8 be a party to the protective orders so we can take advantage of 9 the designations and not be prohibited from the (indiscernible)
10 third party beneficiary provision, we should be able to meet
11 our obligation.

12           Thank you, Your Honor.

13           THE COURT: All right; thank you.

14           All right, Ms. Montgomery, I'm going to turn back to 15 you. And let me make sure I understand entirely your position
16 on all of these objectors.

17           You have said -- correct me if I'm wrong -- the 18 Committee has no problem with making all of these objectors
19 subject to the protective order that was negotiated with the 20 debtor way back when in January, or did I overspeak -- overstep
21 on that one?

22                           (No audible response heard)

23           THE COURT: Ms. Montgomery, I can't hear you.

24                           (No audible response heard)

25           THE COURT: Ms. Montgomery, you must be on mute.

1 Michael, is she still on there?

2 ECRO: (Inaudible).

3 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Montgomery, we're showing
4 you're on mute. There you are, okay.

5 MS. MONTGOMERY: Can you -- can you understand me
6 now?

7 THE COURT: Yes.

8 MS. MONTGOMERY: Okay. I don't know what happened, I
9 didn't touch anything.

10 THE COURT: That's okay.

11 MS. MONTGOMERY: Technology.

12 No, Your Honor, you're accurate -- that is accurate.
13 We don't have any problem with any of the objectors being made 14 parties to the protective order for purposes of, you know, for 15 their clients to be subject to the same -- the same
16 protections.

17 THE COURT: All right. And then my next thing I
18 wanted to confirm is that protective order, is it already 19 worded that it's UCC professionals' eyes only or no?

20 MS. MONTGOMERY: So the current -- the current 21 protective order has two tiers.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MS. MONTGOMERY And the highly confidential tier has 24 a very -- a much more limited disclosure group, it includes the 25 Court, it includes the outside professionals, so I guess it

1 would be also FTI, etc.

2 And then, you know, other parties that would be, you
3 know, fundamentally necessary for us to use those -- that data,
4 like court reporters. It does not include the members of the 5 Committee.

6 THE COURT: All right, so you said it's two tiers.
7 You mean like there's highly confidential, that's professionals
8 and those people you named only; and then there's a second
9 tier, confidential, then the Committee members, the actual 10 businesspeople could see it?

11 MS. MONTGOMERY: That's absolutely right, but the 12 confidential data would still be subject to protection. So we 13 think it's a strong protective order, and should meet the needs
14 of all of the objectors.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Let me -- I'm giving you the last 16 word. You can respond in any way you want to all of these 17 eight or so separate arguments, but I would like you to start
18 first with CCS Medical and MGM. I think you acknowledged at 19 the beginning they're in a little bit different category, but 20 now that you've heard their lawyers articulate how they are 21 different, do you think that at least with these two, their 22 ability to first review anything you produce, or the debtor is 23 going to produce, relating to CCS Medical and MGM might be 24 reasonable?

25 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes, Your Honor.

1 I'd even go a step further. I mean we were working
2 to negotiate with MGM, and my apologies to Ms. Stratford
3 because I must have missed her communications, it was not
4 intentional; we would have happily negotiated the same with 5 regard to her. That those documents might even just be 6 excluded from the review subject to some specific, you know,
7 protections so that we can make sure that things aren't being 8 overly included.

9 So I think that the UCC would be open to a limited
10 review. The devil's in the details with all ESI, Your Honor,
11 so it would really just be determining to make that as targeted
12 as possible so it's not -- you know, it's not including 13 documents that don't have anything to do with the board's 14 service.

15 THE COURT: Okay. It's -- let me ponder what you
16 just said.

17 It would exclude anything not having to do with their 18 board service, Dondero or Trey Parker's board service.

19 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes. So we believe that because the 20 debtor has separate relationships potentially with these other
21 entities, we understand the concern with regard to the data
22 that's related to their role as a director.

23 But, for example, if there is communications between 24 Mr. Dondero and someone else at the debtor that just says like,
25 you know, "MGM stock is trending up," I don't know that that's

1 necessarily related to his status as a director as I don't know
2 that it's related to an estate claim. It's perhaps a bad
3 example, but the concept remains, Your Honor, we think that 4 there has to be a way to slice that so that all the parties are 5 getting the protection that they need for their confidential
6 board communications without overly dipping into the data
7 that's otherwise in the debtor's position.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 Well, let me -- let me go to Mr. Keiffer's client.
10 I'd like to hear your specific rebuttal to his idea that maybe 11 you can come up with three or five categories, suffix as he 12 called them, to just, at the outset, carve them out from the 13 possibility of Committee review.

14 MS. MONTGOMERY: So I'm not entirely certain that I
15 completely understood the proposal, Your Honor, and my 16 apologies for that. But I don't know that Mr. Keiffer is 17 suggesting that those categories be excluded from these nine 18 custodians that are the subject to the motion to compel, or if 19 he was requesting that there be some sort of exclusion that 20 applies to data that's otherwise produced related to his client
21 by the debtor, so maybe it's not in the nine custodians' data.

22 In any case, Your Honor, we're open to discussions to 23 try to resolve any of these objections. I don't know that 24 we've specifically discussed that with Mr. Keiffer, but we're 25 happy to do so. If it's limited in nature, and it's not going

1 to unnecessarily slow down production, you know, we're open to 2 talking about it.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let me -- let me make sure I
4 understand -- and I know this is subject to discussion with the 5 debtor when we break, but the UCC's proposed protocol here was 6 -- let me go through a couple of mechanics.

7 All the files of the nine custodians would be
8 provided to this E discovery vendor to put in a repository.
9 And then hopefully the debtor and the Creditors' Committee
10 would come up with a set of mutually agreeable privilege terms
11 to hopefully identify what would -- you agree be attorney-
12 client privilege or work product privilege so that the search
13 terms don't get to that privileged information.

14 If you have disputes, you're going to have a third
15 party neutral, you've discussed, to resolve the disputes about 16 those search terms.

17 And then all documents, not including those agreed
18 privilege terms, would get produced to the Committee, obviously 19 subject to the earlier agreed upon protective order, and then
20 the debtors contract attorneys would review the held back files
21 to see if they're really privileged, or not. And if not,
22 they'd be produced. And if they are, they would -- if they 23 think they are, a privilege log would be produced, and then any 24 disputes could be resolved by this neutral third party.

25 I don't know if that's still your protocol on the

1 table, but that's how I understood it to work from your papers.

2 I guess what I'm getting at is -- I'm pondering Mr.
3 Keiffer's argument, and really a few others. I mean if this is 4 what you're still holding fast to, I mean there's a lot of 5 opportunities along the way to protect attorney-client
6 privilege information of these affiliated entities, right?
7 You're going to first try to craft appropriate search terms so
8 as not to get at privileged information. If you can't get 9 agreements on those, you'll have the third party neutral weigh 10 in.

11 And then the documents that are turned up ultimately 12 through the search, the debtor's going to get a chance to 13 review for privilege and hold back.

14 I guess -- I guess the thought is the debtor's only
15 going to be looking towards its own privileged information, 16 not necessarily NexPoint, or Highland, CLO Funding, and the 17 others.

18 So -- I mean if you could address -- first off, is 19 that the protocol that's still on the table? Did I correctly
20 described the Creditors' Committee's proposed protocol?

21 MS. MONTGOMERY: Sorry. Yes, Your Honor, that's 22 what's set forth in our motion. We've been working with the 23 debtors to try to make that more functional; we haven't reached 24 an agreement yet. Perhaps we'll be able to do that when we 25 take a break in just a moment.

1 But, you know, we've been trying to figure out, Your
2 Honor, if there are ways that we can further limit the 3 production based on search terms in some way so that we can 4 limit the privilege logging and review that has to occur. But 5 like I said, that's -- that's outstanding at the moment, and I
6 don't know that the parties have an agreement or would be able
7 to reach an agreement. We're hopeful, but I'm not entirely 8 certain.

9 But otherwise, yes, Your Honor, I think you've pretty 10 well explained the protocol, with one exception, which is that 11 the privilege review that was proposed, that review would be to 12 determine whether or not the documents that were being produced
13 -- that were, you know, presumptively privileged were related
14 to estate claims. And if they were related to estate claims,
15 then those would be produced to the Committee under the terms
16 of the final term sheet.

17 If they are attorney-client privileged, and not 18 related to estate claims, then those would be withheld and 19 logged.

20 THE COURT: All right.

21 Well, let's go back to Mr. Keiffer's suggestion. I 22 mean if he -- okay. I was confused; I think Ms. Montgomery was 23 confused, too.

24 Mr. Keiffer, you had talked about these three or four 25 suffixes, and one of them would be your law firm if -- I think

1 what I was understanding, communications that went between
2 Atlas and your law firm; communications that went between Atlas
3 and one or two other outside counsel. Is that encapsulating
4 what you think could be crafted in here --

5 MR. KEIFFER: Yes, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: -- and excluded?

7 MR. KEIFFER: Yes, Your Honor, that's exactly what 8 we're talking about.

9 The reason I used "suffixes" just as a term because 10 after the act. So it's ROMCLAW.com is the suffix. And so if 11 you look for that -- if that is the part of the search terms
12 and, you know, you see that, and that means set aside, you see
13 my law firm's suffix on the email somewhere in that, then you
14 know that that's something you need to set aside, as well as 15 another law firm that they had would be SGLawyers.com, those 16 are the -- that's what was referencing, it's just an easy way.

17 We don't have a lot in our specific circumstance --
18 and I think it was also some of the more attenuating parties
19 that come in and -- complaining have been -- would be looking 20 for something like that, so if they had a -- maybe that's the 21 same thing that they're kind of looking for. But for us, it is 22 very simple terms, it's what the law firm email addresses are.
23 And when they show up, that's the search term that pushes them
24 aside.

25 THE COURT: All right.

1 MR. KEIFFER: Because that would okay, it's probably 2 something -- because before we even knew what was going on, we 3 were working on putting that proof of claim together that we
4 filed, we would have emails out there concerning circumstances
5 between myself and my client. And those would -- those 6 ostensibly would be available under the -- under the -- if it
7 were (indiscernible) litigated, and the Committee won that 8 issue, those would be available.

9 But we think the easier thing to do is just set them
10 side, let's not go down that road.

11 The other -- we think there's very few of those, and 12 we'll be happy to give them -- the suffixes in a few days.
13 I'll make sure Mr. Honis -- that my client representative gives 14 me all of those.

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 Well, Ms. Montgomery, again, I'm just looking through 17 my notes of your early comments. I mean you had put Mr.
18 Keiffer's client in a little bit of a separate category, right?
19 Saying it didn't appear that Atlas or Rand entities -- they're 20 one in the same, right? Or -- well, same group of clients or 21 same group of entities: Rand, Atlas --

22 MR. KEIFFER: They are, Your Honor, that's all --
23 they're all in my group.

24 THE COURT: Okay. So you had made the comment, Ms.
25 Montgomery, that they did not appear to share legal counsel.

1 MS. MONTGOMERY: I did.

2 THE COURT: In other words, the three in-house
3 lawyers that are custodians, right?

4 MS. MONTGOMERY: That's right, Your Honor. And I
5 think that our position would be because they don't share legal 6 counsel, if there were communications essentially from these 7 three law -- like law firm email addresses that are in these 8 nine custodial data, then those documents might not be 9 privileged.

10 If what Mr. Keiffer's concerned about is 11 communications not to these nine custodians that involve those 12 three or four addresses where there isn't sort of a debtor
13 representative involved, then I think that's a separate
14 situation, and we'd be more than willing to reach an agreement 15 regarding how those documents should be treated, whether it's 16 by review by Mr. Keiffer in logging or just exclusion from 17 review.

18 MR. KEIFFER: Your Honor, may I ask for one quick
19 clarification. We still want to maintain that to the extent I 20 don't know for sure whether -- what extent legal services were 21 or were not provided.

22 And to the extent that their joint privileges waived,
23 a way around those things, that's the better way of doing it
24 than to say that they've been waived and things. So let's just 25 let the joint client privilege point, which we previously

1 discussed, be the main means by which those go through. There
2 might be (indiscernible) discussions with one of the nine folks
3 that -- when Highland was involved in the transaction. There
4 may be a common interest privilege, etc. I think it has to 5 stay at that highly confidential level just because it's 6 (indiscernible) had it lowered in its tier -- I mean a tier --
7 or possible references, whether it's confidential, highly 8 confidential, confidential or not confidential at all.

9 THE COURT: Okay. I just --

10 MR. KEIFFER: That's the only --

11 THE COURT: I just got very confused. I think we 12 were discussing if -- if there are --

13 MR. KEIFFER: May I, Your Honor?

14 THE COURT: Yeah, I -- I -- well, if there are 15 communications from folks at Highland to these three or so law
16 firms that Atlas uses, then there could be an agreement those 17 are cut out -- carved out.

18 But if there is -- if there are communications from 19 the six other custodians who are not lawyers to Rand entity --
20 or -- or these law firms --

21 MR. KEIFFER: No, Your Honor --

22 THE COURT: I -- I --

23 MR. KEIFFER: Pardon me, Your Honor. The law firms
24 aren't really the issue here. Only the issue with regard to 25 seeking things through what is the shared server circumstance

1 in the email server.

2           An example may be that when there's an email that
3 comes in from Isaac to my client saying "You've got some 4 production requirements," and I'm on that email, I would
5 initially show up on that email, but that wouldn't be one that 6 would be as part of a shared services type of potential legal 7 discussions about current circumstances and telling me, "Oh, by 8 the way, we've been requested for this information under a
9 shared services agreement, you have X days to produce."

10           If, on the other hand, it's -- some years ago, back
11 when things were happening, not current, but years ago when 12 things were going on, that there was -- that there was an email
13 between my client's counsel and the debtor's counsel, there
14 would be the shared privilege or the joint privilege element
15 that would keep it at a different level, even though there may 16 be some other issues in regard to the shared services related 17 to privilege.

18           What we mentioned earlier -- and I think the 19 Committee's okay with this -- with the joint client privilege
20 is not affected by the process. And so that -- the only thing
21 that's really, really out here that adds to the circumstance is 22 where emails show the three to five dot-com addresses. That 23 they get set aside to go through a different -- go through a
24 process of review, you know, to see if they're attorney client
25 between myself and my client, or between previous counsels and

1 my clients, just as between them.

2 THE COURT: All right.

3 MR. KEIFFER: That's all we're really looking for in
4 that.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 Ms. Montgomery, again, I'm giving you the last word
7 in rebuttal to any of this you want to say at this point. But 8 I do hope you'll address one more thing as part of that, and 9 that is Mr. Dondero's arguments about Acis. I just want to 10 clarify I understand where you stand on that.

11 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes, Your Honor. With regard to Mr.
12 Dondero's arguments regarding Acis, we have no qualms with the 13 position that communications that are related to the Acis
14 litigation should be treated as outside counsel or highly 15 confidential -- at the highly confidential level, right? That 16 makes sense, Your Honor, and we're not trying to bypass
17 discovery on behalf of any of the members of the Committee, or 18 anything of that nature.

19 Our concern with the objection was that's not what's 20 being asked for. If Mr. Dondero had asked that communications
21 or documents that relate to the underlying litigation be not 22 provided to the members of the Committee, and held at only the 23 lawyers' eyes only, we wouldn't have had a problem with that.

24 Instead, what he's asking is that all documents not 25 be shared with one of the members of the Committee, and we

1 think that's overly broad. And, frankly, I'm unclear as to why
2 that would be necessary.

3 THE COURT: Okay; all right. Anything else you want
4 to say?

5 MS. MONTGOMERY: Only to the extent that you have 6 questions about any of the arguments that they made, Your 7 Honor. We don't want to take up more of your time than 8 necessary.

9 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm going to carve out
10 three specific areas, and then I'll just give you the more
11 broad ruling.

12 With regard to CCS Medical and MGM, I think they have 13 shown themselves to be in a more unique -- a unique situation
14 in contrast to the others since we certainly don't have any 15 issues of shared in-house lawyers, shared IT, and whatnot. We 16 just have the board connection to Mr. Dondero and Trey Parker
17 on CCS Medical, and with regard to Mr. Dondero and MGM.

18 So I do think these objectors should have the 19 independent ability to review before disclosure to the 20 Creditors' Committee, at their own cost, any information
21 pertaining to those two entities to make sure there's not any 22 privileged information they want to argue should be held back
23 or commercially sensitive information.

24 So, again, hopefully you all can amicably work out
25 the wording of that, but that is the concept of the ruling of

1 the Court.

2 Second, with regard to the Atlas/Rand parties, I
3 think that they should be entitled to a separate review of any 4 items that involve those dot-com law firm names to weigh in on 5 whether those are privileged.

6 And, of course, these are all subject to further
7 Court review and litigation before the Court if people cannot
8 agree on that. I say that, or the third party neutral, I guess
9 that would hopefully be the first step before any of this comes
10 to the Court.

11 So that is the special category as to Atlas/Rand.

12 As far as the Dondero argument, I do like the 13 suggestion, Ms. Montgomery, that you made that if there is any 14 documentation relating to Acis litigation that is produced to 15 the Committee, that it should be considered in that first 16 category that it's highly confidential, so it's for 17 professional eyes only; Mr. Terry or Acis businesspeople cannot 18 see that. But that it -- that's just a special category of 19 documents, any ESI that pertains to the Acis litigation,
20 wherever that litigation is pending, this Court, Guernsey,
21 State Court, wherever.

22 So all other objections are overruled except -- 23 obviously I do think it's important to do, Ms. Montgomery, what 24 you said you would do, and make all of these objectors
25 expressly parties who are subject to the original agreed

1 protective order. Okay, so I think that gives them some level
2 of protection. But I have been strongly persuaded in
3 everything I've heard today that there is a very strong chance
4 with regard to most of these entities that share legal counsel
5 with Highland, and share IT, and servers that we have had a
6 waiver of privilege, we have common interest privilege, joint 7 privilege, something of that regard to have impaired their 8 privilege arguments. So I'm just throwing that out there for 9 the benefit of everyone as far as future disputes that there 10 might be.

11 All right, Ms. Montgomery, do you have any questions
12 about that ruling?

13 MS. MONTGOMERY: (No audible response heard).

14 THE COURT: No? All right.

15 MS. MATSUMURA: Your Honor, may I make one brief
16 comment? This is Rebecca Matsumura for Highland CLO Funding.

17 THE COURT: Yes.

18 MS. MATSUMURA: I just wanted to clarify, we didn't 19 make it as an explicit part of our deal with the Committee that 20 we also be made party to the protective order. But we'd also 21 ask for that relief, as well as, you know, such being given to 22 all of the objectors.

23 THE COURT: Okay, the Court grants that request.

24 All right, Ms. Montgomery, anything else?

25 MS. MONTGOMERY: (No audible response heard).

1 THE COURT: Shall we break now to let the Committee
2 counsel and debtor counsel talk about their remaining
3 unresolved issues? How long of a break, Ms. Montgomery, do you
4 think you will need?

5 MS. MONTGOMERY: (No audible response heard).

6 THE COURT: Okay. I think you're on mute.

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, this is John Morris from 8 Pachulski on behalf of the debtor.

9 THE COURT: Oh, okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: I just -- yeah, I just need to put some 11 -- a couple of bells and whistles, it will probably take me two 12 minutes to finish-up an email from Ms. Montgomery. And then if 13 we could just -- I would suggest give us until -- 45 -- until I
14 guess 3:45 --

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 MR. MORRIS: -- local time.

17 THE COURT: All right. Well --

18 MR. MORRIS: And then see -- hopefully we'll know --
19 at least narrow the issues, if not reached a complete
20 agreement, by that time.

21 THE COURT: Okay. I'll come back at 3:45.

22 UNIDENTIFIED ATTORNEY: Thank you, Your Honor.

23 (Recess 3:23 p.m./Reconvene 3:46 p.m.)

24 THE COURT: All right. This is Judge Jernigan again.
25 I'm going back on the record in Highland Capital. Do we have

1 at least Mr. Morris and Ms. Montgomery available from their 2 session?

3 MS. MONTGOMERY: Can you guys -- can you hear me,
4 Your Honor?

5 THE COURT: I can hear you now; thank you.

6 MS. MONTGOMERY: Okay, I have no idea why it keeps 7 muting, so my apologies for that.

8 We just briefly met. We need just a few more
9 minutes, Your Honor, to run one issue past our client, but we 10 do believe we're going to have at least one matter outstanding 11 for the Court to consider hopefully, but we've managed to 12 resolve everything else.

13 THE COURT: Okay. So do you literally mean one
14 minute, or were you being general? Do we need five minutes
15 or --

16 MS. MONTGOMERY: I think five would be sufficient,
17 Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'll take another
19 break. I'll be back in five minutes.

20 MS. MONTGOMERY: My apologies.

21 THE COURT: Okay; no problem.

22 (Recess 3:47 p.m./Reconvene 3:59 p.m.)

23 THE COURT: All right. This is Judge Jernigan, we're 24 back on the record in Highland after a break.

25 Mr. Morris, I see you there. And do we have positive

1 news to report?

2 MR. MORRIS: I think we do. We haven't completely
3 resolved every single issue, there is still one remaining one
4 that we'd like to present to the Court.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. MORRIS: But we have otherwise, I think, reached
7 an agreement with respect to all other matters.

8 Ms. Montgomery, I don't know if you want to share
9 with the Court or -- I don't even know if Your Honor wants us
10 to present the agreement to her or we'll just submit it in a
11 proposed order later.

12 THE COURT: Well, if you could just hit the 13 highlights so we have it on the record that we have an 14 agreement, and the pertinent points.

15 MR. MORRIS: Okay. So I'll just -- I'm just reading
16 from the email.

17 The Requested ESI will be securely delivered to 18 Meta-e. Meta-e is a third-party service provider, 19 (indiscernible) the Committee. So the requested ESI for the 20 nine custodians will be delivered to Meta-e.

21 Number two, the debtor will proceed with the 22 production of the 800,000 e-mails previously identified by use
23 of agreed search terms, subject to the Court's prior rulings
24 with respect to the third party objections, and subject further 25 to a privilege review using terms agreed by the parties, with

1 the resolution of any disputes on those privileged terms
2 resolved on an expedited basis in accordance with the 3 Committee's proposal in their motion to compel. And that
4 really is just longhand, I guess, for a special master.

5           If and when the UCC wants to conduct further searches
6 on the requested e-mails, it will give the debtor with three
7 business days to consent to the search terms, with such consent
8 not to be unreasonably withheld. In the absence of any 9 objection, the e-mails will be produced subject to the Court's
10 rulings on the third-party objections, as well as privilege
11 review previously described. Search terms need not necessarily 12 be tied to formal requests for production, and may be provided
13 to the debtor on a rolling basis.

14           If debtor does not consent to search terms, it must 15 lodge an objection with the Committee. The parties shall 16 confer in good faith and if no resolution is reached within two 17 business days, the debtor may seek judicial review on an 18 expedited basis. It will be debtor's burden to establish that 19 the search terms are not reasonably designed to identify data
20 relevant to Estate Claims. Initial caps because the "Estate
21 Claims" is from the governance settlement back in January.

22           All ESI containing search terms not subject to 23 objection will be produced to the Committee pending
24 determinations on those terms, if any, as to which there is 25 disagreement.

1           Next, Your Honor, taking into account the speed with 2 which the parties intend to proceed and the volume of 3 documents, all ESI produced that is not subject to the 4 privilege term search shall be produced on a "highly 5 confidential" basis under the protective order, and the debtor
6 shall respond within two business days to any designation
7 challenge by the UCC. Documents that have been reviewed for 8 privilege will be categorized by debtor in the first instance 9 as either highly confidential, confidential, or not subject to 10 confidentiality.

11           Next, all persons or entities who objected to the 12 UCC's motion to compel or who are otherwise identified in the 13 debtor's motion for a protective order shall be deemed to be 14 parties to the court-ordered protective order that was entered 15 in January.

16           All documents from any custodian -- any of the non-
17 custodians that are related to or otherwise concern the pending
18 Acis litigation shall be marked "highly confidential" and not 19 subject to privilege challenge.

20           And finally, any disputes regarding the privilege
21 review process will be resolved by the special master and both 22 parties expressly reserve their rights thereto.

23           So there's one last issue --

24           THE COURT: Can I -- before we --

25           MR. MORRIS: Of course.

1 THE COURT: -- go on and I forget, can we call this
2 human being a third party neutral instead of a special master?
3 And I'm -- I'm splitting hairs on that because there is a rule
4 somewhere -- is it -- is it in 105 or is it a rule that says a
5 bankruptcy judge can't appoint a special master?

6 MR. MORRIS: I don't know, but let's just call him or 7 her a third party neutral.

8 THE COURT: Yeah, I'm not crazy, isn't that -- I
9 think it's in one of the 9000 rules.

10 MR. MORRIS: I'm sure you're right.,

11 THE COURT: I'm not sure how different this third
12 party neutral is in substance from a special master, but it
13 will just make me feel better.

14 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, it's just somebody who can --

15 THE COURT: If the Fifth Circuit ever looks at it --

16 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, it's just somebody who can help us
17 resolve either issues of creating these privilege terms or 18 resolving any other disputes so that we don't have to burden
19 the Court with such issues.

20 THE COURT: Okay; very good.

21 Well, let's hear the unresolved issue then.

22 MR. MORRIS: Okay. So the last issue, Your Honor, is 23 as Your Honor knows -- Your Honor, I need to, if I may, just 24 provide some perspective here because these issues are very,
25 very important to the debtor. I take personal responsibility

1 for all discovery matters in this case. I've had the support
2 of the independent board, and of all of Highland's employees
3 who have worked very hard to get these documents in this case.

4 We produced -- really we were substantially complete
5 with all (indiscernible), and we did it with the following
6 principles in mind: We wanted to, of course, eliminate or at 7 least limit any potential liability exposure to the debtor, and 8 that's what prompted us to make the motion to compel. And as 9 Your Honor saw, there were eight separate objections brought by 10 40 or 50 different parties, and it's exactly for that reason
11 that we were seeking the ability to do the review initially
12 because we have -- you know, we may have wound up disagreeing
13 with some third parties as to the scope of their obligations,
14 but we knew there were obligations that existed and the board
15 was very specific in instructing me to make sure that we 16 (indiscernible) liability (indiscernible). So I'm really
17 pleased that the objecting party stepped up, and that the Court
18 issued its rulings. But that was really one of our 19 (indiscernible) principles.

20 Another one is to make sure that we protect the 21 privilege to non-estate claims. We negotiated very 22 (indiscernible) term sheet with the Committee. We gave the 23 Committee standing to pursue estate claims. We gave the 24 Committee a shared privilege to all privileged communications
25 of estate claims.

1 But what we did not do, what we did not agree to was
2 to waive the privilege with respect to non-estate claims. So
3 that's the second principle that we've been trying to protect 4 because the board and (indiscernible) we have an obligation to 5 the estate and to the Committee, so we're trying to protect the 6 estate's privilege for non-estate claims.

7 And the third thing is just to make sure this process
8 runs as efficiently as it could. You know, I don't know that 9 going from 800,000 emails to eight million is -- can be 10 categorized as a success, but that's what the Committee's 11 wanted to do, and the board has been very specific not to be 12 obstructionist here, but just to be guided by the principles
13 that I've articulated. And that's kind of how we got here.

14 And so the last issue here, Your Honor, touches on 15 the principles that I just described, and that is the nine
16 custodians at issue, three of them are lawyers: Scott
17 Ellington, Isaac Leventon, and Mr. Surgent. They're all 18 lawyers, they're all licensed to practice law, they all give 19 legal advice, they give legal advice to the board, they give 20 legal advice on countless issues that are completely unrelated
21 to estate claims for which the Committee does not have standing
22 to pursue, and for which the Committee does not have a shared 23 privilege.

24 So the third issue, Your Honor, is just to say that 25 for those three out of nine custodians, we actually do a real

1 privilege review on a document-by-document basis.

2 Now I'll just leave it at that, that's what the issue
3 is. And the Committee, I think -- I'll let them speak for 4 itself.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I -- I didn't know there was any 6 disagreement about debtor lawyers or debtor contract lawyers
7 doing a privilege review. I thought it was just a -- you know,
8 the two-tier, first a relevance review and then a privilege
9 review.

10 MR. MORRIS: It's in our objection, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Pardon?

12 MR. MORRIS: We did raise it -- we did raise the 13 issue in our objection.

14 THE COURT: Oh.

15 MR. MORRIS: This isn't the first time I --

16 THE COURT: Well, no, no, no, no, I thought --

17 MR. MORRIS: Maybe I'm mistaken.

18 THE COURT: I thought it was already part of the 19 UCC's proposed protocol that there be a privilege review by 20 debtor's lawyers.

21 MR. MORRIS: That's right, and that's just using kind
22 of garden variety search terms. What I'm saying is that when 23 it comes to -- and that's fine to take the six non-lawyers,
24 that's fine for Mr. Dondero, that's fine, you know, for Mr.
25 Waterhouse, and for the other non-lawyers. But for a lawyer,

1 Your Honor, I think -- I think -- I mean this is of such vital
2 importance, and is -- almost everything they do is -- not
3 everything; I overstated. Sometimes they're engaged in 4 business advice. But for the most part, they're practicing 5 lawyers.

6 And I think we just need a heightened standard of 7 protection for those individuals, and it's just the three of 8 the nine. I mean it's for three of the nine who are licensed 9 lawyers, and we're asking for a wholesale privilege review for 10 those three people, not just searching to see if their email
11 says they privilege or work product, you know, there are other
12 search terms that may come up.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Montgomery, elaborate on where 14 the difference is on your proposed procedure versus the 15 debtor's, all right?

16 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes, Your Honor.

17 The proposal that is before the Court, you're 18 correct, does provide for a privilege review. We've never 19 argued that there shouldn't be a privilege review. We 20 understand that the creditors stand only in the shoes of the 21 debtor with regard to the estate claims, and not more broadly.

22 The dispute really here, Your Honor, is on the nature
23 of the search when it comes down to these three custodians that 24 are attorneys. And Mr. Morris is suggesting that all of the 25 documents -- every document that has a custodial file, is in

1 their custodian file should be touched by the debtor so that
2 they could look at it and determine whether or not it is
3 privileged. And if it is privileged, whether or not it's 4 related to an estate claim.

5 And our position, Your Honor, is that that's 6 unnecessary, and that it's going to cost a lot of money, and 7 also slow down the review process.

8 And the basis, Your Honor, for our position is that 9 this sort of assumption stands on the ground that every 10 document a lawyer touches can be -- you know, is automatically
11 privileged. And as a general rule, we all know that that's not 12 the case. Not every document a lawyer touches is protectable.
13 And that's particularly true with regard to in-house counsel.
14 Their roles by their nature involve providing both legal advice
15 and business advice, and only the legal advice is protectable.

16 Several courts have held that the presumption might - 17 - regarding privilege that might exist for law firm counsel is 18 not the same presumption that should be held with regard to in-19 house counsel. In fact, the presumption should be that the 20 advice is business advice, unless it's establishing legal 21 advice.

22 And of the three custodians that the debtor
23 discussed, two of them -- they're all, in fact, licensed
24 attorneys. But one of them is not in the legal department, he 25 is acting as the head of compliance. And as you know, the case

1 law on compliance is fairly well-settled that there isn't a
2 presumption of privilege with regard to the compliance issues.

3 And so as a result, we think it's most appropriate to 4 use robust privilege terms. You know, think of things like
5 privilege, lawyer, attorney-client, work product, etc., and 6 we've proposed a list of those terms to the debtor, and we're 7 willing to continue to work that out with this third party
8 neutral.

9 But we don't believe that it's appropriate for every 10 single document that is related to these three custodians be 11 reviewed for privilege purposes, that's just excessive and 12 expensive.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may?

14 THE COURT: You may.

15 MR. MORRIS: I dare say that not ten percent of what 16 I write has the word "privilege," "attorney-client," "work 17 product" in my emails. That is -- you will never be able to 18 create a list that's sufficient to protect a lawyer from 19 producing privileged communications.

20 There's no dispute here that the Committee's rights
21 extend no further than estate claims. And I might feel
22 differently here, Your Honor, and maybe there's some wiggle
23 room here, but they can create six terms that are actually
24 designed to elicit information relating to estate claims,
25 right? And we've asked them to do that for many months. And

1 if they're -- if I thought that they were actually looking for
2 information that related to estate claims for which the debtor
3 has agreed the Committee would share the privilege, my concerns
4 would be much more modest in scope.

5 But here, you have individuals who have been acting
6 as lawyers for five years. To expect them to write the word
7 "lawyer," or "privilege," or "work product" in every email, or 8 to suggest that if they haven't done that, then it's fair game.
9 Even if you have no idea if it relates to an estate claim is 10 just -- it's just (indiscernible). It's just -- it's not
11 right.

12 They're getting the emails of six custodians.
13 They're getting the emails using the search terms with the six 14 custodians. It is costly, it will slow it down for three of 15 the nine people, but that's because they haven't given us --
16 they haven't given us search terms that are designed to elicit
17 estate claims. They're just -- they're asking for everything.
18 And I've never ever seen anybody -- any court allow, you know,
19 the unfettered access subject to only search terms that may or 20 may not be sufficient. I just -- we feel very, very strongly
21 about this. They're getting six out of nine custodians, and 22 we're not even saying that they won't get the lawyers in these 23 three custodians' emails. We'll give them whatever relates to 24 estate claims.

25 MS. MONTGOMERY: Very briefly. I think what Mr.

1 Morris has raised is dealt with by virtue of the agreement that 2 we just told you about, which is that we're going to be using 3 search terms that are aimed at identifying estate claims. And 4 that the review and the production process to us would be only
5 of the documents that contained that search term, and the 6 privilege would be for the subset of documents that contain
7 that search term and also contain a privilege term.

8 And it's not limited to just privilege, Your Honor.
9 There are things in there like "lawsuit," or "litigation," or 10 "claim," or -- and we're open to continue to discuss those.

11 Like I said, we only object to a wholesale review of 12 every document, we don't really think that that's necessary.

13 MR. MORRIS: We're -- we're -- and I just want to 14 clarify, we're not talking about reviewing every document.
15 We're only talking about the documents that would come up using 16 whatever search terms the Committee devises.

17 So by our count, there's between one point five and 18 two million emails from the three lawyers. We're not 19 suggesting that we would look at every one of them, there would 20 be no need to do that.

21 But what we would do is review the emails that are 22 the subject of search terms to make sure there (indiscernible).

23 THE COURT: Okay. Let me -- at the risk of repeating 24 myself -- go through the explicit protocol the UCC had in its 25 pleading:

1           Number one, all files of the nine custodians,
2 including those three lawyers, would be provided over to the E-
3 discovery vendor to put in a repository.

4           Then you come up with this robust list of privilege
5 terms to ferret out what might be privileged. You try to agree
6 on that robust set of privilege terms. If you can't, you get 7 the third party neutral to work out your disagreement,
8 hopefully.

9           So you get that resolved, and the search protocol is 10 executed, and all documents, not including one of those 11 robustly created privilege terms, get produced to the Committee
12 subject to that agreed protective order from January, 2020
13 where there's carve out and, you know, ability to pull back,
14 right, if there's inadvertent production of privilege, right?
15 That's an essential term, right? If something accidentally
16 gets produced that shouldn't, then there's always a mechanism
17 to pull it back.

18           And then the debtor's contract attorneys would review
19 all of the held back documents, the documents held back, you
20 know, because the privilege terms were triggered, and they were 21 held back, to determine if they are really privileged. If not,
22 then they get produced.

23           But if you decide they are, in fact, privilege, then 24 you create a privilege log, and that gets shared with the 25 Committee. And if there are disputes about that, then you go

1 to the third party neutral to resolve those.

2 Okay, is there anything I misstated about what the 3 Committee has proposed?

4 (No audible response heard)

5 THE COURT: Is there anything I've misstated? Ms.
6 Montgomery's shaking her head no.

7 MS. MONTGOMERY: No, Your Honor, I don't believe so.

8 MR. MORRIS: So --

9 THE COURT: So I really am -- if that's the case, I'm 10 not getting, Mr. Morris, why --

11 MR. MORRIS: Let me try one more time, because --

12 THE COURT: You're going to get your chance to review
13 stuff that's --

14 MR. MORRIS: No, but -- but we're not, and here's -- 15 here's the gap in what you have just described. Everything you
16 have just described is perfectly fine for the six non-lawyers.

17 Our concern is if you don't have -- if -- there's no
18 question that the lawyers have engaged in the provision of 19 legal services, there's no question that the provision of legal 20 services extended beyond estate claims.

21 And the concern is no matter how hard you devise 22 search terms, and this is just a matter of practice in my 23 experience, you're always going to get documents that don't get 24 captured by the search terms.

25 And so what you've described works very well if the

1 document -- if the search terms actually work.

2           What our concern is for lawyers only, that that's not
3 sufficient. That we will lose too many documents that will not
4 be captured using the search terms for which, you know,
5 clawback -- clawback issues are just -- we're talking about 6 millions of documents that are going to be reviewed and 7 produced. Under these circumstances, more than any other, Your 8 Honor, these lawyers privileged communications that do not 9 relate to estate claims should be subject to protection. They 10 should be subject to more protection than non-lawyers are 11 getting.

12           THE COURT: The clawback --

13           MR. MORRIS: And given --

14           THE COURT: The clawback isn't enough. The clawback
15 isn't enough.

16           MR. MORRIS: It's not enough. You can't unring the 17 bell, Your Honor.

18           And given the massive amount of information that the 19 Committee is seeking that we are willing to provide, frankly, I 20 don't think it's unreasonable to say, yeah, no, we're going to 21 treat lawyers like lawyers.

22           THE COURT: So balance is you think, you know, those 23 lawyer eyes that can't unsee what they see, okay, if they get 24 it, yeah, you can claw it back, but they can't unsee it. And 25 so somehow, it's going to, you know, be harmful.

1 But the flip side of that is -- well --

2 MR. MORRIS: I did try to create a little more --

3 THE COURT: A great delay and expense, right, for you
4 all to first go through the gazillion documents, and then, you
5 know, there's a privilege log that might be --

6 MR. MORRIS: I --

7 THE COURT: -- much larger than --

8 MR. MORRIS: I did --

9 THE COURT: Go ahead.

10 MR. MORRIS: I did try to create a little space for 11 Your Honor, a little comfort zone, and that is that the 12 Committee actually use search terms that was designed to get 13 communications related to estate claims, right? Because these 14 lawyers have countless emails, for example, relating to the 15 board's deliberations on settlement with UBS, or with the 16 Redeemer Committee, or with Acis, these things have been going 17 on for months. That shouldn't be subject to clawback, they 18 should never be produced.

19 And so if there's -- you know, if the Committee were 20 to devise actual search terms that were intended to get estate
21 claim information, like I said before, that may make more --
22 that might provide a little bit more comfort. But to allow 23 them to just use, you know, regular search terms on those 24 emails when you have non-estate claim information, and they 25 have -- I'm telling Your Honor, just countless emails over the

1 last six months with the board, responding to board inquiries,
2 responding to claims dispute resolutions, responding to all
3 kinds of things.

4           You know, at a minimum, I would want -- I would want
5 it to stop as of the petition date. But I think -- but I think
6 even beyond that, they're lawyers, they're licensed
7 practitioners who are rendering legal advice, and they're doing
8 so in the kind of context that have nothing to do with estate
9 claims. And you have six other custodians, six, with whom the 10 Committee's proposal is completely acceptable.

11           THE COURT: Well, this is a hard one. This is a very 12 hard one, Ms. Montgomery. What -- I mean what do you have to 13 offer me other than delay/expense? And that's -- you know,
14 those are not small considerations, but that's really what it
15 boils down to, right?

16           MS. MONTGOMERY: Well, there's delay, there's 17 expense, and then there's the protections that are already put 18 forth in the protective order, Your Honor, which we think are,
19 as we've said already today, robust.

20           We understand their concern with regard to clawback.
21 They have an attorneys' eyes only highly confidential
22 designation that they can use, and that will be used under the 23 agreement we've reached with regard to any document that they 24 haven't looked at. So those will only be going to outside
25 counsel and the Committee's professionals.

1 And I just don't know -- you know, I think the 2 protections are there, and that the cost, you know, when 3 balanced against what we're really asking them to do and the 4 protections that are in place for them, just -- they don't --
5 they don't balance out, Your Honor.

6 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, with all due respect, it's a
7 little -- it's a little difficult for me to listen to cost
8 being a concern when you have a Committee who's asked for the 9 emails of nine custodians over a five-year period. Actually
10 they've asked for ESI, the eight million number is just emails.
11 So it's not -- it's emails and attachments.

12 So the notion that cost is now an impediment while 13 we've gone from 800,000 emails to eight million doesn't 14 (indiscernible) with me.

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, again, I don't find
16 this to be at all easy. But I am going to sustain the debtor's
17 objection on this, if that's the right way to say it. I'm 18 going to accept the position, and order that these three 19 custodians, Scott Ellington, Isaac Leventon, and Tom Surgent,
20 that before any production, those three individuals' files can 21 go through, will go through separate review by the debtor. So 22 they're carved out of the rest of these protocols, and 23 presumably as promptly as possible, there will be rolling
24 production. Debtor will produce non-privileged files and will 25 create a privilege log.

1 And if there are disputes about that privilege log,
2 either the third party neutral will work them out or I guess
3 I'm the ultimate arbiter, if need be. I don't know exactly how
4 you have those mechanics. Maybe you don't have the judge
5 involved; I don't know.

6 Why don't you tell me so I can know whether to be 7 expecting a request to weigh in. Do you have it set up where 8 the third party neutral's the final say on things like whether 9 something belongs on a privilege log or if it's really
10 privileged?

11 MR. MORRIS: I don't think we've addressed that, Your 12 Honor.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. MORRIS: But I'm sure we can --

15 MS. MONTGOMERY: I think it may be already be covered
16 in the protective order, Your Honor; I'm just checking to see.

17 THE COURT: Okay. And I just want to say that I
18 understand very well from my months working on the Acis
19 bankruptcy that these in-house lawyers -- I'm inclined to say
20 they wear many hats. I don't know if that's the right way -- I
21 had Mr. Ellington on the witness stand once; I had Mr. Leventon
22 on the witness stand many times. And I will tell you the 23 Court's impression is that they are both businesspeople, as 24 well as lawyers. And I never had Surgent, the compliance
25 fellow, in here.

1 But I'm just letting you know I hope there aren't,
2 you know, umpteen disputes about things held back as privilege.
3 The way I view it, there may be things that are privileged, and 4 things that absolutely were not -- are not. I know we've got 5 privilege related to estate causes of action versus attorney-
6 client privilege or work product that doesn't relate to causes
7 of action. And I'm already bracing myself for how hard is that 8 going to be to ferret out is it related to an estate cause of 9 action or not.

10 I'm really -- while I feel good that we've worked out
11 a lot today, I am really bracing myself because I don't think 12 this is the last discovery dispute I'm going to see. I just 13 don't. We have a lot of things that kind of sound good when 14 you say them fast, but just -- you know my view. Well, you 15 know my views. I've seen two of these in-house lawyers on the 16 witness stand before. And, again, part businessperson, part
17 lawyer, and I know what the case law says. If it's really a 18 communication that is about rendering legal advice, that's one
19 thing.

20 But if it has nothing to do with that, or little to 21 do with that, it's mainly in their role as a business
22 consultant, or other capacities, there might not be a
23 privilege.

24 MR. PATEL: Your Honor, this is --

25 THE COURT: Go ahead.

1 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, this is Rakhee Patel. If I
2 can briefly be heard on a point of clarification on the
3 agreement.

4 THE COURT: Well, okay, what are you talking about on
5 the agreement?

6 MS. PATEL: Well, Your Honor, what I heard as part of 7 the agreement reached between the Committee and the debtor is 8 that all Acis information will be designated as highly 9 confidential determination, and certainly --

10 THE COURT: Okay. Acis litigation. If it's related
11 to Acis litigation. If they misspoke, that's what I ordered
12 earlier. You didn't misspeak, right?

13 MR. MORRIS: I don't believe so, Your Honor. I think 14 that's --

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: That's what was --

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. MORRIS: I think it was relating to or concerning
19 the Acis litigation matters.

20 THE COURT: Is that --

21 MS. PATEL: Understood, Your Honor. Yeah, and I just 22 wanted to clarify because what I heard, and apologies if I
23 caught a bit of it, but is that Acis litigation will be 24 designated as highly confidential, and that it is not subject
25 to further review. And I wrote that down because I wanted to 1 just, again, clarify what "not subject to further review"

2 means.

3 My concerns, Your Honor, are kind of twofold:

4 Number one is that certain documentation, as Your
5 Honor just referenced, and you'll recall Mr. Ellington and Mr.
6 Leventon testify during the Acis bankruptcy case that during 7 the involuntary and then during the case in chief, were 8 generally testifying as fact witnesses. And my concern is is 9 that there are other things, for example, in Acis's bankruptcy
10 case, the original schedules were signed by Mr. Leventon.

11 THE COURT: Right.

12 MS. PATEL: Well, some of these are Acis's documents
13 or Acis's information, and Acis is the holder of the privilege 14 on those.

15 So to say that they're highly confidential and 16 they're privileged, that they're -- it's our privilege, I
17 should be allowed to assert my own privilege with respect to 18 those documents, and waive my own privilege -- my client's
19 privilege with respect to that even though --

20 THE COURT: Okay. Can I cut this off? I -- I -- 21 what I believe is the deal, someone correct me if I'm wrong, is 22 that with regard to documents produced, ESI produced to the 23 Committee, if it pertains to Acis litigation matters, okay,
24 litigation between Acis and any Highland -- Highland or 25 Highland affiliate or Highland insiders, that is going to be

1 designated as highly confidential, meaning only professionals
2 for the Committee get to see it, not Committee
3 members/businesspeople. That's the whole agreement with regard
4 to Acis, right?

5 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

6 MS. PATEL: And that was going to be my only point,
7 Your Honor, was that we can -- Acis is obviously going to be 8 able to go get it if necessary. In other words, we -- this 9 isn't about prejudice to Acis's rights to even get it because 10 it is our privileged information anyway; or, number two, we can 11 get it in the ordinary discovery process.

12 Obviously we've got a claim objection that may go to 13 trial, and we may need to seek these documents separately.

14 THE COURT: Right. That -- this doesn't mean -- this 15 does not mean Acis never gets to see it.

16 MS. PATEL: Okay.

17 THE COURT: If Acis requests something in discovery
18 with regard to the claim objection or other litigation, then 19 that's subject to a whole different agreement or order, right,
20 Mr. Morris?

21 MR. MORRIS: Yes. Yes, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, I -- I kind of lost my 25 train of thought, but I guess I'm trying to signal, for

1 whatever it's worth, that if there are disputes down the road
2 regarding files from these three individuals -- Ellington,
3 Leventon, Surgent -- and the debtor is saying they're 4 privileged, you know, and not related to estate causes of 5 action, and the Committee is disagreeing, be prepared to make 6 your best argument. Because I am expecting that some 7 communications, even if they're unrelated to estate causes of 8 action, may very well be in the nature of business type
9 communications because I've seen with my two eyes that they 10 fulfill different roles in that organization.

11           So I hope we don't get bogged down because of my 12 ruling on this today.

13           The other thing I wanted you to kind of keep dangling
14 in your mind is as I was reading the pleadings, preparing for 15 this afternoon, I was very much fixated on -- we had this 16 protocol and a compromise worked out with the Committee way
17 back, at the end of last year, finalized in January and, you
18 know, the agreement was that the Committee would have standing
19 to pursue the estate causes of action, and would get privileged 20 documents related -- you know, communications related to these 21 estate causes of action. And that was to avoid a Chapter 11
22 trustee, which we all know under case law, Weintraub would 23 inherit all privileges, all attorney-client privilege
24 information.

25           So I guess what I'm getting at is I thought -- I

1 thought we had an agreement last January, and that we were
2 going to be smoothly going down this road of document
3 production. And here we are in mid-July, and we're having this
4 fight. That doesn't make me very happy because I was happy not
5 to appoint a Chapter 11 trustee last January because I thought,
6 okay, we have this major compromise with the Committee, they're 7 going to go forward, and evaluate estate causes of action,
8 they're going to get documents that are subject to attorney-
9 client privilege. And, you know, it just -- again, I said
10 earlier I didn't want to get into the he said and she said, but 11 the facts speak for themselves that were in July, and just now
12 finalizing this protocol.

13           And I guess the one more thing I will say on that is 14 I know I gave a 90-day deadline for the Committee to either
15 bring causes of action against CLO Holdco -- and I forget the 16 other entity -- or the money in the registry of the Court would 17 be released.

18           I didn't know we still had so far to go with document
19 production when I ruled that. So if someone asks for an 20 extension after today, I think I'd probably be inclined to give 21 an extension. Not a huge, huge, huge extension, but I was a 22 little bit -- not appreciating where the Committee was with 23 regard to getting documents when I said that that day.

24           All right. So I'll be looking for your form of 25 order, hopefully in the next day or two on this.

1 Is there anything further on this topic? Or shall we
2 go to the Acis status conference?

3 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just a couple of things.

4 THE COURT: Yes?

5 MR. MORRIS: Number one, I do want to give the Court
6 some comfort of knowing that while Mr. Surgent is the Chief
7 Compliance Officer, he's also the Deputy General Counsel at 8 Highland, so he is -- he is (indiscernible).

9 Number two, as you may have seen from our papers, the 10 board considered three outside vendors to do the document
11 review, and ultimately selected one, and we had prepared a 12 stipulation. The Court should expect to see, hopefully in the 13 next day or two, a stipulation pursuant to which the debtor
14 seeks its authority to retain a third party vendor named Robert 15 Hass (phonetic) to assist with the document review. This has 16 all been discussed with the Committee, the Committee has 17 consented to the theory of the retention, but I would ask them
18 to go back perhaps and look at the stipulation so we can get 19 that signed up and get people to work as quickly as possible.

20 THE COURT: Okay, very good.

21 Now what about the third party neutral, do you have 22 that person identified?

23 MR. MORRIS: No, we haven't talked about that. I'm 24 sure we can get that resolved as we're discussing the form of 25 order.

1 THE COURT: Okay, very good.

2 All right, well, if there's nothing further, again,
3 let's roll to Acis.

4 And I guess actually -- maybe we should briefly talk
5 about mediation, where things stand, in case there are people
6 on the call who don't want to stick around for the Acis
7 discussion. I don't know, maybe everyone wants to hear the 8 whole hearing today.

9 So let me just tell you where things stand: We have 10 -- my courtroom deputy reached out to you all late last week,
11 and let you all know that both Sylvia Mayer from Houston, as 12 well as retired Bankruptcy Judge Allan Gropper, are interested
13 in being co-mediators on this, and that was subject to doing
14 their conflicts review.

15 And then the next thing after that, they were going 16 to reach out to the lawyer contacts, and give their, quote,
17 "initial disclosures."

18 I emailed about 9:30 last night with Sylvia Mayer,
19 and she was making sure she had all the right contact people.
20 I gave her lawyers for the debtor, for the Committee, for Acis,
21 for UBS, for Dondero, and the Redeemer Committee -- Crusader
22 Redeemer Committee.

23 Right now, it's my view that that is the universe of 24 parties to participate, although I can see the co-mediators
25 rolling in more people. Like someone suggested Mark Okada, and

1 -- I think probably it would be premature in the beginning, but
2 maybe he'll be rolled in. You know, if the UBS proof of claim
3 is resolved in mediation, and the Acis -- and/or the Acis proof
4 of claim are resolved in mediation, and then -- you know, I
5 think those are kind of the highest priorities here of the 6 mediation, then certainly he might be brought in, but right
7 now, I'm not going to order that.

8           So about 9:30 last night, I sent Sylvia Mayer the 9 lawyer people to email, the co-mediators' disclosures. And she 10 was going to be in a mediation all day today, but I would 11 suspect probably tonight, if y'all haven't gotten anything yet
12 -- I haven't looked at my email during this hearing, but I
13 would suspect maybe tonight or tomorrow you're probably going 14 to get that communication from Sylvia Mayer with whatever their 15 disclosures are for the parties to consider. And, you know,
16 assuming everyone gets comfortable with that, then the 17 administrative people at the triple A, the American Arbitration
18 Association, we're going to get going with, you know, the 19 administrative side of this, and you all would talk about 20 scheduling.

21           So all this to say I hope here in the next few days
22 there is an active effort to get things scheduled and get the 23 dialogue going with those co-mediators.

24           The only other thing I would add is I don't 25 necessarily anticipate that Sylvia Mayer would mediate the,

1 say, Acis proof of claim, and Judge Gropper would mediate, say,
2 the UBS proof of claim. I think -- I don't think it
3 necessarily breaks down that way. I think you would probably 4 just have co-mediators doing the whole ball of wax here
5 because, among other things, the plan treatment discussion is 6 probably going to roll into proof of claim allowance
7 discussions.

8 So that is, I think, what this would shape up to be.
9 That you would have co-mediators working on all of this.

10 So any questions at this point?

11 (No audible response heard)

12 THE COURT: Again, I know -- if you haven't gotten an 13 email by the end of today, it's surely going to be in the next 14 day or two that you'll get their email reaching out about their 15 disclosures. Okay?

16 UNIDENTIFIED ATTORNEY: Yes, Your Honor.

17 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor --

18 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor, this is Terri Mascherin
19 on behalf of the Redeemer Committee.

20 Just a quick question: Did I hear correctly that you
21 have given the mediators our contact information? Because we 22 have not been copied on the email -- the emails that have gone
23 around.

24 In fact, we haven't been copied on any of the emails
25 that have gone around about the mediation.

1 THE COURT: Okay; thank you, Ms. Mascherin.

2 Let me make sure you're completely in the loop. So I
3 did have my courtroom deputy reach out to debtor, Committee,
4 Dondero, UBS, and Acis last week, their counsel, regarding the 5 interest of both Sylvia Mayer and former Judge Gropper.

6 And at the time she did that, I was thinking since
7 the Redeemer Committee had an agreement with the debtor, you
8 all have announced at the last hearing or two you had an 9 agreement that perhaps you all would not be participating.

10 And I actually did have some lawyers respond to my 11 courtroom deputy that, no, we think they very much need to be 12 involved.

13 So that was just a missed step, I would say, on my 14 part, not having that email go out to you originally. So I
15 will make sure when we get out of this hearing that my 16 courtroom deputy forwards to you the little bit of email
17 traffic there was. There were not a lot of emails, but maybe
18 her email and three or four responses of other lawyers.

19 So the co-mediators have been given your name. If 20 others, besides you, want to be on her contact list, you know,
21 certainly Mr. Hankin or Mr. Platt, you can let her know when 22 you get the initial -- her, Sylvia Mayer, know when you get the 23 initial email from her. But you're on the list now, and I --
24 again, it was just a mistaken belief on my part that maybe you
25 wouldn't be part of the mediation since your claim had been

1 agreed to with the debtor, so --

2 MS. MASCHERIN: Okay. I appreciate it, and thank you
3 for clarifying, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

5 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor --

6 THE COURT: All right --

7 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, this is -- Your Honor, may I
8 speak briefly?

9 THE COURT: Certainly.

10 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor. This is Andrew
11 Clubok on behalf of UBS.

12 And I apologize if you did not see the email that we 13 sent to Ms. Ellison this morning. But we -- our position is we 14 very much are fine with Crusader, or frankly any other major
15 creditor, involving the overall mediation.

16 But the issue of reaching an overall plan, the so
17 call grand bargain that Mr. (indiscernible) talked about. What 18 we don't -- and we just want to be sure that no one takes it
19 that you're ordering this or thinks it's appropriate, because 20 in the first instance to have a productive discussion on our 21 specific claim with the debtor, it's not going to be helpful
22 and productive -- in fact, it would be counterproductive -- to 23 have other creditors in our class sitting in listening to that,
24 weighing in. You know, obviously their position will all be 25 make it as low as possible. It's not helpful to have a whole

1 nother set of lawyers doing that, and I just want to make sure
2 people don't come away thinking that you've ordered -- I hope
3 you have not ordered that, and if you have, I would like to 4 speak to that.

5 But just like we wouldn't be sitting in -- we were 6 not permitted to sit in when the debtor spoke with Crusader
7 about setting their claim, we're not -- we have not been part
8 of the discussion with Acis and if the debtors have discussions
9 -- with Acis. The other parties, we were actually told before
10 they would not be involved in (indiscernible) first instance.

11 There is a time -- an appropriate time for a creditor
12 to object, but we don't even know what the settlement is with 13 Redeemer. Once we hear it, we may have an objection; hopefully 14 not. Hopefully it will be perfectly fine.

15 And we understand that once we reach an agreement
16 with the debtor, that's subject to an objection process, and 17 everyone is going to have a chance to weigh in. It's just not,
18 we think, going to be effective, and I set this out in an email
19 that I sent earlier but -- just today. And so I just want to 20 make sure that, you know, people aren't taking from what you
21 said that Crusader is just going to be able to sit in our
22 (indiscernible), Acis does or does not (indiscernible)
23 specifically their claim, etc.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me tell you how I
25 usually do this, and how I expect to do it here.

1           Once everything is nailed down with the mediators,
2 and I say that because they're going to send you their 3 disclosures, and hopefully everybody's going to be fine with 4 everything. When I get the green light that, yes, we're going
5 to go forward, I have a standard form of mediation order. And 6 it pretty much gives discretion to the mediators to run this
7 the way they want to. And, for example, if they want
8 participants to submit a white paper, you know, no more than 25
9 pages in length, or whatever, you know, the mediators can 10 instruct that.

11           And it has all of the usual bells and whistles about 12 confidentiality that nobody can subpoena the mediators, or 13 compel them to testify. And I'm not going to talk to them
14 about the substance.

15           I just want a report, either things settled or not.
16 People negotiated in good faith or not.

17           And so I don't think there will be any ambiguity
18 about the rules of the road, it's just what I think is a fairly 19 normal mediation order.

20           And, therefore, you know, I think the confidentiality
21 that you're concerned about will be built into that order, and 22 will be kind of the usual -- what I think is the usual
23 protocol. That if you want the mediator to keep something 24 confidential, and not share it with another party, then it's -- 25 that's the way it's going to be.

1 MR. CLUBOK: Okay. I believe -- we certainly agree
2 the mediators will different roles. We just -- I just -- and 3 the mediator may have different sessions, different breakout
4 sessions. But we just believe that if our claim, or any 5 creditor's claim, with the debtor in the first instance, to 6 have a productive mediation, settlement should be done the way
7 the (indiscernible) claim is (indiscernible), which is directly
8 with the debtor. And that we'd have a chance to see if that --
9 if that gets somewhere and results in something. We're -- 10 we're -- that's our input about about meeting our specific 11 claim to maximize the chance of avoiding litigation and 12 resolving it.

13 THE COURT: Well, again, I fully suspect they're 14 going to reach out to all of you all and get all of your ideas
15 about the sequence of the mediation, you know, whether it's all
16 together with people in separate rooms on day one, or hey,
17 let's start with UBS, let's start with Acis. I mean it would 18 be expected that the co-mediators will reach out to you all 19 from day one with everybody's ideas about what would be the 20 most productive format. So I hope that answers your question.

21 You know, to a large extent, this is to be 22 determined. But, you know, the ground rules I'm giving them is 23 let's try to get this UBS proof of claim resolved. Let's try
24 to get the Acis proof of claim resolved. Let's try to get to a 25 grand bargain on what a plan looks like, and the treatment of

1 all the unsecured creditors.

2 So I think these are extremely experienced people who
3 will be pretty skilled at how to proceed.

4 MR. CLUBOK: That does answer our question; thank 5 you, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. CLUBOK: That's all I wanted to clarify. That 8 you weren't directing them to do anything in terms of how they 9 proceed, and we'll pick it up with them.

10 THE COURT: Okay; very good.

11 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you.

12 THE COURT: Anyone else want to say anything about 13 this?

14 (No audible response heard)

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, let's turn then to the 16 status conference that both the debtor and Acis wanted to have 17 today. Back on the 14th, I guess it was, Mr. Pomerantz, I
18 think, raised the issue that the Acis proof of claim, which at 19 that point the debtor had objected to, and now Mr. Dondero has 20 objected to, was set for hearing, I think, August 6th. But 21 there had been a discussion about continuing that hearing to 22 September 10th to hopefully focus primarily on mediation.

23 But then we wanted to have a status conference today
24 to kind of talk about what the September 10th hearing would 25 look like. We don't want it to just be a status conference.

1 And, Mr. Pomerantz, I don't know if you're on the
2 line, but you said there were legal issues as well as factual
3 issues. And so my brain was kind of going down the trail of 4 are you suggesting motions for summary judgment might be a
5 first step on September 10th? I have no idea what you had in 6 mind.

7 So who -- is it going to be Mr. Morris taking the 8 lead on this --

9 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor --

10 THE COURT: -- or Mr. Pomerantz?

11 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor, it's Mr. Kharasch.

12 THE COURT: Oh.

13 MR. KHARASCH: It's Ira Kharasch.

14 THE COURT: Oh, Mr. Kharasch.

15 MR. KHARASCH: Yeah.

16 THE COURT: Okay, there you are.

17 MR. KHARASCH: I --

18 THE COURT: You appeared earlier.

19 MR. KHARASCH: I did. I did. So two things, Your
20 Honor:

21 First, Mr. Pomerantz wanted me to express to Your 22 Honor that he would have loved to have been here today, as he's 23 been here in the past, however, he is in the hospital with a 24 medical condition, we think things will work out just fine,
25 but --

1 THE COURT: I'm sorry to hear that.

2 MR. KHARASCH: Thank you, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Please express my best wishes.

4 MR. KHARASCH: Absolutely. But he just wanted to let 5 you know why he's not here.

6 So, number two, I think, Your Honor, at the last 7 week, I think we mentioned that the continued hearing on the 8 claim objection would be September 17. There's a little
9 confusion about that versus September 10. I don't know if Ms.
10 Patel is in agreement about that. I think we're both in 11 agreement that it was September 17th, but I'm not completely
12 sure of the different dates.

13 THE COURT: Okay. I did not run that date by my 14 courtroom deputy. I just -- I looked at the transcript from 15 the hearing. Y'all said September 10th, but maybe someone 16 misspoke.

17 What do you think, Ms. Patel?

18 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, I think the confusion might 19 be -- I believe the original hearing was August the 10th, and 20 that's what's getting moved off. And so September 17th is -- 21 I've seen a September 19th date, as well, but I think that's a 22 Sunday or --

23 MR. KHARASCH: It's a Saturday. I think it's a
24 Saturday.

25 MS. PATEL: Saturday. So I think September 17th is

1 the day that Acis is amenable to -- to -- the process we're
2 about to discuss with the date being the 17th of September.

3 THE COURT: Okay; very good.

4 MR. KHARASCH: Thank you, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. KHARASCH: And --

7 THE COURT: So 17th, okay.

8 MR. KHARASCH: Yeah. And, Your Honor, I think the 9 good news here is the debtor and Acis's counsels are in 10 agreement subject to your blessing of that agreement as to how 11 we want to approach things.

12 Again, we did continue the hearing to today and the 13 purpose, Your Honor, is to give us a chance to discuss with the 14 Acis team how we both thought -- how to proceed in a manageable
15 way to make this September 17th hearing date a productive
16 hearing, and manageable, and easily understandable, and easy
17 for the Court to deal with, because we're dealing with a
18 massive claim, and a very big claim objection.

19 So what we come up with is the following way that we 20 think should be a productive way to handle it. We would like 21 to have another status conference on or about August 14, which 22 is, I think, just after Ms. Patel's vacation. If it has to be 23 a few days later, that's fine.

24 And during that time, we'll also be seeing a draft
25 response to our claim objection. But the purpose is before

1 that status conference on the 14th, Your Honor, we would
2 propose the following:

3 That a few days before, we file a joint statement
4 that would propose the following to the Court: We would come
5 up come up with respect to the September 17 hearing date, that 6 we would come up with a list of issues for summary adjudication
7 that both parties would like to deal with by summary
8 adjudication on the September 17 hearing date. We would set
9 those forth in the joint statement for the Court to review.

10 We'd also set out a list of issues that are not
11 subject -- we don't believe are not subject to summary
12 adjudication. That would be dealt with later, if not through a
13 trial or otherwise, if not dealt with by the summary
14 adjudication proceeding, depending on how that goes.

15 We would also propose for that status conference,
16 that joint statement, Your Honor, a proposed discovery and 17 pretrial schedule that would occur after the September 17
18 summary adjudication, and a proposed trial date.

19 Just for the record, both parties do want to move as 20 quickly as possible after the September 17th hearing date in 21 terms of discovery, and get to a trial as quickly as possible,
22 maybe even before plan confirmation. But this would be part of 23 the greater discussion, then we'd starting pinning down
24 proposed dates for Your Honor to talk about at the next status
25 conference here, Your Honor, on or about August 14th.

1 We'd also address the Acis request that the debtor
2 file an answer to the Acis second amended complaint in the Acis
3 case. We had talked about that, that was a new topic of 4 discussion.

5 And that's really the -- that's what we would propose
6 to get before the Court. We'd file it -- it's August 14, we'd 7 file it two days before the hearing because that's soon after 8 Ms. Patel's vacation. If it's a few days later, we'd give the 9 Court -- we would file it a few days earlier to give the Court
10 more time to look at the joint statement.

11 To the extent we can't agree on all of these issues
12 that I just enumerated in the joint statement, the joint 13 statement would address those issues that we haven't agreed on,
14 and the unilateral position of the parties to be discussed
15 before the Court at the continued status conference.

16 So we think in that way, Your Honor, we can make 17 everyone's life easier to go forward and get something done at 18 the September 17 claim objection date.

19 THE COURT: All right. Well, Ms. Patel, do you agree
20 with everything you just heard?

21 MS. PATEL: Yes, generally speaking, Your Honor.
22 Just a couple of things.

23 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Bonds, I'm going to ask
24 you to put your phone on mute. I think we're getting some 25 disruption from your end.

1 MR. BONDS: It is on mute; I'm sorry.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Well, Mike, I don't know where 3 that's coming from.

4 ECRO: I think it's Mr. Ira's phone. He's on mute
5 now.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 ECRO: That's where it's coming from.

8 THE COURT: Ms. Patel, go ahead.

9 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

10 Just a couple of things, again, so the Court -- just 11 so I can set the Court's expectations a little bit on where 12 we're going to head, and these were discussions we had with Mr.
13 Kharasch over the (indiscernible) yesterday. But I wanted to,
14 again, reiterate the parties' expectation is that if we're 15 going to go down this path -- a double (indiscernible) path
16 while we're doing things by summary adjudication at the 17 September 17th hearing which issues -- you know, we'll decide
18 which buckets of issues are appropriate for September 17th,
19 that nevertheless, that there would be an expeditious trial
20 setting, and that's what I think the parties are anticipating
21 coming back to the Court and asking for in August.

22 And that that trial setting would be at some 23 juncture, preferably before plan confirmation. But if it has 24 to go to trial, that's certainly no (inaudible), so make that 25 simultaneous with the plan confirmation.

1 But just -- that's just a little bit of
2 foreshadowing, I suppose, Your Honor, more than anything else.

3 We also requested that basically we would just go
4 through one -- what we'll call summary adjudication process.
5 And Your Honor hit on a great question of is this a motion for 6 summary judgment? I'm not sure that we really necessarily 7 defined it as a motion for summary judgment, as much as this is 8 intended to be a "there's not going to be anymore motions to 9 dismiss or motions for (indiscernible) pleading, etc." The 10 September 17th hearing is intended to be the full shot of 11 "let's go through all the issues that can be determined on 12 September 17th by agreement, and then that's it, other than 13 that, we're going to be talking about trial."

14 The other point that I would just raise again just to 15 enlighten the Court, this isn't -- the summary adjudication
16 would not just be issues that Highland has raised in its 17 objection to Acis's claim, but it could also be summary
18 adjudication with respect to Acis's affirmative claims as 19 against the estate. So it's a two-way street with respect to 20 that.

21 And then finally, Your Honor, Acis just requested
22 that we at least have a discussion with respect to the Highland
23 Capital Management filing an answer with respect to Acis's
24 complaint. And as Your Honor recalls, the proof of claim that 25 Acis filed is -- attaches the second amended complaint that's

1 pending in the adversary. That complaint has never had an 2 answer filed with respect to it, so we need an answer really as 3 kind of a responsive pleading. And the hope was that that
4 would help streamline the issues so -- and, frankly, I think it
5 would be helpful from my perspective to decide what are the 6 appropriate issues for the summary adjudication basket to be 7 heard on September 17th, and what are the appropriate -- what's 8 the appropriate basket that is going to have to go trial.

9 And that was -- that was my thinking with respect to 10 that. But we'll continue to have those discussions, and foster
11 that.

12 But beyond that, that's just some things that I
13 wanted to sort of foreshadow, I guess, for the Court, just to 14 (indiscernible) the Court's expectations as to what's going to 15 happen at the August hearing, and where things are headed.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, just a couple of things
17 I'll throw in.

18 Before we get off, I'll make sure September 17th is 19 available.

20 (The Court engaged in off-the-record colloquy)

21 THE COURT: So we'll circle back and make sure that's 22 good.

23 As far as this process, I like everything I heard.

24 As far as getting the summary adjudication on certain 25 issues, I kind of like the idea of not cross-motions for

1 summary judgment, no, please. Maybe instead, you just come up
2 with a set of stipulated facts, and then based on these 3 stipulated facts, we think you can rule as a matter of law on 4 A, B, and C, and then the other side disagrees that you can
5 based on A, B, and C.

6 But on the other hand, you think we can -- you can 7 rule in front of us because of D, E, F. And then the other
8 side -- so I guess what I'm saying is -- hmmm, I'm trying to 9 avoid the whole cumbersome summary judgment process, but -- can 10 we --

11 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor, can --

12 THE COURT: Mr. Kharasch, do you have an idea?

13 MR. KHARASCH: Yes. We've been thinking about that 14 very point, Your Honor, and that's something I'm going to talk
15 to Ms. Patel about, you know, prior to that status conference
16 hearing.

17 We agree with you, we don't want to recreate the 18 wheel on a bunch of paper that's already before the Court. We 19 might come up with a proposal, Your Honor, where we just submit 20 a short statement of why we think -- you know, before the 21 September hearing date, here's what's going to be argued on 22 summary adjudication, we'll cross-reference what's already in 23 front of the Court in terms of our claim objection, point you
24 to different parts of it, rather than me filing things.
25 Hopefully stipulate to certain facts to make your life easier,

1 and to, you know, just make sure everything's easily directed.

2 But that's the kind of thing we'd like -- I think
3 we're going to be talking about to make things easier and more
4 streamlined.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Patel, you agree that's a goal
6 to shoot for? Rather than cross motions for summary judgment,
7 and responses, and replies, and giant appendixes, just have 8 something like a set of stipulated facts, and here are the 9 contested issues of law?

10 MS. PATEL: Yes, Your Honor. I think that would be 11 sort of the general goal.

12 THE COURT: Okay, all right. Well, that -- that 13 sounds like a good game plan.

14 So I like this overall idea, we'll kind of check in 15 on August 14th. A few days before that, you'll file the joint 16 statement of what you think the list of issues of law are that 17 would be argued on the 17th.

18 And then as far as the answer to the Acis adversary
19 proceeding, that adversary proceeding is technically subject to 20 the automatic stay, and there are other parties in the 21 litigation. So as I've mentioned before, we have drafted back
22 in chambers a giant report and recommendation on a motion to 23 withdraw the reference that was filed way long ago by -- I
24 think it was jointly by Highland and HCLOF. But I may be 25 wrong, it may have only been HCLOF, it's been so long since

1 I've looked at it.

2 But my point is it's stayed. So I mean as a
3 technical matter, if you want to agree that Highland will file
4 an answer, I mean I guess you'll have to do an agreed order
5 lifting the stay, maybe just for the limited purpose of 6 allowing Highland to do an answer with you all agreeing it's 7 not going to go any further than that at this juncture. Or -- 8 I mean I'm just asking, frankly, because we've got other
9 parties involved who want to know the answer to that question
10 maybe.

11 And then I've got a report and recommendation that 12 I've got to dust off, and finalize, and send in to the District
13 Court if we're lifting the stay for all purposes.

14 I assume you just want to do a limited lifting the 15 stay to let them file an answer, but everything else is still 16 on hold?

17 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, I think that would be the 18 general concept. And to be fair, it's a concept that I was,
19 you know, late in the day yesterday with Mr. Kharasch, and so
20 we haven't really quite formulated exactly how we Proceed
21 forward with it. So I don't -- I'm not trying to ambush him on 22 the issue.

23 But I think we can either craft something that to the 24 extent that it is an answer, a very traditional answer, you
25 know, concept in the adversary proceeding, then, yes, I agree

1 that I think it would be appropriate to do a very limited
2 agreed order lifting the stay for the limited purpose of filing
3 the answer, and that's it. Again, just so we have the 4 pleading.

5 Or if we -- that perhaps maybe Mr. Kharasch and I can 6 come and put our creative brains together and see if we can 7 come up with something that acts an awful lot like an answer,
8 but is here and filed in the Highland bankruptcy case that kind
9 of functions similarly.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. KHARASCH: Yeah, just to be clear, Your Honor, we 12 haven't agreed to anything; we heard about this concept
13 yesterday. I have not really had a chance to think it through.
14 I'm not -- I'm not saying absolutely no, we have to discuss it
15 with our client. (Indiscernible) but we have an open mind, and 16 will continue our discussions.

17 One thing, Your Honor, do we definitely have the 18 August 14 date as a status conference? And if so, at what 19 time?

20 THE COURT: It is available. Let's do it at 9:30,
21 and I'm not going to give you a ton of time that day because I
22 have a bear of a trial that next week that I'm going to need to 23 be in mostly hibernation preparing for. So let's say 9:30 on 24 Friday, August 14th.

25 MR. KHARASCH: That's fine, Your Honor; thank you

1 very much.

2 THE COURT: And then I -- on September 17th at 9:30,
3 I also have available.

4 MR. KHARASCH: That's great.

5 THE COURT: The morning only, I've got a full
6 afternoon.

7 All right, so I was going to ask you to do sort of 8 like a mini scheduling order, reflective of what we discussed
9 today. And it sounds like you'll have a few things to iron out
10 after we get off the phone, but I think we've got enough here
11 to kind of have a partial scheduling order, or something to 12 that effect, dealing with objections to Acis's proof of claim.

13 Mr. Bonds, you're on there, I see now, for Mr.
14 Dondero. I think you've joined in the -- I don't know if you 15 call it a joint, or you filed your separate objection to the 16 Acis proof of claim, correct?

17 MR. BONDS: (No verbal response).

18 THE COURT: Okay. You're on mute, if you could 19 unmute yourself.

20 MR. BONDS: Your Honor --

21 THE COURT: We're getting some echo, but is there
22 anything you want to add to this discussion?

23 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, there is. We believe that we 24 are entitled to participate in the Acis claim of because it's 25 so intertwined with the underlying lawsuit -- Your Honor, I'm

1 sorry.

2 THE COURT: All right. Well, I understand you filed
3 an objection. Is there any -- is there any -- well, is there
4 any objection to the Dondero -- I don't know if he's going to 5 say anything separate from the debtor, but Dondero being 6 involved as an objecting party.

7 MR. BONDS: (Indiscernible). I'm sorry.

8 THE COURT: Okay. We're having real terrible --
9 (The Court engaged in off-the-record colloquy)

10 THE COURT: Okay. We have two feeds that say D.
11 Michael Lynn, and that's causing a feedback loop, according to 12 the younger smarter people here behind me. Like maybe you have 13 a phone and a computer? All right, well, I've actually turned 14 to Mr. Kharasch and Ms. Patel, do you all have any problem with 15 Dondero kind of joining in, and -- I haven't reviewed his 16 objection to see how it differs from the debtor's.

17 MR. KHARASCH: Yeah, frankly, Your Honor -- Ira
18 Kharasch. We have not spent time reviewing that objection, as 19 well, so we haven't really thought about it.

20 I mean it's out there, I'm not sure I see the problem
21 with it. But we would like some time to see how -- what it
22 looks like, and how it plays into it. I'm not -- I'd be 23 surprised if -- well, I'm not even going to say anything as to 24 what's in it because I just haven't read it.

25 THE COURT: Okay, all right. Ms. Patel?

1 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, from Acis's perspective,
2 same. I, frankly, have not given it enough consideration. And 3 just out of the gate, I think one of the issues is going to be
4 Mr. Dondero's standing to kind of join in on the claim
5 objection, but it's something that, frankly, I just truly
6 haven't spent enough time thinking that issue through, or 7 whether there's going to be an issue. So I'm just not sure.

8 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'll try one more time.
9 Mr. Bonds, do you have a good connection now?

10 MR. BONDS: (No audible response heard).

11 THE COURT: All right. I'm just going to direct you
12 all to visit with Mr. Bonds or Mr. Lynn, and see if you can 13 come up with any agreements. And if you can't, then maybe Mr.
14 Dondero's counsel can request a status conference. I'm not 15 inclined to want to do another one before August 14, but maybe 16 we can just hear what they have to say on August 14th about the 17 process.

18 MR. KHARASCH: I think that makes sense, Your Honor.
19 And we'll -- and we'll talk to them.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. KHARASCH: We'll talk to them beforehand.

22 THE COURT: Okay, all right.

23 MS. PRESTON: Your Honor, may I briefly be heard?

24 THE COURT: Who is this?

25 MS. PRESTON: This is Katherine Preston from Winston

1 & Strawn, I represent Mr. Ellington, Mr. Leventon, and some of 2 the other Highland employees.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MS. PRESTON: And I apologize, I tried to appear
5 earlier and had some technical difficulties.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MS. PRESTON: We just wanted to ask regarding 8 mediation. We've discussed with some of the parties to that 9 mediation dissipating, and so we just wanted to be included, as 10 well, in any of those discussions and communications.

11 THE COURT: All right. And I guess the party in 12 interest status would be that you've been sued by Acis, is 13 that -- is there any --

14 MS. PRESTON: That's correct.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I think what I'm going to do
16 is think about that one a bit.

17 I almost put that one in the same category as Mark
18 Okada. I'm just trying to be as productive as possible in the 19 way this goes forward where the primary issues are the UBS
20 proof of claim and the Acis proof of claim. And granted, 21 there's a lot of satellite litigation out there, and -- and 22 that might be a factor as far as -- let me think about that 23 one, okay?

24 Your request is duly noted, and I'm going to think
25 about that, and I'll let you all know through my courtroom

1 deputy what I decide on that. But I'm leaning towards that
2 might be a second stage of mediation if we have wonderful
3 breakthroughs on the Acis and UBS proof of claim sides, so
4 that's my answer on that.

5 MS. PRESTON: Thank you.

6 THE COURT: Uh-huh. Anything else?

7 MS. PRESTON: Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: All right. Well, it's a little bit late,
9 it's 5:19 central time, and if there's nothing further, we're 10 adjourned, and we'll look for all the orders to be 11 electronically submitted.

12 Thank you.

13 MULTIPLE SPEAKERS: Thank you.

1 Ellington, several others.

2 THE COURT: Oh, okay. Thank you. Any other
3 appearances today?

4 (No response.)

5 THE COURT: All right. I'll assume everyone else is 6 just going to observe.

7 Well, we have two employment applications. Mr. Pomerantz,
8 how did you want to proceed on those?

9 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, we have the two 10 motions to present, Your Honor. I'm happy to say that neither 11 of them are opposed.

12 Before I present the motions to Your Honor, I wanted to 13 ask if Your Honor would like to address the mediation issues
14 at the conclusion of the hearing or prior to the presentation
15 of the motions.

16 THE COURT: At the conclusion. Thank you.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

18 Your Honor, the first motion on the docket today is a
19 Motion to Appoint James Seery as the Debtors' chief executive
20 officer and chief restructuring officer, effective as of March 21 15th, which is about the time that Mr. Seery began performing 22 the services as the chief executive officer.

23 While there's a good argument that the retention of a
24 chief executive officer is in the ordinary course of business
25 and does not require court approval, the Debtor, out of an

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 7 of 134

1 abundance of caution, filed the motion, and the motion seeks
2 approval of the agreement which is attached to the motion.

3 The second motion, Your Honor, is a Motion to Approve the 4 Retention of DSI as the Debtors' Financial Advisor. And as 5 the Court is aware, Mr. Sharp, a managing director of DSI, was 6 approved as the Debtors' Chief Restructuring Officer pursuant 7 to this Court's January 10th order.

8 Although Mr. Seery is proposed to replace Mr. Sharp as the 9 Debtors' Chief Restructuring Officer, Mr. Seery still requires
10 the financial assistance and advisory support that DSI has 11 been providing to him, the Board, and the Debtor for several 12 months.

13 While each of these motions, as I mentioned, Your Honor,
14 are unopposed, we plan to put on the testimony of James Seery,
15 John Dubel, and Brad Sharp to provide the Court with the 16 evidentiary basis to support the relief that is requested.
17 And with the testimony, Your Honor, we intend to accomplish
18 several things.

19 First, Your Honor, in light of our exchange at the hearing
20 on July 8th, we thought it'd be appropriate for Mr. Seery to 21 provide a more fulsome response to Your Honor regarding the 22 nature and extent of the Debtors' operations and assets and 23 the variety of significant activities that the Board in 24 general and Mr. Seery as the chief executive officer has been 25 performing over the last several months.

8

1 We think this is very important, Your Honor, given that
2 the Debtor has substantial and multiple complex business
3 operations that it oversees that are in -- that are in 4 subsidiaries outside of Chapter 11 or are in entities managed
5 by the Debtor and also not in Chapter 11. And the Court, we 6 appreciate, especially in light of Your Honor's comments, does
7 not have the benefit of seeing what is really going on. So
8 we're hoping, by Mr. Seery's testimony, it will provide Your 9 Honor with a much clear picture, and, quite frankly, a better
10 job doing it than I was able to do last week.

11 Mr. Seery's testimony will support the need for the 12 retention of the chief executive officer and why his 13 particular background and qualifications made him the 14 appropriate choice for the role.

15 Second, Mr. Dubel, as the chairman of the compensation
16 committee of the Board, will testify regarding the process
17 undertaken by the compensation committee that led to the 18 conclusion to ask Mr. Seery to become the chief executive
19 officer and the agreement -- under the terms and conditions
20 set forth in the agreement.

21 Lastly, Mr. Sharp will testify regarding the activities he 22 and DSI have been performing since the commencement of the 23 case, the assistance they have been providing to Mr. Seery 24 over the last few months, and how the nature and extent of the 25 services they are providing will essentially remain the same

1 if Your Honor approves the motion to employ Mr. Seery.

2 Before I turn the virtual podium over to my partner, John
3 Morris, to present the testimony, Your Honor, I thought I
4 would provide the Court with a brief summary of the events
5 leading to the Debtors' filing of the motion.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. POMERANTZ: As Your Honor will recall, the Court
8 entered an order on January 9th approving a settlement between 9 the Debtor and the Committee, and a significant part of that 10 settlement involved modifications to the Debtors' corporate 11 governance that resulted in the installation of the 12 Independent Board.

13 The term sheet that was attached in the settlement motion
14 specifically contemplated that the Independent Board, in 15 consultation with the Committee, would determine whether it
16 was appropriate to retain a chief executive officer, and 17 further went on to say that the chief executive officer could 18 be a member of the Board.

19 And the retention of a chief executive officer was on 20 everyone's minds from the beginning, because since Mr.
21 Dondero's authority as the CEO of the Debtor was being 22 terminated in connection with the settlement, the Debtor and 23 the Committee contemplated that, in order to manage a dynamic
24 and widespread asset management platform like Highland's, that 25 the retention of a chief executive officer may very well be

1 necessary.

2 I will leave it to Mr. Seery and Mr. Dubel to explain to
3 the Court what transpired during the early stages of the case
4 and the decision-making process that led to Mr. Seery starting
5 to act as the Debtors' chief executive officer. And I would
6 also leave it to Mr. Dubel to discuss the sequence of events
7 which led from the appointment of him as the chief executive
8 officer through the filing of the motion that brings us here
9 today, which events will include the establishment of a
10 compensation committee; the commissioning of a report from the 11 Debtors' compensation expert, Mercer; the procurement of the 12 Debtors' [sic] and officers insurance coverage to cover Mr.
13 Seery and Mr. Dubel; the negotiations over the (inaudible) of 14 Mr. Seery; and lastly, the negotiations with the Committee
15 which has resulted in the motion being fully consensual.

16 I'll also leave it to Mr. Seery to explain his personal -- 17 professional background and why he was qualified to fill that 18 role.

19 The agreement, Your Honor, between Mr. Seery and the 20 Debtor includes the following material provisions.

21 First, there would be base compensation at the rate of 22 $150,000 a month, retroactive to March 15th. And while Mr.
23 Seery will remain on the Board as part of his role as the 24 chief executive officer, the $150,000 per month would cover
25 his services not only as a CEO but also a member of the Board.

1 In other words, the Board fees that were agreed to back in
2 January of $60,000 a month, $50,000 a month, and $30,000 a
3 month would be replaced by the $150,000 a month commencing on 4 March 15th.

5 While the compensation committee and Mr. Seery reached
6 agreement on the structure of potential bonus compensation,
7 the Committee has not agreed to that proposed structure. As a
8 result, the compensation committee and Mr. Seery decided that 9 approval sought in this motion would only be the monthly
10 compensation and the other non-economic terms, but would not
11 include the bonus compensation. Any bonus compensation sought
12 to be paid to Mr. Seery would be pursuant to a separate motion
13 filed, if at all, a lot later in the case.

14 The Committee was also uncomfortable with the open-ended
15 nature of the agreement and wanted some control in being able 16 to seek to terminate it. To accommodate the Committee, Mr.
17 Seery and the Debtor agreed to the following: After 90 days
18 from the date the Court enters an order approving this 19 agreement, if the Court is inclined to do so, the Committee
20 may provide the Debtor with notice that it does not want the 21 agreement to continue. The Debtor would then have two weeks
22 to file a motion on normal notice seeking to extend the date
23 of the agreement, and Mr. Seery would be entitled to his base
24 compensation until the Court ruled on the motion.

25 Also, the Committee asked us that be made clear in the

1 order, which we've done, that Mr. Seery's retention would 2 terminate on the effective date on the plan, subject, of 3 course, of his right to seek bonus compensation pursuant to a
4 separate motion. The agreement also contains standard
5 reimbursement and indemnification provisions.

6 Your Honor, those conclude my initial remarks. I'm happy
7 to take questions. And then, at the appropriate time, I
8 return it over to Mr. Morris, who will put on the testimony of 9 Mr. Seery, Mr. Dubel, and Mr. Sharp.

10 THE COURT: All right. I'd like to pretty quickly
11 get to the evidence. So, I'll ask: Does anyone have a 12 burning desire to make an opening statement? If so, please
13 let's keep it brief.

14 (No response.)

15 THE COURT: All right. I assume everyone is content
16 to wait until the end and speak up in any way they want to 17 speak up.

18 Mr. Morris, are you ready to call your witness?

19 MR. MORRIS: I am, Your Honor. Can you hear me right
20 now?

21 THE COURT: I can. Thank you.

22 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Your Honor, this is John Morris
23 from Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones for the Debtor. As the 24 Debtors' first witness, we call James Seery.

25 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, I need to swear

4 MR. SEERY: Testing 1, 2.

5 THE COURT: All right.

6 JAMES P. SEERY, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

7 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris?

8 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. Before I begin
9 my questioning of Mr. Seery, the Debtor had filed its witness
10 list and its exhibit list. We provided copies of the exhibits
11 to the Court and to the Committee, and I would like to just 12 move into evidence Debtors' Exhibits 1 through 7 at this time.

13 THE COURT: All right. So I have in front of me
14 Docket Entry No. 822 with Exhibits 1 through 7. Any 15 objection? (No response.) All right. 1 through 7 are 16 admitted.

17 (Debtors' Exhibits 1 through 7 are received into
18 evidence.)

19 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. And just as an 20 overview, so you have a sense of where we're going with Mr.
21 Seery's testimony, I am going to begin with some very brief
22 background questionings and then have Mr. Seery answer some 23 questions concerning the overview of the company and the 24 corporate structure of the company. You may have heard some 25 of this before, but I think in the context of a motion such as

14

1 the appointment of a CEO, I think it would be helpful to hear
2 it all.

3 When I finish with that, we're going to move into the area
4 of the Board and the work that the Board has done and Mr.
5 Seery's work as a member of the Board.

6 And then we'll transition into really the meat of the 7 discussion here, and that is what has he done in his capacity
8 as CEO. And to be clear, he's not the CEO, he doesn't call
9 himself the CEO, but he's functioned as the CEO, and I think
10 that's the point that we want to present to the Court. And we 11 want to present to the Court the fact that he functioned as a
12 CEO really from day one of the process. And we're not going 13 to get into, you know, every single thing he's done, because 14 we'd be here for an awfully long time, but we do intend to 15 highlight a couple of the transactions that he worked on and 16 give you a sense of his role in trying to develop a plan and 17 resolving claims.

18 And I think, with that, you'll have a better understanding
19 of Mr. Seery, his role, and why we believe it's a proper
20 exercise of the Debtors' business judgment to appoint him as 21 CEO.

22 THE COURT: All right. Sounds good.

23 MR. MORRIS: All right.

18 Director of Strand?

19 A On January 9th, along with John Dubel and Russ Nelms.

20 Q The Court has previously heard about your background, but 21 from a high level, can you just hit the highlights for the 22 Court as to your experience, et cetera?

23 A To go swiftly -- and if Your Honor wants me to go further,
24 I certainly can -- I was a restructuring and finance lawyer
25 for 10 years, handling virtually every type of restructuring

1 matter as well as financing in distressed matters during that
2 time.

3 In 1999, I went to the business side and I began to manage
4 distressed assets at Lehman Brothers as well as a leverage
5 finance business. That grew into my running the risky finance
6 business as well as the loan business at Lehman globally,
7 which included high-grade loans, high-yield loans, trading and 8 sales of those products, a big part of distressed, all of 9 restructuring, all of asset management, and all of the hedging
10 of the portfolio that we had.

11 From there, I left Lehman with a small group and sold it
12 to Barclay's. I moved on and ran a hedge fund with two former 13 partners of mine who are the founding partners called River
14 Birch Capital. It was a long-short credit fund; mostly 15 credit, though we did structured finance as well, and we also 16 handled some equities.

17 Q Okay. Let's spend a few minutes, as a preview, talking 18 about the Debtor and its business. And let's start with the 19 basics. Is there a way you can summarize the business of the 20 Debtor?

21 A I think, from a high level, the best way to think about
22 the Debtor is that it's a registered investment advisor. As a
23 registered investment advisor, which is really any advisor of 24 third-party money over $25 million, it has to register with 25 the SEC, and it manages funds in many different ways.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 17 of 134

Seery - Direct

17

1 The Debtor manages approximately $200 million current
2 values -- it was more than that at the start of the case -- of 3 its own assets. It doesn't have to be a registered investment
4 advisor for those assets, but it does manage its own assets,
5 which include directly-owned securities; loans from mostly 6 related entities, but not all; and investments in certain 7 funds which it also manages.

8 In addition, the Debtor manages about roughly $2 billion
9 in -- $2 billion in total managed assets, around $2 billion in 10 CLO assets, and then other entities, which are hedge funds or 11 PE style.

12 In addition, the Debtor provides shared services for 13 approximately $6 billion of assets. Those are assets that are 14 owned by related entities but not owned by Debtor-owned or 15 managed entities. And those are a combination of back office
16 services, which include timely reporting, asset management,
17 legal and compliance support, trading and research support,
18 but not the actual management of the assets.

19 The Debtors run -- and I think the way to think about it
20 is on a functional basis; at least, that's the way I think
21 about it -- and there's really six areas. There's corporate 22 management; finance, accounting and tax; trading and research;
23 private equity and fund investing; compliance and legal; and 24 then structured equity, which really includes all of the CLO
25 businesses.

1 The goals of the Debtor generally are what you'd expect
2 out of an asset manager. A little bit different than most
3 because the Debtor does own assets, which is a little
4 different than when money asset managers typically hold assets
5 away from the asset manager. But number one, discharge
6 Highland's, which I'll call Highland (inaudible), LP, duties
7 to investors in the funds. Those are fiduciary duties under 8 the Investment Advisors Act. Each day, you've got to make 9 sure that you do that first and foremost.

10 Number two, create positive MPD in each of the funds that 11 we manage, either through sales, purchases, or hedging.

12 Next, make sure that we report timely finances of our own
13 assets, including in the funds, but also, to the third-party
14 investors. Maximize the value of HCMLP's owned assets. And 15 then operate as efficiently as possible for the lowest cost.

16 That's essentially how the Debtor -- how we think about 17 the Debtor from a functional perspective. It's got about 70
18 employees laid out in those areas that I mentioned, and each
19 of those employees every day usually think about those goals
20 and try to discharge their duties by focusing on those goals.

21 Q Thank you, Mr. Seery. And can you describe for the Court
22 how those 70 or so employees are organized? Is there an 23 internal corporate structure that you're working with?

24 A Yeah. The way -- the way -- I apologize. The way we 25 think about it is, as I said, corporate management, which is

1 really HR and overseeing the function that it's filling every
2 day, that's been really -- because Mr. Dondero was removed 3 from management. It used to all roll up to him. That's been 4 effectively rolling up to me since February.

5 Finance, accounting, and tax. Each of these businesses
6 every day require certain amounts of liquidity. Each of them
7 have requirements that they have to pay out to investors.
8 Each of them have expenses. And all of them have different
9 kinds of tax either obligations or reporting. Those are 10 managed by Frank Waterhouse as the CFO. (inaudible), sorry.

11 Trading and research. With respect to the assets, they're 12 not -- they're not static assets. Many of them do get traded 13 on a regular basis. A gentleman, Joe Sowin, heads up the 14 trading of the liquid assets. John Povish (phonetic) heads up
15 the research and the trading of the more illiquid assets, but 16 not PE. In addition, we have PE assets that require some 17 management every day, including Board seats. That's a 18 gentleman by the name of Cameron Baynard, and also he will 19 fund investments in that area. J.P. Sevilla is responsible 20 for working with Cameron on those investments and leading that 21 team.

22 Importantly, because of the nature of what the Debtor
23 does, the fiduciary obligations, as well as the 24 responsibilities to each investor and the legal overlay, we 25 have a robust compliance and legal department. That's headed

1 by Thomas Surgent and Scott Ellington. Scott: more focused
2 on transactional issues with respect to legal. He is actually
3 general counsel. Everything that has do with compliance, the 4 interrelatedness of the funds, trading between funds or 5 positions that are shared across funds, which are many, runs
6 through Thomas Surgent and his team.

7 And finally, structured equity. Sitting on top of the 8 structured finance business that we have, understanding those 9 assets, particularly of two billion-ish assets in CLOs, that's 10 headed by Hunter Covitz.

11 Q Can you describe for the Court your interaction with each
12 of the department heads that you just identified?

13 A Well, depending on the nature of the issue each day, I
14 have at least -- I'd say generally at least weekly contact
15 with most, often daily contact with most. So, for example, 16 when there are trading issues, particularly as the market was 17 extremely volatile with respect to unliquid securities, Joe
18 Sowin and I were on the phone several times a day.

19 Relating to the COVID issues, Brian Collins, who heads the 20 HR group, and I were on the phone several times a day.

21 Relating to structured equity, depending on what's 22 happening with a particular fund or what's happening in loan
23 prices, I speak to Hunter Covitz. And it goes down the line.

24 So it really depends on each of the areas and what's going 25 on in the business, but I try to touch base with each of those

1 department heads on a regular basis.

2 Frank Waterhouse, of course, is at least weekly. We have 3 a standing call every week to make sure that we're focused on 4 liquidity, which is always a concern in a Chapter 11, and
5 Frank and his team are on that call and prepare weekly
6 materials for us.

7 Q Okay.

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, before I move to the next
9 area of questions, the work of the Board, I just wanted to see
10 if the Court had any questions on the corporate organizational 11 structure, the internal structure of the business, or any of 12 the matters that Mr. Seery touched on?

13 THE COURT: I do not. And I do have in front of me a 14 demonstrative aid that Mr. Annable sent over ahead of time, so
15 I appreciate that as well.

16 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Your Honor, I think Mr. Seery
17 covered much of what's on that document, but if you'd like him
18 to go through that, we're happy to do it.

19 THE COURT: No, that's fine.

20 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q Then let's shift gears a little bit and start talking
23 about the work of the Independent Board itself. The 24 Independent Board was appointed in mid-January; is that right?

25 A Yeah. It was the first -- January 9th, the first week of

1 January, and we started working that afternoon.

2 Q Okay. Can you describe for the Court what the -- the 3 Board's initial focus? What were you focused on?

4 A Well, if you think about the areas that I just mentioned
5 previously, the Board initially, for lack of a better term,
6 gang-tackled everything. So we tried to make sure that we had 7 a broad base of understanding among the three of us with 8 respect to the business.

9 I, because of my background, had a lot more familiarity
10 with asset management, these type of asset security 11 businesses. But we wanted to make sure that each of us was at 12 least facile with the main areas that we had to understand.
13 First was operations. How does the company run each day?
14 Particularly, how was it going to run without Mr. Dondero?
15 And I went through some of those functional areas and how we 16 thought about those and who head each of those.

17 Next in the -- I don't mean to say it's second, because 18 it's always first, but liquidity. What did the Debtors'
19 liquidity look like? How are we going to manage that 20 liquidity, not just for the near-term, but also for the 21 medium-term, and then even into the slightly longer-term? We 22 had to think about what assets are there, what money those 23 assets might need that we would have to invest in them, and 24 whether there was liquidity in those assets that we can create
25 liquidity in order to fund the Debtors' business.

1 Personnel, we needed a good opportunity to understand who
2 did what, not just in the senior managers that I mentioned,
3 but deeper into the staff, because we're going to rely on 4 those folks. Particularly worked through with DSI.

5 As I mentioned, the Debtor, unlike a lot of other asset
6 managers, owns a lot of assets. It's a disparate group of 7 assets, but getting a feel and understanding for what those 8 assets were, what the critical issues surrounding those assets
9 are, who managed them day-to-day: We wanted to make sure that 10 each of the directors had a good (inaudible) and understanding
11 of those issues that might arise with respect to those assets,
12 and a good sense of how quickly those issues could, you know,
13 further arise.

14 We also had to get a very good understanding of each of 15 the funds that we manage. As I said, the Investment Advisors
16 Act puts a fiduciary duty on Highland Capital to discharge its 17 duty to the investors. So while we have duties to the estate,
18 we also have duties, as I mentioned in my last testimony, to 19 each of the investors in the funds.

20 Now, some of them are related parties, and those are a 21 little bit easier. Some of them are owned by Highland. But 22 there are third-party investors in these funds who have no
23 relation whatsoever to Highland, and we owe them a fiduciary 24 duty both to manage their assets prudently but also to seek to 25 maximize value. And we wanted to make sure we had a good

24

1 understanding of that.

2 Finally, with respect to the shared service arrangements,
3 we needed to get an understanding of that $6 billion in assets
4 and how our business, HCMLP, worked with those -- those shared
5 service counterparties and exactly who did what for whom.

6 It's very complicated because it had been run much more on a
7 functional basis than on a line basis from each contract. So
8 it's not as if your employees are allocated to NexBank. It's 9 the whole panoply of businesses that we enter into, and 10 providing those services to NexBank, not through a central 11 point but through whatever requests come in from the counter-
12 parties. So we needed a good understanding of what those 13 contracts looked and what those obligations were.

14 A VOICE: John, you're on mute.

15 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q All of that work was going on in the first weeks of the 18 appointment of the Board?

19 A Yeah, it would not be fair to say we could do that in a 20 couple weeks. So it took far longer than that. But that 21 didn't mean that issues didn't start to arise immediately in 22 February. And so, while we were learning, we were also 23 starting to get a feel for different things that could happen
24 in the company.

25 As in many companies, immediately, one of the first things

25

1 you have to deal with is, particularly at the beginning of the
2 year, what does compensation look like; who are the -- what do
3 promotions look like; are you going to be able to hold this 4 team together to service these assets? And yeah, we had that,
5 with an additional wrinkle that Highland's payment structure
6 defers a significant amount of compensation to its employees,
7 and it vests over time, and it has the very typical provision
8 that if you are not there when it vests -- when it is going to 9 be paid, actually, not when it vests. Even if you're vested,
10 if you're not there when it gets paid, you're not entitled to 11 it. And so understanding who was owed what; how the vesting
12 worked; what the compensation structure looked like compared 13 to third parties, was one of the first things we had to do.
14 And Highland has an extremely robust review process. Brian 15 Collins manages it. It's first-rate. It goes through both 16 360 in terms of what other employees think of each other as 17 well as bottoms up, in terms of performance. And then it has 18 a top-down component, which ultimately ran through Mr.
19 Dondero. Since he was effectively removed from that role, the 20 Board had to jump in and get a full understanding with Brian 21 about what the process looked like; how it was going to work;
22 how it compared to other firms; and whether we could go
23 forward with it. And that was one of the motions that was 24 brought early to the Court.
25 A Let's talk a minute about the transactional work that the

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 26 of 134

1 Board was called to focus on initially. Are you familiar with
2 the transactional protocols that the Debtor agreed to with the 3 Committee?

4 Q I am.

5 A Can you describe for the Court the impact those protocols
6 had on the Board's work?

7 Q Well, they make it extremely difficult. And I understand
8 the purposes behind the protocols. Was not involved in 9 negotiating them. However, because of the limitations they 10 put on the Debtor, they make it very difficult to manage
11 certain of the assets. So, if an asset needs money to invest
12 in it, depending on the size, it may need Committee approval.
13 If the -- if there are expenses that need to be paid from -- 14 in related entities, and the related entity does not have the 15 capital to make the expense payment, the Debtor needs to put 16 the money in. Can the Debtor put that money in without the 17 Committee's approval, and if the Committee doesn't approve,
18 would we have to go to Court?

19 So, the functioning on a day-to-day basis for how to deal
20 with those assets became very difficult. And that came up
21 really early, as the market started to get a lot more
22 volatility by mid-February. We saw with respect to the 23 internal accounts trades that we would have liked to put on,
24 for example, short position, where we just weren't able to put 25 the trades on.

27

1 Now, we could go to the Committee, and we did, but
2 understanding why we wanted to put it on; explaining it;
3 presenting that opportunity to the Committee; and then having
4 them go to the full Committee with it: It's very cumbersome.
5 And the trading markets don't wait for a week to determine
6 whether that offering that you want to -- that you want to 7 access is available.

8 So, early on, we got a sense of how difficult it would be 9 to manage the business with the protocols.

10 One of the areas I think that was significant and that we 11 talked about significantly with the Committee was an entity
12 called Multi-Strat. Multi-Strat is a fund that is owned by 13 the Debtor. It's, in essence, a PUNY-style (phonetic) fund.
14 It's an older fund. And it's about 60 percent owned by the 15 Debtor and roughly 30 percent owned by Dondero-related 16 entities.

17 However, there are 90 million, roughly 89 million,
18 approximately, third-party redeemers who had redeemed in that 19 fund but have yet to be paid, so they're treated like equity
20 claims but they're a fixed dollar amount because they are set
21 at the date that they redeemed based on the NAV at that time,
22 the net asset claim.

23 So, we were -- we were stuck with looking at that fund and 24 trying to determine how do we best manage the fund to get up-
25 side for the Debtor as well as the related entities that owned

28

1 the equity, making sure that we treated the redeemed entities
2 as fiduciaries, so which we acted as their fiduciaries, but
3 then also assuring that we managed the assets that that fund
4 owns in a prudent way.

5 One of the large assets in that fund were 13 life
6 policies. And these are, in essence, life insurance policies
7 that the Debtor bought from third parties. And there's a
8 market that trades life policies, and they owned these 9 policies on (inaudible). The value at the time was marked
10 around $32 million when -- when we took control.

11 The problem with the policies and some of the other
12 expenses at Multi-Strat is that they didn't -- Multi-Strat
13 didn't have the funds to continue to pay premiums. So, if the 14 premiums weren't paid, that $32 million was at risk of going 15 to zero. Why? Because if the premiums aren't paid, the 16 policies lapse. And once they lapse, the insurance company
17 will pay you zero for them. They don't them buy them back
18 anywhere. That's the market. But we looked at those assets
19 and began to consider how we would fund, from a liquidity
20 perspective, monies going into Multi-Strat.

21 The amounts required would require CC's approval under the 22 protocols, and the Debtor prepetition had advanced monies to 23 Multi-Strat to make premium payments and other expenses at 24 Multi-Strat. We went to the Committee and were able to get 25 approval to put a couple million dollars in early on to keep

29

1 the policies alive while we analyzed the best opportunity for
2 maximizing value with respect to those policies.

3 But thereafter, we needed additional money to try to 4 consider how to continue to maximize value, and the Committee
5 balked. So we went to Dondero-related entities, and they 6 actually put equity into the Multi-Strats. So we -- the 7 Debtor had made a postpetition, in essence -- it wasn't a
8 postpetition advance because it was going outside of the 9 Debtor, but postpetition, the Debtor made a loan to Multi-
10 Strat to service the policies, and then Dondero-related 11 entities made an equity investment into Multi-Strat to 12 continue to service the policies.

13 Well, we understood as a Board but that wasn't going to 14 work and that the protocols were going to continue to hinder
15 us, so we entered into a sale process with respect to those 16 policies.

17 Q And the work that you're describing with respect to Multi-18 Strat, is that -- just to transition to your work as 19 functionary CEO, would it fall into that bucket as opposed to 20 the Board work that we were talking about earlier?

21 A Yeah, absolutely. I think the -- the initial assessment,
22 as I said, we made as a group. And we looked at what the 23 opportunity set was, and determined that, because of the 24 costs, we weren't going to be able to continue to fund money
25 into Multi-Strat to make those payments.

30

1       So the Board asked me to take on trying to work out a
2 process to sell those policies. So, working with Fred Caruso
3 of DSI, we hired a broker, after interviewing a couple
4 different brokers. We considered the views of the internal 5 Highland team with respect to value and how to maximize that 6 value. We entered into a sale process for those policies, and 7 we ended up with a number of bidders and broke it down to two 8 bidders for the 13 policies, breaking up the policies to 9 maximize the value. They're only on eight lives, so it's not 10 fair to call it a portfolio. And so there's significant 11 amounts of premiums that have to be paid on a monthly basis
12 and going forward, and realizations on those policies are very 13 uncertain because it's hard to take them over an actuarial
14 methodology because there's only eight lives.

15       We tried to consider other ways to finance those policies,
16 but seven turned out to be, in our view, far and away the best
17 net present value for the investors in the fund.

18       The challenge that we had, as I mentioned, is the 19 complexity of Multi-Strat was also layered with a loan from 20 NexBank that was secured by four of the policies. That $32
21 million loan was also secured by the MGM stock owned by Multi-22 Strat.

23       And then, as we got towards closing, we learned that one 24 of the buyers wanted a more detailed title rep, and as we 25 peeled through, we found a long-dormant UBS fraudulent

31

1 conveyance suit that had been brought against Multi-Strat.
2 There was no lien on the policies, but it made it impossible
3 for us to give the clean rep that the buyer wanted.

4 And at this point, I was running that with Fred Caruso, at 5 the request of the Board, and it became almost a full-time job
6 except for the five other things that we have to do during 7 April. And we negotiated a variety of different -- well,
8 considered a variety of different opportunities to try to 9 complete the sale.

10 First, I negotiated directly with UBS to see if they would 11 agree to a release, and then when the funds, other than 12 certain escrows which had to be paid out to NexBank as well as 13 repayment of the Debtors' fund, (inaudible), that didn't -- it
14 was very unfruitful in terms of those negotiations.

15 I then moved towards a potential bankruptcy of Multi-
16 Strat, where we would file Multi-Strat, have to do a 363 sale,
17 have a DIP loan to service the NexBank monthly payments. That 18 seemed very expensive.

19 We also thought about doing it as not selling them, so 20 perhaps we would a 360 -- a filing without a sale and try to 21 maximize the value by holding onto the policies but have to 22 get financing.

23 Ultimately, we came up with a structure which was we 24 escrowed funds for UBS, $10 million of funds, but they're not 25 actually for UBS. We preserved all of our rights to defend

32

1 the claims and we had paid down NexBank. We allocated funds
2 to make sure that we can pay NexBank for the next year before
3 their loan comes due. We allocated for all the expenses in 4 Multi-Strat. And then when we went back to the sellers, lo
5 and behold, one of the two sellers balked. Didn't -- or 6 buyers, I'm sorry. Balked. Didn't want to complete the sale.
7 And fortunately, our broker (inaudible) and Fred Caruso had 8 had another buyer in the wings, kept them warm, and were able 9 to complete the sale for $37 million.

10 So that goes to: How does this business function, what's 11 the complexity of it, and what have I and the rest of the 12 Board been doing? That was virtually a month's worth of work.

13 Q And when did the Board ask you, if you recall, to 14 undertake this project? When did it begin and when did it
15 end?

16 A Well, the initial project, around -- around Multi-Strat,
17 we started analyzing it as a group in January, the first week
18 we were there. I started probably taking control of it
19 sometime in mid-February, with Fred Caruso. So, DSI was 20 already on it. We were looking to work with the Debtors' team
21 as well as hire a broker. We, as a group, as a Board, made
22 the decision to sell the policies. Ultimately, we sold them
23 for about $37 million, which was -- which was more, a few 24 million dollars more than the mark on the policies when we 25 took them.

1 Q Can you give the Judge a sense of your role, as distinct
2 from the Board's role, how you went about completing or 3 attempting to complete all of the tasks that you've described
4 and the interaction with the Board and what the Board's role
5 was in assessing all of that?

6 A With respect to the Multi-Strat policies?

7 Q Uh-huh.

8 A I think, you know, initially, it was a understand, for the 9 three of us, understand the policies; understand the premium
10 obligations; understand what the benefits, the potential up-
11 sides to those policies were; and understand what the risks
12 were if we were to fail to make a premium payment; what did
13 the lapse period look like. And we did that collectively.
14 From there, all of the individual work around -- we came up
15 with a strategy to sell the policies, and then the tactical 16 work with Fred Caruso about how to execute sale of the 17 policies and completing that sale through the issues NexBank,
18 through the issues with UBS, resolving those issues, that 19 became really my job.

20 Q Now, I do want to take a step back, because we kind of 21 transitioned from the Board to the work that you were doing,
22 and I wanted to ask: You're seeking -- the Debtor is seeking 23 to have you appointed as the CEO, right?

24 A Yes.

1 understanding of the duties and responsibilities of the CEO
2 position that we're seeking your appointment for?

3 A Sure. From a high level, it's -- I apologize. From a
4 high level, it's what I said earlier, which is the Board sets
5 the strategy, the CEO implements the strategy. And so I work
6 with the Highland team and the managers that I described
7 earlier, whose function that is, to try to execute on that 8 strategy. So that's, that's the basic overlay of what we do.
9 But that includes everything from, as I mentioned, personnel
10 issues to COVID-19 protocol to determining whether we're going
11 to sell certain assets and then how we're going to sell them,
12 determining how we'll resolve issues like Multi-Strat.

13 Another good example was the trading accounts that the 14 Debtor had. So, on the second or third week of January, or 15 perhaps the third or fourth week, we determined as we were 16 going through the asset review that the Debtor had two primary 17 liquid or semi-liquid securities accounts, and those were in 18 the Select account, which was a separate fund that had 19 previously third-party investors but was effectively a hundred
20 percent, 99 and change percent, owned by Highland at this 21 point. And an internal account, which was basically just 22 HCMLP-owned and denominated securities. These were generally
23 at Jefferies. Both of them employed significant margin.

24 THE WITNESS: If this is too pedantic, Your Honor,
25 please tell me if I'm going too deep.

1 But margin is, in essence, a way for a security purchaser
2 to borrow money to facilitate the purchase and holding of the 3 securities. In essence, the lender, which in this case was 4 Jefferies, a large, well-known, reputable financier and New 5 York investment bank, was the Debtors' account holder. The 6 Debtor would select securities. Jefferies would establish a
7 haircut. The haircut is really the -- how the lender
8 determines how much they want to lend against the assets. So 9 if there's a -- if there's a haircut of a hundred percent in 10 use there, there would be no margin against that asset. A 11 haircut of 50 percent means the debtor will give you -- or,
12 the lender will give you 50 percent of the funds you need to 13 own and hold that asset and you put up 50 percent of the 14 funds.

15 And in a margin loan, the way that the lender protects
16 itself is, each day, it assesses the value of the asset; it
17 looks at the volatility of the asset; and then it asks for 18 more margin if the asset value went down in the trading
19 markets; and then you have a day or two or three, depending on 20 the structure, to post the new margin.

21 If you don't post the new margin, and this the way every 22 margin loan works, the lender has the ability to seize the 23 asset, sell it, and pay off its loan. It will then give you
24 the proceeds above the loan, if any.

25 The debtor -- the lender does that by looking at both the 36

1 daily prices, to make sure that it can manage its exposure,
2 but also it considers the volatility. And what it does when
3 it's looking at the volatility, and volatility is really a
4 measure, the way -- the way that securities analysts look at 5 it, is a forward year of the movement, potential movement of a
6 security. And that's how you set your haircut. Because if 7 the -- if the asset is very, very stable -- for example, your 8 home -- if your home was a margin loan and your mortgage, say,
9 is a margin loan, there wouldn't be much calling of margin
10 every day, because if the lender loaned 80 percent of the 11 value of your home, there may be house sales that go higher or 12 lower, but they don't necessary move that much really quickly,
13 particularly if these loans set what's called a threshold
14 amount that allow a little bit of movement each way.

15 The margin loans, though, are on securities that can move
16 tremendously. And what happened in February and then in early
17 March, volatility spiked up, prices moved significantly,
18 prices moved against the Highland positions. So Jefferies did 19 two things. One is it called margin, because it was -- its 20 equity cushion, in essence, was getting trimmed, and it wanted
21 more protection. Number two, it increased the haircuts, which 22 it was entitled to do because it looked forward and said, The 23 volatility in this market is worse than we thought. It will 24 be a higher volatility and there's more risk to us that the 25 asset could be worth less than the loan.

1 I started working with Joe Sowin, who's a head trader, a
2 very accomplished trader at Highland. He actually reports
3 into the -- not on the Debtors' payroll but another payroll
4 that we don't manage. But he spends a ton of time working on 5 Highland assets and trading those assets. And Joe and I
6 started working together to try to manage the Jefferies
7 exposure.

8 At one point, Jefferies actually seized the Select 9 account. Again, Select wasn't in bankruptcy, but Jefferies
10 had safe harbor provisions or protections anyway and they 11 could have done it. We felt they were about to seize the 12 internal account, and so we sent them a note that said that 13 perhaps their safe harbors weren't as good as they thought.
14 But, more importantly, here's our sale program. Jim Seery's
15 going to take over the account, working with Joe, and we're 16 going to manage it down.

17 In the Select account, Jefferies took it over -- and this 18 is not really a blame to Jefferies; it's part of the market --
19 they sold out of that account pretty quickly. They did work 20 with us, but they were the selling position and covering their 21 loan, and we lost virtually all of the value in that account.

22 In the internal account, we effectively kept Jefferies
23 from seizing it, gave them a sale program, and then day-to-day
24 managed the sale of the more significant assets, as well as 25 the hedges, which mean we traded pretty aggressively

38

1 throughout the day. This was a full-day job, trading that
2 account, with Joe as the trader and then me acting as the PM,
3 effectively.

4 We took that account, which if Jefferies had taken it over
5 and done -- it had virtually the same securities, it had just 6 a small number of securities, as well as some hedges which had 7 significant basis risk related to the securities -- we took 8 that account over. If we'd gotten the same program as 9 Jefferies, we would have lost $11 million. We made about $23
10 million. So that swing, that swing was pretty significant.
11 I'm sorry, we made about $11-1/2 million, about a $23 million
12 swing than if Jefferies had taken it over.

13 So that was another example of what I've been doing that 14 the Board designated me to do to help run this business.
15 Working with Joe, as well as research, as well as discussing
16 these positions on a regular basis with Jefferies, weekly
17 calls and daily e-mails, we were able to preserve that value
18 in that account.

19 Q And so, just for context, this is happening in late
20 February or early March, as COVID is hitting and the markets
21 are volatile; is that fair?

22 A That's when we started taking it over. The real -- the 23 real -- the lay in the markets was about March 22nd or 23rd.

24 Q Uh-huh.

25 A And that's when it became a daily grind on those positions

39

1 for a solid month to make sure that we got it in a decent
2 place.

3 And remind you that we were trading those accounts within 4 the strictures of the protocols. So we didn't have the 5 ability to -- the securities were -- rather less liquid. We 6 didn't have the ability to just dump them, because we would 7 have destroyed the market and taken significant losses.

8 In addition, because of the protocols, we didn't have the 9 ability to go out and buy hedges, even though we had a 10 negative bias as to where the market was, particularly in 11 those less-traded securities.

12 And it's -- it was public that Highland (inaudible) and 13 Highland (inaudible) was in bankruptcy, so you can be certain
14 that the traders were leaning on those -- those securities
15 from short decisions. So it was a very difficult, time-
16 consuming effort, and a great job by Joe.

17 Q When you talk about a time-consuming effort, how would 18 you -- how would you characterize the amount of time you spent
19 on this project in the month of March? Was it a full-time
20 job?

21 A Yeah. Yeah. I mean, full-time is relative, right, but it
22 was -- it was a lot of time. So we would start out, you know,
23 like everybody else who is in those markets and do it the same
24 way, it's pretty tried and true: By 6:30 in the morning,
25 you're starting to look at what the EOP, what Asia did, where

1 European markets were opened up, what the futures were looking 2 like, looking at your own securities, checking all of the 3 mail, talking to your research folks. To the extent that you
4 know that there's other investors in those investments, we 5 reached out to those -- I have a number of contacts in the 6 market who are in these kinds of assets -- to see what they're
7 thinking and how they're looking at value. And then set up a
8 trading strategy with Joe, and then execute on it every day.
9 And that trading strategy, again, was not static. So during 10 the day, a dynamic trading strategy has to be adjusted
11 depending on what the market is doing, and Joe was excellent 12 at it.

13 Q I think you mentioned the protocols earlier. Can you just 14 talk a little bit more about how you and the Debtor
15 communicated with the Committee through this process of 16 addressing the Jefferies mortgage -- mortgage defaults?

17 A Well, every day, we sent a report to -- to the Debtor -- I
18 mean, to the Committee, I apologize -- with our positions in 19 each of the accounts and tell them exactly what we're doing,
20 what the plan is, what we're set up to do, where we think it's 21 going, and what assistance we might need through the 22 protocols.

23 I think it became really difficult for the Debtors'
24 professionals -- the Committee's professionals to deal with 25 these issues, because it's just not what they were used to

1 doing every day. So we would report to them. The Committee
2 met weekly. We can -- provided direct information to 3 Committee members when they -- you know, there's members on 4 the Committee who are very versed in these types of assets.
5 We would talk to them directly, I would talk to them directly,
6 and tell them exactly what we're doing and why and get their 7 input, because there was no magic special sauce as to exactly
8 what to do.

9 Q And would you characterize the process as transparent and 10 open between you and the Committee and its members?

11 A Oh, oh, absolutely. You know, we were -- they were 12 constructive. I wouldn't say that the Committee wasn't 13 constructive. I think the difficulty the Committee had, which 14 is what, you know, any third party would have, is that: Why 15 are we going to put more money into these accounts when the 16 value is going down, and what's -- what's your -- what are 17 your price targets? How do you think about those assets;
18 who's the analyst who's working on it; how do they compare to 19 other assets? So it wasn't an easy process for the Committee
20 to get their arms around, either.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we have other transactions
23 that we could talk about if you think that would be useful, or 24 we could continue to push this forward.

25 THE COURT: You can continue to push it forward.

1 Thank you.

2 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Then let's transition for a moment just about your 5 recollection as to kind of when and how, you know, the 6 discussions with the Board and the Committee evolved with 7 respect to your taking over as CEO. Did there come a point in 8 time that you can recall when the Board asked you to consider
9 that?

10 A Yeah. The Board asked me to consider it I would say
11 probably late January or early February. And the initial 12 discussions, even before, you know, before we were selected.
13 So, as John Dubel and I had been selected by the Debtor and 14 the Committee, we talked about the need for one central point
15 of management for this company. That it's 70 employees and 16 diverse assets, diverse business practices. How are we going 17 to mold that as a Committee? It really needed somebody to 18 execute the strategic plan that the Board put in place.

19 And so John had asked me about that even before we were 20 selected. Committee counsel asked me about it. So there was 21 -- there was some, at least away from me, there was some view
22 that perhaps I was going to be the person that was most 23 likely, if it was needed.

24 My view in early February was that, you know, we were 25 effectively, as the phrase goes, drinking from a fire hose,

43

1 and I wanted to get a better sense of who the folks were at 2 Highland; what their responsibilities are; how they performed;
3 what I thought of them as performers; how -- I had -- or,
4 having some idea what the claims are and how that process
5 would work; and could we make this a success?

6 So, early on, in January and in February, as we started
7 having these discussions, I was in the Highland offices at 8 least three, usually four days a week. And I was there from 9 7:30 in the morning until 6:00 or 7:00 at night every day.
10 And that gave me just a different feel for exactly how the 11 organization was running and the issues that were coming up 12 every day.

13 That evolved into March where, after I took over the 14 securities accounts in early March and then took over the 15 Multi-Strat issues, that John and Russ Nelms pushed me to 16 really consider stepping up fully to the CEO role. So, by 17 early April, I think it's the first week of April, we actually
18 -- we put it forth and go to the Committee. So we started
19 negotiating what potential terms were, how it would work.

20 You know, one of the concerns that I had, you know, we had 21 no idea, and I suppose we still don't, how the COVID-19 issues
22 will play out and how that would both -- because at the time
23 they were really affecting New York, where I'm based and I
24 live, and less so in Dallas. But by mid-March, it was pretty 25 clear that the whole country was being affected. And now,

44

1 obviously, it's hitting all over.

2 And hopefully that will settle, but what we did learn, and
3 I think a lot of businesses learned, is that particularly 4 these types of service businesses that function electronically
5 in lot of respects, even when they are in an office, because 6 you're in front of your screen, that we are very lucky to have 7 these types of roles where we can really perform the job, if 8 not equally well, pretty darn close to how you perform it when 9 you're at the office. And so that issue subsided a little bit
10 in terms of how I would interrelate -- not the issue going 11 away, obviously -- but how I could interrelate and work with 12 the team to drive the business, even if I was doing it from 13 New York.

14 Q And have you continued to play a leadership role from the 15 time you spoke with your fellow Board members in early March 16 until the present?

17 A I have. And I think one of the things that the Committee,
18 you know, recognized was that John and Russ, experienced 19 professionals, were willing to step back and let me take the 20 day-to-day working with the Committee or presenting to the 21 Committee. So we do have weekly Board meetings and we do have 22 almost daily Board calls, and then, without an official
23 meeting, we meet on the phone virtually every Saturday or 24 Sunday, sometimes both, with the three of us, to go through 25 what's happened every -- each week, how the plan has evolved

45

1 and where we're pushing it.

2 But in terms of the presentations to the Committee, I took
3 the lead on those in both designing and working with the Board
4 then and then implementing them and laying them out for the 5 Committee, as well as the individual negotiations.

6 So, early on, we determined that we had to try to figure 7 out a way to push this case forward, notwithstanding that we 8 weren't getting -- we didn't see a lot of movement from any of 9 the parties, frankly, on trying to figure out a way to 10 coalesce around a direction. So we designed a program that we 11 laid out for the Committee in which we considered three main 12 areas to consider for a plan. And I took the lead on doing
13 that.

14 Q So, let's talk a little bit about the claims resolution
15 process and the formulation of a plan. Have you played any 16 role in the claims resolution process?

17 A Well, we haven't actually resolved any claims completely
18 yet, but we're very close on one, and I've taken the lead on 19 doing that.

20 On the other two, I've been involved heavily with the -- 21 both counsel and with DSI in analyzing the claims. As well as 22 with the rest of the Board, frankly. The -- you know, we've 23 got a significant amount of expertise between John Dubel and 24 Russ Nelms with respect to how to think about these issues in 25 the context both of a bankruptcy, obviously, with Russ, and in

46

1 the context of both a restructuring and in the business with
2 respect to John.

3 So we've gang-tackled those, again, effectively, all
4 analyzing the various issues with respect to these claims.
5 But in terms of having the direct negotiations, particularly
6 on two of them, I've taken -- I've taken more of the lead
7 about where we could go. And if you -- particularly with my 8 background in restructuring, and having wrestled with 9 substantive consolidation, alter ego, piercing the veil since 10 1988 or '89, you know, some of the issues that have arisen in 11 this case are very, very familiar to me. I've spent a 12 significant part of my career dealing with those. So I've 13 taken the lead on those types of issues.

14 I think that where I was going was in terms of structuring
15 potential outcomes for plans. And we are -- you know, we've 16 been slowed down, as I think Jeff Pomerantz mentioned last
17 week, to a fair degree by COVID, in that the business impacts,
18 we can go into, and Jeff touched on some of those, but the 19 social impacts with respect to negotiating are hard to -- are 20 hard to understate. The -- you can run a business like this 21 through your screen. It's very difficult to simply negotiate
22 by phone or by video. The face-to-face, at least in my 23 experience, makes a big difference in moving parties, and we 24 haven't had as much of that.

25 What we've tried to do recently, starting in May, is we've

47

1 put together a program for the Committee, and we'll walk them
2 through what I think are the -- what we determine as a Board
3 and then we laid out the specifics -- I didn't; DSI -- of what
4 the options are in this case.

5 And I think number one was the status quo. Do we maintain
6 this case status quo, continue to run the business, and then
7 try to negotiate, resolve, mediate, or litigate, first through 8 dispositive motions, then through something more significant
9 if we can't do it through dispositive motions, these claims?

10 The Debtor right now on an operating basis does burn cash.
11 I can go into the specifics, but the Committee knows them, and 12 I'd prefer to do those in camera if we -- if the Judge would 13 like that. We do burn cash on an operating basis, but not 14 that much. The Debtor has about $30 million (inaudible) and 15 the business does run, and generally each year the operating 16 burn, if you will, which is, in compensation, is filled by 17 selling some assets that have appreciated in value. And the 18 Debtor runs real -- with those accretions, run roughly 19 breakeven.

20 The problem in this case is that we are burning a 21 significant amount of bankruptcy professional fees. And it's 22 the lament of creditors and business operators and the 23 bankruptcy bar. I think, certainly, the judges that I see for 24 a long time. And the percentage -- the cost of the cases
25 keeps going up and the percentage of the assets keeps going,

48

1 but particularly if the asset values are going down.

2 So the status quo didn't make a lot of sense unless we
3 were going to get very swift movement from the parties, and I
4 mean all sides, to try to resolve the case.

5 The other type of outcome we thought about in terms of a
6 plan was a downsiding model. Downsizing model, excuse me. In 7 that model, we would try to significantly cut headcount, try
8 to significantly cut expenses. Run the business as leanly as 9 possible. And then try to go through those steps with respect
10 to resolving the claims.

11 Again, the problem, the problem with that is resolution of 12 those claims was uncertain and could take a long time, unless 13 we had significant movement from either side. But, moreover,
14 in terms of operating the business, we determined that with 15 respect to both the managed accounts and shared service
16 agreements, we really couldn't effectively do the job that the 17 Debtor does with a smaller staff. Truth is, even at 70
18 people, the HCMLP staff is pretty lean. It's a really good
19 team and they are very efficient and they've really proved it
20 through working offsite, you know, through the pandemic.

21 But we really thought that if we -- and analyzed it. If 22 we were to try to cut that team and provide the services, we 23 would fall down. So we would breach the duties or potentially 24 incur liabilities under those various contracts.

