If they want to risk
15 violating that and come back to the Court and argue about 16 whether they got notice and whatnot of that, they can argue
17 that, but I want it in the order regardless.

18 So that is the ruling. And now I want to kind of talk
19 about a few other things. And before we're done here, Mr.
20 Morris, I'll ask do you have questions, does Mr. Bonds have 21 questions, does anyone have questions about the ruling. But I
22 want to talk about a couple of things. And again, I hope that 23 I'm coming through loud and clear, Mr. Bonds, in your office
24 for Mr. Dondero to hear this. It's really, really important
25 that he heard what I'm about to say. I'm going to say some

172

1 kind of unpleasant things and then I'm going to say some
2 hopeful things, okay?

3 Mr. Dondero? Okay. Mr. Dondero, I'm going to -- Mr.
4 Morris, you've got your hands on your head. Did I miss
5 something?

6 MR. MORRIS: No. I was just surprised to see Mr.
7 Dondero on his phone. I apologize, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Oh, my goodness. Were you on your phone,
9 Mr. Dondero?

10 MR. DONDERO: No, I was not.

11 THE COURT: Okay. I want you to listen to this 12 really closely, and then I promise I'm going to have something
13 hopeful to say after this very unpleasant stuff. You know, I
14 keep a whiteboard up at my bench. I don't know if you can 15 read it. But sometimes I hear something in a hearing and I
16 think, okay, this is one of my major takeaways from what I
17 heard today. And I've got two, I've got two big takeaways
18 here. Number one on my whiteboard is Dondero's spoliated
19 evidence. Game-changer for all future litigation. Okay.

20 MR. DONDERO: I'm sorry. I didn't hear that. I
21 didn't hear that. Could you repeat that, please?

22 THE COURT: Mr. Dondero, spoliated evidence, game-
23 changer in future litigation.

24 Okay. Let me tell you, the throwing away of the phone,
25 that was the worst thing I heard all day. That was far and 173

1 away the worst thing I heard all today. I don't know what I'm 2 going to hear down the road to fix this, but if it's really
3 gone, let me tell you how bad this is. We have all sorts of 4 Federal Rules of Civil Procedure that talk about this being a
5 bad thing, but I wrote an opinion a couple years ago dealing 6 with spoliation of electronic evidence, and I think it might
7 be helpful for everyone to read. It was called In re Correra,
8 C-O-R-R-E-R-A. I have no idea what the cite on it is. But in 9 this case, Correra, we had a debtor who had a laptop, and he 10 gave the laptop to his personal assistant, who took it away to 11 another state. And at some point during the case, parties
12 discovered, oh, there's a laptop that may have a treasure
13 trove of information. Who knows? Maybe it does; maybe it
14 doesn't. But there's a laptop that we just now learned about 15 that the personal assistant has.

16 And so I issued an order that she turn it over, and there
17 were subpoenas and depositions, blah, blah, blah. Long story
18 short, the evidence ended up being that she deleted everything
19 on the laptop, and then -- this would almost be funny if it
20 wasn't so serious -- she downloaded thousands of pictures of 21 cats onto the laptop. I kid you not, cats. Meow, meow, cats.
22 And she downloaded a hundred-something full-length movies.
23 And we had two days of forensic experts come in and take the 24 witness stand and tell me about how, okay, this is like an 25 amateurish -- you've talked about amateur hour today -- this

174

1 is kind of an amateurish way of deleting data, right. You
2 first delete all the files on the laptop and then you cover
3 over all the space to make sure the information is not
4 retrievable. You know, this genius ended up retrieving some 5 of the information.

6 But the long story short is I sanctioned the debtor and
7 his assistant jointly and severally. You'll have to go back
8 and look at the opinion. I'm pretty sure it was over a
9 million dollars. And I can't remember if that was attorneys'
10 fee-shifting only, or monetary, like penalty on top of the 11 attorneys' fees-shifting. I just can't remember. But maybe
12 poor Tara needs to be advised of that opinion, too. I mean,
13 --

14 But the other reason I put game-changer in future
15 litigation is, in my Correra case, it wasn't just the monetary
16 million-dollar sanction or whatever it was; it was a game-
17 changer in future litigation because the adverse party to the 18 debtor ended up arguing -- and it was the state of New Mexico,
19 by the way -- they ended up saying, in all future litigation,
20 we want you -- some adversaries, we want you to make an 21 adverse inference. In other words, for all of these elements
22 that we're trying to prove in our fraudulent transfer
23 litigation and whatever else was going on, we want you to make
24 an adverse inference that there would have been evidence there
25 on that laptop that would have supported some of our causes of

175

1 action and it was destroyed to keep us from having that
2 evidence.

3 And they brought forth all kinds of case law. It's a hard
4 area. It's a really, really hard area. But I ended up --
5 again, it's not in the main opinion. It was in subsequent 6 orders. I ended up saying, yeah, I think you've met the 7 standard here to draw adverse inferences.

8 So, again, this is a very unpleasant message for me to 9 deliver today. But the destruction of the phone is my biggest 10 takeaway of concern today, how that might have ramifications.
11 You know, there are other bad things, too, about that. I'm 12 not even going to go there right now. But the, you know,
13 Title 18, you can ask your lawyer what that means, but okay.

14 My second big takeaway before we get to the hopeful stuff
15 is -- and this is kind of harsh, what I'm about to say -- but 16 Ellington and Leventon maybe care more about you, Mr. Dondero,
17 than their law license. You know, I guess it's great to have 18 people in your life who are very, very loyal to you. I mean,
19 loyalty is a wonderful thing. But I am just so worried about 20 things I've heard. Again, the phone and in-house lawyers.
21 The biggest concerns in my brains right now. I have worried
22 about them for a while.

23 You all will -- well, Mr. Dondero, you might not know
24 this. But we had a hearing a few months ago, maybe September, 25 October, where the Creditors' Committee was trying to get

176

1 discovery of documents. And we had some sort of hearing,
2 maybe a motion to compel production. And we had many, many
3 entities that you control file objections: NexPoint, NexBank.
4 I can't even remember. We just had a whole slew. CLO Holdco.
5 Many, many of these entities objected. And I was trying to 6 figure out that day who was instructing them. And oh my 7 goodness, I hope the in-house layers are not involved in this 8 document discovery dispute, because, you know, they have 9 fiduciary duties. And are -- you know, is it -- it feels like 10 it's breaching a duty to the bankruptcy estate when it's in 11 the bankruptcy estate's best interest to get these documents
12 if you're meanwhile hiring lawyers for these other entities,
13 Holdco, et cetera, and saying, Fight this.

14 I never really pressed it very hard back then, but I
15 raised the issue and I said, I'm really, really concerned
16 about this. And I continue to be concerned about it. I had 17 experiences with Mr. Ellington in the Acis case where he 18 testified on the witness stand, and later it looked a heck of 19 a lot like he might have committed perjury. I hate to use
20 such blunt terms. But I let it go. I'm just like, you know, 21 I'm not going to -- you know, I'm going to just hope for the 22 best that he misspoke.

23 But I'm getting a really bad taste in my mouth about
24 Ellington and Leventon, and I hope that they will be careful
25 and you will be careful, Mr. Dondero, in future actions.

177

1 Is Mr. -- I can't see Mr. Dondero. I want to make sure
2 he's not on the phone. Okay. Okay. Thank you.

3 So where was I going to head next? I guess I want to say
4 a couple of things now that I would describe as a little bit
5 more hopeful, and that is pertaining to this whole pot plan
6 thing.

7 You know, I tend to think, without knowing what's being
8 said outside the courtroom, that a pot plan would be the best
9 of all worlds, okay, because the plan that we have set for 10 confirmation next week, I understand we have a lot of 11 objections, and if I approve it, if I confirm the plan, we're 12 going to have a lot of appeals and motions for stay pending
13 appeal, and no matter how that turns out, we're going to have 14 a lot of litigation. Okay? You know, we're going to have 15 adversaries. And we have a not-very-workable situation here
16 where we have these Dondero-controlled affiliates questioning
17 Mr. Seery's every move.

18 I would love to have a pot plan that would involve, Mr.
19 Dondero, you getting to keep your baby, okay? I acknowledge,
20 everyone here acknowledges, you are the founder of this
21 company. This is your baby. You created a multi-billion-
22 dollar empire, okay? I would be shocked if you didn't want to 23 keep your baby. Okay? If there was a reasonable pot plan, I
24 would love it.

25 But I'm telling you, the numbers I heard didn't impress me

178

1 a heck of a lot. I'm not an economic stakeholder. It's not
2 my claim that would be getting paid. But I can see where 3 these Creditor Committee members, they're not going to think 4 $160 million -- $90 million in cash, $70 million in notes, or 5 vive-versa -- is nearly enough. Okay?

6 So I am going -- what just happened? What just happened?
7 I lost Mr. Dondero. Okay. This is getting kind of humorous, 8 almost.

9 Okay. I am going to order that between now and the end of 10 the day Tuesday there be good-faith, and I'll say face-to-face
11 -- Zoom, WebEx, whatever -- negotiations between Mr. Dondero
12 and his counsel and at least the Committee and its 13 professionals regarding this pot plan.

14 Now, the train is leaving the station next Wednesday,
15 okay? If we don't have Creditors' Committee and Debtor and 16 Dondero rushing in here saying, Please continue the 17 confirmation hearing next Wednesday, if we don't have like
18 unanimous sentiment to do that, you know, this is a 15-month-
19 old case, I'm going to go forward with the plan that's on 20 file.

21 And it's been a long, expensive case. I had great
22 mediators try to give it their best shot to get a grand
23 compromise. I just, I'm not going to drag this out unless you
24 all tell me Wednesday morning, We want you to continue this a 25 week or two.

179

1 And let me tell you -- this may be the stars lining up, or
2 it may not be -- I was supposed to have a seven-day trial
3 starting the week after next, and then I was supposed to have 4 a four- or five-day day trial starting immediately after that.
5 And all of those lawyers came in and asked for a continuance
6 because of COVID. They wanted a face-to-face trial, and so
7 I've put them off until April.

8 So if you wanted to postpone the confirmation hearing to 9 the following week or even the following week, I have the gift
10 of time to give you. But I'm not going to do it lightly.
11 I'm, again, I'm just going to order face-to-face meetings.
12 And I said Dondero and his counsel and the Committee and its 13 professionals. You know, if -- I'm not slighting the Debtor
14 here or Mr. Seery, but I'm kind of taking a cue from what Mr.
15 Morris, I think I heard you say, that at this point it's the 16 Committee, it's the Committee's money, and I think that's the 17 starting place. And if they want to join the Debtor in at the 18 beginning or midway through, you know, wonderful, but I think
19 it needs --

20 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff -- this is 21 Jeff Pomerantz. I hate to interrupt, and I never do that to a
22 judge, but I did have something to say in my comments about a
23 continuance that we've talked about with the Committee and 24 some other developments in the case.

25 THE COURT: Oh.

180

1 MR. POMERANTZ: I'm happy to wait. But it has -- it
2 has nothing to do with the comments you said, although, as I
3 think you've heard from me before, the Debtor has been a
4 supporter, a supporter of a pot plan. Mr. Seery has done a
5 tremendous amount of work working with Mr. Dondero, working
6 with Mr. Lynn, to try to make that happen. And if the 7 Committee is willing to engage in a pot plan, we would
8 definitely support that. Because we do agree with Your Honor
9 that, absent a pot plan, we are looking at a lot of
10 litigation.

11 Some of the issues you're going to have to deal with at 12 the confirmation hearing if we do not have a peace-in-the-13 valley settlement is exculpations, releases, moratoriums on 14 litigation, extensions of your January 9th order --

15 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: -- with respect to pursuing certain 17 people.

18 So, we get it, and we've gotten it from the beginning.
19 And Mr. Seery, sometimes even at a fault, has been 20 singlehandedly focused on trying to get that done. It's just 21 unfortunate where we are here.

22 But having said that, I wanted to first apprise the Court
23 of a recent major development in the case. I'm pleased to 24 report that the Debtor and UBS have reached a settlement in 25 principle which will resolve all of UBS's claims against the 181

1 estate, all of UBS's claims against Multi-Strat. The parties
2 are working on documentation. The settlement is subject to 3 internal approvals from UBS, but we've been led to believe
4 those approvals will occur, and we would hope to file a Rule
5 9019 motion in the near future.

6 I'm sure Your Honor is quite pleased to hear that. The 7 UBS matters have taken a substantial amount of time. And with 8 the settlement of UBS's claims, the only material unresolved
9 claim, unrelated to Mr. Dondero or the employees, are Mr.
10 Daugherty. And Mr. Seery will continue to work with Mr.
11 Daugherty to try to settle that.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. POMERANTZ: With respect to the scheduling, with 14 respect to the scheduling, Your Honor, there are three 15 significant matters on for hearing on the 13th. The first is 16 the Debtor's motion to approve a settlement with HarbourVest,
17 which Mr. Dondero is contesting. Depositions are being 18 conducted on Monday, and we anticipate an evidentiary hearing
19 in connection therewith.

20 The Debtors, as Mr. Morris indicated earlier on in the 21 hearing, have also filed a complaint and a motion for a
22 temporary restraining order against certain of the Advisors
23 and Funds owned and controlled by Mr. Dondero which relate to 24 the CLO management agreements for which Your Honor has heard a 25 lot of testimony today. We also expect that TRO to be

182

1 contested and for the Court to have an evidentiary hearing.

2 And as Your Honor mentioned, the confirmation of the plan
3 was scheduled for Wednesday, and there were 15 objections. I
4 would point out, Your Honor, all but four of which were Mr.
5 Dondero, his related entities that he owns or controls, and 6 employees or former employees.

7 The Court previously gave us time on the 13th and the 8 14th, I think anticipating that we would have a lot and it may 9 be necessary to go into two days. However, Your Honor, those 10 two days are not going to be enough to deal with all the 11 issues that we have before Your Honor.

12 So what we suggest, and we've spoken to the Committee and 13 the Committee is supportive, that we continue confirmation to 14 a day around January 27th. This will enable the Debtor to not 15 only -- and the Committee -- not only to take Your Honor up on 16 what you'd like to see accomplished in the next few days. I'm 17 sure the Debtor is supportive and will be supportive, and we 18 hope the Committee will engage in good-faith negotiations, and 19 if there's a way to do a pot plan, we are all for it. It'll 20 give time for that to happen.

21 But at the same time, and I think what you'll hear from 22 Mr. Clemente, that we're willing to give a continuance, we all 23 know that if there is not a settlement to be had, if there is 24 not a pot plan to be had, this case has to confirm, it has to 25 exit bankruptcy, and at least from the Debtor's perspective, a

183

1 lot of protections will have to be in place that basically
2 this has not just been a pit stop in Bankruptcy Court and we
3 return to the litigation ways that Highland is involved in.

4 So, Your Honor, we believe that the two evidentiary
5 hearings on for next week probably will fill up both days. We
6 would suggest that the first day be the complaint and the TRO
7 against the Advisors and the Funds for the 13th, and the 14th
8 be the HarbourVest.

9 We also recognized as we were preparing for today, Your 10 Honor, looking ahead, that we thought it was not fair for us,
11 although we know Your Honor works tirelessly and as hard as 12 anyone on this hearing and that Your Honor would be prepared
13 for confirmation and would be prepared for each of those 14 trials, given the gravity of these issues, the extensive
15 pleadings, pleadings that you would get in confirmation on 16 Monday from the Debtor, that it made sense to continue the 17 hearing.

18 So, again, fully supportive of Your Honor's mandate to try
19 to see if we could work things out, fully supportive of a
20 continuance until the 27th, if that date works for Your Honor,
21 but we believe we do need to go ahead with the two matters
22 that are on for calendar next week.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, this is Davor Rukavina.
24 May I be heard briefly?

25 THE COURT: Oh my goodness. Who do you represent,

184

1 Mr. Rukavina?

2 MR. RUKAVINA: And I apologize -- Your Honor, I am
3 the new counsel who will be representing the Funds and 4 Advisors. I will probably be taking the laboring oar at 5 confirmation.

6 I apologize I'm not wearing a suit and tie. I did not
7 anticipate speaking right now.

8 I support -- to the extent that that's an oral motion for 9 continuance by Mr. Pomerantz, I certainly support that. I
10 would suggest that the Court give us an understanding of that 11 today, because we do have depositions and discovery lined up 12 which we can then push if the hearing on confirmation is 13 pushed to the 27th. And we have no problem going forward on 14 the other matters on the 13th.

15 So, I am co-counsel to K&L Gates, Your Honor, so whoever 16 the K&L Clients are, they're now my clients as well. I just 17 wanted to be heard briefly that we support the recommendation
18 by Mr. Pomerantz and just urge that the Court give us finality
19 on that issue today so that we're not burning the midnight
20 oil, many sets of lawyers preparing for confirmation on the 21 13th.

22 Thank you for hearing me, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: All right. So, just to be clear, the 24 proposal is that we go forward next Wednesday on the newest 25 request for a TRO with regard to -- is -- the CLO Funds and

185

1 the Advisors. I'm forgetting the exact names. And then that
2 would take likely the whole day, but whether it does or does
3 not, we would roll over to Wednesday of next week -- that'd be
4 the 14th -- to do the HarbourVest. It's a compromise motion,
5 right? Is there anything else?

6 MR. POMERANTZ: No, correct, it's the compromise
7 motion, Your Honor. There are two pending objections on this
8 and discovery scheduled for Monday.

9 THE COURT: All right. Well, as far as --

10 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor?

11 THE COURT: Yes, who is that?

12 MR. CLEMENTE: Oh, Your Honor, it's Matt Clemente at 13 Sidley on behalf of the Committee. I'm here, and I thought 14 maybe I'd offer just a couple of comments at this point, but 15 I'm happy to hold them.

16 THE COURT: Well, --

17 MS. SMITH: And Your Honor, this is Frances Smith. I
18 would also like to be heard before you wrap up.

19 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I guess generally I want to 20 know, does anyone have any objection -- I can't imagine they 21 would -- but any objection to pushing confirmation out to 22 around the 27th? I'm going to say that because I have an 23 issue middle of the day the 28th. If we do it the 27th, I
24 could only go a day and a half, okay? I have to go out of 25 town the evening of the 28th, and I would be out the 29th as

186

1 well. That's Thursday and Friday. So we'll talk about that.
2 But anyone, Mr. Clemente or anyone else, want to say anything
3 about continuing the confirmation?

4 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, it's Matt Clemente at
5 Sidley. No, Your Honor, we're supportive of that schedule.

6 And Your Honor, just briefly, I heard my name discussed
7 quite a bit at this hearing as well as the Committee. I'm not 8 going to get into it unless Your Honor would like me to, but 9 let me be very clear: The committee has taken very seriously
10 the pot plan proposals that Mr. Dondero has presented, and 11 there's much more to the discussion other than what Mr. Lynn
12 suggested in his remarks.

13 So I'm not going to get into all that unless Your Honor
14 thinks it's necessary. I think it's of no moment here. But I
15 did want Your Honor to know that we have carefully considered
16 the pot plan proposals and have communicated a variety of 17 issues about that to Mr. Lynn and will continue to take the 18 direction of Your Honor and engage on a pot plan, Your Honor.
19 But I did not want there to be any suggestion that we did not 20 take it seriously and that there was much, much more
21 consideration and discussion about it than what was suggested.

22 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

23 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: All right.

25 MS. SMITH: Your Honor, this is Frances Smith.

187

1 THE COURT: Who do you represent, Ms. Smith?

2 MS. SMITH: Your Honor, we were recently retained by
3 the four senior employees: Tom Surgent, Frank Waterhouse,
4 Scott Ellington, Isaac Leventon, along with Baker & McKenzie,
5 and I believe we have the Baker & McKenzie lawyers Deb
6 Dandeneau and Michelle Hartmann on the line.

7 Your Honor, we have listened to the whole hearing. And I
8 was not going to make an appearance. I was following your 9 instructions and listening carefully. But Your Honor, I --
10 first of all, we hate to be before you for the first time in a 11 discovery dispute. We did file a very limited objection to 12 the plan because of the disparate treatment of our clients,
13 which we are not arguing today, of course. We received -- it
14 is our usual practice, Your Honor -- you've known me for a 15 long time -- to cooperate on having witnesses appear. We got 16 -- we were notified very late Tuesday that the Debtor's
17 counsel would like two of our clients to appear. We made what 18 we thought was a reasonable request for a copy of the 19 transcript from the deposition. We were invited to the 20 deposition and then told we could not attend, or our clients
21 could not attend. When we offered to make it lawyers-only,
22 they said no. So we did not produce our clients without a
23 subpoena.

24 Our clients have not been evading service. As far as we 25 know, they were each attempted service one time, late

188

1 Wednesday, when they were -- around dinnertime. Mr. Leventon
2 was home all day today. Didn't go any -- or yesterday.
3 Didn't go anywhere. Was not served. Wasn't served this
4 morning. The same, as far as we know, with Mr. Ellenton.

5 Your Honor, on the order that you just entered, I am a
6 little unclear of where your findings of fact stopped. First
7 of all, I do not think that you can enjoin Mr. Ellenton and 8 Mr. Leventon. They are not parties to the adversary
9 proceeding.

10 You know, we did some very quick research. There's a
11 Seventh Circuit case, a district court may not enjoin
12 nonparties who are not either acting in concert with an 13 enjoined party nor in the capacity of agents, employees,
14 officers of the enjoined party. Mr. Ellington and Mr.
15 Leventon are not agents, employees, officers of Mr. Dondero.
16 So I think that, Your Honor, you cannot make that ruling.

17 Of course, you can rule that Mr. Dondero cannot talk to 18 Mr. Leventon and Mr. Ellington. That might be a way to fix
19 that one part. But as nonparties, I don't believe that you
20 can enjoin them.

21 Also, Your Honor, there was just no evidence against them
22 to support that. Out of more than two dozen exhibits, there
23 was one mention of Mr. Leventon, where all he did was give Mr.
24 Dondero Matt Clemente's phone number. And you yourself ruled,
25 Your Honor, that Mr. Dondero could speak with the Committee,

189

1 so that wouldn't even have been a violation of your orders.
2 There's three related to Mr. Ellington, but no evidence of 3 confidential information.

4 And, Your Honor, I'm very concerned about the comments
5 that you made about Mr. Ellington and perjury. I just want to 6 make sure that it's clear on the record that those were not
7 findings of fact. That did not -- there was no evidence about 8 that today. And I understand Your Honor's frustration. I was 9 -- but I just want to be very clear on the record that those 10 were not findings of fact that you were making during that 11 part of your comments. I was a little unclear about where the 12 ruling exactly stopped when you said you wanted to add onto 13 the order and then you were going to make a few more comments.

14 So that's all I have, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MS. SMITH: Thank you for listening and --

17 THE COURT: Thank you. Fair comments, one and all.
18 I'm first going to tweak. I was concerned. You heard me
19 express concern about, you know, Ellington and Leventon aren't 20 parties to this adversary. Not here. So here's -- Mr.
21 Morris, I assume you're the scrivener. Let's change what I
22 said earlier and have the injunction read that Mr. Dondero
23 shall not request that Mr. Ellington or Mr. Leventon share any 24 confidential information they received as general counsel or 25 assistant general counsel for the Debtor without Debtor's

190

1 counsel's explicit written permission, nor accept any
2 confidential information that the two of them may have 3 received as general counsel or assistant general counsel for 4 the Debtor. Okay? So the injunction is --

5 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may, --

6 THE COURT: Who?

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may, that is not
8 sufficient for us, because that means that they can actually
9 share it with him as long as he doesn't request it. I'm a
10 little surprised --

11 THE COURT: No. You didn't hear the accept -- the 12 last part.

13 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

14 THE COURT: I added on at the end, nor shall Mr.
15 Dondero accept any confidential information. They -- he shall 16 not request that they share it, nor shall he accept it. Okay?
17 I --

18 MR. MORRIS: So, but that -- my concern is that that 19 makes Mr. Dondero the arbiter of what's confidential and 20 what's privileged. And I think that's improper. I think it's 21 really reasonable, and I'm surprised -- you know, we're all
22 advocates here, so I take no issue with counsel, but the order
23 was going to be pretty simple: Don't disclose privileged or 24 confidential information. If they don't like that, that's 25 fine. Just bar Mr. Dondero from speaking to either one of 191

1    them, period, full stop. Because we should not be in a
2    position where he doesn't request it but somehow they send it
3    to him. It is confidential.

4           I mean, who's deciding what's confidential here? Mr.
5    Ellington? Mr. Leventon? Mr. Dondero? Just stop their
6    communication. Mr. Dondero is subject to the Court's order.
7    He's the one who's subject to this motion. Bar him from 8    speaking to either one of them. It's a very -- very simple
9    solution.

10           MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I agree that it's a simple
11    solution. It's, I mean, not correct to assume that Mr.
12    Dondero is in any way going to breach his obligations to the 13    Court or to Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon. I don't see where 14    -- what we're talking about.

15           MS. SMITH: Also, Your Honor, I have to object to him
16    disparaging my clients that way. There's been no evidence
17    that they improperly shared any information. They are 18    licensed lawyers and they know the Rules of Professional --
19    they know the rules of professionalism, so --

20           THE COURT: Okay. I, you know, I didn't make a 21    finding earlier when I held out my two giant takeaways, to get 22    to your later question, no findings. But I really hope you
23    share with them everything I said, the concerns I expressed.
24    Maybe get the transcript.

25           MS. SMITH: Absolutely, Your Honor.

192

1 THE COURT: Because I have huge concerns about
2 conflicts of interest here. Okay? Huge, huge concerns. I
3 had them back when we had the discovery fight, Committee
4 wanting documents, and, you know, and I still have them. You
5 know, did Ellington know about the TRO?

6 MS. SMITH: Understood, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. So let me backtrack. We already 8 had a TRO that prevented Mr. Dondero from talking to any 9 employees of the Debtor unless it was about shared services
10 agreement.

11 So, Mr. Bonds, I'm going to flip it back to you on this 12 one. Why shouldn't I at this point just say, okay, guess
13 what, no talking to Mr. Leventon or Ellington for the time
14 being? Why --

15 MR. BONDS: First of all, --

16 MS. SMITH: Your Honor, that's acceptable to us.

17 THE COURT: Okay. What's wrong with that, Mr. Bonds?

18 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, we don't believe that Mr.
19 Dondero has violated the TRO.

20 And secondly and more importantly, we don't believe that 21 there's any way that you can enter an order that singles out
22 two former employees. I mean, that's bizarre.

23 THE COURT: If I'm concerned that it's thwarting the 24 reorganization efforts and there are conflicts of interest
25 here, why can't I?

193

1           You know, this is -- I hate to say it, but I feel like
2 I've been in the role of a divorce judge today. We have very 3 much a corporate divorce that has been in the works, unless we 4 get this pot plan on track, okay, and I'm a judge having to 5 enter interim orders keeping one spouse away from the other,
6 keeping one spouse out of the house, keeping one spouse away
7 from the kids. It's not pleasant at all. But I don't -- the 8 more I think about it, the more I have authority to do it just 9 to protect, to protect the nest egg here.

10           MS. SMITH: Your Honor, we are perfectly fine with 11 you enjoining Mr. Dondero from speaking to our clients, and we 12 will convey that to our clients.

13           THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Bonds, I can't hear you.

14           MR. BONDS: I'm sorry, Your Honor. What evidence is 15 there of irreparable harm as to Mr. Dondero talking with 16 either Mr. Leventon or Mr. Ellington?

17           THE COURT: Okay. Do I need to parse through the 18 communications I saw? Do I need to parse-

19           MR. BONDS: Yeah, I think so. I mean, I don't 20 understand.

21           THE COURT: Okay. I never authorized Mr. Ellington
22 to be the settlement lawyer or whatever, okay? I never would 23 have, okay? And maybe Mr. Seery, you know, said something to 24 -- early on in the case to make him think he had that 25 authority, but no, we're done. Okay? And I feel like it's 194

1 causing more harm than good right now. Okay?

2 I don't know who instructed all of these Dondero-
3 controlled entities to hire lawyers. I don't know if 4 Ellington and Leventon have been giving instructions to these
5 entities. But we've got conflicts everywhere now. Okay?
6 We've got -- and by the way, I'm just going to list them now.
7 We have, of course, Bonds Ellis representing Dondero. We have 8 Doug Draper, Heller Draper, now representing these trusts, Get 9 Good Trust, Dugaboy Investment Trust. We have K&L Gates and 10 now Munsch Hardt also representing the Advisors, NexPoint and 11 the various CLO or other Funds. We have CLO Holdco
12 represented by Kane Russell Coleman Logan. We have NexPoint
13 Real Estate represented by Wick Phillips. Who have I left --
14 and, of course, the employees, Baker & McKenzie and Ms. Smith.
15 We have Spencer Fane in there for other current or former 16 employees. We have Loewinsohn Flegle in there for certain 17 former or current employees.

18 I mean, the proliferation of lawyers. And again, I don't 19 know if Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon have had a role in 20 hiring counsel, wearing their hat for these other entities or 21 not. Can anyone tell me? Maybe I'm worried about something I
22 shouldn't be worried about.

23 MR. DONDERO: You're worried about something you
24 shouldn't worry about, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Okay. So Ellington --

195

1 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I would just point to the
2 evidence that's in the record, Your Honor. You have Mr.
3 Dondero asking Mr. Ellington to show leadership in 4 coordinating all of the lawyers you just mentioned. It's in
5 the record.

6 THE COURT: Yes. I'm just going to, until otherwise
7 ordered, no conversations between Dondero and Ellington and 8 Leventon, and that's just going to be my ruling until further
9 order. That's what I feel best about.

10 Now, let me ask you, knowing that I could only give you a 11 half a day on the 28th of January, if we start the 12 confirmation hearing on whatever the plan looks like on 13 January 27th, I mean, do people want to go with that, --

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Your --

15 THE COURT: -- even knowing we might not finish that 16 day, or no?

17 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.
18 Maybe if we could start on the 26th, have the 26th, 27th, and 19 then maybe half of the 28th. I would think two and a half 20 days should be enough, notwithstanding the volume of 21 objections, because I think you'll find that, while there may 22 be some evidence, I think the majority of the objections are 23 really legal in nature.

24 THE COURT: All right. Traci, are you out there in 25 video-land?

196

1 THE CLERK: Yes, I'm here.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Have I overcommitted the 26th? If
3 we start the 26th at 9:30 in the morning, can we do that? Or 4 --

5 MR. BONDS: Your Honor?

6 THE CLERK: That'd be fine.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 THE CLERK: Just remember that you have an
9 appointment at lunchtime that day at noon on the 26th.

10 THE COURT: Okay. I --

11 THE CLERK: You don't have any court hearings.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'm sorry.

14 THE COURT: Go ahead.

15 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'm sorry. This is John
16 Bonds. I have a hearing on the 26th that I can't miss.

17 THE COURT: Well, can someone else --

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, we would request, right,
19 that Mr. Lynn lead the confirmation hearing. There's a lot of 20 lawyers. If we try to look at everyone's calendar, we're 21 never going to be able --

22 THE COURT: Yes.

23 MR. POMERANTZ: -- to get something that's good for 24 everyone.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Yes. Well, Mr. Lynn or Mr. Assink

197

1 can handle it, Mr. Bonds.

2 So we're going to start the 26th at 9:30. We'll go all
3 day, except I have something at lunchtime, apparently. And 4 then we'll go all day on the 27th, and then I can give you
5 half a day on the 28th.

6 So you'll upload immediately a notice to that effect, Mr.
7 Pomerantz.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, we would.

9 Your Honor, in terms of our documents in support of 10 confirmation, we want to make it convenient with the Court.
11 We know your Court would at least need one business day, so we 12 would prefer to file, say, by 2:00 Central on the 24th, on a
13 Sunday. Everyone will have it, and have one business day. I
14 mean, the old order only had one business day in advance as 15 well. So that's what we would propose for our confirmation
16 documents to be filed.

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, this is Davor Rukavina.
18 An important issue here is how the creditors have voted, and I
19 have no idea how they have voted. The voting deadline has 20 expired. So I have no problem with what Mr. Pomerantz
21 suggests, but I do think that the Debtor should file its 22 tabulation of votes sooner rather than later so we all know
23 one of the central elements for the hearing that we'll have.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: That's fair, Your Honor. We're

198

1 prepared to file the summary of voting and tabulation by the 2 15th of January.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Very good.

4 So, backing up, Mr. Pomerantz, you asked that I approve
5 you filing any plan modifications by noon on Sunday, the 24th?
6 Is that what you said?

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Yeah. So, there's a couple of 8 things. There's our confirmation brief.

9 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: There is our -- any evidence we would 11 submit, although I suspect we are likely to provide live
12 testimony, as opposed to a declaration. There was our summary
13 of ballots, which we will now do on the 15th. And to the 14 extent we have any modifications, we would provide them on 15 Sunday by 12:00 noon Central time as well. Yes.

16 THE COURT: All right.

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, Your Honor, this is Davor
18 Rukavina. Does that mean the witness and exhibit lists also 19 will not be due until Sunday at noon? Because I would request 20 that we have the normal period of time to exchange exhibits
21 and witnesses.

22 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I think that the normal time
23 period is also important in this case.

24 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to --

25 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, we could -- if everyone

199

1 agrees on witness lists, we could do those by 5:00 p.m.

2 Central on the 22nd.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Let's do that. Okay.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: But that -- but that needs to be for 5 everybody.

6 THE COURT: Oh, it will be for everyone.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, no problem.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Let's --

9 MR. POMERANTZ: 5:00 p.m. Central Standard Time.

10 THE COURT: No more discussions. That'll be the 11 ruling, okay? Everything is going to be due by 5:00 p.m.
12 Central time on Friday, the 22nd. All right.

13 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, is that our brief as 14 well, or --

15 THE COURT: Yes.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: -- was that just the witness list?

17 THE COURT: Everything. Brief, witness list, and --

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay.

19 THE COURT: -- plan mods.

20 Let me look through my notes and see if there's anything
21 else I want to say. You know, let me do some quick math here.
22 I know there was one other thing I wanted to say that involves 23 math. Okay. I think my math is right here. Okay. You know,
24 I mentioned the proliferation of lawyers. And let me just say
25 this. We had -- we've had about 90 people on the -- showing

200

1 up on the video screen today -- 89, 90, 91, 92. A few, a
2 little over 90. Okay? So let's say 90. It's been up to 95
3 earlier. But let's pretend that 60 of those are lawyers
4 billing by the hour. That's very conservative. Probably many 5 more than 60. And let's assume conservatively that the 6 average billing rate is $700 an hour. That's probably very 7 low, right? We probably don't have many baby lawyers on the 8 phone. So that's a very low average. So, 60 lawyers times
9 $700 an hour, $42,000 an hour this hearing has cost. And then
10 we've been going over seven hours. So let's say seven,
11 conservatively, times $42,000. This hearing has cost $294,000
12 today. A preliminary injunction hearing. I mean, no one
13 thinks that's chump change. I don't know, maybe some people
14 do. This just seems like a ridiculous way to spend resources.
15 No offense to all the wonderful lawyers, but this is just --
16 it's crazy-town, right? It is crazy-town. So I implore you,
17 okay, how about I use that word, I implore you to have these 18 good-faith discussions on a pot plan.

19 Please, Mr. Dondero, I mean, don't waste people's time.
20 $160 million, I know that's not going to cut it. Okay? So 21 it's going to have to be more meaningful. I just know that in 22 my gut.

23 But having said that, I mean, I honestly mean I think a
24 pot plan -- I think you getting your baby back is the best
25 thing for everyone. Okay? I think it's the best thing for

201

1 everyone. So I want you all to --

2 MR. DONDERO: Judge, I -- Judge, I just need to 3 interject for a second, because no one follows the big
4 picture. We filed for bankruptcy with $450 million of assets.
5 $360 million of third-party net assets, $90 million of 6 affiliated notes. The third-party assets are down to $130
7 million and falling fast.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I hate to interrupt Mr.
9 Dondero, but that is not the purpose of this hearing.

10 THE COURT: Well, --

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Mr. Dondero's statement of the assets
12 and value is just not something that the Debtors would agree
13 and support. I'm sure it's not something the creditors -- I
14 think we understand what Your Honor is saying. I think the 15 Committee understands. And Your Honor knows that the Debtor
16 and the Committee are close to the asset values. And Mr.
17 Dondero should be making his argument to the Debtor and the 18 Committee, not Your Honor, in this open forum.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: It's just not appropriate.

21 THE COURT: And I understand where you're both coming
22 from. And he's saying that because I made the comment I made
23 about $160 million not being enough.

24 I've seen the evidence. I've heard the evidence at prior 25 hearings, Mr. Dondero. We've had a lot of hearings. And I

202

1 remember writing that down. Wow, why did that happen? Seeing
2 the dissipation of value. I couldn't remember the exact
3 numbers, but I thought it was like $500 million something and 4 then $300 million or whatever. And I remember Multi-Strat,
5 that being sold, and blah, blah, blah, blah.

6 But having said that, there are a lot of causes of action
7 that have been hinted at by the Creditors' Committee and 8 others. So, causes of action is one of the things they are 9 looking at when they start thinking about what's appropriate
10 value.

11 So I just, I get where everyone is coming from. I get 12 where everyone is coming from. But, again, let's take one
13 more stab at this, please. Okay?

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Yeah. And Your Honor, my last 15 comment. We're commercial people. The creditors are 16 commercial people. I think we've done a tremendous job in 17 being able to resolve most every one of the significant
18 claims. I think the Court should trust the process. Mr.
19 Dondero should trust the process.

20 And again, if there's a commercial deal to be worked out,
21 I don't think there's anyone more than of course the Debtor
22 and the people on the Committee, who have been litigating in 23 many cases with Mr. Dondero and Highland for ten years, I
24 don't think it's anyone's desire. So if there's a reasonable,
25 rational proposal that the creditors can get behind and want

203

1 to engage, then there'll be a discussion. If they don't
2 believe it's a reasonable, rational proposal, they won't.

3 THE COURT: Yes. All right. Well, I do feel very 4 good about what I've heard about the UBS issues being worked
5 out. I mean, we have come a long way in 15 months, even
6 though it's frustrating to me and others. But, again, I know
7 you all are going to do what you need to do. And I'll look
8 for the form of order. I'm going to see you all, Mr. Dondero,
9 including you, next Wednesday. And if there's nothing else,
10 we stand adjourned.

11 MS. SMITH: Your Honor, I'd like to review the form
12 of order as it regards my clients before it's submitted.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. SMITH: If I could have a courtesy copy, please.

15 THE COURT: Yes. Well, yes. I'm not going to 16 require 90 lawyers to get the order, but I will ask Mr.
17 Pomerantz, Mr. Morris, make sure Ms. Smith gets it and 18 obviously Mr. Dondero's counsel gets it. And I probably won't 19 get it until Monday, it sounds like, but --

20 MR. POMERANTZ: That's likely.

21 THE COURT: But I'll be on the lookout for it. Okay.
22 Thank you. We stand adjourned.

23 MS. SMITH: Thank you, Your Honor.

24 THE CLERK: All rise.

25 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

204

1 MR. BONDS: Thank you, Your Honor.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - FEBRUARY 8, 2021 - 9:08 A.M.

2 THE COURT: Please be seated.

3 (Beeping.)

4 THE COURT: Someone needs to turn off their whatever.

5 All right. Good morning. This is Judge Jernigan, and we
6 have scheduled today a bench ruling regarding the Debtor's
7 plan that we had a confirmation trial on last week. This is 8 Highland Capital Management, LP, Case No. 19-34054.

9 Let me first make sure we've got Debtor's counsel on the 10 line. Do we have --

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes.

12 THE COURT: -- Mr. Pomerantz?

13 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, Your Honor. Good morning, Your 14 Honor. Jeff Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; on 15 behalf of the Debtor.

16 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning. Do we have the 17 Creditors' Committee on the phone?

18 MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning, Your Honor. Matthew
19 Clemente of Sidley Austin on behalf of the Creditors'
20 Committee.

21 THE COURT: Good morning. All right. We had various 22 Objectors. Do we have Mr. Dondero's counsel on the phone?

23 MR. LYNN: Yes, Your Honor. Michael Lynn, together
24 with John Bonds and Bryan Assink, for Jim Dondero.

25 THE COURT: Good morning. For the Trusts, the

4

1 Dugaboy and Get Good Trusts, do we have Mr. Draper?

2 MR. DRAPER: Yes. Douglas Draper is on the line,
3 Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Good morning. Now, for what I'll call
5 the Funds and Advisor Objectors, do we have Mr. Rukavina and 6 your crew on the line?

7 MR. RUKAVINA: Davor Rukavina. And Lee Hogewood is 8 also on the line.

9 THE COURT: All right. Good morning to you. All 10 right. And we had objections pending from the U.S. Trustee as 11 well. Do we have the U.S. Trustee on the line?

12 (No response.)

13 THE COURT: All right. If you're appearing, you're 14 on mute. We're not hearing you.

15 All right. Well, we have lots of other folks. I don't 16 mean to be neglectful of them, but we're going to get on with 17 the ruling this morning. This is going to take a while. This 18 is a complex matter, so it should take a while.

19 All right. Before the Court, of course, for consideration
20 is the Debtor's Fifth Amended Plan, first filed on November
21 24, 2020, as later modified on or around January 22, 2021,
22 with more amendments filed on or around February 1, 2021. The 23 Court will hereinafter refer to this as the "Plan."

24 The parties refer to the Plan as a monetization plan
25 because it involves the gradual wind-down of the Debtor's assets and certain of its funds over time, with the Reorganized Debtor continuing to manage certain other funds for a while, under strict governance and monitoring, and a Claimants Trust will receive the proceeds of that process, with the creditors receiving an interest in that trust. There is also anticipated to be Litigation Sub-Trust established for the purpose of pursuing certain avoidance or other causes of action for the benefit of creditors.

The recovery for general unsecured creditors is estimated now at 71 percent.

The Plan was accepted by 99.8 percent of the dollar amount of voting creditors in Class 8, the general unsecured class, but as to numerosity, a majority of the class of general unsecured creditors did not vote in favor of the plan. Specifically, 27 claimants voted no and 17 claimants voted yes. All but one of the rejecting ballots were cast by employees who, according to the Debtor, are unlikely to have allowed claims because they are asserted for bonuses or other compensation that will not become due.

Meanwhile, in a convenience class, Class 7, of general unsecured claims under one million dollars, one hundred percent of the 16 claimants who chose to vote in that class chose to accept the Plan.

Because of the rejecting votes in Class 8, and because of certain objections to the Plan, the Court heard two full days

1 of evidence, considering testimony from five witnesses and
2 thousands of pages of documentary evidence, in considering
3 whether to confirm the Plan pursuant to Sections 1129(a) and 4 (b) of the Bankruptcy Code.

5 The Court finds and concludes that the Plan meets all of 6 the relevant requirements of Sections 1123, 1124, and 1129 of 7 the Code, and other applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy
8 Code, but is issuing this detailed ruling to address certain 9 pending objections to the Plan, including but not limited to 10 objections regarding certain Exculpations, Releases, Plan
11 Injunctions, and Gatekeeping Provisions of the Plan.

12 The Court reserves the right to amend or supplement this 13 oral ruling in more detailed findings of fact, conclusions of 14 law, and an Order.

15 First, by way of introduction, this case is not your 16 garden-variety Chapter 11 case. Highland Capital Management,
17 LP is a multibillion dollar global investment advisor,
18 registered with the SEC pursuant to the Investment Advisers
19 Act of 1940. It was founded in 1993 by James Dondero and Mark
20 Okada. Mr. Okada resigned from his role with Highland prior 21 to the bankruptcy case being filed. Mr. Dondero was in 22 control of the Debtor as of the day it filed bankruptcy, but 23 agreed to relinquish control of it on or about January 9,
24 2020, pursuant to an agreement reached with the Official
25 Unsecured Creditors' Committee, which will be described later.

1        Although Mr. Dondero remained on as an unpaid employee and 2 portfolio manager with the Debtor after January 9, 2020, his
3 employment with the Debtor terminated on October 9, 2020. Mr.
4 Dondero continues to work for and essentially control numerous
5 nondebtor companies in the Highland complex of companies.

6        The Debtor is headquartered in Dallas, Texas. As of the 7 October 2019 petition date, the Debtor employed approximately 8 76 employees.

9        Pursuant to various contractual arrangements, the Debtor
10 provides money management and advisory services for billions
11 of dollars of assets, including CLOs and other investments.
12 Some of these assets are managed pursuant to shared services
13 agreements with a variety of affiliated entities, including
14 other affiliated registered investment advisors. In fact,
15 there are approximately 2,000 entities in the Byzantine
16 complex of companies under the Highland umbrella.

17        None of these affiliates of Highland filed for Chapter 11
18 protection. Most, but not all, of these entities are not 19 subsidiaries, direct or indirect, of Highland. And certain 20 parties in the case preferred not to use the term "affiliates"
21 when referring to them. Thus, the Court will frequently refer 22 loosely to the so-called, in air quotes, "Highland complex of 23 companies" when referring to the Highland enterprise. That's 24 a term many of the lawyers in the case use.

25        Many of the companies are offshore entities, organized in

1 such faraway jurisdictions as the Cayman Islands and Guernsey.

2 The Debtor is privately owned 99.5 percent by an entity
3 called Hunter Mountain Investment Trust; 0.1866 percent by the 4 Dugaboy Investment Trust, a trust created to manage the assets
5 of Mr. Dondero and his family; 0.0627 percent by Mark Okada,
6 personally and through family trusts; and 0.25 percent by 7 Strand Advisors, Inc., the general partner.

8 The Debtor's primary means of generating revenue has 9 historically been from fees collected for the management and 10 advisory services provided to funds that it manages, plus fees
11 generated for services provided to its affiliates.

12 For additional liquidity, the Debtor, prior to the 13 petition date, would sell liquid securities in the ordinary
14 course, primarily through a brokerage account at Jefferies,
15 LLC. The Debtor would also, from time to time, sell assets at 16 nondebtor subsidiaries and distribute those proceeds to the 17 Debtor in the ordinary course of business.

18 The Debtor's current CEO, James Seery, credibly testified
19 that the Debtor was "run at a deficient for a long time and 20 then would sell assets or defer employee compensation to cover
21 its deficits." This Court cannot help but wonder if that was 22 necessitated because of enormous litigation fees and expenses
23 that Highland was constantly incurring due to its culture of 24 litigation, as further addressed hereafter.

25 Highland and this case are not garden-variety for so many

1 reasons. One is the creditor constituency. Highland did not
2 file bankruptcy because of some of the typical reasons a large
3 company files Chapter 11. For example, it did not have a
4 large asset-based secured lender with whom it was in default.
5 It only had relatively insignificant secured indebtedness
6 owing to Jefferies, with whom it had a brokerage account, and 7 one other entity called Frontier State Bank.

8 Highland did not have problems with trade vendors or 9 landlords. It did not suffer any type of catastrophic
10 business calamity. In fact, it filed Chapter 11 six months
11 before the COVID-19 pandemic was declared. The Debtor filed
12 Chapter 11 due to a myriad of massive unrelated business
13 litigation claims that it was facing, many of which had 14 finally become liquidated or were about to become liquidated
15 after a decade or more of contentious litigation in multiple 16 fora all over the world.

17 The Unsecured Creditors' Committee in this case has 18 referred to the Debtor under its former chief executive, Mr.
19 Dondero, as a serial litigator. This Court agrees with that 20 description. By way of example, the members of the Creditors'
21 Committee and their history of litigation with the Debtor and 22 others in the Highland complex are as follows:

23 First, the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader
24 Fund, which I'll call the Redeemer Committee. This Creditors'
25 Committee member obtained an arbitration award against the

1 Debtor of more than $190 million, inclusive of interest,
2 approximately five months before the petition date from a
3 panel of the American Arbitration Association. It was on the 4 verge of having that award confirmed by the Delaware Chancery
5 Court immediately prior to the petition date, after years of 6 disputes that started in late 2008 and included legal
7 proceedings in Bermuda. This creditor's claim was settled
8 during the bankruptcy case in the amount of approximately 9 $137.7 million. The Court is omitting various details and 10 aspects of that settlement.

11 The second Creditors' Committee member, Acis Capital
12 Management, LP, which was formerly in the Highland complex of 13 companies but was not affiliated with Highland as of the 14 petition date. This UCC member and its now-owner, Josh Terry,
15 were involved in litigation with Highland dating back to 2016.
16 Acis was forced into an involuntary bankruptcy in the 17 Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas
18 Division, by Josh Terry, who was a former Highland portfolio
19 manager, in 2018 after Josh Terry obtained an approximately $8
20 million arbitration award and judgment against Acis that was 21 issued by a state court in Dallas County, Texas. Josh Terry
22 was ultimately awarded the equity ownership of Acis by the 23 Dallas Bankruptcy Court in the Acis bankruptcy case.

24 Acis subsequently asserted a multimillion dollar claim
25 against Highland in the Dallas Bankruptcy Court for Highland's

1 alleged denuding of Acis in fraud of its creditors, primarily 2 Josh Terry.

3 The litigation involving Acis and Mr. Terry dates back to 4 mid-2016, and has continued on, with numerous appeals of 5 bankruptcy court orders, including one appeal still pending at 6 the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit.

7 There was also litigation involving Josh Terry and Acis in 8 the Royal Court of the Island of Guernsey and in a court in 9 New York.