25 The third area that we took a look at, which was what we

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 49 of 134

1 called the subservicing model. In this model, we would try to
2 separate the business of the Debtor, which has a small
3 operating loss, but it's still material money, from the asset
4 management. That way, you could hold onto the assets for the 5 benefit of the creditors or the Debtor, depending on where the 6 claims comes out, still provide the services to those third
7 parties under the subservicing agreements or the management
8 agreements. You wouldn't make money on that, but you'd get 9 rid of the operating burn.

10 And that model had a number of issues, but we've sort of 11 evolved that model to what I think has been referred to in 12 court as the debtor-creditor monetization vehicle. So a 13 little bit of a cumbersome name, but the idea would be to try
14 to separate the assets, which potentially are the ways to pay
15 the creditors, depending on where claims come out, and then --
16 and the operations, and make sure you can continue the 17 operations without a heavy burn.

18 That model also permits us to cut, we believe, bankruptcy
19 operating expenses significantly. So, right now, because of 20 the nature of the case, we have two professionals doing every 21 job: Committee professionals and Debtor professionals. We 22 would be able to reduce that cost by putting those into one
23 entity that'll be a trust-like structure to service the 24 business, resolve the claims, monetize the assets.

25 And, finally, something I started working on -- I'd say on

1 my own, but that wouldn't be true -- with the DSI team,
2 particularly the two -- we have two excellent analysts on the 3 case. A very detailed model of what I think has been referred 4 to maybe even in court as a potential grand bargain plan. And 5 that plan looks at monetizing the assets over what period we 6 believe that we could get that done. (inaudible) we're
7 looking at the values that we could achieve as well as setting
8 out what we think are reasonable numbers for the claim 9 distributions and then how they would be made.

10 Now, on the asset side of the ledger, we have a pretty 11 good understanding. We obviously know where the assets are 12 bought, and we have a pretty good sense of what the current 13 market looks like for those assets. We're not a forced 14 seller, but we have -- we have been involved in processes
15 around a number of the assets and have a good sense of where 16 values are and how long it would take to achieve those values.

17 You don't have to sell an asset as well to get money from 18 it. There might be ways to finance those assets. Although,
19 to be sure, in this environment, financing particularly these 20 types of assets has become very, very difficult.

21 The other side of the equation of the claims, and we're 22 using our best estimate of where we think those claims come
23 out in terms of payment, the creditors often have a different
24 view as to what they would like those claims to come out with.
25 So we're trying to figure out, through negotiation and

51

1 discussion, how we get those two sides closer together. And
2 that, that would be the grand bargain plan.

3 And I think where we're really focused now is that status
4 quo doesn't make sense. We've gone that way too long.
5 Downsizing doesn't work because of the complexity of these 6 operations and the contractual obligations that the Debtor
7 has. And it's really a grand bargain plan or a Debtor
8 monetization, a debtor-creditor monetization vehicle, which 9 would be structured like a trust and still be able to service
10 the business while resolving the claims.

11 Q Taking into account the uncertainty because there are 12 still some options being considered, in your leadership role,
13 have you -- do you have a sense of timing? Is there a 14 timeline by which certain milestones are at least 15 aspirational, if not achievable?

16 A Well, I don't think I'm telling anyone what they don't 17 know, that deadlines get people to act and make decisions.
18 Sometimes they're good decisions, sometimes they're not, but 19 we're going to push forward on both of these plan
20 opportunities now. So we intend to file a debtor-creditor
21 monetization vehicle plan, and we'll keep pushing the parties
22 towards settlements.

23 You know, as we say on the Multi-Strat negotiations, until 24 it was clear that we were either going to default, because we 25 didn't have the money to pay those premiums, or we're going to

52

1 file Multi-Strat as a bankruptcy, it was hard to get folks to 2 really come to the table and think about how to settle that 3 issue.

4 These issues in regard to the total case are much more
5 complicated. We're going to file a plan. We believe that 6 will set a bit of a crucible to folks to think about how to 7 move forward with their claims. We are, as Jeff Pomerantz
8 mentioned last time, agreed in principle, but we have some 9 issues to work through with Redeemer that we hope to be able 10 to resolve by this week. And so that's my internal goal, but 11 I expect to be able to do it.

12 The reason that's complex is not that it's simply a -- the 13 arbitration award is not simply a money award; it actually
14 requires certain offsets, it requires certain assets be sold
15 and paid for. And we're trying to carve our way around some 16 of those, because they (inaudible) agreement, because they're 17 -- they're more difficult than simply exchanging cash for 18 assets, because we don't have the ability to do that right
19 now. We don't have the cash, and we're in bankruptcy.

20 So I do believe that we can get these done. And then if 21 mediation is something that would work, great. We're going to 22 try to do it without mediation as well. Going to try to do it
23 before we get to mediation and resolve claims. And if we're 24 unable to do that, hopefully mediation will push it forward or 25 we have to have a fallback, which will be dispositive motions

1 with respect to certain of the claims.

2 But we expect to have and I think we have a number of 3 claims objections that have (inaudible). We've resolved
4 those. We're really down to three claims. And one of them is 5 almost done.

6 Q All right. At the last hearing, --

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, that really does finish the 8 substance of the testimony with respect to this motion, but at 9 the last hearing Your Honor raised some questions about PPP
10 loans.

11 THE COURT: Yes.

12 MR. MORRIS: Would you like me to just take a moment 13 with Mr. Seery to address that?

14 THE COURT: Yes, please.

15 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q Mr. Seery, you're aware that the Judge raised some 18 questions about whether and to what extent the Debtor may have 19 been involved in any of the PPP loans?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And have you done any work to try to figure out the 22 answers to the questions the Judge posed?

23 A Well, work in response to the question, but also work
24 previously. So, just a -- quickly, as I think we all know,
25 the PPP program was put forth to try to give companies cash

1 that they had to use for employee payments, to continue to
2 keep payroll supported and to continue to have folks hold
3 their jobs.

4 We have -- and I think the Business Insider article, which
5 I'm not familiar, I know the publication is not something I
6 seen much, but I'm not familiar with the specifics of that
7 article, and -- but any PPP, away from the assets that HCMLP
8 actually owns or controls. And we've got -- we've got three 9 -- and I think there's some substance to the article. But 10 we've got three businesses. And these are -- this is public,
11 but I'll go into the -- sort of the obvious reasons without 12 going into the specifics of the business around the ones that 13 I know of well.

14 Carey Limousine is a business that transports folks in 15 high-quality cars from airports or from events or between 16 businesses. It was hit severely by the COVID-19 pandemic., 17 particularly with respect to the air transportation, which was 18 really one of its biggest areas. The business,
19 notwithstanding Uber and the other type of shared ride
20 services, had actually done quite well, and Highland was an 21 owner of a significant portion of that business related to 22 some loans that it held in various funds.

23 That business's management, with its own outside counsel,
24 sought a PPP loan. Then our director came to us and discussed
25 with the Board the propriety of that loan. We engaged outside

55

1 counsel, not bankruptcy counsel but counsel that had
2 particularized expertise in PPP, and spent a ton of time
3 really understanding both the law as well as the specific 4 regs. Carey did get a PPP loan. It is potentially 5 forgivable, depending on how it's used.

6 The second entity that was similar but didn't come to the 7 Board, we have a business called SSP, which is an excellent
8 highway business that provides equip -- materials for a lot of 9 different road construction, but primarily highway road
10 construction. Very well run business. That entity got a PPP
11 loan as well, primarily worried about whether the construction
12 on the highways would shut down.

13 So it's been -- I don't believe that's really happened in 14 Texas, which is where most of their business is, but they 15 qualified for that loan. They did not come to the Board. A 16 very specific carve-out, because one of the interest holders
17 that we share that position with is a Small Business
18 Administration fund and, so it was very clear that it was 19 entitled to that loan.

20 Then there's a third entity called Roma that got a very 21 small PPP loan. We don't control the entity and we were not 22 involved in its acquisition of that loan. Again, it would 23 have to be used as required.

24 One of the things I want to make sure that is in the 25 record and for Your Honor with respect to Carey, we spent a

56

1 lot of time as a Board focused on, one, whether it was legal
2 to get that loan, first. We're doing everything right, by the 3 book. We're not going to play in the gray. There is no gray.
4 There's black and white in these areas.

5 Number two, was it ethical, was it appropriate that we
6 went and got this loan or that Carey went and got this loan?
7 Management, with the outside counsel, was sure that we could 8 do it, but we didn't want to take their word for it, so we 9 went out and got our own counsel, third-party counsel for the 10 Board to make sure that this was appropriate.

11 Three, the requirements around these loans are significant 12 and the penalties for violating them are severe. So if you
13 get a loan by mistake, are you really required to pay it back?
14 And if you're mistaken, that will be expensive, but it won't 15 be a real penalty. But if you get a loan that's really
16 inappropriate, that you shouldn't have gotten, that was a 17 material misstatement of any of the facts around it, the 18 penalties are significant. And not only in terms of the 19 opprobrium that you'd suffer in the press, because that's 20 coming, but in terms of how you use the funds.

21 So they can only be used in very specific ways, and we 22 were exceptionally careful around this program.

23 The basis of the program is to keep people employed. And 24 with a business like Carey Limousine in particular, where 25 there's a significant amount of debt, where the business is

1 shut down by COVID, where we didn't have the funds to put into
2 Carey, nor even if we wanted to, we might not have been able
3 to do it without the Committee's approval because of the 4 protocol, a PPP loan was not only legal but it was 5 appropriate. And it's being used in that fashion, meaning to 6 keep employees employed.

7 Q Thank you very much, Mr. Seery.

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no further questions
9 of Mr. Seery. Does the Court have any questions?

10 THE COURT: I actually have a follow-up question
11 regarding the PPP, just to kind of put a bow on this.

12 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

13 THE COURT: I'm looking at the demonstrative aide. I
14 don't know if you, Mr. Seery, have it there handy.

15 THE WITNESS: I do, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Okay. So I'm turning to Page 6, the 17 chart, the subchart, Investments and Subsidiaries. The third
18 column, Privately-Held Equity, Various Companies. I mean,
19 that would be the type of investment entity we're talking
20 about here that got the PPP loan: Carey Limousine, SSP, Roma?
21 Nothing that was -- well, I'm going to say Highland affiliate.
22 Affiliate, that's a dicey term, but that's the type of entity
23 in the organizational structure we're talking about, correct?

24 THE WITNESS: Those are the ones -- I want to be very 25 careful, because I know what I know and I know I won't

1 represent anything that I don't know.

2 So, with respect to the entities that HCMLP, the Debtor,
3 controls, that's absolutely the case. I don't know, and I can
4 try to find out, but they are not HCMLP-controlled entities.
5 Whether other entities in the related-party complex received
6 loans -- so, obviously, HCMLP did not receive a loan. And the 7 only entities that we were involved with is the ones I
8 mentioned to you.

9 And I should mention, there are other entities in the 10 privately-held equity that got other government money, in the 11 medical space, that they didn't even ask for. HHS pushed
12 forward payments to folks in the business, medical healthcare-
13 providing businesses, to assure that they had liquidity to 14 provide. And so -- and this has been described to me exactly 15 this way, that they woke up in the morning and found money in 16 their account. And with one of the companies, they actually 17 returned a bunch of the money because it was from a dormant
18 provider number and they didn't believe it was appropriate to 19 keep that money. So that was one of the entities that we 20 control with other investors.

21 But with respect to our HCMLP entities, these are the only 22 ones I know. With respect to other related entities that 23 might be in the family of businesses, for lack of a better
24 term, that were alluded to in the Business Insider article, I
25 don't know that answer. So, I -- if I -- I can try to find

1 out. I just don't know the answer, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Well, this has
3 been extremely helpful.

4 I should ask does anyone have any questions of Mr. Seery?
5 The Committee counsel, perhaps? Anyone else?

6 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, this is Andrew Clubok. In 7 light of the testimony, I do have some questions on behalf of 8 UBS.

9 THE COURT: All right. Briefly. Go ahead.

10 MR. CLUBOK: Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor? Your Honor, I'm sorry to 12 interrupt, but there's no objection lodged here. If Your 13 Honor wants to permit it, that's obviously the Court's 14 prerogative. But as just a point of order, having not lodged
15 an objection, I don't know what right anybody has to cross-
16 examine the witness.

17 THE COURT: All right. Well, that's why I said
18 briefly. I think that Mr. Morris makes a good point, Mr.
19 Clubok. You could have filed a written objection, response,
20 comment, or something. So, you're a party in interest. I'll 21 give you a little bit of leeway here. But please keep it
22 brief.

23 MR. CLUBOK: Yeah. Thank you, Your Honor. It's just 24 some of the things that Mr. Seery said which we didn't expect
25 to hear that has raised a few questions that I just very 1 briefly will try to address.

2 CROSS-EXAMINATION

3 BY MR. CLUBOK:

4 Q Mr. Seery, good afternoon. I'm Andrew Clubok, Latham &
5 Watkins, on behalf of UBS.

6 Mr. Seery, you talked about the fiduciary duties you've 7 understood yourself to have with respect to certain parties,
8 and my question to you is: Have you understood, since the 9 beginning of your service as an Independent Director of 10 Strand, that you had fiduciary duties to the unsecured
11 creditors of the Debtor?

12 A It's a -- it's a -- the answer is I understand the 13 fiduciary duties very well. I think we have fiduciary duties
14 to the estate. So Highland -- what I tried to explain is that 15 Highland, as an asset manager, has very specific fiduciary 16 duties that are set forth in (inaudible) in the cases and the 17 rules that have interpreted it. We, as directors of Strand,
18 have a duty to the estate.

19 I don't think it's -- I don't think it's fair, and I'd 20 have to subject myself to some education from counsel, I don't 21 think it's fair to say we had a specific fiduciary duty to a
22 particular creditor.

23 So, for example, if I had a fiduciary duty to UBS, it
24 would be very difficult for me to object to UBS's claim. It
25 would be -- I don't know how I could do that as a fiduciary.

61

1 When the claim is crystalized in the estate, I believe that we
2 have fiduciary duties to each and every interest holder in the
3 estate.

4 Q My question is a little simpler, and I just -- well, I'm 5 actually not asking legally whether you do or not. I'm asking
6 what your understanding has been since your role. Have you
7 conducted yourself in a way in which you have treated your 8 obligations as though you have a fiduciary obligation to the 9 unsecured creditors?

10 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

11 THE COURT: Sustained.

12 MR. CLUBOK: Okay.

13 BY MR. CLUBOK:

14 Q You said that you believe that you have, with respect to 15 Multi-Strat, which is an entity that you manage, you said that 16 you understood yourself to have fiduciary duties to the 17 redeemers of Multi-Strat. Do you recall that?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Yeah. And Multi-Strat is outside of the estate, but HCM,
20 the Debtor manages Multi-Strat. And you said because of, you
21 know, your role, you personally feel as if you have a
22 fiduciary duty to the redeemers in Multi-Strat, correct?

23 A I --

24 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

25 Mischaracterizes the testimony.

62

1 THE COURT: Sustained.

2 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I believe that the
3 transcript -- I believe Mr. Seery said in direct that he 4 considered himself to have fiduciary duties with respect to 5 the redeemers of Multi-Strat. The transcript will show it. I
6 don't know what the objection is. Maybe I misstated when I
7 asked my question, but I'm just starting --

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. CLUBOK: I'm just trying to understand --

10 THE COURT: All right. I'll let you rephrase the 11 question, but this -- I've probably -- I may have made a 12 mistake in letting you ask questions, because this is about 13 the propriety of him being CEO and the reasonableness of 14 compensation. This isn't a discovery opportunity. So I'm a 15 little confused the relevance of what you're asking. Could 16 you address that for me?

17 MR. CLUBOK: Sure. Your Honor, Mr. Seery on direct
18 described what he understood his fiduciary duties to be. I
19 think we -- it made me wonder, he didn't mention the unsecured
20 creditors or what he believes his fiduciary relationship is,
21 if any, with the creditors, unsecured creditors. I would -- I
22 think it's a fair question to ask what his understanding is,
23 because now he's going to take on a new role as CEO, and I
24 think it's appropriate for everyone to understand, so we know
25 when we're dealing with Mr. Seery --

63

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. CLUBOK: -- what his --

3 THE COURT: I think -- I think he --

4 MR. CLUBOK: -- he understands -- what he understands
5 his fiduciary duties to be.

6 THE COURT: I think he answered the question, and 7 frankly, I think he answered it correctly. His fiduciary
8 duties go to the estate, right? And the creditors are the 9 beneficiaries of his actions in that regard, right? So I
10 think he correctly answered the question already. All right?
11 Next question.

12 MR. CLUBOK: Okay. He says that there's three 13 aspects of the business he's been managing: $300 million,
14 roughly, of Highland's own assets; the fact that they manage
15 $3 billion in other assets, I think in managed assets; and 16 then they have shared services for $6 billion in assets owned 17 by related entities, mostly.

18 BY MR. CLUBOK:

19 Q For those three separate businesses, I just want to 20 briefly understand: With respect to the first one, for 21 example, there's $300 million, you said, roughly, of 22 (inaudible) assets. Roughly what were the value of the assets
23 when you started your role in January of 2020?

24 A It's hard to compare apples to apples on this because 25 there are certain assets that we've taken out that didn't

64

1 change in value. So I would say they were carried on the
2 balance sheet at different levels. I think a good rough
3 number would be in the $500 to $600 million area.

4 Q Okay.

5 A And the biggest -- the biggest movants in asset values
6 have been on securities, both ones that we continue to own and 7 the accounts that Jefferies -- that were levered, and those 8 were shown as unlevered marks on the balance sheet and the 9 losses that were incurred there. And then with respect to 10 certain of the PE assets and then a major movement on a 11 related-party loan, where the Board, through analysis that we 12 did with DSI and others, believes that loan is likely to be 13 worthless. Likewise, the claim of that entity we believe is 14 likely to be worthless.

15 Q And then to the extent the assets, you say, have a rough
16 value of $300 million, you alluded to significant professional 17 fees, bankruptcy costs, administrative fees, the Debtor is 18 burning cash. My question is, If it's $300 million today
19 roughly of total value of assets, what's your current best
20 estimate of the total amount that will be available to be 21 distributed to the creditors net of those -- that burning of 22 cash and the admin fees and the other issue that you
23 mentioned? What is your current expectation of the total
24 amount that will be able to be distributed to the creditors?

25 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just -- I just object to

1 this line of inquiry. It's like free discovery, as Your Honor
2 suggested earlier. I don't know what it has to do with Mr.
3 Seery's work, his qualifications, the compensation
4 arrangements. And I think it's inappropriate.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I'll overrule and allow this one
6 remaining question, but that's going to be it, unless your 7 next questions pertain to the employment or compensation
8 structure.

9 THE WITNESS: Yeah, I don't have a crystal ball as to 10 what the assets are going to be worth. I think that they are 11 fairly marked right now, and we have significant discovery
12 that we've had with respect to a number of the assets and 13 marked at views as to their value. So I think that we're at a 14 pretty good base value, assuming that we don't rush into 15 forced sales of assets.

16 So, as I know the Court is aware and I hope you're aware,
17 when you look at asset values, and you look at them on a 18 liquidation basis, the numbers are normally much lower than 19 when you look at them as selling them on a more controlled
20 basis. If you have liquid securities, that's not the case.
21 So if I have $500 million of Apple at $363 today, it's 22 probably a good chance that it'll be worth something different
23 in a month, something different in two months. But if I need
24 to move my position, I can do that.

25 These assets are much more difficult to move. And the act

66

1 of selling them often changes the value, which is why we
2 engage professional bankers to help move, first, those assets.

3 So I just don't have a good crystal ball. I think the 4 valuations that we have now are pretty good. I think they've 5 been scrubbed well. But that doesn't mean that certain of 6 these assets will maintain the exact value they have. So, I
7 gave a good example of Carey Limousine, which is a very small
8 asset but it's an easy one to understand because everybody can 9 relate to a car service company that does, you know, a little 10 bit more high-end and is focused on the airport travel and how 11 that's been impacted.

12 That asset value has gone down precipitously, even though
13 it was small, because of that. So I don't -- I don't really 14 have a great crystal ball as to what's going to happen. If 15 we're very successful in the fourth quarter and the economy 16 stabilizes and the COVID vaccines are out in record time and 17 move forward, then I think we've got potential for upside.
18 But right now, in the current environment, I think we're 19 marked fairly.

20 BY MR. CLUBOK:

21 Q Yeah. But my question really wasn't about the value of 22 the assets. I realize those could go up or down. And you
23 think they're fairly marked. My question was, What's the 24 total amount of setoff from those assets to the extent the 25 bankruptcy fees you alluded to, the burning of cash on the

1 other businesses, you know, how much, you know, net -- what's 2 the amount that will come off of those assets or that should 3 be -- that we should assume will be deducted from those assets
4 because of the professional fees that have been incurred or 5 you predict will be incurred through the end of the year and 6 the burn of cash that you mentioned, et cetera?

7 I'm trying to understand how you supervised -- because 8 you've managed those expenses as well as the assets, right?
9 And so I just think it's important for us to understand, at 10 the end of six months, and then how things are set for the 11 rest of the year, what's the total amount of, you know, call
12 it liabilities or costs associated with running the business,
13 running the business and at a cash burn rate, bankruptcy fees,
14 et cetera, that we --

15 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to cut it off. I'm 16 going to cut it off. That, in my view, is going a little too
17 far afield. That's a discussion outside the courtroom. So,
18 thank you, and we're going to see: Does the Committee have 19 anything they want to ask?

20 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, Matt Clemente on behalf of 21 the Committee.

22 I certainly do not have any questions to ask. I do have a
23 couple of statements that I want to make, but I don't know if 24 now is the appropriate time or if there's going to be further
25 testimony.

1 THE COURT: Okay. I think there might be another
2 witness or two, but we'll let you make your comments at the 3 appropriate time.

4 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

5 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, I meant to ask, I forgot to 6 ask: You've mentioned a couple of times the Debtor, Highland,
7 has 70-ish employees. Has the number gone down since the case
8 was filed, is Highland losing employees, or is it staying
9 stable?

10 THE WITNESS: We lost -- we lost seven employees.
11 There were some that were severed for performance reasons.
12 That happens every year. There were some that just moved on 13 because they decided to move on. And that some -- and then we 14 had some that, because of the bankruptcy, we lost. We added,
15 I think, one or two employees that we're pretty excited about 16 in the fund valuation area, which is a pretty critical area
17 for the shared services. Unfortunately, they haven't been 18 able to go to the office, but fortunately, they've been able 19 to work.

20 So we're down, Your Honor, probably eight total, and so
21 we're more of the low to mid-60 area right now.

22 THE COURT: Okay. And --

23 MR. SEERY: And we were a little bit north of 70 when 24 we took the case.

25 THE COURT: Okay. And the COVID situation, I mean,

1 if you walked into the office, would there be people around in
2 masks, or are people still working at home?

3 MR. SEERY: People -- so, in -- yeah. So, in March,
4 very early on, as things started to shut down, Brian Collins,
5 who's the director of human resources and an accomplished
6 professional, came to the Board and basically said, you know,
7 yeah, Texas is better, but it's not immune. We need to come
8 up with a program.

9 And with Russ Nelms and John Dubel and I, we developed a
10 program, with Brian -- with Brian driving it, to figure out 11 exactly how to approach going into the office; how we would 12 maintain the office; and then, if something were to happen,
13 what we would do.

14 We had an employee who, with her family, got COVID in -- 15 we believe in New York, came back. And as soon as we found 16 out that person wasn't feeling good in the office, it was the 17 first day they were back, a protocol with thermometers and -- 18 at that time, thermometers were thought to be valuable -- we 19 immediately sent that employee home. We then brought in a
20 cleaning crew to clean up the office with EPA and FDA-approved
21 materials, and then had several days off and brought folks
22 back the following week.

23 We found that to be, frankly, unwieldy as COVID started to 24 continue to creep a bit through March and into April. At that 25 point, we did have other employees, not who came into the

1 office, but who had contracted COVID, so we shut down HCMLP.
2 When we cleaned the office, we shut it down completely.
3 Nobody could go in.

4 When -- since then, we have set the office up where we had 5 initial (inaudible) when things were pretty good, so we 6 divided the move into -- into basically 20 percent could be in 7 the office at any one time. And then, since that time, as 8 things have gotten worse, we found that we were, one, working
9 extremely well offsite; and two, that it was just a better
10 environment for the employees. So we've been working 11 continually offsite.

12 If folks need to go in, because either they need more
13 advanced systems that they can't go to plug-and-play at home,
14 or because there's just materials that they want to get,
15 they're able to do in. We have tons of disinfectant
16 everywhere. We have masks available. We put in dividers,
17 Plexiglas dividers between the work stations to assure that if 18 someone was at a station for a long time, it didn't -- it was 19 less likely that you could have transmission.

20 I will tell Your Honor that HCMLP is not reporting to the 21 office. Some of the affiliated businesses, and I don't know
22 the percentage, have been. So those businesses, which we 23 don't control, are going in.

24 From my perspective, as long as the numbers are where they 25 are in Texas, from both a business perspective in terms of

1 making sure that the employee base doesn't contract COVID in
2 material amounts -- first, any amount -- but in material
3 amounts that would impact our ability to run the business.
4 And then with respect to the civic part of it, which is we 5 don't want to be a part of forcing the spread or causing the 6 spread of this disease, we know we can work from home. We're 7 going to continue to do that until we believe it's very safe
8 to go back.

9 Notwithstanding that we have the ability and have been 10 doing it with extensive cleaning, extensive disinfectant, and 11 with dividers, until we are very comfortable that we can go
12 back and protect our employees and that it's the right civic 13 thing to do, we're not going to go back, particularly since it
14 doesn't impact our ability to perform.

15 THE COURT: Okay. I really want to, you know, get to 16 the rest of our hearing soon, but I heard something that made
17 me have a question. You said there are other entities we 18 don't control whose employees are going in. Could you tell me 19 exactly what you meant by that?

20 THE WITNESS: There's -- away from HCMLP, there's 21 approximately another 75 to 80 -- it may be slightly more --
22 employees at the other entities that are NexPoint, NexBank,
23 NexPoint Advisors. They are under different protocols that 24 neither I nor Russ nor John control. The office --

25 THE COURT: Let me just stop you.

72

1 THE WITNESS: Please.

2 THE COURT: So it's just Nex -- well, NexPoint-
3 related companies?

4 THE WITNESS: Uh-huh.

5 THE COURT: NexPoint and --

6 THE WITNESS: Yes.

7 THE COURT: -- affiliates of NexPoint?

8 THE WITNESS: Correct, Your Honor. The office, the 9 HCMLP offices are huge. And when we were there pre-COVID,
10 with the full complement of folks, it felt like they were 11 relatively empty. I shouldn't say -- they felt like there was 12 plenty of space.

13 What we found, with both sets, our employees and then the 14 NexPoint-related employees, when 140 or 150 people were in 15 that office, which pre-COVID felt comfortable, post-COVID 16 didn't feel so comfortable. So our employees, we started, as 17 I mentioned, with the shift-working. And then we decided to 18 go completely mobile unless somebody feels they have to be in 19 the office, and we want to make sure that they follow the 20 protocols when they do.

21 With respect to the non-HCMLP related entities, those 22 entities, some percent of those employees are still going into 23 the office.

24 Now, when they're there, to be frank, what I said was a
25 pretty comfortable place with 140 people is a pretty empty

1 place if there's only 50. But our employees, we felt it was 2 important, since we were able to execute from home, we didn't
3 need, on most parts, the extra systems to be able to execute
4 in the office, that we could largely perform from home to make 5 sure that we weren't taking any risks with the business but 6 also taking -- one, taking risks for the employees; two,
7 taking any risks for the business; and three, as I mentioned,
8 the civil perspective.

9 THE COURT: Okay. We're going to have to take a 10 five-minute break here in just a second, but let me kind of 11 elaborate on why I was drilling down on that question about 12 NexPoint. I mean, isn't it Highland employees who service
13 NexPoint? Or am I wrong about that?

14 THE WITNESS: Highland employees service a lot of 15 NexPoint. But NexPoint, NexBank, the various funds, NXRT,
16 there's a number of businesses: They have their own employees
17 as well.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 THE WITNESS: So the whole complex is about 150
20 employees.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 THE WITNESS: Highland Management is about 70.

23 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, are we finished

4 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, again, this has been extremely
5 helpful for me, and I hope for others. I hope you'll stick
6 around, because when we circle back to the mediation
7 discussion at the end of today, I really would like you to be 8 involved in that discussion. I may want your input on one or 9 two things. So can you stick around?

10 THE WITNESS: Absolutely, Your Honor. Other than 11 getting some water and maybe turning the air conditioning back
12 on in this room, I'll stay.

13 THE COURT: You must not be in Texas if you don't 14 have your air conditioning on. I assume you're in New York.
15 All right. Five-minute break. We'll be back.

16 THE WITNESS: It's hot, but not Texas hot.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

18 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

14 corporate governance-type issues concerning the evolution of 15 the motion, the discussions or the, you know, beginning of the 16 discussions, and how the proposal itself evolved.

17 If I may, Your Honor, just to perhaps move this along, I
18 might lead the witness a little bit. If it's a problem,

25 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Dubel. You're a member of the Board

1 of Strand today; is that right?

2 A I am.

3 Q And you've held that position since mid-January; is that
4 right?

5 A Since January 9th, yes.

6 Q Okay. And you understand that we're here today on the 7 Debtors' motion to appoint Mr. Seery as the Debtors' CEO, CRO,
8 and the Foreign Representative?

9 A I do understand that, yes, sir.

10 Q Does the Board unanimously support the motion?

11 A I think the Board does, and specifically the compensation
12 committee, because of obviously the conflict that Mr. Seery
13 might have, you know, but the Board fully supports it, and the 14 compensation committee is comprised of Mr. -- Judge -- Judge
15 Nelms and myself.

16 Q Okay. And do you believe that -- withdrawn. Does the 17 Board believe that it's in the Debtors' best interests to 18 retain Mr. Seery on the terms proposed?

19 A We do.

20 Q And why does the Board believe that?

21 A Well, as the Court has heard from the testimony of Mr.
22 Seery today, he has a tremendous amount of skills and 23 experience in the area of asset management. He's effectively
24 been serving as the CEO since -- well, in a lot of ways, since 25 January 9th, when we asked him to step up and take on some

77

1 additional responsibilities, but very clearly since the middle
2 of February, and specifically, the middle of March.

3 And as the Court noted, he is -- knows these assets very 4 well. He knows the operations. He's done an exemplary job of 5 handling all of the issues. He has spent a tremendous amount
6 of time working with the Committee members, trying to develop
7 good lines of communications.

8 And, you know, Russ -- having, you know, served in a C
9 Suite position for 25 years of my 30-plus years of 10 restructuring experience, and 15 years as a CEO, we need a
11 good leader, an operational leader to run the organization.
12 So we can support him because you need to have someone in 13 there who can make decisions; work quickly; obviously,
14 communicate well with the Board, which he has been doing for 15 quite some time. So, all the -- all of the reasons why we are 16 very pleased to have him take on this role.

17 Q Okay. Let's talk a little bit about what led to this 18 particular motion. Do you recall when the idea of appointing 19 a CEO first arose?

20 A I would say it was back in December, before the 21 Independent Board was put together, when we first started
22 intervening with the creditors and with the Debtor. It was 23 raised to me in my interview, would I be, you know, willing to 24 step in as a CEO if asked to? And I'm assuming it was also 25 asked of Mr. Seery. I didn't ask him that. And it was all

1 obviously coming, you know, out of the protocols that were
2 being developed where Mr. Dondero would step down as the CEO
3 and the Independent Board would basically be responsible for 4 the operations of the company. But we had the opportunity to 5 go out and seek either one of the three Independent Board
6 Members as the CEO or go outside to the marketplace and try
7 and find an independent or a third-party CEO.

8 Q And to the best of your recollection, was that flexibility
9 built into the term sheet that was part of the corporate 10 governance settlement?

11 A It was.

12 Q All right.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, this is where we're going to 14 test our technological capabilities. I'm going to ask Ms.
15 Canty to put up and to share Exhibit 1, and let's see if we're 16 able to do that.

17 THE COURT: Okay. But if anything goes wrong, I
18 actually do have the docket up on my screen. I can pull them
19 up. But, oh, even better. Even better. Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: All right. It looks like it worked.
21 Ms. Canty, if you could turn to Page 2, please. I think 22 that's Page 1.

23 (Pause.)

8 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Right there. Perfect.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Is -- are you familiar with the provisions generally in 11 the term sheet relating to the opening of CEO?

12 A I am.

13 Q And is this the provision that you were referring to 14 earlier?

15 A It is.

16 Q And does this provision, to the best of your 17 understanding, provide the Board with the flexibility, in 18 consultation with the UCC, to exercise its business judgment
19 and appoint a CEO if it determined that to be in the Debtors'
20 best interest?

21 A It does. It's consistent with the discussions had -- that 22 were had prior to our appointment, and it obviously was 23 incorporated in the term sheet that was approved by the Court
24 on January 9th.

25 Q And this also reflects the understanding that you

1 described earlier, where one of the Independent Directors
2 could, in fact, be selected as the CEO; is that right?

3 A That is correct.

4 MR. MORRIS: All right. Let's just take that down,
5 please, Ms. Canty.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Mr. Dubel, has Mr. Seery, in fact, taken on day-to-day
8 operational responsibilities for the Debtor?

9 A Yeah. Yes, he has. And I think early on the Board
10 realized that, between the three Board members, we would try 11 and divvy up the responsibilities, as Mr. Seery referred to 12 earlier, and it was definitely like drinking from a fire hose
13 in the early stages of the case, where the new Board was put 14 in place. And we tried to divvy up our responsibilities,
15 taking into consideration each of the Board Members'
16 expertise.

17 But it was pretty clear that the main business operations
18 required somebody with the skill set that Mr. Seery had, and 19 it would be much more efficient, as we progressed forward, to 20 coalesce around one individual as a CEO.

21 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, can you pull up Exhibit 2?

22 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 down just to --

5 Your Honor, these are minutes from the Board's very first 6 meeting. And if we go to the next page, right here, you'll 7 see there's a discussion in the second paragraph.

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q Mr. Dubel, does that reflect the Board's deliberation and 10 decision, really, on the first day, to give Mr. Seery, you
11 know, the responsibility for dealing and overseeing the prime 12 accounts?

13 A It does. And what I was saying is, prior to the 14 appointment, in doing all of our diligence prior to joining
15 the Board, we realized there were all these issues that needed
16 to be dealt with. And so we came in on the very first day,
17 ready to recognize that there were certain things that needed
18 sort of expertise. And they were presented to us by DSI and 19 the management of HCMLP as areas that needed some additional 20 handling and oversight. And so we asked Mr. Seery to step 21 into that role on the very first day, which he -- which he 22 agreed to and the Board approved it.

23 Q Okay. Let's get to the meat and potatoes here. Did there
24 come a time when the Board and Mr. Seery actually began
25 discussing the possibility of his serving as the CEO?

1 A Yes, there did.

2 Q And can you share with the Court your recollection of how 3 that began?

4 A So, there were informal discussions, I would say, through
5 the month of February, as we started to realize that there
6 were -- the decision-making was going to be cumbersome,
7 having, you know, three parties involved. As I said earlier,
8 having spent 15 years or so my career as a chief executive
9 officer, I understand where you really want to have one person
10 be responsible for these issues.

11 And so we were conversing with Mr. Seery to see if he 12 would take on that role. And, obviously, we had felt very 13 comfortable, Mr. Nelms and I felt very comfortable with the 14 communications that he was having with us on things that we 15 had asked him to do. There was a very free and open
16 discussion with the Board members. So we continued, you know,
17 to look at opportunities where it might make sense.

18 And then, you know, towards the beginning of March, it was 19 pretty obvious that we were going to want to coalesce around 20 the motion. We thought about whether or not that would be 21 some third party. But having, again, experience of having to 22 go out in the marketplace to find CEOs when I'd been either,
23 you know, a director or involved in companies, we realized
24 that can be very time-consuming, would take us months to find 25 somebody.

1 And so we continued to discuss it with Mr. Seery. And 2 around the middle of March or so, right around the time that
3 we had a Creditors' Committee meeting in New York, we asked
4 Mr. Seery if he would take that role on, and he agreed to, to 5 take that role.

6 Q And that's -- and is that why the Debtor is seeking
7 authority to retain Mr. Seery nunc pro tunc back to March
8 15th?

9 A We are. I mean, effectively, he really started the role
10 in the February time frame. But we officially asked him about 11 this in -- right after that meeting on March -- I think it was 12 March 11th or so.

13 Q So, is it fair to say that's when the Board had a meeting
14 of the minds with respect to not necessarily the terms but at 15 least the engagement of Mr. Seery as CEO?

16 A Yes, that is fair to say.

17 Q Okay.

18 A And that's when he really did step up and take on all of 19 those responsibilities, you know, with the acknowledgement and 20 understanding that we would work out the appropriate terms for 21 his engagement.

22 Q Okay. And a couple of weeks later, do you recall that Mr.
23 Seery made a written proposal to you and Mr. Nelms?

24 A He did make a written proposal after, you know, having 25 discussions with us orally about various issues and roles and

1 responsibilities. I think it was around April 4th or so that
2 he presented us with a written proposal.

3 MR. MORRIS: All right. Ms. Canty, can you call up
4 Exhibit 3, please? (Pause.) Okay. If you'll scroll down.
5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q Mr. Dubel, is this the April, the early April e-mail that 7 you were referring to in which Mr. Seery made a proposal for 8 the terms of his engagement as CEO?

9 A Yes. This document refreshes my recollection. It wasn't 10 April 4th. It was April (audio gap). But yes, that's the 11 document I was referring to.

12 Q Okay. What happened next, after -- after the -- after 13 this was presented to you and Mr. Nelms? What did you guys
14 do?

15 A So, what we wanted to do is understand what was our 16 responsibility as a board. So we reached out to counsel to 17 figure out how the process should work. We set up a 18 compensation committee. It's called a comp committee; it's 19 more I would call it a nomination committee or a governance
20 committee also, because it was all about retaining Mr. Seery
21 in that role.

22 We got advice from counsel on what the process should be.
23 We reached out to our compensation consultant at Mercer, who 24 had been providing us assistance in other areas of the 25 company's compensation program, to talk to them about what the

1 various market comps, you know, compensation programs were and
2 what would be an appropriate market comp for Mr. Seery's
3 compensation, and, you know, moved forward that way.

4 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, can you pull up Exhibit 4,
5 please?

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Do you know what this document is, Mr. Dubel?

8 A Yes. This looks like the minutes from the meeting of our 9 first compensation committee on April 8th, compensation
10 committee of Strand Advisors.

11 Q And this was a meeting between you and Mr. Nelms, with 12 counsel; is that right?

13 A That is correct.

14 Q And this was precipitated by Mr. Seery's written proposal
15 that was made a few days before that; is that fair?

16 A Well, I would say it was precipitated by the advice we had 17 gotten through counsel that we should set up a compensation
18 committee and consider what would be the appropriate way of 19 retaining Mr. Seery, you know, as a chief executive officer.
20 His proposal came in a couple of days earlier than that, and 21 so this was our first official time to get together as a
22 committee and review it and discuss the issue.

23 Q And was this a contemporaneous record of the steps that 24 the compensation committee took to do its due diligence with 25 respect to the proposal?

1 A It is.

2 Q Okay. Did the compensation committee --

3 MR. MORRIS: You can take that down, Ms. Canty.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Did the compensation committee communicate with the 6 Creditors' Committee with respect to these matters?

7 A We did.

8 Q Can you --

9 A As a part of the protocols, one of the things I -- and I'd 10 go back and re-read the protocol language, but one of the 11 things it said was work with the UCC to determine who would be 12 an appropriate CEO. And so we realized we would do that, and 13 we started to reach out to the various members of the 14 Creditors' Committee to discuss that.

15 Q Okay. And do you recall whether the compensation
16 committee or the Debtor generally shared Mr. Seery's proposal
17 with the Committee?

18 A We did. I don't recall the exact date, but we did share
19 it with the UCC through the UCC counsel.

20 Q Do you recall if the report that was commissioned by the 21 Debtor with respect to Mercer, the Mercer Report, was that 22 shared with the Committee?

23 A It was.

24 Q Can you describe for Judge Jernigan your recollection as 25 to, you know, the Committee's reaction and, you know, position

1 with respect to the proposed retention of Mr. Seery as CEO?

2 A We shared the report from Mercer with the Committee in --
3 I think it was early May. And we spent time with them in the 4 April time frame talking about the fact that we were going to 5 be seeking Mr. Seery's appointment as CEO and telling them
6 that we were going to be commissioning a report to make sure
7 we had what we thought was market compensation.

8 The Committee was generally very supportive. They had 9 been obviously experiencing Mr. Seery taking on that role of 10 effectively the CEO for a period of time, so they understood 11 where, you know, where he was coming from and what -- how he 12 was going to operate the business.

13 They understood, to my knowledge and in my discussions,
14 they understood the benefits of having a single person as the 15 CEO rather than trying to manage the business by committee.
16 We discussed with them why it made sense.

17 And so, you know, they were supportive of it. Obviously,
18 we had to negotiate the terms of the compensation.

19 Q And did that take some time, to negotiate the compensation
20 terms?

21 A It did. Initially, it was being done through myself and 22 Mr. Nelms, working directly with the Committee. But, again, 23 having been in that position of having to negotiate with the,
24 you know, the committee on terms of my own personal 25 compensation -- not this committee, but in other cases -- we

88

1 recognized that it was probably more efficient for Mr. Seery
2 to speak directly with the Committee, Committee members. And
3 so we asked him to pick up that, you know, responsibility
4 also. And he did. He kept us informed every step of the way.
5 And I, as the de facto chairman of the compensation committee,
6 also spoke directly with the various members of the Committee
7 during this time frame, where there was (echoing)
8 communication about compensation.

9 Q Mr. Pomerantz mentioned it in his opening remarks, but do
10 you recall kind of what the bigger issues were with respect to 11 the proposed compensation terms with the Committee?

12 A Sure. The Committee -- well, there was always negotiation
13 going on, obviously. The Committee, at the end of it, they 14 had no problems with the monthly compensation, recognizing 15 that whatever his board compensation would be would 16 effectively be wrapped into the monthly compensation.

17 What the issues really came down to for them revolved
18 around the restructuring fee that was being proposed, success
19 fee, you know, what have you. And there was a lot of 20 different views, as you can imagine, between the four members
21 of the Committee as to how that should be set up.

22 Mr. Nelms and I were very cognizant that we did not want
23 to have Mr. Seery (echoing) -- I'm sorry. I'm getting a lot
24 of background noise here.

25 THE COURT: Yes. I'm not sure who needs to mute

1 their phone, but someone needs to mute their phone. Okay.

2 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

3 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

4 (Echoing subsides.)

5 THE WITNESS: So we were very concerned that
6 structures not be put in place that could cause the potential,
7 the appearance of a conflict between the role that Mr. Seery
8 was playing and his compensation.

9 It's always a, you know, a challenging issue here, to make 10 sure that, you know, a CEO of any company is looking out for 11 the best interests of the estate and not looking out
12 specifically for any particular creditor, equity, or group of 13 creditors, just because that's the way the compensation was 14 designed. And so that was a challenge.

15 At the end of the day, we wanted to have what we felt was 16 fair compensation for the success fee and restructuring fee
17 for Mr. Seery, because we wanted him incented to get the job
18 done, as he has alluded to in his prior testimony as to what 19 he's trying to do here. And so there did come a point where 20 we could not get to a meeting of the minds and so we chose to 21 move forward on the compensation with just the monthly agreed
22 to. Mr. Seery was good enough to agree to that for just the 23 monthly, and that we would put forward the restructuring fee
24 at a later date.

1 Q Okay. Thank you. In addition to the CEO title, the
2 Debtor is asking for the Court to appoint Mr. Seery as the CRO
3 and the Foreign Representative; is that right?

4 A That is correct.

5 Q And why is the Debtor seeking that relief?

6 A Well, initially, the CRO was brought in, I believe it was 7 the middle of October, when the case was filed and before the 8 Independent Board was put in place. And there were reasons
9 why, you know, the Committee had asked for the CRO to have 10 certain responsibilities. Those carried through in the 11 protocols.

12 And obviously, you know, we had no issues with those, but 13 what we also felt, Mr. Nelms and I, and in consultation with 14 Mr. Seery, was that it would be more appropriate to have one 15 person be responsible for all of the issues within the 16 company. And since there was an Independent Board, and since
17 one of those Independent Board Members was becoming the CEO,
18 the need for another individual to be the CRO might send 19 conflicting signals inside the organization. And so we 20 decided that it would be appropriate to put those 21 responsibilities into Mr. Seery's lap. And we spoke with Mr.
22 Sharp from DSI, and he agreed. And so that's the reason why
23 we moved it forward that way.

24 Q Okay. I understood you to say that the meeting of the 25 minds, at least conceptually, was somewhere around March 12th

1 in New York, or March 11th. I think the Judge may have asked
2 the question or at least implied that she wanted to know kind
3 of why it took so long to get the motion on file. I think
4 you've discussed some of the issues, but just kind of in a
5 bullet-point way, can you give the Judge an explanation as to,
6 you know, why it took several months to get this motion in 7 front of the Court if a meeting of the minds occurred back in 8 March?

9 A Sure. I believe the motion was filed on the -- I think it
10 was the 22nd or so of June.

11 Q Okay.

12 A And so we -- we asked Mr. Seery. He accepted the 13 responsibility in the middle of March. Right at that point in 14 time was when the whole pandemic issue was, you know, really
15 coming hot and heavy at the company. As Mr. Seery testified
16 earlier, he had -- he was spending a tremendous amount of time
17 just focusing on the operations of the business, focusing on 18 the assets, dealing with the prime accounts, the select 19 accounts, working with Jeff Reeves, working with the other 20 individual investments that we had, to make sure that those 21 were under control.

22 I would say I applaud him for putting the business first 23 in front of him, and then I think probably at 1:00 o'clock in 24 the morning he was able to finally sit down and put together
25 his own compensation request.

92

1 We did need time to go through with the Mercer folks and
2 get, you know, the market information, and that took a lot of,
3 you know, a lot of time.

4 And then, more importantly, we wanted to make sure we 5 could get something in front of the Court that was agreed to 6 by the Committee. So we did share the information with the 7 Committee. We spent a lot of time in negotiations with the 8 Committee, trying to get to a resolution. As I said earlier,
9 we asked Mr. Seery to step in and there be, you know, one-on-
10 one discussions to maybe shortcut some of that.

11 And finally, at the point in time where we realized we 12 could not get a full, you know, fully-agreed compensation
13 program, we asked him to just break it down into the monthly, 14 and then come back for a restructuring bonus at the end of the 15 case.

16 And so all of that, while trying to manage the business in 17 the COVID era, is what took such a long period of time.

18 Q Did it also take some time to obtain appropriate D&O
19 insurance for Mr. Seery as the CEO?

20 A It did. We had to, as the Board of Strand, we had to set
21 up a D&O program for the Board members when we first got 22 involved back in January. That took a tremendous amount of 23 time. It was very difficult to obtain in the marketplace, for 24 any number of reasons, but mainly because the insurance market
25 understood what Highland was all about and the various

93

1 players, and they were very reticent to insure Highland.

2 So, because we were Strand, because there were other
3 protections that were afforded to the Independent Directors,
4 we were able to obtain it.

5 When we asked the various carriers to add Mr. Seery on as 6 the CEO for HCMLP, it was very challenging to put folks on.
7 We were eventually able to get our first layer to sign on, the 8 first-layer insurer. The second layer would not do it, and we 9 had to go find a third carrier who would do it. And we 10 actually got that done at some time in the latter part of 11 June, right after we had filed the motion.

12 Q Okay.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I've got just a few more
14 questions, but they're going to be devoted to the DSI motion.
15 I don't know if you wanted to ask -- if you had any questions
16 on the motion with respect to Mr. Seery or I should just 17 continue on.

18 THE COURT: I do not have questions. You can 19 continue.

20 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q Okay. So, let's just finish up, Mr. Dubel. There is a
23 second motion in front of the Court, and this one is for the 24 appointment of DSI as financial advisor. Are you familiar
25 with that motion?

94

1 A I am.

2 Q Does the Board unanimously support that motion?

3 A We do.

4 Q Has the Board concluded, in an exercise of its independent
5 business judgment, that the engagement of DSI as financial 6 advisor is in the Debtors' best interests?

7 A We have. Yes.

8 Q Can you explain to the Court why the Board reached that
9 conclusion?

10 A Well, we do need the services of a financial advisor.
11 It's very important in this case to have an independent, you
12 know, restructuring, you know, financial advisor to assist us.
13 As Mr. Seery testified earlier, they have been very 14 instrumental in helping him prepare the financial analysis
15 that has been part of what he's been using to start
16 negotiating and working forward on the -- putting together a
17 plan of reorganization.

18 They've also spent a tremendous amount of time acting as a 19 bridge to FTI, the Committee's financial advisors, which is 20 very common in these types of cases. And so that's been 21 extremely helpful. And that role needs to continue.

22 They also are handling all of -- all the administrative 23 bankruptcy issues, the SOFAs, the MORs. They're doing a lot
24 of work for us, not necessarily specifically on the large
25 claims, but on helping us analyze and review all of the other

1 myriad of -- I think it's two hundred something claims that
2 have been filed in the case.

3 So they've been here since -- I guess they came in pre-
4 filing. They have a lot of history and knowledge, and we want
5 to continue to utilize that knowledge as we continue to move
6 forward. So that's why. And the Board is very comfortable
7 with the job they've been doing, and so we felt it was 8 appropriate to continue to use them as the financial advisor,
9 just in a slightly different role.

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no more questions of 11 Mr. Dubel.

12 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm going to just jump
13 in and ask my own questions, and then I will -- I'll, you
14 know, offer him up for cross if people will promise to 15 restrict it to employment terms.

16 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

17 THE COURT: So, what -- my question is about Mr.
18 Sharp. As I recall, the compensation is not going to change
19 at all, even though the role is changing. He won't be CRO
20 anymore, Mr. Sharp. He won't be the Foreign Representative
21 anymore. But obviously, he and his firm will remain very 22 engaged as financial advisor.

23 What I'm getting at is there was a $100,000 per month flat
24 fee for Mr. Sharp, and then other professionals at DSI will 25 bill by the hour. Tell me why the Board thinks that's still

96

1 the appropriate compensation package with the modified role of 2 Mr. Sharp. I'm getting at, $100,000 a month, is that still 3 the right thing, or hourly compensation, did you discuss that,
4 and why is --

5 THE WITNESS: We did, Your Honor. And I'll be 6 (inaudible) with you. I don't know who negotiated that 7 originally for -- with, you know, with DSI, but I find it to 8 be a very fair-to-the-Debtor compensation package of $100,000
9 for Mr. Sharp, but it also includes Mr. Caruso, who Mr. Seery
10 has referenced earlier. I think it was a very good
11 negotiation that was had by the Debtor.

12 So when we looked at it, we said, if we switch to a
13 straight hourly, based upon the amount of time and effort
14 that's being put in by the two of those individuals, it might 15 cost us a little bit more. So we chose to continue it at that 16 level.

17 And I know Mr. Seery will continue to lean on those two 18 folks and get his money's worth. I'm confident of that.

19 THE COURT: Okay. You just reminded me of something
20 that I did not remember, I guess. Mr. -- we're getting two 21 for the price of one, is basically the -- Mr. Caruso does not 22 bill by the hour?

23 THE WITNESS: They -- they work together. It's their 24 compensation. I would imagine they keep hours internally,
25 just to keep track of it, but what they bill us for the two

1 individuals, Mr. Caruso and Mr. Sharp, is a flat fee of 2 $100,000 for the two of them.

3 THE COURT: Okay. All right. And do you remember,
4 by comparison, the financial advisor to the Committee -- is it
5 FDI? Whoever it is.

6 THE WITNESS: It -- it --

7 THE COURT: How are they getting compensated? Is it
8 strictly on an hourly basis, or is there also a combo flat fee
9 and hourly?

10 THE WITNESS: (echoing) on an hourly basis, and I
11 have one of their most recent charts. It was the May fee
12 application that they just filed, and they -- they bill in a 13 range from $1,245 an hour for, you know, senior managing 14 directors, to $875 an hour for managing directors, down to,
15 you know, $690 an hour for directors. Yeah. A very fair and 16 appropriate marketplace compensation, but I think what we are 17 incurring under the structure that we have for DSI is below
18 that.

19 THE COURT: If those two guys were billing normal
20 market hourly fees, you think it would be busting $100,000 a 21 month, perhaps?

22 THE WITNESS: I think it -- I think it would be well
23 in excess of $100,000, --

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 THE WITNESS: -- based upon the hours that we have

1 seen to date from them, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Now, does anyone else have
3 questions for Mr. Dubel related to these employment
4 arrangements proposed?

5 (No response.)

6 THE COURT: I guess not. I actually have one more
7 question. I think it will be for my benefit, but maybe for 8 benefit of parties in interest, I hope. You made a comment
9 about getting insurance for Mr. Seery, and you said it was a 10 bit of a challenge because insurers in the marketplace kind of 11 knew what Highland was about. I think those were your words.

12 THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Here is my question. As far as knowing 14 what Highland is about, other persons, not me, have used the 15 words that people were Mr. Dondero's puppet master, or he was 16 the puppet master, had his hands all over this, here and 17 there. And we obviously endeavored to change that with the 18 new Board in place. What would you say if people out there
19 think Dondero still might be a puppet master? What -- I mean,
20 is there any concern there that you could address?

21 THE WITNESS: Sure. And let me, let me take it in 22 two parts, because I think it's important for you to 23 understand from a third-party insurer's point of view. The 24 D&O marketplace has seen a lot of litigation surrounding the 25 Highland Capital name. And because of that, that obviously

Dubel - Examination by the Court 99

1 causes them concern. Their business is to write insurance and
2 never pay a dime. I ran an insurance company for six years,
3 and you never want to pay a dime out, you just want to collect
4 premiums.

5 THE COURT: Yes. And I probably prefaced this in a
6 confusing way. I'm really not going back to the insurance. I
7 just said that comment, when you were talking about insurance,
8 made me want to ask, for my benefit and for other parties'
9 benefit: How much control, if any, does Dondero have? In 10 theory, he was not supposed to have any control over the 11 Debtor anymore, but can you say something to make us all feel
12 comfortable that, if he ever was a puppet master, he's not a
13 puppet master anymore?

14 THE WITNESS: Well, I won't use that terminology.
15 What I will say is, since January 9th --

16 THE COURT: Yes. It was someone else's term, not 17 mine. I'm just repeating it.

18 THE WITNESS: That's okay. Since January 9th, when 19 the Independent Board was put in place, the Independent Board
20 has had the responsibility, is responsible for the operations
21 of this business. Mr. Dondero, as Mr. Seery alluded to 22 earlier in talking about the number of people in the 23 organization, has other businesses that he's involved with 24 that operate out of the offices through shared services. But 25 it's very clear to all the employees that the Independent

1 Board is responsible for HCMLP and that since, really, you
2 know, the early March time frame, that Mr. Seery is the CEO.

3 So there is no concern on my part that Mr. Dondero is 4 having undue influence. He is still our portfolio manager,
5 but Mr. Seery is working with him as appropriate, and I have 6 no concern that Mr. Seery is not getting the job done and 7 getting any undue influence from Mr. Dondero.

8 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

9 Mr. Morris, do you have any redirect?

10 MR. MORRIS: I do not, Your Honor. I appreciate the 11 question, and I think Mr. Dubel answered it appropriately.

12 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Dubel. I do
13 appreciate your testimony today. It was helpful.

14 All right. Mr. Morris, --

15 THE WITNESS: Thank you, ma'am.

16 THE COURT: -- what else do you have? You have Mr.
17 Sharp on your witness list. Did you want to --

18 MR. SHARP: I'm here, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: -- put him on?

20 MR. MORRIS: I'm intending to do that. If Your Honor
21 thinks it's not necessary, I don't need to ask more questions.
22 It's a relatively brief examination that will just focus on 23 the slight change in his role.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, if you feel the need to 25 make a record, you may. I just have one question I want to

1 ask him, to shore up the record.

2 MR. MORRIS: So perhaps, Your Honor, could we swear
3 him in, you ask your question, and then I'll see if there's 4 (echoing)?

5 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Sharp, I see you there.
6 Please raise your right hand.

8 BRADLEY SHARP, DEBTORS' WITNESS, SWORN

9 THE COURT: Thank you. We were getting some 10 distortion there. So, again, if you're not Mr. Sharp, please 11 put your phone on mute.

12 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

13 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Sharp, I just wanted to 14 hear from you how many hours a month do you think that you and 15 Mr. Caruso are working on the Highland matter?

16 THE WITNESS: I don't have the hours in front of me,
17 Your Honor, but I think Mr. Dubel unfortunately alluded to 18 poor negotiating on DSI's part. That'd be my responsibility, 19 because I'm the one that did that.

20 From October through May, if you look at the time for Mr.
21 Caruso and myself, DSI has provided about a $730,000 discount.
22 So if we were actually being paid on our hourly rate, our fees
23 would be $730,000 more than the $100,000 a month. We 24 typically run -- my rate is $720 an hour. I think Mr.
25 Caruso's is about the same. The time for the two of us each

1 month runs about $200,000, which we then write down to 2 $100,000.

3 THE COURT: All right.

4 THE WITNESS: (echoing) a month.

5 THE COURT: Okay. That answers my question. Mr.
6 Morris, is there anything you wanted to put on the record?

7 DIRECT EXAMINATION

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q Mr. Sharp, are you the person who was (echoing) with the 10 (echoing) CRO (echoing) Seery (echoing)?

11 A Yes, I am. I think it's much more efficient, frankly.
12 We've worked very well with Mr. Seery since the beginning,
13 since January 9th. That's going to continue. I think it 14 takes away some confusion, both internally and externally, in 15 that, you know, Mr. Seery is the CEO, the CRO, and everyone
16 knows that we are providing the analytical and support for him
17 with whatever he needs.

18 Q And I want to focus just for a second on DSI's (echoing).
19 Is DSI's responsibilities in the case changing at all?

20 A No. No. We have been working for the Board and 21 responding directly to Mr. Seery. You know, as Mr. Seery
22 testified, he works directly with myself and directly with my 23 team, and that's not going to change.

24 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right. Anyone have any questions

1 regarding the employment terms?

2 (No response.)

3 THE COURT: All right. Well, I thank you, Mr. Sharp.
4 We appreciate it.

5 All right. Mr. --

6 MR. MORRIS: The Debtor rests, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I presume no one else had a
8 witness to call. Again, we didn't have any responsive
9 pleadings on this.

10 So, with that, I am going to turn to the Committee counsel
11 at this point. Mr. Clemente, I know you said early on that 12 you wanted to make some comments, so this is your opportunity.

13 MR. CLEMENTE: Well, thank you, Your Honor. Matt
14 Clemente from Sidley on behalf of the Committee.

15 And just very briefly, Your Honor, as you know, we did not 16 file an objection. It sounds from what we heard today that 17 Mr. Seery and the Board are working hard, which is, frankly,
18 what I think you expect and what we expect of them.

19 We don't have an objection to the retention of Mr. Seery
20 as CEO at $150,000 a month, which is inclusive of director
21 fees. And as Mr. Pomerantz said, the Committee does not agree 22 -- in fact, that was the source of quite a bit of the 23 negotiation of the last couple of months -- with the bonus
24 proposal. But, again, we understand that that will be 25 addressed by a separate motion.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 104 of 134

104

1 Your Honor, we appreciate Mr. Seery's testimony to advise
2 you and to create the record for purposes of today's
3 uncontested matter. And obviously, the Committee -- there's 4 no live objection. And while the Committee may have different
5 views of what Mr. Seery said -- for example, the working of 6 the protocols, the sophistication of the advisors to the 7 Committee -- again, for purposes of the matter before the 8 Court today, we're not going to take any issue with any of 9 those statements, Your Honor, but reserve the right to do so
10 again in future if it becomes necessary.

11 So, with that, Your Honor, I have no further comments, but 12 I did want to make those couple comments for the record, to 13 make sure Your Honor understood where the Committee is coming 14 from.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Does anyone else wish
16 to make comments about the applications before the Court?

17 (No response.)

18 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, I'll turn it back
19 to you.

20 I found in my notes one question that I had. Looking at 21 your Exhibit 3 is what made me decide I have this question.
22 The Exhibit 3 was the e-mail exchange of Sunday, April 5th
23 amongst the Board members. Let me ask you this. There was 24 something in there regarding Mr. Seery, this would be a full-
25 time position, but he would be permitted to serve on outside

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 105 of 134

1 boards of directors. Is that a term that survived, or no?

2 And if it did, I want to ask how many outside board

3 memberships does he have? Again, I expect, like I think

4 everyone, that it's going to be very full-time, so I don't

5 want to hear that he's on 12 other boards. How did that --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.

7 Since I was the one who actually was involved in negotiations

8 more than Mr. Morris, --

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: -- maybe I can answer. I believe it

11 was something that survived. I am not aware of any other

12 boards that Mr. Seery is on. And if he has actually been able

13 to do anything meaningful while performing what is I think

14 probably 200 hours a month and being available 24/7, I take my

15 hat off to him. But I would ask him to confirm if he has any 16 other material role, but I have not seen anything.

17 THE COURT: All right. What about that, Mr. Seery?

18 MR. SEERY: I -- currently, I'm not on any other

19 outside boards except two charities.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. SEERY: One is a foundation called the

22 (inaudible) Foundation, which is a charity for (inaudible)

23 individuals, disabled folks, and -- most of whom are abused.

24 And I'm also involved with a charity, I'm not on the board but

25 on a funding committee for Team Rubicon, which is a reference

1 -- reference service, assistance in disasters. So they don't 2 take time like this, and so I'm not going to be involved in 3 any --

4 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. That's what I would
5 hope to hear. I didn't want to hear that you were on, you
6 know, 12 other for-profit boards.

7 So, all right. So, Mr. Morris, Mr. Pomerantz, do you have 8 anything to say before we wrap up this topic?

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I'm happy to give Your 10 Honor a closing statement if you think it's necessary. I
11 think you know what I would say, to summarize. But I think 12 we've been at this a while, so (inaudible).

13 So unless Your Honor has any questions for me, I would 14 just say that the evidentiary record, I believe, supports the 15 entry of an order approving both the Motion to Employ Mr.
16 Seery as the Chief Executive Officer, CRO, and Foreign 17 Representative, and the Motion to Appoint DSI as the Financial 18 Advisor.

19 THE COURT: All right. Well, I am going to grant
20 both of these motions. Again, as for Mr. Seery, it's as 21 modified per the agreements with the Committee, that 22 modification being that, as for any bonuses, we're just 23 deferring to another day whether Mr. Seery is going to get any 24 bonuses related to a plan, what kind of plan it might be, a
25 case resolution plan or a monetization vehicle plan.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 107 of 134

107

1           You know, I really hope, frankly, Mr. Seery is before me
2 seeking a bonus in the very near future and we're all happy
3 about the prospect of paying him a bonus because a plan has 4 been achieved, hopefully a case resolution plan. I will just 5 tell you right now, I will have a big smile on my face and 6 will warmly consider that if we get a great result here.

7           But it's deferred to another day. So I do find it's -- 8 the evidence amply shows a sound business justification and 9 reasonable business judgment on the part of the Debtor in 10 proposing that Mr. Seery be CEO and CRO, essentially, and a 11 foreign representative, where necessary, at the base pay of 12 $150,000 per month, again, with bonuses to be considered at 13 appropriate times down the road if we feel that that is a good
14 thing for Mr. Seery to be paid.

15           And I likewise find that, under 327, 328, 363, the amended
16 application with regard to DSI Specialists and Mr. Sharp and 17 Mr. Caruso should be granted, it appearing to be reasonable 18 business judgment and in the best interests of the estate and 19 appropriate in all ways under those Code sections.

20           All right. So we are going to look for orders on those 21 two matters.

22           Now, unless you have other housekeeping matters you want
23 to talk about, I want to circle back to the mediation topic.
24 Mr. Pomerantz, Mr. Morris, anything you wanted to raise?

25           MR. POMERANTZ: There is actually one other

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 108 of 134

108

1 housekeeping matter that Ms. Patel and I have been speaking
2 about and we said we would raise before Your Honor.

3 As Your Honor heard at the last hearing, we had filed an
4 objection to the Acis claim. We initially set the objection
5 for August 6th. Ms. Patel reached out to us, I understand, I
6 remember at the last hearing indicated that August 6th was 7 difficult for her. And especially since we were having the 8 mediation, we had talked to her about a rescheduling. So we 9 are intending put the matter on the September 10th calendar.
10 We have also granted Acis an extension to file a response to 11 July 31st.

12 What I think we would like the Court's input on, and not 13 now, but we would suggest having it done at the next hearing,
14 which is July 21st, as I'm sure Your Honor has not yet read
15 our objection, but it's a quite lengthy objection, I think 55,
16 60 pages. There's a lot of issues there. There are some 17 factual issues, some -- there are some legal issues. There
18 are some combination of factual and legal issues.

19 We think it would be helpful to the process to set up a
20 status conference with Your Honor -- again, to be held perhaps 21 on July 21st, because discovery motions are pending -- where 22 we could walk through with Your Honor what exactly everyone
23 would intend to accomplish on September 10th. We don't 24 believe it should just be a status conference. We searched
25 other dates. On the other hand, I think both parties will

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 109 of 134

109

1 have different views on what exactly will be at issue. But I
2 think it would be helpful, from both sides, to hear Your
3 Honor's expectations and to get some ground rules so we can
4 make a hearing, if necessary, on September 10th as productive
5 as possible.

6 THE COURT: All right. So, in writing down dates,
7 did you tell me what -- a deadline you have given Acis, or 8 what is the deadline that would apply under the Rules versus 9 what you have agreed to? Is there something different you've 10 agreed to?

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure. I believe, for a hearing on 12 August 6th, based upon when we filed it, I believe their 13 objection would have been due July 23rd or thereabouts. They 14 have asked us for July 31st, and I don't want to be as 15 presumptuous, Your Honor, to say that I have given them the 16 extension. I know that's up to you, Your Honor, to do so.
17 The Debtor does not have any opposition to an extension in 18 that respect, especially given the fact that we're not going
19 to have a hearing until September, although it's obviously 20 going to be important to be able to move forward with 21 negotiations to understand what their specific position is,
22 and, of course, for a mediator to look at both as well.

23 So, again, it's July 31st, September 10th, and then
24 setting up something with Your Honor, whether it be July 21st
25 or some other date, to walk through Your Honor what that

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 110 of 134

110

1 hearing will look like so it could be most efficient.

2 THE COURT: All right. Well, I am agreeable to that
3 set of dates and deadlines. Ms. Patel, did you want to say
4 anything about it?

5 MS. PATEL: No, Your Honor. Mr. Pomerantz hit the 6 salient terms. Yes, July 31st is the agreed response date.
7 And that allows, frankly, parties to -- an opportunity --
8 allows Acis the opportunity to meaningfully brief the issues,
9 as Mr. Pomerantz indicated.

10 It's a 60-page objection. It's very weighty. There's a 11 lot of issues that require due consideration. So we have 12 agreed on that extended date. It's in sufficient time to 13 allow the parties time to read a response and analyze it ahead
14 of a mediation in August.

15 And as Mr. Pomerantz indicated, yes, the parties would 16 like -- effectively, I think he -- he might have referred to 17 it as a status conference. Apologies, my WebEx is cutting in 18 and out a little bit this afternoon. But I think it's 19 probably a status conference/scheduling conference so we can 20 talk about what the trial of the claim objection is going to 21 look like and how it should be structured. And I think, as 22 Mr. Pomerantz alluded to, parties may have very different 23 contexts with respect to that, but we want to just run it by 24 Your Honor, and ultimately it is going to be up to Your Honor
25 with respect to how the trial goes forward.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 111 of 134

111

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, I hope that you all are
2 going to have lots of specific thoughts to share on what the 3 hearing on September 10th would look like, because, holy cow,
4 a $70 million proof of claim that -- I haven't looked at your 5 proof of claim, but it is presumably based on the 34 counts in 6 the adversary proceeding filed in the Acis case, and maybe 7 then some.

8 So, you know, I don't know how in the world, if we had to 9 have a contested hearing on September 10th, we could get that 10 all done in one day.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, Jeff Pomerantz again.
12 Without getting ahead of ourselves, at least the Debtors' view
13 is there are some threshold legal issues --

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: -- that are raised in the objection.
16 And then there are, of course, a series of issues that are 17 factual-intensive.

18 So what we intend to present is how we think we can 19 efficiently deal with it. Again, it's not our expectation to 20 have a lengthy trial on the entire claim objection. But,
21 again, Ms. Patel and I agreed that what we weren't going to do
22 is turn this into a status conference.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. POMERANTZ: To the effect that neither party was 25 ready. I would just leave it at that --

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 112 of 134

112

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: -- and say we'd be prepared to talk
3 with you on the 21st.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we -- we'll use that setting
5 partly as a status conference to talk about the September 10th
6 hearing. And, again, I hope you both will have some specific 7 ideas to give me.

8 So, July 21st, we have -- remind me what we have. We are 9 so busy, I haven't looked one week ahead to --

10 MR. POMERANTZ: I believe, and Mr. Morris could 11 correct me if I get ahead of ourselves. I know there's been 12 discussions between us and the Committee on two very -- two,
13 in some sense, the opposite sides of the coin -- discovery
14 motions that are pending before Your Honor. I thought July 15 21st may have been pre-obtained. Again, I could be ahead of 16 my partner there.

17 THE COURT: Okay. That sounds like something that 18 I've set on an expedited basis in the past few days. Mr.
19 Morris, Mr. Clemente -- Mr. Clemente filed a motion, or 20 someone from their shop filed a motion --

21 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor? Your Honor?

22 THE COURT: -- during the middle of our last hearing,
23 as I recall. And I was kind of surprised to get out of court
24 and learn about it. But you're saying you haven't gotten 25 information you've been asking for for months, and we also

1 have a motion for a protective order.

2 So, just give me a short -- I'm trying to figure out how
3 much time we're going to be in court next week on the 21st.
4 It's a discovery dispute.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: And I'll --

6 THE COURT: So, Mr. Pomerantz? Go ahead.

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, if my colleague, Paige
8 Montgomery, is on, she's in a better position to address that.
9 I don't know if Ms. Montgomery is on.

10 MS. MONTGOMERY: I'm here. I don't -- my WebEx has 11 been cutting in and out, but I think (inaudible) hear me.

12 THE COURT: We can hear you, but we can't --

13 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, we can.

14 THE COURT: Oh, there you are. We can now see you as 15 well. So, --

16 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes, Your Honor. I think the amount 17 of time that might be required for the discovery motions is 18 going to be dependent on the number of third-party objections
19 that may or may not be filed tomorrow. We've been in 20 communication with a number of different parties over the last 21 couple of days, trying to resolve those.

22 But I think, if it were just the two motions and the two
23 parties that filed those, John, I don't know if you disagree,
24 but I'd say that's probably an hour. I just don't know how 25 many other people -- I don't know how many other people will

1 want to participate, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Well, it's going to be whatever
3 it's going to be, but we're going to have -- the main event on 4 the 21st is going to be this document discovery contest, and I
5 guess there's a related motion for protective order. But I
6 don't know how much it's going to be about resisting producing
7 documents versus we'll produce documents if we have a
8 protective order.

9 Mr. Morris, can you, in, you know, a few seconds, answer
10 that?

11 MR. MORRIS: Sure. As the Debtor, we're trying to -- 12 we've got certain interests to protect. We thought we were in 13 a different place in the middle of June, and, you know, this
14 proposal that the Committee made for the first time on July --
15 on June 26th is really what, from my perspective, prompted us
16 to be here.

17 But we've made a proposal to the Committee. We haven't 18 received a response to that. We're trying to address these 19 issues. But it's not, you know, it's not contentious. I
20 think our interests are legitimate. I think the motion that 21 we made is either for a protective order or for an order
22 directing us to produce the documents. Because as the motion
23 itself sets forth, Your Honor, the Debtor has certain 24 contractual and other obligations to some third parties. We 25 have given notice to those third parties of our -- of our

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 115 of 134

115

1 intent to make this motion, because we are kind of between a
2 rock and a hard place. We can't produce the documents
3 without, you know, potentially violating obligations to third
4 parties.

5 And so we'd just ask the Court to be the referee here, to 6 make the decision as to how it gets resolved. And we've given 7 notice to these third parties so that they fairly have an 8 opportunity to be heard, too. And I've been in communication
9 with some of them as well, and I've encouraged them to speak
10 with the Debtor, because ultimately, you know, if the Debtor
11 and the third parties can come to an agreement on the 12 production of the documents, you know, that will resolve, you
13 know, a substantial piece of the issue.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: You mentioned the -- you meant the 15 Committee, John, not the Debtor.

16 MR. MORRIS: I apologize. Yes. Thank you.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, John.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I hope you have this largely 19 worked out. Obviously, I hope that. You know, I just 20 remember doing a very quick pass through the Committee's 21 motion, but I do remember them saying they've been trying to 22 get these documents for a very long time, and I think I recall
23 there's pressure building now because I gave you a 90-day
24 deadline to either file a lawsuit regarding the CLO Holdco
25 issues that we had a hearing on a few weeks ago, a couple of

116

1 weeks ago, or I'm probably going to release the money in the 2 registry of the Court. And so that's part of why you're
3 trying to get these documents as soon as possible, right, Ms.
4 Montgomery?

5 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay. All right. You all try to work
7 this out. Okay?

8 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you.

9 THE COURT: Well, I was partly pressing the issue of 10 what's July 21st going to look like because I think we may 11 carry over the discussion about mediation. We're going to 12 start it right now, but I think we may have to carry it over
13 to the 21st, and I hope finally kind of get a game plan
14 together on that day.

15 So, I wanted Mr. Seery to be available. Mr. Seery is -- 16 if you're still there somewhere. You're very important, in my 17 view, to mediation potentially being successful here -- and 18 the whole Board is, for that matter -- because -- well, let me
19 digress a minute.

20 Mediation is going to be very tough here. We all know
21 that mediation tends to be more likely to succeed if we've got 22 face-to-face, in-person participation. And as I said last
23 week, I just don't know how I can order people to be in face-
24 to-face mediation right now. I just -- we've got people
25 spread out, and I think it would be very, very bad to order

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 117 of 134

117

1 face-to-face mediation right now.

2 But on the topic of mediation, you know, I've heard some
3 things that, you know, we all know, but I've heard some things
4 from Mr. Seery that are important to stress today. This isn't 5 the type of case that needs to be in bankruptcy for months and 6 months and months and months. Okay? We have the issue of the 7 professional fees accruing, of course, like every case. But 8 we have a company where -- it's a strange fit for bankruptcy,
9 right, this kind of company. And it's so dependent on people
10 to provide value. And people can bolt. You know, people can 11 get weary of the bankruptcy and want to be somewhere else
12 where that taint is not there in the marketplace.

13 The issue of the UCC protocols was brought up by Mr.
14 Seery, and I know that is something that is going to be 15 cumbersome, you know, for this company to be in bankruptcy
16 long-term.

17 So, I want to go to Mr. Seery, and it may be unusual for 18 me to reach out to you and ask this, but I want to hear from 19 you: Do you think mediation is a waste-of-time pipe dream,
20 for lack of a better term? I really want mediation to happen,
21 because I don't know how we quickly get a confirmed plan if we 22 have, well, the voting issue, for one, right? We have to, at 23 a minimum, figure out what is UBS's voting claim. What's its 24 claim for voting purposes? What is Acis's claim for voting
25 purposes? A looming, huge issue in my mind. So I feel like

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 118 of 134

118

1 we've got to have mediation. We've got to get a strong shot
2 at getting these two claims liquidated, at least for voting
3 purposes, if not overall.

4 So, is this a pipe dream, Mr. Seery, in your view, that 5 mediation might get to resolution on these two claims? What 6 do you think about it?

7 MR. SEERY: The quick answer, Your Honor, is I don't 8 think it's a pipe dream. I think there's a legitimate shot to 9 move parties together.

10 Let me just say one thing that -- reflecting on what Mr.
11 Clemente said. I want to make clear for the record that, to 12 the extent I misspoke, and it would have been misspeaking, I
13 have no negative implication regarding the sophistication,
14 professionalism, or focus of Sidley --

15 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

16 MR. SEERY: -- or FTI or any of the professionals. I
17 know these folks. They're really good. They're very 18 sophisticated. I have the highest professional and personal 19 respect for them. So, to the extent that I misspoke, I
20 apologize.

21 THE COURT: I don't think you did, and that's not how 22 I heard it --

23 MR. SEERY: Okay.

24 THE COURT: -- and that's certainly not how I meant
25 it. It's just a fact of bankruptcy that it's expensive.

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 119 of 134

119

1 Okay? So, --

2 MR. SEERY: Yeah.

3 THE COURT: Right.

4 MR. SEERY: I just wanted that to be clear.

5 I think, particularly with respect, Your Honor, to the 6 Acis and UBS claims, our professionals have done a lot of work
7 on them. Obviously, the professionals for Acis and UBS have 8 done a lot of work on them. There may be things that we know,
9 the perspectives that we have, and perspectives that the other
10 side has, that may not be as well-founded as each side thinks.
11 It could be very valuable to have a third-party objective
12 observer, cajoler, somebody who's strong, to help move the 13 parties off of certain positions.

14 We would like to think, as a Board, Independent Board, and 15 I'd like to think as an Independent Director and now as a CEO,
16 I didn't really have a -- the proverbial dog in that fight for 17 either of those claims. I wasn't -- I'm not a Highland 18 employee. I don't have any animus towards any of the sides.
19 I don't have any history with any of the sides.

20 But I'm realistic that I take a perspective around certain
21 claims and how they're brought, the factual and legal basis
22 for them. And I get a lot of that information from Highland 23 employees, and we use that information to then perform the 24 analysis with our professionals.

25 Likewise, these parties have been involved in, on the

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 120 of 134

120

1 other side, very entrenched disputes with Highland and
2 Highland employees. And they've dug in on their positions.

3 Having a third party hear each side and start to move
4 could give us the chance to break it open. I think there's --
5 and there's two really important aspects. One is the claim
6 amount, and then, obviously, the distributions on the claims:
7 How to make those, how much are they, when are they made? We
8 can work on both of those, and I think we need some help
9 moving us both on the claim amounts and on how to make the 10 distributions.

11 We've made progress with Redeemer because even though they 12 had -- they had an arbitration award, so we knew what the 13 outside would be. Now, Redeemer and their attorneys are very 14 good and very creative. They could stretch the outside in 15 those discussions. I won't get into what they are. But we 16 were able to more easily fashion around the particulars of 17 that claim because there was that judgment from the 18 arbitrators that, while it hasn't been entered, gave us much
19 more guidelines as to where we could look. The other claims
20 are much more amorphous, at least at this stage, and having a 21 third party help us develop perhaps closer goal lines would be 22 useful, in my opinion.

23 But, again, I think it's very important that we do it
24 quickly. I think we -- you know, somebody who is focused,
25 strong. I'm sure they'll be highly intelligent and versed in

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 121 of 134

121

1 the field, but somebody who's got the opportunity and time to
2 do it. And then, if it's unsuccessful, then, as Mr. Pomerantz
3 and Ms. Patel alluded to, then perhaps we may need some 4 judicial help to move those goal lines a little bit.

5 But I do think that mediation -- and I apologize for the 6 length of my answer -- could be a very helpful way to do it,
7 provided we get there quickly.

8 THE COURT: All right. I guess my other question I
9 wanted your view on is structure. You know, when someone --
10 Mr. Pomerantz, I think -- told me that he or others had 11 reached out to our judges in Houston, Judge Jones and Judge
12 Isgur, my initial reaction -- and, frankly, my continued
13 thought on that -- is they just don't have meaningful time,
14 because I don't think one day of cajoling is going to be 15 enough to get -- you know, you're a billion dollars apart on 16 UBS, right? The Debtor, I guess, thinks zero is the amount of 17 their claim, and UBS thinks it's a billion, and it's been 18 litigated for 11 years. And then I personally know, you know,
19 how Acis feels about its positions.

20 So, anyway, what I'm getting at is structure. I in some 21 ways think what we need here is sort of a master statesman-
22 type person who would spend meaningful time, not just a day or 23 two, but days or even weeks trying to reach a grand 24 compromise.

25 On the other hand, in my experience -- I've never done

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 122 of 134

122

1 that in a case as judge. But as a lawyer, I felt like that
2 kind of person can hijack a case, and we don't need that here.
3 We have wonderful professionals, a wonderful Board, a
4 wonderful CEO. We don't need that kind of help, I worry.

5 So, I guess where I'm evolving, you know, we've got the 6 two-sitting-judge option that would be free mediators that 7 could give you a day or two. Maybe. And then we have kind of 8 the master statesman who might be in there for weeks, trying 9 to help you reach a grand compromise.

10 Another option, I think, is one or two mediators who just 11 zero in, you know, on the UBS claim versus -- and the Acis
12 claim. And I have a couple of private mediators in mind that 13 have very good video capabilities to have a sophisticated
14 video mediation.

15 So, all of this rambling to say, Do you think we need to 16 just zero in on Acis and UBS and maybe have one or two people
17 to do formal video mediation with those two parties, or do we 18 need sort of more of a grand pooh-bah, grand compromise-type
19 person?

20 MR. SEERY: My view, Your Honor, is that we should 21 focus on the claims, but they're not just going to be two-
22 party, because we do have other active constituents. I think 23 Redeemer, with their party in interest status, is going to 24 want to be part of it.

25 I think if we can focus on those, we have the

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 123 of 134

123

1 professionals to help drive the grander bargain that I've
2 alluded to in some of those discussions we've been having. So
3 they haven't progressed as far as I would like, but they have 4 progressed. We do need the bottom line number for where
5 claims are going to come out. But also that will help frame a
6 little bit as to what parties expect in terms of distributions
7 on their claims.

8 And I think the reason that we had some impetus behind a
9 sitting judge -- frankly, I didn't know that sitting judges
10 couldn't be paid. I think that's -- there should be a 11 standard rate, because we shouldn't take people's time for 12 free in these cases, and I know judges work extremely hard and 13 if they're going to put in extra time, then they should maybe
14 be compensated, but that's a whole different issue.

15 I don't think we should get too hung up on the cost. We 16 are -- the costs of this case are extremely high, and we are,
17 with best intents, sometimes getting ourselves wrapped up in 18 things that should be, I think, more swiftly and economically
19 dealt with and dispatched.

20 So, if we can get a good mediator, and I think the reason
21 folks think about a judge is -- a sitting judge, it's not just 22 the vast experience that folks -- judges like yourself have,
23 Your Honor, and in particular with these issues, but also the 24 requirement that all the participants, notwithstanding the 25 professionals and -- that you see here, the requirement that

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 124 of 134

124

1 all the participants know that they're dealing with a sitting
2 judge, there's a certain decorum that's required. But that, I
3 think we get anyway. But there's also a -- there's less
4 willingness to go to the furthest reaches of your argument
5 when you have someone who's on the bench who sees those types
6 of positions taken frequently and can dispatch with them more
7 readily.

8 So, I think there are a number of individuals that I've 9 dealt with in the past who would have the ability, the 10 gravitas, for lack of a better term, to be able to help push
11 the parties in the right direction. And I think it's a matter
12 of finding somebody, as you said, with both the capabilities,
13 which we'll find, but also the capacity in terms of the time
14 to do it. And then, in the video age, maybe some facility in 15 being able to make that happen both rapidly and effectively on 16 screen.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.
19 And I'd just make a couple of comments.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. POMERANTZ: You know, as Mr. Seery said, we were 22 predisposed towards a sitting judge. And while we did share
23 the same concerns about the timing of Judge Jones and Isgur,
24 we understand you've probably been in communication with them,
25 and if that's not going to work, we appreciate it. We want

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 125 of 134

125

1 this mediation to be effective and we want someone to spend
2 the time with it. And if you didn't feel that they, you know,
3 could commit to that, we totally appreciate that.

4 We thought long and hard about the people that you
5 identified at the last hearing, former Judge Peck and Sylvia
6 Mayer. We've done our diligence. The Debtor would be willing 7 to mediate before Sylvia Mayer. We think that, based upon our 8 diligence, the people we've spoken to, that she, if she 9 otherwise had the time and the abil... the time to devote to 10 it, that being a former big-firm lawyer in permanent practice
11 now as a mediator, that the Debtor would find her acceptable.

12 THE COURT: All right. Does anyone else wish to 13 comment? Because I have a very positive view of Sylvia Mayer,
14 and certainly her video capabilities, I think, are far and 15 away better than a few other people I've chatted with.

16 MS. PATEL: Your Honor?

17 MR. CLEMENTS: Your Honor? Oh, I'm sorry.

18 MS. PATEL: Go ahead.

19 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, --

20 THE COURT: Not that I would ever, you know, put that 21 ahead of, you know, overall abilities, but it just is an added
22 plus, a huge plus right now during COVID.

23 Go ahead.

24 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, Matt Clemente on behalf of 25 the Committee. Just a couple observations, building a little

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 126 of 134

126

1 bit on what Mr. Seery said.

2 We had consensus among the Committee around Judge Isgur
3 and Judge Jones. I think the view, the consensus view -- and,
4 again, I use the word consensus and not unanimity because I
5 want Your Honor to understand that -- is that having a sitting
6 judge, ideally, given the personalities as you've expressed
7 and I think as Mr. Seery has expressed, provides the best
8 possibility for a successful mediation. It may not be that 9 overlord that spends three weeks, but, you know, it is a 10 strong personality that -- not that any of the names that have 11 been raised aren't tremendously to be respected, but that 12 would be respected by all of the parties simply by the fact
13 that they're a sitting judge.

14 With that said, Your Honor, and, again, the speed. Again,
15 I don't have unanimity from the Committee, but there is 16 consensus to see if Sitting Judge Green from the Southern 17 District of New York would have the time and the capability to 18 spend. And I know Your Honor has concerns about the time. I
19 think Judge Isgur and Judge Jones occupy a special place in 20 terms of how busy they are, but at least among the Committee
21 members, there's been discussion that that may be a suitable
22 approach in terms of identifying a mediator and accomplishing
23 the objectives of having a very strong mediation, mediator, on 24 a timely basis, that has the best possibility of success.

25 That being said, Your Honor, based on what Mr. Pomerantz

Case 19-34054-sgj11 Doc 864 Filed 07/17/20 Entered 07/17/20 10:53:51 Page 127 of 134

127

1 said, if Mr. Green is not acceptable or if Your Honor doesn't
2 wish for us to go in that direction, I do have consensus among
3 the Committee members to move forward with Ms. Mayer as 4 mediator.

5 So, a little -- maybe a little convoluted in my comments
6 there, Your Honor, but the main thrust is I think there is 7 consensus among the Committee to consider a sitting judge, and 8 Judge Green would be someone who would be satisfactory. And 9 if he's not acceptable, or I should say acceptable but not 10 able to do it, Ms. Mayer would be acceptable to the Committee.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me put this out
12 there. I talked on a no-names basis with Ms. Mayer last 13 Friday. And it was actually more in the nature of making 14 inquiries about how an organization she's connected with, the 15 AAA -- you've heard of the American Arbitration Association;
16 they, of course, do mediation -- what their experience and 17 capabilities were with many, many parties and video mediation.
18 And as you might guess, they have a lot of experience already 19 -- you know, a number well in excess of a hundred; I can't 20 remember -- of doing video mediations with many parties and 21 having the different constituencies in this caucus room and 22 that caucus room. And, very importantly, having lots of IT
23 staff to give instructions, to give help, to, you know, tackle
24 technology problems.

25 But in that discussion, I learned that there is a panel

1 that AAA has put together of 12 mediators that have bankruptcy
2 expertise. And, of course, Sylvia Mayer is one of those
3 people. But Retired Bankruptcy Judge Gropper -- is it Groper
4 or Gropper from the Southern District of New York? I always 5 forget which way he pronounces his name. Anyway, he is on 6 that. He is on that panel of 12.

7 Mr. Seery, you're grinning like you want to say something
8 about this.

9 MR. SEERY: No. Only on the Gropper/Groper, because 10 there's a professional that I know that is similarly named,
11 and I believe -- and I believe Judge Groper -- I may have it
12 wrong, but I think it's -- it's Judge Groper and Dan Gropper.
13 But that's the best I --

14 MR. NEIER: It's Dan Groper and Judge Gropper. I
15 actually had a mediation with the two of them when they argued 16 about the pronunciation of their name.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Well, Gropper. So we -- it's 18 Gropper. Okay.

19 A VOICE: Yes.

20 THE COURT: My point was, without -- I've not talked
21 to him at all. And by the way, I haven't personally reached
22 out to Jim Peck, but we'll stop that discussion about him.
23 But after getting off the call with Sylvia Mayer and a couple
24 of other people at the AAA Friday, I put together in my brain,
25 maybe we could have a Sylvia Mayer/Allan Gropper tag team, two

1 mediators. Okay? I don't know how that would affect the 2 cost, but that might be the way to go in such a complex case.
3 You know, maybe they could divvy up among themselves. One
4 would be the primary mediator on Acis, one would be the 5 primary mediator on UBS, but they would both work together.

6 If you all want to think on that, digest that a little,
7 and we, you know, decide definitely next week on the 21st, we
8 could do that. Or we could just all say, yeah, that's a good
9 game plan, and I can get on the phone after this. Or it
10 actually may be tomorrow, because I have a terrible hearing
11 that I've got to prepare for at 9:30 in the morning tomorrow.
12 It may be tomorrow.

13 But do people want to let that soak in a little bit, or 14 shall -- I mean, --

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.

16 THE COURT: -- frankly, I can order it either way. I
17 can order it. But I just really want to be conciliatory to 18 the parties who are owed the money and have to pay the money,
19 if you want to think on it some.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, it's Jeff Pomerantz.
21 Having my newly-minted CEO on the phone, Mr. Seery, I would 22 ask him, and if he says that it would be okay, then it would 23 be okay with me.

24 MR. SEERY: Be fine with me.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. SEERY: Yeah, I think the key is moving forward.
2 I know it's much harder with a Committee, and I respect, you
3 know, Matt Clemente's job there of having to get consensus.
4 But from our perspective, if we were to push it off, you know,
5 on the 21st, Your Honor, we -- we would request you to order
6 something, because I don't want this to delay.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, if I may, speaking for UBS,
9 it's Andrew Clubok. You'll be happy to know I think that 10 we're in agreement with Mr. Seery, and I guess, derivatively,
11 Mr. Pomerantz. We think the most important thing is to move
12 it along quickly, and we trust -- you know, we're familiar
13 with Judge -- or, with Mayer, and whether it's Groper or 14 Gropper, I lost track, but I'm sure he is also going to be 15 equally capable. We do kind of think that two is probably 16 necessary, given, you know, the sort of multi-layer
17 (inaudible).

18 But, really, our position has simply been we'll happily
19 mediate with any, you know, effective mediator as quickly as 20 possible, because we do think the sooner we do that, the 21 sooner we might have a chance to get to yes. So, I'm -- we're 22 prepared to just say yes to the idea.

23 THE COURT: All right. Does anyone else want to 24 comment?

25 MS. PATEL: Your Honor? And can you hear me? I'm

1       sorry. It's --

2               THE COURT: Yes.

3               MS. PATEL: Again, I'm still having WebEx problems.

4               THE COURT: Yes.

5               MS. PATEL: Your Honor, again, for the record, Rakhee
6 Patel.

7               Acis is fine with the proposal, Your Honor. We've been 8 amenable to virtually every proposal, and have been trying to 9 hopefully be helpful with respect to getting this moved to 10 mediation as quickly as possible. We equally think that we 11 should get to mediation as quickly as we can.

12              And, you know, the only -- the only -- and I appreciate
13 Your Honor's contemplativeness on this. As you know, at least 14 in connection with the Acis case, you know, we've been through 15 two unsuccessful mediations so far. So we're really hoping 16 that the third time will go much better than the prior two.

17              So, anyway, this is my very long way of saying we're fine
18 with the proposal and are happy to kind of sign off on it. We 19 don't need until July 21st to respond on that.

20              THE COURT: Okay. Anyone else?

21              (No response.)

22              THE COURT: All right. Well, very good. I'm going
23 to move ahead on this and will confirm to you, hopefully 24 before the 21st, through my courtroom deputy. And, again,
25 given the late hour, I think it's going to be tomorrow before

1 I pick up the phone and reach out to Sylvia Mayer and former
2 Judge Gropper.

3 But, again, I did, in speaking generically with Sylvia
4 Mayer, asking her, Have you ever done like a two-mediator
5 mega-mediation, and she said, Oh, sure. You know, that's --
6 she acted like it was quite common. It's not something that I
7 have seen very often, but I think we'll be in business with 8 this game plan.

9 Because, you know, I know everyone on this call knows
10 this, but maybe not everyone's client knows this: If we don't 11 -- if we don't have a successful mediation of both of these 12 claims, or at least one of these claims, it's going to be 13 years and years and years. I mean, I know it's already been 14 years for UBS, but it will -- it will be many, many more 15 years. And that's not what we're supposed to do in 16 bankruptcy. We're supposed to stop burdensome litigation and 17 solve problems. And I can't imagine your clients want to go
18 on with three or four more years of litigation. But that's 19 exactly what it will be, it's exactly what it will be, many 20 more years of litigation, if we don't have mediated
21 settlements.

22 So, all right.

23 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, if I may very quickly. I
24 just wanted to make sure the Court was aware of something. In 25 the context of mediation and as it relates to Acis's claim,

1 yesterday counsel for Mr. Dondero filed a joinder in the 2 Debtors' objection to Acis's claim. So, again, just thinking
3 about this in the context of mediation, I think, with that 4 joinder, they will be a necessary party. So, going back to 5 Mr. Seery's point, this is not just --

6 THE COURT: Oh, absolutely. Mr. Dondero is --

7 MS. PATEL: -- a two-party --

8 THE COURT: -- going to be a required party in 9 mediation. Absolutely. So, --

10 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, if there's nothing
12 further, we'll see you on the 21st. And, again, my courtroom
13 deputy may be reaching out before then if we've got things
14 nailed down on mediation.

15 (No response)

16 THE COURT: All right. That may be it.

17 All right. Mr. Pomerantz, I see a 20-minute time
18 estimate on our calendar. I'm not sure where that came from,
19 but that --

20 MR. POMERANTZ: I think that's quite aggressive.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Good afternoon again, Your Honor.
23 Jeff Pomerantz, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones. First, I want
24 to thank Your Honor for scheduling the hearing on shortened
25 time. I would also like to introduce once again the three

1 members of the independent board who have been appointed
2 pursuant to the settlement, Your Honor, that Your Honor
3 approved on January 9th. That's James Seery, John Dubel, and 4 Russell Nelms.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Hello.

6 MR. POMERANTZ: I thought it might be helpful, Your 7 Honor, to provide Your Honor with a brief background of each
8 board member, how they have been approaching their duties as 9 independent directors, and what the focus has been the first 10 two months of the case. And then I will go into the background
11 of this present motion.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. POMERANTZ: James Seery will be the debtor's
14 witness at today's hearing, and he's a 30-year restructuring
15 lawyer with extensive experience with high-yield and distressed
16 investing both as a principal and manager which is precisely
17 the business in which the debtors operate. He is an attorney 18 licensed to practice in New York who has passed and held the 19 Series 7, 63, 79, SIE and Series 24 FINRA principal
20 designations.

21 From April 2012 to 2017, he was the president and 22 senior investing manager of RiverBirch Capital. And RiverBirch
23 is an SEC-registered investment advisor managing a $1.3 billion
24 global long short fund that focused on high yield loans, bonds,
25 CLOs, and distressed investments. Prior to that, Mr. Seery

1 spent ten years as a senior high yield manager at Lehman
2 Brothers, and he was the global head of Lehman Brothers fixed-
3 income loan business.

4 Accordingly, Mr. Seery brings to his role as an 5 independent director a unique combination of a legal 6 background, restructuring experience, and a deep knowledge of 7 the highly regulated business in which the debtor operates.

8 Mr. Dubel brings 35 years' practice in the 9 restructuring area. His experience includes turnaround
10 management, crisis management, operational restructurings, and 11 corporate acquisitions and divestitures. He's worked at both 12 sides of the table, both on the company side and other side.
13 And he brings a unique perspective to each situation, and he 14 spent the last ten years being an independent director for a
15 wide range of distressed companies including Purdue Pharma
16 which obviously is the newest in current Chapter 11, WMC
17 Mortgage, Wartaco (phonetic), FXI, and ResCap.

18 And as an independent board member, he's played a 19 principle role in overseeing management, negotiating with 20 creditors, supervising and investigating resolution, either
21 consensually or through litigation of insider and affiliate
22 claims, and also spearheading reorganization efforts.

23 I'm sure Your Honor is familiar with Russell Nelms
24 but briefly he was a distinguished bankruptcy litigator with 25 Carrington Coleman for 20 years which followed a stint of six

10

1 years as a United States Army judge advocate, and also he sat
2 with the bankruptcy court here in Fort Worth from 2004 to 2018.

3 Your Honor, these individuals bring a complementary
4 skill set to the independent board that have made them uniquely
5 qualified to manage the debtor's restructuring efforts in this
6 case, that bring a combination of sophisticated asset
7 management experience, financial restructuring, a legal 8 insolvency background, and judicial experience. They've been 9 involved in many cases on all sides of the aisle, whether it's 10 been alleged wrongdoing or questionable conduct with people
11 they've ever had to supervise as a board member, advise as a 12 restructuring lawyer, work with as a financial advisor, or 13 administer their cases as a judge.

14 Mr. Seery and Dubel were selected by the Committee
15 not only because of their relevant expertise but because of 16 their commitment to independence and ability to stand up to 17 strong personalities that exist on all sides of this case. Mr.
18 Nelms, while originally identified by the debtor, was scheduled
19 by the Committee, and was ultimately chosen to be the third 20 board member by Mr. Seery and Dubel from a group of highly-21 qualified candidates.

22 Your Honor, I provide this background to stress that 23 the independent board consists of individuals whose background
24 and experience speak to their independence, experience, and 25 strength, and who take their job seriously to do what they

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

11

1 believe is right for this debtor, and they're not bring
2 influenced by any party in this case, be that the debtor, Jim
3 Dondero, members of the management committee, members of the 4 debtor's management, or the creditors' committee. The 5 reputations of each of these gentlemen at are stake in a case
6 like this, and they take their attendance very seriously.

7           Upon taking over on January 9th, 2020, the board
8 quickly made a few observations about the current circumstances
9 that have guided their actions today. First, the board
10 understood that the debtor was where it was in part due to many 11 years of intense litigation arising out of sometimes aggressive
12 management decisions or failure to settle certain employee
13 disputes and that the litigation led to cost and diversion of 14 time and energy for what the debtor did best which was manage
15 assets.

16           The board concluded that for case to succeed, the 17 board would have to chance the culture from one of litigation
18 to reconciliation and consensus building. It doesn't mean that 19 the debtor will back down from defending itself from claims
20 that it doesn't believe are legitimate but rather the 21 litigation that the company under their watch would be involved
22 in would need to be carefully vetted by the independent board,
23 outside advisors, and the results of which would guide the 24 board's conduct.

25           The board's focus has and continues to be operating

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

1 the debtor's business in accordance with its obligations of 2 their debtor in possession in conformance with its statutory,
3 contractual, and fiduciary obligations as an investment
4 advisor. By scrupulously meeting its obligations as an 5 investment advisor, the debtor will continue to enhance the 6 asset management business and avoid the litigation that 7 contributed to this case.

8           Second, the board understood the relationship between 9 the debtor's largest creditors and senior management had 10 materially deteriorated and that there was severe lack of trust
11 that creditors had with respect to management. The board
12 initially determined, has determined to continue retaining the 13 services of senior management because it believes that their 14 historical background and deep knowledge of the debtor's assets
15 provide material value to the estate. However, the board's 16 decisions thus far have and will continue to be based upon 17 their independent review of the facts and circumstances and 18 based upon consultation with outside advisors as appropriate.

19           Third, the board believe that a lengthy stay in 20 Chapter 11 only would serve to erode asset value while at the 21 same time leading to extensive restructuring costs. The Court
22 and the board developed a timeline that will hopefully lead to 23 a confirmed plan at the end of the year.

24           Against this backdrop, the board is focused on the 25 following things the first two months of the case. Initially,

13

1 the board met with all department heads and other members of 2 senior management including Mr. Dondero and let them know that
3 the board was now in charge and that all business decisions
4 needed to be run by the board subject to the board delegating
5 authority as it deemed appropriate.

6           The board has had several calls with the committee
7 and its professionals to discuss among other things the board's
8 initial determination as to staffing levels and employee
9 compensation, time-sensitive transactions that needed the 10 committee's input under the Court's approved operating 11 protocols, and the proposed timeline for achieving 12 restructuring. There is an in-person meeting scheduled next 13 week in New York City between all the committee members and 14 their professionals and the debtor and their professionals.

15           Members of the board have also reached out to 16 individual committee members and have had or will have meetings
17 with them to understand their specific concerns with the debtor
18 and to importantly have a dialogue about the claims they have 19 against the debtor, as resolving the claims against the debtor
20 is a key part of achieving a consensual restructuring in this
21 case.

22           The debtor's asset basis is also extremely complex,
23 and the board has worked hard to get a grasp on how best to 24 maximize their value. The board has analyzed the debtor's
25 liquidity needs and worked with the debtor's chief

14

1 restructuring officer to develop a 13-week cash flow and
2 otherwise address how to enhance liquidity. The board has also
3 conducted a thorough review of the debtor's employee basis,
4 including performance reviews and address ongoing staffing and
5 compensation in a manner that the board believes will sustain
6 the debtor's business operations and maximize value.

7           Related to the motion before the Court, the board has 8 evaluated the status of certain funds which were in the process
9 of being wound down at the commencement of the case and has 10 supervised their wind-down in a manner consistent with the 11 debtors' fiduciary, statutory, contractual liabilities. The 12 board has also commissioned outside counsel to provide an 13 independent analysis of the significant litigation claims that 14 are facing the debtor. And as I mentioned, the board
15 anticipates engaging with these creditors to seek a resolution.

16           The board is acutely aware that resolving 17 consensually claims of creditors and claims the estate has 18 against third parties is the only way to restructure this 19 debtor efficiently and economically. I'll now turn Your Honor
20 to the background with respect to the motion, explain the 21 relief requested, and address the two objections that are 22 before the Court.

23           Your Honor will hear testimony from Mr. Seery that 24 the debtor is the asset manager of two hedge funds, Dynamic and 25 ARF, that are in liquidation because of redemption requests

15

1 from large non-affiliated investors that render the funds
2 economically not viable. The term of the third fund, which is 3 a private equity fund, Restoration Capital expired, and the 4 governing board comprised of large institutional pension funds
5 has refused to grant further extensions.

6 Mr. Seery will testify that while these wind-downs
7 were already in process and fully disclosed to the Court prior
8 to the installation of the independent board, the board
9 evaluated the decision to wind down the funds independently of 10 the debtor's decision and decided that the prudent exercise of 11 the debtor's business judgment was to continue with the wind-
12 down. Neither the committee nor Acis challenge the board's 13 selection to continue with the wind-down.

14 You will hear testimony from Mr. Seery that a 15 priority of the independent board was to make sure that the 16 debtor operated in accordance with applicable law to ensure 17 that the debtor fills its obligations to investors and doesn't 18 act or fail to act in a manner which could expose the debtor to 19 liability. After all, as I mentioned, Your Honor, a material
20 reason why the debtor is before the Court is because of 21 litigation claims that have plagued it over the last several 22 years.

23 Mr. Seery will testify that in evaluating the 24 debtor's duties and obligations as an asset manager of these 25 three funds, the board consulted with bankruptcy counsel with 16

1 respect to the applicability of the operated protocols and
2 domestic and Cayman counsel specializing in advising funds with 3 respect to their obligations under the transactional documents,
4 the Advisors Act, and general fiduciary duty obligations.

5 Tim Silva, a partner of WilmerHale, the debtor's
6 outside firm that provides fund advice, is present in the 7 courtroom and will be available to answer any questions the 8 Court or the parties have. Dennis Olarou, a partner with Carey
9 Olsen, is on the phone. He is the debtor's Cayman counsel and 10 also available.

11 Importantly, Mr. Seery will testify that the 12 independent board made the decisions that led to the filing of 13 this motion based upon their own expertise and the advise of 14 outside counsel and did not rely on the advice of the debtor's
15 employees or any of the related parties.

16 He will further testify that based upon the input of 17 outside counsel, the independent board concluded, one, that the 18 operating documents governing the funds did not permit the 19 debtor to unilaterally withhold distributions from some 20 investors and not others; that, two, the debtor risked
21 breaching its fiduciary duty to investors under principles of 22 common law if it withheld distributions on its own; and that,
23 three, the debtor risked liability under the Advisors Act if it
24 essentially attempted to use its position as an investment
25 manager to gain leverage against investors in connection with

17

1 an unrelated matter, to wit, potential claims that the estate
2 may have.

3           The motion describes in detail the nature and extent
4 of the debtor's obligations, and I think the substance of that
5 is not challenged by either the Committee or Acis. I didn't 6 read their objections to challenge that the debtor has these 7 obligations and seeks to fulfill them.

8           Based upon the foregoing and to make sure that the 9 debtor didn't expose itself to liability, Mr. Seery will 10 testify that the board decided that it was obligated to 11 exercise its authority as asset manager to distribute the funds
12 to all investors. After consultation with the bankruptcy
13 counsel, Mr. Seery will testify that the independent board
14 decided to provide the Committee with notice prior to making
15 such distributions as were required by the operating protocols
16 approved as part of the settlement.

17           The Committee objected to the distributions which led 18 to the filing of this motion. The objections relate to 19 distributions to be made as follows. Mr. Seery will testify
20 that Dynamic proposes to distribute $35 million of investor
21 funds that are held by Dynamic of which CLO Holdco stands to 22 receive $872,000 and Mr. Okada stands to receive $4,176,000.

23           With respect to ARF, Mr. Seery will testify that they 24 propose to distribute $22 million of investor funds held by 25 ARF. HoldCo stands to receive $1.5 million. And with respect

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

1 to Restoration Capital Partners, it proposes to distribute
2 $123,250,000 of which 2.1 million will be received by ACM
3 Services and, importantly, the debtor will receive 18 and a
4 half million dollars, the balance of approximately 121 million
5 would be distributed to non -- or 103 million would be 6 distributed to non-related parties, including CalPERS which 7 filed the statement with the Court.

8           The Committee and Acis argue that the Court should 9 prohibit the debtor from making distributions to related
10 parties, notwithstanding the debtor has contractual, fiduciary,
11 statutory obligations to do so as an asset manager. It is 12 important for the Court to understand that the money to be paid
13 to these related parties is not the debtor's money, it's not 14 property of the estate. It's actually funds that are the 15 investors' funds that were invested in these various funds.

16           Essentially, the Committee argues and Acis argues
17 that because the debtor may assert claims against some of all
18 of these related parties at some time in the future, the Court
19 should prohibit the debtor from authorizing the distribution of 20 non-debtor estate funds. Essentially as we said in our papers,
21 the objectors are asking this Court to issue a pre-judgment
22 writ of attachment adjoining these distributions without the 23 filing of any complaint which would assert causes of action,
24 without the need to satisfy applicable standards for a pre-
25 judgment writ either under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 64

19

1 estate law, and without appropriate notice to the parties and
2 an opportunity to object.

3           The objectors want to use the debtor's position as an
4 asset manager to stop distribution of funds in which the debtor
5 has no interest to gain a potential litigation advantage
6 against these related parties. The debtor just submits that is 7 not appropriate. The Committee and Acis spent a lot of time in 8 their papers talking about the allegations and in some estate
9 case findings against the debtor's prior management relating to 10 the operation of the debtor's business, some of which have 11 matured into claims against the estate.

12           However, the fact that the debtor's actions taken by 13 prior management led to claims against the debtor is not
14 legally relevant as to whether the debtor should be permitted
15 to make these distributions of non-estate funds. Allegations
16 of prior wrongdoing would not be sufficient in the context of a 17 pre-judgment attachment, and it should not form the basis for 18 essentially the injunctive relief the Committee and Acis urge
19 to the Court.

20           The Committee also argues that because the 21 Committee's currently investigating claims against the released
22 parties and other insiders that the distribution should be held 23 up essentially indefinitely until the Committee completes its 24 investigation. Whether or not the estate has claims against 25 the related parties and insiders is unknown at this point

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

1 except for the notes which I will address in a moment.

2           Also, whether or not there are claims and how the 3 related parties acquired their investment in the funds is also 4 unknown at this time. Since January 9th, the Committee has had 5 standing to investigate and prosecute these claims and the 6 debtor is cooperating with the Committee in its investigation.
7 If legitimate claims exist, they should most certainly be 8 prosecuted, and the independent board will cooperate with the 9 Committee in its efforts.

10           However, at this point other than with respect to the 11 notes, there is no admissible evidence that any claims exist,
12 and no claims have been clearly articulated other than some 13 vague allegations of fraudulent conveyance, breach of fiduciary 14 duty, the garden variety of claims you would expect to be 15 asserted in a case like this. Again, no bankruptcy court, no
16 non-bankruptcy court would be authorized to enjoin payments on 17 the basis of these vague and unasserted claims, and the Court
18 shouldn't accept the invitation to do so wither.

19           The Committee also points to certain demand notes
20 executed by Jim Dondero, Mark Okada, and ACM Services in favor
21 of the debtor as a basis for withholding the distributions.
22 The debtor has made a demand on Mr. Okada to pay back the note, 23 and he has asserted that he may have potential offsets and the 24 nature of potential service obligations and expense
25 reimbursements allegedly owed to. At some point in time, we

21

1 suspect those issues will be resolved either consensually or 2 there will be litigation to recover the demand.

3           ACM Services which is owned 75 percent by Mr. Dondero
4 and 25 percent by Mr. Okada, executed several notes in favor of 5 the debtor of which 850,000 are demand notes. The total amount
6 is approximately seven and a half million. The remaining notes
7 are current and have been paid down over the years.

8           The debtor has not made demand on ACM Services for 9 payment of the notes, nor have they made demand on Mr. Dondero
10 for payment of the notes he issued in favor of the debtor. Mr.
11 Seery will testify that the reason for that is that, as I
12 indicated before, the board recognizes that in order for there 13 to be a consensual restructuring in this case, it's going to 14 involve not only resolution with the creditors and their claims 15 but also resolution with Mr. Dondero or potential claims the 16 estate has.

17           The independent board at this early stage in the case
18 does not believe that commencement of an adversary proceeding
19 against Mr. Dondero at this time is in their best interest. If 20 this case turns into a litigation case, and as Your Honor
21 experienced previously, then such litigation will be commenced.
22 However, until the board has the opportunity to try to forge a
23 consensual resolution, aggressive action is premature. The 24 last thing, Your Honor, CLO Holdco is not a party to any demand
25 notes.

22

1 THE COURT: Let me stop you.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure.

3 THE COURT: You mentioned dollars on the notes. The 4 note receivable from Okada I think is 1.3 million.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: With credentials, yes.

6 THE COURT: And then you mentioned roughly seven and 7 a half million of notes receivable from HCM Services.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Of which 950 are demand notes. The 9 rest are currently before me in accordance with the terms.

10 THE COURT: Okay. You didn't mention a dollar amount
11 on the note receivable from Dondero. My notes show 9.3
12 million.

13 MR. POMERANTZ: Yeah, and so I think that's around
14 that --

15 THE COURT: Is that a demand note or notes?

16 MR. POMERANTZ: That is a demand note and then the 17 related party notes, yes --

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: -- Your Honor. And, again, we're now
20 the board knows, fully aware. The board could have commenced a 21 lawsuit. Honestly, Your Honor, the Committee could have 22 commenced a lawsuit in the last two months. I suspect the 23 Committee also would like to see a consensual restructuring.

24 And I think parties are taking the view of, again,
25 this can be a litigation case which would be like a lot of

23

1 money for all the professionals, not really do all that well
2 for the creditors. Or the parties could cooperatively work
3 towards a restructuring to see based upon the leverage, based 4 upon the claims everyone has that it makes more sense. And the 5 board's determination, again, made on its own coming into this
6 case in the last two months is that proceeding aggressively now
7 just does not make sense.

8           Even though it has not commenced any litigation
9 against the related parties nor presented any evidence of any 10 claims against the related parties, the Committee asks this
11 Court to use its equitable powers under Section 105 to enjoin
12 the distribution again of non-estate funds to the related
13 parties. Your Honor, bankruptcy court -- bankruptcy
14 practitioners in certain cases love to use 105, assert 105. My 15 experience has been when you assert 105 and that's all you
16 assert 105, it really means you don't have much authority and I
17 think that's the case here.

18           The courts have held that 105 is not -- grant the 19 court authority to be a roving commission to do equity because 20 it has to be tethered to something in the Bankruptcy Code.
21 Here the proper way for the Committee to obtain the relief they 22 sought was to file a complaint and seek pre-judgment remedy,
23 either an attachment under Rule 64 or an attachment under 24 applicable provisions of Texas law or other applicable law, or 25 an injunction under FRCP 65.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

1           The debtor would not stand in the way if the
2 Committee decided to do that. That's what the debtor bargained
3 for. They gave the Committee the authority to do that. The 4 Committee has not yet done that. And the Court should just not
5 allow the debtor -- the Committee to use the debtor's position
6 as fiduciary to its investors as leverage. That's what's 7 really happening. The only reason we're here is because the 8 debtor is the asset manager of these other funds, and the 9 Committee and Acis want the debtor to use that leverage and 10 somehow to gain an advantage.

11           Your Honor, we would submit that the fiduciary duty
12 of the estate is to act in accordance with its obligations, and 13 that's the primary fiduciary duty and that the creditors are 14 best served if the company complies with its obligations and 15 doesn't expose the estate to any liability.

16           Lastly, Your Honor, I want to address the Committee
17 and Acis's allegations regarding the circumstances surrounding 18 the sale of the MGM shares, the proceeds of which the debtors
19 intend to use to distribute as part of the RCP fund. Whether 20 or not Mr. Dondero's authorized to make that trade, it's really 21 irrelevant to the issues before the Court. The independent 22 board first learned about the trade only a few weeks ago, and 23 the independent board -- and, again, this happened back in 24 November, two months before the independent board took over.
25 They promptly investigated the circumstances around the trade,

25

1 engaged counsel to advise whether it was binding and,
2 importantly, evaluated whether the trade was a sound exercise
3 in the debtor's business judgment at that time.

4           The board concluded that the trade was binding and 5 that it in fact was a good trade as of November 2019 and 6 disclosed that information to the Committee and engaged the 7 Committee in a dialogue to discuss the options that the debtor
8 had with respect to that trade. The Committee, while I
9 understand was not unanimous, ultimately agreed with the 10 independent board that it was in the debtor's best interest to 11 consummate that trade. While we understand that the Committee
12 and Acis may want to investigate the circumstances surrounding 13 that trade to determine whether the estate has any colorable
14 claims that could be asserted, that doesn't provide a basis for 15 enjoying the distribution of the funds.

16           Moreover, the allegation in Acis papers that Mr.
17 Dondero used his position on the board of MGM to facilitate the 18 trade so that ACM Services could receive $2.1 million of 123
19 and $250,000 sale, it just lacks and factual support. And, in 20 fact, Mr. Dondero has steadfastly encouraged the investment
21 board not to sell the MGM shares because he believes they will 22 continue to appreciate and the estate and its creditors would 23 be benefitted thereby.

24           The reason that the RCP shares were sold is as I
25 mentioned before, the RCP, the term of that private equity fund

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

1 expired. No more extensions were given, and the debtor as a
2 fiduciary and as an asset manager needed to liquidate the
3 assets in that estate which included the shares. But, again,
4 if there are claims surrounding how that happened, we 5 understand there's concern that the creditors have about the 6 circumstances, they can investigate them and the independent
7 board will surely cooperate with such investigation.

8           In conclusion, Your Honor, this independent board was 9 installed because of its independence and sophistication in 10 managing a business as complex as the debtor's. As you will 11 hear in the testimony, the independent board has been 12 thoughtful and thorough in its approach to the issues raised by 13 this motion and is trying to manage the debtor in a responsible 14 way to maximize value and prevent the estate from incurring any 15 liability. The independent board understands and shares the 16 Committee's and Acis's decision to hold other parties
17 accountable for any liability they have against the debtor
18 arising out of conduct that occurred pre- or post-bankruptcy.
19 But trying to use the debtor's role as an independent asset
20 manager and fiduciary duty to investors is inappropriate and 21 create risks for the estate.

22           For these reasons, Your Honor, the debtor
23 respectfully requests that the Court approve the motion and 24 overrule the objections.

25           THE COURT: All right, thank you. Other opening

27

1 statements, Mr. Clemente?

2 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor. You actually touched
3 on a question that I had. I assume I have more fulsome
4 comments that I had anticipated making after testimony, but so
5 I would reserve the opportunity to do that. It was quite a
6 lengthy opening there, so I didn't know whether there was going 7 to be the opportunity for that after testimony, but --

8 THE COURT: Certainly.

9 MR. CLEMENTE: -- I certainly want to reserve that.
10 Thank you, Your Honor.

11 So I do have some opening remarks prepared, but I'm 12 going to react a little bit to what I just heard. I and the 13 Committee do not dispute the credentials of the board. We 14 obviously were involved in choosing them. I heard a lot about 15 the duty to, quote/unquote, investors. I don't think I heard a
16 word about the duty to the creditors and to the estate. And I
17 think it's important when thinking about the investors that Mr.
18 Pomerantz keeps referring to, the Committee is not talking
19 about the legitimate third party investors, the CalPERS. The 20 Committee is talking about the very people that were in charge
21 of this debtor while breaches of fiduciary duty were rampant
22 and their related entities that resulted in the filing of this 23 bankruptcy case.

24 And I find it a little bit rich, Your Honor, that 25 their debtor is using the duty to investors to include third

1 parties to try and come in here and passionately argue that
2 distribution should be made at this time to these insider
3 parties without a word at all about why it may actually be in 4 the creditors' best interest or this estate's best interest to 5 not make those distributions at this time. So those were a
6 couple of comments that struck me as I was listening to what 7 Mr. Pomerantz said.

8 But let me be clear, Your Honor, as Your Honor is 9 aware the debtor is in bankruptcy because of the documented and 10 egregious breaches of fiduciary duties and contractual
11 obligations to its creditors and its propensity for fraudulent
12 and litigious conduct as documented. Mr. Dondero and until 13 recently Mr. Okada dominated all aspects of the debtor and 14 controlled all of its decision-making, including the decision-
15 making that led various tribunals, including this Court, to 16 conclude that the debtor had breached its fiduciary duty,
17 engaged in fraudulent conduct, and employed persons who are not 18 credible and not truthful.

19 Against this backdrop, Your Honor, the debtor wants
20 to make distributions to investors, again, the investors we're 21 talking about here are Mr. Okada, and entities owned and/or 22 controlled by Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada without regard 23 apparently because I didn't hear anything about that to the 24 interest of creditors under the rubric of a fiduciary duty that 25 is supposedly owed to those insider parties, the same insider

29

1 parties, Your Honor, who were found to have breached the duties
2 to the creditors of this estate or to the investors which then
3 resulted in them becoming creditors of this estate and led to 4 the bankruptcy.

5           Your Honor, I think the irony is fairly thick, and I
6 don't think the Court should allow the distributions at this
7 time. These insider parties, and I'm glad Mr. Pomerantz
8 mentioned it to you because their papers did not mention the 9 notes that were owed, they owe the debtor millions of dollars.
10 The numbers that Your Honor read are just the direct notes
11 among those parties. They do not include the notes that are 12 owed by, for example, affiliated entities of Mr. Dondero. So
13 those numbers are even larger than what Mr. Pomerantz suggested
14 to Your Honor.

15           Second, as the debtors do finally disclose in their 16 papers, the insider parties receive certain of the insider
17 interests from the debtor pursuant to transactions that were 18 only recently disclosed to the Committee and not have been 19 examined by the Committee. So in many of the circumstances, 20 the very interests that are giving rise to the basis for these 21 distributions once belonged to the debtor.

22           Third, obviously, the insider parties are the focus
23 of the Committee's ongoing investigation of the estate causes
24 of action, and that's entirely appropriate given the long
25 history and the findings made by this Court and others

30

1 regarding the behavior of this debtor prior to the bankruptcy.

2           Your Honor, instead of allowing the distributions to
3 be made, the Court should direct that the distributions that 4 the debtor seeks to make to the insider parties to be placed
5 into a segregated interest-bearing account pending the 6 resolution of potential claims against the insider parties
7 including the collection of notes owed by the insider parties
8 and the investigation into the validity of the insider
9 interests.

10           If the insider parties have an issue with this,
11 obviously, they can come before Your Honor, perhaps they'll 12 come before Your Honor today, and explain to you why what is 13 being proposed is unfair to them or why despite the 14 circumstances surrounding this case, the rampant breaches of 15 fiduciary duty, the questionable transactions, and the 16 existence of the notes they owe the debtor they should receive
17 those distributions now. And we can do that after a fulsome
18 discovery of those parties, a fulsome record, full opportunity
19 to brief.

20           I believe, the Committee believes this is a very 21 sensible proposal, and it would seem to serve all interests.
22 The interests of the estate would be protected. Let's talk
23 about those. Obviously, we're more likely to recover on the 24 notes and any potential claims, including claims that the 25 insider interests were inappropriately obtained.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

31

1 Mr. Pomerantz referred to the word "leverage."
2 Again, it's the estate, the estate should be thinking about how
3 it can actually collect on its claims and notes. So the word
4 "leverage" I don't think is appropriate here. It just seems
5 sensible. The interest of the insider parties would also be 6 protected. The money will be placed in a segregated account,
7 and the status quo would be preserved. And legitimate third
8 party investors, we are all fully in support of the legitimate
9 third party investors receiving their distributions. We've 10 never had an issue with that, Your Honor.

11 Mr. Pomerantz referred to the authority, Section 105.
12 I do believe the Court has ample authority under Section 105 of 13 the Bankruptcy Code to order the relief requested by the 14 Committee. Obviously, Section 105 is broad and, as we'll 15 discuss further later, it's been interpreted by this Court and 16 other courts to apply very broadly and in circumstances similar 17 to this.

18 Additionally, Your Honor, although I do not believe
19 105 needs to be tethered, I believe is the word that was used,
20 to other sections of the Code. I do believe that other
21 sections of the Code are implicated as the relief the Committee
22 requests impacts property of the estate which includes the 23 notes and potential claims against the insider parties as well
24 as the rights and obligations of the debtor under the various 25 contracts that Mr. Pomerantz referred to.

1           So, we have 105. If we need to tether it to
2 something, we can tether it to 541 and we can tether it to 363.
3 What we're asking the Court to do impacts property of the 4 estate, impacts the rights and obligations of the debtor.

5           Finally, Your Honor, there was a long discussion or 6 somewhat of a discussion about the fact that the Committee has 7 not sought a preliminary injunction or has not filed claims
8 against the insider parties. First, again, I believe Section
9 105 gives the Court the authority that it needs to provide the 10 relief. Second, the Court has the flexibility should it choose
11 to construe or find it necessary to construe our objection as a 12 request for a preliminary injunction and the request satisfies
13 that standard.

14           Third, Your Honor, this has been an expedited process
15 initiated by the debtor. If this Court believes that other or 16 further proceedings or processes are necessary or appropriate,
17 the Court should allow the parties the time for that. We 18 agreed to an expedited motion practice under the protocols.
19 That's a fact. The protocols cover a variety of circumstances 20 designed with the exigencies of the debtor's business in mind,
21 not designed with trying to speed distributions to Dondero,
22 Okada, and the insider parties. There simply is no exigencies
23 surrounding that, and the Committee should not be prejudiced if 24 this Court believes a further or other procedural vehicle is 25 necessary.

1           And a moment, Your Honor, on the investigation, as 2 Your Honor is aware the insider parties have dominated the 3 debtor for years. Only recently January 9th the Committee has 4 gotten the ability to investigate. And to date, we've been 5 doing that. I do dispute what Mr. Pomerantz said about the 6 debtor's cooperation. I believe that they've used words to 7 that effect but we've not gotten the documents that we need.
8 This is a complicated enterprise as Your Honor is aware. It's 9 unrealistic to think that we would be in a position to bring 10 claims against insider parties at this particular time in the 11 case. And we cannot be prejudiced by saying we should have 12 completed our investigation and had brought claims every time
13 the debtor thinks it should make a distribution to Mr. Dondero
14 or one of its related entities.

15           And so, Your Honor, to sum up, we think that the most 16 logical solution here and frankly the one that I assume the 17 debtor would have agreed with me on would be to come to this 18 Court, allow the distributions to be made to all the third
19 party investors, to withhold the distributions to the related 20 parties while the investigation occurs, while the notes are 21 settled, and while the Committee determines and the Court may 22 perhaps ultimately determine whether the interest that gave 23 rise to those distributions were in fact appropriately with 24 those parties.

25           Instead, we're here talking about duties owed to,

34

1 quote/unquote, the investors without considering what it is
2 that's owed to these creditors and to this estate. And with 3 that, Your Honor, we would ask that the motion be denied or 4 however you'd look at it but that the relief we noticed in our
5 paper be ordered by Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Let me follow up and make sure I
7 understand a couple of things. You've said a couple of times
8 that it's just the distributions that would go to related 9 investors, Mark Okada, CLO Holdco, HCM Services. And I got the 10 impression from your pleadings as well as your oral statements
11 that the Committee is not challenging in any way the decision
12 to wind down these three funds, if you will. You know, my 13 reading of the pleadings was November 2019, you know, less than 14 a month after the bankruptcy was filed or about a month after 15 the bankruptcy was filed, you know, there were significant 16 redemptions. In the face of significant redemptions, the 17 debtor decided it was appropriate to wind these down.

18 Is that going to be the subject of evidence and 19 testimony today? Is the Committee at all concerned about how 20 that all played out, whether it was legitimate unaffiliated
21 investors seeking redemption or if it was by chance insider
22 investors?

23 MR. CLEMENTE: No, Your Honor. The Committee is not 24 challenging the wind-down as I believe you're referring to. We 25 are not doing that, Your Honor.

35

1 THE COURT: Okay. And this may be one instance where
2 it's kind of hard for me to separate what happened in the 3 related case of Acis versus this where we had all of a sudden
4 we don't want Acis to, you know, manage these in that case CLOs
5 anymore until redemptions were happening.

6 MR. CLEMENTE: I understand, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: And the business judgment of that --
8 well, it's complicated, right.

9 MR. CLEMENTE: I completely understand.

10 THE COURT: It was, in the end of the day, depriving
11 Acis debtor of management fees. Same thing is happening here,
12 right? Highland is being deprived of management fees by the 13 wind-down of these three funds, but you're not challenging the 14 business judgment of the --

15 MR. CLEMENTE: That is correct, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: -- whole process of the redemptions
17 period?

18 MR. CLEMENTE: That is correct, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. CLEMENTE: There is a pot of funds sitting in 21 those funds, and there is a pot of funds sitting in RCP --

22 THE COURT: It was a legitimate non-affiliated 23 entity's --

24 MR. CLEMENTE: We're not challenging it, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

36

1 MR. CLEMENTE: What we are challenging obviously is
2 now the distribution of those funds to the related entities.
3 That's where we take issue with it at this particular moment in 4 time.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 All right. Who else wishes to make an opening
7 statement? I know Acis had a joinder or a slightly different
8 objection, I think.

9 MS. PATEL: Yes, Your Honor. Good afternoon.
10 Again, Rakhee Patel on behalf of Acis. And I'll address Your 11 Honor's question first. Acis has concerns about the wind-down
12 of these funds. I'll just clear with respect to it. And Your 13 Honor referenced, you know, perhaps we need to separate what 14 happened in the Acis case and whether that's happening here or 15 not.