10 The Acis claim was settled during this bankruptcy case in 11 court-ordered mediation for approximately $23 million. Other 12 aspects and details of this settlement are being omitted.

13 Now, the third Creditors' Committee member, UBS
14 Securities. It's a creditor who filed a proof of claim in the 15 amount of $1,039,000,000 in the Highland case. Yes, over one
16 billion dollars. The UBS claim was based on the amount of a
17 judgment that UBS received from a New York state court in 2020
18 after a multi-week bench trial which had occurred many months
19 earlier on a breach of contract claim against other entities
20 in the Highland complex. UBS alleged that the Debtor should 21 be liable for the judgment. The UBS litigation related to 22 activities that occurred in 2008. The litigation involving 23 UBS and Highland and its affiliates was pending for more than 24 a decade, there having been numerous interlocutory appeals
25 during its history.

1       The Debtor and UBS recently announced a settlement of the
2 UBS claim, which came a few months after court-ordered
3 mediation. The settlement is in the amount of $50 million as 4 a general unsecured claim, $25 million as a subordinated
5 claim, and $18 million of cash coming from a nondebtor entity
6 in the Highland complex known as Multistrat. Other aspects of 7 this settlement are being omitted.

8       The fourth and last Creditors' Committee member is Meta-e
9 Discovery. It is a vendor who happened to supply litigation
10 and discovery-related services to the Debtor over the years.
11 It had unpaid invoices on the petition date of more than 12 $779,000.

13       It is fair to say that the members of the Creditors'
14 Committee in this case all have wills of steel. They fought 15 hard before and during the bankruptcy case. The members of 16 the Creditors' Committee are highly sophisticated and have had 17 highly sophisticated professionals representing them. They 18 have represented their constituency in this case as 19 fiduciaries extremely well.

20       In addition to these Creditors Committee members, who were 21 all embroiled in years of litigation with Highland and its 22 affiliates in various ways, the Debtor has been in litigation
23 with Patrick Daugherty, a former limited partner and employee
24 of Highland, for many years in both Delaware and Texas state
25 courts. Patrick Daugherty filed a proof of claim for "at

1 least $37.4 million" relating to alleged breached employment-
2 related agreements and for the tort of defamation arising from 3 a 2017 press release posted by the Debtor.

4 The Debtor and Patrick Daugherty recently announced a
5 settlement of the Patrick Daugherty claim in the amount of 6 $750,000 cash on the effective date, an $8.25 million general
7 unsecured claim, and a $2.75 million subordinated claim.
8 Other aspects and details of this settlement are being 9 omitted.

10 Additionally, an entity known as HarbourVest, who invested
11 more than $70 million with an entity in the Highland complex,
12 asserted a $300 million proof of claim against Highland,
13 alleging, among other things, fraud and RICO violations. The 14 HarbourVest claim was settled during the bankruptcy case for a 15 $45 million general unsecured claim and a $35 million junior
16 claim.

17 Other than these claims just described, most of the other
18 claims in this case are claims asserted against the Debtor by 19 other entities in the Highland complex, most of which entities
20 the Court finds to be controlled by Mr. Dondero; claims of 21 employees who believe that they are entitled to large bonuses
22 or other types of deferred compensation; and claims of 23 numerous law firms that did work for Highland and were unpaid
24 for amounts due to them on the petition date.

25 Yet another reason this is not your garden-variety Chapter

1 11 case is its postpetition corporate governance structure.
2 Highland filed bankruptcy October 16, 2019. Contentiousness
3 with the Creditors' Committee began immediately, with first
4 the Committee's request for a change of venue from Delaware to 5 Dallas, and then a desire by the Committee and the U.S.
6 Trustee for a Chapter 11 or 7 trustee to be appointed due to 7 concerns over and distrust of Mr. Dondero and his numerous
8 conflicts of interest and alleged mismanagement or worse.

9 After many weeks of the threat of a trustee lingering, the 10 Debtor and the Creditors' Committee negotiated and the Court
11 approved a corporate governance settlement on January 9, 2020
12 that resulted in Mr. Dondero no longer being an officer or 13 director of the Debtor or of its general partner, Strand.

14 As part of the court-approved settlement, three eminently-
15 qualified Independent Directors were chosen by the Creditors'
16 Committee and engaged to lead Highland through its Chapter 11
17 case. They were James Seery, John Dubel, and Retired
18 Bankruptcy Judge Russell Nelms. They were technically the 19 Independent Directors of Strand, the general partner of the 20 Debtor. Mr. Dondero had previously been the sole director of 21 Strand, and thus the sole person in ultimate control of the 22 Debtor.

23 The three independent board members' resumes are in 24 evidence. James Seery eventually was named CEO of the Debtor.
25 Suffice it to say that this changed the entire trajectory of

1 the case. This saved the Debtor from a trustee. The Court
2 trusted the new directors. The Creditors' Committee trusted
3 them. They were the right solution at the right time.

4 Because of the unique character of the Debtor's business,
5 the Court believed this solution was far better than a
6 conventional Chapter 7 or 11 trustee. Mr. Seery, in 7 particular, knew and had vast experience at prominent firms
8 with high-yield and distressed investing similar to the 9 Debtor's business. Mr. Dubel had 40 years of experience
10 restructuring large, complex businesses and serving on their 11 boards of directors in this context. And Retired Judge Nelms
12 had not only vast bankruptcy experience but seemed 13 particularly well-suited to help the Debtor maneuver through 14 conflicts and ethical quandaries.

15 By way of comparison, in the Chapter 11 case of Acis, the 16 former affiliate of Highland that this Court presided over two 17 or three years ago, which company was much smaller in size and 18 scope than Highland, managing only five or six CLOs, a Chapter 19 11 trustee was elected by the creditors that was not on the 20 normal rotation panel for trustees in this district, but 21 rather was a nationally-known bankruptcy attorney with more
22 than 45 years of large Chapter 11 case experience. This 23 Chapter 11 trustee performed valiantly, but was sued by 24 entities in the Highland complex shortly after he was 25 appointed, which this Court had to address. The Acis trustee

1 could not get Highland and its affiliates to agree to any
2 actions taken in the case, and he finally obtained
3 confirmation of a plan over Highland and its affiliates'
4 objections in his fourth attempted plan, which confirmation
5 then was promptly appealed by Highland and its affiliates.

6 Suffice it to say it was not easy to get such highly-
7 qualified persons to serve as independent board members and 8 CEO of this Debtor. They were stepping into a morass of 9 problems. Naturally, they were worried about getting sued, no
10 matter how defensible their efforts might be, given the 11 litigation culture that enveloped Highland historically. It 12 seemed as though everything always ended in litigation at 13 Highland.

14 The Court heard credible testimony that none of them would 15 have taken on the role of Independent Director without a good
16 D&O insurance policy protecting them, without indemnification
17 from Strand, guaranteed by the Debtor; without exculpation for 18 mere negligence claims; and without a gatekeeper provision,
19 such that the Independent Directors could not be sued without 20 the bankruptcy court, as a gatekeeper, giving a potential
21 plaintiff permission to sue.

22 With regard to the gatekeeper provision, this was 23 precisely analogous to what bankruptcy trustees have pursuant 24 to the so-called "Barton Doctrine," which was first
25 articulated in an old U.S. Supreme Court case.

1 The Bankruptcy Court approved all of these protections in
2 a January 9, 2020 order. No one appealed that order. And Mr.
3 Dondero signed the settlement agreement that was approved by 4 that order.

5 An interesting fact about the D&O policy came out in 6 credible testimony at the confirmation hearing. Mr. Dubel and 7 an insurance broker from Aon, named Marc Tauber, both credibly
8 testified that the gatekeeper provision was needed because of 9 the so-called, and I quote, "Dondero Exclusion" in the 10 insurance marketplace.

11 Specifically, the D&O insurers in the marketplace did not 12 want to cover litigation claims that might be brought against 13 the Independent Directors by Mr. Dondero because the 14 marketplace of D&O insurers are aware of Mr. Dondero's
15 litigiousness. The insurers would not have issued a D&O
16 policy to the Independent Directors without either the 17 gatekeeping provision or a "Dondero Exclusion" being in the 18 policy.

19 Thus, the gatekeeper provision was part of the January 9,
20 2020 settlement. There was a sound business justification for 21 it. It was reasonable and necessary. It was consistent with 22 the Barton Doctrine in an extremely analogous situation --
23 i.e., the independent board members were analogous to a three-
24 headed trustee in this case, if you will. Mr. Dondero signed
25 off on it. And, again, no one ever appealed the order

1 approving it.

2 The Court finds that, like the Creditors' Committee, the 3 independent board members here have been resilient and 4 unwavering in their efforts to get the enormous problems in 5 this case solved. They seem to have at all times negotiated
6 hard and with good faith. As noted previously, they changed
7 the entire trajectory of this case.

8 Still another reason why this was not your garden-variety
9 case was the mediation effort. In summer of 2020, roughly
10 nine months into the Chapter 11 case, this Court ordered
11 mediation among the Debtor, Acis, UBS, the Redeemer Committee,
12 and Mr. Dondero. The Court selected co-mediators, since this 13 seemed like such a Herculean task, especially during COVID-19,
14 where people could not all be in the same room. Those co-
15 mediators were Retired Bankruptcy Judge Allan Gropper from the 16 Southern District of New York, who had a distinguished career
17 presiding over complex Chapter 11 cases, and Ms. Sylvia Mayer,
18 who likewise has had a distinguished career, first as a
19 partner in a preeminent law firm working on complex Chapter 11
20 cases, and subsequently as a mediator and arbitrator in 21 Houston, Texas.

22 As noted earlier, the Acis claim was settled during the 23 mediation, which seemed nothing short of a miracle to this 24 Court, and the UBS claim was settled many months later, and 25 this Court believes the groundwork for that ultimate

1 settlement was laid, or at least helped, through the 2 mediation. And as earlier noted, other enormous claims have
3 been settled during this case, including that of the Redeemer
4 Committee, who, again, had asserted approximately or close to 5 a $200 million claim; HarbourVest, who asserted a $300 million
6 claim; and Patrick Daugherty, who asserted close to a $40
7 million claim.

8 This Court cannot stress strongly enough that the 9 resolution of these enormous claims and the acceptance of all
10 of these creditors of the Plan that is now before the Court
11 seems nothing short of a miracle. It was more than a year in 12 the making.

13 Finally, a word about the current remaining Objectors to 14 the Plan before the Court. Once again, the Court will use the 15 phrase "not garden-variety." Originally, there were over one
16 dozen objections filed to this Plan. The Debtor has made
17 various amendments or modifications to the Plan to address
18 some of these objections. The Court finds that none of these 19 modifications require further solicitation, pursuant to 20 Sections 1125, 1126, 1127 of the Code, or Bankruptcy Rule
21 3019, because, among other things, they do not materially
22 adversely change the treatment of the claims of any creditor
23 or interest holder who has not accepted in writing the 24 modifications.

25 Among other things, there were changes to the projections

1 that the Debtor filed shortly before the confirmation hearing
2 that, among other things, show the estimated distribution to 3 creditors and compare plan treatment to a likely disbursement
4 in a Chapter 7.

5 These do not constitute a materially adverse change to the 6 treatment of any creditors or interest holders. They merely 7 update likely distributions based on claims that have now been 8 settled, and they've otherwise incorporated more recent 9 financial data. This happens often before confirmation
10 hearings. The Court finds that it did not mislead or 11 prejudice any creditors or interest holders, and certainly 12 there was no need to resolicit the Plan.

13 The only Objectors to the Plan left at this time were Mr.
14 Dondero and entities that the Court finds are controlled by 15 him. The standing of these entities to object to the Plan
16 exists, but the remoteness of their economic interest is 17 noteworthy, and the Court questions the good faith of the 18 Objectors. In fact, the Court has good reason to believe that 19 these parties are not objecting to protect economic interests
20 they have in the Debtor, but to be disruptors.

21 Mr. Dondero wants his company back. This is 22 understandable. But it's not a good faith basis to lob
23 objections to the Plan. The Court has slowed down
24 confirmation multiple times on the current Plan and urged the 25 parties to talk to Mr. Dondero. The parties represent that

1 they have, and the Court believes that they have.

2 Now, to be specific about the remoteness of the objectors'
3 interests, the Court will address them each separately.
4 First, Mr. Dondero has a pending objection. Mr. Dondero's
5 only economic interest with regard to the Debtor at this point
6 is an unliquidated indemnification claim. And based on 7 everything this Court has heard, his indemnification claim
8 will be highly questionable at this juncture.

9 Second, a joint objection has been filed by the Dugaboy
10 Trust and the Get Good Trust. As for the Dugaboy Trust, it
11 was created to manage the assets of Mr. Dondero and his 12 family, and it owns a 0.1866 percent limited partnership
13 interest in the Debtor. The Court is not clear what economic 14 interest the Get Good Trust has, but it likewise seems to be 15 related to Mr. Dondero, and it has been represented to the 16 Court numerous times that the trustee is Mr. Dondero's college
17 roommate.

18 Another group of Objectors that has joined together in one
19 objection is what the Court will refer to as the Highland and 20 NexPoint Advisors and Funds. The Court understands they 21 assert disputed administrative expense claims against the 22 estate. While the evidence presented was that they have 23 independent board members that run these companies, the Court
24 was not convinced of their independence from Mr. Dondero.
25 None of the so-called independent board members of these

1 entities have ever testified before the Court. Moreover, they
2 have all been engaged with the Highland complex for many 3 years.

4 The witness who testified on these Objectors' behalves at 5 confirmation, Mr. Jason Post, their chief compliance officer,
6 resigned from Highland after more than twelve years in October
7 2020, at the same time that Mr. Dondero resigned or was 8 terminated by Highland. And a prior witness recently for 9 these entities whose testimony was made part of the record at 10 the confirmation hearing essentially testified that Mr.
11 Dondero controlled these entities.

12 Finally, various NexBank entities objected to the Plan.
13 The Court does not believe they have liquidated claims. Mr.
14 Dondero appears to be in control of these entities as well.

15 To be clear, the Court has allowed all of these objectors
16 to fully present arguments and evidence in opposition to 17 confirmation, even though their economic interests in the 18 Debtor appear to be extremely remote and the Court questions
19 their good faith. Specifically on that latter point, the 20 Court considers them all to be marching pursuant to the orders
21 of Mr. Dondero.

22 In the recent past, Mr. Dondero has been subject to a TRO
23 and preliminary injunction by the Bankruptcy Court for 24 interfering with the current CEO's management of the Debtor in 25 specific ways that were supported by evidence. Around the

1 time that this all came to light and the Court began setting
2 hearings on the alleged interference, Mr. Dondero's company
3 phone supplied to him by Highland, which he had been asked to 4 turn in, mysteriously went missing. The Court merely mentions
5 this in this context as one of many reasons that the Court has 6 to question the good faith of Mr. Dondero and his affiliated 7 objectors.

8 The only other pending objection besides these objections
9 of the Dondero and Dondero-controlled entities is an objection
10 of the United States Trustee pertaining to the release,
11 exculpation, and injunction provisions in the Plan.

12 In juxtaposition to these pending objections, the Court
13 notes that the Debtor has resolved earlier-filed objections to 14 the Plan filed by the IRS, Patrick Daugherty, CLO Holdco,
15 Ltd., numerous local taxing authorities, and certain current
16 and former senior-level employees of the Debtor.

17 With that rather detailed factual background addressed,
18 because certainly context matters here, the Court now
19 addresses what it considers the only serious objections raised
20 in connection with confirmation. Specifically, the Plan
21 contain certain releases, exculpation, plan injunctions, and a
22 gatekeeper provision which are obviously not fully consensual,
23 since there are objections. Certainly, these provisions are 24 mostly consensual when you consider that parties with hundreds
25 of millions of dollars' worth of legitimate claims have not

1 objected to them.

2 First, a word about plan releases generally, since the
3 Objectors at times seem to gloss over, in this Court's view,
4 relevant distinctions, and seem to refer to the plan releases
5 in this Plan and the exculpations and the plan injunctions all
6 as impermissible third-party releases, when, in fact, they are 7 not, per se.

8 It has, without a doubt, become quite commonplace in 9 complex Chapter 11 bankruptcy cases to have three categories
10 of releases in plans. These three types are as follows.

11 First, Debtor Releases. A debtor release involves a 12 release by the debtor and its bankruptcy estate of claims
13 against nondebtor third-parties. For example, a release may 14 be granted in favor of creditors, directors, officers,
15 employees, professionals who participated in the bankruptcy
16 process. This is the least-controversial type of release
17 because the debtor is extinguishing its own claims, which are 18 property of the estate, that a debtor has authority to utilize
19 or not, pursuant to Sections 541 and 363 of the Bankruptcy
20 Code.

21 Authority for a debtor release pursuant to a plan arises
22 out of Section 1123(b) (3) (A), which indicates that a plan may 23 provide for "the settlement or adjustment of any claim or 24 interest belonging to the debtor or to the estate."

25 In this context, it would appear that the only analysis

1 required is to determine whether the release or settlement of 2 the claim is an exercise of reasonable business judgment on 3 that part of the debtor, is it fair and equitable, is it in 4 the best interest of the estate, given all the relevant facts
5 and circumstances? Also relevant is whether there's 6 consideration given of some sort by the releasees.

7 Now, the second type of very commonplace Chapter 11 plan
8 release is an exculpation. Chapter 11 plans also very often
9 have these exculpation provisions, and they're something much
10 narrower in scope and time than a full-fledged release. An 11 exculpation provision is more like a shield for a certain 12 subset of key actors in the case for their acts during and in 13 connection with the case, which acts may have been merely 14 negligent.

15 Specifically, a plan may absolve certain actors -- usually 16 estate fiduciaries -- such as an Official Unsecured Creditors'
17 Committee and its members, Committee professionals, sometimes 18 Debtor professionals, senior management, officers and 19 directors of the Debtor, from any liability for postpetition
20 negligent conduct -- i.e., conduct which occurred during the 21 administration of the Chapter 11 case and in the negotiation,
22 drafting, and implementation of a plan. An exculpation
23 provision typically excludes gross negligence and willful
24 misconduct. It is usually worded in a passive voice, so it
25 may seem a little unclear as to whether it is actually a

1 release and by whom.

2 In any event, the rationale is that parties who actively
3 participate in a court-approved process -- often, court-
4 approved transactions by court order -- should receive
5 protection for their work. Otherwise, who would want to work
6 in such a messy, contentious situation, only to be sued for 7 alleged negligence for less-than-perfect end results?

8 Chapter 11 end results are not always pretty. One could 9 argue that these exculpation provisions, though, are much ado
10 about nothing. Why? For one thing, again, the shield is only 11 as to negligent conduct. There is no shield for other 12 problematic conduct, such as gross negligence or willful
13 misconduct.

14 Second, in many situations, any claims or causes of action
15 that might arise will belong to the Debtor or its estate.
16 Thus, they would already be released pursuant to a debtor
17 release.

18 Additionally, there is case law stating that, where a
19 claim is brought against an estate professional whose fees
20 have already been approved in a final fee application, any 21 claims are barred by res judicata. Thus, exculpated
22 professionals would only have potential exposure for a very 23 short window of time, until final fee applications.

24 Additionally, certain case law in Texas makes clear that 25 an attorney generally does not owe any duties to persons other

1 than his own client.

2 All of this suggests that the shield of a typical
3 exculpation provision may rarely become useful or needed.

4 Moving now to the third type of release, a true third-
5 party release, Chapter 11 plans also sometimes contain third-
6 party releases. A true third-party release involves the 7 release of claims held by nondebtor third parties against 8 other nondebtor third parties, and there is often no
9 limitation on the scope and time of the claims released.

10 This is the most heavily scrutinized of the three types of 11 plan releases. Much of the case authority focuses on whether 12 a third-party release is consensual or not in analyzing their 13 propriety and/or enforceability.

14 In Highland, there are no third-party releases. Rather,
15 there are debtor releases and exculpations. There also happen
16 to be plan injunctions and gatekeeper provisions that have 17 been challenged. The Objectors argue that these provisions
18 violate the Fifth Circuit's opinion in Pacific Lumber or are 19 otherwise beyond the jurisdiction or authority of the 20 bankruptcy court. These arguments are now addressed.

21 First, the debtor release is found at Article IX.D of the 22 Plan. The language, in pertinent part, reads as follows. "On 23 and after the effective date, each Released Party is deemed to 24 be hereby conclusively, absolutely, unconditionally,
25 irrevocably, and forever released and discharged by the Debtor

1 and the Estate, in each case on behalf of themselves and their
2 respective successors, assigns, and representatives, including
3 but not limited to the Claimant Trust and the Litigation Sub-
4 Trust, from any and all causes of action, including any 5 derivative claims, asserted on behalf of the Debtor, whether 6 known or unknown, foreseen or unforeseen, matured or 7 unmatured, existing or hereafter arising, in law, equity,
8 contract, tort, or otherwise, that the Debtor or the Estate
9 would have been legally entitled to assert in their own right,
10 whether individually or collectively, or on behalf of the 11 holder of any claim against, or interest in, a debtor or other 12 person."

13       There are certain exceptions discussed, and then Released
14 Parties are defined at Definition 113 of the Plan collectively
15 as: the Independent Directors; Strand, solely from the date
16 of the appointment of the Independent Directors through the 17 effective date; the CEO/CRO; the Committee, the members of the 18 Committee, in their official capacities; the professionals
19 retained by the Debtor and the Committee in the Chapter 11
20 case; and the employees. This is a defined term in the Plan
21 Supplement and does not include certain employees.

22       To be clear, these are not third-party releases such as 23 addressed in the Pacific Lumber case. These are the Debtor's 24 and/or the bankruptcy estate's causes of action that are 25 proposed to be released. Releases by a debtor are

1 discretionary and can be provided by a debtor to persons who
2 have provided consideration to the debtor and the estate.
3 Section 1123(b)(3)(A) of the Bankruptcy Code permits this.

4 The evidence here supported the notion that these releases
5 are a quid pro quo for the Released Parties' significant
6 contributions to a highly complex and contentious
7 restructuring. The Debtor is releasing its own claims. Some 8 of the Released Parties would have indemnification rights
9 against the Debtor. And the Debtor's CEO, James Seery,
10 credibly testified that he does not believe any claims exist
11 as to the Released Parties. The Court approves the Debtor
12 releases and overrules the objections to them.

13 Next, the exculpations appear at Article IX.C of the Plan
14 and provide as follows: Subject in all respects to Article
15 XII.D of the Plan, to the maximum extent permitted by 16 applicable law, no Exculpated Party will have or incur, and 17 each Exculpated Party is hereby exculpated from, any claim,
18 obligation, suit, judgment, damage, demand, debt, right, cause
19 of action, remedy, loss, and liability for conduct occurring
20 on or after the petition date in connection with or arising
21 out of the filing and administration of the Chapter 11 case, 22 the negotiation and pursuit of a disclosure statement, the 23 Plan, or the solicitation of votes for or confirmation of the 24 Plan, the funding or consummation of the Plan, or any related
25 agreements, instruments, et cetera, et cetera, whether or not

1 such Plan distributions occur following the effective date,
2 the implementation of the Plan, and any negotiation,
3 transactions, and documentation in connection with the 4 foregoing clauses, provided, however, the foregoing will not
5 apply to any acts or omissions of any Exculpated Party arising
6 out of or related to acts or omissions that constitute bad
7 faith, fraud, gross negligence, criminal misconduct, or 8 willful misconduct; or Strand or any employee other than with 9 respect to actions taken by such entities from the date of 10 appointment of the Independent Directors through the effective
11 date.

12 Exculpated Parties are later defined at Section -- or,
13 earlier defined at Section 62 of the Plan, Definition No. 62
14 of the Plan, as later limited by the Debtor, as announced in 15 the confirmation hearing. And so these are the Exculpated
16 Parties: the Debtor and its successors and assigns; the 17 employees, certain employees, as defined; Strand; the 18 Independent Directors; the Committee, the members of the 19 Committee, in their official capacities; the professionals
20 retained by the Debtor and the Committee in the Chapter 11
21 case; the CEO and CRO; and the related persons as to each of 22 these parties listed in Part (iv) through (viii) above;
23 provided, for the avoidance of doubt, and it goes on to say
24 Dondero, Mark Okada, and various others aren't Exculpated
25 Parties.

1 Now, as earlier mentioned, the Objectors argue that
2 Pacific Lumber, 584 F.3d 229, a Fifth Circuit case from 2009,
3 categorically rejects the permissibility of nonconsensual
4 exculpations as well as third-party releases in a Chapter 11
5 plan. So the Court is going to take a deep dive into that 6 assertion.

7 In Pacific Lumber, the Fifth Circuit reviewed on appeal
8 numerous challenges to a confirmed plan of affiliated debtors
9 known as Palco and Scopac and four subsidiaries. The debtor
10 Palco owned and operated the sawmill, a power plant, and even 11 a town called Scotia, California. The debtor Scopac owned
12 timberlands. A creditor, a secured creditor called Marathon
13 had a claim against Palco's assets. Marathon estimated
14 Palco's assets were worth $110 million. Its claim was $160
15 million. Meanwhile, other parties had large secured claims
16 against the other debtor, Scopac.

17 The plan that the bankruptcy court confirmed, which was on 18 appeal to the Fifth Circuit, was filed by both the secured
19 creditor Marathon and a joint plan proponent called MRC. MRC
20 was a competitor of the debtor Palco. The Marathon/MRC plan
21 proposed to dissolve all the debtors, cancel intercompany
22 debts, and create two new entities, Townco and Newco. Almost 23 all of the debtor Palco's assets, including the town of 24 Scotia, California, would be transferred to Townco. The 25 timberlands and other assets, including the sawmill, would be

1 placed in Newco.

2 Marathon and MRC proposed to contribute $580 million to 3 Newco to pay claims against Scopac. And Marathon would
4 convert its secured claim against Palco's assets into equity,
5 giving it full ownership of Townco, a 15 percent stake in 6 Newco, and a new note for the sawmill's working capital. MRC
7 would own the other 80 percent of Newco and would manage and 8 run the company.

9 An indenture trustee for the secured indebtedness against 10 Scopac -- which, by the way, had also been a plan proponent of 11 a competing plan -- appealed the confirmation order, raising
12 eight distinct issues on appeal. One of the eight issues
13 pertained to what the Fifth Circuit referred to as a 14 "nondebtor exculpation and release clause." This issue is 15 discussed on the last two pages of a very lengthy opinion.

16 While the complained-of provision is not quoted verbatim
17 in the Pacific Lumber opinion, it appears to have been a
18 typical exculpation clause. Not a third-party release; a 19 typical exculpation clause. The Fifth Circuit stated, "The 20 plan releases MRC, Marathon, Newco, Townco, and the Unsecured
21 Creditors' Committee, and their personnel, from liability,
22 other than for willful and gross negligence related to 23 proposing, implementing, and administering the plan" at Page
24 251.

25 The Fifth Circuit held that "the nondebtor releases must

1 be struck except with respect to the Creditors' Committee and
2 its members."

3 Footnote 26 of the opinion also states that the appellants
4 had "not briefed why Newco and Townco or their officers and 5 directors should not be released," and so "we do not analyze
6 their position." Rather, the Fifth Circuit merely analyzed
7 why the exculpation provision was not permissible as to the 8 two plan proponents, MRC and Marathon.

9 Thus, the Court views Pacific Lumber as being a holding 10 that squarely addressed the propriety of two plan proponents,
11 a secured lender and a third-party competitor purchaser of the 12 Debtors, obtaining nonconsensual exculpation in the plan.
13 However, its reasoning certainly cannot be ignored, strongly
14 suggesting it would not be inclined to approve an exculpation
15 for any party other than a Creditors' Committee or its 16 members.

17 As far as the Fifth Circuit's reasoning, it relied on 18 Bankruptcy Code Section 524(e) for striking down the 19 exculpations, stating, "The law states, however, that 20 discharge of a debt of the debtor does not affect the 21 liability of any other entity on such debt." Page 251. The 22 opinion suggests that MRC and Marathon may have tried to argue
23 that 524(e) did not apply to their exculpations because MRC
24 and Marathon were not liable as co-obligors in any way on any 25 of the debtor's debt.

1       The Fifth Circuit seemed dismissive of this argument,
2     stating as follows, "MRC/Marathon insist the release clause is 3     part of their bargain because, without the clause, neither
4     company would have been willing to provide the plan's
5     financing. Nothing in the records suggests that MRC/Marathon,
6     the Committee, or the Debtor's officers and directors were co-
7     liable for the Debtor's prepetition debts. Instead, the 8     bargain the proponents claim to have purchased is exculpation 9     from any negligence that occurred during the course of the 10    case. Any costs the released parties might incur defending
11    against suits alleging such negligence are unlikely to swamp
12    either of these parties or the consummated reorganization. We 13    see little equitable about protecting the released nondebtors
14    from negligence suits arising out of the reorganization."

15       The Court goes on to note that, in a variety of cases,
16    that releases have been approved, but these cases "seem 17    broadly to foreclose nonconsensual nondebtor releases and 18    permanent injunctions."

19       The Court then adds at Footnote 27 that the Fifth Circuit
20    in the past did not set aside challenged plan releases that 21    were in final nonappealable orders and were the subject of 22    collateral attack much later, citing its famous Republic
23    Supply v. Shoaf case, where the Fifth Circuit ruled that res
24    judicata barred a debtor from bringing a claim that was 25    specifically and expressly released by a confirmed

1 reorganization plan because the debtor -- the objector failed
2 to object to the release at confirmation.

3 The Fifth Circuit in Pacific Lumber also noted that the 4 Bankruptcy Code permits bankruptcy courts to enjoin third-
5 party asbestos claims under certain circumstances, 524(g),
6 which the Court said suggests nondebtor releases are most 7 appropriate as a method to channel mass tort claims towards a
8 specific pool of assets, citing numerous cases, including 9 Johns-Manville.

10 In reach its holding, the Fifth Circuit saw no reason to 11 uphold exculpation to the plan proponents MRC and Marathon, 12 seeming to find it inconsistent with 524(e) under the facts at 13 bar, but the Court did uphold exculpation for the Creditors'
14 Committee and its members, stating, "We agree, however, with 15 courts that have held that 1103(c) under the Code, which lists
16 the Creditors' Committee's powers, implies Committee members
17 have qualified immunity for actions within the scope of their 18 duties." Numerous cites. "The Creditors' Committee and its 19 members are the only disinterested volunteers among the 20 parties sought to be released here. The scope of protection,
21 which does not insulate them from willful and gross
22 negligence, is adequate."

23 Thus, the Court held that the exculpation provisions in 24 Pacific Lumber must be struck except with regard to the 25 Creditors' Committee and its members.

1 Now, after all of that, this Court believes the following
2 can be gleaned from Pacific Lumber. First, the Fifth Circuit
3 hinted that consensual exculpations and/or consensual
4 nondebtor third-party releases are permissible. The Court
5 was, of course, dealing with nonconsensual exculpations in 6 Pacific Lumber. In this regard, I note Page 252, where the 7 Court cited various prior Fifth Circuit authority and then
8 stated, "These cases seem broadly to foreclose nonconsensual
9 nondebtor releases and permanent injunctions."

10 The second thing that can be gleaned from Pacific Lumber:
11 The Fifth Circuit hinted that nondebtor releases may be 12 permissible in cases involving global settlements of mass
13 claims against the debtors and co-liable parties. The Court, 14 of course, referred to 524(g), but various other cases which 15 approved nondebtor releases where mass claims were channeled
16 to a specific pool of assets.

17 Third, the Fifth Circuit outright held that exculpations
18 from negligence for a Creditors' Committee and its members are 19 permissible because the concept is both consistent with 20 1103(c), "which implies Committee members have qualified
21 immunity for actions within the scope of their duties," and a 22 good policy result, since "if members of the Committee can be 23 sued by persons unhappy with the outcome of the case, it will 24 be extremely difficult to find members to serve on an official
25 committee."

1 Fourth, the Fifth Circuit recognized in Pacific Lumber
2 that res judicata may bar complaints regarding an
3 impermissible plan release, citing to its earlier Republic
4 Supply v. Shoaf opinion.

5 Now, being ever-mindful of the Fifth Circuit's words in 6 Pacific Lumber, this Court cannot help but wonder about at 7 least three things.

8 First, did the Fifth Circuit leave open the door that 9 facts/equities might sometimes justify approval of an 10 exculpation for a person other than a Creditors' Committee and 11 its members? For example, the Fifth Circuit stated, in 12 referring to the plan proponents Marathon and MRC, that "Any 13 costs the released parties might incur defending against suits
14 alleging such negligence are unlikely to swamp either of these 15 parties or the consummated reorganization." Here, this Court
16 can easily expect the proposed exculpated parties to incur
17 costs that could swamp them and the reorganization based on 18 the past litigious conduct of Mr. Dondero and his controlled
19 entities. Do these words of the Fifth Circuit hint that 20 equities/economics might sometimes justify an exculpation?

21 Second, did the Fifth Circuit's rationale for permitted
22 exculpations to Creditors' Committee and their members, which 23 was clearly policy-based, based on their implied qualified
24 immunity flowing from their duties in Section 1103 and their
25 disinterestedness, and the importance of their role in a

Chapter 11 case, did this rationale leave open the door to sometimes permitting exculpations to other parties in a particular Chapter 11 case besides Creditors' Committees and their members? For example, in a situation such as the Highland case, in which Independent Directors, brought in to avoid a trustee, are more like a Creditors' Committee than an incumbent board of directors.

Third, the Fifth Circuit's sole statutory basis was Section 524(e). This Court would humbly submit that this is a statute dealing with prepetition liability in which some nondebtor is liable with the Debtor. Exculpation is a concept dealing with postpetition liability.

The Ninth Circuit recently, in a case called Blixseth v. Credit Suisse, 961 F.3d 1074 (9th Cir. 2020), approved the validity of an exculpation clause incorporated into a confirmed Chapter 11 plan that purported to absolve certain nondebtor parties that were "closely involved" in drafting the plan. They were the largest secured creditor, a purchaser, and an individual who was an indirect owner of certain of the debtor companies. The exculpation was from any negligence, liability, for "any act or omission in connection with, related to, or arising out of the Chapter 11 cases."

By the time the appeal was before the Ninth Circuit, the only issue was the propriety of the exculpation clause as to the large secured creditor, which was also a plan proponent,

1 since all the other exculpated parties had settled with the 2 appellant.

3 The Court, in determining that the exculpation clause was
4 permissible as to the secured lender, concluded that Section
5 524(e) "does not bar a narrow exculpation clause of the kind
6 here at issue -- that is, one focused on actions of various 7 participants in the plan approval process and relating only to 8 that process," Page 1082. Why? Because "Section 524(e)
9 establishes that discharge of a debt of the debtor does not 10 affect the liability of any other entity on such debt." In 11 other words, the discharge in no way affects the liability of 12 any other entity for the discharged debt. By its terms,
13 524(e) prevents a bankruptcy court from extinguishing claims
14 of creditors against nondebtors over the very discharged debt
15 through the bankruptcy proceedings.

16 The Court went on to explicitly disagree with Pacific
17 Lumber in its analysis of 524(e), reiterating that an 18 exculpation clause covers only liabilities arising from the 19 bankruptcy proceedings and not of any of the debtor's
20 discharged debt. Footnote 7, Page 1085.

21 Ultimately, the Court held that under Section 105(a),
22 which empowers a bankruptcy court to issue any order, process,
23 or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the 24 provisions of Chapter 11 and Section 1123, which establishes 25 the appropriate content of the bankruptcy plan, under these

1 sections, the bankruptcy court had authority to approve an
2 exculpation clause intended to trim subsequent litigation over
3 acts taken during the bankruptcy proceedings and so render the 4 plan viable.

5 This Court concludes that, just as the Fifth Circuit left
6 open the door for consensual exculpations and releases in 7 Pacific Lumber, just as it left open the door for consensual
8 exculpations and releases in Pacific Lumber, its dicta
9 suggests that an exculpation might be permissible if there is 10 a showing that "costs that the released parties might incur
11 defending against suits alleging such negligence are likely to 12 swamp either the Exculpated Parties or the reorganization."
13 Again, that was a quote from the Fifth Circuit.

14 If ever there were a risk of that happening in a Chapter
15 11 reorganization, it is this one. The Debtor's current CEO
16 credibly testified that Mr. Dondero has said outside the 17 courtroom that if Mr. Dondero's own pot plan does not get 18 approved, that he will "burn the place down." Here, this 19 Court can easily expect the proposed exculpated parties might 20 expect to incur costs that could swamp them and the 21 reorganization process based on the past litigious conduct of 22 Mr. Dondero and his controlled entities.

23 Additionally, this Court concludes that the Fifth
24 Circuit's rationale in Pacific Lumber for permitted
25 exculpations to Creditors' Committees and their members, which

1 was clearly policy-based based on their implied qualified
2 immunity flowing from Section 1103 and their importance in a
3 Chapter 11 case, leaves the door open to sometimes permitting
4 exculpations to other parties in a particular Chapter 11 case
5 besides a UCC and its members.

6 Again, if there was ever such a case, the Court believes
7 it is this one, in which Independent Directors were brought in 8 to avoid a trustee and are much more like a Creditors'
9 Committee than an incumbent board of directors. While,
10 admittedly, there are a few exculpated parties here proposed
11 beyond the independent board, such as certain employees, it
12 would appear that no one is invulnerable to a lawsuit here if 13 past is prologue in this Highland saga.

14 The Creditors' Committee was initially not keen on 15 exculpations for certain employees. However, Mr. Seery
16 credibly testified that there was a contentious arm's-length
17 negotiation over this and that he needs these employees to 18 preserve value implementing the Plan. Mr. Dondero has shown 19 no hesitancy to litigate with former employees in the past, to 20 the nth degree, and there is every reason to believe he would 21 again in the future, if able.

22 Finally, in this situation, in the case at bar, we would
23 appear to have a Shoaf reason to approve the exculpations.
24 The January 9, 2020 order of this Court, Docket Entry 339,
25 which approved the independent board and an ongoing corporate

1 governance structure for this case, and which is incorporated
2 into the Plan at Article IX.H, provided as follows: "No
3 entity may commence or pursue a claim or cause of action of 4 any kind against any Independent Director, any Independent
5 Director's agents, or any Independent Director's advisors
6 relating in any way to the Independent Director's role as an
7 Independent Director of Strand without the Court (1) first
8 determining, after notice, that such claim or cause of action
9 represents a colorable claim of willful misconduct or gross
10 negligence against Independent Director, any Independent
11 Director's agents, or any Independent Director's advisors; and 12 (2) specifically authorizing such entity to bring such a
13 claim. The Court will have sole jurisdiction to adjudicate
14 any claim for which approval of the Court to commence or 15 pursue has been granted."

16 This was both an exculpation from negligence as to the 17 Independent Directors and their agents and advisors, as well
18 as a gatekeeping provision. This Court believes that this 19 provision basically approved an exculpation for the 20 Independent Directors way back on January 9, 2020 for their 21 postpetition conduct that might be negligent. And this is the 22 law of the case and has res judicata preclusive effect now.

23 Thus, as to the three Independent Directors, as well as 24 the other named parties in the January 9, 2020 order, their 25 agents, their advisors, we have a situation that fits within

1 Republic Supply v. Shoaf, and we fit within the exception
2 articulated in Pacific Lumber.

3 The Court reserves the right to supplement these findings
4 and conclusions as to the exculpations, but based on the 5 foregoing, they are approved and the objections are overruled.

6 Now, turning to the Plan objection, it appears at Article
7 IX.F of the Plan and provides, in pertinent part, as follows:
8 Upon entry of the confirmation order, all enjoined parties are 9 and shall be permanently enjoined on and after the effective
10 date from taking any action to interfere with the 11 implementation or consummation of the Plan. Except as 12 expressly provided in the Plan, the confirmation order, or a
13 separate order of the Bankruptcy Court, all Enjoined Parties 14 are and shall be permanently enjoined on and after the 15 effective date, with respect to any claims and interests, from 16 directly or indirectly -- and then commencing, conducting,
17 continuing any suit, action, proceeding of any kind, and 18 numerous other acts of that vein.

19 The injunction set forth herein shall extend to and apply
20 to any act of the type set forth in any of the causes above
21 against any successors to the Debtor, including but not
22 limited to the Reorganized Debtor, the Litigation Sub-Trust, 23 and the Claimant Trust, and their respective property and 24 interests in property.

25 Plan injunctions like this are commonplace and appropriate. They are entirely consistent with and permissible under Bankruptcy Code Sections 1123(a)(5), 1123(a)(6), 1141(a) and (c), and 1142, as well as Bankruptcy Rule 3016(c), which articulates the form that a plan injunction must be set forth in a plan.

The Court finds the objections to the Plan Injunctions to be unfounded, and they are thus overruled without much discussion here.

Now, lastly, the Gatekeeper Provision. It appears at Paragraph 4 of Article IX.F of the Plan and provides, in pertinent part, "Subject in all respects to Article XII.D, no Enjoined Party may commence or pursue a claim or cause of action of any kind against any Protected Party that arose or arises from or is related to the Chapter 11 case, the negotiation of the Plan, the administration of the Plan, or property to be distributed under the Plan, the wind-down of the business of the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, the administration of the Claimant Trust or the Litigation Sub-Trust, or the transactions in furtherance of the foregoing, without the Bankruptcy Court (1) first determining, after notice and a hearing, that such claim or cause of action represents a colorable claim of any kind, including but not limited to negligence, bad faith, criminal misconduct and willful misconduct, fraud, or gross negligence against a Protected Party; and (2) specifically authorizing such

1 Enjoined Party to bring such claim or cause of action against
2 such Protected Party, provided, however, that the foregoing
3 will not apply to a claim or cause of action against Strand or 4 against any employee other than with respect to actions taken,
5 respectively, by Strand or any such employee from the date of
6 appointment of the Independent Directors through the effective
7 date. The Bankruptcy Court will have sole and exclusive
8 jurisdiction to determine whether a claim or cause of action
9 is colorable and, only to the extent legally permissible and 10 as provided for in Article XI, shall have jurisdiction to 11 adjudicate the underlying colorable claim or cause of action."

12 This gatekeeper provision appears necessary and reasonable
13 in light of the litigiousness of Mr. Dondero and his 14 controlled entities that has been described at length herein.
15 Provisions similar to this have been approved in this district
16 in the Pilgrim's Pride case and the CHC Helicopter case. The 17 provision is within the spirit of the Supreme Court's Barton
18 Doctrine. And it appears consistent with the notion of a pre-
19 filing injunction to deter vexatious litigants that has been 20 approved by the Fifth Circuit in such cases as Baum v. Blue
21 Moon Ventures, 513 F.3d 181, and in the In re Carroll case,
22 850 F.3d 811, which arose out of a bankruptcy pre-filing
23 injunction.

24 The Fifth Circuit, in fact, noted in the Carroll case that 25 federal courts have authority to enjoin vexatious litigants

1 under the All Writs Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1651. And additionally,
2 under the Bankruptcy Code, a bankruptcy court can issue any
3 order, including a civil contempt order, necessary or 4 appropriate to carry out the provisions of the Code, citing,
5 of course, 105 of the Bankruptcy Code.

6 The Fifth Circuit stated that, when considering whether to 7 enjoin future filings against a vexatious litigant, a
8 bankruptcy court must consider the circumstances of the case,
9 including four factors: (1) the party's history of 10 litigation; in particular, whether he has filed vexatious,
11 harassing, or duplicative lawsuits; (2) whether the party had 12 a good faith basis for pursuing the litigation, or perhaps 13 intended to harass; (3) the extent of the burden on the courts
14 and other parties resulting from the party's filings; and (4)
15 the adequacy of alternatives.

16 In the Baum case, the Fifth Circuit stated that the 17 traditional standards for injunctive relief -- i.e., 18 irreparable harm and inadequate remedy at law -- do not apply
19 to the issuance of an injunction against a vexatious litigant.

20 Here, although I have not been asked to declare Mr.
21 Dondero and his affiliated entities as vexatious litigants per 22 se, it is certainly not beyond the pale to find that his long 23 history with regard to the major creditors in this case has 24 strayed into that possible realm, and thus this Court is 25 justified in approving this provision.

1 One of the Objectors' lawyers stated very eloquently in 2 closing argument, in opposing the plan injunction and
3 gatekeeping provisions, that "Even a serial killer has 4 constitutional rights," suggesting that these provisions would 5 deprive Mr. Dondero and his controlled entities of fundamental 6 rights or due process somehow. But to paraphrase the district
7 court in the Carroll case, no one, rich or poor, is entitled
8 to abuse the judicial process. There exists no constitutional 9 right of access to the courts to prosecute actions that are 10 frivolous or malicious. The Plan injunction and gatekeeper
11 provisions in Highland's plan simply set forth a way for this 12 Court to use its tools, its inherent powers, to avoid abuse of 13 the court system, protect the implementation of the Plan, and 14 preempt the use of judicial time that properly could be used
15 to consider the meritorious claims of other litigants.

16 Accordingly, the Objectors' objections to this provision
17 are overruled.

18 As earlier stated, this Court reserves the right to alter
19 or supplement this ruling in a written order. In this regard,
20 the Court directs Debtor's counsel -- I hope you are still 21 awake; it's been a long time -- the Court directs Debtor's
22 counsel to submit a form of order. And specifically, I assume 23 that you've already prepared or have been in the process of 24 preparing a set of findings of fact, conclusions of law, and 25 confirmation order that tracks the confirmation evidence and

1 recites conclusions of law that the Plan complies with all the
2 various provisions of Section 1123, 1129, and other applicable
3 Code provisions.

4 What I want you to do is take this bench ruling and add it
5 to what you've prepared. And what I mean is, as you can tell,
6 I've been reading: I will have my courtroom deputy email to 7 you all a copy of what I just read. I'll have her obviously 8 copy the Debtor's counsel, Creditors' Committee, Dondero and 9 the other Objectors, copy them on this written document she's 10 going to send out. And, again, I want you to kind of meld it
11 into what you've already been preparing.

12 Obviously, I did not address in this oral ruling every 13 provision of 1129(a) and (b). I did not address every 1123
14 objection. I did not even address every single objection of 15 the Objectors. But, again, any objection I've not 16 specifically addressed today is overruled.

17 The briefing, I should say, that the Debtor submitted,
18 there was a Memorandum of Law in Support of Confirmation filed
19 on January 22nd. There was also a reply brief, a hundred 20 pages or so, separately filed, replying to all the objections.
21 I don't disagree with anything that was in that. So, again,
22 to the extent you want to send me conclusions of law that are 23 along the lines of that briefing, I would consider that.

24 And so what I thought is you'll send me the melded
25 document and I will edit it if I see fit. I recognize this

49

1 may take a few days, so I don't give you a strict timetable,
2 just hopefully it won't take too many days.

3 All right. Is there anyone out there -- Mr. Pomerantz,
4 you had to go to jury duty, except I can't believe --

5 MR. POMERANTZ: No, I --

6 THE COURT: I can't believe you were called, but are
7 you there?

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I am here. I was luckily
9 excused, because I probably wouldn't have made it.

10 Your Honor, one just comment I'd make. You referred to 11 the January 9th order. You didn't refer to the CEO order,
12 which is your order July 16th, which had the same gatekeeper
13 provision. I assume that was the same analysis?

14 THE COURT: That was an oversight. Same analysis.
15 And that's exactly why I said I reserve the right to 16 supplement or amend, because I know there had to be places
17 like that where I omitted to mention something important.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: But thank you, Your Honor, for your 19 thoughtful ruling, and we will certainly incorporate your 20 materials into the order that we're working on and get it to 21 you when we can. But we appreciate it on behalf of the 22 Debtor. We know this took a lot of time and a lot of effort.
23 Hopefully, you got a chance to still watch the Super Bowl
24 yesterday.

25 THE COURT: Well, when I saw that Tom Brady was going

50

1 to win, I turned it off.

2 I'm sorry. That's terrible. You know, my law clerk, my
3 law clerk that you can't see, Nate, he is from Ann Arbor,
4 Michigan, University of Michigan, and he almost cried when I
5 said I didn't like Tom Brady the other day. So, I apologize.

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, one other comment. We 7 had our motion to assume our nonresidential real property
8 lease that was also on. It got missed in all the fanfare, but 9 it was -- it has been unopposed and essentially done pursuant 10 to stipulation. So we'd like to submit an order on that as 11 well.

12 THE COURT: Okay. I have seen that, and I approve it
13 under 365. You may submit the order. Okay. Thank you.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 THE CLERK: All rise.

16 (Proceedings concluded at 10:35 a.m.)

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - JULY 8, 2020 - 1:37 P.M.

2                   THE COURT: All right. Hello. This is Judge
3 Jernigan. Hopefully you can all hear me. We're ready to 4 start the Highland hearings we have today, Case No. 19-34054.
5 Let's start off by getting appearances from those lawyers who 6 want to appear formally today. First, for the Debtor, do we 7 have Mr. Pomerantz or a team from Pachulski Stang?

8                   MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. Jeff 9 Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; counsel for the 10 Debtors.

11                  THE COURT: All right. Good afternoon. Anyone else
12 for the Debtors that wants to appear?

13                  MR. ANNABLE: Yes, Your Honor. Yes, Your Honor.
14 Zachery Annable and Melissa Hayward, local counsel for the 15 Debtors.

16                  THE COURT: All right. Thank you. All right. For 17 the Unsecured Creditors' Committee, I think I see Mr. Clemente
18 there on the screen.

19                  MR. CLEMENTE: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Matthew 20 Clemente; Sidley Austin; on behalf of the Creditors'
21 Committee.

22                  THE COURT: All right. Very good. I know we have 23 lots of other folks on the line. I'm not sure who else might 24 want to formally appear. I'll check on some of the usuals.
25 For Acis, do we have Ms. Patel or Ms. Chiarello?

1 MS. PATEL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel
2 and Annmarie Chiarello of the Winstead firm on behalf of Acis
3 Capital Management, LP. Also on the phone is Brian Shaw of 4 the Rogge Dunn Group.

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. For the Redeemer
6 Committee, do we have anyone appearing for them?

7 MS. MASCHERIN: Good morning, Your Honor.

8 MR. PLATT: Your Honor, --

9 MS. MASCHERIN: Go ahead, Mark.

10 MR. PLATT: Sorry. Mark Platt, Your Honor, on behalf
11 of the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund. And,
12 obviously, Ms. Mascherin is on the screen as well.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. MASCHERIN: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Good afternoon. Let's see.

16 MR. PLATT: And Mr. Hankin is on the phone as well,

17 --

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. PLATT: -- Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: All right. Very good. All right. Any 21 other -- UBS, by chance?

22 (No response.)

23 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone for the CLO Issuers?

24 (No response.)

25 THE COURT: All right. Anyone I missed? U.S.

1 Trustee, perhaps?

2 (No response.)

3 THE COURT: All right. Well, --

4 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, --

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. LYNN: -- good afternoon. Michael Lynn and John
7 Bonds for Jim Dondero.

8 THE COURT: Oh, okay. Hello. How are you?

9 MR. LYNN: Well, thank you.

10 THE COURT: All right. Anyone else wishing to appear
11 at this time?

12 (No response.)

13 THE COURT: All right. We have a couple of matters
14 set on our calendar. A motion to extend the deadline for 15 removal of actions, to which I saw no written responses, and 16 then a third motion to extend exclusivity, and I saw a
17 Committee response to that.

18 I don't have on my hard calendar anything about a status
19 conference regarding mediation, but I found in our notes from 20 our hearing, I believe it was the UBS hearing in middle of 21 June, that I said, you know, we might want to talk about that 22 if we don't hear some rosy news or some developing positive
23 news today at the July 8th hearing. So we'll kind of put that 24 on the back burner and see if there's a need to talk about 25 that today.

1 All right. So, Mr. Pomerantz, are you going to start us
2 off?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, Your Honor. And actually, I had
4 some comments that sort of touched on a few of the issues you
5 talked about and I think it's apropos to talk about it in the 6 context of the motion to extend exclusivity, which I do note,
7 Your Honor, is not objected to.

8 We had asked in the motion for a 30-day extension and an
9 additional extension beyond that in increments of 30 days, up
10 to a maximum of 90 days, with the Creditors' Committee's 11 consent. We have read their response. We understand they are 12 accepting a 30-day extension, but wanted to put the Debtor and 13 I'm sure the Court on notice that, at the end of 30 days, they 14 don't anticipate any further extensions, which I think, based 15 upon the course of actions, will be just fine, because I 16 think, as I will report to Your Honor, we expect to be able to 17 file a plan by then.

18 But I thought I would take this time, Your Honor, and sort 19 of (audio gap) little context, and that is the (inaudible) to 20 give Your Honor just a brief update of the status of the case,
21 the status on the filing of the Debtor's plan, and as Your 22 Honor alluded to, the Debtor's thoughts regarding mediation,
23 because we have spent a lot of time since Your Honor first 24 raised the issue in the middle of June talking about it, and 25 we think we have a structure that has significant support from

1 the main parties in this case.

2 So, as I mentioned, Your Honor, at the hearing on June
3 30th, after stabilizing operations, the Board began to focus
4 on resolving the significant litigation claims that have been
5 filed against the estate. And the first step in that process,
6 Your Honor, is the Board wanted to commission an independent
7 analysis of those claims, not burdened by what had come before
8 it in connection with the analysis. So we spent a lot of 9 time, our firm did, providing detailed analysis on the major
10 claims against the estate, including the Acis claim, the UBS
11 claim, and the Redeemer claim.

12 Then the pandemic hit, and a lot of the Board's attention
13 was spent on dealing with the disruption to the Debtor's
14 business that was caused by the pandemic. However, during the 15 last couple of months, Your Honor, the Board has begun to 16 focus on engaging with UBS, Redeemer, and the Acis groups in 17 order to assess the ability to be able to resolve the claims 18 short of contested and time-consuming litigation. Because as 19 I mentioned to Your Honor on several occasions, the Board
20 intended, when it came in on January 9th, and I think has done
21 a good job, is changing the culture that had existed before,
22 the culture of litigation, to potentially a culture of 23 settlement and mediation.

24 And in that regard, Your Honor, I'm pleased to report that 25 the Debtor has reached an agreement in principle with the

1 Redeemer Committee regarding the allowance of the Redeemer
2 Committee's claim. The agreement is subject to resolution of 3 a few minor drafting issues, and the Debtor anticipates
4 seeking Court approval of a settlement in the near future.

5 With respect to Acis, Acis's claims, two weeks ago the 6 Independent Board made an offer to resolve the Acis claims.
7 At this point, has not heard back. Hopes to hear back from 8 Acis.

9 In the interim, the Debtor has also filed an objection to 10 the Acis claim, which it would intend to prosecute if it
11 cannot be resolved consensually, either before or in 12 connection with the mediation process that I will lay out that 13 we would propose to the Court in a few moments.

14 With respect to the UBS claim, Your Honor, the Board
15 believes that the Court's ruling on UBS's relief from stay
16 motion was a necessary first step before settlement
17 discussions could get off the ground, and the hope is that the 18 claim could be resolved through mediation, if not sooner, and 19 the parties discussing potentially different counterproposals.
20 None have been made yet, but it is the intention of the Board
21 to engage with UBS.

22 With respect to the mediation process, Your Honor, the 23 Board agrees with the comments that the Court made that
24 mediation could be a very useful tool and a catalyst to a
25 settlement. That would resolve the litigation that has

1     burdened this estate for many years.

2             Since the last hearing, Your Honor, I've had discussions
3     with both Committee counsel, Mr. Clemente, and counsel for 4     each of the Committee members regarding a mediation process
5     that I think, subject to Your Honor's concurrence, has broad
6     support among the major parties, just proving to Your Honor
7     that the parties can come together and agree on something in 8     this case.

9             There is consensus that the Court should order a mediation
10    that would encompass essentially two general areas. First,
11    the mediation would seek to resolve the claims of Acis and 12    UBS, to the extent the parties cannot reach agreement on their 13    own prior to the commencement of the mediation.

14            However, resolving claims against the estate is really 15    only one part of the equation. A true global resolution would 16    also (audio gap) the Debtor's estate may have against Jim
17    Dondero and related entities, claims that I'm sure Your Honor
18    recalls the Committee bargained for the ability to prosecute
19    in connection with the global settlement approved by Your 20    Honor in January.

21            I've spoken with Mr. Lynn, Mr. Dondero's counsel. I know
22    he's participating in the hearing. And he has indicated that 23    Mr. Dondero is willing to participate in a plan mediation
24    process to see if a global resolution can be reached.

25            The Debtor and the Committee have also discussed the names

11

1 of potential mediators, and subject, of course, to Your
2 Honor's approval, the Debtor and the Committee have reached
3 out to Judge Jones' clerk for the Southern District of Texas
4 and he has told us that he has the time and the willingness to 5 mediate.

6 We also believe that, if available, since there is a lot
7 in terms of mediation in this case, that it may be helpful to 8 have two mediators. And if Judge Isgur -- we haven't reached 9 out to him -- is also available, we believe that both of those 10 judges possess the qualities that this case would need to 11 resolve -- to give the best chance of resolving the claims and 12 the plan process in an efficient and a timely manner.

13 We would contemplate that the parties would submit fees to 14 the mediator by July 31st, and the mediation would occur
15 sometime in the second half of August.

16 Notwithstanding the mediation process, however, Your
17 Honor, the Debtor is moving forward towards expeditiously
18 filing a plan, which will not need to wait for mediation to 19 conclude. And in that regard, Your Honor, the Debtor and the 20 Committee have worked cooperatively over the last several 21 weeks to draft a plan that would allow the Debtor to emerge
22 from Chapter 11 as quickly as possible -- you know, 120 days
23 or so after it would be filed.

24 The Debtor and the Committee and its members recognize 25 that the administrative fees attending to the continued

1 administration of this case in bankruptcy is material, and
2 that one way to reduce them is to emerge from bankruptcy as
3 quickly as possible.

4 To that end, Your Honor, the Debtor is optimistic that it
5 will be able to file a plan by the end of the current
6 exclusivity period, which, if Your Honor grants the pending
7 motion, would be August 12th. And, at present, the plan
8 contemplates the creation of an asset monetization vehicle
9 that will seek to monetize the assets in an appropriate
10 manner.

11 The Debtor believes that the current plan is confirmable,
12 whether or not the Debtor is successful in resolving the large 13 claims against the estate, either consensually or in 14 mediation. Worst case, the claims litigation process can 15 proceed post-confirmation.

16 At the same time, however, Your Honor, the Independent
17 Board -- led by Mr. James Seery, who has testified before Your 18 Honor and who has been appointed as the Debtor's chief
19 executive officer, subject to Court approval, and that hearing
20 is scheduled for July 14th -- has also had positive
21 discussions with Jim Dondero regarding a plan structure that 22 would not only allow for the prompt exit from Chapter 11 but 23 could also inject some liquidity into the case that would 24 allow actual distributions to be made to creditors much more
25 expedited than perhaps waiting for the monetization of the 13

1 assets. And Mr. Seery continues to have those discussions
2 with Mr. Dondero, and he and the Board are cautiously
3 optimistic that they will bear fruit.

4 However, Your Honor, just to be clear, the Debtor intends
5 to file a plan by the expiration of exclusivity whether or not
6 Mr. Dondero is part of that plan, and his involvement will not
7 distract the Debtor from emerging from Chapter 11 as quickly
8 as possible.

9 So we feel we have presented some rosy news today in terms
10 of resolution of some of the claims and a path forward, that 11 we think this case is on a different trajectory than it was 12 quite some time ago, and we look forward to continuing a
13 dialogue with the parties before mediation and in mediation,
14 if Your Honor orders it, and hopefully can have a quick and 15 (inaudible) resolution of the case.

16 THE COURT: All right. I have a few questions, but 17 I'll turn to other lawyers to see what they have to say, and 18 their comments may answer some questions I have. Mr.
19 Clemente, go ahead.

20 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you. Matthew 21 Clemente from Sidley on behalf of the Committee.

22 Mr. Pomerantz is correct with respect to exclusivity. As 23 we laid out in our papers, the Committee has no objection to 24 the additional 30 days of exclusivity through August 12th, and 25 the Committee sees no reason why a plan cannot be filed within

1 that time frame.

2 As we laid out in our papers, we at this time don't see
3 any reason for exclusivity to extend beyond August 12th. But
4 I do think that is consistent with the relief that the Debtor
5 is asking for.

6 To be sure, Your Honor, given the position of the 7 Committee and its constituency, we do not see any plan here
8 that gets done without our consent, frankly, and approval.
9 And we've made that point consistently to the Debtor, and we 10 continue to make that point. Filing a plan with which the 11 Debtor knows this constituency does not agree, frankly, we 12 think would be a waste of time and resources and will create
13 needless litigation, to which Your Honor expressed a strong
14 distaste for at the last hearing.

15 So, Your Honor, we will continue to work with the Debtor
16 in moving forward with a plan, and we are hopeful that the 17 Debtor will continue to understand the importance of working 18 cooperatively with the Committee to propose a plan the 19 Committee can support, as opposed to one it knows the 20 Committee will take issue with.

21 So, with that, Your Honor, again, we don't have any issue
22 or objection to the entry of the exclusivity order, but I did
23 want to make Your Honor aware of the Committee's views.

24 Second, Your Honor, with respect to mediation, the 25 Committee is supportive of the mediation proposal Mr.

15

1 Pomerantz laid out. Mr. Pomerantz touched on it, and the
2 Committee has been consistently clear, however, that the
3 mediation should not distract from the task of moving forward
4 with a plan, a plan, as Mr. Pomerantz told you, will be 5 designed to be confirmable even without claim resolution or 6 Mr. Dondero's involvement.

7 The Committee believes that it is important that the 8 claims be addressed first in the mediation, the claim 9 resolution issues, as they believe that that is the 10 appropriate sequencing. It can all happen as part of the same
11 mediation, but the Committee feels very strongly that the 12 claims should be addressed first in the context of that 13 mediation.

14 And with respect to Mr. Dondero's involvement, the 15 Committee is not opposed to having his involvement and the 16 Committee will negotiate in good faith during the mediation
17 and will be looking to the mediator to help determine the most 18 effective way to involve Mr. Dondero in the process -- again,
19 with the very strong view that the claims should be addressed
20 first in the context of that mediation.

21 That is all I have, Your Honor, but I'm happy, obviously,
22 to answer any questions you have.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Let's hear from anyone else. Any 24 other lawyers want to weigh in?

25 MS. PATEL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel

16

1 on behalf of Acis. And I will endeavor to not tread the same
2 ground that Mr. Pomerantz and Mr. Clemente have. But just to 3 kind of -- probably more so for the benefit of others that are 4 participating in the hearing, because I know Your Honor,
5 you're familiar with our matter, I hit on the two pieces of 6 litigation that I think, you know, bear discussing in the 7 context of mediation. And by the way, just to be clear, I
8 have -- I have no position different than Mr. Clemente with 9 respect to exclusivity.

10 But as Your Honor is aware, there is a lawsuit involving 11 Acis and Highland Capital Management. It's an adversary.
12 It's been through various permutations, the first of which 13 started roughly two years ago. I think we just passed the 14 two-year anniversary of the first adversary that all ended up
15 being consolidated down and added to over time. And 16 immediately prior to Highland's bankruptcy, that adversary was 17 effectively abated by virtue of the withdrawal of the 18 reference motion that was filed and argued and the Court was 19 writing what I understand to be a lengthy Report and 20 Recommendation in connection with. And that was then 21 ultimately stayed by Highland's bankruptcy case in October of 22 2019.

23 As Mr. Pomerantz indicated, Highland has now objected to 24 Acis's proof of claim. That just came roughly about two weeks
25 ago. And keeping in mind, Your Honor, that Acis's proof of

1 claim is its complaint in that adversary that I just 2 referenced.

3 At present, Acis's response is due somewhere around July
4 23rd, I believe, and there is a hearing scheduled on that
5 claim objection on August the 6th. So a hearing has been set
6 imminently.

7 Mr. Pomerantz and Mr. Couch were very kind to put in a
8 peremptory call immediately prior to the filing, and they 9 advised that they were going to be filing that claim objection
10 and that they were going to be setting it for hearing on 11 August the 6th, and I advised them that I had planned on being 12 on vacation that week, which is all a very long way of saying,
13 Your Honor, I think we're going to have to, in light of 14 mediation, work up an alternate schedule.

15 And I'm confident that we'll be able to reach that 16 alternate schedule, but we'll be keeping the mediation and its 17 scheduling and the parties with schedules in mind. Because it 18 doesn't seem to make an awful lot of sense to me to be 19 litigating the claim objection before we get to mediation.

20 On the -- on other fronts, and, again, you know, I know
21 Your Honor presided over the Acis case, obviously, for the 22 last two and half years, commencing with the involuntary
23 bankruptcy that touched off that case. But on the -- on the 24 related front, is, as I advised the Court at the status
25 conference during the Acis status conference, there was a suit

1 that was filed by Acis against Mr. Dondero, certain of 2 Highland Capital Management's employees, the former treasurer,
3 Mr. Waterhouse, as well as CLO Holdco, Grant Scott, and 4 certain of the Independent Directors of Highland CLO Funding.

5 And, you know, as Your Honor may recall, that suit was 6 filed to get ahead of the 546 or -- and/or Section 108 time
7 period cutoff. But that suit is now pending. In connection
8 with that litigation, Your Honor, there has been -- there are 9 a couple of answers that were filed and there's -- there have 10 been a panoply of motions to dismiss filed as well on various 11 grounds: Personal jurisdiction -- ranging from personal
12 jurisdiction, subject matter jurisdiction, 12(b)(6) grounds.
13 Kind of a smattering of a whole lot of things. And all of 14 that bundles together, Your Honor, into a whole lot more
15 litigation.

16 So, in thinking about that piece of litigation and its 17 overall impact on where the parties are, I endeavored to reach 18 out to all of the counsel, the various counsel for the 19 constituent groups therein to talk about what we were going to 20 do with that piece of litigation, certainly now that we are 21 discussing mediation. And I've had various positive at least
22 preliminary discussions with Mr. Bonds, counsel for Mr.
23 Dondero, and then also Mr. Kane, who is counsel for CLO Holdco
24 and Grant Scott, and they were generally receptive to the 25 concept of an abatement, pending mediation, just, again, so we

19

1 can put a pin in the litigation, see where we can get to in
2 the context of mediation, if some sort of resolution can be
3 reached that advances the collective ball and hopefully helps
4 to, if not resolve the litigation, perhaps reduce or certainly 5 streamline it.

6 I've reached out to, by email, to counsel for certain of 7 the other employees who are, at present, evaluating that --
8 the request for an agreed abatement, and I've also reached out
9 via email and phone to counsel for the Independent -- the two 10 Independent Directors for Highland CLO Funding. That's Mr.
11 Maloney and Ms. Matsumora. And I've not heard from them as 12 yet.

13 So, in connection with that, Your Honor, likely, at least 14 as of right now, my thought is that we would basically be 15 filing a motion tomorrow seeking to abate that piece of 16 litigation in connection with the mediation that we're 17 discussing today, and, of course, depending upon the outcome
18 of today. And we may seek to expedite that motion to abate if 19 the parties don't agree to extend at least present responsive
20 deadlines, et cetera. Because, again, it doesn't seem to make 21 an awful lot of sense to be continuing with litigation while 22 everyone is trying to get into resolution mode.

23 So, Your Honor, as you know, Acis has tried to remain
24 consistently in resolution mode, but we hear Your Honor loud
25 and clear and we will endeavor and try and streamline and at

20

1 least give the best-faith effort at trying to get things
2 resolved as expeditiously as possible as we can.

3 THE COURT: Well, if that is the case, why haven't --
4 why hasn't the Debtor heard back from you on the offer they 5 made two weeks ago?

6 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, the offer was made after --
7 shortly after the claim objection was filed. The claim
8 objection itself, Your Honor, is a two-page claim objection.
9 And, frankly, if I turn my camera around, you'd see that I am 10 surrounded by paper. We are analyzing the claim objection as 11 filed.

12 Your Honor, in terms of talking about Acis's claim, Acis,
13 as you know, has been -- has been attempting to discuss its 14 claim, and even during Acis's bankruptcy case, we engaged in 15 two different mediations to try and resolve the overarching -- 16 a lot of the facts that -- and circumstances that underlie the 17 complaint, and those were unsuccessful.

18 Shortly after the Board was appointed -- and by shortly, I
19 mean I think the hearing was in the morning; we ended up -- I
20 and Mr. Terry ended up having lunch with the Board and the 21 Board's counsel to again being fostering a relationship and to 22 begin discussing Acis's claim in earnest. And we had a 23 lengthy meeting at my offices -- if my memory serves, it was 24 in early February -- with Mr. Nelms and with Mr. Seery. And 25 then, frankly, didn't hear a whole heck of a lot with respect

21

1 to our claim or any type of negotiation. So the first thing
2 that we heard back with respect to it was just a couple of 3 weeks ago, and Your Honor, we --

4 (Audio interruptions.)

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MS. PATEL: We will --

7 THE COURT: Someone needs to put their phone on mute.
8 Okay. Thank you.

9 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor. We have 10 endeavored -- we have rolled up our sleeves and we are 11 analyzing the claim objection and trying to narrow the issues.
12 And we will be providing a substantive response back to the 13 Debtor as quickly as we can.

14 The settlement proposal, frankly, Your Honor, came in 15 while Mr. Terry was on vacation, so we did have a little bit 16 of time lapse on that.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Where are people going on vacation
18 these days? I can't get anywhere.

19 MS. PATEL: Your --

20 THE COURT: I've had to cancel a couple of vacations.
21 I don't know where people are going.

22 But okay. Well, I'm very disappointed, nevertheless, to 23 hear that there's been zero response in two weeks.

24 Anyone else wish to make a comment before I get to some 25 questions I have?

22

1 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, Michael Lynn for Jim Dondero.

2 This is just a comment. The Acis v. Dondero, et al. suit
3 parallels in many respects the objection to the claim filed by 4 the Debtor with respect to the Acis claim. We would probably 5 seek to join in the objection, if for no other reason than to 6 preserve our ability to address factual issues that the two
7 matters have in common, to ensure against a future preclusive
8 effect.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone else?

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz
11 again. I have a couple of comments with respect to Ms.
12 Patel's. Would you like me to address them now?

13 THE COURT: Go ahead. Uh-huh.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay. Your Honor, I think it's 15 helpful to the Court to understand sort of the big picture in 16 terms of our discussions with Acis. Prior to making a 17 settlement proposal, which, incidentally, occurred before the 18 claim objection was filed, a week or so ago -- well, actually,
19 a few week before that, we had offered to sit down and meet
20 with Acis with respect to their claim.

21 The initial response we received back was that, unless the 22 Guernsey lawsuit was dismissed, they were not interested in 23 sitting down and meeting with us. We were disappointed in 24 that because, as we have consistently maintained since the 25 Board has taken over, the Board does not control that Guernsey

1 lawsuit. But in any event, that was what Acis's position was.

2 Subsequently, a few weeks after that, we were told that
3 Acis would be willing to sit down and have a discussion with 4 us about their claim, similar to the discussions we had with 5 Redeemer and similar to the discussions we had with UBS.

6 To make that discussion most productive, two and a half
7 days into that -- I certainly realize two and a half days is 8 not a lot of time -- we provided Ms. Patel and Mr. Shaw with a
9 draft of the objection, which was mostly identical to the one
10 that got filed. There was a couple of minor changes. We then 11 had a discussion with them. I'm not going to, of course, 12 reveal the substance of the discussion, but the purpose was to 13 go over our thoughts before it was filed. And we were told,
14 as Ms. Patel said, that Mr. Terry was on vacation, and we 15 didn't expect, after putting, as Ms. Patel said, a roughly 60-
16 page objection, that they would be able to turn it around.
17 Several days later, we called up Ms. Patel and Mr. Shaw,
18 communicated orally a settlement proposal, told them that a 19 settlement -- told them that an objection would be filed and 20 offered to, at their convenience, to sit down and talk about 21 the claims.

22 We are still hopeful, Your Honor, in light of Ms. Patel's
23 comments that we will receive a response, that we will receive
24 a response. And to the extent we can narrow the issues down
25 and -- before mediation, I think those ought to be helpful.

1 We also spoke to Ms. Patel. She had indicated she had a
2 vacation scheduled. At the time, I think we were starting to 3 talk about mediation. And the Debtor has no intention of 4 mediating while litigating. We don't believe that's an
5 effective use of people's time. So while it is on for August
6 6th, to the extent Your Honor does order us to mediation and 7 mediation occurs at the end of August, we would anticipate
8 that the hearing on the claim objection would be set for some 9 time in September. But we are encouraged.

10 We also, after the additional litigations were filed by 11 Ms. Patel against Mr. Dondero and certain of the Debtor's
12 employees, who are still current employees, we had suggested 13 that it might make sense to have an abatement and a stay of 14 those proceedings, given the interrelatedness of those 15 proceedings and the matters in Acis's claim objection. They 16 initially rejected that, but I'm very happy to hear that their 17 view now is that it does make more sense to try to see if we 18 can coalesce around a mediation process without satellite
19 litigation occurring.

20 So we are -- we are, to the -- we're not a party to that 21 litigation. We weren't asked. The first time we had been 22 told that that litigation would be stayed was I heard it just 23 a few minutes ago. But we are very much in support of that
24 and hope that the parties can coalesce around a mediated
25 resolution as opposed to a litigated resolution.

25

1 THE COURT: Okay. Remind me again the amount of
2 Acis's proof of claim.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: I will let Ms. Patel answer that 4 because it's a little unclear and there are some -- been
5 disputes in terms of who said what about it. So I would ask
6 Ms. Patel to remind the Court of what they're claiming.

7 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, on the face of our -- of the 8 filed proof of claim, it states that the claim is in excess of 9 $75 million.

10 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Anyone else wish to 11 make a statement today?

12 (No response.)

13 THE COURT: All right. Well, as I said, I have a few
14 questions, some I came in here with and some sort of popped up
15 in my brain as I heard the presentations today.

16 Mr. Pomerantz, I mean, I feel in many ways I have sort of 17 only a 30,000-foot level understanding of certain things going 18 on outside of the courtroom. And here's what I mean by that.
19 You made a comment that the Board, you know, had to deal with 20 the destruction of the Debtor's business caused by the 21 pandemic. I think those were your exact words. I would like 22 to understand that better, because there was indeed a theme in 23 your motion to extend exclusivity of, you know, one of the 24 reasons we're not where we would like to be at this juncture
25 is, among other things, you know, we had the pandemic hit.

1 I don't have a full appreciation of how that has slowed
2 things down. I mean, I know there was one specific comment
3 that Jefferies issued margin calls and so that caused
4 liquidity issues. But other than that, I'm not -- I mean,
5 yes, the capital markets fell off a cliff in March, but my 6 impression, naïve as it may be, is that things have kind of 7 bounced back after March. So, tell me how the pandemic has 8 had an effect in trying to get to resolution of issues and a
9 plan.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Absolutely, Your Honor. So, as I
11 think Your Honor knows in the calls, the Debtor's primary
12 assets consist of two things. One, public stock that it
13 trades through a proprietary account in its select account,
14 and other stocks, public stocks, which, as Your Honor
15 mentioned, the pandemic roiled the stock market, and for the 16 period of time in March and early April, given the fact that 17 the Debtor had margin accounts, a substantial amount of the 18 time spent primarily by Mr. Seery, who effectively started
19 becoming a CEO at that time -- we'll deal with his motion next 20 week -- if it wasn't for his efforts, his expertise and 21 acumen, the result could have been a lot worse.

22 So he's been spending a lot of time in dealing with 23 Jefferies, because, as Your Honor is aware, with margin
24 accounts, there is really limited protections that are 25 available under the Bankruptcy Code, and the automatic stay

27

1 and other protections don't necessarily apply, and Jefferies
2 could have turned around and sold all the stock. So the value
3 that was preserved took a lot of time and effort. That was 4 one area.

5 The second area, Your Honor, is the Debtor's assets also 6 include interests in private equity investments. A lot of the 7 Debtor's funds that it manages and which the Debtor has 8 significant interest in have a variety of different companies.
9 Each of those companies were dealing with the pandemic in 10 their own different ways, whether it was addressing issues of 11 applying for PPP loans, whether it was addressing employees,
12 there's capital structure issues, each of them are potentially 13 a Chapter 11 making all of their own.

14 So, again, the type of effort and time that it took --
15 again, principally, Mr. Seery, acting as CEO, but also, you
16 know, the other Board members -- was a lot, to stabilize those 17 investments and to make sure that they were not lost through 18 actions by lenders or whatnot.

19 And the third aspect is the Debtor manages funds, still 20 manages funds and actively manages funds. And managing funds
21 that have principally financial-type assets in this 22 environment has been extremely challenging.

23 As Your Honor accurately mentions, over the last couple
24 months the stock market has come to a little more stability.
25 Whether that will remain is anyone's guess. And during that

28

1 time, that's when a lot of the efforts that I've mentioned in
2 terms of the claims work has been put back on. But there was 3 a month or two period during the pandemic, the early stages,
4 that really impacted the Debtor's ability, and it was all-
5 hands-on-deck to address those issues.

6 At the same time, though, Your Honor, our firm was working
7 on the extensive analysis that was required to, for example,
8 address all the legal issues in connection with what I think I
9 recall is a 34-count complaint by Acis; for our firm to get up
10 to speed with respect to the UBS claim, which, as Your Honor
11 heard a few weeks ago, spanned 11 years of litigation; and 12 also to address the issues with Redeemer and be in a position
13 that, as I mentioned before, we have reached a settlement.

14 So, there were a lot of things going on. We had hoped to 15 be where we are now a couple of months ago. But I think the 16 Board, under the strong leadership of the Board and the strong
17 leadership of Mr. Seery, has effectively stabilized the 18 operations, and we have now been able to, the last couple of 19 months, really turn to how do we get out of this case, as 20 evidenced by the comments I made with the substantial effort
21 that's been made in the plan and the substantial progress I
22 think has been made on putting the Board in a position to sit 23 down and have meaningful discussions with creditors
24 (inaudible).

25 THE COURT: Okay. I mean, again, I don't -- I don't

1 have a witness here, but, well, remind me, what do we have set
2 July 14th?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: So, July 14th, Your Honor, we have 4 two motions. One is a motion to appoint Jim Seery as the 5 chief executive officer. Again, I will talk more about it in 6 connection with that hearing. If Your Honor recalls, as part 7 of the term sheet in January, there was a recognition by the 8 Committee and by the Debtor that instilling the Board was 9 obviously critical. It was critical to avoid this case going
10 into a different direction. And I think there was a 11 recognition that it would be important that somebody stepped 12 up and become the CEO.

13 It was too early to tell whether that somebody would come
14 from the Debtor's board, the newly-installed board, or someone 15 else, but there was a contemplated process. And while the 16 first couple of months of the case were spent, again, on 17 stabilizing operations, I think starting in mid-March and as 18 we went on it was pretty clear that, of the three people on 19 the Board, while all of them are providing invaluable services
20 in leading the Debtor to where it is now, Mr. Seery was 21 stepping up primarily because of his significant operational 22 background in connection with these types of assets. And he 23 has essentially been working a couple hundred hours a month or 24 thereabouts over the last few months doing the things I just 25 alluded to, and the Debtor has determined to seek his 30

1 retention as a CEO. Has had discussion with the Committee on
2 terms. They're not all finalized or resolved yet, but that
3 hopefully will be uncontested by the 14th.

4 Mr. Seery will also undertake the role of chief
5 restructuring officer, which, as Your Honor recalls, we
6 already have Brad Sharp as -- from DSI as chief restructuring
7 officer. They will essentially become financial advisor. DSI
8 has provided a valuable role to the Board and to counsel in 9 this case. But given that Mr. Seery will, if the Court
10 approves the motion, become the CEO, it would make sense that 11 he be the CRO as well, so it's a separate motion to 12 essentially transmute the DSI representation from a CRO
13 representation to a financial advisor representation. So the 14 two matters are on, Your Honor, but I've --

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: -- given Your Honor a preview.

17 THE COURT: Well, I'd like to hear testimony from 18 both of them on the 14th, Mr. Seery and Mr. Sharp.

19 Again, I -- I mean, ideally, we would have evidence at a
20 hearing on a motion to extend exclusivity. And I understand 21 you didn't have any objections, you worked out essentially an 22 agreement with the Committee. So, I mean, I understand you
23 didn't necessarily think that evidence would be needed.

24 But I, again, you know, my understanding is 30,000-foot
25 level. I'm just trying to understand, you know, with three

31

1 wonderful independent board members and with a CRO and all
2 these fantastic professionals, it just feels like we -- you
3 know, multiple things could be going on at once, and I kind of 4 feel like, you know, January 9th, six months ago, we had the 5 independent board installed. We had the protocol order with 6 the Committee worked out, you know, which we call it a
7 settlement, but it was mostly a mechanism to allow the 8 Committee to have oversight and monitoring. And it just feels 9 like, January 9th, okay, then we were in a position to really 10 start focusing on these big claims. We knew it was Acis and 11 we knew it was UBS, even though the bar date hadn't hit. And 12 it feels like to me we've -- I shouldn't say bought a lot of 13 time, but a lot of time has gone by for not as many results as 14 I would like.

15 Tell me why I'm being unfair. And, again, I go back to,
16 okay, if it's the pandemic, help me to understand what it was 17 about. You know, I kind of got scared by that phrase you
18 used, destruction to the Debtor's business caused by the 19 pandemic. I mean, I guess part of what I'm getting at here
20 is, Has there been a massive loss of value by the Debtor
21 caused by the pandemic, and that has been sort of a halting
22 event to being able to talk about a plan?

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, Your Honor, I believe, and I
24 actually went back to my notes, and I think I said disruption.
25 I didn't say destruction.

1 THE COURT: Oh.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: And if Your Honor heard destruction,

3 --

4 THE COURT: I heard destruction. Maybe I --

5 MR. POMERANTZ: -- or if I misspoke, I apologize.

6 But there wasn't any implication of a destruction in the 7 Debtor's business. Again, financial assets did take a hit.
8 There were some concerns in how, you know, to monetize those
9 assets, the stock assets, and working through the Jefferies
10 issues as well as the private equity issues.

11 And look, Your Honor: When the Board took over on January
12 9th, I think they recognized soon after their appointment that 13 there was a lot of stuff to do. There was -- it was a really 14 steep learning curve. Highland, as people have described it
15 in the hearings in this case, is an extremely complicated
16 structure of companies.

17 So, yes, perhaps things could have moved a little quicker.
18 Your Honor does recall the early stages of the case, we dealt 19 with motions for the appointment of a trustee by the United 20 States Trustee. There was other litigation over retention of 21 professionals and others, which, you know, Your Honor has 22 commented about in the past, and I think we're past that and 23 beyond that. But there has been a lot of work.

24 And, again, on the claims work, the Board, to be 25 independent, did not want to rely on the employees of the 33

1 Debtor in evaluating the various claims. So that took a lot
2 of time and effort.

3 So, you know, look, I think you could look at it two ways.
4 One way you could look at it, that it's been pending six
5 months and we don't have a plan yet, we don't have the claims
6 resolution. I would -- and I tend to be a glass-is-half-full
7 type of person -- I think the message that we are hearing
8 today is that the plan process is on track. We have resolved
9 one of the three major litigation claims. We have coalesced
10 around a mediation process that people can get behind and 11 hopefully have concluded at the end of August. That the 12 process is going to include not only the inbound claims
13 against the company but potentially the claims by the company
14 against some of the targets.

15 I think there is reason for optimism at this point in the 16 case. And while, you know, I wish it was May and we were 17 having this discussion, not July, I still think there has been 18 a lot of groundwork that was prepared to get to the place
19 we're here. And, you know, the Board is laser-focused on 20 getting results, and getting results quick.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Let me follow on about the 22 agreement in principle on the Redeemer claim. They had an 23 arbitration award. So that doesn't sound like a major
24 milestone to me, to be honest. Tell me why I'm wrong about 25 that. They had an arbitration award.

1 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure. Your Honor, they do have an
2 arbitration award, but there are several aspects of the
3 arbitration award that needed negotiation and resolution. A
4 significant part of the arbitration award was the Debtor's
5 obligation to repurchase some Cornerstone shares that Redeemer
6 had for a certain dollar amount. Well, obviously, the Debtor
7 in bankruptcy doesn't have the ability to write a check to 8 repurchase it.

9 There was issues on the Debtor's ability to ultimately 10 recoup different fees that the arbitrator had determined had 11 been taken inappropriately that had to be repaid, and to what 12 extent the Debtor would be entitled to a credit.

13 So, by no means am I telling Your Honor that the Redeemer
14 claims and issues were as difficult as the Acis and UBS claims
15 and issues. But there were a variety of issues, there were a 16 variety of matters that had to be discussed. You know, we 17 worked cooperatively with Redeemer and with Jenner & Block.
18 And we, again, have reached a resolution that is going to 19 provide a face amount of a claim which is materially less than 20 the claim that was on file.

21 But Your Honor, by no means am I trying to convince Your 22 Honor that this was the same type of work that needed to go
23 into -- resolve the others. But having said that, getting 24 that claim resolved, which the Debtor believes is the largest 25 legitimate claim against this estate, I think is an important

35

1 step forward that will lead towards hopefully the confirmation
2 of a plan and hopefully spur on efforts from all the parties
3 -- Acis, UBS, and the Debtor -- to try to make the same type
4 of progress in their claims.

5 THE COURT: Okay. All right. My next question is, I
6 mean, you've talked about -- I think it was the previous 7 hearing I heard you say a term sheet had been provided to the 8 Committee or going back and forth. I mean, help me to 9 understand what you're envisioning the plan is going to look
10 like in this case. I mean, I know there's a wide swing
11 between UBS being owed a billion dollars and being owed
12 nothing, and Acis being owed $70 million versus, you know,
13 nothing or wherever you think the number should be, or the 14 Debtor's board thinks the number should be. I know, you know,
15 these are giant questions. But can you answer for me what 16 you're envisioning?

17 I mean, again, one of the pleadings said, you know, the 18 plan should provide for orderly monetization of assets,
19 provide for a process for resolution of claims, and pursue
20 causes of action. I mean, again, that's kind of 30,000-foot
21 stuff. Tell me what you're envisioning.

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure. So, Your Honor, just to take a
23 step back, we -- this case was filed not necessarily for the 24 traditional reason that cases are filed. There weren't operational 25 fixes that needed to be done at the business.

1 THE COURT: Right.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: There wasn't a capital structure that
3 needed to be revised.

4 THE COURT: Right.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Right? So, as everyone knows, the case
6 was filed because the Redeemer Committee got its arbitration award,
7 to prevent execution on that. Okay?

8 We also had a very complicated business. There are not many, I
9 think, examples of asset managers around the country of the type of 10 Highland Capital that actually go through a Chapter 11. And it
11 caused a tremendous amount of upheaval, of issues. Your Honor, 12 we've been dealing with the protocols on a daily basis with the 13 Committee. Your Honor has seen some of that.

14 So while the hope was, from the beginning of the case, to end
15 this case in a nice, tidy bow, get a resolution that would not only 16 resolve everyone's claims but also try to resolve the claims that 17 the estate had against third parties, as time was going by the 18 parties realized that there was nothing more bankruptcy could 19 provide this company. This company right now has litigation issues
20 to deal with that can be resolved with the help of the Bankruptcy
21 Court, as appropriate, in connection with the claims process. And 22 the Board -- and the Committee, for that matter -- were looking at 23 the substantial amount of fees that were being incurred by the 24 Debtor professionals and the Committee professionals which were 25 draining liquidity from the company and started to think, How can we

37

1 exit this case? Even if we can't get what has been referred to by
2 people as a grand bargain, how can we exit this case quickly and 3 efficiently?

4 So what really has to be done in terms of exiting the case?
5 Coming up with a way to monetize the assets, a structure in which 6 those assets can be monetized; not doing anything in the context of 7 a plan process that would in any way interfere with the 8 estate's obligations under the Advisers Act with the SEC or 9 otherwise; and coming up with a governance structure of who's 10 going to govern that.

11 So the plan that is currently contemplated -- and it's 12 more than a term sheet, Your Honor. We have had numerous 13 versions of the plan go back and forth. We are right now
14 waiting. The pen is in the hand of the Committee. We think
15 we are very close to having a form of a plan and a form of a 16 disclosure statement that would essentially contemplate some 17 type of trust vehicle that would monetize the assets. And the 18 structure of how that trust would work, whether it's one
19 trust, whether it's two, whether it's one trustee, whether 20 it's two, how that trust would be governed, who would be on 21 the governing board: Those are all issues that are currently 22 being worked out.

23 At the same time, the company is doing a thorough analysis
24 of every contract and every asset, to make sure that 25 assignment provisions and contract provisions and regulatory

1 issues, that we don't somehow trip up in connection with the 2 plan process.

3       So, essentially, at its core and at its minimum, it will 4 be transferring the assets into a monetization vehicle, some 5 type of trust vehicle, which, again, the corporate and 6 regulatory lawyers are working with us, with the bankruptcy
7 lawyers, to figure out the appropriate way, given the nature
8 of the Debtor's business, having an oversight board that has,
9 you know, creditor support. And if you ask Mr. Clemente,
10 it'll be total creditor identification of the people, which we 11 are in discussions of what the Board looks like after. And 12 monetization over time, and a way to resolve the claims over
13 time.

14       So that is essentially the concept. Again, to the extent
15 we can resolve the claims soon, to the extent we can work on a 16 negotiation with Mr. Dondero to bring in liquidity so that 17 creditors will not have to wait for the monetization of the 18 assets, which a lot of these assets are not assets that are 19 easily monetizable and it will take some time. But it is -- 20 the Debtor feels strongly and I think the Committee feels 21 equally as strongly that emerging from Chapter 11 with some 22 type of vehicle to monetize the assets, governance and 23 control, and a way to resolve remaining claims, that is the 24 minimum that can and should be accomplished and that the 25 Debtor is committed to accomplishing in short order.

1       If something else comes out of it where we get more,
2       again, where the claims are resolved or where we have a grand
3       bargain with Mr. Dondero, that's something we're going to 4       strive for. But at a minimum, it needs to be an asset
5       monetization vehicle, governance, and a way to -- a structure
6       to resolve claims.

7               THE COURT: Okay. Asset monetization vehicle. You
8       know, subject to regulatory lawyers and corporate lawyers
9       figuring out the exact mechanics, you're saying essentially
10      put the business of Highland into a trust or trusts, and then,
11      I guess, from cash flow of the business over time, the 12      creditors would be paid? Or are you saying something more 13      than that?

14             MR. POMERANTZ: Well, again, I think it's on an 15      asset-by-asset basis. And, you know, Mr. Seery, you know, is 16      -- has become very familiar with all the assets, now has a --
17      ideas in mind which he's shared with the Board on how to best
18      monetize the assets. Some assets, there may be a quick sale.
19      Some assets, it may be over time. So it's a combination.

20             This is not going to be a fire sale of the Debtor's
21      assets. It's not in the best interest of the Debtor, we 22      believe. It's not in the best interest of the creditors. We 23      don't think anyone is in favor of that. It's dealing with 24      each of the assets in an appropriate manner and figuring out
25      how to monetize them, recognizing that given -- even though

40

1 the stock market has bounced back, the market for privately-
2 owned businesses may not have bounced back as much.

3 So it's figuring out with the appropriate people,
4 appropriate governance structure, how best to monetize those 5 assets, recognizing that creditors want to be paid and they're 6 -- they don't want to be in the business of long-term holds.
7 So, the Debtor gets that. But it's really being a thoughtful
8 approach on how to get the best value from those assets.

9 THE COURT: Okay. There's nothing, though, being 10 discussed as far as a big chunk of cash distribution up front,
11 unless Dondero comes up with it?

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, potentially. I mean,
13 potentially, Mr. Dondero is a potential source of liquidity.
14 There are some significant assets that may be able to be 15 liquidated sooner rather than later. So it's something that's 16 in discussion.

17 But the lion's share of the value for creditors is likely
18 going to come over time, unless there is someone who, like Mr.
19 Dondero, who is essentially willing to buy back the company.
20 And that is something that's being explored.

21 So, look, we've had a lot of transparency with the 22 Committee. We have weekly meetings, the Board and the 23 Committee. We just started a few weeks ago. I think the 24 professionals are working together. They understand what the 25 assets are in the estate. So, to that end, I think we have

41

1 been working very cooperatively with our creditors over the
2 last few months and we're just seeking to do it the best way.

3 So nothing I've said today, nothing, you know, should come
4 as and will come as a surprise to the Committee, but we're
5 working better, recognizing that ultimately the creditors want
6 to be paid, and doing that in an appropriate manner and a
7 thoughtful manner is what the Debtor is committed to do with 8 its partner, the Committee, in this process.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Sort of jumping back, I forgot to 10 ask earlier when we were talking about Acis: Has the Fifth
11 Circuit rescheduled oral argument on the appeal of the Acis
12 confirmation order and order for relief?

13 MR. POMERANTZ: I believe -- Your Honor, maybe Ms.
14 Patel would know off the top of her head.

15 THE COURT: Ms. Patel?

16 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, it was -- it was briefly -- I
17 -- and I say briefly, it was briefly we had -- we got a notice
18 at some point, I believe in early June, that the Fifth Circuit
19 had reset oral argument. And then approximately, I can't 20 remember exactly, but it was like, I don't know, a week or 21 maybe ten days later, we got a notice that it was cancelled
22 again. We have not received notice that it is rescheduled, so
23 it is still pending. But it has not been taken off oral -- it
24 has not been taken off oral argument at some juncture.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I acknowledge that that is a

1 pandemic disruption for sure. It would have been nice to have
2 that resolved one way or another by now.

3 MS. PATEL: Agreed, Your Honor. We were trying to 4 figure out, frankly, in the week to ten days that it took from 5 the scheduling to how it was cancelled, exactly how our team
6 was going to get down to New Orleans. And the -- I think the 7 leading contender was to rent an RV and drive down so we could 8 safely get there. So it certainly has been a casualty of the 9 pandemic.

10 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Two more questions.
11 And this one has been a bit of a tough one for me to decide
12 whether I should broach this topic or not. You know, I read
13 the newspapers, the financial papers, just like everyone else,
14 and I saw a headline that I wished almost I wouldn't have 15 seen, and it was a headline about Dondero or Highland
16 affiliates getting three PPP loans. And, you know, I'm only
17 supposed to consider evidence I hear in the courtroom, right,
18 or things I hear in the courtroom, but I've got this 19 extrajudicial knowledge right now thanks to just keeping up on 20 current events. I decided I needed to ask about this.

21 What can you tell me about this, Mr. Pomerantz? I mean, I
22 assumed, from less-than-clear reporting, that it wasn't
23 Highland Capital Management, LP, but I'd like to hear anything
24 you can report about this.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: So, look, Your Honor, the first I

43

1 could say is that, to my knowledge, Highland Capital, the 2 Debtor, has not obtained a PPP loan. I know there have been 3 discussions with certain funds that basically have certain
4 assets, private operating companies, about obtaining PPP
5 loans. I don't have the specifics for Your Honor. I'm happy
6 to provide that.

7 Of course, to the extent Mr. Dondero, on any of his
8 affiliated funds that are under the control of the Debtor, I
9 would have no way of answering that, but I'm happy to follow
10 up with that with the Board and report back to Your Honor in 11 whatever appropriate manner you felt to obtain that 12 information.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let's have a report on that 14 on the 14th when we come in. You know, maybe Mr. Seery or Mr.
15 Sharp or some other person. But you can probably imagine the 16 different things going through my brain. You know, well,
17 first, let's see if it was -- you know, I don't -- again, I'm 18 not expecting it to be Highland Capital Management, LP. I
19 would be beyond shocked if, you know, that somehow happened
20 when they're in bankruptcy. And, you know, I think it would 21 require a 364 motion, just like any other borrowing, although 22 I know it's kind of a forgivable loan. Strange bird.

23 But then if it's some affiliate of Highland, I still feel 24 like we need some transparency and disclosure on that. I
25 mean, I -- and who were the human beings behind it. It just

1 raises a lot of questions in my brain. Anything else?

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, would you mind saying
3 what newspaper you found it in? Because not everything one
4 reads in the newspaper is accurate, but we will definitely --

5 THE COURT: Oh, yeah. I know --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: -- follow up on it and --

7 THE COURT: Fake news really is a thing.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: I didn't say fake news.

9 THE COURT: Oh, I know, I know. It's not really a
10 good term. But Business Insider? Is that reputable? Or no?
11 I thought I saw it in one of the local papers, too. I mean,
12 someone tell me if that's, --

13 MR. POMERANTZ: We -- we --

14 THE COURT: -- you know, something unreliable.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: We will investigate it, Your Honor.
16 I don't know what confidentiality restrictions would be on 17 whether if any of those entities -- but we will get the 18 information. If there's any concern on confidentiality,
19 perhaps we could have an in-camera on that. But before we get 20 ahead of ourselves, let me broach the issue with the Board and 21 Mr. Sharp and then be in a position to act and respond more
22 intelligently.

23 THE COURT: Okay. My last topic is to come back to 24 mediation. I was surprised that Judge Jones' or Judge Isgur's 25 staff expressed that they had availability. They are the 45

1 busiest judges in the country right now. I'm wondering when
2 were they contacted. Was it really recently, or a week or two 3 ago? Because they've probably gotten ten new mega-cases in 4 the past two weeks.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, the last -- the last
6 two weeks, again, probably since June 15th, we had been
7 discussing the structure of a mediation. We, the Debtor,
8 proposed perhaps a combination of Judge Isgur and Jones. We 9 initially had that conversation with Mr. Clemente, and then we 10 socialized it with the rest of the Committee members. As of 11 last Thursday, I believe it was, we had consensus that Judge
12 Jones, and if available, also Judge Isgur, would make sense.

13 I sent an email to Judge Jones' clerk, indicating that we 14 had a hearing today, that it would be helpful if we got a
15 response, and this morning, two hours before the hearing,
16 Judge Jones' clerk responded and told Mr. Clemente and I that 17 he is available and ready and suggested that we have a
18 conference with -- again, I'm not sure if it'll be him or his 19 clerk, to talk about availability. Of course, we didn't want
20 to go ahead and have that discussion until, you know, we got 21 Your Honor's input on it.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I mean, a couple of things come to 23 mind. One is I am just flabbergasted that they would have any 24 availability. I know they're -- I'm aware of Judge Jones
25 doing hearings on weekends.