16 Your Honor, I'm not sure from Acis's perspective that 17 we don't object to the wind-down of these funds. We just 18 frankly don't have enough information to kind of take a 19 position with respect to that whether these funds should be 20 wound down. But the fact of the matter is is in the lead-in 21 into this motion -- and this is sort of the source and subject
22 of Acis's additional objection and not just plain vanilla
23 joinder and with the Committee -- is is that the transactions
24 happened. The sale of the stock has happened. So whether it's 25 in connection with the wind-down of the funds or whether it's

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

1 just a sale, it's happened now.

2           So I'm not sure that we can unring that bell, but
3 Acis's whole point and as we sort of set out in our joinder and 4 our separate comment or objection was, Your Honor, the light of 5 day needs to be cast on this transaction as a whole and we need
6 to be talking about it that the transaction needs to be 7 discussed here in open court. And, frankly, the entire 8 creditor body needs to have and the Court needs to have 9 transparency with respect to that.

10           So to that point, Your Honor, the debtor filed the 11 motion to approve the distributions of the proceeds from the 12 sale in accordance with the procedures approved as part of the 13 broader settlement motion that Your Honor heard in January.
14 Now the debtor incredibly takes the position that this Court
15 and the creditors are effectively powerless to stop these 16 distributions. And here's the problems with that position.

17           First, from a technical legal perspective, the debtor
18 ignores the language of Section 363. Frankly, it's easy to 19 have a strong initial knee-jerk reaction that Section 363
20 doesn't apply here because there's no sale of property to the 21 estate. The MGM stock was held down in a different entity.
22 Your Honor, frankly, I did it myself. But when you analyze the 23 language of Section 363, it also prescribes the use of property
24 of the estate outside of the ordinary course of business. And 25 here, the use of property of the estate is the debtor's

38

1 valuable management rights of the various entities, so Dynamic,
2 AROF or AROF or NRCP.

3 And let's just assume for argument's sake that the 4 debtor's statement is correct and enforceable and there's no
5 problem with it that the funds are in liquidation. No one can 6 rationally argue that that liquidation of a fund or a manager's
7 actions in liquidating said fund are ordinary course. So there
8 is sort of the Section 363 hook for lack of a better term.

9 Second, from an equity perspective, it is wholly
10 inequitable for the debtor in an attempt to derail the Court
11 and the creditors from inserting a Chapter 11 trustee -- and 12 recall, Your Honor, that this case was filed on October 16th of 13 2019 where the debtor filed to seek protection from the 14 imminent within minutes if not hours of entry of $189 million
15 judgment against the debtor. And it's really frankly, and as 16 Mr. Pomerantz acknowledged, the product of failed -- numerous 17 other failed litigation strategies. Acis, UBS, Pat Daugherty,
18 quickly all -- and all of those the pieces of litigation
19 quickly coming home to roost.

20 Acis was clear right out of the gate, Your Honor, at 21 the first day hearings held on October the 18th, 2019 that it
22 would seek the appointment of a trustee. And in an attempt to 23 sort of take itself out of a trustee potentially being 24 appointed or, you know, as to forestall that happening, the 25 debtor filed an ordinary course protocol motion. And this is

1 in October of 2019. And as a part of that ordinary course
2 protocol motion, the proposal was that Mr. Sharp, the CRO of 3 the debtor, be appointed the CRO of the debtor and that he
4 would be the gatekeeper, he would be in charge of all related
5 party transactions, and he would oversee all of those 6 transactions.

7 And, Your Honor, indeed Mr. Sharp testified that he 8 was the gatekeeper. He was the guy in charge, and that was on 9 I want to say like November 20th of 2019. And commensurately,
10 Mr. Waterhouse, the CFO for Highland Capital Management, also 11 testified and Mr. Waterhouse was the first day declarant for 12 Highland as well. He testified that everyone understood that 13 Mr. Sharp was to be the gatekeeper. And, indeed, Mr. Sharp
14 would -- they had training at Highland Capital Management to 15 the effect that all employees knew if you've got a related
16 party transaction, it's got to go through Brad Sharp.

17 So in an attempt to sort of derail Acis from getting 18 a trustee appointed, they affirmatively sought out these 19 protocols and ultimately agreed to protocols that look similar,
20 not exactly but similar to those proposed ordinary course
21 protocols. And the protocols that ultimately were approved
22 required court approval. And now we've got them coming back
23 and saying, ha ha, just kidding, no one can do anything about 24 it anyway and we have to make these distributions because we've 25 got a fiduciary duty to do it.

1           On that note, the debtor who should be fully 2 transparent during this process while it seeks the benefit of 3 bankruptcy including the automatic stay, argues in its reply
4 brief filed this morning at Footnote 9 that the underlying sale
5 transaction in excess of $123.25 million is sacrosanct and 6 irrelevant because the Committee blessed it. Acis objected,
7 Your Honor. When that transaction was presented to the 8 Committee, Acis objected.

9           First, it would have its cake and eat it, too. It
10 can't take advantage of the protocols it likes while at the 11 same time stiff-arming those that are inconvenient to it. It
12 can't say the transaction's good because the Committee blessed
13 it, but the Committee didn't bless the distributions to the 14 insiders and, oh well, you can't do anything about that anyway.

15           Second, the broader transaction is violative of at a 16 minimum traditional notions of transparency in bankruptcy and 17 likely 363 along with what the debtor's fiduciary duties to its 18 creditors. As Mr. Clemente pointed out, the debtor has dueling
19 fiduciary duties, and we didn't hear nearly a word with respect
20 to the debtor's fiduciary duties to its creditors. And, Your 21 Honor, we're not looking to generally micromanage what this 22 debtor is doing, but this transaction is fundamentally flawed
23 and at a minimum has red flags all over it.

24           As we now know from the CalPERS objection, Mr.
25 Dondero entered into a transaction with Highland Capital

41

1 Management buying CalPERS' interest and likely others'
2 interests at June 30 prices or by giving over a set number of 3 MGM shares to CalPERS. That's the agreement that's attached to 4 the CalPERS objection. The agreement was always a win-win for 5 Highland Capital Management because it could either make money
6 on the arbitrage of the stock -- it bought it at a particular 7 price, and if it's ordered at a different price, you got to 8 keep the differential -- or give over the stock if the stock be 9 valued and priced. Win-win.

10 He then immediately the very next day fraudulently
11 transferred that agreement from Highland Capital Management to 12 Highland Capital Management Services, an entity in which he is 13 the 75-percent owner and Mr. Okada is the 25-percent owner.
14 That is 15 days before filing this Chapter 11 bankruptcy case.
15 The only purported consideration for the transfer, and I think
16 this is Exhibit B, to the CalPERS objection, was an indemnity
17 by Highland Capital Management Services. That's the only 18 consideration that was transferred as a part of that 19 transaction, Your Honor.

20 Then when the stock price rises in November, he seeks 21 committee approval for a transaction that still benefits
22 Highland Capital Management Services. Despite not having a
23 Committee response, he enters into a rogue unauthorized trade
24 of MGM stock on whose board he serves on and is thus privy to 25 information, violative of the very protocols that the debtor

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

1 was pressing so strenuously to avoid the appointment of a
2 trustee. Indeed, Brad Sharp testified the day before the rogue
3 trade that this exact type of transaction had to go through 4 him. And Mr. Waterhouse's testimony came right after that to 5 indicate that everybody at the debtor knew that Mr. Sharp had 6 to approve it.

7           Ultimately, the Committee rejected that transaction
8 in November, but the trade was already done. If Mr. Dondero
9 had his way, Highland Capital Management Services would have 10 benefitted from the transaction. Frankly, every one of these 11 transactions needs the light of day shed upon them here in 12 court to determine what is in the best interest of creditors.
13 The debtor's attempt to cloak itself in the Committee's non-14 objection, and I want to be clear on this, it was a non-
15 objection. I think reference was made that the Committee
16 agreed to the sale of the MGM stock. That's not what happened.
17 The Committee just did not object to the transaction which can 18 likely best be characterized frankly as everyone plugging their 19 nose while simultaneously telling this Court it can't do
20 anything about the proceeds is the exact reason why the Court
21 should be inquiring into the transaction in the first place.

22           And not so incidentally, that stock that Mr. Dondero
23 traded without authority in November is trading approximately 24 20 percent higher today, around the low 90s.

25           THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

1 Thank you. All right.

2 Do we have any other opening statements? I'm
3 probably going to have to take a break before we do evidence
4 and hear my 2:30 matter, which I don't think is going to take 5 very long, at all.

6 All right. Judge Lynn.

7 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, thank you.

8 We're not opposed to the motion, and we understand
9 the concerns expressed both by the debtor, the debtor's
10 independent board, which feels that it's compelled to make the 11 distribution to insiders. And while we don't necessarily agree
12 with them, we understand the Creditors Committee's concerns as 13 well.

14 We'd like to suggest the following should the Court
15 determine that the motion should be denied. And that is that 16 instead of the debtor retaining the funds, that the debtor
17 distribute the funds into the registry of the Court. That way, 18 they lose control over the funds and they can say that they've 19 distributed them in accordance with their agreements and 20 applicable law.

21 The funds would remain there until either a recipient
22 or prospective recipient posts a bond or other suitable 23 collateral or the Creditors Committee agrees to the 24 distribution to the insider or there is a Court entered for 25 another reason after a showing made before Your Honor. The 44

1 debtor and the Creditors Committee would, of course, retain all
2 rights to seek the funds they would have had, which rights they 3 would have had immediately before the distribution to the 4 registry, plus any rights that would be gained by reason of the 5 distribution itself.

6           The debtor thus distributes, the Creditors Committee
7 retains its rights, the Court retains control, and this can all
8 be done, we believe, by a Court order and we hope this may give 9 the Court a suitable alternative.

10           THE COURT: Okay. Let me make sure I understand.
11 You said, if the Court is inclined to deny the motion. Are you
12 offering, I guess Mr. Dondero's proposal that -- I mean, these 13 aren't disbursements that would all go to him, they would --
14 some would go to Okada, and -- who's not objected or appeared.
15 But -- let me cut to the chase.

16           Are you trying to avoid a hearing and evidence
17 altogether by saying, you know, these related entities agree
18 their distributions will go into the registry of the Court
19 right now?

20           MR. LYNN: Mr. Dondero supports this position. We do
21 not speak for Mr. Okada.

22           THE COURT: Right.

23           MR. LYNN: I understand that more than one of the 24 entities -- and Your Honor must forgive me. We're relatively 25 new to this case.

1 THE COURT: Yeah. One is Holdco, and that is
2 technically a DAF, a charitable entity that --

3 MR. LYNN: Yes. I believe that's so, and I
4 understand there may have been communications between the 5 independent board and the trustee of a DAF, but I was not a
6 party to those communications. I'm just trying to give the 7 Court an alternative -- Mr. Dondero is doing so -- that might 8 be acceptable to the debtor and at the same time would 9 accomplish what the Creditors Committee wants, which is to 10 retain control of the funds.

11 I must say, Your Honor, that having been there
12 myself, I have a great deal more confidence in the registry of 13 the Court protecting funds than I do in just about anyone else.

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, that would certainly 15 seem to give the Committee everything it's asking for, and --

16 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, if I may interrupt.

17 I understand from members of the debtor's independent
18 board who have spoken to Grant Scott, who is the principal in 19 charge of CLO Holdco, that CLO Holdco would also support the 20 proposal that has just been made by Judge Lynn. We do not have 21 the agreement of Mr. Okada to support that proposal.

22 THE COURT: Okay. Although, he has not weighed in 23 with any sort of -- well, I don't know. How do we feel about 24 Mr. Okada's interest here? I mean, he's obviously been given 25 notice of all of that, and --

46

1 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, actually we asked him --

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: -- when we heard last night that this 4 might be a possibility. He has rejected that. And in light of 5 his rejection of that proposal, we as the debtor feel we need
6 to proceed with the motion. I would think it substantially
7 narrows the issues that are going to be in evidence, all the 8 stuff we've heard about MGM Trade, which may at some point in 9 time be something that people don't testify from the podium and 10 that actually the subject of real evidence. But with respect
11 to Mr. Okada, we will have to go forward with the motion.

12 MR. LYNN: Yeah, so let me express that at this 13 point, Mr. Dondero is of course not supporting the Acis
14 suggestion that a trustee should be appointed. We did not 15 understand that this hearing would address that issue.

16 THE COURT: Yeah. I'm not sure. That's what they 17 were suggesting today. I think they were just saying at one
18 point, they adamantly wanted a trustee, and these protocols
19 alleviated their concerns and caused them to back off. And 20 now, they're upset that, you know, the debtor is resisting the 21 protocols in a way. So -- all right.

22 Mr. Clemente, what say you? I --

23 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, I --

24 MR. LYNN: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Thank you.

47

1 MR. CLEMENTE: -- I think you can tell from our
2 papers, this is effectively what we asked for.

3 THE COURT: Right.

4 MR. CLEMENTE: I don't even know why it took us to 5 get to this point for that. It seemed so obvious to me. But 6 when it was articulated by the former Judge here, it -- I think
7 it just held more -- maybe it made more sense.

8 As far as Mr. Okada's concerned, I think Your Honor
9 could clearly deposit the funds in the registry of the Court,
10 and he's free to come in. I think that's what Counsel for 11 Mr. Dondero was actually suggesting. So I'm not sure that 12 anything is required further with respect to Mr. Okada, unless 13 he has a representative here that would like to raise something
14 with Your Honor. So, to me, on behalf of the Committee, I
15 think that accomplishes what the Committee was trying to do
16 with its objection.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 Anyone else wish to be heard? Ms. Shriro, I know
19 that you filed something for CalPERS, but obviously, your 20 client is an unaffiliated investor in the private equity fund,
21 RCP. You just want to get paid.

22 MS. SHRIRO: That's correct. We just want to get 23 paid, and I would defer to my co-counsel on the phone. If he 24 has any comments, this would be the time to raise them.

25 THE COURT: All right.

48

1 Co-Counsel on the phone, I think it's Mr. Cisz. Is
2 that correct?

3 MS. SHRIRO: Yes.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Anything you want to say about
5 what's (indiscernible)?

6 MR. CISZ: That's correct, Your Honor. This is Louis
7 Cisz on behalf of CalPERS, and Ms. Shriro is correct. So long
8 as CalPERS receives its distribution relative to the sale of 9 the MGM stock, CalPERS otherwise doesn't take a position with 10 respect to the motion.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

12 All right. Well, turning to the literal terms of the 13 motion, the relief the motion sought was simply an order
14 authorizing distribution of the cash from these wind-downs of 15 the three funds to insider investors. And so we have the 16 Committee objection, we have the Acis objection, we have 17 Dondero's counsel here appearing. I think I can, given this 18 request for relief and the opposition of the Committee, as well
19 as one of the Committee members, Acis, and due to these 20 representations of Dondero's counsel and the board, I can order
21 that the money that would otherwise go to insider investors --
22 I think it's roughly about 8.6 million -- will, instead of 23 going to the insider investors, will go into the registry of 24 the Court with reservation of everyone's rights later to file
25 motions requesting that it be disbursed to them. So everyone

49

1 understands, this is just kind of a holding place for the funds
2 right now.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, we do not have 4 Mr. Okada's representation and the debtor is not modifying its 5 motion. The debtor would like to proceed with respect to 6 Mr. Okada. We asked him, he did not want to agree to the same
7 things that would be in consideration by CLO Holdco, and for 8 the reasons we've identified in the motion and I've expressed
9 to Your Honor, we feel we have the obligation, we have the duty
10 to proceed, and we would request the opportunity to put on 11 evidence so you can hear from Mr. Seery and ultimately make a
12 determination whether the Committee and Acis have laid out a 13 legitimate basis for use of 105. I'll reserve my comments and 14 their comments until the end.

15 But we would want to proceed in that limited matter
16 because we don't have all agreements of the parties and the 17 same reasons stand for why we filed the motion to proceed with 18 the distribution for Mr. Okada.

19 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I guess I misinterpreted
20 everything that I thought was going on out there. Mr. Okada, I
21 guess, you said is owed 4.176 million from the Dynamic Hedge
22 Fund, and then -- I don't know if that was the total amount
23 from the three funds, but you feel like you have a fiduciary
24 duty to pursue that disbursement.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: Absolutely, Your Honor.

50

1 THE COURT: All right.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: And again, you know, we could get
3 this into argument. Mr. Okada is in a much different position
4 than some of the other insiders. We understand the comments
5 about Mr. --

6 THE COURT: Well, I remember some of the dynamics
7 here, but let me tell you what I'm going to feel the need to 8 get into if we hear evidence. And what we'll do is we're going
9 to take a short break in a minute. Let me ask the Barker
10 people who I think are in the back.

11 (Off record discussion 2:34:51 to 2:35:01)

12 THE COURT: Okay. So we'll take a 10-minute break in 13 a minute.

14 But again, one reason I was sort of delighted to get
15 the suggestion of Judge Lynn is I see this evidentiary hearing
16 as being a little more involved than looking at contractual 17 obligations and whatnot, and you know, the fact that these are 18 non-property of the estate funds that we're talking about. I
19 have fundamental questions having read the pleadings about the 20 decision to wind-down these funds that was made in November
21 2019, days after Highland filed bankruptcy.

22 Who made the decision? Was it insider investors
23 seeking redemption? Or was it, you know, did we have large
24 unaffiliated investors exercising redemptions, and so
25 therefore, it was reasonable business judgment, you know, we

51

1 need to wind down?

2 I know the issues are a little bit different with the
3 two hedge funds versus the RCP fund that had the term. And I
4 understand, I read the pleadings, how the term expired in April
5 2018, it was extended for one year, and then the advisory board
6 didn't consent to an additional extension.

7 Again, maybe the new board has thoroughly scrubbed
8 this and you're going to tell me that in evidence. And maybe 9 the Committee has thoroughly scrubbed this, and you're going to 10 tell me that with evidence. But I -- I'll want to hear that.
11 I'll want to hear that this was all legitimate, independent,
12 non-affiliated investors pressing for the wind-down of these 13 funds, and we didn't have what I refer to as the Acis situation
14 where -- well --

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, Mr. Seery is prepared to 16 testify to each of those. And as I mentioned, the board did
17 thoroughly consider it and you will -- Your Honor will hear
18 evidence that led Mr. Seery and the board to conclude that each 19 of these were appropriate. But we intended to get into that in 20 the evidence.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 (Proceedings recessed from 2:37 p.m. to 3:01 p.m.)

23 THE COURT: All right. We're going back on the 24 record in Highland. Mr. Pomerantz, are you ready to call your 25 witness?

1 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, if I might before.

2 THE COURT: Mr. Clemente?

3 MR. CLEMENTE: Matt Clemente on behalf of the 4 Committee, again.

5 I would just like to revisit the colloquy we had 6 before we broke.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. CLEMENTE: I'm still confused as to why Your 9 Honor just can't enter or so order that the debtor has 10 satisfied its duty upon depositing the money into the Court
11 registry. And we don't need to have any of this this 12 afternoon. I see it as similar to the Foley hearing where Your 13 Honor expressed some frustration. It's kind of maybe not the 14 best use of time. I'm not sure what exactly we're trying to 15 accomplish here.

16 If the debtor's concerned about its duty to a
17 constituent who is not present in Court today, I think Your 18 Honor can deal with that by entering an order that says, you
19 know, based on the pleadings and the record so far, the debtor
20 has satisfied its duty and placed the money in the Court
21 registry.

22 And if Mr. Okada has an issue with that, he can come
23 back before Your Honor. I'm just not quite sure what the point
24 is here, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right. Well, let's turn back to

53

1 Mr. Pomerantz, and let's talk about what my, I guess, unrefuted
2 evidence is. I have -- Mr. Okada would be due for the Dynamic
3 Hedge Fund, 4.176 million is what I read in the pleadings where 4 you told me.

5 And then, I don't know that I have written down what
6 he would be owed from either the Argentina Fund or the RCP
7 Fund. Anything?

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Zero.

9 THE COURT: Zero. So we're talking about the 4.176
10 from termination of the Dynamic Fund.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Right.

12 THE COURT: Meanwhile, we know there is a $1.3
13 million demand note --

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Correct.

15 THE COURT: -- owing to Highland from Okada. And I
16 feel like I heard that there was more, but that's the only --

17 MR. POMERANTZ: That is the only note from Mr. Okada.

18 Your Honor, I think part of it is I stood up and gave 19 a lengthy presentation, and I told Your Honor what the 20 testimony would show. Now there's been a lot of issues in this 21 case about what the board's doing, what it's not doing. Part
22 of our reason for being here today and part of my presentation
23 was to get Your Honor comfortable with how the board is 24 handling its duties. I didn't want you to hear that just from 25 me. I wanted you to hear that from Mr. Seery.

54

1           There also have been allegations by Acis and concerns
2 Your Honor has raised as to what went into the wind-down of 3 these funds, given Your Honor's past experience with Acis. And 4 I'm sure Ms. Patel's past experience with Acis.

5           I think it's important to hear from Mr. Seery because 6 he has good explanations of why each of these funds are in 7 wind-down. And then, furthermore, look, Your Honor will decide
8 what Your Honor decides and whether the Committee and Acis have 9 met the showing under 105 to hold back the Okada funds. If 10 Your Honor decides that, of course we will abide by that 11 decision.

12           But we didn't want any implication that we were sort
13 of laying down for that issue. So I think it would be helpful
14 maybe to hear some testimony from Mr. Seery. If Your Honor
15 then concludes that funds shouldn't be disbursed, Your Honor
16 will conclude that funds shouldn't be disbursed. I don't think
17 this has to be very lengthy. I think we've -- we've narrowed 18 the issues, given that we don't have an issue with respect to 19 RCP anymore. We don't have the issue with HCM Services
20 receiving money on account of a trade that Acis is very 21 critical about. Again, those issues at an appropriate time can 22 be raised in appropriate form, and Your Honor will have a full 23 evidentiary hearing, as opposed to a tail wagging the dog on 24 this motion when it's not even relevant anymore.

25           So what I would propose is that we allow Mr. Seery to

55

1 take the stand. We allow him to address Your Honor's concerns.
2 We allow him to testify to the things that I said he would
3 testify to so it gives Your Honor some comfort, and hopefully
4 the other parties comfort, exactly how Mr. Seery and the other
5 board members are performing their duties.

6 THE COURT: Okay. Can we all agree to some 7 reasonable time limitations here? I'm thinking we're done in 8 an hour. Maximum 30 minute direct of debtor, or redirect, and 9 maximum 30 minute cross of all objectors. Can we do that 10 today?

11 MR. POMERANTZ: I think we can do that, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Then that's --

13 MR. CLEMENTE: My only question, Your Honor -- Matt
14 Clemente on behalf of the Committee -- is what are we still 15 talking about here? Are we just talking about the distribution
16 to Mr. Okada? And the other distributions are off the table as 17 suggested by -- or as agreed to at least on behalf of 18 Mr. Dondero? I don't even know what we're talking about.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: That is correct, Your Honor. It's 20 only the distributions to Mr. Okada.

21 THE COURT: Although, I think he wanted the Court to 22 get some testimony from Mr. Seery about sort of the business
23 judgment of the three wind-downs, but I don't think that's 24 going to --

25 MR. POMERANTZ: That shouldn't take a long time.

56

1 THE COURT: -- be a probe today of MGM stock sales.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: No, it won't be at all, Your Honor.

3 And again, look, we understand Your Honor has had experience
4 with Acis, and we understand the concerns, Your Honor, coming
5 in, seeing redemptions, and the questions you asked.

6 Again, it's important for the debtor to be able to 7 demonstrate to Your Honor that this board is doing its 8 appropriate things and hearing from Mr. Seery why he made these 9 decisions so Your Honor can get comfortable, not only in these 10 matters, but in other matters that brought before Your Honor in 11 the future that this board is doing exactly what they should be 12 doing acting as an independent fiduciary.

13 That's why I think some of our testimony, but we're 14 happy to live within the time frame that Your Honor has given 15 us.

16 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you.

17 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, I just wanted to follow along
18 with one of the comments that I made during my opening
19 statement and hopefully, it will help further narrow the issues
20 and keep us within the time limits, is is that when -- in 21 responding to Your Honor's question about the wind-down of 22 these funds, and I said Acis had concerns, I want to say we've 23 got concerns with respect to the Argentina and the Dynamic
24 fund. We frankly just don't understand or have that much
25 information with which to really evaluate the transaction, so

57

1 we're a little hamstrung today for purposes of cross-
2 examination because that's not something that necessarily Acis
3 has inquired into.

4 But separate and apart from that, just again so
5 everyone's clear, with respect to the wind-down of RCP, Acis
6 does not take issue with respect to the genesis of the wind-
7 down. So the decision to wind it down is a find from Acis's
8 perspective that should probably have been wound down. Now,
9 the methodology of how it's being wound-down, that's fair game.

10 THE COURT: I don't know what that meant --

11 MS. PATEL: Okay.

12 (Laughter)

13 THE COURT: -- the methodology of how it's being 14 wound-down.

15 MS. PATEL: Okay. Let me --

16 THE COURT: Very quickly because, you know --

17 MS. PATEL: Yes. Your Honor, what I meant by that 18 was, in terms of the decision to wind-down RCP, that makes 19 sense to Acis because it is a fund that should have been wound-
20 down. How it is going about being wound-down, that is open for 21 dispute, and one of those things being here this MGM stock
22 sale, etcetera.

23 THE COURT: We'll hear from Mr. Seery. I thought
24 there was a pile of cash at this point, but maybe I misread the 25 pleadings.

1 Okay.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, let's remember what this
3 motion is. This motion wasn't a referendum on wind-down, it
4 was the ability to make a distribution.

5 THE COURT: Right.

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Mr. Dondero's counsel, who is 7 speaking on behalf of ACM Services, said they're prepared to 8 hold those distributions in the registry of the Court. The 9 issues regarding what Ms. Patel testified from the podium, at 10 some point, they may very well be the subject of a hearing in 11 the Court. We're happy to continue responding to the Committee
12 and Ms. Patel's comments and questions about how, but it's just 13 not relevant here.

14 And, Your Honor, there is no way if Ms. Patel is 15 going to go down that road that we will ever be here only an 16 hour. That is a much longer discussion.

17 THE COURT: And let me just clarify where I was 18 coming from.

19 I thought if we were evaluating whether insiders
20 should get $8.6 million of distributions, the bona fides of the 21 decision to go into wind-down mode needed to be explored a
22 little bit and see if some of these insiders were improperly
23 exercising control in that.

24 So I agree with what you're saying. Now, that we're 25 just talking about deferring to another day all but maybe

59

1 Mr. Okada's disbursement, we don't need to hear great detail
2 about the whole decision-making process for the wind-down of 3 these three. A little bit of background would be useful,
4 but --

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Absolutely, Your Honor, and we 6 will --

7 THE COURT: -- it doesn't need to be, you know --

8 MR. POMERANTZ: -- tailor our testimony to the issues
9 that Your Honor was concerned about and the comments that I
10 made, and we will keep within the time limit that Your Honor
11 wants us to keep it to.

12 THE COURT: All right. Very good.

13 Mr. Seery?

14 MR. SEERY: Yes, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: There you are. If you could approach the 16 witness stand. I know I've been introduced to you before. I'm 17 not sure if you've taken the witness stand yet.

18 MR. SEERY: I have not.

19 THE COURT: I don't think you have.

20 Please raise your right hand.

21 JAMES P. SEERY, JR., DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

22 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated.

23 MS. HAYWARD: Your Honor, may I approach with an 24 exhibit binder?

25 THE COURT: You may.

Seery - Direct/Hayward

60

1 MS. HAYWARD: Or two?

2 THE COURT: Okay. One for the Court.

3 Thank you.

4 MS. HAYWARD: May I approach the witness?

5 THE COURT: You may.

6 DIRECT EXAMINATION

7 BY MR. HAYWARD:

8 Q Well, good afternoon, Mr. Seery. Since this is your first 9 time testifying, would you introduce yourself to the Court and 10 give her just a little bit of background?

11 A I'll go pretty quickly because of the time constraints.
12 James P. Seery, Jr., for the record. I am an independent
13 director for Highland Capital. I've been in the asset
14 management restructuring business for about 32 years.

15 I started as a restructuring lawyer handling
16 everything from real estate to debtor's side to financial 17 transactions. From there, I moved into asset management and 18 distressed investing.

19 From there, I moved into managing a large global loan
20 portfolio for a big investment bank. That included teams of 21 people who both underwrote, distributed, held, managed,
22 restructured, and traded both loans, indicated loan assets,
23 primarily, but also high end bonds, distressed assets, as well
24 as CLO assets.

25 After that, I went into a hedge fund. We had a

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

61

1 billion, three long-short credit fund. I was the senior
2 investment partner and president of that firm. We did similar
3 types of investments, high yield, high yield loans, distressed
4 loans, CLO assets, and some other structured products, long-
5 shorts. So we were domestic primarily, but we also had a
6 global investment view and an office in London.

7 Subsequent to that, I was a co-head of a credit
8 business for an investment bank. And then, in the last six
9 months, I've decided to do this job.

10 Q So of the three board members, you're kind of the stock
11 guy. Would that be a fair --

12 A I think -- stock isn't really my stock and trade, but I do
13 know my way a little bit around the stock market. But it's 14 primarily been credit products, but I do -- I am familiar with 15 equities and equity trade.

16 Q Okay. So since coming onto the board, give the Court a 17 day in the life, if you don't mind, and maybe starting with the 18 day that the board took over on January 9th.

19 A I think, as Your Honor will recall, when we left and we 20 talked about what the role would be and what the compensation
21 would be, I think your comment was, Your Honor, that it -- we 22 wouldn't be 50,000 feet. Well, we -- we're actually fully on 23 the ground. We're not even five feet above. We don't keep 24 track of our hours like lawyers, but probably logged about 190
25 hours in January starting on the 9th, and then about 150 hours,

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

62

1 160 hours in February. And I know my fellow board members are
2 similar time commitments.

3 We're involved day-to-day in each of the decisions
4 that the debtor makes from assets management decisions,
5 understanding how the funds are being managed and what the ways
6 that they could either be walled off if they're in liquidation,
7 or if what the proper way to treat them on a day-to-day basis
8 is, evaluating assets that the debtor owns directly or through 9 funds, be thinking about ways to monetize those assets;
10 employee issues, what they're doing, who they're reporting to,
11 how they're -- how they're performing, how they're being paid;
12 claims issues.

13 This case got started, as we all know, by three major
14 litigations, and they're not all easy to understand. They've 15 got the redeemer arbitration, which I think is fairly
16 straightforward in terms of liability and amount. There's a
17 number of offsets that are complicated.

18 We've got the UVS litigation that is a lot more
19 complicated because it's not against the debtor. The judgment
20 is against two offshore funds that are, in essence, shells, and 21 there's a very complex history around the 10-year litigation
22 that that is.

23 Then we have the Acis litigation, which comes out of 24 the Acis bankruptcy, but is an unliquidated claim. So 25 understanding those thinking about what the pros and cons of

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

63

1 those claims are, how we would manage them down the road, how
2 we would go forward. Thinking about how to resolve them has 3 been a key part of what we're doing on a day-to-day basis.

4 Q So has the board done an independent analysis of all these 5 various litigation claims?

6 A Not yet. So we've -- we've done a preliminary analysis,
7 and then we've gone further. So with respect -- we haven't sat
8 down with -- frankly with Redeemer, yet, although one of the 9 board members has had a call with them separately. But we have 10 sat down with the Acis creditors, and we've done some 11 significant analysis around that. And we have sat down with 12 UBS claimants, and we've done significant analysis around that.

13 All three of those require a ton more work, and not 14 because it's not easy to figure out what the numbers are. It's 15 really difficult to figure out what the liability is, how it
16 rolls up to the debtor, and then how to satisfy it, and so
17 we're trying to get our hands around that. But that is a 18 critical component of resolving this case.

19 Q When the board took over, did -- what types of things did
20 you do immediately upon taking over control of this debtor?
21 Did you meet with people at the facility?

22 A Oh, sure. So the first thing we did, actually, is have 23 lunch with the Committee and with Acis, and we wanted to get 24 their perspective because they were here and it was easier to 25 do that than to run back to the debtor and try to -- try to

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

64

1 then set up another meeting.

2 And so we wanted to get their perspective. They'd
3 been living with the debtor from the litigations and through 4 the time in Delaware and the litigation in this case. So we 5 got a feel for them of what their desires were, how they 6 thought the case would work out or potentially resolve, and 7 also, how they thought about our role.

8 One of the things we stressed at that time, and I
9 stressed when I was interviewed for the role, is that -- I know
10 my fellow directors feel the same way, but I'm a pretty 11 independent person, and I wasn't going to be certainly the 12 management of Highlands guy, nor would I be the guy of the 13 Committee. So we're going to -- I'm going to work
14 independently make decisions with the fellow board members in 15 what I think is the best way.

16 I'm going to try to exercise my duty in both care and 17 loyalty to the estate, but then if the estate has duties, I'm 18 going to make sure we exercise those. And I feel very strongly
19 about that because this is just one -- a decent sized matter, 20 but one small piece of a career, and I'm not going to 21 compromise myself to satisfy either people on the management
22 side or people on the Committee side.

23 Q Yeah. Well, and I want to talk a little bit about the 24 duties since you mentioned them, because we heard I think the 25 Committee say that we -- the debtor has not mentioned the

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

65

1 fiduciary duties to the estate in the opening statement. Do
2 you think that by presenting this motion the debtor -- does
3 this motion contemplate protecting the fiduciary duties that 4 the debtor owes to the estate?

5 A To me, it absolutely does. But to be fair, I think that 6 the rhetorical flair and opening remarks and missing the duties
7 to the estate, we're very conscious as a board of our duties to 8 the estate. We're also very conscious of our duties as an 9 asset manager. And what is in the pleadings is absolutely the 10 case, it's been -- it's my experience, my understanding of the 11 law, and it's being confirmed by both Cayman counsel, and by 12 fund counsel in the U.S. separate from bankruptcy counsel.

13 We owe a duty under the Advisor's Act to the funds
14 and to the investors in those funds. That duty actually 15 supercedes the benefit to the estate, but it doesn't undercut
16 it because by vindicating the duty to the funds, you actually 17 vindicate the duty to the estate. If you create liability at 18 the funds, it will roll to the estate. So by exercising your 19 duty correctly, you do in fact, vindicate the duty of the 20 estate.

21 And what's important in the Advisor's Act, and it's 22 an interesting part of U.S. law. At least my understanding,
23 it's been confirmed by outside counsel, is if the manager,
24 which would be Highland, has an interest, it's actually 25 required to subordinate that interest to the interest of the

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

66

1 investors in the funds it managed. And it makes sense.

2 If you have funds invested in a fund with an outside
3 investor, you want to make sure that that investor is not --
4 that manager is not using your funds to aggrandize itself as 5 opposed to looking out for your best interest. And so, I think 6 by vindicating our obligations with respect to the funds, we 7 actually enhance our obligations with respect to the estate.

8 Q Let's talk a little bit about the funds now. So
9 originally, the motion pertained to three different funds.
10 Could you just briefly explain to the Court the status of those 11 funds and how they got there?

12 A Yeah. I'll try to go quickly, and if I skip something or 13 I go too quickly, Your Honor, please let me know.

14 The Highland Dynamic Fund, which is the primary one
15 we're talking about now, I think you'll see at the end of Tab 1
16 how it's set up right before Tab 2. And I haven't looked at 17 these exhibits in a long time, so I apologize. I didn't know I
18 was getting this. But it's really straightforward.

19 These funds are set up, and this is a pretty typical 20 structure. It's a limited partnership structure. It's got a
21 master feeder structure. And what does that mean? The master
22 is the main fund. That's the King Exemptive Limited
23 Partnership at the bottom.

24 It's fed by two feeders, a domestic feeder and an 25 offshore feeder. Why is it done that way? Purely tax.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

67

1 Offshore investors, non-taxables in the U.S. who are worried
2 about ECI or UVTI, or unrelated business income, we want to
3 make sure that there's no withholding or any tax ramifications
4 with respect to the distributions they get off the fund. Since
5 it's a pass-through entity, both of those investors, either
6 domestic or foreign, are non-taxables in the U.S., will have
7 their own tax treatment when it gets up to them. So they don't 8 want anything withheld.

9           When you look at the left side of the page, Dynamic
10 domestic feeder, the other investors is where you'd include
11 Mark Okada. This fund was founded originally under a different
12 name. I believe it was called the Highland Loan Fund. It 13 might have been CLO Loan Fund, I apologize. And then that was 14 in 2013.

15           Mark Okada put $2 million cash into the fund at that 16 time. Why did he put it in? This fund was designed to own CLO
17 assets and loan assets. Okada was the founder of that part of 18 the business and the driver of that business. It was pretty 19 essential that he put some money in.

20           However, in '13, they did get third-party investors,
21 but this fund never got real scale. I think it was only a bit 22 over $100 million. Not insignificant, but not a big fund. And 23 they went out looking for loan funds, loan opportunities, and 24 CLO paper. So the CLO papers, the debt of the CLOs, generally 25 (indiscernible) type paper that was higher yielding unless

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

68

1 there was some interesting opportunity in the -- in the higher
2 rated tranches.

3 In 2018, the fund got restructured, and they -- I'm 4 pretty sure that's when the name change occurred. Okada put 5 another two and a half million dollars of cash in. So he 6 didn't get this as free-carry or anything. This was actually
7 cash that he deposited in the fund.

8 In 2019, Okada in the spring of 2019, determined that 9 he was leaving Highland. And his separation was finally 10 completed in September of 2019. So he is no longer an employee
11 of the debtor. He has no influence, say, discussion, he's not 12 involved in anything. He hasn't been since we've been there.

13 The investor, I think it was late summer, either
14 understood that or the fund hadn't performed that well.
15 Frankly, it was undersized anyway. Realdania, a third-party, I
16 believe they're European, issued a redemption notice. This was 17 a hedge fund style fund. So we've got three different funds
18 here, two of them are hedge fund, and we explained a little bit
19 in the papers, but the real dynamic, no pun intended,
20 difference between the two is that Dynamic and Argentina are 21 hedge funds which provide liquidity to the investor.

22 What does that mean? Monthly, quarterly, semi-23 annually, they can look for redemptions. The fund manager
24 sales assets because the assets are supposed to be a little bit 25 more liquid, makes distributions per the redemptions.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

69

1 If the redemptions are too big and the sales will
2 somehow disadvantage the remaining investors, either gates come
3 down or you put the fund into liquidation. Realdania had made
4 a, I believe it's a $65 million -- it was initially a smaller
5 one, then there was a $65 million redemption, and it -- this is 6 prepetition. The debtor determined we've got to wind this fund
7 up because we can't basically more than halve it and then
8 continue to try to function. It would have been far too
9 undersized.

10 So the debtor then went about selling the assets,
11 creating a pool of cash, and then this motion is to liquidate
12 it and pay the investors, including Okada. When it's done,
13 assuming they made the full distributions, about 80-something
14 percent of the assets will have been distributed. There's a 15 few small assets that are left. They're not particularly 16 liquid, but they're small and I'm relatively certain we can 17 unload those at decent prices, create cash for the investors,
18 make the final distribution, so it would be a hold cash to 19 wind-down and then dissolve the various little limited
20 partnerships.

21 Argentina is similar. The basically different
22 premise of why that fund existed, the original theory was post
23 the Argentina crisis with the election of Macri in '15. Late 24 '15, Argentina started going through a number of changes in its 25 economy and the thought was that Argentina would start to grow

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

70

1 and really be able to realize the potential of its people and
2 its resources. That didn't work out that well, and then at the 3 end of, I think it was '18, Macri was voted out and the former
4 Kirchner, effectively, government is going to back. Argentina
5 economy has slid into basically -- certainly recession over
6 multiple quarters, but even some would say depression.

7           Very difficult time. This was not a unique fund for 8 Highland. There were a lot of these Argentina-type opportunity 9 funds, and that -- that performance has not been particularly 10 good. The decision there was made to wind-down a third-party 11 investor who made a 15 percent withdrawal, and that a number of 12 other funds that I forget the percentage, but they're managed
13 by UBS, third parties made a -- indicated that they were going 14 to have full redemptions, as well, so that fund was put into 15 liquidation.

16           Importantly, I think something that was mentioned
17 before, there's no benefit to keeping these funds around. They 18 don't make any fees.

19 Q     Why is that?

20 A     And once they've gone into liquidation, they're not paying 21 any fees. Similarly, RCP -- now, RCP is a different style of 22 fund, and I think Your Honor, you mentioned it in the papers,
23 you saw that it was a 10-year old fund. That term was 24 extended. It was originally a 2008 fund. It was done as a
25 distressed for control. Very different opportunity,

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

71

1 (indiscernible), at the time, they probably didn't see the 2 global financial crisis, but saw it as distressed and the 3 opportunity to do distressed for control positions had to be 4 long term. So that fund had no liquidity provisions for 5 investors. Typical PE-style fund.

6 The -- when it got to the end of its life, the 10-
7 year life, Highland didn't have the ability to extend the term.
8 A steering committee of third-party institutional investors
9 with no Highland influence whatsoever, Ontario Teachers,
10 CalPERS, some of the biggest, most sophisticated investors in 11 the world in both debt, equity, and distress were driving that.
12 There was also a couple of other funds that are third parties
13 on that steering group. And they still exist. They gave a 14 one-year extension. Highland had no ability to do anything 15 about that.

16 In exchange for the extension, Highland waived fees.
17 So there are no fees being paid on the RCP Fund. There was a 18 series of one-month extensions that went -- was finished in 19 November of 2019. And with this distribution, there's still a
20 lot of assets in RCP that have to be managed, about 175
21 million. And so we're going to -- after we make the 22 distribution -- we've had a few calls and I've been on them,
23 with the steering group.

24 We've told them we're coming to Court to make the 25 distribution. We were confident that we would be able to -- to

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

72

1 be able to make a distribution to them subject to the Court's
2 order, that we make that distribution and somewhere in the next
3 two weeks we're going to have a steering group meeting to talk
4 about the other assets and how we monetize them.

5           They are different types of assets. Some have more
6 liquidity than others, so we're going to need to come up with a
7 plan. It's 85 percent, roughly, third parties. Highland
8 Capital Management, the debtor, actually has a roughly 15
9 percent interest in HCM Services, has as a couple percentage,
10 because I think there would have been about 2 percent of the 11 distribution.

12           So it's vast -- the vast majority of the owners of 13 the fund are outsiders, and we're going to need to come up with 14 a structured plan to get them their cash because they've been 15 invested for 12 years in this fund.

16 Q     Do you agree, having had the chance to come in and look
17 over all these things, that these funds should be wound-down?

18 A     Oh, absolutely. So I think it's easiest to say,
19 Dynamic -- Okada was the driver. It never got to where it
20 wanted. The biggest investor wanted out. It's not big enough
21 to support itself. Even if one were to look today, and say, it
22 should have, frankly, owning CLO paper when this fund was 23 started until today, there should have been good appreciation
24 in it, and it just didn't -- I don't know the reasons it
25 didn't, but it didn't perform the way it should have, and it

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

73

1 didn't attract the investors it should have. Perhaps that had
2 something to do with it, you know, the way the other cases or 3 litigations were going on and the public nature of them.

4 And frankly, coming out of the global financial 5 crises, Highland had had a tough time of it, so it wasn't as if 6 it was the easiest thing to raise funds. Argentina, there's 7 absolutely no question that the purpose and structure of that 8 fund and what it set out to do doesn't work, just doesn't work.
9 So it makes no sense to keep that going, and that's why the 10 investors -- third-party investors sought redemptions.

11 The insider interests, while not immaterial, are 12 pretty small. Okada's interest is about 12 percent in the 13 fund, and he's not driving it. Like I said, he's not even at 14 the debtor. These two -- but to be fair -- both the decisions
15 to wind-down Dynamic and Argentina were made before the board
16 was involved and before the petition was filed, and they really 17 related to the withdrawals from third parties.

18 Q So why are we here today? Do you -- do these funds wind-
19 down in the ordinary course of their business?

20 A Well, it -- they all have life. So I'd say in the case of 21 RCP, it's pretty clearly in the ordinary course because it
22 reached the end of its life. And the investors were very clear
23 that they wanted to be cashed out. So the difficult part is 24 that it -- because of its structure and in the way it was 25 originally set up as a PE-style fund, it has illiquid, a number

Seery - Direct/Hayward

74

1 of illiquid assets.

2 And the challenge in any of the PE funds is to time
3 your exit, and the timing on this hasn't been opportune because 4 the opportunity to sale has not been as good as one might hope
5 and the investors are just at the point where they want to get
6 cashed out as we've heard today from CalPERS. But we've seen
7 it in the documents and our discussions -- and my discussions
8 directly with them.

9 The other funds, once they've reached this -- it's an 10 ordinary course thing for funds. When funds either they're -- 11 they've reached their life or investors redeem and they get to 12 this state where they really can't support themselves, it's a
13 very ordinary thing for managers to wind-down funds.

14 Q And as part of the winding down of the funds, is it also 15 ordinary then to make distributions once the funds have become 16 liquid?

17 A Well, I mean one of the questions you started to ask, or 18 maybe did ask, and I didn't answer, was why are we here?

19 Our view as an independent board, my view as an 20 independent board member, is we have an obligation to all
21 investors. It would be really easy if the documents or the law
22 said all investors, other than ones who might have been related 23 somehow to the asset manager. It just doesn't say that. And 24 as we talked about, this is -- these are not funds from 25 Highland. If they were funds from Highland, again, it would be

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

75

1 really easy.

2           As I described for Highland Dynamic, I don't need to 3 hold and carry water for Mark Okada. But I do need to carry my 4 own fiduciary duties and make sure that I exercise them well.
5 The gentleman put $2 million in -- this is April 2013, put 2
6 million -- 2.5 million in cash in 2018, and the fund is being 7 wound down. It's not the debtor's money. If it was the 8 debtor's money, it would be really easy to say, you know,
9 Mr. Okada, I'm not going to give you the money because we may 10 have claims against you, and a different discussion would 11 ensue.

12 Q Well, I want to walk through that just a little bit. You
13 say it's not the debtor's money. Where is the money?

14 A This money sits in funds or in bank accounts. Its assets
15 are denominated and they're held in trust. And the cash that's 16 in accounts, they're denominated in the name of the fund. The 17 asset manager, Highland, has the ability to access the accounts
18 and use the funds in accordance with the fund documents. It 19 does not have the ability to access the accounts and use the 20 funds however it see fit.

21 Q So it's like an authorized signer?

22 A It's certainly an authorized signer in terms of what its 23 ability to do in terms of accessing the funds. Typically,
24 that's done through the trustee. But it can manage the funds.
25 It couldn't take the funds and make an unrelated investment.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

76

1 It couldn't take the funds and use it for its own purposes and
2 pay them back later. It's just simply not permitted.

3 Q Well, taking that to the next level. If the Court did not
4 allow these distributions to be made, would the distributions
5 then go to the debtor?

6 A No.

7 Q Where would they go?

8 A There's really no provision for it. There are certain 9 provisions in the underlying documents that would enable the 10 manager to withhold funds. If there was a change in law that 11 didn't permit a distribution. If there was some other reason
12 that it became unfeasible to make the distribution. If you
13 couldn't find the investor, and sometimes that happens. There 14 are provisions of how you deal with those funds. But they 15 never would go to the manager.

16 Q So what is the -- why is the primary reason then that 17 we're here today asking this Court for permission to distribute 18 these funds?

19 A It's pretty straightforward. We have a fiduciary duty and 20 we've confirmed that with outside counsel, both Cayman and 21 domestic fund counsel, to make distributions and treat all
22 investors in the funds pro rata. And we're here to make sure
23 we vindicate our duties, not exercising our fiduciary duties,
24 doing things that were not permitted. One, we don't think
25 that's right or appropriate. Two, that's not going to help

Seery - Direct/Hayward

77

1 resolve this case that probably contributes to some of the
2 things that led to this case. So we're not real interested as 3 an independent board in doing things that are close to the 4 edge, along the margin, try to use our positions to leverage
5 investors.

6 Q Are you familiar with the protocols?

7 A I am.

8 Q Okay. But for the protocols, do you believe that the 9 debtor would need to obtain the Court's permission in order to 10 makes these distributions on behalf of these funds?

11 A I don't think so, no.

12 Q So then, why are we asking the Court's permission?

13 A Well, the protocols require it, and I think the Committee,
14 you know, with due respect and I mean that truly, would like us
15 to withhold the funds, and that provides certain leverage
16 potentially over insiders. I think when I look at the 17 protocols, I think the main function of the protocols is to 18 assure that there isn't undue influence by insiders over the 19 actions of the company, and that insiders are not somehow 20 benefitting themselves by virtue of their control over the 21 company.

22 The independent board has control over the company.
23 We're not naive and think we have control over every single 24 persons every single second of every day, but we do have 25 control over what happens with the accounts, how payments are

Seery - Direct/Hayward

78

1 made, when we wind something down, when an asset is sold, how
2 the proceeds will be used. That's the board. That's not
3 anybody in management. The decision around these distributions
4 was made by the board independently. We did consult with the 5 CCO, and that was important to make sure we got all the facts
6 with respect to these funds.

7           We then sought outside counsel to inform our 8 decision, both Cayman and domestic. We didn't have any 9 influence whatsoever and we didn't speak to Mr. Dondero nor 10 Mr. Okada other than to tell Mr. Okada that we were coming to 11 court and then to ask him if he would defer his distribution.
12 And we know his response.

13 Q     I want to ask you just a couple -- I know I'm almost at my 14 30 minutes here, so I just want to ask you a few quick
15 questions because one of the issues that came up were these 16 demand notes. I understand that Mr. Okada does have a demand
17 note.

18 A     He does. We've --

19 Q     And has the board --

20 A     And we've sent a demand.

21 Q     Okay. And what was -- what is the status of that demand
22 note?

23 A     He acknowledges that he signed it and he said that he's 24 owed certain things from the company. He's asked how we work
25 those through because he was severed -- or severed himself in

Seery - Direct/Hayward

79

1 September, and he has -- they reached a severance agreement
2 according to Mr. Okada. I haven't personally investigated it
3 yet, but we will get to it quickly. And he has some expenses
4 that are owed, but I don't think those are material.

5 I'm quite confident. He said his severance was 6 agreement not money, but terms, was very standard. We'll take 7 a look at that and make sure there's agreement on that.

8 I think it would be covered by the protocol, but it's 9 probably a transaction, so we'd have to talk to the Committee
10 about it, but we'll work -- I'm confident that we can work our 11 way through a standard severance agreement very quickly and 12 resolve that issue and collect on the note.

13 Q Now, to be clear, the demand note is payable to whom?

14 A The demand note is payable to the debtor.

15 Q Okay.

16 A It was actually a note that was -- he didn't receive cash
17 for the note. It's basically a tax -- rather than gross-up
18 salary sometime in the past, for whatever reason they decided 19 not to gross it up to cover taxes.

20 Because of the structure of the limited partnership,
21 they could have had taxable income without matching cash, and 22 so they issued notes back to Highland to cover certain of those 23 obligations rather than actually making a distribution.

24 Q To your knowledge, does Mr. Okada owe any money to the 25 fund?

80

1 A No. Not a -- my knowledge is that he does not. So I am
2 knowledgeable of it, and he does not owe any money to the fund.

3 Q Okay. Quickly, I just want to talk a little bit about 4 Mr. Dondero. One of I think the points that was made at the 5 very beginning of opening statements was that Mr. Dondero is 6 still around. Why is that?

7 A He's around because he has incredible knowledge about the 8 investments. He is a portfolio manager for the fund. He does 9 work with respect to non-Highland unrelated funds, some of 10 which Highland employees do work under shared services
11 arrangement and we get paid for them. But Mr. Dondero is 12 around for those reasons and his knowledge about a number of 13 the investments in which we're involved.

14 Q Does the Debtor -- or does the board have the power to 15 terminate Mr. Dondero if it decides to?

16 A Yeah, he's -- we could, he's unpaid so there's no cost to 17 his involvement. His expertise around certain investments,
18 particularly the equity funds as well as some of the larger
19 investments, including the PE investments, is really important.

20 Q And with respect to the Dondero notes, what are the status
21 of those demand notes?

22 A We've done an investigation of the notes and I wouldn't 23 say it's as exhaustive as -- it's in similar stages as our 24 examination of other assets. We've looked at Dondero's notes,
25 we made a decision to send a demand letter to Okada because

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Direct/Hayward

81

1 he's no longer a part of the company and there's no real
2 benefit that we saw strategically to not making that demand.
3 It's a small amount of money relative to the size of the case,
4 it's real money, but it's a small amount of money relative to 5 the size of the case. We should clean that up and move on from 6 Mr. Okada.

7           With respect to the Dondero notes on Dondero entity
8 notes, we want to think about those strategically. They're a 9 sizable amount of money, not just the ones that are demand, but 10 also there's a number of the notes that are notes with 11 maturities and they're actually current, they're all current,
12 but how can we use those cash, can we collect those, and I
13 think that's more strategic in terms of how we resolve this
14 case.

15           I agree with Mr. Pomerantz's statement that I think
16 it evolves into a pure litigation case and we really hope it
17 doesn't. That then -- those can just be sued on and the demand
18 notes are pretty clear as to how they work and even include
19 cost of collection. So they're pretty straightforward notes.

20 Q     But so for now the board --

21 A     Well, we thought about it, we don't think it makes sense
22 to make that demand at this time. There's -- our initial -- 23 we're not -- we haven't come up with what the plan is for this
24 case, but we have ideas. We do think they involve Mr. Dondero
25 and they involved contributions from Mr. Dondero whether in the

Seery - Direct/Hayward

82

1 form of notes, whether in the form of cash, whether in the form
2 of other assets. We haven't discussed those with him, but we 3 do think that's ultimately, at least preliminarily, where we're 4 going to end up somewhere. So strategically we think that 5 that'll make sense to include in that sort of a resolution.

6 Q Okay. And --

7 THE COURT: You have one minute.

8 MS. HAYWARD: Yes, thank you, Your Honor.

9 BY MS. HAYWARD:

10 Q Last question I'm going to ask you, are you aware of any 11 legal basis to withhold these funds now from Mr. -- from these 12 investors and these related parties?

13 A I'm not aware of any, but as the Court has contemplating,
14 as the Committee has said, perhaps now that Section 105, you 15 know, grants that sort of authority, but that'll be up to the 16 Judge.

17 MS. HAYWARD: Your Honor, a housekeeping matter. I
18 move for the admission of Exhibits 1 through 12. I don't think 19 any of them are controversial. But I will let --

20 THE COURT: You want me to look through

21 MS. HAYWARD: Your Honor, they are --

22 THE COURT: -- all of these.

24 MS. HAYWARD: Your Honor, just for the record, they

1 the Dynamic Income Fund.

2 THE COURT: Right. We looked at that.

3 MS. HAYWARD: Exhibit 2 is the partnership agreement,
4 so I know they're large documents, but they're not numerous
5 documents. Exhibit 3 is just the chart of the Latin America
6 Argentina Fund. Four, the partnership agreement for that fund.
7 Five, the chart (indiscernible) Third Fund. Six would be the 8 agreement, the limited partnership agreement for that fund.
9 Seven, Your Honor, is Your Honor's order on the ordinary course
10 governance procedures.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MS. HAYWARD: Eight is the final term sheet. Nine is 13 the notice of amended operating protocols that was filed last 14 week.

15 THE COURT: All right. And then CVs of our board
16 members.

17 MS. HAYWARD: And then the CVs for the board members.

18 THE COURT: Any objections to these?

19 MS. REID: No objection, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: Okay. They're admitted.

21 MS. HAYWARD: Okay.

22 THE COURT: All right. Any cross-examination?

23 MS. REID: Yes, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MS. REID: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Penny Reid on

Seery - Cross/Reid

1 behalf of the Creditors Committee.

2 CROSS-EXAMINATION

3 BY MS. REID:

4 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Seery.

5 A Good afternoon.

6 Q You are aware, Mr. Seery, aren't you, of the Acis
7 bankruptcy?

8 A I'm aware of it, yes.

9 Q Okay. And you're aware that prior to that bankruptcy Mr.
10 Terry obtained an arbitration award in October of 2017.
11 Correct?

12 A I'm aware of that, yes.

13 Q And, Mr. Seery, are you aware that four days after that 14 arbitration award assets started being transferred away from 15 Acis, stripping it of its value at that time?

16 A I've read the judge's decision in the Acis case but I'm 17 not aware of any of the underlying facts, other than from 18 reading that case.

19 Q So you aren't aware of all the assets that went out of 20 Acis the day after an arbitration award was entered.

21 A No, I haven't looked at any of those.

22 Q Okay. And you're not aware that the day after a final 23 judgment was entered more assets were stripped from Acis. Is 24 that correct?

25 A Other than reading the Judge's decision I'm not aware of

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Reid

85

1 any of the specific assets, no.

2 Q Are you aware that two days after that, or entry of the 3 final judgment was ordered, Acis' entire risk retention
4 structure was transferred away from it and into the ownership
5 of Highland CLO Holdings?

6 A I'm aware of some of the facts relating to the Acis case
7 from the decision and I'm aware of some of the facts from the 8 Acis case because of my discussions with Ms. Patel and Mr.
9 Terry. I'm not aware of the specific transfers to which you're 10 referring without having -- looking at them.

11 Q Okay. So you're not aware that some of the assets that 12 were stripped from Acis went to one of the entities you're 13 wanting to send money to today. Is that right?

14 MS. HAYWARD: Objection. Your Honor, I'm not sure
15 how this is relevant to the Debtor's distribution motion --

16 MS. REID: Well, it's relevant to the distributions
17 that you're trying to give to the same entity.

18 MS. HAYWARD: Your Honor, I think right now Mr.
19 Okada --

20 THE WITNESS: What I --

21 THE COURT: Just a minute.

22 THE WITNESS: Sorry.

23 THE COURT: We have an objection. Let me hear the 24 objection.

25 MS. HAYWARD: Your Honor, I think at this point Mr.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Reid

86

1 Okada is the only one getting a distribution at issue in this
2 case as of now in light of the representation that was made by 3 Judge Lynn.

4 THE COURT: All right. Well, what is your response
5 to the relevance objection? She's saying that this line of 6 inquiry has kind of been taken off the table since -- I'm not
7 sure which entity, I think you're talking about the Holdco, CLO
8 Holdco. Right?

9 MS. HAYWARD: Yes, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Since now the disbursement that would 11 have gone to it is being put off the table and would go into 12 the registry of the Court. So what is your response?

13 MS. REID: Well, Your Honor, and I can take it off,
14 but currently it's my understanding that Mr. Okada is a 25
15 percent owner in Holdco. But I can move on to the next 16 question.

17 BY MS. REID:

18 Q Which is, are you aware that Mr. Okada right after the 19 final judgment was entered transferred their entire interest to 20 Nutra Limited?

21 A Who transferred to whom?

22 Q Right after the final judgment --

23 A Right.

24 Q -- that Mr. Terry obtained, Mr. Okada transferred their 25 entire limited partner interest in Acis, LP to Nutra.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Reid

87

1 A So I apologize. A couple of things. One is it goes to 2 what you said, I don't believe Mr. Okada has any interest in 3 sale of Holdco, but you're saying Mr. Okada and their in your 4 question, and so it doesn't make sense. He's an individual.
5 So I just don't know what you're asking me. You said Mr. Okada
6 transferred their interest. Who's their?

7 Q Are you aware that Acis -- that you're aware that after 8 the entry of the Acis judgment that Mr. Okada's limited
9 partners interest in Acis was transferred to Nutra?

10 MS. HAYWARD: Again, Your Honor, I lodge the same
11 objection to relevance.

12 THE COURT: All right. Again, what is your response
13 to the relevance objection?

14 MS. REID: I think it's very relevant because I mean 15 he has been saying that they have a fiduciary duty to 16 investors. Mr. Okada is not your normal independent investor.
17 It's a related party that has engaged in prior improper acts in 18 this court which you're aware, aren't you -- well.

19 THE COURT: Yeah, I'll overrule the objection and 20 allow a little latitude.

21 THE WITNESS: So I think what you're referring to is 22 the position in Nutra and I'm aware of some of those issues.
23 Mr. Okada apparently owns 25 percent of Nutra, Mr. Dondero owns 24 75 percent of it. The control in Nutra is actually vested in 25 Highland Capital Management through a control agreement. So

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Reid

88

1 I'm not -- I'm aware that they made a transfer and that Nutra
2 owns that interest now, and I'm aware that that split is 75-25,
3 I assume because of that split just like ATM Services, Mr.
4 Okada doesn't have any say in how it's run. And the control in 5 that entity anyway is vested in Highland, the Debtor.

6 BY MS. REID:

7 Q So you're aware there were improper transfers made at -- 8 during -- before the Acis bankruptcy. Is that correct?

9 A I'm aware --

10 Q You're not aware?

11 A I'm aware of the decision and I'm aware of the transfers.
12 The designation of it then as improper, I'm not sure that I can 13 say one way or the other because I've looked at the transfers
14 and I can't tell you whether that transfer was improper. So if 15 you're asking me if I'm aware that that transfer occurred, I
16 think I said I was. I don't think it's fair for you to color
17 that the transfer was improper. If somebody --

18 Q Are you aware of the Court's decision --

19 A I am --

20 Q -- that they were improper?

21 A -- I don't recall the Court's decision with respect to 22 that transfer. There were a lot of transfers, a number of 23 which the Judge ruled were improper.

24 Q Okay. So you are aware that there were improper transfers
25 made from Acis that the Judge found were improper. Correct?

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Reid

89

1 A Yes, I am.

2 Q Okay. And you're aware that Mr. Okada was the Chief
3 Investment Officer at the time those transfers were made.
4 Correct?

5 A Of which entity?

6 Q Of Highland, of the Debtor.

7 A I believe he was -- I believe he was a co-CIO of the 8 Debtor at that time, but I'm not positive.

9 Q So you don't know.

10 A I'm not sure, no.

11 Q Okay. Do you know he was -- he was the Debtor's -- so you
12 do not know one way or the other.

13 A I am aware that at some time he was the CIO and then the 14 co-CIO. I don't know the specific time that he was the sole
15 CIO. I just don't know.

16 Q Do you know if he was involved with the Debtor at the time
17 these improper transfers were made?

18 A He definitely worked for the Debtor at that time.

19 Q Okay. You -- the reply that was filed today by the -- 20 this morning by the Debtor states that the making of these 21 distribution to Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada is essential to 22 rebuilding the Debtor's reputation in the marketplace. Is that
23 correct?

24 A I believe that's what it says, yes. I assume you're 25 reading it?

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Reid

90

1 Q I am.

2 A Okay.

3 Q Aren't you -- is the marketplace not well aware of 4 Highland's history including the Acis and the Redeemer
5 Committee litigation?

6 A I believe the market is aware of the Acis and Redeemer
7 litigations.

8 Q Okay. And is the marketplace well aware of the extensive
9 wrongdoing that Mr. Okada and Mr. Dondero engaged in as found
10 by this Court and the other tribunals?

11 A I don't know how the marketplace -- I know that they're 12 aware of the decisions, I can't tell you whether the 13 marketplace as a large general matter knows the specifics. I
14 don't know.

15 Q Have any non-insider investors expressed concern to you
16 over the possibility of Mr. Okada not receiving the 17 distribution?

18 A No, I don't believe so. I think -- just to make sure I
19 answered your question, have the non-insiders raised issues
20 about Mr. Okada --

21 Q Not getting distribution.

22 A No, there won't --

23 Q No one is really concerned about that except Mr. Okada.
24 Correct?

25 A I think each investor is concerned about their own

Seery - Cross/Reid

91

1 distributions, so like with respect to RCP I don't CalPERS
2 referred at all to the distributions to Ontario, they probably 3 don't care, they care about their own distributions.

4 Q And the only one we're talking about right now is the one
5 to Mr. Okada. Correct?

6 A That's correct. I hope so. Right? Meaning I'm under the 7 impression that the Committee doesn't object to the investment,
8 to the release of funds and the distribution to third-party
9 investors.

10 Q Mr. Seery, you testified that one of the reasons you're 11 seeking to distribute these funds is because the Debtor has 12 fiduciary duties to investors. Correct?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Okay. But these funds aren't being distributed to just 15 regular investors. Correct? They're being distributed to 16 insiders.

17 A Again, unfortunately these are things one has to be 18 precise with. The question is insider under some securities
19 law, or insider under the Bankruptcy Code? So --

20 A Insider under the protocols.

21 Q I believe the term there, again, we should be precise, is 22 related party. So he's a related party under the protocols.
23 As far as I know there's no separation under the Investment
24 Advisors Act, under the Cayman law, under Delaware law, or 25 under the contracts with respect to persons who might have

92

1 worked for the investment manager who made an investment in the
2 fund.

3 Q Are you aware that the Debtor also has duties to the 4 Creditors Committee?

5 A I don't believe the Debtor has any duties to the Creditors
6 Committee.

7 Q To the estate?

8 A I believe the Debtor has significant and overriding
9 duties, but that's what we're here for, to the estate.

10 Q To the estate. And were very conscious of those duties.
11 Correct?

12 A I am indeed.

13 Q That's what you testified. Right?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay. So can you explain to me what -- how you consider 16 the estate's considerations in deciding to distribute these,
17 what was your consideration of the estates, how does this 18 benefit the estate?

19 A This benefits the estate because we have an obligation to 20 the funds and to the investors in the funds to perform
21 according to the terms of the funds. Unfortunately there is no
22 provision in the fund documents or in the law that allows us to 23 treat the investors in the funds in a disparate way. And we 24 believe, after consulting with outside counsel, domestic and 25 Cayman, considering federal law under the Advisors Act, as well

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Reid

93

1 as Delaware law, that the only way to make distributions, other
2 than if there was a law change, was pro rata to all of the 3 investors.

4 So in order to vindicate our obligations to the 5 outside investors, we also have to pay the inside investors.
6 In addition, if we don't pay the inside investors, there's no
7 basis not to do that. Now there may ultimately be no liability
8 because it will be hard to bring a case. But it seems to me
9 that incurring potentially liability is not in the best
10 interest of the estate. Holding up a distribution from non-
11 estate property doesn't seem to do anything to help the estate.
12 In fact, it puts it at risk.

13 And so we did the work and that's how we determined,
14 exercising what I think is our duty of care, which is really
15 researching this, and we spent a lot of time and a lot of money
16 making sure we got this right. And our duty of loyalty. Is 17 there some good reason that the fund could hold up the 18 distribution. Until we have a claim is there a valid to attack
19 these distributions.

20 By the way, there were $8 million out of 180 million.
21 Now if there had been 180 -- if there had been 172 out of 180,
22 maybe we would come in here and say, We should something a
23 little bit different because we're really letting the small
24 outside investors dictate us and force us to make distributions
25 to related parties that the Committee has some concern about.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Reid

94

1 But while $8 million is real money, and I don't deny
2 that, again, it's not huge in this case. And it seemed to us,
3 after doing the work, that we were putting the estate at risk
4 by not exercising our fiduciary duties. Moreover, we each have 5 reputations, and they're important to us, and they don't 6 override our fiduciary duties. We're not going to do things to 7 aggrandize ourselves, to help our reputation versus the estate.
8 But running this Debtor correctly seems to us, looking at the 9 history, was the right thing to do.

10 Q Has anyone, Mr. Seery, threatened to bring a fiduciary
11 duty claim against you if you don't pay these funds?

12 A No.

13 Q Has any -- has Mr. Okada said he's going to bring a claim
14 against you if you don't distribute these funds?

15 A No, and nor did I consult him about it. We just told him
16 what we were doing. We're not -- I'm not inviting someone to 17 sue us. That I think would be, you know, grossly wrong for us.

18 Q Now we've touched a little bit on this, Mr. Okada owes the 19 Debtor 1.3 million. Correct? In the demand note?

20 A Approximately, yes.

21 Q All right. And you have made a demand on Mr. Okada.
22 Correct?

23 A That's correct.

24 Q And he hasn't paid it. Right?

25 A No, he has not.

Seery - Cross/Reid

95

1 Q And that's money into the estate. Correct?

2 A That will be, yes.

3 Q Now do you still think it's okay to just hand him off, you
4 know, $4 million and even though he's not paying the estate
5 that you have a duty to?

6 A There's no such thing in my life as just handing off $4
7 million. This is fund money --

8 Q Distributable.

9 A -- that will be distributed to the owners of the fund pro
10 rata. We're not handing off anything to Mr. Okada or anybody
11 else.

12 Q But Mr. Okada has not agreed to pay back his note.
13 Correct?

14 A He's not agreed to pay it back, no. Technically I would 15 say no.

16 Q Okay. And that's because of some severance agreement that 17 you're not aware of what the terms are. Is that right?

18 A I have not -- we have not -- I have not looked at the 19 terms, I don't believe many of my fellow directors yet have.
20 It's something that is on the burner for us to get to as soon
21 as this is over.

22 Q And are --

23 A He's pushing for it.

24 Q -- are you aware that the Committee has asked for that 25 severance agreement?

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Reid

96

1 A I was not aware of that, no.

2 Q You're not aware of that.

3 A I haven't seen it.

4 Q And you don't know that it hasn't been produced to us. Is
5 that correct?

6 A I don't -- I have not seen it myself, I don't -- didn't 7 know that you'd asked for it, nor do I know that it hadn't been 8 produced.

9 Q Okay. And you haven't looked at it.

10 A I haven't seen it.

11 Q So you don't know if his failure to pay that money back is 12 valid or not. Is that correct?

13 A That's -- I don't -- he still owes the money whether he 14 has appropriate setoffs and whether a settlement agreement
15 would actually work as one. I don't -- haven't really analyzed
16 that and I don't know that our counsel has either. It may be 17 that he owes the money and we're holding a severance agreement,
18 but those aren't mutual obligations that are subject to setoff.

19 Q You don't know one way or the other whether he has a right
20 of setoff. Correct?

21 A I don't believe he -- other than perhaps expenses I
22 don't -- haven't heard any articulated monetary setoff against 23 the obligations he owes.

24 Q If the Court orders that his distribution be put into the 25 Court registry, do you still think you've breached your duty to

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Patel

97

1 the estate somehow by that?

2 A I think if the Court orders it, I don't think we would be
3 subject to a breach of liability. I think that we're here
4 vindicating our responsibilities and our duties to investors.
5 If there's an interceding court order, we will follow it.

6 Q Thank you.

7 MS. HAYWARD: I have no further questions.

8 THE COURT: All right. I think that was about 17
9 minutes. Any other examination? Okay. You'll have 13
10 minutes.

11 MS. PATEL: Just a few questions, Your Honor.

12 CROSS-EXAMINATION

13 BY MS. PATEL:

14 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Seery.

15 A Good afternoon.

16 Q Mr. Seery, I think your testimony was that the fund, let's
17 use RCP -- or I'm sorry, that's the wrong one --

18 A Dynamic?

19 Q I think it was the Dynamic --

20 A Dynamic.

21 Q -- Income Fund is the one that Mr. Okada has an 22 investment in. Correct?

23 A That's correct.

24 Q Okay. And the fund has duties to Mr. Okada including 25 fiduciary duties as an investor. Right?

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Patel

98

1 A That's correct.

2 Q Okay. Does Mr. Okada have duties to the fund?

3 A I don't believe he does, no.

4 Q Okay. Did he ever?

5 A I believe he did.

6 Q Okay. That was during his tenure at Highland Capital
7 Management. Right?

8 A I think as an officer of Highland Capital Management, the 9 investment manager, he would have had duties to the fund, yes.

10 Q Okay. And have you investigated whether he's breached any 11 of his duties to the fund?

12 A We have looked, we have not seen anything. We know that 13 the redemptions came in without any objection. We have not 14 spoken to the individual investors.

15 Q Okay. So would it be fair to say then that you haven't
16 concluded your investigation of whether Mr. Okada has breached
17 any of his duties to the fund itself?

18 A I don't think that would be fair. I think what would be 19 fair to say is we've taken a look, we see no evidence
20 whatsoever that there were any breaches by Mr. Okada of his 21 duty to that fund, so there would be no reason to undertake an 22 investigation that we had yet to complete.

23 Q Okay. And who undertook that investigation, was it just 24 the board or did you have others involved?

25 A It was the board.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Patel

99

1 Q Okay. No one else?

2 A The investigation with respect to the -- we got data from 3 other people but I'm the one who looked at whether there were 4 any claims related to the redemptions, any objections to any of 5 the other distributions, any objections to the fees, and we 6 found none.

7 Q Okay. So no outside counsel advised you with respect to 8 whether Mr. Okada had potentially breached any duties to the 9 fund?

10 A No, again, it's not something that we would have looked at 11 with no evidence whatsoever that there was any sort of 12 complaint or breach.

13 Q Okay. All right. Mr. Seery, with respect to the, I'll 14 call it the agreement because I'm assuming that it is an 15 agreement, that Mr. Dondero's counsel announced on the record
16 regarding putting the funds that would otherwise be payable to 17 Mr. Dondero into the registry of the Court. Do you have an 18 understanding whether that agreement also extends to Highland
19 Capital Management Services?

20 A Yeah, just to be clear because, again, we should be 21 precise, Mr. Dondero was not going to receive any money. The 22 CLO Holdco, which is owned by the charitable DAF has 23 investments in the Argentina Fund and the Dynamic Fund. It was 24 going to receive money. Highland Capital Services has around a 25 2 percent interest in RCP, it was going to receive money.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Patel

100

1 I understand that Mr. Dondero, through his counsel,
2 directed that the distribution to Highland Capital Services
3 would not be made. Mr. Okada owns 25 percent of that, he was 4 not consulted. I know that because I spoke to Mr. Okada. The 5 distribution with respect to the CLO Holdco has been similarly
6 treated, but that was done by Grant Scott talking to Mr. Nelms
7 (phonetic) for the charitable DAF that controls the CLO Holdco.

8 Q Okay. So, again, to be clear, Mr. Okada has not consented
9 to the agreement that was announced on the record with respect
10 to any distributions to Highland Capital Management Services.
11 Correct?

12 A He has not, but since he doesn't control it and Mr.
13 Dondero does, the agreement is binding.

14 Q Okay. And how do you know that Mr. Dondero controls
15 Highland Capital Management Services?

16 A Mr. Okada told me.

17 Q Okay. All right. Mr. Seery, with respect to Mr. Okada, I
18 believe your testimony was he separated from Highland Capital
19 Management in September of 2019. Correct?

20 A I believe I testified that he originally began his 21 separation in the spring, I don't know exactly when it was, and 22 I believe his official resignation was some time around
23 September.

24 Q Okay. Would September 30 of 2019 sound about right?

25 A It -- approximately, I don't know the date.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - Cross/Patel

101

1 Q Okay. So it was towards the end of September though.

2 Correct?

3 A I don't -- I don't know whether it was September 1,
4 September 15 or September 30, I just don't know the answer.

5 Q Okay. And at the time Mr. Okada separated from Highland
6 or any time before then, did Mr. Okada have a non-compete
7 agreement?

8 A I have not looked at Mr. Okada's contract.

9 Q Okay.

10 A So I don't know.

11 Q All right. Does -- did Mr. Okada have something called a 12 non-solicit --

13 A I don't know.

14 Q -- where he wouldn't solicit clients for example of 15 Highland Capital Management?

16 A I don't know.

17 Q Okay. Did Mr. Okada have what's called a non-recruit 18 where he wouldn't come in and try and recruit employees of 19 Highland Capital Management?

20 A Again, because I haven't looked at his contract, if he had 21 one, I don't know that he did, and because I haven't looked at 22 it, and I testified that I haven't seen this severance
23 agreement he's talking about, I don't have any understanding of 24 the terms of Mr. Okada's employment with Highland Capital
25 Management.

1 Q Okay. So you just haven't looked at any of those things.

2 A That's correct.

3 Q All right. Are you aware -- well, did you have an
4 opportunity to look at -- I believe there was a press release
5 that was somewhere around September 2019 where Mr. Okada said
6 he was actually retiring from Highland Capital Management?

7 A I would have no reason to have looked at such a thing in 8 September.

9 Q Okay. All right. So you haven't seen that. Let me ask
10 you another question, are you aware that Mr. Okada has a new 11 business by the name of Sycamore Tree Capital?

12 A I'm aware that he intends to start a new fund, I have no
13 idea what the name is and I'd have no idea what development -- 14 stage of development it's in.

15 Q Okay. Are you aware if any Highland employees have been 16 engaged by Sycamore Tree Capital

17 A I'm aware that at least one maybe, I'd have no idea
18 whether that employee, ex-employee now, is involved or not.

19 Q And isn't that employee Troy Parker?

20 A That's correct, yes.

21 Q Okay. What did Troy Parker do for Highland Capital
22 Management?

23 A Most recently he ran the PE book.

24 Q Okay.

25 MS. PATEL: No further questions, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: All right. We have seven minutes. Do
2 you have questions, Judge Lynn? We have a little bit of time?

3 JUDGE LYNN: No, but I just want to make clear Mr.
4 Dondero's suggestion for resolving the motion was not a
5 dickered agreement, it was a suggestion that we would hope
6 would make life easier for the parties and the Court.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Thank you.

8 I had one or two questions. Is there going to be 9 redirect? Well, no, you used all your time, you don't get 10 redirect.

11 (Laughter.)

12
13 MS. HAYWARD: And, Your Honor, I don't have redirect.

14 THE COURT: Oh, very good.

15 EXAMINATION

16 BY THE COURT:

17 Q Let me ask you, sir, I want to revisit Dynamic, that's the 18 one I hear most about obviously since that's the one that Mr.
19 Okada --

20 A Yes.

21 Q -- has the distribution rights from. You know, I was 22 fixated before I came out here a little on the time line.
23 Right? So the pleadings said Dynamic, the termination date was 24 November 15, 2019.

25 A Correct, Your Honor.

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - By the Court

104

1 Q About 30 days after the Highland bankruptcy was filed.

2 What I heard your testimony to be was that pre-petition the
3 largest third-party investor -- I wrote it down phonetically --

4 A Realdania.

5 Q -- Realdania --

6 A I'm not sure if there's someone in the courtroom who know
7 them.

8 Q Sounds like a Spanish company maybe.

9 A I believe they're a European company, it's an investor I'm 10 not familiar with, Your Honor, but I have seen the redemption
11 notices.

12 Q Okay. They issued a $65 million --

13 A I believe it was in the neighborhood of 65 million, yes.

14 Q And it was pre-petition? You wouldn't know?

15 A It was pre-petition, I think it was around 40 percent of 16 the fund.

17 Q Okay. I mean do you remember when? Was it --

18 A I believe it was in the spring and it followed a -- spring
19 or early summer and it followed a separate redemption from a
20 different investor.

21 Q Okay. So there was another third-party investor, even 22 before Realdania that --

23 A That's my recollection, yes, Your Honor.

24 Q -- that was unaffiliated with Highland.

25 A That's correct.

Seery - By the Court

105

1 Q Okay. So it's your business judgment that once these two
2 biggies issued their redemptions, it just wasn't worthwhile to 3 keep this fund going anymore.

4 A That's correct, Your Honor. And as I said, Mr. Okada was 5 a driver to that fund and he had left. He did not actually
6 redeem, but he was being compulsory redeemed as the fund went 7 into liquidation. So all of the investors, redeemed and non,
8 will be treated the same.

9 Q All right. So I guess one thing I'm getting at is timing
10 of Mr. Okada leaving versus timing of these third-party
11 redemptions happening.

12 A Right. I could --

13 Q Is there any --

14 A I see no connection whatsoever. And, again, his piece of 15 the fund was about -- I believe it was round 12 percent of the 16 fund.

17 Q Yeah, his --

18 A And it's a material amount of money I suppose to most 19 folks, including myself, but it's not -- it wasn't a driver
20 whatsoever that we could see, and he did not redeem. So the 21 third-party redeemed, Okada was leaving having been the driver
22 of the fund, it was an undersized fund anyway, there was no
23 real valid reason to keep a small fund trying to do this around
24 after Mr. Okada left.

25 Q Okay. I'm just wondering whether I should or not, you

Seery - By the Court

106

1 know, the timing of this. So this is -- starts spring of 2019,
2 but then a month post-petition let's terminate this thing. I
3 mean who actually makes that decision?

4 A Well, the decision to continue forward is made by the 5 board. Before that it would have been made by the managers of 6 the funds or the compliance group. So I have not looked into 7 specifically who said, Let's terminate it. To be perfectly
8 frank, I don't know --

9 Q But it would --

10 A -- the specifics.

11 Q -- the manager, Highland?

12 A It's Highland who determines to terminate it. Ultimately,
13 if all the investors issued redemption notices, then the fund
14 would have to liquidate --

15 Q Right.

16 A -- on its own. So Highland --

17 Q Right.

18 A -- wouldn't have any say about it. But to put it into 19 liquidation, I believe it was Highland that did it. Some of 20 the funds, it could be foreign directors, but that's not what 21 happened.

22 Q Uh-huh. Okay. So there are third-party non-affiliated 23 investors still in it, there's 35 million that would go out the 24 door and --

25 A It's about -- there's a couple of assets that still have

Seery - By the Court

107

1 to be liquidated. Approximately 85 percent of the distribution
2 is to third-party un-affiliated investors. And then we --
3 we'll have -- we'll retain some cash to make sure that we can 4 manage the liquidation of the fund and the dissolution of the 5 entities. But we still have to get rid of a small amount of 6 assets that are pretty liquid.

7 Q Okay. Now I heard you also say that Highland isn't owning
8 any fees anymore on these refunds. Did I not hear you say
9 that?

10 A Yeah, certainly -- so I think on ours I think. On Dynamic 11 and on AROF, the Argentina Recovery Opportunity Fund, once they 12 were put into liquidation they don't earn any fees anymore.
13 The --

14 Q Okay. Let me -- okay, so when did that stop, when were 15 they "put into liquidation" so the management fees stop?

16 A I believe that Dynamic would have been in the fall, I
17 don't know the exact date, and Argentina --

18 Q Well --

19 A -- was before that.

20 Q -- the Court termination date used in the pleadings was
21 November 20, 2019.

22 A Yeah, but I don't recall the exact date, Your Honor. We 23 can certainly figure that out, I just don't recall off the top
24 of my head. When the fee cutoff date -- the fee cutoff date
25 for RCP was I believe in April of 2018 when the one-year

Seery - By the Court

108

1 extension was given. That was the trade for the extension.

2 Q Okay. But you don't know for sure when the management fee
3 cutoff was --

4 A No.

5 Q -- on either Argentina or Dynamic.

6 A No, that's correct, Your Honor.

7 Q I mean would it have been in November 2019 you think?

8 A I think it was before that, but I don't -- I believe so
9 but I don't know for sure.

10 Q Okay.

11 A If I'm wrong, I'll figure that out and correct it to you.

12 Q Okay. All right. Thank you. You're --

13 A Thank you.

14 Q -- excused.

15 A Thank you.

16 THE COURT: Does anyone in the room know the answer
17 to that?

18 MS. HAYWARD: Your Honor, we can figure it out very 19 quickly I think.

20 THE COURT: Really? Okay.

21 (Pause in the proceedings.)

22 THE COURT: Actually I had one more question for Mr.
23 Seery.

24 THE WITNESS: Yes.

25 BY THE COURT:

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

Seery - By the Court

109

1 Q Do we have any other Highland managed funds out there that 2 are imminently going to be going into wind-down mode? Is that 3 easy to answer?

4 A We have a number of CLO funds that are what we call 1.0
5 CLOs. They're old and they're effectively winding down. And a
6 number of those we don't get fees off of, but they had --
7 because they own very illiquid assets, we have to realize on 8 those assets. May of those have cross-ownership to funds that 9 we do get fees on. We need --

10 Q Let me back you up. Why didn't Highland get fees on 11 those?

12 A Because sometimes in the CLO structure it depends on what 13 kind of asset gets treated under the net asset value, so for 14 example if it's equity, it may not count, even if it has a
15 value, you don't get paid a fee on it. So if you had a loan
16 that converted to equity, some of those CLOs you may not get a
17 fee on because you don't own any loans anymore. So, but most 18 of those assets, if a CLO owned equity for example in a PE
19 company, we would have other funds that owned additional equity
20 in that same PE company.

21 We do have other assets where they aren't necessarily 22 wind-down, but there will be distributions to entities that may 23 or may not be related parties under the protocols, and we are 24 in the process, and the Committee's aware of it, selling
25 certain assets, and hopefully those sales will go the way we

WWW.JJCOURT.COM

110

1 want them to. They're valuable assets so we feel we have a
2 good opportunity to realize good value for the estate. There
3 would be requirements on certain of them to pay off debt from 4 certain entities before we can distribute money back up to 5 Highland Capital.

6 Q All right. Thank you.

7 A Thank you.

8 THE COURT: You're excused.

9 All right. Anything else today?

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Do you want to hear closings, or have 11 you heard enough, Your Honor?

12 THE COURT: I mean if you have a quick one or two 13 minute closing, I'll hear that, to recap anything. Did you
14 have that quick answer that Ms. Hayward --

15 MR. POMERANTZ: We are --

16 THE COURT: -- was confident about?

17 MR. POMERANTZ: We are trying to find it.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: We have a couple of emails out,
20 hopefully by, we get a couple of answers.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

22 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I just wanted the 24 highlight the fiduciary duty as you -- I know it was a subject
25 of discussion with Mr. Seery, cross-examination. Again, as you

111

1 heard, and as the only evidence before Your Honor is, Mr.
2 Seery, who as Your Honor knows is a restructuring lawyer,
3 practice in it. He's fully aware of what the fiduciary duty
4 requires.

5           And first and foremost, I think it may even be 28 USC
6 959, the Debtor has to operate in accordance with applicable
7 law. Every debtor before Your Honor has to act in accordance 8 with applicable law, and if the debtor is not acting in 9 accordance with applicable law, then they are creating 10 liability. As Mr. Seery testified, that is exactly what that 11 the Debtor is doing. And this concept of dueling fiduciary
12 duties or the board taking certain actions that just happened
13 to benefit insiders as indicating that they are not looking out
14 for the estate is just not accurate. That's not how the law
15 works and I think Mr. Seery said it correctly, that the Debtor
16 fulfills its fiduciary duty to the estate by operating in 17 accordance with applicable law.

18           With respect to 105, Your Honor, the cases cited by 19 the Committee don't support granting injunctive relief forward
20 of attachment without going through the necessary process.
21 They do cite the DeLorean case which at first blush sounds like 22 a court authorized the holding of money, but if you read that 23 case carefully, it was done because there was a complaint and 24 because the Court ultimately determined that the evidence
25 before the Court established grounds for preliminary

1 injunction.

2           Mr. Clemente has asked Your Honor to hold that the 3 objection filed satisfies the standard. But the objection
4 isn't a legal document. The Committee has not put on any 5 evidence to support any claims that exist. The testimony from 6 Mr. Seery is that there's a claim under a note and that there
7 are defenses to the note. So Your Honor does not have the 8 sufficient evidentiary basis in order to meet the standards of 9 the injunction of which irreparable harm -- there's a whole
10 host of reasons.

11           So while we understand what the Committee wanted to 12 do. If they wanted to file an action, they could have. We 13 don't expect them to have completed their investigation on all
14 the types of claims they're looking at. But they've been aware 15 of this Okada note for a couple of months. It would not have 16 been difficult for them to file, as they have standing, a
17 lawsuit to recover any. They asked us to issue a demand note,
18 we did, and we got the answer.

19           So, Your Honor, I don't think there's a basis under 20 105, the way it's being used here and the lack of evidentiary
21 record to support it. And for those reasons, Your Honor, we 22 would ask that Your Honor support the motion and other than the 23 distributions that are being held in the registry, allow the 24 distribution to be made to Mr. Okada.

25           THE COURT: Okay.

113

1 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: All right. Other quick closings?

3 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, I'll be very quick.

4 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE COMMITTEE

5 MR. CLEMENTE: There's obviously a lot more that I
6 could say, but I'll be respectful and be very quick.

7 First of all, Your Honor is the judge and you're the 8 one that determines what the law is and what the duties
9 ultimately are for this Debtor. Mr. Seery I think indicated in 10 his testimony that, for what it's worth, he does not believe
11 that there would be a viable claim for breach of fiduciary duty 12 if Your Honor ordered the distribution to Mr. Okada be put in 13 the Court registry.

14 I think the testimony was clear from Mr. Seery that 15 Mr. Okada, at all times relevant, when all the things that 16 happened that involved the Redeemer Committee, that involved
17 Acis, that involved UBS, Mr. Okada was at least co-Chief 18 Investment Officer and we all know he was co-founder of 19 Highland. I think Your Honor's questions, and perhaps 20 frustration with sort of trying to figure out some of the 21 answers, show how interrelated all of these things are and the 22 various capacities and roles that Mr. Okada had back at the 23 time when all these different transactions occurred.

24 I think the testimony we heard is that Mr. Seery did
25 a lot of work around why we should pay Mr. Okada, but almost no

114

1 work around why we shouldn't pay Mr. Okada. And so I go back
2 to what I said earlier, Your Honor, I think Mr. Okada is 3 perfectly capable of coming into this court and arguing that 4 once the monies that were put into this Court's registry should 5 be distributed to him, he can come in and do that.

6 But I think for purposes of today, Your Honor has 7 heard more than enough to come to the conclusion that the 8 appropriate remedy here is to place the money within the 9 registry of this Court. It satisfies the fiduciary duty of the 10 Debtor and it protects the interest of Mr. Okada, who is free
11 to come into this court and make whatever argument he so
12 chooses as to his entitlement to those funds.

13 Unless Your Honor has any questions of me, I'll sit 14 down.

15 THE COURT: Thank you.

16 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you.

17 THE COURT: Anything else?

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, in answer to you
19 question, November 11 was the date that the fees were no longer
20 payable to the Debtor in the Dynamic Fund.

21 THE COURT: November 11 post-petition.

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Correct.

23 THE COURT: I like being transparent and I -- and so
24 I sometimes share my thoughts hoping that it will help. But 25 I'm -- you all get why I'm fixated on this point? Maybe I'm 115

1 sharing my thoughts when I don't have to. But the time line
2 looks suspect, whether it should be or not, it looks maybe
3 problematic. Do you see what I'm saying?

4 We had this fund that I understand never got to real
5 scale and in spring 2019 we have a couple of big unrelated
6 third-parties -- third-party investors issue redemptions and 7 that makes it really not a very worthwhile fund, so maybe it
8 should go into wind-down mode. Nevertheless, Highland has been 9 continuing to get its management fee. I don't know how much
10 management fee, but it's been getting a management fee until it
11 files bankruptcy, and then, Oh, let's wind this sucker down.

12 Do you see what -- you know, I don't know. I mean
13 again, a hearing for another day. But this is the kind of 14 thing I get concerned about, and maybe kind of want to look
15 into the bona fides of the decision making process to wind
16 down, let's terminate this thing and make disbursements. And,
17 you know, did we have any fingerprints of this on insiders that 18 should make me troubled. I don't know. I mean if I'm going 19 out on a lark here, just stop me.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, look, Your Honor, I certainly 21 understand why you're concerned. As you said at the first 22 hearing, you have stuff in your head that you can't forget, and 23 I understand. I wasn't around but I understand the history and 24 especially the history with certainly similar things that may 25 have happened in the Acis case.

116

1           The facts are that Realdania made its redemption
2 request on August 15, the fees that the -- August 15, but that
3 the liquidation was the time where the management fees stopped,
4 which incidentally were $12,000 a month based upon the level of 5 this spot.

6           THE COURT: Okay.

7           MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, I understand your 8 concerns, however, what I would say is, you have Mr. Seery here
9 answering your questions. You have Mr. Seery who said he's 10 conducted an thorough investigation. At some point, and I'm -- 11 you know, obviously you brought up a couple of questions, at 12 some point the creditors -- Your Honor has to accept that if 13 the board has done a thorough analysis, and we're coming into 14 this hearing today, and before we filed the motion, as Mr.
15 Seery said, we crossed all our Ts and dotted all our Is.

16           We spent a lot of money collectively, the different
17 firms that are involved, because we wanted to make sure it's 18 the right thing. We understood that coming to Your Honor 19 asking to pay investors who are related parties, given the 20 context of this case and given the Committee's opposition, was 21 going to be a big challenge. We thought it was the right thing
22 to do, but we wanted to make sure Your Honor knows that the 23 board actually did a thorough investigation, again, spearheaded 24 by Mr. Seery, who is not just someone off the street, but as he 25 testified, this is what he's done over the last 10-15 years.

117

1           So I certainly understand Your Honor's concerns. Mr.
2 Seery I think has testified about the thorough investigation,
3 and that the 12,000 a month, that I think if he got back on the 4 stand, he would testify that would be a breach of duty to the 5 investors to continue on getting fees. There's an obligation
6 at some point, when the redemptions happened, to either pay the 7 redemptions, put the fund in liquidation, and that's what
8 happened.

9           And just because it wasn't done by the board, it was 10 done before, it was important, as I mentioned in my opening,
11 and as Mr. Seery testified, he looked at that carefully and 12 thoroughly. He didn't want to be embarrassed, we didn't want
13 to be embarrassed coming in and not having those answers. So,
14 Your Honor, this is a long way of saying I think at some point 15 the board is entitled to the deference of business judgment if 16 they can demonstrate that they've gone through the process
17 necessary to earn the deference to business judgment, which I
18 think Mr. Seery has done.

19           THE COURT: Okay. And while we're on the subject, I
20 mean 12,000 a month was the management fee to Highland from 21 Dynamic. What was the management fee from Argentina, do you
22 have that off the top of your head?

23           MR. SEERY: It would have been in the same -- these 24 are approximately --

25           THE COURT: The same range?

118

1 MR. SEERY: -- the same neighborhood.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. SEERY: That the meetings would be based upon
4 fees.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. SEERY: Or the redemptions (indiscernible)
7 variable asset now (indiscernible).

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. SEERY: (indiscernible).

10 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Just a minute while I
11 do some math.

12 (Pause in the proceedings.)

13 THE COURT: All right. I'm doing this math in my 14 head. There's a $7.4 million note receivable from HCM Services
15 of which Okada is the 25 percent owner of.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, 7.4 is not the demand
17 notes. Again, 985,000 is the demand notes. The rest of those 18 notes are performing and not in the fall.

19 THE COURT: Okay. All right. With regard to the 20 motion and the objection and the Committee there's been a lot
21 of argument about 105 and what it permits the Court to do and 22 what it doesn't as far as fashioning an equitable remedy here.
23 Here I mean it's clear that this Debtor has receivables owed by 24 these related parties, although they don't necessarily match up
25 perfectly with the amount of disbursements that are owed by

119

1 these funds and of course the funds are separate legal entities
2 than the Debtor. So I'm not glossing over that fact or 3 ignoring that fact.

4 But I do think the Court has broad equitable powers
5 to remedy -- to fashion remedies that preserve the status quo
6 and I think it is appropriate here to order that most of this 7 money, that most of the 8.6 million that would go to related 8 investors in these three funds, be put into the registry of the 9 court pending further motions, orders, adversary proceedings
10 anyone wants to file to make a claim to that money. I said
11 most of it.

12 I am going to order that with regard to the amount
13 that would be payable to Mr. Okada, the 4.176 million, we will 14 subtract from that the 1.3 million that represents the demand
15 note receivable that the Debtor has so that I'm essentially 16 doing an equitable offset at that point. So he can only be 17 paid -- he should only be paid from the Dynamic Fund whatever 18 4.176 million minus 1.3 million is, and the rest shall be put 19 into the registry of the court. And everybody's rights are 20 reserved on anything and everything with regarding to do to 21 and do froms.

22 I reserve the right to supplement in more detail in a
23 written form of order to justify the Court's 105 action here.
24 But, Mr. Pomerantz, I'd ask you to upload a form of order on 25 this, please.

1 MR. POMERANTZ: We'll be happy to, Your Honor. We'll
2 circulate it to the Committee and Ms. Patel as well.

3 THE COURT: All right. Well, thank you all, and --

4 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, but just to be clear
5 though, the other amounts, correct, to HCM Services and CLO
6 Holdco, would that be part of the order or what did Your Honor
7 have in mind with respect to that?

8 THE COURT: Well --

9 MR. CLEMENTE: Because I believe those are to be 10 deposited with the Court as well, yes.

11 THE COURT: -- all of -- everything gets deposited
12 in the registry of the court, except Mr. Okada will get 13 whatever the differential is of 4.176 minus 1.3. Okay?

14 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

16 COURT SECURITY OFFICER: All rise.

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - JUNE 15, 2020 - 1:35 P.M.

2                   THE COURT: Please be seated. All right. This is 3 Judge Jernigan. We have a hearing in Highland. I've got 4 problems with this chair. Just a minute. Here we go. We
5 have a motion to lift stay in the Highland Capital case, Case
6 No. 19-34054. It's a motion of UBS for relief from the stay
7 to go forward with litigation in the New York state court.

8                   I'm going to do a roll call, hopefully as efficiently as 9 possible. I'm going to first call the names that I think are 10 likely to be with us, and if I don't call your name, at the 11 end of the roll call, if you wish to appear, I'll invite you
12 to go ahead.

13                  All right. First, for UBS, the Movant, I'm guessing we 14 have some Latham & Watkins folks, and perhaps Marty Sosland as 15 well. I'll start with you. Mr. Sosland, are you by chance on 16 the phone?

17                  MR. SOSLAND: I am, Your Honor.

18                  THE COURT: Good afternoon.

19                  MR. SOSLAND: I'm on WebEx.

20                  THE COURT: You're on the video?

21                  MR. SOSLAND: Good afternoon.

22                  THE COURT: Good afternoon. Who else do we have? Do
23 we have Mr. Clubok, Ms. Tomkowiak? Who do we have from Latham
24 & Watkins?

25                  MR. CLUBOK: Good afternoon, Your Honor. It's Andrew

5

1 Clubok from Latham & Watkins. And I'm here with my partner,
2 Sarah Tomkowiak.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Good afternoon. All right. So I
4 think we have four objectors in all. I'll start with the 5 Debtor. Mr. Pomerantz, I'm assuming you're on the phone with 6 some of your team?

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, I am, Your Honor. I'm also on 8 the phone with Robert Feinstein, Alan Kornfeld, and Greg Demo.

9 THE COURT: All right. Good afternoon to all of you.

10 MR. FEINSTEIN: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right. Do we have your local 12 counsel, Ms. Hayward or Mr. Annable?

13 MR. ANNABLE: Yes, Your Honor. Zachery Annable and 14 Melissa Hayward on behalf of the Debtor. We're here.

15 THE COURT: All right. Very good. Now I'll take --

16 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.
17 Before we went to the relief from stay, there was one minor
18 other item that Mr. Demo is going to handle that's resolved, 19 Hunton & Williams' application. So if he could put the 20 resolution on the record before we go into what's likely going 21 to be a lengthy hearing. But I didn't mean to interrupt Your 22 Honor from taking appearances.

23 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You know, I
24 didn't see that on our calendar and I thought in my brain, we 25 continued that to today, I think. So we'll start with that

1 once we finish the roll call.

2 All right. For the Unsecured Creditors' Committee, do we 3 have Ms. Reed, Mr. Clemente? Who do we have on the phone?

4 MR. CLEMENTE: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Matthew
5 Clemente from Sidley Austin on behalf of the Committee.

6 THE COURT: All right. Anyone else from Sidley
7 Austin?

8 MR. CLEMENTE: I think we're -- I think we're set,
9 Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: All right.

11 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you.

12 THE COURT: What about for the Redeemer Committee?
13 Do we have Mr. Platt or others on the phone?

14 MR. PLATT: Yes, Your Honor. Mark Platt is on, and I
15 believe Terri Mascherin from Jenner & Block is on video as 16 well, and Marc Hankin is on the phone --

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. PLATT: -- from Jenner.

19 THE COURT: Ms. Mascherin, Mr. Hankin, are you there?

20 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor. Terri Mascherin.

21 THE COURT: All right.

22 MS. MASCHERIN: Good afternoon.

23 THE COURT: All right. Then --

24 MR. HANKIN: Marc Hankin, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. All right. We also 7

1 had a joinder in the objections by Acis. Do we have Ms. Patel
2 or others for Acis?

3 MR. SHAW: Yes, Your Honor. Brian Shaw and Ms. Patel
4 are on for Acis.

5 THE COURT: All right. Well, those are all --

6 MS. PATEL: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Oh, go ahead.

8 MS. PATEL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. This is 9 Rakhee Patel.

10 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Ms. Patel.

11 Those were all of the most likely appearances. If you
12 want to appear and you've not appeared yet, you may go ahead.
13 (Pause.) All right.

14 MR. ROSENTHAL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Michael 15 Rosenthal from Gibson Dunn on behalf of Alvarez & Marsal.
16 They're the investment manager of the Highland Crusader Funds.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Rosenthal.

18 Any other appearances?

19 All right. Well, Mr. Pomerantz, or I think you said --

20 MR. DEMO: Your Honor?

21 THE COURT: -- Mr. Demo wanted to present the 22 resolution of Andrews Kurth Hunton & Williams' employment.
23 You may go ahead.

24 MR. DEMO: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor. Greg Demo on 25 behalf of Highland Capital Management.

1       We did work with the Committee to come to a resolution on
2       this retention application. We are looking to retain Hunton
3       to help us with a tax situation arising from a 2008 tax audit.
4       The Committee had some reservations, and we're able to resolve
5       them. The resolution that we have is that the engagement, at 6       least in the first instance, will be limited to a certain time
7       period, and that's between June 15th through September 30th.
8       And it'll also be capped at a specific dollar amount, which is 9       $65,000 a month that is calculated on an average rolling basis
10      over the period. So, total of fees of $227,500, although, 11      obviously, everybody will work to keep those fees down.

12      At the end of that period, the end of the September 30th
13      period, the idea is that either we'll come to a further 14      agreement with the Committee on how to expand the retention of 15      Hunton, or else we'll come back to this Court and seek a 16      further retention.

17      The Committee would reserve all of their objections, if 18      they had any, to the expanded retention, and the only 19      objection that they would not retain would be objecting to 20      Hunton's fees based on the fact that their retention was not 21      expanded.

22      All fees would be applied for under Section 330 and all
23      the other applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code.

24      And that is the resolution that we have with the 25      Committee, Your Honor, on the Hunton retention.

1 THE COURT: All right. Very good. Mr. Clemente,
2 will you confirm that that reflects the deal?

3 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, Matthew Clemente on behalf
4 of the Committee.

5 I will, Your Honor. I will confirm that. As Your Honor
6 undoubtedly is aware, we're keenly focused on making sure that 7 Debtor funds, you know, benefit only the Debtor estate and not
8 other parties, and that was really the issue we had in dealing 9 with Mr. Demo. But he accurately reflected our agreement.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. Well, I thank you all 11 for working that out, and I'd be happy to sign an order to 12 this effect. So if you could please electronically submit it,
13 Mr. Demo.

14 MR. DEMO: Will do, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, the main event today,
16 as we have discussed, is the motion to lift stay of UBS.
17 Before we talk about oral -- or, opening statements, are there
18 any housekeeping matters or announcements, stipulations,
19 anything of that nature that affects how we proceed this 20 afternoon?

21 MR. CLUBOK: Yes, Your Honor. Again, Andrew Clubok
22 on behalf of UBS.

23 The parties, all of the parties have agreed that all of 24 the exhibits that are attached both to UBS's motion and to all
25 of the Objectors' papers, all of them, with one exception,

10

1 which I'll explain, are to be admitted for purposes of this
2 hearing only. So, we've all stipulated to their admission.
3 We won't (inaudible). And they're -- they will be deemed
4 admitted for all purposes, but just for this hearing. We all
5 reserve the right to object to their use in further
6 proceedings or other matters.

7 The one exception and -- is Exhibit D to the Redeemer's
8 objection. I believe that -- I believe the Debtor objected to 9 Exhibit D. And I think that Redeemer, can't speak for them,
10 but I think everyone agreed that that would need to be 11 admitted for purposes of this hearing. So that's the one 12 exception.

13 THE COURT: All right. I'm going to ask people to 14 speak up or forever hold your peace. The Court is going to 15 admit into evidence today, only for today's hearing, not for 16 other hearings, all exhibits that were attached to the various 17 parties' -- UBS's motion, the objections -- except Exhibit D
18 to the Redeemer objection.

19 Before I get people's confirmation, let me just clarify
20 one thing. All parties except the Debtor refer to Exhibit A,
21 B, et cetera to their pleadings. The Debtor actually filed a
22 separate Appendix A of exhibits at Docket No. 688 with 12
23 items. I assume that was included in addition to the 24 attachments to the motions and objections.

25 MR. CLUBOK: Yes, Your Honor.

11

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. CLUBOK: Those were just duplicative of the 3 exhibits, is my understanding, --

4 THE COURT: Oh, okay.

5 MR. CLUBOK: -- that were otherwise filed as part of 6 the objection.

7 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Anyone have 8 anything to change about this announcement?

9 All right. Very good. So the record is clear, the Court
10 is considering all exhibits attached or submitted by the 11 parties before the hearing, except Exhibit D to the Redeemer
12 objection.

13 All right. Well, I thank you all. That saves some time
14 here today.

15 (All parties' exhibits admitted into evidence except 16 Exhibit D to Redeemer Objection.)

17 THE COURT: Anything else?

18 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor? Yes, there's one other
19 housekeeping issue, and that is UBS filed a motion to request
20 leave to file a reply brief. And we submitted the reply brief
21 along with that motion. Oh, dear. Did we lose -- can you
22 still hear me, Your Honor?

23 THE COURT: Yes, I can. Can you hear me?

24 MR. CLUBOK: Okay. We had -- yes, we had a technical 25 glitch for a second and it warned me that we were losing

12

1 video, but everything's worked out.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. CLUBOK: So, Your Honor, UBS filed a motion for 4 leave to file a reply. And by the way, there were further
5 exhibits attached to that, which are part of that stipulation
6 that we just referenced. Your Honor, I believe, has not yet
7 technically ruled on that, but we -- we wanted to preview
8 those arguments. We could obviously have just made them all 9 cold here, but there's a lot in there, so we thought it would 10 be helpful to the parties and hopefully to the Court to seek 11 leave to file a reply brief so that everyone can know, you
12 know, plenty of time in advance our response as to many of the 13 different arguments raised in the objection.

14 Your Honor, I think, technically, because of the Rules, we 15 were prohibited from providing you with an unredacted copy.
16 So I think that all Your Honor may have before you right now
17 is a redacted version. There are some minor issues that to 18 the extent we need to get into those details, we can certainly 19 talk about them in open court. But we do ask that the Court
20 rule on our motion for leave to file a reply brief.

21 THE COURT: All right. Do we have any objections to 22 that? It was filed, I think, about 6:15 Thursday night, and I
23 saw the motion for leave on Friday. Anyone have a problem
24 with the Court considering the reply?

25 It's something in our Rules, I think it's pretty common,

13

1 that -- you know, obviously, the motion, the average motion to
2 lift stay that's filed in the bankruptcy court deals with a
3 car or a house and we have very streamlined procedures to, you
4 know, a motion and an objection and that's it. This is 5 obviously an atypical or something more complicated than usual
6 motion to lift stay. Anyone have a problem with me
7 considering the reply?

8 All right. Leave is granted, then, on that. I will 9 consider the content of that reply.

10 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor. And I believe 11 those are all the housekeeping issues that I'm aware of.

12 There was -- Ms. Tomkowiak reminded me -- I guess a motion
13 -- motion to seal. Some of the exhibits are -- I think both 14 sides are impacted by confidentiality agreements and so forth.
15 I don't think any of the motions to seal on any side are 16 objected to.

17 So perhaps those could all be agreed upon, particularly 18 for our reply brief, and that would allow us to then get you
19 an unredacted copy, if we're permitted, if the motion to seal
20 is granted. Then you'll be -- we'll be able to get you very 21 quickly an unredacted copy of our reply brief.

22 THE COURT: All right. Anyone have a problem with 23 this?

24 All right. Let me be clear. We're only talking about the 25 reply and attachments to it? We're not talking about anything

1 else out there?

2 MR. CLUBOK: That's correct, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: All right. Well, I will grant that 4 motion to seal.

5 So, again, I just want to make sure the Clerk's Office
6 ends up being clear. You'll end up filing the unredacted
7 version, and then I'll -- I'll be able to, obviously, compare
8 it to what was filed. And I think -- I'm just thinking
9 through the mechanics. The Clerk's Office always wants 10 clarity. I'm giving you permission to file under seal an 11 unredacted version. It's as simple as that. So, the Clerk's 12 Office will follow up with you if they need any other piece of 13 paper.

14 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor. And would you
15 like -- I think Mr. Sosland can arrange, either by, whatever's 16 the easiest, to give you a courtesy copy, either by email or 17 by messenger, so that you can just quickly look at the 18 unredacted version, if that'll be helpful.

19 THE COURT: All right. Well, yes, let's have him
20 send it to my courtroom deputy. So he should have that email
21 address: sgjsettings -- wait, is that it? Or is it
22 sgj_settings@txnb.uscourts.gov? All right?

23 MR. SOSLAND: We have it, Your Honor. Thanks.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. Thanks.

25 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you very much, Your Honor.

15

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, are there any other
2 housekeeping matters? Otherwise, I presume you all want to 3 make some opening statements to kind of tie this all together.

4 All right. Well, you may proceed with your opening
5 statement.

6 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF UBS SECURITIES, LLC

7 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you very much, Your Honor, and 8 good afternoon.

9 Your Honor, we're here today seeking relief from the 10 automatic stay provided by Section 362. And we also ask that 11 the Court enter a related order that will explicitly allow us
12 to preserve UBS's rights to try the state court action, the 13 entirety of the claims that are permitted. Have a jury.
14 Before a jury. So we've asked the Court do that in one of two 15 ways, either by noting that pursuant to Section 105(a) or 16 simply by extending the times in the bar date past the trial
17 that we expect to have in the state court.

18 That's why we're here. Now let me explain why we think
19 that relief should be granted, if I may.

20 Your Honor, very simply, to tie all -- you've got a 21 mountain of paper in front of you. It is a lot more than the 22 usual motion --

23 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

24 MR. CLUBOK: -- for relief, as you noted. And that 25 paper that you have before you, that mountain of paper and

1 those many, many exhibits, are a tiny, tiny fraction of the 2 paper that has been generated over 11 years of litigation in 3 New York state courts.

4 We are here seeking the relief to allow us to proceed and 5 complete that litigation because right now we are literally in 6 the middle of a trial that will finally resolve the claim that 7 UBS brought more than 11 years ago against Highland and other
8 non-debtor related entities.

9 Those claims involve, like I said, not just Highland, but 10 non-debtor entities that are not subject to the bankruptcy
11 stay, against whom we have jury rights, and those claims have 12 been litigated as extensively as certainly any case I've ever
13 been involved with, and according to Justice Friedman, she 14 said this in open court, it was the most complicated case
15 she's ever dealt with, and she's a judge who has dealt with 16 enormous complexity in the New York courts, including much
17 litigation related to the aftermath of the fiscal crisis,
18 Lehman Brothers, et cetera.

19 But after 11 years of litigation, five trips to the 20 appellate court in New York and back down, five different
21 opinions from the appellate court, including a TRO at one 22 point -- they found that we had a substantial likelihood of 23 success on our fraudulent conveyance claims -- after all of 24 that, we get to a trial. We complete half of that trial. The 25 second half of the trial is ready to be completed -- granted,

17

1 as soon as the New York courts reopen, but we'll come back to 2 that. We expect that to certainly be within a matter of 3 months, certainly not years.

4 And we should be allowed to complete that trial, a trial
5 that has already had the judge make credibility determinations
6 about some 20 witnesses that she's seen either live or through 7 videotape deposition designations, almost all of whom
8 testimony will be relevant in the second phase of the trial,
9 many of whom, certainly, Highland's key witness, witnesses and 10 experts. And she's literally in the middle of that trial.
11 She's in the middle of deciding one of the so-called threshold
12 issues. Actually, she's already decided it, and we'll get to 13 that. But this is a case, if any case screams out for relief 14 from the automatic stay, it's this one, to allow us to simply 15 finish the trial that is right now literally in the middle of 16 it.

17 Now, over that 11 years of litigation, I am pretty sure
18 that every single argument that could have been made has been 19 made, ruled on, and/or waived. And that includes these so-
20 called two new threshold issues that, by my count, Highland's 21 fourth set of lawyers that have touched this case over the 22 years have now come up with and said, oh, gee, here's the key
23 to the kingdom, some new -- two new supposed threshold issues.
24 Those are their arguments in their papers, that if they could 25 just convince Your Honor somehow that our claim for the breach

1 of implied duty of good faith and fair dealing that's directly
2 against Highland, somehow that's affected in a way by res
3 judicata that's not consistent with those five appellate court
4 decisions and the countless decisions already by the trial
5 court.

6 And also they want you to rule right now on how the 7 settlement with two prior Defendants in that litigation
8 affects the -- or may potentially affect an offset against our 9 total ultimate judgment.

10 Now, mind you, that issue was already litigated and 11 presented to Judge Friedman, and as reflected in her decision,
12 she said that that -- that issue is properly to be dealt with 13 as a post-trial motion. She's already ruled on that. A post-
14 judgment motion, not right here in the middle of the case,
15 where it's -- it's both too late and too early. It's too late 16 because it's after the deadline for summary judgments and they 17 didn't make this argument. In fact, they made a very 18 inconsistent argument, and they will be estopped from making
19 this argument.

20 It's also too early because it's not yet at the -- what 21 Justice Friedman ruled in her decision was the impact of that 22 settlement will be decided once we have a final judgment,
23 because Highland had argued that they should get a $70 million
24 setoff and we've argued that they may or may not, depending on 25 what claims we ultimately win at trial. But it's a fairly

1 simple post-trial motion.

2 Justice Friedman already said -- and Highland already
3 urged her to rule on it upfront, in the first phase. We had 4 briefed the issue, both sides, extensively. She said no, it
5 can be decided later.

6 But what's happened here is what we have seen time and
7 time again over 11 years litigating with Highland. As I
8 mentioned, this is their fourth set of lawyers who have been 9 -- whose thoughts have been brought to bear on this
10 litigation. And we noted in our brief, I think Mr.
11 Pomerantz's firm has spent something like a million dollars by 12 our estimate in developing these new thoughts. At least 13 according to their fee petition as of a couple months ago,
14 they're already up to $800,000; I'm guessing they're pushing a 15 million by now.

16 And what they've done is simply reargue, tried to 17 relitigate the same issues that have been litigated time and 18 time again. As we explain -- it's obviously quite familiar --
19 on Page 4 of our reply brief, courts have routinely said you
20 cannot use Chapter 11 to relitigate instead of reorganize.
21 And this is a classic case of what the Debtor here is trying 22 to do.

23 Now, in terms of timeliness -- and I'm going to get to 24 that in a moment -- but in terms of how to deal with those so-
25 called threshold issues quickly, the very fastest way to deal

1 with those threshold issues is to give us relief from the stay
2 and let's present those two issues to Justice Friedman.
3 Because from experience that we've seen and how Justice
4 Friedman dealt with this the last time it happened, and I'll 5 talk about that in a moment, Justice Friedman could deal with 6 those issues extremely quickly. I would expect she wouldn't 7 even require briefing by us, because she knows those issues
8 extremely well, she's written decisions on both of them over
9 the years, and there's a carefully-studied appellate court
10 decision that relates to them.

11 And Justice Friedman, what she's already done in that 12 case, and Highland knows well, is that after we tried Phase I
13 but before the decision was issued, Highland swapped out its 14 attorneys and came on with I think by then its third set of 15 lawyers. And when the third set of lawyers came in, after we 16 had already tried Phase I but before Phase II -- so,
17 basically, where we are now -- this was, I've lost track of 18 time, but maybe, you know, eight, nine months ago, or maybe
19 even a year ago, as we were waiting for the decision -- that 20 set of lawyers, they were brought on and they said, well, gee,
21 we've got a brand-new theory that cracks this case wide open.
22 Here's the new theory of Highland can avoid liability. And 23 Judge, if you just let us bring this up, you won't even have 24 to bother with silly old Phase II and you can just end this 25 thing right now. It's a simple rifle shot.

21

1 Justice Friedman -- I wish it had been on video, I wish
2 there had been a camera -- let's just say her reaction was
3 clear, unmistakable, and key. And very quickly she rejected
4 Highland, in no uncertain terms, effort to do that. Forced 5 them to withdraw the motion. Explained to them, this is not 6 the proper time to bring new threshold motions, years after we 7 litigated motions to dismiss, years after we litigated summary
8 judgment, years after all those issues went up and down to the 9 appellate courts.

10 THE COURT: Can I stop you?

11 MR. CLUBOK: So, Highland knows this.

12 THE COURT: Can I stop you right there? I want to 13 make sure I am clear on what the so-called threshold issues
14 that you think Judge Friedman might be able to deal with 15 better, more efficiently. I have in my brain that you're 16 talking about the res judicata issue, and then also this issue
17 of whether UBS released Highland as to fraudulent transfers
18 that might be related to Redeemer Fund assets. Does that 19 makes sense? I'm not sure I said that as crisply as possible.
20 They say that as to these fraudulent transfers you would be 21 pursuing, 80 percent plus were released as part of the 22 settlement with the Crusader Fund. Are those the two 23 threshold issues, or are there many that I'm not naming?

24 MR. CLUBOK: You've got them, Judge. You've got 25 them. Those are the two issues. The one, the impact of res

1   judicata, which literally we've had, you know, multiple
2   different up-and-downs to the appellate court and summary
3   judgment rulings that are unmistakable that those should be 4   rejected.

5         The other one, I would put it more broadly, a little bit.
6   It's the impact of this prior settlement on our claim. And 7   Highland has a brand-new theory of how that settlement
8   agreement supposedly impacts our claim. I believe it's -- it
9   appears from the papers and from what we've been told that 10   this is coming from the Redeemer Committee primarily, because 11   they make the same argument and it seems to be a new argument
12   perhaps they came up with. Perhaps, in the million-dollars-
13   plus spent, Mr. Pomerantz's firm came up with it. But 14   regardless, it's a brand-new theory of supposedly how this 15   settlement agreement operates to supposedly cut the legs out
16   of most of our claim.

17         Now, mind you, Highland has already argued to the Court
18   how the settlement agreement operates, and what they've 19   previously argued -- and by the way, these settlement
20   agreements were signed, I believe, five years ago. For four 21   years and nine months or four years and ten months, we never 22   heard this argument. Instead, what we heard in the court in 23   New York was, oh, the settlement agreement means that Highland 24   gets $70 million of setoff to the total claim out of -- we 25   were seeking $500 million plus interest. They said, well, we

1 get a total of seventy million point five as a setoff. And 2 there was arguments back and forth and it was briefed in front
3 of Justice Friedman, and they asked her to rule on that 4 upfront in the first phase of the trial.

5 After the briefing and after the argument that it was a
6 $70.5 million setoff, Justice Friedman, agree with you, yes,
7 and we said, look, it is possible they will get that $70.5
8 million setoff. We agree. It depends on what total claims we 9 win at trial. For instance, if we won complete relief from 10 all of our claims, I think UBS would agree that $70.5 million
11 may well be an appropriate setoff, that amount. However, if 12 Highland only wins some of its claims, and depending on how we 13 win the claims, they might not be entitled to that $70.5
14 million setoff.

15 Nowhere did Highland ever dream up that this contract we 16 signed with them five years ago somehow meant that they got 17 $200 million off or $400 million off or $800 million off or 18 $950 million off, whatever the new theory is, that somehow
19 that settlement agreement had some incredible destructive
20 power of Highland -- of UBS's claims. This is the first we 21 have heard of it, you know, three months ago, after four years
22 and nine months of living with the settlement agreement, a
23 course of conduct, clear writing to the contrary, and parol
24 evidence that we, if we ever had to litigate this, we would 25 bring out.

1 But Justice Friedman would just look at, I predict -- it's 2 always dangerous to predict what a judge will do -- but we
3 have seen how Justice Friedman reacted to the last set of 4 Highland lawyers who came in after the trial and tried to 5 create a new argument that they hadn't raised before, post-
6 summary judgment, post even the trial starting. I suspect
7 Justice Friedman would be able to handle this quickly.

8 I've only given you, even on this one little issue, I've 9 given you a very superficial statement about it, because it
10 goes back years of having -- entering into this agreement,
11 living with it for years, having a course of conduct that 12 reflected how the parties interpreted this agreement and what 13 it meant and how it didn't reduce -- if Highland had thought
14 that that agreement reduced our claim from a billion to $950
15 million, I'm pretty sure they would have argued it four and a 16 half years ago or 4.11 -- four years and eleven months ago.

17 The fact is, it's a brand-new argument. We could prove 18 that if we had to litigate it. But if we had to litigate it,
19 there's no one better, with all due respect, Your Honor, there
20 is no judge in the country more equipped to handle that issue
21 and every other issue relating to this case than Justice Marcy
22 Friedman, who has been living with this case almost as long as 23 I have. I think she's on her eighth year now of overseeing 24 this case, through all these different iterations, all these 25 different efforts by Highland to delay proceedings and to 1 avoid ultimately getting to a jury, which will finally set our 2 -- the liability they owe.

3 So, and by the way, those two supposed threshold issues,
4 what Highland tells you is, well, gee, Judge, if you just rule
5 on them -- first of all, you learn about them and hear about 6 how we characterize what was said in front of Justice
7 Friedman, trying to tell you third-hand what we said,
8 reconstruct what the parties have argued there, ask you to 9 revisit her ruling. If you do all that, and by the way, if 10 you rule in their favor, then somehow there's going to be a
11 significant reduction in our claim for fraudulent conveyance.

12 It's not even true. Their math is wrong. Even if they 13 were right about all that, we'd still have a claim for 14 fraudulent conveyance of over $150 million. So, again, I
15 could write a whole brief explaining that to you. Justice
16 Friedman would know it off the top of her head.

17 But even if all that happened, it would not impact our 18 claim for breach of implied duty of good faith and fair
19 dealing, a claim that has survived summary judgment, survived
20 an interlocutory appeal, which, by the way, Highland obtained
21 a stay from -- this trial would have been done years ago
22 except Highland obtained a stay from the loss of summary
23 judgment on our breach of duty of good faith and fair dealing.
24 It went up to the appellate court and the dismissal -- denial
25 of summary judgment was sustained and we finally got to go

1 forward with the trial.

2 So, this little one issue that's supposedly a threshold
3 issue, it alone has enough complexity to take up months of 4 this Court's time. And nine, you know, nine out of ten of the 5 results of that is not going to impact Highland's argument --
6 or, Highland's claim or Highland's defense in anything like
7 the way they tell you it will. And we'd have to brief that 8 extensively and you'd be asked to decide it, you'd be asked to 9 ignore what Justice Friedman already said about this very same
10 issue. All of that doesn't make sense when we're right in the 11 middle of a trial. And those are the two supposedly threshold
12 issues.

13 Now, what else will deciding those two supposedly 14 threshold issues not get you? Or not get any of the parties?
15 What it won't get is, if we go forward as the Debtor now wants 16 to do, we will be stuck with two parallel proceedings. We 17 have claims against non-debtor affiliates to the tune of well
18 over a hundred million dollars, from non-judgment-proof
19 defendants including in that. We have these claims. We have 20 a right to a jury. They are not subject to the automatic
21 stay. And we will proceed in front of a jury, as we're 22 scheduled to do in New York state court.

23 Now, what does Highland say to that? They say, well, you
24 know, we haven't done it yet, but one day we could try to 25 remove those claims. Then we could ask the federal court in

27

1 New York to transfer those claims to the federal court here in
2 Texas. Then we could ask the Texas court to refer it to Your 3 Honor for a bunch of other proceedings, only so, at the end of 4 the day, that referral then is withdrawn so that we could
5 actually try it with a jury I guess in federal court in Texas.

6 I mean, it doesn't get us to a different place, because 7 ultimately we will have a right to -- even if they get what
8 they dream of, we'll have a right to try those claims in front
9 of a jury, and those claims substantially overlap in terms of 10 witnesses, facts, you know, all the -- the total trial, with 11 the claims that they're saying, well, gee, you could just try 12 them here after the threshold motion. Then you're going to 13 have a trial here on the nonjury claims.

14 And, you know, Your Honor, that's best-case scenario.
15 Because what actually will happen, if they ever remove the 16 case and if they try this maneuver of getting it to Your 17 Honor, we will, as we've made clear in our reply brief, as we 18 made clear in our opening brief and then clarified in our 19 reply brief, we will seek mandatory abstention, or in the 20 alternative, permissive abstention. And those claims clearly
21 fall within the rule for mandatory abstention. They are -- 22 there is no independent basis for jurisdiction for those 23 claims in this Court. The claims are a non-core proceeding,
24 the ones against the non-debtors. The actions are obviously 25 commenced in state court, about 11 years ago. And they can be

1 timely adjudicated there.

2 And basically all the Debtor said in response, this is --
3 their whole defense boils down to this: Um, we think, because 4 of COVID and the unusual circumstances of COVID, the trial
5 that you would theoretically have will be faster than a trial
6 that the state court will have in New York. And by the way,
7 when I say you, I mean really the two trials. That, at the 8 end of the day, there'll be a trial of -- against Highland,
9 and a jury trial against the non-debtor affiliates after the 10 reference is withdrawn after all of the up and down. And that 11 will supposedly be faster than just finishing things up in New 12 York as soon as the courts open up in a few months, being the 13 first in line with Justice Friedman to finish this trial.

14 Now, that is not -- there's no -- they have certainly not 15 met their burden of proof that that is true, but moreover,
16 it's also not the standard. We don't have to show that our 17 trial in New York will be two months after than the trial here
18 or two months slower. The rule and the cases we cite -- we 19 cite these in our opening brief, and they were unresponded-to 20 -- is that the action -- the ability of the Court to timely
21 adjudicate is just something that you are required to analyze,
22 not as a relative matter, not as a prediction of, gee, the 23 state court could be four months and this Court could be two 24 months, or the state court could be six months and this Court
25 could be four months, even if that were possible. No. The

1 test is whether or not it is timely in and of itself.

2 And the cases that we cite on this issue, you know, in our 3 opening brief, you know, really make it clear the way the 4 Court should look at this. In re TransWorld Airlines and In
5 re Legal Extranet, the latter being Bankruptcy Western 6 District of Texas, the former being Bankruptcy District of 7 Delaware, the courts both said, in effect, the issue is not
8 whether the action could be more timely adjudicated
9 theoretically here in bankruptcy court, but only that the 10 matter can be timely adjudicated in state court.

11 And Your Honor, as the Plaintiff in that state court
12 action, who've spent 11 years getting halfway through trial, 13 and now the only thing that's stopping us is the ability to 14 ask the Court to set the next available trial deadline, we 15 have hopes the courts will open in the fall. Worst-case
16 scenario, it'll open up in about six months, in the first
17 quarter of next year, by all expectations. A few extra months
18 to allow us to decide our case is certainly not -- it's 19 certainly timely.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. CLUBOK: Because some of the cases we cited --

22 THE COURT: Mr. Clubok, I want to drill down on that 23 just a bit. The Phase II, which you hope will be a jury
24 trial, there's the breach of implied covenant of good faith
25 and fair dealing, but there's fraudulent conveyance and alter

30

1 ego. Do I understand correctly those have actually not been
2 pleaded yet, fraudulent conveyance and alter ego? Did I
3 misread, misunderstand, or is that correct?

4 MR. CLUBOK: No, Your Honor, that is incorrect. It's 5 not your fault that you misunderstand it, because, frankly,
6 reading some of the objections makes it very confusing. Okay?