1 But second, I'm also concerned what is their idea of
2 availability. Because in order for a mediator to meaningfully
3 help you on this, I mean, it's going to take not just hours
4 but days of time, unless you want the mediator to just have a
5 30,000-foot view. And I mean, I just cannot imagine, --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: So, --

7 THE COURT: -- once again, that they would have days
8 and days to come up to speed with, you know, 11 years of 9 litigation or however long it was, not that long, with UBS,
10 you know the years with Acis, you know, the various alleged 11 claims and causes of action, and, you know, the Byzantine 12 structure here. I mean, you know, not that they have to be,
13 you know, as educated as a judge presiding over litigated
14 matters, but I just cannot imagine they could meaningfully
15 spend time on this.

16 So what are you all envisioning? Because I know what I'm 17 envisioning, and maybe we're not seeing it the same way. I
18 mean, what are you thinking? That you'll go in and spend a 19 day with, you know, maybe just each of you doing a 25-page
20 white paper, and you'll either settle it by the end of the day 21 or not, or what?

22 MR. POMERANTZ: So, let me start by saying that when 23 everyone raised the issue of Judge Jones and Isgur, everyone
24 had the same potential concern that Your Honor has mentioned.
25 You know, my firm and me personally, I'm involved in a couple

1 of cases before Judge Jones now, significant cases. So there
2 was a concern.

3 I think people also generally thought that if they
4 accepted and they knew what they were getting into, they would
5 want to do a good job and they'd have the time.

6 We have not had the ability to have an extensive
7 discussion. That discussion could either occur with Mr.
8 Clemente and myself speaking to the clerk or the judge, or if 9 Your Honor -- nothing stops Your Honor from picking up the 10 phone, speaking to Judge Jones and asking him as well.

11 But I expect it to be a very intensive mediation process.
12 I do understand that Judge Jones only does mediations in 13 person, so this would require people getting to Houston,
14 which, in my experience, while I have participated in 15 mediations virtually on the phone, it's a lot more effective
16 to be in person. We would anticipate detailed mediation
17 briefs. We would envision each of the parties speaking to 18 Judge Jones to give him their perspective. But it would be -- 19 it would be a significant assignment.

20 Again, whether we would conclude at the end of August, I
21 don't know, but I would contemplate a good two, three days of 22 in-person mediation at the end of August, and then probably,
23 if necessary, to set up for something else, which, again,
24 there are several different things. And I mentioned in my 25 opening remarks why I think people like Judge Jones -- and

48

1 this is also why we thought about Judge Isgur as well -- it's
2 not often you have two mediators, but two mediators,
3 especially judges who work together and who are pretty adept
4 at mediation, I mean, you know, having a bankruptcy judge be a
5 mediator is fine, but Judge Jones and Isgur, they have done a
6 lot of that, and I understand have continued to do that,
7 notwithstanding themselves getting busy.

8 So I can't answer Your Honor's question of whether they 9 know what they are getting themselves into. I would hope that 10 by, again, a combination, or Mr. Clemente and I speaking to 11 them or Your Honor speaking to them, they would understand.
12 And if they are willing to do it -- obviously, Highland is a
13 high-profile case; I know judges, sitting judges, often like
14 to help out their brethren who are sitting on the bench. So 15 if they are ready and able to do it, we'd think we'll have 16 lucked out, and we think they would be great to aid the 17 process.

18 If for some reason they don't really appreciate or if 19 Judge Jones doesn't appreciate what it is, then we can go back
20 to square one, and, you know, I'm sure find other people as 21 well. But we'd like to sort of give it a shot.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. BJORK: Your Honor?

24 THE COURT: Yes?

25 MR. BJORK: May I be heard? This is Jeff Bjork with

49

1 Latham, hi, on behalf of UBS. I apologize. I just wanted to
2 say that, from our perspective, we have concern, we raised
3 this concern about Judge Jones or Isgur having the time to 4 really evaluate the claims. I mean, as you noted, our claim
5 is complex, to say the least. So is Acis's. There's a lot of 6 history behind it.

7 And so while we appreciate the fact that there is a
8 mediation process that will be moving forward, we have raised
9 the prospect of having a separate mediator like Dan Weinstein
10 or someone of that ilk to serve as a mediator with respect to 11 our claim dispute, with the goal of trying to advance that in 12 advance of August.

13 So we have put that out to the Debtors. We raised that 14 today in advance of this hearing. We're happy to progress
15 that discussion. But I wanted you to understand, from our 16 perspective, we share your concern.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone else?

18 MR. POMERANTZ: So, just on that, Your Honor, --

19 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: -- you know, we understood UBS's
21 view. We believe each of the other Committee members and the 22 Committee believe Judge Jones would be the appropriate person.
23 And, again, I think we're all I think somewhat in the dark
24 here, and I think the next step is to really find out the time
25 that they have available to devote to it. And, again, if they

50

1 have the time to devote to it, I don't think Mr. Bjork could
2 challenge that Judge Jones would be an excellent mediator and
3 excellent to resolve a complicated issue like the UBS claim.

4 THE COURT: Uh-huh. But you all cannot go down to 5 Houston live anytime in the near future. I don't know if 6 you're reading. Houston is pretty much like New York was two
7 months ago. It's -- well, the death rate is not as terrible
8 because it's younger people getting it, but it's the hotspot
9 for coronavirus right now. And --

10 MR. POMERANTZ: And we understand that, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: And, again, you know, we're sitting
13 here on July 8th. A lot could change by August 25th. A lot
14 couldn't change. I'm not, you know, I'm not sure there are 15 other places in the country people like to travel to more. I
16 mean, you know, --

17 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: -- there are several places that are 19 hotspots. It may be challenging to do an in-person mediation.
20 I know on the Debtor's side we are committed to make it
21 happen. I might just ask Ms. Patel if she has the number of 22 the RV company she was going to -- because maybe that's an 23 appropriate way to get there.

24 THE COURT: All right. So, well, let's see. I was 25 going to say you'd be quarantined 14 days after, but you're in

51

1 California, not New York. New York, you know, has quarantined

2 --

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes.

4 THE COURT: -- people traveling from Texas. Well,
5 and remind me: August 25th. That was just sort of an
6 internal target date you all had created?

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Yeah. It was around, you know,
8 again, the end of August, you know, that we'd, you know, do
9 around that time.

10 THE COURT: Uh-huh. All right. You know, I'm -- 11 I've been talking to lawyers in different cases, where the 12 topic of mediation is being discussed, about more and more
13 mediators, and this is private mediators, are becoming very 14 adept with Zoom mediation. And what I thought was noteworthy
15 -- I hadn't thought through this, you know. I thought, well,
16 you can do mediation like this. You know, if you can do court
17 by video, why can't you do mediation by video, what's the big 18 deal? But there are private mediators who apparently have 19 become every adept very fast at having these separate caucus
20 rooms, okay? So when you have mediation involving, you know,
21 12 different constituencies, you know, the mediator will close
22 out all the other conference rooms and go to these three 23 people, and then close that out and go to these eight people
24 in this other room. And it just really hadn't occurred to me
25 that, oh, if you're not live and in person, how do you that,

1 you know, the going back and forth from room to room? And 2 they've got some tricks worked out where some of them are 3 doing that. And I just don't know that any sitting judges are 4 going to have that all worked out.

5 I have a couple of names in mind. And I have not talked
6 to either of these folks, but I had thought of these people.
7 You know, they're going to cost you money. They're not going 8 to be free mediators like Judge Jones and Judge Isgur. But 9 two people. One, I had thought of retired Judge Jim Peck. I
10 don't know if he has availability, or, you know, a conflict or 11 anything like that, but he's someone I happened to have gone 12 to baby judge school with back in 2006, and, you know, have 13 somewhat of a friendship with him. And I thought of him
14 because not only does he have a personality that I think might 15 fit this situation, but, as you know if you ever had a case
16 with him, I mean, he's just so very smart. You know, he dealt 17 -- handled the Lehman case. You know, he's not going to be -- 18 he'll be a very quick study, is what I'm thinking, as far as 19 whatever factual background he would need to assemble to get 20 up to speed.

21 And, again, I just worry -- and I'm going to get on the 22 phone and talk to Judge Jones and Judge Isgur -- but I'm just 23 really worried if they will devote the amount of time for this 24 to have a meaningful shot at settling.

25 Another name I thought of is a lawyer in Houston who was

53

1 at Weil Gotshal many years, Sylvia Mayer. I don't know if any
2 of you know her, but she pretty much does mediation and
3 arbitration full-time now, and she is one of the people I am
4 aware has mastered this Zoom separate conference rooms. So,
5 once again, you know, a very quick study, I think, my 6 impression from past dealings with her.

7 There may be many other names we could add to that list,
8 but you might want to all kind of talk offline about those as
9 well.

10 But here's what I want to do.

11 (Audio interruption.)

12 THE COURT: Was someone wanting to speak up?

13 Okay. I am going to think on this more between now and 14 the 14th. And, again, I'm going to be reaching out to Isgur
15 and Jones, and might reach out to Jim Peck and Sylvia Mayer as 16 well, just to have a lot of options out there. And then we'll 17 talk on the 14th about what my research has revealed in 18 talking to these folks.

19 So, everyone, just let's continue to think on this 20 mediation thing. But, again, I want this to be meaningful.
21 I'm very worried that, you know, if all you get is one day,
22 even a long day, with these folks, that it's just not at all
23 realistic that there would be a chance at settling. So I've 24 really got to think on this.

25 As far as the motions before the Court, I'm going to grant

54

1 the motion to extend exclusivity for 30 days. Okay? So,
2 August 12th. And no potential add-ons for two 30-day
3 additional extensions, which, you know, the mechanism, I think
4 you were hoping not to have to come back to the Court, that if
5 the Committee agreed, you know, you could just automatically
6 get up to 90 days. I'm not quite clear. But the point is I'm 7 just extending to August 12th, and for now that's all I'm 8 going to do. Okay?

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Understood, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: And we didn't talk about the other 11 motion. That was sort of a no-brainer, I think, as far as 12 everyone was probably concerned, the motion to extend the 13 period to remove actions. The current deadline is July 14th.
14 You're wanting to extend that out to January 14th, 2021,
15 correct?

16 MR. POMERANTZ: Correct, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: All right. Is there anyone who wanted to 18 say anything about that one?

19 (No response.)

20 THE COURT: All right. So that -- I think there's 21 good cause to grant that motion as well.

22 The only other thing --

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, one --

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: One comment on what Your Honor said

55

1 about mediation. Again, I had a dialog with Albert, Judge
2 Jones' clerk. We may want to get him on the phone, Mr.
3 Clemente and I. Of course, we won't do it if Your Honor
4 doesn't think it's helpful. But it might be helpful. And,
5 again, I didn't know if that was going to be with Judge Jones
6 or if it was going to be with just his clerk, to talk about 7 days or whatnot.

8 But we'd be happy to get on the phone in order to give him
9 the parties' perspective, which, look, we all agree this has 10 to be a meaningful mediation. And perhaps hearing it also 11 from us in terms of what we expect and what we contemplate and 12 what we think the issues might be and whatnot could be 13 helpful.

14 If Your Honor doesn't want us to do that, that's fine.
15 But since I suspect his clerk will get back to me and say "Are 16 you available?" to Mr. Clemente and I, I just didn't want to 17 step on any toes and I wanted to check with Your Honor whether 18 you want us to take that call or not.

19 THE COURT: Okay. I got a little confused. You're 20 asking for a blessing to kind of continue the dialogue you've 21 already started with their offices?

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, I'm just asking. Again, I
23 don't want to be presumptuous.

24 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: The fact that Your Honor is calling

56

1 Judge Jones is important. But I expect Judge Jones' clerk to
2 get back to us and say, "Are you available to have a
3 conversation?" And I just want to know what Your Honor's
4 pleasure is in terms of whether we should have it or not. I
5 think it might be helpful, but if Your Honor says, okay,
6 you've brought it here, you want to take it over from here, I
7 would obviously respect that. But just, just wanted to come
8 out of this hearing clear on what your expectations are in 9 terms of that communication.

10 THE COURT: Okay. I'll take it from here. And if 11 they call back, just say, you know, I understand Judge
12 Jernigan is going to be calling Judge Jones directly. And so
13 -- but I'll get on the phone this afternoon, so hopefully 14 there won't be any awkwardness on that.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: All right. Anything else?

17 The only other thing I was going to tie back to is I fully 18 expect that there would be across-the-board agreement to abate
19 the Acis newly-filed adversary, so I hope I would -- I don't 20 even remember who all the defendants are, but please make that 21 a priority, talking about that in the next few days, and 22 report to me on that on the 14th. Okay? Ms. Patel?

23 MS. PATEL: From Acis's perspective, yes, Your Honor,
24 will do. I'm on -- I'm all over it.

25 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, if there's nothing else, we'll go ahead and adjourn for today. And I'll keep -- if there's anything worthwhile to report on the mediation front before we have our hearing on the 14th, I'll have my courtroom deputy reach out to all counsel by email and let you know. Okay? All right.

57

MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you very much, Your Honor.

MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you. We stand adjourned.

THE CLERK: All rise.

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

3

1 Wednesday, September 23, 2020 11:02 o'clock a.m.

2 P R O C E E D I N G S

3 THE COURT: Last on our 10:30 docket is an Acis
4 Capital matter. It's a motion of Acis to file redacted
5 quarterly operating reports. This is in Case Number 18-30264.

6 Ms. Chiarello, I see you there for the reorganized
7 debtor, correct?

8 MS. CHIARELLO: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor.
9 Annemarie Chiarello here on behalf of Acis Capital Management,
10 L.P. and Acis Capital Management, GP, LLC, the reorganized
11 debtors.

12 We also have with us on the phone and video, Joshua
13 Terry. Mr. Terry is a principal of the reorganized debtors.
14 And I believe Ms. Patel is also on the video.

15 THE COURT: All right. Thank you very much.

16 For the U.S. Trustee, I believe I see Ms. Lambert
17 there. Correct?

18 MS. LAMBERT: Yes, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right. Good morning to you.

20 Do we have –

21 MS. LAMBERT: Good morning.

22 THE COURT: – anyone else wishing to appear this 23 morning on this matter?

24 (No audible response.)

25 THE COURT: All right. So we have, it looks like,

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

4

1 several people on the phone. They may just want to observe, but
2 I always want to double check that someone may be on mute and 3 think they're appearing but they're not.

4 So, Mike, can you – can you make sure everyone's off
5 mute for a minute? Are you able to do that?

6 THE REPORTER: Yes, ma'am.

7 THE COURT: Okay. So everyone's off mute now. If you
8 wish to appear and you haven't, go ahead.

9 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, are you able to hear me?

10 THE COURT: I can now.

11 MR. LYNN: I fear I can barely hear you. I'm going to 12 dial in a second time and see if I get better reception.

13 THE COURT: All right. Well, that's Mr. Lynn for Mr.
14 Dondero.

15 I can recognize your voice. So we heard you. And it
16 sounds like you were going to try to change your device to get 17 better audio.

18 All right. Anyone else wishing to appear?

19 All right. Well, Ms. Chiarello, are you making the 20 argument this morning?

21 MS. CHIARELLO: Yes, Your Honor.

22 (Noise.)

23 MS. CHIARELLO: May I begin?

24 THE COURT: You may. And I just realized I left my 25 exhibit notebook back in chambers.

Opening Statement on behalf of the Debtors/Movants

5

1 So, May, can you go grab that?

2 Okay, the law clerk's going to grab that. Thank you.

3 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTORS/MOVANTS

4 MS. CHIARELLO: Thank you, Your Honor.

5 Good morning again. Annemarie Chiarello here on 6 behalf of Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital
7 Management, GP, the reorganized debtors. We're here on Acis'
8 motion to file its quarterly operating report under redaction.
9 That motion was filed at Docket Number 1161. The two objecting
10 parties that we have today are the United States Trustee's
11 Office and we believe Mr. Dondero filed a comment rather than 12 formal objection.

13 And, before we get any further, this Court has heard
14 days, weeks, months of testimony in this case. Undoubtedly 15 you're aware that Mr. Dondero is not a creditor or an equity
16 holder in the debtor, at least not the named equity holder,
17 former or otherwise, in the debtor. So we'd just like to 18 reserve our right to object to Mr. Dondero's standing to be 19 heard today. I'm happy to go into that further. I thought it
20 may make sense to present to you our opening argument and then
21 address the standing as the last issue, but I'm happy to address
22 it whichever way you'd like.

23 THE COURT: Let's defer that for now, so you may go
24 ahead with your opening, your other issues.

25 MS. CHIARELLO: Your Honor, we're here on a 107(b)

Opening Statement on behalf of the Debtors/Movants

6

1 motion, a motion to really file our quarterly operating reports
2 with limited information available to – on the public docket.
3 We don't believe there's any dispute as to the standard that's 4 applicable. And the United States Trustee, who has filed a
5 substantive objection, we agree on the standard. We don't 6 believe Mr. Dondero disagrees with the applicability of the 7 standard here, but again it's under 107, at the request of a
8 party-in-interest the Bankruptcy Court shall protect information
9 that is confidential or commercial information.

10 And, as a threshold matter, we're – we're sorry for 11 wasting – or using the Court's time for this. I know Acis has 12 taken up a lot of your time in the last few years. And we tried 13 to reach a practical solution with respect to this issue. If 14 Your Honor had looked through our exhibits or the docket, you
15 will see that initially Highland Capital Management filed a 16 lengthy objection to this – to this motion and ultimately they 17 withdrew their objection after coming – after we worked on a 18 stipulation that was agreeable to each party. It's in your 19 exhibit notebook at Exhibit A. And I really think that's 20 demonstrative of what we're trying to do here.

21 So as Your Honor is aware, Acis had limited creditors
22 during its bankruptcy case and few remaining creditors that need
23 to be paid through the plan of reorganization. There are really 24 only four remaining creditors, three of which are disputed and 25 subject to claim objection. Those are Hunton Andrews Kurth,

Opening Statement on behalf of the Debtors/Movants

7

1 Stinson Leonard, Highland Capital Management, and then the
2 remaining nonobjected-to creditor is Mr. Terry's claim. So
3 today we have no creditors who are objecting to the relief that
4 we're requesting, but I do think the presence of Mr. Dondero,
5 whether or not this Court decides to grant him – or decides to 6 hear him on his – on his comment, is really illustrative of our 7 problem.

8 Mr. Dondero's objection highlights that noncreditors
9 may misuse the information in Acis' quarterly operating reports.
10 We know Mr. Dondero doesn't want this information in order to 11 see if the plan is being complied with as an essential creditor
12 or a party-in-interest. We don't know why Mr. Dondero is 13 objecting, but we don't believe his actions are benevolent.

14 As a reminder, this case is postconfirmation and we 15 only have four remaining creditors. And our motion does not 16 request that the Court permit Acis to redact information on the 17 QORs related to payments to creditors. We're asking the Court
18 to permit Acis to redact information related to its business
19 operation. We are concerned that Dondero-controlled entities
20 are going to misuse this information.

21 We are concerned that the Donor Advised Fund; the 22 Charitable DAF Devised Fund, L.P., which we've referred to as 23 the DAF; and CLO HoldCo, again has been referred to as part of 24 the DAF structure; and entities controlled by Grant Scott, Jim 25 Dondero's college roommate, are going to use information in the

Opening Statement on behalf of the Debtors/Movants

8

1 Acis unredacted QORs to sue parties related to the Acis CLOs,
2 including U.S. Bank, Brigade, and Moody's. And this concern has
3 come to fruition as multiple times in the last year U.S. Bank;
4 Moody's; Acis Capital Management, L.P.; Brigade; and even Mr.
5 Terry individually have been sued by the DAF, CLO HoldCo, or 6 both.

7 We understand the United States Trustee's concern
8 about setting precedent for sealing QORs, but we do think here
9 the facts matter. And we'd like to highlight again that there
10 are no objecting creditors. The creditors remaining are two law
11 firms who are capable of filing objections; Highland Capital
12 Management, who we have agreed to provide this information in a 13 form that we believe protects the confidentiality of the 14 information.

15 And, Your Honor, if you take a look at the 16 stipulation, you will see that, generally speaking, we provide 17 the – the – and that's at Exhibit A, we're providing that – the 18 Acis QOR information to: The Highland Capital Board; and 19 Pachulski, debtors' counsel for Highland Capital Management; and 20 their restructuring advisor, Development Specialists, Inc., but 21 we have prevented that information from living on the Highland 22 Capital Management server because we have – as Your Honor is 23 aware in this Highland Capital Management case there have been 24 some issues about what lived on the Highland Capital Management
25 server, who has access to it, and which of the Highland entities

Opening Statement on behalf of the Debtors/Movants

9

1 gets to control that information. And ultimately we want to
2 make sure that this information can't be misused by Mr.
3 Dondero's entities.

4 Again we're not trying to limit this information from 5 other courts or actual creditors. Our goal is to reduce
6 frivolous and expensive litigation that is bad for the Acis CLOs
7 and has aided Acis' ability to reorganize. We are not 8 attempting to limit legitimate discovery in another court or we 9 are not trying to limit the United States Trustee's access to 10 this information. If you take a look at our proposed order, it
11 provides that it should be given to the United States Trustee's
12 Office.

13 And with that, Your Honor, unless you have any 14 questions, I'd like to move to Mr. Dondero's standing or lack 15 thereof.

16 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

17 MS. CHIARELLO: So as Your Honor's aware, under 18 Section 1109(b), there is a very broad party-in-interest
19 standard with respect to being heard in a bankruptcy matter.
20 And there are – there are enumerated parties including
21 creditors, obviously the United States Trustee under a different
22 statute, the debtor, certain parties-in-interest. But Mr.
23 Dondero is not a creditor and he is not an equity holder in the 24 debtor, nor is he former equity in the debtor. At this point he 25 is merely a litigation counterparty.

Opening Statement on behalf of the Debtors/Movants

10

1 And if you take a look at our Exhibits C through V,
2 those are the debtors' schedules and – schedules and claims
3 registry which show that Mr. Dondero is not a creditor or – and 4 is not looked at as an equity holder, and has not filed a proof
5 of claim against the debtor.

6 Judge Bohm, faced with a similar situation in 2016,
7 found that a litigation counterparty was not a party-in-interest
8 has standing to be heard in a postconfirmation matter. So that 9 case is In re Odin Demolition and it's at 544 B.R. 615. In that 10 case Judge Bohm, was faced with a motion to reopen a bankruptcy
11 case after litigation had been brought pursuant to a plan. The 12 party that moved to reopen the bankruptcy case was actually the 13 defendant in the matter, really seeking to make sure that they 14 were to have an order clarifying whether certain claims and 15 causes of action had been reserved properly under the plan. And 16 in that case Judge Bohm denied the litigation counterparty's
17 motion to reopen for, among other reasons, that they didn't have 18 standing as a noncreditor to reopen the bankruptcy case and as a 19 party – as an entity that was not a party-in-interest. And we 20 believe that Mr. Dondero is in the same category.

21 At the very – at the very least, I think Mr. Dondero's
22 arguments should be – should be faced with some suspicion. And 23 we'd like to highlight that although it was quite some time ago,
24 we don't see Mr. Dondero on the video or the phone, and we do
25 have a standing order in this case with respect to presenting

Opening Statement on behalf of the U.S. Trustee

11

1 argument. As you have – you at one point required under – under
2 Order 36- – Docket Number 36 – 336, you required party
3 representatives to be at every hearing if the parties were going
4 to take a position.

5 So for all of those reasons we don't believe Mr.
6 Dondero's comments should be heard. But to the extent that Your 7 Honor does intend to indulge Judge Lynn and Mr. Dondero, we – we 8 object and we dispute the contentions that Acis had or may 9 misuse its role on the Highland Capital Management Committee to 10 do anything nefarious. I don't think there – there's no
11 evidence that that's occurred and it's, frankly, particularly in 12 light of concurrent events, it's rather insulting to insinuate
13 that there's been any – anything nefarious going on there.

14 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Ms. Chiarello.

15 I'll hear next from the U.S. Trustee, Ms. Lambert.

16 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE U.S. TRUSTEE

17 MS. LAMBERT: Judge Jernigan, –

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MS. LAMBERT: – as Acis has stated, the parties are in 20 agreement about what the legal standards are and really about 21 most of the facts, but not about what the legal conclusion here
22 is or what the appropriate remedy is for the problem.

23 Acis contends that none of the creditors are here.
24 First, the United States Trustee contends that this is a public
25 document that the public is entitled to have access to; that

Opening Statement on behalf of the U.S. Trustee

12

1 professors, government agencies, Congress use to evaluate
2 whether plans are being complied with and whether the Bankruptcy
3 Code is being performed successfully as applied.

4 Secondly, two of the creditors that are subject to 5 objection are law firms, so they're in an awkward position to 6 object to their former clients' position, number one. And,
7 number two, because the information has been redacted, they 8 don't really have the ability to assess what the information is 9 or speak as to whether they need it. And in the context of 10 objected-to proofs of claim, where the plan contemplates
11 payment, they are entitled to know whether there is a reserve
12 for them or not. This they cannot access and evaluate from the 13 information that's been provided.

14 This information is typically disclosed in bankruptcy
15 cases, in large forfeit cases; confidential information is often 16 disclosed in individual cases. That information may lead to 17 litigation. The parties to contracts are entitled to know
18 whether their contracts are being complied with. Undoubtedly,
19 the DAF litigation has been a series of annoying and costly –
20 costly litigation events. We don't question that, but the 21 proper remedy for that is to seek some relief in this Court by 22 asking that the Court enforce the interpretation of its order
23 and its prior interpretation of the DAF agreement – the DAF
24 litigation issues and seek to have any complaint in another
25 forum enjoined or require that the litigation be filed here in

Opening Statement on behalf of the U.S. Trustee

13

1 the Acis bankruptcy case, not that the public be denied access
2 to the information, because that does not comply with the 3 standards that the Constitution requires for public access to 4 the court as discussed in the Nixon case and as interpreted in 5 the statutory context of 107 and 9018 and in the cases that
6 discuss how those should be applied in a constitutional context
7 such as a line – (brief garbled audio).

8           Alternatively, if the Court is inclined to do this,
9 and this started as a motion to seal, which was withdrawn, and 10 then Acis filed a motion to redact, and we hoped that the 11 redactions would be more limited, but the redactions go to the 12 substantive information in the case. You cannot evaluate 13 compliance with the plan under the redactions that – that are 14 set forth in the proposed orderly operating reports. You cannot 15 tell from quarter to quarter where the money is or what's been 16 paid or what has happened. And that's where we get to.

17           This is not information that can be tailored for this 18 case. And, therefore, it's not really a redaction. It's really 19 a motion to seal. The fact – the information that they provide 20 is about the claims that have not been paid, but let's – that 21 information is accessible otherwise in the bankruptcy reports,
22 in the claims register, and in the objections to claims. The 23 information that's not available to creditors and to the public 24 is the information that's been redacted about the finances in 25 the case.

Opening Statement on behalf of the U.S. Trustee

14

1           So often fraudulent transfers, whether prepetition or 2 postpetition, are disclosed in operating reports. The 3 bankruptcy processes is not designed to cover up litigation
4 issues. Here, the allegation is that the litigation issues are 5 frivolous, and that may be true, but the remedy for that is 6 different than sealing the quarterly operating reports.

7           And for these reasons we would ask that the motion be
8 denied or, alternatively, if the Court is inclined to do this,
9 that the Court define a period of time for unsealing the 10 quarterly operating reports, because, as set forth in the case
11 law and in the Federal Judicial Center Guide, generally, orders 12 to seal should define a period for unsealing them; and – and 13 also that the Court allow the United States Trustee to comply
14 with its ethical and statutory obligations, in that the Court
15 include the standard language that it would include in sealing
16 orders for that purpose.

17           However, we still contend that the evidence will 18 reflect that the sealing should not occur and that this is bad
19 precedent for bankruptcy cases and especially large corporate
20 cases. I'm available if the Court wants more. Thank you.

21           THE COURT: All right. Ms. Lambert, I'm going to ask
22 you a follow-up question. You just said it would be bad
23 precedent. Have you ever seen either redaction of or sealing of 24 either monthly operating reports or quarterly operating reports
25 in a Chapter 11? I've never, that I can remember, had anyone

Opening Statement on behalf of the U.S. Trustee

15

1 ask me to do this, so I've never looked into it. Is this
2 something that is occasionally happening and I'm just not
3 experiencing it till now, or do you know?

4 MS. LAMBERT: No, Your Honor. In fact, Mr. Neary,
5 when I discussed this motion with him, said that he had never
6 seen this before either. We are aware of some circumstances 7 where particular line items in quarterly operating reports have 8 been redacted, but never something substantive or that caused an 9 inability to access, to evaluate, or determine what had happened
10 in accordance with the plan.

11 Similarly, the Court asked about monthly operating 12 reports, no, we have not seen that before. As is pointed out in 13 other pleadings that were filed, the SEC also requires
14 disclosure of this type of information in large corporate cases.

15 I can, however, Your Honor, think of two Chapter 7
16 cases where large settlements were sealed and the final reports
17 were sealed. Both of those resulted in discussions with the 18 U.S. Trustee about this should not have occurred and we request 19 that it not occur again. And there were provisions for 20 unsealing them at a subsequent date. That is the only 21 circumstance which I feel ethically I'm bound to disclose to the 22 Court that I can think is analogous to this.

23 THE COURT: All right. Well, I ask and I'll just tell
24 you all what's dancing in my head. I mean bankruptcy judges,
25 we've been talking for a couple of decades now about, you know,

Opening Statement on behalf of James Dondero

16

1 these motions to seal or motions to heavily redact. They seem
2 to be coming with more and more frequency in the large Chapter
3 11 complex cases.

4 And, you know, I'm about to hear from Mr. Lynn, but in 5 the Highland case of course I had a motion to seal the plan and
6 disclosure statement because of pending mediation. And I
7 approved that under the very unique situation that I thought it
8 was, but I've never sealed a plan and disclosure statement
9 before.

10 And, again, it's a subject that causes I think all of 11 us bankruptcy judges angst because we do have this general
12 notion, not just a notion, a statute, 107, that presumes
13 everything is publicly available, again unless commercial
14 information, scandalous, confidential. So there's kind of a 15 perception that more and more and more people are wanting to 16 avail themselves of 107 and say something's commercial, say
17 something's sensitive, confidential. But, you know, sometimes 18 it's very questionable.

19 All right. So with that, Mr. Lynn, are you there?
20 Your client's standing has been challenged, first and foremost.
21 Why don't you start there and then we'll see where we go from
22 there.

23 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, can you hear me?

24 THE COURT: I can, yes.

25 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES DONDERO

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

17

1 MR. LYNN: Okay, good. Well, I had hoped to break in
2 earlier because I could have, I think, solved some of this
3 problem. Let me begin by saying Mr. Dondero is the portfolio
4 manager for certain funds that have an interest in CLOs that
5 Acis manages. So indirectly he has an interest in there.
6 However, he does not have a direct interest in this. And we 7 filed the four comments rather than a response or an objection.

8 We agreed with the United States Trustee, although we 9 do not agree with some of her comments regarding DAF litigation
10 that occurred after the confirmation of the Acis plan, which we 11 think is probably beyond the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy
12 Court.

13 We also don't agree with the rude characterizations of 14 Mr. Dondero and the angelic characterizations of Mr. Terry that 15 counsel for Acis mentioned. However, we don't have any 16 particular interest in whether or not this motion is granted
17 other than on a precedential level.

18 THE COURT: All right. Well, Ms. Chiarello, I'm going
19 to ask you: Do you – do you intend to put on any evidence
20 today? And you know you have a notebook full of exhibits, but 21 is your client perhaps going to testify on this?

22 All right. We're – I guess you were muted. If you
23 could unmute – go ahead.

24 MS. CHIARELLO: Oh, yeah. Yes, Your Honor, we intend.
25 As a threshold matter, we would move to admit Exhibits A through

18

1 W, which are in your binder and with the caveat being I believe
2 Ms. Lambert wanted to make clear that Exhibits C through K are 3 not admitted for the truth of the matter asserted therein but 4 merely to show that they have been sent and the contents. But 5 obviously, particularly with respect to the DAF complaint, we 6 obviously would contest the truthfulness of the matters asserted
7 in those. And the same caveat for Exhibits Q through T. And,
8 with that, we would move to admit Exhibits A through W.

9 THE COURT: All right. Are there any objections, Ms.
10 Lambert? If you could unmute yourself.

11 MS. LAMBERT: The agreement is as stated by Ms.
12 Chiarello so that the exhibits that she carved out are admitted
13 for notice purposes but not for the truth of the matter
14 asserted. That includes the proof of claim register. And the 15 other items are admitted for all purposes.

16 THE COURT: All right. So to be clear for the record,
17 I'm admitting A through W, but C through K and Q through T are 18 being admitted for notice purposes only, not for the truth of 19 the matter asserted.

20 (Debtors'/Movants' Exhibits A through W received in 21 evidence, as noted above by the Court.)

22 THE COURT: Ms. Chiarello, could you tell me, do we –
23 were these filed on the docket so I can cross-reference that or 24 do I just have the hard copies?

25 MS. CHIARELLO: Your Honor, they are filed with the

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

19

1 docket. And I believe your hard copies, although it's hard to
2 tell for the first few because there are things that were filed,
3 the filings on filings, they should have the file mark copies as
4 well on the top. So, for example, if you go to Exhibit T, it
5 should have the 1180-21. So I believe then that these were all
6 filed at Docket Number 1180.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MS. CHIARELLO: So if it's 1180 -

9 THE COURT: All right, I gotcha.

10 MS. CHIARELLO: - 1180-1 through 26.

11 THE COURT: You know that I need to give the court
12 reporter hard copies of all this, and the answer is no. These 13 are all found at Docket Entry Number 1180 on the Acis docket.

14 All right, with that, -

15 MS. CHIARELLO: Yes, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: - call your witness.

17 MS. CHIARELLO: Yes, Your Honor.

18 Your Honor, if it would - I believe Ms. Lambert has - 19 doesn't have any objection to - or objection to the 20 admissibility of our exhibits. If you would be amenable to it, 21 we'd like to walk through some of what those exhibits are to 22 limit the amount of testimony from Mr. Terry. But if you'd like 23 to hear from Mr. Terry first, we can offer you that.

24 THE COURT: No, that's fine. You can walk through the 25 exhibits first.

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

20

1 MS. CHIARELLO: Okay. Do you mind if I share my 2 screen?

3 THE COURT: Go ahead.

4 MS. CHIARELLO: Okay. Can you see it?

5 THE COURT: Um-hum.

6 MS. CHIARELLO: Okay. So we've moved in as Exhibit A
7 the stipulation between Acis and Highland Capital Management,
8 refers us to the Acis QOR. As I mentioned earlier, you will see 9 in paragraph 3 that the parties that have the – or who the 10 information is being made available on a confidential basis are 11 Pachulski Stang Ziehl and Jones; Mr. Seery; Mr. Nelms; Mr.
12 Dubel; and Highland's bankruptcy advisor, Development
13 Specialists, Inc.; Mr. Dondero; the Charitable Donor Advised
14 Fund; and CLO HoldCo are parties that the Viewing Parties are 15 prohibited from disclosing this information to.

16 Next, – next we'll move to Exhibit B, which is the 17 Acis – and I'll put up in one moment – which is the proposed
18 redacted exhibit – I'm sorry – redacted quarterly operating 19 report with respect – showing the information that we are and 20 are not redacting. So, again, this is postconfirmation, so
21 these operating reports are somewhat limited. But we'd be 22 redacting information related to Acis' cash receipts, but for 23 cash disbursements, creditors can see the payments made under a 24 plan. And – and then the remaining information would be 25 redacted as it – again, this is the backup for, again, the cash

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

21

1 disbursement.

2           So I'm going to move through Exhibit C through E and G
3 all at once. First, for purposes of today, I'll pull this up,
4 but I know Your Honor has a – I'll pull up G, but you have all
5 of them in front of you. So these are the DAF lawsuits that we
6 have been discussing. There are a number of iterations of them,
7 the most recent which is Exhibit G.

8           So you take a look at these and the plaintiffs are 9 either CLO HoldCo or the Donor Charitable Advised Fund. It
10 sounds from Judge Lynn's comments that Mr. Dondero may serve in 11 some capacity with respect to these entities, but you – you have 12 heard these mentioned as the DAF. They assert that they are 13 interest – or they hold an interest in the Acis CLOs either
14 directly or indirectly. And, generally speaking, this 15 litigation alleges misconduct related to the Acis CLOs and 16 misconduct related to the Acis bankruptcy case.

17           With respect to the mismanagement, it will sound
18 familiar to Your Honor as it's quite similar to the 19 mismanagement alleged by Highland Capital Management during 20 Acis' bankruptcy case, an objection that this Court overruled
21 when it confirmed Acis' plan of reorganization.

22           So the parties to these lawsuits, which admittedly
23 have changed, this is probably the most fulsome one, include
24 U.S. Bank; Moody's; Acis Capital Management, which is of course
25 our debtor, our reorganized debtor; Brigade Capital Management,

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

22

1 L.P., which is the debtors' subadvisor; and Mr. Terry
2 individually.

3 I think what's most notable – or maybe most
4 interesting, maybe not most notable, just how – how interesting
5 this litigation has become. So one of the causes of action that 6 is present here is actually a defamation claim against Moody's.
7 And the defamation claim is quite surprising, particularly in 8 light of who is bringing this cause of action. So the Acis, the 9 DAF, and CLO HoldCo, who allege that they are noteholders in the 10 Acis CLOs, are actually suing Moody's for not downgrading their 11 investment. So that's at page 26 of Exhibit G.

12 And, again, this is – this is more – I mean it's 13 really just litigation for whatever value it is. At some point
14 this litigation was dismissed. If you look at Exhibit H and F,
15 those are dismissal orders. I will note they were dismissed
16 without prejudice in February of 2020. However, the – if you
17 take a look at Exhibit J, you will see – now I have to 18 understand how to switch between these exhibits – so Exhibit J
19 is actually dated April 20 – 21, and it's a letter from Mr.
20 Hurst, counsel for the DAF entities, to U.S. Bank, basically 21 raising the same concerns related to the mismanagement of the 22 Acis CLOs. So this letter was sent after the litigation was 23 dismissed, so I don't think we – we don't see the dismissal as 24 anything other than a strategy, if you will.

25 Again we have another letter now on this Exhibit K,

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

23

1 which is a letter from Grant Scott on behalf of the Donor
2 Advised Fund, L.P. So this is a letter from Mr. Scott to Seward
3 and Kissel, who were counsel for U.S. Bank in this – actually in 4 this bankruptcy case. I believe they're on the telephone.

5 And Mr. Scott is a patent lawyer. You can tell from 6 his letterhead. And he is Mr. Dondero's college roommate. And 7 he is, again, alleging these same sort of issues related to the 8 Acis CLOs and Acis' performance. If you take a look at the 9 third paragraph you can see his concerns. And – and all of 10 these letters request an accounting from the Acis CLOs. We 11 don't necessarily know why. We obviously have suspicions, but 12 we think they're – they're asking for certain information.

13 And if you take a look at – this is – Exhibit L, you
14 will see Mr. Kotwick's response to Mr. Scott with respect to the 15 requested information. Effectively Mr. Kotwick responds that 16 under the documents, the DAF and CLO HoldCo aren't entitled to 17 this information. So we really see this as an end-run for Mr.
18 Dondero and his entities to get information that they would not 19 otherwise be entitled to under their documents. And,
20 unfortunately, we believe that this is also bolstered by 21 requests we have received previously from counsel to Highland 22 Capital Management prior to the entry of the stipulation, and 23 those are Exhibits I and M, again requesting really detailed 24 financial information from Acis, which we believe is unrelated
25 to plan performance. And we can talk about plan compliance in a

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

24

1 moment.

2 And, finally, Your Honor, I think it's worth noting
3 that there are two transcripts at Exhibits N and O. Both are 4 transcripts actually from the Highland Capital Management
5 bankruptcy case. And Exhibit N is a transcript from the 6 February hearing on the motion to employ Lynn Pinker – I'm sorry
7 – Foley Lardner, and it was originally intended to be a hearing
8 on a motion to employ Lynn Pinker Cox and Hurst. And so at page
9 59, Judge Nelms testifies that the Highland Capital Management
10 Board was not aware of this DAF litigation. So we don't take a 11 lot of comfort in knowing that the Board – it's not that the 12 Board can control this litigation, at least that hasn't – and 13 that's not what has been demonstrated. We hope – we hope that 14 they can exert their influence here, but we don't know that that 15 necessarily is within their purview.

16 And this is further illustrated by actually a comment
17 from last week. Now I'm in Exhibit O. And so if you look at 18 page 42, although I'm sure Your Honor remembers, we heard from 19 counsel for Mr. – from Judge Lynn's firm, Mr. Assink makes 20 statements on the record to this Court that Mr. Dondero was 21 still working with entities that he controlled to file proofs of 22 claim in the Highland bankruptcy case. And I know that 23 definitely was surprising to us, but really illustrates the fact
24 that Mr. Dondero is still around, still has the same intentions, 25 and we don't believe that the letter-writing campaign or

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

25

1 litigation has stopped.

2 And, finally, Your Honor, we want to move to Exhibit
3 W. This is something I'm not sure the Court is aware of.
4 Sorry. This is the final judgment from the Guernsey Court with 5 respect to Mr. Terry. If you recall, Your Honor, Mr. Terry was 6 sued on the Island of Guernsey, effectively contemporaneous with 7 Acis' first confirmation hearing. So Highland CLO Funding
8 Limited, which we have called things like ALF, HCLO, CLOF, they 9 sued Mr. Terry in Guernsey effectively for filing the Acis
10 involuntary petition. And ultimately that case was dismissed,
11 and I'm probably to butcher the Guernsey term, but it does seem 12 for lack of jurisdiction.

13 And in connection with that case, the Guernsey Court
14 found that testimony submitted by Mr. Sevilla, an Island –
15 Exhibit W on page 8, so his information, particularly this
16 confidential information was related to whether Mr. Terry's
17 payment of his involuntary fees and expenses were – should be 18 characterized as a bribe rather than an allowed administrative 19 claim under the Bankruptcy Code, Mr. Sevilla's testimony was 20 found to be inaccurate with respect to that and a number of 21 other items with respect to jurisdiction over Mr. Terry, but I
22 don't know that that's necessarily relevant.

23 So with that, Your Honor, unless you have any 24 questions, we'd move – we'd call Mr. Terry to the stand.

25 THE COURT: Let me ask one question before we do that.

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

26

1 So what pending satellite litigation remains at this point? If
2 the DAF lawsuits were dismissed, granted without prejudice, and
3 this Guernsey lawsuit is now resolved, what – what is left of 4 what I'll call the satellite litigation?

5 MS. CHIARELLO: Your Honor, Mr. – I believe there is 6 still pending litigation in state court and actually Mr. Terry
7 can answer that question better than I can. But with respect to 8 litigation that is not in front of Your Honor, I believe that 9 there remains – Acis has state court litigation, but between 10 Acis, on one hand, and the Highland-related entity on the other,
11 I believe there is something still pending in state court, but I
12 think Mr. Terry should speak to that.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Because I'm understanding the heart
14 of the argument here with your motion is that Dondero, Dondero-
15 controlled entities have misused information in connection with 16 lawsuits filed against –

17 MS. CHIARELLO: Um-hum.

18 THE COURT: – Mr. Terry and U.S. Bank, Brigade,
19 Moody's, and so that's what I'm getting at: Are there pending
20 lawsuits where that is still a concern?

21 MS. CHIARELLO: So I think that the answer to your 22 question is the most recent DAF litigation has been dismissed.
23 However, after that dismissal there have been letters –

24 THE COURT: Right.

25 MS. CHIARELLO: – from Mr. Scott asserting the same

Terry - Direct/Chiarello

27

1 causes of action. And we don't - we have no reason to believe
2 that that is over. It just may not be occurring today. And we 3 are concerned that providing this information emboldens that 4 type of litigation.

5 THE COURT: Okay, got it.

6 All right. Well, Mr. Terry, I'll need to swear you
7 in. So if you could make sure you allow your video to capture
8 you. Do we have you, Mr. Terry? Let's make sure you're not on 9 mute and your video is activated. I saw you earlier today.

10 MR. TERRY: Yes. Can you see me, Your Honor, and can 11 you hear me?

12 THE COURT: I can now. Thank you.

13 JOSHUA TERRY, DEBTORS'/MOVANTS' WITNESS, SWORN/AFFIRMED

14 THE WITNESS: I do.

15 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

16 Ms. Chiarello.

17 DIRECT EXAMINATION

18 BY MS. CHIARELLO:

19 Q. Good afternoon - I'm sorry. Good morning, Mr. Terry. We've 20 got 13 minutes. I know you testified a number of times before
21 the Court, but would you introduce yourself?

22 A. I'm the president of Acis Capital Management, L.P. and also 23 the ultimate owner of Acis Capital Management, L.P.

24 Q. And, Mr. Terry, I believe you had a copy of the exhibits
25 electronically available to you, but to the extent if possible

Terry - Direct/Chiarello

28

1 I'm going to put them in front of the screen that form the share
2 screen. But as a threshold matter, I think it's probably 3 important to address a few things that have been raised today.

4 So with respect to how the plan works, can you explain
5 how – what's required under the plan with respect to a reserve
6 creditor, unsecured creditors, or disputed claims, and explain
7 if there is a balance or how much is in that reserve?

8 A. Yes. There is – under the plan, I believe, and I'm going 9 off memory, but as I recall there is a requirement that the 10 debtor or the reorganized debtor in this case keep an adequate
11 reserve for potential future claims, and we have since we've 12 emerged.

13 MS. CHIARELLO: And, Your Honor, there is a pending
14 settlement with Highland Capital Management.

15 BY MS. CHIARELLO:

16 Q. So I think it's prudent to take that into account, so
17 accounting for that Highland Capital Management claim, do you
18 believe that there are sufficient reserves to pay the remaining
19 unsecured creditors to the extent that they would be allowed
20 pursuant to the plan?

21 A. Yes.

22 Q. Okay. And then you heard Judge Jernigan ask a question with 23 respect to satellite litigation. Can you – can you speak to 24 what remaining litigation there is between Acis, on one hand, or 25 you, on one hand, and Highland, on the other, or Dondero-related

Terry - Direct/Chiarello

29

1 entities, on the other?

2 A. Yeah. As I understand it, in state court in the 162nd
3 District there is still an open case between, on one hand,
4 Highland Capital Management, L.P., which obviously this
5 bankruptcy case stayed that party in that litigation, but James 6 Dondero and Thomas Surgent as well, and then my wife and I as 7 the plaintiffs. And this relates to the stolen retirement money
8 as well as some related other claims that we had. That 9 litigation, originally Highland had filed claims against me
10 individually, which were already rejected by the arbitrators.
11 They sued me again for the same thing.

12 In state court, we won a summary judgment hearing in 13 March of 2019, which dismissed Highland's claims against me and 14 left my wife and I as the plaintiffs regarding the retirement
15 money. That case, we did settle that on October 2nd, 2019,
16 which was a few weeks prior to trial. And so that settlement
17 was between Highland, Dondero and Surgent, and then my wife and 18 I, on the other hand. And so we had a rule and an agreement in 19 place, which I think has been an exhibit in this Court before,
20 but that case still remains open technically, I believe.

21 Then Acis, on the other hand, does have a state court
22 action against former attorneys of Acis. And that one is in the 23 162nd district as well. And then there are the pending
24 adversaries which are in this Court.

25 And I believe after the Guernsey judgment, I believe

Terry - Direct/Chiarello

30

1 that matter is closed pending a – there is still an assessment
2 of cost or fees that can be awarded, given I was individually
3 the prevailing party.

4 Q. Thank you, Mr. Terry. So I am going to pull up what is
5 Exhibit B, which is a – it's been filed with the docket, but it
6 is the – it's Acis' quarterly operating reports, which have been
7 filed with appeal – I'm sorry – filed with redactions. Can you
8 explain kind of the narrow redactions that we have and what we 9 are – or what Acis is not intending to redact?

10 A. Correct. The – the items that we're not redacting are 11 payments to creditors and essentially the U.S. Trustee fees on – 12 on the QORs. The other information is redacted.

13 Q. And how many remaining creditors does Acis have?

14 A. In terms of allowed claims, it's just me individually. In 15 terms of disputed claims, it's Lackey Hershman, which while I
16 believe it's now called Stinson Leonard, and then Andrews Kurth,
17 and then Highland are the three remaining disputed claims.

18 Q. And are any of them objecting today?

19 A. No, not to my knowledge.

20 Q. And with respect to the cash receipts and cash disbursements
21 and the information that's being redacted here, can you explain
22 why that information is confidential or commercial information?

23 A. So certain – as I believe former Judge Lynn mentioned, Mr.
24 Dondero has access as portfolio manager to certain CLO indenture
25 trustee reports of the Acis CLOs and is able to get information

Terry - Direct/Chiarello

31

1 from those that the average creditor would not get. And it's my
2 belief that Mr. Dondero or Grant Scott or other Dondero-related
3 individuals or entities, believe they can discern information
4 between our QORs and this other information that they have that 5 might help them perpetuate this litigation that seems to be 6 their agenda, unfortunately; that, you know, we don't believe
7 necessarily they can discern what they think they can discern,
8 but unfortunately that hasn't stopped them in the past from 9 mischaracterizing information, such as the Guernsey lawsuit.
10 And, you know, we're concerned that, you know, this information
11 will then allow them a basis to continue to file lawsuits to the 12 detriment of our CLOs, to the detriment of the service providers
13 to our CLOs, and to the detriment of our business and our 14 reorganization.

15 Q. Thank you. So, Mr. Terry, can you explain to the Court who 16 is the DAF or what we're referring to when we say the DAF?

17 A. Yeah. There's a series of entities that are generally
18 referred to as the DAF. I think the two plaintiffs are the 19 Charitable Donor Advised Fund, L.P., and then CLO HoldCo
20 Limited, which as I understand it it's a subsidiary of the 21 former entity. Grant Scott serves as director of both of those 22 entities. Ultimately, these entities are owned by Highland 23 Foundations, of which, as I understand, Mr. Dondero serves as 24 president and Grant Scott serves as treasurer of the ultimate
25 shareholders of these entities.

Terry - Direct/Chiarello

32

1 Q. And, Mr. Terry, who is Grant Scott?

2 A. Grant Scott is Mr. Dondero's college roommate. He's a
3 patent attorney in North Carolina with an electrical engineering
4 degree that focuses on semiconductor and microelectronic
5 patents.

6 Q. Okay. So how has the DAF litigation and then the threatened
7 continuation of the DAF litigation affected the Acis CLOs?

8 A. So in a number of ways, unfortunately. You know, I think 9 the first – the first way is it really prevents resets or 10 inhibits the ability to reset these CLOs, which we've tried to 11 do since emerging. We've requested that of HCLCLOF. We were 12 hopeful when this independent board was put in place that we 13 would be able to work with them to get the CLOs reset finally.
14 And, you know, coincidentally or not, about a week after the 15 conversation started with the new independent board back in 16 February was when the lawsuit was amended to add Acis, me
17 individually, and Brigade up in New York. So unfortunately it's 18 kept resets from happening.

19 I think additionally these – when everybody has to 20 lawyer up, there's various indemnification provisions in place
21 in these CLO documents. And it's expensive to the CLOs. It
22 becomes an administrative expense essentially of the CLOs. And 23 the definition of administrative expense allows, within the 24 indenturers, allows for the U.S. Bank, as indenture trustee,
25 their counsel is paid – U.S. Bank's expenses are paid first

Terry - Direct/Chiarello

33

1 before any other vendors are paid in the CLO.

2 So naturally when U.S. Bank is sued as indenture
3 trustee, it leads to a big expense burden of the CLOs. And then
4 when Acis, Brigade, myself, others are sued, it leads to 5 indemnification issues of the CLOs, which ultimately are, you
6 know, a burden on the CLO that we had hoped to try to minimize 7 as much as we can. So those are the two main ways. It's the 8 resets and the expenses.

9 Q. All right. So does the mere threat of litigation in – I
10 think what I'd characterize as – a letter-writing campaign, does 11 that – does that affect the Acis CLOs somewhat similarly to an 12 actual filing of the complaint?

13 A. It does. It's similar in a way on the expenses, on the 14 expense front. And it also will continue to be a cloud on a
15 reset transaction.

16 Q. So what has been the effect of what I call the DAF
17 litigation and the letter-writing campaign on Acis'
18 reorganization?

19 A. Unfortunately, it – this litigation in general has been an 20 impediment since we emerged. I mean just broadly speaking, the 21 effective date was February 15th, 2019. There were affidavits
22 submitted in Guernsey on the 15th and 18th from Mr. Sevilla;
23 from Bill Scott, the former chairman of Highland CLO Funding;
24 Heather Bestwick, the other director of Highland CLO Funding,
25 submitting this Court's ruling to the Guernsey Court saying,

Terry - Direct/Chiarello

34

1 'This is an offense, we can't get a fair trial in the United
2 States.'

3 The — after that we had a May 2019 hearing in 4 Guernsey. These letters started, the demand letters started in
5 August of 2019 to U.S. Bank, Moody's, and S&P. The lawsuit
6 occurred in October of 2019 and then was amended in November and
7 amended in January and amended in February. And then we had a
8 letter in April and another letter in May of 2020. And so it's 9 just been a constant — obviously it's a distraction, but when 10 all the service providers to Acis CLOs — or not all, but a lot
11 are being sued, it's a cloud over other third parties'
12 willingness to want to engage with Acis on their business. And,
13 unfortunately, it's understandable. So that — that's been an 14 impediment.

15 And then there have also been concerns raised and due
16 diligence meetings, and whatnot, that, well, what if you did a
17 CLO, and Mr. Dondero did acquire — and the secondary market
18 acquired a position in that CLO just to sue all the service
19 providers to that CLO initially, even if he wasn't involved in 20 the initial transaction, just because, you know, he seems to 21 have it out for me, and so that's just unfortunately constantly
22 this cloud over trying to go out and get new business. It's 23 just this unending, you know, litigation against Acis.

24 Q. All right. So I think there was kind of — let me go back to 25 my question. So effectively you — you fought and — and won the

Terry - Direct/Chiarello

35

1 Guernsey litigation; is that – is that a correct assessment?

2 A. Yes.

3 Q. And ultimately it was dismissed after – how long had it been 4 pending when it was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction?

5 A. Two – two years since the date it was filed, roughly.

6 Almost two years.

7 Q. So even if you succeed in this litigation that's there, this
8 type of litigation, it injures Acis; is that correct?

9 A. Yes.

10 MS. LAMBERT: Objection, leading.

11 THE COURT: Sustained.

12 MS. LAMBERT: Yeah, and I – I ask that the answer be 13 stricken.

14 THE COURT: It will be stricken.

15 MS. LAMBERT: I'm sorry. I had trouble unmuting.

16 THE COURT: All right. It is so ordered.

17 Continue.

18 BY MS. CHIARELLO:

19 Q. Mr. Terry, what are the effects of the litigation on Acis?

20 A. Well, I mean it's problematic. It continues to be a cloud.

21 You know, as mentioned before, it continues to be a cloud over –
22 over our business.

23 MS. CHIARELLO: Your Honor, I have nothing further. I
24 prefer to redirect if there is a cross.

25 THE COURT: All right. Any cross, Ms. Lambert?

Terry - Cross/Lambert

36

1 Ms. Lambert?

2 MS. LAMBERT: Yes. Yes, Your Honor, -

3 THE COURT: Go ahead.

4 MS. LAMBERT: - there is a cross.

5 CROSS-EXAMINATION

6 BY MS. LAMBERT:

7 Q. Mr. Dondero, you and I have met before -

8 THE COURT: You called him Mr. - you called him Mr.

9 Dondero. That is -

10 MS. LAMBERT: Mr. - I have questions about Mr.

11 Dondero.

12 BY MS. LAMBERT:

13 Q. Mr. Terry, you and I met before. And sometimes we've been

14 aligned, the U.S. Trustee and your individual interest, and 15 sometimes we've been opposed; is that right?

16 A. Yes, I believe so.

17 Q. First I want to ask you about the reserve amount. The 18 reserve amount is redacted in the two quarterly operating

19 reports that are in evidence, right?

20 A. Well, technically I don't think the reserve - a reserve

21 amount is one of the items on the operating report. The reserve

22 amount, so I don't know how to exactly answer that question.

23 Q. You didn't disclose the reserved amount today, did you?

24 You didn't -

25 A. That's - well, I don't know if that's correct either. If I

Terry - Cross/Lambert

37

1 could, the outstanding claims, there's a Highland claim that
2 might total eight million pending this settlement agreement that 3 obviously has been reached. I think that's what they have 4 alleged their prepetition gap period and admin claim to be in
5 total. And then the other objected-to claims are about $400,000
6 in terms of Lackey Hershman/Stinson Leonard, whatever, I forget
7 how that's styled, and then Hunton Andrews Kurth. And then -
8 and then there's my claim as well. But the - which there is 9 between 8- and 900,000 outstanding on that. So, in general,
10 when I think of the reserved amount I think of those claims and 11 how am I going to pay them over time with not just existing 12 cashflow but future cashflow.

13 Q. You would agree with me that you have not disclosed today
14 the amount that has been set aside from reserve, correct?

15 MS. CHIARELLO: Objection, asked and answered.

16 THE COURT: Overruled.

17 THE WITNESS: I don't think that is - I don't know how 18 to answer your question because the reserved amount isn't an 19 amount on the operating report, it's an amount that I need to 20 reserve for both in cash and in future cashflow, as I understand
21 it.

22 BY MS. LAMBERT:

23 Q. Your counsel asked you if there was a reserve. You have not 24 provided the dollar amount of the reserve to the Court today,
25 have you?

Terry - Cross/Lambert

38

1 A. Well, the dollar amount of the reserve is all of these
2 factors that we're talking about that can help take care of 3 these claims that I just mentioned. So the dollar amount of the 4 reserve would be $8 million plus $400,000 plus somewhere between 5 8- and $900,000 total, but then, for example, there's a Highland
6 settlement that will take care of some of that, hopefully, there
7 is cash onhand and then there's future cashflows that will take 8 care of that amount that needs to be reserved for.

9 Q. You would agree with me that on today's date, Acis and the 10 Stinson law firm do not currently agree on the amount owed to 11 Stinson, right?

12 A. I believe that's correct.

13 Q. You would agree with me that on today's date Acis and 14 Hunton, which you refer to as Andrews Kurth, do not agree on the 15 amount owed to Hunton, right?

16 A. That's correct, I believe so.

17 Q. And if the reserve amount is redacted or the underlying 18 information is not provided and the quart- -- is redacted in the 19 quarterly reports, they can't complain about whether there is a 20 reserve or not, can they?

21 A. Respectfully, the question was based on a reserve amount
22 that's in the QOR, and I don't think there is an item in the QOR
23 that's a reserve amount.

24 Q. They can't evaluate the cashflow to determine whether they 25 should ask for a reserve, can they?

Terry - Cross/Lambert

39

1 A. I feel like there's two parts to that question. The reserve
2 is inherent in the plan, that I have to keep a reserve, I
3 believe. They can't – they could always ask for information.

4 Q. I'm going to shift from the reserve to Acis' compliance with 5 the agreements. You would agree with me that in or out of 6 bankruptcy Acis has to comply with its management contractual
7 obligations, wouldn't you?

8 A. Generally, yes.

9 Q. And – and the parties to your contractual obligations are 10 entitled to compliance, right?

11 MS. CHIARELLO: Objection, Your Honor. I think this 12 is outside the scope of direct.

13 THE COURT: Well, she could always recall him, I
14 guess, as her own witness, so I'm going to go ahead and allow 15 it. So overruled.

16 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. Can you repeat the question,
17 Ms. Lambert?

18 BY MS. LAMBERT:

19 Q. Complying with your contractual obligations is something 20 that the parties to the contracts are entitled to evaluate,
21 correct?

22 A. I believe so.

23 MS. LAMBERT: I have no further questions.

24 THE COURT: All right. Any redirect, Ms. Chiarello?

25 MS. CHIARELLO: Just briefly.

Q. Mr. Terry, does the plan require – or did the plan have a bucket of money to pay unsecured creditors upon confirmation? Was there a set dollar amount of funds?

A. No. There – there wasn't a set dollar amount of funds just to pay unsecured creditors upon confirmation.

Q. So how does the plan contemplate paying unsecured creditors?

A. I think in part from cash that was available upon confirmation and then in part from ongoing business operations.

Q. So to the extent that there were not funds available on the date that Acis emerged, creditors would be paid from Acis' future cashflows; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And have Hunton – Hunton Andrews Kurth asked you or requested any information from Acis regarding plan compliance?

A. No, not to my knowledge.

Q. Has Stinson Leonard requested any information from Acis related to plan compliance?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Okay. And to the extent that that information was requested from Hunton or Stinson Leonard or, I guess, Mr. Terry as an individual, would you be amenable to providing that information to them under some – the same or similar terms that you have provided that information to Highland Capital Management?

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

41

1 A. Yes.

2 MS. CHIARELLO: I have no further questions, Your
3 Honor.

4 THE COURT: Any recross, Ms. Lambert?

5 Okay, I think that was a no. Okay.

6 MS. LAMBERT: No, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: I'm trying to figure out do I have a
8 question for Mr. Terry or maybe it's a question for you, Ms.
9 Chiarello. As I was trying to keep track of what litigation was 10 pending versus what is not, there was a reference to adversary
11 proceedings in the Bankruptcy Court. Since I haven't had those 12 before me yet I have not studied them.

13 So could someone tell me – I mean I know about the 14 biggie, if you will, the 34-count adversary proceeding involving 15 Highland and Highland's claims in the alleged fraudulent
16 transfers and whatnot, but are there others? If so, I haven't 17 had reason to study those, so I'd like to know what those 18 involve.

19 MS. CHIARELLO: Yes, Your Honor. There are a few 20 other adversary proceedings that are pending in front of Your 21 Honor. And you haven't – you're not familiar with them because 22 they have largely been stayed or delayed given kind of the 23 posture of the Highland Capital Management bankruptcy case.
24 Those were filed on the eve of the 108 deadline, just to 25 preserve causes of action. So the first of which is what we

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

42

1 have been referring to as the officer adversary. I don't have
2 the case number in front of me, but I can get it for you. And 3 that is asserting similar – a similar factual scenario that's at 4 issue in the big Highland – or the big adversary case that Your 5 Honor is familiar with, but the causes of action are against 6 Acis' former officers and directors, so Mr. Dondero, Mr.
7 Waterhouse, an individual – it's really individuals including
8 some Highland Capital employees. We hope that that is in the 9 midst of being resolved or – to some degree. And I think you –
10 there hasn't been a 9019 filed by Highland Capital Management,
11 so I'm – and I'm not sure where that stands, but I think some of 12 that will be addressed or I'm hopeful some of it will be 13 addressed, and when you are able to see that.

14 And then there is one other adversary pending related
15 to a preference in a fraudulent-transfer claim against Mr.
16 Stinik. Mr. Stinik was a Highland Capital – he had the Highland
17 Capital Management email address but contends that he was a
18 contractor for Acis. The basis of the lawsuit is effectively
19 there is – there was no contract between Mr. Stinik and Acis.
20 And it's a relatively small dollar fraudulent-transfer and 21 preference action, I think it was about $380,000 total. I may 22 be – that may be a little high. But, again, I think – I think
23 that – it's not – it's not before Your Honor today and it's 24 certainly – I believe we're working to move that trial – to a
25 trial date out, but it's really in the discovery phase.

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

43

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, when you were describing
2 the officer adversary proceeding against – or officer and
3 director adversary proceeding against Dondero, Waterhouse, and 4 some Highland employees, I was a little confused. Do you think
5 that has been entirely settled or – because you mentioned the 6 9019 motion. I know that Acis and Highland have resolved your 7 issues, but has this been resolved as well?

8 MS. CHIARELLO: Your Honor, if I may –

9 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, –

10 THE COURT: Oh, Ms. – Ms. Patel is speaking up. She 11 may be the point person on that.

12 MS. PATEL: Yes.

13 THE COURT: Go ahead.

14 MS. PATEL: Yes, Your Honor. If I – if I can chime
15 in. With respect to the settlement. The settlement involves 16 certain of the defendants in the Dondero, et al. adversary, so
17 the nonHighland adversary, but not all of them. There are 18 certain employees who are contemplated to be included as a part 19 of the resolution. Now there are still developments that could 20 happen and that will become a little bit more clear I think when 21 the 9019 is filed. It's anticipated that that 9019 – at least 22 everyone's targeting that to be filed, frankly, today. That 23 might get pushed out. And, just as a full disclosure, it might 24 get pushed out a couple of days, but the parties are working
25 hard to get that 9019 on file. But – so it's a little bit of a

Debtors' Motion to File Redacted Quarterly Reports

44

1 hybrid answer as to what's going to happen with respect to it,
2 but the resolution does not contemplate a full global resolution
3 of the Dondero, et al. lawsuit, it's just a few – a few of the 4 defendants, namely, certain Highland employees.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

6 All right. Well, that – that's really all I had as 7 far as follow-up questions.

8 So thank you, Mr. Terry, we appreciate your testimony
9 today.

10 (Witness excused.)

11 THE COURT: Is there anything else, Ms. Chiarello?

12 MS. CHIARELLO: Just by briefly, Your Honor.

13 I think it's important to highlight that we are here
14 truthfully near – past confirmation, and there is no absolute
15 right for creditors –

16 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, I'm trying to determine have 17 we closed the evidence, so we're submitting closing arguments?

18 THE COURT: Well, I'm trying to determine that as
19 well.

20 Ms. Chiarello, are you having – are you going to have 21 any more evidence?

22 MS. CHIARELLO: No, Your Honor. We rest on the 23 evidence submitted.

24 THE COURT: Okay. So I need to ask Ms. Lambert: Do
25 you have evidence at this time?

Closing Argument on behalf of the Debtors/Movants

45

1 MS. LAMBERT: The U.S. Trustee's evidence has been
2 admitted in the redacted quarterly reports that were admitted in 3 the case in chief of Acis. The U.S. Trustee has no additional 4 evidence. Thank you.

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

6 All right, Ms. Chiarello, you may resume.

7 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTORS/MOVANTS

8 MS. CHIARELLO: I apologize, Your Honor. Again
9 Annemarie Chiarello on behalf of Acis, L.P.

10 I think it's important to note here that we are post
11 confirmation. We are really almost nearly two years post
12 confirmation. And in a situation where a case has been closed
13 pursuant to a final decree, creditors would not have access to 14 this issue – this information. This is not an absolute right of 15 creditor to get this information. Even though that is – that is 16 the case, Acis is absolutely amenable to providing this 17 information to creditors.

18 Our concern is really having it available to 19 litigation counterparties and parties who not only previously
20 sued Acis but have – who have threatened to sue Acis, Brigade, 21 U.S. Bank, and even Moody's, the rating agency. We believe we 22 have met our burden with respect to 107(b). And given that we 23 have demonstrated that the information is confidential, under 24 107(b) the Court does not have discretion to permit this 25 information to be publicized on the docket.

Closing Argument on behalf of the U.S. Trustee

46

1           Like I have said, we have been amenable to Ms. Lambert
2   in providing this information to her in whichever – including
3   whatever revision she would like in the order with respect to 4   her and the United States Trustee having access to this
5   information, our concern is really related to litigation
6   counterparties. And I know that this is very unorthodox and 7   it's not typical for operating reports to be redacted, however
8   this is a very highly specific factual scenario that we don't 9   expect to be the case in other – in other bankruptcies.
10   Typically bankruptcies doesn't result in this type of satellite
11   litigation, and we're well aware of that. And we hope that 12   we're moving forward, where that isn't going to continue to be 13   the case. But given what's already occurred to – for Acis and 14   even though – even though Acis has the ability to defeat some of 15   these frivolous claims or suits filed in Guernsey, this doesn't 16   – we don't want to embolden litigation counterparties with 17   information that they should be able – if they think they're 18   entitled to, they can get a legitimate discovery.

19           So with that, Your Honor, we ask the Court to grant
20   our motion for redact – to redact Acis' quarterly operating 21   reports in a manner consistent with what you have seen of 22   Exhibit B.

23           THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

24           Ms. Lambert, closing argument.

25           CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE U.S. TRUSTEE

Closing Argument on behalf of the U.S. Trustee

47

1 MS. LAMBERT: Yes, Your Honor.

2 On balance, the Court has two components here. One
3 component is the public's access to information, information
4 that is used to evaluate compliance with the Code and the rules
5 and the plan. And both the creditors and the public are 6 entitled to that information.

7 On this side, the debtor, Acis, or the 8 postconfirmation debtor contends that Stinson and Hunton should 9 not knock at their door and ask for information if they need it.
10 Over here we have the component of the contention that the 11 litigation against the debtor or the postconfirmation debtor
12 regarding compliance with the management agreement, compliance
13 with its fiduciary duties and similar, and the side effects for 14 Moody's and for – for other entities is a reason to protect 15 information that normally would be public in the bankruptcy
16 case.

17 The people over here should not have to knock on the 18 door because there is an issue about compliance. Compliance is 19 a requirement of the Bankruptcy Code and rules. And I know that 20 the Court and I have experienced cases both personally and in 21 observe where unfortunately people have gotten involved in 22 ongoing years of litigation.

23 Historically, Mr. Terry and Mr. Dondero and their 24 related entities had a business marriage. Historically, that 25 business marriage has come to an end, but they still have a

The Ruling of the Court

48

1 child together, which is Acis. And the reporting about that
2 child and the financial information about that child does not
3 change the obligation to comply with the legal requirements and 4 to comply with the contractual requirements. If there is
5 litigation that is being filed, it is frivolous. Federal rules
6 and the common law provide remedies for that, including remedies
7 that are sufficient to compensate for that.

8 In addition, even with the third-party litigation, to 9 the extent that it impacts the ability of Acis to do new 10 contracts, there are also mitigation remedies for that. It's 11 unfortunate, but that is the factual situation that we have.
12 That factual situation is nonsufficient to limit the information
13 that is normally publicly required in this context.
14 Alternatively, the United States Trustee requests that the 15 motion be denied in its entirety or, alternatively, that it be 16 tailored in accordance with the prayer and the U.S. Trustee's
17 objection.

18 THE RULING OF THE COURT

19 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

20 Well, we're going – we're going to stop it right here.
21 I think that Mr. Dondero technically did not have standing here
22 today, that I think – I think Mr. Lynn weighed in and explained, 23 you know, that he felt compelled to weigh in on a potentially 24 precedential matter and so he's weighed in, and so we're going
25 to cut it off there.

The Ruling of the Court

49

1 I have found this to be a somewhat tough call, tough
2 decision here today because, on the one hand, it sort of feels
3 like in this context, at this very late juncture of Acis'
4 Chapter 11, there's sort of a no-harm/no-foul situation. We are 5 not only well past, more than a year and a half past
6 confirmation and the effective date, but we only have a couple
7 of creditors left at this point other than Highland and – who 8 gets the information pursuant to an agreement, or at least its 9 professionals and independent board members do and Mr. Terry
10 himself. So it sort of feels a little bit like, eh, if I would 11 grant this motion, there are really likely only a couple of 12 parties-in-interest who are impacted, and they have gotten 13 notice, they haven't weighed in. That is Hunton Andrews Kurth
14 and Stinson. But 107 governs this motion. And, as has been 15 noted, it talks in terms of everything being public record and 16 open to examination to the public without any charge. And the 17 Court can deviate from this public access only on motion of a
18 party to protect a trade secret, or confidential research,
19 development, or commercial information, or to protect a person
20 with respect to scandalous or a defamatory matter contained in a
21 paper filed. So that's the governing statute.

22 So looking at the evidence today, would these 23 quarterly operating reports and the numbers they reflect for 24 receipts and disbursements and whatnot, is this in the nature of 25 any of those elements of 107(b), I don't think it is. The only

The Ruling of the Court

50

1 thing that it might be is commercial information, but I really
2 don't think there's been a showing that it is of the nature that 3 107(b) is intended to address.

4 Now don't get me wrong, I am very troubled by some of 5 what I've heard today. I doubt Mr. Dondero is listening in 6 personally, but I'm going to say, and maybe it will get back to 7 him, maybe it won't, but that I'm very troubled by hearing that 8 Dondero-controlled entities, and I believe the DAF, based on 9 what I've heard in the past, is Dondero controlled, I'm very 10 troubled that Dondero-controlled entities are suing Acis and 11 parties that have dealt with Acis, U.S. Bank, Brigade, and the 12 Moody's one is really mind-boggling, but I'm very troubled that 13 this could be hampering Acis' ability to do a reset and it's 14 driving up expenses.

15 And if these lawsuits were brought before me through a 16 removal or any other mechanism, you know, first, I would have to 17 look at subject matter jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court.
18 Yes, we're way past the effective date of Acis' plan, but the 19 Fifth Circuit case authority provides that if there is a dispute
20 postconfirmation that bears on the interpretation,
21 implementation, or execution of a confirmed plan, then the 22 Bankruptcy Court has subject matter jurisdiction in that 23 context. And it sure sounds like, hearing Mr. Terry's version
24 of things today, which sounded very credible, that this is 25 potentially impinging on the reorganization and plan of Acis.

The Ruling of the Court

51

1           So it's very troubling to me that – well, I've said it
2 before in Highland hearings, that these battles just continue
3 on, but if it's impairing with a plan I confirmed, it's 4 impairing a plan I confirmed, it's impairing the ability to 5 perform under that plan, then that is a problem for the 6 plaintiffs.

7           Now I've heard there is no pending litigation in that 8 regard, but I'm troubled by the April 2020 letter I saw that is 9 essentially a suggestion we may start this up again, the 10 litigation that we dismissed. It's just ridiculous, for lack of 11 a better term, that Dondero and his entities would be doing some 12 of the things it sounds like they're doing: Suing Moody's, for 13 crying out loud, for not downgrading the Acis CLOs. If Mr.
14 Dondero doesn't think that is so transparently vexatious
15 litigation, yeah, I'm going out there and saying that. I
16 haven't seen it, but, come on.

17           So, bottom line, I don't find the 107 standard here is 18 met today, so I am denying entirely the motion. I haven't been 19 convinced that this is commercial information that 107(b)
20 justifies redacting or sealing. But, again, I am most troubled
21 by what I've heard today.

22           I have found Mr. Terry to be a very credible witness
23 today on these points. He's testified in this Court many times
24 and I continue to find him a very credible witness.

25           And so to the extent Mr. Dondero is listening or gets

The Ruling of the Court

52

1 a transcript, I hope it's loud and clear to him that to the 2 extent you are engaging in efforts surreptitious or overt to
3 derail Acis in its reorganization, there is going to be a price
4 to pay for that. So I hope that message gets to him.

5 Very troubled, very troubled by what I've heard today.

6 All right. Well, I think that concludes our business
7 here today. Is there anything else anyone wants to raise?

8 MS. LAMBERT: Judge Jernigan, Ms. Lambert for the U.S.
9 Trustee. Would you like me to prepare an order just as for the 10 reasons stated?

11 THE COURT: I would like you to do that. Thank you
12 very much. All right.

13 MS. LAMBERT: And I think I will order the — I think I
14 will order the transcript and have it sent to Mr. Lynn.

15 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - JUNE 30, 2020 - 9:37 A.M.

2 THE CLERK: All rise.

3 THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. This is 4 Judge Jernigan, and I am ready to start our Highland setting.
5 Let me start by getting appearances. I see Mr. Kane there on 6 the video for our Movant this morning on for CLO Holdco. Is 7 that correct?

8 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you.

9 THE COURT: Good morning. All right. Who do we have 10 for the Debtor? Do we have Mr. Pomerantz or others from the 11 Pachulski firm?

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. It's 13 Jeff Pomerantz and John Morris, and also on the phone is Greg 14 Demo, on behalf of the Debtors.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

16 MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Good morning to all of you. All right.
18 What about for the Unsecured Creditors' Committee? Do we have 19 Mr. Clemente or Ms. Reid or others?

20 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor.
21 Matthew Clemente from Sidley Austin on behalf of the
22 Creditors' Committee.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

24 MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning.

25 THE COURT: All right. I'll just say, do we have

24 we've actually worked very well together. CLO Holdco has had 25 a pretty open discourse with Committee's counsel and got on

1 the phone yesterday to go through any final evidentiary
2 issues, and then had some follow-up late last night. And so
3 what we'd like to announce to the Court is that there's a
4 stipulation to the admissibility of all of the exhibits in 5 both parties' witness and exhibit list.

6 THE COURT: All right.

7 MR. KANE: And on top of that, there are a number of 8 factual stipulations. And I can walk through that on our kind
9 of case-in-chief presentation, or we can walk through that 10 now, either way, whichever is most convenient for the Court.

11 The actual stipulations are largely related to what is and 12 isn't a dispute in this hearing.

13 So, the Committee has stipulated that, for the purposes of 14 this hearing, there is no contest about the amount in 15 controversy. CLO Holdco is claiming that it is entitled to 16 the full amount of the funds in the registry, and there's 17 really no dispute about the amount that CLO Holdco is 18 asserting its interest in. There's no accounting concerns
19 here.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. KANE: There is also a stipulation for the 22 purposes of this hearing that I do believe bears reading into 23 the record, and I'd like to do that on the case-in-chief, just 24 to make sure that everything is clear, we're not overstating
25 or understating any party's position.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 8 of 100

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. KANE: But, in summary of that, there's really no
3 dispute that, upon CLO's obtaining the interests in the 4 Dynamic and AROF Funds, it did not, after obtaining them,
5 later transfer that interest to any other party.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. KANE: And then, finally, Your Honor, this was 8 reached late last night: There is a stipulation between the 9 parties for the purposes of this hearing to a statement made
10 by the Debtor in a footnote that essentially states that there
11 was a transfer of a note from the Dugaboy Trust, it's a note
12 payable owed by the Dugaboy Trust, to the Get Good Trust, that 13 that $24 million note was transferred to the Debtor, and that 14 the principal paid down on that note has reduced the 15 obligation from about $24 million to about $17.5 million in 16 principal obligations, and that the Dugaboy Investment Trust
17 has been paying amounts due and owing under that note to the 18 Debtor. We'll go into a little bit more detail about why
19 that's relevant in our case-in-chief and in our closing
20 argument.

21 THE COURT: All right.

22 MR. KANE: I think the way we'd like to proceed, Your 23 Honor, is each side provide an opening statement, and then
24 we'll transition to showing our case-in-chief and kind of a
25 walk-through of the evidence, and then a closing argument to

1 kind of draw things to a conclusion, Your Honor.

2 I will say that, given the stipulation reached last night
3 on the payments on the Dugaboy Trust, we do not believe that 4 the testimony of Mr. David Klos is going to be necessary any 5 longer.

6 THE COURT: All right. Let me recap a couple of 7 things. First, there was the stipulation as to the 8 admissibility of each other's exhibits. The Movant's
9 exhibits, your exhibits, Mr. Kane, were filed at Docket Entry
10 No. 782, so that's where I'm going to look today as exhibits
11 are referenced.

12 Now, I know there were some sealed documents in the list
13 of exhibits. I show Exhibits 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, and 16 are 14 actually under seal. All right.

15 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: So, then turning to the Creditors'
17 Committee, their exhibits are at Docket Entry No. 789 on 18 PACER. They have three exhibits.

19 So those are the exhibits for the record that we're 20 talking about, correct?

21 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor.

22 MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

24 And then the last thing I wanted to clarify is your 25 comment about there's no contest about the amount in

1 controversy. So, dollars and cents, are we talking about
2 $1,516,354.38 related to the Dynamic Fund and then $898,075.53
3 regarding the Argentina Fund?

4 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Very good.

6 MR. KANE: John Kane for CLO. Yes, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. All right. Well, you
8 may make your opening statement.

9 MR. KANE: Thank you, Your Honor.

10 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF CLO HOLDCO, LTD.

11 MR. KANE: So, I would like to begin with just making 12 sure that we have -- we've set the stage for this dispute as 13 well as I can here. I want to look at, Your Honor, the 14 requests for relief that are before this Court.

15 So, CLO has requested that this Court remit funds from its 16 registry. And there is no other (inaudible) request for leave
17 by any other party.

18 There is no adversary proceeding against CLO Holdco filed
19 by the Committee. There are no claims or causes of action of 20 any kind asserted by the Committee. There is no objection to 21 CLO Holdco's proof of claim on file. There is no motion for a 22 prejudgment writ of attachment, and there is no motion by the 23 Committee for an injunction. And we'd argue that that would 24 be procedurally improper anyway.

25 The only thing that the Committee has done is objected to

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 11 of 100

11

1 this Court's release of funds from the registry to CLO Holdco.

2 Your Honor, this is a -- this is a registry dispute. This
3 is a dispute under Title 28 of the United States Code, Section
4 2042. And under that statute, CLO Holdco has the burden of 5 proof here to show by a preponderance of evidence that it has 6 a valid legal claim to the funds in the registry of the Court.

7 So, how does it prove by a preponderance of the evidence
8 that it has that claim? Courts looking at this issue show
9 that CLO Holdco has to show that it has title to the funds, it
10 has to provide evidence of ownership, and it has to show proof
11 that that claim is current. In other words, it's not an 12 unliquidated claim, it's not a claim that's been transferred 13 to somebody else or that's possessed by some other party.

14 So, Your Honor, what is the evidence going to show in this 15 case? And as we walk you through our case-in-chief, we think 16 it's going to be very clear that the evidence will show that 17 CLO Holdco obtained an interest in what we are going to refer 18 to as the Dynamic and the AROF Funds. Those interests are 19 evidenced by executed subscription agreements. Once they were 20 in CLO Holdco's possession, those interests weren't 21 transferred to any other party.

22 The Dynamic and the AROF Funds were liquidated. The 23 Debtor accounted for CLO Holdco's interests in those funds.
24 The Debtor sought to distribute those funds to CLO Holdco.
25 There is no dispute over the amount of CLO Holdco's liquidated

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 12 of 100

12

1 interests in those funds. And now CLO Holdco is seeking a
2 request for the remittance of those funds from the registry of
3 the Court.

4 Your Honor, our evidence will completely establish that 5 CLO Holdco has a claim, a valid, legal claim well beyond the 6 preponderance of the evidence standard.

7 Your Honor, those, the facts, the evidence that proves up
8 each of those elements are not subject to any objection and 9 are not refuted.

10 Based on that evidence, Your Honor, the bigger question to 11 CLO Holdco is why are fighting in this contested matter? We 12 have to look to the Committee's objection here. What are they 13 really arguing?

14 The Committee's argument is essentially a guilt-by-
15 association argument. There's a suggestion in the Committee's 16 objections that James Dondero did bad things. CLO Holdco is 17 this related entity, and so it must have done bad things, too.
18 The Committee needs time to investigate potential claims and 19 causes of action, and because CLO Holdco is a Cayman entity,
20 any judgment that it might hypothetically obtain in the future
21 will be uncollectable unless these funds are seized and held 22 in the registry of the Court and used as a surety against that 23 later hypothetical judgment.

24 So, Your Honor, this is an evidentiary hearing, and what
25 we would ask the Court to do is scrutinize the evidence.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 13 of 100

13

1           So, what is the Committee's evidence likely to show?
2       Well, there are only three exhibits submitted by the 3       Committee. One of them is the Acis opinion that you issued on 4       the involuntary file. The second is the Acis opinion you
5       issued confirming the plan of reorganization in that case.
6       And those two opinions combine for a grand total of two total
7       references to CLO Holdco. And the third exhibit proposed by 8       the Committee is a transcript of the March hearing on the 9       distribution motion, in which there really were no evidentiary
10      issues addressed associated with CLO Holdco at all.

11           So the better question becomes, Your Honor, what elements
12      is missing? And as we go through our case-in-chief, we'd ask
13      you to consider the following. The Committee will provide no
14      evidence that it pursued any discovery from CLO Holdco in the 15      ten weeks since CLO Holdco filed its motion for remittance of 16      funds from the registry. There were no follow-up questions
17      asserted by the Committee in response to CLO Holdco's
18      deposition by written questions and David Klos' responses to 19      those questions. The Committee did not subpoena any witness
20      to testify at this hearing, and they've presented no evidence
21      of wrongdoing by CLO Holdco. And finally, the Committee will 22      show that there is no evidence whatsoever regarding CLO's
23      ability to satisfy a money judgment, should the Committee
24      obtain that judgment in the future.

25           So, if we look at the scope of the evidence that's

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 14 of 100

14

1 presented by the parties in this case, we have CLO Holdco
2 presenting overwhelming evidence of a present valid legal
3 claim to the funds in the registry of the Court, and no
4 evidence submitted by the Committee to refute that fact, and 5 no claim for affirmative relief by the Committee or any 6 evidence that would be necessary to prove up any claim for 7 relief.

8 So, Your Honor, based on the evidence that you will hear
9 today, we ask that this Court deny the Committee's objection
10 and grant CLO Holdco's motion.

11 You will see that there is no evidence supporting any kind
12 of injunction or prejudgment writ of attachment, and that the 13 -- that CLO Holdco has satisfied its burden of proof by a
14 preponderance of the evidence to show ownership of the funds
15 in the registry that this Court holds as a statutory trustee
16 for its benefit.

17 Thank you.

18 THE COURT: All right. I am going to interject
19 something here. I'm glad that the March 4, 2020 transcript is 20 part of the evidence here, because I have to say -- I had 21 wanted to go back and look at that, and had not done it, and 22 this is why -- your words, Mr. Kane, were, Why are we fighting
23 this contested matter? I have to say, I had the same reaction
24 myself, but with a slightly different spin on it. I thought
25 this was a pragmatic solution that everyone agreed to on March

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 15 of 100

15

1 4th. I don't think CLO Holdco, Ltd., your client, made a
2 formal appearance at the hearing on March 4th, but I take it
3 you all got notice of the hearing.

4 Tell me why so quickly we're revisiting this issue.
5 That's the way I look at it. Maybe my perspective is not 6 accurate and you're going to tell me it's not accurate. But 7 it feels like to me we just were here on this issue with the 8 Debtor's own motion filed February 24, wanting a court order
9 blessing these disbursements to affiliated or potentially 10 insider parties who were due to receive these funds, and then 11 things just sort of evolved at the March 4th hearing where 12 everyone would agree that the money -- I guess at least the 13 money that was owed to your client, as well as Highland 14 Capital Management Services, Inc. -- would be kept in the 15 registry of the Court, just as a placeholder. Okay? So 16 that's the perspective I come in with. That is my memory of 17 what happened. Tell me why I'm not seeing it the way you're 18 seeing it.

19 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. For the record, John 20 Kane for CLO Holdco. I'd be happy to address the Court's
21 question.

22 That motion was filed seeking relief on essentially an 23 expedited basis.

24 I'm sorry. I don't know if I cut out there. I had a
25 little glitch on my screen.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 16 of 100

1 But that hearing sought relief, in essence, on an
2 expedited basis, and drew a vehement objection from both the 3 Committee and also the Acis parties, Mr. Terry and the like.

4 When we looked at that issue, we determined that there was
5 likely a reasonable solution. CLO Holdco's representative,
6 Grant Scott, had conversations with Judge Nelms, one of the 7 Independent Directors for the Debtor, discussing the 8 resolution of a -- of a proposal that would resolve some of 9 what we understood to be the Debtor's concerns about its 10 duties to distribute those funds.

11 It would not be a permanent solution. At least, that was 12 our understanding. Putting funds into the registry of the 13 Court would preserve the issue of CLO Holdco showing this 14 Court that it had a legal entitlement to those funds, as 15 opposed to proceeding with some dispute over the technical 16 merits of the Debtor's right or need legally to distribute 17 those funds to the parties.

18 So we felt like it was a reasonable remedy to satisfy the 19 Debtor's concerns and also to satisfy the Committee's 20 concerns. The Committee would have an opportunity to continue
21 discovery and to take discovery following the filing of that 22 motion, as we sought to prove to this Court that we have a
23 right to the funds, to dispel any concerns that the Court
24 might have.

25 And frankly, Your Honor, I think that there is some case

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 17 of 100

1 law out there that would suggest that you had a right to
2 deposit the funds in the registry of the Court. So we didn't
3 think that there was any issue whatsoever with depositing the 4 funds in the registry, understanding that that would allow us
5 an opportunity to prove to you at a later date that we had a
6 right to remove those funds from the registry.

7 And Your Honor, I'm happy to try and dig through it real
8 quick, but there's language in the transcript that talks about 9 the preservation of the rights of the parties whose funds
10 would be pled into the registry to then go seek the funds out
11 of the registry as part of that agreement. So that's exactly
12 what we're doing. The issue here for us, Your Honor, is that 13 we can establish our burden of proof that we have a right to 14 these funds.

15 I understand that the Committee had concerns. Right? I
16 mean, they're a little bit in the same position as the Debtor.
17 I understand, as a practitioner, why the Committee had reason
18 to want to scrutinize the transactions involving CLO Holdco as 19 a related entity. That doesn't mean that they have a 20 (inaudible) right to preclude those distributions, and that's 21 why we're here.

22 So we've now had ten weeks for the Committee to perform
23 discovery, to heavily scrutinize the nature of the 24 transactions involving CLO Holdco. Leading up to this 25 presentation to the Court of our evidence that we have a legal

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 18 of 100

18

1 and factual right to have these funds back out of the registry
2 under Title 28 of the U.S. Code, the Committee didn't do any
3 discovery at all on these issues. At least, not to CLO
4 Holdco.

5 So we believe that we're here trying to show the Court,
6 okay, we want to dispel the Court's concerns. The Committee
7 has had an opportunity to scrutinize these transactions. But 8 we'd like our money. There are operational needs and the 9 like. We would like to have our funds. And we believe that,
10 unequivocally, the funds that are in the registry of the Court
11 are CLO Holdco's. They're not subject to a claim of any other 12 party.

13 So that, Your Honor, is why we've submitted our motion
14 seeking a recovery of the funds from the registry.

15 THE COURT: All right. So, I think what I hear you
16 saying is that on March 4th you all were agreeable to this
17 money being put into the registry of the Court, but everyone
18 understood that you were, pretty promptly after March 4th,
19 going to file a motion to get an adjudication on why you
20 should get these funds. Is that what you're saying?

21 MR. KANE: What I'm saying, Your Honor, is, at the 22 time, we didn't have any problem with the funds being pled
23 into the registry of the Court, understanding that we had 24 reserved our right to later seek the funds from the registry.

25 THE COURT: Well, --

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 19 of 100

19

1 MR. KANE: I'm not sure --

2 THE COURT: -- again, I --

3 MR. KANE: I'm not sure what the commitment says.

4 THE COURT: Maybe I'm splitting hairs, but we were 5 here in March, and then April 15th you file the motion. And,
6 you know, I'm -- it just -- I guess I'm trying to understand.
7 You know, we were here to litigate this in March, and then
8 this, you know, kind of status quo agreement was reached. And 9 then a month later, about a month later, you're filing the 10 motion to tee up the issue all over again.

11 It's just -- it's not what I anticipated. Yes, I knew 12 everyone was reserving their rights, but it wasn't what I was 13 anticipating. You know, if I had known a month later that one
14 of the parties who was agreeing to this was going to be filing
15 a motion, I would have just said, you know, why don't we do
16 this today.

17 So, again, I'm asking: Am I just misremembering this?
18 Did everyone but me have a clear idea that, pretty promptly
19 after March 4th, you all were going to ask to come back on,
20 you know, a non-expedited basis for the Court to adjudicate
21 what was already teed up that day to be adjudicated?

22 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, the --

23 MR. KANE: Your Honor, I can't speak to the other
24 parties' understanding.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Clemente was kind of raising

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 20 of 100

20

1 his hand to speak up.

2 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes.

3 THE COURT: Am I going down a trail here that I'm the 4 only --

5 MR. CLEMENTE: No.

6 THE COURT: -- I'm the only one --

7 MR. CLEMENTE: No, you're not.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Clemente?

9 MR. CLEMENTE: No. No, you're not, Your Honor. I
10 have a couple comments, and I have much more to say,
11 obviously. But just direct on what Your Honor said: Nothing
12 has changed since March 4th. I think that is fair to say.
13 And interestingly, in the initial motion, you know, this idea
14 of the 28 U.S. 2042 governing and it becoming a simple issue
15 of taking the time regarding amounts or ownership of the money
16 in the registry was not raised in the motion. So I found that 17 kind of interesting.

18 But I was before you, Your Honor. And you'll recall on 19 March 4th that -- that's absolutely not. I thought what we 20 were doing was merely preserving the status quo for some 21 period of time, which is what I believe Your Honor is 22 suggesting that she recalls as well.

23 It would have been, I think, a little counterintuitive for 24 us to have all been there, ready to do that litigation, and 25 then decide to put something in the registry, and then have

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 21 of 100

1 the argument that you can't look at the Bankruptcy Code to
2 determine whether the money should come out of the registry or 3 not, and then be back in front of you, you know, three or four 4 weeks later to relitigate any of those issues.

5 So that was absolutely my recollection and understanding,
6 Your Honor, and I think from your comments I intuit that it
7 was your understanding as well, that this was not something
8 that we were going to deal with again very quickly, but was 9 something to preserve the status quo, a reasonable solution,
10 an equitable solution under Section 105. And I believe that's 11 what Your Honor ordered.

12 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'll let you go ahead
13 and make your opening statement. I think Mr. Kane was 14 finished before I started asking my questions.

15 MR. CLEMENTE: Okay.

16 THE COURT: Mr. Clemente, you may proceed.

17 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor. I appreciate
18 that. So, and I'll try and be brief on the opening.

19 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE OFFICIAL COMMITTEE OF
20 UNSECURED CREDITORS

21 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, like it or not, CLO Holdco
22 is not an independent, unrelated, third-party investor merely 23 seeking distributions on account of its own arm's-length
24 independent investments. Instead, CLO is a related party in 25 literally every sense of the word. That's not in dispute.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 22 of 100

22

1 That is part of the Jim Dondero or Mr. Dondero web of
2 entities.

3 CLO Holdco is effectively controlled by Mr. Dondero. It
4 was seeded and received assets transferred from the Debtor,
5 including the assets giving rise to the distribution that's in 6 the registry. None of that is in dispute. All of this at a
7 time when Mr. Dondero controlled the Debtor as well as the 8 parties through the various intermediate transactions that 9 ultimately resulted in the assets arriving in CLO Holdco.
10 That is not in dispute.

11 Mr. Dondero's past fraudulent conduct, including
12 fraudulent transfers, is also not in dispute. He was on all
13 sides of this transaction. And therefore this transaction,
14 along with many of the others, must be viewed with skepticism
15 and scrutinized very closely by the Committee and by this
16 Court.

17 The Committee has only just begun such work, Your Honor.
18 And given the Byzantine empire created by Mr. Dondero, it will 19 take time and significant resources to fully and properly
20 conduct an investigation.

21 And Mr. Kane referred to, did we do discovery? We did
22 not. Our reaction to this motion was the same as Your Honor.
23 And as you can see by the stipulations that we have agreed to 24 for purposes of this hearing, we didn't want this to be a 25 situation where the estate would spend a tremendous amount of 23

1 resources to deal with something that we thought that was
2 dealt with on March 4th.

3 But aside from that, given the web that's been created
4 here, we can't just isolate one piece of it. We can't just be 5 like, I'm going to look at the CLO Holdco documents and be 6 able to develop a full theory. This is a tapestry of 7 interrelated entities that is opaque and vague and purposely
8 so. So you can't just focus on one piece and then try and 9 say, well, I know what this piece is, because that piece has 10 many interrelated complex ramifications and relationships
11 where, frankly, you can't just say, okay, let's focus on this 12 one issue, because you're going to miss the entire tapestry.

13 We still need to examine, as I mentioned, the whole thing,
14 and this takes time and it takes an investment. So while I
15 understand CLO Holdco wants to receive its distribution, I 16 also understand that my constituency wants to be paid, some of 17 whom have been waiting for over a decade.

18 To be clear, Your Honor, my constituency didn't choose to 19 be here in the bankruptcy. But CLO Holdco chose to associate 20 itself with Mr. Dondero and to take assets from Highland in 21 convoluted related-party transactions and reap the benefits of 22 those transactions. CLO Holdco can't now step away from that 23 and try and suggest to Your Honor that this is about taking 24 time under 28 U.S.C. 2042. That was never what it was about 25 on March 4th, and it's not what it's about today.

24

1           Instead, it's about the overall situation and why we find
2 ourselves here.

3           And Your Honor, I'm here to tell you, I think, and I
4 believe Your Honor would agree, that the Bankruptcy Code and
5 Section 105 and all the other provisions of the Code are alive
6 and well in this courtroom, despite the distribution being put 7 into the registry on March 4th.

8           You clearly found you had the authority under Section 105
9 to hold the funds, nothing has changed in the intervening
10 time, and therefore the funds should remain in the registry.

11           This is not a dispute under, you know, 28 U.S.C 2042 about 12 ownership, again, or where somebody pleads an amount in the 13 registry to let other people argue that they actually owned 14 the money. This was always about preserving the estate and 15 maintaining the status quo.

16           Such a result might be unfair if it was a different party,
17 but CLO is a related party controlled by Mr. Dondero. It's 18 not an unaffiliated party.

19           So, from our perspective, the motion should be denied,
20 Your Honor.

21           THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

22           I assume no one else has an opening statement because 23 there were no other pleadings filed regarding this motion.

24           All right. Mr. Kane, let's turn to your evidence.

25           MR. KANE: Thank you, Your Honor. I'll tell you

1 what. Just to make sure that we're hitting on the issue that
2 was out in front of this Court a moment ago, I'd like to start
3 by just directing the Court's attention to the Committee's
4 Exhibit 3 or Exhibit C, which is a transcript of that hearing
5 from March.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. KANE: And Your Honor, Page 119, Lines 4 through 8 11, are your statements about what you were doing entering the 9 order. And you know, when the funds are being pled into the 10 registry of the Court, but I do think the Court has broad
11 equitable powers to remedy, to fashion remedies that preserve
12 the status quo. And I think it is appropriate here to order
13 that most of this money, that most of the $8.6 million that 14 would go to related investors in these three Funds -- this is 15 the important part -- be put into the registry of the Court
16 pending further motions, orders, adversary proceedings anyone
17 wants to file to make a claim to that money.

18 So, Your Honor, that's what we did. We -- the rights were 19 reserved. CLO Holdco made a motion, filed its essentially
20 claim to the money that's in the registry of the Court.

21 So, Your Honor, I'd like now to just briefly walk through
22 the exhibits, because I think it's important to understand
23 exactly what CLO Holdco's claim to the funds really is.