7 For example, alter ego? Alter ego, the alter ego claim
8 that has been properly pled and is the issue that we tried in 9 that case, is an alter ego between two non-debtors, Highland 10 Financial Partners and an entity called SOHC. Acis, in their 11 objection, spent a lot of time trying to explain to you how 12 somehow that you're going to know more about the alter ego
13 claim because since UBS's assets increased in value, somehow 14 it affects the alter ego claim. And I don't blame Acis. They 15 haven't lived with that case for 11 years. I don't think
16 their -- I am sure their counsel didn't do this intentionally.
17 That has nothing to do with our case. What it does is just 18 demonstrate how confusing and complicated the proceedings are 19 in New York and for some new lawyers, particularly ones from,
20 you know, representing either Acis or the Redeemers, who don't 21 really understand our case. They start sending things, and 22 then the next thing you know the Court is I'll just say
23 misunderstanding the claim.

24 The alter ego claim that is going to be litigated in Phase
25 II is one that we have dealt with for years, and it's a part

1 of our TRO in which we showed a substantial likelihood of 2 success in a decision that we received in the appellate court
3 when we originally froze certain assets.

4 It is -- again, I could write a whole 'nother four page --
5 four -- you know, extended the briefing just on that part of 6 our case. But suffice it to say that alter ego claim has also 7 gone up and down to the New York appellate courts, that not 8 only was it pleaded, it was pleaded, it survived motions to 9 dismiss. It went up to the appellate court at least three 10 times. It was the subject of a summary judgment motion. They 11 lost the summary judgment motion. The summary judgment motion
12 was appealed. They lost that.

13 So that alter ego claim, not only was it pleaded, it's 14 ready to be tried.

15 And by the way, in all of the briefing that the parties
16 did in New York -- I suspect Acis doesn't know this. I
17 suspect Redeemer -- why would they; it's not their 18 responsibility to know this -- the parties all agreed: That 19 was a New York State law issue. The test that the parties
20 have agreed should apply is a New York state test for alter
21 ego. It, again, relates to two entities that are not the 22 Debtor. It's complicated by how that relates into the case.
23 But it really just shows the perils of asking Your Honor to 24 come along, after 11 years, and try to figure out what the 25 heck is going on in that case, when Justice Friedman would

1 answer that in five seconds.

2 THE COURT: Okay. You're probably getting to this,
3 but you didn't answer the fraudulent conveyance question, and 4 I'm guessing the answer is no, that has not been pleaded yet,
5 and you have to win on the alter ego argument before you have 6 standing to pursue that, or no?

7 MR. CLUBOK: I hate to say this, Your Honor, but
8 that's incorrect. Again, I don't like to say that to judges
9 ever. But what we pleaded from the beginning, or actually 10 from -- I think from maybe 2011, not the -- you know, two 11 years into the case, we amended our pleadings, subject -- and 12 that briefing or those repleadings were subject to motions to 13 dismiss, summary judgment, held argument, et cetera. Both the 14 fraudulent conveyance and the alter ego have all been pled.
15 They've survived motions to dismiss. They've survived summary
16 judgments in New York, where you get interlocutory appeals of 17 state court decisions. They've survived multiple trips up and 18 down in the courts. And, again, like the alter ego, the 19 fraudulent conveyance was already subject to a -- the TRO,
20 which is -- which is the basis of our TRO. We presented both 21 the fraudulent conveyance evidence and the alter ego evidence
22 already to the appellate court as a part of getting our TRO.
23 We submitted it all to the trial court as part of defeating
24 summary judgment. And all of this has been upheld.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

33

1 MR. CLUBOK: So, yes, all of that has already been
2 litigated. It's not --

3 (Sound cuts out.)

4 THE COURT: Whoops. What just happened? What just 5 happened?

6 (Pause.)

7 MR. CLUBOK: ... issues.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Here we are. We lost you for 9 about 30 seconds there, Mr. Clubok.

10 MR. CLUBOK: Those were my best 30 seconds, Your
11 Honor.

12 THE COURT: Let me ask you something. Maybe it's 13 fate. What I hear you saying, and you may have a lot more to 14 say, but is that if I lifted the stay, there would be great 15 efficiency, Judge Friedman would quickly, quickly deal with 16 these threshold issues, and there has been so much already 17 adjudicated and motions to dismiss and motions for summary
18 judgment and appeals back and forth that you think you'd get 19 to your jury pretty darn fast? Nobody can say when, but you
20 think you're going to get to a jury pretty fast if it goes
21 back to the state court. Yes or no?

22 MR. CLUBOK: Absolutely yes.

23 THE COURT: And so you -- okay. Giving you, you
24 know, the benefit of every doubt here, you think -- and I'm 25 going to be as kind as I can be on this -- but a jury of 12

1 New Yorkers, you know, cab drivers, janitors, nurses, God love
2 them, they are the best trier of fact on issues of credit
3 default swaps and CLOs and offshore transfers? I'm just 4 trying to get that one, why you want a jury trial on this kind
5 of subject matter. That's a hard question for you to answer,
6 I suspect.

7 MR. CLUBOK: No, Your Honor, it's not. It's easy.
8 All the hard issues, all the complicated questions of CEOs and 9 credit default swaps and CSs, those were already decided by 10 Judge Friedman, who was the finder of fact on the breach of 11 contract claims. The contract has a jury waiver clause. So 12 Justice Friedman is the -- she --

13 THE COURT: Right.

14 MR. CLUBOK: -- was the finder of fact on those 15 complicated issues. She's already made factual findings and 16 credibility determinations on all those complicated issues.
17 There are two sets of remaining issues that are -- were 18 scheduled to be tried concurrently. That is the relatively 19 simple issues of fraudulent conveyance, alter ego, and 20 punitive damages. Those, we have a right to a jury, as 21 Justice Friedman has already found, against all the 22 Defendants. Okay? And we absolutely want our right to a 23 jury.

24 I don't -- Your Honor, we don't do it lightly. I can't 25 get into the jury research that's been done by both parties,

1 but suffice it to say we are one hundred percent (audio gap)
2 we want a jury for the claim. And we've already told Judge
3 Friedman that's what we're going to do.

4 The more complicated claims, the, gee, what's a credit
5 default swap and all that other stuff, that has already been 6 decided, all those issues, by Judge Friedman.

7 And what happens in the second phase is Judge Friedman
8 gets to say to the jury, I've already decided these following
9 facts. I will instruct you that you are to accept these facts
10 as true because I've already found them. That's the way it
11 works in these bifurcated trials where you have a judge
12 deciding some issues and then you have a judge and jury
13 deciding others, in New York state court.

14 We -- the parties spent months and months and months going
15 through how to do this. We agreed this is -- by the way, I
16 think it was originally Justice Friedman's idea. Something
17 else in the papers and they try to -- I could write a whole
18 'nother brief about how we ended up with that kind of 19 proceeding. But it was, I believe, originally Justice
20 Friedman's idea. Highland's lawyers were very much for it.
21 In fact, they -- they were the ones originally who insisted on 22 the jury. Originally -- it is the case that long ago we had a
23 noted issues years ago where we hoped that maybe the case
24 would just go faster if we went to a jury and there was no
25 position filed. But Highland insists on a jury, and under the

1 law in New York, when any party insists on a jury, all parties
2 have the right to it.

3 We spent months and months going back and forth on that
4 issue. Many discussions, both on the record and in chambers.
5 And we got to the point where what Justice Friedman said was,
6 I'll do the hard stuff, I'll do all these hard issues in Phase
7 I, the stuff that maybe we don't trust a jury to do. But 8 besides, we have a jury waiver.

9 By the way, frankly, Your Honor, I believe in juries.
10 I've had super-complicated cases and we try to make them
11 simple if we can, and, you know, I think New Yorkers or 12 Texans, whether we try -- whether we try these claims in New 13 York or if the defense gets their way and they get to remove,
14 to transfer, or refer down, then withdraw the reference, and 15 we try it to a jury in Texas in federal court, I trust the 16 jury will be able to understand it. We'll make it simple and 17 we'll make it clean for the jury to understand. And we're 18 sure as heck not going to waive our right to a jury because 19 now Highland's fourth law firm suggests we could.

20 What's really going on here, Judge, is that they've been 21 in front of Justice Friedman for years. They know how a lot
22 of these issues are going to come out, because she's already 23 ruled on all these issues. And we're in the middle of a
24 trial, and except for COVID and except for -- and I haven't --
25 this is the one other issue that I've not really gotten to --

1 except for the detrimental reliance we had on the promise that
2 Highland made to us back in December, late November/early
3 December, when we first got this decision, we would have come
4 right away to the bankruptcy court and said, hey, we're in 5 middle of a trial. Justice Friedman had promised us, as soon
6 as she issued her first ruling, she would set the next
7 available jury trial date immediately. That was the deal we 8 all had.

9 We were ready to try the case, if not before Christmas,
10 certainly in January of 2020. Certainly, the first quarter.
11 We would have done that. We would have come to the bankruptcy
12 court and we would have said, Give us relief from the 13 automatic stay because, come on, we're in the middle of a 14 trial. There's a bunch of non-debtor affiliates. This will 15 go fast -- there's no possible way it could go faster. And we 16 were ready to do that, and Highland said to us, their general
17 counsel, Scott Ellington, said to us, no, no, no, please don't 18 do that. There's all these reasons why we don't want you to 19 do that. We think it'll facilitate -- we'll work with you in 20 good faith on settlement. We want to keep the decision
21 nonpublic for a while, while we have good-faith settlement
22 discussions. We -- we will enter into good-faith settlement
23 discussions with you, and we will work with you over the next 24 few months. And don't you worry, because we will tell Justice
25 Friedman that if you give us six months, we all agree that the

1 trial can happen in six months from now and we'll all push for 2 a speedy trial as soon after what is now June of 2020 as 3 possible. That was the agreement we reached.

4 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Clubok, I'm going to save
5 you some time right here. If you're arguing that there was a
6 waiver of Highland's right to oppose the motion to lift stay,
7 if you're arguing there's an agreement that should be binding
8 on them to lift the stay, that's just not going to persuade 9 me. We have other parties in interest who are the 10 beneficiaries of the 362 automatic stay. So I'm just going to 11 tell you right now, I don't think there's anything more you
12 can say that's going to persuade me on that one. Okay?

13 MR. CLUBOK: Appreciate it, Your Honor. And I will 14 take your advice and not continue, although I will reserve my 15 right to reply to say one more thing about it, or -- if you
16 let me. But we -- I want to be clear. We're not saying 17 you're forced to hold -- uphold that agreement, even though we 18 had it in writing and even though we told another -- a judge,
19 a state court judge, that that was the deal. We're not saying
20 that you're forced to hold it.

21 We are saying that you are entitled to consider, when you
22 balance the equities, and you hear them now saying, gee,
23 there's going to more -- several more months before you get to 24 trial in New York: Well, sure. The reason we didn't have a
25 trial back in January was because of that agreement. That's

1 the only part we're saying. We're not saying you're forced to
2 now hold onto it. But there was some serious detrimental
3 reliance, because they said that they agreed with us that the 4 right thing to do six months hence from now, after trying to 5 settle, would be to tell Justice Friedman and to try to seek 6 to lift the stay.

7 That's the only reason we bring it up, not because you're 8 bound by it, because we respectfully ask you to consider that 9 when you hear their arguments of, gee, now it's going to take 10 another six months or so, or three months or four months or 11 six months or whatever it'll take in New York. Yeah. The 12 reason we've waited six months was because of that agreement.
13 Okay? That's the only reason I bring it up.

14 The final thing that I want to say, Your Honor, is just 15 that I want to make it clear: These so-called threshold
16 motions, they are not threshold motions. They are motions
17 that are rehashing arguments that were made years ago,
18 repeatedly, that they think, because they're not in front of 19 Justice Friedman and because the New York Court of Appeal I
20 guess wouldn't have jurisdiction over however you rule, that 21 they can get away with relitigating issues that have already 22 been decided in litigation, they've already been ruled upon,
23 or they were long ago waived. Or there's estoppel that 24 applies.

25 And we -- the threshold issues that we would argue about,

1 those so-called threshold issues, are -- is all of that stuff.
2 But we'd be litigating whether they could even pursue those
3 claims in front of Your Honor. Then we'd litigate the merits
4 of the claims. Then, even if they were resolved, they don't 5 take care of 95 percent of the claims that we have against the 6 Debtor.

7 If we were in front of Justice Friedman, she would know
8 what I'm talking about in a heartbeat and she would be able to 9 rule on this and she'd -- because she's done the same thing
10 when they tried this. They came up with some brand-new 11 threshold issue about a year ago that they tried to present to 12 her. They said, hey, don't bother to issue your ruling; we 13 have a new threshold issue that'll just cause us to win. And 14 she, you know, politely let them have it. And that is because 15 it's too late, it's past summary judgment, it's already been 16 decided on by the appellate courts in New York, we shouldn't 17 have to relitigate it, that alone is prejudicial, and by the 18 way, won't even have the impact they say.

19 So, Your Honor, I'd just like to conclude this opening. I
20 really appreciate you giving me all the time to make all of 21 these arguments. I realize you don't love our they got a
22 promise argument, but I do, like I said, even on that one,
23 there's a reason we raised it.

24 But at the end of the day, there's no court better
25 equipped to conclude these proceedings than Justice Friedman's

1 court in New York. There's no judge in the country who could
2 possibly ever catch up to her on this case. There is
3 definitely no judge in the country who's already made
4 credibility determinations, in the middle of a trial, in 5 which, by the way, she'll be called upon to be the fact-finder
6 again in the second phase, because part of the claims are for 7 a judge to decide.

8 So she's in the middle of making these determinations.
9 She's already seen witnesses. There was no videotape of the 10 trial so there's nobody who can now jump into the middle and 11 make new credibility determinations. And Highland, you know,
12 at least the new Highland, the new folks in charge of Highland 13 now, I guess they think a new bite at the apple, a chance to 14 relitigate here in this Court, maybe a different result, maybe
15 confusion will reign and the Court won't understand, you know,
16 what the nature of the claims are or think that, you know,
17 that we just pled these for the first time or they haven't 18 been pled. For, again, no fault of Acis, no fault of 19 Redeemer, they don't seem to understand these claims, and 20 there's no way they could because they haven't lived with 21 them. And again, our claims involve claims against non-
22 debtors as well as the Debtor.

23 All of those reasons are why it would be very prejudicial
24 not to lift the automatic stay. There has been no substantial
25 showing to the contrary. And UBS, having come forward with

1 this evidence of cause, showing that cause exists to lift the 2 automatic stay, as Your Honor knows, the Debtor then bears the 3 burden to show otherwise. They haven't met that burden. They
4 can't meet that burden. The things they say in their papers
5 are all what-ifs and speculation and, gee, if we just do this,
6 maybe we'll win this and maybe this will happen. That is not 7 satisfying the burden to overcome our request for relief from 8 the automatic stay, so that after 11 years of litigation our 9 case can finally finish, be brought to a closure, and we can 10 get a -- one court to conclude this business of deciding the 11 merits of these claims.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Just one more question for now.
13 The trial, the bench trial, was 13 days between July 9th and 14 July 27th, 2018 in Phase I. The judge issued her written
15 ruling -- when was it? Quite recently, right?

16 MR. CLUBOK: Well, November of 2019. So, a little -- 17 it was actually issued originally in November of 2019. The 18 parties, as I said, as part of the deal, we agreed to keep it
19 nonpublic for a while and it wasn't really issued until 20 January because we, in good faith, Highland said they wanted
21 to work with us on settlement, and that's what we started
22 doing.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. CLUBOK: So it was issued in November of 2019.

25 THE COURT: Okay. My point is, does it help you or

1 hurt you that it took Judge Friedman almost a year and a half
2 to issue the written ruling? I mean, when I say does it help
3 you or hurt you, help or hurt you, I'm thinking, whoa, the 4 Fifth Circuit would really slap my wrist if I took a year and 5 a half to get a written ruling out. We have, you know, our 6 slowpoke reports. If I take more than 60 days to get a ruling
7 out, you know, I'm going to get an embarrassing phone call,
8 perhaps. That sounds like a very long time.

9 On the other hand, you might tell me, well, she was 10 becoming such an expert during that 18 months that now she'll 11 be really quick.

12 So, what is your response to that?

13 MR. CLUBOK: Several things, Your Honor. Originally,
14 when Justice Friedman, we had the trial, she said, you know
15 what, I'll have -- this is complicated. It was enormously
16 complicated. And it did take a long time for her to digest
17 the mountains of evidence. It is not an easy case. Okay?
18 She said, it'll take me a while, but I'll finish up by about 19 October and then we'll immediately -- then we'll be ready to 20 try the case in the jury trial in October. That's what she 21 originally said.

22 We had post-trial briefing, though, Your Honor, and the 23 parties both wanted it. And then, frankly, there was medical 24 issues on the side of the Defendants that were raised, and we 25 were asked to greatly extend the period for post-trial

1 briefing. We did that, obviously, without a second question,
2 without, you know, oh my gosh, is it going to delay the trial
3 for another few months, our decision, even though it'd been
4 ten years. We didn't -- we -- and counsel, I'm sure, I'm a
5 hundred percent certain, would confirm this. They were very 6 appreciative. And we just said, you know, take whatever time
7 you need.

8 That significantly delayed the post-trial briefing. So
9 the post-trial briefing wasn't completed until, I believe, you
10 know, after the original time she was going to do her trial.
11 So that was a big delay.

12 The other thing that happened was Highland then brought in 13 new counsel. And like I said, they all of a sudden -- so we'd 14 already tried the case. We'd already done the post-trial
15 briefing. Highland then brings in new counsel. That was 16 their third firm. And those counsel said, hey, we've been 17 looking at the record and we see a massive issue that the 18 other two prior counsels missed and now we want to bring a new 19 threshold motion. That's what they call it, a new threshold
20 motion. And then we got deterred on that, with them seeking 21 to bring -- file leave to bring new threshold motion and 22 asking the judge and we got delayed on those things as well.

23 The -- that motion that they brought, it took Judge
24 Friedman one week, one week to rule on it once they brought
25 that.

1           So, yes, she learned a lot during our trial. She studied
2 a lot. She is a perfectionist, and she dug in like I've --
3 you know, few judges I've had. But that so-called new 4 threshold motion, which was super-complicated and it had all
5 kinds of new theories and was going to crack the case, one
6 week, it took her, to opine.

7           So I'm confident that these new so-called threshold
8 motions, she would see them for what they are, not threshold
9 motions, rehashed arguments, either too late or already 10 overruled, and she would be able to deal with them quickly.

11          Also, Your Honor, a jury, you know, the next phase, as 12 soon as we can get a jury, the jury doesn't get -- juries,
13 it's usually my experience, don't take weeks or months to 14 deliberate. You know, they're not going to take weeks or 15 months. We're going to go sit in front of a jury, we're going
16 to present our case, and we're going to get a decision
17 lickety-split from that jury, I'll bet. Maybe in a few days.
18 You know, any jury, I guess, could hold up. But even the 19 fastest judge, I daresay that jury will be faster than the 20 fastest judge.

21          It is funny how we trust 12 people, or New York may be 22 fewer than 12, to make a decision very quickly, where a judge
23 is given, at least in federal court, 60 days, and in state
24 court sometimes more. But juries somehow, with that 25 collective group, figure out a way to do it, and they'll give

46

1 us a decision, you know, within a few days after the trial.

2 THE COURT: Okay. I said that was the last question.
3 This really is the last question, for right now. Mediation.
4 Did you all ever mediate this?

5 MR. CLUBOK: Yes, Your Honor. That's a terrific
6 question. So, we did mediate this several times over the 7 years. Those mediations ultimately led to settlement with two 8 of the other Defendants. One of them, the Redeemer Committee.
9 So those mediations were successful, then. We did not get to 10 a success point with Highland back then.

11 However, in November, once we got the decision -- and by 12 the way, for years, all we heard was: You have no chance of 13 winning, we have a million in setoffs, there's going to be 14 this, that, and the other thing, your $500 million plus
15 interest to a billion-dollar claim is going to be -- you're 16 going to have lost money -- Highland. That's what we had to 17 hear for many years. So we couldn't get to settlement.

18 But after the judgment and after, I think, reality set in,
19 prior to the new law firm and new set of directors taking 20 their fourth fresh look at this, we -- we didn't lightly enter 21 into the agreement in November. We very much believed the 22 people who were running Highland at that point, that we could 23 have a very productive settlement discussion. I don't really
24 -- I think, if you were betting, I don't think you would bet
25 that there's going to be a trial, regardless. I think what

47

1 you'd bet is reasonable people, at this point, now that we
2 have the guidance of Phase I, should be able to go have a
3 mediation, figure out a value for the claim, and we wouldn't 4 have to try this case anywhere.

5 What Highland wants to do, though, what they're trying to 6 do is naturally put their thumb on that scale of that 7 mediation. I mean, by the way, we thought that would have
8 happened in the last six months. We've asked for it
9 repeatedly. We've suggested mediators. That's what we'd like
10 to do. We do think that the claim should be subject to a 11 mediation. And frankly, all the claims in this case could 12 probably be -- could do with mediation and help from a --
13 mediation or an arbitrator.

14 We thought that would happen. It hasn't happened. We 15 hope that it does happen. But what Highland wants to do here
16 now is put their thumb on that mediation by saying, hey, we 17 already know how Justice Friedman would rule on these so-
18 called threshold issues, and by the way, we know what we're 19 probably faced with, because we probably did juror research
20 too and we know what we're facing in front of a jury in New 21 York. So we just want this judge to help us out in our --

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. CLUBOK: -- settlement negotiations by making it
24 more complicated for you to recover.

25 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Clubok. All

1 right. I will hear from Highland --

2 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: -- now. Who is going to make the 4 argument for Highland?

5 MR. FEINSTEIN: That'll be me, Your Honor, Robert 6 Feinstein, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones.

7 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may proceed,
8 Mr. Feinstein.

9 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

10 MR. FEINSTEIN: Thank you, Your Honor. First, good
11 afternoon. Can you hear me and see me okay?

12 THE COURT: I can, perfectly. Thanks.

13 MR. FEINSTEIN: And one of my colleagues, Elissa
14 Wagner, is going to share her screen so that Your Honor can 15 see just a few slides --

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. FEINSTEIN: -- while I talk.

18 So, Your Honor, this is a very important day for Highland,
19 the Debtor. You know, my colleagues are on the call, and I
20 believe some of our directors are on the phone as well. The 21 Debtor wants to make progress towards confirming a plan in 22 this case and make distributions to creditors. That's one of 23 the principal goals of Chapter 11. But here, the Debtor's
24 ability to do that has been stymied by one creditor, by UBS,
25 asserting a putative claim -- and I say putative literally --

1 putative claim so large as to dwarf every other claim in the
2 estate.

3 Mr. Clubok has argued since I've met him that he has got a
4 way of showing that Highland is going to become liable for the 5 billion-dollar judgment that was entered against the Funds,
6 but there he leaves out a lot of the story. He's testified
7 quite a bit from the podium, Your Honor. And while I can't 8 cross-examine him along the way, I will tell you things that 9 he said that are not consistent. And there's a lot of 10 testimony about what Judge Friedman said, what the client
11 said, what previous lawyers said. There's not enough time to 12 go into it, Your Honor, and some of it, I think, is 13 irrelevant.

14 But after all this time, and Mr. Clubok in this case,
15 since the beginning of Highland's bankruptcy, has said that 16 UBS has a good claim against the Debtor for over a billion
17 dollars. On that basis it obtained a seat on the Creditors'
18 Committee, which, by the way, opposes Highland's motion. But 19 it's now serving to gridlock the entire bankruptcy case.
20 Nobody is going to negotiate a plan -- and this is not just 21 Highland, but other creditors -- with a creditor who claims,
22 without a judgment in hand, that he has got a claim of a
23 billion dollars against the Debtor, and on theories that are 24 atypical, unusual, and that should be rejected.

25 But, you know, let's start with the fact that when Mr.

1 Clubok started the case, he brought a breach of contract claim
2 against Highland, the Debtor, for the liability of the Funds
3 that, you know, was the subject of the Phase I trial. That 4 breach of contract claim against Highland was dismissed. But 5 now what he's resorting to are a bunch of theories, and breach
6 of implied covenant and alter ego.

7 And Your Honor asked a question before. It was a good
8 one. And that is: What is the status of the alter ego claim?
9 And Mr. Clubok answered about a different alter ego claim.
10 Their fraudulent conveyance claims don't work, Your Honor,
11 unless there's a link in the chain that's created, meaning
12 that HFP and SOHC have to be alter egos. Otherwise, Highland 13 would not have standing -- excuse me, - UBS would not have 14 standing to bring the alter ego -- to bring the fraudulent
15 conveyance claim.

16 But here's the point, Your Honor: The alter ego claim
17 against Highland, the Debtor, has never been asserted. Never.
18 What's going on here is -- and I'll testify, I guess, in this
19 instance -- Mr. Clubok has said to me and others, hey, I
20 didn't -- I never brought a pleaded claim against Highland,
21 the Debtor, as the alter ego of the Funds, but I didn't -- I
22 didn't have to. I can do this later. I can do this as a
23 supplementary proceeding under New York practice. And that's 24 categorically wrong, there, as here. Highland was a party to 25 the initial case. And we cited the Board of Managers case in

1 our brief, Your Honor, which I'll get to in a bit, to show
2 that that claim had to be brought at the time or it's barred
3 by res judicata.

4 So, but the salient point here, Your Honor, is that one of 5 the claims that Highland -- that UBS is asserting as a basis 6 for a billion-dollar liability has never been pleaded, has 7 never been brought, has never been tried. So when Mr. Clubok
8 says we'll be litigating, these are issues that were already 9 rejected, that is categorially false as to the alter ego
10 claim.

11 And so much of what else he said in terms of what we're 12 relitigating is simply inaccurate. The trial court in New 13 York never ruled on the effect of the credits from the 14 fraudulent conveyance settlement. What you heard Mr. Clubok
15 say is that Justice Friedman said, we're not dealing with this 16 now, we can deal with it later. But to suggest that that's 17 being relitigated is just categorically false. Mr. Clubok may 18 know more about the state court proceedings, but that doesn't 19 give him the right to mischaracterize them. This is why there 20 are transcripts. This is why there are opinions. That's what 21 we're relying upon, Your Honor, to make our case.

22 So, Mr. Clubok has acknowledged that, on this motion, UBS
23 has the burden of showing cause. And that's a heavy burden,
24 Your Honor. And we don't think that's been established here,
25 for a variety of reasons that I will try to relate.

1       As we've said, Your Honor, we do think that there are two
2 threshold issues that have not been litigated in state court
3 that, if decided, would take a lot of the mystery out of this
4 case about whether UBS's claim is a billion dollars or $50
5 million. That's a huge difference. And parties, the other
6 creditors who hold substantial claims, who want their 7 recoveries, aren't going to engage with a creditor who has a
8 highly-disputed billion-dollar claim that they knew, as we do,
9 is a small fraction of that, if it can be established. And 10 again, there are serious substantive defects with the 11 fraudulent transfer claims that we think, Your Honor, on a 12 threshold basis, Your Honor can dispose of the notion that 13 there's a billion-dollar claim in this case relatively easy,
14 easily.

15       So I do want to just revisit a little bit of the 16 background to this case, Your Honor, just to kind of set the 17 record straight. And, you know, as I said, the first time
18 that UBS filed suit, it brought a contract claim against 19 Highland, the Debtor, and that was dismissed. And the basis
20 for the dismissal is that the documents that were signed
21 between UBS and Highland -- there was an engagement letter for 22 the structuring of the CLO syndication, and then there were 23 two warehouse agreements. And Highland was a signatory to the 24 warehouse agreement, but it was the Funds, it was the non-
25 debtor Funds who were the parties who were ultimately liable

1 if there were investment losses.

2 And when the state court dismissed Highland, the Debtor,
3 from that case, it did so saying that Highland never, quote,
4 undertook that liability. It was not a guarantor of that
5 liability. So there's -- that is Mr. Clubok's first foray.
6 It was a complaint that he started in February of 2009. And 7 while he's amended it to try to add different claims, it does
8 not change the fundamental fact that, as a matter of contract,
9 Highland, the Debtor, was found to be not liable for that 10 billion-dollar judgment that was adjudicated in Phase I of the 11 trial.

12 And, as a result of the fact that Mr. Clubok put his -- 13 all his eggs in a basket in his complaint that he filed in 14 2009, under res judicata, and the single action theory, which 15 is -- I think it's true outside of New York as well as in -- 16 is that if you're going to sue somebody based on a set of 17 facts, you need to put it all in there. You need to put all
18 of your claims in there. You can't sue people seriatim. You
19 can't file certain claims and then, if you fail, come back
20 later and try to add new claims based on the same underlying 21 facts that were available to you when you first filed the 22 complaint.

23 That is the basis of an important ruling, Your Honor, by 24 the Appellate Division on res judicata, which is that, having 25 had his opportunity to plead claims based on the facts as he

54

1 knew them, Mr. Clubok chose certain causes of action and left
2 others out. And his claims were dismissed. But now he can't
3 come back and come up with new theories based upon facts,
4 operative facts that were known to him when he filed his first
5 complaint.

6 So the upshot of the Appellate Division's ruling is that
7 UBS is barred from bringing claims based on operative facts
8 that occurred prior to the date of their first complaint.

9 Now, Mr. Clubok tried to spin this in his opposition
10 papers, in the reply, and I think mischaracterized it. He 11 said that it's simply untrue that he is barred from asserting 12 claims based on pre-February 2009 conduct. That's not what 13 the Appellate Division ruled. What the Appellate Division
14 ruled was it may be possible to bring in evidence of stuff,
15 the things that occurred prior to that date, but you're -- did
16 I lose Your Honor?

17 THE COURT: No.

18 MR. FEINSTEIN: Oh, okay. I see a little circle.

19 THE COURT: Oh.

20 MR. FEINSTEIN: I thought maybe you froze.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. FEINSTEIN: I'm sorry.

23 THE COURT: I'm here.

24 MR. FEINSTEIN: Thank you. Thank you.

25 So, in order to bring a claim, you have to rely on

55

1 operative facts that form the basis for the cause of action
2 from and after March of 2009. Does it mean that evidence
3 about things that happened before then is inadmissible? No.
4 My colleague has -- Elissa has put up on the screen, Your
5 Honor, a portion of the Appellate Division's ruling in 2011.
6 And it couldn't be clearer, Your Honor. It says, "Here, to 7 the extent that claims against Highland in the new complaint
8 implicate events alleged to have taken place before the filing
9 of the original complaint, res judicata applies."

10 Okay? So, for that decision to have meaning, and that 11 decision has never been appealed, that means that operative
12 facts that support causes of action from and after February of 13 2009 are fair game. But if any claim is based on operative
14 facts that occurred before then, it's barred.

15 And based on that, Your Honor, and that alone, there is no
16 liability here, under contract or any other theory, for 17 implied covenant or alter ego, for the breach of contract,
18 which occurred in 2008, before the first complaint was filed.

19 So it is a difficult, if not impossible, path for Mr.
20 Clubok to try to conjure up a claim that fits within the res
21 judicata bar by the Appellate Division that tries to go back
22 in time and hold the Debtor liable for a breach of contract
23 that happened in 2008. It just doesn't work.

24 So, let me address, Your Honor, there are three claims
25 that they assert --

1 Elissa, will you put on Slide 2, please? Thank you.

2 There are three claims that --

3 THE COURT: Now, are you trying to share the content
4 with me and others of what Elissa is putting up?

5 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes.

6 THE COURT: Okay. It's not --

7 MR. FEINSTEIN: I hope you're seeing it.

8 THE COURT: It's not working. I just see you. I
9 don't see the shared content.

10 MR. FEINSTEIN: Ah, okay. All right. Well, it's no
11 matter, Your Honor. I'm going to plow through and we'll make 12 like the slides don't exist.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. FEINSTEIN: Sorry.

15 THE COURT: If you want me to look at one of the 16 exhibits as you talk, I can do that.

17 MR. FEINSTEIN: Your Honor, oh, no. It's okay, Your
18 Honor.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. FEINSTEIN: (garbled) document. It's -- 21 technology in the last few months has been a challenge for 22 counsel and the Court.

23 THE COURT: For all of us, uh-huh.

24 MR. FEINSTEIN: It really has.

25 So, Your Honor, there are two pleaded claims and one

1 unpleaded claim by UBS against the Debtor, and we want to
2 consider them one by one.

3 So, one of them is the breach of the implied covenant of 4 good faith and fair dealing. That's been pleaded.

5 Another is fraudulent conveyance. That's been pleaded.

6 And as I noted, Your Honor, the last theory is alter ego
7 that Highland, the Debtor, is the alter ego of the Funds.
8 That's never been pleaded. And Mr. Clubok's view is, I don't 9 need to do that, I can do that later. The Board of Managers
10 decision that we've cited shows that he had to do it already 11 and he didn't.

12 So the implied covenant claim, Your Honor, I think I've 13 addressed, but there are a couple other things I want to say
14 about it. First of all, if Your Honor will allow us to move
15 forward and brief this in the context of a claim objection, we 16 think that very quickly we could impress upon Your Honor that 17 this cause of action fails. Again, the only basis that this 18 claim can be brought forward, because it was pleaded after the 19 initial complaint, it has to rely on post-February of 2009
20 facts. Let's be clear that this claim was not brought in 21 Phase I. And the only -- only breach of contract claim was 22 litigated in Phase I. There was no judgment rendered against 23 Highland, because, again, they weren't -- they were found not 24 to be liable under the contract.

25 The implied covenant, as we, again, if you'll let us brief

1 this, Your Honor, the implied covenant theory can't be used to 2 create obligations on a party that are inconsistent with the 3 express terms of the party's contract. And the Appellate
4 Division decision in 2010 that dismissed the contract claim
5 made it very clear that the contracts contain, quote, no
6 promise by the Debtor to undertake liability with respect to 7 UBS's losses.

8 So you can't, under applicable law, Your Honor, use an 9 implied covenant theory to contradict a contract, to create an 10 obligation that's not in the contract. But that's precisely
11 what's being done here. So, and to be clear, Your Honor, the 12 -- well, let me move on.

13 The next thing that they asserted is alter ego. And as I 14 said, Your Honor, that has never been pleaded. The Board of 15 Managers v. Hudson Condo case -- excuse me. The Board of 16 Managers v. Jeffrey Brown Associates, which we cited in our 17 brief, is directly on point, that res judicata bars the 18 assertion of an alter ego claim against a party that was 19 initially named in the lawsuit. So that the -- while you may 20 be able under New York law -- and I've practiced here for 40
21 years -- you may be able to use a supplementary proceeding to 22 assert a judgment against a party who was not named in the 23 lawsuit as the alter ego, but if that party was named in the 24 lawsuit, you needed to assert this at the outset. And they 25 didn't, for whatever reason. But that means that this claim

1 is also barred by res judicata.

2 So then we get to fraudulent transfer, Your Honor. And on 3 fraudulent transfer, there are -- the issue really is one of 4 simply acknowledgment that the ad damnum has to be reduced
5 because there were settlements. So, the initial fraudulent
6 transfer claims -- which did occur, by the way, after February
7 of 2009, so those are fair game under the time bar -- they 8 assert that HFP transferred approximately $440 million of 9 assets to a bunch of Highland funds and to the Debtor in March 10 of 2009.

11 In 2015, UBS settled with two -- on two of those counts.
12 It settled with Crusader and Credit Strategies. Those were 80
13 percent of the amounts that were the subject of the fraudulent
14 transfers, again, under -- there are two ways to look at the 15 settlement, Your Honor. One is that there should be a credit
16 for the Defendants on account of the dollars that were paid to 17 settle the claims. But here, the dollars that were paid were 18 for far less than the face amount of the ad damnum. Out of 19 the $240 million of ad damnum, oh, $180-or-so million were the 20 subject of the two claims that were settled.

21 So it just does not pass the straight-face test or any 22 kind of logic for UBS to argue that it could still sue
23 Highland, the Debtor, for $240 million, when it settled claims
24 that Highland was named on or Highland signed the settlement
25 agreement, like UBS did, leaving only $50 million worth of 1 transfers out there.

2 So, even with post-petition interest, you would get to
3 maybe $90 million on those claims. That is a far cry than a
4 billion-dollar claim. And it's a game-changer in the context
5 of a bankruptcy where parties need to negotiate with one
6 another and the Debtor to try to come up with a consensual
7 plan. That's impossible when there is a chasm between what 8 the estate and other creditors think UBS's claim is worth and 9 UBS running around telling the world, I've got a billion-
10 dollar claim.

11 We need to bridge this gap, and we need to bridge it
12 quickly or this Debtor is going to languish in bankruptcy for 13 an indefinite period of time.

14 And Your Honor, the -- Mr. Clubok, on the one hand, said,
15 well, Justice Friedman is very familiar with this. These -- 16 Phase I was a prelude to Phase II. That's not true. That's 17 not true. They're very different claims. Phase I was just a 18 breach of contract liability. Phase II has got all sorts of 19 theories and operative facts that occurred -- or, based on 20 operative facts that occurred well after the breach of 21 contract claim for fraudulent transfer.

22 So it's a fallacy to say that another judge other than 23 Justice Friedman couldn't decide these issues, because these 24 facts have not been presented to Justice Friedman. The legal 25 theories have not been adjudicated by Justice Friedman. We'll

61

1 guess at how long it might take to get in front of Justice
2 Friedman in a moment. But the point is, they are very
3 different. And in fact, as we've noted in our brief, UBS
4 counsel said in state court that the remaining claims, quote,
5 have little to do with the breach of contract claims. They 6 present new parties, new factual issues that were not 7 addressed in Phase I.

8 So, you know, we think that there is no efficiency in 9 going to state court. In fact, just the opposite.

10 And let me just stop and talk about that, Your Honor. I
11 may be the only attorney on the phone who practices in New 12 York. I haven't been in my office in over three months
13 because it's -- because of the shutdown order. Lawyers are 14 not essential services in New York City. Probably a lot of 15 people would agree. So I haven't been able to go to my 16 office. And you can't go in the courthouse.

17 Your Honor, I want to just cite to Your Honor the website
18 of the New York court system: www.newyorkcourts.gov/crest.
19 The court, and this is the court administrator, issued a press
20 release with regard to the status of the New York City court
21 system. So, the New York court system is now entering Phase
22 I. And again, this is all a matter of public record. Phase I
23 allows the judges and the clerk and security to go into the 24 courthouse, but not the general public. There are no hearings
25 going on, as you -- as we would normally expect. I mean, the

1 New York City courthouse is a very busy, bustling place that
2 usually is overrun with people. I saw a picture online this
3 morning where the building was empty. Why? Because there are 4 no proceedings going on. The justices are now going to try to 5 get up and running and maybe start doing video hearings. But 6 the idea of a jury trial in that courthouse this year is 7 unimaginable for me, Your Honor. Unimaginable. Because 8 before you get out of Phase I, you've got to go to Phase II.
9 And Upstate New York, some of the courts have now gone into 10 Phase II, where they're hearing only essential family matters:
11 adoptions, child custody, things like that. They're not 12 hearing commercial cases. That's Phase II.

13 I don't know whether Phase III encompasses jury trials,
14 but we're two phases off of that in New York City.

15 So, I, you know, I continue to believe, Your Honor --
16 again, this is my opinion -- that this case will not be tried 17 this year, and I think there is a chance that it won't be 18 tried next year. And in his presentation, Mr. Clubok said,
19 oh, this is going to happen in three months. I wish. I don't 20 think it's going to happen in six months. But then he says,
21 And once the courthouse doors are open, we're going to be 22 first in line. There is no evidence. I mean, this is one of 23 those areas where Mr. Clubok is testifying with no basis at 24 all. Okay? There's no basis to believe that the UBS-Highland
25 case is first in line when the courthouse opens for a jury

1 trial. The courts have -- even in a non-pandemic situation,
2 Your Honor, I've been in practice here a long time, it takes a
3 long time to try a case in New York. And you can see that the 4 11-year history of this case was a function of there being 5 several lengthy delays, like the year and a half delay in 6 having the Phase I trial decided.

7 So, you know, there's just -- it's delay upon delay. When 8 are the courts going to open? When are they going to open for 9 jury trials, and where will this case be in the queue? And 10 then how long will it take to decide? Your Honor, I submit to 11 you that it's -- if it's not months, it could be years.

12 And here's the problem. This puts a freeze on Highland's
13 bankruptcy case. Highland wants to get out of bankruptcy.
14 Highland wants to distribute its assets to creditors. If the 15 case is going to be held in suspense indefinitely while we 16 wait for the court system in New York to reopen or the UBS-
17 Highland case to make its way to the front of the queue, to 18 pick a jury -- I don't know how you're going to conduct a jury
19 trial in the age of pandemics, how people are going to 20 evaluate the credibility of witnesses who are wearing face
21 masks. I mean, just a host of problems, Your Honor,
22 conducting a jury trial, even in a system like New York's that 23 wasn't already bogged down with delays and just a massive,
24 massive caseload. And the backlog could have only gotten 25 worse during the shutdown.

1       So, having taking that personal privilege, Your Honor, as 2 a New Yorker, let me just proceed with the argument on the 3 merits in terms of stay relief.

4       All right. So, the burden is on UBS to show cause. And 5 UBS has argued in its papers, citing 362(g)(2), I think it is,
6 that somehow the burden shifts to Highland. Counsel just 7 misreads the statute. He's pointing to a provision that talks
8 about lifting the stay where a secured creditor wants to 9 foreclose, and the issue is who -- where there's a burden of 10 showing equity in the property, which is a factor to deny stay
11 relief. Obviously, that has nothing to do with our situation.
12 The burden is on UBS to show cause, and they haven't 13 established it.

14       So, what's the standard for the Court to apply? Lifting
15 the stay is up to the Court's discretion. There is no mandate
16 here that you must allow UBS to go to state court to litigate
17 their claim in front of a jury whenever. They're -- they have 18 a claim against the Debtor. Your Honor has the ability and 19 jurisdiction to adjudicate claims as part of the ordinary 20 bankruptcy process.

21       And here, Your Honor should exercise the discretion to 22 hear this claim and to see if these threshold issues carry 23 weight, because the claim is so large that its disposition is 24 really essential to the success or failure of Highland's plan.
25 And to relegate this case to a freeze of unknown length,

1 months, years, before creditors can ever see recovery from the
2 case is not judicial economy. It's inflicting unnecessary
3 delay and expense on the parties.

4 And we're talking about claims, Your Honor, that are well
5 within the expertise of this Court because they involve
6 fraudulent transfer claims and typical things that bankruptcy
7 courts resolve all the time.

8 So, you know, we think that the hardship on the parties of 9 being held in suspense while UBS goes on its jihad in state
10 court for months, if not years, that the balance of hardships
11 really tips in the favor of the estate and the other creditors
12 in the estate to try to see this claim resolved through Your 13 Honor's proceedings, rather than be subjected to indefinite
14 delay.

15 One moment, Your Honor, while I check my notes.

16 (Pause.)

17 I'm just going through my notes, Your Honor, because I
18 went a little out of order, but I covered a lot of what I
19 wanted to say.

20 So, Your Honor, let me make a suggestion. We -- the 21 issues that we want to tee up in terms of these dispositive
22 issues, one is whether or not there could be an alter ego
23 claim against Highland. It's never been alleged before. We 24 think that the state court rulings on res judicata as well as 25 some very persuasive authority like Board of Managers means

1 that that claim can't be brought.

2 That's something that has not been litigated in state
3 court before. I think Your Honor could very easily address
4 it.

5 The other issue is the impact of the settlements on the 6 fraudulent transfers, because, again, it's very different if 7 UBS has a $50 million claim on a good day as opposed to a
8 billion-dollar claim. And again, very straightforward. It
9 will involve the interpretation of the settlement agreements.
10 We think it's very straightforward. It's something that's 11 well within Your Honor's experience, jurisdiction, to decide.
12 It's a proof of claim. And we think that that could really 13 break the logjam in this case.

14 And if those two issues are decided favorably for the 15 estate, that the asserted claim of UBS will now be within a 16 ballpark that other creditors and the Debtor can deal with, as 17 opposed to the continued threat that there's a billion-dollar
18 claim out there.

19 That ruling, Your Honor, really could make the difference
20 between whether or not this Debtor confirms a plan with you or 21 not and whether creditors can get distributions or not.

22 So -- and I would hasten to add, Your Honor, that I think
23 that, while the matters are complex, I think the specific
24 issues are not, and that they can be presented to Your Honor
25 and that Your Honor could decide them before the New York

67

1 court system even opens up, let alone before a jury trial can
2 be scheduled in this matter. So we think that that is really
3 the way to go, Your Honor, and that will avoid the prejudice
4 to all the parties, not just the Debtor, but all the other
5 creditors who'd like to see their distribution.

6 So, Your Honor, I'm not going to address the agreement for 7 stay relief based on Your Honor's comments.

8 I just want to address, lastly, that if Your Honor does 9 deny the motion, that Your Honor -- for stay relief, that Your 10 Honor also deny the request by UBS for a further extension of 11 its proof of claim. There was an agreement between the 12 parties that extended the bar date already for UBS and that 13 provided that we would have this stay relief that (inaudible).
14 There was never any discussion that, if stay relief was 15 denied, that there would be further time for UBS to file a 16 proof of claim.

17 While this is cloaked in the desire to preserve a jury
18 trial that we never had, the reality here, Your Honor, is that 19 this is just more delay and posturing and trying to keep the 20 notion that there's a big claim out there and a big trial in 21 the future for leverage purposes, for UBS to be able to say to 22 the other creditors, you know, I'm in control here, I've got a
23 billion-dollar claim, I'm still going to pursue a jury trial.
24 It is gumming up the case. It is freezing the case. And the 25 only way to break the logjam, Your Honor, is for Your Honor to

68

1 do that. It's for Your Honor to deny stay relief, to require,
2 as they agreed, to require UBS to file a proof of claim within 3 five days of Your Honor's ruling. We will then proceed with 4 an objection to claim that will lay out the issues, we think,
5 very clearly, the (inaudible) very clearly. And UBS will have 6 their opportunity to be heard, and then Your Honor can decide.

7 And if Your Honor sustains the objections based on the 8 issues we've presented to the Court, like I said, that's going
9 to clear a path for this case to move to confirmation.

10 If Your Honor overrules the objection, then I guess what 11 have we lost but a couple months' time trying to adjudicate
12 that and spare the estate of being stuck in suspense for an 13 indefinite period of time?

14 So, on that basis, Your Honor, we would ask that you deny 15 the stay relief motion and deny the extension on the proof of 16 claim. I'd be happy to answer any questions that Your Honor
17 has and then I'd yield to the parties.

18 THE COURT: I have a question unrelated to the 19 arguments. Exclusivity in this case, I know there was an 20 agreement regarding the most recent extension, and I can't 21 remember what the deadline is. I feel like it's late July, 22 maybe. Can someone remind me of that?

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor? Yes, Your Honor. This
24 is Jeff Pomerantz. So, the current exclusivity expires on 25 July 13th. We have since filed, I believe it was last Friday

69

1 night, a further motion to extend for an additional 30 days.
2 We are in discussions with the Committee about various
3 structures, about a plan and whether -- and how we would
4 ultimately emerge from Chapter 11. That matter will be heard,
5 I believe, on July 8th. And it asks for 30 days and an
6 additional two -- additional 30 days, subject to Committee
7 consent.

8 THE COURT: All right. So you all are envisioning
9 walking and chewing gum at the same time, basically going down
10 a dual track if I deny the motion? You know, you're wanting 11 me to set a deadline five days from now or whatever it would 12 be for them to file a proof of claim, you would envision a 13 prompt objection, and going down that path at the same time as 14 proposing a plan in July or August?

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, look, there's a couple of 16 ways this case could end, right? We kick the can down the 17 road, file some type of plan that shifts all the litigation
18 post-confirmation. That may be what happens in this case.
19 That is not what the Debtor wants to happen in this case.

20 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

21 MR. POMERANTZ: The Debtor has been moving very 22 quickly to try to engage with the various creditors. Mr.
23 Clubok said we spent a lot of time. Yes, the Debtor and the 24 independent directors did spend a lot of time dealing with 25 this claim, dealing with the Acis claim, and dealing with the 70

1 Redeemer claim. It's those three claims that are the primary
2 obstacles towards being able to distribute money to creditors.

3 So if, Your Honor, we are either litigating where we think
4 we should in this Court on UBS's matter and the Acis matter,
5 if we can't resolve it, Redeemer's matter, or elsewhere, we 6 are going to try to move things forward. But at the end of 7 the day, unless these claims can be resolved, and UBS is the 8 largest one, there will not be any distributions to creditors,
9 which is what the Court wants to have happen as quickly as 10 possible.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. All right. I have no
12 other questions for Debtor's counsel at this time, so how 13 about we go to Committee counsel now. Mr. Clemente?

14 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE CREDITORS' COMMITTEE

15 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor. Matthew 16 Clemente, Sidley Austin, on behalf of the Official Committee
17 of Unsecured Creditors.

18 Your Honor, as an initial matter, when I refer to the 19 Committee, as we did in our papers, I am referring to the 20 three non-UBS Committee members: --

21 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

22 MR. CLEMENTE: -- Acis, Meta (inaudible) and 23 Redeemer. UBS obviously did not participate in Committee
24 discussions regarding this objection. I just wanted to make 25 sure that Your Honor understood that.

1 With that, Your Honor, the Committee does oppose the 2 motion to lift stay. I've been listening to Mr. Clubok and to 3 the Debtor, and the merits, I think, you know, are probably 4 very interesting, but I'm not sure they are necessarily 5 terribly relevant to the determination that Your Honor has to 6 make today.

7 The issue is whether to lift the stay based on a showing
8 of cause and after taking into consideration whether lifting
9 the stay is in the best interest of the estate and the 10 creditors. I don't think it's whether, you know, one party or 11 another is likely to prevail. I think that's the 12 consideration that Your Honor instead must look at, cause and 13 the impact on the estate.

14 The Committee submits lifting the stay is not in the best
15 interests of the estate. The Committee's focus remains on the 16 efficient and quick resolution of these cases that provides 17 for maximum recovery to its constituency, the general
18 unsecured creditors.

19 And while Mr. Pomerantz referred briefly to the plan,
20 obviously, Your Honor, we have just seen the exclusivity
21 extension motion. I have not had an opportunity to discuss it
22 with the Committee, you know, so I don't know what position we 23 may take on that. But as a general matter, we do believe it's 24 imperative to push forward as quickly as possible with a plan.

25 The asserted UBS claim, as Your Honor as heard, would

1 dwarf all other claims against the estate by far. Resolution
2 of that claim will therefore impact the size and timing of any
3 distributions to the other general unsecured creditors.
4 That's just, I think, a plain fact of math.

5 Thus, the Committee believes having the UBS claim quickly
6 resolved is in the best interest of the estate and the 7 creditors.

8 And the Committee further believes that this Court is the 9 best forum and is in the best position to allow for the 10 quickest resolution of the claim.

11 Although I do not presume to speak for this Court's time
12 or its calendar, I do know that this Court is used to hearing 13 complicated matters and rendering decisions in a quick but 14 fulsome fashion that allows for all parties to fully present
15 their cases.

16 Additionally, Your Honor, bankruptcy proceedings are 17 designed for inclusion and public scrutiny, which will ensure 18 that any creditors or other parties in interest will be able 19 to participate in a process and forum that's accessible and 20 that they can participate in. This is particularly important,
21 Your Honor, given the magnitude of the asserted UBS claim.

22 Your Honor, the speed and efficiency is balanced against 23 lifting the stay to allow the UBS claim to proceed forward in 24 New York state court. There is no visibility by creditors in 25 terms of what the calendar looks like or when New York state

1 courts will resume in-person trials, let alone when they will
2 have a jury trial, to the extent UBS is entitled to one.

3 What information we do have clearly suggests that trials
4 will not resume anytime soon and that there logically would be 5 a backlog that would need to be worked through.

6 I am not a New York state court litigator, Your Honor. I
7 am a bankruptcy attorney from the Midwest. But I do know,
8 from looking at the history of the UBS claim that it does have 9 against the non-debtor affiliates, that the New York state
10 court process previously took a long time, and therefore it
11 can reasonably be expected to again take quite some time.

12 And given the vagaries of a state court process, it will
13 not provide for the level of transparency and participation
14 and speed that I submit this Court can provide, and frankly,
15 should provide, given the magnitude of the asserted claim,
16 while also, and importantly, giving UBS a full and fair
17 opportunity to advance its claim, Your Honor.

18 Additionally, the sheer magnitude of the claim asserted by 19 UBS dictates this Court should resist the motion to lift stay.
20 While it is complex -- or excuse me -- while it is clearly not 21 the only issue in this very complicated and very complex and 22 very difficult case, it will perhaps have the most meaningful
23 and material impact on creditor recoveries of any of those 24 other issues.

25 Given its central importance, Your Honor, the Committee believes it is appropriate that the claim be adjudicated in this collective forum through an established process with which all other various stakeholders are familiar and provide for the appropriate transparency and participation in the adjudication of what is clearly the largest claim asserted against the estate.

Finally, but not least, Your Honor, as I understand the UBS claim, and we heard the Debtor speak to it, and Mr. Clubok as well, it presents itself as the type of claim that is in this Court's wheelhouse -- namely, fraudulent transfer claims and other similar claims. Although from reading the papers, as with all things Highland, there's obviously an overwhelming and significant degree of complexity, at bottom, it appears that Your Honor would simply be required to call balls and strikes on the kinds of claims which this Court has undoubtedly addressed many times before: namely, fraudulent transfer and similar claims.

To sum up, Your Honor, the Committee's position is simple and I think the analysis is simple. It wants the UBS claim resolved as quickly as possible in a forum that provides for the appropriate level of transparency and participation, given the asserted size of the claim and its impact on creditor recoveries and therefore its centrality to this case. Bankruptcy courts in general and this Court in particular are designed to, and, frankly, are set up to efficiently yet

1 fairly adjudicate material claims in an expeditious and
2 transparent fashion, which is in the best interest of the 3 estate and its creditors.

4 Your Honor, for these reasons, the Committee believes the 5 lift stay motion should be denied.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. CLEMENTE: With that, Your Honor, unless you have 8 questions for me, those are my remarks.

9 THE COURT: Not at this time. All right. The 10 Redeemer Committee filed a very lengthy objection. Who will 11 be presenting that objection today?

12 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor, I will. This is Terri
13 Mascherin on behalf of the Crusader Redeemer Committee.

14 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may proceed.
15 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE CRUSADER REDEEMER COMMITTEE

16 MS. MASCHERIN: Thank you, Your Honor. Your Honor,
17 the Redeemer Committee submits that there is -- there's 18 similar showing for cause to lift the stay when lifting the 19 stay would prejudice not only the estate but all other 20 creditors in this bankruptcy proceeding and would 21 substantially delay administration of the Debtor's estate and 22 any meaningful distributions to creditors.

23 I'd like to give Your Honor, if I may, just a couple words
24 of background on who the Redeemer Committee is and why we 25 believe we have some unique knowledge and -- that we'd -- that

1 we'd like to bring with respect to this objection.

2       The Redeemer Committee is a committee consisting of nine
3 individuals who serve as designated representatives of major
4 investors in the Highland Crusader Fund. The Highland
5 Crusader Fund was Highland's flagship investment fund before
6 the last recession. It went into redemption in 2008, followed
7 by an involuntary insolvency proceeding in Bermuda. That 8 court proceeding, the insolvency proceeding in Bermuda, was 9 resolved by way of a scheme and plan of liquidation that was 10 negotiated between Highland Capital Management, the Debtor
11 here, and the two classes of redeeming investors. And that 12 scheme and plan was approved by the Bermuda court.

13       The governance that is set up in the scheme and the plan
14 provided for the election of an oversight Committee -- that 15 is, the Redeemer Committee.

16       The Redeemer Committee members were elected from amongst 17 the consenting as opposed to the redeemers of the Crusader
18 Fund.

19       The scheme and plan permitted the Debtor, Highland, to 20 remain as manager of the Crusader Fund to complete the 21 liquidation of the fund, but the Redeemer Committee was given,
22 among other powers, the power to remove Highland as manager
23 for cause, or not for cause, and also to bring claims against 24 Highland Capital Management under the plan and the scheme.

25       The Redeemer Committee determined in July 2016 to remove

1 Highland as manager of the fund and simultaneously commence an
2 arbitration before the International Center for Dispute
3 Resolution. That proceeding resulted in an arbitration award
4 against the Debtor for $490 million in damages, inclusive of 5 pre-judgment interest as of the petition date.

6 Since the -- since Highland -- Highland filed, by the way,
7 filed this proceeding, this bankruptcy proceeding, literally
8 as we were on the steps of the courthouse in the Delaware
9 Chancery Court for the hearing on the motion to confirm the 10 arbitration award that was issued in favored of the Redeemer
11 Committee.

12 So UBS is not the only party who was denied access to its 13 preferred court, shall we say, but the Redeemer Committee is 14 cooperating in this bankruptcy. The Redeemer Committee, like 15 UBS, has been appointed a member of the Unsecured Creditors'
16 Committee. And the Redeemer Committee, we would submit, Your 17 Honor, has a unique perspective to bring on this motion for 18 two reasons.

19 First of all, the Redeemer Committee is the holder of a 20 very large liquidated though not-yet-allowed claim in this 21 bankruptcy by virtue of the arbitration award. We've 22 essentially concluded our litigation against the Debtor.

23 Second, the Redeemer Committee is uniquely knowledgeable
24 about the litigation and the work between UBS and the Debtor
25 because the Crusader Fund was a party to that suit. In fact,

1 the settlement agreement, which contains a release provision
2 which we submit and the Debtor submits ought to have a
3 significant impact upon the size of the claims that the Debtor
4 can -- or that UBS can prosecute now with respect to the 5 fraudulent transfers and the breach of implied covenant, that
6 was negotiated by my clients, the Redeemer Committee, and you
7 will see their signatures at the very end of Exhibit H, which 8 is -- to our objection, which is that settlement agreement.

9 Your Honor, we submit there has been no showing of cause
10 to lift the stay here. I'd like to mention a couple of court
11 decisions which I think bring important principles that the 12 Court should consider in considering whether UBS has met its 13 burden here to show cause.

14 Courts have recognized, when relief from the automatic
15 stay is sought, the party seeking the relief has an initial 16 burden to demonstrate cause for the relief. And where, as 17 here, the movant seeking to lift the stay is an unsecured
18 creditor, the burden on a movant is -- has been recognized as 19 being especially heavy. That's recognized in the Southern 20 District Bankruptcy Court decision in the (inaudible) Energy
21 Partners case, for example, which we cited in our papers.

22 In fact, in the Residential Capital, LLC bankruptcy
23 proceedings in the Southern District, the Court said, and I
24 quote, "When the movant is an unsecured creditor, the policies
25 of the automatic stay weigh against granting the relief

1 requested."

2 And in In re Leibowitz, another Southern District
3 bankruptcy decision, the Court said, and I quote, "The general
4 rule is that claims that are not viewed as secured in the 5 context of 362(d)(1) should not be granted relief from the 6 stay unless extraordinary circumstances are established to 7 justify such relief."

8 We would submit, Your Honor, that UBS failed even to make
9 a prima facie showing of cause here. They point to prejudice,
10 they say, to themselves if they can't go to New York and have 11 a jury trial, and they point to judicial economy. We would 12 submit those factors actually argue very strongly against a
13 finding of cause in this case.

14 There would be substantial prejudice to other creditors in 15 this proceeding if UBS is permitted to essentially get cause
16 on large parts of this bankruptcy proceeding and go off to New 17 York to litigate. UBS barely acknowledges that the lifting of 18 the stay to allow it to proceed in New York would have any 19 impact on creditors. We submit that the impact would be quite 20 (inaudible).

21 It can't seriously be disputed, we submit, Your Honor,
22 that this Court could determine the validity and the amount of 23 UBS's claim more expeditiously than UBS could get relief for a
24 jury trial and the subsequent proceedings in New York.

25 We agree with the Debtor's counsel that there is no

1 prospect of jury trials and hearings in the courts in 2 Manhattan anytime certainly this year, and perhaps well into
3 next year, and we've cited some commentators who've written
4 pieces that have been published to that effect.

5       Meanwhile, the sheer size of the claim that UBS is 6 purporting to submit here -- of course, they haven't filed a
7 claim -- but the sheer size of the claim as it has been 8 described in this proceeding makes it central to these 9 proceedings. And for -- for a fact, in the Choice ATM
10 Enterprises case, which was decided by Judge Lynn, Judge Lynn
11 denied a motion to lift stay that was brought by a creditor
12 where the creditor's claim at issue "would be the largest 13 claim against the estate and thus critical to the 14 reorganization." That's very much the case here, and it's 15 appropriate for you to consider that this claim, if allowed at 16 the amount of roughly one billion dollars, which UBS is 17 asserting is the value of its claim, would dwarf the rest of 18 the estate.

19       Bankruptcy, of course, is designed to provide an orderly
20 liquidation procedure under which all creditors are treated
21 equally. Given those policies, the bankruptcy court ought to 22 try to preserve a level playing field for all creditors. And 23 we cited in our papers the decision in In re Canejo
24 Enterprises, which was a Ninth Circuit case from 1986, where 25 the Court denied a motion to lift stay for that reason,

81

1 because the -- because the Court found that lifting the stay
2 as to one large creditor in that case would in effect give 3 that creditor oversized leverage with respect to resolution of 4 the proceedings.

5 The same is true here. As both Committee counsel and 6 Debtor counsel have pointed out, with the overhang of what we 7 think is an oversized one billion dollar claim, it's very 8 difficult to negotiate the way to see clear to a plan of 9 reorganization here, where other creditors, like my clients,
10 for example, don't know whether they stand to receive a 11 quarter of the estate's proceeds or something much less than 12 that.

13 And we submit, Your Honor, that that is, in fact, what UBS
14 wants to preserve here, is that leverage, that negotiating
15 leverage, which thus far has really stymied efforts to move
16 forward.

17 As both Mr. Pomerantz and Mr. Clemente alluded to, the 18 Creditors' Committee has been working hard on trying to get to 19 a plan of reorganization. That's what we want. We want some 20 certainty of how this proceeding will conclude, and it's just,
21 as a practical matter, very difficult to come to anything
22 close to certainty of a practical resolution with that one
23 billion dollar gorilla sitting in the room.

24 This Court, we would submit, as counsel for the Debtor
25 argued, can resolve the claims that UBS has pending against

1 the Debtor quite efficiently and quite expeditiously under the
2 rules that you have available to you under the Bankruptcy
3 Court Rules. So we submit the New York court really has no
4 appreciable advantage in resolving these claims.

5 As counsel for the Debtor pointed out, there are 6 essentially -- there are two claims that are pending in the 7 New York action against the Debtor. One is a fraudulent
8 transfer claim; the other is a claim for breach of the implied
9 covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

10 I won't get into whatever defenses the Debtor may have 11 against that good faith and fair dealing claim, but I will say
12 this much: All of the claims, all of those claims arise from 13 the fraudulent transfers that were alleged to have taken place
14 in March of 2009. So they essentially all stem from the 15 fraudulent transfer claims. Those claims are based upon 16 entirely different facts, different witnesses, different legal 17 issues, than the claims that were tried back in 2018 that 18 resulted in that judgment that was entered against the CLO
19 warehouse counterparty that was entered last fall.

20 But you don't have to take my word for it that the 21 fraudulent transfer-based claims are premised on an entirely 22 different set of facts. We can look at UBS's own words to 23 establish that. When it suited UBS's strategy, when UBS
24 persuaded the Court to bifurcate the proceedings into what it
25 now refers to as two phases of the same trial -- and this is

1 going back to the spring of 2018, Your Honor -- UBS persuaded
2 the Court to bifurcate the proceedings, and UBS conceded at 3 that time that the claims against the Debtor that remained to 4 be adjudicated -- and I'm quoting from Exhibit J to our
5 objection here, which is UBS's brief in support of bifurcation
6 -- those claims, UBS argued, quote, "have minimal overlap in 7 evidence and issues" with the claims that Judge Friedman has 8 -- Justice Friedman has already tried in New York.

9 UBS went on to say, and I quote, "The second trial, which 10 will relate to new parties and different claims, will involve 11 new factual issues that will not be addressed at all in the 12 first trial."

13 And in that same pleading, UBS argued, "The issues and 14 evidence will be largely separate, and certainly will not be 15 inextricably interwoven and intertwined" with the issues from 16 the first case.

17 I would submit, Your Honor, that Your Honor could resolve
18 fraudulent transfer-based claims quite expeditiously. Those 19 -- fraudulent transfers are the bread and butter, are the 20 kinds of claims that bankruptcy courts resolve every day. And 21 to the extent that it was necessary for you to look to any of 22 the factual findings that Justice Friedman made, they're laid 23 out in her judgment, which is a very lengthy opinion that was 24 entered last fall and this Court could very easily find them
25 there.

1 Now, a couple of moments about the -- what we've talked to 2 about -- what we've talked -- what we've referred to as the 3 threshold issues. And I'll preface this by saying that, over
4 the years, the Redeemer Committee and Highland Capital
5 Management have not agreed on very many things, but we do
6 agree that there are two threshold legal issues which we 7 submit would seriously materially impact the amount of any 8 claim that the -- that UBS can pursue in this bankruptcy
9 against the Debtor.

10 The first of those is the res judicata issue. Mr. Clubok,
11 I think, has been a little less than precise about exactly 12 what the basis -- in his argument today about exactly what the 13 basis is for the $1 billion claim that he referred to. But if 14 we look at UBS's motion to lift the stay at Page 10, UBS
15 stated, "If found liable, the Debtor will be responsible for 16 the judgment awarded to UBS in Phase I, in addition to any 17 other amounts awarded to UBS in Phase II."

18 So I think UBS stated quite clearly in its motion to lift
19 the stay at Page 10 that what it intends to pursue in this 20 bankruptcy court and what it purports to be intending to 21 pursue in the New York court, at least in large part, is to 22 hold the Debtor responsible for that $1 billion judgment that 23 was entered on the warehouse transactions.

24 It is that articulation of its claim which leads the 25 Redeemer Committee and leads the Debtor to raise the issue of

1 res judicata. And I won't go through again all of the 2 analysis of the decisions, but I would direct Your Honor to
3 the UBS Securities, LLC v. Highland Capital Management
4 decision, which is cited in our papers. It's found at 86
5 A.D.3d 469 or 927 New York Supplement 2nd at 59.

6 In that decision, when UBS first sought to bring the 7 claims that are part of the lawsuit that's now become known as 8 Phase II of the UBS proceedings, the Court ruled as follows,
9 and I quote: "To the extent the claims against Highland in 10 the new complaint implicate events alleged to have taken place
11 before the filing of the original complaint" -- that date was 12 February 24th of 2009 -- "res judicata applies."

13 The Court went on to explain that any claims against the 14 Debtor arising from the restructured warehouse transaction are 15 barred by res judicata. Quote, "That is because UBS's claims 16 against Highland in the original action and in this action all 17 arise out of the restructured warehousing transaction, while 18 the claim against Highland in the original action was based on 19 Highland's alleged obligation to indemnify UBS for actions
20 taken by the affiliate Fund, and the claims against Highland 21 in the second action arose out of Highland's alleged 22 manipulation of those Funds, i.e., alter ego. They form a
23 single factual grouping. Both are related to the same
24 business deal and to the diminution of the value of securities
25 placed with UBS as a result of that deal."

1       So the Court held that to the extent that UBS in that
2 second proceeding, which is now being referred to as Phase II,
3 was asserting claims against Highland Capital Management that 4 were based upon the warehouse transaction or any other conduct
5 that occurred prior to February 24, 2009, those claims were 6 barred by res judicata because they were not raised as part of 7 the original action, which was a separate lawsuit, as we 8 explain in our papers.

9       So while we're not here to argue the merits of the res
10 judicata issue right now, it comes to the fore because of the 11 way UBS described its claim, because of the fact that UBS
12 asserted in its motion that it intends to seek to hold the 13 Debtor liable for that $1 billion judgment that was entered 14 for breach of the warehouse facility. And we submit that when 15 the time comes for the Court to consider objections to UBS's
16 claim, that the res judicata -- that res judicata as a result
17 of the Appellate Division's decisions in New York will make 18 quick action of any effort by UBS to hold the Debtor
19 responsible for that $1 billion judgment.

20       Now, in its reply, UBS makes an interesting statement with 21 respect to this alter ego argument, this claim to hold the 22 Debtor responsible for the $1 billion judgment. And we think
23 that the statement in the reply, Your Honor, is quite telling.
24 It's found on Page 6 in a footnote, Footnote 5.

25       In that footnote, UBS seems to try to preserve the right

1 to bring that $1 billion alter ego claim, to hold the Debtor
2 responsible for the judgment that was entered last fall. And
3 this is the reply brief at Page 6, Footnote 5. In that 4 footnote, UBS stated as follows, quote -- and this is at the 5 very end of the footnote, Your Honor -- that UBS, of course,
6 reserves all rights to pursue any post-trial relief, including
7 holding the Debtor liable as an alter ego.

8 So, Your Honor, we would submit what that suggests is that 9 what UBS wants to do here is to go to New York to get a jury
10 trial on its pleaded claims against the Debtor, which are only 11 fraudulent transfer and breach of the implied covenant of good
12 faith and fair dealing claims, and then to initiate even 13 further proceedings in New York, seeking to hold the Debtor
14 liable for the 2018 $1 billion judgment.

15 Your Honor, how long must all of the other creditors of 16 this estate wait for that, for UBS to finish adjudicating its 17 claims against Highland? The delay, I submit, would be 18 crippling.

19 A few words about the issue of the release, and this is an 20 issue that the Redeemer Committee is quite familiar with 21 because the Redeemer Committee negotiated that settlement
22 agreement. The -- again, this isn't the time to argue the 23 merits of the issue, but I raise the issue just to impress
24 upon Your Honor that it is a serious gating issue, we believe,
25 and an issue which ought to be addressed, because it could

1 have a material impact on the Debtor's exposure on any claims
2 from UBS.

3 Now, as I've said, the claims that UBS has stated in New
4 York against the Debtor are claims for fraudulent transfers
5 which were brought against the Debtor and certain of its 6 affiliates, and a claim against the Debtor for breach of an
7 implied covenant on fair dealing. In its briefing with 8 respect to bifurcation, UBS made clear that both of those 9 claims against the Debtor relate to the fraudulent conveyances
10 which -- by which UBS contends the Debtor's affiliate, which 11 is a company called HLC, transferred certain assets to the 12 Crusader Fund, to the Credit Strategy Fund, to the Debtor
13 itself, and to other affiliates, including the fund that's 14 currently known as the Multi-Strategy Fund.

15 And again, you don't have to believe me when I say that 16 those claims all arise out of the fraudulent transfers. We 17 can look at UBS's own arguments. And this, again, is in 18 Exhibit J to the Redeemer Committee's objection, where UBS
19 described the implied covenant claim as follows: "The implied
20 covenant claim which involved Highland Capital Management's
21 role in the March 2009 fraudulent conveyances overlaps
22 factually with the fraudulent conveyance claim."

23 Your Honor, as we've shown in Exhibits H and I, in 2015
24 the Highland Crusader Fund and the Highland Credit Strategy
25 Fund, which together were the recipient of over 80 percent of

1 the assets that comprised those claimed fraudulent transfers,
2 those two funds entered into settlements with UBS. Those two 3 funds paid a total of approximately $70 million to settle the 4 fraudulent transfer claim. The value of the fraudulent
5 transfer claims, as Mr. -- or as Debtor's counsel has pointed 6 out, the value of the fraudulent transfers to those two funds
7 was somewhere in the neighborhood of $180 to $200 million out
8 of the $240 million of fraudulent transfers that UBS is 9 seeking to recover from.

10 As part of the settlement agreement, UBS agreed to release
11 Highland Capital Management from any claim arising out of the 12 fraudulent transfers that took place either to the Crusader
13 Fund or the Credit Strategy Fund. And I would direct Your 14 Honor to Exhibits H and I. The language of the two settlement
15 agreements is quite similar. If we look, for example, just at 16 Exhibit H, Section 5.3, of the Highland Crusader Fund
17 settlement, you will see that UBS released Highland Capital
18 Management for "losses or other relief specifically arising 19 from the fraudulent transfers to Crusader alleged in the UBS
20 litigation."

21 As we explained in our papers, the term that's used there,
22 I believe, is HCM Released Parties, or something similar to 23 that. If you go back through the definitions, you'll see that 24 Highland Capital Management was specifically released with 25 respect to claims arising from the fraudulent transfers to

1 Crusader.

2 The same language appears in Exhibit I, which is the 3 settlement agreement between the Highland Credit Strategy Fund
4 and UBS.

5 So this is a threshold legal issue, Your Honor, which we 6 submit has the potential to significantly reduce the amount of 7 any allowable claims to UBS. And because the Crusader Fund is 8 a party to that settlement -- and the Crusader Fund's counsel,
9 Mr. Rosenthal, I believe is listening to the proceedings today
10 -- because the Redeemer Committee members were signatories to 11 that settlement agreement, the Crusader Fund and Redeemer
12 Committee ought to have an opportunity to be heard with 13 respect to an objection to UBS's claim that is premised upon 14 the settlement agreement involving those two parties.

15 We submit, Your Honor, that you are well suited to 16 deciding the res judicata and release issues. They're issues
17 that rely only upon what we think are very clear court
18 decisions on the res judicata -- outlining the bounds of res
19 judicata with respect to UBS's claim, and what we would submit 20 is unambiguous settlement language.

21 One final word I would like to express, Your Honor. With 22 regard to the last-ditch argument that UBS made, their 23 argument that if you don't lift the stay you should at least 24 extend the bar date indefinitely only for UBS or enter some 25 sort of an order preserving UBS's right to jury trial: Your

91

1 Honor, this case has been pending since October, this
2 bankruptcy case. UBS waited until May to file a motion to
3 lift stay. And I know they've made some arguments about why
4 they waited, but we've been sitting around for quite some 5 time, trying to make progress in this case.

6 UBS has already had the benefit of a special delay in the 7 bar date. Everyone else filed their claims in April. They 8 agreed to a stipulation, which this Court entered as an order,
9 which provides that UBS would file its claim within five 10 business days after the Court's ruling in the event that the 11 Court denies the motion to lift stay.

12 They've had their delay. They asked for extra time, in 13 fact, to bring their motion to lift stay. What UBS is 14 suggesting now is that they should get yet even more delay,
15 indefinite in length. Your Honor, we're trying to get moving
16 with this proceeding. We'd like to see the Debtor submit a
17 plan. The Committee is trying to work with the Debtor on a 18 plan. I tell you, my clients, Redeemer Committee, are in 19 serious discussions with the Debtor about resolving the 20 allowable amount of their claim. And this case ought to move
21 forward. But if Your Honor grants UBS's motion, what will 22 happen is this case will stall, to the prejudice of the estate
23 and to the prejudice of all other creditors.

24 Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

1 Ms. Patel, will you be making the argument for Acis?

2 MR. SHAW: Your Honor, Brian Shaw on behalf of Acis.
3 I'll be very, very brief.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF ACIS CAPITAL MANAGEMENT

6 MR. SHAW: Judge, one of the foundational principals
7 of the Bankruptcy Code is the policy of equal treatments of --
8 treatment of creditors. Granting stay relief here would be to 9 prefer UBS over all other creditors. And UBS is not unique.
10 We have plenty of litigation creditors in this case. We have 11 Acis. We have Mr. Daugherty. We have the Redeemer Committee.
12 We have UBS. So, granting relief from stay treats UBS
13 differently, makes them a super-creditor, and violates that 14 fundamental foundational principle of bankruptcy law.

15 The second and final point I'll make, Judge, is I think I
16 heard Mr. Clubok, in reference to your question about 17 mediation, say something like he did not expect to have to 18 ultimately try this case. And if I misquote him, I'm sure
19 he'll let us know. I think that tells you everything about 20 the motivations here. I think that tells us everything about 21 the fact that this is about leverage and not about all of the 22 parties in interest here.

23 This is not a case just about UBS. It's a case, a 24 bankruptcy case about all the parties in interest, including
25 the Debtor and creditors and other parties in interest.

1 That's all I have, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Thank you. All right. Mr. Clubok,
3 you're the movant so you get the last word.

4 MR. CLUBOK: I appreciate that, Your Honor. A lot to 5 cover here. Let me say, make this brief observation at the 6 outset, and then I'm going to talk about some of the specific 7 things that were said.

8 Number one, this really proves the old adage, the enemy of 9 my enemy is my friend. I did hear Ms. Mascherin say, oh, gee,
10 we've never agreed with Highland before in years and years;
11 all of a sudden now we agree with them. There is a reason why
12 we're like the skunk at a picnic here, we're getting ganged
13 up, and it's not, Your Honor, because the parties are trying 14 to get to a speedier resolution. It's because they think they 15 can substantively impact our claim and get more -- each of the 16 creditors think they get more amongst themselves if they can 17 knock down our claim.

18 I heard over and over again Ms. Mascherin and others say,
19 oh, I'm not going to argue about the merits here, and then
20 they went on in great detail to try to argue about the merits
21 of our claim.

22 So my second point, overall point that I want to make is 23 -- and this is one where I've got to say at least one thing
24 was said by all the objectors. Mr. Clemente -- I agree with 25 this. What Mr. Clemente said was the merits aren't relevant

1 today. And to Mr. Clemente's credit, I think he less than 2 everyone else went on to then argue the merits, regardless of 3 the fact that they're not relevant today.

4 The merits aren't relevant to today, Your Honor. What's 5 relevant to today is who is going to be deciding those merits.
6 Okay. And it is so crystal clear from hearing the argument
7 and how they lived with these arguments for years and years
8 and years that what I'm hearing today is the same argument I
9 heard in the I think third appeal, the fourth appeal, the 10 summary judgment, and the fifth appeal.

11 So much of what you were told today, Your Honor, dates
12 back to some language, some stray language that was used in a
13 2011 decision. Okay? And ever since that language was used
14 in that 2011 decision that Mr. Feinstein cited and Ms.
15 Mascherin cited, ever since that 2011 decision, Highland has 16 argued over and over again, essentially, ha ha, this means you
17 lose the bulk of your claim.

18 That 2011 decision, they argued it, and we went up and 19 down to the appellate court multiple times to demonstrate 20 that's not true.

21 And Your Honor, we lay out a little snippet of that on 22 Page 5 of our reply brief. I'm not going to get into all of 23 the substance of decisions that happened since 2011, because 24 that's what you were told matters here, but I'll just briefly
25 quote that in rejecting summary judgment, denying summary

1 judgment that Highland had right before the trial, when they
2 said, hey, there's no breach of duty of an implied good faith
3 and fair dealing, hey, this 2011 decision kills your case,
4 hey, most of your damages can't be asserted, the Court said --
5 the district court rejected it. And the appellate court said,
6 talking about the district -- the trial court, I mean, the 7 appellate court said, The Court correctly rejected Defendant's
8 argument because neither our prior decisions nor the doctrine
9 of res judicata bars Plaintiffs from introducing evidence of 10 pre-February 24, 2009 conduct, to the extent necessary to 11 prove with respect to post-[February] 24, 2009 conduct their 12 alter ego, fraudulent conveyance, and breach of implied
13 covenant claims. That is, all three of those claims, the 14 alter ego claims that actually exist, not that we're being 15 told that -- and we've been supposedly -- with this, the 16 fraudulent conveyance claims that are directly against 17 Highland, and most importantly, because this will give up the 18 cap, if we win, to the entirety of that $500 million in 19 damages we suffered, a breach of implied duty of good faith
20 and fair dealing.

21 You just heard some terrific new arguments from Mr.
22 Feinstein and then a little bit from Ms. Mascherin as to why 23 we're going to probably supposedly lose that.

24 And again, going back to what Mr. Clemente said, without 25 getting into the merits, I'll just say we have defeated that

1 several times already in New York courts since 2011, that
2 language they claim -- they tell you means what it doesn't 3 mean.

4 They just want a new forum. They lost in front of Justice
5 Friedman. They lost in the appellate court in New York. We 6 defeated summary judgment, and we're in the middle of a trial
7 where we are pursuing these claims. And now they see this as 8 a possibility to relitigate in a new forum those exact same
9 claims. That's what this comes down to. We talk about 10 motivations. It's clear the motivation is to do what this 11 Court should not do, which is use Chapter 11 to let them
12 relitigate cases, not reorganize.

13 And the third big-picture -- that brings me to my third
14 big-picture point, Your Honor. Your Honor, you were told by 15 Mr. Feinstein the progress of confirming a plan is just 16 stymied by this one debtor. And then you were told many other
17 things. The success or failure of the plan all -- is all
18 dependent on UBS's claim. Ms. Mascherin asserted that she's 19 having discussions. And you're sort of being led to believe 20 that if we just could resolve UBS's claims, if that were 21 somehow possible in the next month or two, even though it's 22 enormously complex and it's going to take months, whether they 23 try and move it here or we finish up in New York City or --
24 but you're told that, oh, that's just the one thing holding up
25 the plan. Your Honor, I can't get into the settlement

1 discussions we've had, although you were -- you know, maybe I
2 can, because I have to rebut the false impression you've been
3 given. But I'll say this: There was a motion filed by 4 Debtor's counsel a couple days ago, I think maybe Friday,
5 where they asked for further extensions for the exclusivity
6 period so that they can continue with their plan. And in 7 that, they reference a term sheet that they had signed. They 8 said, hey, we've signed this term sheet, and because of that 9 we're pretty close, give us another 30 days. And by the way,
10 that can be extended by two more 30 days.

11 I can -- let's just leave it at this: It's Highland's
12 burden of proof. They could not satisfy their burden of proof
13 to honestly tell you that agreeing to that term sheet is 14 dependent upon how we divvy up the proceeds from liquidating
15 assets among the creditors.

16 What I think is clear is that Highland has lots of non-
17 liquid assets that I believe we're going to be told are going 18 to take a year or two to turn into anything that would be 19 available to creditors. Okay? It's not like the plan is all 20 ready to go, they're ready to distribute all the money, and 21 all the proceeds are getting taken care of, including all the 22 claims. That's kind of the impression they led you to 23 believe. I mean, Mr. Feinstein basically said it directly.

24 It's just not true. If it were true, let them show you
25 the term sheet. Let them satisfy what is, by the way, their

1 burden of proof. The cases make it clear that it's our burden
2 to come forward but then their burden of proof.

3 They can't do it because it's not true. And to sit here
4 and listen to them try to tell you, oh, this is the one thing
5 holding things up, it's just -- it's on its face -- I don't 6 know how to characterize it other than to say -- let's just 7 say politely they've not met their burden of proof to show you
8 that they're all ready to go with a plan and the one thing
9 holding it back is whether -- the value of UBS's claim.

10 So those are the three big-picture things. And then I'd 11 just like to respond to some very specific things that were 12 said and I believe misstated.

13 Most importantly, I would ask you to look at, please, Page
14 5 -- 4, 5, and 6 of our reply brief. People kept saying,
15 Don't get into the merits. This is not about the merits. But 16 they just want you -- they want to ask you to relitigate the 17 res judicata issues that have already been decided.

18 And I say they've been decided. They get up here and they 19 tell you, oh, no, they're new issues, or we haven't been 20 decided, or decided a different way. Let's just go to Justice
21 Freidman. She will have -- she will be able to handle that in 22 a week, like she did the last one, is my guess.

23 By the way, Mr. Feinstein bragged that he's the -- 24 supposedly the only New York lawyer here. That's not true.
25 I'm barred in New York. I practice in New York. I'm barred

1 in Ohio. But I litigate -- and New York and Washington, D.C.
2 And I daresay I'm the only lawyer here, other than Ms.
3 Mascherin, I imagine, who has practiced in front of Justice
4 Friedman. I practiced in front of Justice Friedman for years
5 in not just in this case but in other cases, and the notion
6 that she can't handle this very quickly and effectively and 7 wouldn't do it very quickly and effectively, for people to 8 start representing, gee, what it's like to be a New York
9 lawyer or what happens in New York state court, I think
10 there's a -- let's just say a difference of opinion.

11 Certainly, my client -- my client, who is on the phone,
12 Suzanne Forster, she's also a part of New York. We're 13 familiar with the New York courts. We litigate there quite a 14 bit. And the dispar... I mean, it's easy to hit on New 15 Yorkers, I guess even if you're a New Yorker you can claim to 16 hit on it, but I'm confident that Justice Friedman will do as 17 she promised and move this case along. I can't guarantee you
18 the trial date, because six months ago, when she -- we were 19 ready to try the case and we agreed to the delay. She said,
20 Great, I'll work on that schedule for you.

21 Now, COVID happened, right, and that's a crazy, unforeseen
22 circumstance. And so I can't predict that COVID will allow a 23 trial to start back up in September or in January. Some 24 people have said different things.

25 But when you're talking about a matter of months to 100

1 resolve a claim that is so complex that you've heard four
2 different lawyers tell you totally different things than what
3 the New York appellate courts have told us, and different from 4 what Justice Friedman told us, and different than what
5 Highland's last set of lawyers argued to Justice Friedman, all
6 of those are the things that we'd get into and not on the 7 merits if we actually had to deal with the merits of these so-
8 called threshold issues, which aren't threshold issues, but 9 that's again why that should be quickly resolved by Justice
10 Friedman, who would not even let them proceed, I imagine, as 11 opposed to asking for you to give them another bite at that 12 apple.

13 Now, I just want to make sure I address the other things
14 that they say.

15 You know, I never heard a single word, of all those 16 objectors, Your Honor, we filed our reply brief to make sure
17 that our position was clear. I argued. I just heard five 18 other folks argue. Not a single one of them told you what's 19 going to happen to UBS to the extent that it is entitled to 20 try these same claims against the other defendants that are 21 still in the case that aren't in bankruptcy court. I mean,
22 might say some of the claims are exactly the same. Fraudulent
23 conveyance against Multi-Strat, for example, a nondebtor in 24 New York that we have a $60 to $90 million claim against.
25 Same facts. Also, Highland is responsible just for that part

101

1 of the case. And that's not affected in any way, shape, or
2 form by any settlement agreement with anyone.

3 So you've got the exact same claim, basically, the same
4 facts. That particular fraudulent transfer, transfer just to 5 Multi-Strat, we can go after the transferee and we can go
6 after the transferor. We have the right to punitives. All of 7 it's a jury trial. That's pending right now in New York.
8 And how are we not going to be prejudiced if we're going to 9 argue -- we're going to have to try that case in two separate
10 courts? That case is not affected in any way by these so-
11 called threshold issues. Not in any way, shape, or form. Not 12 by the settlement agreement, not by the res judicata argument.
13 So, right there, that chunk of, you know, $60 to $90 million,
14 just that one claim alone.

15 There are other fraudulent transfers by Highland to itself
16 and to other entities that also were not subject to the 17 settlement. We think there's something like $150 million, at 18 least, in fraudulent transfers, even if you credited this 19 settlement wipes out the rest of our fraudulent transfer
20 claims, an argument that, by the way, is inconsistent with 21 Highland's previous argument, and we'd be arguing that to you
22 if we're forced to get to the merits, which, of course, we're 23 not supposed to do today, even though many of the other
24 lawyers argued on the merits.

25 But then we get to breach of duty of good faith and fair

102

1 dealing. And here is where, Your Honor, I agree, our
2 language, that one sentence that they jump on in the opening
3 brief was looser than it should have been. We said something
4 like, in the second phase, we'll find out if Highland is 5 responsible for the $500 million judgment. And they jumped on 6 that and they're trying to tell you, aha, that means these 7 guys have a secret plan to pursue a brand new alter ego theory
8 and that's the whole plan and that's really what's going on 9 here.

10 Your Honor, all that means is, as a practical matter,
11 Phase I, assess how much money, $500 million, was owed to UBS
12 as of February 24, 2009, when we filed suit. Every action
13 that Highland took after that to ensure that those payments
14 would not be made -- and there were hundreds of millions of 15 dollars left after February 24th, 2009 where Highland could 16 have paid UBS or caused UBS to be paid -- when Highland chose 17 not to -- and by the way, not only did they choose not to, but 18 we gave you a little taste of the kind of things they did.
19 There's an email, I think it's Exhibit 5 to our opening. I'm 20 sorry. Exhibit H. It -- anyway, there's a -- as you'll see, 21 there's a brief email chain where they talk about how they're 22 going to (inaudible) court and then they're going to stymie all
23 of our opportunity to recover the money.

24 So the $500 million just is the amount that two of the 25 Highland entities owed us under a contract that Highland had

103

1 signed. We have already won, defeated summary judgment and
2 many appellate decisions that say that every single thing that
3 Highland did after February 2009 to not cause us to get paid
4 is potentially a breach of implied duty of good faith and fair
5 dealing. That part of our claim is going forward. That's not
6 something that Your Honor can -- unless you want to overturn
7 summary judgment and the appellate -- New York appellate
8 courts on an issue of New York state law, no matter how much
9 Mr. Feinstein or Ms. Mascherin would have liked that to be 10 changed, that's just asking to relitigate a decision that's 11 already been handed down by the appellate court in New York.
12 Okay?

13 And that's why this whole exercise is so terribly
14 misguided and wrong and why we would suffer terrific prejudice
15 to (a) have to relitigate those claims. Assume we win, then 16 we're going to litigate the rest of our claim, I guess, in 17 their mind, here against Highland, while litigating a very 18 similar claim, on similar facts, with the same witnesses, in 19 front of a jury in New York. They've apparently abandoned or 20 were going to remove it and you're going to survive
21 abstention, or because they didn't say it, maybe they're just 22 hoping that you agree with them. But for all the reasons we 23 cite in our brief, mandatory abstention, leave permissive
24 abstention, will apply to those claims against the non-25 debtors.

104

1 Turning to what Mr. Pomerantz said. And I think it was
2 Mr. Pomerantz. I apologize if it was Mr. Feinstein. But I
3 think at one point Mr. Pomerantz jumped in and answered a
4 question you asked, and that answer was pretty revealing to 5 what's really going on here. Okay?

6 What's really going on here is this isn't just about how 7 much gets paid to each creditor. It's not about delaying the 8 total plan. It's not about not being able to -- it's not 9 about getting people paid much faster, because it's going to 10 take a year or two to liquidate the assets in order to pay any 11 of the creditors a sufficient amount of money. It's just 12 about short-circuiting our right to get a fair determination
13 of our claim when we're literally in the middle of a trial.

14 And I daresay none of the cases they've cited to you where 15 bankruptcy courts have decided to refuse to lift the automatic 16 stay are ones like this, where a party, after 11 years of 17 litigation, was in the middle of trial. We cited those 18 timeliness cases. That's something else I didn't hear any 19 response to by any of the Objectors. We cite them on -- in 20 our opening brief, I think on Page 5 of our opening brief. We 21 cite several cases that stand for the proposition that 22 timeliness just means is there going to be a timely
23 adjudication. And in those cases, cases that were still in 24 the summary judgment stage or in the middle of discovery, the 25 Court said no. In one case, it was a case that had just been

105

1 filed. At the same time the bankruptcy was filed, in the 2 state court, filed in bankruptcy about the same time, the 3 Court said the bankruptcy -- that's going to move things
4 along.

5 Those cases specifically say things like -- we're talking,
6 talking about a matter of months and not years with an S. It
7 easily satisfies the timely requirement. And for us to be 8 able -- Page 43 was -- Ms. Tomkowiak reminded me of the 9 opening brief, we think our cases on timeliness.

10 Ms. Mascherin. Ms. Mascherin, by the way, throws out as 11 an aside that she has a $190 million claim, that the Redeemer
12 Committee has a $190 million claim. Frankly, that's not -- we 13 don't believe that's true. That claim is not a secured claim.
14 That claim is subject to many setoffs. As an economic matter,
15 frankly, that claim is worth about $90 million maybe at most,
16 maybe even less.

17 Now, that's going to be the subject of either a
18 negotiation, which would be great if Ms. Mascherin is correct
19 and Highland is working with her in good faith to come to a 20 resolution of that claim. If it's a fair number, then that 21 will be great. And if not, I guess people will object.

22 Acis's claim, you know, it needs to be adjudicated or 23 resolved. Mr. Daugherty's claim needs to be adjudicated or 24 resolved.

25 There's a lot of things that need to happen in this Court,

106

1 along with seeing a plan. And by the way, the plan that we
2 expect to see is not going to be dependent on exactly which of 3 the creditors gets which, based on what we understand as of 4 this point. Certainly, it hasn't been demonstrated to be the 5 case by Highland in its argument.

6 And so when you talk about doing two things at the same
7 time, or walking and chewing gum at the same time, there's a
8 lot of gum and a lot of walking to be chewed by all the other
9 creditors in this estate and the directors in terms of 10 figuring out how they're going to liquidate some of these 11 long-term assets and how money is going to show up not a year
12 or two years from now but hopefully sooner.

13 Meanwhile, if you lift the stay, we can go to Judge
14 Friedman. We can say to her, hey, remember when you promised
15 that we'd have a trial in six months? We realized there's 16 COVID, but let's do everything else to be all ready to be on 17 the -- the first in your queue. And by the way, I'm not 18 guaranteeing. I never -- if I -- if you thought I said it, I
19 didn't, but I certainly would not guarantee we're going to be 20 first in the queue, but I predict that if we tell Judge
21 Friedman what's happened here and we ask her if we can be 22 first in the queue, I suspect we'll have a pretty good shot at 23 that. We certainly should be entitled to give it a shot and 24 to see before we just immediately lose all of our rights in 25 these cases.

107

1 Your Honor, there are extraordinary circumstances here.
2 You know, Ms. Mascherin said we have some kind of burden of 3 proof to show extraordinary circumstances. That's not the 4 test. You know, the test is cause, and then the burden
5 shifts, as we know from cases. But there are some pretty
6 extraordinary circumstances.

7 THE COURT: What -- what --

8 MR. CLUBOK: We're in the middle of a fight.

9 THE COURT: I just -- I can't resist chiming in on 10 that one, the burden shifting. I mean, does the burden really 11 ever shift in this context if we're not talking about assets,
12 collateral, and equity/no equity? I'm a little stumped on the 13 burden shifting that you've argued here.

14 MR. CLUBOK: Well, Your Honor, Page 2 and 3 of our 15 brief sets it out. Under Section 362(d)(1) of the Bankruptcy
16 Code, we have the initial burden of producing evidence
17 establishing a prima facie case that cause exists. That's the 18 (inaudible) Self case. Once that burden is met, however, the 19 debtor "has the ultimate burden of persuasion or the risk of 20 non-persuasion as to all stay issues under Section 362(d)(1)."
21 That's that same case. And we cite that on Page 2 and 3, and 22 we also say See also a case from the Fifth Circuit.

23 So that is the law that we've cited. The Defendants --
24 the Objectors, I should say, just hand-wave and just tell you
25 it's not true, but that's the case law that we've cited that I

108

1 think will stand on the Fifth Circuit and the bankruptcy court
2 decision that we cited. But look. So that will -- that is
3 the case. But in any event, we -- there is an inescapable
4 fact here that we're in the middle of a trial, that there are 5 non-debtor defendants in that trial, that there's a lot of 6 overlapping facts. And by the way, there's a level of 7 complexity that is so great that the stuff you've heard today
8 will take us a long, long time for us to explain to you why
9 it's not true, it's rehashed, it's incorrect, it's already 10 been decided, or it's been waived. But it's not, as they say,
11 in all of these snippet and out-of-context arguments you've 12 heard while you hear lawyers telling you, hey, we're not 13 getting into the merits, but now let's just give you a little 14 preview of the merits, that's all the kind of stuff that 15 Justice Friedman could deal with so quickly and easily, and 16 they know it, and that's what's really going on here.

17 In terms of, you know, what Mr. Shaw said, and I'll just 18 briefly say, you know, it's not that you get -- you've got to 19 have a -- you've got -- put it this way. Because of the stage
20 of the proceeding, Acis's claim, for example, which I had 21 heard might be $5 million, but now I hear it might be $100
22 million, I don't think that's even out of the gate in terms of 23 litigating. And if Acis thinks that Your Honor can handle
24 that more quickly and efficiently, that's why it'll be here.
25 Or they're happier with you making decisions about that case

109

1 than, you know, the judge behind door number two. That's 2 terrific. That will move along the resolution of what their 3 claim is, or maybe they'll settle it, ideally, with the 4 Debtor.

5 But that claim is so differently-situated than our claim,
6 which is, after 11 years of litigation, literally in the 7 middle of a trial, where the judge has already made
8 credibility determinations, and she was the fact-finder under 9 part of the case and is going to be the fact-finder under the 10 second part of the case as well for some of the claims. So
11 that's why that's very different.

12 The last thing I just want to say is we talk about 13 motivation. We talk about leverage. I mean, we haven't been 14 litigating with Highland for 11 years because it's fun. I
15 mean, it's not fun. I promise you. Litigating with anyone --
16 and I will -- I think all the -- I think Ms. Mascherin even 17 would agree with me that it's not super-fun always litigating
18 with Highland. Probably Acis would agree as well.

19 We've done that not to -- as an ultimate plan to have 20 leverage in the bankruptcy court. We pursued that for 11
21 years because they owed us $500 million in 2009 after we sued.
22 They had hundreds of millions dollars that they controlled,
23 and they breached their duty of good faith and fair dealing 24 and caused fraudulent transfers, such that we've been paid not 25 one penny, not one penny from Highland, even though this Court

110

1 has -- the New York court has already found that they were
2 liable to us for $500 million as of that date.

3 So that's why we've been pursuing them. It wasn't some 4 master plan so that one day we could be here in bankruptcy
5 court and somehow get an unfair shake. It was so that we
6 could get a fair resolution of our claim. And we fought
7 through all the same arguments I heard today. I have been in 8 the New York Court of Appeals five times. Or four times, I
9 guess.

10 By the way -- yeah, four times in the New York Court of 11 Appeals. At least three of them since 2011. I've lost track
12 of which ones came before or after. But I've heard these same
13 arguments over and over again. I heard them at summary
14 judgment briefing. I heard them in the state court at the 15 trial. They've been rejected.

16 To ask Your Honor to give them a new bite at the apple and 17 to ask you to make an interpretation of these issues that are 18 surely New York state law, that have been well resolved in New 19 York state law, that Justice Friedman could decide in her
20 sleep, and she proved the last time they did it she could 21 decide in about a week, that's not -- that's not appropriate,
22 and we've certainly showed good cause and we showed the 23 prejudice we would be suffering if the Objectors are given the 24 chance to just relitigate in a new forum issues that have 25 already been litigated.

111

1 THE COURT: All right.

2 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you.

3 THE COURT: Thank you. Well, I want you all to know
4 that I thought all of the briefing was spectacular. It was 5 extremely well done. And I want you to know that I spent all
6 weekend looking at it. I'm telling you that both to 7 compliment you and to let you know why I am going to go ahead
8 and rule on this.

9 I, my law clerk, we've spent a lot of time looking at your 10 very wonderfully-prepared pleadings. And if you saw me
11 occasionally looking over at my computer when you were 12 arguing, I was not drifting off, doing something else; I
13 actually opened the email that Mr. Sosland sent my courtroom
14 deputy earlier this afternoon with the unredacted UBS reply
15 and attachments, to make sure I considered that, because that 16 would have been the only thing that I hadn't reviewed before
17 coming in here this afternoon. So I greatly appreciate the 18 complexity of this 11-year litigation dispute. I guess the 19 dispute started earlier than February 2009.

20 But 362 is obviously the governing statute here. I have 21 subject matter jurisdiction, and I'm able to enter a final
22 order on this motion of UBS. And applying 362 and the cause
23 standard, I find that UBS has not established cause to lift
24 the stay, and I'm going to deny the motion.

25 First, I will say that I believe the burden has been on

112

1 the Movant here, and the Movant never did get past the 50-yard
2 line on showing cause.

3 As many of you noted, cause is a discretionary, highly
4 discretionary standard that governs the bankruptcy judge's
5 decision. Here, there are a number of factors that have made
6 me decide there is just not cause to lift the stay here.
7 Timing is, as you would guess, the most critical factor here.
8 I don't believe UBS, as eloquent as its arguments were, met
9 its burden of convincing me that things could more timely be 10 resolved in the state court, or even timely be resolved.

11 While I certainly have the utmost respect for Justice
12 Friedman and all of the many years of scaling the learning
13 curve that she no doubt has here, we have this very 14 uncomfortable, unpleasant fact, I think we would all agree, of 15 the COVID pandemic. None of us can say when things will get 16 back to normal in the New York state courts. And the likely 17 prospects of delay here, we just cannot ignore. The judge
18 will have a backlog for all of these months of not having 19 court hearings, and then who knows when a jury trial can 20 happen. So that unpleasant fact does not work to UBS's
21 advantage here.

22 Also, the fact that this litigation has already been 23 pending over 11 years and only very recently resulted in a
24 written ruling in Phase I, I think is a very unpleasant fact 25 here. While all of the prior rulings may set things up for

113

1 Phase II to go more rapidly, I'm just not convinced that a
2 state court anywhere would have the rapid focus that any
3 bankruptcy court will have, this one or any bankruptcy court
4 would have in getting a proof of claim resolved, especially an
5 allegedly $1 billion proof of claim that the whole
6 reorganization strategy hinges on.

7 Here, this Court has the capacity to address even a very
8 complicated proof of claim objection very fast. We have been 9 up and running, doing evidentiary video hearings for a couple
10 of months now. Even in this building in the past few months, 11 there have been live in-person hearings on rare occasion in 12 the bankruptcy court, but we have had a handful of them
13 amongst the bankruptcy judges, and the criminal judges are 14 still having live in-person hearings all through the pandemic,
15 and I think our chief district judge is empaneling a jury for 16 the first time this month.

17 So, while anything can change here for the worst as far as 18 the pandemic, I feel like the timing issues heavily weigh in 19 favor of us being able to resolve a UBS proof of claim faster
20 here with a bench trial.

21 This Debtor cannot wait years for this UBS claim of 22 liability of Highland to be resolved. I will vow to get 23 through this promptly and give you thorough attention, just as 24 I'm sure Justice Freidman has done. But we just cannot have 25 the massive uncertainty of a potentially $1 billion proof of 114

1 claim delay this case.

2       Someone called UBS the one billion dollar gorilla in the 3 room. That's, I think, an apt description. So, timing here
4 is the biggest problem for UBS. I think a delay here that I
5 believe would be inherent if the state court adjudicated Phase
6 II would be very harmful to this Debtor's reorganization
7 prospects and the other creditors.

8       Other factors that the Court is, of course, supposed to 9 consider in this context -- judicial economy, judicial 10 efficiency, burden on the parties, equities -- I do not think
11 that any of these have been shown here to obviously favor
12 lifting of the stay. So the motion is denied.

13       I do want to reiterate to people, I am not going to 14 relitigate anything that Justice Friedman has decided. I will 15 be careful not to do that. And so be careful what you ask me
16 to do. I am going to respect the comity of the state court on 17 matters that have already been decided by her.

18       I'm also not going to litigate UBS's claims against non-
19 debtor affiliates, unless somehow there's mass movement for me
20 to do that that I'm convinced I should do that. So this will 21 just be UBS filing a proof of claim against the Debtor,
22 Highland Capital Management, LP, and presumably the objection,
23 and then the trial on the merits, a bench trial on the merits.

24       I guess I should just reiterate for the record what I
25 hinted at early on, that I'm overruling UBS's argument that

115

1 the Debtor's alleged agreement a few months ago through Scott
2 Ellington to lift the stay in favor of this litigation going
3 forward in the New York state court is binding on the Debtor
4 or other creditors. Waivers of the automatic stay are 5 generally not enforceable unless there's an order of the Court
6 on notice to all the creditors who are beneficiaries of the 7 automatic stay. So, no matter what he said, he didn't have 8 the power, and the other creditors cannot be held to that 9 alleged agreement.

10 The last thing -- I mean, not the last thing, the next to 11 the last thing I'm going to say is the proof of claim -- we'll 12 say that UBS must file a proof of claim. Someone threw five 13 days out there. We're already past the regular bar date. So
14 UBS, any argument you want to make that that's not enough
15 time, to say -- and Friday is the 19th.

16 MR. CLUBOK: Yes, Your Honor. We would like some 17 more time on that.

18 You know, I will say a couple things. We are here six
19 months later. There's one thing I didn't address. I know 20 you're not giving us -- you're not going to credit us for the 21 agreement that was made, but we did rely on that agreement and 22 did not pursue preparing a proof of claim because we thought
23 we were in a settlement posture. I would ask the Court to 24 give us -- you know, given the nature of this claim and the 25 size of this, I think it's ambitious now to do it in five

116

1 business days, or June 22nd. I know there was an original
2 agreement with that, although I also will note that we were 3 assured we'd get more time if we needed to for various 4 reasons, if they were reasonable.

5 I also, frankly, Your Honor, I hate to raise this, but I
6 do think we need to look at our appellate options, because 7 this is going to put us in a situation where we're necessarily 8 going to be trying this case in two different courts with two 9 different decisions, and it is fairly -- you know, it is not 10 the case that there's some plan that's ready to go, that it's 11 just being held up by UBS's proof of claim. So I guess we 12 would ask that we be given some period of time. You know, I
13 think we have -- I think we have two weeks to decide whether 14 or not -- sorry. Yeah, I think we have two weeks to decide
15 whether to appeal. We would like to have at least that long.
16 Maybe we won't appeal. That decision has not been made. I
17 have to talk to my client. We'll see how it goes.

18 We appreciate your ruling, and we -- you know, not --
19 we're going to appeal, and we'll certainly talk to the Debtor
20 and the other creditors about that and see if we can work
21 something out. But we'd like a fair amount of time to 22 consider that as an option. And then, if we do, we certainly 23 don't want a situation being, which is so easy to fix, that to 24 -- just like a proof of claim being filed, we lose our right
25 to end up with a jury trial. You know, it ultimately makes

117

1 more sense to try all of this in front of one jury, which is
2 what's going to be the nature of our appeal.

3 We can do other things like, you know, give the substance
4 of what would be in a proof of claim, so we can keep moving
5 things along in this court. There's other ways to deal with 6 it. The Court can make decisions. But it's a pretty big hit
7 if we're just forced to do that right away. And also, given 8 the circumstances, and the reason we are six months later than 9 we would be in dealing with all of this is because we did rely 10 on that promise. And even if you're not going to hold them to 11 it, it certainly is why we're here. We would ask that the 12 Court issue a ruling that would help us out, given the 13 circumstances.

14 MR. FEINSTEIN: Your Honor, may I be heard on this on 15 behalf of the Debtor?

16 THE COURT: You may.

17 MR. FEINSTEIN: Thank you. For the record, Robert 18 Feinstein.

19 Your Honor, there was a -- a briefing schedule that was 20 fully negotiated with the Debtor and UBS, where it was agreed, 21 and it's recited in the stipulation, that there would be an 22 extension of the bar date until the later of June 22nd or five
23 business days after resolution of this motion. And we worked 24 out a briefing schedule on this motion.

25 So this was already embodied in the document submitted to

118

1 the Court. So -- and that was prepared well after any notion
2 that the putative agreement to lift the stay was going to move
3 forward.

4 We told Mr. Clubok months ago our position on that, and 5 the stipulation -- the stipulation with the (garbled) bar date
6 all came long after that. Your Honor, we can't rely on the 7 supposed agreement to buy more time now. We negotiated with 8 him to file a proof of claim five business days after Your 9 Honor's ruling on the motion, if Your Honor denied the motion.
10 And we think that that -- that we should stick to that.

11 MR. CLUBOK: If I may briefly respond. Of course, 12 it's ironic that, that agreement, we're to be held to, but the 13 other agreement that put us in this mess, that should be just 14 ignored.

15 I also will say there was an oral assurance by Mr.
16 Pomerantz toward many of my colleagues that, don't worry,
17 we'll get more time if we need it, we'll work it out.

18 I don't even want to get into the circumstances of where 19 we were when we reached that agreement. There were medical 20 issues going on and everyone -- oh, and the other thing is,
21 when we set that deadline, it was because we were assured by 22 the Debtor that, well in advance of that, they would give us
23 an actual offer of settlement that we could start negotiating
24 settlement numbers. That was the whole idea. And they said,
25 oh, putting it off to June 22nd will be plenty of time. You

119

1 guys will get -- I think at that time they promised us -- I
2 can't remember if it was April or early May. You know, we've 3 not even seen that.

4 So that was the whole reason we agreed to set those dates,
5 was on the representation that we were going to be having 6 settlement discussions. Instead, those were cut off, et 7 cetera.

8 THE COURT: All right. All right.

9 MR. CLUBOK: I don't really want to get into the 10 whole back-and-forth.

11 THE COURT: With respect, I've heard enough.

12 I do want to say, you know, we keep covering this ground
13 again, but it is crystal clear that a debtor cannot enter into 14 an agreement to lift the stay that is going to be binding on 15 all of the creditors and other parties in interest. It's just 16 I can't -- you know, I don't know of one case that would be 17 supportive here of that argument. You know, maybe -- I don't 18 know every case that gets decided, but it's -- I think it's 19 crystal clear.

20 And it's quite a different thing, informal agreements to 21 extend deadlines and have scheduling orders. That's a very 22 different type of agreement.

23 But I am going to give the Debtor -- I mean, excuse me,
24 UBS two weeks. Okay? So, well, I'm going to make it close of 25 business Friday, the 26th. Okay. So that will be the 120

1 deadline for UBS to file a proof of claim. And that's just
2 the way it's going to be here.

3 Now, I don't think I have any other housekeeping matters.
4 I'll just ask Debtor's counsel to draft the form of order and 5 obviously run it by Mr. Clubok and his team and give them a
6 reasonable --

7 MR. FEINSTEIN: We'll do that.

8 THE COURT: -- a reasonable time to respond. But I
9 can't imagine it's going to be a very lengthy order. I
10 obviously reserve the right to supplement in a written form of 11 order anything I said orally today that I think I might need
12 to clarify or elaborate on.

13 Now, did anyone have any remaining housekeeping matters
14 before I go into one last topic I want to address regarding 15 mediation?

16 All right. Here's what I'm going to say. We obviously 17 have two gorillas, actually, in the room. I've not studied
18 the Redeemer Committee proof of claim. I just know that I
19 heard from day one that they had approximately a $200 million
20 proof of claims or claim resulting from an arbitration and all
21 they lacked was a judgment confirming it. Okay? So, you
22 know, we all know what the courts say about arbitration. You
23 know, it's just pretty darn hard to set aside an arbitration
24 award. Okay?

25 So the way I have been viewing this is Redeemer Committee

121

1 is a claim that has to be dealt with. You know, I don't know,
2 I haven't studied the proof of claim, I don't know what
3 arguments, I don't what setoffs may be. But my guess is 4 there's not a lot of wiggle room with regard to that claim.

5 But then you have this one, which I didn't know until the 6 last few days that UBS didn't actually have a judgment against 7 Highland. I mean, at some point UBS comes in, we have a
8 billion-dollar claim against Highland, and it was only in the 9 last few days when I started looking at this I appreciated the 10 fact that, oh, they have a billion-dollar claim against these 11 two Funds, still, you know, contingent, unliquidated, unknown
12 what liability Highland is going to have to UBS.

13 So we've got that gorilla in the room that's making me
14 think about mediation. And then Acis. I well understand the 15 Acis issues, but oh my goodness, we have this giant adversary
16 with -- how many counts was it, Tom? 34 counts?

17 THE CLERK: Yes.

18 THE COURT: Thirty-four counts in the adversary that 19 Acis -- Reorganized Acis is pursuing against Highland and 20 HCOLF. And when the stay went into effect from the Highland 21 bankruptcy, my law clerk and I had a giant report and 22 recommendation to the district court that we were soon going
23 to pull the trigger on, and, oh, well, this is all stayed.

24 So I don't think Acis has asserted anywhere close to a
25 billion dollars. I don't know what the size of the Acis proof

122

1 of claim is.

2 Mr. Shaw, what is the size of the Acis proof of claim
3 that's been filed?

4 MR. SHAW: At least $70 million, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I knew it made my eyes pop out a
6 little. You know, obviously, there are 34 counts and multiple 7 defendants and unclear dollar amounts associated with each.
8 But what are we going to do here?

9 I'm going to start with you, Mr. Pomerantz. We have too
10 many years of litigation, too, too many years of litigation.
11 And I think I said early on it's time to stop litigating and 12 figuring out how we're going to pay creditors. But obviously 13 you have these two biggie unknown ones. I am thinking about,
14 do I order mediation (echoing) of the UBS claim?

15 Someone may not have their phone on mute. Please put your 16 phone on mute or your device on mute if you don't have it on 17 mute.

18 Okay. Good.

19 Do I order mediation of the UBS proof of claim once it's 20 filed? Do I order mediation of the Acis proof of claim and 21 adversary? Do I get some sort of mediation czar to help with 22 mediation of the plan? I hate to go that route, and, you
23 know, that's a lot of intermeddling with the Debtor-in-24 Possession, especially when you've got this fine new board of 25 directors and whatnot. But I'm just letting you know what's

123

1 going on in my head. I don't -- I want people to get off
2 their litigation mentality and get focused on the end game
3 here of a plan and everybody getting paid what they're 4 entitled to sooner rather than later.

5 So, Mr. Pomerantz, what is your initial reaction to what's 6 going through my brain?

7 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, I think Your Honor is 8 where the board was when it took over on January 9th. I think
9 I've appeared before Your Honor on several occasions and told 10 you that the strategy and the game plan of this board was to 11 break the culture of Highland, which is litigating, and 12 attempt to resolve the litigation.

13 Your Honor has mentioned the three large claims. There
14 are others, but these are the three large claims. They're all
15 people who sit on the Creditors' Committee. And as you can 16 imagine, sitting from a standing start on January 9th, it's 17 taken -- it took the board quite a while to be in a position
18 to understand each of the claims.

19 They came to our firm. They asked us to do an extensive 20 analysis of the UBS claim. We then started to engage UBS in 21 negotiations. And they didn't go anywhere. And quite 22 frankly, I think at least our side and other -- the Objectors
23 felt that we needed to have this hearing, that Your Honor's
24 determination of the relief from stay matter might be a
25 catalyst to further discussions. And we are, of course, open

124

1 to further discussions. We obviously have a big difference in 2 view of the UBS claim, as does UBS, but we're hoping that, as 3 a result of this hearing, that that would spur on negotiations
4 and allow the parties to sit down.

5 Acis, we are actually going to be meeting with Acis for 6 the first time on Wednesday in order to discuss their claim.
7 We've prepared an extensive objection to the claim, which, if 8 it hasn't already been forwarded to Mr. Shaw and Ms. Patel in 9 advance of that meeting, will be today. And we're hoping,
10 after sitting down with them on Wednesday, that it will be the 11 first time the board could let Acis know where the board
12 believes are the concerns and issues with respect to the 13 claim, that we could have meaningful settlement discussions.

14 And with Redeemer, we are perhaps the furthest along,
15 partly because it's the least complex of the three, and we've 16 had several discussions back and forth. We would not rule out
17 mediation. That may be necessary. It is not the board's 18 desire to spend the creditors' money litigating on multiple 19 fronts with each of these creditors.

20 However, I think at this point it might be a little
21 premature. It may be appropriate to set some kind of a status 22 conference 30 days from now, where we can approach -- we could 23 come back to the Court with a further thoughtful
24 recommendation on whether we think mediation would be 25 appropriate or whether it wouldn't be appropriate.

125

1 But we're hoping, with, again, this hearing, the meeting
2 with Acis, and the discussions we had with Redeemer, that we
3 will be able to make progress. And if not, litigation may be 4 necessary, but it may very well mean that some form of 5 mediation with each of these creditors on their claims is 6 helpful.

7 But I would like the opportunity to sit down, talk to the 8 board about that after the dust clears from this settlement --
9 this hearing, as well as the further discussions we intend to 10 have over the next couple of weeks.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, do you remember, or we 12 can look it up, when our next hearing is in this case?

13 MR. POMERANTZ: I believe we have a hearing on July 14 8th, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: Perhaps we could report to the Court
17 at that point and have a status conference and be able to 18 address Your Honor's comments in more detail based upon where 19 we are then.

20 THE COURT: All right. So that's what we're going to 21 do. July 8th, whatever time it is, we're going to add to the 22 calendar a status conference. And just so you all know, we're 23 going to talk about do we need mediation -- again, with regard
24 to UBS or with regard to Acis or more globally? So I hope
25 that you all will give that a lot of thought. I'm sure you

126

1 will.

2 Is there anything else, Mr. Pomerantz?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Nothing else, Your Honor. Thanks for 4 your time and effort and going through what was mounds of 5 paper, and the time and effort you spent today as well as 6 throughout the case. Thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Well, thank you all again.
8 My compliments. It was all very well done, so that made it
9 easier to get through. All right. We stand adjourned.

DEBTOR’S MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF ITS MOTION FOR A TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER AND PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION AGAINST CERTAIN ENTITIES OWNED AND/OR CONTROLLED BY MR. JAMES DONDERO

Highland Capital Management, L.P., the plaintiff in the above-captioned adversary proceeding (the “Adversary Proceeding”), and the debtor and debtor-in-possession (the “Debtor” or “Highland”) in the above-captioned chapter 11 case (“Bankruptcy Case”), submits this memorandum of law (the “Memorandum”) in support of the Debtor’s Motion for a Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary Injunction against Certain Entities Owned and/or Controlled by Mr. James Dondero (the “Motion”), pursuant to sections 105(a) and 362(a) of title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”), and Rules 7001 and 7065 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the “Bankruptcy Rules”), for a temporary restraining order (“TRO”) and preliminary injunction enjoining defendants Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”), NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NPA,” and together with HCMFA, the “Advisors”), Highland Income Fund, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, NexPoint Capital, Inc. (collectively, the “Funds”), and CLO Holdco, Ltd. (“CLO Holdco,” and together with the Advisors and Funds, the “Defendants”) from engaging in any Prohibited Conduct.<sup>2</sup> In support of its Motion, the Debtor states as follows:

---

I.
INTRODUCTION

1. Highland’s immediate need for injunctive relief stems from Defendants’ recent and repeated interference with the Debtor’s operations and contractual rights. These actions include, in pertinent part, Defendants’ interference with the sale of certain collateralized loan obligation (“CLO”) assets and Defendants’ threats to initiate a process to terminate the Debtor’s CLO management agreements (the “CLO Management Agreements”).

2. The Debtor assumed that the Defendants would have gotten the message on December 16, 2020, when this Court granted the Debtor’s motion for a directed verdict dismissing their prior motion—characterized by the Court as, among other things, “frivolous”—on these very topics. The Debtor was wrong. With the support and encouragement of Mr. James Dondero, Defendants not only persist but have expanded their threats and refuse to back down.

3. Mr. Dondero directly or indirectly (a) owns and controls each of the Advisors, (b) owns and/or controls CLO Holdco, and (c) controls each of the Funds. In a recent deposition, Mr. Dondero candidly admitted that he supports all of the actions taken by the Defendants. But pursuant to the “corporate governance” settlement approved by the Court a year ago, Mr. Dondero is prohibited from causing Defendants to terminate any agreements with the Debtor, including the CLO Management Agreement. Moreover, pursuant to Temporary Restraining Order, Mr. Dondero is enjoined from, among other things, interfering with the Debtor’s business, or from causing or encouraging any entity controlled by Mr. Dondero to interfere with the Debtor’s business.

4. As discussed below, injunctive relief is necessary because if Defendants are not enjoined from interfering with the Debtor’s ability to manage the Debtor’s operations and sale of CLO assets, pursuant to the CLO Management Agreements—conduct which Defendants have no legal or equitable right to engage in—the Debtor will be unable to fulfill its duties, and the Debtor’s estate will be irreparably harmed.

5. The Debtor has, therefore, filed the Motion and commenced a separate adversary proceeding, (1) bringing a cause of action against Defendants for tortious interference with contract, and (2) seeking declaratory relief and an order to temporarily, preliminarily, and permanently enjoin Defendants from: (a) interfering with or otherwise impeding, directly or indirectly, the Debtor’s business, including but not limited to the Debtor’s (i) management of the CLOs, (ii) decisions concerning the purchase or sale of any assets on behalf of the CLOs, or (iii) contractual right to serve as the portfolio manager (or other similar title) of the CLOs; (b) otherwise violating section 362(a) of the Bankruptcy Code; (c) seeking to terminate the portfolio Management Agreements and/or servicer agreements between the Debtor and the CLOs (collectively, (2)(a)-(c) constitute the “Prohibited Conduct”); (d) conspiring, colluding, or collaborating with (x) Mr. Dondero, (y) any entity owned and/or controlled by Mr. Dondero, and/or (z) any person or entity acting on behalf of Mr. Dondero or any entity owned and/or controlled by him, to, directly or indirectly, engage in any Prohibited Conduct; and (e) engaging in any Prohibited Conduct with respect to any of the Successor Parties (as that term is defined below).

II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. Mr. James Dondero Owns and/or Controls Each of the Defendants

6. There can be no genuine dispute that Mr. Dondero owns and/or controls each of the Defendants. (Seery Dec. ¶ 5).

The Advisors and the Funds

7. On December 16, 2020, Mr. Dustin Norris (“Mr. Norris”) testified under oath in support of the Motion for Order Imposing Temporary Restrictions on Debtor’s Ability, as Portfolio Manager, to Initiate Sales by Non-Debtor CLO Vehicles [Docket No. 1528] that was brought by the Advisors and Funds (the “Restriction Motion”).

8. Mr. Norris is the Executive Vice President of each the Advisors and each of the Funds. See Transcript of December 16, 2020, hearing on the Restriction Motion (the “Hearing”). Seery Dec. ¶ 7; Exhibit 1, at 38:15-39:2.

9. During the hearing, Mr. Norris testified that Mr. Dondero (a) owns and controls, directly or indirectly, each of the Advisors, and (b) is the portfolio manager of each of the Funds, each of which is advised by one of the Advisors. Seery Dec. ¶ 8; Exhibit 1, at 35:15-37:13.

10. In their public filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, each of the Funds disclosed that the Advisors were owned and controlled by Mr. Dondero and that Mr. Dondero was the portfolio manager for each of the Funds. Seery Dec. ¶ 9.

CLO Holdco

11. CLO Holdco is a wholly-owned and controlled subsidiary of the DAF. On information and believe, the DAF is managed by the Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd. (“DAF Holdco”), which is the managing member of the DAF. Seery Dec. ¶ 10.

12. DAF Holdco is owned by three different charitable foundations: Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc., Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, Inc., and Highland Kansas City Foundation, Inc. (collectively, the “Highland Foundations”). Mr. Dondero is the president and one of the three directors of each of the Highland Foundations. Mr. Grant Scott (“Mr. Scott”) – Mr. Dondero’s college roommate – is also an officer and director of each of the Highland Foundations. Seery Dec. ¶ 11.

13. Although the Debtor is the investment manager for the DAF, neither the Board nor Mr. Seery, as CEO and CRO of the Debtor, have any right or ability to control or direct the DAF or CLO Holdco. That control is exercised by Mr. Scott at the direction of Mr. Dondero. Seery Dec. ¶ 12.

B. This Court has Entered Three Orders that are Implicated by the Defendants' Actions and Threatened Actions

14. This Court has entered three Orders that are relevant to the Motion and the relief sought by the Debtor.

15. On December 27, 2019, the Debtor filed that certain Motion of the Debtor for Approval of Settlement with the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course [Docket No. 281] (the “Settlement Motion”). On January 9, 2019, this Court entered an Order granting the Settlement Motion [Docket No. 339] (the “Settlement Order”). Seery Dec. ¶ 14; Exhibit 2.

16. As part of the Settlement Order, this Court also approved a term sheet (the “Term Sheet”) [Docket No. 354-1] between the Debtor and the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Committee”) pursuant to which Mr. John S. Dubel, Mr. Russell Nelms, and Mr. Seery were appointed to the Board. Seery Dec. ¶ 15; Exhibit 3.

17. As required by the Term Sheet, on January 9, 2020, Mr. James Dondero resigned from his roles as an officer and director of Strand and as the Debtor’s President and Chief Executive Officer. Seery Dec. ¶ 16; Exhibit 4.

18. The Settlement Order directed Mr. Dondero not to “cause any Related Entity to terminate any agreements with the Debtor.” Seery Dec. ¶ 17; Exhibit 2 ¶ 9.

19. Upon information and belief, each of the Defendants is a “Related Entity” as defined in the Term Sheet because each of the Defendants is directly or indirectly owned and/or controlled by Mr. Dondero and/or Mr. Scott. Seery Dec. ¶ 18 Exhibit 3, Ex. D (Reporting Requirements) ¶ 1.D(A)(i) and (ii).

20. Defendants' actions and threatened actions also implicate the Order Granting Debtor's Motion for a Temporary Restraining Order Against James Dondero [Adv. Pro. No. 20-03190-sgj, Docket No. 10], entered on December 10, 2020 (the "TRO" and together with the Settlement Order, the "Orders"). Seery Dec. ¶ 19; Exhibit 5.

21. Pursuant to the TRO, the Court temporarily enjoined and restrained Mr. Dondero from, among other things, "interfering with or otherwise impeding, directly or indirectly, the Debtor's business" and from "causing, encouraging, or conspiring with (a) any entity owned or controlled by [Mr. Dondero], and/or (b) any person or entity acting on his behalf, from, directly or indirectly, engaging in any Prohibited Conduct [as defined in the TRO]," including interfering or impeding the Debtor's business. Id. ¶¶ 2(d), 3.

22. Finally, on December 8, 2020, Defendants (except CLO Holdco) filed the Restriction Motion. The Restriction Motion sought to prevent the Debtor from fulfilling its duties as the portfolio manager of certain CLOs by impeding any attempted sale of assets. After hearing the testimony of Dustin Norris, the Court called the Defendants' Motion "frivolous," granted the Debtor's motion for a directed verdict, and subsequently entered an order denying the Restriction Motion.

C. Defendants Interfere with and Impede the Debtor's Business and Threaten to Terminate the Debtor's Management Agreements

23. In addition to filing the Restriction Motion, on recent three occasions, Defendants have either interfered with and impeded the Debtor's business or have threatened to do so by initiating the process for removing the Debtor as the portfolio manager of the CLOs. Such conduct also violates the Orders and flouts the Court's decision on the Restriction Motion and the Court's observations made at the Hearing. Seery Dec. ¶ 21.

24. First, on December 22, 2020, employees of NPA and HCMFA interfered with and impeded the Debtor's business by refusing to settle the CLOs' sale of AVYA and SKY securities that Mr. Seery had personally authorized. The Advisors engaged in this conduct notwithstanding (a) the denial of the Restriction Motion and the Court's pointed comments during that Hearing on the Restriction Motion, and (b) Mr. Norris's sworn acknowledgments on behalf of the Advisors and Funds during the Hearing that (i) the Debtor's management of the CLOs is governed by written contracts as to which none of the Advisors or Funds are parties, Seery Dec. ¶ 22; Exhibit 1 at 41:25-42-7; (ii) the Debtor has the exclusive duty and responsibility to buy and sell assets on behalf of the CLOs, id. at 42:17-43:3; and (iii) as the Advisors knew when they invested in the CLOs on behalf of the Funds, that holders of preference shares (such as the Funds) have no right to make investment decisions on behalf of the CLOs, id. at 43:4-11.

25. Notably, the Advisors' interference with trades that Mr. Seery authorized on behalf of the CLOs is the same type of conduct that lead the Court to impose the TRO against Mr. Dondero. See Declaration of Mr. James P. Seery, Jr. in Support of Debtor's Motion for a Temporary Restraining Order Against Mr. James Dondero [Adv. Pro. No. Docket No. 4] ¶¶ 21-23, Ex. 8.

26. Second, also on December 22, 2020, the Defendants wrote to the Debtor and renewed their "request" that the Debtor refrain from selling any assets on behalf of the CLOs until the confirmation hearing (the "December 22 Letter"). In support of their "request," the Debtor re-asserted almost verbatim the arguments advanced in connection with the Restriction Motion – all of which were soundly rejected by the Court. Seery Dec. ¶ 24.

27. The Debtor responded on December 24, 2020, demanding that Defendants withdraw their December 22 Letter and confirm that neither the Defendants nor anyone acting on their behalf will take any further steps to interfere with the Debtor's directions as the CLOs' portfolio manager by the close of business on December 28, 2020. Seery Dec. ¶ 25; Exhibit 6. The Defendants have not complied with (or even responded to) the Debtor's demands. Id.

28. Finally, the Defendants recently threatened to seek to remove the Debtor as the portfolio manager of the CLOs. Specifically, in a letter dated December 23, 2020 (the "December 23 Letter" and together with the December 22 Letter, the "Defendants' Letters"), the Defendants informed the Debtor that one or more of them "intend to notify the relevant trustee and/or issuers that the process of removing the Debtor as fund manager should be initiated, subject to and with due deference for the applicable provisions of the United State Bankruptcy Code, including the automatic stay of Section 362." Seery Dec. ¶ 26.

29. The Debtor responded to the December 23 Letter the next day, and advised the Defendants that the Settlement Order prohibited the termination of the Debtor's Management Agreements with the CLOs, and that there was no factual, legal, or contractual basis to remove the Debtor as the CLOs' portfolio manager in any event. The Debtor demanded that the Defendants withdraw their December 23 Letter and commit not to take any actions, directly or indirectly, to terminate the CLO Management Agreements, by the close of business on December 28, 2020. The Defendants have not complied with (or even responded to) the Debtor's demands. Seery Dec. ¶ 27; Exhibit 7.

30. Because Mr. Dondero owns and/or controls the Defendants, the Debtor forwarded the correspondence between the Debtor and the Defendants, including the Defendant's Threatening Letters, to Mr. Dondero's counsel. In response, Mr. Dondero's counsel contended that “[w]hile there are relationships between my client and some of the movants, I believe they are separate entities and should be treated as such.” Seery Dec. ¶ 28; Exhibit 8.

31. Upon information and belief, Mr. Dondero has taken no steps to cause the Defendants – entities that he indisputably owns and/or controls and that are each a “Related Entity” under the Term Sheet – to comply with the Debtor’s demands made in response to the Defendants’ Letters. Seery Dec. ¶ 29.

III. LEGAL STANDARD

32. Pursuant to section 105(a) of the Bankruptcy Code, bankruptcy courts are authorized to “issue any order, process, of judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of the Code. In re FiberTower Network Servs. Corp., 482 B.R. 169, 182 (Bankr. In other words, courts have broad authority to take actions necessary to “protect the integrity of the bankruptcy estate” and to “enjoin actions that ‘might impede the reorganization process.’” FiberTower, 482 B.R. at 182 (quoting *MacArthur Co. v. 33. Injunctive relief is warranted under section 105(a) where the movant shows: (1) a likelihood that it will prevail on the merits; (2) irreparable injury in the absence of injunctive relief; (3) that the balance of the equities favor the movant; and (4) that the injunction would serve the public interest. See OGA Charters, 554 B.R. at 424; *Green v. A temporary restraining order should be granted pending a hearing for a preliminary injunction where it appears that "immediate and irreparable injury, loss or damage will result to the movant." See Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7065 (incorporating by reference Fed. R. Civ. P. 65); see also In re Seatco, Inc., 259 B.R. 279, 285 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2001) (noting that Fed. R. Civ. The issuance of an injunction is within the broad discretion of the court. See In re Compton Corp., 90 B.R. 798, 806 (Bankr.N.D.Tex. 1988) ("It is [] clear that the issuance of an injunction, as a general matter, is within the discretion of the court."); *Star Satellite, Inc. v. 35. For the reasons that follow, the Debtor satisfies the standard for injunctive relief.

IV.
ARGUMENT

36. Injunctive relief is necessary to prevent the imminent and irreparable harm that would be caused to the Debtor if Defendants are permitted to engage in any of the Prohibited Conduct.

37. The Debtor is likely to succeed on the merits of its underlying claim for tortious interference with contractual relations because Defendants' interference with the Debtor's CLO Management Agreements cannot be disputed (they are in writing), and such interference is causing the Debtor's estate irreparable damages. Moreover, the relief sought—the protection of its bankruptcy estate during its chapter 11 proceedings—is precisely the type of relief authorized under sections 105 and 362 of the Bankruptcy Code. See OGA Charters, 554 B.R. at 432-33 (granting injunctive relief to protect the debtor's assets during chapter 11 proceedings, and noting that a "preliminary injunction, is, in essence, merely an extension of § 362's stay" of the debtor's bankruptcy estate asset).

38. The equities strongly (if not exclusively) favor the Debtor because the Debtor's ability to operate and comply with its obligations will be jeopardized if Defendants are permitted to engage in the Prohibited Conduct—conduct which Defendants have no legal or equitable right to engage in. Moreover, the Court has already considered and summarily denied the Restriction Motion, rendering the Defendants' conduct indefensible.

39. Finally, and for all these same reasons, granting injunctive relief serves the public interest because the Debtor's chances of a successful liquidation will be severely jeopardized if injunctive relief is not granted.

A. The Debtor will Suffer Irreparable Harm in the Absence of Injunctive Relief

40. The Debtor's estate will be severely injured if Defendants are not enjoined from engaging in the Prohibited Conduct. Irreparable harm is "a harm 'for which there is no adequate remedy at law.'" OGA Charters, 554 B.R. at 424 (quoting Daniels Health Scis., L.L.C. v. Vascular Health Scis., L.L.C., 710 F.3d 579, 585 (5th Cir. 2013)); see also Compass Bank v. Veytia, EP-11-CV-228-PRM, 2011 WL 13234883, at *2 (W.D. Tex. Sept. 21, 2011) ("The general rule in the Fifth Circuit is that 'harm is irreparable where there is no adequate remedy at law, such as monetary damages.'" (quoting Janvey v. Alguire, 647 F.3d 585, 600 (5th Cir. 2010))).

41. In the bankruptcy context, "irreparable harm" refers to either "irreparable harm to the interest of a creditor or irreparable harm to the bankruptcy estate." In re Hunt, 93 B.R. 484, 495 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 1988) (internal quotations omitted). The element of irreparable injury to the debtor's estates is described as "irreparable harm to the creditors and estates from disruption of th[e] Court's exclusive authority to effectively manage the[] cases." Id. Moreover, "the mere fact that economic damages may be available does not always mean that a remedy at law is 'adequate.'" Compass Bank, 2011 WL 13234883, at *2 (citing Janvey, 647 F.3d at 600); (holding that "dissipation of assets ... would impair the court's ability to grant an effective remedy").

42. Here, in the absence of injunctive relief, both the Debtor's estate and its creditors will face imminent and irreparable harm that cannot be adequately remedied. If Defendants continue to engage in the Prohibited Conduct, the Debtor's ability to perform under the CLO management agreements will be severely impaired. Given the Defendants' threats and demands, the harm is thus the not merely “speculative, theoretical, or remote,” but imminent and irreparable. FiberTower Network Services, 482 B.R. at 187.

B. The Debtor Demonstrates Likelihood of Success on the Merits

43. The Debtor is likely to succeed on the merits of its underlying claim for tortious interference with contract. To satisfy the likelihood of success element, the movant need only present their “prima facie case but need not show that [they] are certain to win.” Janvey, 647 F.3d at 595 (internal quotations omitted). Moreover, the relevant “merits” question in this case is not whether Debtor is likely to prevail on appeal, but rather “whether this [C]ourt is authorized and likely to grant the requested relief.” FiberTower, 482 B.R. at 183–84 (citing COLLIER ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 105.03[1][a] (16th ed. 2012) (“In connection with the ‘likelihood’ argument, many courts have looked to the purpose of the requested injunction ... the likelihood of success argument will track closely the bankruptcy right sought to be vindicated.”); see also Hunt, 93 B.R. at 493 (“[t]he inquiry [for success on the merits] for a preliminary injunction necessarily focuses on the outcome of a later proceeding, at which time the merits giving rise to the litigation will be decided” rather than success on the merits “so that reorganization efforts mandated by the Bankruptcy Code will not be thwarted by the [enforcement] proceeding.”) (internal quotations omitted).

44. Here, the Debtor demonstrates a likelihood of success on the merits of its underlying claim. To succeed on a claim for tortious interference with contract, the plaintiff must show: (1) the existence of a valid contract; (2) the defendant willfully and intentionally interfered with the contract; (3) the interference was a proximate cause of the plaintiff’s injuries; and (4) the plaintiff suffered actual damages or loss. See In re Cantu, 400 B.R. 104, 111 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2008). Proximate causation is shown where the defendant “interfered by actively persuading a party to breach a contract or otherwise causing the contract to be more difficult to fulfill or of less or no value.” Weatherford Int’l, LLC v. Binstock, 452 F. Supp. 3d 561, 576 (S.D. Tex. 2020). Here, there can be no dispute that the CLO Management Agreements constitute valid contracts. Defendants are willfully and intentionally interfering with the Management Agreements by, among other things, (1) threatening to initiate the process for removing the Debtor as the portfolio manager of the CLOs, (2) refusing to allow the sale of certain CLO assets and securities, in direct contravention of the Board’s explicit business judgment and authorization to do so, and (3) otherwise attempting to influence and interfere with the Board’s decisions concerning the purchase or sale of any assets on behalf of the CLOs. Such interferences are hindering the Board’s ability to fulfill its duties and contractual rights under the CLO Management Agreements to manage the Debtor’s assets and smoothly wind down the Debtor’s business. Defendants’ interferences, which include thwarting the Debtor’s efforts to effectuate certain CLO trades, have damaged the Debtor’s estate.

45. Moreover, the relief the Debtor seeks is precisely the type contemplated by the Bankruptcy Court’s broad powers to grant injunctive relief under Section 105. See 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) (authorizing the bankruptcy court to “issue any order, process, of judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of the Code.”); see also 11 U.S.C. § 362. The Debtor seeks to enjoin Defendants from attempting to control, manage, or otherwise influence the Debtor’s management and sale of its CLO assets. Injunctive relief is, therefore, warranted for the purpose of protecting the Board’s ability to manage the Debtor’s assets, and in turn, to protect the integrity of the Debtor’s bankruptcy estate. See FiberTower, 482 B.R. at 182. Furthermore, as noted above, there can be no credible dispute that Defendants engaged in the conduct complained of because it is reflected in contemporaneous, written communications.

C. The Equities Strongly Favor the Debtor

46. The balance of the equities also tip decisively in the Debtor's favor. In the absence of injunctive relief, the Debtor faces imminent and irreparable harm. If Defendants are not prevented from continuing to interfere with the Debtor's business, management of its assets, and ability to perform and fulfill its duties as portfolio manager to the CLOs under the CLO Management Agreements, the Debtor's ability to successfully liquidate and satisfy its claims will be threatened. By contrast, there are no equities that favor denying injunctive relief. Defendants have no legal or equitable right to engage in any of the Prohibited Conduct, all of which is adverse to the Debtor's interests, and all of which undermine this Court's Orders. Indeed, the Court already told them that less than a month ago when denying the Restriction Motion.

47. In sum, the potential harm to the Debtor in the absence of injunctive relief far outweighs any harm to Defendants if injunctive relief issues. See FiberTower, 482 B.R. at 189 (finding that the balance of equities favored the debtors where "[t]he potential harm to Debtors ... far outweighs the possible harm to Defendant" if injunctive relief is granted "because, among other reasons, the Debtors "face the loss of cash collateral[.]").

D. Injunctive Relief Serves the Public Interest

48. Injunctive relief will further the public interest because it is necessary to protect the Debtor's ability to successfully liquidate its assets and satisfy its claims. "Courts have often held that injunctions that facilitate reorganizations serve the public interest." FiberTower, 482 B.R. at 189 (citing SAS Overseas Consultants v. Benoit, No. 99-1663, 2000 WL 140611, at *5 (E.D.La. Feb. 7, 2000); Lazarus Burman Assocs. v. Nat'l Westminster Bank U.S.A. (In re Lazarus Burman Assocs.), 161 B.R. 891, 901 (Bankr.E.D.N.Y.1993)). In other words, "[i]n bankruptcy, the public policy is to have an orderly administration of the debtor's assets via their bankruptcy estate, such that the debtor may be able to gain a fresh start, by satisfying valid claims against that estate.” OGA Charters, 554 B.R. at 426; see also In re Hunt, 93 B.R. at 497 (“Chapter 11 expresses the public interest of preserving the going-concern values of businesses, protecting jobs, ensuring the equal treatment of and payment of creditors, and if possible saving something for the equity holders.”).

49. To this end, “[t]he Bankruptcy Court is vested with management duties to further this interest and ensure a meaningful process for all of these competing entities.” Id. (citing In re Timbers of Inwood Forest Assocs., LTD., 808 F.2d 363, 373 (5th Cir.1987) (“Early and ongoing judicial management of Chapter 11 cases is essential if the Chapter 11 process is to survive and the goals of reorganizability on the one hand, and creditor protection, on the other, are to be achieved.”). Thus, in general, preventing the dissipation of potential assets belonging to the debtor that, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541, may be brought into the bankruptcy estate is in the public interest. See OGA Charters, 554 B.R. at 426 (finding that the “public interest may be served where the purpose of the preliminary injunction is such that it serves to” uphold a core “pillar of bankruptcy by preserving a debtor’s ... assets that can be potentially used to satisfy valid claims against the bankruptcy estate.”).

50. Here, if Defendants are not enjoined from engaging in the Prohibited Conduct, the Debtor’s liquidation process will be jeopardized at the expense of its creditors. See FiberTower Network Services, 482 B.R. at 189 (holding that an injunction would serve the public interest where, the “Debtors’ chances of successfully reorganizing will be jeopardized unless injunctive relief is granted,” further noting that “if the Debtors were to liquidate, their employees and customers would be adversely affected.”). By contrast, the public interest would not be served by allowing Defendants to continue to interfere with the Debtor’s CLO Management Agreements, and overall liquidation process. The Debtor’s management must be able to fully execute its duties of managing and selling its assets so that the Debtor can properly wind down, satisfy valid claims against the estate, and maximize the value of the Debtor's assets for the benefit of all stakeholders.

CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, the Debtor respectfully requests that the Court grant the Motion and enter an Order in the form annexed thereto as Exhibit A, and grant any further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

Dear Counsel:

I am writing to you on behalf of our clients Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. ("HCMFA") and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. ("NexPoint", and together with HCMFA, the "Advisors"), and Highland Income Fund, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, and NexPoint Capital, Inc. (together, the "Funds"). CLO Holdco, Ltd. ("CLO Holdco") whose counsel is copied below, joins in this notice and request.

As you are aware, certain registered investment companies and a business development company managed by either NexPoint or HCMFA own preference shares in many of the CLOs. In the following cases those companies own a majority of such shares<sup>1</sup>:

- Stratford CLO, Ltd. 69.05%
- Grayson CLO, Ltd. 60.47%
- Greenbriar CLO, Ltd. 53.44%

---

December 22, 2020
Page 2

In other cases, such companies in combination with CLO Holdco hold all, a super-majority, or a majority of the preference shares in the following CLOs:

- Liberty CLO, Ltd. 70.43%
- Stratford CLO, Ltd. 69.05%<sup>*2</sup>
- Aberdeen Loan Funding, Ltd. 64.58%
- Grayson CLO, Ltd. 61.65%*
- Westchester CLO, Ltd. 58.13%
- Rockwall CDO, Ltd. 55.75%
- Brentwood CLO, Ltd. 55.74%
- Greenbriar CLO, Ltd. 53.44%*

Additionally, such companies own significant minority stakes in the following CLO's:

- Eastland CLO, Ltd. 41.69%
- Red River CLO, Ltd. 33.33%

The ownerships described above represent in many cases the total remaining outstanding interests in such CLOs, because the noteholders have been paid in full. In others, the remaining noteholders represent only a small percentage of remaining interests. Thus, the economic ownership of the registered investment companies, business development company, and CLO Holdco largely represent the investors in the CLOs identified above.

Contractually, the Debtor is obligated to maximize value for the benefit of the preference shareholders. Accordingly, we respectfully request that no further dispositions of CLO interests occur pending the confirmation hearing. While we recognize the Court denied the Advisor and Funds motion on this subject, the Court did not require liquidations occur immediately, and we reserve all rights to and remedies against the Debtor should the Debtor continue to liquidate CLO interests in contravention of this joint request. Given the Advisor, Funds, and CLO Holdco's requests, it is difficult to understand the Debtor's rationale for continued liquidations, or the benefit to the Debtor from pursuing those sales.

As you know, HCMLP's duties are set forth in the portfolio management agreements of the CLOs, which themselves have been adopted under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 ("Advisers Act"). As HCMLP readily admits, it is: (i) terminating employees on January 31, 2021, which will result in a loss of the employees that have traditionally serviced those CLOs; (ii) ignoring the requests of the Advisors, Funds, and CLO Holdco, which together account for all or a majority of interests in certain CLOs, and selling assets of those CLOs prior to plan-confirmation; and (iii) adding a replacement manager as subadviser prior to January 31, 2021. The Advisors, Funds, and CLO Holdco assert that those actions run in contravention to HCMLP's duty to maximize value for the holders of preference shares and thus what HCMLP has agreed to under the portfolio management agreement, as well as its duties under the Advisers Act, which ultimately will adversely impact the economic owners noted above.

For the forgoing and other reasons, we request that no further CLO transactions occur at least until the issues raised by and addressed in the Debtor's plan are resolved at the confirmation hearing.

In others, the remaining noteholders represent only a small percentage of remaining interests. Thus, the economic ownership of the registered investment companies, business development company, and CLO Holdco largely represent the investors in the CLOs identified above.

In pleadings filed with the Bankruptcy Court, you asserted that one or more of the entities identified above lacked the authority to seek a replacement of the Debtor as fund manager because of the alleged affiliate status of the beneficial owners of such entities. We disagree.

Consequently, in addition to our request of yesterday, where appropriate and consistent with the underlying contractual provisions, one or more of the entities above intend to notify the relevant trustees and/or issuers that the process of removing the Debtor as fund manager should be initiated, subject to and with due deference for the applicable provisions of the United States Bankruptcy Code, including the automatic stay of Section 362. The basis for initiating the process for such removal includes, but is not limited to, the fact that HCMLP's duties, as set forth in the portfolio management agreements of the CLOs, are subject to the requirements of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 ("Advisers Act"). HCMLP appears to be acting contrary to those duties under the agreements and where HCMLP is not fulfilling its duties under the portfolio management agreement it is therefore violating the Advisers Act. Thus, because HCMLP is (i) terminating employees on January 31, 2021, which will result in a loss of the employees that have traditionally serviced, including key investment professionals identified in the transactional documents for those CLOs (generally Mark Okada and Jim Dondero); (ii) ignoring the requests of the Advisors, Funds, and CLO Holdco, which together account for all or a majority of interests in certain CLOs, and selling assets of those CLOs prior to plan confirmation; (iii)

adding a replacement manager as subadviser prior to January 31, 2021; and (iv) for other cause, the Advisors, Funds, and CLO Holdco have concluded that they have no choice but to initiate HCMLP's removal as fund manager where such entities are contractually and legally permitted or obligated to do so.

Because the process of removal is being initiated, subject to the applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code, we respectfully request that no further CLO transactions occur at least until the issues raised by and addressed in the Debtor's plan are resolved at the confirmation hearing. To the extent there are CLO transactions prior to the confirmation, we intend to fully explore the business justification for doing so, as we do not believe there is any rational business reason to liquidate securities prior to that time.

Re: In re Highland Capital Management, L.P., Case
No. 19-34054-sgj (Bankr. N.D. Tex)

Dear Counsel:

As you know, we represent Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”), the debtor-in-possession in the above-captioned bankruptcy case.

On December 8, 2020, your firm filed that certain Motion for Order Imposing Temporary Restrictions on Debtor’s Ability, as Portfolio Manager, to Initiate Sales by Non-Debtor CLO Vehicles [D.I. 1528] (the “Motion”)<sup>1</sup> on behalf of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., NexPoint Advisors, L.P., Highland Income Fund, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, and NexPoint Capital, Inc. (collectively, the “Movants”). After hearing the sworn testimony of the Movants’ witness and the arguments made on the Movants’ behalf, Judge Jernigan found that the Motion was “a very, very frivolous motion” and that your firm “wasted [her] time.” (Transcript, 64:5-12) An order was entered denying the Motion on December 18, 2020 [D.I. 1605].

On December 22, we received the letter attached as Exhibit A (the “Letter”) from your firm on behalf of the Movants and CLO Holdco, Ltd. (an entity affiliated with James Dondero) re-asserting almost verbatim the frivolous arguments raised in the Motion. Concurrently, we received notice that certain of the Movants’ employees would not settle trades on behalf of the CLOs that were authorized by the Debtor acting in its capacity as the CLOs’ portfolio manager. The Movants’ employees who interfered with the Debtor’s directions justified their conduct by asserting – again almost verbatim – the frivolous arguments raised in the Motion.

The Movants have caused the Debtor to incur substantial costs defending itself against the Motion and preparing to defend against the frivolous suits forecasted in the Letter. The Debtor demands that the Movants withdraw the letter by 5:00 p.m. CT on Monday, December 28, 2020, and confirm that the Movants and anyone acting on their behalf will take no further steps to interfere with the Debtor’s directions as the CLOs’ portfolio manager. If the Movants fail to timely comply with these demands, the Debtor shall seek prompt judicial relief, including seeking sanctions under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9011.

The Debtor reserves all rights it may have, whether in law equity, or contract, including the right to seek reimbursement of any and all fees and expenses incurred in seeking sanctions.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions.

Sincerely,

Gregory Demo

Dear Counsel:

I am writing to you on behalf of our clients Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. ("HCMFA") and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. ("NexPoint", and together with HCMFA, the "Advisors"), and Highland Income Fund, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, and NexPoint Capital, Inc. (together, the "Funds"). CLO Holdco, Ltd. ("CLO Holdco") whose counsel is copied below, joins in this notice and request.

As you are aware, certain registered investment companies and a business development company managed by either NexPoint or HCMFA own preference shares in many of the CLOs. In the following cases those companies own a majority of such shares<sup>1</sup>:

- Stratford CLO, Ltd. 69.05%
- Grayson CLO, Ltd. 60.47%
- Greenbriar CLO, Ltd. 53.44%

---

Page 2

In other cases, such companies in combination with CLO Holdco hold all, a super-majority, or a majority of the preference shares in the following CLOs:

- Liberty CLO, Ltd. 70.43%
- Stratford CLO, Ltd. 69.05%<sup>*2</sup>
- Aberdeen Loan Funding, Ltd. 64.58%
- Grayson CLO, Ltd. 61.65%*
- Westchester CLO, Ltd. 58.13%
- Rockwall CDO, Ltd. 55.75%
- Brentwood CLO, Ltd. 55.74%
- Greenbriar CLO, Ltd. 53.44%*

Additionally, such companies own significant minority stakes in the following CLO's:

- Eastland CLO, Ltd. 41.69%
- Red River CLO, Ltd. 33.33%

The ownerships described above represent in many cases the total remaining outstanding interests in such CLOs, because the noteholders have been paid in full. In others, the remaining noteholders represent only a small percentage of remaining interests. Thus, the economic ownership of the registered investment companies, business development company, and CLO Holdco largely represent the investors in the CLOs identified above.

Contractually, the Debtor is obligated to maximize value for the benefit of the preference shareholders. Accordingly, we respectfully request that no further dispositions of CLO interests occur pending the confirmation hearing. While we recognize the Court denied the Advisor and Funds motion on this subject, the Court did not require liquidations occur immediately, and we reserve all rights to and remedies against the Debtor should the Debtor continue to liquidate CLO interests in contravention of this joint request. Given the Advisor, Funds, and CLO Holdco's requests, it is difficult to understand the Debtor's rationale for continued liquidations, or the benefit to the Debtor from pursuing those sales.

As you know, HCMLP's duties are set forth in the portfolio management agreements of the CLOs, which themselves have been adopted under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 ("Advisers Act"). As HCMLP readily admits, it is: (i) terminating employees on January 31, 2021, which will result in a loss of the employees that have traditionally serviced those CLOs; (ii) ignoring the requests of the Advisors, Funds, and CLO Holdco, which together account for all or a majority of interests in certain CLOs, and selling assets of those CLOs prior to plan-confirmation; and (iii) adding a replacement manager as subadviser prior to January 31, 2021. The Advisors, Funds, and CLO Holdco assert that those actions run in contravention to HCMLP's duty to maximize value for the holders of preference shares and thus what HCMLP has agreed to under the portfolio management agreement, as well as its duties under the Advisers Act, which ultimately will adversely impact the economic owners noted above.

For the forgoing and other reasons, we request that no further CLO transactions occur at least until the issues raised by and addressed in the Debtor's plan are resolved at the confirmation hearing.

Sincerely,

A. Lee Hogewood, III

Dear Counsel:

Thank you for your letters of December 24, 2020, demanding a reply by the afternoon of the 28th. To cut to the chase, we decline to withdraw the letters of December 22 and 23, 2020. The letter dated December 22, 2020 was a request from counsel for the Funds and Advisors, as well as Holdco, to you as counsel for the Debtor, asking that the Debtor cease further trading in property you have acknowledged is not an asset of the Debtor's estate. The request is continuing. The letter dated December 23, 2020 was notification from counsel for the Funds and Advisors, as well as Holdco, to you as counsel for the Debtors that the process to remove the Debtor as manager of certain funds would be initiated, subject to applicable orders in the pending bankruptcy case, provisions of the Bankruptcy Code and, specifically the automatic stay.

Neither letter was presented to, or constituted a request for relief from, any court. Thus, your threat to seek sanctions under Rule 9011 would not seem to be actionable or otherwise warranted by existing law. That said, if you believe there is authority for seeking 9011 sanctions against a party or a lawyer based upon either a request or a notification exclusively between counsel, please provide and we will certainly consider it. I would add that the demand to respond within a single business day, over an intervening holiday, is not in compliance with Rule 9011 in any event. Given that the rule is inapplicable, the procedural infirmity of your demand is immaterial.

Substantively, please consider the following:

First, there is no confusion on the part of our Firm or our client that our motion was denied. Thus, the Debtor is not prohibited from engaging in sales of CLO assets. Because the Debtor is free to do so, however, does not mean that the Debtor must engage in such transactions. The Debtor has acknowledged that the assets it has sold and may sell are expressly not property of the estate. Thus, any benefits of such transactions to the estate are not evident. On the other hand, the parties holding a majority of the beneficial interests in the assets have requested, and continue to request, that the Debtor refrain from selling those assets for a short time. What is the harm in refraining?

Second, in order to pursue the trades over the last several days, the Debtor has initiated the trades, as we understand it, by giving instructions to a trading desk other than Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors ("HCMFA"). The Debtor has demanded that employees of HCMFA "book" or "settle" the trades. Having not initiated the trades and with the trades executed outside of compliance protocols including HCMLP's order management system, HCMFA employees have been reluctant to do so because, among other reasons, they did not initiate them and cannot be sure such trades were properly pre-cleared. The Debtor presently has adequate staff and resources to process and settle trades without requiring involvement of HCMFA employees. In short, if the Debtor wishes to make trades, it has the ability to make them without HCMFA's assistance. If the Debtor desires or requires the continued support of HCMFA to make such trades, we should discuss an appropriate protocol and payment for such support.

Third, the Debtor's view that the historic affiliate relationship between it, the Funds, the Advisors and Holdco precludes those entities from replacing management is misplaced. While Mr. Dondero was never a control person of Holdco, we acknowledge he was once a control person in connection with many of the relevant entities. There is no doubt that Mr. Dondero no longer has control over the activities of the Debtor as fund manager, and thus the affiliate status that might have precluded the Funds and Advisors from seeking the removal and replacement of the fund manager no longer exists. Indeed, in the transcript of the hearing of December 16, at which the Court denied my clients' motion, Debtor's counsel made crystal clear that the Debtor's board had no interest in speaking with Mr. Dondero and further that Mr. Seery viewed discussions with Mr. Dondero as "a waste of time." Once Mr. Dondero ceased to be a control person or employee of the Debtor, any affiliate status between the Debtor on the one hand and the Advisors and the Funds on the other also terminated. This termination was effective pursuant to both Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "1940 Act") and the Indentures governing the CLOs. Having reviewed these facts with the 1940 Act experts in our Firm, we are confident that affiliate status is no longer an impediment to removal.

In view of the foregoing, I suggest that the parties could benefit from a call this week to discuss our competing communications and perhaps broader questions as well. Please let me know your availability over the next few days and I will work to coordinate a call.

Warm regards,

A. Lee Hogewood, III

DEBTOR'S MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF ITS MOTION FOR A MANDATORY INJUNCTION REQUIRING THE ADVISORS TO ADOPT AND IMPLEMENT A PLAN FOR THE TRANSITION OF SERVICES BY FEBRUARY 28, 2021

Highland Capital Management, L.P., the plaintiff in the above-captioned adversary proceeding (the "Adversary Proceeding"), and the debtor and debtor-in-possession (the "Debtor" or "Highland") in the above-captioned chapter 11 case ("Bankruptcy Case"), submits this memorandum of law (the "Memorandum") in support of the Debtor's Motion for a Mandatory Injunction Requiring the Advisors to Adopt and Implement a Plan for the Transition of Services by February 28, 2021 (the "Motion"), pursuant to sections 105(a), 362(a), 542, and 1107 of title 11 of the United States Code (the "Bankruptcy Code") and Rules 7001 and 7065 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the "Bankruptcy Rules"), against defendants Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. ("HCMFA") and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. ("NPA," and together with HCMFA, the "Advisors").<sup>2</sup> In support of its Motion, the Debtor states as follows:

I.

INTRODUCTION

1. The Advisors serve as the investment manager, either directly or indirectly, to a number of investment vehicles (collectively, the "Funds") regulated pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and the Investment Company Act of 1940. Certain of the Funds are publicly traded and have thousands of retail investors who are at risk due to the Advisors' deleterious conduct.

---

<sup>2</sup> Capitalized terms not defined herein shall have the meanings ascribed to them in the Declaration of Mr. James P. Seery, Jr. in Support of the Debtor's Motion for a Mandatory Injunction Requiring the Advisors to Adopt and Implement a Plan for the Transition of Services by February 28, 2021 (the "Seery Declaration") being filed contemporaneously herewith.

2. The Advisors are owned and controlled by James Dondero. Pursuant to certain Shared Services Agreements, the Debtor has historically provided back office and middle office services that enable the Advisors to manage the Funds. Although the Debtor is paid for these services, providing the services requires the Debtor to maintain a full staff, the cost of which has historically caused substantial net losses to the Debtor.

3. Each of the Shared Services Agreements gives either party the unilateral right to terminate the respective Shared Services Agreement by providing prior written notice. On November 30, 2020, the Debtor provided written notice of its intent to terminate the Shared Services Agreements effective as of January 31, 2021.

4. The Termination Notices could not have come as a surprise to the Advisors because the Debtor was in bankruptcy and had been pursuing an “asset monetization” plan of reorganization that would leave it with a substantially scaled-down work force since at least August 2020. With that in mind, the Debtor began developing a plan pursuant to which the shared services would be transitioned to an entity that would be created, owned, and operated by certain of the Debtor’s employees who were expected to be terminated as part of the implementation of the Debtor’s Plan.

5. At the same time, the Debtor continued to provide the services required under the Shared Services Agreements – despite the Advisors being in substantial arrears with an outstanding amount due to the Debtor in excess of $3 million – and otherwise continued in its attempts to transition those services in a smooth and orderly manner. Indeed, in order to give the Advisors more time to engage and complete the transition, the Debtor has extended the termination date on two occasions, with the current termination deadline being February 19, 2021.<sup>3</sup>

6. Regrettably, as described in more detail below, and notwithstanding the Debtor's best efforts to aid in the transition of services, the Advisors have willfully failed and refused to adopt and effectuate a transition plan, choosing instead to spend the last months threatening the Debtor and certain of its employees and seeking to deflect responsibility for their own wrongful conduct.

7. The status quo is untenable. The Debtor has the contractual right to terminate the Shared Services Agreements, and it has exercised that right. Pursuant to the Debtor's Plan, there will shortly be a substantial reduction in the Debtor's work force and the Debtor will be unable to provide services to the Advisors. The Advisors' failure to work with the Debtor or to otherwise develop a transition plan of its own has put thousands of retail investors at risk.

8. The Debtor is faced with an awful choice. It can either (a) exercise its rights to terminate the Shared Services Agreements to the detriment of the Funds and their investors and be sucked into more litigation because of Mr. Dondero's conduct, or (b) attempt to provide services to the Advisors under the Shared Services Agreements at substantial losses and risk material delays in the implementation of the Debtor's Plan.

9. Therefore, the Debtor moves, on an emergency basis, for a mandatory injunction compelling the Advisors to adopt and implement a transition plan by February 28, 2021, when the Debtor is expected to substantially reduce its workforce. In the absence of such a mandate, the Funds (together with their thousands of investors) and the Debtor will be irreparably harmed.

<sup>3</sup> Although the Shared Services Agreement will terminate on February 19, 2021, the Debtor is willing to further extend the termination dates of the Shared Services Agreements through February 28, 2021, solely to prevent catastrophic harm to the retail investors in the Funds, but the Debtor will be unable to extend the termination date further as the Debtor is expected to reduce its workforce at the end of February and will have insufficient personnel thereafter to perform under the Shared Services Agreements.

II.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. The Debtor Has the Contractual Right to Terminate the Shared Services Agreements, and It Timely Exercised that Right

10. The Debtor is party to the Shared Services Agreements pursuant to which it has a contractual right of termination upon written notice.

The Debtor's Shared Services Agreement with HCMFA

11. The Debtor and HCMFA are parties to that certain Second Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of February 8, 2013. Seery Dec. Exhibit A.

12. Pursuant to section 2.01 of the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement and Annex A affixed thereto, the Debtor provides certain services to HCMFA that enable HCMFA to manage the Funds.

13. The HCMFA Shared Services Agreement was for a one-year term, subject to automatic one-year renewals “unless sooner terminated under Section 7.02.”

14. Section 7.02 of the Shared Services Agreement provides that “[e]ither Party may terminate this Agreement, with or without cause, upon at least 60 days advance written notice at any time prior to the expiration of the Term.”

15. On November 30, 2020, the Debtor provided written notice to HCMFA that it intended to terminate the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement as of January 31, 2021. Seery Dec. Exhibit B.

The Debtor's Shared Services Agreement with NPA

16. The Debtor and NPA are parties to that certain Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2018. Seery Dec. Exhibit C.

17. Pursuant to Article II of the NPA Shared Services Agreement, the Debtor provides certain services to NPA that enable NPA to manage the Funds.

18. The NPA Shared Services Agreement did not have a fixed term. Instead, section 7.01 provided that “[e]ither Party may terminate this Agreement at any time upon at least thirty (30) days’ written notice to the other.”

19. On November 30, 2020, the Debtor provided written notice to NPA that it intended to terminate the NPA Shared Services Agreement as of January 31, 2021. Seery Dec.

Exhibit D.

B. Prior to Providing the Termination Notices, the Debtor Worked on a Transition Plan, but the Advisors Failed to Engage or Pay for Services Rendered

20. On August 12, 2020, after considering its strategic options, the Debtor filed an “asset monetization” plan of reorganization pursuant to which, in general, the Debtor proposed to reduce staff, reject certain contracts, and monetize its assets consistent with maximizing value for all stakeholders. [Docket No. 944].

21. Thus, at least as of that time, all stakeholders – including the Advisors – were on notice that the Debtor intended to continue operations on a scaled-down basis with the goal being an orderly monetization of assets.<sup>4</sup>

22. Consistent with that intent, the Debtor began formulating a plan for the transition of services provided under the Shared Services Agreements.

---

<sup>4</sup> Furthermore, on November 13, 2020, the Debtor filed its Third Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management [Docket No. 1383] (the “Third Amended Plan”). In its Third Amended Plan (and subsequent plans), the Debtor explicitly stated that it did not intend to continue providing services under the Shared Service Agreements precisely because they are money losers. Third Amended Plan, Art. IV.A (“[I]t is currently anticipated that neither the Reorganized Debtor nor the Claimant Trust will assume or assume and assign the contracts between the Debtor and certain Related Entities pursuant to which the Debtor provides shared services and sub-advisory services to those Related Entities. The Debtor believes that the continued provision of the services under such contracts will not be cost effective.”).

23. Specifically, beginning in the summer of 2020, the Debtor attempted to negotiate for the orderly transition of services with James Dondero, the individual who owns and controls each of the Advisors.

24. The Debtor's proposal contemplated the transition of services to the Advisors from the Debtor to an entity that would be created, owned, and operated by certain of the Debtor's employees ("NewCo") who were expected to be terminated as part of the Debtor's asset monetization plan.

25. With Mr. Dondero in control, the Advisors never provided any constructive response to the Debtor's proposal. Indeed, Mr. Dondero specifically informed the Debtor that he intended to make the transition difficult for the apparent purpose of creating leverage in plan negotiations.

26. In addition to failing to engage in any process designed to provide for the orderly transition of services, the Advisors also failed to pay the Debtor for the services provided under the Shared Services Agreement.

27. Since the Petition Date, each of the Advisors has failed to meet certain of its payment obligations under the Shared Services Agreements. For the period between the Petition Date and January 31, 2021, (a) HCMFA owes the Debtor $2,121,276 for services rendered under the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement, and (b) NPA owes the Debtor $932,977 for services rendered under the NPA Shared Services Agreement. These amounts exclude amounts owed for services provided prior to the Petition Date.

28. The Debtor loses significant money providing services under the Shared Services Agreements, which is why it publicly stated its intention in the Third Amended Plan (and each subsequent amendment and modification to the Plan) not to assume or assume and assign them.

While that is bad enough, the Advisors failure to pay for services previously rendered is a blatant breach of the Agreements.

C. The Debtor Offers to Extend the Termination Date to Avoid a Catastrophe and Attempts to Engage the Funds' Board to Aid in the Adoption of a Transition Plan

29. Instead of engaging in the process, the Advisors and certain of their employees were more focused on threatening the Debtor and its employees, all in a transparent effort to deflect responsibility for their own obstinate and wrongful conduct.

30. With the January 31, 2021, termination date fast approaching, and with the Advisors continuing to fail to work cooperatively on a transition plan, the Debtor took the initiative and offered to extend the termination date by two weeks (i) in order to avoid catastrophic consequences for the Funds and their investors that would result from an abrupt termination, and (ii) in the hope that the Advisors would use the extended time to finally and constructively engage.

31. Thus, on January 29, 2021, the parties executed an agreement extending the termination date to February 14, 2021, in exchange for the Advisors paying in advance for services to be rendered by the Debtor during that two-week period. Seery Dec. Exhibit E.

32. During the following two weeks, the Debtor and its employees and professionals made every effort to bring the issue of the transition of services to a resolution. Among other things, the Debtor continued to refine the proposal for the transition of services to NewCo.

33. The Debtor also attempted to get the attention of the Funds' Boards because it was concerned that the Boards were either uninformed, not engaged, or were under the influence and control of Mr. Dondero.

34. Among other communications, James P. Seery, Jr., the Debtor's Chief Executive Officer, sent formal written communications to the Board of Directors for the Funds on January 27, 2021, February 8, 2021, and February 12, 2021.<sup>5</sup> Seery Dec. Exhibits F, G and H, respectively.

35. Despite the efforts of certain of the Advisors’ professionals, and despite the Debtor’s willingness to make all reasonable concessions on a transition agreement, Mr. Dondero and the Advisors have refused to “say yes” or to otherwise take steps to formulate a transition plan for the protection of the Funds and their investors.

36. Faced with an untenable situation, the Debtor again agreed to extend the termination date, this time to February 19, 2021. See Seery Dec. Exhibit I.

37. Finally, on February 16, 2021, the Debtor made its last attempt to reach an agreement before being forced to take alternative actions to protect itself, the Funds, and investors, by sending the Advisors a proposed term sheet that provided a reasonable transition plan. Seery Dec. Exhibit J. The Advisors refused to agree to the terms thereunder.

38. Given that the Court will soon enter an order confirming the Debtor’s Plan, and the reduction in the Debtor’s work force will follow soon thereafter, the Debtor will be unable to provide services to the Advisors much longer. The Advisors’ failure to agree on or formulate a transition plan is creating catastrophic risk for the Funds and their investors. The Advisors’ failure to plan for a transition is also creating material risk to the Debtor.

Tex. 2016) (“The Court may issue injunctions as part of its equitable powers, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 105.”). In other words, courts have broad authority to take actions necessary to “protect the integrity of the bankruptcy estate” and to “enjoin actions that ‘might impede the reorganization process.’” FiberTower, 482 B.R. at 182 (quoting MacArthur Co. v. Johns–Manville Corp. (In re Johns–Manville Corp.), 837 F.2d 89, 93 (2d Cir.1988)). “A preliminary injunction seeks to ‘prevent irreparable injury so as to preserve the court’s ability to render a meaningful decision on the merits.’” OGA Charters, 554 B.R. at 424 (quoting Miss. Power & Light Co. v. United Gas Pipe Line, 760 F.2d 618, 621 (5th Cir.1985)).

40. Injunctive relief is warranted under section 105(a) where the movant shows: (1) a likelihood that it will prevail on the merits; (2) irreparable injury in the absence of injunctive relief; (3) that the balance of the equities favor the movant; and (4) that the injunction would serve the public interest. See OGA Charters, 554 B.R. at 424; Green v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 575 Fed. Appx. 322, 323 n. 3 (5th Cir. 2014) (stating the four-prong test for a preliminary injunction as likelihood of success, irreparable harm, balance of the equities, and the public interest); In re Commonwealth Oil Ref. Co., Inc., 805 F.2d 1175, 1189 (5th Cir. 1986) (same); La Union Del Pueblo Entero v. Fed. Emergency Mgmt. Agency, 608 F.3d 217, 219 (5th Cir. 2010) (same).

41. A mandatory preliminary injunction—that is, a preliminary injunction that orders a party to “take action” or perform, as opposed to a prohibitory preliminary injunction—seeks to alter the status quo prior to litigation rather than maintain it. See Davis v. Angelina College Board of Trustees, No. 9:17-CV-179, 2018 WL 1755392 (E.D. Tex. 2018); Texas v. Ysleta Del Sur Pueblo, No. EP-17-CV-179-PRM, 2018 WL 1566866, at *9 (W.D. Tex. March 29, 2018).

42. The factors for assessing a mandatory or prohibitory injunction are the same, although a plaintiff seeking a mandatory injunction must show a “clear entitlement” to the relief sought. Texas, 2018 WL 1566866, at *9 (citing Justin Indus., Inc. v. Choctaw Sec., L.P., 920 F.2d 262, 268 (5th Cir. 1990) (“[B]ecause [the plaintiff] is seeking a mandatory injunction, it bears the burden of showing a clear entitlement to the relief under the facts and the law.”); see also Martinez v. Matthews, 544 F.2d 1233, 1243 (5th Cir. 1976) (noting that in order for mandatory injunctions to issue, plaintiff must show that the “facts and the law clearly favors” them).

43. Although there is a heavier burden on the plaintiff to establish that a mandatory injunction is warranted, the Fifth Circuit has cautioned that the focus must be on the prevention of injury rather than preserving the “status quo”:

It must not be thought, however, that there is any particular magic in the phrase ‘status quo.’ The purpose of a preliminary injunction is always to prevent irreparable injury so as to preserve the court’s ability to render a meaningful decision on the merits. It often happens that this purpose is furthered by preservation of the status quo, but not always. If the currently existing status quo itself is causing one of the parties irreparable injury, it is necessary to alter the situation so as to prevent the injury, either by returning to the last uncontested status quo between the parties, by the issuance of a mandatory injunction, or by allowing the parties to take proposed action that the court finds will minimize the irreparable injury. The focus always must be on prevention of injury by a proper order, not merely on preservation of the status quo.

Canal Auth. of State of Fla. v. Callaway, 489 F.2d 567, 576 (5th Cir. 1974) (emphases added); see also Rush v. Nat’l Bd. of Med. Examiners, 268 F. Supp. 2d 673, 678 (N.D. Tex. 2003) (“An indispensable prerequisite to issuance of a preliminary injunction is prevention of irreparable injury.”); In re Life Partners Holdings, Inc., 15-40289-RFN-11, 2017 WL 11517832, at *2 (N.D. Tex. Dec. 12, 2017) (noting that “mandatory preliminary injunctions ‘that goes beyond the status quo’ ... may be appropriate to ‘keep[] in effect a contractual relationship’ to maintain the status quo.” (quoting Lake Charles Diesel, Inc. v. Gen. Motors, 328 F.3d 192, 196 (5th Cir. 2003)).<sup>6</sup>

44. For the reasons set forth above and below, the facts and the law show that the Debtor has a “clear entitlement” to the mandatory injunctive relief requested.

IV.

ARGUMENT

45. A mandatory injunction requiring the Advisors to adopt and implement a plan for the transition of back office and middle office services from the Debtor is necessary to prevent imminent and irreparable harm to the Funds, their investors, and the Debtor that would be caused by the Advisors’ continued failure to adopt and implement such a plan.

A. The Funds, their Investors, and the Debtor will Suffer Imminent and Irreparable Harm in the Absence of a Mandatory Injunction

46. The Funds, their investors, and the Debtor’s estate will be severely injured if Defendants are not mandated to adopt and implement a transition plan. Irreparable harm is “a harm ‘for which there is no adequate remedy at law.’” OGA Charters, 554 B.R. at 424 (quoting Daniels Health Scis., L.L.C. v. Vascular Health Scis., L.L.C., 710 F.3d 579, 585 (5th Cir. 2013)); see also Compass Bank v. Veytia, EP-11-CV-228-PRM, 2011 WL 13234883, at *2 (W.D. Tex. Sept. 21, 2011) (“The general rule in the Fifth Circuit is that ‘harm is irreparable where there is no adequate remedy at law, such as monetary damages.’”) (quoting Janvey v. Alguire, 647 F.3d 585, 600 (5th Cir. 2010)).

<sup>6</sup> See also RoDa Drilling Co. v. Siegal, 552 F.3d 1203, 1208 (10th Cir. 2009) (“While we recognize that mandatory preliminary injunctions are traditionally disfavored ... when the moving party demonstrates that the ‘exigencies of the case require extraordinary interim relief,’ the district court may grant the motion upon satisfaction of the heightened burden.”) (internal citations omitted); Hernandez v. Sessions, 872 F.3d 976, 999 (9th Cir. 2017) (“Mandatory injunctions are most likely to be appropriate when ‘the status quo ... is exactly what will inflict the irreparable injury upon complainant.’” (citing Friends for All Children, Inc. v. Lockheed Aircraft Corp., 746 F.2d 816, 830 n.21 (D.C. Cir. 1984))).

47. In the bankruptcy context, “irreparable harm” refers to either “irreparable harm to the interest of a creditor or irreparable harm to the bankruptcy estate.” In re Hunt, 93 B.R. 484, 495 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 1988) (internal quotations omitted). The element of irreparable injury to the debtor’s estate is described as “irreparable harm to the creditors and estates from disruption of th[e] Court’s exclusive authority to effectively manage the[] cases.” Id.; see also Pipkin v. JVM Operating, L.C., 197 B.R. 47, 51 (E.D. Tex. 1996) (noting that “[a]n injury is irreparable if it cannot be undone through monetary remedies[,]” and where, for instance, “there is injury to a party’s operations, reputation, and goodwill.”) (internal quotations omitted). Moreover, “the mere fact that economic damages may be available does not always mean that a remedy at law is ‘adequate.’” Compass Bank, 2011 WL 13234883, at *2 (citing Janvey, 647 F.3d at 600); (holding that “dissipation of assets ... would impair the court’s ability to grant an effective remedy”).

48. Here, the Advisors’ failure to adopt and implement a transition plan is untenable because – as the Advisors have known for months – the Debtor will soon be unable to provide services under the Shared Services Agreements, and such willful misconduct and gross negligence will cause irreparable harm to the Funds and their investors and to the Debtor’s operations, goodwill, estate, and ability to implement the Plan. See Pipkin, 197 B.R. at 56 (affirming mandatory injunction where trustee showed that absent such relief, he would “be unable to fulfill his fiduciary duties to expeditiously liquidate the estate” and where such relief was proper “after confirmation of a plan to protect the debtor and the administration of the bankruptcy estate”) (internal quotations omitted).

49. In the absence of a mandatory injunction, the Debtor will be forced to either (a) exercise its rights to terminate the Shared Services Agreements to the detriment of the Funds and their investors and be sucked into more litigation caused by Mr. Dondero's conduct, or (b) attempt to provide services to the Advisors under the Shared Services Agreements at substantial losses and risk material delays in the implementation of the Debtor's Plan.

50. Either way, the ability of the Funds to function – and thus the ability of the Funds' retail and other investors to buy and sell interests in the Funds – will be at risk of substantial disruption, thereby creating the potential for catastrophic, unforeseeable, and incalculable consequences for investors, the Funds, the Debtor – and especially the Advisors. Any such disruption will be at best a distraction for the Debtor and, at worst, cause the Debtor to incur substantial costs and litigation risk. Regardless, there will be a significant impact on the Debtor's ability to implement its Plan and manage its estate.

B. The Debtor Will Demonstrate a Likelihood of Success on the Merits

51. To satisfy the likelihood of success element, the movant need only present their “prima facie case but need not show that [they] are certain to win.” Janvey, 647 F.3d at 595 (internal quotations omitted). Moreover, the relevant “merits” question in this case is not whether the Debtor is likely to prevail on appeal, but rather “whether this [C]ourt is authorized and likely to grant the requested relief.” FiberTower, 482 B.R. at 183–84 (citing COLLIER ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 105.03[1][a] (16th ed. 2012) (“In connection with the ‘likelihood’ argument, many courts have looked to the purpose of the requested injunction ... the likelihood of success argument will track closely the bankruptcy right sought to be vindicated.”); see also Hunt, 93 B.R. at 493 (“[t]he inquiry [for success on the merits] for a preliminary injunction necessarily focuses on the outcome of a later proceeding, at which time the merits giving rise to the litigation will be decided” rather than success on the merits “so that reorganization efforts mandated by the Bankruptcy Code will not be thwarted by the [enforcement] proceeding.”) (internal quotations omitted).

52. Here, Debtor will succeed on the merits of its claims for (a) a declaratory judgment that it has the contractual right to terminate each of the Shared Services Agreements, that it properly exercised those rights, and that, effective February 19, 2021, it has no further legal or equitable obligation to provide any services to the Advisors; (b) damages for breach of contract; and (c) for a mandatory injunction requiring the Advisors to adopt and implement a plan for the orderly transition of shared services by February 28, 2021.

53. The terms of the Shared Services Agreements are unambiguous and give the Debtor the unfettered right to terminate services upon prior written notice. There will be no dispute that the Debtor timely and properly provided such written notice in conformity with the provisions of the Shared Services Agreements.

54. Moreover, the relief the Debtor seeks is precisely the type contemplated by the Bankruptcy Court's broad powers to grant injunctive relief under Section 105. See 11 U.S.C. § 105 (a) (authorizing the bankruptcy court to "issue any order, process, of judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of the Code."); see also 11 U.S.C. §§ 362, 542, 1107. The Debtor seeks to require the Advisors to fulfill their duty to the Funds by ensuring that they have services necessary to manage the Funds. The injunction will also allow the Debtor to focus on its own business, including the implementation of its Plan, and avoid the substantial costs and disruption inherent in being forced to continue its relationship with the Advisors and Funds. Injunctive relief is, therefore, warranted for the purpose of protecting the integrity of the markets in which the Funds' shares are traded, the Funds' investors, and the Debtor's reorganization process. See FiberTower, 482 B.R. at 182.

C. The Equities Strongly Favor the Debtor

55. The equities strongly favor the Debtor. The evidence will show that: (a) the Advisors were on notice since at least August 2020 that the Debtor was unlikely to provide services under the Shared Services Agreement for an extended period of time; (b) the Debtor has been pursuing a transition plan since the summer of 2020; (c) the Third Amended Plan filed on November 13, 2020 (and each subsequent version of the Plan), expressly stated that the Debtor would not assume or assume and assign the Shared Services Agreements; (d) the Debtor timely provided notice of termination of the Shared Services Agreements on November 30, 2020; (e) upon information and belief, the Advisors (and not the Debtor) owe contractual and other duties to the Funds, the entities most at risk; and (f) the Debtor has acted in good faith by, among other things, twice extending the anticipated termination date.

56. Based on these facts, the balance of the equities strongly favors the Debtor.

57. Injunctive relief will further the public interest because it is necessary to protect public markets and thousands of retail investors who currently have no knowledge of the risks they face, as well as the Debtor in its efforts to timely implement the Plan that was recently approved by the Court. “Courts have often held that injunctions that facilitate reorganizations serve the public interest.” FiberTower, 482 B.R. at 189 (citing SAS Overseas Consultants v. Benoit, No. 99–1663, 2000 WL 140611, at *5 (E.D. La. Feb. 7, 2000); Lazarus Burman Assocs. v. Nat’l Westminster Bank U.S.A. (In re Lazarus Burman Assocs.), 161 B.R. 891, 901 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y.1993)). In other words, “[i]n bankruptcy, the public policy is to have an orderly administration of the debtor’s assets via their bankruptcy estate, such that the debtor may be able to gain a fresh start, by satisfying valid claims against that estate.” OGA Charters, 554 B.R. at 426; see also In re Hunt, 93 B.R. at 497 (“Chapter 11 expresses the public interest of preserving the going-concern values of businesses, protecting jobs, ensuring the equal treatment of and payment of creditors, and if possible saving something for the equity holders.”).

58. Indeed, the public interest virtually requires that the Advisors be directed to adopt and implement a transition plan. In the absence of a mandatory injunction, thousands of retail investors are likely to suffer catastrophic losses, and there will likely be substantial market disruptions with unforeseeable consequences. Each of these events will likely cause the Debtor substantial harm and interfere with the Debtor's ability to implement its Plan.

CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, the Debtor respectfully requests that the Court (i) grant its Motion and enter an Order in the form annexed hereto as Exhibit A, and (ii) grant the Debtor any further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

Harry H. C. Jones
United States Bankruptcy Judge

APP. 1813
APP. 1892

This matter having come before the Court on the Emergency Motion for a Mandatory Injunction Requiring the Advisors to Adopt and Implement a Plan for the Transition of Services by February 28, 2021 [Docket No. 2] (the “Motion”)<sup>2</sup> filed by Highland Capital Management, L.P., the debtor and debtor-in-possession in the above-captioned chapter 11 case (the “Bankruptcy Case”), and the plaintiff in the above-captioned adversary proceeding, and this Court having considered (i) the Motion; (ii) Plaintiff Highland Capital Management, L.P.’s Verified Original Complaint for Damages and for Declaratory and Injunctive Relief [Docket No. 1] (the “Complaint”); (iii) the arguments and law cited in the Debtor’s Memorandum of Law in Support of its Motion for a Mandatory Injunction Requiring the Advisors to Adopt and Implement a Plan for the Transition of Services by February 28, 2021 [Docket No. 3] (the “Memorandum of Law,” and together with the Motion and Complaint, the “Debtor’s Papers”); (iv) the Objection to Mandatory Injunction and Brief in Support Thereof [Docket No. 20] (the “Objection”), filed on February 22, 2021, by the Advisors; (v) the testimonial and documentary evidence admitted into evidence during the hearing held on February 23, 2021 (the “Hearing”), including the credibility of witnesses Mr. James P. Seery, Jr., Mr. James Dondero, and Mr. Dustin Norris; and (vi) the arguments made during the Hearing; and this Court having jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334; and this Court having found that this is a core proceeding<sup>3</sup> pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2);

<sup>2</sup> Capitalized terms used but not herein defined shall have the meanings ascribed to such terms in the Motion.

<sup>3</sup> The court orally stated at the hearing that, at a minimum, there is bankruptcy subject matter jurisdiction in this action, since: (a) there is a conceivable effect on the bankruptcy estate being administered (i.e., the pre-confirmation test for bankruptcy subject matter jurisdiction), since there is a risk of potential liability or regulatory actions being pursued against the estate, if the Debtor does not obtain relief in this action, and, also (b) the outcome of this action could bear on the interpretation, implementation, and execution of a confirmed plan (i.e., the post-confirmation test for bankruptcy subject matter jurisdiction). The court also concluded, upon further analysis, that the action should be deemed to present a “core” matter, with regard to which the bankruptcy court may issue final orders and exercise Constitutional authority, since, among other things, the relief sought is, in essence, supplemental to the confirmation order and in furtherance of implementation of the confirmed plan. See 11 U.S.C. § 1142(b). In all events, should this order ever be subject to an appeal, and the District Court concludes that “noncore” matters are involved, the bankruptcy and this Court having found that venue of this proceeding and the Motion in this District is proper pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1409; and this Court having found that the Debtor's notice of the Motion and opportunity for a hearing on the Motion were appropriate and that no other notice need be provided; and upon all of the proceedings had before this Court, the legal and factual bases set forth in the Debtor's Papers, and the evidence submitted at the Hearing; and after due deliberation and sufficient cause appearing therefor, and for the reasons set forth in the record on this Motion, the Court makes the following findings of fact:

1. Each of the Advisors is controlled by Mr. Dondero.
2. The Debtor had the contractual right to terminate the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement on 60 days' written notice.
3. The Debtor properly exercised its right to terminate the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement by providing at least 60 days' written notice.
4. The HCMFA Shared Services Agreement and the Debtor's obligation to provide services to HCMFA under the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement terminated on February 19, 2021.
5. The Debtor had the contractual right to terminate the NPA Shared Services Agreement on 30 days' written notice.
6. The Debtor properly exercised its right to terminate the NPA Shared Services Agreement by providing at least 30 days' written notice.
7. The NPA Shared Services Agreement and the Debtor's obligation to provide services to NPA under the NPA Shared Services Agreement terminated on February 19, 2021.

court requests that the District Court regard this ruling as a proposed set of findings, conclusions and order from the bankruptcy court and that the District Court adopt this ruling, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(c)(1).

8. Except as expressly set forth herein, effective as of February 19, 2021, the Debtor has no obligation to provide any services, software, or assistance to any of HCMFA, NPA, the Funds, or any servicer or personnel retained by any of HMCFA, NPA, or the Funds.

9. As of February 20, 2021, each of HCMFA and NPA had adopted an operating plan to obtain or provide all services previously provided by the Debtor that are necessary to fully perform under their agreements with the Funds without the aid or assistance of the Debtor.

10. Except as expressly set forth herein, as of February 20, 2021, neither HCMFA nor NPA needs any services, including contractual arrangements and software, previously provided by the Debtor or its employees under the Shared Services Agreements that are necessary to fully perform under their agreements with the Funds.

11. On or prior to February 28, 2021, the Advisors will promptly provide the Debtor with written notice of the documents, data, and books and records (collectively, the “Data”) that the Advisors’ believe constitute their property. If the Debtor in reasonable good faith determines such Data is the Advisors’ property, the Debtor will take reasonable efforts to provide the Advisors with a copy of such Data. Subject to paragraph 13 below, on and prior to February 28, 2021, each party will bear its own costs and expenses associated with the copying of the Data. Under no circumstances will the Debtor be required to erase or otherwise remove any Data from the Debtor’s systems. For the avoidance of doubt, the Debtor will have no obligation to provide any Data that constitutes the Debtor’s privileged, confidential, or proprietary information.

12. Subject to paragraph 14, the Debtor will have no obligation to provide any Data to the Advisors after February 28, 2021. If the Debtor in reasonable good faith cannot satisfy any request for Data made pursuant to paragraph 11 by the close of business on February 28, 2021, the Debtor will have no further obligation to provide such Data.

13. The Debtor will not be required to incur any material time, cost, or expense in furtherance of its obligations set forth in paragraph 11—the Advisors’ witness having represented to the court that the copying and/or transfer of the Data would be fairly easy to achieve and that the Advisors stood by ready to receive the Data. To the extent any requests require material time, cost, or expense, the Debtor may petition this Court for the payment of any fees, costs, or expenses incurred in connection with the fulfillment of its obligations under paragraph 11 (including the cost of such petition) and shall have no obligation to provide such Data until the Court has ruled on such petition.

14. If the Debtor cannot in reasonable good faith provide requested Data by February 28, 2021, or if the Advisors request any Data after February 28, 2021, and in each case if the parties cannot agree on the propriety of such request after conferring in good faith, the Advisors may petition this Court for access to such Data. Regardless, the Advisors will bear any and all costs associated with any requests for Data and the delivery of such Data under this paragraph.

15. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the delivery of Data to the Advisors will not constitute a waiver of any privileges, including attorney-client privilege, or any confidentiality requirements.

16. This Court retains exclusive jurisdiction with respect to all matters arising from or related to the implementation, interpretation, and enforcement of this Order.

17. Based on the foregoing, the Motion is dismissed as moot.

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - FEBRUARY 23, 2021 - 9:07 A.M.

2                   THE COURT: This is Judge Jernigan, and we have
3 Highland settings this morning. We have a couple of settings
4 in adversary proceedings, one in Adversary 21-3010, Debtor's
5 Emergency Motion for a Mandatory Injunction Requiring the So-
6 Called Advisors to Adopt and Implement a Plan for Transition
7 of Services; and then, second, in Adversary 20-3190, a Motion
8 to Hold James Dondero in Contempt for Violating a Previous 9 TRO, allegedly.

10                  So, let's go ahead and get our lawyer appearances. First,
11 for the Debtor, Highland, who is appearing this morning?

12                  MR. POMERANTZ: Good morning, Your Honor. It's Jeff
13 Pomerantz and John Morris of Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones.
14 Mr. Morris will be handling the hearings today.

15                  THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

16                  All right. For the Advisors, who do we have appearing?

17                  MR. RUKAVINA: Davor Rukavina and my co-counsel, Lee 18 Hogewood. We are appearing for the two Defendants in 19 Adversary Proceeding 21-03010. We are not appearing in the 20 other adversary and contempt matter.

21                  THE COURT: All right. For Mr. Dondero, who do we 22 have appearing this morning?

23                  MR. WILSON: Your Honor, John Wilson with the law
24 firm of Bonds Ellis Eppich Schafer Jones. And with me is 25 Bryan Assink.

1 (Interruption.)

2 THE COURT: All right. I didn't hear what you said,
3 Mr. Wilson, after appearing for yourself and Mr. Assink.
4 Would you repeat that?

5 MR. WILSON: That was all I said, Your Honor. I
6 don't know what that other noise was.

7 THE COURT: Oh, okay.

8 (Court confers with Clerk.)

9 THE COURT: Okay. Someone came in as a PC user, is 10 what my court reporter said.

11 All right. Well, do we have the Committee appearing
12 today?

13 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor.
14 Matthew Clemente; Sidley Austin; on behalf of the Committee.

15 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

16 All right. Well, that's all the appearances I will ask
17 for right now. I know we have interested observers, parties
18 in interest observing today.

19 Mr. Morris, how did you want to proceed this morning?

20 MR. MORRIS: John Morris; Pachulski Stang Ziehl &
21 Jones.

22 What I thought we'd do, Your Honor, is begin with the 23 Debtor's Motion for the Mandatory Injunction. I thought it
24 would -- may make sense to begin with some opening statements
25 and proceed right to the evidence. The Debtor has two

5

1 witnesses to call, Mr. Seery and then Mr. Dondero. And then
2 we would rest after the admission into evidence of our
3 exhibits. The Advisors, you know, can certainly cross-examine
4 Mr. Seery. You know, and then we'll have closing statements
5 and hopefully finish that part of the proceeding up.

6 And then we'll move on to the contempt proceeding. Mr.
7 Dondero has a motion in limine to exclude certain evidence.
8 The Debtor has agreed -- I don't know if I've seen an order
9 from the Court -- but the Debtor has agreed to have that heard
10 today, if Your Honor would like to do that. The Debtor is 11 certainly prepared to argue that motion prior to the 12 commencement of the contempt proceeding. And then after that 13 motion is decided, we could just do the same drill: Some 14 opening statements, hopefully hear from a few witnesses, put 15 in our evidence, and finish up.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, that was the sequence I
17 had envisioned. Since you're looking for an injunction, you
18 know, immediately, you're wanting to transition services by 19 February 28th, I thought that it made sense to take that one
20 up first. So, with that, I'll hear your opening statement.

21 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.

22 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Davor Rukavina, briefly.
23 I just would like for the record to be clear. Are we having a 24 combined record for both adversaries, or is the -- first the 25 one and then the other, which would be my strong preference?

6

1 THE COURT: No, I did not envision a combined record.

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

3 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, was that what you were 4 suggesting and I didn't understand?

5 MR. MORRIS: No.

6 THE COURT: No, he was not.

7 MR. MORRIS: Not at all.

8 THE COURT: Okay. So we're just --

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay. Thank you.

10 THE COURT: -- focusing on the Advisor-Debtor dispute
11 this morning with the evidence. Okay.

12 Mr. Morris, go ahead.

13 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor.

14 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE PLAINTIFF

15 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor. John 16 Morris; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones.

17 Before I begin, I just want to tell the Court that the 18 lawyers -- this has been a very difficult week. We had three 19 depositions yesterday. And I just, I think it's important for 20 the Court to know that the lawyers have cooperated really 21 quite well. It's difficult circumstances. Not every
22 conversation is polite and perfect. But for Your Honor's
23 purposes, I do appreciate everybody's cooperation getting to 24 this point.

25 THE COURT: Well, I'm glad you told me that, because

7

1 I was wrongly thinking I might hear this morning that you all
2 worked it out overnight.

3 MR. MORRIS: No.

4 THE COURT: I will let you know, I cannot for the 5 life of me figure out why this couldn't be worked out, but I'm 6 going to hear the evidence and argument and better understand
7 that, I guess.

8 MR. MORRIS: You are. And let me try to explain
9 that. And what I'd like to do in my opening is just give you
10 some background as to how we got here, what the Debtor's
11 interest was in bringing the motion, and what the Debtor is 12 seeking from the Court today. And I think, with that, perhaps 13 we'll fill in any of the blanks that may be appearing on your 14 page.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: And I think the best place to start,
17 Your Honor, is just -- I know that the Court is familiar with 18 the relationship of the parties, but for the record in this 19 particular case I think that it's important to just put that 20 out there. I've got a small demonstrative deck that I think 21 would be helpful, and I would just ask that we put up on the 22 screen --

23 THE COURT: All right.

24 MR. MORRIS: -- the first slide of the deck.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1           MR. MORRIS: And this slide, Your Honor, you'll hear
2 testimony and I don't think there will be any dispute about
3 the substance of this particular slide. But as Your Honor is 4 aware, HCMLP, the Debtor, has certain shared services
5 agreements with the two Defendants here that are the two 6 Advisors. That's HCM Fund Advisors, NexPoint Advisors.
7 Pursuant to those shared services agreements, the Debtor
8 provided certain back- and middle-office services. And the 9 shared services for purposes of this hearing contain some very 10 important termination clauses.

11           The evidence will show that the Advisors provide advisory 12 services to certain investment funds. There's about ten or 13 twelve investment funds to which they provide advisory 14 services pursuant to these advisory service agreements. Some 15 of those funds are publicly traded. As Your Honor has heard
16 previously, some of those funds have thousands of individual
17 investors, mom-and-pop investors and retail investors. So 18 that is the -- kind of the -- how this all fits together, and 19 we'd just like to keep that in context.

20           The agreements themselves, as I mentioned, have certain 21 termination clauses.

22           If we could just go to the next slide, please.

23           The agreement between the Debtor and Highland Capital
24 Management Fund Advisors had their shared services agreement,
25 and you can see in the footnote where I cite to the exhibit.

1 This is Debtor's Exhibit 2 that appears at the adversary
2 proceeding Docket No. 10. It's a very straightforward
3 termination clause. It's a clause that says the agreement is 4 for a period of a year, with automatic renewals. And then
5 Section 7.02 provides that either party may terminate this 6 agreement with or without cause upon at least 60 days' written 7 notice.

8 If we could go to the next slide, you'll see that this is 9 the excerpt from the NexPoint Advisors shared services
10 agreement. And this provision is slightly different because 11 it requires only 30-day written notice. That -- and that 12 particular agreement can be found at Debtor's Exhibit No. 4.

13 So that's kind of the nature of the parties and that's the 14 important part of the agreement, at least from the Debtor's
15 perspective.

16 And how does this -- how is this all particularly relevant
17 today? The Debtor filed for bankruptcy back in October of 18 2019. As the Court is aware, Mr. Dondero was in control of 19 both the Debtor and the Advisors at that time. The Advisors
20 had certainly prior notice that the Debtor would be filing for 21 bankruptcy. And indeed, I think you'll hear some testimony
22 today from Dustin Norris that the Advisors had begun to think
23 about what would happen to the shared services agreements, you
24 know, a year and a half ago, prior to the bankruptcy filing.

25 Fast forward to August, August of 2020. The Debtor had

10

1 been in bankruptcy at that point for about ten months. And if
2 Your Honor will recall, at around that time the Debtor filed
3 its first plan of reorganization.

4 And if we could just go to the next slide, please.

5 This was an important event for the Debtor at the time,
6 because while the Debtor did not yet have the support of any 7 meaningful constituency, it did make a public statement for 8 the first time that unless executory contracts were assumed or 9 otherwise treated in the manner provided in Article 5 of the 10 plan, they would be deemed rejected. So, as of August 2020,
11 this was the marker that the Debtor laid.

12 And certainly, discussions continued about a potential
13 grand bargain. You've heard a lot about that. They morphed
14 later on into discussions about a pot plan. But for purposes
15 of, you know, public disclosure, there is no question that by 16 August 2020 everybody should have been on notice that, in the 17 absence of an assumption of the executory contracts, they 18 would be deemed to be rejected.

19 You'll hear from Mr. Seery today. Mr. Seery will testify
20 as to the events that took place in the weeks following the 21 filing of this document. He'll -- he will describe for you at 22 a high level but just in general how the parties began
23 discussing the possibility of a transition of services
24 agreement, the form of which was not certain at the time.
25 There were a couple of possibilities, including a Dondero-

11

1 related entity taking it over. There was the possibility of a
2 -- what's been referred to and what will be referred to as 3 Newco, which was going to be a new entity formed by some of 4 the Debtor's employees upon consummation of the plan. I think
5 there was discussion about the possibility of just leaving
6 things in place if somehow a grand bargain could be achieved.
7 But discussions ensued in the fall.

8 And as Your Honor will also recall, you know, we had the 9 mediation. The mediation wasn't successful in resolving the 10 grand bargain. The mediation did result in the agreement with 11 Acis, and that's when, you know, tensions began to increase
12 with Mr. Dondero and the board.

13 Mr. Seery will testify that through the fall, while 14 discussions continued, you know, it became a little bit more
15 -- it became a little bit more difficult. And Your Honor will 16 recall that in October the board asked for Mr. Dondero's
17 resignation, which he complied with, pursuant to the corporate 18 governance provisions.

19 But it was in this time that Mr. Seery will also testify
20 that Mr. Dondero made it clear, in a call that there were 21 numerous people on, that if, you know, we could get to a grand 22 bargain, that would be great, but if that we couldn't, nobody
23 should assume that the transition of services would be easy.

24 Now, you know, Mr. Seery will testify that he found that 25 interesting because the transition of services really should

12

1 have been more of the Advisors' concern than the Debtor's, but
2 it was a point that Mr. Seery noted, and he'll tell you about.

3 By November, the Debtor had reached a consensus with the 4 Creditors' Committee on the formulation of a plan. If you'll
5 recall, in late October, there was a contested disclosure
6 statement hearing during which the Committee objected to the 7 releases and to certain corporate governance provisions. And 8 those -- those objections led to negotiations, and those 9 negotiations led to an amended plan, which was the Third
10 Amended Plan.

11 And if we could go to the next slide, this is also, from 12 our perspective, an important marker in the narrative here,
13 because in mid-November, we'd gone beyond just saying that if 14 the contracts aren't assumed they would be deemed rejected to 15 making a public statement that shared services agreements are 16 not going to be assumed. And they're not going to be assumed 17 because they're not cost-effective. And Mr. Seery will 18 testify as to why the contracts were not cost-effective. But 19 there was no doubt by mid-November that the contracts weren't 20 going to be assumed by the Debtor.

21 A couple of weeks later, to remove any doubt, the Debtor
22 exercised its right under the shared services agreement and 23 gave notice of termination.

24 If we can go to the next slide, please. You'll see in 25 this, in this slide, you've got -- yeah, there you go.

13

1 There's a letter dated November 30th. And this can be found,
2 this is Debtor's Exhibit 3. There is a letter notifying the 3 Fund Advisors that the Debtor intended to terminate the shared
4 services agreement on January 31, 2021. In other words, the 5 Debtor gave the 60-day notice that we just looked at under the 6 shared services agreement of its intention to terminate the 7 shared services agreement.

8 Can we go to the next slide, please?

9 On the same day, the Debtor also gave notice of its 10 intention to terminate the shared services agreement with 11 NexPoint Advisors. And I would note that, notwithstanding the 12 fact that the shared services agreement with NexPoint Advisors
13 only required a 30-day notice period, the Debtor, in fact,
14 gave 60 days' notice, just to keep them on the same track.

15 And as Your Honor knows, in the subsequent weeks, the 16 Debtors pushed ahead with their plan of reorganization. They 17 amended it a couple of times. Those amendments didn't have 18 anything -- have any impact on the termination notices.

19 You'll hear no evidence today that the Debtor rescinded the 20 termination notices. You'll hear no evidence today that the 21 Debtor ever considered rescinding the termination notices.

22 And so we fast-forward now a couple of months later to 23 January, and what's happening? Mr. Seery will testify that,
24 you know, the Debtor really was using its best efforts to try
25 to engage, to try to finish this up. And he'll tell you what

14

1 the Debtor's motivations were here. While the Debtor doesn't
2 owe any obligations directly to the Funds, while the Debtor
3 doesn't owe any obligations directly to the retail fund
4 investors, the Debtor was very, very concerned that it be able 5 to implement its plan of reorganization. And that plan of 6 reorganization, which Your Honor just approved very recently,
7 and in fact entered the order yesterday, pursuant to that plan
8 the Debtor is going to and has begun the process of downsizing
9 substantially. And they were going to eliminate a lot of the 10 employees, and they knew in January that there was no way the 11 Debtor was ever going to have the ability to provide any 12 services at any time after February 28th. I mean, they gave 13 notice of January 31st.

14 So, the Debtor wanted to make sure that it could proceed
15 in the future without any obligation, without any claim that 16 there's obligations. So the Debtor was really focused on 17 trying to try to finish up this transition services agreement.
18 And the negotiations picked up a little bit in late January,
19 but here we were, with a January 31st deadline, and the Debtor
20 -- the Debtor [sic] asked for an extension of time. And the 21 Debtor [sic] asked for an extension of time presumably because 22 they weren't prepared to assume the back-office and the 23 middle-office services that the Debtor was providing.

24 And so the Debtor agreed and the parties agreed, pursuant 25 to a written agreement, to extend the deadline by two more

15

1 weeks. And the parties continued to negotiate during those
2 two weeks, but there were difficulties. And threats were 3 made. And Mr. Seery will testify that those threats caused
4 the Debtor to insist that the negotiations basically be 5 chaperoned by outside counsel.

6 It didn't last long. It was really just for the purpose
7 of trying to get the temperatures down to a degree where 8 people could engage in a more cooperative fashion. But that's 9 what we were dealing with in late January and early February.
10 We couldn't get to yes.

11 And parties negotiated. Terms sheets went back and forth.
12 You're going to hear this testimony, not from Mr. Seery, but 13 you'll hear it, ironically, from the Advisors, that last week
14 an agreement was reached. The only sticking point was Mr.
15 Dondero's insistence that he be permitted access to the 16 Debtor's offices. It is the only thing that prevented the 17 parties from reaching an agreement.

18 And they say that the Debtor was unreasonable in not
19 allowing him into their offices. And Mr. Seery will testify
20 that we'd already been through this process, that we'd already 21 obtained a TRO, that we'd already obtained a preliminary 22 injunction that bars him from the offices, and we just,
23 admittedly, we would not agree to that provision. But we 24 would not be here today if the Advisors simply said, we'll 25 leave that for another day, we've been operating for two

1 months without Mr. Dondero in the offices, we've otherwise got 2 an agreement that accomplishes everything we need to do.
3 Instead, they said no.

4 And here's another interesting point. You're going to 5 hear the testimony from Mr. Norris, and he's going to tell you
6 that the so-called independent boards of the funds, they were 7 fully supportive of the Advisors' position. They thought that 8 it was a really smart idea to walk away from a fully-
9 negotiated transition services agreement because the Debtor
10 wouldn't let Mr. Dondero into the office. They thought that 11 was a great idea and they fully supported it. Nobody -- none
12 of the board members are going to be here today to testify to 13 that, but Mr. Norris is going to -- I'm going to make sure
14 that Mr. Norris informs the Court that that was the boards'
15 view.

16 And so, instead of saying yes, they said no. And we had 17 told them last Tuesday, if you don't agree to this, we're 18 going to commence the lawsuit. So they didn't agree to it, so
19 we commenced the lawsuit.

20 But negotiations continued. And you know, I think the 21 lawyers for the Advisors acted in very good faith here, Your 22 Honor. They did the best they could. We continued to 23 negotiate. On Friday, they presented to the Debtor two 24 options, Option A and Option B. And at one point, they said,
25 we're not -- we may have to tweak Option B, so hold off for 17

1 now. And you're going to see this in the emails. It was just
2 black and white. And we said okay, fine. And then they came 3 back and they said no, no, no, Option B is good, Option B is 4 good, so tell us what you want to do. And at 1:00 o'clock on 5 Friday, there was a phone call. The Debtor informed the 6 Advisors' lawyers that they choose Option B. We're done. And 7 we started talking about wire transfers. We started talking
8 about documenting this for the Court in a consensual order.
9 And we would be done.

10 And we had a call scheduled, I think at first at 3:30.
11 Again, this will be -- this will all be in the evidence. This 12 is what the evidence is going to show. We had a call at 3:30.
13 They asked for an extension of time. Then they told us they 14 were trying to get the consent of the person whose consent
15 they needed. They pushed it off further. And then, you know,
16 then we got the bad email from Mr. Hogewood that said, we're 17 not going to have a group call, I'm just going to call by 18 myself. And we knew what that meant.

19 And so he called up. He informed the Debtor that Plan B
20 was off the table, the one that we had just accepted like for 21 the second time. So Plan B was now off the table, and we 22 said, we're done. I mean, we can't continue to negotiate
23 this.

24 A couple of hours later, they send an email and they say,
25 Plan B is back now on the table, but we're taking back the

1 million dollars that we had previously agreed to. And we 2 said, no, thank you.

3       They continued to make offers over the weekend, Mr. Seery
4 will testify, offers pursuant to which they were seeking I
5 think what they called the a la carte services from the 6 Debtor. And we weren't able to reach that agreement. And,
7 again, I think what Mr. Dondero is going to tell you, Your 8 Honor, is that -- well, you're going to hear two different 9 stories, actually. Mr. Dondero is going to tell you that when 10 we wouldn't let him back in the office on Tuesday, he 11 disengaged. So he didn't -- he didn't really care. He didn't 12 really have anything to do with it. He doesn't know what plan
13 the Debtor has today. He doesn't know how the services are 14 being transitioned. He really doesn't know anything after 15 last Wednesday as regards to this matter.

16       But Mr. Norris will tell you that it was, in fact, Mr.
17 Dondero who pulled Plan B on Friday afternoon because he 18 didn't understand it. There was a misunderstanding, they 19 said, even though Mr. Dondero will tell you that he 20 specifically authorized Mr. Norris and D.C. Sauter to 21 negotiate the agreement. Okay? That's a -- it's not a pretty
22 story. I don't know that there's going to be a lot of dispute
23 about the facts, to be honest with you, because they're 24 reflected in documents. This is as much a document case as it
25 is anything else.

1           So, you know, where does that leave us? Because there are 2 certain developments that have happened in the last 24 hours,
3 you know, that I'll -- that guess I'll share with you now. We
4 did take discovery yesterday. As I mentioned, we did have a
5 number of depositions. And during one of those depositions,
6 Mr. Norris disclosed that the Advisors do, in fact, have a
7 plan, or at least they assert that they have a plan. And the 8 plan has, I think, what I would characterize as four legs to 9 it.

10           Number one is they hired yesterday on a contract basis
11 somebody to perform audit and accounting services. I think 12 his name is Mr. Palmer. And he started yesterday.

13           They took in-house the payroll issues and are utilizing -- 14 to supplement that, they're now going to utilize a firm called 15 Paylocity. And Paylocity is a firm that the parties use
16 regularly now. So that's the second leg of their plan.

17           The third leg is an IT company called Siepe. I think 18 Siepe is run by a former Highland employee. And Siepe will 19 provide -- and I think Mr. Norris is going to testify -- has 20 been providing for a couple of weeks on a shadow basis certain 21 IT functions.

22           And, finally, they're still trying to negotiate with 23 Newco. Newco would be the entity that would be formed with 24 some of the Highland employees. But those negotiations aren't 25 finished.

20

1       So, I appreciated the objection that was filed yesterday.
2       They basically said that this is moot, that they've got a
3       plan, so there is nothing for the Court to do. We still have 4       concerns. I think Mr. Seery will testify as to those 5       concerns.

6       But it does -- it does go, you know, much further than we 7       thought, even though it was just adopted. I mean, I guess the 8       lawsuit had its intended effect, and in the last 24, 48, 72
9       hours, they're -- they're engaging in the process of 10      transition.

11      So, you know, why are we here and what are we hoping to 12      accomplish now that we've gotten news of that development? I 13      think it's pretty simple, Your Honor. We simply want the 14      Court to make sure that the Debtor is protected here, that the 15      Debtor -- that there is a plan in place pursuant to which the 16      Debtor will not be obligated to provide any services and it
17      will be allowed to implement its plan in a way that not only 18      protects the Debtor but really will protect the public
19      marketplace, it will protect the funds and the investors, and,
20      frankly, the Advisors as well.

21      We wanted this to be a smooth transition. We tried very 22      hard to make it a smooth transition. Unfortunately, that 23      didn't come to pass. But we do believe that the Debtor needs
24      the comfort of an order.

25      And the Advisors are simply wrong in their papers when

21

1 they say we're asking the Court to dictate terms. I don't
2 care if they have an agreement with the Debtor. I don't care
3 who they have an agreement with. I don't care what the 4 agreement says. I don't think the Court has to order any
5 particular terms. We just want to make sure that they have a
6 plan in place and that plan is implemented before the end of 7 the month, because we will not be able to do anything for them
8 after that time.

9 Thank you very much, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Rukavina?

11 MR. HOGEWOOD: Good morning, Your Honor. Lee
12 Hogewood. I'm going to take on the opening statement, if the 13 Court please.

14 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

15 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE ADVISOR DEFENDANTS

16 MR. HOGEWOOD: And let me, let me begin by saying
17 that I agree with Mr. Morris that counsel, I think, have 18 cooperated throughout this process. And I also -- and in 19 particular thank them for asking that the hearing be pushed
20 back for 30 minutes, which was at my request, as an earlier
21 start.

22 One other housekeeping matter that I would like to request
23 is I will not have a further speaking role after the opening
24 statement, and if it would be permissible for me to listen to 25 the rest of the hearing by telephone, that would be much

1 appreciated, if there's not an objection to that.

2 THE COURT: All right. I assume there's no
3 objection.

4 MR. MORRIS: No.

5 THE COURT: All right. Permission granted.

6 MR. HOGEWOOD: Thank you, Your Honor.

7 I think the theme of perhaps this hearing is a theme of 8 divorce. It's a divorce that is long overdue. The lawsuit
9 filed last week, it seems to be an effort of one of the 10 divorcing parties, the Debtor, to employ the power of this
11 Court to be sure that the Debtor is absolved of all
12 consequences of the divorce.

13 Divorces are often messy. This one is particularly so.
14 Presently, I think there are three or four other adversary
15 proceedings among these parties that will have to be sorted
16 out over the coming many months.

17 But on the issue before the Court today, the Advisors need
18 very little from the Debtor in this divorce in the final 19 analysis, other than access to data and books and records that 20 the Advisors own and which will remain on formerly-shared 21 systems.

22 To carry the divorce analogy further, like many divorcing
23 couples, there are so-called children at risk. In this case,
24 the children are the employees of the Debtor, the Advisors,
25 the funds and their investors.

1       The Debtor's other purpose seems to be that they -- to be
2 absolved of responsibility for the children. And just to be
3 clear, the Advisors need no child support from the Debtor for 4 the funds or others beyond the access to data, books and 5 records that belong to our client and remain comingled with 6 the Debtor's data.

7       But we didn't seek any relief. We are merely defending
8 ourselves in this action. And I think what I say about what 9 the evidence will show is not going to be altogether that 10 different from what Mr. Morris has said. There's absolutely
11 no dispute that the parties failed to reach an agreement. I
12 also think there's no dispute that the parties worked
13 diligently to reach one. They overcame very -- a large number
14 of very difficult business issues to make the orderly
15 transition happen. But in the end, they could not complete a
16 deal.

17       And for the Debtor, you know, the question of who drew the 18 hard line in the sand about no, I think we see it a little bit
19 differently. For the Debtor, it would not agree for Mr.
20 Dondero to have access, even if and only after the Advisors
21 paid for the construction of a wall to segregate the remaining
22 Debtor employees from Advisor employees and even if the Debtor
23 employees had separate access to the Debtor's section of the 24 premises, where the Advisors would be essentially subleasing
25 the remainder of the space.

1 For the Advisors, the prospect of its leader, the leader
2 of the enterprise, being prohibited from working in the same
3 office as the employees of the Advisors made no business sense
4 and was likely to become an ongoing logistical nightmare.

5 The gap could not be bridged in time, and so the Advisors
6 moved out on the 19th, as directed by the Debtor.

7 As the Court knows, there's no provision in the Bankruptcy
8 Code or any other statute that required these parties to agree
9 on a transition of shared services. There's no legal 10 obligation on either party to reach an agreement on how to 11 divorce and separate. Neither can be compelled to reach an 12 agreement if an agreement is not ultimately in their mutual
13 respective business interests, as determined by each of them.

14 The Debtor claims to have terminated the contract pursuant 15 to its terms. It amended the termination date twice in 16 exchange for agreed advance payments to try to reach a deal.

17 In the meantime, the Advisors had to be aware of the 18 possibility that a deal might not be reached, and so they 19 began working in earnest on an alternative plan to be able to 20 continue to service their clients, their funds and investors,
21 as needed after the services were terminated.

22 So it is not clear exactly what the Debtors really seek 23 here. A mandatory injunction to do what? To have a plan?
24 The evidence will show, I think as Mr. Morris suggested, that 25 our clients have a plan. It was implemented -- it began to be

1 implemented this past weekend, but it had been worked on for
2 some time in advance. It's -- based on this, there's no
3 jurisdiction for or purpose in a court order directing us to 4 do that which we are determined to do anyway and have -- and 5 have already done.

6 The evidence will show that there's no meaningful
7 irreparable harm to the Debtor based on the current
8 circumstances. Mr. Seery would be expected to testify, based 9 on yesterday's deposition, of some vague notion of confusion
10 among the employees, but there was no meaningful discussion of 11 irreparable harm to the Debtor.

12 So the -- and, indeed, the confusion of the employees, in 13 the context of a Chapter 11 debtor that has just confirmed a
14 plan of liquidation, I think confusion could be -- the source
15 of confusion could be a large number of things, not merely the 16 transition issues.

17 To carry the divorce analogy further, the requested
18 mandatory injunction is somewhat like requiring a divorcing
19 spouse who has left the home to explain the details of his or 20 her post-divorce life. And there's -- there's no purpose in 21 that. In our papers, we've explained the lack of jurisdiction
22 over this matter as a core proceeding, and certainly even 23 under the related-to jurisdiction of the Court, as well as a 24 constitutional -- lack of a constitutional basis for 25 jurisdiction under Stern v. Marshall. And I know Mr. Rukavina

1 will take those issues up in his closing arguments.

2 We've also indicated -- made an arbitration demand, which
3 is provided for under one of the two advisory agreements. And 4 in the context of seeking, in this case, seeking a permanent
5 injunction, as we stated in our papers, there's really no --
6 there's no proper exception from the arbitration demand.

7 So there's really, as we sit here today, there's really no
8 case or controversy, and the timeline that Mr. Morris
9 described is pretty much not in dispute. The evidence is 10 going to show that there was a developing consensus among the 11 business teams in January to meet a January 31 deadline with a 12 transition. On January 27th, the -- 27, the Debtor demanded 13 as a condition of transition nearly $5 million in what they 14 allege to be postpetition underpayments under the shared 15 services agreement. This was a new and difficult issue. The 16 amounts, we're disputing. And the Debtor had not circulated a
17 term sheet, only a proposed schedule of services. The term
18 sheet came on the 28th.

19 On the 29th, we were able to agree to the first two-week
20 extension to allow these discussions over a 13- or 14-page
21 term sheet to be continued and discussed. That extension
22 required the advance payment of an agreed amount to cover that 23 two-week period of extension of services. Negotiations
24 continued, as discussed, and a further extension through the 25 19th was granted.

1 Negotiations broke down at the time a suit was filed, and
2 were renewed and ultimately broke down again, as Mr. Morris
3 described.

4 In the end, the Court should dismiss the proceeding for 5 lack of jurisdiction. The bankruptcy court is not a divorce
6 court, nor is it a place where every perceived ill that the 7 Debtor may incur may be resolved by injunction. The Court is,
8 after all, a court of limited jurisdiction. If the Court does 9 proceed, we simply ask that the claims be rejected and 10 dismissed on the facts.

11 The Defendants have asked for nothing from the Debtor
12 other than continued access to data, books and records to 13 which they're entitled. We've moved out of the house. We 14 have plans that will allow us to continue to serve our 15 clients. And we would ask that you not order us to do so.
16 Thank you.

17 THE COURT: All right. Well, I realize, you know, 18 legal arguments have been hinted at here, and of course were 19 briefed. I want to hear the evidence, and then we'll talk
20 more about legal arguments at the close of the evidence.

21 All right. Mr. Morris, you may call your witness.

22 MR. MORRIS: All right. Your Honor, before I call my 23 witness, I think just for efficiency purposes I would like to 24 move my documents into evidence so that we don't have to do
25 that on a document-by-document basis.

28

1 THE COURT: All right.

2 MR. MORRIS: And the Court will find -- unlike some 3 of the prior proceedings, there actually aren't an
4 overwhelming number. But the Court will find Exhibits 1
5 through 16 at the adversary proceeding docket, Docket No. 10,
6 --

7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

8 MR. MORRIS: -- the original witness and exhibit list
9 that the Debtors filed. And then we added a few more
10 documents I think late yesterday. There was a supplement that 11 included Exhibits 17 through 21, and that can be found at the 12 adversary proceeding Docket No. 19.

13 So the Debtor would respectfully move into evidence
14 Exhibits 1 through 21 on those lists.

15 THE COURT: All right. Any objection?

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I believe Mr. -- well, not 17 necessarily an objection, Your Honor. I believe Mr. Morris
18 and I have an agreement that my Exhibits A through N as in 19 Nancy will also be admitted. And if that agreement holds,
20 then I have no objection to his exhibits.

21 MR. MORRIS: And it does, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay. And --

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Then I would -- I would move for 24 admission at this time as well, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right. And let's make sure I know

Seery - Direct

29

1 where A through N appear. It looks like they are -- are they
2 all at 18, Docket Entry 18?

3 MR. VASEK: Correct, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: All right. So I will admit 1 through 21
5 of the Debtor, which appear at Docket Entry No. 10 and 19, and 6 Exhibits A through N of the Advisors, which appear at Docket
7 Entry No. 18. All right.

8 (Debtor's Exhibits 1 through 21 are received into 9 evidence. Advisors' Exhibits A through N are received into
10 evidence.)

11 MR. MORRIS: Okay. And with that, the Debtor calls
12 James Seery as its first witness.

13 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, I think I saw you
14 earlier on the video. If you could --

15 MR. SEERY: Good morning, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Good morning. All right. Please raise
17 your right hand.

18 (The witness is sworn.)

19 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris?

20 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

21 JAMES P. SEERY, JR., DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

22 DIRECT EXAMINATION

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q Can you hear me okay, Mr. Seery?

25 A I can. Yes, sir.

Seery - Direct

30

1 Q Okay. Let's just cut right to the chase. Was the Debtor
2 party to certain shared services agreements with Highland
3 Capital Management Fund Advisors and NexPoint Fund Advisors?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And I'm going to refer to those two entities as the 6 Advisors; is that okay?

7 A That's fine. Thank you.

8 Q And pursuant to the shared services agreements, did the 9 Debtor historically provide back- and middle-office services
10 to the Advisors?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. And is it your understanding that the Advisors
13 provide advisory services to certain investment funds?

14 A That's my understanding, yes.

15 Q Okay. Do you have any understanding as to whether or not 16 the Advisors provide those services to the funds pursuant to 17 written agreements?

18 A I believe they have agreements with each of the funds.

19 Q Okay. And do you understand that some of those investment
20 funds are publicly traded?

21 A I believe most of those are, the -- those '40 Act funds
22 are retail funds, yes.

23 Q And what does it mean, you know, in your -- in your world,
24 what does it mean to be a retail fund?

25 A There are institutional-type investments which are only

Seery - Direct

31

1 available to institutional investors or credit investors,
2 depending on the type of investment it is, and there's 3 particular rules around what types of investors can engage in 4 certain types of investing activity, designed to, really, have 5 more sophisticated investors engage, if they desire, in more
6 risky endeavors and less who's believed to be sophisticated
7 investors engage in more what are referred to as retail
8 activities.

9 That's not saying that the retail activities aren't
10 sophisticated and risky. They can be. But there's a division
11 in how certain types of investors are able to access certain 12 types of investments, and retail funds typically are open to 13 any investor that wants to invest, and they can buy those on a
14 -- or sell them on a regular basis.

15 Q Are you aware of any agreement of any kind between the 16 Debtor and any of the funds that are advised by the Advisors?

17 A No, there are no -- no such agreements.

18 Q Okay. Let's turn our attention to August 2020. Did there
19 come a time in August when the Debtor filed its initial plan
20 of reorganization?

21 A Yes.

22 Q And can you just describe generally for the Court what the 23 structure of that plan was?

24 A As we've discussed before, that was the monetization plan.
25 It was at this point that the Debtor determined that it had to

Seery - Direct

32

1 file a monetization plan to effectively distribute the assets
2 to the stakeholders, depending on how their claims were
3 ultimately resolved. And the monetization plan was the plan
4 we came up with.

5 Q Okay. And do you recall that that initial plan provided
6 for the treatment of certain executory contracts?

7 A Yes.

8 MR. MORRIS: Can we just put up on the screen Exhibit
9 12, please? And if we could focus in on that first paragraph.
10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q Is it your understanding that the initial plan filed by 12 the Debtors provided that unless an executory contract was 13 subject to one of those provisions in the first paragraph,
14 that it would be deemed rejected?

15 A Yes. It was a pretty integral part of the plan, that we 16 were going to downsize the operations of the business
17 considerably, and many of the operating businesses, the 18 servicing of shared service counterparties, were going to be 19 eliminated, and we would either terminate those agreements
20 pursuant to their terms or they would be deemed rejected.

21 Q Okay. And what were the consequences for the shared
22 services agreements for a provision such as this?

23 A Well, the counterparties would no longer have those 24 services and have to seek them, to the extent they needed
25 them, elsewhere.

Seery - Direct

33

1 Q Okay. Was this the only plan that the Debtor was pursuing
2 at this time?

3 A It was the only plan that we filed. We were considering
4 other options, which at that point was the so-called grand
5 bargain, which we were attempting to negotiate alongside the 6 monetization plan.

7 Q Did the Debtor engage in any discussions with the Advisors
8 after filing this plan about a possible transition of 9 services?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Can you describe for the Court your recollection about 12 those discussions in the fall of 2020?

13 A Well, initially, it started in the summer. And knowing
14 that this was a significant possibility, I gathered the 15 Highland operating team, many of whom are responsible for 16 servicing the counterparties under the shared service
17 arrangements, and they knew that they were not going to be 18 part of the continuing Debtor if the monetization plan was 19 confirmed. And I described that there's a corporate carve-
20 out, that there would be significant work that had to be done,
21 that that team would have to accomplish, you'd have to 22 allocate responsibilities and know exactly how you're going to 23 perform these services, indeed, if the counterparties wanted
24 those services performed post-confirmation.

25 And we started with a Zoom meeting in August and tried to

Seery - Direct

34

1 replicate a similar meeting each week so that we stayed on a
2 timetable.

3 By the early fall, or mid-fall, I'm sorry, I guess it was 4 November 24th, I had a conversation directly with Mr. Dondero
5 by phone. And on that phone call, I described very much to 6 him the same situation.

7 It was Mr. Dondero, Mr. Ellington, Mr. Lynn, Mr.
8 Pomerantz, Mr. Demo, and Mr. James Romey from DSI on the call.
9 And on that call, I know we went through several issues, and 10 some of them were becoming particularly heated, especially the 11 settlement with Acis, because that was problematic for Mr.
12 Dondero.

13 We advised Mr. Dondero that he would have to resign from 14 the board if he was going to take antagonistic -- not the 15 board, the portfolio manager position -- if he was going to 16 take antagonistic positions versus the Debtor.

17 Mr. Lynn indicated that he was going to depose me with 18 respect to the 9019 settlements and was -- wanted to be able 19 to object to those, as well as the Acis settlement as well as 20 the Redeemer settlement.

21 We also talked about the potential of the grand bargain
22 plan, and we talked very specifically about the filed plan,
23 the monetization plan, and the transition that would have to 24 be accomplished. And I walked through, again, my comparison 25 to a corporate carve-out and the difficulty of achieving those

Seery - Direct

35

1 kind of transactions even if all parties were working hard to
2 get them done and wanted to get them done.

3 And I recall very specifically Mr. Dondero telling me that
4 I should be prepared, if his grand bargain plan wasn't 5 accepted, that my transition plan wouldn't be very easy and he
6 would make it difficult. And I recall very specifically
7 saying that I was a Boy Scout for a long time and that the 8 Debtor would, in fact, be prepared. While we thought it was 9 going to be in his economic best interest to come to 10 agreement, that we would not be left unprepared and the Debtor
11 would move forward even if he didn't agree.

12 Q During the negotiations that you're talking about, was the 13 form of -- just to focus on the transition part, was a form or 14 structure of a successor to the Debtor, at least in terms of a
15 provider of the back- and middle-office services, discussed?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And what was the -- what was the substance of those 18 discussions concerning the form of the successor?

19 A The initial substance was that it would be some subsidiary 20 of NPA or a Dondero related-party entity. I picked NPA just 21 as a -- because it was a registered investment advisor, it
22 would be an easy transition over, and that's where the 23 employees could go, that's where the services could be 24 provided from, it would be rather seamless, and they were 25 sharing certain services already -- for example, HR services

Seery - Direct

36

1 like medical insurance, health insurance, et cetera. And so I
2 thought that that would be the easiest entity. It would
3 obviously require Mr. Dondero's agreement.

4 Subsequently, the idea of a Newco became an idea that was 5 developed originally by Mr. Ellington. At least, his 6 representation to me was that the -- he and other employees
7 didn't want to work directly for Mr. Dondero because he's 8 already retraded them on the compensation. Deferred
9 compensation.

10 Q As time moved on, by November, was the Debtor gaining any 11 momentum with respect to its asset monetization plan?

12 A Well, the asset monetization plan began to gain
13 considerable traction as the possibility of either a grand 14 bargain or a pot plan fell away. There were significant 15 negotiations that we had already discussed in respect -- or,
16 at the confirmation hearing in respect of the terms of that 17 plan, and it began to gain significant momentum towards the 18 voting and the confirmation deadlines.

19 Q And did the Debtor make a decision in November to 20 specifically disclose that it intended to reject all of the 21 shared services agreements?

22 A Well, prior to that time, I had been in front of the 23 retail boards by phone a couple times and explained basically
24 the overview of the bankruptcy, what was happening.
25 Initially, the attempts at a grand bargain, then the filing of

Seery - Direct

37

1 the monetization plan, and the -- and the possibility of a
2 grand bargain and the competition between the two and the 3 likely scenarios for each.

4 In addition, we talked about, if there wasn't a grand
5 bargain, what the transition would look like and my 6 expectation, as I described earlier, that it was in everyone's 7 economic best interest -- meaning NPA's, HCMFA's, as well as 8 the funds -- to transition these services from the Debtor,
9 because we weren't going to continue them, to a Dondero-
10 related entity to perform those services for the funds.

11 There were -- there came a time when the disputes with Mr.
12 Dondero became significant enough where the Advisors and the 13 funds were actually objecting to certain things that I and the 14 Debtor were doing in the case, and I told one of the retail
15 board members that I would no longer participate in any of 16 their calls. And he understood why, and I was very specific 17 that it had to do with their antagonistic actions versus the 18 estate.

19 So, as we moved forward towards November, the monetization
20 plan became clear, it became more and more clear that the 21 monetization plan was the only plan on the table. And by mid-
22 to late November, we had settled on terminating the shared 23 service agreements and send out termination notices at the end
24 of November.

25 Q Before you send out the termination notices, do you recall

Seery - Direct

38

1 the Debtor filed their Third Amended Plan --

2 A Yes.

3 Q -- in particular?

4 MR. MORRIS: And can we just put up on the screen,
5 please, Exhibit 13?

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Do you recall if that's the plan that provided the notice
8 that the shared services agreements would be terminated?

9 A That -- that -- well, the plan continued the position that 10 if agreements weren't specifically assumed they would be 11 deemed rejected.

12 It also made clear that we weren't going to continue to 13 provide any services for the Advisors and their managed funds.

14 And then we actually sent specific termination notices
15 under the agreements. So those agreements were terminated
16 pursuant to their terms. They didn't need to wait for the 17 confirmation of a plan to be deemed rejected.

18 Q Okay.

19 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll down just a little bit?

20 Okay. Keep going. Yeah, right there.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q Do you see the provision beginning on the bottom of Page
23 24? Again, this is Exhibit 13. Continuing to the top of the 24 next page. That's the provision that put the world on notice
25 that the Debtor was not going to assume or assume and assign

Seery - Direct

39

1 the shared services agreements, right?

2 A Well, this is another one of the provisions. The original
3 plan made clear that that's what we were going to do, the 4 original filing that we did in August.

5 Q Okay.

6 A We were very clear that we would not be assuming these
7 agreements.

8 This filing made clear that we were, again, but with even 9 more specificity, not going to continue to provide these 10 services, and then subsequently we filed or delivered the 11 termination notices.

12 Q Okay. And I see the last sentence of the paragraph ending
13 at the top of Page 25 states that the contracts "will not be 14 cost-effective." Do you see that?

15 A Yes.

16 Q What is that a reference to?

17 A Well, I think we've had discussions before, around 18 confirmation and prior to that, those hearings, that the 19 Debtor was run at a loss. And the more work we do, the more
20 losses we find.

21 Basically, the Debtor ran at an operating loss, and then
22 had to sell assets to pay deferred compensation or other 23 expenses. The Debtor has been run that -- it appears the 24 Debtor has been run that way for a long time, and many of the 25 services that the Debtor provides to the shared services, the

Seery - Direct

40

1 cost of those services exceed the amount that we receive under 2 those contracts.

3 In addition, there's other entities that services -- and 4 persons for whom significant services are provided and nobody
5 pays anything. They're not even contracts.

6 So, these contracts, the Debtor as an operating entity was 7 run at a loss. These contracts were negative. And that 8 doesn't even deal with the fact that many times these entities
9 didn't pay what they did, in fact, owe under the contract. So
10 there are significant receivables that are owed by these 11 entities that haven't been paid.

12 In addition, the Debtor advances funds on a regular basis
13 for effectively the operating expenses of the Advisors and is 14 often not repaid timely.

15 Q Okay. A couple of weeks -- I think you referred to 16 termination notices. Did the Debtor send termination notices
17 to the Advisors shortly after filing this Third Amended Plan?

18 A Yes. They were sent at the end of November.

19 Q Okay. Let's just look at the termination provisions, and 20 then we'll quickly at the termination notices.

21 MR. MORRIS: Can we put on the screen Trial Exhibit
22 2, which was part of the deck of my opening?

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q Are you generally familiar, Mr. Seery, with the shared
25 services agreements with the Advisors?

Seery - Direct

41

1 A I am.

2 Q And are you aware that the shared services agreements
3 contain termination clauses?

4 A Yes.

5 Q All right. So this is -- what I've put on the screen is 6 the Debtor's Exhibit No. 2, and it's the shared services
7 agreement with Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors. Do
8 you see that?

9 A I do.

10 MR. MORRIS: Can we just focus in on Section 7,
11 please?

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q Okay. And is it your understanding that's the termination
14 clause?

15 A Yes. There's the term. It's in 7.01. And the 16 termination provision is in 7.02.

17 Q Okay. And can you just describe for the Court your 18 understanding of how Article 7 works?

19 A Article 7 works that the agreement will automatically
20 renew on an annual basis unless one or the other parties 21 terminates the agreement. And so each party is entitled to 22 terminate the agreement on 60 days' advance written notice.

23 Q All right.

24 MR. MORRIS: If we can take that down and put up
25 Debtor's Exhibit No. 4, please.

Seery - Direct

42

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q And do you see this is the shared services agreement
3 between the Debtor and NexPoint Advisors, LP?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And are you generally familiar with this document?

6 A I am.

7 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Article 7, please? Thank
8 you.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Can you tell the Court your understanding of what Article 11 7 provides?

12 A It's a little bit different than the last one. This is a 13 later agreement. The other one was a document that was 14 clearly cribbed from another agreement that wasn't exactly a 15 shared service arrangement. But this one doesn't have the 16 automatic renewal. It just puts the agreement into operation,
17 and then either party may terminate it at any time on 30 days'
18 written notice.

19 Q And did the Debtor rely on the two Article 7 provisions
20 that we just looked at to give notice of termination of the 21 shared services agreements?

22 A I'm sorry. Somebody clicked in. Did you say did the 23 Debtor rely on?

24 Q Yes.

25 A Yeah, those are the governing provisions that we relied

Seery - Direct

43

1 on, yes.

2 Q Okay.

3 MR. MORRIS: So can we put up on the screen Exhibit
4 3, please?

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q And is this the Debtor's written notice to Highland
7 Capital Management Fund Advisors of its termination of the 8 shared services agreement effective as of January 31, 2021?

9 A Yes. That's our notice of termination.

10 Q Did the Debtor ever rescind this notice?

11 A No.

12 Q Okay. Did the Debtor ever tell the Advisors, to the best
13 of your knowledge, that the Debtor was considering rescinding
14 this notice?

15 A No.

16 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. Can you take that down and 17 put up Trial Exhibit No. 5, please?

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q And is this the Debtor's written notice to NexPoint
20 Advisors dated November 30, 2020 that it was terminating the 21 shared services agreement as of January 31, 2021?

22 A Yes. That's the Debtor's termination notice to NPA.

23 Q Did the Debtor ever rescind this notice?

24 A No.

25 Q To the best of your knowledge, did the Debtor ever tell

Seery - Direct

44

1 anybody at the Advisors that it was considering rescinding
2 this notice?

3 A No.

4 Q Okay. The Debtor --

5 MR. MORRIS: We can take that down now. Thank you.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q The Debtor amended their plan of reorganization after 8 November; is that right?

9 A Yes. There were a couple of different amendments.

10 Q To the best of your knowledge, did any amendment ever have 11 any impact at all on the Debtor's statement that it would not 12 be assuming or assuming and assigning the shared services
13 agreements?

14 A No. It goes beyond the best of my knowledge: It didn't 15 happen, because it was an integral part of the plan.

16 Q Okay. And can you describe the Debtor's overall view of 17 the plan and the impact that it had or was expected to have on 18 the shared services agreements?

19 A The basic nature of the plan, as I discussed earlier,
20 going back to August, but as refined, is that the Debtor will 21 no longer be in the business of providing shared services to 22 these Advisors.

23 Q Okay. So the notices are sent on November 30th. They're 24 60-day notices. What do you recall happening in December with 25 respect to negotiations over the transition of services, if

Seery - Direct

45

1 anything?

2 A The short answer is not much. So, we did, as I said,
3 start the transition analysis and discussions and put together
4 detailed spreadsheets with the various agreements that might
5 be necessary for each side. And some agreements would be 6 required for the Debtor to go forward, some contracts. Other
7 contracts were not necessary for the Debtor but were deemed to 8 be necessary for the Advisors. And we were working through 9 that analysis continually through the fall and through 10 December. But there weren't -- at that point, there wasn't 11 very much going on with direct negotiations as to how this was 12 going to happen. And my analogy for the Debtor was like 13 pushing on a string.

14 Frank Waterhouse in particular had been told by Jim
15 Dondero that he did not have authority to negotiate for him.
16 So once we had laid out what the contracts were, and we had an 17 original structure that the rent would be divided 75/25 and 18 paid by the Advisors, and then the costs of the contracts
19 would be divided 60/40, with the majority paid by the 20 Advisors, we really didn't get much traction other than trying 21 to put together that term -- that schedule so we knew what 22 those costs were, and then also to figure out what was unpaid
23 by the counterparties.

24 In addition, at that time, because it was pretty clear
25 that the monetization plan was going to go forward and go into

Seery - Direct

46

1 the confirmation, right around that time, and it may have been
2 the beginning of January, the Advisors stopped paying on 3 certain of the notes, and then we accelerated those notes.

4 Q And do you have an understanding as to who was the -- who 5 was the negotiating leader on behalf of the Advisors in the 6 December-January time period, if anybody?

7 A Well, for the Advisors, it was a combination of the 8 Highland team that would transition over and their counsel.
9 And the -- meaning the counsel for the Advisors.

10 Q So now, moving into -- withdrawn. Were the Debtor's
11 professionals engaged in this process, not just you?

12 A Oh. Oh, yes. Very deeply. We spent literally hundreds
13 of hours with both DSI and your firm, the Pachulski firm,
14 negotiating provisions, the structure, how this would work,
15 what the transition would look like.

16 As I said earlier, corporate carve-out is very 17 complicated, and there are -- there are often transition
18 services that have to be carried through for a period of time
19 where both sides will use certain services. And then there 20 are shared services which will be carried through for a longer
21 period of time.

22 We came up with a structure that we think worked really 23 well in light of the term of the lease or the tenor of the 24 lease, so that we knew how that would work between the 25 parties, as well as certain IT contracts specifically that

Seery - Direct

47

1 were required for both parties to function and when their
2 renewals would come up and then how those businesses -- how 3 those functions would transition or be subject to renewal of 4 additional contracts.

5 Q As the calendar turns into January and January 31st is 6 approaching, do you recall the tenor of discussions or what's 7 happening in the last two weeks of January, if anything, with 8 respect to --

9 A Well, --

10 Q -- the negotiations?

11 A Yeah. I mean, we started really pushing it, particularly 12 after confirmation, to try to get this done, because either
13 the funds and the Advisors had alternative arrangements or 14 they didn't. And if they didn't, we thought that would be 15 very difficult for, obviously, for them and their funds, but 16 also for the Debtor, because we had kept their records
17 previously, we had done the work previously, we had sent in 18 terminations, and these are SEC-regulated funds. So we became 19 very concerned that there was not going to be a responsible
20 transition. And in fact, we had gotten very little feedback
21 -- no feedback, frankly, from the boards -- but very little 22 feedback from anybody as to whether they were going to accept 23 the terms that we had put forth or whether they were going to 24 find an alternative arrangement.

25 Q As the calendar got closer to January 31st, was there a

Seery - Direct

48

1 request by the Advisors for an extension of the termination
2 deadline?

3 A It became clear that they did not and had not done
4 virtually anything. I sent, I think, three or four letters
5 and emails directly to board members imploring them to pay
6 attention, to take action, and if they had an alternative
7 plan, to tell us. By the end of January, it was clear that 8 they didn't have any alternative plan and needed more time.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll move to strike that.
10 Clear that they had no alternative plan. There's no
11 foundation for him to make that statement.

12 THE COURT: I overrule.

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q You mentioned the SEC. Was the Debtor concerned about the 15 SEC's position if the Debtor had simply terminated services
16 under the contracts as of January 31st?

17 A Very much so. So, my own personal experience, as well as 18 the experience of our fund counsel, is that while the SEC
19 keeps a close eye on a number of issues related to investing 20 and fund management, retail funds get particular focus because 21 of the individuals who can invest in those and at least the 22 perception that they may not be as able to defend their rights
23 as others. So the SEC does keep a particularly close watch on 24 those kinds of funds.

25 We were concerned that, even though we had done everything

Seery - Direct

49

1 we believe correctly to terminate the agreements pursuant to
2 their terms, and in fact had negotiated for months in good
3 faith and spent millions of dollars trying to get a
4 transition, that if the funds were to simply stop providing 5 information to their investors or were to stop being able to 6 service their investors, that a SEC investigation would ensue
7 and that it would cost the Debtor time and considerable money
8 to deal with those issues.

9 Notwithstanding that, we felt it was important to notify
10 the SEC, and so we reached out through our counsel and advised
11 them of what we believed was going on and our view, based upon 12 the actual discussions and the request from the Advisors for 13 an extension, that nothing had been done up into the first
14 weeks of February.

15 Q Thank you. And ultimately, the Debtor and the Advisors
16 agreed to a two-week extension of time; do I have that right?

17 A We agreed to a two-week extension in the first extension.

18 Q Uh-huh.

19 A And during that time, we tried to get, in particular, the 20 employees that would be transitioning and become the Newco to 21 really focus on trying to get an agreement nailed down. And 22 so we had our -- our advisors take the agreement that was 23 largely structured in terms of knowing what the contracts were 24 and the costs that -- and work on trying to nail down the 25 final terms with respect to how the shared services would work

Seery - Direct

50

1 over a period of time, including working with third-party
2 vendors.

3 Q I just want to follow up on a couple of things that were 4 in your prior answer to make sure that the record is clear.

5 Does the Debtor have special fund counsel?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And who is the Debtor's fund counsel?

8 A WilmerHale.

9 Q And is it your understanding that they have the expertise
10 with respect to the securities and the management of funds of 11 the type that are at issue in this case?

12 A Yes. They're one of the top firms in the country in this 13 area.

14 Q Okay. And did -- well, I'll just leave it at that. Do
15 you recall during this time if the Debtor informed the 16 Advisors that it would participate in negotiations only if 17 outside counsel were present?

18 A Not negotiations. I think we would always have been 19 willing to engage ourselves in negotiations. What we were 20 concerned with were the employees who were forming Newco being 21 put in what we thought were untenable positions with respect
22 to negotiations involving certain members of the Advisors'
23 team and the board -- of the funds' boards of directors. And 24 that came from very specific concerns that employees raised 25 with us about threatening conduct and statements from some of

Seery - Direct

51

1 those folks.

2       There were a few employees that had shared service
3 responsibilities that were actually deemed employees or deemed
4 officers at some of the Advisors. And so there was what I
5 will call a blame game going on, and the -- as soon as we came
6 to the end of January and there wasn't an ability to get a
7 deal done, certain members of the Advisor team or the fund
8 boards took very strident positions vis-à-vis those Debtor
9 employees. And we were very concerned that, if there wasn't 10 someone there, counsel and taking notes, that those employees
11 would be at a disadvantage.

12       We also recommended that those employees resign those 13 positions because the negotiation and the positions of the 14 parties had separated such that we thought that having the 15 shared responsibility was untenable.

16       We made clear that we would have one of our counsel sit on 17 the phone and they would be there to listen and take notes and 18 nothing else. And so that was something that I put in place 19 after advice of counsel that we were leaving our employees in 20 a very untenable space.

21 Q   And with respect to the notion of resigning, do you recall
22 if you gave the employees the option of resigning from one
23 entity or the other, or was it just from the Advisors?

24 A   From the Advisors. But they obviously could have always 25 resigned from the Debtor. We don't have any, with those

Seery - Direct

52

1 employees, any contracts, and certainly it was -- I think I've
2 always made clear that if someone has a better opportunity,
3 they should go take it.

4 Q And is it fair to say that during this two-week period,
5 notwithstanding some of the things that you described, the 6 parties did, in fact, make progress towards getting to a final
7 transition services agreement?

8 A Yeah. I think -- I think we made -- we made good
9 progress. And even on the resignation issue, my understanding
10 -- and I didn't have these discussions directly -- was that 11 the Advisors agreed and I think the funds agreed that those 12 employees could resign, and if they ended up at Newco and 13 Newco was providing services, they could reassume those 14 positions post-termination from the Debtor.

15 So I think there was considerable progress around those 16 items.

17 The operational items, there was considerable progress
18 around.

19 There was already, I think, really good understanding and 20 agreement on the cost split.

21 And then there was considerable discussion around the 22 shared -- some of the shared items going forward, and then how 23 the transition mechanics would work in the event that one
24 party wanted to continue a contract and the other didn't.

25 So there was -- there was -- by the end of the two-week

Seery - Direct

53

1 period, we'd started to make enough progress that we -- we
2 thought we'd actually get there. It really shouldn't have
3 taken as long as it did. It was -- it was, you know, one step
4 forward, one and a half steps back, quite often. But I think
5 we had a -- largely had an idea that we were very close
6 towards the end of that two-week period.

7 Q And was that the reason why the Debtor agreed to a short
8 further extension of the termination deadline to February
9 19th?

10 A Yes. The original concept that I had come up with with 11 one of the employees who was negotiating for the Newco was 12 that there was no reason that we would have any -- we 13 shouldn't be able to get it done in two weeks, particularly 14 since the economics had largely been agreed to and deemed fair
15 by the financial staff as well as the operators in the 16 business. That we would use the next week to cross T's and 17 dot I's and get in a position to transition the employee team.

18 We also at that time extended the time for the employees
19 by a week, to make sure that, just in case we didn't get a
20 deal done, we had the staff to be able to clean up, if you
21 will, if negotiations completely fell apart.

22 But we did, we did agree to an extension at that point.
23 The counterparties paid for that extension. They paid the 24 costs, not fully loaded, but costs of the employees, to help
25 defray the costs that we were carrying for them. And that we

Seery - Direct

54

1 hoped we'd have it completed by that final week.

2 Q Did you have concerns, as the CEO, that the employees have 3 sufficient time to transition and wind down other aspects of 4 the Debtor's business that were being adversely impacted by 5 this process?

6 A Oh, absolutely. And if the deal was done, then we would 7 have a shared service arrangement. And just to be clear, the 8 way that typically works is that -- we'll use the actual 9 parties -- the Debtor would still stay in its space, use its 10 systems, have its contracts. The Newco or NPA entity would 11 stay in its space and use its contracts, most of which are in 12 the Debtor's name, but under the same arrangement that we had 13 previously, and we would be sharing a lot of services, so that 14 the transition issues that the Debtor has we would be able to 15 accomplish because the team would still be with us but they 16 would be part of the Newco or NPA as a shared resource.

17 In the event that we weren't able to reach agreement, I
18 needed to make accommodation with those employees to continue
19 to provide those services in order for the Debtor to complete
20 its transition.

21 Q All right. So let's take -- let's take this back a week,
22 to last Tuesday. As of that time, did the Debtor believe that 23 it had reached an agreement on all material terms with the 24 Advisors? With one exception?

25 A Cautiously, yes. I think at that point we felt that we

Seery - Direct

55

1 were -- we were close, but there was a material open issue
2 that we had in terms of trying to get the final agreement
3 done.

4 And frankly, we were very concerned -- and this is borne
5 by history, not just of my own but the other folks on our team
6 who've been around a lot longer -- that there was a
7 considerable risk that the deal that was agreed to wouldn't 8 actually be signed and it would be retraded as we went 9 forward.

10 Q As of Tuesday, did the Debtor inform the lawyers for the 11 Advisors that it was prepared to sign a fully-negotiated term 12 sheet, or, in the absence of that, it would seek judicial 13 relief?

14 A Well, I gave instruction to counsel -- and this was -- you
15 know, we had reviewed this with both your firm and with 16 Wilmer, the WilmerHale firm -- as to how we should go about 17 making sure that the estate was protected in the event that 18 there was either a retrade or we simply couldn't come to a
19 final agreement. And we had -- I advised your firm to tell 20 counsel on the other side that the agreement was done, that we 21 were prepared to sign it, but if they were unwilling to sign
22 it we were going to seek Court intervention to make sure that 23 we had approval of what we had done to date, declaratory
24 judgments setting forth or approving what we had done with 25 respect to the negotiations.

Seery - Direct

56

1 Q Was there -- was -- was there one issue that was -- one
2 meaningful issue that dividing the parties at that point in 3 time?

4 A Well, the new -- the new issue that was surfaced, and it
5 was a new issue, was this idea that, notwithstanding the 6 preliminary injunction and notwithstanding how the business
7 has been run for the last couple months, that Mr. Dondero
8 would be able to come back into the office. It didn't seem,
9 frankly, like a real business issue, but it became a
10 significant sticking issue. Because for the Debtor, it's a 11 very significant issue.

12 Q Why didn't the Debtor just agree to allow Mr. Dondero back
13 into the offices?

14 A Well, as the Court has heard before in prior hearings, Mr.
15 Dondero's conduct through the fall, once the monetization plan
16 had been put in place, has been extremely difficult, to say
17 the least. Threatening email or texts to me. Obstreperous
18 litigation, I would say vexatious litigation, with respect to 19 every aspect of the transition. Numerous retrading of 20 provisions in this negotiation. And statements and 21 effectively, I think, threats to other employees, including
22 while he was on the stand, you know, in the court. And I
23 found, from my seat, that that would be really difficult to 24 bring employees back into the Debtor to help implement the 25 plan while Mr. Dondero was in that space. There was really no

Seery - Direct

57

1 need for him to have to be in that space from an operational
2 perspective, as the funds and the Advisors had proved for the 3 prior two months.

4 Q Is it your understanding that, but for the issue of Mr.
5 Dondero's access, the Advisors and the Debtor had otherwise
6 agreed to all material terms of a transition services
7 agreement as of last Tuesday evening?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Did the Advisors sign the term sheet that the Debtor had 10 tendered that reflected what you just described?

11 A I don't recall if the Advisors did. I certainly did. But 12 there were -- there were additional changes. So we -- we had 13 reached that agreement earlier in the week. We didn't get 14 agreement on the final point of Mr. Dondero's access. We 15 filed our pleadings in the Court, and I believe that was 16 Tuesday or Wednesday, and then moved forward towards this 17 hearing.

18 And during that time, the negotiations continued. So
19 there were a number of different changes, but we -- we were 20 very clear that we had an arrangement, we had a deal that was 21 fully negotiated, we had a deal that we thought was extremely 22 beneficial to the Advisors, that it worked well for the 23 Debtor, that it worked well for the Debtor's employees, who 24 would then be Newco employees, or NPA employees, depending on 25 how they ended up splitting it, and that the flexibility of

Seery - Direct

58

1 that agreement served all the parties' interests and we didn't
2 intend to change it.

3 Q Did -- do you know whether the Debtor provided to the 4 Advisors' counsel a copy of the complaint and the motion that 5 it was intending to file prior to the time that it actually
6 filed the documents?

7 A Yes, we did.

8 Q Okay. So the Debtor gave -- is it fair to say the Debtor
9 gave the Advisors specific notice, and, indeed, copies of the 10 documents before the action was commenced?

11 A Well, I think we -- part of the strategy we'd come up with 12 with WilmerHale was that we should do everything we can to be 13 accommodative, within the reason -- within what we thought was 14 reasonable for the Debtor being able to implement its plan.
15 And I believe we did that. And out of caution and 16 frustration, both with respect to the inability to get TS, if 17 you will, as well as the concern that you could have a
18 retrade, based on past experience, we told him if we didn't 19 have an agreement that was signed and that was binding, that 20 we would move forward with the court hearing.

21 The reason this is structured, by the way, as a binding
22 term sheet, it was a scramble in January to try to put it
23 together. Otherwise, we would have had a binding agreement.
24 It actually reads more like an agreement than a term sheet,
25 and has a significant Schedule A on the back. But the amount

Seery - Direct

59

1 of time that's been spent on this, it's probably not fair to
2 call it a term sheet. It's an agreement.

3 Q After the Debtor commenced the action, do you recall that 4 last Friday the Advisors made a written proposal through their
5 counsel with two options, an Option A and an Option B?

6 A Yes, I do.

7 Q Did the Debtor perceive at that time that the Advisors'
8 attorneys were authorized to make that offer?

9 A Well, they represented that they were. We were at a -- we 10 were at a crossroads. We had spent so much time on this
11 agreement and trying to get to a final shared service
12 arrangement that the last day for employees, which was 13 scheduled to be the last day of the month, was coming on us
14 very quickly. And if we weren't going to get this shared 15 arrangement done, we had to make significant decisions with 16 respect to how to transition, with whom to transition, and how 17 to move forward to implement the plan. So we couldn't,
18 frankly, waste any more time on this agreement. And I say
19 "waste" with thought, because we thought it was productive, 20 but the amount of time, literally months, is astounding for 21 something that is not that complicated.

22 We got to Friday, and the new arrangement or proposal from 23 the Debtor was -- was basically you can -- I mean, from the 24 funds, Advisors, was you can take A or B. A was, in essence,
25 the same arrangement we had prior in the week, but Mr. Dondero

Seery - Direct

60

1 could come in the office. We'd already told them that was
2 untenable, it didn't work.

3 B was you could -- we could do the same arrangement except
4 the Advisors would not be responsible for any of the rent.
5 Recall that I mentioned that this was a 75/25 split on the 6 rent. Roughly, that's about a million dollars to the estate.

7 We spent time Friday morning with the IT folks and with 8 the operations folks on can this be done? Can we actually 9 provide -- can you provide the services? Can these funds be 10 run if they're not in the office? And the answer was so long
11 as the operations people can have access to the office and so
12 long as the IT people can have access to the office, we could 13 largely run it. So this was just really a retrade on 14 economics.

15 We determined that, fine, we'll take Option B, even though
16 it cost the estate. We didn't have the luxury of being able 17 to continue to waste time and negotiate this with the 18 impending dates coming up. So we agreed to Option B on 19 Friday. I, in fact, sent my term sheet to counsel to deliver,
20 and it was scheduled, I think, as you mentioned earlier in 21 your opening, for the afternoon of Friday for a call to go
22 through wire transfers, which included an initial payment plus
23 a deferred payment, a monthly payment, plus the cost payments
24 that would be made under the agreement, and certain offsets
25 that we had previously agreed to.

Seery - Direct

61

1 Q And are you aware, did the Debtor, through counsel, inform
2 the Advisors, through counsel, that the Debtor had accepted
3 Option B?

4 A Yes. My counsel told me that they had sent over notice to 5 them, that the call to walk through the final points and to 6 assure that wires were being sent and to engage in the 7 exchange of signatures was set up and everything was agreed 8 to.

9 Q And what happened later in the day?

10 A I would say shockingly, but it wasn't, we were told that 11 the call was off. Mr. Hogewood advised that, through email, 12 that there would no longer be a necessity of a call and he 13 would be reaching out directly to Debtor's counsel.

14 Q And did you learn after -- after -- in the afternoon that 15 the Advisors had withdrawn Option B, the one that the Debtor
16 had accepted?

17 A Initially, it was withdraw Option B, and then it was 18 accompanied I think with a basic statement that we don't 19 really need you anymore, which was surprising, only because it 20 --

21 (Interruption.)

22 A -- a transition like this, you would -- you would run
23 systems side by side, make sure that your IT folks were 24 heavily involved. You would assure that your -- your human 25 resources and operations folks were involved. And none of

62

1 that had been done because it was assumed that the transition
2 would happen.

3 Q Is it your understanding that the Advisors were still at 4 that time willing to do Option A, the one that would allow Mr.
5 Dondero back in the office?