24 So, Your Honor, first, I'd like to move for the admission
25 of CLO Holdco's Exhibits 1 through 16 and all subparts.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 26 of 100

26

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, I understood earlier
2 there is a stipulation to the admissibility of these. So, for 3 the record, I am admitting CLO Exhibits 1 through 16 in their 4 entirety, and they appear at Docket Entry 782. All right?

5 MR. KANE: Thank you, Your Honor.

6 (CLO Holdco's Exhibits 1 through 16 are received into 7 evidence.)

8 MR. KANE: Your Honor, Exhibit 1A is the Highland
9 Capital Loan Fund, LP subscription agreement. Now, this 10 subscription agreement is in the amount of $2,032,183.24 and 11 is dated December 28, 2016.

12 You'll notice that CLO Holdco obtains an interest in the 13 Highland Capital I Fund through a transfer in kind. Schedule
14 1 to Exhibit 1A shows the progression of this interest,
15 admittedly, from the Debtor to the Get Good Trust down through 16 a series of charitable entities, through the Charitable DAF,
17 to CLO Holdco.

18 Your Honor, Exhibit 1B, we've included just make sure
19 everybody's on the same page. The Highland Capital Loan Fund,
20 LP, in which H -- CLO had the subscription interest, had a 21 name change to essentially what we were referring to as the 22 Dynamic Fund. It was changed to Highland Dynamic Income Fund,
23 LP. So when there are references to the Highland Capital Loan
24 Fund subscription, it's really a reference to the subscription
25 in the Dynamic Fund.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 27 of 100

27

1 Exhibit 1C is Highland Argentina Regional Opportunity Fund
2 Limited subscription documents. This is a $2.5 million
3 subscription dated June 6, 2018, showing that CLO Holdco
4 obtained its $2-1/2 million subscription in the AROF Fund by 5 payment.

6 Exhibit 1D is a NAV statement dated November 11, 2019
7 showing CLO Holdco's interest in the Dynamic Fund totaled
8 $1.689 million and change.

9 Exhibit 1E is the NAV statement from December 31, 2019
10 from the AROF Fund showing that CLO Holdco's interests in that 11 fund were valued at $918,905.82.

12 Exhibits 1F and 1G are the investment management
13 agreements for Dynamic and AROF. And then Exhibits 1H and 1I
14 are the Dynamic LP agreement and the AROF LP agreement.

15 We can skim over Exhibits -- well, actually, I'd like to 16 point to Exhibit 2 and note that there are no (inaudible)
17 related to any CLO Holdco wrongdoing in the Committee's (audio 18 gap) to the -- CLO Holdco's motion for remittance of funds
19 held in the registry of the Court.

20 Also, on Paragraph 10, the Committee acknowledges that, in 21 exchange for the transfer of the Dynamic interests, the Get 22 Good Trust transferred the Dugaboy Trust note of about $24
23 million.

24 And in Paragraphs 17 and 18, the Committee acknowledges
25 that it had been pursuing discovery on CLO Holdco obtaining

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 28 of 100

28

1 interests in the Dynamic Fund since early February.

2 Your Honor, Exhibit 3 is CLO Holdco's reply to the 3 Committee. Exhibit 4 is the notice of hearing. Exhibit 5 is 4 the Debtor's February 4th -- or, 24th distribution motion.
5 And Your Honor, we have a stipulation between the Committee
6 and CLO Holdco for the sake of this hearing to the facts
7 included in Footnote 7.

8 So, in Footnote 7, the Debtor states, I'll read it into 9 the record for the Court:

10 The limited partnership interests in Dynamic held by 11 CLOH, CLO Holdco, were originally held by the Debtor.
12 The Debtor transferred those interests to the Get 13 Good Nonexempt Trust, defined as Get Good, on 14 December 28, 2016, in exchange for 97.6835 percent of 15 Get Good's interest in a promissory note in the 16 original principal amount of approximately $24
17 million issued by the Dugaboy Investment Trust. Get 18 Good subsequently transferred its interests in 19 Dynamic to Highland Dallas Foundation, which 20 transferred those interests to CLO Holdco. The 21 Dugaboy Investment Trust has been paying amounts due
22 and owing under the $24 million note, and the current 23 principal amount is approximately $17.5 million.

24 Your Honor, that's an important fact, and I'll get to that 25 in just a moment. But one of the reasons why that's an

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 29 of 100

29

1 important fact is the Dugaboy Investment Trust note is 2 actually (audio gap) note with a balloon payment due at 3 maturity. So, paydown of the principal means that the Dugaboy
4 Trust is actually paying Highland Dallas Foundation principal
5 payments on that note, despite not having a strict contractual
6 obligation to do so until the maturity date, which expires in 7 another 16 years. So it's been paying principal that it
8 doesn't have to pay, and interest on the note, which was 9 exchanged for the Dynamic and other interests transferred to 10 the Get Good Trust.

11 Your Honor, the next exhibit is Exhibit 6. This is the 12 Committee objection to the distribution motion. We'd also 13 note that there is no reference to any bad acts by the 14 Committee alleged against CLO Holdco other than simply having 15 a relationship with James Dondero and the fact that its 16 investments were managed by Highland. And that's included in 17 Paragraph 11 of that pleading.

18 7 is the Debtor's reply to the Committee's objection.

19 8 is the Debtor's responses to CLO Holdco's deposition by 20 written question. Your Honor, this has been stipulated as 21 admissible in full by the Committee. And we think that this 22 is important because, starting on Page 7 of this exhibit,
23 David Klos, the chief accountant -- or, the chief accounting
24 officer of Highland Capital Management, LP, the Debtor, walks
25 through the Debtor's means for determining ownership, the

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 30 of 100

30

1 accounting for interests, the liquidation of Funds, and
2 determining amounts due from the proceeds of those Funds to 3 CLO Holdco for both the Dynamic and the AROF Funds.

4 So, again, Your Honor, the Committee is not stipulating
5 that the Debtor has appropriately performed this function and
6 that the amounts that are purportedly due from the Debtor's
7 liquidation of these Funds to the Committee is accurate.

8 Number 9, Your Honor, is a stipulation regarding CLO
9 Holdco's lack of a transfer of any interests in Dynamic and 10 the AROF Funds.

11 I noted for Your Honor at the beginning of my open that 12 this was a stipulation I really did want to read into the 13 record. I want to be fair to the Committee, and there are 14 some limitations on this stipulation. So what I'd like to do
15 is read this, then. This is an email statement from Allison
16 Stromberg of Sidley on behalf of the Committee. And Mr.
17 Clemente is cc'd on this email dated June 22, 2020: "With a 18 few edits, we can agree to the stipulation for the purposes of 19 the June 30 hearing." And this is the edited version that Ms.
20 Stromberg proposed:

21 "The Committee and CLO stipulate to the following,
22 solely for the purposes of this hearing. Grant Scott
23 represented to the Committee that CLO Holdco, Ltd.
24 did not, after obtaining the disputed interests in 25 the entities commonly referred to as the Dynamic and

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 31 of 100

31

1 the AROF Funds, transfer those interests to any other
2 party. The Committee, solely for the purposes of 3 this hearing, does not contest that assertion and 4 stipulates to that fact. This stipulation shall not
5 be binding on the Committee in any future proceedings
6 and shall not have any preclusive effect against the 7 Committee in any future disputes, contested matters,
8 adversary proceedings, or other legal matters between 9 the Committee and CLO or any other party. Further,
10 this stipulation shall not in any way preclude or 11 limit the Committee from asserting claims or causes
12 of action against CLO in the future, including but 13 not limited to claims challenging the validity of 14 CLO's disputed interest and/or transactions through 15 which CLO Holdco obtained such disputed interests or 16 claims to avoid and recover such disputed interests
17 in the Dynamic and AROF Funds or their proceeds."

18 Your Honor, for the sake of this hearing, no dispute that 19 when CLO obtained those interests, it didn't transfer them to 20 any other party.

21 Exhibit 10 includes another stipulation between 22 Committee's counsel and CLO Holdco's counsel. And this 23 relates to some of the exhibits that are already in the 24 record. And for that, Your Honor, we can skim over this.

25 When the motion was initially filed, we had a signature

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 32 of 100

32

1 page issue on one of the exhibits and a metadata strip on
2 another exhibit that we corrected. We provided the corrected
3 exhibits to the Committee. The corrected exhibits were 4 included with this motion. And it's noted in our witness and 5 exhibit list which corrected exhibits those are. They'll be 6 1A and 1C.

7 Exhibit 11, Your Honor, is an important exhibit for us.
8 And we would direct the Court's attention to Page 3 of this
9 exhibit. So, on Page 3, there is a list of debits and credits
10 associated with the Highland Argentina Regional Opportunity
11 Fund statement of accounts -- essentially, a bank statement
12 from June 6, 2018 to June 30, 2018.

13 You'll note, Your Honor, that there is an incoming source,
14 an incoming wire transfer from CLO Holdco, Ltd., which 15 credited the AROF account by $2.5 million. That's the date of 16 this subscription agreement, Your Honor, and it's consistent
17 with the subscription agreement statement that shows that CLO
18 Holdco obtained a subscription in the AROF Fund by a wire
19 transfer. So it's not a transfer from Highland of the 20 interests like it was with the Dynamic Fund.

21 Exhibit 12, Your Honor, is a purchase and sale agreement.
22 Now, this is an exchange between the Get Good Trust and the 23 Debtor. It's dated December 28, 2016. And I'll talk about 24 this a little bit in our closing argument, but I did want to 25 just have a brief walk through this. Under this purchase and

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 33 of 100

33

1 sale agreement, there is an exchange. This is not a one-sided
2 agreement that denudes the Debtor of assets without anything
3 in return. This exhibits shows that the Debtor receives the 4 Get Good interests in the Dugaboy note, which was
5 approximately a $24 million note. In exchange, Get Good
6 received about $23 million worth of various interests. It
7 received a $2.032 million interest in the Highland Loan Fund.
8 And Your Honor, if you'll recall, that's the Dynamic Fund. It
9 received certain American Airlines call options that had a
10 fair market value at the time of about $8.7 million. And then 11 it received various participation interests in Highland's
12 interests in the Crusader Funds, which had a fair market value
13 at the time of about $12.6 million.

14 Now, Exhibit A, which is internally attached to Exhibit
15 12, is a copy of the Dugaboy note. And that, Your Honor,
16 shows that this was an interest-only note, about $2.75 percent
17 interest, with the principal due on a 20-year term. So,
18 annual interest payments, principal due at a later date, and 19 there was no prepayment penalty on principal. So, Your Honor,
20 you've seen that the principal was paid down at least about 21 $6-1/2 million, in addition to other interest payments made
22 under the terms of that note. So the Debtor did receive 23 consideration in exchange.

24 Exhibit 13 is an amendment to that purchase and sale
25 agreement. And we included this as what we call a full

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 34 of 100

34

1 disclosure agreement. There is an adjustment to the deal
2 terms in which the call options are revoked, and instead of 3 the Get Good Trust receiving the call options in the American
4 Airlines stock, it received participation interests. There's 5 no adjustment to the Dugaboy note, and there's no adjustment
6 to the Crusader interests that were transferred.

7 Your Honor, Exhibit 14, this is also just a full
8 disclosure exhibit. This shows that the Get Good Trust was 9 identifying as a trust beneficiary the Highland Dallas
10 Foundation, to make, in essence, the charitable donation that 11 would then be pushed down to the Charitable DAF and then
12 invested by CLO Holdco.

13 Exhibit 15 is the Dynamic Fund side letter exhibit dated 14 January 10, 2017. And this really is included to show, in the 15 last "Whereas," Your Honor, the series of transfers from the 16 Debtor to the Get Good Trust down to CLO Holdco and how CLO
17 Holdco came to acquire the interests in the Dynamic Fund.

18 And finally, Your Honor, is Exhibit 16. We think this is 19 an important exhibit for a number of reasons. First, the 20 Debtor disclosed in correspondence with CLO Holdco and the 21 Committee that this exhibit was produced in November of 2019
22 by the Debtor to the Committee. I notice that the Bates stamp
23 was a significantly lower number than the rest of the exhibits
24 we received in our discovery request.

25 But this document shows a number of important facts. If

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 35 of 100

35

1 you look at Page 2, Your Honor, this shows that the
2 consolidated balance sheet for Highland Capital Management, LP
3 showed a net -- a positive net worth at the time of about $418
4 million. And if you look at it on a cash flow basis, the 5 consolidated income statement for year-end dated December 31,
6 2016 shows about $39,356,000 of net income in 2016
7 attributable to Highland Capital Management, LP.

8 And then if you turn the Page 33, Your Honor, there is a
9 heading called Investment Liability. And the bottom paragraph 10 on -- over on Page 33 of Exhibit 16 shows that, in this 11 audited financial statement, PricewaterhouseCoopers had 12 analyzed this transfer transaction. It states:

13 "On December 28, 2016, the Partnership" -- that's 14 Highland Capital Management, LP, the Debtor -- 15 "entered into a purchase and sale agreement with the 16 Get Good Nonexempt Trust. In consideration for a
17 note receivable from an affiliate, the Partnership
18 sold or participated in certain investments that it
19 already held, with the participated investments
20 carrying an aggregate market value of $21.3 million
21 as of the date of the transaction. The fair value of 22 the agreement will fluctuate with the fair value of 23 the securities throughout the term. As of December
24 31, 2016" -- that was three days later -- "the 25 participated investment value had reduced from $21.83

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 36 of 100

36

1 to $18.7 million."

2 Again, Your Honor, this is in exchange for a $24 million
3 note that it's been paying.

4 So, Your Honor, given the stipulation of the Debtor, we no
5 longer need to call David Klos, so what we would propose to do
6 at this time is close our case-in-chief and allow Mr. Clemente
7 to go forward with (audio gap).

8 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Clemente, you may proceed
9 with your evidence.

10 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor. Just a couple
11 of things to note (indecipherable) into argument, though I
12 would point Your Honor to the Committee's -- so, first of all,
13 I'd move for the formal admission of the Committee's exhibits
14 for purposes of this hearing, Exhibits 1 through 3, which are 15 the two Acis opinions and the transcript from the March 4th
16 hearing. Again, it's subject to the stipulation Mr. Kane
17 referenced earlier.

18 THE COURT: All right. Committee Exhibits 1 through 19 3 are admitted by stipulation, and they appear on the docket
20 at Docket Entry No. 789.

21 (Unsecured Creditors' Committee's Exhibits 1 through 3 are 22 received into evidence.)

23 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor. And I'd like 24 to point Your Honor to Page 43 of Exhibit 3, which is the 25 transcript from the March 4th hearing, and read into the

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 37 of 100

37

1 record a statement by Mr. Lynn which says, "We'd like to
2 suggest the following, should the Court determine" --

3 THE COURT: Okay. Tell me --

4 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes?

5 THE COURT: I didn't hear what page again?

6 MR. CLEMENTE: Oh, I'm sorry, Your Honor. It's Page
7 43, starting at Line 14.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. CLEMENTE: And Mr. Lynn states, "We'd like to 10 suggest the following, should the Court determine that the 11 motion be denied, and that is that instead of the Debtor
12 retaining the funds, that the Debtor distribute the funds into 13 the registry of the Court. That way, they" -- meaning the 14 Debtor, Your Honor -- "lose control over the funds and they 15 can say they distributed them in accordance with their 16 agreements and applicable law."

17 So, the point, again, Your Honor, from the hearing was to 18 simply preserve the status quo yet ensure that the funds would 19 be safeguarded by depositing them within the registry of the 20 Court.

21 Additionally, Your Honor -- and Your Honor may be 22 scratching her head as to why the Committee stipulated to all
23 of this. It's not about taking in kind and filing three 24 documents. That was never the issue at the March 4th hearing.
25 Frankly, that's not the issue today. The March 4th hearing

1 wasn't about ownership of the Funds, which is what the
2 exhibits Mr. Kane just walked through purports to show. The
3 March 4th hearing was about the web and the circumstances
4 surrounding the case and the circumstances surrounding CLO
5 Holdco.

6 What Mr. Kane's exhibits don't refute is the fact that all
7 of the interests that CLO Holdco has on which it's here today
8 and funds were deposited into the registry on account of came 9 from the Debtor. What Mr. Kane's factual record does not 10 dispute is that, at that time, the Debtor was controlled by 11 Mr. Dondero. And the Dugaboy Trust and the Get Good Trust
12 were at various times controlled by Mr. Dondero, Mr. Scott, 13 and Nancy Dondero, Mr. Dondero's sister.

14 So, again, Your Honor, it isn't about walking through 15 account statements. It's about the context in totality.

16 Finally, Your Honor, and I believe the exhibits Mr. Kane
17 referred to, including Exhibit 12, they make clear, and I
18 think Mr. Kane admits that, that these interests did come from 19 the Debtor.

20 Finally, Your Honor, the other factual point I would like
21 to make refers to Mr. Kane's Exhibit 16, which he finished up
22 with. These are the consolidated financial statements of 23 Highland Capital Management. I find it all very interesting
24 what the book values of assets and liabilities are, but I do
25 not believe that there's any reference in these financial

1 statements to contingent liabilities or litigation claims,
2 including claims with respect to Redeemer or potential claims
3 with respect to UBS.

4 So, Your Honor, I would just suggest that this exhibit,
5 although for purposes of the stipulation we agree with what 6 the numbers, you know, that the numbers say what they are,
7 it's entirely replete -- and I think Your Honor would know, of 8 course, that any analysis of fraudulent transfer would have to 9 take into a reasonable estimate of contingent liabilities.

10 So that's the only other point I would like to make from 11 the factual background, Your Honor. Unless you have any 12 questions for me, I'll just reserve the rest for argument.

13 THE COURT: All right. I have no other questions at 14 this time for you.

15 All right. Shall we go to closing arguments, then?

16 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. This is John Kane for 17 CLO Holdco. I did want to make one important clarification, 18 because it was about a characterization of the exhibits that 19 were presented by CLO Holdco.

20 Mr. Clemente stated that we had no -- or, that the 21 evidence that I've presented indisputably showed that all of 22 the interests have been liquidated, so the funds that we're
23 seeking here today came from the Debtor. And what our Exhibit
24 11 shows is that CLO Holdco used its cash that it wired to the 25 AROF Fund to obtain its interests in AROF.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 40 of 100

40

1 That was not a transfer by the Debtor. There is no
2 evidence suggesting whatsoever that that flowed down from a
3 Highland interest to CLO Holdco. That was a cash acquisition
4 by CLO Holdco to AROF for its subscription interest in the 5 Argentina Fund.

6 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Clemente, let me
7 follow up on that. Are you going back to 2011, and is that 8 what you were referring to, that all of CLO Holdco's original
9 seed money -- I guess it was a couple of levels up from CLO
10 Holdco -- originated from Highland?

11 MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct, Your Honor. And 12 that's what Your Honor writes in the Acis opinions, --

13 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

14 MR. CLEMENTE: -- that ultimately the DAF and the CLO
15 Holdco were seeded by the Debtor. That's our position, that 16 all of the assets that ultimately were used to seed the DAF
17 came from the Debtor, and then obviously Mr. Kane's exhibits
18 demonstrate that the particular interests with respect to 19 Dynamic came from the Debtor.

20 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Kane, any comment about
21 that?

22 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. And this is -- we're 23 back in an evidentiary hearing. So whether or not there were 24 seed funds that were contributed by Dondero or related trusts,
25 that I think this Court has found that was the case in the

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 41 of 100

41

1 past, but that does not mean that there were not other viable
2 investments, personal funding by Dondero individually,
3 deposits by Mark Okada individually or other third parties
4 through Dallas Foundation, that there were not legitimate
5 funds, legitimate means of generating revenue by CLO Holdco
6 that allowed it to reinvest money.

7 And this is -- there's an inference made, Your Honor, by 8 the Committee that because there was an initial seed of this 9 CLO Holdco entity by Jim Dondero and various trusts, whether 10 through Highland or other entities, that all of the funds that 11 it forever uses are somehow inherently tied to Highland.
12 We're talking about 2011, transitioning to 2018 for a cash
13 investment made. I think that is a huge stretch.

14 I think it's important to know that there is zero evidence
15 presented by the Committee to substantiate the statement that 16 this $2.5 million somehow arose from Highland Capital
17 Management, LP.

18 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, proceed with 19 your closing argument, please.

20 MR. KANE: Yes, thank you, Your Honor.

21 CLOSING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF CLO HOLDCO, LTD.

22 MR. KANE: So, I do want to go back a little bit to 23 what you had previously stated about the March hearing. So,
24 we acknowledge that the Court has a right to submit funds into 25 the registry of the Court in a contested matter under rare

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 42 of 100

42

1 circumstances under Rule 67 and In re Kim. But it is our
2 position that once funds are pled into the registry of the 3 Court, there is a material shift in how those funds are 4 treated and what the Court can really do to adjudicate matters
5 involving those funds.

6 So, there are zero Bankruptcy Code references that relate
7 to a Chapter 11 dispute and Bankruptcy Code statutes that
8 address the registry of the Court. The only Bankruptcy Code
9 statute in the entirety of the Bankruptcy Code that references
10 the registry of the Court or proceeding under 28 U.S.C. 2041
11 and 2042 is Section 347(a) of the Bankruptcy Code, which 12 applies to unclaimed funds only in Chapter 7, 12, and 13
13 cases.

14 So, Your Honor, we're looking at a situation here where 15 funds are in the registry of the Court. And once funds are in 16 the registry of the Court, under 28 U.S.C. 2041, the Court
17 holds money as a statutory trustee for the rightful owners.

18 That's an issue that's been addressed by most circuits,
19 Your Honor. And as noted by the First Circuit, the funds that 20 are deposited in the registry of the Court are not at the 21 disposal of the judge but held in trust for the rightful
22 owner. That's the Alstom Caribe case from the First Circuit
23 in 2007.

24 The Fifth Circuit has addressed this issue on a number of 25 occasions, and noted that once funds are deposited into the

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 43 of 100

43

1 Court's registry, the Court should determine ownership and
2 make disbursements. It's not suggesting a long hold. That's 3 from Craig's Stores, a Fifth Circuit decision in 2005.

4 Your Honor, CLO Holdco acknowledges that the Fifth
5 Circuit's decision in U.S. v. Cochran and 28 U.S.C. 2042 place
6 the burden of proof of ownership squarely on the party seeking
7 funds from the registry of the Court. And so here, as shown
8 in Craig's Stores and U.S. v. Beach, which is an Eleventh
9 Circuit decision, CLO Holdco has to prove ownership by a
10 preponderance of the evidence. On that showing, the Fifth
11 Circuit noted in Cochran that a court needs to remit the funds
12 to the party that satisfied its burden of proof.

13 So, how do I satisfy my burden of proof? I have to show
14 that -- I have to show that I have title to those funds or 15 that CLO Holdco has title to those funds.

16 Your Honor, a lot of courts have addressed what title
17 means in a 28 U.S.C. 2042 dispute. And proving title means
18 demonstrating a present right to the funds. A present right
19 is a right that is not hypothetical, it's not unliquidated,
20 and it isn't presently possessed by some other party.

21 So, applying the evidence here, there is overwhelming
22 evidence that CLO Holdco has a present right to these funds.
23 The Dynamic subscription proves that CLO Holdco had an 24 interest in the Dynamic Fund. The AROF subscription proved
25 that CLO Holdco had an interest in the AROF Fund. We provided

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 44 of 100

44

1 proof to the Court of either how those interests were
2 transferred to CLO Holdco or how they were acquired by cash
3 payment by CLO Holdco. The Committee has stipulated that,
4 once obtained, CLO Holdco did not transfer those interests to 5 any other party. So, Your Honor, that hits the no other party
6 presently possessing title.

7 We can show Your Honor through Mr. Klos' testimony and 8 testimony previously presented to the Court that the Debtor
9 liquidated all of the parties that had an interest in the 10 Dynamic and AROF Funds interests. Those Funds are done.

11 Mr. Klos' testimony and his deposition by written
12 questions shows that the Debtor calculated the pro rata
13 interest due to CLO Holdco, and the Committee has stipulated
14 to those amounts. They're not in dispute.

15 So, Your Honor, frankly, I'm not entirely sure what else
16 CLO Holdco would need to show to concretely establish that it
17 has a present valid legal claim to the interests in the 18 registry of the Court. It's satisfied every element of its 19 claim to the funds.

20 And right there, under a 28 U.S.C. 2402 dispute, that 21 should end the discussion about whether we're entitled to 22 remittance of the funds from the registry amount. We have a
23 proven, current, valid legal title hold. And that's all
24 that's required for relief under Fifth Circuit case law,
25 Fourth Circuit case law, Eleventh Circuit case law addressing

45

1 these registry motions.

2 Your Honor, we understand that the Committee is arguing
3 that the funds should just sit in the registry of the Court.
4 We'd like to reiterate, we think it's very important that the 5 Committee has not asserted any form of affirmative relief in 6 this Court. There is no adversary proceeding. There is no
7 motion for some kind of prejudgment writ of attachment or 8 anything like that. This is a defensive play by the 9 Committee. It is an -- it is solely an objection to CLO
10 Holdco's position. That objection wants to maintain the 11 status quo. That's it.

12 So, what is maintaining the status quo? Well, if we're 13 going to address the Committee's objection, we need to look at 14 Rosen v. Cascade, which is an Eleventh Circuit case that says,
15 when a party issues this type of objection, or even a motion
16 for (audio gap) relief, you need to look at the actual nature
17 of the relief sought by the party, not necessarily just the 18 description of the relief sought.

19 Well, what is the nature of the relief? The Committee has 20 noted in its pleadings that it wants this Court to leave CLO
21 Holdco's funds in the registry so that it can use those funds
22 as security against a potential hypothetical future judgment
23 because it believes that collection against CLO Holdco, a
24 Cayman entity, may otherwise be difficult.

25 Okay. So the Committee wants this Court to keep CLO

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 46 of 100

46

1 Holdco's funds, after it's proven title to those funds, to
2 serve as surety against a potential future judgment. As we
3 noted in our pleadings, Your Honor, Black's Law defines
4 attachment as seizing of a person's property to secure a
5 judgment. We believe that that's exactly what's happening
6 here. The Committee wants the Court to hold CLO Holdco's
7 property pending a potential future judgment.

8 Your Honor, a prejudgment remedy like attachment invokes
9 Bankruptcy Rule 7064, and at least here the Committee is 10 willing to -- or, CLO Holdco is willing to acknowledge that 11 7064 is applicable in a contested matter like the one before
12 the Court. But to obtain relief under 7064, the party would 13 have to satisfy Texas law and the requirements for a
14 prejudgment writ of attachment.

15 Your Honor, that falls under Section 61 of the Texas Civil 16 Practice and Remedies Code. But importantly, Judge Houser has 17 addressed that specific issue in the Atlas Financial Mortgage
18 case. And she hits the nail on the head. She notes that, To 19 prove a claim for a right to a writ of attachment, prejudgment
20 writ of attachment, the party seeking that relief must have 21 made, and this is a quote, "a certain and liquidated demand or 22 a demand whose amount is reasonably certain." And she cites
23 the Fifth Circuit case In re Fredeman Litigation .

24 There is no demand by the Committee, and there is 25 certainly no demand for an amount certain. There is no claim.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 47 of 100

47

1 There is no cause of action asserted by the Committee against
2 CLO Holdco.

3 Judge Houser went on to state that, If the amount of 4 damages can only be ascertained by the fact-finder, a writ of 5 attachment is inappropriate.

6 Your Honor, again, we have no idea what is asserted.
7 Presumably, any damage model that the Committee asserts that 8 it has would have to be thoroughly litigated and the damage
9 modelled by the Court.

10 Also, prejudgment writ of attachments are only available
11 in liquidated claims that arise out of contract. That doesn't 12 exist in this case.

13 So the Committee is just flat out ineligible for any kind
14 of prejudgment writ of attachment.

15 So, next, Your Honor, that flows to, well, is an 16 injunction available? Arguably, the Committee is defensively,
17 not affirmatively, but defensively asking this Court to enjoin
18 CLO Holdco from removing its funds from the registry of the 19 Court or otherwise using those funds. Well, that was what 20 happened in Atlas Financial Mortgage. Judge Houser said, 21 well, you're not eligible for a prejudgment writ of 22 attachment, but you actually are eligible for a preliminary 23 injunction. But she went into a very detailed analysis of 24 when a preliminary injunction would be obtainable.

25 And Your Honor, I think before I get to Judge Houser's

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 48 of 100

48

1 kind of final analysis on that issue, I'd like to look at what
2 do the Bankruptcy Rules say? Bankruptcy Rule 7001, Subsection
3 7, notes that an adversary proceeding is a proceeding to 4 obtain an injunction or other equitable relief other than when 5 that relief is in the plan. So, plan injunction, totally 6 different animal. And CLO Holdco readily admits that. But an 7 injunction against the assets of another party requires an 8 adversary proceeding.

9 Bankruptcy Rule 7065 incorporates Federal Rule of Civil 10 Procedure 65, which is -- which addresses the means of 11 obtaining a preliminary injunction. Importantly, Bankruptcy
12 Rule 9014 excludes 7065 in Bankruptcy Rules applicable in a 13 contested matter.

14 So, again, Your Honor, the Bankruptcy Rules essentially 15 trickle down on this idea that if the Committee wants some 16 form of injunctive relief, it must file an adversary
17 proceeding to obtain that relief against CLO Holdco.

18 And Judge Houser's analysis in the Atlas Financial 19 Mortgage case is very consistent with that position. The 20 party seeking the injunction, she said, must assert a
21 cognizable claim to specific assets or must seek an equitable 22 remedy involving those assets in its adversary proceeding and 23 complaint.

24 There is no adversary proceeding here. There is no
25 complaint. The Committee has not asserted any claim or cause

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 49 of 100

49

1 of action against any specific assets owned by CLO Holdco.
2 And the Committee has not asserted any equitable remedy
3 against any specific asset in an adversary proceeding against
4 CLO Holdco.

5 Your Honor, as Judge Houser noted, Federal Rule of Civil 6 Procedure 65, as incorporated by 7065, enables a court to 7 issue preliminary injunctions -- and I stress this -- pending
8 trial. It is a prejudgment, post-commencement of adversary
9 proceeding remedy.

10 And before Judge Houser is willing to issue -- and,
11 really, any court under the Fifth Circuit -- is willing to 12 issue a preliminary injunction, those courts consider four key 13 factors that must be proven by the movant before the 14 injunction can enter. And that is: A substantial likelihood 15 of success on the merits; (2) a substantial threat of 16 irreparable injury if the injunction does not issue; (3) that 17 the threatened injury if the injunction is denied outweighs
18 any harm that will result if the injunction is granted; and 19 (4) that the grant of injunction will not disserve the public
20 interest.

21 That's from Janvey v. Alguire, which is a Fifth Circuit
22 decision in 2011 and is incorporated into Judge Houser's Atlas
23 Financial Mortgage decision.

24 So, let's look at those elements, Your Honor, even 25 assuming that the Committee is somehow asserting a claim for

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 50 of 100

50

1 injunctive relief.

2 The Committee has the burden of proving that there is a
3 likelihood of success on the merits of its claims against CLO
4 Holdco. The Committee has not asserted any claims against CLO
5 Holdco. Moreover, CLO Holdco is unable to identify any 6 potential claim that the Committee could assert based on the 7 facts that are in evidence.

8 There is evidence of a $2.5 million cash payment by CLO
9 Holdco to obtain a subscription in AROF. There is evidence of 10 an exchange of reasonably equivalent value between Highland
11 and Get Good for the initial transfer of the Dynamic 12 interests. Your Honor, the Dugaboy Trust note has been paying 13 down. There is no evidence of insolvency at the time of the 14 transfer as a result of the Dynamic transfer. In fact,
15 Exhibit 16 shows the Debtor had a very large equity value and 16 made actually a million dollars. And there's no evidence of 17 any fraudulent intent at any time related to the Dynamic
18 transfer. There is simply no evidence whatsoever, and no
19 attempt by CLO -- or, by the Committee to obtain any evidence
20 from CLO Holdco.

21 So, Your Honor, there is no substantial likelihood of 22 success on the merits. As Judge Houser noted in Atlas
23 Financial, the Committee would have to prove the estate's
24 entitlement -- or doesn't -- the Committee wouldn't have to 25 prove the estate's entitlement to summary judgment on its

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 51 of 100

51

1 claim, but it would have present a prima facie case in support
2 of its claim. And in stating that, Judge Houser cited to 3 Janvey's Fifth Circuit decision.

4 So, Your Honor, is there a prima facie case presented by 5 the Committee? The answer is a resounding no. It cannot 6 satisfy the first element of the factor test required to issue
7 an injunction against CLO Holdco.

8 How about a substantial threat of irreparable injury if an 9 injunction is not issued? Your Honor, this goes back to the 10 Committee performing no discovery against CLO Holdco. If the 11 Committee wanted to prove up this point, presumably it would 12 have to present evidence to the Court that CLO Holdco was 13 either financially unable to satisfy a judgment or wouldn't 14 satisfy a judgment for some other reason. The simple fact
15 that CLO Holdco is a Cayman entity does not mean that it is 16 incapable of satisfying a judgment. CLO Holdco, through its 17 counsel, has had conversations with the Committee about the 18 assets in CLO Holdco. And, in fact, there's not a whole lot 19 of dispute that CLO Holdco does possess a significant value of 20 assets.

21 It is not, inherently, Your Honor, some judgment-proof
22 entity.

23 But, again, CLO Holdco does not have the burden of proof
24 on disproving this potential issue. It would be the 25 Committee's burden of proof. The Committee can't satisfy

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 52 of 100

52

1 either of the first and most important elements of a test for 2 an injunction. Your Honor, that injunction simply cannot
3 issue.

4 Now, the Committee will say, well, the Court should be 5 able to issue a naked injunction under Section 105(a) of the 6 Bankruptcy Code because the Court has these broad, equitable
7 powers. And in its pleas, it cites to a number of decisions
8 that it alleges support that position.

9 It cites to King Louie Mining. Well, King Louie Mining
10 granted an injunction and cited to Section 105(a), but the 11 injunction was granted against property that was subject to a 12 pending adversary proceeding. Again, injunction issued under 13 7065.

14 The Committee cites to In re Momentum Manufacturing.
15 Well, in that case, 105(a) was used to grant equitable
16 estoppel, not a preliminary injunction.

17 The Committee cites to Caesar's Entertainment repeatedly 18 for this proposition this Section 105(a) can be used by the 19 Court to grant this naked injunction, but the injunction
20 granted in Caesar's was granted against a third party where 21 there was a pending adversary proceeding to claw back the 22 assets of that third party.

23 The Committee also cites to the DeLorean decision. Well,
24 in that case, there was a 105(a) statement by the Court when 25 it entered an injunction in an adversary proceeding filed

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 53 of 100

53

1 seeking the injunction. The Court went through the 7065
2 factors before it issued the injunction.

3 And then the Committee cites to Sire Plan. Well, there
4 was 105(a) relief granted, but it was also granted in an 5 adversary proceeding, and the relief was consistent with the 6 language of the Bankruptcy Act, albeit the Court even admitted
7 that it was a liberal interpretation, again.

8 So, what case law or actions have been cited by the 9 Committee in support of this Court's ability to grant a 105(a)
10 injunction outside of the parameters of a plan? Well, it
11 cited to the Lewis v. Celotex decision, which is a Fifth
12 Circuit case. I think it's worth discussing, Your Honor,
13 because we readily acknowledge that, in that case, there was a
14 preliminary injunction that was incredibly broad in that it
15 addressed five parties who were seeking to recover on 16 supersedeas bonds after the case was commenced, after the 17 Celotex bankruptcy case was commenced.

18 And I want to note that there's a Supreme Court decision
19 on a separate dispute called Edwards v. Celotex. Now, in the 20 Edwards v. Celotex dispute, the Fifth Circuit disagreed with 21 the lower court's decision and its ability to enter the 22 injunction. It did so -- officially made its ruling on 23 jurisdictional grounds. But the U.S. Supreme Court reviewed
24 the Fifth Circuit's decision and overturned it. But when it
25 overturned it, the Supreme Court did two things. One, it

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 54 of 100

54

1 refused to address whether a court could actually enter the
2 injunction under 105(a). It addressed (audio gap)
3 jurisdictional argument.

4 But the Supreme Court also noted that while the Fifth
5 Circuit allegedly ruled on a jurisdictional basis, it
6 certainly appeared that the Fifth Circuit was partially ruling
7 because it found the 105(a) injunction inappropriate at that 8 position of the case.

9 So there is at least some dicta from the Supreme Court and 10 the Fifth Circuit that that 105(a) injunction issued in the 11 Celotex case was inappropriate.

12 Also, Your Honor, the Third Circuit notes in a footnote in 13 its decision in Lewis v. Celotex that while it would uphold 14 the injunction, it noted that the injunction was narrow in 15 scope as far as what it actually did. And once the bankruptcy
16 judge reviewed the judgments against the debtor, the 17 avoidability, if the judgments were voidable for one reason or 18 another, the Court would have to lift the stay to allow the 19 party in that case to proceed against the assets.

20 And Your Honor, that's basically where we are in this 21 case. The Court used its equitable rights under 105(a) to 22 deposit funds in the registry of the Court, and now the Court
23 has an opportunity to review CLO Holdco's evidence to see if 24 it can meet its preponderance standard to prove that it has a
25 right to the funds in the registry of the Court. And once it

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 55 of 100

55

1 does, it should release those funds to CLO Holdco. That
2 analysis is really pretty consistent with the Lewis v. Celotex
3 decision, which is the only case that's cited by the Committee
4 that includes an injunction outside of the scope of an
5 adversary proceeding.

6 So, Your Honor, there really is nothing here supporting 7 the Committee's position. The Committee hasn't proved up any 8 right to a writ of attachment. It hasn't satisfied any of the 9 elements, procedurally or factually, to be able to obtain an 10 injunction against CLO Holdco's assets.

11 So, Your Honor, based on the evidence presented, we 12 request this Court grant CLO Holdco's motion and allow us to 13 withdraw funds from the registry of the Court.

14 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Kane. All right. Mr.
15 Clemente, I hope that you will focus in your closing argument,
16 I suspect you will, but the arguments, the primary arguments
17 of Mr. Kane that this is -- this holding of money in the 18 registry of the Court in this context is tantamount to a 19 prejudgment remedy, there is no adversary there in order to 20 have a preliminary injunction under 105, you really need an 21 adversary under 7001: I hope you'll address those arguments,
22 among others. All right. Mr. Clemente?

23 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor. Matt
24 Clemente from Sidley on behalf of the Official Committee of 25 Unsecured Creditors.

1 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE OFFICIAL COMMITTEE OF
2 UNSECURED CREDITORS

3 MR. CLEMENTE: Well, Your Honor, I think Mr. Kane's
4 arguments overall generally miss the point, and the issue is 5 really about context.

6 Mr. Kane referred to the monies being pled into the 7 registry. That is not the case at all. Your Honor ordered
8 them placed into the registry at the March 4 hearing. That,
9 in my view, distinguishes it almost entirely from all the 10 cases that CLO Holdco cites in their papers.

11 This is not a dispute about ownership. This is not an 12 interpleader. This is not some party saying, I don't know
13 what to do with these monies and so I'm pleading them into the 14 Court and please, Court, give me direction. That is 15 absolutely not the circumstance or context in which the monies
16 were ordered by this Court under Section 105 to be put into 17 the registry.

18 So, from my perspective, I think that, Your Honor,
19 effectively distinguishes the current situation from the 20 situations that Mr. Kane cites.

21 Belatedly, Your Honor, and I'll touch on this in a moment,
22 none of this about 28 U.S.C. was ever raised in the actual 23 motion, which I found to be fairly interesting.

24 So I wanted to start with those comments, but then I want
25 to take a step back, because I do believe that the context and

57

1 background of this bankruptcy case is critical to this
2 dispute.

3 CLO Holdco would have the Court view it as an independent
4 third-party investor merely requesting the release of proceeds
5 of its investment that Mr. Kane referred to in his argument as 6 another party. It's not just another party. I would do that
7 as well and I would try and distance myself from Mr. Dondero, 8 but the fact of the matter is CLO Holdco cannot.

9 The Committee, as Your Honor knows, never objected to 10 distributions to independent third parties, including in 11 connection with the initial distribution motion, and the 12 Committee is not doing that now.

13 And recall just a bit of context around the March 4th
14 motion, Your Honor. Under the protocol that the Committee
15 negotiated, the Debtor -- related-party transactions needed
16 the consent of the Committee if they exceeded a certain 17 threshold. The Debtor came to us with respect to these 18 distributions, and the Committee said, no, because of the 19 related party involvement and given the web that Mr. Dondero
20 has created. And so the Debtor then filed a motion in front
21 of Your Honor seeking Your Honor's authority to make the 22 distribution.

23 Again, this is entirely unlike the cases that Mr. Kane
24 talks about. This is about the context in which that 25 distribution -- and these were funds that the Debtor

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 58 of 100

58

1 controlled -- I agree, weren't funds that the Debtor owned,
2 but the Debtor controlled them, and I believe that is an
3 important factor that I'll touch on later, Your Honor, in 4 distinguishing it from the prejudgment cases and other things
5 that Mr. Kane talks about.

6 Importantly, Your Honor, CLO Holdco is not an independent
7 third-party investor, and CLO Holdco and other related parties
8 hold a special place in this case in the hearts and the minds
9 of the Committee, and I think also of Your Honor.

10 Again, and just a little bit of a background here, because 11 I do need to sort of create the picture here. Mr. Dondero has 12 created a web of over 2,000 related entities, which includes a
13 sub-web involving CLO Holdco. At the outset of the cases,
14 Your Honor, the Debtor's advisors could not even identify all
15 the Debtor's affiliates.

16 As we laid out in our papers, CLO Holdco, through its 17 parent entity, and this is not disputed, and it's proven up --
18 out by the documents that Mr. Kane walked through, controlled
19 by a patent attorney, not an investment professional but a
20 patent attorney that was a college roommate of Mr. Dondero, it 21 has at all times, including when the transfers were made, been 22 advised by the Debtor, which, when these transfers were made,
23 then it was controlled by Mr. Dondero.

24 Mr. Dondero credited and directed each of the beneficial
25 owners, which are the foundations, and the assets and

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 59 of 100

59

1 interests gave rise to the distribution that CLO Holdco is
2 seeking now that were Debtor assets that were either
3 transferred through a series of conduit and intermediate
4 transfers, which is what Mr. Kane's papers, you know, bear
5 out, and which -- with which we agree with, into the hands of 6 CLO Holdco, again, at a time when Mr. Dondero was in control
7 of the Debtor and in control of the intermediate parties and 8 in control of CLO Holdco. So he therefore was on all sides of 9 the transfer.

10 Your Honor, to be specific -- and, again, there's no
11 dispute over this; we lay this out in our papers -- the Debtor
12 transferred its interest in what was ultimately renamed as the 13 Dynamic Fund, along with other interests and assets, to 14 something called the Get Good Nonexempt Trust, in exchange for 15 not a hundred percent, but 97.6 percent of a $24 million note
16 issued by something called the Dugaboy Investment Trust. That 17 note itself, Your Honor, from Exhibit 12, if you read the 18 introduction to the note, was a substitute for a previous note
19 issued by Dugaboy to the Get Good Trust. And at least on the 20 (audio gap) note, (audio gap) unsecured note bearing interest
21 at 2.75 percent. We don't know whether that note in and of 22 itself had been exchanged for a different note. We just don't 23 know.

24 We do know that there was a note with Get Good and 25 Dynamic, or Get Good and Dugaboy, and that note was replaced

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 60 of 100

60

1 in a series of transactions, however, documented together,
2 Your Honor. The Get Good Trust then transferred the interests
3 to the Highland Dallas Foundation, and then ultimately through 4 the DAF entities into CLO Holdco.

5 And, again, this is not in dispute, and it's bore out by 6 the documents. Both the Get Good Trust and the Dugaboy Trust
7 are Dondero family trusts for which Nancy Dondero, the sister
8 of Mr. Dondero, and/or Grant Scott are trustees, and for which 9 it appears Mr. Dondero was at some point also a trustee.
10 That's evidenced on Committee Exhibit 12, where it talks about 11 that prior note. It was issued or made by a Mr. Dondero as 12 Trustee, I believe, for the Get Good Trust.

13 And I just would note, these transactions also support the 14 basis or form the basis for CLO Holdco's purported $11 million
15 claim that they filed against the estate.

16 Your Honor, from my perspective, this is all very 17 confusing and it raises many questions, not the least of which 18 is why was this done, what is the Dugaboy Trust, what did the 19 Debtor actually receive relative to what transferred, and,
20 frankly, what was the purpose of all this? And did the 21 Dugaboy Trust ultimately pay on the note? And I'll address
22 Mr. Kane's discussion about payments that were made on the 23 note in a moment.

24 Your Honor, I don't believe any of this is in dispute.
25 And indeed, this Court previously found that CLO Holdco's

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 61 of 100

61

1 parent was seeded by the Debtor, managed by the Debtor, and 2 CLO Holdco's quote/unquote independent trustee was a longtime 3 friend of Mr. Dondero. That's in the record. That's where he 4 makes his case.

5 The key point of all this, Your Honor, is that CLO Holdco
6 is anything but an independent third-party investor merely 7 seeking the return of its invested funds, and its argument
8 should not be viewed through that lens and instead should be 9 viewed through the lens of Mr. Dondero being on all sides of 10 the transactions and transfers and pulling the strings and 11 controlling it all. And this lens is clearly tainted by the 12 previous documented conduct of Mr. Dondero.

13 As the Court is well aware, (inaudible) as controlled by 14 Mr. Dondero, has a history of engaging in misconduct, breaches
15 of fiduciary duty, and fraudulent transactions in multiple 16 settings, with its principal, Mr. Dondero, taking a central 17 role. And Your Honor, as you know, this bankruptcy case is 18 the result of arbitration proceedings, awards, judgments, and 19 other litigation against the Debtor arising from this 20 misconduct.

21 Therefore, the Committee and the Court must approach and 22 consider each of the related-party Dondero-controlled
23 transactions with skepticism, including the transactions with 24 CLO Holdco.

25 Now, Your Honor, CLO Holdco provided voluminous documents

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 62 of 100

62

1 and other information which Mr. Kane meticulously walked
2 through, none of which, for purposes of this proceeding only,
3 the Committee takes issue with.

4 But Your Honor, as I've mentioned before, this discussion
5 isn't about taking in kind, columns of numbers, and signatures
6 on documents. What it is about is the context in which CLO
7 Holdco's interests arose and the relationship that it has with 8 this Debtor prepetition. And despite the documents and 9 admissions, what CLO Holdco doesn't do and cannot do is refute
10 any of that, including the fact that CLO Holdco was seeded by 11 the Debtor, and the very interests which gave rise to the 12 distributions came from the Debtor at a time when it was 13 controlled by the Debtor.

14 This is not new money third-party investment or anything
15 close to it. Instead, again, and as the Court found in the 16 Acis case, CLO Holdco was seeded by the Debtor, and as its own 17 exhibits demonstrate, the interests were transferred from the 18 Debtor.

19 Your Honor, I don't think I'm painting with too broad of a 20 brush, then, to state that transactions with Dondero on both 21 sides, as we have here, must be subject to scrutiny by the 22 Committee and the creditors -- and, frankly, the Court -- to 23 determine their legitimacy.

24 And yes, Your Honor, the distributions are not property of 25 the Debtor's estate. We've never argued that they are.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 63 of 100

63

1 However, allowing it to be distributed to this entity, through
2 the holding company, a Cayman Island entity, controlled by Mr.
3 Dondero, would have the effect of prejudicing the estates and 4 rewarding Dondero for potentially fraudulent conduct, which is 5 something we cited in the Sire Plan case, where a party should 6 not be allowed to benefit from its fraudulent scheme.

7 All the Committee is asking to do -- and, frankly, what 8 the Court did at the March 4th hearing -- is something the 9 Debtor should have done, and that is let's keep the status quo
10 to allow the investigation to proceed to determine the 11 legitimacy of the transfers to CLO Holdco. This best balances
12 the interests of all parties. CLO Holdco's money is 13 safeguarded. As Mr. Dondero's attorney claimed, stated on the 14 record at March 4th, the registry is, Your Honor, not 15 surprisingly, a place that is safe.

16 And Your Honor, the burden of keeping those distributions
17 with the Court isn't that onerous at all on CLO Holdco, in 18 particular relative to the burden that is on the creditors,
19 some of whom have been seeking recompense for almost a decade.
20 To be clear, Your Honor, the Committee and its constituencies
21 did not ask to be in bankruptcy. It was thrust upon them by 22 the actions of Mr. Dondero and his team. Now that they are in 23 bankruptcy, the creditors are forced to deal with the 24 consequences of that decision by Mr. Dondero.

25 Similarly, CLO Holdco must deal with the consequences that

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 64 of 100

64

1 flow from being controlled by Mr. Dondero and having been
2 seeded at the direction of Mr. Dondero and taking transfers of 3 assets from the Debtor at the direction of Mr. Dondero, which 4 I submit here should be having the distributions continue to 5 be maintained in the Court registry.

6 Your Honor, I will turn to some of the arguments raised by 7 Mr. Kane. First, the Bankruptcy Code and Section 105 continue
8 to apply to these issues. As I mentioned before, I was a bit
9 surprised and, frankly, taken aback, Your Honor, when I saw 10 CLO Holdco's response to our objection. Their motion is 11 completely silent on this argument that somehow the Bankruptcy
12 Code doesn't apply and instead the only issue this Court would 13 have to determine would be dictated by a non-bankruptcy
14 statute, 28 U.S.C. 2042.