6 A I believe they were, yes.

7 Q Do you know if the Advisors made any further offers in 8 respect of a transition of services over the weekend?

9 A Well, that was one of the things that was odd and belied
10 their statement that they could operate without any assistance
11 from the Debtor, is that they left Option A on the table. If 12 they had alternate arrangements, why was Option A still on the 13 table? So that was puzzling, but counsel made the 14 representation to us and we took it. And then other counsel
15 over the weekend just started lobbying in proposals.

16 Q Did those proposals contemplate in any way the continued
17 provision of services by the Debtor to the Advisors?

18 A That's -- that's what they were, yes.

19 Q Okay. All right. Why did the Debtor commence this 20 lawsuit?

21 A Well, I -- as I explained earlier, we believe that we've 22 done everything we were supposed to do or required to do under 23 the contracts, the shared service arrangements, in terms of 24 both operating under those agreements and terminating them
25 according to their terms. We believe we've done everything

Seery - Direct

63

1 that we'd be required to do under the Bankruptcy Code with
2 respect to filing a plan, making clear what the provisions are
3 with respect to executory contracts, and making that plan --
4 making it even more clear what the provisions dealt with, how 5 the provisions of the plan would impact executory contracts
6 and how those contracts would be deemed rejected if they
7 weren't explicitly accepted and assumed. And we made clear,
8 we wanted to make clear that we'd properly terminated the 9 agreements in accordance with their terms.

10 So we filed this action because of the, frankly, the back-
11 and-forth negotiations as well as the accusations and threats
12 from earlier in the negotiations that I previously described,
13 where we're seeking now a declaration that the shared services
14 were properly terminated in accordance with their terms, that 15 the shared services were not assumed pursuant to the contract,
16 and although they'd been terminated, even if they had not been 17 terminated, they would -- they would be deemed rejected. That 18 the Debtor is permitted, because of the terms of both the plan
19 and the contracts, which have been terminated, to cease all 20 access and support and has no further responsibility for 21 providing any services to the shared service counterparties
22 under those terminated agreements, and that the shared service
23 parties, the Advisors, come forth and tell the Court, tell the 24 world, tell the investors, and tell the SEC that they have an 25 alternative arrangement.

Seery - Direct

64

1 And, again, our concern is while, yes, we are good
2 corporate citizens and we want to make sure that we don't 3 leave, if you will, a mess because of the actions that are 4 happening in the court, we're very concerned that our 5 counterparties may not be as concerned about the mess they 6 leave.

7 And we -- one of the reasons we reached out to the SEC was 8 to make sure that they were on notice of this proceeding and 9 the potential impact on retail investors, and we think that 10 it's something that the Court should require these Advisors,
11 who have been in antagonistically fighting the case, knowing
12 the specific provisions of the case, and not making
13 arrangements until the last 24-48 hours, we do -- we do
14 believe that, as corporate citizens and as responsible 15 fiduciaries in a bankruptcy, we have some responsibility to 16 make sure these terminations are handled correctly. While we 17 may not be able to force them to do so, we should have them
18 tell us how they're doing it.

19 Q Does -- did the Debtor have any concerns that the failure
20 of the Advisors to adopt and implement a transition plan, that 21 that might have negative impacts on the Debtor's ability to 22 implement its plan of reorganization?

23 A Well, as I said earlier, the SEC, in our experience and 24 our counsel's experience, takes a particular focus on retail 25 funds. And where those funds have blown up for various

Seery - Direct

65

1 reasons, whether they are unable to make a redemption or
2 they're caught in some kind of security that doesn't match the 3 investment parameters of the fund or whatever those are, the 4 SEC takes a particular focus, and investigations can take 5 significant time and have significant cost for all parties who 6 are anywhere near the retail funds. And, clearly, as the 7 provider of shared services to the Advisors, while we didn't 8 have any agreement with the funds, if the SEC came in to 9 investigate or if they do come in to investigate what's gone
10 on here, there will be a significant cost, and it will, if not 11 derail, it will certainly slow down our implementation of our
12 plan.

13 Q What exactly does the Debtor want the Court to -- what 14 relief is the Debtor seeking now that the Debtor has learned 15 of the four-legged plan that was described yesterday in the 16 deposition?

17 A The declaratory relief that I just stated would be 18 essential for the Debtor. One, that the contracts were 19 properly terminated, in accordance with their terms. Two,
20 that they were not assumed pursuant to the plan. And three,
21 that the Debtor is permitted to cease all services and all
22 access to the shared service counterparties.

23 To the extent that they need assistance, we'll help them
24 out, we'll give them information. If they have third-party
25 professionals that they want to send over, we'll help them

Seery - Direct

66

1 with data retrieval. But we do have a plan to implement, and
2 we don't have necessarily the full staff to provide services
3 that they were otherwise receiving from us. So we would like
4 a declaration that we do not owe them any of those prior
5 services from the terminated contracts.

6 Q Did you hear in the opening Mr. Hogewood mention that the 7 Advisors do want continued access to the Debtor's books and 8 records? Or to their, I guess, to their own books and 9 records?

10 A They'll be able to get access, but that doesn't mean that 11 it's access 24 hours a day. That doesn't mean they get to 12 continue to use the systems without paying for them. That 13 doesn't mean they get to use employees without paying for 14 them. If they have data requests, we would certainly get to 15 them, but we have to maintain and employ people to do that.

16 Q And is part of the injunction that the Debtor seeks here
17 is to have the Court direct the Advisors to implement and 18 adopt a transition plan that would include taking -- taking 19 their books and records so that the Debtor isn't in that 20 position for a long-term -- on a long-term basis?

21 A Well, we certainly don't want to be in that position for a
22 long-term basis. We -- we're certainly not going to be the 23 party that has to maintain their records. If they can lift
24 them off, we will do that.

25 The challenge has been, according to our IT professionals,

Seery - Direct

67

1 who are quite good, separating the data is difficult.

2 Now, we know that the Advisors' employees were extracting
3 a lot of data off the system over the last week. And whether 4 it was on thumb drives or direct transfers, we know that a lot
5 of data has been taken, which is fine. We just don't -- we 6 don't know what else they might need and we're not in a
7 position to provide a full level of service to them at -- 8 after today.

9 Q Is the Debtor asking the Court to force the Advisors to 10 adopt any particular plan?

11 A Not at all. If they -- if their plan works, that's great.
12 If they went to a third-party service, some other fund --
13 outside fund advisors or shared service providers that can do
14 the job, that's fine. We would like to just have the least 15 amount of burden on our estate going forward, and a 16 declaration that we have no responsibility to provide any 17 particular services, I think, is essential.

18 Q And would the mandatory injunction that required the 19 Advisors to adopt and implement a transition services plan,
20 would that -- how does that advance the Debtor's goals?

21 A Well, it sets forth exactly what the Advisors and the 22 funds think they need. And if it's something other than that,
23 then they're going to have to come talk to us, and we'll 24 figure out whether we can provide it and then how it gets paid 25 for.

Seery - Cross

68

1 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no further questions
2 of Mr. Seery right now.

3 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness. Mr.
4 Rukavina?

5 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I just ask for a short
6 break?

7 THE COURT: All right. Does everyone need a break?

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I won't -- Your Honor, I
9 won't have much for this witness, so I might suggest if Mr.
10 Morris can wait five or ten minutes. But whatever is good for 11 the Court.

12 MR. MORRIS: Go right ahead, sir.

13 THE COURT: All right.

14 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

15 THE COURT: Ten minutes. If you take more than ten,
16 we're going to break. Thank you.

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes.

18 CROSS-EXAMINATION

19 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

20 Q Mr. Seery, very quickly, I just want to make sure that the 21 record here is complete. You were discussing Option A and B
22 that was put on the table on Friday, and you were discussing 23 then how Option B was taken off. Do you recall that?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And you did mention to the judge that Option A was that my

Seery - Cross

69

1 clients would take all of the leasehold space, correct?

2 A I don't think I mentioned that, no.

3 Q Okay. Well, I just want to make sure the judge

4 understands that Option A, my clients would have paid for a

5 hundred percent of the rent going forward. Correct?

6 A I don't believe that's how Option A worked, no. I believe

7 that Option A was structured that, in essence, the Debtor

8 would get out and the shared -- the Advisors would keep all of 9 the space as well as all of the systems and all of the 10 records.

11 Q Correct. But the Advisors would pay a hundred percent --

12 okay.

13 MR. RUKAVINA: Let's just pull up Exhibit 19, Mr.

14 Vasek, please.

15 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

16 q And I just want the -- I just the record to be clear here,

17 Mr. Seery.

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, are you there? (Pause.)

19 And then scroll down to Page 5 of 7. Okay. Stop there.

20 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

21 Q Mr. Seery, can you see this to refresh your memory?

22 A Yes. I didn't need it to be refreshed. That's what I

23 said.

24 Q Well, doesn't Option -- doesn't Option A here say NexPoint

25 parties take one hundred percent of the leased premises and

70

1 one hundred percent of the rental cost?

2 A It does, but the key part of it is that the Debtor gets 3 out.

4 Q I understand that.

5 A It gives up control of that stuff.

6 Q I understand that. I was just trying to clarify for the 7 record, because you didn't mention it before, that NexPoint
8 would pay a hundred percent of the rent. And I am correct
9 about that, right?

10 A That's correct.

11 Q Okay. And Option B, you mentioned in your direct 12 testimony that in Option B my clients would pay no rent. Do 13 you recall that?

14 A Yes.

15 Q But do you also recall that under Option B my clients
16 would vacate the premises?

17 A I believe -- yes. I think I said that, yes.

18 Q Okay. I believe you also mentioned that the Dondero
19 access issue was a last-second issue. In fact, that had been 20 a lingering issue for weeks, had it not?

21 A I don't believe so. I don't think it came in until after 22 January 31st.

23 Q Are you not aware that with each turn of the draft
24 agreement your lawyers would change it to make it clear that 25 Dondero couldn't have access while the Advisors' lawyers would

Seery - Cross

71

1 change it to make clear that Dondero could have access?

2 A I'm aware that those went on, but I believe that was after
3 January 31st.

4 Q Okay. I think I have very few questions, since Mr. Morris
5 really, I think, went over it in quite some detail. Please
6 confirm for the Court that my clients' employees have vacated
7 the premises as of last Friday?

8 A That's my understanding, but they still are accessing
9 services.

10 Q Okay. And please confirm for the Court that the Debtor
11 has not and will not provide any transition services after 12 last Friday, February 19th.

13 A We actually have provided assistance, and certain of the 14 employees of the Debtor are doing things for the -- your 15 clients.

16 So, for example, trades were conducted yesterday by 17 clients of HCMLP for your clients. Data was accessed by your 18 clients. Equipment was taken from the office and used by your 19 clients. The systems were maintained by the Debtor and 20 accessed by your clients. It's a pretty extensive list.

21 Q But that's because you have decided to allow that to 22 facilitate the transition, correct?

23 A That's correct.

24 Q Yeah. You're not doing that because there's an agreement 25 in place; you're doing it out of good faith but not because

Seery - Cross

72

1 there's any kind of requirement to do that, correct?

2 A That's correct.

3 Q Okay. As of February 19th, the Debtor is no longer
4 required to provide any of the shared services, and it will 5 not, unless you on a one-by-one basis agree to permit it,
6 correct?

7 A I haven't been doing it on a one-by-one basis. We did it
8 on a blanket basis.

9 Q Okay. And as of the end of today, that's over, right?

10 A I hope so. We'll have an order that will give us the 11 declarations we desire and we can move forward.

12 Q Well, let me clarify my question. If the judge does not 13 enter a mandatory injunction, the Debtor has nevertheless told 14 the Advisors that any of the shared services are done as of 15 the end of the day, correct?

16 A I don't believe that's the case. We'll consult with our 17 counsel, both bankruptcy and regulatory.

18 Q I think you mentioned this, but you can confirm for the 19 Court that some of the data held by the Debtor is actually the 20 property of the Advisors, correct?

21 A I don't -- I don't know that it's the property of the 22 Advisors. I think they're entitled to receive it, but we're 23 entitled to keep a copy.

24 Q Okay. Well, I'm not going to waste the Court's time by 25 reading the transition services agreement, but if that -- I'm

73

1   sorry, the shared services agreement -- but if that agreement
2   provides that my clients' data is its property, you wouldn't 3   disagree with that, would you?

4   A    No, I wouldn't --

5               MR. MORRIS:  Objection.

6               THE WITNESS:  If that's what it says, I wouldn't 7   disagree with it.

8   BY MR. RUKAVINA:

9   Q    Okay.  And in fact, the Advisors have already copied a 10   large amount of data and have taken that copy for their own
11   use, correct?

12   A    That's what I've been advised.

13   Q    Okay.  And with respect to their own data, not the 14   Debtor's data, you will continue to, with reasonable access,
15   permit them to copy the balance of whatever their own data
16   remains, correct?

17   A    To the extent that we can, yes.

18   Q    Yeah.  Yeah.  Okay.  And just to confirm, other than the 19   employees that you determined will be retained by the 20   Reorganized Debtor, the remaining employees will be terminated
21   effective February 28th?

22   A    Not -- not all, no.  There's a -- there are some changes
23   to that.

24   Q    Okay.  Well, some employees are going to be terminated on 25   February 28th, correct?

Seery - Cross

74

1 A Yes.

2 Q Okay. And the Debtor doesn't have a problem with my 3 clients either directly or indirectly retaining those 4 employees, correct?

5 A No problem at all.

6 Q Okay. Thank you.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll pass the witness.
8 Thank you.

9 THE COURT: Any redirect?

10 MR. MORRIS: I have no redirect, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Seery.

12 We'll take a ten-minute break. It's 10:51 Central. We'll 13 come back a minute or two after 11:00.

14 THE CLERK: All rise.

15 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

17 (A recess ensued from 10:51 a.m. until 11:05 a.m.)

18 THE CLERK: All rise.

19 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. All right.
20 We're back on the record in the Highland-Advisors matter. Mr.
21 Morris, you may call your next witness.

22 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. The Debtor calls
23 (audio gap) Dondero.

24 THE COURT: I'm sorry. Did you say Mr. Dondero?

25 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

75

1 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, could you speak
2 up? Please say, "Testing, one, two" so we pick up your video.

3 MR. DONDERO: Testing, one, two, three.

4 (Feedback.)

5 THE COURT: All right. Well, I heard you. I don't 6 see the video yet. There you are. Okay. We're going to hope
7 we've got some good audio. I was hearing a little bit of 8 feedback. Please raise your right hand.

9 MR. DONDERO: Oops, I'm sorry. I can't hear anybody.

10 THE COURT: All right. I need you to please raise 11 your right hand to be sworn in. Well, this is a problem. Mr.
12 Dondero, --

13 MR. DONDERO: Take off the headphones?

14 MR. WILSON: Judge, we're trying to get his 15 headphones to get the sound through them. Should just be just 16 a second.

17 (Pause.)

18 THE COURT: All right. Do I need to be speaking to 19 see if they can hear me clearly?

20 A VOICE: How's it going?

21 THE COURT: All right. What's going on?

22 MR. WILSON: I can hear you, Judge. We're just 23 working through a technical issue with Mr. Dondero's
24 headphones.

25 THE COURT: All right.

Dondero - Direct

76

1 MR. WILSON: Hopefully we can resolve that
2 momentarily. (Pause.) We can try that.

3 (Pause.)

4 MR. WILSON: Your Honor, we're going to move Mr.
5 Dondero to another room so that we can get this issue resolved
6 without the need for headphones.

7 (Pause.)

8 MR. DONDERO: Testing, one, two, three.

9 THE COURT: All right. We got you. Well, we've got 10 your sound. Can you hear us okay, Mr. Dondero?

11 MR. DONDERO: Yes.

12 THE COURT: All right. Please raise your right hand.

13 (The witness is sworn.)

14 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, go ahead.

15 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. John Morris;
16 Pachulski, Stang, Ziehl & Jones; for the Debtor.

17 JAMES D. DONDERO, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

18 DIRECT EXAMINATION

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q Can you hear me okay, Mr. Dondero?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. Just a few questions. You were aware in November
23 that the Debtor had given notice of termination of the shared
24 services agreements with the Advisors, correct?

25 A Yes.

Dondero - Direct

77

1 Q Okay. And you understood that the Debtor was going to
2 terminate all shared services to the Advisors as of January
3 31, 2021, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And were Dustin Norris and D.C. Sauter authorized by you
6 to try to negotiate with the Debtor the terms of a transition
7 services agreement?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And had the Debtor adopted a transition plan as of January 10 31, 2021 pursuant to which it would not need any services from 11 the Debtor?

12 A I don't know.

13 Q Okay. You're not aware of the Advisors having a plan in 14 place as of the termination date that would have allowed the 15 Advisors to obtain back-office and middle-office services from 16 somebody other than the Debtor, correct?

17 A I don't know. They were always working on a Plan A and a
18 Plan B.

19 Q Okay. Are you -- did you become aware that the Debtor had 20 agreed to extend the termination deadline by a couple of 21 weeks?

22 A Yes.

23 Q And is it your understanding that that extension was 24 granted in order to give the Advisors more time to develop a
25 transition services plan?

Dondero - Direct

78

1 A I -- I think it was to continue negotiations. I don't --
2 I don't know if the plan was part of the reason.

3 Q Okay. Did you learn at some point early last week that
4 the Debtor and the Advisors had reached an agreement on all
5 material terms of a transition services agreement but for your
6 access to the Debtor's offices?

7 A Yes. I believe over a thousand line items.

8 Q Okay. And did you learn that the Debtor had tendered a
9 term sheet that reflected the entirety of the parties'
10 agreement but for your access, with a demand that the 11 agreement get signed or the Debtor would commence a lawsuit?

12 A I became aware of that Wednesday, in the middle of the ice
13 storm, middle of the day.

14 Q Okay. Let's pull up Exhibit 17 and see if I can refresh
15 your recollection as to the timing and the substance.

16 MR. MORRIS: And if we could go to the bottom of the 17 email string.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q This is an email string between lawyers for the debtor
20 and the Advisors. Do you see that there's an email from Mr.
21 Demo there dated Tuesday, February 16th?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. And the lawyers on this email from K&L Gates, those 24 were the lawyers who were representing the interests of the 25 Advisors; is that right?

Dondero - Direct

79

1 A Yes.

2 Q And do you understand that Timothy Silva of WilmerHale and
3 my colleague, Mr. Demo, were representing the interests of the 4 Debtor?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And do you see in the first paragraph that Mr. Demo
7 informs Mr. Hogewood that the Debtor is prepared to sign the 8 attached term sheet, in the absence of which it would be 9 filing an adversary proceeding?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Okay. And does that reflect your recollection that, in 12 fact, it was on Tuesday afternoon that the Debtor made the 13 demand to either sign the term sheet or there would be
14 litigation?

15 A It doesn't change my testimony. The first time I heard
16 about it was -- about a suit coming at 6:00 was on Wednesday.

17 Q Okay. Let's go up to the -- Mr. Hogewood's response. Did
18 you learn that -- did you have any communications with anybody
19 on Tuesday about the possibility of the Debtor filing a 20 lawsuit?

21 A No.

22 Q Okay. Can you go -- can you go to the email above? Do
23 you see -- let me see if this refreshes your recollection. Do
24 you see that Mr. Demo sent to Mr. Hogewood on Tuesday, just 25 before 5:00 p.m., drafts of the Debtor's adversary proceeding

Dondero - Direct

80

1 papers?

2 A Yeah, I've never -- except for I think you gave me these 3 emails yesterday, but until yesterday I've never seen these 4 emails before.

5 Q So, so the lawyers who were representing the Advisors'
6 interests weren't keeping you informed last week about the 7 status of negotiations; is that your testimony?

8 A Generally. Again, I delegated it to Dustin and D.C. to 9 handle the details.

10 Q Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: And scroll up to the -- to Mr.
12 Hogewood's response.

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q Did you learn that Mr. Hogewood had asked for an extension
15 of the deadline from 6:00 p.m. to midnight at any time last 16 week?

17 A No.

18 MR. MORRIS: Let's go -- let's go -- let's go to Mr.
19 Silva's email, the next one up.

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q Were you aware that the parties were negotiating and 22 trying to finish up the agreement last Tuesday as the Debtor's 23 deadline for filing a lawsuit was drawing near?

24 A I knew they were in negotiations on Tuesday and Wednesday,
25 but I didn't know the deadline was growing near until

Dondero - Direct

81

1 Wednesday.

2 Q Did you learn -- did you learn what the open issue or open
3 issues were as of that time?

4 A I believe there was only one open issue. It was regarding 5 my occupancy.

6 Q And what is your understanding of what the issue was as of 7 that time last week?

8 A Since the beginning of the case, the Highland employees
9 have been told to work from home so that the estate didn't 10 have any COVID liability. There hasn't been a Highland 11 employee in the office in a year except for occasional visits.
12 NexPoint employees have worked every day through COVID, full 13 staff every day.

14 With us taking over either a hundred percent or 75 percent
15 of the lease, and the supervisory leadership strategy that I
16 deserve, and on a regulatory basis have a responsibility to 17 provide for the RIAs, I needed to be in the office on a going-
18 forward basis. And I believe grand efforts were made on the 19 part of Dustin and D.C. to create a wall for a section of the 20 office for the Highland employees -- who have never come in 21 for the last year, probably aren't coming in for the next year
22 -- but if they were to come in, they would have private egress
23 and ingress, and nobody else in the office, including myself,
24 would ever see them come and go.

25 And I know there were clear negotiating representations

Dondero - Direct

82

1 made on their part, but there's never anything that I've been
2 accused of that's been in-person activity. There have been a
3 couple texts, a couple emails, but nothing ever in-person. So
4 the separation for employees who probably were never going to 5 come in the office, and as NexPoint was paying 75 or a hundred
6 percent of the lease, it made inordinate sense -- in fact, it
7 was only tenable -- if I was able to come in and provide
8 leadership and oversight to the (audio gap) Advisors.

9 Q Did you testify last night that it was Judge Jernigan who 10 ordered the Debtor's employees to stay out of the office
11 because of COVID?

12 A That's what I remember from early in the case, so that 13 there wouldn't be any COVID liabilities in the estate, but 14 that's why the Highland employees haven't been around for a 15 year.

16 Q So it's your -- it's your memory that Highland employees
17 haven't been around for a year and that the reason for that is 18 because Judge Jernigan issued an order telling them to stay
19 out of the office because of the COVID risk; is that right?

20 A That's -- that was my recollection.

21 Q Okay. You haven't been in the office in the calendar year
22 2021 except for the day that you went to give your deposition
23 early in January; is that right?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And have the Advisors functioned, notwithstanding your

Dondero - Direct

83

1 absence from the office?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Okay. And in fact, at the end of the day, notwithstanding
4 everything you just said, is it fair to say that the only
5 issue that you're aware of that separated the Debtor and the 6 Advisors as of last Wednesday was your access to the offices?

7 A I believe that's the case.

8 MR. MORRIS: And can we just scroll up a little bit
9 to Mr. Hogewood's -- the next email on the next page? Yeah.
10 Right there.

11 BY MR. MORRIS:

12 Q In fact, that's -- to put a fine point on it, the 13 Advisors' lawyer says specifically is keeping Jim Dondero away
14 from the office worth losing out on the financial advantages?
15 Is that the position that the Advisors took at that time?

16 A Again, I've never seen these emails before and I'm not 17 aware of the specific back-and-forth negotiations.

18 Q Okay. But that's consistent with your understanding, that 19 the only issue that was outstanding as of that moment in time,
20 the only material issue, was your access to the office.
21 Right?

22 A As of that moment in time, yes.

23 Q And otherwise, the Advisors, but for your desire to have 24 access, the Advisors would have had a fully-negotiated
25 complete transition services agreement with the Debtor and

84

1 there would have been no lawsuit, fair?

2 A I believe, yeah, I believe that's largely what -- the 3 status at that point.

4 Q Okay. And so -- and so, because you weren't given access,
5 the Advisors didn't agree to the proposal that was otherwise
6 acceptable, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. And did you lose interest in the negotiations after 9 the Debtor made it clear that they wouldn't provide access to 10 you?

11 A Lose interest? Yeah, but I mean, the two parallel paths
12 for discretion I had given Dustin and D.C. to work on was 13 either complete the negotiated settlement that really would 14 have been, I think, the best transition for everybody and a
15 win-win for everybody, but if not, be prepared for us to go it
16 alone or the Advisors to be able to go it alone and operate
17 without Highland and without being in the space.

18 Q And did you give that instruction last Thursday after the 19 -- after the Debtor refused to give you access?

20 A Yeah. They knew that that -- those were -- those were the 21 only two -- the only two -- the only two that I had approved.
22 They were the only two directions I had approved.

23 Q Are you aware that on Friday -- withdrawn. On Friday, the 24 lawyers at K&L Gates made a proposal to the Debtor that 25 contained two options; is that correct?

Dondero - Direct

85

1 A Yes.

2 MR. MORRIS: Can we please put up on the screen
3 Exhibit #19, please? And if we could go to the bottom.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Mr. Hogewood wrote to my colleague, Mr. Demo, just before
6 noon on Friday, February 19th. Do you see that?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And this -- Mr. Hogewood presented two options. You were 9 -- were you aware on Friday morning that Mr. Hogewood was 10 going to be presenting two options?

11 A I was generally aware, which I think is what I testified
12 to in my depo yesterday, that D.C. and Dustin were 13 enthusiastically trying to come up with a settlement. They 14 believed it was close enough to try and get something done,
15 and they were going to work, you know, an A and a B, but 16 consistent with my direction that there was really only two 17 alternatives, but they were still optimistic, because, besides 18 it being a win-win for everybody, it would be less risk and 19 less work for the Advisors if something like the original
20 transaction could get done.

21 Q Okay. Do you see --

22 MR. MORRIS: If we could take a look at Option B.

23 BY MR. MORRIS:

24 Q Option B, as written by Mr. Hogewood, would have had the 25 Debtor assume the entire lease and have NexPoint vacate at the

Dondero - Direct

86

1 end of the month. Do you see that?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And that's an offer that was made by Mr. Hogewood on 4 behalf of the Advisors on Friday just around noontime; is that
5 fair?

6 A I believe so.

7 Q Okay. Do you know --

8 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll up, please?

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q And Mr. Demo responds just a few moments later by saying
11 that he would discuss the options, right?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Okay. And then the very next moment, if you scroll to the 14 next one, Mr. Hogewood actually informs Mr. Demo that he had 15 been informed, "There may be an edit needed to Option B, so I 16 need to pull that back momentarily." Do you see that?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Do you know what edit was being considered by the Advisors
19 early in the afternoon on Friday?

20 A No.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: Let's scroll up to the next email,
23 please.

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q And Mr. Demo just responds and he says, "Understood."

Dondero - Direct

87

1 Fair?

2 A (garbled)

3 Q Let's -- okay. And then the next email from Mr. Hogewood
4 says, "I am authorized to put Option B back on the table as 5 stated below. Both A and B are on the table for your 6 consideration." Do you see that?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Do you believe that Mr. Hogewood was acting without 9 authority when he made that statement to the Debtor?

10 A I don't know.

11 Q Did you ever ask Mr. Sauter or Mr. Norris whether Mr.
12 Hogewood was acting outside the scope of his authority when he 13 made this offer?

14 A No.

15 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll up to the email -- the 16 next email, please?

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q Do you see that Mr. Silva on behalf of the Debtor was 19 looking for a time to discuss?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And then if we go to the next email in this string,
22 they're asking for dial-in. Did you learn early in the 23 afternoon on Friday that the Debtor had accepted Option B as 24 presented by Mr. Hogewood on behalf of the Advisors?

25 A I -- I don't know when I became aware of that.

Dondero - Direct

88

1 Q Did you learn --

2 MR. MORRIS: Let's go ahead and take this down and go
3 to the next exhibit, please. And start at the bottom.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Do you see that Mr. Hogewood is writing to my colleagues
6 again, and in the middle paragraph he says, "As you know, the 7 term sheet preserves everyone's rights on various claims and 8 other litigation, and Davor suggested it would be appropriate
9 to track that language in the body of the agreed settlement
10 order in addition to attaching the term sheet to the order"?

11 Were you aware early Friday afternoon that the lawyers for 12 the parties were discussing the form of an agreed settlement
13 order that would embody the Option B approach?

14 A No.

15 Q Do you see in the next paragraph there's a question as to 16 whether John is preparing the order or an offer for the K&L
17 Gates firm to take that on? Do you see that?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Were you aware that the law firm representing the Advisors
20 that you own and control were offering to prepare a settlement
21 offer -- a settlement order that would include the Option B
22 approach that had been accepted by the Debtor?

23 A Nope. I wasn't involved in any of these details, nor had 24 I seen any of these emails.

25 Q Okay. Let's go to the next email and see if you know

Dondero - Direct

89

1 anything about the facts or the assertions in that email. Do
2 you see Mr. Demo responds, and at the end of his first
3 sentence, there is enough -- there's a reference to having 4 enough room on the wires. Do you see that?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Are you aware -- were you aware on Friday afternoon that 7 the lawyers for the Advisors that you own and control and the 8 lawyers for the Debtor were having discussions about how to 9 timely effectuate a wire transfer?

10 A No.

11 MR. MORRIS: Can we go up to the 3:33 p.m. email?

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q And just to move this along, did you learn that the 14 parties -- that lawyers for the parties were expecting to go
15 through the final draft of the document?

16 A No.

17 Q Were you aware that the lawyers representing the entities
18 that you own and control wanted more time to be able to do
19 that?

20 A I wasn't involved in this at all.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: Can we scroll up to the email at 3:43
23 p.m.?

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q And do you see where Mr. Hogewood informs Mr. Demo that he

Dondero - Direct

90

1 needs to push the call further because he is "having trouble
2 connecting with someone to be sure they are in a position to 3 review." Do you see that?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Was Mr. Hogewood trying to reach you on the afternoon of 6 February 19th in order to make sure you had the opportunity to 7 review the term sheet that was about to be signed?

8 A I don't know.

9 Q Do you see, if you scroll up, Mr. Demo asks Mr. Hogewood
10 if he needs a little bit more time?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And then, finally, the last email in this deck, do you see 13 at 4:15 Mr. Hogewood says to Mr. Demo, "We should cancel this 14 call and I should just call you and John." Do you see that?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And that's because the Advisors pulled Option B that the 17 Debtor had agreed to; is that right?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And it's your testimony that you had nothing to do with 20 that decision; is that right?

21 A No. It -- no. I didn't say that. Once I became fully 22 aware of what A and B were, I had no interest in A or B, and I
23 pointed the team back to the conversations we had had on 24 Wednesday regarding either it's the win-win scenario for 25 everybody and continuity and the office and me being in the

91

1 office or it's a -- it's a divorce. And -- but I didn't have
2 an interest in A or B.

3 Q And yet it is fair to say, though, that the Advisors'
4 outside counsel and the Debtor's counsel spent the whole day
5 on Friday pursuing Options A and B, including preparing 6 settlement orders and for wire transfers, right?

7 A They'd been working tirelessly Wednesday, Thursday,
8 Friday, Saturday, Sunday, trying to strike a deal, trying to 9 be reasonable, but to no avail. I think now it's -- 10 everybody's comfortable with the divorce and being out of the 11 office.

12 Q Did -- do you know whether the Advisors made any proposals
13 to the Debtor over the weekend for an a la carte menu of 14 services that might be considered?

15 A Yes. I believe -- yes.

16 Q Okay. Does the Debtor -- withdrawn. Do the Advisors have 17 a plan pursuant to which it will obtain all of the back-office
18 and middle-office services that it needs that were previously
19 provided by the Debtor in order to fully perform under the 20 advisory agreements with the funds?

21 A I believe they have a plan.

22 Q And is that plan sufficient to enable the Advisors to 23 fully perform their services under the advisory agreements
24 with the funds?

25 A I believe so. The major gating item, which I think

Dondero - Direct

92

1 changed over the weekend, was the historic data for the funds
2 was being held hostage, and I think over the weekend, for the 3 first time, it was agreed that the funds could have their 4 historic data that they were entitled to. And I think that 5 improved the quality of their alternative plans.

6 Q Does the -- do the Advisors need anything from the Debtor
7 today?

8 A I believe very little, if nothing. They just need data
9 and information and software that they're entitled to that 10 they've paid for, paid for in full over the years.

11 Q And does the -- do the Advisors have a plan in place to 12 obtain that information that it contends it's entitled to?

13 A I don't have the specific -- specifics. Dustin is your 14 person there.

15 Q Do you personally believe that the Debtor had the right to 16 terminate the shared services agreement as of last Friday?

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll object to that 18 question as that calls for a legal conclusion. And I will 19 note for the record that we are not trying today their 20 declaratory action Count One, and we do not consent to that 21 being tried.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule. He can answer if he 23 has an answer.

24 THE WITNESS: I don't know.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Dondero - Direct

93

1 Q Do you believe that there is anything defective about the 2 termination notices that you testified being aware to as of 3 last November 30th?

4 A I don't know.

5 Q Do you have any reason to believe that those termination
6 notices are unenforceable?

7 A I don't know.

8 Q Do you have any reason to believe that the Debtor has any 9 continuing obligation to the Advisors following last Friday,
10 after last Friday?

11 A I do believe there's an overall industry standard practice
12 in terms of transitioning. I do think there's a
13 responsibility of all parties to do things in a regulatorily-
14 compliant way. So I do believe that that overrides and 15 supersedes some of this contract dancing.

16 Q How much -- what regulatory regime are you referring to?

17 A The SEC.

18 Q Are you aware of any particular rule that would require
19 the Debtor to provide services of any kind to the Advisors
20 after the termination of the shared services agreements?

21 A No. I'm going based on experience.

22 Q Okay. So you don't have anything specific in mind; is 23 that fair?

24 A I have specific historic experience --

25 Q All right. I'm asking you --

Dondero - Direct

94

1 A -- of the --

2 Q I'm sorry.

3 A And then, I mean, I do have in mind, you know, based on 4 our historic experience, like when we moved from State Street
5 to SCI, I think it took nine months longer than anybody
6 expected, and there wasn't a hard break in anybody's
7 activities or attitudes toward each other. It was -- it
8 delayed for issues that were -- some were beyond everybody's
9 control, some of them were faults of the different parties,
10 but in no case did anybody try and cause damage or allow 11 damage to happen to regulated funds.

12 Q How long is the Debtor, in your view, how long is the 13 Debtor obligated to make the data available to the Advisors?
14 How long does this obligation stay in effect?

15 A I don't have a specific timeline. I did hear Seery say a 16 few minutes ago that you would give it all and they would just 17 keep a copy. I think to the extent that that happened, that 18 cures quite a bit of it. But, again, the data had been held 19 hostage as a negotiating point up until this weekend.

20 Q Hmm. Have the Advisors made arrangements to make the copy 21 of the data that you just referred to?

22 A I don't know.

23 Q Do you know if there is a monetary amount that the Debtor
24 is required to incur in order to continue to maintain the data
25 until the Advisors can get a copy?

Dondero - Direct

95

1 A I don't know, but I -- I don't believe it's material at 2 all.

3 Q Okay. Have you done any analysis to -- if you don't know
4 how long it's going to take to get the copy, how do you know
5 how much it's going to cost to maintain the copy until it's 6 retrieved?

7 A I don't, but large files up on the cloud in general are 8 not that complicated to move around.

9 Q But it's your view, as the owner and controller of the 10 Advisors, that the Debtor has a continuing obligation,
11 notwithstanding the termination of the shared services
12 agreement, to maintain the data for some indefinite period of 13 time until the Advisors obtain a copy. Is that right?

14 A I'm saying there needs to be reasonable business
15 transition in these circumstances. And I don't -- I don't --
16 I'm not the systems person, I don't know the details, but I
17 know the costs are minimal. The monthly storage charge and -- 18 what, is the Debtor going to delete everything to save $100 of 19 storage charge on the cloud to intentionally harm investors?
20 I mean, that's -- that's an alternative, but none of that 21 makes any sense to me.

22 Q Let me ask you this. Under the shared -- under the 23 transition services agreement that was fully negotiated as of 24 last Tuesday or Wednesday, but for your access, was the whole
25 issue of data access addressed in that document?

Dondero - Direct

96

1 A I don't know. I assume so.

2 Q Okay. And do you also assume that the data issue would
3 have been fully and completely addressed under the Option B
4 that the Debtor accepted on Friday afternoon?

5 A I have no idea what was in Option -- I mean, I have no
6 idea what was in Option B regarding the data.

7 Q Okay.

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have nothing further.

9 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness. Mr.
10 Wilson?

11 MR. RUKAVINA: I think, actually, Your Honor, he's my 12 witness on this one, since we're the Defendants.

13 THE COURT: Oh, I'm sorry. He's in Mr. Wilson's
14 office. I got confused. Go ahead, Mr. Rukavina.

15 MR. RUKAVINA: No problem. No problem.

16 Mr. Vasek, if you'll please pull up Debtor Exhibit 2, and 17 if you'll please go to Section 6.02. Well, make it so we can 18 see 6.03 as well.

19 CROSS-EXAMINATION

20 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

21 Q Okay. Mr. Dondero, can you hear me?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Mr. Morris was asking you about data and return of data.

24 I'd like for you to read with me Section 6.02, the second

25 half, where it starts, "For the avoidance of doubt." Can you

Dondero - Cross

97

1 see that, sir?

2 A Yes.

3 Q (reading) "For the avoidance of doubt, all books and 4 records kept and maintained by Service Provider on behalf of 5 Recipient shall be the property of Recipient, and Service
6 Provider will surrender promptly to Recipient any such books
7 or records upon Recipient's request." And then there's a
8 parenthetical about retaining a copy. Do you see that, sir?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Did I read that correctly?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. And Service Provider here is the Debtor, and 13 Recipient is one of the Advisors, correct?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay. And now let's quickly read Section 6.03. (reading)
16 "Upon expiration or termination of this agreement, Service
17 Provider will be obligated to return to Recipient as soon as 18 is reasonably practicable any equipment or other property or 19 material of Recipient that is in Service Provider's control or 20 possession." Did I read that correctly?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. And are the Advisors relying on these provisions
23 when you mentioned in response to Mr. Morris that the Debtor
24 had some obligation to provide them their own data?

25 A Yes. I -- again, I'm not involved in the details or the

Dondero - Cross

98

1 specifics, but that's a very standard clause you'd expect to
2 see in a service agreement, and I'm -- in some form or 3 fashion, I'm sure D.C. and Dustin are aware of that and have 4 negotiated accordingly.

5 Q Well, let's talk about that briefly. Mr. Morris asked you
6 several questions with respect to the negotiations in the last 7 few weeks on the transition services agreement and with 8 respect to the weekend's events, to which you responded that 9 you don't know the answer. Do you recall those questions
10 generally?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And is that because you delegated those decisions to both 13 D.C. and Dustin and outside counsel, or is that because you're 14 incompetent?

15 A I've found that I am mischaracterized whenever I talk to 16 Seery directly or deal with things directly, and there's too
17 much of an intent in this case to make this personalized about 18 me. And there was over a thousand line items to negotiate.
19 Dustin and D.C. are very capable executives. And again, to 20 avoid mischaracterization and personalization of this stuff, I
21 let them handle it.

22 Q Okay. And you were also asked by Mr. Morris about the 23 Advisors' current backup plan or divorce plan, whatever we 24 want to call it, and you didn't know some of those answers.
25 Is that also because you delegated that to Mr. Norris, Dustin

99

1 Norris?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Okay. It's not because you don't take an interest in it;
4 it's because you delegated it to someone that you just called
5 a very capable executive, correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Okay. And Mr. Morris asked you about certain events of 8 last Tuesday and Wednesday. What was going on, sir, here in 9 North Texas last Tuesday and Wednesday?

10 A Well, it was the ice storm. I couldn't get in touch with 11 my lawyers on Wednesday, including yourself, you know, and 12 people didn't have electricity, they didn't have coverage.

13 Q Is it fair to say, sir, --

14 A I couldn't --

15 Q Is it fair to say, sir, just to speed this up, that last 16 Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, the Advisors and you and 17 outside counsel, primarily me, were having a very hard time
18 getting in touch, and in fact, we really couldn't get in 19 touch?

20 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.
21 I mean, if Mr. Rukavina wants to testify, he's welcome to do
22 that, but I think he's leading.

23 THE COURT: I'll overrule.

24 THE WITNESS: The answer is yes. The world wasn't 25 functioning --

100

1 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

2 Q Okay.

3 A -- in Dallas, Texas, or in my legal ecosystem.

4 Q Is it possible that, as a result of that, certain

5 miscommunications between all of us took place?

6 Misunderstandings?

7 A Lack of --

8 Q Misunderstandings?

9 A Yeah. A lack of communication, period.

10 Q And Mr. Morris discussed your physical presence on the 11 premises. In fact, other than that one time that was

12 mentioned when you went to the office for the deposition, you

13 have not been at NexPoint or the other Advisor's corporate

14 offices for almost two months now; is that correct?

15 A Correct.

16 Q Has that caused disruption to the business of the 17 Advisors?

18 A It's definitely affected the efficiency. And again, I

19 don't think it's compliant on a long-term basis for a

20 registered investment advisor to not have its oversight

21 employees, you know, or oversight most senior employee on 22 staff.

23 Q Thank you, Mr. Dondero.

24 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll pass the witness.

25 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris?

Dondero - Redirect

101

1 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

2 BY MR. MORRIS:

3 Q Sir, notwithstanding last week's weather, you knew that
4 the lawyers for both the Advisors and the Debtor had reached
5 an agreement on every single material term except for your 6 access to the office, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q The weather doesn't change anything about that, right?

9 A Correct.

10 Q And the only reason that the Advisors refused to sign the 11 agreement and this lawsuit was commenced is because you
12 personally would not reach an agreement that didn't allow you
13 into the offices, correct?

14 A I mean, yes, largely.

15 Q Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Any --

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Isn't it --

19 THE COURT: -- recross?

20 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor.

21 RECROSS-EXAMINATION

22 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

23 Q Isn't it also true, Mr. Dondero, that the same can be said
24 about Mr. Seery, that the only reason why the Debtor didn't 25 enter into that agreement was because he would not permit you

Dondero - Recross

102

1 to be on the premises for the next couple of years?

2 A Yes.

3 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: All right. That concludes Mr. Dondero's
5 testimony for now.

6 Mr. Morris, any more witnesses?

7 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor. The Debtor rests.

8 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina, you may call
9 your first witness.

10 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, just to give you a heads
11 up, I'm probably going to have an hour, hour and a half with 12 Mr. Norris. So I don't know what the Court's plan is for 13 working through lunch or not, but I'll just give you that so
14 that you can make the appropriate decision.

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, I would like to go
16 ahead and get started and get some of that accomplished before
17 lunch. My situation is I'm hoping to get an update, but I
18 have another 1:30 matter that I think is going to be very,
19 very short, but I'm waiting to -- you know, my courtroom
20 deputy was going to reach out to the lawyers involved in that 21 matter. So my point is I may have to break from this for a
22 few minutes at 1:30, so I'd like to time our lunch break so
23 that it occurs a little bit before 1:30. I think that'll make 24 this easier.

25 So let's go ahead and get started. You wanted to call Mr.

Norris - Direct

103

1 Norris?

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, Your Honor. Dustin with a D,
3 Norris.

4 THE COURT: All right. Dustin Norris, would you
5 please say, "Testing, one, two"?

6 MR. NORRIS: Testing, one, two.

7 THE COURT: All right.

8 MR. NORRIS: Testing, one, two.

9 THE COURT: I hear you loud and clear. I'm not 10 seeing you yet. Oh, there you are. Okay. Please raise your 11 right hand.

12 MR. NORRIS: Hello.

13 (The witness is sworn.)

14 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Rukavina?

15 DUSTIN NORRIS, DEFENDANT'S WITNESS, SWORN

16 DIRECT EXAMINATION

17 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

18 Q Mr. Norris, can you hear me?

19 A Yes, I can.

20 Q Okay. Are you able to close the blinds behind you or 21 somehow make that room a little darker?

22 A Let me reposition. Is that better?

23 Q Yes, thank you. For the record, sir, what is your name?

24 A Dustin Norris.

25 Q And what is your educational background?

Norris - Direct

104

1 A I have a bachelor's and master's degree in accounting from 2 Brigham Young University.

3 Q Okay. Do you hold any professional licenses or 4 certifications?

5 A Yes. CPA license, as well as FINRA License Series 7, 63,
6 and 24.

7 Q Have you ever been disciplined by any regulatory body with 8 respect to your licenses?

9 A No.

10 Q Have you ever had a crime, even a speeding ticket?

11 A No, never -- never had a crime. Not even a speeding
12 ticket. For the record, I did get pulled over for not coming
13 to a complete stop at a stop sign, but was dismissed through 14 defensive driving. This is actually my first experience or 15 interaction with a court other than the same interaction with 16 the Court in December of last year.

17 Q Have you ever had your honesty or integrity challenged or 18 questioned?

19 A No, I haven't.

20 Q Okay. And are you familiar with the two Advisors who are 21 my clients here today?

22 A I am.

23 Q And how are you or why are you familiar with them?

24 A So, I am the executive vice president of each Advisor.

25 Q Okay.

Norris - Direct

105

1 A And --

2 Q Go ahead.

3 A I've been working for the Advisors since 2012.

4 Q So you have been employed by the Advisors since 2012?

5 A That's correct.

6 Q Okay. And what does your role as executive vice president
7 entail?

8 A So, I oversee the marketing, sales, distribution, business
9 development for our investment products, private placements,
10 registered products, the funds that we've -- been talked about 11 in this, this hearing.

12 Q Okay. And who do you report to?

13 A To Mr. Dondero.

14 Q Okay. And briefly, for the record, what is the business
15 of these two Advisors that are Defendants today?

16 A Yeah. So, they primarily provide investment advice and 17 management of various investment vehicles. That's private 18 investment vehicles, it's public investment vehicles,
19 publicly-registered closed-end funds, REITs, BDC, ETFs, and 20 mutual funds.

21 Q Can you give the judge an estimate of the order of 22 magnitude of all of the underlying investments managed or 23 advised through all these vehicles that you mentioned?

24 A It's several billion dollars under management for NexPoint
25 and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors.

Norris - Direct

106

1 Q And is Mr. Dondero the fund manager, the guy in charge for 2 all those investments?

3 A Most of them, yes.

4 Q Okay. And do you understand yourself to be a fiduciary?

5 A I do, both to the funds and to our Advisors.

6 Q Okay. What do you mean, the funds? And in particular,
7 what -- what are the retail funds that Mr. Seery talked about
8 earlier?

9 A Yeah. So, we have a number of publicly-registered mutual
10 funds, closed-end funds, and ETF. And those are, as Mr. Seery
11 pointed out, available to anyone that really wants to buy
12 them, anybody that has a brokerage account or the ability to 13 buy them through a financial advisor. And so those are the 14 funds that I'm talking about. Primarily, they're 1940 Act--
15 registered mutual funds and closed-end funds.

16 Q Do any of those funds have their own boards?

17 A Yes. All of the '40 Act funds have their own board. It's 18 an independent board of trustees.

19 Q What do you mean by an independent board of trustees?

20 A Yeah. So the majority of the board members are 21 independent, and it's actually a -- 75 percent of the board 22 members are independent trustees, as defined by the rules and 23 regulations of the SEC. And so they actually hire us as the 24 advisor. On an annual basis, they review our advisory 25 agreements. And they control the day-to-day operation -- not

Norris - Direct

107

1 the daily operations, but control the oversight of those
2 funds. And on an annual basis, they renew or choose not to 3 renew our advisory agreements.

4 And so it is an independent process and an independent
5 board. And each one of them have independent legal counsel as 6 well that advises them on all matters that they incur,
7 including everything we're talking about today.

8 Q Who is that independent legal counsel, if you know?

9 A Yeah. Blank Rome is the name of the law firm, and Stacy
10 Louizos is the partner that represents them.

11 Q Does Mr. Dondero sit now, or since this bankruptcy case
12 was filed, has he sat on any of these independent boards?

13 A He has not, no.

14 Q Okay. For these funds with independent boards, are you
15 also any kind of employee or officer of them?

16 A Yeah. So, the funds themselves don't have individual
17 employees. They have officers that oversee the operations.
18 And I am executive vice president of each of the funds.

19 Q Okay. And as the executive vice president of each of 20 those funds, who do you report to?

21 A So, I regularly report to the board on matters pertaining 22 to the funds. I'm the liaison between the funds and the board
23 on a number of matters. So I've been attending board meetings
24 since December 2012 for these funds.

25 Q Okay. Have those boards met and had meetings in the last

Norris - Direct

108

1 couple of months regarding the shared services agreements and
2 any transition thereof?

3 A Extensive meetings. They've held eight meetings since the 4 beginning of the year, board meetings. And those weren't just
5 short. Some of them were very long. Last year, there were 24
6 recorded board meetings, and a number of conversations in 7 between, a number of discussions with their legal counsel, a
8 number of discussions with the chairman of the board. So it's 9 -- they've been extensively involved through the process.

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I move to strike the hearsay
11 that we're hearing here about discussions that the boards had 12 with other folks. If Mr. Norris has personal knowledge, 13 that's one thing, but I think he's gone well beyond that.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Response, Mr. Rukavina?

15 MR. RUKAVINA: I'm not sure what testimony Mr. Morris
16 is talking about, third-party testimony. I think the witness
17 just said that the board has met many, many times to discuss 18 the issues that are up for today.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: And I think to the extent that the 21 witness participated in such meetings, that's fine, he can 22 specifically testify about that, but I don't think he should 23 be otherwise testifying about what other people did who aren't 24 here today to testify as to their own personal conduct.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

Norris - Direct

109

1 MR. RUKAVINA: I can rephrase the question, Your
2 Honor.

3 THE COURT: I sustain. Rephrase.

4 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

5 Q Have you personally participated in meetings of those
6 boards, Mr. Norris, at which those boards and you discussed
7 the transition services agreement potentially being negotiated
8 with the Debtor and the shared services agreements that were 9 being terminated by the Debtor?

10 A Yes. I participated in eight board meetings this year.
11 There's been five of them in February alone. And there were 12 24 board meetings last year, and I was a participant in each
13 one of those meetings.

14 Q Okay. And did you advise those boards at some point in 15 time about the termination of the shared services agreements?

16 A Yes, we did.

17 Q When did you start advising those boards that that was 18 something that may happen or that has actually been noticed as 19 happening?

20 A So, throughout the fall last year, I think the expectation
21 was that there would be a -- I mean, obviously, there had been 22 a plan filed with the Court. That was discussed with the 23 board. Mr. Seery testified that he joined the board meetings
24 in the fall and in the summer and talked about those. The 25 discussions were around the transition of services. There was

Norris - Direct

110

1 discussion about a new company. And so the discussions were
2 ongoing.

3 When the filing actually -- from when the filing actually
4 happened, that was ongoing, of how would we be able to 5 continue the services. And so, from the beginning, those were 6 discussions that were had.

7 We did notify the board when the termination occurred. As 8 well, we had a board meeting, a one-and-a-half day board
9 meeting on December -- I think the dates were December 10th
10 and 11th -- where the termination was discussed in detail.

11 Q Now, obviously, the Debtor sent notices of termination of 12 these shared services agreements in late November. You're 13 obviously familiar with that, right?

14 A Correct.

15 Q Separate and apart from the Debtor's decision to terminate
16 these agreements, were you and the Advisors considering 17 terminating these agreements?

18 A We were. We had discussion --

19 Q Let me ask -- let me ask the next question. I appreciate 20 you answering, but let me -- let me do my job. When were the 21 Advisors considering making such a move, and why?

22 A This was in the October-November time frame of last fall, 23 as the -- particularly around the services we had been 24 receiving related to the shared services agreement and the 25 payroll reimbursement agreements. We didn't think that the

Norris - Direct

111

1 service was fulsome, we didn't think we were getting the 2 service that was under the agreements, and the service had 3 dropped off.

4 And in particular, the -- there was -- there were
5 conflicts involved between the Debtor and between the service
6 providers, particularly legal and compliance services, given
7 all that was going on. And there were a number of matters
8 they couldn't participate on. Historically used their legal 9 and compliance services significantly.

10 And that, in addition to discovering that there were a
11 number of employees we were reimbursing for in payroll
12 reimbursement agreements that were no longer employed by the 13 Debtor, yet we were paying for the full services.

14 So, with that, we had discussions internally about if and 15 when or how we could terminate them, and --

16 Q Let me stop you.

17 A -- termination --

18 Q Let me stop you. Ultimately, I take it, the Advisors
19 never tried to terminate these shared services agreements,
20 correct?

21 A That's correct.

22 Q Why?

23 A There was an order specifically that Jim or anybody
24 related to Jim could not terminate an agreement with the 25 Debtor. And he specifically pointed that out to us when we

112

1 discussed this, and so we knew we couldn't take action. There
2 was also -- counsel discussed that the stay with the Court --
3 Q Let's not -- let's not talk about counsel. Let's not talk
4 about counsel, --

5 A Sorry.

6 Q -- Mr. Norris. Okay. But the point is, at least as of 7 last October, would you agree, that the notion that these 8 agreements would be terminated by one or the other parties was 9 known to you?

10 A Yeah. So, the -- we expected that at some point there
11 would need to be a termination. I -- that was discussed. And 12 there was a plan, and I'm sure we'll talk about it, but a plan
13 to transition the employees and the services to a new company
14 and to new service providers. And I think both sides had been 15 working for quite a while to ensure there was a smooth
16 transition, and we expected that to happen. But there would 17 need to be a termination of that agreement -- either a
18 transfer of that agreement or a termination to a new company
19 that would be providing new services, or transferred those 20 services directly to us.

21 Q So I'd like you to pick what word you'd like to use, but 22 what I've called a backup plan in my objection or what Jim 23 called a divorce plan in his testimony, how -- what shall we 24 call this backup plan?

25 A All-contingency plannings. Or we'll call it backup plan.

Norris - Direct

113

1 Q Okay.

2 A I think that works.

3 Q So is it fair to conclude that since at least last
4 October, the Advisors have known about the possibility of 5 having to do a backup plan?

6 A Yeah. And I think even before then we knew there was a
7 possibility. But the plan, the strong Plan A of everything
8 that had been communicated to us by the Debtor and their 9 employees was that the intent was to transfer all those 10 services to a new company, with the same individuals providing 11 the same services. There was no significant indication to us
12 that that would be any different.

13 Yet we still had then begun planning, well, what if,
14 right, Plan B was implemented or began many months ago and in 15 recent weeks, in recent months, it's been expedited to be able 16 to ensure that we have a solid Plan B. But yes, it's been 17 ongoing for months.

18 Q So if there is an implication or allegation made that the 19 Advisors were negligent with respect to transitioning from the 20 shared services agreements because they didn't start taking it
21 seriously last August or September, would you agree or 22 disagree with that allegation?

23 A I would disagree, because there were assurances or 24 discussions that made it very clear that everybody was working
25 together towards a Plan A. Yet we were still discussing -- I

Norris - Direct

114

1 know Mr. Seery mentioned he's a Boy Scout. I agree in that.
2 Be prepared. I'm an Eagle Scout. And so we have been 3 preparing, but the preparations weren't needed in the manner
4 that we thought they were needed until in the last month,
5 right, and -- because everything was moving in the right
6 direction for a clean transition plan, and even up until last
7 week.

8 However, the last month and a half we've had to prepare in 9 earnest for Plan B, and that involved a tremendous amount of 10 effort. And I'm happy to go into that now. But yes, there's 11 -- there has been -- we have 80 employees across our Advisors,
12 and almost every single one of them have been involved in Plan
13 B, and a group of about 18 of us for several weeks, planning,
14 game-planning, and thinking through all the contingency plans.

15 Q Well, let's round off the discussion about these boards.
16 Did you make the boards aware since last fall and into this
17 year about both the ideal plan, which was, I guess, you know,
18 an agreement with the Debtor, but also a backup plan, in case?

19 A Yeah. So, in -- in August, --

20 Q When --

21 A -- when the Court -- oh, sorry, yeah.

22 Q No, no. Well, go ahead.

23 A Go ahead.

24 Q I was going to ask you how and when, but you -- you -- go
25 ahead.

Norris - Direct

115

1 A Yeah. Yeah. So, up until August, there was, I think, a
2 view that there would be a negotiation, a negotiation reached.
3 Things had been pushing along. We know that in August there
4 was a plan filed with the Court. And Mr. Seery even joined 5 our board meeting. And so in that meeting he discussed with 6 us, as well as the legal team of the Debtor, discussed with us
7 the Plan B at that point, which was defined with the Court.
8 That the goal and objective was a grand bargain, as he 9 explained it, and that he -- that was the Plan A. But even 10 under either plan, there would be a transition of services.
11 He joined again, I believe, one or two more times, to 12 additional board calls that fall. There was mediation we were 13 aware of and had discussed with the board to help resolve some 14 of these items.

15 And so, you know, just in the same time frame Mr. Seery 16 shared earlier, it corresponded with those discussions that we 17 were having.

18 In addition, D.C. Sauter and other individuals at our 19 firm, as well as individuals from the Debtor, were working 20 throughout the fall and into the winter on the various 21 discussions on transition. And so that's --

22 Q Did you hear Mr. Dondero testify about over a thousand 23 line items?

24 A Yeah, I did.

25 Q Do you know what -- what is he referring to, do you know?

Norris - Direct

116

1 A So, within the transition services agreement, there --
2 there's about 11 or 12 pages in an exhibit that are a number
3 of agreements. That's -- that's the remaining agreements that
4 we've agreed that are needed. He may have had a little
5 hyperbole in his thousand, but there is -- there were -- there
6 was at least a thousand points of discussion that had to be
7 resolved. Most of them were minor, right, and we came to a
8 quick agreement on most of those, and there was only a handful
9 of things that needed to be resolved. And because of that, I
10 felt comfortable and confident, particularly from the middle
11 of January on, where I became much more involved, that there
12 would be an orderly agreement on those points.

13 Q Did you tell the boards that the Debtor would enter into 14 the agreement that had been negotiated only on the condition
15 that Mr. Dondero not be permitted to be on the premises?

16 A Sorry. You said the Debtor would enter into or -- oh,
17 that he wouldn't be permitted onto the premises?

18 Q Well, we'll go more -- we'll go in detail later, but I
19 want to round off the board discussion here. Obviously, you
20 heard from Mr. Seery and in my paper that we had an agreement
21 done except for one issue, right?

22 A Yes. Yes.

23 Q And that issue was whether Mr. Dondero would be on the 24 premises or not, right?

25 A Yes.

Norris - Direct

117

1 Q Did you discuss that with the board, that issue?

2 A We did. We --

3 Q And did you get any instructions from the board that have 4 led you to do anything other than you've actually done?

5 A No. No, we -- they -- the board, as I mentioned, we've 6 had eight board meetings this year discussing in detail our 7 backup planning. They understood the Jim access issue and 8 they felt comfortable with our backup planning. But also, you
9 know, our view, and I think that they shared that, that he 10 should have access --

11 Q Well, let's stop there. Let's stop there. Let's stop
12 there. I'll ask -- I'll ask more of those questions later. I
13 don't -- I don't want to invite Mr. Morris's objections here
14 based on you talking outside the scope --

15 A Yeah.

16 Q -- of my question. Let's move on now to the shared
17 services agreements themselves. You heard Mr. Seery's
18 characterization of them from a top level. Would you agree
19 with his characterization, or how would you characterize what 20 the shared services agreements actually did?

21 A Yeah. I think he called them middle- and back-office
22 services. I think, to add a little bit more to that, it's IT
23 services, including the systems and computers that we all use.
24 It's HR. It is accounting and back-office services, many of 25 those for our advisors and some of them for our funds. We do

Norris - Direct

118

1 outsource a number of accounting functions to other service
2 providers, and have for years, and they provide an oversight
3 function for the accounting and the books and records for our 4 funds. They also provide tax services and things like that 5 for our advisors and funds.

6 Q Now, in --

7 A And as well legal and compliance services. Legal and 8 compliance services as well.

9 Q In our exhibits that have been admitted are two employee
10 or payroll reimbursement agreements. We don't have to go 11 through those in detail, but you're -- are you aware of those
12 agreements?

13 A I am, yes. And I would add that -- and those are in 14 addition to the services that are provided under the shared
15 services agreement. Those are front-office or investment
16 services.

17 Q Okay. Now, did there come a time when a dispute arose
18 between the Debtor and the Advisors as to how much an amount
19 was owing by the Advisors to the Debtor under the shared
20 services agreement?

21 A That's correct.

22 Q What was the basis of that dispute?

23 A Yeah. So, in particular, as I mentioned earlier, certain 24 of the services we believe we are no longer receiving. Many 25 of those related to legal and compliance. We've had to shift

Norris - Direct

119

1 a lot of those responsibilities in-house and to outside
2 counsel.

3 And particularly related to the payroll reimbursement
4 agreements, we hadn't realized that we were overpaying for 5 employees that -- and again, they're payroll reimbursement
6 agreements for employees that are dual-hat employees, dual
7 employees of the Debtor and our Advisors, providing investment
8 services. And there's a list or exhibit that shows the number
9 -- the actual employees with their names and the allocations
10 of their time. And so two-thirds of those employees, when we 11 realized or saw the list or received the list on the exhibit
12 in the agreement, which was around the end of November or 13 early December, two-thirds of them are no longer employed by 14 the Debtor. And we continue -- and they continue to bill us
15 based on historical averages, not based on the actual amounts.

16 So we inquired of that, we asked for email --

17 Q Let me -- let me pause you.

18 A Oh, sorry.

19 Q Let me pause you.

20 A Yeah.

21 Q Let me pause you. So, during the negotiations with the 22 Debtor in December, January, and February, did you ask for any 23 kind of clarification or reconciliation of these amounts?

24 A Yeah. So, on multiple occasions, we asked for the detail
25 of what they were invoicing us for, and then, in particular,

Norris - Direct

120

1 in late January and again a couple times in February, I asked
2 multiple employees for reconciliation. Two reconciliations.
3 One was a reconciliation of the employees that they were
4 charging under the expense -- I'm sorry -- payroll
5 reimbursement agreement, to the actual amounts that they
6 charged us, and then separately I asked for a reconciliation
7 of amounts billed to us under the shared services agreement to 8 what they actually incurred on their end.

9 And the rationale for the latter was because the expense
10 reimbursement -- or, sorry, the shared services agreement for 11 Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors is actually a cost
12 plus a margin of five percent. So they are to charge us what 13 their costs are plus a margin of five percent, yet they 14 continue to bill us the same amounts based on historical 15 averages.

16 And so the amounts in dispute were particularly in the 17 last few months, where those amounts hadn't changed and where 18 we raised this concern.

19 Q Did you get a response or a reconciliation from the Debtor
20 on these overpayment issues?

21 A No.

22 Q Okay. Now, when did you become -- well, you heard Mr.
23 Dondero say that he delegated the primary responsibility for a
24 transition of services to you, correct?

25 A Yes.

Norris - Direct

121

1 Q When was that?

2 A Yeah. So, January -- in mid-January, I became very
3 involved. I had less of authorization prior to that. I was 4 involved in some of the negotiations on contracts and things
5 like that in early December. Had a meeting with Debtor
6 employees on that, and that they had been working on for 7 months, along with Mr. Sauter. Mr. Sauter had taken more of 8 an active role prior, in December and October and even 9 September, and before -- before all that.

10 So, in January, mid-January, they actually came to me on 11 January 12th with permission from Mr. Seery to interact 12 directly with me and to negotiate the additional terms of the 13 transition with me. And Jim authorized me at that time to 14 move forward.

15 Q Okay. Did you discuss with Mr. Seery whether you would be 16 permitted to talk to Debtor employees as part of this?

17 A So, I did not talk to Mr. Seery, but I talked to J.P.
18 Sevilla, Brian Collins, David Klos, and Frank Waterhouse, who 19 they had told me explicitly that Mr. Seery had authorized them
20 to negotiate with me.

21 Q Okay. Was there some impediment prior to that 22 authorization to being able to discuss Newco issues with the 23 Debtor's employees?

24 A So, there were a number of things. And as this Court is 25 very well aware, that three weeks prior to that, there were a

Norris - Direct

122

1 number of events. There was a TRO for Mr. Dondero and our
2 Advisors, there was a preliminary injunction for Mr. Dondero,
3 and there were claims of interference. And we took a very 4 cautious approach and didn't want to interfere in any manner.
5 And so in these regards, and in many, I mean, everyone was 6 very cautious. And so those were -- those were steps that it
7 was challenging.

8 In addition, I should note that Mr. Scott Ellington was 9 helping the Debtor and negotiating this transition agreement
10 before he was let go in early January.

11 And so with all those events, we had to take a more
12 cautious approach to communication.

13 Q Okay. And approximately when did Mr. -- did the Debtor, 14 to your satisfaction, authorize direct interaction with the 15 employees so that you could negotiate a more fulsome
16 agreement?

17 A Yeah. It was when they called me on January 12th --

18 Q Okay. And is it fair to say --

19 A -- and notified me of that.

20 Q Is it fair to say that that's the date when the 21 negotiations really got going?

22 A Absolutely, yes. Yeah.

23 Q Okay. Did you ever ask the Debtor for a draft agreement
24 or term sheet or whatever you want to call it as far as a
25 transition of services would be?

Norris - Direct

123

1 A I did, on multiple occasions.

2 Q When did you finally receive one?

3 A So, it was on January 28th, which was the last business
4 day of the shared services agreement term. Sorry, January
5 29th, a Friday. And January 12th, we engaged, as I mentioned.
6 We came to quick resolution on various items. And we began
7 asking for a term sheet. I actually asked them whether they 8 -- who they wanted to draft it, their counsel or our counsel.
9 They checked with their counsel. I thought it was a good idea
10 and agreed that it was a good idea for their counsel to draft
11 it, because, as they put it, this was their baby for many 12 months. They had -- because the Debtor employees and DSI,
13 their consultants, had been very involved, in taking 15 months
14 to that point, in figuring out what contracts were needed,
15 analyzing what needed on a --

16 Q Let me stop you.

17 A -- go-forward basis --

18 Q Let me stop you, --

19 A Yeah.

20 Q -- Mr. Norris. The point being, it was agreed between you
21 and the Debtor that the Debtor would take the first stab at a 22 term sheet, and you received that on or about January 29th of 23 this year?

24 A Correct.

25 Q Okay. Now, obviously, the Debtor extended the

Norris - Direct

124

1 termination, first to February the 14th, and then, second, to 2 February 19. Correct?

3 A That is correct.

4 Q Okay. Did the Advisors pay the Debtor for those delays,
5 pay cash money to the Debtor for those delays?

6 A We did. And we -- yes, we did.

7 Q Okay. And without belaboring the point or taking any more
8 time than necessary, the numbers that I have in my objection
9 are that, for the first extension, we paid --

10 A I believe it was around $560,000.

11 Q Thank you. Thank you. And for the second extension, do
12 you recall?

13 A Around two hundred -- just over $200,000.

14 Q Okay. Why were those extensions necessary?

15 A They were necessary for multiple reasons, but it was 16 necessary to get a transition agreement completed, and that 17 was our goal and intent. It was also necessary to protect our 18 funds and our investors, to have a smooth transition. But 19 primarily, we were in a great spot until -- up until January
20 29th, we hadn't received a term sheet. So we couldn't 21 negotiate a term sheet that was pages long, with schedules
22 that were 10 or 15 pages long, in a day, and so we asked, in 23 good faith, can we have an extension? And they also were 24 agreeable to that, and it made sense for all parties.

25 Prior to that receiving the term sheet, though, there were

Norris - Direct

125

1 concerns that we would lose those services. They threatened
2 to pull those services. However, at the end, all parties
3 agreed.

4 And then the extension, the second extension was needed in 5 order to continue those -- those agreements, negotiations as 6 well, as they had pushed the termination date of the employees
7 from the anticipated January 31st to January 19th, and so we 8 asked that they moved the termination date of the shared
9 services in line with the termination of the employees,
10 because our understanding was those employees would be 11 transitioning to a new company providing those same services.

12 Q Okay. Maybe I misunderstood something because of the 13 video nature of this, but you mentioned something like pushing
14 the termination of the employees from January 30th to January
15 19th. Just for the record to be clear, because, again, I
16 might have misunderstood or misheard, but when was the Debtor
17 going to terminate nonessential employees originally and up to 18 what date was that pushed?

19 A Yeah. So our understanding is they were going to 20 terminate them on the 31st of January. They did end up
21 receiving termination notices that said January 19th. And so 22 that was pushed from what our understanding was, but that was 23 the first time I believe the employees received termination
24 notices for the 19th. Thereafter, after we negotiated an 25 extension of our shared services agreement one more week

Norris - Direct

126

1 before the 14th, to the 19th, the very next day they extended
2 the termination dates to the 28th for all employees, which
3 would extend it one week beyond the negotiated termination
4 date for the shared services agreement.

5 Q Well, here's my fundamental question. To your knowledge,
6 was that the Debtor's separate business decision as to when to 7 terminate employees or did you request that the Debtor extend 8 it to February 28th?

9 A That was their separate business decision. Um, --

10 Q That's fine.

11 A That was -- that was their separate business decision to 12 extend it. We didn't even anticipate them extending it --

13 Q I just want the record to --

14 A (overspoken)

15 Q I just want the -- I just want the record to be clear, Mr.
16 Norris. Let me direct you, please.

17 A Yes.

18 Q That that decision to extend the employee termination was 19 not at our request?

20 A Correct.

21 Q Now, let's talk about these negotiations a little bit. To 22 go back to this agreement that we had other than the Dondero
23 access issue as of last Tuesday, you agree that there was an 24 agreement other than the Dondero access issue as of last 25 Tuesday, right?

Norris - Direct

127

1 A Yes, that's correct.

2 Q Okay. How, if at all, was the amount of money that we
3 owed to the Debtor issue resolved between you and your
4 counterparts at the Debtor?

5 A Yeah. So, they, at the end of January, demanded that -- 6 and this was the first time that I was aware of the extent of 7 the amounts or that they were going to include payment of 8 past-due or disputed amounts as part of this agreement. That 9 came in on, I believe, January 27th. And they demanded we pay
10 it or they would cut off all shared services effective Friday, 11 the 29th. And that included our access to the -- to our 12 websites, our domains, our emails. It would include access to 13 the office. And so that was a major item.

14 They demanded five point -- approximately $5.2 million in 15 payments from our Advisors and a number of other entities.
16 And so, as part of that, that was a -- that was a problem,
17 because we can't speak for the other entities.

18 In addition, now we were commingling a financial dispute
19 with the peaceful transition of services. And so that was 20 resolved. We agreed with the Debtor and ultimately agreed 21 that, okay, we would pay these disputed amounts as part of 22 this, reserving our rights for any additional -- any 23 additional argument of that for another time, but we would 24 agree to pay our portion, which is approximately $3 million,
25 our disputed portion of what they were billing, with $1

Norris - Direct

128

1 million up front. They wanted it all up front, but they were 2 willing to allow us to pay $1 million up front and the 3 remainder over 14 months.

4 Q Okay. Going back to this agreement save the one issue,
5 how was the employee issue resolved?

6 A Yeah. So, the employee issue was an important one, and it
7 had been. These employees had been working hard providing 8 service for our funds and advisors for a very long time. The 9 plan all along was to transition them, as Mr. Seery said, to a 10 new entity. It would either be controlled by Mr. Dondero or 11 by the employees themselves.

12 And so we needed -- we need those services, right, in the 13 long run. And so that was resolved in that there would be a 14 new company formed, which we've been calling Newco. It would 15 be employee-owned. Initially, would be providing services
16 exclusively to our Advisors, but then would have the ability
17 to go out and provide the same services to other companies.
18 And so we found that as -- from the beginning a great 19 solution. And the principals of what would become Newco have 20 been interfacing with us and with Mr. Dondero regarding the 21 combination of those services.

22 So, as part of this agreement, the services would 23 transition directly to Newco, with the same people providing 24 the same services in the same seats.

25 Q Okay. What about -- just so that the record is clear,

Norris - Direct

129

1 there's a large corporate office over at Crescent Court here
2 in Uptown Dallas, right?

3 A That's correct.

4 Q And the lease, obviously, just to speed things up, the 5 lease is in the name of the Debtor, but for many years
6 NexPoint and other employees have been on premises, correct?

7 A Yes. We've been there since they opened the space. I
8 believe it was February 2012 when we moved there. Maybe
9 February 2011. But our Advisors have been there in that space
10 since then.

11 Q Okay. So how was the future of this lease and resulting 12 lease payments resolved as part of this tentative agreement as 13 of last Tuesday?

14 A Yeah. So, it was a 75/25 split, where the Debtor would 15 pay 25 percent and we would pay 75 percent for the remaining
16 lease term, which was approximately 14 months.

17 Q And approximately how much would our 75 percent over 14
18 months have amounted to?

19 A I believe that's approximately one -- between $1-1/2 and 20 $2 million.

21 Q Okay. Now, we'll talk about this in some detail later,
22 but there are certain third-party software and information
23 providers -- Bloomberg, for example -- that the Debtor uses
24 that we have access to under the agreements but that the 25 Debtor must pay the third parties for, correct?

Norris - Direct

130

1 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I just object. Again, if
2 Mr. Rukavina wants to testify -- this is not a question. This 3 is testimony.

4 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, --

5 MR. MORRIS: I mean, there's no foundation. There's 6 nothing.

7 THE COURT: Sustained.

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay. Very well.

9 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

10 Q Mr. Norris, does the Debtor -- or, did the Debtor provide,
11 pursuant to shared services agreements, access to third-party
12 software platforms?

13 A Yes. They did. There was a number of agreements --

14 Q Stop. Stop.

15 A -- that were --

16 Q Stop. Stop. Stop. Were these some of the things that 17 you were negotiating with the Debtor as you were negotiating
18 that transition of services?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Name a few of the most important of these third-party
21 service providers that you were negotiating with the Debtor.

22 A Yeah. Bloomberg, particularly the order management system
23 of Bloomberg. Oracle, which is an accounting system, to name
24 a few. Those were the most important ones.

25 Q Describe with some more specificity, please, what the

Norris - Direct

131

1 order management system is. OMS.

2 A Yeah. An order management system is an operating system
3 that allows you to trade various funds and asset classes all
4 through one system. And so we have a number of funds, we have 5 a number of asset classes we trade, which include loans,
6 bonds, and equities. And so trading all of that through a
7 system that then sorts it, allocates it, and does it all in an 8 efficient manner -- in addition, it incorporates various rules
9 and metrics for trading and efficiency -- so it's very 10 customized, it's very customized for the rules related to our 11 funds, very customized for the rules related to what we trade
12 for our Advisors, and it's been used primarily by the traders
13 from our Advisors or employed by our Advisors.

14 So that's what the OMS is. And it's Bloomberg that has 15 the software, and it's been customized directly with 16 Bloomberg.

17 Q Okay. Did you come to an agreement with the Debtor as to 18 how the future costs or license fees for these platforms and 19 services would be allocated between the Debtor and the 20 Advisors?

21 A We did. It would be, for most of them, which is 22 approximately a hundred contracts, is about -- is a 60/40
23 allocation. We would pay 60 percent and they would pay 40
24 percent. There are some of them that they said they didn't 25 use that we agreed we would pay a hundred percent of. But

Norris - Direct

132

1 most of them are a 60/40 split.

2 Q Okay. And did you calculate approximately how much in
3 payments pursuant to that formula we would make, the Advisors
4 would make in the future under the draft agreement?

5 A Yeah. So, it is approximately $240,000 per month,
6 inclusive of the lease. So, exclusive of the lease, it was 7 about $120,000 per month.

8 In addition, there were one-time payments for annual 9 payments, which I think was around $200,000 or $300,000.

10 So it is a -- it's a couple million dollars over the life
11 of the contract.

12 Q Okay. And to fast forward to last Tuesday, the one issue
13 that had not been resolved was Mr. Dondero's physical presence 14 on the premises, correct?

15 A That's right. That's right.

16 Q Was this a last-second issue or had this been discussed
17 for some time?

18 A No, it wasn't a last-second issue. We actually included
19 it in our first multiple drafts or responses to their term
20 sheet. We got the term sheet on the 29th of January and it
21 did not include any specifics around Mr. Dondero's access, but 22 we added that in early drafts of the term sheet and it was 23 removed by their counsel and reinserted in the -- I know there
24 was discussion between counsel on various aspects of it. It
25 was removed from what was their final version, and maybe even

Norris - Direct

133

1 the draft before that, but it was added in by us again as --
2 for all the reasons we mentioned before. We thought it needed
3 to be stated explicitly in the agreement. And the attorneys
4 had discussed that it could be handled --

5 Q Let's not talk about -- yeah, let's not talk about the 6 attorney discussions.

7 A Okay.

8 Q You heard Mr. Seery say that the Debtor refused to permit
9 Mr. Dondero onto the premises and you heard him say why. Did
10 the Advisors offer any compromise on this access issue?

11 A We did.

12 Q What was that offer?

13 A So, we offered to -- and in all this, it's thinking, what 14 are the employees from the Debtor that are going to be using 15 this? We haven't even really received a good understanding of 16 who that is.

17 However, we offered to take approximately 25 percent of 18 the office. And there is a clear area where we could build a
19 wall. They could have their own separate access, their own
20 separate restrooms, their own separate entrance, where they 21 wouldn't have any involvement or connection to us. And so we 22 also offered with that, whenever you need access to the other
23 portion, let us know. We can even have Jim Dondero leave, if 24 you're concerned.

25 And so that was one option. We could build a wall. And

Norris - Direct

134

1 we even put that in the written agreement. We will build a
2 wall at our expense. That was the -- that was the -- what our 3 offer was.

4 Q How did the Debtor respond to that offer?

5 A They removed it from the agreement and they told us that
6 we had until 6:00 p.m. to sign their agreement with no Dondero
7 access or they would file a lawsuit.

8 Q And this was last Tuesday?

9 A This was Tuesday.

10 Q Okay. Were you able to respond by their deadline, which 11 they -- then they later moved to midnight of that same day?

12 A I'm not sure if there was a response. It was handled
13 between attorneys. Our counsel. I had -- just as Mr. Dondero
14 stated, I had rolling blackouts in my home from 2:00 a.m. on 15 Monday until Thursday. I -- I and D.C. were aware of the 16 offer, as was our counsel, and I believe there was a -- and I
17 believe there was a response from our counsel in time, but I'm 18 not -- I wasn't certain at the time. I knew that, as well,
19 there was an extension, but I didn't find out until the next
20 day because I did not have power.

21 Q And ultimately, the Debtor either rejected that last offer
22 or let the offer expire by not accepting it. It doesn't 23 matter which. But is that accurate?

24 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form --

25 THE WITNESS: Yes.

Norris - Direct

135

1 MR. MORRIS: -- of the question.

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll ask it a different
3 way.

4 THE COURT: Sustained.

5 MR. RUKAVINA: I'll ask it a different way.

6 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

7 Q Did the Advisors accept the Debtor's last offer made on 8 Tuesday of last week, the one you just referenced?

9 A No.

10 Q Why?

11 A As explained, I think, clearly by Mr. Dondero as well, it
12 did not have the provisions that we thought necessary. And 13 when you think about this, we were going to be required to pay
14 significant dollars for an office space where our president
15 and principal was not permitted.

16 We had an option to go other -- elsewhere, right? Here,
17 we're in a separation experience. This agreement that they 18 had, they had told us early on it was fill-or-kill. They told
19 us early on that it was not a la carte. When we pushed them
20 on that a couple weeks later, they said, well, the only thing
21 that's not negotiable is the office, right? If you want
22 everything else, you've got to have the office. That was in a
23 discussion with various attorneys on the phone.

24 And so, with this, we knew this was a kind of take-it-or-
25 leave-it offer, and we could have gone elsewhere. And we had

Norris - Direct

136

1 already been preparing, in the event that we couldn't have a
2 deal, to go elsewhere. And so, with that, if they were not
3 going to permit -- which we thought was very reasonable,
4 specifically with all of the additions, you know, the 5 consideration -- sorry, my battery is about to die on my 6 computer. I'm plugging in the charger here.

7 So, with all of those considerations, we couldn't sign
8 that deal, especially as -- without that key access.

9 Q You personally, Dustin Norris, now, personally, as an 10 officer and a fiduciary, did you think that it was appropriate
11 or inappropriate that Mr. Dondero be allowed on the premises
12 in the future?

13 A I thought it would be appropriate for him to be there.

14 Q Why?

15 A So, I've been working for Mr. Dondero for a long time. I
16 know the way he operates, and I know that the way that he 17 manages his organization, which is a complex organization, he 18 needs to be there in person. We haven't been in the office
19 because of a -- a disregard for COVID. We are an essential
20 business, and we have been, as a financial services business.
21 But the way we operate is very in-person, and that's how Jim 22 operates.

23 In addition, I've never heard of a situation where the 24 principal or the control person of a company -- there's no
25 question that Mr. Dondero controls the organization -- cannot

Norris - Direct

137

1 be there in person.

2 And so, from that perspective, given and knowing all of 3 our other plans, given the ability for many people to 4 relocate, given the abundance of office space elsewhere, if we
5 were forced to accept an agreement that did not allow Mr.
6 Dondero for the next 14 months to be there in person, it was 7 -- it was going to be a challenge for us from a business
8 perspective.

9 Q Do customers or investors or prospective customers and 10 investors come to the offices historically to meet with the 11 Advisors and their personnel?

12 A Pre-COVID, yes. Regularly.

13 Q Okay. Would Mr. Dondero participate in those meetings?

14 A He would, yes.

15 Q Were you concerned that him being unable to participate in 16 those meetings would affect future business and profitability?

17 A Yeah. I think if you look at this -- key investors come 18 in and see this big cavernous open office and ask why the 19 manager of the funds is not even allowed to be in your office,
20 you know, or is that impacting the way you operate, then yes,
21 I think he needs to interact with people that are coming
22 through the office.

23 Q He has not been in the office since about the beginning of 24 this year; is that correct?

25 A Correct.

Norris - Direct

138

1 Q Do you feel like that has caused any harm or disruption to
2 the Advisors' business?

3 A Yeah. I don't know that I would characterize it as harm,
4 but it has been disruption, right? I'm -- the way that we
5 operate, having Jim there, being able to have consistent,
6 regular meetings in person, which for me were multiple times
7 per day on a regular basis, and many others, it was 8 disruptive. Being able to reach him, how to reach him. Do I
9 need to get in my car and drive to another location where he's 10 at, which I did on many occasions. We typically get people
11 together very quickly in groups: Let's go talk to Jim. And 12 that becomes a challenge to get things done quickly and in an 13 efficient manner.

14 So it has been a disruption, and it's not something that 15 we would desire to do, if we had the choice, for another 14
16 months.

17 Q Okay. Now let's talk about the backup plan, please. I
18 guess let's start with: What is our backup plan? Well, let 19 me start with this.

20 A Yeah.

21 Q Do we have a backup plan?

22 A And I think the key now, instead of calling it a backup
23 plan, is an operating plan.

24 Q Okay.

25 A For --

Norris - Direct

139

1 Q Do --

2 A -- several weeks, --

3 Q Let me -- let me -- that's a very good point. Prior to a
4 few days ago, did we have a backup plan in place for what we
5 would do if we were not able to enter into a transition
6 services agreement with the Debtor?

7 A We did, yes. And --

8 Q Since when -- let me -- let me direct you. Let me direct
9 you. Since when did we have that backup plan?

10 A Yeah. So, the backup plan -- the backup plan began many 11 months ago, but as I mentioned earlier, it began in earnest in 12 the end of January, right? And over the last month
13 especially, we've been putting in place all of the required
14 systems and processes and procedures in order to continue
15 doing all the duties under our advisory agreements. And that 16 includes all of the services that are provided for the Debtor
17 -- by the Debtor.

18 And our backup plan, a big part of that included the 19 transition, and it still includes the transition of those 20 employees to Newco. We are in active negotiations and believe
21 that Newco, once those employees are terminated on the 28th,
22 they will be able to perform their same duties on March 1st of 23 this year.

24 And so we expect those services to happen. In the 25 interim, we've prepared for and have contingency plans in

Norris - Direct

140

1 place in order to do all that we need to do. We have systems
2 and servers that are set up in an SEC-compliant manner. We
3 are operating on a new email system. We have our files --

4 Q Let's go --

5 A -- that are essential.

6 Q Let's go step by step here so that the judge --

7 A Yeah.

8 Q -- has a very clear picture of what all is involved. So
9 I'm going to try to break it down. I think both you and Mr.
10 Seery talked about back-office and middle-office services.
11 What are those? What does that refer to in the industry?

12 A Yeah. So, back-office -- back-office and middle-office
13 includes HR, IT. Accounting is a big part of that back-office
14 services. And in regards to our funds, it is the oversight of 15 the accounting process on a day-to-day basis and on a monthly
16 and quarterly basis, for annual reports, for audits. It's the 17 day-to-day valuation services that are provided to our funds.
18 And so those are the key functions. It's legal and compliance
19 as well --

20 Q So let's --

21 A -- the Debtor has been providing for our funds.

22 Q Let's go step by step. So let's assume that I'm -- I want
23 to invest in your fund. In a retail fund, pardon me. Am I
24 able to pop up daily or almost instant information regarding 25 its assets, its valuations, et cetera?

Norris - Direct

141

1 A Yes. So, most of our --

2 Q Is that -- is that --

3 A -- funds --

4 Q Is that part of what you were just describing about
5 valuation and accounting services on a real-time basis?

6 A Yes, it's part. It's more of the oversight function.

7 Q Okay.

8 A We outsource the daily processing and NAV-striking, or the 9 actual accounting, day-to-day accounting, to an outside third
10 party called SEI. And the Debtor had provided oversight
11 function as well as valuation services for that daily
12 accounting process.

13 Q Okay. So the Debtor, for accounting, wasn't actually 14 crunching the numbers every day; it'll -- supervising third
15 parties. And that's been the historical norm, correct?

16 A That's correct. I actually --

17 Q Now, let's --

18 A -- years ago filled that function.

19 Q Okay. So let's -- so how are we, the Advisors, today,
20 compensating for the lack of the Debtor's back-office and 21 middle-office services, or how are we transitioning from that 22 today?

23 A Yeah. So, a key part of that is the transition to Newco,
24 right, and as well that is planned for next week. However, in 25 the interim, we have very good plans and processes in place.

Norris - Direct

142

1 We have -- on the accounting front, on a day-to-day basis, we
2 have added our key personnel, our accounting teams, which has 3 been actually bulked up in recent years. We have a number of 4 publicly-traded REITS that have SOX-compliant processes and 5 procedures.

6 And the CFO of our real estate platform, Brian Mitts, used
7 to be the principal financial officer of all of these funds.
8 He continues to be and operates as the principal financial 9 officer for one of them, or had been throughout all of this 10 time, and is a participant in all of the board meetings and 11 regular valuation processes. In addition, he has a team of 12 accountants.

13 And so they are now copied on all the day-to-day
14 accounting emails from our third-party providers. They have 15 been for several days.

16 In addition, as a backup measure, we hired on a consulting
17 basis the former senior accounting manager who worked until 18 April of about two years ago for the Debtor, providing these 19 same services to our funds. And so, on a contract basis, he's 20 there as needed.

21 In addition, we have received from the Debtor a list of 22 employees, if they're needed, that we could hire. There's 23 about seven of them in the accounting and operations
24 functions. They gave us permission last week to do so. And 25 one for valuation.

Norris - Direct

143

1       So, those functions, if they're needed in the interim
2 period before Newco is in place, we'll have those.

3       In addition, from an IT perspective, which is an important
4 part here, they maintain -- the Debtor maintained our systems
5 and servers. We have contracted --

6       Q   Let's not -- let's not -- we'll talk --

7       A   Yeah.

8       Q   We'll talk about -- we'll talk about IT momentarily.

9       A   Yeah.

10      Q   You mentioned -- so you just discussed accounting. What 11 about -- and I think you -- did your discussion right now
12 include transition of the valuation services?

13      A   Yeah. So, in that regard, --

14      Q   Okay. What about -- what about -- what about legal, 15 transition of legal services and compliance, regulatory 16 compliance?

17      A   Yeah. That -- as I had mentioned before, the services we 18 had been receiving from the Debtor have slimmed down
19 dramatically, and particularly around legal services. We 20 still had been receiving significant support from Lauren
21 Thedford, who is a very reliable team member of the Debtor.
22 She was also serving as an officer of the funds, of our funds,
23 until Friday, when she resigned. But we have in place with 24 SEI, they provide admini... regulatory and legal admin
25 services to us, and have all along. They're prepared to step

Norris - Direct

144

1 up in her absence.

2 And also K&L Gates, who already serves as advisor counsel
3 and fund counsel, is set and has been already picking up the 4 slack and prepared to do anything that Lauren was doing. She 5 is a valuable team member. We hope that as we transition to 6 Newco that she'll be able to, as mentioned earlier, step back
7 on as an officer of the funds.

8 Q Now let's talk about IT, information technology. What 9 services was the Debtor providing to the Advisors in the 10 nature of IT under the shared services agreements?

11 A Yeah. So, our IT equipment, our computers, our screens, 12 were their property, or at least that's -- that's the -- 13 that's what -- it's in their name. Not all of it, but some of 14 it. In addition, they provide IT support. So if we have an 15 IT problem, we need to call the IT guy, they provide that.
16 They provide support for the servers. They own the servers.
17 They own the system. Or at least that's what -- that's what 18 their -- their claim is. And so they provide all of those 19 kind of IT functions for us, or had until this past weekend.

20 Q Does that include email?

21 A That's right. They -- they --

22 Q Does that include -- hold on.

23 A We have a number of --

24 Q Hold on. Hold on. Does that include Internet -- does 25 that include Internet connectivity?

Norris - Direct

145

1 A It included the Internet connections at work. It included
2 the phones. It included our emails and email servers and the 3 --

4 Q What about --

5 A -- domain that, even though they're in our names -- yeah.

6 Q That's what I was going to ask next. What about domain
7 names? How are those handled?

8 A They have claimed that those are theirs as well, that the 9 domains we use for our websites and for our emails are theirs.

10 Q Okay. And what about electronic data, just a wealth of 11 internal books and records, kind of corporate data? Did the 12 Debtor provide --

13 A Yeah.

14 Q -- any services with respect to that?

15 A Yeah. So, they retain all of the data that we use on 16 their networks and servers, and all of that is stored on 17 shared drives and on their system or on the computers that are 18 owned by them. And so even though they're our books and 19 records, I believe you read earlier the provisions of the data
20 provision, and so that is all stored on their systems.

21 Q Okay. So we just kind of discussed the universe of the IT
22 services that the Debtor provided. Did we miss anything or is 23 that kind of the stuff that really matters?

24 A I think that -- I think that covers the --

25 Q Okay.

Norris - Direct

146

1 A -- the main items.

2 Q How is that being handled by the Advisors today, or how is
3 that -- or has it been transitioned from the Debtor?

4 A Yeah. So, largely, we are handling it on our own and 5 through a third-party provider. So, we have bought and 6 purchased our own domain names. We've transitioned our emails
7 to those new domain names. We have made copies of our data,
8 or a lot of our data. There's still some stuff we need. But 9 our essential data. And we have transitioned to a new server
10 and systems that are -- that are secured and perform through 11 this third party who does this for a number of asset managers,
12 for endowments. And the way he has set it up is in an SEC-
13 compliant matter. So, dual authentication. All of the things
14 that you would expect from a security standpoint are in place.
15 And we are operating starting on -- we were mirroring for a 16 couple weeks, but on our own beginning on Saturday, when the 17 shared services were terminated, and have been sending those 18 emails from those -- the new systems and servers.

19 Q So that was going to be my next question. Is it that we 20 just did this (snaps fingers) Saturday like that, or did we 21 actually have a mirroring in place for quite some time?

22 A Yeah, we have for -- been working on this for multiple
23 weeks with the outside IT service provider, and it's been done
24 in phases. And so we've been -- we had a certain small 25 portion of the people start early, they tested it out, and

Norris - Direct

147

1 then we rolled it out more broadly over the last couple of
2 weeks.

3 Q Who is that third-party IT provider? What was that --

4 A Siepe.

5 Q Is that -- that's not proprietary information, is it?

6 A It's not.

7 Q Okay. Who is the third-party provider?

8 A It's Siepe. And they're a outsource --

9 Q Well, let me -- let me -- let me --

10 A -- provider --

11 Q Let me --

12 A Yeah.

13 Q Let me direct you. Will you please spell Siepe? I'm not 14 even sure how to spell it. And then tell the Court what Siepe
15 is and what it does.

16 A Siepe, it's S-I-E-P-E, and I believe it's Italian for 17 hedge, and they are an outsourced IT and IT development
18 provider. And it was actually started by a former member of 19 -- a former employee of Highland about a decade ago, I
20 believe. He spun out and created his own firm. And they do
21 this for a number of asset managers, including for Highland.
22 So they understand our systems. They understand their 23 systems. They're intimately familiar with what we need.
24 They've been servicing our Advisors for years and have created 25 a lot of the connections that we have with outside service

Norris - Direct

148

1 providers.

2 Q This ain't their first rodeo?

3 A No. I would think -- it would be -- have been challenging
4 to do it without Siepe, and -- but they were able to execute
5 very quickly because they knew and were already operating with 6 us for years.

7 Q So can investors, clients, in these funds today get on the 8 Internet and get whatever information they were able to get a
9 week ago, can they still get that today regarding their 10 investments?

11 A Yes, they can. And I would add one other thing here,
12 important, is the investors, all of their books and records
13 and the data related to our advi... to our funds, the 14 accounting data and the client data, are held at third
15 parties. So we have a third-party transfer agent that has all
16 of the information on client records. That is -- they don't 17 come to us for their client statements. They go to our 18 transfer agent.

19 In addition, our accounting functions, those data and 20 files are all on their systems.

21 And so as far as we're talking about data and what they 22 can come to us, they never come to us for their systems and 23 their data. If they want to know what the value is, they can 24 go to Morningstar.com or Yahoo Finance and see daily the 25 pricing of our funds, which are published daily, even

Norris - Direct

149

1 yesterday, published there for them. But their actual client
2 data is held at third-party administrators.

3 Q The point being, do you, other than maybe a change in the 4 email address, the point being do you think that investors or 5 clients or customers are even aware of the transition away
6 from the Debtor in the last few days?

7 A Based on business interaction --

8 MR. MORRIS: Object to the form of the question.

9 THE COURT: I'm sorry, was there an objection?

10 MR. MORRIS: There is an objection. To the extent
11 the question is asking for what other people think or believe
12 or perceive, I think that's improper. No foundation.

13 THE COURT: All right. I sustain.

14 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

15 Q Have you received any complaints from investors or 16 customers or clients in the last few days about their ability
17 to do anything with respect to their investments?

18 A Not that I'm aware of, no.

19 Q Okay.

20 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina, it's about 21 1:00. How many more minutes do you have?

22 MR. RUKAVINA: I don't think I have more than ten
23 minutes, Your Honor. Fifteen minutes, tops.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we need to take a lunch
25 break, so we're just going to break here. It is 1:00 o'clock.

Norris - Direct

150

1 I'm advised that my 1:30 matter is going to take maybe ten
2 minutes. So we will convene -- let me get a clarification.

3 If we reconvene at 1:45, Mike, do we need to hang up? Do
4 we need to terminate this and --

5 THE CLERK: Yes. We need to terminate this because 6 she's already gotten one set up at 1:30, the other one.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 THE CLERK: So they could probably just call in to 9 that one. We just need to get them the information. Let me
10 see if I can contract Traci, see what the best way. Because,
11 like I said, we've already got one for them.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 THE CLERK: So this one is going to end.

14 THE COURT: All right. So just stay, I guess,
15 connected. Is that what you're saying?

16 THE CLERK: Yes, stay connected.

17 THE COURT: Yes, stay connected. We'll come back at 18 1:45. And my staff will let you know if by chance we need to 19 terminate this and reconnect. But I think you can just stay
20 connected. Operate under that assumption for now.

21 All right. So I will see you at 1:45.

22 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

23 THE CLERK: All rise.

24 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you.

25 (A luncheon recess ensued from 1:01 p.m. to 2:14 p.m.)

Norris - Direct

151

1 THE COURT: Mr. Rukavina was examining Mr. -- I was
2 about to say Dustin -- Mr. Norris. So, are you ready to 3 proceed, Mr. Rukavina? You said you had a few more minutes.

4 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor? Pardon me. Your Honor,
5 I'm ready. Mr. Norris, can you hear me?

6 THE WITNESS: Yes, I can. Thank you.

7 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Norris, I'll remind you
8 you are still under oath from your prior swearing in.

9 All right. You may proceed.

10 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

11 DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

12 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

13 Q Mr. Norris, I think before we broke we rounded off a 14 discussion about the previously backup/now-operational plan
15 for IT and electronic data. I'd like to move on now to office
16 space.

17 A Okay.

18 Q What is the current status and plan for the Advisors to 19 have office space, both for their current employees and for 20 the Newco employees?

21 A Yeah. So, from our perspective, we've been in talks with 22 an organization that's willing to sublease a space that is 23 approximately -- close to our current space. And that is the 24 current plan.

25 In the interim period, all of our employees are working

Norris - Direct

152

1 remotely, and are doing so without any major issues. They're 2 able to -- in this COVID environment, fortunately, there are 3 systems and processes that have already been built out and 4 we've been able to transition to that without any issues.
5 Major issues. Without any major issues.

6 Q Is there any temporary office space available this week
7 for, you know, meetings or anything that might have to happen
8 in-person?

9 A Yeah. So, I'm actually sitting in a temporary office
10 space for a meeting. A company we have a relationship with is 11 allowing -- and -- office space here.

12 Q Okay. What about hardware, like computers, routers, all 13 of that stuff you testified earlier, most of which was the 14 Debtor's property that I'm taking it we left on the Debtor's
15 premises when we vacated Friday? What's the status of --

16 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, objection. Again, I don't 17 know what the testimony is and the references to "we".
18 There's no -- there's no evidence in the record that anything
19 was left behind. There's no evidence of any of this.

20 MR. RUKAVINA: I'll start again, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. Sustained.

22 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

23 Q Mr. Norris, you've heard Mr. Dondero testify or Mr. Seery
24 testify that the employees of the Advisors that were onsite at 25 Crescent Court vacated. Did you hear that testimony?

Norris - Direct

153

1 A Yes.

2 Q Is that accurate testimony?

3 A That is accurate. We all moved out by the end of day on 4 Friday.

5 Q That's Friday, the 19th of February?

6 A Correct.

7 Q Did any employees, to your knowledge, or did you see
8 anyone take any equipment, machinery, et cetera, that was not 9 property of the Advisors?

10 A Yeah. So, we were informed that we would have access to 11 the systems, as they testified to earlier, until today. So we 12 held onto those. They never told us they needed our laptops.
13 They never told us to leave our stuff, or their stuff. And so 14 we're prepared to provide those and return those. And we are 15 actually operating now independent of those IT resources,
16 being laptops, et cetera, and screens.

17 So, there were a number of laptops that were assigned to 18 us that we purchased just in the last few months, about 15 of 19 them. A number of screens as well. We took those, and those 20 continue to be used.

21 For essential personnel, we had, over the last several 22 weeks, purchased additional laptops. As you know, laptops --
23 you may know laptops are in short supply, and so we ordered
24 them for the essential people that did not have a computer at 25 home, so that they could be operating. Those were outfitted

Norris - Direct

154

1 and ready, many of them picked up last week, some picked up
2 this morning. And those that didn't have a laptop ready, we 3 ensured that they had home access and are able to log in 4 through the cloud. So, all of our systems are hosted by AWS,
5 which is an Amazon system, set up so that we can remote login
6 through a VPN connection. So, our employees are able to 7 access their email and our systems through there.

8 Q Okay. To the extent any of the Advisors' employees are in 9 possession of computer equipment that belongs to the Debtor,
10 will that be returned promptly?

11 A Yes. As they request it, it will be, yes.

12 Q Okay. Have the Advisors offered to purchase for cash
13 money those used laptops and other equipment?

14 A We have, yes.

15 Q Did the Debtor accept?

16 A It was part of our, as we referred to earlier, a slimmed-
17 down proposal over the weekend, which was very minimal, and it
18 included the laptops. And we offered a sum for that, and the 19 OMS system. The sum we offered was $300,000, and we also 20 offered to take one hundred percent of the OMS invoice going 21 forward, and offered the Debtor to continue using that, as we 22 know they -- we believe they may or may not need use for it.
23 But we offered that over the weekend, and they simply 24 responded with, We don't even know why you need this. And the 25 answer was their offer was still on the table, with no access

Norris - Direct

155

1 to Jim, and the whole agreement.

2 Q So, the Debtor wouldn't negotiate on an a la carte
3 purchase?

4 A No. We offered, actually, last Thursday as well, once we
5 had received the -- kind of the -- Wednesday or Thursday, I
6 can't remember the exact date, after the court filing had been 7 made, for a small, very slimmed-down, which was primarily the 8 OMS and certain data items, which they came back with some 9 counters which weren't workable. And then again, throughout 10 the weekend, I worked all day Saturday. They said they would 11 be willing to consider a slim-down, but send them an 12 agreement, and -- something that Jim Dondero had explicitly 13 agreed to. And we spent all day, discussed with Jim, and sent 14 them to them Sunday morning, to which they -- they did not 15 agree to.

16 Q Okay. Did they counter, or did they just say no?

17 A I think that the -- the counter was the offer from Friday,
18 and I can't remember which one it was. But there was a
19 counter, but it was not what Jim had authorized.

20 Q Okay. Let's move onto the third-party software that we 21 discussed before, Bloomberg, OMS, or Oracle. What is the 22 current status of that vis-à-vis our transition plan?

23 A Yeah. So, from a trading perspective, trading has been 24 done outside of OMS in the past, right? And if you look at -- 25 it's not as easy. There's also -- so, we have a manual

Norris - Direct

156

1 process in place that we're able to, and that we've tested,
2 that we're able to perform from a trading perspective, where 3 our traders interface directly with the brokers, where they're 4 able to manually input the trade. They're able to be 5 communicated to our custodians and our accountants, and then
6 that is able to be settled manually.

7 So, that's not ideal. We would like to have an order
8 management system. That said, I know there's discussions with 9 the Debtor, more employees of DSI, about getting copies of 10 their OMS for the data that is ours within the OMS, or 11 allowing us to get that data in order to actually enter into 12 an agreement separately with Bloomberg, which we've been 13 discussing with Bloomberg. And Bloomberg is willing, with 14 their approval, to get that copy and set it up without any 15 setup fees for us, and we would have a new instance of that 16 OMS.

17 Separately, there are some other free off-the-shelf OMS
18 solutions that our outside service providers have said they 19 can quickly implement. And so it's just determining based on,
20 really, the events today, and the discussions going on on the 21 OMS, what our path forward is. But we have a plan, which 22 we're executing on, to execute trades.

23 As the Debtor said, they are still providing access to our
24 -- their systems through the end of the case today. And I
25 think, as Mr. Seery said, there's -- they still see trades

Norris - Direct

157

1 going through the system. That's at their goodwill, and I
2 think that's great.

3 But the OMS is an area of continued focus. Again, we have 4 a plan to go forward or without it, but ideally we would have 5 a smooth transition there.

6 Q So, if the OMS purchase -- the OMS system can't be 7 purchased from the Debtor, you mentioned a potential agreement
8 with Bloomberg where a new OMS system would be purchased or 9 built? Or explain more what you mean by that.

10 A Yeah. So, Bloomberg has -- and this is their software,
11 the order management system through Bloomberg -- but it has 12 been highly customized over many years and has our historical 13 data in there, our rules, our Advisors' rules set up that we 14 use for trading. And so it would take several months for us
15 to go in and code exactly how we would like it. However, my 16 understanding is there's a backup where Bloomberg, with the 17 authorization from the Debtor, could transfer the underlying 18 data and setup.

19 Or alternatively, like I said, we offered over the weekend
20 to pay them a monetary sum to take over the Bloomberg
21 contract, and not just the OMS, but others that I think it was 22 approximately $450,000 a year in ongoing costs we would take 23 one hundred percent of and still provide them access.

24 Q Access for a fee or access for free?

25 A Free. Free of charge.

Norris - Direct

158

1 Q Okay. So just so that the judge knows, are we able to
2 execute trades today?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Will we be able to execute trades tomorrow?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Will we be able to execute trades into the future until we 7 either purchase or develop an OMS electronic system?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And in the meantime, it's being done manually, I think you
10 said?

11 A Yep, manually.

12 Q And do you have confidence that the manual system is going
13 to be safe and accurate?

14 A I do. There's -- there is multiple people involved.
15 They've actually run tests -- not test trades, but actual 16 trades, over the last couple of weeks through this system.
17 And our trader has been trading for over two decades, and this 18 is a system he used years ago before we put in place the OMS.
19 There is some --

20 Q Stop, stop, stop, stop, stop. What system did he use 21 years ago? I want you to be specific.

22 A This manual system --

23 Q Okay.

24 A -- that we're using today. We call it manual. It's a
25 direct with -- with a process that we used previously.

Norris - Direct

159

1 Q Okay. Thank you. I just wanted that clarification.

2 Do we have -- the Advisors, that is -- do the Advisors
3 have insurance in place for whatever it's called in your
4 business, but for basically messing up a trade? Whether it's 5 professional negligence or O&E or whatever it is. E&O.

6 A Yes. Our funds have insurance that is through ICI, which 7 is a -- they do this specifically for investment companies.
8 So, we have a -- I think it's an errors and omissions
9 insurance that covers, for example, if there was a NAV error.
10 A NAV error is if a fund made a mistake. In addition, we have 11 NAV error correction policies, where, if it's the Advisors'
12 fault, then the Advisor would have to kick in. But the 13 Advisor has insurance as well, as well, to cover things of 14 that nature.

15 Q What's the policy limit?

16 A I believe it's $5 million. I'm not certain, but I believe 17 it's $5 million.

18 Q Okay. So, over the course of the last several questions,
19 I've gone through kind of various processes and services that 20 the Debtor used to provide. Have I missed anything big-ticket
21 that you feel is of importance?

22 A As far as essential items, no. There are some smaller 23 items like HR, which is recruiting and hiring, those types of 24 smaller things. Cash management, communicating with 25 custodians, where those are smaller, minor items, but aren't

Norris - Direct

160

1 -- we're able to cover internally but you didn't mention in
2 particular. But those are -- those are the big items.

3 Q And do you have confidence or a lack of confidence that
4 your backup plan, now the operating plan, is going to succeed?

5 A I do. It's not the path that we all wanted to go down,
6 right, as we wanted to have a transition. We wanted to have 7 all these systems and software, as evidenced by trying again
8 to have the Bloomberg OMS through the weekend. It's not going 9 to be perfect, but I feel like we have everything in place to 10 do the job that we're required to do.

11 And we've tried to put in place, you know, controls to 12 mitigate risks wherever possible, and so I feel confident in 13 the plan. I've spent weeks and weeks losing sleep,
14 coordinating, you know, stressing over these items as a backup
15 plan, in addition to trying to negotiate an agreement. I've 16 had a team of senior people across our firm who are from each
17 area of our firm. I have spoken with Debtor employees to 18 consider what additional risks do we need to consider. And so 19 I think it's been very well-thought-out. And I mentioned the 20 last several weeks, that was when, again, when it became an 21 earnest necessity to ensure we had something.

22 Prior to that, you know, in December and November, we 23 received a list of all agreements. We reviewed a list of all 24 of our agreements, all the Debtor's agreements. And so we 25 were thoughtful already then what we needed. And so as we had

Norris - Direct

161

1 to then execute quickly, we knew exactly what was necessary
2 and what the Debtor was providing us. And so, as well, with 3 this transition agreement, there's about a hundred or so
4 services in there, and discussing what were essential and what 5 were not, what we could enter into by ourselves and what we 6 couldn't. And almost every one of them we could have entered 7 into ourselves. We would have loved to -- and I think we 8 would have had a cost savings, and it would have been a 9 benefit to them -- to reach this broad agreement, but for the 10 one remaining issue that neither Jim would approve.

11 So, we tried. We went through the, as I said earlier, a 12 thousand line items. We negotiated, I believe, in good faith
13 all along the way. Whenever -- an ultimatum was given to us
14 on Tuesday. I continued pushing all the way through Friday,
15 all the way through the weekend, and this is what I wanted.
16 But along the way, we were preparing in every way for the 17 backup, because I have '40 Act registered mutual funds, I have 18 a board who's demanded it, and we were trying in every way to 19 be able to continue these services in the event that HCMLP
20 would no longer provide them.

21 Q I think we've established that the Debtor will be 22 terminating the employees, some employees as of February the 23 28th. Do you expect to hire those employees through Newco
24 come March 1?

25 A Yeah. So, to make an adjustment there, there are about

Norris - Direct

162

1 eight to ten employees that are investment professionals that
2 we would need to hire directly at our Advisor. Earlier on in 3 the process, there was a question of whether we hire all
4 employees directly, whether Newco hires them, whether Newco is 5 owned by Jim or whether it's an independent business. The 6 current plan, which has been the last couple of months, is 7 that Newco would be independent, they'd be run by an 8 independent management team. We would -- we would be -- 9 provide -- providing them or entering into a shared services
10 agreement.

11 And so our full understanding and expectation is that 12 those employees for Newco will be hired or anticipated to be 13 hired after they're terminated on the 28th. All of that, I
14 know, is in negotiations, but I believe that is what the 15 Debtor is willing to do, and that those eight or ten employees
16 will be hired by us once they're terminated.

17 Q So, approximately how many employees, through Newco or 18 directly, do you expect to hire on or about March 1?

19 A I think there's approximately fifty or so. I know that 20 the Debtor is considering adding, I believe, somewhere around
21 five to ten employees, or taking those. I think we have -- we 22 have not heard or been told. We've been asked -- we've asked
23 several times. They haven't told us who those employees are.
24 But I think we have a pretty good idea.

25 But at this point, we think that the majority of the

Norris - Direct

163

1 people providing services to us in the back office and middle
2 office, again, because they'll want -- I believe they'll want
3 or are going to be handful of front-office people that help
4 with private equity and winding down those assets. But the 5 bulk, if not all, of the back-office personnel will transfer
6 over to Newco, with a handful of the investment professionals
7 to us.

8 Q Do you have any concern or is there anything outstanding
9 that would give you concern that that will not happen on or 10 about March 1?

11 A I sure hope it does, but one thing that may cause me --
12 maybe the only thing that may cause me concern is they have 13 twice moved back or maybe three times moved back the 14 termination dates. Now clearly know that our plan is to 15 involve Newco and all those employees to continue providing 16 services.

17 In the event that happens, we're prepared to continue.
18 The items that we're covering in the interim period are the 19 essential items. There's a number of services that -- that 20 Newco would provide that are not essential for the operations
21 of our funds. They include things like tax services for our 22 advisor or the books and records of our advisor, like the HR
23 recruiting services. You know, those could wait, or we could 24 contract them elsewhere.

25 And so -- but I do hope -- and our -- we don't anticipate

Norris - Direct

164

1 any disruption here. I know that they've said that Newco can
2 hire whoever they want. I think that that's going to be 3 smooth and orderly.

4 Q Well, so let me ask, let me ask -- I'm down to two or 5 three more questions, but let me ask a worst-case scenario
6 question. Come tomorrow or come Friday, you realize that you
7 can't do OMS manually; for some reason, the Debtor doesn't 8 release its employees; all of your planning turns out to have 9 been inadequate, and essential functions are not able to get
10 done: Are there third-party providers that could immediately
11 step in and provide basically every service that the Debtor is 12 currently providing to the Advisors in such an event?

13 A There are. I think the trading -- I think we have a good
14 plan. But to your point, your promise, if we couldn't pull it
15 off or there were issues, you can outsource trading. You can 16 outsource that. It's not a turn-on-the-switch, but we do have 17 and have had discussions with service providers there.

18 In the end, if Newco didn't work out, there are other
19 service providers, which I know that people in our team and 20 the Debtor have talked to, to provide outsourced accounting
21 oversight. There are -- there's multiple options. We just 22 have not --

23 Q So is it fair to say, is it fair to say that you have 24 currently a Plan B to your Plan B?

25 A Yeah, well, there is, yes, but I feel very good about our

Norris - Direct

165

1 current Plan B that we've implemented, to the extent I don't
2 think we're going to need that. But if there is a lack of 3 cooperation for some reason, we do have other options to 4 outsource those services.

5 Q Okay. My final question --

6 A Again, I don't anticipate -- I don't -- I don't -- I don't 7 think that's going to be the case, but --

8 Q My final question, Mr. Norris. This backup plan and now
9 the operational plan that you have, was it in any way
10 motivated, sped up, anything by the filing of this lawsuit?

11 A No. I think one thing the finalization -- the filing of 12 the lawsuit did was make us realize that the backup plan we 13 had been working on was absolutely needed. I felt very good 14 about where we were at that point, and we were prepared to 15 move forward.

16 It did change that I, over the next six days, me and 17 several other of the critical employees that have been working 18 on the backup plan would be involved in preparing for this 19 exact situation. Instead of continuing those discussions, I'd 20 rather be boots on the ground, dealing with my employees, the 21 senior management team and everyone else. Luckily, you know,
22 after my deposition, before my deposition yesterday, I was 23 involved in how is everything going. We had checkpoints and 24 touchpoints. We had calls in the afternoon.

25 Fortunately, there were no significant issues, but there

Norris - Direct

166

1 were a lot of minor issues. There were things that needed to 2 be approved or people had questions. But that, I think, is 3 the only thing that changed here. It's -- we had to -- now we 4 knew that, okay, they're going to pull the plug because of 5 this.

6 At that point, I was not expecting that really to happen
7 at that point, that that would be the issue.

8 Q Well, Mr. Norris, --

9 A But luckily, we had planned for it.

10 Q Mr. Norris, if an allegation is made that it was the 11 filing of this lawsuit that somehow spurred us into taking our 12 responsibilities seriously, would you agree with any such 13 allegation?

14 A No. I would disagree.

15 Q Thank you.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: I'll pass the witness.

17 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris?

18 THE WITNESS: I can't hear you. I think you might be 19 on mute, Mr. Morris.

20 (Pause.)

21 CROSS-EXAMINATION

22 BY MR. MORRIS:

23 Q Got it. Can you hear me now?

24 A I can, yes.

25 Q Okay. Super. I have a few questions, sir.

Norris - Cross

167

1 A Yes.

2 Q You spent a fair amount of time testifying about how
3 poorly the Debtor was performing under the shared services
4 agreements last October and November. Do you remember that?

5 A I remember I testified. I wouldn't say it was some time,
6 but yes.

7 Q You specifically mentioned the October and the November
8 time frame, right?

9 A Correct. I believe so.

10 Q And you said that during that October and November time 11 frame, there were lots of conflicts of interest that were 12 arising; is that right?

13 A I don't remember my specific wording, but if it's part of 14 the record, then yes.

15 Q Uh-huh. And you said that the Advisors weren't getting 16 the same level of services that they thought they were 17 entitled to; isn't that right?

18 A That's correct.

19 Q And you thought -- and the Advisors thought long and hard
20 about terminating, about taking the initiative and terminating
21 the shared services agreement, right?

22 A I don't know if I used the word "long and hard", but yes,
23 we did consider and discuss the termination of the shared
24 services agreements.

25 Q And the reason that you decided in October and November

Norris - Cross

168

1 not to do that is because you knew there was an order in place
2 that prevented a Dondero-related entity from terminating an
3 agreement. Isn't that right?

4 A That's -- that's one of the reasons, yes.

5 Q That's the only reason you identified before; isn't that
6 right?

7 A I believe so.

8 Q And that --

9 A That was a determining -- that was a make-or-break point,
10 yes.

11 Q And it was a -- and that was false testimony; isn't that
12 right?

13 A No.

14 Q Well, just a month later, in December, the Advisors sent a
15 letter to the Debtor threatening to terminate the CLO
16 management agreement; isn't that right?

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll object to that, it's 18 not in the evidence, and I'll object on the basis of the best
19 evidence rule.

20 THE COURT: Response?

21 MR. MORRIS: You can answer, sir.

22 THE COURT: Response?

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I didn't hear a response.

24 MR. MORRIS: The witness is the executive vice 25 president of the Advisors. The Advisors were the subject of a

Norris - Cross

169

1 preliminary injunction proceeding. During that proceeding,
2 against these very same Defendants, this letter was admitted
3 into evidence where they -- where the Advisors did exactly
4 what Mr. Norris said they would never do because they didn't 5 think they had the authority to do that. Mr. Norris is the 6 best evidence right now, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the objection.

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, that's not --

9 THE COURT: I overrule the objection. I remember the 10 evidence from the December hearing. So he can answer.

11 THE WITNESS: Yeah, so can you repeat the question,
12 just so I make sure I answer appropriately?

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q Sure. In December, the funds and the Advisors for which 15 you serve as the executive vice president, on, I think,
16 December 23rd, sent a letter to the Debtor threatening to 17 terminate, right? Threatening to use what authority they 18 thought they had to go in and terminate the CLO management
19 agreements. Isn't that right?

20 A I was not involved in the drafting of the letter, but my 21 understanding is there was no threat. It was -- and I believe 22 the letter even said, subject to court approval or stay or 23 process. I would love for -- if there is a letter, if you
24 want to bring it up, but I wasn't directly involved with the 25 letter.

170

1 Q And the Advisors didn't send a letter to the Debtor in
2 October or November saying, We want to terminate the agreement
3 subject to whatever you just said. In fact, you concluded
4 that you couldn't do it because of the injunction, right?

5 A Correct.

6 Q Yeah. You've spent an awful lot of time talking about
7 this operational plan that the Advisors have today. It was a
8 much more modest plan during your deposition yesterday; isn't
9 that right?

10 A I wouldn't --

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll object --

12 THE COURT: I'm sorry?

13 MR. RUKAVINA: I object to that characterization.

14 THE COURT: You object to --

15 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll --

16 THE COURT: -- the charac...

17 MR. RUKAVINA: I'll withdraw that. I'll withdraw
18 that objection, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

20 THE WITNESS: No, I answered the questions in the 21 manner that you asked them in the deposition. I don't think 22 that you asked for detailed descriptions. In fact, I know you
23 didn't. And so there was a lot more than what I discussed in 24 my deposition yesterday.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Norris - Cross

171

1 Q Okay.

2 A Nothing -- there's nothing that -- nothing that conflicts
3 with what I said yesterday.

4 Q James Palmer was hired to provide accounting and audit
5 services yesterday on a contract basis, correct?

6 A He was hired yesterday, yes. And that was, yes, part of 7 the additional oversight for our accounting function. We're 8 handling a lot of that internally, but Mr. Palmer was 9 experienced with our platform and with our funds, and we 10 thought it was prudent, in the -- if needed, to have somebody
11 on call. And our board actually requested it. And so that's 12 a -- you know, that is someone who we feel very comfortable
13 with providing those services.

14 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike everything after "Yes,"
15 Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Sustained.

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q Okay. I'm going to ask you, sir. This is cross-
19 examination. I'm going to ask you leading questions that are 20 intended to elicit a yes or no answer.

21 A Got it.

22 Q Your counsel will have the opportunity to redirect if he 23 think it's necessary.

24 So, let me ask the question again. Mr. Palmer was hired
25 by the Advisors to provide audit and accounting services

Norris - Cross

172

1 yesterday. Isn't that correct?

2 A No.

3 Q Yesterday was his first day on the job. Isn't that right?

4 A He is a contract employee. So we didn't hire him.

5 Q Okay. You did testify yesterday that yesterday was the 6 first day he was providing services that had been provided by 7 the Debtor. Is that fair?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Okay. And Siepe is another entity that the Debtor had a
10 -- that the Advisors had a prior relationship, right?

11 A Correct.

12 Q And you don't have an agreement with Newco today, do you?

13 A Not yet.

14 Q So, Newco is not providing any services today, right?

15 A No.

16 Q And you don't have office space today, right?

17 A Not yet.

18 Q Okay. So, when the sun rose on Saturday morning, to use
19 the same analogy, I guess, you'd been kicked out of the house
20 and you had no place to go. Is that fair?

21 A No.

22 Q Everybody's working remotely right now, right?

23 A Yes.

24 Q And the Advisors have no lease for any office space on a
25 long-term basis, right?

Norris - Cross

173

1 A No, but we've toured space and have a -- we are ready to
2 sign a sublease as soon as we're ready.

3 Q Okay. But you didn't have that as of Friday; is that 4 fair?

5 A No.

6 Q Okay. And you -- and you're doing trading now on --

7 A Actually, can I make a -- can I make a correction? I --
8 you said you didn't have that. I said we had done a tour, and 9 I had done a tour before Friday, and that we had a lot lined
10 up, and I had them asking us, Are you ready to execute, will 11 you be here Monday?

12 So, that was there. Again, realizing we were going to be,
13 hopefully, the plan was to reach a full agreement with you,
14 but having that backup plan in place, not to sign a lease and 15 spend the money unless we knew we weren't going to be able to 16 be in the office space. So that's why.

17 Q All right. So let me ask the question again. As of 18 Friday, the Advisors had no place to go at the end of the 19 extended shared services period, correct?

20 A I disagree with that.

21 Q Okay. They don't have an -- does the Advisors have an 22 address today?

23 A We have an address, yes.

24 Q Yeah? Where is the address?

25 A So, we -- we have been -- we have a -- so we have a -- our

Norris - Cross

174

1 NexPoint Securities has an office on McKinney Avenue in 2 Dallas, which is where we -- we have an ability to send our 3 mail to and to have an office, which is where we intend to 4 actually be subleasing.

5 Q Okay. But you don't have a sublease today, and that 6 address isn't the address of the Advisors, right?

7 A It is all but in place, waiting to not spend the 8 significant expenditure in the event that we could, which our 9 plan was to hope to reach an agreement.

10 Q Okay. And you're doing trades manually? Do I have that
11 right?

12 A It is -- we call it a manual process, but it involves like 13 -- there's a certain -- it doesn't involve the OMS system.
14 That's right.

15 Q And when your operational plan is fully in place, would 16 you expect it to have an OMS system?

17 A Yes.

18 Q But your operational plan today doesn't have one of the 19 pieces that you expect it to have in the future; is that
20 right?

21 A It has -- it has a usable option, but no. We're close to 22 entering into an OMS, and that's not the long term. Yeah. We 23 aren't going to be doing a manual -- our manual process
24 forever.

25 Q Yeah. But you're very, very, very happy with your

Norris - Cross

175

1 operational plan, right? You're very proud of it?

2 A Given the constraints we were working under, I feel it's

3 -- it is a plan that works. Would I think that the 4 alternative with what we were negotiating would be better?

5 Probably. Would it be better to have access to our systems,

6 to our computers, without having to turn them back into you?

7 Yes, absolutely.

8 So I don't remember the word you just used, but I think

9 very happy or very pleased, I wouldn't say that. I would say

10 it is functional, it helps us do our duty and our job, and

11 we're going to get back to that ideal. And the reason I

12 negotiated all the way through the week and all the way

13 through the weeks and all the way through the weekend is

14 because there was a better alternative, which was a negotiated

15 settlement.

16 Q All right. We'll talk about that in a moment. But

17 notwithstanding the fact that there may have been a better

18 alternative, as of today the Advisors have adopted and

19 implemented an operating plan for the provision of all of the 20 same back-office and middle-office services that the Debtor

21 previously provided, correct?

22 A To cover -- and I would say they do, yes.

23 Q Okay.

24 A Yes.

25 Q And as of today, the Advisors are fully able to perform

Norris - Cross

176

1 under their shared -- under their advisory agreements with the 2 funds; is that correct?

3 A Yes.

4 Q There is nothing the Debtor has done that has prevented
5 the Advisors from fully performing under their advisory 6 committee -- advisory agreements with the funds, correct?

7 A It took great effort over the last several months, but no,
8 not that I'm aware of.

9 Q Okay. Other than access to the data, there are no
10 services that the Advisors need from the Debtor. Is that
11 correct?

12 A No, but the peaceful transition of the data is important,
13 right? We have, as you mentioned, we have most of the data we 14 need, but the peaceful transition of the data and the files in 15 the systems -- not the systems, but the data backups of the 16 systems -- will be critical, yes.

17 Q Okay. But other than data, there are no services that the 18 Debtor needs to provide to the Advisors as of today, correct?

19 A Not that I know of.

20 Q And having been as involved in the process as you've been,
21 you would know if there was a service that the Debtor had to 22 provide to the Advisors today; isn't that right?

23 A Yes.

24 Q Okay. And you don't know of any service that the Debtor
25 needs to provide to the Advisors as of today, right?

Norris - Cross

177

1 A I don't. We mentioned data. I think one of those --
2 well, I'll leave it as yes.

3 Q Okay.

4 A Yeah.

5 Q Did you have this plan in place, this operational plan,
6 was that -- were all of the pieces in place last Tuesday
7 night? No. Withdrawn.

8 Were all of those pieces in place as of January 31st,
9 2021?

10 A No.

11 Q So is it fair to say that the Debtor didn't -- that the 12 Advisors did not have an operational plan that would permit
13 them to obtain all of the same services that the Debtor had 14 been providing under the shared services agreement as of 15 October -- as of January 31st?

16 A No.

17 Q They did have a plan in place at that time to get those 18 services? Is that what you're saying?

19 A Yes. There was a plan, a Plan B. It wasn't nearly what 20 Plan B is today because we've -- we've had multiple additional 21 weeks to ensure that everything's in place, but we had Plan B.
22 But at the time -- maybe I'll leave it there. But at the 23 time, there was good faith negotiations up to that point,
24 where Plan A looked like it was going to happen. And so that 25 was the full expectation with a backup plan which was not as

178

1 intricate.

2 Q Did the Advisors ever inform the Debtor at any time during 3 the negotiations that they had an operational plan pursuant to 4 which it could obtain the same middle- and back-office
5 services that the Debtor had been providing?

6 A If you include your Debtor employees, then yes.

7 Q Did you ever use it as a point of negotiation? Did you
8 ever try to tell the Debtor, you know, if you guys don't agree
9 to our terms, we're going to walk away, because we've got this
10 fully-operational plan to get the same services that you guys
11 are providing? You're not the only game in town?

12 A I never used that kind of exact approach, no.

13 Q Did you use any approach where you relied on the 14 operational plan as leverage to try to drive a better deal
15 with the Debtor?

16 A No. I don't think so.

17 Q No? Okay. And fast-forward to that Tuesday night when 18 the Debtor said take the plan without Mr. Dondero or we're 19 going to sue you. You remember that, right?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And every aspect of the agreement was in place except for 22 Mr. Dondero, right?

23 A Except for his access to the office, --

24 Q And the --

25 A -- yes.

Norris - Cross

179

1 Q And the Debtor had told you time and time again, every
2 time it appeared in a document, they removed it, and they told
3 you every single time no access for Mr. Dondero, right?

4 A No.

5 Q Did you have any reason to believe that that was ever
6 going to change?

7 A I did. And I said no to your last question, right? I
8 didn't say yes. I said no to your last question, that --

9 Q And did the Advisors make a decision to reject the 10 Debtor's offer for the sole reason that Mr. Dondero wouldn't 11 be permitted access?

12 A That was the last point. As mentioned, every other point 13 was agreed to.

14 Q And why didn't the -- why didn't the Advisors -- did the 15 Advisors -- withdrawn.

16 Did the Advisors say to the Debtor, we get it, you're not 17 going to let Mr. Dondero in, but that's a line in the sand for 18 us? But please, there's no need for a lawsuit. We've got a 19 wonderful operating plan ready to go. You're asking the Court
20 to force us to adopt and implement the plan, we have one right
21 here, so let's not litigate. Let's just walk away and let 22 bygones be bygones. Did you ever offer to get rid of the 23 lawsuit by showing the Debtor your plan?