15 Putting aside any discussion of whether this should have 16 been in the motion to begin with, as I mentioned at the 17 outset, Your Honor, I was before you pre-COVID when we 18 addressed these issues, and I certainly did not view placement
19 of the funds into the registry as some mechanism which would 20 divest the Bankruptcy Code from continuing to be applied.

21 Again, it's all about the context of that March 4th
22 hearing. This wasn't a dispute about ownership of the funds.
23 This was about the Debtor coming in and doing something that 24 the Committee took issue with under the protocols that it had 25 negotiated. That's entirely different and distinct from just

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 65 of 100

65

1 placing money into a registry and then allowing all parties to
2 come in with their document to show that, based on my account
3 statement, my book balance, this is my funds, these are my 4 funds. Which I agree with Mr. Kane on that. It's not -- I
5 mean, Your Honor has no stake in that fight from that
6 perspective.

7 But this is different. Your Honor does have a stake in 8 this fight because it was to preserve and protect the estate
9 and maintain the status quo.

10 As I mentioned earlier, I don't presume to speak for Your 11 Honor, but I would suspect that Your Honor didn't think that 12 she was divesting herself of discussion under Section 105 by 13 placing the funds into the registry. Instead, it was simply a 14 mechanism to deal with them and maintain the status quo. They 15 could have been held -- they could have been held in 16 (inaudible) account, for example, but they weren't. This 17 seemed like a logical, practical solution to the issue that 18 was presented to the Court.

19 Had we understood that, Your Honor, had I understood that 20 -- and, again, I was before you -- I wouldn't have agreed to 21 that. And, frankly, I wouldn't have -- wouldn't have 22 understood -- if I understood that we'd be here today
23 belatedly arguing about that, I would not have agreed to it, 24 either.

25 Additionally, Your Honor, the cases cited by CLO Holdco

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 66 of 100

66

1 are just not applicable on their facts. Unlike the cases
2 cited by CLO Holdco, this has never been a dispute about the 3 ownership or pleading -- interpleader-type action regarding 4 the funds. This is all about preserving the estate and the 5 status quo. This is why the monies were placed into the 6 registry, not as a mechanism to determine ownership.

7 Therefore, the Bankruptcy Code and Section 105 clearly
8 continue to -- continue to apply. And Your Honor found on 9 March 4th that you already had the authority under Section 104
10 to do this, and nothing has changed in the interim, aside from 11 Mr. Kane has come in with documents showing -- which we don't 12 dispute -- that if you tick and tie everything, it adds up to 13 the money that he asserts that CLO Holdco should be given,
14 should be distributed.

15 Your Honor, regarding the 105 issue, there is clearly an 16 issue as to whether the seeding of CLO Holdco and transfers of 17 Debtor assets to it involved transfers that are fraudulent or 18 otherwise avoidable. And I'll touch on the payment on the 19 note in a moment.

20 Those actions, of course, are assets of the estate for the 21 benefit of the creditors, and in fact, under the governing
22 protocol, the Committee negotiated to have standing to pursue
23 those claims. And CLO Holdco is just that, a holdco. And a 24 Cayman entity, to boot. And despite Mr. Kane's references to 25 conversations that may have been had about what it is CLO

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 67 of 100

67

1 Holdco has or doesn't have, we have no idea. And it's 2 controlled, ultimately, let us not lose sight of the fact, by
3 Mr. Dondero.

4 So, allowing CLO Holdco to take distributions will place
5 them with an offshore entity, potentially outside the 6 jurisdiction of this Court, or at the very least, placed in 7 five or six entities removed or who knows where, including
8 potentially other foreign entities.

9 Therefore, exercising authority under Section 105 is 10 consistent with preserving, protecting, and maximizing the 11 value of the Debtor's estate, which estate includes claims,
12 causes of action, and avoidance actions.

13 As you know, 105 is the means and -- circumstances (audio 14 gap) preserve and protect the estate.

15 And to be sure, this is not inconsistent with any other
16 provision of the Bankruptcy Code, and it's, in fact, from our 17 perspective, in furtherance of the goals of the Code.

18 Your Honor, regarding the payments that Mr. Kane (audio 19 gap), the fact that a few payments were made on the note
20 doesn't change the fact that Section 105 applies and the Court
21 should deny the motion.

22 As with all that is Highland, nothing is simple or easy.
23 First, CLO Holdco received millions more in assets and 24 transfers, aside from the interests giving rise to the 25 distributions at issue. So the fact that there were payments

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 68 of 100

68

1 on the notes really speak nothing to the fact of whether the
2 overall transaction was for reasonably equivalent value or 3 otherwise problematic, especially when there is nothing in the 4 record regarding the Dugaboy Trust, its wherewithal to pay, or
5 the fairness of the terms of the note, or any of that. Or why
6 the note was structured this way or, you know, what the Get 7 Good Trust and the Dugaboy Trust do, how they interact, who 8 makes decision on what gets paid and doesn't get paid.

9 The few payments, while interesting, Your Honor, again, do
10 not establish reasonably equivalent value or the propriety, in 11 our view, of the transfers.

12 Finally, as this Court knows, reasonably equivalent value
13 is not determinative of whether the transfer was intentionally
14 fraudulent or otherwise potentially avoidable or problematic.
15 So, while deeds are interesting, Your Honor, I would submit 16 that they don't move the needle in changing the fact that the 17 motion should be denied.

18 Now, Your Honor, to the point that you raised with me
19 before I started my remarks here. Much has been made about 20 inappropriate prejudgment remedy or attachment or similar 21 arguments. I submit this case is moot, Your Honor. Again, at 22 the risk of repeating myself, I will emphasize that CLO Holdco
23 is not an independent third party. Like it or not, it is tied 24 up in a ruinous web with Mr. Dondero, and that in and of 25 itself makes this case unique and distinguishes it from the

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 69 of 100

69

1 other cases cited by CLO Holdco.

2       Additionally, Your Honor, the current circumstances are
3 distinguishable because the Debtor had control over these
4 funds. That's why we were in front of you on March 4th. I
5 agree, and I'm not arguing, that the Debtor did not own these 6 funds. But it clearly had control over them at the time that 7 it sought to make the distributions on March 4th. So, in my
8 humble opinion, Your Honor, that means the Court had control
9 over that.

10       Having them held in a registry while an investigation
11 occurs is not akin to slapping a lien on someone's house or 12 taking possession of an automobile, like the cases cited by 13 Mr. Kane where they require there's some -- an adversary
14 proceeding or some type of complaint.

15       The situation here, again, Your Honor, matters. The 16 Debtor was before you seeking your authority to make this 17 distribution. That is entirely different than if I were to 18 walk in here and say my colleague, Mr. Twomey, I think that,
19 you know what, I don't like him and so I have a claim against 20 him, and I want Your Honor to enjoin him from being able to 21 sell his automobile. That is entirely different, and in my 22 view completely distinguishes it from any of the cases that 23 Mr. Kane cited, including, of course, I have much respect for 24 Judge Houser, but including the case authored by Judge Houser.

25       So, Your Honor, again, having them held in the registry is

1 not akin to the type of situation -- to the situation that Mr.
2 Kane discussed in his cases.

3 In fact, Your Honor, although the Board chose not to do
4 so, a decision with which Your Honor knows I vehemently
5 disagreed, I think the Debtor could have not and frankly
6 should not have sought to make the distributions to CLO Holdco
7 in the first place, and instead have come to this Court, and 8 this Court clearly had the authority to provide them with the 9 protection in doing so. Because, again, the Debtor had 10 control of the funds.

11 And I understand there's contractual arrangements, and Mr.
12 Kane walked through some of those. But at the end of the day,
13 if the Debtor has control over it, that means Your Honor has 14 control over it. And Your Honor clearly could have ordered --
15 and, in fact, did, under Section 105 -- the authority to tell
16 the Debtor, don't make the distribution.

17 That is not the same as the Committee walking in and 18 trying to argue it's entitled to some prejudgment remedy or 19 something on a stranger to the case, where there was already 20 the relationship and the establishment and the nexus that 21 existed in this case was already there. I'd submit those 22 other cases that Mr. Kane cites are designed to protect 23 against, and reasonably so: This is not that situation, Your
24 Honor.

25 As a result, Your Honor, of what the Debtor did, the

1 Committee finds itself placed behind the proverbial eight
2 ball. Its constituencies have waited -- literally decades, in 3 some cases -- for recompense from an entity with a documented
4 history of fraudulent conduct. And it's forced to deal with a
5 bankruptcy it did not choose. It must spend literally
6 millions of dollars from the estate that could be part of its 7 recovery investigating an intentional take and obfuscating
8 whatever transaction with literally thousands of entities,
9 while on the other hand the Cayman Island holding company that 10 is controlled by Mr. Dondero, the funds over which the Debtor
11 had control and came to this Court seeking authority to make
12 the distribution, and seeded by the Debtor when Mr. Dondero
13 controlled it, takes distributions on account of interests
14 which were previously the Debtor's and the transfer of which 15 may very well be avoidable.

16 Your Honor, I'd submit this is precisely an appropriate 17 use of Section 105. And talk around prejudgment remedies and 18 attachment, frankly, is simply not on point, Your Honor,
19 because I think this situation is distinguishable.

20 And to be clear, Your Honor, Rule 7064, which is cited by 21 CLO Holdco, as I read it, does not preclude the use of Section
22 105 to achieve this outcome. To the contrary, Rule 7064 might 23 even expand the tools available to the Court to include those 24 available under state law. It does not restrict them, in my 25 view.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 72 of 100

72

1 And there was a reference to Rule 7067, which does not
2 apply, because the Court ordered the funds placed into the
3 registry. They weren't pled into the registry. The Debtor
4 didn't want them put in the registry. The Debtor wanted to 5 distribute them, which is why it came to the Court in the 6 first place.

7 So, Your Honor, I'm at the end of my remarks, and I would
8 like to say that I think -- not that I think; I know -- what 9 we are seeking is an equitable result which is clearly within 10 this Court's authority and discretion under the Bankruptcy
11 Code, including Section 105.

12 CLO Holdco's motion cannot be viewed in a vacuum. The 13 circumstances surrounding, the reason why the distribution
14 motion was brought in the first place, including the Debtor's
15 control over those funds, the circumstances surrounding CLO
16 Holdco, Mr. Dondero's involvement, how it was seeded, how it
17 obtained the interests giving rise to the distribution, all
18 matter, Your Honor, as does the documented history of 19 fraudulent transfers and inappropriate conduct of Mr. Dondero.
20 Viewed appropriately in this context and the balancing of the 21 harms resulting from keeping the distribution in the registry,
22 I submit there is more than ample justification for this Court
23 to deny the motion and order the continued holding of the 24 distributions in the registry.

25 With that, Your Honor, I've concluded my remarks. Am

73

1 happy to address any questions you may have.

2 THE COURT: Just one. Could you remind me of the 3 relevant provisions of what I'll call the protocol order that 4 was negotiated with the Committee? Because as you pointed 5 out in your argument, the Debtor filed the motion to make
6 these disbursements from the Dynamic Fund and the Argentina
7 Fund because of concerns about the do's and don'ts of that
8 protocol order. So if there's relevant language in there you
9 think I should be reminded of, could you --

10 MR. CLEMENTE: Yeah, that --

11 THE COURT: -- read it?

12 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, that's exactly right.
13 That's exactly correct. I don't -- I'm pretty sure I have it
14 somewhere, but I don't have it right in front of me. But the 15 point there was, Your Honor, when the Committee came to the 16 case and it began to understand all of the related parties,
17 the Committee clearly was concerned that value that either
18 rightfully belonged to the Debtor or had been inappropriately
19 transferred or siphoned away from the Debtor would be 20 distributed to related parties, and then the Committee would 21 be in the position of having to chase after that money.

22 So we negotiated a series of very complicated protocols
23 that Your Honor ultimately approved, and the protocol at issue
24 here was, if distributions, I believe, from any fund where the 25 Debtor managed it and maintained an entity in excess of $2

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 74 of 100

74

1 million was to be made, that the Debtor would come to the
2 Committee and the Committee would have five days, I believe,
3 to say, We think you -- you know, we agree with it or we
4 don't. And if the Committee didn't agree with it, that then
5 the Debtor would go to Court before Your Honor to seek the 6 authority to do it.

7 And so, again, back to an argument I made earlier, that's 8 how we found ourselves here on March 4th. The Debtor had 9 control over those funds in the sense of he was the party
10 making distributions and doing other things. They had to come
11 to Your Honor to actually get Your Honor to rule one way or 12 the other to make those distributions. That, to me,
13 distinguishes it from the cases Mr. Kane cites regarding 14 prejudgment remedies and attachments and things of that 15 nature.

16 THE COURT: Thank you. All right. Mr. Kane, the 17 Movant always get the last word. And in making whatever quick
18 rebuttal you have, I'll just ask you to please address Mr.
19 Clemente's argument that context matters.

20 This is not as though someone requested an injunction
21 without an adversary proceeding against CLO Holdco. This 22 order of the Court that money go into the registry of the 23 Court resulted from a Debtor motion, several responses
24 thereto, and then a suggestion that was made by Mr. Dondero's
25 counsel that others embraced: Let's just stick the disputed

75

1 money into the registry of the Court for now and we'll sort
2 this out in due time.

3 You know, you've made some very compelling legal
4 arguments, I have to say, Mr. Kane, but we have this
5 overarching issue of the context. So, your response, please.

6 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. I'm happy to start with 7 that. I do think the context is important. I think that Mr.
8 Clemente and I would disagree about what elements of the 9 context are most important.

10 I would note that the portion of your order that I
11 previously cited during this hearing, whether the -- that 12 funds are to be pled into the registry of the Court and that 13 that would allow parties seeking those funds to file whatever
14 motions or to seek whatever orders were necessary to obtain
15 those funds. And so what we're looking at here is, right,
16 there is a related-party entity. But let's talk about 17 generally what the context of this dispute is about.

18 Mr. Clemente noted repeatedly in his closing argument that 19 this is not a dispute about Debtor assets. Okay? And I think 20 that's really important. This is a dispute about funds that 21 are not owned by the Debtor. The Committee readily admits
22 that. The Debtor readily admits that. And so what we're 23 talking about here is tying up assets that are not assets of 24 the Debtor's estate.

25 And so an indefinite freeze on assets that are not assets

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 76 of 100

76

1 of the Debtor's estate is disturbing from a procedural
2 perspective.

3 So, I get the Committee's concerns about, hey, this is a
4 related entity. Right? This is CLO Holdco. There are ties
5 to Jim Dondero. We're not trying to hide that fact. We're
6 not trying to say, no, that's not really true. But what I
7 would also say is that there is no evidence that the seeding
8 of CLO Holdco from Highland assets was necessarily a
9 fraudulent transfer or effectuated by seedings of fraudulent
10 conveyances. Okay?

11 Mr. Clemente even noted, as he was giving his 12 presentation, that there is no factual investigation into the 13 Dugaboy Trust by the Committee or anything like that. These 14 are baseless allegations, or at least allegations that 15 entirely lack evidence. So we're at a spot right now,
16 contextually, Your Honor, where the Court has CLO Holdco's
17 funds in its registry. No other party is laying claim to 18 those funds. The Committee wants those funds to stick in the 19 registry for an indefinite period of time, even though they're 20 not assets of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate. And the only 21 reason it wants to do that is for the funds to serve as 22 security against a potential future judgment or claim.

23 And so, contextually for us, well, if there aren't -- if 24 there's no competing claim for the assets and they're stuck in 25 the Court's registry, you know, contrary to Mr. Clemente's

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 77 of 100

77

1 argument, a vacuous argument on the balancing of harms, we're
2 deprived of the use of $2.4 million and change of assets that
3 could go to additional investments or to satisfy operating 4 costs.

5 So there is real harm on a going forward basis from CLO
6 Holdco's perspective.

7 So that, Your Honor, is the context as we see this. This
8 is about non-debtor assets frozen to serve as potential
9 security of a hypothetical judgment on claims that have never 10 been ascertained, asserted, identified.

11 So let me address a couple of issues on rebuttal, and I'll 12 be pretty quick about this.

13 THE COURT: Please.

14 MR. KANE: Mr. Clemente was making hay about the fact
15 that I said pled into the registry of the Court and that --
16 because, Your Honor, pled into the registry of the Court, this 17 isn't an interpleader action, that this was an order entered 18 by the Court. That's a distinction without difference. And 19 the reason that's the case is, if you look at 7067, which is 20 the only Bankruptcy Rule that addresses pleading funds into 21 the registry of the Court, 7067(b) notes, Money paid -- not
22 pled, not ordered -- money paid into the registry of the Court
23 is treated under 28 U.S.C. 2041 and withdrawn pursuant to 28
24 U.S.C. 2042.

25 So, you know, regardless of whether Mr. Clemente

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 78 of 100

78

1 appreciated how I had described the transition of funds from 2 the Debtor's control into the Court's registry, the reality is 3 that 28 U.S.C. 2042 does create the legal thresholds that are 4 required to withdraw funds from the registry of the Court.

5 Mr. Clemente argues that, well, cases where a car is 6 repossessed or a lien is placed on a party's assets under a
7 prejudgment writ of attachment or injunction are dissimilar
8 from this case, is really legally -- it's inaccurate. Those 9 are erroneous statements. There is no difference. If this 10 Court retains CLO Holdco's assets, it's the exact same thing
11 as another -- a third party's assets being held in a blocked
12 account or a third party's assets being retained by a court or 13 third party pending a future judgment. We're in the exact
14 same procedural position there.

15 Mr. Clemente got into a balance of harm's analysis when he 16 was discussing this Court's application of an injunction under 17 Section 105(a), arguing that an adversary proceeding is 18 unnecessary or that injunctive relief could be issued under 19 7064. Your Honor, 7064 and 7065 are there. And there is a 20 distinction from the courts between a prejudgment writ of 21 attachment that would be applicable under 7064 and an
22 injunction that would be issued under 7065. Injunctive relief
23 is addressed under 7001(7) and 7065.

24 So you can't just say, well, no, you can do it as a -- as 25 -- on a motion like you would a prejudgment writ of

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 79 of 100

79

1 attachment. Bankruptcy Rules aren't structured like that.

2 But importantly, Mr. Clemente presented no facts to 3 support his balancing of harms argument and presented no facts
4 to establish that he has any viable claims against CLO Holdco.
5 Arguments that James Dondero participated in frauds does not 6 mean that there's a claim or cause of action that the 7 Committee can assert against CLO Holdco, which is what would 8 be required to obtain an injunction.

9 This is a big if. If the Committee is seeking to obtain
10 an injunction, it must satisfy its burden of proving under 11 7065 and the four-factor test established by Janvey v. Alguire
12 in the Fifth Circuit in 2011 and the many cases before that.
13 And it just can't do it.

14 So I want to leave the Court with one case citation,
15 because if the Court is considering some means of entering a
16 preliminary injunction outside of an adversary proceeding, I
17 was able to find a grand total of one case that address that 18 in the Fifth Circuit. And that is the 1995 decision of In re
19 Zale in which the Fifth Circuit noted that the only way a 20 105(a) preliminary injunction could be issued, after a finding 21 of these unusual circumstances and the like, was if all of the 22 protections of an adversary proceeding had been afforded to 23 the non-movant and if the party that was requesting the 24 injunction satisfied the four-factor test that's found in 25 7065.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 80 of 100

80

1           There are no extraordinary circumstances or unusual
2 circumstances here. And if this Court believes that the 3 context of this case warrants that, then the Committee would 4 still have to satisfy that four-factor test for a preliminary
5 injunction. And it has the burden of proof on those four 6 factors. It hasn't presented any evidence whatsoever to 7 support that it can meet the first, let alone the second,
8 third, and fourth factors of that test.

9           So, Your Honor, with that, I'll close our case, unless you
10 have additional questions, and request that the Court grant
11 CLO Holdco's motion.

12           THE COURT: A couple of follow-up questions. I have 13 certain facts in my brain, and I can't remember if they're in 14 evidence or stipulated to or I read them in a pleading. So, I
15 just want to ask: Somewhere I remember seeing that CLO
16 Holdco, or, you know, maybe it's its parent, I think -- Mr.
17 Clemente said we have a Byzantine structure here and we have a 18 sub-web within a bigger web with regard to CLO Holdco. But,
19 anyway, CLO Holdco or its parent has assets of approximately 20 $225 million? Is that evidence or undisputed?

21           MR. KANE: Your Honor, that was contained in one of 22 the pleadings asserted, I believe, by the Committee, and that 23 was the Charitable DAF entities, not necessarily CLO Holdco.
24 There hasn't been any evidence presented by the Committee of 25 the assets held by CLO Holdco other than what we have before

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 81 of 100

81

1 the Court.

2 THE COURT: Okay. So it's not something you would
3 stipulate or offer one way or another?

4 MR. KANE: No, Your Honor, I think that's factually
5 incorrect and I don't stipulate to that.

6 THE COURT: Okay. I think my notes show that that
7 was the alleged amount of assets as of September 30, 2019.
8 But, again, that may have just been a pleading, not anything
9 in evidence.

10 All right. And are Mr. Scott or Mr. Dondero on the phone
11 today or on the video? I'm just curious.

12 MR. KANE: Your Honor, I lost you on the video a 13 little bit, but assuming you can hear me, though, Mr. Scott is 14 not. We had conversations with the Committee about various 15 exhibits and whether or not Mr. Scott would be here to testify
16 to prove up exhibits. Once the exhibits were all stipulated 17 as admissible, then there was no need for Mr. Scott to 18 participate.

19 THE COURT: Okay. I was not going to ask him
20 anything. I just was curious if he was listening in. Or Mr.
21 Dondero, for that matter. I guess Mr. Dondero is not on the 22 line, correct? (Pause.) All right. I'll --

23 MR. KANE: Your Honor, I -- I think -- I'm sorry.
24 I've had no conversations with Mr. Dondero. I have no idea
25 whether he's on the line.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 82 of 100

82

1 THE COURT: Okay. I'll take silence to mean he's 2 probably not, but --

3 All right. I asked that question for, I guess, a couple
4 of reasons. But the main reason I asked is -- and I'm going
5 to say this as kindly as I can. They're not here to hear it
6 anyway. But I feel like perhaps they are a little tone deaf,
7 for lack of a better term, on how this all looks to the Court
8 today. And what I mean by that is, obviously, I assume it was 9 their decision to bring this motion, at least Mr. Scott's, and 10 likely Mr. Dondero as well had some involvement in that 11 decision. And the reason I say that it feels like they're a 12 little tone deaf about how this looks is that we just had an 13 extensive hearing and some very thorough pleadings, a lot of 14 evidence uploaded, on a $2.5 million issue. And I don't -- 15 you know, I appreciate that that is a significant sum of 16 money, but we've used the word context a lot this morning: In 17 the context of this reorganization, it seems like a very big 18 deal was raised here, at the choice of Mr. Scott and Mr.
19 Dondero, over a $2.5 million issue, in the context of a 20 reorganization that involves at least hundreds of millions of 21 dollars of debt, if not over a billion. UBS says they're owed
22 a billion.

23 And I just asked my question a minute ago about the value
24 of assets that the DAF or CLO Holdco or that sub-structure has 25 managed, because while no one will commit, is it $225 million

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 83 of 100

83

1 or not, you know, I take it that the Committee had a good
2 faith basis for saying that, and if it's not that, it's 3 probably a quite sizable number.

4 Again, so I'm kind of thinking out loud about the 5 proportionality of this issue. $2.5 million, not anything to 6 sneeze at, but we're talking about a Charitable DAF that 7 probably has many, many, many more times that of assets. And 8 so there was certainly no equitable argument of hardship or,
9 you know, significant detriment that's befalling CLO Holdco by 10 the tying up of this money in the registry of the Court for 11 this relatively short time period. So, again, it feels a 12 little tone deaf to be bringing this argument, occupying so
13 much time from the parties, the lawyers, the Court, over this 14 issue.

15 And just to further elaborate on that, it matters to me,
16 and I say this about the tone-deafness, partly because I
17 thought -- I said this at the beginning of the hearing, and I
18 still say it -- we already put this issue to rest, albeit 19 temporarily, in March. And in April, we get this new motion.
20 Again, I recognize the language of the March order reserved
21 everyone's rights to come back and argue about this, but,
22 again, the buzzwords for this hearing are going to be context
23 matters, I guess. Mr. Clemente, you get credit for that buzz
24 phrase, those buzzwords.

25 Again, I issued the order with regard to putting these

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 84 of 100

84

1 monies in the registry of the Court at the suggestion of Mr.
2 Dondero's very wonderful lawyer, retired Judge Lynn. And,
3 again, the context was we had a protocol order early in this 4 case that the Committee negotiated heavily with regard to 5 monies being disbursed out under the control of the Debtor,
6 and heavily negotiated. I remember the CLO Issuers, I think,
7 had some pause and concerns and got their language into that
8 order.

9 So we had this protocol order. Debtor was worried about
10 violating the protocol order, so Debtor files the motion
11 February 24th, wanting the blessing of a court order before it
12 transferred these monies to CLO Holdco and some other
13 Highland-affiliated entities. There were vehement objections,
14 and the Court issued the order saying, Let's put these monies
15 into the registry of the Court, at the suggestion of very able 16 counsel as to how we could resolve that contested matter we 17 were there on on March 4th.

18 So, you know, a month later, April, we have this new 19 motion of CLO Holdco reviving the dispute, the $2.5 million
20 dispute that we had just put to rest temporarily in March at 21 the suggestion of lawyers. I didn't issue a 105 injunction
22 outside the context of an adversary proceeding just on my own,
23 sua sponte. It was suggested to me that this was a good
24 solution. People embraced it. That's what we did. And I
25 sure didn't have in my brain that a month later we'd have a

1 brand new motion regarding whether these monies should be
2 disbursed to CLO Holdco all over again, when that was the 3 issue that was already before the Court in March.

4 I, again, fully recognize that everybody reserved their
5 rights, but I focus on this context because, again, I wish Mr.
6 Dondero and Mr. Scott were on the call to hear this: This
7 almost feels like a good faith issue to me. You know, maybe I
8 would feel slightly different if there had been a broad
9 emphasis, heavy emphasis, CLO Holdco standing up through a
10 lawyer that day saying, We're just letting you know, we're 11 going to get together a motion in very short order and tee
12 this up again. Because I would have probably said no. You 13 know, if -- let's just hear it right now today, if this is 14 only a three-week mandate or whatever. So, good faith is 15 something that I can't help but scratch my head and be 16 troubled by.

17 So, I want to emphasize that CLO Holdco's lawyer has made
18 perfect arguments regarding the potential legal issues here.
19 There are some valid arguments here about is this tantamount,
20 holding the money in the registry of the Court that a non-
21 debtor asserts is its property, is that tantamount to a
22 prejudgment remedy? You know, did it require an adversary
23 proceeding? Did it require the traditional four-prong prove-24 up for a preliminary injunction? And did the Court just give 25 short shrift to those legal technicalities?

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 86 of 100

86

1        Again, these are compelling arguments, but I'm overruling
2        the arguments because, again, I believe it ignores the context
3        that CLO Holdco essentially consented, acquiesced, in this 4        placeholder keep-the-status-quo solution. And I question its 5        good faith in, so quickly after consenting, bringing this
6        motion.

7        But moreover, I do find that in the unique context of the 8        disputes before the Court on March 4th, I did have authority
9        to issue a 105 injunction. 105, as we all know, at Subsection
10       (a) gives a bankruptcy court authority to issue orders
11       necessary or appropriate to carry out provisions of Title 11,
12       and the last sentence even provides a mechanism for the Court 13       to sua sponte take action to, among other things, prevent an 14       abuse of process or just do what's necessary or appropriate to 15       implement court orders or rules.

16       So I think, again, in the context before the Court, it was 17       not only a consensual thing, but the Court had authority. And 18       the backdrop of this, again, cannot be overstated. Again, to 19       use Mr. Clemente's word, we have this Byzantine structure
20       here. It's a lot for the Committee to get its arms around.
21       And even the CLO Holdco structure -- again, I'm looking at my 22       notes, my fancy chart -- we have CLO Holdco, a Cayman Island
23       entity. Its parent is Charitable DAF Fund, LP, another Cayman
24       Island entity. It, in turn, is owned by Charitable DAF
25       Holdco, Ltd., yet another Cayman Island entity. Its general

87

1 partner happens to be a Delaware entity, Charitable DAF GP,
2 LLC, but the beneficial owners of it are the three Highland
3 Foundations, of which Dondero is president and director, and 4 Mr. Scott the treasurer and director.

5 So, I'm not saying the Byzantine structure is in and of 6 itself problematic, although one might wonder why a charitable 7 organization needs to have three offshore entities as part of 8 its structure. I digress. But we all know a Byzantine 9 structure and ties to Dondero do not mean something is 10 attackable in and of itself, but we have had issues raised
11 about the Dynamic Fund and the various transfers with regard
12 to Dugaboy, the Dondero Family Trust, and Get Good Trust and 13 the note. All of that is worthy of examination, and the 14 Committee has not had all that long in this case to 15 investigate it.

16 So, I'm going to say a couple of more things. First, the 17 motion is denied, but I'm going to put more strings on it than 18 that. I'm denying the motion, but as part of this ruling I'm 19 going to order that the Committee has 90 days, unless the 20 Court happens to extend that on motion or agreement of the 21 parties, to file an adversary proceeding against CLO Holdco or 22 the money shall be released. Okay?

23 So, again, I intended it, as I think everybody did, to be 24 a placeholder, to keep the status quo little bit. Again, Mr.
25 Kane has raised good arguments that maybe an adversary

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 88 of 100

88

1 conceivably was necessary or might become necessary. So here
2 we have a requirement of an adversary within 90 days or the 3 money shall be released to Holdco -- again, unless someone
4 moves to extend that or I get an agreement to extend that and 5 I happen to decide to issue an order extending that.

6 I presume that if an adversary is filed, then if the 7 Committee wants that money to continue to be held in the 8 registry of the Court, then they would have to file an 9 application for injunctive relief, essentially, to keep the 10 money in the registry of the Court pending the resolution of 11 the adversary proceeding.

12 So that is the ruling of the Court. Mr. Clemente, I'll 13 ask you to draft up the order. And I reserve the right to 14 supplement this oral ruling in that form of order. And please
15 run it by Mr. Kane before electronically submitting it to the 16 Court.

17 Now, I'm going to say a couple of other things, and then
18 I'll, before closing, I'll ask if there are questions or other 19 announcements. I have told the parties and the lawyers to 20 focus on a plan and problem-solving how we're going to pay
21 creditors. And I think I expressed my strong hope that people
22 would stop litigating everything. I think I'm remembering
23 saying this most recently at the UBS hearing a few weeks ago
24 on a motion to lift stay. Once again, we had a very lengthy 25 hearing that day. I denied the motion. And here we are

1 again.

2 You know, I want certain people to understand that it's
3 time to stop fighting everything. The Debtor is in bankruptcy
4 because of years and years and years and years and years of 5 litigating everything to the nth degree. I'm fed up with it,
6 and I tend to believe that behind the scenes -- I have no
7 doubt that behind the scenes there are people working hard
8 towards crafting a plan, and I think we're coming up on an 9 exclusivity deadline in late July, maybe. What do I have to 10 say to make it clear: People need to stop litigating and 11 start focusing on a plan to get creditors paid. I don't want
12 to do something drastic like appoint a global mediator, but it
13 is definitely dancing around in my brain if we keep having,
14 again, sideshows. Okay?

15 So, Mr. Pomerantz, what do you want to tell me about 16 what's going on behind the scenes? Again, I am certainly not 17 probing into settlement discussions, but do we have progress
18 being made, or is everyone just threatening to file new
19 litigation?

20 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, Your Honor. For the record, 21 it's Jeff Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; on behalf
22 of the Debtors.

23 Your Honor, the Debtor took to heart the comments that 24 Your Honor made at the conclusion of the UBS hearing. It's 25 been the Board's desire to move this case forward, both in the

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 90 of 100

90

1 plan process and in terms of a claims resolution process. And
2 I think I mentioned to Your Honor that at least with respect
3 to the UBS hearing, I think that we needed to get by that 4 hearing before until I think we can make any progress with 5 them.

6 Since that time, and in anticipation of the hearing that
7 is going to occur on July 8th, when I indicated to Your Honor
8 that we would hopefully present a structure and a mechanism to 9 do exactly what Your Honor said, there has been a lot of work
10 and a lot of effort, both at the Board level to come up with a
11 concept, a structure, and a timing for the mediation process,
12 and I personally have spoken to not only Mr. Clemente but 13 counsel for every member of the Committee, to hopefully 14 coalesce around a concept, identification of mediators, what 15 would be mediated, and how that would take -- process.

16 We understand the Committee is meeting today to discuss
17 that. Right after this hearing, we have a weekly meeting
18 between the Board and the Committee. We will discuss that 19 further. But your message was taken by the Debtor, and I
20 believe by the other parties, loud and clear, that Your Honor
21 would (audio gap).

22 At the same time, we recognize that that might be 23 impossible. Since the last hearing, we filed our objection to 24 the Acis claims. UBS filed its claim on Friday, the 26th. As 25 Your Honor is aware, we're preparing an objection to that

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 91 of 100

91

1 claim as well, as well as others.

2 We do not want to litigate while we mediate. However,
3 this case has progressed for a while, and I think it's going
4 to be important for all parties to understand that if the 5 mediation is not successful, they and I will be called on to 6 make some difficult decisions on the claims that are asserted
7 against the estate to go forward.

8 At the same time, and separate and apart from the 9 mediation process, the Debtor has been working on a plan with 10 the Creditors' Committee. It is in its advanced stages. And 11 while it's not ready to be imminently filed, we think in short 12 order we will be able to file a plan. What the plan says and 13 whether it's just essentially putting assets in a monetization
14 vehicle and resolving the claims after confirmation, or 15 whether something can be done more globally, what has been 16 referred to with the parties as a grand bargain, is still 17 something that we are trying to flesh out.

18 But make no mistake, Your Honor: The Board has wanted to 19 move this case forward. Your comments, I think, have been 20 extremely helpful in telegraphing what your thoughts are. I
21 think the Committee understands that, the Creditors' Committee
22 understand that, that it's just not sustainable on a number of 23 levels to keep on fighting and litigating and have these types
24 of hearings.

25 So we will present, hopefully, on July 8th, as -- a game

92

1 plan. Hopefully, we'll have everyone's approval. But even if
2 we don't have every -- anyone -- everyone's approval, it'd be
3 the Debtor's thoughts to present to Your Honor how the Debtor
4 believes we should proceed.

5 THE COURT: All right. Well, thank you. I had
6 forgotten we were coming back so soon. July 8th. Next week.
7 I had in my brain late July. But that -- is it a status
8 conference or an actual motion that's set?

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, we have a couple of 10 hearings on calendar for that day.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: I believe one is exclusivity, --

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: -- which I do not think is going to 15 be contested, based upon my conversations with Mr. Clemente,
16 although I understand he'll want to explain to the Court what 17 the Committee's position on any further extensions would be.

18 There is also a motion to extend the removal deadline.

19 So, thus far, there is nothing contested, but we intend to 20 be able to use that, Your Honor, to present an approach that 21 hopefully will resolve this.

22 Your Honor, I have one other comment that I wanted to make 23 in connection with the motion Your Honor just heard.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: As Your Honor recalls and as we

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 93 of 100

93

1 mentioned today, there were distributions from a variety of
2 different Funds to a variety of related parties. In June,
3 distributions were set to be made to those same parties. And 4 with the consent of CLO Holdco and with the consent of HCM
5 Services, those monies were not distributed to them, but are 6 in the process of being submitted to the Court's registry.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: The expectation would be that they 9 were going to be treated the same way as the old funds, based 10 upon Your Honor's ruling.

11 We understand from the Court that we, Your Honor, that we 12 probably need a separate order with respect to that, and 13 that's with respect to the CLO and HCM Services. So we would 14 prepare that order.

15 Whether both those distributions would be made to Mark
16 Okada -- and if Your Honor recalls, at the last hearing, Your 17 Honor only withheld the amount necessary to pay Mr. Okada's
18 note, which was ultimately paid, and the remaining amounts
19 were distributed to him. And in light of that, we advised the 20 Committee that we would distribute additional monies to Mr.
21 Okada, and there was no objection.

22 (Echoing.)

23 MR. POMERANTZ: So, in sum, Your Honor, we would 24 submit to Your Honor a further order to Your Honor for the 25 additional funds, otherwise payable from those funds to CLO

1 Holdco and to HCM Services, to be put in the Court's registry.

2 THE COURT: All right. Someone needs to be put on 3 mute. I don't know who that is, but we're getting some 4 background. Okay.

5 MR. CLEMENTE: Again, Your Honor. Your Honor, Matt
6 Clemente, very, very quickly, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. CLEMENTE: Again, the Committee obviously took to 9 heart your comments at the last hearing and very much
10 appreciate the comments you just gave in terms of where you're 11 at and how you're viewing and feeling about things. And so I 12 will obviously discuss those very, very carefully with the 13 Committee.

14 Just to point out to Your Honor, Mr. Pomerantz talked
15 about the distribution to Mr. Okada. And, again, you talk
16 about context and optics and understanding where we are. I
17 read and understood -- I was in front of you -- regarding the 18 ruling from the last time. Remember, we objected to the 19 distribution to Mr. Okada last time. We did not do that this 20 time, Your Honor.

21 So the Committee does very much understand Your Honor's
22 desire for this to not continue to be a litigation issue. We 23 could have easily tried to object to Mr. Okada's distribution
24 again, and we did not, Your Honor.

25 So I want Your Honor to understand that the Committee very

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 95 of 100

95

1 much understands where Your Honor is thinking and how she's 2 viewing things, and I suspect that the Committee will be very
3 responsive and respectful of your comments, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Thank you. All right. Well, then, Mr.
5 Pomerantz, I'll be on the lookout for your order that the 6 Clerk's Office needs for more money to be deposited in the 7 registry of the Court. And, again, I understand that it is 8 the newest disbursement that would otherwise be due to 9 Highland Capital Management Services, Inc. and to CLO Holdco,
10 Ltd., and that would certainly be my intention after today's 11 ruling, that the newest distribution for those entities go
12 into the registry of the Court.

13 So, we'll be on the lookout for that. And I guess I will 14 see you on July 8th for other case matters, and we'll see 15 where we are next week.

16 All right.

17 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

18 MR. KANE: Your Honor?

19 THE COURT: Thank you.

20 MR. KANE: Your Honor, this is John Kane.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. KANE: Sorry. I have mainly just a brief
23 statement. And I have no intention of trying to persuade you 24 a different way from your ruling. I understand that ruling is 25 already there.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 96 of 100

96

1 But I was -- I was on the phone representing CLO Holdco on
2 the last Acis plan status conference and listened to your
3 directives to the parties about the litigious nature that's 4 been taking place in this case. And I've had lengthy
5 conversations with my client, Grant Scott, about those same
6 concerns.

7 So I did want to disclose to Your Honor, first, that
8 nothing in our motion was trying to contradict the Court's
9 ability to initiate plead funds into the registry of the Court
10 or order that. We weren't trying to relitigate the same
11 proceeding a second time.

12 But, importantly, at the outset of this, I had 13 conversations with the Committee about our efforts to try and 14 locate a feasible bond to put up as collateral to remove the 15 funds from the registry so that we could satisfy both the 16 Committee's concerns but also CLO Holdco's concerns about 17 liquidity issues at the CLO Holdco level.

18 Unfortunately, we were not able, after discussing with two 19 different bond brokers, to locate a bond that we thought was 20 going to be economically feasible, given the potential time
21 period that the funds could be in the registry, given that 22 there was no temporal limitation on how long the Committee
23 would be investigating these claims, or, really, how long
24 litigation could take, depending on the complexity of the 25 claims and the number of parties included on that complaint.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 97 of 100

97

1 We were looking at a potential even, you know, two percent
2 cash bond on an annual basis was going to be hundreds of 3 thousands of dollars, potentially. And that's something that 4 we decided really wasn't feasible.

5 And I also want to make abundantly clear that I would not
6 have attempted to relitigate any issue whatsoever. I
7 personally viewed that this is a separate and distinct legal
8 issue. I was not present at that March hearing. So I
9 apologize if this came across as some kind of litigation
10 tactic.

11 But the reason that our motion was filed is because of 12 liquidity concerns at the CLO Holdco level relayed to me by 13 Grant Scott. There was no evidence presented of that because,
14 Your Honor, we did not believe that we had the burden of 15 proving any kind of harm issue because we were not the party
16 seeking that injunction, and that wasn't an issue that had 17 been subject to any kind of discovery whatsoever.

18 So, I just -- I always get very uncomfortable when there
19 are allegations of good faith, bad faith, the like. I want
20 this Court to understand that CLO Holdco's counsel is advising
21 CLO Holdco regarding your views on the litigious nature of 22 proceedings in this case, this bankruptcy case, that that is 23 something that is very real, that I have taken to heart, that 24 I am using to influence my client's decision-making, and that 25 this was not an attempt by CLO Holdco to unnecessarily address

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 98 of 100

98

1 or relitigate an issue for some small balance.

2 CLO Holdco, most of its assets are either encumbered or
3 are illiquid. There is a large portion of illiquid assets
4 that are not encumbered. So we are able to pay any kind of 5 judgment. Let me restate that. That we would -- we would 6 likely have to liquidate considerable assets to do that, which 7 is where the settlement gives a potential opportunity cost and 8 appreciation of asset value, which is why we proceeded with 9 this motion.

10 I'm not intending any of those statements to be admitted
11 into evidence or to persuade you to either rule differently
12 for some reason or another, but I did think that, given your 13 concerns, that it was important to provide the Court with 14 context for why we took the tactic that we did to try and 15 obtain funds from the registry of the Court.

16 This, on the CLO Holdco level, was not a bad faith effort.
17 We weren't trying to relitigate an issue that was already 18 there, and certainly we weren't trying to litigate unless 19 litigation we felt was necessary from a financial cost-benefit
20 analysis. And that was a real analysis that we discussed
21 between me and my client.

22 I just wanted to share that with the Court. I've shared 23 with the Committee counsel that we understand that there are 24 major concerns about Jim Dondero, about his control over
25 various entities, about transfers. I'm trying to work as hard

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 802 Filed 07/02/20 Entered 07/02/20 18:59:24 Page 99 of 100

99

1 as I can to distance CLO Holdco from that taint, because
2 understanding that it's in what has been alleged as a
3 Byzantine web, we think it's important to separate CLO Holdco
4 and its operations to ensure that things are done in an
5 appropriate fashion with square corners.

6 That's all I have, Your Honor. We have no objection to 7 the additional funds being pled into the registry of the 8 Court. We can agree those funds would be adjudicated as part 9 of this dispute. We understand that we did not prevail, and 10 we appreciate your Court hearing our argument.

OF MUFFLED VOICES OR REVERBERATION OF THE TELEPHONIC
PARTICIPANTS ON CHANNEL 2, AN INDISCERNIBLE RESULTED)

THE COURT: This is Judge Jernigan, and we are ready to start a hearing today in Highland. Before I take appearances, let me just kind of say where I think we are.

We have a document production dispute on the calendar
today, primarily between the Unsecured Creditors' Committee and the debtor. Basically it's an ESI protocol dispute, as I understand it.

We have had eight other parties in interest weigh in on the dispute with pleadings. So I'll do a roll call.

(The Court engaged in off-the-record unrelated colloquy)

THE COURT: I'm a little hamstrung here because I don't have my glasses, but my law clerk is working on that. I guess I do have a magnifying glass here.

All right, well, why don't we do a roll call while he's getting my glasses, of the different parties in interest.
I'm going to call parties one-by-one to avoid talking overlap.

For the Committee, it looks like we have Mr.
Clemente, is that correct?

(No audible response heard)

THE COURT: Oh, you're on mute.

MR. CLEMENTE: My apologies, Your Honor. Matt

1 Clemente from Sidley on behalf of the Committee. My partner,
2 Paige Montgomery, is also here with me, and she will be
3 addressing the Court today, as well.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. For the debtor, who do
5 we have participating today?

6 MR. KHARASCH: Good morning, Your Honor. It's Ira
7 Kharasch of Pachulski Stang, and we also have John Morris from 8 Pachulski Stang, as well.

9 THE COURT: Okay; good afternoon.

10 All right. Mr. Dondero's counsel weighed in. Who do
11 we have appearing for Mr. Dondero this afternoon?

12 MR. LYNN: Yes, Your Honor. Michael Lynn and John
13 Bonds for Jim Dondero.

14 THE COURT: Okay, very good.

15 Now I'm going to go through the seven other parties
16 that have weighed in. For the party Atlas, do we have Paul
17 Keiffer or some other lawyer participating?

18 MR. KEIFFER: Yes, Your Honor, Paul Keiffer here.

19 THE COURT: All right; good afternoon.

20 For H.C. and Fund Advisors, who do we have appearing?

21 MR. WRIGHT: Good afternoon, Your Honor. You have 22 James Wright and Steve Topetzes at K&L Gates.

23 THE COURT: Okay; very good.

24 All right, CCS Medical, who do we have appearing?

25 MS. STRATFORD: Your Honor, it's Tracy Stratford from

1 Jones Day.

2 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

3 MS. STRATFORD: Thank you.

4 THE COURT: CLO Holding, who do we have?

5 MR. KANE: Your Honor, John Kane for CLO Holdco,
6 Limited.

7 THE COURT: Okay, Holdco, excuse me; thank you.

8 What about NexPoint?

9 (No audible response heard)

10 THE COURT: Anyone appearing for NexPoint? Jason
11 Rudd, Lauren Drawhorn perhaps?

12 (No audible response heard)

13 MR. WRIGHT: Your Honor, this is James Wright again
14 at K&L Gates. We represent one of the NexPoint entities,
15 NexPoint Advisors. But I understand there are some other
16 NexPoint entities that we don't represent, and they may have a
17 separate objection, just to be clear.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Yes, there was a separate 19 objection. The same firm, Wick Phillips, filed an objection by 20 MGM.

21 So, again, I'll ask, is there anyone on the phone for 22 those clients?

23 (No audible response heard)

24 THE COURT: All right, well, we may -- oh, I see
25 Lauren Drawhorn on the video; are you muted, Ms. Drawhorn? Ms.

1 Drawhorn, we can see you but we can't hear you. Cannot hear
2 you. We definitely see you.

3 If we can't -- yes, if you could call on your cell
4 phone, we can hear you that way, and you can keep your visual 5 on, as well.

6 Okay, I'll go on. What about HCLOF, do we have 7 someone from King & Spalding?

8 (No audible response heard)

9 THE COURT: Okay. I'm not hearing anyone from King &
10 Spalding.

11 MR. MALONE: Your Honor, this is Mark Malone. I'm 12 not sure if you can hear me, I'm only dialed in on my phone.

13 THE COURT: Okay, I --

14 MR. MALONE: Can you hear me?

15 THE COURT: I do hear you, Mr. Malone; thank you.

16 MR. MALONE: Yes, and Rebecca Matsumura is trying -- 17 I suspect feverishly, I don't have the video. I know she's 18 plugged in on the video. She'll be handling any argument,
19 assuming we can get her on. If not, I'm happy to handle it.
20 But we are here, Your Honor; thank you.

21 THE COURT: All right, thank you.

22 MS. MATSUMURA: Can y'all hear me now?

23 THE COURT: Yes. Who is that?

24 MS. MATSUMURA: This is --

25 THE COURT: Was that Ms. Matsumura?

1 MS. MATSUMURA: This is Rebecca Matsumura; sorry
2 about that.

3 THE COURT: Okay, we hear you and we see you; very 4 good.

5 All right. I'll go back to Ms. Drawhorn, do we have 6 you on the phone yet?

7 (No audible response heard)

8 THE COURT: All right. Well, hopefully -- hopefully
9 we can get whatever technical difficulties there worked out.

10 I'll ask, for the record, are there any other parties
11 in interest wishing to make an appearance? And I'm going to 12 forewarn you that I'm not going to be inclined to let any other
13 party make an argument today unless you give me a reason I
14 should that absolutely knocks my socks off. So I assume we 15 might have people wanting to appear, but who are not going to 16 make an argument. If so, go ahead.

17 MR. ANNABLE: Your Honor, this is Zachary Annable and 18 Melissa Hayward of Hayward & Associates, local counsel for the 19 debtor. We just wanted to let you know we're here, too.

20 THE COURT: All right; thank you.

21 Anyone else?

22 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor. Terri Mascherin and 23 Marc Hankin from Jenner & Block on behalf of the Redeemer
24 Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund.

25 THE COURT: All right; thank you, Ms. Mascherin.

1 MR. SLADE: Your Honor, it's Jared Slade and Jonathan
2 Edwards of Alston & Bird. We're here on behalf of NexBank.
3 And I'm not sure if it's going to knock your socks off, but we
4 were engaged just this week by NexBank as a party in interest,
5 the issue about the ESI disclosures. We have been negotiating
6 with the Creditors' Committee about the issues, and we hope to 7 have an opportunity to present a minute or two at the end about 8 why we were differently situated than some of the other
9 objectors, if the Court entertains it.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. SLADE: Thank you.

12 THE COURT: Thank you.

13 MR. CLUBOK: And, Your Honor, Andrew Clubok and 14 Kimberly Posin for UBS.

15 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

16 MS. PATEL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel
17 and Annmarie Chiarello on behalf of Acis Capital Management,
18 but we don't intend on making any presentation, Your Honor,
19 unless anyone specifically asks to address things. Our matters
20 are after this.