24 A We would have loved to have gotten rid of the lawsuit, but 25 I didn't see it until it was filed. When the ultimatum was

180

1 given, we had rolling blackouts. My home didn't have
2 electricity rolling from 2:00 a.m. on Monday until Thursday.
3 And so by the time there was -- and everybody else, inclusive
4 of our attorney, Mr. Rukavina. And so to say that I -- I
5 received it Thursday or Wednesday morning, when one of your
6 employees forwarded it to us. I hadn't seen drafts. Maybe
7 our counsel had. But we didn't even have a chance to say, oh,
8 let us -- let us pull this because we read what your report
9 was. The Advisors didn't even have a chance to respond. At 10 least that is my understanding. I never had a chance to 11 respond. I never saw it. Maybe counsel did.

12 Q Well, you saw the lawsuit eventually, didn't you?

13 A I did.

14 Q Did you ever -- did the Advisors -- after you saw the 15 lawsuit, did the Advisors ever call up the Debtor and say,
16 hey, look, let's not litigate? We have exactly what you want.
17 We've got this fully-operational plan that provides us with 18 everything we need. You don't need to do anything further.
19 Did you ever say that to the Debtor?

20 A No, because the back -- the -- we still wanted to reach an 21 agreement. That was the goal. And it was a surprise for us
22 to have a shock, we're going to pull this or we're going to 23 sue you on Tuesday evening. And so, no, we still -- I -- and 24 that's why I negotiated and continued to work all the way
25 through the end of the week and through the weekend on

181

1 something, because I still felt like that was the better plan
2 for everybody.

3 I don't know why we had to be sued, I don't know why it
4 had to be urgent, because at that point we had been working
5 for weeks and months. And the weeks -- really good. And the 6 only difference was Jim Dondero's access. And it was Tuesday.
7 And they didn't even ask us, you know.

8 Anyway, so that was -- I just -- I just disagree with your 9 characterization of the process.

10 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor. It really 11 is a very simple question.

12 THE COURT: Sustained.

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q Did the Advisors, after the commencement of the lawsuit,
15 did the Advisors ever tell the Debtor that there was no need
16 for litigation because the Advisors had a fully-operational
17 plan that they had adopted and were prepared to implement,
18 which is exactly what the Debtor was seeking from the Court?

19 A I don't know.

20 Q You're not aware of that, right?

21 A I'm not.

22 Q You don't -- you never thought that maybe we could avoid 23 this whole thing by just sharing with the Debtor this 24 operational plan that you've described in great detail, right?

25 A Well, on Friday, I know you put in, in a response to our

Norris - Cross

182

1 board and Advisors, that you were made aware that we had a
2 plan that felt good, yet there was no consideration or 3 discussion on removing the lawsuit.

4 So, I'll leave that to what counsel happened, but I would
5 have loved to not be involved. I'm not a legal expert. There
6 were many attorneys involved. I wish that if that were an 7 option, it would have been raised. But here we are today.

8 Q Sir, not only did the Advisors not tell the Debtor that 9 they had an operational plan that could avoid the lawsuit,
10 instead, the Advisors made proposals on Friday, one of which 11 did not even include having access to the office by Mr.
12 Dondero. Isn't that right?

13 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I object to that question
14 as it mischaracterizes the evidence. The question began with 15 that the Advisors never told the Debtor that they had a backup
16 plan. I think the witness --

17 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, --

18 THE COURT: Okay. Sustained. Rephrase.

19 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. No problem.

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q So, so to the best of your knowledge, the Advisors never 22 told the Debtor that they thought litigation could be avoided
23 because they had an operational plan. Is that right?

24 A That's my -- that -- yeah, that's right.

25 Q Okay. And instead, on Friday, the Advisors continued to

183

1 try to pursue an agreement with the Debtor. Is that right?

2 A I don't know about the "instead." But, yes, we tried to 3 continue reaching an agreement.

4 Q And are you familiar with the offer that was made by the 5 Advisors to the Debtor on Friday morning?

6 A I am.

7 Q Did you authorize the sending of that offer to the Debtor?

8 A The request, yes. Me and D.C. Sauter were involved with 9 counsel, so we -- we did -- we did.

10 MR. MORRIS: All right. Can we please put up on the 11 screen Exhibit 19? Can we start at the bottom, please?

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q So, are these the Options A and B that were presented to 14 the Debtor on Friday morning?

15 A Based on the email, yes.

16 Q Okay. And Option B contemplated that the Advisors would 17 completely vacate the space by the end of the month, right?

18 A Correct.

19 Q And that's an option that you and Mr. Sauter authorized
20 the lawyers to send to the Debtor, correct?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. And you had that authority from Mr. Dondero, right?
23 Mr. Dondero gave you the authority to negotiate; is that
24 correct?

25 A He gave me the authority to negotiate in those final

184

1 couple of days. There were certain things he gave me
2 authority to negotiate on. And specifically -- and to things
3 that shouldn't be included on this point, we discussed this
4 beforehand as well. But we had authority to negotiate.

5 Q And you had authority to make this proposal, right?
6 Option B?

7 A Ultimately, no.

8 Q At the time you made it, you thought you had it, right?

9 A Yes.

10 Q You weren't acting outside of what you knew to be your 11 scope of authority, were you?

12 A No.

13 Q Okay. Did you discuss with Mr. Sauter these two options
14 before they were delivered by your lawyers to the Debtor?

15 A Yes.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor? Your Honor? Hold on.

17 Your Honor, Mr. Sauter is an attorney. He's in-house
18 counsel. So I think that to the extent that they're 19 discussing business, that's not privileged. To the extent
20 they're discussing legal strategy, that is privileged. So I
21 would instruct the witness to be conscious of that --

22 THE COURT: All right.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: -- and to not disclose attorney-client
24 privileged communications.

25 THE COURT: All right.

Norris - Cross

185

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q Sir, did you discuss these two proposals with Mr. Sauter
3 before it was delivered by your lawyers to the Debtor?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And did Mr. Sauter also agree with the substance of these 6 two offers that were being presented to the Debtor?

7 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Norris, can you answer that 8 question without invading the attorney-client privilege?

9 MR. MORRIS: I'm just asking about the offers. I'm 10 not asking about any legal advice or anything. I just want to 11 be that clear.

12 MR. RUKAVINA: That's why I'm asking Mr. Norris. If 13 they discussed business, I don't think we have a problem. But 14 if they discussed legal strategy, I think it's a problem. So 15 I think the witness just has to tell us whether --

16 THE WITNESS: There --

17 MR. RUKAVINA: -- they discussed business or legal.

18 THE WITNESS: There -- there was a -- there was some 19 legal -- legal strategy as well, yeah.

20 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I would -- I would ask
21 that that -- I would object to that question on that basis,
22 that it calls for the invasion of the attorney-client
23 privilege.

24 THE COURT: All right. I sustain.

25 MR. MORRIS: I'll try -- I'll try and ask the

186

1 question again, then.

2 BY MR. MORRIS:

3 Q Mr. Norris, did Mr. Sauter agree and authorize the sending 4 of these two proposals by the Advisors' lawyers to the Debtor
5 on Friday morning?

6 A We both agreed with that approach.

7 Q Okay. And you both -- is it fair to say that you both
8 believed that you were acting within the scope of authority
9 that Mr. Dondero had given you?

10 A We thought so, and -- well, I'm sure your questions will 11 lead me to the -- to the ultimate of what happened here, but 12 yes.

13 Q Yeah. And this proposal didn't permit Mr. Dondero back
14 into the Highland office space; is that right?

15 A It didn't prevent him? Is that what you said?

16 Q Didn't permit him. Didn't allow him.

17 A Option A just above did and Option B did not.

18 Q Okay. So, you and Mr. Sauter, as the Advisors' designated 19 negotiators, authorized the Advisors' lawyer to present as 20 Option B an option that did not permit Mr. Dondero access to 21 the Debtor's offices, right?

22 A Yes, but gave us full access to everything else.

23 Q Okay. It was really --

24 (Pause.)

25 THE COURT: Uh-oh.

Norris - Cross

187

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q How does Option B -- how does Option B, if you know, --

3 A Sorry, you froze. You froze there for a minute, I think.

4 THE COURT: Yes. I think you did.

5 MR. MORRIS: No, I think I just paused.

6 THE WITNESS: Oh, you were just thinking? Oh, that
7 was really talented. Wow.

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q No, it's -- it's not that good. Do you know how Option B
10 differs from the term sheet that the Debtor provided on 11 Tuesday night?

12 A It would not include the access -- it wouldn't include
13 access to the office for anybody. The, as it says there, the 14 Debtor would take a hundred percent of the lease.

15 Q Okay. So, it was going to be complete walkaway? The 16 Advisors were going to completely walk away at the end of the 17 month, right?

18 A Correct.

19 Q And that was -- that was an offer that you believed you
20 were authorized to make to the Debtor, right?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: Can we go two emails up to Mr.
24 Hogewood's? Oh. Yeah. The one at 12:04. Yeah.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Norris - Cross

188

1 Q Were you aware that there came a time early in the
2 afternoon that the Debtor was informed that there may need to 3 be an edit to Option B, so they pulled that back for a bit?

4 A I wasn't aware, no.

5 Q No? All right. Do you have any knowledge as to what edit
6 Mr. Hogewood was referring to in his email there?

7 A I don't.

8 Q Okay. Were you aware -- did you get a copy of Mr.
9 Hogewood's email? Was it forwarded to you? Do you know --
10 withdrawn. Let me ask a better question.

11 Do you know if Mr. Hogewood delivered -- withdrawn.

12 Did you know on Friday morning that Mr. Hogewood had 13 delivered the two options, the two proposals, that you and Mr.
14 Sauter had authorized?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Okay.

17 MR. MORRIS: Can we go up an email or two, please?

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q And then Mr. Hogewood wrote back and he said that he was 20 authorized to put Option B back on the table, as stated above.
21 Do you see that?

22 A I do.

23 Q Do you know who authorized Mr. Hogewood to put Option B
24 back on the table?

25 A I don't remember. I don't know. I wasn't on the chain.

Norris - Cross

189

1 Q Okay. But it's fair to say at this point in time, midday
2 on Friday, as far as you knew, your lawyer had communicated
3 Option A and Option B to the Debtor, and they were authorized
4 to do that, right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay. And did you learn subsequently that there was a
7 phone call between the lawyers for the Advisors and the lawyer
8 for the Debtor during which the Debtor indicated that it was 9 prepared to accept Option B?

10 A I don't know, no, I don't know about that.

11 Q You were never told that?

12 A No. Not that there was a phone call.

13 Q Uh-huh. Did you learn at any point on Friday that the 14 Debtor had accepted Option B, the Option B that you and Mr.
15 Sauter had authorized the Advisors' lawyers to make?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Okay. So, there did come a time when you knew that the 18 Debtor had accepted Option B, right?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And are you aware that, after accepting Option B, the 21 lawyers discussed turning the agreement into a settlement
22 order to resolve the litigation?

23 A No. I wasn't aware of that.

24 Q Are you aware that the lawyers were discussing plans for 25 the transfer of -- by wire of cash that would be due under the

190

1 agreement?

2 A I was not.

3 Q Okay. After the Debtor accepted Option B, the Advisors
4 withdrew it, correct?

5 A I don't know if we with... we did withdraw it, yes.

6 Q And after it was presented, Mr. Dondero said that he 7 hadn't personally approved it, correct?

8 A In the terms of which -- the actual offer, yes, that's
9 correct.

10 Q So, Mr. Dondero, having given you and Mr. Sauter the 11 authority to negotiate, learned that the Debtor had agreed to 12 your proposal pursuant to which he wouldn't be allowed access 13 to office space and he made the decision to withdraw the 14 offer, correct?

15 A I wouldn't agree with exactly the phrasing, no.

16 Q Sir, Mr. Dondero is the person who decided that he had not 17 approved of Option B, and that's why it was retracted,
18 correct?

19 A That's right.

20 Q So, on Tuesday night, the Advisors had a fully-negotiated
21 agreement for the provision -- for the transition of all of 22 the back-office and middle-office services, but for access to 23 Mr. Dondero, correct?

24 A Correct.

25 Q And the only reason that didn't get signed is because of

191

1 that issue, right?

2 A That's my understanding, yes.

3 Q And the Debtor continued to negotiate with the Advisors,
4 even after filing the lawsuit, correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q The Debtor was never told that the Advisors had a fully-7 operational plan pursuant to which it had an alternative to 8 obtain the same services, correct?

9 A That's incorrect.

10 Q After negotiations broke down, is that the moment that a
11 reference was made to alternative plans?

12 A No.

13 Q Sir, on Friday, you personally reached an agreement with 14 the Debtor on Plan B, right? You authorized the making of an 15 offer that the Debtor accepted, correct?

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'm going to object at 17 this time based on a legal conclusion. The witness is not a 18 lawyer and he's not qualified to opine on whether an 19 agreement, which to me suggests is something binding and 20 enforceable, was ever reached.

21 THE COURT: Response?

22 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm not looking to enforce 23 any agreement, so let me try and restate and --

24 THE COURT: All right. Sustained.

25 MR. MORRIS: -- address Mr. Rukavina's --

Norris - Cross

192

1 THE COURT: He'll rephrase.

2 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Even as late as Friday, after starting the lawsuit, you
5 had made an offer. You had authorized the making of an offer
6 that the Debtor had agreed to again, correct?

7 A I had auth... I had said we should -- yes, I had 8 authorized the offer and then your fax saying on the 9 acceptance. I wasn't involved in the back-and-forth
10 communication among the attorneys.

11 Q But you knew it was accepted, subject, let's say, subject
12 to the execution of definitive documentation. How's that?

13 A I was told that they were willing to take the offer. And 14 so, yes. And --

15 Q And sometime later that day, it got pulled because of Mr.
16 Dondero, correct?

17 A Correct.

18 Q And even on Saturday, the Advisors made proposals on an a 19 la carte basis for the provision of services, correct?

20 A Yes. And we have made very similar a la carte provisions 21 on Thursday and Wednesday, which were also rejected by the 22 Debtor.

23 Q And -- okay. So it wouldn't have been the full kind of 24 deal that was contemplated in the term sheet; it would have 25 been a selection of very specific services. Do I have that

193

1 right?

2 A That's right. On Wednesday, it was Oracle and Bloomberg,
3 which was authorized by Mr. Dondero. We were to offering to 4 continue with our offer to take over the lease and all the 5 other terms, or a slim-down, which would include no disputed
6 amounts or payments, which at that time I think we called Plan
7 B or Option B. And that was -- I believe that was Thursday.
8 Or Wednesday night. So, yes, those continued. And then we 9 had a similar, very similar proposal again on Sunday, with the 10 same -- very similar services to what we asked for on 11 Wednesday night or Thursday. And those were rejected both 12 times.

13 Q And is it fair to say that the services that the Debtor
14 was seeking -- withdrawn.

15 Is it fair to say that the services of the Advisors were 16 seeking from the Debtor on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday were 17 services that the Advisors had not yet engaged anybody else to 18 provide?

19 A The two -- we already talked about Bloomberg and where our 20 status is there. And on Oracle, it would be a nice to have 21 instead of transitioning, and that is more for the Advisors'
22 books and records and would be nice to have.

23 Q So, --

24 A Yes.

25 Q Okay. You have a Plan B for the new operational plan.

Norris - Cross

194

1 Did I hear that part right?

2 A As I mentioned -- oh, I said our operating plan was a
3 hypothetical from -- from Mr. Rukavina, that in these other
4 events fall through, are there other people that you could
5 hire to do these services? And I said yes.

6 Q Okay. So if any part of the operational plan fails, the 7 Advisors would look to third parties to provide, you know,
8 whatever service they wouldn't obtain and they wouldn't look
9 to the Debtor to provide any services, correct?

10 A That's correct.

11 Q Is it fair to say that, other than access to the data, the 12 Advisors will never seek any services of any kind from the 13 Debtor going forward?

14 A As we sit here today, I believe your employees are set to 15 have three more operating business days and then will be 16 terminated, those -- the employees that services our accounts.
17 So, with the expectation that Newco will be formed, I have no
18 expectation we'll be asking for any significant services,
19 other than data, transfer of emails, et cetera.

20 Q Well, that's a pretty qualified answer. What do you mean
21 by no significant services?

22 A Most of them -- well, the data, emails, et cetera, are all
23 minor items, and I think they're -- you say data, but I think
24 there's -- there's a handful of things that probably fall
25 under that data and books and records that are what I'm

Norris - Cross

195

1 talking about, yes.

2 Q You know, one of the things that the Debtor is very
3 concerned about here is having no future obligation. The 4 Debtor -- do you understand that the Debtor believes that it
5 has terminated the shared services agreements as of Friday?

6 A I do, yes.

7 Q Do you understand that, other than the data that it holds,
8 the Debtor wants the comfort of knowing that it has no future
9 obligations to the Advisors of any kind, other than to provide 10 access to the data?

11 A Yeah, that's fair. Yes, I understand that.

12 Q As the executive vice president of the Defendants, as the 13 executive vice president of the Advisors, can you, under oath,
14 give the Debtor comfort that the Advisors will not look to the 15 Debtor for any services of any kind after today? Other than 16 the access to the data?

17 A Data and books and records, yes.

18 Q Okay. So access to data and books and records is the only 19 thing that the Advisors will look to the Debtor for at any 20 time in the future after today; is that fair?

21 A I would say it's not fair, because to say there's not
22 other significant -- insignificant or minor items -- as Mr.
23 Dondero testified, there's usually a smooth transition. I
24 don't anticipate there will be significant items that would 25 take a lot of your time or we need to invade you, but I would

Norris - Cross

196

1 hope there would be a fair and orderly transition. And I
2 can't predict the minor items, but I don't think -- I can't 3 envision anything significant.

4 Q Do you believe, as the executive vice president of the 5 Advisors, that the Debtor has an obligation to perform any 6 services for the Advisors after today, other than giving
7 access to the data and the books and records?

8 A No.

9 Q What happens if Newco isn't formed? Is there any scenario
10 that you're aware of where the Advisors would look to the 11 Debtor for any services in the event that Newco is not formed?

12 A No. Not that I'm aware of. I don't know. I don't think 13 so.

14 Q I think you mentioned earlier about the transfer of data.
15 What does the Debtor need to do, from your perspective, in 16 order to transfer the data and the books and records?

17 A We need the Debtor to authorize its IT director to 18 transfer the data. We stand by ready. I sent an email to 19 your IT team asking for him to get the required approvals on 20 Friday morning, and our -- CFA, the outsource team, stands by 21 ready, at our cost, to transfer any remaining data.

22 So we just need you and Mr. Seery and -- to authorize the 23 free transfer of data. Not necessarily you, but Mr. Seery,
24 and then your IT team and your employees can feel comfort.
25 Because over the last few weeks they have not provided any

Norris - Cross

197

1 data or any assistance providing data because they're
2 concerned. They're concerned about their liability, they're
3 concerned about things that the Debtor has told them. And so
4 I just -- if you and Mr. Seery can tell them any data that is 5 -- I mean, yeah, we're prepared to send a request of what we 6 need, but they need Mr. Seery, because he has been holding 7 that over them.

8 Q And what data are you referring to specifically?

9 A Yeah. We're talking about historical emails, emails that 10 are held in what's called the vault. It is files in our 11 systems. We've been able to copy, we think, most of what we 12 have, but there is a number of records. We would like a copy
13 of the database that backs up home (phonetic). We'd like a
14 copy of the Bloomberg OMS, which I mentioned before. The data
15 that backs up our data. Just a backup copy.

16 And there's a number of other items which we'll request,
17 but these are all very simple items that don't take very long.
18 I would imagine, with proper approval, and almost no work from 19 your end, maybe your one IT guy, these can be transferred in a
20 very efficient, effective, quick manner, most of it this week
21 or within a couple days.

22 Q Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: All right. Redirect?

25 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Mr. Morris.

Norris - Redirect

198

1 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

2 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

3 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

4 Q Mr. Norris, you mentioned that Debtor employees knew of 5 our backup plan. Give some more specificity, meaning how and 6 why you think they knew that and who did you talk to about 7 that and when.

8 A. Yeah. So, the individuals authorized to discuss with me
9 were David Klos, Frank Waterhouse, Brian Collins, and J.P.
10 Two of those individuals are members of the -- well, one's 11 still an officer, two or both were officers of our funds. And 12 so in our discussions as well throughout, I mentioned, hey,
13 we're working on backup plans. There were aspects of those 14 they couldn't be involved in because they were negotiating for 15 the other side. But they were aware that we were working on 16 things.

17 In addition, Mr. Seery represented they knew we were 18 taking data off or copying data off the system, leaving it all
19 on their system, and that we were backing up emails and that 20 we were working on a backup plan.

21 So I don't think it was a surprise to anybody. Their IT
22 team knew and was very aware. We purchased new domains. We 23 requested domains. We even had requested if they would 24 forward domains to ours, which I think the answer was no. If 25 they would forward emails.

Norris - Redirect

199

1 And so I don't think there was any surprise that there was
2 backup planning going on. And so there were discussions. It
3 wasn't -- we didn't discuss the details. We didn't discuss
4 the details because we were entered into a negotiation with 5 millions of dollars at stake, and if I show or we discuss all
6 of our alternative plans, then there is less ability to 7 negotiate.

8 Q Okay.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if you will please pull up
10 that letter that I sent you.

11 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

12 Q Okay. If we have to scroll down, Mr. Norris, we can, but 13 are you familiar with this letter from the Debtor's attorneys
14 to the boards and us the evening of February 19th, Friday?

15 A I am.

16 Q Okay. Is this the letter that you referenced when Mr.
17 Morris was asking you about why we didn't just tell the Debtor
18 that we had a backup plan and therefore we could dismiss this
19 litigation?

20 A I believe so, yes.

21 Q Okay.

22 THE COURT: Is this an exhibit?

23 MR. RUKAVINA: No, Your Honor. I'm about to move for 24 its admission. Your Honor, I'd ask that this be admitted as 25 my Exhibit O.

Norris - Redirect

200

1 THE COURT: All right. Any objections?

2 MR. MORRIS: Sorry. No, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: All right. It'll be admitted.

4 (Advisors' Exhibit O is received into evidence.)

5 MR. RUKAVINA: And Your Honor, we will --

6 THE COURT: You'll have to supplement the docket with 7 it.

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you. We will.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if you'll please scroll
11 down to Page 3 of 4, the paragraph that begins, "During the 12 course of this conversation." Actually, the next paragraph 13 that says, "We understand."

14 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

15 Q Do you see that there, Mr. Norris?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Okay.

18 MR. RUKAVINA: What is that there, Mr. Vasek? I'm 19 seeing a square. Okay.

20 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

21 Q So that paragraph begins, "We understand, based on this 22 conversation, that HCMFA and NPA have made arrangements to 23 obtain the resources they need to provide the services on a 24 continuous and seamless basis to their clients, including the 25 registered investment companies to which they serve as

201

1 investment advisor. We plan to proceed with our request for a
2 mandatory injunction at the February 23rd, '21 hearing." And
3 then it keeps going.

4 Did I read that accurately?

5 MR. MORRIS: Can you please --

6 THE WITNESS: Yes.

7 MR. MORRIS: -- keep going, because I think it's 8 important?

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, you get to ask him next.

10 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

11 Q Did I read that accurately, Mr. Norris?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Okay. So tell me, then --

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, strike that. I'll move on.

15 You can leave that up, Mr. Vasek, if Mr. Morris needs to 16 use it.

17 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

18 Q Now, do you recall you were asked about that Option A and 19 Option B from last Friday, and Option B had been withdrawn?

20 Do you recall that?

21 A Yes.

22 Q And do you recall that, under that Option B that was 23 withdrawn, that the Debtor accepted that Mr. Dondero wouldn't 24 be on the premises, right?

25 A Yes.

Norris - Recross

202

1 Q Okay. But would NexPoint have been on the -- on the 2 premises?

3 A No. No.

4 Q So, under both Option A and Option B, would Mr. Dondero
5 have been with his employees?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Okay.

8 MR. RUKAVINA: I'll pass the witness. Thank you.

9 THE COURT: Recross?

10 MR. MORRIS: Can we put that exhibit back up on the 11 screen, please?

12 RECROSS-EXAMINATION

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q First of all, sir, you have no idea what was discussed in 15 the conversation that's referenced in the first sentence,
16 correct?

17 A I don't. I was not a part of it.

18 Q Okay. Do you know if the Debtor in this instance was 19 trying to hold the Advisors' feet to the fire?

20 A Again, I was not part of the conversation.

21 Q So you don't know the motivation for sending this letter;
22 is that fair?

23 A I don't.

24 Q Can you read out loud the letter -- the --

25 MR. MORRIS: I can't see it, actually. Can you just

Norris - Recross

203

1 push it down a little bit, because I've got the little box in
2 the upper right corner? No, the other way. I'm sorry. Yeah.
3 Perfect.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Do you see -- can you read out loud the sentence that
6 begins, "We plan to proceed"?

7 A (reading) "We plan to proceed with our request for a
8 mandatory injunction at the February 23rd, 2021 hearing and
9 hope that we can submit to the Bankruptcy Court a consensual
10 order incorporating HCMFA's and NPA's acknowledgment of 11 HCMLP's right to terminate services under the shared services
12 agreement as provided for herein and their commitment to 13 provide services to their clients on a go-forward basis."

14 Q So in fact, as of -- do you know when this -- do you know
15 when on Friday this letter was sent?

16 A I don't know the time.

17 Q Okay. It's -- it's -- based on what you just saw, the 18 reference to the conversation, is it fair to say that this 19 occurred after the Debtor was informed that the Advisors were 20 withdrawing Option B?

21 A I believe so.

22 Q Right. And here, in fact, the Debtor is asking the 23 Advisors to join it in providing a consensual order that would 24 resolve this motion, right?

25 A I don't know. They're -- it said, "hope that we can

Norris - Recross

204

1 submit a consensual order incorporating HCMFA's and NPA's."

2 This was sent to our counsel. So it was hoping that counsel
3 would agree to that, yes.

4 Q Well, counsel is not going to agree to anything without 5 the client's authorization; --

6 A Correct.

7 Q -- is that fair?

8 A Correct.

9 Q And did the Advisors ever authorize their counsel to try
10 to negotiate a consensual order?

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I object to that. That's 12 clearly attorney-client privilege.

13 THE COURT: Sustained.

14 MR. MORRIS: All right. I'll ask a different
15 question.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q Did the Advisors ever engage in negotiations with the 18 Debtor over a consensual order, as was offered by the Debtor
19 in this letter?

20 A I defer to legal counsel on that.

21 Q Okay. You're not aware of any such negotiations, right?

22 A I know there were discussions, particularly around our 23 plans over the weekend, where there were offers of something
24 related to the lawsuit. Removal or what -- I don't know the 25 specific terms, but there were offers made, and I deferred to

Norris - Recross

205

1 counsel on that.

2 Q But we're here today because there is no consensual order
3 pursuant to which the Advisors would present their plan to the 4 Court and state specifically that the Debtor had no further
5 obligation, correct?

6 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, that's an irrelevant
7 question. And again, it's litigation strategy and attorney-
8 client privilege. And we're here today on a mandatory
9 injunction.

10 THE COURT: Sustained.

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Not because --

12 THE COURT: Sustained.

13 MR. MORRIS: Withdrawn. I have no further questions,
14 Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: All right. That concludes Mr. Norris's
16 testimony. Thank you.

17 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: All right. What else do you have, Mr.
19 Rukavina? Your next witness?

20 MR. RUKAVINA: I have nothing further, Your Honor.
21 The Defendants rest on this motion.

22 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, anything further
23 from you?

24 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor. I'm prepared to proceed
25 to closing argument.

206

1 THE COURT: All right. I'll hear it.

2 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

3 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Your Honor, thank you for taking
4 the time to listen today. We regret that we had to come down
5 this path, but the Debtor felt that it had no choice at the 6 time that it filed the action.

7 We think the evidence conclusively establishes that the 8 Debtor had the contractual right to terminate the shared
9 services agreements. It exercised that right. It exercised
10 that right after putting the world on notice that it wouldn't 11 be providing shared services after a specified period of time.

12 The Court is fully familiar with the Debtor's plan of 13 reorganization, the asset monetization plan, the downsizing of 14 employees that was expected. And it was the Debtor who had 15 concerns about the funds, the investors, the marketplace, and,
16 frankly, the Debtor's ability to implement its own plan of 17 reorganization, as Mr. Seery so fully testified to.

18 You know, trying to do the right thing here, the Debtors
19 extended the termination date by a couple of weeks. They 20 engaged in earnest negotiations. I don't think there is any 21 dispute at all that the parties actually reached an agreement
22 on every single business term, every single business term,
23 except Mr. Dondero's insistence for access to the Debtor's
24 offices.

25 I think the Court is familiar with the record in this

207

1 case. There's already an injunction in place barring him from 2 the Debtor's offices. The reasons for that are also familiar
3 to the Court. I don't think the Debtor was at all
4 unreasonable in taking the position that it did.

5 They did what they could, but they came to a point where 6 they couldn't continue to provide services consistent with the 7 plan of reorganization that had been presented to the Court.
8 And in order to avoid the substantial risk of being impeded
9 from executing on its plan, in order to avoid the substantial
10 risk that would have occurred had it simply exercised its 11 right and walked away -- the risk of market disruption, the 12 risk of potential involvement by the SEC -- it had no choice
13 but to file this lawsuit.

14 And honestly, Your Honor, for the life of me, I don't know
15 why they didn't try to use this wonderful operating plan as 16 negotiating leverage. I've never heard of such a thing. But 17 that's their choice. We're not here today because they failed
18 to do that. But had they done that, this lawsuit wouldn't 19 exist.

20 Had Mr. Dondero not injected himself on Wednesday and 21 decided that his access was more important than the rest of 22 it, we wouldn't be here today.

23 Had the Advisors said, when we gave them the take-it-or-
24 leave-it option on Wednesday, we're leaving it, thanks for the 25 effort, we tried hard, this stuff means a whole lot to us, but

208

1 we have a great plan here, let's not litigate, there's no
2 reason to do this, we wouldn't be here today.

3 We wouldn't be here today had they not withdrawn Option B
4 on Friday.

5 I don't think -- again, this is summary judgment
6 territory. There's no dispute about the facts. There's no
7 dispute that, for the fourth time, the reason that we're here
8 is because Mr. Dondero completely undermined the people who he 9 had authorized to negotiate on behalf of the Advisors and the 10 lawyers who did diligent work, who tried very hard to bring 11 this to fruition, who were engaged in negotiations, as the 12 record shows, not just getting to a deal but going further and 13 preparing settlement documents, preparing wire transfers, only 14 to have the rug pulled out from under them again.

15 The Debtors had no knowledge of any plan whatsoever for 16 the transition of services. I think -- I have respect for Mr.
17 Norris. I think that he overstates things, but that's okay.
18 Everybody's allowed to -- their perspective. But clearly,
19 there's a lot of pieces to that operating plan that aren't in 20 place. But here, at the end of the day, Your Honor, we don't 21 care.

22 What we want to do is complete the divorce, as Mr.
23 Hogewood said. And I've got a proposal now that, you know, I
24 hope will be acceptable to both the Court and to Mr. Rukavina.
25 And the proposal would be to allow us to submit to Your Honor

209

1 by the end of the day tomorrow a proposed form of order that
2 will contain a limited number of factual findings and will
3 render this motion moot. And it would be moot because the 4 Advisors have now put into evidence an operational plan that 5 they have -- that they are committed to. They have said on 6 the record that they no longer need any services of any kind
7 from the Debtor, except access to the data, and we would be
8 good with that. We would be prepared to just say this is moot
9 because of the operational plan that Mr. Norris described in 10 such great detail.

11 I don't want to burden the Court with a lot more. I think 12 that that's a way to just resolve this to the satisfaction,
13 really, of everybody.

14 I'll just briefly say on the jurisdictional issue and the 15 arbitration, because they are issues out there, it's 16 inconceivable that the Court doesn't have jurisdiction here.
17 This matter concerns the Debtor greatly. You know, we're here
18 precisely because we need the relief that we requested 19 initially, and that -- and that, apparently, the -- that was 20 the adoption and the implementation of a plan so that the 21 Debtor knew it would have no further liability. It was the 22 Debtor's plan of reorganization that was at issue here, its 23 ability to downsize in the way it told this Court and its 24 creditors that it would do.

25 So I don't think -- I don't think there's a question of 210

1 jurisdiction at all.

2 And with respect to arbitration, you know, I'll note,
3 firstly, of course, that the Advisors, they filed the claim
4 against the Debtor. They didn't move to lift the stay. They 5 haven't relied on the arbitration clause when -- when it's 6 good for them.

7 But more importantly, Your Honor, I don't think a motion
8 of this type in particular is the subject of any arbitration
9 provision. It only applies to one of the agreements, as I
10 understand it, in any event. But it's the arbitration clause.

11 This isn't about the interpretation of the agreement. I
12 don't think there's any dispute about the Debtor's right to 13 terminate. I don't think there's any dispute about any, you
14 know, language in the agreement. There's no interpretive
15 provision of the agreement that we're talking about here.
16 What we're -- all we're talking about is making sure that, you
17 know, the Debtor wouldn't be taking on a potential liability.
18 And I've gotten comfort from Mr. Norris that we're not,
19 because, you know, Mr. Norris said that the Debtor -- that the 20 Advisors can fully perform under the advisory services
21 agreement, that there's nothing that the Debtor did to prevent 22 the Advisors from fully performing under the Advisors'
23 agreement, that they don't need any services from the Debtor
24 going forward. And I think that's -- that really is what I
25 think appropriately does render this motion moot.

211

1 And what I would propose, again, just to be clear, is that
2 we could give a proposed order to Your Honor tomorrow at the 3 end of the day, give Mr. Rukavina until the end of the day
4 Thursday to make whatever edits he believes are appropriate,
5 and then Your Honor will do whatever Your Honor thinks is 6 best, as always.

7 THE COURT: All right. Well, while I like the 8 concept, and I haven't heard from Mr. Rukavina yet, I'm really 9 worried about false hope that you would prepare something, Mr.
10 Rukavina would be fine, and I'd simply sign it without much
11 time spent on it.

12 Let me start with this. You said the order, it would be 13 something like an order resolving the motion. It'll contain 14 certain findings of fact, you said, such as the Advisors have 15 an operating plan, the Advisors need no services from the 16 Debtor going forward except access to data. Okay. Would I 17 really get an order that has 14 additional findings, and if 18 so, what would those be?

19 MR. MORRIS: I think we would just go through -- I
20 don't think that there's really any dispute as to these facts.
21 There would be no findings in there about, you know,
22 withdrawal of Plan B or we gave them an ultimatum or any -- 23 there would be nothing like that, Your Honor. It would simply 24 be: The parties were signatories to shared services
25 agreements. The Debtor exercised its right of termination.

212

1 The parties have agreed to extend the termination date twice.
2 The Debtor -- the Advisors have prevented -- I'm doing this
3 off the top of my head, of course -- but the Advisors have 4 prevented -- has -- have prevented -- presented uncontroverted
5 testimony that they have an operational plan pursuant to which 6 they will obtain all of the back-office and middle-office
7 services that were previously provided by the Debtor. And in 8 case there's any failure in their plan, they have got 9 alternative arrangements with third parties and won't look to 10 the Debtor in the future for any services of any kind other 11 than the retrieval of their data. I think that's about what 12 it would say.

13 THE COURT: Okay. My next question is this: Are we 14 going to have a fight in a few days about the retrieval of the 15 data issue? I mean, I just heard Mr. Norris say it was a no-
16 big-deal exercise, that the Debtor just needed to make its IT
17 director available and they would be standing ready to receive 18 it, and he made it sound like a no-big-deal task.

19 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I guess my hope is that we would 20 be able to iron out that last wrinkle, but I think the 21 solution to that is to simply say, if the parties have a
22 dispute on that narrow issue, they come back to the Court,
23 that the Court has continuing jurisdiction to resolve any 24 dispute over -- I think it was the provision that Mr. Rukavina
25 had put up on the screen, I forget, I think it was with Mr.

213

1 Dondero, where the Debtor has some obligation with respect to 2 books and records.

3 THE COURT: Well, and Mr. Seery said earlier today
4 that the Advisors can have access to the records and data, but 5 not 24 hours a day and not without a cost. So is that going
6 to be an issue, the cost?

7 MR. MORRIS: You know what, I have just I guess one
8 other alternative that I'm just thinking off the top of my 9 head. Maybe put in some type of third-party neutral who can,
10 you know, to the extent that it's even necessary, and I hope
11 that it won't be because I think we've gotten a lot of 12 assurances about the lack of services that are needed going
13 forward, but perhaps we can -- perhaps the Court can appoint
14 some third party who would take the burden off of the Court of 15 any future dispute and try to resolve it that way, you know,
16 with the parties splitting the cost. That's an alternative.

17 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina, what do you
18 say?

19 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'd like to give a 20 closing, please.

21 THE COURT: Yes.

22 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE ADVISORS

23 MR. RUKAVINA: And please understand, Your Honor,
24 this is going to be a difficult closing for me to give because 25 I'm going to be rather blunt. My bluntness should never,

214

1 never substitute my deep respect for this Court and for
2 bankruptcy courts and for bankruptcy jurisdiction. I'm a
3 bankruptcy nerd. Hopefully Your Honor knows that. And my 4 closing is also going to be made a little bit more difficult
5 because I honestly don't understand why we're here today.

6 We are here in a lawsuit, not a negotiation before the 7 Court. Mr. Morris and I had days to negotiate, we spoke, and 8 we didn't reach an agreement. We are here on a six-day notice 9 mandatory injunction where now the Debtor wants to have some 10 order with some findings. We are here today on a motion for a
11 mandatory injunction that compels my client to do something
12 where we're not told what it is to do.

13 We are not here today, Your Honor, on Count One, their 14 declaratory relief that they've terminated appropriately and 15 done nothing wrong. We're not here today on that. It is 16 inappropriate to make any findings on that. That issue will 17 be resolved in due course.

18 We're not here today on any future duties. I heard the 19 record, too. I heard the evidence. I can't imagine there 20 being any future duties. But that is an advisory ruling that 21 we're not here on today.

22 So, again, we are here today on whether my client is going
23 to be enjoined to do something. And the reason why we will 24 not agree to that --

25 THE COURT: Can I stop you? What I hear from the 215

1 Debtor is, in light of everything we have all heard the past
2 seven hours, and apparently things the Debtor was not
3 expecting to hear -- that is, we're ready to cut it off
4 tomorrow, today; all we need is the data -- he's happy to say,
5 okay, my request for an injunctive -- a mandatory injunction
6 is moot now. I'm not asking the Court for that.

7 So, you know, I feel compelled to start with the pragmatic
8 possible resolution of this. Why --

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor?

10 THE COURT: Why is that not an acceptable way of 11 resolving this? He doesn't --

12 MR. RUKAVINA: Because --

13 THE COURT: He doesn't need an injunction, he says,
14 if we can have an order.

15 MR. RUKAVINA: It's not -- Your Honor, I would then
16 humbly submit that why doesn't he withdraw his motion? I
17 mean, the problem that I have, Your Honor, is that anything
18 that I agree to is going to submit my clients' internal 19 business affairs to this Court's oversight.

20 I think Your Honor asked very important questions. What 21 happens in two or three days' time if something happens? What 22 about these findings? I am -- I think that this whole motion
23 is moot, but I am very worried that even a finding of mootness 24 is an exercise of jurisdiction over my clients' internal 25 affairs.

216

1       What I think the Court should do is dismiss this motion --
2 I'm sorry, deny this motion without commentary, without
3 findings, without conclusions. There's still Count One and 4 Count Two which will be resolved in due course. And you know
5 what? If my client messes up somehow in this transition --
6 not to mention that my clients are highly reputable, they're 7 governed, they're regulated, there's other people looking at 8 this -- they can come back to Your Honor.

9       But please understand my perspective, please understand my 10 clients' perspective, because I think it's important. We have 11 been hauled in front of this Court on allegations that we have 12 willfully failed and refused to adopt and effectuate a plan.
13 The allegations here are extreme. They've been shared with 14 the creditors. They've been shared with our boards, who knew
15 about this all along. They've been shared with the SEC.
16 They've been shared publicly.

17       So I am glad that the record is now clear that these 18 allegations were baseless when made, but even if they were 19 made in good faith, they are baseless today.

20       But I don't even want the Court exonerating my clients'
21 plan. I don't want the Court commenting on the wisdom of my 22 clients' plan. Because we will not agree, as a nondebtor
23 party, with all respect, Your Honor, to have this Court take 24 any oversight over our affairs. It'll lead to some future
25 dispute, some future contempt, some future sanctions, and 217

1 that's just not something that we as nondebtors are going to
2 consent to.

3 The Court doesn't have jurisdiction. The Court doesn't 4 have core jurisdiction.

5 But let's put all that aside. The four elements of an
6 injunction, Your Honor. Where is any evidence of harm? Mr.
7 Seery did not --

8 THE COURT: You know what? As long as we're not 9 going to have a consensual order here, we need to take the 10 issues you've raised, starting with subject matter
11 jurisdiction. Okay? If I don't have consensus, I've got to 12 examine my own subject matter jurisdiction.

13 So, on that point, do you say I apply the Fifth Circuit's
14 pre-confirmation test of bankruptcy subject matter
15 jurisdiction or post-confirmation test?

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, the plan has --

17 THE COURT: Okay. I signed the confirmation order,
18 but it's one day old. It's still appealable. And it's 19 nowhere close --

20 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor?

21 THE COURT: -- to going effective, I fear. So, under 22 either test, tell me why I don't have subject matter
23 jurisdiction first.

24 MR. RUKAVINA: I would like to argue that the pre-
25 confirmation -- that the post-confirmation test applies, but I

218

1 can't, in good faith. The plan has not gotten -- gone
2 effective. There still is an estate. So, as of today, I
3 think Your Honor is dealing with the pre-confirmation
4 jurisdiction, --

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. RUKAVINA: -- which is definitely broader.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. RUKAVINA: There is no jurisdiction, because you
9 have heard no evidence of any effect on this estate as a
10 result of this injunction being issued or not issued. Mr.
11 Seery had every opportunity to be asked about harm,
12 interference, how does this affect the reorganization? He did
13 not give you any. This does not increase --

14 THE COURT: Well, what I think I heard, and I may be 15 mixing up written pleadings, declarations, versus what he said
16 today, but what I know I heard in either the papers or his 17 oral testimony today was that the Debtor is worried about 18 exposure to liability from who knows who.

19 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

20 THE COURT: The investors in the private funds or 21 someone else for not having a smooth transition plan here and 22 cutting things off on February 28th without knowing there's a
23 plan. Okay? So if the estate is exposed to potential
24 liability, is that an impact on the estate being administered,
25 per Wood v. Wood?

219

1 MR. RUKAVINA: Of course it is, Your Honor. But we
2 have to go to evidence. That's not in the evidence. That's
3 in the brief that they filed. It is not in Mr. Seery's
4 declaration. It is conclusory. It is not evidence. There is 5 no evidence today of anyone that could sue the Debtor. I have 6 no idea of anyone who could sue the Debtor -- pardon me --
7 regarding this.

8 THE COURT: He did say in testimony he was worried
9 about the SEC if this was not done right.

10 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, Your Honor, with due respect, 11 his worry is conclusory and his worry does not rise to an 12 effect. He didn't tell you that the SEC has investigated or 13 is threatening anything. It's a purely hypothetical worry.
14 So I do not think that Your Honor has even related-to 15 jurisdiction now that Your Honor has heard all of the 16 evidence.

17 Now, let me be clear. Your Honor has jurisdiction over 18 Counts One and Counts Two in this lawsuit, subject to 19 arbitration, right? That's the declaratory action as to 20 whether they terminated correctly. That's a legitimate
21 exercise of jurisdiction. And their monetary claim for unpaid
22 amounts: Clearly, the Court has jurisdiction. All I'm 23 talking about is whether the Court has jurisdiction to enjoin
24 a nondebtor party to do something. Not -- not to not do
25 something, not a status quo injunction, but a mandatory

220

1 injunction.

2 And you have heard no evidence, Your Honor, no nexus as to 3 how the injunction that Your Honor has been asked to order is 4 going to affect the estate. None.

5 THE COURT: Okay. But you say a nondebtor third
6 party. It's not just any nondebtor third party. Among other
7 things, it's a counterparty to executory contracts that the 8 Debtors say, you know, we either terminated these during the 9 case or they're deemed rejected, and we're wanting some 10 cooperation from the counterparty.

11 I mean, doesn't that give --

12 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

13 THE COURT: -- subject matter jurisdiction, because 14 we're talking about a counterparty to an agreement that would 15 have been governed by 365?

16 MR. RUKAVINA: I think, Your Honor, if there is some 17 duty in those contracts or some duty in the law to act in a 18 particular manner upon termination or rejection, there would 19 be jurisdiction.

20 But just like when Your Honor ruled against us in December
21 -- Your Honor said, I find nothing in this contract that 22 provides for such a duty -- there's nothing in these contracts
23 that provides any obligation on my client.

24 THE COURT: That is a different agreement. That was 25 a different agreement, for the record.

221

1 MR. RUKAVINA: Fair enough.

2 THE COURT: That was --

3 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, fair enough.

4 THE COURT: That was the CLO agreements that your 5 clients were not parties to.

6 MR. RUKAVINA: But Your Honor asked the right
7 question then, and that's still the right question: Point me
8 to some statutory or contractual right for what you want.
9 They have not pointed you to any.

10 So, yes, hypothetically, if these agreements -- let's just 11 assume that these agreements required post-termination good-
12 faith unwinding. There would be jurisdiction. But these 13 agreements don't provide any of that. The only thing that's 14 provided is that, post-termination, the Debtor shall promptly
15 return to us our property. And that -- there's no problem
16 with that. We trust that the Debtor -- we heard Mr. Seery --
17 the Debtor's not going to mess that up. It'll be done quickly
18 and painlessly, I hope.

19 That's not what they're asking for. They're asking for 20 Your Honor to tell my client how to conduct its internal 21 business affairs, and there's nothing in these contractual
22 rights.

23 So, hypothetically, let's just assume that the Court has 24 some related-to jurisdiction. Okay. It's still not core
25 jurisdiction. And these contracts have been terminated, Your

222

1 Honor. There is no live contract. No one has shown you any
2 statute or regulation that governs. So, that's jurisdiction.

3 The same fact of no harm, the same fact of no right, goes
4 to the elements of an injunction, recalling that a mandatory
5 injunction requires a much greater, much clearer burden.
6 Again, Mr. Seery did not testify as to any harm. He said he 7 was worried about the SEC and he said something like it might
8 make plan implementation more difficult. Again, conclusory
9 allegations. Those are not -- that's not evidence of 10 immediate and imminent injury. It is certainly not evidence
11 of irreparable injury, and it is certainly not evidence of a
12 nonmonetary injury.

13 So, again, I ask -- I understand Your Honor has been in 14 this case for a long time. I understand Your Honor has been 15 in the Acis case before that. I understand from Your Honor's
16 confirmation ruling that you have formed certain opinions
17 about my clients, opinions that I think are unfair, quite 18 frankly, that basically conclude that we are a vexatious
19 litigant and that we are the tentacles of Mr. Dondero. I ask
20 you to put all that aside. Because that's what the Debtor
21 wants you -- the Debtor wants you to just reflexively conclude 22 that somehow we're nincompoops and incompetents and we need
23 court supervision. Put all that aside, Your Honor, and just 24 ask yourself: What am I being asked to do? I'm being asked 25 to order a nondebtor as to how to conduct its own internal

223

1 business -- not even business related to the Debtor, but how
2 to conduct its own internal business -- even if we are the 3 biggest nincompoops, which absolutely is not borne out by the 4 record.

5 This is the wrong court for any such relief. It's the 6 wrong court.

7 The reason why I showed you that letter from last Friday
8 was I thought it was -- I think Mr. Morris is an excellent
9 lawyer and I've worked very well with him, but I think that 10 the allegation is so fundamentally unfair, that somehow this 11 is our fault because we didn't tell them about a backup plan
12 and we wouldn't just consent to the entry of an order that 13 gives Your Honor jurisdiction over us. That's unfair, Your 14 Honor. This is an inquisition in that respect. In that 15 respect, it's an inquisition.

16 We were sued. We defended ourselves. We're not -- this 17 is the fourth lawsuit, by the way, that the Debtor filed
18 against us, Your Honor.

19 And as I asked you at the confirmation hearing, what 20 evidence is there that we're vexatious? Okay, we filed a
21 motion in front of Your Honor that was frivolous. It
22 happened. And we're glad that the Court didn't sanction us.
23 We're glad. Perhaps the Court still will. But that's it.
24 Nothing else that we've done.

25 We've been quiet in this case. We've been minding our own

224

1 business. We've been preparing a backup plan. We've done
2 everything right. And the Debtor comes to you shocked,
3 shocked, alleging that we don't have any plan, alleging that 4 the sky is falling. And even when the Debtor learns that 5 that's not the case, we still had to go through today.

6 Why did we go through today, Your Honor? Why did my 7 client -- why did my client have to sit here like someone that 8 had done something wrong, like a criminal defendant, and be 9 inquired as to all of its internal business practices, with 10 implications made that my client doesn't know what it's doing?
11 Why did we go through today just to have some order that's a
12 -- that provides for something?

13 They want a mandatory injunction, Your Honor. You should 14 thumbs-up it or thumbs-down it. And if you thumbs-up it,
15 it'll be without jurisdiction, without basis, and it'll be 16 extraordinary.

17 I can just keep talking and talking, but I'll repeating
18 the same points, Your Honor, so I thank you.

19 MR. MORRIS: Can I just have five minutes, Your
20 Honor?

21 THE COURT: You can.

22 REBUTTAL CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

23 MR. MORRIS: You know, I think the Court can issue an 24 order finding that the motion is moot on its own accord. It
25 doesn't need a consensual order to do that. I think the Court

225

1 -- I would believe that the Court would have a factual finding
2 to support the finding of mootness.

3 But I don't really get the righteous indignation at all.
4 It's as if Mr. Rukavina didn't hear anything I said. Because 5 we're most certainly not asking the Court -- we weren't even,
6 in the motion, asking the Court to do anything specific other
7 than direct the Advisors to adopt and implement a plan. It
8 didn't have to be with us. We didn't care who it was with.
9 We didn't care what the elements were. The fact of the matter
10 is Mr. Seery testified extensively, not just about the 11 potential impact this would have on the Debtor's plan of 12 reorganization, but he testified that certain of the Debtor's
13 employees had received threats. He testified, based on his 14 experience, that this is a highly-regulated industry, and if 15 there was -- if we walked away without any plan in place,
16 which is exactly why he said we filed this motion, that it
17 would be -- that it would be potentially catastrophic and that 18 undoubtedly the SEC would be involved. And Mr. Rukavina
19 cannot give the Debtor any assurances that it would have no
20 liability. Mr. Rukavina, I'm sure, is not going to allow his 21 client to indemnify the Debtor for any damages that may have 22 occurred in the future.

23 We're a little far afield here, Your Honor. We simply 24 wanted to make sure that there was a plan in place to avoid a 25 catastrophe. That was the irreparable harm that we were

226

1 looking at. And at the end of the day, they came in -- you
2 know, I wish they had done it last week. I wish they had told
3 us last Thursday. I wish they had told us last Wednesday. I
4 wish they had told us during the negotiations. I wish they
5 had told us last Friday, instead of pulling Plan B. I wish
6 they -- you know. But it doesn't matter. They don't have an 7 obligation to do that and I'm not, you know, I'm not going to 8 pretend that they do. It would have been better if they had.
9 They didn't. But they did, they did what the Debtor needed
10 them to do today, and that is present their plan to the Court.

11 And while we, you know, have questions about when it was 12 prepared, whether it's fulsome, they like it, and that's the 13 important part. And they're not going to look to the Debtor
14 for any services in the future. That's the important part.

15 The risk that Mr. Seery was concerned about has been 16 eliminated, and I, you know, appreciate that. And that's why
17 I thought we came in here with a very rational and pragmatic
18 solution, to just -- to just -- you know, they've done what 19 we've asked for. We've gotten the relief that we've asked 20 for. The Advisors have sworn under oath that they have an 21 operating plan to obtain the essential services that the 22 Debtor used to provide. That's the relief we were asking for.
23 I'm not quite sure what there is left here.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

25 All right. The first thing I'm going to say is that the 227

1 Court believes it has subject matter jurisdiction, bankruptcy
2 subject matter jurisdiction, over the requested relief. If
3 it's a pre-confirmation test that I am supposed to apply here
4 -- that is, the Wood v. Wood, could this dispute have a
5 conceivable effect on an estate being administered -- I find
6 that that test is met.

7 I think the concern of potential liability and exposure on 8 the part of the Debtor is well-founded, even if it was not 9 articulated to the Advisors' satisfaction today. I think,
10 based on the litigious history here between these parties and 11 the contentiousness, I should say, between these parties
12 during this case, there is certainly a well-founded concern,
13 and certainly I think the Debtor is just being prudent,
14 worried about the SEC, investors, the Advisors, the funds,
15 someone else pointing fingers at the way the Debtor did or did
16 not act in transitioning services over. I think that is a
17 basis for subject matter jurisdiction under the pre-
18 confirmation test.

19 If the post-confirmation test applies here, we know that 20 Fifth Circuit cases such as In re Craig's Stores, In re Case, 21 National Gypsum, among others, articulate the test of 22 bankruptcy subject matter jurisdiction being could the outcome
23 of the dispute bear on the implementation, the execution, or 24 the interpretation of a confirmed plan? I think that test is 25 likewise met here.

228

1 Obviously, the plan contemplated a separation, and this
2 request for relief appears to be basically seeking some 3 supplemental -- a supplemental order to supplement the 4 confirmation order, to supplement the Debtor's attempt at 5 divorcing these parties as part of the monetization plan.

6 So I think bankruptcy subject matter jurisdiction does
7 exist here.

8 I didn't hear in oral arguments, closing arguments,
9 anything about the arbitration, but I think there's a real
10 question here whether the Advisors may have waived their right
11 to invoke the arbitration clause that's in one of the shared 12 services agreements, not both of them, by filing pleadings so
13 often, participating in this bankruptcy case so often, without 14 invoking that.

15 But again, as I see it, this adversary proceeding is 16 largely -- essentially, I should say -- asking for an order
17 supplementing the confirmation order, and it doesn't really
18 seem like a dispute per se under the shared services
19 agreements that have already been terminated.

20 So I think an argument can be made that there's been 21 waiver here, but even if there's not, that this is core in 22 that it bears on the plan confirmation, certainly more than a
23 dispute arising under the literal terms of the shared services
24 agreement.

25 I reserve the right to supplement and amend this, if I

1 need to, in a more thorough written ruling.

2 But anyway, based on the Court determining it does have
3 subject matter jurisdiction here, I see it appropriate to 4 enter an order that, based on the Court's several hours of 5 testimony today from three different witnesses -- Mr. Seery,
6 Mr. Dondero, Mr. Norris -- and based on many documents that 7 have been submitted into the evidence, the Court finds that 8 the shared services agreements were already terminated
9 pursuant to their terms and can also be deemed rejected under 10 365 of the Code previously.

11 The Court will find that the Advisors do not need any 12 further services from the Debtor under these agreements as of 13 today's date, except access to data and records, which, based 14 on the testimony of Dustin Norris, can be easily effectuated,
15 Mr. Norris's testimony being that what the Debtor would need
16 to do to allow access to the data is authorize the Debtor's IT
17 director to transfer data and we stand ready to receive it.
18 And data would include historical emails, vault emails, files
19 in the system, and a number of other items, but, quote, there
20 would almost be no work from the Debtor's end.

21 So, believing that to be the case, I would order that the 22 Debtor stand ready between now and the 28th to provide that 23 access and that the Advisors stand ready to receive that 24 access. And if the process extends beyond February 28th, then 25 it will have to be subject to further orders of this Court,

230

1 but the Court would expect there to be a cost if it extends
2 past February 28th. And again, the Court would consider that 3 in a further hearing, how much cost should be imposed on the 4 Advisors. But the advisors have represented to me through Mr.
5 Norris it's easy, it can be accomplished easily, so therefore 6 I would think it could happen between now and the 28th, and if 7 it does, no cost imposed on anyone.

8 I will further find that the Advisors have represented and 9 the Court therefore finds that there is an operating plan in 10 place for the Advisors to continue to operate uninterrupted
11 beyond today. And again, the only thing I would envision that 12 needs to happen between today and February 28th is the access
13 to data.

14 So, having made these findings, the Court believes that 15 the request for a mandatory injunction is moot and is 16 therefore denied.

17 Are there any questions? Mr. Morris, I want you to be the 18 scrivener, and, of course, run it by Mr. Rukavina. But are 19 there any questions or concerns about what I've just 20 articulated?

21 MR. MORRIS: I just have one, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

23 MR. MORRIS: You made reference to rejection of the 24 contract. From our perspective, it's not rejection. We don't 25 want to open this up to a rejection claim of any kind. It

231

1 really was just a termination of the agreement, in accordance 2 with the terms. And I had put the provisions up before the 3 Court during my opening and walked Mr. Seery through. That's 4 the basis for the --

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. MORRIS: -- termination of the agreement. It's 7 not rejection at all.

8 THE COURT: Fair point.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: And Your Honor, there's no -- there's 10 no -- yeah, there's no problem. There's no problem on that.
11 We do not disagree. We do not disagree with Mr. Morris.

12 THE COURT: Fair point. I made the mistake of belts
13 and suspenders, trying to fill in any hole there might be.
14 But yes, I had the evidence that there was a termination of 15 both agreements on November 30th. One of them had a 60-day
16 window before it became effective, the other a 30-day. So
17 they are terminated.

18 All right. Mr. Morris, anything else from you?

19 MR. MORRIS: No. We'll prepare a form of order.

20 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina, anything
21 further from you?

22 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, obviously, I have 23 questions. I have reservations. I need to look at whether 24 the Court's findings are going to be binding in this adversary
25 proceeding. So, at this point in time, I'm just not prepared

232

1 to really say anything lest I get myself in trouble. But I
2 thank you for your time today.

3 THE COURT: All right. Well, they are what they are,
4 and I hope we're not in an argument about that down the road.
5 But it seems like my hopes are always dashed when I want
6 things to be worked out.

7 I don't want you to think my calm demeanor means I am a
8 happy camper. I am not. I am beyond annoyed. I mean, I
9 can't even begin to guesstimate how many wasted hours were 10 spent on the drafting Option A, Option B. Wait. Let me pull
11 up the exact words. Mr. Norris confirming, We withdrew Option
12 B after the Debtor accepted it.

13 I mentioned fee-shifting once before in a different
14 context, and, of course, we haven't even gotten to the motion
15 for a show cause order declaring Mr. Dondero in contempt. I
16 don't know if the lawyers fully appreciate how this looks.
17 Mr. Rukavina, you said that I have formed opinions that you
18 don't think are fair and made comments about vexatious
19 litigation and whatnot. But while I continue, I promise you,
20 to have an open mind, it is days like this that make me come
21 out with statements that Mr. Dondero, repeating his own words,
22 apparently, he's going to burn the house down if he doesn't 23 get his baby back.

24 I mean, it seems so obviously transparent that he's just 25 driving the legal fees up. It's as though he doesn't want the 233

1 creditors to get anything, is the way this looks. If he wants
2 me to have a different impression, then he needs to start
3 behaving differently. I mean, I can't even imagine how many 4 hundreds of thousands of dollars of legal fees were probably 5 spent the past two weeks on Option A, Option B, and all the 6 different sub-agreements and whatnot. And as recently as 7 Friday afternoon, the K&L Gates lawyer saying we have a deal,
8 and then, oh, wait, maybe not, maybe we do, maybe we don't.
9 And then Mr. Dondero acting like he had no clue what the K&L
10 Gates lawyers were saying as far as we have a deal. And Mr.
11 Norris distancing himself from having seen any of that, and I
12 didn't have power. You know, I'm sure he had a cell phone,
13 like the rest of us, that gets emails. I'm making a 14 supposition. I shouldn't make that. But it just feels like 15 sickening games.

16 And again, if this keeps on, if this keeps on, one day,
17 one day, there may be an enormous attorney fee-shifting order.
18 And, of course, I would have to find bad faith, and I wouldn't 19 be surprised at all if I get there.

20 So I don't know if Mr. Dondero is listening. I suspect,
21 if he is, he doesn't care much. But I am --

22 MR. DONDERO: I'm on the line, Judge.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. DONDERO: I'm on the line.

25 THE COURT: I'm glad you're on the line. I cannot

234

1   overstate how very annoyed I am by hearing all these hours of 2   testimony and to feel like none of it was necessary. None of 3   it was necessary. Okay? There could have been a consensual
4   deal --

5               MR. DONDERO: Judge, you have to pay attention --
6   Judge, you have to pay attention to what's going on, okay?

7               THE COURT: I am --

8               MR. DONDERO: When I was president of Highland, --

9               THE COURT: -- razor-sharp focused on what is going 10   on. Okay? I read every piece of paper. I listen to every 11   sentence of testimony. And what is going on --

12              MR. DONDERO: Okay. How about this, Your Honor?

13              THE COURT: -- is an enormous waste of parties and 14   lawyer time and resources. People need to get their eye on 15   the ball. Well, certain people do have their eye on the ball, 16   but certain people do not. Okay? So we're done. You've got 17   your divorce now. Okay? And if the operating plan is all 18   shored up, as Mr. Norris testified, it sounds like you're in 19   good shape. All right?

20              Mr. Morris, I'll look for the order from you.

21              MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

22              THE CLERK: All rise.

23              (Pause.)

24              THE COURT: Oh, Michael?

25              (Court confers with Clerk.)

235

1 THE CLERK: Hello? Hang on. Mr. Morris?

2 THE COURT: Is anyone still there?

3 THE CLERK: Mr. Rukavina is still there. Mr.

4 Rukavina, Mr. Morris, are you all still there?

5 MR. RUKAVINA: Judge, this is Davor.

6 THE COURT: All right.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: I think we're all wondering whether 8 we're going to have the contempt hearing.

9 THE COURT: Well, yes, that's why I came back in.

10 MR. RUKAVINA: I can't hear you, Judge. We can't 11 hear you.

12 THE COURT: I realized I -- it's 4:19 Central time.
13 We are not starting the contempt hearing.

14 Mr. Morris, are you there now?

15 MR. MORRIS: I am. I did have one suggestion.

16 THE COURT: All right. I neglected to mention our 17 other setting, but we are not going to start at 4:19 Central 18 time. Do we want to talk about scheduling on that?

19 MR. MORRIS: I did, Your Honor. And it's just an 20 idea, and I understand we've had a long day. But I was going 21 to suggest if there was any way to just get their motion in 22 limine out of the way today, so that when we come back for the 23 evidentiary hearing parties are fully prepared. If you don't 24 want to do it, that's fine. Otherwise, I'm available at Your 25 Honor's convenience.

236

1 THE COURT: All right. I am going to have you all
2 communicate with Ms. Ellison about rescheduling that. I have 3 no idea what my calendar looks like next week, but I'm not
4 going to do it this week. I've got a backlog of other case
5 matters that I need to get to this week.

6 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

7 THE COURT: So, you know, maybe we'll do it next
8 week. On the motion in limine, you've not filed a response?
9 It was just filed yesterday, so I'm guessing there's no
10 response.

11 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I was going to do -- I was going
12 to do it orally. I'm happy to do a written response, and I'm 13 happy to just proceed on the papers. I just think it would be 14 helpful to have that, you know, or if we could put aside an 15 hour later this week to do that, because then preparing, if we 16 know the evidence is in or out, I think it'll just make the 17 trial a lot more smooth.

18 THE COURT: All right. I barely had time to pore
19 over it, so let me have Traci reach out to you all tomorrow
20 and let you know do I want a hearing on it or not. I have an 21 initial reaction. I don't know if Mr. Dondero's counsel is on 22 the phone. I don't want to talk about this too much if he's 23 -- do we have Dondero's counsel?

24 MR. WILSON: I'm present, Your Honor. John Wilson.

25 THE COURT: Okay. I will tell you right now that,

237

1 having done a quick review of it, I didn't feel inclined to
2 grant it. I'm going to have the TRO in front of me and I'm
3 going to hear the evidence of what happened, and it's either
4 going to match up as a violation of the provisions of the TRO
5 or not. You know, I feel -- I'm not a jury. I can decide
6 whether it is violative of the TRO or not. The theme of it
7 was, oh, it's going to have a prejudicial effect. I mean,
8 I've already heard about a lot of this. So I'm inclined not 9 to grant it. But, again, I did a very quick look at it at 10 5:00 o'clock last night. And that's why I asked Mr. Morris, 11 was he going to have a response, because --

12 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I was planning to do it orally
13 today, Your Honor. If I may just have until 5:00 o'clock
14 tomorrow, I'll submit an opposition that won't exceed five 15 pages.

16 THE COURT: Okay. So that's what we'll do. And then 17 once I've looked at the motion more carefully, as well as the 18 response, I'll decide if I need oral argument or if I'm just 19 going to rule on the pleadings, okay, and Traci will let you
20 all know. All right? And again, Traci will coordinate with 21 you tomorrow or sometime this week about a resetting on the 22 contempt motion.

23 All right. Thank you.

24 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 MR. WILSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

238

1 THE CLERK: All rise.

UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
DALLAS DIVISION

IN RE:	*	Chapter 11
	*
	*	Case No. 19-34054sgj11
HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.	*
	*
Debtor	*

MOTION TO APPOINT EXAMINER PURSUANT TO 11 U.S.C. § 1104(c)

NOW INTO COURT, through undersigned counsel, comes The Dugaboy Investment Trust and Get Good Trust (jointly, “Movers”) and respectfully move this Court for the appointment of an Examiner for the reasons set forth herein:

I.

BACKGROUND

1. On December 23, 2019, the United States Trustee filed its United States Trustee’s Motion for an Order Directing the Appointment of a Chapter 11 Trustee [Dkt. No. 271]. The United States Trustee's motion was denied by this Court's Order Denying United States Trustee's Motion for an Order Directing the Appointment of a Chapter 11 Trustee [Dkt.

No. 428]. Since around that time, the Debtor has been operating as a debtor-in-possession at the direction of an appointed independent board of directors.

2. On November 24, 2020, the Court approved the Debtor's Disclosure Statement for the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the "Disclosure Statement") [Dkt. No. 1476]. As detailed in Article II.B. of the Disclosure Statement, the value of the Debtor's Assets has decreased by more than $235 million, or about 42%, from the commencement of the case to September 30, 2020. The Debtor's Monthly Operating Report for November of 2020 reports a loss in value of $248 million [Dkt. No. 1710].
3. The Plan of Reorganization proposed by the Debtor and set for hearing on January 26, 2021 contains significant release and exculpation provisions for the management of the Debtor and the Independent Directors that are not allowable under applicable 5th Circuit law (Opposition to Confirmation of the Debtor's Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization filed by The Dugaboy Investment Trust and Get Good Trust [Dkt. No. 1667] and the United States Trustee's Limited Objection to Confirmation of Debtors' Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization filed by the United States Trustee [Dkt. No. 1671]).
4. At a hearing held on January 8, 2021, this Court voiced a concern about costs and expenses in connection with this case. The Court noted that it believed over sixty (60) lawyers attended the hearing and that a mere Preliminary Injunction hearing, based upon a back of the envelope calculation, cost the estate and parties in interest in excess of $300,000.00.
5. On January 12, 2021, counsel for Movers sent a letter to various counsel enlisting their support to the appointment of an Examiner to investigate various issues in this case and to author a report that could be used by the Court and parties in interest. It was suggested by The Dugaboy Investment Trust that the appointment of an Examiner was a less costly means to resolve issues, as opposed to full blown litigation between the various parties and their legions of lawyers. The letter suggested that an Examiner be appointed to provide to the Court and the parties in interest a report that would address key matters. The Examiner's investigation and report would address issues and items that would not delay or cause a continuance of the confirmation hearing on the Debtor's Plan.

6. The appointment of a neutral, third party Examiner who would serve as an independent agent for the estate would be in the best interests of the Debtor and its creditors. The Examiner's investigation would alleviate the need for discovery disputes and litigation by getting to the bottom of the legitimacy of the allegations made by the parties and potential claims that may exist on behalf of the estate or against persons acting on behalf of the estate. The present claims retention statement filed by the Debtor is merely a laundry list of potential claims and parties and provides no real guidance or explanation as to the retained claims.
7. Movers will fully cooperate with the Examiner with respect to any examination of potential issues concerning the claims of or against Movers.

II.

REQUEST FOR RELIEF

8. Movers request that this Court appoint an Examiner in this case under section 1104(c) of the Bankruptcy Code in order to perform investigations and to prepare a report under section 1106(b). Section 1104(c) of the Bankruptcy Code states, in pertinent part:

If the court does not order the appointment of a trustee under this section, then at any time before the confirmation of a plan, on request of a party in interest or the United States trustee, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall order the appointment of an examiner to conduct such an investigation of the debtor as is appropriate, including an investigation of any allegations of fraud, dishonesty, incompetence, misconduct, mismanagement, or irregularity in the management of the affairs of the debtor of or by current or former management of the debtor... 11 U.S.C. § 1104(c) (emphasis added).

9. The express language of section 1104(c) and c(2) makes clear that where, as in this case, a party has previously moved for the appointment of a Chapter 11 trustee and the fixed liquidated unsecured debts exceed $5 million, the court shall appoint an Examiner at the request of a party in interest. Id. Even so, other courts note that an application to appoint a trustee is not a prerequisite for the appointment of an Examiner, only that no such trustee has been appointed in the case. Keene Corp. v. Coleman (In re Keene Corp.), 164 B.R. 844, 855 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1994) (looking to identical language in § 1104(b), finding that the denial of a motion to appoint a trustee is not a prerequisite to appointing an Examiner); See also In re Residential Capital, LLC, 474 B.R. 112, 118, 121 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2012) (requiring only that a chapter 11 trustee must not have been appointed).
10. Here, all elements for the appointment of an Examiner have been met under section 1104(c)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code: (i) the Court has not previously appointed a trustee in this case; (ii) Movers, parties in interest, move for the appointment of an Examiner prior to plan confirmation; and (iii) it is indisputable that the Debtor's fixed, liquidated, unsecured debts, other than debts for goods, services, or taxes, or owing to an insider, exceed $5,000,000.<sup>1</sup>
11. When all such elements are met, courts have no discretion whether to grant relief, and must appoint an Examiner. In re Erickson Retirement Communities, LLC, 425 B.R. 309, 313 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2010). This Court in Erickson Retirement Communities stated:

"This court agrees with such courts that, where the $5 million unsecured debt threshold is met, a bankruptcy court ordinarily has no discretion. This Court has complete discretion as to the matters that are examined."

12. The Court in Erickson denied the appointment of an Examiner due to the fact that "there was no allegations of wrongdoing on the part of the Debtor" at 313. In Erickson the Examiner was requested to report on an "appropriate value allocation". In this case Movers are requesting, and the Court should want, an explanation from a neutral third party as to why the assets of the Debtor had such a significant reduction in value during the case. Was it due to mismanagement or negligence? The reason for the decline in value is not an investigation that the Debtor or its counsel can make (they are not disinterested) but one that must be made by an independent third party. The discussion in the Debtor's Disclosure Statement [Dkt. No. 1473, pgs. 28-29] is conclusory and only accounts for $90 million of the decline in value. The balance is not explained except to assert that Covid was in part responsible. Leading market indicators for the period between October of 2019 and October of 2020 reflect annualized growth rate for the Dow of 4.67%, the S&P 14.95% and Nasdaq 43.11%. In light of these market gains, questions exist as to why the Debtor's Assets declined in value and whether the Debtor's management acted in a prudent fashion.

III.

SUGGESTED AREAS OF INQUIRY AND METHODOLOGY

13. Movers have received responses from the Debtor and the Creditors' Committee relative to Movers' letter of January 12, 2021, wherein the Debtor and the Creditors' Committee rejected joining in the Examiner motion and contended that the request was designed to delay confirmation and that the Litigation Trustee would investigate the claims possessed by the estate. The letters received from the Debtor and the Creditors' Committee assert that the claims that have been made against the Debtor and the parties it seeks to have released and exculpated in its Plan are frivolous. The letters go on to state that the claims will be investigated by Marc Kirschner who is a highly qualified professional.

14. The areas of inquiry suggested by Movers below will not delay confirmation of the Debtor's Plan and the suggestion that the Litigation Trustee, through the use of its counsel, will investigate the claims in a more efficient manner than a highly qualified Examiner would miss the entire point of Movers' letter. The assertion that the Litigation Trustee will investigate all claims is inaccurate since claims against the Debtor's management are released and exculpated and are not included in any retained claims. It is difficult to believe that the Creditors' Committee does not want to know why there is a loss of over $200 million in Asset value and whether any of that loss could be recovered from responsible parties. Secondly, this Court, under the Plan, will have no control over the costs and expenses of the Litigation Trustee and its counsel in pursuing such litigation, and the only means of ensuring benefit to the estate for the activities of the Litigation Trustee would be to require that counsel pursuing the claims on behalf of the Litigation Trustee work on a contingent fee basis.

15. The Plan filed by the Debtor contains significant releases and exculpations for the persons overseeing the Debtor's activities in the case. Movers are troubled by the fact that the Debtor's Assets have declined in value with only a portion of the loss explained by "reserves" and forced stock sales due to margin issues. The Court, at the Preliminary Injunction hearing, indicated that it was concerned with the dissipation in the value of assets. A neutral Examiner could provide an independent view as to the loss in value and avoid costly fights over production of documents. Is the Debtor afraid to allow a third party to review and answer the question “Why”?

16. The Debtor should welcome an Examiner viewing the claims that it and the Litigation Trustee have against various parties. An Examiner’s report would be difficult to rebut and, in all likelihood, would bring about settlement of claims without the need for multiyear and costly litigation.

17. Movers suggest that each party provide the Court with a written submission suggesting areas of inquiry for an Examiner’s report. The Court can then fashion the areas of inquiry such that they do not slow down the confirmation process but provide a meaningful cost savings to the creditors of the estate and the potential party litigants.

IV.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, The Dugaboy Investment Trust and Get Good Trust request that this Court grant this motion and appoint an Examiner under section 1104(c) of the Bankruptcy Code to conduct an investigation of the propriety of the Debtor’s post-petition operations, sales, and trades in accordance with section 1106(b) of the Bankruptcy Code.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - FEBRUARY 2, 2021 - 9:38 A.M.

2 THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. All
3 right. We are ready to get started now in Highland Capital.
4 We have a confirmation hearing as well as a motion to assume
5 the non-residential real property lease at the headquarters.
6 All right. This is Case No. 19-34054. I know we're going to 7 have a lot of appearances today. I think we're just down to a
8 handful of objections, but I'm nevertheless going to go ahead
9 and get formal appearances from our key parties that we've had 10 historically in this case.

11 First, for the Debtor team, do we have Mr. Pomerantz and 12 your crew?

13 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. Jeff
14 Pomerantz, along with John Morris, Ira Kharasch, and Greg 15 Demo, on behalf of the Debtor-in-Possession, Highland Capital.

16 THE COURT: All right. Good morning. All right.
17 For the Unsecured Creditors' Committee team, do we have Mr.
18 Clemente and others?

19 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor.
20 Matthew Clements; Sidley Austin; on behalf of the Official
21 Committee of Unsecured Creditors.

22 THE COURT: All right. I'm actually going to call a
23 roll call for the Committee members who have obviously been 24 very active during this case. For the Redeemer Committee and 25 Crusader Fund, do we have Ms. Mascherin and her team?

1 (Pause.) Okay. We're -- if -- you must be on mute.

2 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor, I apologize.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead.

4 MS. MASCHERIN: I apologize, Your Honor. I was on 5 mute and could not figure out how to unmute myself quickly.
6 Terri Mascherin; Jenner & Block; on behalf of the Redeemer
7 Committee.

8 THE COURT: All right. Good morning.

9 All right. What about Acis? Do we have Ms. Patel and 10 others for the Acis team?

11 MS. PATEL: Good morning, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel
12 on behalf of Acis Capital Management.

13 THE COURT: Good morning.

14 All right. Mr. Clubok, I see you there for the UBS team,
15 correct?

16 MR. CLUBOK: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Good morning.

18 All right. For Patrick Daugherty, I think I see Mr.
19 Kathman out there, correct?

21 Kathman on behalf of Patrick Daugherty.

22 THE COURT: All right. Good morning.

24 for HarbourVest?

25 MS. WEISGERBER: Good morning, Your Honor. Erica

1 Weisgerber for HarbourVest.

2 THE COURT: All right. Very good.

3 All right. Well, I'll now, I guess, turn to some of the 4 Objectors that I haven't hit yet. Who do we have appearing
5 for Mr. Dondero this morning?

6 MR. TAYLOR: Good morning, Your Honor. Clay Taylor
7 of the law firm of Bonds Ellis Eppich Schaefer & Jones
8 appearing on behalf of Mr. Dondero. I have with me, of 9 course, Mr. Dondero, who is in the room with me. Dennis
10 Michael Lynn, John Bonds, and Bryan Assink are also appearing 11 on behalf of Mr. Dondero.

12 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Taylor.

13 All right. For the Dugaboy Trust and Get Good Trust, do
14 we have Mr. Draper and others?

15 MR. DRAPER: Yes, Your Honor. This is Douglas Draper
16 on the line.

17 THE COURT: All right. Good morning.

18 MR. DRAPER: Good morning, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right. What about what I'll call
20 Highland Fund, the Highland Funds and Advisors? Do we have 21 Mr. Rukavina this morning, or who do we have?

22 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, good morning. Davor
23 Rukavina and Julian Vasek for the Funds and Advisors. I can 24 make a full appearance, but it's the parties listed on Docket
25 1670.

8

1 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Rukavina.

2 All right. What about --

3 MR. HOGEWOOD: Your Honor?

4 THE COURT: Go ahead.

5 MR. HOGEWOOD: Your Honor, Lee Hogewood. I'm sorry,
6 Your Honor. Lee Hogewood is also here on behalf of the same
7 parties.

8 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, sir.

9 All right. What about NexPoint Real Estate Partners, HCRE
10 Partners?

11 MS. DRAWHORN: Good morning, Your Honor. Lauren
12 Drawhorn with Wick Phillips on behalf of NexPoint Real Estate
13 Partners, LLC. I'm also here on behalf of the NexPoint Real
14 Estate entities which are listed on Docket 1677, and NexBank,
15 which is -- their objection is 1676.

16 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

17 All right. Let's cover some of the employees. I think I
18 see Ms. Smith out there. Are you appearing for Mr. Ellington
19 and Mr. Leventon?

20 MS. SMITH: Yes, Your Honor. Frances Smith with Ross
21 & Smith, along with Debra Dandeneau of Baker McKenzie, on 22 behalf of Scott Ellington, Isaac Leventon, Thomas Surgent, and 23 Frank Waterhouse.

24 THE COURT: All right. Could you spell the last name
25 of your co-counsel from Baker McKenzie? I didn't clearly get

1 that.

2 MS. SMITH: Yes, Your Honor. It's Debra Dandeneau,
3 D-A-N-D-E-N-N-A-U [sic].

4 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

5 All right. CLO Holdco, do we have you appearing this
6 morning?

7 MR. KANE: Your Honor, John Kane on behalf of CLO
8 Holdco.

9 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Kane.

10 All right. I know we had a different group of current or 11 former employees -- Brad Borud, Jack Yang -- and some joining 12 parties: Kauffman, Travers, Deadman. Who do we have 13 appearing for those? (Pause.) Anyone? If you're appearing,
14 we're not hearing you. Go ahead.

15 MR. KATHMAN: Good morning, Your Honor. Jason
16 Kathman. I represent Mr. Deadman, Mr. Travers, and Mr.
17 Kauffman as well.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. And I can't remember
19 who represents Mr. Borud and Yang. Someone separately.

20 MR. KATHMAN: It's Mr. Winikka, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Oh, Mr. Winikka.

22 MR. KATHMAN: And I haven't scrolled through to see
23 whether he's with -- in the 120 people signed in this morning.
24 But I believe that objection has been resolved. I think Mr.
25 Pomerantz will probably address that later. So Mr. Winikka

10

1 may not be appearing.

2 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, anyone for the 3 IRS?

4 MR. ADAMS: Good morning, Your Honor. David Adams,
5 Department of Justice, on behalf of the United States and its 6 agency, the Internal Revenue Service.

7 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Adams.

8 For the U.S. Trustee, who do we have appearing this 9 morning? (No response.) I'm not hearing you. If you're 10 trying to appear, you must be on mute. (No response.) All
11 right. Well, I suspect at some point we'll hear from the U.S.
12 Trustee, even though I don't hear anyone now.

13 At this point, I will open it up to anyone else who wishes
14 to appear who I failed to call.

15 MS. MATSUMURA: Your Honor, this is Rebecca Matsumura
16 from King & Spalding representing Highland CLO Funding, Ltd.
17 Thank you.

18 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Ms. Matsumura.
19 HCLOF.

20 Anyone else?

21 MR. HELD: Your Honor, this is Michael Held with the 22 law firm of Jackson Walker, LLP on behalf of the office
23 landlord, Crescent TC Investors, LP.

24 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Held.

25 MR. HELD: Thank you, Your Honor.

11

1 THE COURT: Okay. Any other lawyer appearances?

2 All right. Well, again, if there's anyone out there who
3 did not get to appear, maybe we'll hear from you at some point
4 as the day goes on.

5 All right. Mr. Pomerantz, this is an important day,
6 obviously. How did you want to begin things?

7 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, I have a brief
8 opening to talk about what I plan to do, and a little more
9 lengthy opening, and it'll be come clear. So if I may 10 proceed, Your Honor?

11 THE COURT: You may.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, we're here to request
13 that the Court confirm the Debtor's Fifth Amended Plan of 14 Reorganization, as modified. The operative documents before
15 Your Honor are the Fifth Amended Plan, as modified, that was 16 filed along with our pleadings in support of confirmation on 17 January 22nd and the minor amendments that we filed on 18 February 1st.

19 Here is my proposal on how we can proceed this morning. I
20 would intend to provide the Court with an opening statement
21 that would last approximately 20 minutes. And then after any 22 other party who desires to make an opening statement, I would 23 propose that the Debtor put on its evidence that it intends to 24 rely on in support of confirmation. The evidence consists of 25 the exhibits that the Debtor filed with its witness and 12

1 exhibit list on January 22nd and certain amendments that we
2 filed yesterday.

3 We would also put on the testimony of the following
4 witnesses: Jim Seery, the Debtor's chief executive officer,
5 who Your Honor is very familiar with, and also a member of 6 Strand's board of directors; John Dubel, a member of Strand's
7 board of directors; and Mark Tauber, a vice president with Aon
8 Financial Services, the Debtor's D&O broker.

9 We have also submitted the declaration of Patrick Leatham,
10 who is with KCC, the Debtor's balloting agent. And we don't 11 intend to put Mr. Leatham on the stand, but he is available on 12 the WebEx for cross-examination, to the extent necessary.

13 I propose that I would leave the bulk of my argument,
14 which includes going through the Section 1129 requirements for 15 plan confirmation, as well as responding to the remaining
16 outstanding objections, until my closing argument.

17 With that, Your Honor, I will pause and ask the Court if 18 Your Honor has any questions before I proceed.

19 THE COURT: I do not have questions, so your method
20 of going forward sounds appropriate. You may go ahead.

21 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

22 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

23 MR. POMERANTZ: As I indicated, Your Honor, we stand
24 here side by side with the Creditors' Committee asking that 25 the Court confirm the Debtor's plan of reorganization.

1 As Your Honor is well aware, this case started in December
2 in -- October 2019, was transferred to Your Honor's court in
3 December 2019, and has been pending for approximately 15
4 months.

5 On January 9, 2020, I stood before Your Honor seeking the 6 approval of the independent board of directors of Strand, the 7 general partner of the Debtor, pursuant to a heavily-
8 negotiated agreement with the Committee. And as the Court has 9 remarked on occasions throughout the case, the economic 10 stakeholders in this case believed that the installation of a
11 new board consisting of highly-qualified restructuring
12 professionals and a bankruptcy judge, a former bankruptcy
13 judge, was far more attractive than the alternative, which was 14 appointment of a trustee. And upon approval of the 15 settlement, members of the board -- principally, Mr. Seery -- 16 testified that one of the board's goals was to change the 17 culture of litigation that plagued Highland in the decade
18 before filing and threatened to embroil the Debtor in 19 continued litigation if changes were not made.

20 And as Your Honor is well aware, the last 14 months have 21 not been easy. The board took its role as an independent 22 fiduciary extremely seriously, much to the consternation of 23 the Committee at times, and more recently, to the 24 consternation of Mr. Dondero and his affiliated entities.

25 And what has the Debtor, under the leadership of the

1 board, been able to accomplish during this case? The answer
2 is a lot more than many parties believed when the board was 3 installed.

4 The Debtor reached a settlement with the Redeemer
5 Committee, resolving disputes that had been litigated for many 6 years, in many forums, and that resulted in an arbitration
7 award that was the catalyst for the bankruptcy filing.

8 Participating in a court-ordered mediation at the end of 9 August 2020 and September, the Debtor reached agreement with 10 Acis and Josh Terry. The Court is all too familiar with the 11 years of disputes between the Debtor and Acis and Josh Terry, 12 which spanned arbitration proceedings and an extremely 13 combative Chapter 11 that Your Honor presided over.

14 The Debtor next reached an agreement with HarbourVest
15 regarding their assertion of over $300 million of claims 16 against the estate. The HarbourVest litigation stemmed from 17 its investment in the Acis CLOs and would have resulted in 18 complex, fact-intensive litigation which would have forced the 19 Court to revisit many of the issues addressed in the Acis
20 case.

21 And perhaps most significantly, Your Honor, the Debtor was 22 able to resolve disputes with UBS, disputes which took the 23 most time of any claim in this case, through a contested stay
24 relief motion, a hotly-contested summary judgment motion, and 25 a Rule 3018 motion.

1 While the Debtor and UBS hoped to file a 9019 motion prior
2 to the commencement of the hearing, they were not able to do
3 so. However, I am now in a position to disclose to the Court
4 the terms of the settlement, which is the subject of 5 documentation acceptable to the Debtor and UBS. The 6 settlement provides for, among other things, the following
7 terms:

8 UBS will receive a $50 million Class 8 general unsecured
9 claim against the Debtor.

10 UBS will receive a $25 million Class 9 subordinated
11 general unsecured claim against the Debtor.

12 UBS will receive a cash payment of $18.5 million from 13 Multi-Strat, which was a defendant and the subject of 14 fraudulent transfer claims.

15 The Debtor will use reasonable efforts to assist UBS to 16 collect its Phase I judgment against CDL Fund and assets CDL
17 Fund may have.

18 The parties will also agree to mutual and general
19 releases, subject to agreed carve-outs.

20 And, of course, the parties will not be bound until the 21 Court approves the settlement pursuant to a 9019 motion we 22 would hope to get on file shortly.

23 I am also pleased to let the Court know -- breaking news
24 -- that this morning we reached an agreement to settle Patrick
25 Daugherty's claims. I would now like to, at the request of

1 Mr. Kathman, read into the record the Patrick Daugherty
2 settlement.

3 Under the Patrick Daugherty settlement, Mr. Daugherty will 4 receive a $750,000 cash payment on the effective date. He 5 will receive an $8.25 million general unsecured claim, and he
6 will receive a $2.75 million Class 9 subordinated claim.

7 The settlement of all claims against the Debtor and its 8 affiliates -- and affiliates will be defined in the documents
9 -- with the exception of the tax claim against the Debtor, Mr.
10 Dondero, and Mr. Okada -- and for the avoidance of doubt,
11 except as I describe below, nothing in the settlement is 12 intended to affect any pending litigation Mr. Daugherty has 13 against Mr. Dondero, Scott Ellington, Isaac Leventon, Marc
14 Katz, Michael Hurst, and Hunton Andrew Kurth.

15 Mr. Daugherty will release the Debtor and its affiliates
16 and current employees for all claims and causes of action,
17 except for the agreements I identify below, and dismiss all
18 current employees as to pending actions. We believe this only 19 applies to Thomas Surgent and no other employee is implicated.

20 Mr. Surgent and other employees, including but not limited
21 to David Klos, Frank Waterhouse, Brian Collins, Lucy Bannon,
22 and Matt Diorio, will receive releases similar to the covenant
23 in Paragraph 1D of the Acis settlement agreement, which 24 essentially provided the release would go away if they 25 assisted anyone in pursuing claims against Mr. Daugherty.

1 Highland and the above-mentioned parties will accept
2 service of any subpoenas and acknowledge the jurisdiction of 3 the Delaware Chancery Court for the purposes of accepting any 4 subpoenas. And for the avoidance of doubt, Highland will 5 accept service on behalf of the employees only in their 6 capacity as such.

7 Highland will also use material -- will use reasonable
8 efforts at no material cost to assist Daugherty in vacating a 9 Texas judgment that was issued against him. We've also looked 10 at a form of the motion and believe we have agreed on the form
11 of the motion.

12 Highland, its affiliates, and current employees will 13 covenant and agree they will not pursue or seek to enforce the 14 injunction and the Texas judgment against Daugherty.

15 And lastly, Daugherty will not be able to settle any 16 claims for negligence or other claims that might be subject to 17 indemnification by the Debtor or any successor.

18 Accordingly, Your Honor, other than the claims of Mr.
19 Dondero and his related entities, and the unliquidated claims
20 of certain employees, substantially all claims have been 21 resolved in this case, a truly remarkable achievement.

22 Separate and apart, Your Honor, from the work done
23 resolving the claims, the Debtor, under the direction of the 24 independent board, has worked extremely hard to develop a plan
25 of reorganization.

1       After the independent board got its bearings, it started
2       to work on various plan alternatives. And the board received
3       a lot of pressure from the Committee to go straight to a plan
4       seeking to monetize assets like the one before Your Honor
5       today. However, the board believed that before proceeding to 6       do so and go down an asset monetization path, it should 7       adequately diligence all alternatives, including a
8       continuation of the current business model, a reorganization
9       sponsored by Mr. Dondero and his affiliates, a sale of the 10      Debtor's assets, including a sale to Mr. Dondero.

11       In June 2020, plan negotiations proceeded in earnest, and 12      the Debtor started to negotiate an asset monetization plan
13      with the Committee, while still pursuing other alternatives.

14       Preparation of an asset monetization plan is not typically 15      a complicated process. However, creating the appropriate
16      structure for a business like the Debtor's was extremely 17      complicated, because of the contractual, regulatory, tax, and 18      governance issues that had to be carefully considered.

19       At the same time the Committee negotiations were 20      proceeding down that path, Mr. Seery continued to spend 21      substantial time trying to negotiate a grand bargain plan with 22      Mr. Dondero. It is not an exaggeration to say that over the 23      last several months Mr. Seery has dedicated hundreds of hours
24      towards a potential grand bargain plan.

25       And why did he do it? Because he has always believed that

1 a global restructuring among all parties was the best
2 opportunity to fully and finally resolve the acrimony that
3 continued to plague the Debtor.

4 Notwithstanding Mr. Seery's and the independent board's
5 best efforts, they were not able to reach consensus on a grand
6 bargain plan, and the Debtor filed the plan, the initial plan,
7 on August 12th, which ultimately evolved into the plan before
8 the Court today.

9 The Court conducted an initial hearing on the disclosure
10 statement on October 27th, and then ultimately approved -- the 11 Court approved the disclosure statement at a hearing on 12 November 23rd.

13 While the Debtor continued to work towards resolving
14 issues with the Committee with the filed plan, Mr. Dondero, 15 beginning to finally see that the train was leaving the 16 station, started to do whatever he could to get in the way of 17 plan confirmation.

18 He objected to the Acis settlement. When his objection
19 was overruled, he filed an appeal.

20 He objected to the HarbourVest settlement. When his 21 objection was overruled, he had Dugaboy file an appeal.

22 He started to interfere with the Debtor's management of 23 its CLOs, stopping trades, refusing to provide support, and 24 threatening Mr. Seery and the Debtor's employees.

25 He had his Advisors and Funds that he owned and controlled

1 file motions that Your Honor said was a waste of time.

2 He had those same Funds and Advisors threaten to terminate
3 the Debtor as a manager, in blatant violation of the Court's
4 January 9, 2020 order.

5 His conduct was so egregious that it warranted entry of a
6 temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against 7 him. And of course, he has appealed that ruling as well.

8 But that was not all. He brazenly threw out his phone, in 9 what the Court has remarked was spoliation of evidence, and he 10 violated the TRO in other ways, actions for which he will 11 answer for at the contempt hearing scheduled later this week.

12 And, of course, he and his pack of related entities have 13 filed a series of objections. We have received 12 objections
14 to the plan, Your Honor, excluding three joinders. And as I
15 mentioned, we have been pleased to report that we've been able 16 to resolve six of them: those of the Senior Employees, those 17 of Patrick Daugherty, those of CLO Holdco, those of the IRS, 18 those of Texas Taxing Authorities, and those of Jack Young and 19 Brad Borud.

20 The CLO Holdco objection was withdrawn in connection with 21 the settlement reached with them in connection with the 22 preliminary injunction hearing that the Court heard -- started
23 to hear last week.

24 The Taxing Authorities' objections have been resolved by 25 the Debtor agreeing to make certain modifications to the plan

1 that were included in our filing yesterday and to include
2 certain provisions in the confirmation order to address other
3 concerns.

4 The group of employees who are referred to as the Senior
5 Employee are comprised of four individuals -- Frank
6 Waterhouse, Thomas Surgent, Scott Ellington, and Isaac
7 Leventon -- although Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon are no
8 longer employed by the Debtor.

9 On January 22nd, Your Honor, we filed executed
10 stipulations with Frank Waterhouse and Thomas Surgent. These 11 stipulations were essentially the Senior Employee stipulations
12 that were referred to in the plan and the disclosure
13 statement.

14 And as part of those stipulations, the Debtor, in 15 consultation with and agreement from the Committee, agreed to 16 certain modifications of the prior version of the Senior
17 Employee stipulation with both Mr. Waterhouse and Mr. Surgent
18 that effectively reduced the compensation they needed to 19 provide for the release from 40 percent to five percent of 20 their claims.

21 The Debtor and the Committee believed the resolution with 22 Mr. Surgent and with Mr. Waterhouse was fair, given the 23 importance of these two people to the transition effort and 24 the increased reliance upon them that the Debtor would have 25 with the departure of Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon. And as 22

1 a result of that agreement, Your Honor, on January 27th, Mr.
2 Waterhouse and Mr. Surgent withdrew from the Senior Employee
3 objection.

4 Subsequently, we reached agreement with Mr. Ellington and 5 Mr. Leventon to resolve the objections they raised with 6 confirmation. And at Ms. Dandeneau's request, I would like to 7 read into the record the agreement reached with both of them,
8 and I know she will correct me if I get anything wrong.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Among other things, Mr. Ellington and 11 Mr. Leventon asserted in their objection that they were 12 entitled to have their liquidated bonus claims treated as 13 Class 7 convenience claims under the plan, under their reading
14 of the plan, and their understanding of communications with 15 Mr. Seery. The Debtor disputed the entitlement to elect Class
16 7 based upon the terms of the plan, the disclosure statement,
17 and applicable law. But as I said, the parties have resolved
18 this dispute.

19 Mr. Ellington asserts liquidated bonus claims in the 20 aggregate amount of $1,367,197, which, to receive convenience
21 class treatment under anybody's analysis, would have had to be 22 reduced to a million dollars.

23 Mr. Leventon asserts a liquidated bonus claim in the 24 amount of $598,198.

25 If Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon were entitled to be

1 included in the convenience class, as they claimed, they would
2 be entitled to receive 85 percent of their claim as and when
3 the claims were allowed under the plan.

4 To settle the dispute regarding whether, in fact, they 5 would be entitled to the convenience class treatment, they 6 have agreed to reduce the percentage they would otherwise be 7 entitled to receive from 85 percent to 70.125 percent. And as 8 a result, Mr. Ellington's Class 7 convenience claim would be
9 entitled to receive $701,250 if allowed, and Mr. Leventon's
10 Class 7 convenience claim would be entitled to receive 11 $413,175.10 if allowed.

12 Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon would reserve the right to 13 assert that a hundred percent of their liquidated bonus claims
14 are entitled to administrative priority, and the Debtor, the 15 Committee, the estate and their successors, would reserve all
16 rights to object.

17 If anyone did object to the allowance of the liquidated
18 bonus claims and Mr. Ellington and/or Mr. Leventon prevailed
19 in such disputes, then the discount that was previously agreed
20 to -- 85 percent to 70.125 percent -- would go away and they 21 would be entitled to receive the full 85 percent payout as 22 essentially a penalty for litigating against them on their 23 allowed claims and losing.

24 As an alternative to the estate preserving the right to 25 object to the allowance of Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon's

1 liquidated bonus claims, the Debtor and the Committee have an
2 option to be exercised before the effective date to just agree
3 that both their claims will be allowed, and allowed as Class 7
4 convenience claims. And if that agreement was reached, then
5 the amount of such liquidated bonus claims, they would receive
6 a payment equal to 60 percent of their allowed convenience
7 class claim.

8 In exchange, Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon would waive
9 their right to assert payment of a hundred percent of their 10 liquidated bonus claims as an administrative expense.

11 So, under this circumstance, Mr. Ellington would receive 12 an allowed claim of $600,000, which is 60 percent of a million
13 dollars, and Mr. Leventon will receive a payment on account of 14 his Class 7 claim of $358,918.80.

15 Under both scenarios, Mr. Ellington and Mr. Leventon would 16 preserve their paid time off claims that are treated in Class
17 6, and they would preserve their other claims in Class 8, 18 largely unliquidated indemnification claims, subject to the 19 rights of any party in interest to object to those claims.

20 Mr. Ellington will change his vote in Class 8 from 21 rejecting the plan to accepting the plan, and Mr. Leventon
22 would change his votes in Class 8 and Class 7 from rejecting
23 the plan to accepting the plan. And Mr. Ellington and Mr.
24 Leventon would withdraw any remaining objections to 25 confirmation of the plan, and we intend to put this settlement

1 in the confirmation order.

2 Your Honor, six objections to the plan remain outstanding.
3 One objection was filed by the Office of the United States
4 Trustee, and the remaining five objections are from Mr.
5 Dondero and his related entities. And I would like to put up
6 a demonstrative on the screen which shows how all of these
7 objections lead back to Jim Dondero.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 MR. POMERANTZ: You see on the top left, Your Honor,
10 there's a box in white that says A through E, which are the 11 five remaining objections. And you can see how they relate.
12 But all of it goes back to that orange box in the middle, Jim
13 Dondero.

14 These objections, which I will address in my closing
15 argument in detail, are not really focused on concerns that 16 creditors are being treated unfairly, and that's because Mr.
17 Dondero and his entities don't really have any valid claims.
18 Mr. Dondero owns no equity in the Debtor. He owns the 19 Debtor's general partner, Strand, which in turn owns a quarter
20 percent of the total equity in the Debtor. Mr. Dondero's only
21 other claim is a claim for indemnification. And as Your Honor
22 would expect, the Debtor intends to fight that claim
23 vigorously.

24 Dugaboy and Get Good have asserted frivolous
25 administrative and unsecured claims, which I will discuss in

1 more detail later.

2 Dugaboy does have an equity interest in the Debtor, but it
3 represents eighteen-hundredths of a percent of the Debtor's
4 total equity.

5 And Mr. Rukavina's clients similarly have no general
6 unsecured claims against the Debtor. Either his clients did
7 not file proofs of claim or filed claims and then agreed to 8 have them expunged. The only claims that his clients assert
9 is a disputed administrative claim filed by NexPoint Advisors.

10 And the objections aren't legitimately concerned about the 11 post-confirmation operations of the estate, to preserve equity
12 value, how much people are getting, whether Mr. Seery is 13 really the right person to run these estates. That's because 14 Mr. Dondero has repeatedly told the Court that he believes his 15 offer, which doesn't come close to satisfying claims in full 16 in this case, is for fair value and that creditors, who are 17 owed more than $280 million, will not receive anywhere close
18 to the amount of their claims.

19 Rather, Mr. Dondero and his entities are concerned with 20 one thing and one thing only: how to preserve their rights to 21 continue their frivolous litigation after confirmation against 22 the independent directors, the Claimant Trustee, the 23 Litigation Trustee, the employees, the Claimant Trust
24 Oversight Board, and anyone who will stand in their way. For 25 Mr. Dondero, the decision is binary: Either give him what he

1 wants, or as he has told Mr. Seery, he will burn down the 2 place.

3 Your Honor will hear a lot of argument today about how the 4 -- and tomorrow, in closing -- about how the injunction, the 5 gatekeeper, and the exculpation provisions of the plan are not
6 appropriate under applicable law. The Debtor, of course,
7 disagrees with these arguments, and I will address them in 8 detail in my closing argument.

9 But I do think it's important to focus the Court at the 10 outset on the January 9, 2020 order that the Court entered 11 which addressed some of these issues. This order, which has 12 not been appealed, which was actually agreed to by Mr.
13 Dondero, has no expiration by its terms and will continue
14 post-confirmation, did some things that the Objectors just 15 refuse to recognize and accept.

16 It approved an exculpation for negligence for the 17 independent directors and their agents. It provided that the 18 Court would be the gatekeeper to determine whether any claims
19 asserted for them -- against them for gross negligence and 20 willful misconduct could be pursued, and if so, provided that 21 this Court would have exclusive jurisdiction to adjudicate
22 those claims. And it prevented Mr. Dondero and his related 23 entities from causing any related entity to terminate any
24 agreements with the Debtor.

25 I also note, Your Honor, that the Court's July 16, 2020

28

1 order approving Mr. Seery as chief executive officer and chief
2 restructuring officer included the same exculpation and
3 gatekeeping provision as contained in the January 29th --
4 January 9th order.

5 Your Honor, we have all come too far to allow Mr. Dondero
6 to make good on his promise to Mr. Seery to burn down the 7 place if he didn't get what he wanted. The Debtor deserves
8 better, the creditors deserve better, and this Court deserves
9 better.

10 That concludes my opening argument, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. I had one follow-
12 up question about the Daugherty settlement. You did not 13 mention, is it going to be reflected in the confirmation
14 order, is it going to be the subject of a 9019 motion, or 15 something else?

16 MR. POMERANTZ: It'll be subject to a -- it'll be 17 subject to a 9019 motion, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: All right.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: I apologize for leaving that out.

20 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Well, --

21 MR. KATHMAN: Your --

22 THE COURT: -- I appreciate that you stuck closely to 23 your 20-minute time estimate.

24 As far as other opening statements today, I'm going to 25 start with the objections that were resolved. Mr. Kathman, I

1 see you there. Who will speak on behalf of Patrick Daugherty
2 and the announced settlement?

3 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF PATRICK DAUGHERTY

4 MR. KATHMAN: Good morning, Your Honor. Jason
5 Kathman on behalf of Mr. Daugherty.

6 Mr. Pomerantz correctly recited the bullet points of the 7 settlement that we agreed to in principle this morning. There
8 was one that he did leave off that I do want to make sure that 9 I mention and that it's read into the record. And he read at 10 the top end that Mr. Daugherty does maintain his ability to 11 pursue his 2008 tax refund bonus claim, or tax refund
12 compensation claim. If the Court will recall, there's a 13 contingent liability out there based on how compensation was 14 paid back in 2008 that's the subject of an IRS audit. And so 15 the settlement expressly contemplates that those -- that that 16 claim will be preserved and Mr. Daugherty may pursue that 17 claim. Should the IRS have an adverse ruling and we have to 18 pay money back, we get to preserve that claim.

19 And so the one thing that is preserved, Your Honor -- and 20 the same way that Mr. Pomerantz read verbatim the words, I'm 21 going to read verbatim the words that we've agreed to:
22 Daugherty maintains and may pursue the 2008 tax refund
23 compensation portion of his claim that is currently a disputed
24 contingent liability. The Debtor and all successors reserve
25 the right to assert any and all defenses to this portion of 30

1 the Daugherty claim. The litigation of this claim shall be
2 stayed until the IRS makes a final determination, provided,
3 however, Daugherty may file a motion with the Bankruptcy Court
4 seeking to have the amount of his tax claim determined for 5 reservation purposes as a "disputed claim" under the Debtor's
6 plan. The Debtor and all successors reserve the right to 7 assert any and all defenses to any such motion.

8 So the Debtor's plan says that they can make estimations
9 for disputed claims. There is not currently something
10 reserving this particular claim, so we wanted to make sure we 11 reserve our rights to be able to have that amount reserved
12 under the Debtor's plan. And the Debtor obviously preserves
13 their ability to object to that.

14 With that, Your Honor, it is going to be papered up in a
15 9019, and we'll have some further things to say at the 9019
16 hearing, but didn't want to derail the Debtor's confirmation
17 hearing this morning.

18 THE COURT: All right. And --

19 MR. POMERANTZ: And Mr. Kathman is -- Mr. Kathman is 20 correct. I neglected to mention that provision, but he is -- 21 he read it, and that's agreed to.

22 THE COURT: All right. And I did not hear anything
23 about Mr. Daugherty's vote on the plan. Is there an agreement
24 to change or a motion to change the vote from no to yes?

25 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, that wasn't, I think,

31

1 directly -- and Mr. Pomerantz can correct me if I'm wrong, or
2 Mr. Morris, actually, probably more could -- that wasn't 3 directly addressed, but I think the answer to that is probably 4 they don't need our vote.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. KATHMAN: I think they have enough votes in that 7 class to carry.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. KATHMAN: But the answer directly is that that 10 wasn't specifically addressed one way or the other.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: That is correct, Your Honor. We 13 would, of course, not oppose Mr. Daugherty changing his vote,
14 but as Your Honor saw in the ballot summary, we are way over 15 the amount in dollar amounts of claims. But if they wanted to 16 change their vote, we wouldn't oppose.

17 THE COURT: All right. Well, --

18 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, I have -- I have the 19 benefit of Mr. Daugherty. He is on -- I should note, Mr.
20 Daugherty is on the hearing this morning. He just let me know
21 that he is willing to change his vote. If the Debtor were to 22 so make a motion, we're fine changing our vote to in favor of 23 the plan.

24 THE COURT: All right. All right. Well, we'll get 25 the ballot agent declaration or testimony later. At one time

32

1 when I had checked, there was a numerosity problem but not a
2 dollar amount problem. And it sounds like that is no longer
3 an issue, perhaps because of the employee votes, or I don't 4 know.

5 But, all right. Well, thank you.

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, there is still a
7 numerosity problem.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. POMERANTZ: There's not a dollar amount problem.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: But we'll address that and cram-down
12 in closing.

13 THE COURT: All right. Very good.

14 All right. Well, I want to hear from the -- what we've 15 called the Senior Employee group. Is Ms. Dandeneau going to 16 confirm the announcement of Mr. Pomerantz?

17 MS. DANDENEAU: Yes, Your Honor. I confirm that Mr.
18 Pomerantz's recitation of the terms to which we've agreed is 19 accurate.

20 THE COURT: All right. Very good.

21 All right. I suppose I should circle back to UBS. We've,
22 of course, heard in prior hearings the past few weeks that 23 there was a settlement with UBS, but Mr. Clubok, could I get 24 you to confirm what Mr. Pomerantz announced earlier about the 25 UBS settlement?

33

1 MR. CLUBOK: Yes. Good morning again, Your Honor.

2 Yes, we have reached a settlement, and it's just -- and
3 it's been approved internally at UBS and obviously by the 4 Debtor. It's just subject to the final documentation. And we
5 are working very closely with the Debtor to try to do that as 6 quickly as possible.

7 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

8 All right. Well, let me go, then, to other opening
9 statements. Is there anyone else who at this time wishes to 10 make an opening statement? And, you know, for the pending
11 objectors, please, no more than 20 minutes.

12 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor? Your Honor, if I may, 13 it's Matt Clemente on behalf of the Committee.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. CLEMENTE: I'd be very brief, but I would like to 16 make some remarks to Your Honor. It'll be less than five 17 minutes.

18 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

19 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

20 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE UNSECURED CREDITORS' COMMITTEE

21 MR. CLEMENTE: Again, for the record, Matt Clemente;
22 Sidley Austin; on behalf of the Official Committee of 23 Unsecured Creditors.

24 Your Honor, to be clear, the Committee fully supports
25 confirmation of the Debtor's plan and believes the plan is

1 confirmable and should be confirmed.

2 Although it has taken us quite some time to get to this
3 point, Your Honor, and as Mr. Pomerantz referred, the Debtor's
4 business is somewhat complex, the plan is remarkably
5 straightforward, Your Honor, and has only been made
6 complicated by the various objections filed by Mr. Dondero's
7 tentacles.

8 At bottom, Your Honor, the plan is designed to recognize 9 the reality of the situation that the Committee has 10 continually been expressing to Your Honor, and that is the 11 overwhelming amount of creditors in terms of dollars are 12 litigation creditors, creditors who are here entirely because 13 of the fraudulent and other conduct of Mr. Dondero and his 14 tentacles.

15 The other third-party creditors, Your Honor, by and large 16 are those collateral to these litigation claims in terms of 17 true trade creditors and service providers.

18 Recognizing this fact, Your Honor, the plan contains an 19 appropriate convenience class, which, in the Committee's view, 20 provides a fair way to capture a large number of claims and 21 appropriately recognizes the distinction between those claims
22 and the large litigation claims. And the holders of these 23 large litigation claims, including now Mr. Daugherty, have 24 voted in favor of allowing this convenience class treatment.

25 Your Honor, after distributions are made to the

1 administrative creditors, the priority creditors, the secured
2 creditors, and the convenience creditors, the remainder goes
3 to general unsecured creditors who will control how this value
4 is realized. These are the large litigation creditors.

5 Additionally, Your Honor, recognizing the possibility of 6 recovery in excess of general unsecured claims plus interest,
7 and to thwart, from the Committee's perspective, what would
8 have undoubtedly been an argument by one of the Dondero
9 tentacles that the general unsecured creditors could be paid
10 more than they are owed, the plan provides for a contingent
11 interest to kick in after payment in full for interests of all 12 prior claims.

13 Your Honor, this is the sum and substance of the plan. At 14 bottom, fairly straightforward. And the true creditors, Your 15 Honor, have voted overwhelmingly in favor of the plan. Class
16 8 has voted to support the plan. Class 7 has voted to accept
17 the plan. And now I believe, with Mr. Daugherty's settlement, 18 one hundred percent in amount of Class 8, non-insider, non-19 Dondero-controlled or (audio gap) have voted in favor of the 20 plan.

21 To be clear, as Your Honor pointed out and as Mr.
22 Pomerantz referenced, there is not numerosity in Class 8, Your 23 Honor, but that is driven, as Your Honor will see, from 24 approximately 30 no-votes of current employees who the 25 Committee believes are not owed any amounts and therefore they

1 will not be receiving payments under the plan, yet they voted
2 against the plan. So although we have a technical cram-down
3 plan from the Class 8 perspective, Your Honor, the plan voting
4 reflects the reality that the economic parties in interest
5 overwhelmingly support the plan.

6 So, Your Honor, cutting through the machinations of the 7 Dondero tentacles, we do have a fairly straightforward plan
8 and a plan that the Committee believes is confirmable and 9 should be confirmed.

10 Your Honor, since I've been in front of you for over a
11 year now, I've referred to the goals of the Committee in this 12 case, and the goals are straightforward in terms of expressing 13 them but can be difficult in reality to implement them. The 14 Committee's goals have been two-fold: to maximize the value
15 of the estate and therefore the recoveries for its 16 constituency, and to disentangle from the Dondero (audio gap).

17 As with all things Highland, although these goals are 18 straightforward, they're remarkably difficult to achieve,
19 given the Dondero tentacles. However, the Committee strongly
20 believes the plan achieves these two goals.

21 First, the plan provides a credible path to maximize
22 recovery with Mr. Seery, who has gotten to know the assets and 23 who has performed skillfully and credibly throughout this very 24 difficult process. It is a difficult set of assets and 25 complex set of assets, as Your Honor knows very well.

1 To be sure, there is uncertainty associated with the 2 Debtor's projections, but that is inherent in the nature of 3 the assets of the Debtor, and frankly, is inherent in the 4 nature of projections themselves. And Mr. Dondero and his 5 tentacles will point to the downside, potentially, in those 6 projections, but the Court will be reminded that there is also 7 potential upside in those projections, an upside that would 8 inure to the benefit of the general unsecured claims.

9 Second, Your Honor, although it is seemingly impossible to 10 free yourself from the Dondero web until every single one of 11 the 2,000 barbed tentacles is painfully removed, if that's 12 even possible, Your Honor, the Reorganized Debtor, the 13 Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, the Litigation Sub-
14 Trust, the Litigation Trustee, and the Oversight Board
15 construct and mechanisms is a structure that the Committee
16 believes provides the creditors with the best possibility to 17 do so, and that is to deal with what will undoubtedly be a
18 flurry of attacks from Mr. Dondero and his tentacles.

19 This is a virtual certainty, Your Honor. The creditors
20 have seen this movie before and Your Honor has seen this movie
21 before. They have seen Mr. Dondero make and break promises.
22 They have seen Mr. Dondero attempt to bludgeon adversaries
23 into submission in order to accept his offerings, and they 24 have heard Mr. Dondero say that which he has said in this 25 court during the preliminary injunction hearing --

1 specifically, that the Debtor's plan "is going to end up in a
2 myriad of litigation."

3 The creditors are steeled in their will to be rid of Mr.
4 Dondero, and they're confident in this structure to do so.

5 To be clear, Your Honor, what is before the Court today
6 for confirmation is the Debtor's plan, not some other plan
7 that no one supports other than Mr. Dondero and his tentacles.
8 The question isn't whether Mr. Dondero has a better proposal
9 -- and footnote, Your Honor, the answer is he does not, both 10 from a qualitative and quantitative perspective -- but whether 11 the plan before the Court is in the best interest of creditors
12 and should be confirmed. The Committee strongly believes it
13 is, and should, and all the Committee members support
14 confirmation of the Debtor's plan.

15 Recognizing Mr. Dondero's behavior, Your Honor, and 16 threats regarding how he will behave in the future, there are 17 certain provisions in the plan that are of critical importance
18 to the creditors. Of course, all provisions in the plan are 19 extremely important, Your Honor, but as Mr. Pomerantz
20 referenced, the creditors need the gatekeeper, exculpation,
21 and injunction provisions.

22 The reason is obvious, and is emphasized by the 23 supplemental objection filed just yesterday by some of Mr.
24 Dondero's tentacles -- namely, the Dugaboy and the Get Good
25 Trusts. And I quote, Your Honor: "It is virtually certain

1 that, under the Debtor's plan, there will be years of 2 litigation in multiple adversary proceedings, appeals, and
3 collection activities, all adding substantial uncertainty and 4 delay."

5       Additionally, Your Honor has seen from the proceedings in 6 this case and has expressed frustration at numerous times at 7 the myriad and at times baseless and borderline frivolous and 8 out of touch with reality suits and objections and proceedings
9 that the Dondero tentacles bring. The creditors need the 10 gatekeeper, exculpation, and injunction provisions to preserve
11 and protect value. And the record, I think, to this point is 12 clear, and will be further made clear through the confirmation
13 proceedings, that the protections are appropriate and entirely
14 within this Court's authority to grant.

15       In sum, Your Honor, the Committee fully supports
16 confirmation of the plan. The Committee believes it is 17 confirmable and should be confirmed, and two classes of 18 creditors and the overwhelming amount of creditors in terms of 19 dollars agree.

20       That's it, Your Honor. Unless you have questions for me,
21 I have nothing further at this time.

22               THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Clemente.

23               MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

24               THE COURT: All right. Who else wishes to be heard?

25               MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, this is Douglas Draper. I'd 40

1 like to be heard. I have a few -- I'll take five minutes, at 2 most --

3 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

4 MR. DRAPER: -- and just focus on a few things.

5 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE GET GOOD TRUST AND DUGABOY
6 INVESTMENT TRUST

7 MR. DRAPER: I'm going to focus my opening remarks on 8 the releases, the exculpations, and channeling injunctions in 9 the plan. I'm not waiving my other objections, but, rather,
10 trying not to subject the Court to hearing the same argument
11 from multiple lawyers.

12 The good thing about the law is that it's absolute in 13 certain respects. It does not matter who is asserting a legal 14 protection, the law applies it. For example, a serial killer
15 is entitled to a Miranda warning and a protection against 16 unlawful search and seizure. The law does not allow tainted
17 evidence or an unlawful admission into evidence,
18 notwithstanding the fact that the lack of admission of that 19 evidence may lead to the freeing of that serial killer.

20 Today, you must make an independent evaluation as to 21 whether the plan complies with 1129 and applicable law. The 22 decision must be made notwithstanding the fact that it is 23 being made by a Dondero entity. It's not being -- it must be 24 applied notwithstanding the fact that it's being made by me.

25 We contend that the plan does not meet the hurdle and

1 confirmation should be denied, notwithstanding the fact that 2 the infirmity with the plan is asserted by me and
3 notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Pomerantz and the unsecured
4 creditors have overwhelming support.

5 We all know 1141, the Barton Doctrine, and 544 -- 524
6 provide injunctions and protections for certain parties
7 associated with the Debtor. Had the plan merely referenced
8 these sections and stated that the injunction, et cetera,
9 shall not exceed those allowed pursuant to Pacific Lumber, I
10 would not be making this argument.

11 Instead, we see a plan that has a definition of Exculpated
12 Parties, Released Parties, Related Parties, that exceed the 13 protections afforded by the Bankruptcy Code, the Barton
14 Doctrine, and 524.

15 We have a grant of jurisdiction and oversight that exceeds 16 that allowed under Craig's Store, the Craig's Store line of 17 cases.

18 We have releases of claims against non-debtor parties,
19 such as Strand, who is, under the Bankruptcy Code, under 723,
20 liable for the debts of the Debtor.

21 The plan, with its expansive releases, released parties,
22 grant of injunctions, exculpations and channeling injunctions,
23 are impermissible under Fifth Circuit case law. And I would 24 ask the Court to look closely at those definitions, who is -- 25 who the law allows to be exculpated and released and who the

1 law specifically prohibits being exculpated and released, and,
2 in fact, apply the Pacific Lumber line of -- case, as well as
3 524 and the Bankruptcy Code when you look at these issues.

4 Notwithstanding the overwhelming so-called support by the 5 creditors at issue, the law must be applied, and it must be 6 applied pursuant to what the Fifth Circuit requires.

7 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Draper.

8 Other Objectors with opening statements?

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Davor Rukavina. Briefly?

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF CERTAIN FUNDS AND ADVISORS

12 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I represent various funds,
13 including three of which have independent boards. The Debtor
14 manages more than $140 million of those funds, and the Debtor
15 manages around a billion dollars in CLOs.

16 Whether I am a tentacle of Mr. Dondero or not -- I'm not,
17 since there's an independent board -- the fact remains that 18 the Debtor wants to manage these assets and my clients' money
19 post-assumption and post-confirmation with effective judicial 20 immunity. So our fundamental problem with this plan is the 21 assumption of those contracts under 365(c) and (b). I think
22 we'll have to wait for the evidence to see what the Debtor
23 proposes and has, and I will reserve, I guess, the balance of 24 my arguments on that to closing, depending on what the 25 evidence is.

1 But I don't want the Court to lose sight of the fact that
2 what the Debtor wants to do is, in contravention of our 3 desires, continue managing our assets post-confirmation, even 4 as it liquidates, just to make a buck. It's our money, Your 5 Honor, and whether we're Dondero or not, we're a couple
6 hundred million, probably, or more, of third-party investment
7 professionals, pension funds, et cetera, and we should not be 8 all tainted without evidence as a tentacle of someone whom,
9 I'll remind everyone here, built a multi-billion dollar
10 company and made a lot of money for people.

11 The second objection, Your Honor, goes to the Class 8
12 rejection. It sounds like there's still a problem with the 13 number of creditors, even though certain creditors have 14 switched their votes. That raises now the fair and equitable 15 standard, together with the undue discrimination and the 16 absolute priority rule. I think we'll have to let the 17 evidence play out, and I'll reserve the balance of my closing
18 or the balance of my remarks to closing on that issue.

19 The third issue, Your Honor, is the same exculpation and 20 release and injunction provisions that Mr. Draper raised.
21 Those are legal matters that I'll discuss at closing, but I do
22 note that the Debtor purports to prevent my clients from 23 exercising post-assumption post-confirmation rights, period.
24 And that's just inappropriate, because if the Debtor wants the 25 benefits of these agreements, well, then of course it has to

1 comply with the burdens. And to say a priori that anything
2 that my clients might do post-confirmation would be the result
3 of a bad-faith Mr. Dondero strategy, there's no basis for that 4 and that's not the basis on which my clients' rights in the 5 future, when there is no bankruptcy estate and there is no
6 bankruptcy jurisdiction, can be enjoined.

7 And the final point, Your Honor, entails this channeling
8 injunction. I'll talk about it during closing. It is 9 inappropriate under 28 U.S.C. 959. This is not a Barton
10 Doctrine trustee issue, this is a debtor-in-possession, and a 11 channeling injunction, the Court will have no jurisdiction
12 post-confirmation.

13 Thank you, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

15 Does Mr. Dondero's counsel have an opening statement?

16 MR. TAYLOR: I do, Your Honor. I'll keep it brief.
17 This is Clay Taylor on behalf of Mr. Dondero.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES D. DONDERO

20 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, the plan is clear in some 21 respects, and I'm not going to belabor these points, as other
22 objecting counsel have already addressed this. But the plan
23 does provide for non-debtor releases, and it provides for non-
24 debtor releases for parties beyond that which is allowed by 25 Pacific Lumber and under the Code.

1       It also provides for exculpations of non-debtor parties in
2 excess of that which is allowed under the Code and applicable
3 case law.

4       Finally -- or, not finally, but third, it requires this
5 Court to keep a broad retention of post-confirmation
6 jurisdiction that could go on for years, and that is improper.

7       Finally, it requires the parties to submit to the 8 jurisdiction of this Court via a channeling injunction, which 9 we believe is beyond that which is allowed under applicable
10 Fifth Circuit precedent.

11       What is clear, what the evidence will show -- and I
12 thought it was interesting that none of the proponents of plan
13 confirmation ever talk about what the evidence is going to 14 show. They testified a lot before Your Honor, but they didn't 15 ever talk about what the evidence would show. What the 16 evidence will show is this plan was solicited via a disclosure
17 statement that told all the unsecured creditors, we project
18 that you're going to receive 87 cents on the dollar on your 19 claim.

20       About two months later, and this was Friday of this past
21 week, they changed those projections, and those projections
22 then showed unsecured creditors, under a plan analysis, that 23 they were going to receive 62 cents on the dollar. That is in 24 contrast to the liquidation analysis that had been prepared
25 just two months prior showing that, under a hypothetical

1 Chapter 7 liquidation analysis, that the unsecured creditors
2 would receive 65 cents on the dollar. Obviously, 62 cents is 3 less than 65 percent.

4 Realizing they had a problem, I guess, over the weekend,
5 they changed last night, the night before confirmation, and 6 sent us some new projections that now show that the unsecured
7 creditors under a plan would receive 71 cents on the dollar.

8 Your Honor, what the evidence will show, and it is 9 Highland's burden to show this, is that -- that they meet the 10 best interests of the creditors. And part of that is that 11 they will do better under a plan rather than under a
12 hypothetical Chapter 7.

13 Quite simply, they don't have the evidence, nor have they 14 done the analysis to be able to prove that to this Court.

15 What the evidence will also show is clear is that Mr.
16 Seery, under the plan analysis, is scheduled to receive at 17 least $3.6 million over just the first two years of this plan
18 if it doesn't go any further. And that's just for monthly
19 payouts of $150,000 per month. That's not including a to-be-20 agreed-upon success fee structure, which hasn't been 21 negotiated yet. And if it hasn't been negotiated yet, it 22 can't be analyzed yet to see if those costs would exceed their 23 benefits and therefore drive the return down such that a
24 hypothetical Chapter 7 trustee could do better.

25 There is also going to be additional costs for the

1 Litigation Trustee and the fees that they are going to charge.
2 There's going to be an Oversight Committee, and those fees are 3 also to be negotiated. There's also U.S. Trustee fees, which 4 Mr. Seery tells us that he has calculated within the 5 liquidation and plan analysis numbers, albeit both myself and 6 Mr. Draper, as the evidence will show, have asked for the 7 rollups that come behind the liquidation and plan analysis in 8 each instance of the three iterations that have been done in 9 two months, and we have been denied that information. That 10 evidence is not going to come in before this Court, and 11 without that rollup information, this Court can't make an 12 independent verification that this meets the best interests of 13 the creditor and better than a hypothetical Chapter 7 trustee.

14 What the evidence will also show, make an assumption that,
15 under a plan analysis, that Mr. Seery will be able to generate 16 higher returns on the sale of the assets of the Highland
17 debtor and its subsidiaries, to the neighborhood of $60
18 million higher. There is no independent verification of this.
19 There has been no due diligence done. It was merely an 20 assumption done by Mr. Seery and his advisors, and we submit 21 that they will not have the evidence to show that they can 22 beat a Chapter 7 trustee.

23 This Court does have an alternative before it. There is 24 an alternative plan that has been filed under seal. The Court
25 is aware of it. And it guarantees that creditors will receive

48

1 at least 65 cents on the dollar. Moreover, those claims are
2 guaranteed -- and they're going to be secured that they will
3 be paid that money.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is under -- this is 5 under seal. And I never interrupt somebody's argument, but 6 this plan is under seal for a reason, Your Honor, and I object
7 to any description of the terms of a plan that's not before
8 Your Honor and is under seal.

9 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain that objection.

10 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor has a means to cut the 11 Gordian knot of the litigation and appeals before it and to 12 ensure that there is certainty for creditors. It would 13 massively reduce the administrative fee burn that is 14 contemplated under the proposed plan before the Court. As 15 I've mentioned, it's at least $3.6 million just in monthly
16 fees for Mr. Seery alone. All of the rest of the fees are yet
17 to be determined and to be negotiated. I don't see how any 18 analysis could have been done regarding the administrative fee
19 burn that is going to happen over the two years and 20 potentially much further as this case draws on.

21 For those reasons alone, Your Honor, we believe that the 22 plan confirmation should be denied and this Court should look
23 at the alternatives before it.

24 MR. KATHMAN: Can I say something before --

25 MR. TAYLOR: Thank you, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

2 All right. Have I missed any Objectors?

3 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor?

4 MS. DRAWHORN: Yes, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. --

6 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, if I could spend just one
7 minute, and I -- we -- I -- we filed a joinder on behalf of 8 Mr. -- or, Jason Kathman on behalf of Davis Deadman, Todd
9 Travers, and Paul Kauffman.

10 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

11 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF DAVIS DEADMAN, TODD TRAVERS, 12 AND PAUL KAUFFMAN

13 MR. KATHMAN: Mr. Pomerantz had noted, I think, at 14 the front end that the Debtor amended their plan that resolved
15 those objections. I just want to say for the record that 16 those had been resolved.

17 And with that, Your Honor, may I be dismissed?

18 THE COURT: Yes, you may. Thank you.

19 MR. KATHMAN: Thank you, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: All right. Was Ms. Drawhorn speaking up
21 to make an opening statement?

22 MS. DRAWHORN: Yes.

23 THE COURT: Go ahead.

24 MS. DRAWHORN: Yes, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Go ahead.

1 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE NEXPOINT PARTIES

2 MS. DRAWHORN: Just very briefly, Lauren Drawhorn on 3 behalf of NexPoint Real Estate Partners, the NexPoint Real
4 Estate entities, and NexBank.

5 Just a very brief opening. Just wanted to note that it
6 seems that the Debtor's and the Committee's position seems to 7 be if there's some way, any way, to connect an entity to Mr.
8 Dondero, then they don't need to perform any true evaluation
9 of potential claims or that party's rights or their concerns,
10 and that results in ignoring not only the merits of many 11 claims but also the basic requirements of due process and the 12 statutes, the Bankruptcy Code, and the case law.