21 THE COURT: Okay, correct.

22 Anyone else?

23 (No audible response heard)

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, let's talk --

25 MS. DRAWHORN: Your Honor?

1 THE COURT: Oh, go ahead.

2 MS. DRAWHORN: This is Lauren Drawhorn, I got my --
3 I'm sorry, I got the audio -- the speaking to work.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MS. DRAWHORN: I'm appearing on behalf of the 6 NexPoint Real Estate entities, there's 15 of them. I can go
7 through them, if you want, or -- they're listed on Docket 847.

8 And then I'm also appearing on behalf of MGM
9 Holdings, Inc.

10 THE COURT: Okay, thank you, Ms. Drawhorn. We've got 11 you loud and clear now.

12 All right, well, I want to talk for a moment about 13 how we are going to proceed here today, and I'm hoping we don't 14 go late, late, late with ten or so parties wanting to weigh in 15 on document production because we do have the Acis status
16 conference regarding the September 10th setting on the 17 objection to Acis's proof of claim, I want to make sure we get 18 to that today.

19 And then I do want to talk a little bit about where 20 we stand on getting the mediation going.

21 So for everyone's benefit, I'm just going to let you
22 know that I think I have a handle on the primary disputes
23 between the Committee and the debtor. There's a lot of finger-
24 pointing that is going on in the papers.

25 The UCC is suggesting that the debtor has been

1 dragging its heels; and the debtor saying no, it hasn't.

2 I really don't want to get bogged down by that today.
3 I really just want to focus on the handful of things that seem
4 to be in dispute between the Committee and the debtor, and so
5 we're going to obviously start with the Committee and the 6 debtor. I want to hear about are we going to have evidence
7 today. I know there were a couple of declarations filed.

8 And then I'm inclined to, thereafter, just give these 9 eight or nine other parties five or ten minutes each to present
10 any arguments that they think I need to hear.

11 But I'll tell you, I closely read the Committee's
12 pleadings, I closely read the debtor's pleadings, Mr. Dondero's 13 pleading.

14 And then, frankly, I skimmed very rapidly the other
15 seven or so pleadings because of being pressed for time, but I
16 do think I get the gist of them. And I think a lot of them
17 kind of have the same theme.

18 But before turning to the debtor and the Committee,
19 let me just tell you what my understanding is that we're going 20 to primarily focus on:

21 We're obviously talking about emails of nine
22 different custodians of the debtor, three of which I understand
23 to be in-house lawyers. And whether it's the Committee's 24 protocol that should be ordered here, or the debtor's protocol,
25 and the way I see the two protocols differing is the debtor

1 wants independent contract -- or contract attorneys for the 2 debtor to do a relevance review. UCC says no, that's going to 3 be time-consuming, and strangers can't meaningfully do that.

4 It looks like there's a dispute about the search term
5 request. Committee thinks what debtor is wanting is too
6 stringent.

7 And then, of course, we have some competing views
8 about how the privilege review process would work, and the 9 debtor has obviously this overriding concern about 10 confidentiality obligations it has, either contractually and/or 11 shared services agreements, or through other law.

12 So now I will, at long last, turn -- I'm going to, I
13 guess, start with the Committee because it is first in time
14 with its pleading the motion to compel. And then, of course,
15 the debtor came quickly behind that pleading with its own
16 motion for protective order.

17 And so -- I don't know, Mr. Montgomery, or Mr.
18 Clemente, let me hear from you on how you --

19 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

20 THE COURT: -- want to go forward today.

21 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, this is John Morris from 22 Pachulski. I greatly apologize for interrupting, but I have a
23 slightly different suggestion.

24 We had made a proposal to try to resolve our disputes
25 with the Committee a few days ago. The Committee responded

1 with its own proposal about an hour before this hearing, and
2 we'd like an opportunity to confer with them. But under --
3 even under the -- even if we were to reach an agreement, I
4 think the Court needs to rule on the other objections.

5 So my suggestion, subject to the Committee's 6 acceptance and Your Honor's acceptance, of course, is that we 7 allow the Committee to proceed and let the --

8 (Technical interference)

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: Let the other objectors be heard.

11 And then after the conclusion, and the resolution of 12 those objections, some of which I understand may have been 13 resolved already, we take a short break, and allow me to confer
14 with Ms. Montgomery to see if we can resolve the balance of the 15 issues, that's my suggestion.

16 THE COURT: Okay. So start with the Committee, hear
17 their argument, and then any objectors who haven't otherwise
18 been taken care of through agreements, hear from them, all
19 right. Well, I am perfectly happy to go forward this way, 20 especially if it means that we'll save some time in court, and 21 the debtor and Committee can get on the same page without the 22 Court ordering something.

23 So will it be Ms. Montgomery or Mr. Clemente? Which 24 one of you wants to start us off?

25 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, it's Matt Clemente. My

1 colleague, Ms. Montgomery, will be handling it. So I'll turn
2 it over to her, please.

3 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Montgomery?

4 (Pause)

5 MS. MONTGOMERY: ... the objection that the debtor
6 has filed --

7 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Montgomery, I'm going to 8 ask you to start from the beginning, we missed the first few 9 seconds, okay?

10 MS. MONTGOMERY: Sure. Can you hear me now?

11 THE COURT: Yes.

12 MS. MONTGOMERY: So consistent with the proposal that 13 Mr. Morris laid out, I plan to reserve any arguments with 14 regard to the dispute between the Committee and the debtors for 15 now in the hopes that we can get those resolved at the 16 conclusion, and we'll just focus on the objections, if that 17 works for the Court.

18 THE COURT: Okay, that's fine.

19 MS. MONTGOMERY: We've been working diligently with 20 all of the objectors that Your Honor is aware of, as well as a 21 few that did not file objections over the last week or so in an 22 attempt to resolve as many of their concerns as possible before
23 today's hearing.

24 And we're happy to tell the Court that we have 25 resolved some of those objections. We were able to negotiate

1 an out-of-court resolution with regard to an entity called
2 Omnimax International, Inc. without them filing an objection.

3 And we have resolved the objection of Highland CLO
4 Funding Ltd. And pursuant to that agreement with Highland CLO
5 Funding, Highland CLO Funding has requested that the Court
6 order, at the end of today's argument, include a statement that
7 any documents that they produce pursuant to joint privilege
8 aren't subject to a privilege waiver by virtue of their
9 production to the Committee.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MS. MONTGOMERY: And if I missed anything there, I'm 12 sure that counsel for Highland CLO will correct me at the end.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. MONTGOMERY: We also have an agreement in 15 principle with Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, LP
16 and the remaining entities that submitted their objections at 17 Docket 841.

18 Pursuant to that agreement in principle, we have no
19 objection to those entities being treated as parties to a 20 protective order or to having certain data being isolated from 21 review as a preliminary matter subject to reservation of 22 rights.

23 What we don't have an agreement on, Your Honor, is 24 how those documents will be isolated. And we intend to 25 continue working with Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors

1 and K&L Gates to try to knock out the details of that in the 2 coming days. We preliminarily don't believe that it's 3 necessary for you to hear the details of that objection for
4 today.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MS. MONTGOMERY: So with regard to the remaining
7 objections -- my apologies, Your Honor.

8 There are essentially three categories of documents
9 that make up the assorted objections -- the issues that are set
10 forth in the objections. There are some documents that are 11 allegedly confidential, and I think that Your Honor has 12 probably read quite a bit about that in the pleadings that have 13 been submitted to the Court.

14 It's our position, Your Honor, that there's a very 15 strong protective order in place in this case. And that the 16 protective order should be sufficient to handle any 17 confidentiality concerns that have arisen pursuant to the 18 objections.

19 We also believe, Your Honor, that a number of the 20 documents at issue are subject to a joint privilege, and we've 21 briefed this, and it sounds like Your Honor is very familiar
22 with the materials that we've submitted to the Court. And as a 23 result of that joint privilege, we believe that many of the 24 documents that are included in the ESI that we've requested
25 should be made available to the Committee.

1 As you know, Your Honor, there are thousands of 2 companies that have been identified as affiliates of the 3 debtor. Many of those affiliates have shared service
4 agreements with the debtor, in which the debtor provided
5 business functions for these purportedly separate entities.

6 And if you look at my briefing, there isn't any 7 segregation of employees of the debtor that represent each of 8 these affiliates. And instead, the debtor maintains a 9 centralized pool, and whoever can perform the service for the 10 affiliate does so.

11 The basis for most of the remaining objections that 12 we're talking about here today is that these shared service
13 agreements include provision of legal services. And in some 14 instances, for shared IT -- like shared service servers for 15 emails and other documents.

16 Under those shared service agreements, the debtor's
17 in-house legal department provides legal advice to these 18 thousands of entities on as-needed basis. And you're going to 19 hear from the objectors in a moment some of those separate 20 companies are objecting to production of their documents by the 21 debtor, even though those documents are on the debtor's
22 servers, in the debtor's employees' files, and generally
23 available to debtor personnel.

24 We wanted to begin, Your Honor, with the objections
25 to NexPoint Real Estate Advisors. We previously -- we

1 previously discussed NexPoint Advisors and its affiliates,
2 represented by K&L Gates, but obviously there's also a separate
3 objection for NexPoint Real Estate Advisors and affiliated
4 entities.

5           NexPoint Real Estate Advisors argues that it would be 6 unduly burdened if the debtor were to produce documents related
7 to it to the Committee. It's unclear, however, how NexPoint
8 would be burdened by the debtor producing documents, nor is it
9 clear what expense NexPoint would incur as a result of that 10 production.

11           In fact, it appears that NexPoint is attempting to 12 raise defenses that belong to the debtor instead. This may be 13 because NexPoint shares many things with the debtor under the 14 shared services agreement:

15           First, they have shared employees who are employed
16 both by the debtor and NexPoint Real Estate. Although pursuant 17 to the shared service agreement, only the debtor pays the 18 salaries of those shared employees. It shares back- and 19 middle-office services, it shares administrative services,
20 including cohabitating in the same office space on information
21 and belief, and it also shares IT services, possibly including 22 servers, and in-house counsel that provide assistance with 23 advice with respect to legal issues.

24           Despite all of the shared services, NexPoint is 25 arguing that it should be given a separate and independent

1 opportunity to review all documents possibly related to it, and
2 to decide what it relevant, responsive, and privileged.

3           Your Honor, it's the Committee's position that
4 NexPoint chose to commingle its data with that of the debtor;
5 to share in-house counsel with the debtor; to co-office with 6 the debtor; to share employees with the debtor; and to 7 generally allow the debtor to provide many of its services.
8 But now it believes it has a separate ability to review
9 documents in the debtor's possession before they're produced to 10 the Committee. And this is the sort of gamesmanship that we've 11 been trying to avoid through the motion to compel.

12           NexPoint may very well be the subject of estate
13 claims, it's impossible for us to know at this point because we 14 don't have access to the data that's necessary for us to 15 determine what estate claims might exist. And we don't believe 16 that NexPoint should also have the ability to dictate to the 17 estate which documents the estate -- that the estate already 18 possesses and needs to investigate those claims.

19           With regard to the various Rand entities and Atlas, I
20 believe Your Honor referenced Atlas when we began. Essentially
21 the same argument appears to apply with Rand, although to a
22 somewhat lesser extent.

23           The objection for Rand is slightly different in that 24 it focuses on the shared IT infrastructure with the debtor, and 25 not necessarily the custodial data for nine individuals that

1 were the subject of the motion to compel.

2 Unlike with NexPoint, it doesn't appear that Rand has
3 legal services provided by the debtor.

4 And their objection primarily focuses on the 5 potential that there is Rand data on servers that are 6 accessible by the debtor which, in itself is an indication that 7 the data may not have been maintained separately as to Rand
8 and, therefore, confidentially. And as such, any privilege
9 related to data contained on that server as to Rand would be 10 waived.

11 That said, we are amenable to their request to be 12 made party to the protective order. And that all data related 13 to them be produced as highly confidential as a preliminary 14 matter, subject, of course, to our ability to request a de-
15 designation of that data where the default designation appears
16 to be improper.

17 The next objection is CLO Holdco. CLO Holdco also 18 argues that there may be data among that of the nine
19 custodians, all of whom are employees of the debtor, that 20 relate to a privilege held exclusively by CLO Holdco. We don't 21 believe that that position is tenable.

22 The briefing on this particular objection, Your 23 Honor, includes some back and forth with regard to Teleglobe,
24 and related cases.

25 Teleglobe is one of the foundational cases on the

1 issue of privilege with regard to business affiliates. And it
2 provides that communications between affiliates can maintain 3 privilege because the members of a corporate family are joint
4 clients, and this reflects both the separateness of the entity
5 and the reality that they are all represented by the same in-
6 house counsel.

7           We don't believe that Teleglobe stands for the 8 position that there can be completely separate privileges held 9 by affiliates with the in-house counsel that is employed by the 10 parent company, or any other member of an affiliate family.

11           As a result, either the communications are subject to 12 a joint privilege, and the debtor having access to the 13 communications isn't a waiver of confidentiality requirements
14 of privilege, or there is no common interest. There is no
15 joint client interest, and the debtor having access to the 16 documents is a waiver. But either way, the Committee should be 17 provided with the documents under the terms of the final term
18 sheet because the Committee is standing in the debtor's shoes
19 with regard to those estate claims, and the debtor has 20 conceded, and the Court has, you know, ordered that those 21 documents should be -- that the privilege isn't waived. The 22 privilege should be shared with the Committee, it's not 23 waived.

24           Separately, CLO Holdco has argued that it should be 25 able to conduct an independent review of the documents. As you

1 know, and I think we referenced in our hearing last week, the 2 impetus for the motion to compel is specifically the need for 3 expedited access to documents related to CLO Holdco so that we
4 can comply with the Court's 90-day deadline.

5 CLO Holdco entered into the shared service agreement,
6 it agreed to allow the debtor have access to this material, the 7 debtor has that data. And we don't think they can now seek to 8 claw back access to the ESI that's in the debtor's possession.

9 The remaining objectors, Your Honor, stand in a
10 slightly different position. CCS Medical and MGM, in 11 particular, are bringing objections, not based on the shared 12 service agreement, but based upon the facts that there are 13 employees of the debtor that have served in board positions for 14 each of those entities.

15 But, you know, based on the information that we have 16 to date, we understand that that -- that those board positions
17 were obtained pursuant to investments or other relationships
18 with the debtor, and that the debtor has or had relationship 19 with those entities outside of the board position. And those 20 additional relationships that are separate from board
21 membership make it very difficult to craft searches that would 22 exclude only outside information related to board service.

23 And so while the Committee doesn't necessarily have 24 an objection to attempts to isolate the communications that are 25 truly related to board service, we've had difficulty

1 negotiating the terms of what that would look like with MGM, at 2 least. We haven't had an opportunity to speak with CCS Medical
3 because -- because of its overlap, Your Honor.

4 We also think -- and this is set forth in our 5 documents -- that it's possible that the documents that were 6 shared with the debtor are -- have been waived, to the extent
7 that there was any privilege associated with it because of the 8 way that the debtor maintains its email servers.

9 And then I believe finally, the last objection that 10 has been filed with the Court for today is from Mr. Dondero.
11 And he argues that any data related to information that's being 12 produced under the protocols should not be made available to 13 Josh Terry, Acis Capital Management GP LLC, or Acis Capital
14 Management LP.

15 But there's nowhere in Dondero's briefing that sets
16 forth a basis of law for a categorical restriction of that 17 nature. And as you know, Mr. Dondero and his affiliated 18 entities are at the center of the Committee's investigation of 19 the estate claims. And we believe imposing a categorical
20 confidentiality ban against one member of a Committee would 21 considerably complicate and impede that investigation.

22 We understand a desire to have any documents that are 23 created in connection with pending litigation between Acis and 24 the debtor, Dondero, and other Dondero-related parties, that 25 that information be marked as attorneys' eyes only, highly

1 confidential so that only outside counsel has access to it, but
2 that's not really the basis for Mr. Dondero's objection, and as 3 a result, we don't believe that objection has value.

4 And then, Your Honor, I don't know to the extent you
5 intend to hear from NexBank Capital and its affiliates, and so
6 if -- I would like to reserve any sort of response to them --

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MS. MONTGOMERY: -- to the extent that you allow them
9 to speak.

10 But, you know, in concluding, Your Honor, the debtor
11 and its affiliates have interwoven so much of their operations, 12 their legal services, and even their data storage, that it's 13 incredibly difficult to try to pick apart the data, with the 14 exception of MGM and CCS, the objectors here today agreed to 15 those shared services, and now they want to argue that what was 16 shared was actually separate.

17 The Committee has been tasked with investigating the 18 estate's claims against the very affiliates that now seek to 19 unwind their information and said that unnecessary burdens to 20 production. And as a result, we request that those objections
21 be overturned, that the motion be granted, and that the ESI
22 subject to the motion to compel be produced to the Committee.

23 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me -- I'm just 24 going to go down the list of objectors.

25 Let me start with the two that Ms. Montgomery

1 announced have been resolved: Highland CLO Funding Limited.
2 Matsumura, were you going to be the one to weigh in on 3 confirming that?

4 MS. MATSUMURA: Yes, Your Honor. I can confirm we've 5 reached an agreement with the Committee that the documents that
6 are -- contain confidential and privileged information of HCLOF
7 will be produced on a highly confidential designation under the 8 protective order, so that will be only the Committee's 9 professionals.

10 And that as Ms. Montgomery stated, any of the 11 documents produced by the debtor pursuant to this agreement 12 will not be construed as a waiver of any privilege that the 13 funds share of those documents.

14 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

15 All right, what about HMC Fund Advisors? I
16 understand that your issues have been resolved, you're still 17 working out a couple of things, but who wants to weigh in on 18 that to confirm that?

19 MR. WRIGHT: Good afternoon, Your Honor. It's James
20 Wright at K&L Gates for -- actually a number of entities that 21 are all at Docket 841. There was an objection at 841 that's 22 HMC Fund Advisors, NexPoint Advisors, and then a number of 23 individual funds, and I will not burden the record with listing
24 each of them out.

25 THE COURT: Thank you.

1 MR. WRIGHT: I agree with the Committee's summary,
2 that we have made a lot of progress.

3 There are some technical things that we're still
4 working out, but I think that we're -- you know, we've been --
5 we've made a lot of progress, we've been working in good faith,
6 and -- get there -- but we just need a minute to -- we were on 7 the phone with them, frankly, ten minutes before this hearing
8 started, I think we just need a little bit more time.

9 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

10 All right. Well, why don't we start with Mr.
11 Dondero, and your objection which I understand deals mostly 12 with Acis and Josh Terry.

13 Go ahead.

14 MR. LYNN: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 As you've gathered, our concerns are somewhat
16 different from the other parties who are objecting. Mr.
17 Dondero agreed to the arrangement involving shared privilege in 18 allowing the Committee the kind of discovery that they're 19 seeking here.

20 And accordingly, we would (indiscernible) object to 21 what they're doing.

22 But as I understand the Committee's response to the 23 Dondero response to the motion to compel, (indiscernible)
24 because, first, there is no basis in law (indiscernible) Acis
25 and Mr. Terry (indiscernible) and participate (indiscernible)

1 in consideration of the estate claims.

2 And second, (indiscernible) and I quote,
3 "considerably complicate and impede the Committee's
4 investigation."

5 Even assuming for a minute that Acis and Mr. Terry
6 are so central to the investigation that their absence from it
7 could not be tolerated by a Committee, just as there may be 8 nothing in the statute that permits the Court specifically to 9 restrict Mr. Terry and Acis's access to information so, too,
10 there's nothing in the Bankruptcy Code or the Bankruptcy Rules
11 that prevents the Court from doing so.

12 There is (indiscernible) the authority for the 13 Bankruptcy Court to grant what Mr. Dondero asks, which is that 14 Acis and Mr. Terry be excluded from the information gained by 15 the Committee during the course of its investigation. Section
16 105, as this Court is acutely aware, is the problem-solving
17 section of the Bankruptcy Code that allows the Court to fashion
18 results that may be necessary to fill in gaps that the Code
19 leaves open.

20 There was nothing in the law that authorized it, even
21 before the passage of Section (indiscernible) of the Code, it
22 was common for (indiscernible) representatives are 23 (indiscernible). And, indeed, (indiscernible) representatives
24 are also (indiscernible) in other (indiscernible).

25 Similarly, I know of nothing in the Code or the Rules

1 that provides for the retention of a Chief Restructuring
2 Officer. Yet, Section 105 has allowed for that necessary post,
3 as is true (indiscernible) which are also not provided for in 4 the law.

5 In this case, (indiscernible) Section 105 has been 6 used to justify an independent board, and to justify the very
7 same privilege that is at the root of the disputes. Section
8 105 (indiscernible) to justify the removal by a court of a
9 member of the Creditors' Committee. That's in the First 10 Republic Bank Corporation case, Judge Felsenthal determined
11 that he had the authority to remove, and he chose to remove, a 12 member of the Creditors' Committee. A similar result was 13 reached in the MAP International case out of the Eastern 14 District of Pennsylvania, and a similar result (indiscernible)
15 following Judge Felsenthal was reached by the Bankruptcy Court
16 for the District of Arizona in In Re America West Airlines.

17 If the Bankruptcy Court has authority pursuant to 18 Section 105 to remove a Committee member, clearly Section 105
19 gives authority to the Court to eliminate a member's access to 20 and involvement in an investigation that will give that 21 Committee member a leg-up in discovery in another case.

22 In the litigation commenced by Acis is, indeed, in 23 another case, not in this case, and the litigation is intended
24 to provide a benefit -- a windfall to Mr. Terry, not to provide 25 (indiscernible) who he is supposed to be representing as a

1 member of the Creditors' Committee.

2 As pointed out in an article in The Review of Banking
3 and Financial Services in October of 2016, "Members of a
4 Creditors' Committee may not use their positions as Committee
5 members to advance their individual interests." And I'm 6 quoting there the MAP International case. Similarly, that 7 fight has been made by Collier in Paragraph 1102.05[3] of the 8 Collier treatise.

9 Indeed, the Acis litigation may not only drain assets
10 from Highland, it may reduce the (indiscernible) Dondero and 11 other potential defendants in the same causes of action as to 12 their ability to (indiscernible) any judgment that defendants
13 may manage to obtain.

14 Under those circumstances, unsecured creditors
15 represented by Acis and Mr. Terry will have their recovery
16 reduced by virtue of those judgments.

17 It is clear that the Bankruptcy Court may restrict a
18 committee member's access to information, as Collier points
19 out, where a member of a committee is a competitor of the 20 debtor, as, indeed, Acis is, the member may be restricted as to 21 the information that the member gets so it does not obtain
22 competitive advantage.

23 I recognize that the same claims may be, indeed, a
24 central concern of the Committee, (indiscernible) with Acis and 25 Mr. Terry creates serious problems, perhaps Mr. Terry should

1 resign from the Committee or be removed.

2 In fact, in this case, when UBS filed the motion for
3 relief from stay in order to pursue litigation in New York,
4 very properly, UBS excluded itself -- recused itself from 5 discussion of the motion for relief from stay. And Mr. Terry,
6 I respectfully submit, should do the same here.

7 Further, as far as complicating and repeating the 8 Committee's investigation, and the Committee did not elucidate
9 how that would happen, whatever trouble or cost (indiscernible)
10 Acis and Mr. Terry may cost is nothing compared to the trouble
11 and cost to the debtor of complying with a request for millions
12 and millions of communications.

13 In conclusion, Your Honor, in litigation such as that 14 being pursued by Acis in the Acis case, as courts have said,
15 the Federal Rules were designed to create, quote, "a level
16 playing field," end quote.

17 A couple of those cases, the Hillsborough Holding 18 decision of the Bankruptcy Court out of the Middle District of 19 Florida; Allstate Insurance versus Electrolux out of the 20 Northern District of Illinois; and Passlogix, Inc. versus 2FA
21 Tech out of the Southern District of New York.

22 Yet the motion to compel is brought without 23 protection from (indiscernible) that Acis seeks, there clearly 24 will be no level playing field in that litigation. And the 25 commitment of this Court (indiscernible) in general to

1 (indiscernible) litigation processes will be undermined.

2 Your Honor, if anybody wants cites to any of these
3 authorities that I provided to the Court, I'll be happy to 4 provide them.

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, I appreciate
6 that.

7 I'm going to go next to --

8 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, I didn't hear you.

9 THE COURT: Pardon? I thanked you for your argument,
10 and I do not need those case cites.

11 I'm going to go next to CLO Holdco. Mr. Kane, will 12 you be making the argument there?

13 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor, I will; thank you for the 14 time. This is John Kane for CLO Holdco, for the record.

15 And first, I want to start by kind of acknowledging
16 that we really did take to heart what you said previously in 17 attempts to avoid unnecessary litigation. I've been working 18 with Ms. Montgomery for over a week now in an effort to try and 19 resolve some of our concerns about the discovery requests, at 20 the same time trying to be mindful of what I believe to be my 21 client's privileges and our right (indiscernible) the party
22 that reviews documents and produces them.

23 We are -- CLO Holdco is subject to a request for 24 production of documents from the Committee. We are working to 25 prepare a review, to obtain all of the requisite documents to

1 have a fulsome production to the Committee. And Ms. Montgomery
2 and I have had conversations about how that production will
3 take place. While we acknowledge that there are obviously some 4 timing concerns here given the 90 days relating to that 5 registry order that was relatively recently entered.

6 So we've mindful of all of those issues, and our 7 dispute here is about whether we're giving up privileged 8 documents or whether we aren't.

9 It's our position that since that request for 10 production of documents to CLO Holdco, CLO Holdco has a right
11 to review those documents, and to produce documents in 12 accordance with the Federal Rules. And that the request by the 13 Committee to have all ESI produced by these various custodians
14 basically provides an end around to the request for production
15 of documents delivered to CLO Holdco. And it does look through 16 the guise of this joint client privilege exception to the 17 general privilege rules.

18 But we've got a fundamental misunderstanding of the 19 law by the Committee as the exception applies to the general
20 rule of privilege. And it basically breaks down to a simple
21 analogy, one we can apply to the case of law. The analogy
22 would be like if our firm, Kane Russell Coleman and Logan,
23 represented Texas Capital Bank and Wells Fargo on a bunch of 24 separate matters, and then because we had a great relationship
25 with both, we are going to represent Texas Capital Bank in a

1 merger with Wells Fargo, and we are going to be retained as
2 kind of a mutual third party counsel by both sides to help
3 manage this merger.

4           Now if that merger representation turned into a later
5 dispute between the parties, the correspondence between Wells
6 Fargo and Kane Russell Coleman and Logan, and the 7 correspondence between Texas Capital Bank and Kane Russell
8 Coleman and Logan would not be precluded from production to 9 either party as long as it were (indiscernible) representation.
10 They have the same counsel for the same representation. So
11 that this idea of privilege doesn't really apply the same way.
12 Those documents pass back and forth, I have a duty to both of 13 those clients equally.

14           But what they wouldn't be able to obtain is, let's
15 say, Texas Capital Bank's request for production of documents
16 to me, counsel, seeking all correspondence that I have ever had 17 with Wells Fargo on any other matter, regardless of whether it
18 was -- it was related to or unrelated to a joint 19 representation. And really, that's what the Committee is 20 trying to do here, they want all ESI, there are no parameters.
21 So it doesn't matter if there's a joint representation on a
22 specific matter between CLO Holdco and the debtor, what the 23 Committee is asserting is because they use the same counsel, 24 that all matters or all correspondence between counsel for the 25 debtor, all internal counsel, and counsel for CLO Holdco, since

1 it was essentially the same person, the same people, all of 2 that is subject to production.

3           So here's an example of how this plays out, Your
4 Honor. At our last hearing, you heard a bunch of testimony
5 about a transfer of Highland, the debtor's interest in the 6 Dynamic fund, and how on December 28, 2016, with one document,
7 we can trace -- I'm sorry -- we can trace this trail of 8 transfers from Highland to CLO Holdco, and we know that 9 Highland's internal counsel was representing both sides of the 10 deal. They were representing the debtor, they were also 11 representing CLO Holdco as the creation of those documents was 12 done for both parties by the same entity and the same
13 transaction, that's critical.

14           So do I have an assertion of privilege for CLO Holdco
15 in that situation? No, I don't believe that I do. I think 16 that joint client exception that's addressed in Teleglobe, and 17 Nguyen, and in the Nester decision that's cited by the 18 Committee in their pleadings precludes me from stopping the -- 19 or the disclosure of documents that were between internal 20 counsel and CLO Holdco as they're related to that dynamic
21 transaction because internal counsel at Highland represented
22 both sides of the deal.

23           But there are other representations taken up by 24 internal counsel for Highland under the shared services
25 agreement between CLO Holdco and Highland that really don't

1 have anything to do with Highland. So much (indiscernible)
2 litigation, we'll say, between CLO Holdco and some other party
3 like U.S. Bank that does not have Highland Capital Management
4 as a party to that litigation, and could not have Highland
5 Capital Management as a party to that litigation.

6 (Indiscernible) under this joint client privilege
7 exception that the Committee is asserting should control this 8 entire deal. So in a situation like that, I would still be 9 able to review and withhold documents that were privileged,
10 attorney-client communications, or work product communications
11 without having to disclose those to the Committee even though
12 the Committee stands in the debtor's shoes. Because there is 13 this isolation, Highland is not a party that is jointly 14 represented in that transaction.

15 So all of the documents that have been exchanged
16 between CLO Holdco and the debtor in representations where the 17 debtor is not an active participant as a party in a joint 18 representation, all of that documentation is the sole property
19 of CLO Holdco. It shouldn't be subject to disclosure simply 20 because one of these custodians engaged in correspondence with 21 CLO Holdco.

22 So, for instance, the Argentina Bank, let's say, if
23 Highland is not being represented in a transaction with CLO
24 Holdco related to the Argentina Bank, and Grant Scott, as 25 trustee of CLO Holdco, inquires internally about a -- let's say

1 a NAV statement related to its interest, that's not necessarily
2 a document that would have to be produced to the Committee
3 because it is a potentially privileged communication if it was 4 with one of the attorneys in-house.

5 Now that doesn't mean that everything is going to be 6 privilege, or that there aren't going to be a significant 7 number of these joint client privilege exceptions where we have 8 to disclose attorney-client communications because Highland was 9 on the other side of the transaction, but that's something that 10 I should be reviewing as CLO Holdco's attorney, and identifying 11 documents for a privilege log, and then having a conversation
12 with the Committee's counsel about whether these are subject to 13 the joint client privilege exception, or whether they are truly
14 privileged documents or not.

15 So we've already got a request for production out
16 there. I mean presumably, Your Honor, this is already -- you
17 know, this is already underway. What we just want to do is try
18 and protect the documents that are actually privileged 19 communications or work product communications from disclosure
20 to the Committee.

21 THE COURT: All right; thank you, Mr. Kane.

22 Let me hear next from NexPoint Real Estate Financial.

23 (No audible response heard)

24 THE COURT: All right. I can't hear you. Is this 25 Ms. Drawhorn who will be addressing this one?

1 MS. DRAWHORN: Can you hear me -- can you --

2 THE COURT: Yes.

3 MS. DRAWHORN: Can you hear me now?

4 THE COURT: I can.

5 MS. DRAWHORN: Okay. I had to unmute both my phone
6 and the -- and the computer, okay.

7 Lauren Drawhorn on behalf of NexPoint Real Estate
8 Finance and the 15 related entities and -- that are listed on 9 Docket 847, I won't go through them all.

10 So our -- one of the -- we've got a couple issues
11 with the motion to compel relative to our shared services
12 agreement with the debtor, and largely because of the breadth
13 of the request wanting ESI from all nine of these custodians.
14 And we have concerns that because there are no limits on that 15 request, that we've got our confidentiality and privilege
16 issues that are concerned about.

17 The real estate entities are -- NexPoint Real
18 Estate entities are typically traded, and there are some 19 regulatory constraints that we have on the dissemination of 20 information and it being public. And so obviously we need to 21 protect those interests and try and prohibit the disclosure of 22 information.

23 While there -- while the NexPoint Real Estate
24 entities do -- did have a shared services agreement, it is the 25 businesses unrelated to and separate from Highland, except for

1 the occasional times when they co-invested.

2           So generally speaking, they were separate businesses.
3 Any use of services from Highland employees under the shared
4 services would be for separate deals. And so because they're 5 separate, we believe that it's unlikely that they would be 6 relevant to the estate claims.

7           In other words, the request should be narrowed to 8 limit the amount of information that's not related to the 9 Committee's estate claims, (indiscernible) related to NexPoint
10 Real Estate entities' deals and confidential information and 11 business information.

12           The other issue we have in connection with 13 confidentiality is in connection with NexPoint Real Estate's
14 entities business operations. They continue to receive 15 information electronically from third parties that have been 16 the subject -- that information was provided subject to 17 confidentiality agreements there. So under those agreements
18 with other parties, there are requirements and obligations for 19 NexPoint Real Estate entities to notify those parties and 20 provide them an opportunity to object.

21           So we are wanting the additional protections and 22 limits on the discovery to protect this confidential
23 information and our obligations to other parties, and to 24 regulatory entities.

25           We also have concerns on the privilege -- any

1 privilege information, again, since these custodians were 2 counsel, and provided -- occasionally provided legal advice in 3 connection with NexPoint Real Estate entities' deals that,
4 again, were unrelated to Highland and separate from the debtor.
5 That information will be -- would be privileged and
6 (indiscernible) NexPoint Real Estate entities' privilege
7 (indiscernible) position you just heard, and the Committee's
8 response is that that was waived or part of this joint client,
9 and we disagree with that. Where the legal advice was given on 10 a separate matter, there would be no joint privilege between 11 the NexPoint Real Estate entities and the debtor. We think 12 that that privilege should be protected, and the privileged 13 documents should be withheld from the production.

14           The Committee responded by their -- that we -- that 15 NexPoint Real Estate entities are not burden. We did argue in 16 our objection that this request, under 26(b) (indiscernible)
17 because it was also an undue burden because it's so broad -- so
18 broad. And that burden (indiscernible), as you know, isn't 19 required to be the physical burden of us going through and 20 producing documents. An undue burden encompasses the invasion
21 of confidential information and privilege concerns. So we 22 think that there is a good basis to limit the information that 23 is being produced to protect NexPoint Real Estate entities'
24 confidential information and business information.

25           So what we're requesting we suggested in our

1 objection was to allow NexPoint -- the NexPoint Real Estate
2 entities to have input on the search terms that would narrow
3 the production and potentially exclude the NexPoint Real Estate
4 entities' confidential information, information that would be
5 unrelated to the Committee's estate claims.

6           We also requested that NexPoint be given an
7 opportunity to review the documents -- the NexPoint documents
8 before produced -- and this is similar to what is my 9 understanding the debtor would -- for all of the -- the 10 previous production that was provided. So it is my 11 understanding that before the debtor produced any document that 12 instituted the shared services agreement, confidentiality
13 privileges, they contacted that party and said "Here's this 14 document that we're going to produce, are you okay with it?
15 Are you okay with it, is there any objection?"

16           And so that's all we're requesting is an opportunity
17 that the NexPoint documents that -- that are potentially giving 18 -- to make sure that they're designated correctly under the 19 protective order, so as highly confidential versus
20 confidential, again, because of those confidentiality concerns
21 that I mentioned earlier. And then also to confirm the 22 privilege designation and to make sure anything privileged is 23 not being produced.

24           And then the last request we have is just to make 25 NexPoint a party to the protective order so that we are able to

1 obtain those protections as the highly confidential and 2 confidential designations.

3 THE COURT: All right; thank you, Ms. Drawhorn.

4 All right, let's see. How about we hear from Atlas
5 IDF GP next.

6 MR. KEIFFER: Thank you, Your Honor. Paul Keiffer
7 for the Atlas IDF entities and parties located at -- or I
8 should say named at Docket Number 837, I won't burden the 9 Court, as others have not done, as well, with the full list of 10 parties.

11 And also taking in mind -- or keeping in mind what 12 the Committee has done as far as discussing issues, I want to -
13 - I have just a few points:

14 First off is that my clients don't have a specific 15 concern with the ESI request. The shared privileges and the 16 joint privilege is supposed to hold, we want that to hold as it
17 has been requested for everybody else, and I think that was the 18 intent of the Committee in regard to that point.

19 It's also, as the Committee indicated, between the 20 debtor and the -- I'm sorry -- between the Committee and the 21 Rand Advisors' related entities that they want to be expressly 22 involved or brought into the agreed protective order. Lots of 23 documents are being requested, not so much through the 24 electronic -- the ESI, but through the fourth production of 25 documents request that we got that -- which we received on the

1 9th of July that gave us six days to respond to, and that's why
2 we started talking and having discussions with the Committee
3 about this.

4 But there -- there there's all these document
5 requests, and we have our own fiduciary duties, we -- either
6 contractually, statutorily, or regulatorily. And as the 7 Committee noted, they'd be perfectly fine with having us being 8 brought into (indiscernible) -- whatever you want to call the 9 right under the coverage of agreed protective order. We're not 10 expressly under it because we're -- we're not a specific party
11 to it, but we need to be -- we feel it's the most appropriate
12 for us, too, in this context, and they've acknowledged that 13 it's a reasonable step to be added to the agreed protective 14 order, so we're happy with that.

15 As far as the documents being produced, the only --
16 the principal attached -- the principal issue for Rand Advisors
17 there is that it's principally its email server issue. Rand
18 Advisors, and the others, have their on documents on its own
19 servers, as best as I understand. And so it's really more
20 documents that would be appended to emails and discussions
21 between the parties, either in the context of (indiscernible)
22 some of the nine individuals that are custodians, that they're 23 described as custodians or otherwise.

24 But the UCC has agreed to let whatever documents are 25 produced in that context, both through the ESI and through the

1 request for production that's outlined there, that we're having
2 to respond to under the shared services agreement with the 3 debtor. But those would also be subject to highly confidential
4 status, subject to the Committee seeking to downgrade to 5 confidential, or not confidential at all.

6 Now the other issue is the attorney-client privilege
7 where Rand Advisors and the others were generally using 8 RandAdvisors.com suffix, would have negotiations and 9 discussions with its own private counsels. And the question
10 here, we don't -- I'm not sure whether or not the shared -- I
11 mean the servers are or are not sufficiently silo'd or 12 otherwise.

13 But we really don't have that hard of an issue here -
14 - that difficult of an issue here as we only -- there's only 15 three defined suffixes that are out there that would be of 16 concern to the Rand Advisor entities, and those are suffixes
17 such as romclaw.com, our law firm, we didn't realize that that 18 was the case. Also, there would be maybe Sadis -- Sadis or -- 19 another law firm, maybe three or five suffixes we need to have 20 set aside for attorney-client privilege review. And if we have 21 those, I think that the Rand Advisor group has gotten what they 22 -- what they think is reasonably appropriate under the 23 circumstances.

24 And we're not asking the Court to, you know -- well,
25 we don't see this as truly a request for production, it's kind

1 of a hybrid kind of a (indiscernible). But under the shared
2 services and the final term sheet, and that allows access, lets
3 the Committee be the debtor and get to many things, but yet
4 they use request for productions as a methodology to say what 5 they're looking for, but they're not really requests for 6 production, per se, because it's -- I've already got it now,
7 this is (indiscernible) debtor, it's what we can look at.

8           And so we're wanting to make sure that we have under 9 our side of this relationship under the shared service
10 agreement some modicum of protection for its specific attorney-
11 client issues that it has. We recognize the joint privilege
12 issue, that's going to (indiscernible). But there are three to 13 five very simple suffixes as we can give to the Committee for 14 doing its search (indiscernible) romclaw.com, that's my law
15 firm, it would know not to go -- you know, set those aside.
16 There's one or two other law firms that they deal with 17 specifically, and if they go through the next step, and it
18 turns out that there's three or four other people on the email
19 that aren't part of Rand Advisor that's something with the 20 debtor or some third party altogether, then sure, there's no
21 privilege there.

22           But if it's the discussions between Rand Advisor
23 entities and its counsels specifically, then it should be 24 something that's set aside and reviewed in a different manner.
25 And I don't think it's really even close to burdensome in the

1 context of how much is going on in this case, and how many
2 documents are going to be reviewed.

3 That's principally our concern. We are -- that's 4 another suggested solution to deal with the two elements that 5 we raised in our response on Pages 6 and 8 to a likely
6 solution, which is to basically deal with attorney-client
7 privileges, subpart C, is just to have these exclusion --
8 exclusionary suffixes to address that, very simple.

9 The rest of this, as far as having a log to keep 10 produced items in its context, to be able to (indiscernible)
11 what documents were produced, well, that's probably a bridge
12 too far. We don't need to have that, we don't think that's 13 (indiscernible) concern for us.

14 So keeping up with the few things, the agreed
15 protective order being made expressly applicable to us so that 16 for our purposes, when we have to deal with issues of 17 confidentiality regarding our clients contractually,
18 statutorily, or regulatorily, that's the (indiscernible) I
19 think there's always a legal process (indiscernible).

20 Two, that everything gets a highly confidential
21 status initially, and subject to being downgraded, obviously 22 with notice and opportunity to object.

23 And then lastly, just that the three suffixes be 24 added to the review standard so that -- three to five suffixes,
25 and I'll have those easily enough in the next few days to give

1 to the Committee to allow me to preserve its attorney-client
2 privilege without having to go into the issue of whether or not
3 this is a means by which Rule 34, or the other appropriate
4 discovery rules, are really being invoked or not in this
5 context, or whether this is just "I'm standing in the debtor's
6 shoes, and I should be able to do these things." It's -- 7 that's an odd -- we can bypass that oddity by dealing with 8 those requested suffixes being set aside.

9 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

10 All right, let's hear from CCS, please.

11 MS. STRATFORD: Good afternoon, Your Honor. This is 12 Tracy Stratford from Jones Day on behalf of CCS Medical.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. STRATFORD: Our concern is relatively narrow and 15 unique. CCS is one of the country's leading providers of home
16 delivery medical services. And so they deliver things like 17 insulin pumps and orthotics to people in their homes.

18 Two of Highland's employees, Mr. Parker and Mr.
19 Dondero, were directors of CCS Medical. And so CCS Medical 20 sent information to them, sensitive business information about 21 the strategic direction of the business, about pricing, about 22 what the business would be doing or wouldn't be doing, about 23 decision-making that would happen within CCS Medical. That 24 sensitive information was sent to the director, including these 25 two individuals who were employed by Highland at their Highland

1 email addresses.

2 All we're asking is for the ability to look through
3 these emails first so that we can identify anything that is 4 competitively sensitive, so that we can identify anything that
5 is privileged, and talk to the Committee about it separately.

6 We don't know, frankly, what the claims are that the 7 Committee is looking to press, so I can't say that none of it
8 is relevant, although it doesn't seem to be particularly 9 relevant to what's being discussed today.

10 But to the extent that some of those documents might 11 be relevant, the non-privileged ones, but commercially
12 sensitive ones, we want to have that discussion. We would like 13 the ability to look at those documents first, and that would be 14 at our cost, so there's no cost to the estate. We don't think 15 it would take particularly long.

16 And we would have offered the solution directly to 17 the Committee, but they wouldn't return our phone calls. So
18 we've sent emails, we've called them, and heard nothing back.
19 We would have loved to have negotiated this, but that didn't
20 happen.

21 The only argument that the Committee makes in 22 response to our suggestion, which were laid out pretty clearly
23 in our very short objection, is that there's a privilege waiver
24 here, or a waiver of confidentiality because we sent this 25 information to these two board members who were employed by

1 Highland. (Inaudible) as a matter of law. And the very case
2 that they cite in their papers explains that.

3 If you take a look at the In Re Royce Homes case that 4 they cite in their response to the objection, what they say is
5 that once you send confidential information to another
6 corporation, the privilege is automatically waived. That's not
7 the case.

8 In fact, if you look at that case, it's very lengthy 9 because the Court looks at a number of factors. And amongst 10 those factors is the expectation that the sender has that the 11 recipient will be able to maintain the information as 12 confidential or protected.

13 Here we have two executives at Highland who were 14 receiving information as members of the board of directors,
15 they controlled the company, they had the ability to control
16 who reviewed their email, and CCS Medical had every reason to 17 believe that those two directors would preserve their duty of 18 loyalty to the company and maintain their individual emails as 19 confidential. There's no waiver under that circumstance.

20 But to the extent that this issue is one that needs
21 to be decided, it can't be decided on these papers because none
22 of those facts are before the Court. None of the factors that 23 are discussed in the In Re Royce Homes case are -- have been 24 briefed.

25 And so to the extent that we're going to discuss a

1 waiver, we would like the opportunity to do that. We don't
2 think the Court ever needs to reach this issue because we think
3 that we can, in a very efficient and effective way, screen the 4 emails by just having the vendor search for particular domains,
5 review them ourselves, identify what's privileged. And what's 6 not privileged, we can turn over.

7 To the extent there's any dispute later on, we can 8 bring it before the Court at that time, but we think this is an
9 easy problem to solve, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Thank you.

11 MS. STRATFORD: Thank you.

12 THE COURT: All right.

13 Well, let's see who I missed. Ms. Drawhorn, did you
14 have a separate argument for MGM?

15 MS. DRAWHORN: Yes, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Okay, go ahead.

17 MS. DRAWHORN: I do.

18 THE COURT: All right.

19 MS. DRAWHORN: And so MGM is in a similar situation
20 to the party you just heard. And the only reason that MGM is 21 being pulled into the discovery dispute is because Mr. Dondero
22 served as a director on the -- on the board of directors for 23 MGM.

24 So we also believe -- and we have been in discussions
25 with the Committee about potentially pulling out or excluding

1 certain MGM information just by providing a list of the emails,
2 the dot-com of the other executives, or executive assistants,
3 or other board of directors members who would be sending 4 confidential information that was circulated just because --
5 for purposes of the board of directors of MGM and for MGM
6 business matters.

7           So we -- we agree and -- or disagree with the 8 Committee, and agree with the position you just heard. The 9 Committee's response to our -- to MGM's objection is that we
10 waived by sending confidential MGM information to Mr. Dondero's
11 account at Highland, that waived conference or privilege, and 12 we disagree with that. We -- we just heard that sending to an 13 employer's email account in and of itself is not sufficient to 14 waive privilege or confidentiality. There are a multitude of 15 factors that need to be considered, including the expectation
16 of privacy in considering the fiduciary duties of board of 17 directors under California law, which is where MGM operates.
18 That that confidentiality is one of the fiduciary duties.

19           We would expect that sending information to our 20 directors would remain confidential. And just the mere fact
21 that he utilized his -- Mr. Dondero utilized his Highland email
22 account would not be sufficient to waive any confidentiality or 23 any privilege.

24           And then I -- I -- it is hard to believe that 25 anything MGM-related would be extremely relevant to the

1 Committee's claims, but regardless, I think there's an easy way
2 to pull that information and make sure that nothing is being
3 disclosed, which would be by providing these specific email
4 addresses of outside counsel to MGM's board of directors.
5 We've got, you know, two -- two counsels that would not have
6 provided any services to the debtor, that we can say anything
7 at those email addresses should get excluded from production.

8 Same with the outside advisors to the MGM board, we 9 can easily provide that email address and have that information
10 excluded.

11 And then as to the other confidential MGM
12 information, we have a list of the executives and their 13 assistants, we would have provided -- and other board members,
14 we would have provided that. I just think it should be fairly 15 easy to give those email addresses and exclude them from the 16 production, and make sure that that confidentiality and 17 privilege is maintained and protected.

18 THE COURT: All right; thank you, Ms. Drawhorn.

19 Okay, NexBank's counsel, you were going to try to 20 knock my socks off with a reason why I should hear your 21 argument today when you didn't file an objection. So, Counsel, 22 now's your chance.

23 MR. SLADE: I appreciate it, Your Honor; thank you
24 very much. Jared Slade of Alston & Bird for NexBank.

25 NexBank advances the same arguments about concern of

1 counterparty confidential information, as well as attorney-
2 client privilege concerns. And to that end, it's requested
3 some preview time to be able to review the documents and 4 provide the appropriate search terms.

5 I think there are three things which will happen in 6 the next 50 seconds that make us differently situated:

7 The first is unlike the other objectors, our shared 8 services agreement provides expressly that debtor shall take 9 all options, legal or otherwise, that are necessary to prevent 10 the disclosure of confidential information by the receiving
11 party or any of its representatives. So we have a different
12 legal basis that was addressed in part in the debtor's motion
13 originally on this issue.

14 The reason we have that is because we're a bank, and 15 we have two other categories of information that are 16 particularly sensitive and we're concerned about being
17 disclosed:

18 The first are bank examination materials. Privilege
19 is a part of those, and we are very concerned about an issue or 20 problem with our regulators in connection with the fact that we 21 have, in fact, taken appropriate steps to try to protect those 22 and treat those as privileged and confidential information.

23 The other category of information is consumer
24 information. We're talking about things protected by 25 (indiscernible) and other consumer information which are

1 protected in the statutes.

2           Again, we're willing to go through the effort and
3 expense to be given an opportunity to be able to review that 4 because (indiscernible) that any of that is going to be 5 relevant to what the Creditors' Committee is looking at, that 6 we understand where we are. And provided that we are able to 7 do that, and are also afforded an opportunity by the Court to