13 We filed objections that were focused largely on the 14 injunctions and the releases, and then also the proposed
15 subordination provisions.

16 Two of my clients, one of them has a proof of claim, and 17 while it is being disputed, that claim is out there and should 18 get -- be entitled to be pursued and defended, and many of the 19 injunctions appear to prevent my client from doing so.

20 Similarly, it was mentioned that NexBank, in the 21 demonstrative, had a terminated service agreement, but there's 22 periods of time for which no services were provided but 23 payment was made, and that's a potential admin claim that has 24 been raised. And the injunction, again, appears to prevent my 25 clients from pursuing these claims.

1       So I think, despite the general response to any connection
2 to Dondero means there's no merit, that's not what we're here
3 for today. We need to really look at the merits of all
4 potential claims and all -- the rights of all parties and the 5 -- how the injunction and release provisions prevent that and 6 how they don't comply with the required law.

7       And, of course, we join in with many of the other
8 objections, but that's my main point for the opening today.

9       THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

10       All right. I think I have covered all of the at least 11 pending objections except the U.S. Trustee. I'll check again
12 to see if someone is out there for the U.S. Trustee. (No 13 response.) All right. If you're there, we're not hearing
14 you. You're on mute.

15       Okay. Any other attorneys out there who wish to make an 16 opening statement?

17       All right. Well, I'll turn back to Mr. Pomerantz. You
18 may call your first witness.

19       MR. POMERANTZ: Okay. I will turn the virtual podium
20 over to my partner, John Morris, who will be putting on our 21 witnesses.

22       THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, you may call your 23 first witness.

24       MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris
25 from Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones on behalf of the Debtor.

1 Can you hear me okay?

2 THE COURT: I can.

3 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you very much.

4 The Debtor calls James Seery as its first witness.

5 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, if you could say,
6 "Testing, one, two," please.

7 MR. SEERY: Testing, one, two.

8 THE COURT: All right. Hmm, I've not picked up your 9 video yet. Let's try it again.

10 MR. SEERY: Testing, one, two. Testing.

11 MR. MORRIS: We have the audio.

12 THE COURT: We have the audio.

13 MR. SEERY: Oh.

14 MR. MORRIS: There we go.

15 THE COURT: There you are.

16 MR. SEERY: The video should be working.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Yeah. Actually, one -- Your Honor,
19 one thing before we start. We have Patrick Leatham from KCC.
20 He is prepared to sit on the line for the whole day until his 21 time comes. I would just like to know if anyone intends to 22 cross-examine him or object to his declaration. Because if 23 they don't, we could excuse Mr. Leatham.

24 THE COURT: All right. What about that? Anyone
25 want to cross-examine the balloting agent?

53

1 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Davor Rukavina. I do not.
2 If the Debtor would just state, with the change of votes in
3 Class 8, what the final tally is, I see no reason to dispute
4 that, and then we can dismiss this gentleman. But I do think
5 that we should all know, with the change of votes, what it now
6 is.

7 THE COURT: All right.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: We will -- we will work on that, Your 9 Honor, with the changes as a result of the settlements today,
10 and including Mr. Daugherty's client. We can get that 11 information sometime today.

12 THE COURT: All right. So, Mr. Rukavina, do you
13 agree that he can be excused with that representation, or do
14 you want --

15 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Okay. All right. So, it's Mr. Leatham?
17 You are excused if you want to drop off this video.

18 All right. Mr. Seery, please raise your right hand.

19 JAMES P. SEERY, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

20 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris, go
21 ahead.

22 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

23 If I may, I'd like to just begin by moving my exhibits
24 into evidence so that it'll make this all go a little bit 25 smoother.

1 THE COURT: All right.

2 MR. MORRIS: And if you'll indulge me just a little 3 patience, please, because the Debtor's exhibits are found in 4 three separate places.

5 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

6 MR. MORRIS: And I would just take them one at a
7 time.

8 First, at Docket No. 1822, the Court will find Debtor's
9 Exhibits A through what I'm referring to as 6Z. Six Zs. So
10 the Debtor respectfully moves into evidence Exhibits A through 11 6Z on Docket No. 1822.

12 THE COURT: All right. Are there any objections?

13 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I have a number of 14 targeted objections to all of the exhibits. Did I hear Mr.
15 Morris say 6Z?

16 THE COURT: Yes.

17 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Or six -- then, Your Honor, I can go
19 through my limited objections, if that pleases the Court.

20 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Exhibit B, a transcript, B
22 as in boy. Exhibit D, an email, D as in dog. Exhibit E as in 23 Edward. Moving on, Your Honor, 4D as in dog. 4E as in 24 Edward.

25 MR. MORRIS: Slow down, please.

55

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. RUKAVINA: I'm sorry.

3 THE COURT: You said 4D as in dog, correct?

4 MR. RUKAVINA: Then -- yes, Your Honor. Then 4E as 5 in Edward.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: 4G as in George. Your Honor, one,
8 two, three, four, five T. 5T as in Tom. And then, Your 9 Honor, one, two -- 6R. 6S. 6T as in Tom. And 6U as in 10 under. That's it.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Morris, do you want
12 to carve those out for now and just offer them the old-
13 fashioned way and I can rule on the objections then?

14 MR. MORRIS: Why don't we do that? I may just deal
15 with it at the end of the case. But subject to those 16 objections, the Debtor then moves into evidence the balance of 17 the exhibits on Docket 1822.

18 THE COURT: All right. So, for the record, the Court
19 will admit all exhibits at Docket No. 1822 at this time except 20 B, D, E, 4D, 4E, 4G, 5T, 6R, 6S, 6T, and 6U.

21 (Debtor's Docket 1822 exhibits, exclusive of Exhibits B, 22 D, E, 4D, 4E, 4G, 5T, 6R, 6S, 6T, and 6U, are received into
23 evidence.)

24 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, continue.

25 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

56

1       Next, at Docket 1866, you'll find Debtor's Exhibits 7A
2 through 7E, and the Debtor respectfully moves those dockets --
3 documents into evidence.

4           THE COURT: All right. Any objection? (No
5 response.) Are there any objections?

6           MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, not from -- not from me.

7           THE COURT: All right. Hearing no objections, the 8 Court will admit all Debtor exhibits appearing at Docket Entry
9 No. 1866.

10          MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

11          (Debtor's Docket 1866 exhibits are received into
12 evidence.)

13          MR. MORRIS: And finally, at Docket 1877, the Court
14 will find Debtor's Exhibits 7F through 7Q, and the Debtor
15 respectfully moves for the admission of those documents into
16 evidence.

17          THE COURT: All right. Any objection?

18          MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I might have to talk about 19 this with Mr. Morris, but I have 7F as any document entered in 20 the case, 7G as any document to be filed, et cetera. Mr.
21 Morris, am I wrong about that?

22          MR. MORRIS: I don't have that list in front of me.
23 So I'll reserve on those documents and we can talk about them
24 at a break, Your Honor.

25          THE COURT: All right.

57

1 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, this is Douglas Draper. I
2 object, and I don't have the number in front of me, it's the 3 liquidation analysis and the plan summary. It's a summary
4 exhibit, and we've not been given the underlying documentation
5 with respect to them. I'd ask Mr. Morris to deal with that 6 separately also.

7 MR. MORRIS: All right. Well, we're certainly going 8 to be moving that into evidence, so we can deal with that at 9 the time, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Which documents are they? Which 11 exhibits are those?

12 MR. DRAPER: I don't have the number in front -- Mr.
13 Morris, do you have the number for that exhibit?

14 MR. MORRIS: I do, but why don't we just deal with it
15 when I -- when I get into --

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. MORRIS: -- into the testimony?

18 THE COURT: I just wanted the record clear what I am
19 admitting at this time at Docket Entry No. 1877. Or do you 20 want to just --

21 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

22 THE COURT: -- hold all those --

23 MR. MORRIS: Mr. Rukavina, other than F and G, which 24 you noted, is there any objection to any of the other
25 documents on that witness and exhibit list?

Seery - Direct

58

1 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, I also have H as impeachment/
2 rebuttal, I as any document offered by any other party. So I
3 would suggest, Mr. Morris, that I have my associate confirm 4 that I have the right -- the right stuff here, and we can take
5 it up maybe during a break. But I have F, G, H, I as so-
6 called catchalls, not any discrete exhibits.

7 MR. MORRIS: All right. All right, Your Honor.
8 Let's, let's just proceed. We've got -- we took care of 9 Docket No. 1822 and 1866, and the balance we'll deal with at a
10 break, --

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. MORRIS: -- unless they come up through 13 testimony.

14 THE COURT: All right. That sounds good.

15 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you very much. May I 16 proceed?

17 THE COURT: You may.

18 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

19 DIRECT EXAMINATION

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q Good morning, Mr. Seery.

22 A (no response)

23 Q Can you hear me?

24 A Apologies. I went on mute. Can you hear me now? I
25 apologize.

Seery - Direct

59

1 Q Yes. Good morning.

2 MR. MORRIS: So, let's begin, Your Honor, with just a
3 little bit of background of Mr. Seery and how he got involved
4 in the case.

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q Mr. Seery, what's your current position with the Debtor?

7 A I am the CEO, the CRO -- the chief restructuring officer
8 -- as well as an independent director on the Strand Advisors
9 board of directors.

10 Q Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm going to ask Mr. Seery
12 to describe a bit for his background. For the record, you'll 13 find that Exhibits 6X, 6Y, and 6Z, on the Debtor's exhibit
14 list at Docket 1822, the resumes and C.V.s of the three 15 independent members of the board. If Your Honor has any 16 question about their qualifications and their experience, that 17 evidence is already in the record.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q But Mr. Seery, without going into the detail of everything
21 that's on your C.V., can you just describe for the Court
22 generally your professional background, starting, well, with 23 your time as a lawyer?

24 A I've been involved in the restructuring, finance,
25 investing and managing of assets and banking-type assets for

1 over 30 years.

2 I began in restructuring in real estate. Became a lawyer,
3 and was a lawyer in private practice dealing with 4 restructuring and finance for approximately ten years, in 5 addition to time before that on the real estate side.

6 I joined Lehman Brothers on the business side in 1999,
7 where I immediately began working on the -- with a distress
8 team as a team member investing off the balance sheet, Lehman
9 Brothers assets in various types of distressed financing
10 investments. Bonds, loans, equities. In addition, then I
11 became the head of Lehman's loan business globally. I ran
12 that business for the number of years. Was one of the key 13 players in selling Lehman Brothers to Barclays in a very 14 difficult situation and structure.

15 After that, joined some of my partners, we formed a hedge
16 fund called RiverBirch Capital, about a billion and a half 17 dollar hedge fund in -- operating in -- globally, but mostly 18 U.S. stressed/distressed assets that we invested in.
19 Oftentimes, though, we would run from high-grade assets all
20 the way down to equities, different types of investors,
21 different types of investments.

22 Thereafter, I left -- was -- joined Guggenheim. I left
23 Guggenheim, and shortly thereafter became a director at 24 Strand.

25 Q Prior to acceptance of the positions that you described

Seery - Direct

61

1 earlier, were you at all familiar with Highland or Mr.
2 Dondero?

3 A Yeah. I was, yes.

4 Q Can you just describe for the Court how you became
5 familiar with Highland and Mr. Dondero?

6 A Highland was a customer of Lehman Brothers, and it was --
7 particularly in the loan business. And the CLO businesses.
8 Highland was run by Mr. Dondero, and I knew of that business
9 through that --

10 (Interruption.)

11 MR. MORRIS: Can somebody please put their device on 12 mute?

13 A VOICE: That's Mr. Taylor.

14 THE COURT: Mr. Taylor, you were off mute,
15 apparently, for a moment. Make sure you're staying on mute.
16 Thank you.

17 MR. TAYLOR: Yes. Sorry, Your Honor. I thought we 18 might have a hearsay objection. I wasn't sure what the answer
19 was going to be, so I wanted to be prepared to object.

20 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q Did you know or meet Mr. Dondero in the course of what you
23 just described?

24 A Yes, I did. I believe we met once or twice over the 25 years. There was a senior team member who handled the

62

1 Highland relationship. He was quite good, quite experienced,
2 and he handled most of the Highland relationship issues. But 3 Highland, we came across a number of times, whether it be in 4 -- I came across a number of times, whether it be in specific
5 investments we had where they would be either a competing
6 party or holding a similar interest, whether they were a
7 customer purchasing loans or securities, whether they were a
8 potential CLO customer where we were structuring some assets
9 for them.

10 Q Okay. And who are the two other members of the 11 independent board at Strand?

12 A John Dubel and Russel Nelms.

13 Q And had you had any personal experience with either of 14 those gentleman prior to this case?

15 A I knew of Mr. Nelms and his experience as a bankruptcy
16 judge in the Northern District of Texas, and I had worked on 17 one matter with Mr. Dubel, but very, very briefly, while he 18 was the CEO of FGIC, which is a large insurer in the financial 19 insurance space that he was responsible for reorganizing and 20 ultimately winding down.

21 Q Okay. How did you learn about this particular case? How 22 did you learn about the opportunity or the possibility of 23 becoming an independent director?

24 A Initially, I was contacted by some of the creditors and 25 asked whether I was interested, and I indicated that I was.

Seery - Direct

63

1 Subsequently, I received a call from the Debtor's
2 representatives as well meeting the counsel as well as the
3 financial advisor as well as specific members of the Debtor's
4 senior management.

5 Q Do you know how long in advance of the January 9th
6 settlement you were first contacted?

7 A Probably four, four or five days at the most, but started
8 working immediately at that time because it was a pretty
9 complicated matter and the interview process would be quick
10 because of the hearing date that was coming up.

11 Q Do you recall the names of any of the creditors who 12 reached out to you?

13 A I spoke to counsel for UBS. Certainly, Committee counsel.
14 I don't recall if I spoke to anybody from Jenner Block in the 15 initial interview. And then I spoke to representatives from 16 your firm as well as Mr. Leventon and ultimately Mr.
17 Ellington.

18 Q Did you do any due diligence before accepting the 19 appointment?

20 A I did, yes.

21 Q Can you describe for the Court the due diligence you did
22 before accepting your appointment as independent director?

23 A Well, I got the petition, I read the petition, as well as 24 the first day, as well as the venue-changing motion. In 25 addition, I went through the schedules. Ultimately, I took a

Seery - Direct

64

1 look at and examined the limited partnership agreement of the
2 Debtor, with particular focus on the indemnity provisions. I
3 then sat down with the Committee to get their views as part of 4 the interview process, as well as the Debtor's counsel and 5 Debtor's representatives.

6 Q Did you -- in the course of your diligence, did you come
7 to an understanding or did you form a view as to why an 8 independent board was being sought at that time?

9 A Yes, I did.

10 Q And what view or understanding did you come to?

11 A There was extreme antipathy from the creditors, as 12 evidenced by the venue motion and the documents around that 13 venue motion.

14 In addition, in the first day order, or affidavit, you
15 could see the issues related to Redeemer and the length of 16 time that litigation has been gone on, going on.

17 The creditors became extremely concern with Mr. Dondero
18 having any control over the operations of the Debtor and 19 wanted to make sure that either he was removed from that or 20 that -- and someone else was brought in, or that the case was 21 somehow taken over by a trustee.

22 Q Did you form any views as to the causes of the Debtor's
23 bankruptcy filing?

24 A The initial cause was the entry or the soon-to-be-entered 25 order related to the arbitration with Redeemer, but it was

Seery - Direct

65

1 pretty clear from looking at the first day that there was a
2 number of litigations. The bulk of the creditor body was made
3 up of -- on the liquidated side was made up of litigation
4 creditors. And then the other creditors, the Committee
5 members, other than Meta-e, were significant litigation
6 creditors.

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I think Mr. Seery was sworn 8 in, but unless -- unless you -- if you think there's a need,
9 I'm happy to have you swear Mr. Seery in again just to make 10 sure his testimony is under oath.

11 THE WITNESS: I was sworn in.

12 THE COURT: Yes, I swore him in.

13 MR. MORRIS: That's what I thought. That's what I
14 thought. Somebody had made the suggestion to me, so I was 15 just trying to make sure, because I didn't want any unsworn
16 testimony here today.

17 THE COURT: We did.

18 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

19 THE COURT: We did.

20 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. Thank you.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q Ultimately, sir, just to move this along a little bit, do
23 you recall that an agreement was reached with the UCC and Mr.
24 Dondero and the Debtor concerning governance issues?

25 A Yes, I do.

Seery - Direct

66

1 Q And did you accept your position as an independent
2 director at Strand as part of that corporate governance
3 settlement?

4 A That, that was part of the appointment. We -- the 5 independent directors were brought in to take -- really, to 6 take control of the company as independent fiduciaries. And 7 the idea, I think, was that there was a Chapter 7 motion that 8 was about to be filed by the Committee, or at least that was 9 the representation, and the Debtor had a choice, they could 10 either accept the independent directors or they could face the 11 motion.

12 What actually happened was a little bit more complicated.
13 The creditors and the Debtor agreed on the selection of Mr.
14 Dubel and myself. And then because they couldn't agree on the 15 third member of the independent board, they left it to Mr.
16 Dubel and myself to actually come up with a process, interview
17 candidates, and make that selection, which we did, which 18 ultimately became Mr. Nelms.

19 Q And did all of this take place during that four- or five-
20 day period prior to January 9th?

21 A It did, yes.

22 Q Okay. And let's talk about the makeup of the board.
23 You've identified the other individuals. How would you 24 characterize the skillset and the capability of the 25 individual?

Seery - Direct

67

1 A Well, on paper, I think it's a pretty uniquely-constructed
2 board for this type of asset management business with the 3 diversity of these types of assets and the diversity of issues
4 that we had.

5 So, former Judge Nelms, obviously skilled in bankruptcy
6 and the law around bankruptcy, but also very skilled in 7 mediation, conflict resolution, and in particular his 8 prepetition or maybe pre-judicial experience in litigation and 9 litigation involving fiduciary duties we thought could be 10 very, very important because of the myriad of interrelated
11 issues that we could see that might arise.

12 John Dubel is an extremely well-known and respected
13 restructuring professional. He has been dealing these kinds
14 of assignments as an independent fiduciary for, gosh, as long
15 as I can recall, but at least going back 15 to 20 years. He 16 had experience in accounting, but he's also been the leader of 17 these kinds of organizations going through restructuring in 18 many operational type roles, and so he was a perfect fit.

19 And my experience in both restructuring as well as asset
20 management and investment I think dovetailed nicely with the 21 experience that Mr. Nelms and Mr. Dubel have.

22 Q Okay. Let's talk for just a moment at a high level of the 23 agreement that was reached. Do you remember that there were 24 several documents that embodied the terms of the agreement?

25 A Yes, I do.

Seery - Direct

68

1 Q And do you remember one of them was an order that the 2 Court entered on January 9th?

3 A Yes.

4 MR. MORRIS: All right. Your Honor, just for the 5 record, and we'll be looking at this, but that would be 6 document Exhibit 5Q as in queen, and that's at Docket No.
7 1822.

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q Do you remember there was a separate term sheet, Mr.
10 Seery, that was also part of the agreement among the 11 constituents?

12 A Yes. There were -- I think there were a couple of term
13 sheets and stipulations, but I do recall that there was some 14 very specific term sheets with the terms.

15 MR. MORRIS: All right. And we'll look at that one 16 as well, Your Honor, but that can be found at Exhibit 50 as in 17 Oscar.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q And then, finally, do you recall that Mr. Dondero signed a 20 stipulation that was also part of the agreement?

21 A Yes. That was absolutely key to the agreement for the 22 creditors and perhaps the Court. But it was really -- it
23 needed to be clear that he was signed on to this transaction.

24 MR. MORRIS: Okay. And we'll look at that as well.
25 That's Exhibit 7Q. And remind me, we'll move that one into

Seery - Direct

69

1 evidence.

2 BY MR. MORRIS:

3 Q Did you and the other prospective independent directors
4 actually participate in the negotiation of any aspect of this 5 agreement that you've generally described?

6 A Absolutely. Although we hadn't been appointed yet, these 7 agreements were going to be the structure with which -- or 8 under which we would come in as independent fiduciaries. They 9 would govern a lot of our relationships. They would provide 10 for the protections that we required and that I required. So
11 they were exceedingly important to me.

12 Q Can you describe for the Court at a general level your 13 understanding of the overall structure of the corporate
14 governance settlement?

15 A From a very high level, the settlement was -- Highland 16 Capital Partners is a limited partnership. It's managed by 17 its general partner, Strand Advisors. Although Strand is the 18 GP, its effective interest in Highland is minimal, about .25
19 percent of the effective partnership interest. But it is the 20 general partner. So it does govern the -- the partnership.

21 We came in as an independent board that would oversee and 22 control Strand Advisors and thereby, through the general
23 partner position, oversee and control HCMLP, the Debtor.

24 In addition, the Committee then overlaid what we could do
25 with respect to how we operated the business in the ordinary

Seery - Direct

70

1 course in Chapter 11 with a specific set of protocols that
2 governed certain transactions that we would have to get
3 permission from either the Committee or the Court to engage 4 in.

5 And in addition, Mr. Dondero, notwithstanding the 6 insertion of the independent board at Strand, also had a set
7 of restrictions around him, because, of course, not only was 8 he the former control entity at Highland and Strand, he also 9 had a hundred percent of the ownership -- indirectly, of 10 course -- of Strand and could have removed the board. So
11 there were restrictions around what he could do with respect
12 to the board. There were also restrictions around what he 13 could do through various entities to terminate contracts and 14 --

15 Q All right. We'll look at some of those in detail. Did,
16 to the best of your recollection, did Mr. Dondero give up his 17 position as president or CEO of the Debtor?

18 A He did, yes.

19 Q And did he nevertheless stay on as an employee of the 20 Debtor and retain a position as portfolio manager?

21 A He did. At the last second, I believe it was the night
22 before, when we were actually in Dallas preparing for the 23 hearing, but Mr. Ellington raised the concern that if Dondero
24 was removed from not only the presidency but also the 25 portfolio management position, potentially there would be some

Seery - Direct

71

1 agreements that might or might not be subject to Court
2 approval that could be terminated and value would be lost. So
3 this was a very last-second provision. Obviously, the -- as 4 new estate fiduciaries, we didn't want value to be lost
5 instantly for key man or some other reason. And the Committee
6 ultimately, or I guess you'd say reluctantly, agreed to that 7 because we just didn't have time to look at any of -- any such
8 agreements.

9 MR. MORRIS: All right. Let's -- can we put up on 10 the screen, Ms. Canty, Debtor's Exhibit 5Q?

11 And this is in evidence, Your Honor. This is the January 12 9th order.

13 And can we please go to Paragraph 8?

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Mr. Seery, you had mentioned just a few minutes ago that 16 there were certain restrictions that were placed on Mr.
17 Dondero. Does Paragraph 8, to the best of your recollection, 18 provide for the substance of at least some of those 19 restrictions?

20 A It does, yes.

21 Q And can you just describe for the Court your understanding
22 of the restrictions that were imposed on Mr. Dondero pursuant 23 to Paragraph 8?

24 A Well, as I recall, when Mr. Ellington came in with the 25 last-minute request, the Committee was extremely upset about

Seery - Direct

72

1 it. We talked about it. Obviously, we, as an independent
2 board that was going to come in, didn't know the underlying 3 contracts and couldn't really render any judgment as to 4 whether there would be value lost. So, the Committee agreed,
5 but they wanted to make sure that Mr. Dondero still reported
6 to -- directly to the board, and if the board asked Mr.
7 Dondero to leave, he would do so.

8 Q Okay. Just looking at this paragraph, is it your 9 understanding that the scope and responsibilities of Mr.
10 Dondero would be determined by the board?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And was it your understanding that Mr. Dondero would serve 13 without compensation?

14 A Yes.

15 MR. DRAPER: Objection. Leading, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Overruled.

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q Was it your understanding that Mr. Dondero's role would be 19 subject to the direct supervision, direction, and authority of 20 the board?

21 A That's, you know, that's what the order says and that's 22 what the agreement was. In practice, that was really going to 23 have to evolve because we were coming in very cold and 24 obviously he'd been there for --

25 (Interruption.)

Seery - Direct

73

1 THE COURT: All right. Someone needs to put their
2 phone on mute. I don't know who it is.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Was it also part of the agreement that Mr. Dondero would 5 (garbled) upon the board's request?

6 A I think I got you, but yes, that's contained in this 7 paragraph, and Mr. Dondero agreed to that.

8 THE COURT: All right. Whoever LC is, your phone
9 needs to be put on mute. Okay. Please be sensitive to 10 keeping your device on mute except for Mr. Morris and Mr.
11 Seery.

12 All right. Go ahead.

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q Do you recall, Mr. Seery, whether there were any 15 restrictions placed on Mr. Dondero's ability to terminate
16 agreements with the Debtor?

17 A Yes. That was a very specific provision as well.

18 Q Can we take a look at Paragraph 9 below? Is that the 19 provision that you're referring to?

20 A That's the provision in the order. I believe there were 21 other agreements -- certainly, discussion around it -- because 22 it was an important provision because it had been borne out of 23 some experience that Acis and Mr. Terry had had in particular.
24 So it was supposed to be broad and prevent both direct and 25 indirect termination of agreements.

Seery - Direct

74

1 Q Okay. And do you know, do you recall that the definition
2 of related entity is contained within the term sheet that you
3 referred to earlier?

4 A It's a pretty extensive -- I recall the definition not
5 specifically, but it's a pretty extensive definition. It
6 includes any of the entities that he owns, that Mr. Dondero
7 owns, that Mr. Dondero controls, that Mr. Dondero manages,
8 that Mr. Dondero owns indirectly, that Mr. Dondero manages 9 indirectly, and it really covers a wide swath of those 10 entities in which he has interests and control.

11 MR. MORRIS: All right. Let's see if we could just 12 look at the definition specifically at Exhibit 50 as in Oscar.
13 And if we could just scroll down to the next page.

14 Now, this was -- this is part of the term sheet that was 15 filed at Docket 354.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q At Definition I(d), is that the definition of related 18 entity that you were referring to?

19 A That's correct.

20 Q Okay. In addition to what you've described, I think you
21 also mentioned that there was a separate stipulation that Mr.
22 Dondero entered into as part of the corporate governance
23 settlement. Do I have that right?

24 A That's my recollection, yes. And I believe he signed it,
25 and that was a key gating issue to the hearing that we had on

Seery - Direct

75

1 January 9th.

2 Q And what do you recall about that document as being a key
3 gating issue?

4 A The key gating issue that I recall is that it had to be 5 signed. And I don't believe it was signed until that very 6 morning.

7 MR. MORRIS: All right. Can we call up Exhibit 7Q as 8 in queen?

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q All right. Is this the stipulation that you were 11 referring to? We can scroll down to any portion you want.

12 A I believe that is, yes.

13 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Can we just scroll down to see 14 Mr. Dondero's signature? Yeah. That's -- okay.

15 So, that's dated January 9th. This was filed at Docket
16 338. It's on the Debtor's exhibit list as Exhibit 7Q. And 17 the Debtor would respectfully move Exhibit 7Q into evidence.

18 THE COURT: Any objection? All right. 7Q is 19 admitted.

20 (Debtor's Exhibit 7Q is received into evidence.)

21 MR. MORRIS: Okay. And if we could just scroll up a
22 page or two to the four bullet points. Yeah, right there. A
23 little more.

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q Okay. So, do you see Paragraph 10 contains the

Seery - Direct

76

1 stipulation?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And as you recall, Mr. Seery, in the events leading up to 4 the entry of the order approving the settlement, was this one
5 of the documents that was being negotiated among -- among the 6 parties?

7 A Yes, it was.

8 Q Okay. You mentioned that there were certain provisions of 9 the January 9th order that were important to you and the other
10 independent directors. Do I have that right?

11 A Yes.

12 MR. MORRIS: Let's see if we can back to Exhibit 5Q,
13 please, Paragraph 4.

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Okay. Paragraph 4, can you tell me what Paragraph -- what 16 Paragraph 4 is and why it was important to you?

17 A Well, there really were four key, I guess I'll use the 18 term gating items again, for my involvement, and ultimately in 19 discussions with Mr. Nelms and Mr. Dondero -- Mr. Dubel, their 20 involvement in the matter.

21 Because of the litigious nature of the Highland operations
22 and the expectations we had for more litigation after taking a
23 look at the Acis case, we wanted to make sure that, as 24 independents coming into a situation with really no stake in 25 the particular outcome, other than trying to achieve a

Seery - Direct

77

1 successful reorganization, that we were protected. So, number
2 one, I looked at the limited partnership agreement. I wanted
3 to make sure that the LPA contained broad and at least
4 standard indemnification provisions and that they would apply
5 to the board.

6 Number two, because -- that then requires you to look at 7 the indemnification provisions at Strand, because you're a
8 director of Strand, the GP. So then we looked at those. I
9 took a close examination of those. They looked okay, except 10 Strand didn't have any assets other than its equity interest
11 in Highland, and if that equity interest turned out to be 12 zero, that indemnity wouldn't be very valuable.

13 So I wanted to make sure that Highland, the Debtor,
14 guaranteed the indemnity (garbled) on a postpetition basis, so
15 that if there were a failure of D&O, which I'll get to in a
16 second, or it wasn't enough, that we would have a senior claim
17 in the case, an admin claim in the case.

18 I then, of course, wanted to make sure that we had D&O
19 insurance. This was very difficult to get, because, frankly,
20 there's a Dondero exclusion in some of the markets, we've been 21 told by our insurance brokers, and so getting the right policy
22 that would cover the independent board was difficult. We did 23 get that.

24 And then ultimately there'll be another provision in the 25 agreement here -- I don't see it off the top of my head -- but

Seery - Direct

78

1 a gatekeeper provision. And that provision --

2 Q Hold on one second, Mr. Seery, because we'd want to 3 scroll. So Paragraph 4 and Paragraph 5, were those, were 4 those provisions put in there at the insistence of the 5 prospective independent directors?

6 A Yes. And remember, so the Paragraph 4, as I said, is the 7 guarantee of Strand's obligations for its indemnity. Again,
8 Strand didn't have any money, so the Debtor had to be the one
9 purchasing the D&O for the directors and for Strand. So those 10 are the two provisions that really worked to address my 11 concerns about the indemnities and then the D&O.

12 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Can we go to Paragraph 10,
13 please? There you go.

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Is this the other provision that you were referring to?

16 A This is. It's come to be known as the gatekeeper
17 provision, but it's a provision that I actually got from other
18 cases. Again, another very litigious case that I thought it
19 was appropriate to bring in to this case.

20 And the concept here is that when you're dealing with 21 parties that seem to be willing to engage in decade-long
22 litigation in multiple forums, not only domestically but even 23 throughout the world, it seemed important and prudent for me
24 and a requirement that I set out that somebody would have to 25 come to this Court, the court with jurisdiction over these

Seery - Direct

79

1 matters, to determine whether there was a colorable claim.
2 And that colorable claim would have to show gross negligence
3 and willful misconduct, i.e., something that would not
4 otherwise be indemnified.

5 So it basically sets an exculpation standard for 6 negligence. It exculpates the directors from negligence. And 7 if somebody wants to bring a cause against the directors, they 8 have to come to this Court first and get a finding that 9 there's a colorable claim for gross negligence or willful
10 misconduct.

11 Q Would you have accepted the engagement as an independent 12 director without the Paragraphs 4, 5, and 10 that we just 13 looked at?

14 A No. These were very specific requests. The language here
15 has been 'smithed, to be sure, but I provided the original
16 language for 10 and insisted on the guaranty provision above
17 to assure that the indemnity would have some support.

18 Q And ultimately, did the Committee and the Debtor agree to 19 provide all of the protection afforded by Paragraphs 4, 5, and 20 10?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we're going to move on now
24 to good faith, Section 1129(e)(3), just to give you a little 25 bit of a roadmap of where we're going.

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q Let's talk about the process that led to the plan that the
3 Debtor is asking the Court to confirm today. Real basic stuff
4 at the beginning. Can you tell me your understanding of the 5 makeup of the UCC, of the Creditors' Committee?

6 A The Creditors' Committee in this case has four members.
7 It's UBS, the Redeemer Committee, which are former holders of 8 interests in a fund called the Crusader Fund, which was a
9 Highland fund, who had redeemed and then had a dispute with 10 Highland.

11 And the next creditor is Mr. Terry and Acis. We generally
12 group them as one, but the creditor is Acis.

13 And the fourth creditor is an entity called Meta-e, and 14 they provide litigation support and technical support and 15 discovery support in litigations for the Debtor, including in 16 this case now.

17 Q All right. Just focusing really on the early period, the 18 first few months, can you describe the early stages of the 19 negotiations with the UCC as best as you can recall?

20 A Well, I think the early stage of the case wasn't directly 21 a negotiation; it was really trying to understand as best we 22 could the myriad of assets that we had here, the various 23 businesses that the Debtor either owned, controlled, or 24 managed, as well as the claims.

25 We went through a process of trying to understand each of

Seery - Direct

81

1 the claims that the Debtor -- or against the Debtor that were
2 represented by the Committee, as well as some other claims
3 that were not on the Committee.

4 Q Was the Debtor -- I mean, was the Committee initially 5 pushing the independent board to go to a monetization plan, an 6 asset monetization plan?

7 A Very quickly and early on, the Debtor -- the Committee
8 took a pretty aggressive approach with the Debtor and the 9 independent board. I think the Committee's perspective, as 10 articulated to me, and where -- at least how we took it, was 11 that they'd been litigating for years and they sort of knew
12 the situation and the value of their claims, that the Debtor
13 was insolvent, in their view, and that we should be operating 14 the estate in essence for the benefit of the creditors.

15 Q And what was the board's view in reaction to that?

16 A We disputed it. And the reason we disputed it was very 17 straightforward. Save for the Redeemer claim, which at least 18 had an arbitration award, Acis and Mr. Terry didn't have any 19 specific awards, notwithstanding the results of the Acis
20 bankruptcy, and UBS, while it had a judgment, that judgment
21 was not against the Debtor.

22 So our view was, until we have our hands around these 23 claims and we determine what the validity is in our estate,
24 that we would treat the Debtor as if it were solvent. We also 25 wanted to assess the value of the assets. So, looking at the

Seery - Direct

82

1 assets not just from a book value but what they might be
2 really worth in the market.

3 Q And did the board in the early portion of the case
4 consider all strategic alternatives?

5 A I don't know if we considered every strategic alternative,
6 but we certainly considered a lot of alternatives.

7 Q Can you describe for the Court the alternatives that were 8 considered by the board before settling on the asset
9 monetization plan?

10 A Well, early on, you know, we looked at each of the -- what 11 we would think of the large category types of ways to resolve
12 a case. Number one, could we go through a very traditional 13 reorganization with either stretching out claims to creditors
14 after settlement or converting some of those to equity, 15 getting new equity infusions? We considered those 16 alternatives.

17 Number two, we considered whether we should simply sell
18 the assets. That's one of the things that the Committee was 19 pushing for. They could be sold to third parties. They could 20 be sold individually. Mr. Dondero potentially could buy some 21 of the assets. That'd be a reasonable reorganization in this
22 case.

23 We also considered whether that, you know, we would just 24 do a straight liquidation. Is there some value to doing --
25 converting the case to a 7 and doing a straight liquidation?

Seery - Direct

83

1 We also considered a grand bargain plan, and this was
2 something that I worked on quite a bit. The phrase is mine,
3 although no pride of authorship, certainly, since it didn't 4 work out. But that perhaps we could come to an agreement with 5 the major creditors and with Mr. Dondero and then shift some 6 of the expenses in the case out further to litigate some of 7 the other claims while reorganizing around the base business.

8 And then, finally, we considered the asset monetization
9 plan, and ultimately that evolved into what we have today.

10 Q Were there guiding principles or factors that the board
11 was focused on as it assessed these different options?

12 A Well, the number one guiding principle was overall
13 fairness and equitable treatment of the various stakeholders.
14 So, again, at that point, we didn't know exactly what, if 15 anything, we would owe to claimants like UBS or HarbourVest or 16 even Mr. Terry and Acis. We had a good sense of where we 17 would end up with Redeemer, I think, but we still had some 18 options and wanted to negotiate the issues related to 19 potential appeal rights that we had. So I think that was the 20 number one overall concern.

21 But that did evolve over time. Costs of the case were 22 exceptionally high. And the reason they're so high is that 23 Highland was run for a long time, at least from what we can 24 tell, at an operating deficit. Typically, what it would do is 25 run at a deficit and then sell assets to cover the shortfall,

Seery - Direct

84

1 and it would defer a whole bunch of employee -- potential
2 employee compensation. And because of the way the environment
3 was going, particularly in the first half of the year, it
4 didn't look to us like there was going to be any great asset
5 increase that would somehow save us from the hole that was 6 being dug, the considerable amount of expenses to run the 7 case.

8 Q Did changing the culture of litigation factor into the 9 path that the board considered?

10 A Well, we certainly looked at the way the company had run
11 and why it got to where it is in terms of litigating. And not 12 just litigating valid claims, but litigating any claim to the 13 nth degree. And stories are legion, I won't talk about them,
14 but of Highland taking outrageous positions and then pursuing 15 them, hoping that the other side caves.

16 We determined that this estate couldn't bear that kind of 17 expense, and it wasn't fair and equitable to do that anyway.
18 So we wanted to attack the claims that we could -- and I say
19 attack; try to resolve them as swiftly as we could -- 20 protecting the Debtor's interests but trying to find an 21 equitable resolution.

22 I'm not averse to litigating. And I think when there are 23 claims that are legitimate, the Debtor should pursue them.
24 There's always -- a good settlement is always better than a
25 bad litigation. But if there (indecipherable) to resolve

Seery - Direct

85

1 them, we should -- we should pursue those. And if we have
2 defenses, we should pursue those, and not just be held up
3 because someone else is willing to, you know, take a more
4 difficult position than we are.

5 But in this case, it really did cry out for some sort of 6 resolution on many of these cases because they were far beyond
7 -- far beyond the facts and far beyond the dollars. There was 8 personal antipathy involved in virtually every one of the 9 unlitigated or unliquidated Committee cases.

10 Q Did the board, as it was assessing the various strategic 11 alternatives, consider maximization of the value?

12 A Always number one was, can we maximize value? But that 13 has to be done within the context of the risk you're taking 14 and the time it takes. So, not all wine ages well in a cave
15 and not all investments get to be more valuable over time. We 16 wanted to look at each individual asset that the Debtor had,
17 each claim that the Debtor had, each defense that the Debtor
18 had, and consider the time and the costs and then try to find
19 the best way to maximize value with those multiple 20 considerations.

21 Q How about the role and support of the UCC, how did that 22 factor into the decision-making, the Debtor's decision-making
23 as to what plan to pursue?

24 A Well, you know, the decision-making with the UCC was 25 cumbersome and oftentimes difficult. Sometimes our relations

Seery - Direct

86

1 were very contentious, and sometimes they continue to be. But
2 the Committee had significant oversight because of the 3 protocols that had been agreed to. Some of the disputes we 4 had with the Committee found their way into the court. Those 5 time and that cost, some of which we won, some of which we 6 lost, but those factored into our analysis.

7 But eventually we knew that we were going to need to get,
8 you know, some significant portion of the Committee to agree,
9 because, at minimum, Meta-e had a liquidated claim, and 10 Redeemer was very close to fully liquidated, so we were going 11 to need support from the Committee with whatever we tried to 12 push through. And so that's how we negotiated with the 13 Committee from that perspective.

14 Q Is it fair to say that the Debtor and the Committee's 15 interests became aligned upon approval of the disclosure
16 statement back at the end of November?

17 A I don't think they became perfectly aligned, because we 18 still have, you know, some disputes around, you know,
19 implementation and things like the employee releases, which 20 were very important to me. But I think we're largely aligned
21 and that the Committee is supportive, as Mr. Clemente said at 22 the start of this hearing, of the plan. We negotiated at 23 arm's length with them about most of the provisions. I would 24 say virtually everything was a relatively significant 25 negotiation, or at least there was a good faith exchange of

Seery - Direct

87

1 views on each side and assessment of legal and financial
2 risks. And I think at this point they're largely in support
3 of the plan.

4 Q All right. Let's -- you mentioned the grand bargain, and 5 I just want to spend a few minutes talking about that, how 6 that evolved. Focusing your attention in the kind of late
7 spring/early summer, can you tell me what efforts you and the 8 board made in trying to achieve a grand bargain in that early 9 part of the case?

10 A Well, we had -- at that point, we had reached agreement,
11 at least in principle, with Redeemer. And the thought was -- 12 my thought was that we could construct a plan, understanding
13 what the cash flows looked like and what we thought the base
14 value of the asset looked like -- and those are not just the 15 assets that are tangible assets, but the notes that are 16 collectible by the Debtor as well -- and then engage with UBS
17 in particular. Redeemer. To some degree, Mr. Terry. We had 18 not yet reached any agreement with him. But UBS, we thought 19 of as a slightly -- I don't mean this to be disparaging -- but 20 a slightly more commercial player than Acis because of the 21 history that Acis had to deal with and endure.

22 And we were hoping that we could get some sort of 23 coalescence around an agreed distribution that would require 24 those creditors to take a lot less than they might have 25 otherwise agreed, Mr. Dondero to put in more than he otherwise

Seery - Direct

88

1 thought he could put in or would be willing to put in, and
2 then we would get out to Acis and the other creditors with a
3 plan.

4 And so I built, with the team at DSI, a detailed model on 5 how the distributions could work and what the potential timing
6 could be, trying to, each time, move in a multidimensional way
7 with UBS, Redeemer, Mr. Dondero, and to some degree Acis,
8 around the respective issues for their claims.

9 Again, UBS and Acis had not been resolved and weren't
10 close, but the thought was if we could get dollar agreements
11 for distribution, perhaps we could then figure out how to 12 construct settlements of their claims.

13 Q During this time period, did you work directly with Mr.
14 Dondero in the formulation of a potential grand bargain?

15 A I did, yes.

16 Q And the model that you described, did that go through a
17 number of iterations?

18 A It went through multiple iterations. I don't believe I
19 ever shared the model with anybody. One of the reasons for 20 that is I didn't want -- I felt I had -- if I was going to 21 share it with Mr. Dondero, for example, I'd have to share it
22 with UBS and I'd have to share it with Redeemer. And I wanted
23 it to be -- I wanted it to be a working model with the team at 24 DSI. In particular, we would make, you know, adjustments on 25 an almost-daily basis.

Seery - Direct

89

1 Mr. Dondero had -- remember, he was still portfolio
2 manager at that time. He also had a related-party interest,
3 as people have seen from some of the litigation around the 4 sales of securities. He had access and was receiving emails
5 from the team as well as from the finance team. So he had 6 access to the information at that point and had a view around
7 the value. And this was more trying to adjust what those 8 distributions would look like depending on the amounts that he 9 would be willing to contribute.

10 Q Moving on in time, did there come a time when the Debtor
11 participated in a mediation with certain of the major
12 constituents in the case?

13 A Yes. That was towards the end of the summer.

14 Q And during that mediation, did the concept of a grand 15 bargain, was that put on the table? Without discussing any 16 particulars about it, just as a matter of process, was the 17 grand bargain subject to the mediation discussions?

18 A Well, the mediation had multiple components, so the answer
19 to the question in short is yes, but I'll go longer because I
20 tend to. The grand bargain plan stayed in place, and that was 21 going to be an overall settlement. The mediation was 22 initially, I think, as a main course, focused on Acis, UBS,
23 and then the third piece being the grand bargain. And if you
24 could settle one of those claims, perhaps -- obviously, if you
25 could settle both of them, you could get to then focusing on

Seery - Direct

90

1 the grand bargain.

2 But even before we got to mediation, the idea of the 3 monetization plan had also been put forth. Notwithstanding
4 that it wasn't my idea, I actually thought that it was a good
5 idea, ultimately. Didn't initially. And the reason for that 6 is that it set a marker for what a base expectation could be 7 for the creditors and just for Mr. Dondero. And knowing that 8 that was out there, at least with them, that could hopefully 9 be a catalyst in the mediation for folks to say, let's see if 10 we can get our claims done and get a grand bargain done,
11 because if we don't we have this Debtor monetization plan.
12 And by that -- at that point, I don't think we had much
13 agreement with the Committee on anything, and certainly with 14 Mr. Dondero, on -- on a monetization plan.

15 Q All right. And let's just bring it forward from the fall, 16 post-mediation, to the present. Has -- has -- have you and 17 the board continued discussing with Mr. Dondero the 18 possibility of a grand bargain?

19 A Well, it's shifted. So, the grand bargain discussions
20 really -- you had multiple phases. So, you had pre-mediation.
21 There was the grand bargain discussions that I just described
22 previously that also involved UBS and Redeemer, and to some 23 degree Acis and Mr. Terry. Then you have the mediation, which 24 is much more focused on the claims and whether they can fit
25 into the grand bargain with Mr. Dondero.

Seery - Direct

91

1 And the way that was conducted was a little bit more
2 separated, meaning the parties would talk to the mediator, the 3 mediator would then go and talk to other parties and try to 4 work a settlement on each of those components.

5 Subsequent to the mediation where we reached the agreement
6 with Acis and Mr. Terry, and we ultimately in that timeframe
7 banged out the final terms of our agreement with Redeemer, we 8 engaged with Mr. Dondero around -- I wouldn't call it the 9 grand bargain, but a different plan. By that point, the 10 monetization plan had started to gain some traction with the 11 creditor group, and Mr. Dondero and his counsel, I believe,
12 focused on the potential of what was referred to as a pot
13 plan. And while it has the -- it could have the ability of 14 being a resolution plan, it wasn't the grand bargain plan that 15 I had initially envisioned. And pot plan was really a 16 misnomer, because it didn't have a whole pot, so -- so it's a
17 little bit of a hybrid.

18 Q Did the board spend time during its meetings discussing
19 various pot plan proposals that had been put forth by Mr.
20 Dondero?

21 A Oh, absolutely. And not only the board. I mean, we did 22 our own work as an independent board and then brought in our 23 professional advisors, both your firm and the DSI folks, to go
24 through analytics around the pot plan, and even before that,
25 the other plan alternatives, but we had direct discussions

Seery - Direct

92

1 with Mr. Dondero and his counsel.

2 Q And in the last couple of months, has the board listened
3 to presentations that were made by Mr. Dondero and his counsel
4 concerning various forms of the pot plan?

5 A Yes. At least two or three.

6 Q And during this time, has the board and the Debtor
7 communicated with the Committee concerning different
8 iterations of the proposed pot plan?

9 A Yes. We've had continual discussions with the Committee
10 regarding the various iterations of the potential grand 11 bargain all the way through the pot plan.

12 Q And during this process, did the Debtor provide Mr.
13 Dondero and his counsel with certain financial information
14 that had been requested?

15 A Yes. As I said, up 'til the point where he resigned and 16 was then ultimately, at the end of the year, removed from the 17 office, he had access to financial information related to the 18 Debtor and even got the information from the financial group.
19 Subsequent to that, we've provided him with requests -- with 20 financial information that was requested by his counsel.

21 Q Okay. Were your efforts at the grand bargain or the 22 pursuit of the pot plan successful?

23 A No, they were not.

24 Q Do you have an understanding as to -- just, again, without 25 going into -- into details about any particular proposal, do

Seery - Direct

93

1 you have an understanding as to what the barrier was to 2 success?

3 A The grand bargain, we just never got the traction that we
4 needed to get that going and the sides were just far -- too
5 far apart. And the pot plan, similarly. Our discussions with 6 Mr. Dondero and the Committee, they're -- they're very far
7 apart.

8 Q And is it fair to say that the Committee's lack of support
9 in either the grand bargain or the pot plan is the principal
10 cause as to why we're not talking about that today?

11 A Well, it's -- it -- right now, we've got the plan that's 12 on file, the monetization plan. The monetization plan has 13 gone out for creditor vote and has received support. It
14 distributes, we think, equitably, as well as a significant
15 amount of distributions to unsecured creditors. And there
16 really isn't an alternative that we see, based upon the 17 numbers I've seen, that competes with it or has any traction
18 with the largest creditors.

19 Q All right. So, now we've talked about various proposals
20 or alternatives that were considered by the board, including
21 the grand bargain and the pot plan. Let's spend some time
22 talking about the plan that is before the Court today and how 23 we got here. And I'd like to take you really back to the 24 beginning, if I may.

25 Tell us, tell the Court just what the board was doing in

Seery - Direct

94

1 the early months after getting appointed, because I think
2 context is important here. What were you all doing the first
3 few months of the case?

4 A Well, the first few months, we really were drinking from 5 the proverbial fire hose, trying to get an understanding of 6 the business, how it had been managed previously, what the 7 issues related to the different parts of the business were.
8 And then an understanding of each of the employees that were 9 working under us, what their roles were, how they performed
10 them, who sat where with respect to each of the assets, what 11 the contracts looked like, whether they be shared service or 12 management agreements. And then we started looking at the 13 individual assets in terms of value.

14 At the same time, we were trying to get up to speed on the 15 complex nature of the claims that were in the case. The 16 liquidated claims were relatively easy, but there had been a 17 significant amount of transfers in and out of the Debtor, and 18 then there's a myriad of relationships involving related 19 entities that we had to understand, both with respect to the 20 claims as well as with respect to the assets.

21 And so that -- those were the main things we were doing
22 for those first few months in the case.

23 Q Just a couple months into the case, the COVID pandemic
24 reared its head. Do you recall that?

25 A Yes. We had been in Dallas every day working up 'til the

Seery - Direct

95

1 time of the COVID and some of the shutdown orders,
2 particularly in the Northeast, and so that changed the dynamic
3 of how we could function every day.

4 Notwithstanding that, we -- we were able to manage from 5 afar, and ultimately, when there were some cases in the office
6 of COVID, we -- on the Highland side, not the related entity
7 side, but on the Highland side -- we determined that the staff
8 and the team should work from home, which they were able to do
9 quite well.

10 Q Okay. In those early months, do you recall that there was 11 a substantial erosion of value, at least as of the time you
12 were appointed in those first three or four months?

13 A There was. And I think we've heard some -- some noise
14 about what that value was and the drop in the asset value as 15 opposed to net value. But the asset value did, did drop 16 significantly.

17 Q Can you describe for the Court your recollection as to the 18 causes of the drop in the value that you just descried?

19 A Yes. The number one drop was a reservation that the board
20 took for a receivable from an entity called Hunter Mountain.
21 The quick version of this is that Hunter Mountain owns 22 Highland. As I mentioned, while Strand is the GP, it only has 23 a quarter-percent interest in Highland. The vast majority of 24 the interests are owned by an entity called the Hunter
25 Mountain Investment Trust in a very complicated, tax-driven

Seery - Direct

96

1 structure.

2       Dondero and Okada transferred their interests in Highland
3 at a high valuation to Hunter Mountain. Hunter Mountain then
4 didn't have the money, so it, in essence, borrowed the money
5 from the Debtor in a note to pay for those interests. There's 6 a circular running of the cash, but we were not sure where, if 7 any, where any assets are, if they would be sufficient. So we 8 took a reservation of $58 million for that note.

9       The second biggest piece of the reduction in value was the 10 equity that was lost in the Select Equity account. This is a 11 Debtor trading account that was managed by Mr. Dondero. $54
12 million was lost in that account. Basically, it was really 13 highly margined, very high leverage in that account when the 14 market volatility came in. As it grew through January, 15 February, March, more and more margin calls. Ultimately,
16 Jefferies, which had Safe Harbor protections -- technically,
17 the account was not a Debtor account, but they would have had 18 it anyway -- they seized that account. $54 million in equity
19 was lost in that account.

20       The next highest amount is about $35 million, but it's 21 higher now. That's just the bankruptcy costs, where we have 22 spent cash and Debtor assets in the case. It was about $36 to 23 $40 million through the end of the year. That's now higher.

24       About $30 million was lost in paying back Jefferies on the 25 asset side of the ledger in the Highland internal equity

Seery - Direct

97

1 account. This was similar to the equity -- the Select Equity
2 account, also managed by Mr. Dondero. Extremely highly-
3 levered coming into the market volatility of the first
4 quarter, which was exacerbated, obviously, by the COVID. That 5 was about $30 million that was repaid in margin loan in that 6 account.

7 In addition, $25 million of equity was lost in that
8 account while Mr. Dondero was managing it. I took over
9 effectively managing it in mid-March and worked with Jefferies
10 to keep them from seizing the account. We've since gotten a 11 bunch of value coming back from that account, but that was the 12 amount that was lost.

13 About $10 million was lost in the Carey Limousine loan
14 transaction. That is a -- an interesting little company. Has 15 done a nice job -- management did a very good job coming into 16 the year, and it actually had real value, notwithstanding the 17 changeover to Uber in people's preferences. But with the 18 COVID, it really relied on events, airport travel, executive
19 travel, and that really took a bite out of it, although, you
20 know, we're hoping to be able to restructure, we have 21 restructured it to some degree, and we're hoping that there
22 could be value there.

23 And then about $7 million was lost in equity in an entity
24 called NexPoint Hospitality Trust. This is another extremely 25 highly-levered hospitality REIT that NexPoint manages. It

Seery - Direct

98

1 trades on the Toronto Stock Exchange. And I think likely that
2 -- it's got a lot of issues with respect to its mortgage debt.
3 And because it was hospitality, it was really hurt by the 4 COVID.

5 And I think that's probably -- those numbers add up to 6 north of $200 million of the loss.

7 Q All right. Thank you for that recitation, Mr. Seery. So,
8 turning to the spring, after all of those issues were 9 addressed, at the same time you were working on the grand
10 bargain, did the Debtor and its professionals begin
11 formulating the monetization plan that we have today?

12 A I'm sorry, in the spring? I lost that question. I
13 apologize.

14 Q That's okay. After you dealt with everything that you
15 just described, were you doing two things at once? Were you
16 working on the grand bargain and the asset monetization plan
17 at the same time?

18 A Yes, that's correct.

19 Q All right. Can you just describe for the Court kind of,
20 you know, how the asset monetization plan evolved up until the 21 point of the mediation?

22 A Yes. I alluded to it earlier, but because the Debtor was 23 running an operating deficit, we were very concerned about 24 liquidity. Highland typically runs, from a liquidity
25 perspective and a cash perspective, very close to the edge. I

Seery - Direct

99

1 don't feel particularly comfortable helping lead an
2 organization that's running that close to the edge. And I was 3 very focused on the burn that we had on an operating basis, as 4 well as the professional cost burn, because for a case this 5 size it was significant.

6 The rest of the board felt similarly, and one of the 7 directors, and I'm not sure if it was Mr. Nelms or Mr. Dubel,
8 came up with the idea that we needed an alternative to 9 continuing to just burn assets while we were in this case.
10 There had to be some sort of catalyst to get the parties, both
11 Mr. Dondero as well as the creditors -- at that point, as I
12 said, we weren't settled with Acis or UBS, and we weren't,
13 frankly, close with either of them. And so we needed what -- 14 what I think the -- the idea was that we needed a catalyst to 15 have people focus on what the alternative was. Because 16 continuing to run the case until we ran out of money was not 17 an acceptable alternative.

18 What I didn't like about the plan was it didn't have 19 anybody's support, and so I wasn't sure how we made progress
20 with it without having some Committee member or Mr. Dondero in 21 support of it. I was outvoted, although maybe I came around
22 in the actual vote. But ultimately, I think it was actually a 23 quite smart idea, because it did set the basis for what the 24 case would be. Either there would be some resolution or it
25 would push towards the monetization plan, and parties could

Seery - Direct

100

1 then assess whether they liked the monetization plan or not.
2 That if I was going to be the Claimant Trustee or the --
3 defending the, you know, against the claims, they would have 4 the pleasure of litigating with me for some period of time.
5 Or they could come to some either grand bargain or ultimately
6 some other resolution.

7 And as we started to develop a plan and put more of a
8 framework -- more flesh around the framework, it actually
9 started to look more and more like a real viable alternative
10 to either long-term litigation or some other grand bargain if 11 we couldn't get there.

12 Q And ultimately, did the board authorize the Debtor to file
13 its initial version of the asset monetization plan at around
14 the time of the mediation?

15 A Yeah. We developed it over the summer and really fleshed
16 it out in terms of how the structure would work, what the tax
17 issues were, what the governance issues were. We did that 18 largely negotiating with ourselves, so we -- we were extremely 19 successful. And then we filed, we filed that plan right
20 before the mediation.

21 And my recollection is that there was some concern from 22 the mediators that they thought that putting that plan out in 23 the public could upset the possibility of a grand bargain, so
24 we ended up filing that under seal.

25 Q Do you recall what the Committee's initial reaction was to

Seery - Direct

101

1 the asset monetization plan that you filed under seal?

2 A Well, initially, they -- the Committee didn't like it.

3 They didn't like the governance. They didn't like the fact

4 that it set up for those creditors who didn't litigate the

5 prospect of litigations to try to resolve their claims. It

6 effectively cut out some of the advisory that the Committee

7 currently had. The -- one of the driving forces behind the 8 asset monetization plan and how we initially started it is we

9 can't continue these costs, as I said. Well, an easy way to 10 get rid of -- to reduce the costs is to get rid of half of 11 them.

12 So if you could get rid of the Committee, effectively, and

13 coalesce around an asset monetization vehicle, then if folks

14 wanted to resolve their claim, you could. If you had to 15 litigate it, you could, but you'd have one set of lawyers that

16 the estate was paying for, one set of financial advisors the 17 estate was paying for, as opposed to multiple sets.

18 Q In addition to the corporate governance issues that you

19 just described, did the Committee and the Debtor quickly reach

20 an agreement on the terms of the treatment of employee claims

21 and the scope of the releases for the employees?

22 A No. Not very quickly at all.

23 Q Yeah.

24 A You know, again, one of the issues in this case that

25 drives perspectives is the history that creditors have in

Seery - Direct

102

1 dealing with Highland and in dealing with many of the
2 employees at Highland, you know, who had worked for Mr.
3 Dondero and served at his pleasure for a long time, and how
4 they had been treated in various of their attempts to collect
5 their claims. So the idea of giving any sort of releases to 6 the employees was anathema to -- to many of the Committee
7 members.

8 From my perspective, you know, releases are particularly 9 important because there's a quid pro quo leading up to the 10 confirmation of a plan, particularly with a monetization plan
11 where it's clear that the employees are all going to be or 12 largely going to be either transitioned or terminated. If 13 they're going to keep working towards that, we either have to 14 have some sort of financial incentive or some sort of 15 assurance that their actions which are done in good faith to 16 try to pursue this give them the benefit of more than just 17 their paycheck.

18 And so we thought we were setting up the quid pro quo in 19 terms of work towards the monetization, bring the case home,
20 and you're entitled to a release, so long as you haven't done
21 something that was grossly negligent or willful misconduct.
22 And the Committee, I think, wanted to have a more aggressive
23 posture.

24 Q And did those disagreements over corporate governance and 25 the employee releases kind of spill out into the public at

Seery - Direct

103

1 that disclosure statement hearing in October?

2 A I think they spilled out at that hearing as well as in the 3 hearing either the next day or two days later around Mr.
4 Daugherty's claim. And again, it was -- it was contentious.
5 I tend to try to reach resolution, but I tend to hold firm
6 when I think that there's a good reason, an equitable reason
7 to do so, and compromising that issue was very difficult for 8 me.

9 Q But in the weeks that followed, did the Committee and the 10 Debtor indeed negotiate to resolve to their mutual
11 satisfaction the issues surrounding corporate governance and 12 employee releases?

13 A We did, yes.

14 Q And were -- was the Debtor able to get its disclosure
15 statement approved with Committee support in late November?

16 A We did, yes.

17 Q Can you describe for the Court generally kind of the 18 process by which the Debtor negotiated with the Committee?
19 I'll ask it as broadly as I can, and I'll focus if I need to.

20 A Yeah. The process was usually in group settings with the 21 independent directors, professionals, and the Committee
22 members and their professionals. Oftentimes, then, there
23 would be certain one-off conversations if there was a
24 particular issue that was more important to one Committee
25 member or another, or if they were designated by the Committee

Seery - Direct

104

1 to be the point on that. And so I negotiated on behalf of the 2 Debtor, both collectively and individually, around these 3 points.

4 The biggest issues related to governance of the Claimant
5 Trust, the separation of the Claimant Trust and the Litigation
6 Trust, which was important to me, the treatment of employees 7 between the filing -- the time we came up with the case and 8 when we were going to exit, and then how that release
9 provision would work.

10 Q Is it fair to say that numerous iterations of the various 11 documents that embodied the plan were exchanged between the 12 Debtor and the Committee?

13 A Yes. There were -- there were dozens.

14 Q Fair to say that the negotiations were arm's length?

15 A Absolutely. Often contentious, always professional, but I
16 do think that there were, you know, well -- good-faith views
17 held by folks on both sides. And I think we were fortunate to 18 be able to get resolution of those, because they were 19 strongly-held views.

20 Q Okay. And ultimately, I think you've already testified,
21 and Mr. Clemente certainly made it clear: Is the Debtor --
22 does the Debtor have the Committee on board for their plan
23 today?

24 A My understanding is again -- and you heard Mr. Clemente --
25 both the Committee and each of the individual members are

Seery - Direct

105

1 supportive of the plan.

2 Q All right. Let's switch to Mr. Dondero and his reaction
3 to the asset monetization plan. Can you describe for the 4 Court based on your experience and your interaction with him
5 what you interpreted Mr. Dondero's position to be?

6 A VOICE: Objection, hearsay, or --

7 MR. DRAPER: Objection, hearsay. Calls for 8 speculation, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Overruled.

10 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I had direct discussions with 11 Mr. Dondero regarding the plan, the asset monetization plan,
12 as I mentioned, direct discussions regarding a potential grand
13 bargain. The initial view from Mr. Dondero was, and he told 14 me, that if he didn't get a plan that he agreed to, if he 15 didn't have a specific control or agreement around what got 16 paid to Acis and Mr. Terry and what got paid to Redeemer
17 specifically, that he would, quote, burn the place down. I
18 know that because it is, excuse the pun, seared into my mind, 19 but I also wrote it down. And that was, you know, in the 20 early summer.

21 We had subsequent discussions around the plan, and as we 22 were talking about the -- about the grand bargain or -- the 23 pot plan hadn't come out at that point -- even on a large call
24 -- the plan initially called for a transition, and still does,
25 of employees of the Debtor to a related entity to continue

Seery - Direct

106

1 performing services that were under the prior shared service
2 agreements that we were going to terminate.

3 But that transition is wholly dependent on Mr. Dondero.
4 And we had a call with at least five to seven people on it
5 where I said to Mr. Dondero, look, this is going to be in your 6 financial interest to agree to a smooth transition. These 7 people have worked for you for a long time. It's for their 8 benefit. You portfolio-manage these funds. It's to the 9 benefit of those funds to do this smoothly. And if there's 10 litigation between you and the estate later, then those chips
11 will fall where they may.

12 And he told me to be prepared for a much more difficult
13 transition than I envisioned.

14 And I specifically said to him, and this one sticks in my 15 mind because I recall it, I said, don't worry, Mr. Dondero --
16 I think I used Jim -- I will be prepared. I was a Boy Scout
17 and we spend time preparing for these kinds of things. So
18 we're -- we would love to get done the best transition we can,
19 but we will be prepared for a difficult one.

20 So, from the start, the idea of the monetization plan was 21 not something that obviously he supported. We did agree with 22 -- after his inquiry or request with the mediators, to file it
23 under seal while we went into the mediation.

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q And after, after that was filed in September, early

Seery - Direct

107

1 October, did Mr. Dondero start to act in a way that the board
2 perceived to be against the Debtor's interests?

3 A Certainly. I mean, he previously had shown inclinations
4 of that, but that -- it got very aggressive as he interfered
5 with the trades we were trying to do in terms of managing the 6 CLO assets. He took a position that postpetition, which was 7 really one of his entities taking a position, that 8 postposition a sale of life policy assets was somehow not in 9 the best interests of the funds and that we had abused our 10 position, notwithstanding that he turned it over to us with no
11 liquidity to maintain those life policies. There were several 12 other instances. And those led to the decision to, one, have 13 him resign, and then ultimately, after the text to me that I
14 perceived as threatening, and we've had subsequent hearings on 15 it, we asked him to leave the office.

16 Q Okay. Let's move back to the plan here. Can you
17 describe, you know, generally, if you can, the purpose and 18 intent of the asset monetization plan?

19 A Well, very simply, the main purpose is to maximize value.
20 This is not a competition between Mr. Dondero and myself. I
21 have no stake in getting more money out of the maximization
22 other than my duty to do the job that I was hired to do.

23 So our goal is to manage the assets in what we think is 24 the best way to do that over time, and find opportunities
25 where the market is right to monetize the assets, primarily

Seery - Direct

108

1 through sales. There may be other instances, depending on the
2 type of asset, whether a sale makes sense, if we can structure
3 it through some kind of distribution that's more structured.

4 Q We've used the phrase a bunch of times already. Can you
5 describe in your own words what an asset monetization plan is 6 in the context of the Debtor's proposal?

7 A Well, it may be slightly an awkward moniker, but I think
8 it's not completely different than what you'd see, in some 9 respects, to a regular plan, where you equitize debt and you
10 operate the business for the benefit of the equitized debt.
11 Here, it's a little different in that we know exactly how 12 we're going to move forward. We've effectively -- we'll 13 effectively turn the debt obligations into trust interests and 14 we will pay those as we sell down assets. So we've got it
15 structured in a way where we can pivot depending on market
16 conditions and we'll be managing certain funds that the assets
17 sit in.

18 So there's really four assets where the assets sit, and 19 we'll manage those. First are the ones that the Debtor owns
20 directly. Second will be the ones that are in Restoration
21 Capital -- Restoration Capital Partners. Third are the assets
22 in a fund called Multi-Strat. Fourth is the direct ownership
23 interest in Cornerstone, and technically (garbled) would be 24 the -- would be the next one.

25 So we have the ability to manage these individual assets

Seery - Direct

109

1 and then be able to sell them in what we determine to be the
2 best way to maximize value, depending on the timing.

3 Q And when you say that you're going to continue to operate
4 the business, do you mean that the Debtor will continue to 5 manage the assets you've just described in the same way that 6 it had prior to the petition date?

7 A It'll be a smaller team, but that's the Debtor's business.
8 So what we won't be doing are the shared services anymore.
9 That was part of the Debtor's business. But we will be 10 managing the assets. So the 1.0 CLOs, we'll manage those 11 assets. The RCP assets, we'll manage those assets. The 12 Trussway Holdings assets, we'll managing those assets. Each
13 of them is a little bit different. There's things as diverse
14 as operating companies to real estate. We'll operate, subject
15 to final agreement, but the Longhorn A and B, which are 16 separate accounts that are -- were funded and are controlled
17 by the largest -- one of the largest investors in the world.
18 And so they have agreed that we should manage those assets for 19 them.

20 So we're -- that's the business that the Debtor is in. It
21 won't be doing all of the businesses that the Debtor was in 22 before, like the shared services, but the management of the 23 assets will be very similar.

24 Q And why do these funds and these assets need continued
25 management? Why aren't you just selling them?

Seery - Direct

110

1 A Well, in some respects, they could just be sold, but the
2 -- we believe that the value would be a lot lower. So, a lot
3 of them are complex. The time to sell them may not be now.
4 Some will require restructuring in some way, whether -- not
5 through a reorganization process, but some sort of structural 6 treatment to how the obligations at the individual asset are 7 treated, or the equity at the individual asset. So we're 8 going to manage each of them and look for market opportunities
9 where we think the value can be maximized.

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm about to switch to 11 another topic. We have been going for a little bit more than 12 two and a half hours. I'm happy to just continue if you and 13 the witness are, but I just wanted to give you a head's up
14 that I'm about to switch topics. If you wanted to take a 15 short break, we could. If you want me to continue, I'm happy
16 to do that, too.

17 THE COURT: Well, let me ask you, how much longer do
18 you think you're going to take overall with Mr. Seery?

19 MR. MORRIS: I think I'll probably have another hour
20 to an hour and a half, Your Honor. We want to make a complete
21 factual record here.

22 THE COURT: All right. Well, it's 12:07 Central 23 time. Why don't we take a 30-minute lunch break, okay? Can 24 everybody do their lunch snack that fast?

25 MR. MORRIS: Sure.

Seery - Direct

111

1 THE COURT: I think that would probably be the way to 2 go. So we'll come back -- it's now 12:08. We'll come back at 3 12:38 Central time and resume --

4 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

5 THE COURT: -- resume this direct testimony, okay?
6 So, see you in 30 minutes.

7 MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 THE CLERK: All rise.

10 (A recess ensued from 12:08 p.m. to 12:44 p.m.)

11 THE COURT: We are going back on the record in the 12 Highland confirmation hearing. It's 12:44 Central time. I
13 took a little bit longer break than I said we would.

14 Mr. Morris and Mr. Seery, are you ready to resume?

15 MR. MORRIS: I am, Your Honor.

16 THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Okay, good. A couple of things. I'm 18 required to remind you you're still under oath, Mr. Seery.
19 And also, just for people's planning purposes, what I intend 20 to do is, when the direct examination of Mr. Seery is 21 finished, I'm going to allow cross-examination of the 22 Objectors in the same amount of time in the aggregate that the 23 Debtor got, okay? So, Objectors, in the aggregate, you can 24 spend as long cross-examining as the Debtor spent examining.
25 I can figure out this is the most significant witness, so I'm

112

1 assuming that Debtor's other witnesses are going to be a lot
2 shorter than this, but --

3 MR. MORRIS: Yes, I promise.

4 THE COURT: -- that's how we'll proceed. And I
5 expect to finish Mr. Seery today.

6 So, all right. With that, you may proceed, Mr. Morris.

7 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

8 DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Can you hear me okay, Mr. Seery?

11 A Yes, sir.

12 Q Okay. Before we move on to the next topic, you spent some 13 time describing the asset monetization plan. Would it be fair
14 to describe that as a long-term going-concern liquidation?

15 A Long-term is subjective. We anticipate that we'll be able 16 to monetize the assets in two years. We could go out longer
17 to three. There's no absolute restriction that we couldn't 18 take longer, depending on what we see in the market, but the 19 objective would be to find maximization opportunities within 20 that time period.

21 Q Okay. So let's turn now to the post-confirmation
22 corporate governance structure.

23 (Interruption.)

24 THE WITNESS: Mr. Golub (phonetic), you should mute.

25 THE COURT: Yes. I don't know -- I didn't catch who

113

1 that was. But anyway, anyone other than --

2 A VOICE: It's someone named Garrett Golub.

3 THE COURT: -- Morris and Seery, please mute. All
4 right. Go ahead.

5 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q At a high level, Mr. Seery, can you please describe for 8 the Court the post-confirmation structure that's envisioned
9 under the proposed plan?

10 A At a high level, we anticipate reorganizing HCMLP such 11 that the current parties of interest will be extinguished and,
12 in exchange, creditors will get trust interests. There'll be 13 a trust that will sit on top of HCMLP and it will have an 14 overall responsibility for the Claimant Trust, which will be 15 the HCMLP assets plus the assets that we move into the 16 Claimant Trust, depending on structural considerations. And 17 then a Litigation Trust, which will be a separate trust, and 18 that will roll up into the main trust. And the main trust 19 will be where the creditors hold their interests. And those 20 interests take the form of senior interests or junior
21 interests.

22 Q All right. You mentioned a Claimant Trust. Who is 23 proposed to serve as the Claimant Trustee?

24 A I am.

25 Q And you mentioned a Litigation Trust. Is there someone

Seery - Direct

114

1 proposed to serve as the Litigation Trustee?

2 A A gentleman named Marc Kirschner. He's been doing these 3 kinds of things for a long time.

4 Q Is there going to be any kind of oversight group or
5 committee?

6 A There is an oversight committee that sits at the main
7 trust. Into it will report Mr. Kirschner and myself. It has 8 oversight responsibilities similar to a board of directors in 9 terms of the operations of the Claimant Trust and the 10 Litigation Trust.

11 Q Do you have an understanding as to who the initial members
12 of the Claimant Oversight Committee?

13 A The initial members will be each of the members of the 14 Creditors' Committee. So, UBS, Acis, Redeemer, a 15 representative from Redeemer, and Meta-e, as well as an 16 independent named David Pauker. So that's the initial 17 structure.

18 Q And can you describe for the Court, how did Mr. Pauker get 19 involved in this?

20 A He was selected by the Committee.

21 Q Okay. Is there -- Meta-e is a convenience class claim
22 holder. Do I have that right?

23 A Yeah. They're -- they -- as I went through earlier, they 24 had a liquidated claim for litigation services. So we 25 expected that they'll be paid off rather early in the process.

Seery - Direct

115

1 At that point, we suspect they wouldn't -- they would no
2 longer be an Oversight Committee member and they would be
3 replaced by an independent.

4 Q And do you have any understanding as to how that
5 independent will be chosen?

6 A I believe it's chosen by the other members.

7 Q Okay. Can you describe your proposed compensation
8 structure as the proposed Claimant Trustee?

9 A My compensation will be $150,000 a month, which is the 10 same compensation I have now. In addition, we'll negotiate a 11 bonus structure with the Oversight Committee. And that will 12 likely be a bonus not just for myself but for the entire team,
13 depending on performance.

14 Q Okay. And that -- and who is that negotiation going to be 15 had with?

16 A The Oversight Committee.

17 Q Okay. Are you familiar with Mr. Pauker's compensation
18 structure?

19 A I -- I've seen it. I don't recall specifically. I think
20 his -- from the models, I think he's about 40 or 50 grand a
21 month, something along those lines.

22 Q Okay. How about Mr. Kirschner? Do you recall -- let me
23 just ask you this. Does it refresh your recollection at all
24 if I said that 250 in year one for Mr. Pauker?

25 A Yeah. So maybe closer to $20,000 to $25,000 a month. And

Seery - Direct

116

1 then Mr. Kirschner is a lower amount, but he would get a
2 contingency fee arrangement somewhere dependent on the 3 recoveries from his litigations.

4 Q Okay. You mentioned earlier that the Debtor intends to 5 continue operations at least for some period of time post-
6 effective date. Do you have a view as to whether the post-
7 confirmation entity will have sufficient personnel to manage
8 the business?

9 A I do, yes.

10 Q And why is that? What makes you believe that the Debtor
11 will have -- the post-confirmation Debtor will have sufficient 12 personnel to manage the business?

13 A Well, we've gone through and looked at each of the assets
14 and what is required to manage those assets. We have a lot of 15 experience doing it during the case. The bulk of the 16 employees, who do a fine job, are really doing shared service
17 arrangements. The direct asset management group is a smaller 18 group, and we'll be able to manage those with the team we're 19 putting together.

20 Q Okay. How does the ten employees compare to the original
21 plan that was set forth in the disclosure statement, if you
22 recall?

23 A Well, we had less, and I believe the number was either two 24 or three, along with me, and then using a lot of outside
25 professional help. But we determined that we wanted to have a

Seery - Direct

117

1 much more robust team, based on the litigation that we're
2 seeing around the case and we expect to continue post-exit, so
3 that the team can manage those assets unfettered.

4 In addition, we were taking on the CLO management, the 1.0
5 CLO contracts. These one -- as I've mentioned before, they're 6 not traditional CLOs in the sense that they require the same
7 hands-on management, but they do require an experienced team
8 to help manage the exposures, most of which are cross-holdings
9 in different -- in different entities or different investments
10 that Highland also has exposure to.

11 Q In addition to the assumption of the CLO management
12 agreements, has the Debtor made any decisions regarding the 13 possibility of hiring a sub-servicer?

14 A We have, yes.

15 Q And did that factor into the Debtor's decision to increase
16 the number of personnel it was going to retain?

17 A Well, we determined we weren't going to hire a sub-
18 servicer. And I'm not sure exactly when we made that 19 determination. We do have a TPA, which is SEI, and that's a 20 third-party administrator, to sift through the funds and 21 provide accounting supporting to those, to those funds. So
22 that -- they will help. We also have an outside consultant
23 that we're using, Experienced Advisory Consultants, who are 24 financial consultants who've worked in the business. So we do
25 have those.

Seery - Direct

118

1 But we didn't think that we would get a third-party sub-
2 servicer, as was the case in Acis, and determined that wasn't
3 in the best interest of the estate.

4 Q Can you just shed a little light on what factors the 5 Debtor took into account in deciding not to hire a sub-
6 servicer?

7 A Well, we primarily looked at cost, as well as control of 8 the assets, and determined that that was -- those were in the 9 best interests of the estate, to keep them managed internally.
10 We reviewed that with the Committee, and they agreed.

11 Q Okay.

12 MR. MORRIS: Let's turn now to the best interests of 13 creditors' test, Your Honor, 1129(a)(7), and let's talk about 14 whether the plan is in the best interests of creditors.

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q Has the Debtor done any analysis to determine the likely 17 value to be realized in a Chapter 7 liquidation?

18 A We have, yes.

19 Q And has the Debtor done any analysis to determine the 20 likely recoveries under the plan?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. Do you recall when these projections were first 23 prepared?

24 A We started working on projections in the fall, as we were 25 developing the monetization plan. We filed projections, I

Seery - Direct

119

1 believe, in November. We've subsequently updated those
2 projections based on the claims, market condition, and value
3 of the assets.

4 Q And were those updates provided to plan objectors last
5 week?

6 A Yes, they were.

7 Q Okay. Can we refer to the projections that were in the 8 disclosure statement as the November projections?

9 A That'd be fine.

10 Q And can we refer to the projections that were provided to 11 the objectors last week as the January projections?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And as --

14 A I think they're actually -- I think they're actually dated 15 February 1, is the most recent update.

16 Q Okay. And then was a further update provided yesterday
17 and filed on the docket, to the best of your knowledge?

18 A Yes.

19 Q All right. We'll talk about some of the changes in those 20 projections.

21 MR. MORRIS: Can we call up on the screen Debtor's
22 Exhibit 7D as in dog? And this document is in evidence. Um,
23 --

24 THE COURT: No, this is -- oh, wait. How many Ds is 25 it? Seven?

Seery - Direct

120

1 MR. MORRIS: It's 7D, so that would be on Docket
2 1866, all of which has been admitted.

3 THE COURT: Okay. You're right.

4 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

5 And if we could just, I'm sorry, go to Page 3.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Is there any way to look at this, Mr. Seery? Is this the 8 January projections that were provided last week?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. Can you describe for the Court the process by which 11 this set of projections and the November projections were 12 prepared? How did the Debtor go about preparing these 13 projections?

14 A Yeah. These are prepared what I would call bottoms-up.
15 So what we did was we looked at each of the assets that the 16 Debtor owns or manages or has a direct or indirect interest
17 in, used the values that we have for those assets, because we 18 do keep valuations for each of the assets that the Debtor owns
19 or manages in the ordinary course of business. We then 20 adjusted those depending on what we saw as the outcomes for 21 the case, either a plan outcome or a liquidation outcome, and 22 then rolled those into the -- into the numbers that you see
23 here.

24 So the 257 and change. And please excuse my eyesight.
25 I'm going to make this bigger. The 257 is the estimated

Seery - Direct

121

1 proceeds from monetization. Above that, you see cash. That's
2 our estimated cash at 131. And we monitor those, those values
3 daily.

4 Q And were these projections prepared under your 5 supervision?

6 A They were, yes.

7 Q Okay. And who was involved in the preparation of this 8 document and other iterations of the projections?

9 A The team at DSI. Obviously, myself; the team at DSI; as 10 well as the, at least from a review perspective, counsel.

11 Q All of these contain various assumptions. Do I have that 12 right?

13 A Yes.

14 MR. MORRIS: Can we go to the prior page, please, I
15 think is where the assumptions are? And let's just look at a 16 few of them. Okay. Can we make that a little bigger, La
17 Asia? Okay. Good.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q Why does the Debtor's projections and liquidation analysis
20 contain any assumptions? Why, why include assumptions?

21 A Well, all projections contain assumptions. So an 22 assumption -- I was strangely asked the question at 23 deposition, what does that mean? It's a thing or fact that 24 one accepts as true for the purposes of analysis. And so in 25 terms of looking out into the future as to what the potential

Seery - Direct

122

1 operation expenses will be and what the potential recoveries
2 will be, one has to make assumptions in order to be able to 3 compare apples to apples.

4 Q And do you believe that these assumptions are reasonable?

5 A Yes. It would make no sense to have assumptions that 6 aren't reasonable. I mean, and we've all seen that with 7 analysis through our respective careers. It really should be 8 grounded in some fact and a reasonable projection on what can 9 happen in the future, based upon experience.

10 Q Okay. And have you personally vetted each of the 11 assumptions on this page?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Okay. Let's just look at a few of them. Let's start with 14 B. It says, All investment assets are sold by December 31, 15 2022. Do you see that?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Why did the Debtor make that assumption?

18 A We looked at a two-year projection horizon. We thought 19 that that was a reasonable amount of time, looking at these 20 assets, to monetize the assets. Remember that we did go
21 through a process of the case over the last year, and we did 22 consider monetization asset events for certain of the assets
23 throughout the case, some of which we were successful on, some 24 of which we weren't, some we just determined to pull back.
25 But we do believe that, based upon our view of the market and

Seery - Direct

123

1 where we think these assets will be positioned, that
2 monetizing them over a two-year period makes sense.

3 Q And is it possible that it takes longer than that?

4 A It's possible. The -- you know, we would be wrong about
5 the market. The -- we could go into a full-blown recession.
6 Capital could dry up. The financing markets could turn
7 negative. But they're extremely positive right now. Those 8 things could happen. But we're assuming that they won't.

9 Q And is it possible that you complete the process on a more
10 accelerated timeframe?

11 A That's always possible. It's not, in my experience, a 12 good way to plan. Luck really isn't a business strategy. But 13 if good opportunity shows up and folks want to pay full value
14 for an asset, we certainly wouldn't turn them away just so we 15 could stretch out the time period.

16 Q Is it fair to say that this projected time period is your 17 best estimate on the most likely timeframe needed?

18 A It's -- I think it's the best estimate that we have based 19 upon our experience with the assets, again, and our projection
20 of the marketplace that we see now. If things change, we'll 21 adjust it, but this is a fair estimate of when we can get the 22 monetization accomplished.

23 Q Okay. The next assumption relates to certain demand
24 notes. Do you see that?

25 A Yes.

Seery - Direct

124

1 Q Can you explain to the Court what that assumption is and
2 why the Debtor believed that it was reasonable?

3 A Well, the Debtor has certain notes that are demand notes.
4 These are all from related entities. Most of the notes, the 5 demand notes, we have demanded, and we've commenced litigation
6 to collect. And we assume that we're going to be able to 7 collect those.

8 Three notes that were long-term notes -- these were notes
9 with maturities in 2047 that had been stretched out a couple
10 years ago -- were defaulted recently. And we have accelerated
11 those notes and we've asserted demands and we have commenced
12 litigation, I believe, on each of those last week to collect.
13 So we do estimate that we will collect on all of the notes
14 that we've demanded and that we've commenced action on. So
15 the demand notes as well as the accelerated notes.

16 The next, the next bullet shows there's one Dugaboy note
17 that has not defaulted. That also has a 2047 maturity. I 18 believe it's about $18 million. And we expect that one to 19 stay current, because now I think the relater parties learned
20 that when you don't pay a long-dated note, it accelerates,
21 provided the holder, which is us, wishes to accelerate it,
22 which we did. And so that note we do not expect to be 23 collected in the time period.

24 Q Okay.

25 MR. MORRIS: Let's go down to M.

Seery - Direct

125

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q M relates to certain claims. Do you see that?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Can you just describe at a high level what assumption was 5 made with which -- with respect to which particular claims?

6 A Well, we've summarized them there. And what we've assumed
7 is that, with respect to Class 8, IFA, which is a derivative
8 litigation claim that seeks to hold, loosely, HCMLP liable for 9 obligations of NexBank, is worth zero. I think that's pretty 10 close to settling. We assumed here $94.8 million for UBS, 11 which was the estimated amount, and $45 million for 12 HarbourVest.

13 Q And when you say the estimated amount, are you referring 14 to the 3018 order on voting?

15 A Yes. We just use the estimated amount in this projection
16 based upon the 3018 order.

17 Q Okay. And finally, let's look at P. P has a payout
18 schedule. Do I have that right?

19 A That's an estimated payout schedule, yes.

20 Q And what do you mean by that, that it's estimated?

21 A Based upon our projections and how we perceive being able 22 to monetize the assets and reach the valuations that we want
23 to reach, we believe we could make these distributions.
24 However, there's no requirement to make them.

25 So the first and foremost objective we have, as I said

Seery - Direct

126

1 earlier, is to maximize value, and not -- it's not based on a
2 payment schedule, it's based upon the market opportunity. And 3 we've estimated for our purposes here that we'll be able to 4 meet these distribution amounts, but there's no requirement to 5 do so.

6 Q Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: Let's go to Page 3 of the document,
8 please.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Can you just describe generally what this page reflects?

11 A This is a comparison of the plan analysis and what we 12 expect to achieve under the plan and the liquidation analysis
13 if a trustee, a Chapter 7 trustee, were to take over. And it 14 compares those two distribution amounts based upon the 15 assumptions on the prior page.

16 Q All right. Let's just look at some of the -- some of the 17 data points on here. If we look at the plan analysis, what is 18 -- what is projected to be available for distribution, the 19 value that's available for distribution?

20 A $222.6 million.

21 Q Okay. So, 222? And on a claims pool that's estimated to 22 be, for this purpose, how much?

23 A $313 million.

24 Q And what is the distribution, the projected distribution
25 to general unsecured creditors on a percentage basis?

Seery - Direct

127

1 A On this analysis, to general unsecured creditors, it's 2 62.14 percent. But remember, that backs out the payment to 3 the Class 7 creditors of 85 cents above.

4 Q Okay. And does this plan analysis include any value for 5 litigation claims?

6 A No, it does not.

7 Q And is that true for all forms of the Debtor's
8 projections?

9 A That's correct, yes.

10 Q Okay. And let's look at the right-hand column for a 11 moment. It says, Liquidation Analysis. What does that column
12 represent?

13 A That represents our estimate of what a Chapter 7 trustee
14 could achieve if it were to take over the assets, sell them,
15 and make distributions.

16 Q Okay. And let's just look at the comparable data points
17 there. Under the liquidation analysis, as of -- the January 18 liquidation analysis as of last week, what was projected to be 19 available for distribution?

20 A A hundred and -- approximately $175 million.

21 Q Okay. And what was the claims pool?

22 A The claims pool was $326 million. Recall that that's a 23 slightly larger claims pool because it doesn't back out the 24 Class 7 claims.

25 Q Okay. The convenience class claims?

Seery - Direct

128

1 A Correct.

2 Q Okay. And what's the projected recovery for general
3 unsecured claims under the liquidation analysis?

4 A Based on this analysis and the assumptions, 48 (audio 5 gap).

6 Q Okay. Based on the Debtor's analysis, are creditors
7 expected to do better under this analysis in the -- under the 8 Debtor's plan versus the hypothetical Chapter 7 liquidation?

9 A Yes. Both -- both Class 7 and Class 8.

10 Q Okay. Now, this set of projections differs from the 11 projections that were included in the disclosure statement; is 12 that right?

13 A That's correct.

14 Q Okay. Can we just talk about what the differences are 15 between the November projections that were in the disclosure
16 statement and the January projections that are up on the 17 screen? Let's start with the monetization of assets, the 18 second line. Do you recall if there was an increase, a 19 decrease, or did the value from the monetization of assets
20 stay the same between the November projections and the January
21 projections?

22 A They increased from November 'til -- 'til now.

23 Q Okay. Can you explain to the judge why the value from the 24 monetization of assets increased from November to January?

25 A Well, really, it's the composition of the assets and their

Seery - Direct

129

1 value. So there's four main drivers.

2 The first is HarbourVest. We had a settlement with 3 HarbourVest, which include HarbourVest transferring to the 4 Debtor $22-1/2 million of HCLOF interests. Those have a real
5 value, and we've now included them in the -- in the asset
6 pool. We've also included HarbourVest in the claims pool.

7 The second was we talked a little bit earlier on the 8 assumptions on the notes. We previously had anticipated that,
9 on the long-dated notes, a collection, we -- we'd receive 10 principal and interest currently, but we wouldn't receive the 11 full amount of the principal that was due well off in the 12 future, and we would sell it a discount.

13 So the amount of the asset pool has been increased by $24
14 million, and that reflects the delta between or the change
15 between what was in the prior plan, the notes paying and then
16 being sold at a discount, and what's in the current plan,
17 which include the accelerated notes, which is a $24 million
18 note that Advisors defaulted on that we have accelerated and 19 brought action on, as well as two six -- roughly $6 million
20 notes, one from Highland Capital Real Estate and the other
21 from HCM Services. So that's, that's additional 24.

22 In addition, Trussway, we've reexamined where Trussway is 23 in the market, both its marketplace and its performance, and 24 reassessed where the value is. So that has increased by about 25 $10.6 million.

Seery - Direct

130

1 That doesn't mean that we would sell it today. It means
2 that, when you look at the performance of the company, what we
3 think are the best opportunities in the market. As we see the 4 marketplace with managing the company over time, we think that
5 that asset has appreciated considerably since November.

6 And then, finally, there were additional revenues that 7 flow into the model from the November analysis which would be 8 distributable, and those include revenues from the 1.0 CLOs.

9 Q Okay. So that accounts for the difference and the 10 increase in value from the monetization of assets. Is there 11 also an increase in expenses from the November projections to 12 the January projections?

13 A Yeah. It's -- it's about -- it's around $25 million
14 additional increase.

15 Q And can you explain to the Court what is the driver behind
16 that increase in expenses?

17 A Yeah. There's several drivers to that. The first one is 18 head count. So our head count, we've increased. As I
19 mentioned earlier, we determined that we wanted to have a much
20 more robust management presence. So we've increased the head
21 count, so we have a base comp, compensation, about $5 million
22 more than we initially thought.

23 Secondly, we have bonus comp. So we've back-ended -- 24 structured a backend bonus performance bonus for the team, and 25 that will run another $5 million, roughly.

Seery - Direct

131

1 Previously, we had thought about, as you mentioned
2 earlier, the sub-servicing, but we've now talked about and we
3 have engaged a TPA, SEI, as well as experienced advisors.
4 That's another $1 to $2 million.

5 Operating expenses have increased by about $8 million,
6 based upon our assessment. The biggest driver there is D&O,
7 which is up about $3 million. In addition, we've gotten -- we 8 determined to keep a bunch of agreements related to data
9 collection and operations. Those were requested by the 10 Committee, but they also serve us in performing our functions.
11 That's another couple million dollars.

12 My comp, my bonus comp was not in the prior model. So I
13 have a bonus that has not been agreed to by the Court for the 14 bankruptcy performance. This is not a future bonus. And we 15 built that into the model. Obviously, it's subject to Court
16 approval and Committee objection, and I suppose anybody else's
17 objection, but we'll -- we'll be before the Court for that.
18 But we wanted to build that into the model so that we had it
19 covered in the event that it was approved.

20 Q Was there also a change in the assumption from November to 21 January with respect to the size of the general unsecured
22 claim pool?

23 A Yes. There have been -- there have been several changes
24 that have happened, and we've added those and refined the 25 claim pool numbers.

Seery - Direct

132

1 Q And are those changes reflected in the assumption we
2 looked at earlier, Exhibit -- Assumption M, which went through
3 certain claims that have been liquidated?

4 A Some, some are. That assumption, I don't believe, was --
5 it's not in front of me, but wasn't up to date. So, that one,
6 for example, assumed UBS at the 3018 estimated amount. We've 7 since refined that number to reflect the agreed-upon
8 transaction with UBS, which is subject to Court approval.

9 Q Right. But before we get to that, for purposes of the 10 January model, the one that's up on the page -- and if we need
11 to look at the prior page --

12 MR. MORRIS: Let's go to the prior page, the 13 assumption. Assumption M.

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Assume the UBS, the UBS claim at the $94.8 million, the 16 3018 number. Do you remember that?

17 A Yeah. That's, that -- that's the assumption in this 18 model. I think back in November we assumed HarbourVest at 19 zero and UBS at zero. So we've since -- we've since refined 20 those numbers, obviously, through both the 3018 process as 21 well as the settlement with HarbourVest.

22 Q And did the -- did the inclusion -- withdrawn. At the 23 time that you prepared the November model -- withdrawn. At 24 the time the Debtor prepared the November model, did it know
25 what the UBS or the HarbourVest claims would be valued at?

Seery - Direct

133

1 A No. We just had our assumption back then, which was zero.

2 And now, obviously, we know.

3 Q And so the January model took into account the settlement
4 with HarbourVest and the 3018 motion; do I have that right?

5 A That's correct. That's in the assumptions.

6 Q And what was the impact on the projected recoveries to 7 general unsecured creditors from the changes that you've just 8 described, including the increase in the claims amount?

9 A Well, when -- like any fraction, the distribution will go
10 down if the claimant pool goes up. So, with the denominator
11 going up by the UBS and the UBS amount -- the UBS and the 12 HarbourVest amounts, the distribution percentage went down.

13 Q Okay. I want to focus your attention on the second line
14 where we've got the monetization of assets under the plan at 15 $258 million but under the liquidation analysis it's $192
16 million. Do you see that?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Can you tell Judge Jernigan why the Debtor believes that 19 under the plan the Debtor or the post-confirmation Debtor is 20 likely to receive or recover more for the --

21 (Interruption.)

22 THE COURT: All right. Hang on a minute. Where is 23 that coming from, Mike?

24 THE CLERK: Someone is calling in.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

Seery - Direct

134

1 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

2 THE COURT: Mr. --

3 MR. MORRIS: Let me restate the question.

4 THE COURT: Yes. Restate.

5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q Can you explain to Judge Jernigan why the Debtor believes
7 that the -- under the plan corporate structure, the Debtor is 8 likely to recover more from the monetization of assets than a
9 Chapter 7 liquidation trustee would?

10 A Sure. My experience is that Chapter 7 trustees will 11 generally try to move quickly to monetize assets. They will 12 retain their own professionals, they will examine the assets,
13 and they will look to sell those assets swiftly.

14 The monetization plan does not plan to do that. I've got 15 a year's of experience -- a year now of experience with these 16 assets, as well as we'll have a team with several years at 17 least each of experience with the assets. We intend to look 18 for market opportunities, and think we'll be able to do it in 19 a much better fashion than a liquidating Chapter 7 trustee.

20 The nature of these assets is complex. Many of them are 21 private equity investments in operating businesses. Certain 22 of them are complicated real estate structures that need to be 23 dealt with. Some of them are securities that, depending on 24 when you want to sell them, we believe there'll be better
25 times than moving quickly forward to sell them now.

Seery - Direct

135

1       So, with each of them, we think that we'll be able to do
2 better than a Chapter 7 trustee based upon our experience.
3 The only thing that we're level-set with a Chapter 7 trustee
4 on is that cash is cash.

5       Q    Do you have any concerns that a Chapter 7 trustee might 6 not be able to retain the same personnel that the Debtor is 7 projected to retain?

8       A    Well, again, in my experience, it would be very difficult
9 for a Chapter 7 trustee to retain the same professionals, and 10 typically they don't.

11       Secondly, retaining the individuals, I think, would be 12 very difficult for a Chapter 7 trustee, would not have a 13 relationship with them, and that gap of time and the risks
14 that they would have to take to join a Chapter 7 trustee I
15 think would lead most of them to look for different
16 opportunities.

17       Q    Okay. One of the other things, one of the other changes I
18 think you mentioned between the November and the January
19 projections was the decision to assume the CLO management
20 contracts. Do I have that right?

21       A    That's correct.

22       Q    And why has the Debtor decided to assume the CLO
23 management contracts? How does that impact the analysis on 24 the screen?

25       A    Well, it does add to the expense, but it also adds to the

Seery - Direct

136

1 proceeds.

2 When we did the HarbourVest settlement, we ended up with 3 the first significant interest in HCLOF. HCLOF owns the vast 4 majority of the equity in Acis 7, and also owns significant
5 preferred share interests in the 1.0 CLOs. And we think it's 6 in the best interest of the estate to keep the management of 7 those assets where we have an interest in the outcome of 8 maximizing value with the estate.

9 In addition, we're going to have employees who are going
10 to work with us to manage those specific assets, so we feel 11 like that will be something where we can control the 12 disposition much better.

13 There's also cross-interests that these CLOs have in -- 14 the 1.0 CLOs have in a number of other investments that 15 Highland has. As in all things Highland, it's interrelated,
16 and so many of the companies have direct loans from the CLOs.
17 We intend to refinance that, but we feel much more comfortable
18 and feel that there would be value maximization if we're able 19 to work directly with the Issuers as a manager while we seek 20 in those underlying investments to refinance the CLO debt.

21 Q Has the Debtor -- has the Debtor reached an agreement with 22 the Issuers on the assumption of the CLO management
23 agreements?

24 A Yes, we have.

25 Q Can you describe for the Court the terms of the

Seery - Direct

137

1 assumption?

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, this --

3 THE WITNESS: Yes.

4 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, this is Davor Rukavina. I
5 would object to this as hearsay.

6 THE COURT: Well, he has not --

7 MR. MORRIS: It's --

8 THE COURT: He's not said an out-of-court statement
9 yet, so I overrule.

10 Go ahead.

11 THE WITNESS: Yeah, we -- we are going to assume the 12 CLO contracts. We have had direct discussions with the 13 Issuers. They have agreed.

14 The basic terms are that we're going to cure them by 15 satisfying about $500,000 of cure costs related to costs that 16 the CLO Issuers have incurred in respect of the case, and 17 we'll be able to pay that over time.

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, this is Davor Rukavina. I
19 would renew my objection and move to strike his answer that 20 they've agreed. That is hearsay, an out-of-court statement
21 offered to prove the truth of the matter asserted.

22 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Morris, what is your response?

23 MR. MORRIS: He's describing an agreement. I
24 actually think it's in the Debtor's plan that's on file
25 already. But he's describing the terms of an agreement. He's

Seery - Direct

138

1 not saying what anybody said. There's no out-of-court
2 statement. It's an agreement that's being described.

3 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. I overrule the
4 objection.

5 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Does the Debtor believe that the CLO agreements will be 8 profitable?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And why does the Debtor believe that the CLO agreements
11 will be profitable to the post-confirmation estate?

12 A Well, we don't -- we don't break out profitability on a 13 line-by-line basis. But the simple math is that the revenues
14 from the CLO contracts which will roll in to the Debtor from 15 the management fees are more than what we anticipate the 16 actual direct costs of monitoring and managing those assets
17 would be.

18 Q Okay. Are you aware that yesterday the Debtor filed a 19 further revised set of projections?

20 A I am, yes.

21 Q All right. Let's call those the February projections.

22 MR. MORRIS: Can we put those on the screen?

23 It's Exhibit 7P, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. MORRIS: All right. I think that for some reason

Seery - Direct

139

1 -- yeah, okay. There we go. Perfect. Right there.

2 Your Honor, these are the projections that were filed
3 yesterday. I'm going to move for the admission into evidence
4 of these projections.

5 THE COURT: All right.

6 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, this is Clay Taylor.

7 THE COURT: Go ahead.

8 MR. TAYLOR: We object. These were -- these were not 9 previously provided. They were provided on the eve of the 10 confirmation hearing, after the Debtors had already revised 11 them once and provided those on -- after close of business on 12 a Friday before Mr. Seery's deposition. And these were 13 provided even later, certainly not within the three days
14 required by the Rule. And therefore we move to -- that these 15 should not be allowed into evidence.

16 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, what is your response to
17 that?

18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, first of all, the January
19 projections were provided in advance of Mr. Seery's deposition
20 and he was questioned extensively on it. These projections
21 have been updated since then, I think for the singular purpose
22 of reflecting the UBS settlement.

23 As Your Honor just saw, the prior projections included an
24 assumption based on the 3018 motion. Since Mr. Seery's
25 deposition, UBS and the Debtor have agreed to publicly

Seery - Direct

140

1 disclose the terms of the settlement, and that's reflected in
2 these revised numbers. I think there was one other change
3 that Mr. Seery can testify to, but those are the only changes
4 that were made.

5 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, what besides the 6 UBS settlement do you think was put in these overnight ones?

7 THE WITNESS: I believe the only other change, Your
8 Honor, was correcting a mistake. In Assumption M, the second
9 line is assumes RCP claims will offset against HCMLP's
10 interest in the fund and will not be paid from the Debtor's
11 assets. That hasn't changed.

12 Basically, the Debtor got an advance from RCP that was to 13 -- for tax distributions, and did not repay it. The RCP
14 investors are entitled to recovery of that. So we had 15 previously backed that out. It's about four million bucks.
16 What happened was it was just double-counted.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 THE WITNESS: So, as an additional claim, it was 19 counted as $8 million. I think that's the only other change.

20 THE COURT: All right. I overrule the objection.
21 You may go forward. I admit 7P.

22 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

23 (Debtor's Exhibit 7P is received into evidence.)

24 MR. MORRIS: Can you just -- if we can go to the next
25 page, please.

Seery - Direct

141

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q So, with -- seeing that the claims pool under the plan
3 previously was $313 million, and what's the claims pool under 4 the projections up on the screen under the plan?

5 A Two -- well, remember, there's 273 for Class 8, and then
6 you'd add in the Class 7 as well, which is the $10.2 million.
7 So the 273 went from 313 to 273 with that settlement.

8 Q And is there any -- is there any reason for the decrease
9 other than the change from the 3018 settlement -- order figure
10 to the actual settlement amount?

11 A For the UBS piece, no. And then, as I mentioned, I
12 believe the other piece would have been that four million --
13 that additional $4 million that was taken out.

14 Q And did those two changes have a -- did those two changes
15 have an impact on the projected recoveries under the plan?

16 A Sure, particularly with respect to -- to the Class 8.
17 Those recoveries went up significantly because the denominator
18 went up.

19 Q Okay. Does the Debtor believe that its plan is feasible?

20 A Yes, absolutely.

21 Q And do you know whether the administrative priority and 22 convenience class claims will be paid in full under the 23 Debtor's plan?

24 A Yes. We monitor the cash very closely, so we do have 25 additional cash to raise, but we're set to reach or exceed

Seery - Direct

142

1 that target, so we do believe we'll be able to pay all the 2 administrative claims when they come in. Obviously, we have
3 to see what they are. We will be able to pay Class 7 on the 4 effective date. Any other distributions, we expect to be able 5 to make as well.

6 So, and then it's -- then it's a question of going forward
7 with a few other claims that we have to pay over time. We 8 have the cash flow to pay those. Frontier, for example, we'll 9 be able to pay that claim over time in accordance with the 10 restructured terms. If the assets that secure that claim are 11 sold, they would be paid when those assets are sold.

12 Q Frontier, will the plan enable the Debtor to pay off the 13 Frontier secured claim?

14 A Yes. That's what I was explaining. The cash flow is 15 sufficient to support the current P&I on that claim. We will 16 be able to satisfy it from other assets if we determine not to 17 sell the asset securing the Frontier claim, or if we sell the 18 asset securing the Frontier claim we could satisfy that claim.
19 The asset far exceeds the value of the claim.

20 Q Has the plan been proposed for the purpose of avoiding the 21 payment of any taxes?

22 A No. We expect all tax claims to be paid in accordance 23 with the Code, and to the extent that there are additional 24 taxes generated, we would pay them.

25 Q Okay. Let's just talk about Mr. Dondero for a moment

Seery - Direct

143

1 before we move on. Are you aware that Mr. Dondero's counsel
2 has requested the backup to, you know, these numbers,
3 including the asset values?

4 A It -- I'm not sure if it was his counsel or one of the 5 other related-entity counsels.

6 Q Okay. But you're aware that a request was made for the 7 details regarding the asset values and the other aspects of 8 this?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Those were -- were those formal requests or informal
11 requests?

12 A They were certainly at my deposition.

13 Q Right. But you haven't seen a document request or 14 anything like that, have you?

15 A No.

16 Q Did the Debtor make a decision as to whether or not to 17 provide the rollup, the backup information to Mr. Dondero or 18 the entities acting on his behalf?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And what did the Debtor decide?

21 A We would not do that.

22 Q And why did the Debtor decide that?

23 A Well, I think that's pretty standard. The underlying 24 documentation and the specific terms of the model are very 25 specific, and they are -- they are confidential business

Seery - Direct

144

1 information that runs through what we expect to spend and what
2 we expect to receive and when we expect to sell assets and 3 then receive proceeds, and the prices at which we expect to 4 sell them.

5 To the extent that any entity wants to have that 6 information as a potential bidder, that would be very 7 detrimental to our ability to maximize value. So, typically,
8 I wouldn't expect that to be given out, and I would not 9 approve it to be given out here.

10 Q Did the Debtor disclose to Mr. Dondero's counsel or 11 counsel for one of his entities the agreement in principle
12 with UBS before the updated plan analysis was filed last 13 night?

14 A I believe that disclosure was done a while ago, to Mr.
15 Lynn.

16 Q So, to the best of your -- so, to the best of your 17 knowledge, the Debtor actually shared the specifics of the 18 agreement with UBS with Mr. Dondero and his counsel before
19 last night?

20 A Yes. I have specific personal knowledge of it because we 21 had to ask UBS for their permission, and they agreed.

22 Q Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: All right. Let's move on to 1129(b),
24 Your Honor, the cram-down portion.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Seery - Direct

145

1 Q Are you aware, Mr. Seery, how various classes have voted
2 under the plan?

3 A I am generally, yes.

4 Q Okay. Did any class vote to reject the plan, to the best
5 of your knowledge?

6 A I don't -- I guess it depends on how you define the class.
7 I think the answer is that I don't believe that, when you
8 count the full votes of the -- the allowed claims and the 9 votes in any class, I don't believe any of the classes voted 10 to reject the plan.

11 Q What type of claims are in Class 8?

12 A General unsecured claims.

13 Q And what percentage of the dollar amount of Class 8 voted 14 to accept?

15 A It's -- I think it's near -- now with the Daugherty
16 agreements, it's near a hundred percent of the third-party
17 dollars. I don't know the individual employees' claims off
18 the top of my head.

19 Q All right. And what about the number in Class 8? Have a 20 majority voted to accept or reject in Class 8?

21 A If you include the employee claims -- which, again, we 22 think have no dollar amounts -- then I think it's a majority
23 would have rejected. The vast dollar amounts did accept.

24 Q Okay. Let's talk about those employees claims for a
25 moment. Do you have an understanding as to the basis of the

Seery - Direct

146

1 claims?

2 A Yes.

3 Q What's your understanding of the basis of the claims?

4 A Most of the claims are based on deferred compensation, and 5 that's the 2005 Highland Capital Management bonus plan. And 6 that bonus plan provides certain deferred payment amounts to 7 the employees to be paid over multiple-year periods, provided
8 that they are in the seat when the payment is due. That's the 9 vesting date.

10 Q Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just as a note-keeping
12 matter, the deferred compensation plan and the annual bonus
13 plan are Exhibits 6F and 6G, respectively, and they're on 14 Docket 1822.

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q And Mr. Seery, are you generally familiar with those 18 plans?

19 A I am, yes.

20 Q In order to receive benefits under the plans, are the 21 employees required to be employed at the time of vesting?

22 A Yeah. Our counsel refers to them, various terms, but 23 generally -- our outside labor counsel. They're referred to 24 as seat-in-the-seat plans, meaning that your seat has to be in 25 a seat at the office at the day that the payment is due. If

Seery - Direct

147

1 you're terminated for cause or if you resign, you're not
2 entitled to any payment.

3 So either you're there and you receive it or you're not
4 and you don't. The only exception to that, I believe, is 5 death and disability. Or disability.

6 Q All right. Did the Debtor terminate the annual bonus
7 plan?

8 A Yes, we did.

9 Q And in what context did the Debtor terminate the annual 10 bonus plan?

11 A Well, we had discussion on it last week. As Mr. Dondero
12 had also testified, the plan was to terminate all the 13 employees prior to the transition. That's well known among 14 the employees. The board terminated the 2005 bonus plan and 15 instead replaced it with a KERP plan that was approved by this 16 Court.

17 Q And what was your understanding of the consequences of the 18 termination of the bonus plan for -- for purposes of the 19 claims that have been asserted by the employees who rejected
20 in Class 8?

21 A It's clear that, under the 2005 HCMLP bonus plan, no
22 amounts are due because the plan has been terminated.

23 Q All right. Do you have an understanding as to when 24 payments become due under the deferred compensation -- under 25 the compensation plan?

Seery - Direct

148

1 A I do, yes.

2 Q And when are they due?

3 A The next payments are due in May.

4 Q And what is the Debtor intending to do with respect to the 5 objecting employees?

6 A The Debtor will have terminated all those employees before
7 that date.

8 Q All right. So, what's -- what are the consequences of 9 their termination vis-à-vis their claims under the deferred
10 compensation plan?

11 A They won't have any claims.

12 Q Okay. So is it the Debtor's view that the employees who 13 voted to reject in Class 8 have no valid claims under the 14 annual comp -- annual bonus plan or the deferred compensation
15 plan?

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, this is Davor Rukavina.
17 With due respect, Your Honor, these employees have voted. The 18 voting is on file. There has been no claim objections to 19 their claims filed. There's been no motion to designate their 20 votes filed. So Mr. Seery's answer to this is irrelevant.
21 They have votes -- pursuant to this Court's disclosure
22 statement order, they have votes and they have counted, and 23 now Mr. Seery is attempting to basically impeach his own
24 balloting summary.

25 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, what is your response?

Seery - Direct

149

1 MR. MORRIS: The point of cram-down, Your Honor, is
2 it fair and equitable. Does -- does -- is it really fair and 3 equitable to the 99 percent of the economic interests to allow 4 24 employees who have no valid claims to carry the day here?
5 And this is -- that's what cram-down is about, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. I overrule the objection.

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q Let's talk about Class 7 for a moment, Mr. Seery. That's 9 the convenience class; is that right?

10 A That's correct.

11 Q How and why was that created?

12 A Well, initially, that was created because we had two types
13 of creditors in the case, broadly speaking. We had liquidated
14 claims, which were primarily trade-type creditors, and we had 15 unliquidated claims, which were the litigation-type creditors.
16 And so that class was created to deal with the liquidated
17 claims, and the Class 8 would deal with the unliquidated
18 claims, which were expected to, as we talked about earlier 19 with respect to the monetization plan, take some time to 20 resolve.

21 Q Was the creation of the convenience class a product of 22 negotiations with the Committee?

23 A The initial discussion on how we set it up I believe was 24 generated by the Debtor's side, but how it evolved and who 25 would be in it and how it was treated in terms of

Seery - Direct

150

1 distributions was a product of negotiation with the Committee.

2 Q Okay. So how was the dollar threshold figure arrived at?

3 How did you actually determine to create a convenience class
4 at a million dollars?

5 A It was through negotiation with the Committee. So this 6 was one of those items that moved a fair bit, in my 7 recollection, through the many negotiations we had, heated
8 negotiations on some of these items, with the Committee.

9 Q And are all convenience class -- all holders of 10 convenience class claims holders of claims that were 11 liquidated at the time the decision was made to create the 12 class?

13 A I believe so. I don't think there's been -- other than -- 14 well, there -- we just had some settlements today, and I think
15 that relates to the employees, but those would be the only
16 ones that there would be disputes about, and that would roll
17 into the liquidat... the convenience class.

18 Q Okay. Finally, is there any circumstance under which 19 holders of Class 10 or 11, Class 10 or Class 11 claims will be 20 able to obtain a recovery under the plan?

21 A Theoretically, there's a circumstance, and that is if 22 every other creditor in the case were to be paid in full, with 23 interest at the federal judgment rate, including Class 9,
24 which are the subordinated claims. If those all got paid in 25 full, then theoretically the junior interest holders could

Seery - Direct

151

1 receive distributions.

2       However, based upon our projections, that would be wholly
3 dependent on a significant recovery in the Litigation -- by 4 the Litigation Trustee.

5 Q    Okay. Let's move now to questions of the Debtor release
6 and the plan injunction. Is the Debtor providing a release
7 under the plan?

8 A    Yes.

9 Q    Is anyone other than the Debtor providing a release under 10 the plan?

11 A    No.

12 Q    Who is the Debtor proposing to release under the plan?

13 A    The release parties are pretty similar to what you
14 typically would see, in my experience, in most plans. You 15 have the independent board, myself as CEO and CRO, the 16 professional -- the Committee members, the professionals in 17 the case, and the employees that we reached agreement with 18 respect to certain of them who have signed on to a
19 stipulation, and others, get a broader release for negligence.

20 Q    Okay. Is the Debtor aware of any facts that might give 21 rise to a colorable claim against any of the proposed release
22 parties?

23 A    Not with respect to any of the release parties. So the -- 24 obviously, I don't think there's any claims against me. But 25 the same is true with respect to the oversight board, the

Seery - Direct

152

1 independent board.

2 The Committee has been, you know, working with us hand-in-
3 glove, and I think if they thought we -- there was something
4 there, we would have heard it.

5 With respect to the professionals, we haven't seen
6 anything as an independent board.

7 And with respect to the employees' that -- general
8 negligence release, these are current employees and we have 9 been monitoring them for a year and we don't have any evidence
10 or anything to suggest that there would be a claim against 11 them.

12 Q Are there conditions to the employees' release?

13 A There are. So, the employee release, as we talked about 14 earlier, was highly negotiated with the Committee. It
15 requires that employees assist in the monetization efforts,
16 which is really on the transition and the monetization. They 17 don't have to assist in bringing litigations against anybody,
18 so that's not part of what the provision requires. But it 19 does require that they assist generally in our efforts to 20 monetize assets.

21 We don't think that's going to be significant, but if 22 there are individual questions or help we need, we certainly 23 would reach out to them. If it's significant time, that will 24 be a different discussion.

25 And then with respect to the two senior employees who

Seery - Direct

153

1 signed the stipulation, they have to give up a part of their
2 distribution for their release.

3 Q All right. I think you just alluded to this, but has the 4 release been the subject of negotiation with the Creditors'
5 Committee?

6 A Yeah. We've touched on it a bunch of times, and we 7 certainly, unfortunately, let it spill over into the court a
8 couple times. It was a hotly-negotiated piece of the plan.

9 Q Okay. Has the Committee indicated to the Debtor in any 10 way that anybody subject to the release is the subject of a
11 colorable claim?

12 A Anyone subject to the release? No.

13 Q Yeah. All right. Let's talk about the plan injunction
14 for a moment. Are you familiar with the plan injunction?

15 A Broadly, yes.

16 Q And what is your broad understanding of the plan
17 injunction?

18 A Anybody who has a claim or thinks they have a claim will 19 broadly be enjoined from bringing that, other than as it's 20 satisfied under the plan or else ultimately bringing it before
21 this Court. And that's the gatekeeper part, which is a little 22 bit of combining the two pieces.

23 Q And what's your understanding of the purpose of the 24 injunction?

25 A It's really to prevent vexatious litigation. We, as

Seery - Direct

154

1 independent directors, stepped into what I think most people
2 would fairly say is one of the more litigious businesses and
3 enterprises that they've seen. And we have a plan that will
4 allow us to monetize assets for the benefit of the creditor
5 body, provided we're able to do that and not have to put out
6 fires every day on different fronts. So what we're hoping to 7 do with the injunction is ensure that we can actually fulfill
8 the purposes of the plan.

9 Q All right. Let's talk about some of the litigation that 10 you're referring to.

11 MR. MORRIS: Can we put up on the screen the 12 demonstrative for the Crusader litigation?

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q And Mr. Seery, I would just ask you to kind of describe 15 your understanding in a general way about the history of the 16 Crusader litigation.

17 MR. MORRIS: And, Your Honor, just to be clear here,
18 this is a demonstrative exhibit. As you can see in the 19 footnotes, it's heavily footnoted to the documents and to -- 20 and, really, to the court cases themselves. The documents on 21 the exhibit list include the dockets from each of the 22 underlying litigations. And I just want to just have Mr.
23 Seery describe at an extremely high level some of the 24 litigation that the Debtor has confronted over the years, you
25 know, as the driver, as he just testified to, for the decision

Seery - Direct

155

1 to seek this gatekeeper injunction.

2 THE COURT: All right.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q So, Mr. Seery, can you just describe kind of in general
5 terms the Crusader litigation?

6 A Yeah. I apologize to the Redeemer team for maybe not
7 doing this justice. But this is litigation that came out of a
8 financial crisis upheaval related to this fund. Disputes
9 arose with respect to the holders of the interests, which were 10 the -- ultimately became the Redeemers, and Highland as the 11 manager.

12 That went through initial litigation, and then into the 13 Bermuda courts, where it was subject to a scheme. The scheme
14 required or allowed for the liquidation of the fund and then 15 distributions to the -- to the holders, and then deferred many 16 of the payments to Highland.

17 At some point, Highland, frustrated that it wasn't able to 18 get the payments, decided to just take them, and I think, you
19 know, fairly -- can be fairly described, at least by the 20 arbitration panel, as coming up with reasons that may not have 21 been wholly anchored in reality as to what its reasons were 22 for taking that money.

23 That led to further disputes with the Redeemers, who then 24 terminated Highland and brought an arbitration action against 25 Highland. They were successful in that arbitration and

Seery - Direct

156

1 received a $137 arbitration award. And right up to the 2 petition date, that arbitration pursued. When they finally 3 got their -- the arbitration award, they were going to 4 Delaware Chancery Court to file it and perfect it, and the 5 Debtor filed.

6 Q Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: Let's go to the next slide, the Terry/
8 Acis slide. If we could just open that up a little bit. It's 9 -- as you can imagine, Your Honor, it's a little difficult to 10 kind of summarize the Acis/Terry saga in one slide, but we've 11 done the best we can.

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q Mr. Seery, can you describe generally for Judge Jernigan,
14 who is well-versed in the matter, the broad overview of this
15 litigation?

16 A There's clearly nothing I can tell the Court about the 17 bankruptcy that it doesn't already know. But very quickly, 18 for the record, Mr. Terry was an employee at Highland. He 19 also has a partnership interest in Acis, which was, in 20 essence, the Highland CLO business. He -- and he got into a 21 dispute with Mr. Dondero regarding certain transactions that 22 Mr. Dondero wanted to enter into and Mr. Terry didn't believe 23 were appropriate for the investors.

24 Strangely, the assets that underlie that dispute are still 25 in the Highland portfolio, both Targa (phonetic) and Trussway.

Seery - Direct

157

1 Mr. Terry was terminated, or quit, depending on whose side of 2 the argument you take. Mr. Terry then sought compensation in 3 the arbitration pursuant to the partnership agreement.
4 Ultimately, he was awarded an arbitration award of roughly $8
5 million.

6 When he went to enforce that -- that was against Acis.
7 When he went to enforce that against Acis, which had all the 8 contracts, Highland went about, I think, terribly denuding
9 Acis and moving value. Mr. Terry ultimately was able to file
10 an involuntary against Acis, and after a tremendous amount of 11 litigation had a plan confirmed that gave him certain rights
12 in Acis and any ability to challenge certain transactions with 13 respect to Highland that formed the basis of his claims in the 14 Highland bankruptcy.

15 That wasn't the end of the saga, because Highland 16 commenced a litigation -- well, not Highland, but HCLOF and 17 others, directed by others -- commenced litigation against Mr.
18 Terry in Guernsey, an island in the English Channel. That 19 litigation wound its way for a couple -- probably close to two 20 years, at least a year and a half, and ultimately was -- it
21 was dismissed in Mr. Terry's favor.

22 While that was pending, litigation was commenced in New 23 York Supreme Court against Mr. Terry and virtually anybody who 24 had ever associated with him in the business, including -- 25 including some of the rating agencies. That was withdrawn as

Seery - Direct

158

1 part of our efforts working with DAF to try to bring a little
2 bit of sanity to the case. But it was withdrawn without 3 prejudice.

4 But ultimately, you know, we've agreed to a claims
5 settlement, which was approved by this Court, with Acis and 6 Mr. Terry.

7 Q All right.

8 MR. MORRIS: How about UBS? Can we get the UBS
9 slide?

10 THE WITNESS: I should mention that there's other 11 litigations involving Mr. Terry and Highland individuals that 12 are outstanding, I believe, in Texas court. We have not yet
13 had to deal with those.

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Okay. Can you describe for the Court your general
16 understanding of the UBS litigation?

17 A Again, UBS comes out of the financial crisis. It was a
18 warehouse facility that UBS had established for Highland. It 19 actually was a pre-crisis facility that was restructured in 20 early '08, while the markets were starting to slide but before
21 they really collapsed. That litigation started after Highland
22 failed to make a margin call. UBS foreclosed out -- or it
23 wasn't really a foreclosure, because it's a warehouse
24 facility, but basically closed out all the interest and sought
25 recovery from Highland for the shortfall.

Seery - Direct

159

1 Highland was one of the defendants, but there are numerous
2 defendants, including some foreign subsidiaries of Highland.

3 That case went its way through the New York Supreme Court,
4 up and down between the Supreme and the Appellate Division,
5 which is the intermediate appellate court in New York.
6 Incredibly litigious effort over virtually every single item
7 you could possibly think of.

8 Ultimately, UBS got a judgment for $500-plus million and 9 -- plus prejudgment interest against two of the Highland
10 subsidiaries. It then sought to commence action up -- enforce 11 its judgment through various theories against Highland. That 12 is part of the settlement that we have -- it's been part of 13 the lift stay motion here, the 3019, as well as the 3018, and 14 as well as the ultimate settlement we've discussed today.

15 Q Okay. Moving on to Mr. Daugherty, can you describe for 16 the Court your understanding of the Daugherty litigation?

17 A The Daugherty litigation goes back even further. It did
18 -- I think the original disputes were -- or, again, started to 19 happen between Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Dondero even prior to the 20 crisis, but Mr. Dondero -- Daugherty certainly stayed with 21 Highland post-crisis. And then when Mr. Daugherty was severed 22 or either resigned or terminated from his position, there was 23 various litigations that began between the parties very 24 intensely in state court, one of the more nasty litigations
25 that you can imagine, replete with salacious allegations and

160

1 press releases.

2 That litigation then led to an award originally for Mr.
3 Daugherty from HERA, which was an entity that had assets that
4 Mr. Daugherty alleges were stripped. Mr. Daugherty had to pay
5 a judgment against Highland. Ultimately, litigations were 6 commenced in both the state court and the Delaware Chancery
7 Court. Those litigations, many of those continue, because 8 they're not just against the entities but specific 9 individuals. Mr. Daugherty got a voting -- a claim allowed 10 for voting purposes in our case of $9.1 million, and we've 11 since reached an agreement with Mr. Daugherty on his claim, 12 save for a tax case which we announced earlier that relates to 13 compensation, claimed compensation with respect to a tax
14 distribution, which we have defenses for and he has claims
15 for.

16 MR. MORRIS: All right. We can take that down,
17 please.

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q And let's just talk for a few minutes about some of the 20 things that have happened in this case. Did Mr. Dondero
21 engage in conduct that caused the Debtor to seek and obtain a
22 temporary restraining order?

23 A Yes, he did.

24 Q And did the Debtor -- did Mr. Dondero engage in conduct 25 that caused the Debtor to seek and obtain a preliminary

Seery - Direct

161

1 injunction against him?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And has the Debtor filed a motion to hold Mr. Dondero in 4 contempt for violation of the TRO?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Are you aware that -- of the CLO-related motion that was 7 filed in mid-December?

8 A It's similar in that these are controlled entities that 9 brought similar types of claims against the Debtor and 10 interfered in similar ways, albeit not as directly threatening
11 with respect to the personnel of the Debtor.

12 Q Okay. And you're aware of how that -- that motion was 13 resolved?

14 A I know we resolved it, and I'm drawing a blank on that.
15 But --

16 Q All right. Are you aware, did Mr. Daugherty also object
17 to the Acis and HarbourVest settlements, or at least either
18 him or entities acting on his behalf?

19 A I think you meant Mr. Dondero. I don't believe Mr.
20 Daugherty did.

21 Q You're right. Thank you. Let me ask the question again.
22 Thank you for the clarification. We're almost done. To the 23 best of your knowledge, did Mr. Dondero or entities that he 24 controls file objections to the Acis and HarbourVest
25 settlements?

Seery - Direct

162

1 A Yes, they did.

2 Q And we're here today with this long recitation because the 3 remaining objectors are all Mr. Dondero or entities owned or 4 controlled by him; is that right?

5 A That's correct.

6 Q All right.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I didn't have a chance to 8 object in time. Entities owned or controlled by Mr. Dondero.
9 There's no evidence of that with respect to at least three of 10 my clients, and this witness has not been asked predicate
11 questions to lay a foundation. Mr. Dondero does not own or 12 control the three retail (inaudible). So I move to strike
13 that answer.

14 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I withdraw with respect to 15 the three funds. It's fine.

16 THE COURT: All right. With that withdrawal, then I
17 think that resolves the objection.

18 MR. MORRIS: Uh, --

19 THE COURT: Or I overrule the remaining portion.

20 Okay. Go ahead.

21 MR. RUKAVINA: That does, Your Honor. Thank you.

22 BY MR. MORRIS:

23 Q Are -- are -- is everything that you just described, Mr.
24 Seery, the basis for the Debtor's request for the gatekeeper
25 and injunction features of the plan?

Seery - Direct

163

1 A Well, everything I described are a part of the basis for 2 that. I didn't describe every single basis with respect to 3 why those --

4 Q So what are -- what are the other reasons that the Debtor
5 is seeking the gatekeeper and injunction provisions in the
6 plan?

7 A We really do need to be able to operate the business and 8 monetize the assets without direct interference and litigation
9 threats. We didn't go through some of the specifics, and I
10 hesitate to burden the Court again, but the email to me, the 11 email to Mr. Surgent, the testimony threatening -- effectively
12 threatening Mr. Surgent, in my opinion, by Mr. Dondero, in the 13 court in previous weeks, statements by his counsel indicating 14 that Mr. Dondero is going to sue me for hundreds of millions
15 of dollars down the road.

16 I mean, this is nonstop. I'm an independent fiduciary.
17 I'm trying to maximize value for the estate. I've got some 18 guy who's threatening to sue me? It's absurd.

19 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no further questions,
20 but what I would respectfully request is that we take just a 21 short five-minute break. I'd like to just confer with my 22 colleagues before I pass the witness.

23 THE COURT: All right. Five-minute break.

24 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE CLERK: All rise.

Seery - Direct

164

1 (A recess ensued from 1:58 p.m. to 2:06 p.m.)

2 THE CLERK: All rise.

3 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're back
4 on the record in Highland. Mr. Morris, anything else?

5 MR. MORRIS: All right, Your Honor. Can you hear me?

6 THE COURT: I can, uh-huh.

7 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Mr. Seery, are you there?

8 THE WITNESS: I am, yes.

9 MR. MORRIS: I just have a few follow-up questions,
10 Your Honor, if I may.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

13 BY MR. MORRIS:

14 Q Okay. Mr. Seery, we talked for a bit about the difference
15 between the convenience class and the general unsecured
16 claims. Do you recall that?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And that's the difference between Class 7 and 8; do I have 19 that right?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And what is the recovery for claimants in Class 7, to the 22 best of your recollection, the convenience class?

23 A It's 85 cents.

24 Q And under --

25 A On the dollar.

Seery - Direct

165

1 Q And under the projections that were filed last night, and
2 we can call them up on the screen if you don't have total
3 recall, do you recall what Class 8 is projected to recover now
4 that we've taken into account the UBS settlement?

5 A Approximately 71.

6 Q Okay.

7 A Percent. 71 cents on the dollar.

8 THE COURT: Okay. The answer --

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Okay. Do I this right --

11 THE COURT: The answer was a little garbled. Can you
12 repeat the answer, Mr. Seery?

13 THE WITNESS: Approximately 71 cents on the dollar,
14 Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q Okay. And do I have that right, that that 71 cents
18 includes no value for potential litigation claims?

19 A That's correct. We didn't even put that in our 20 projections at all.

21 Q So is it possible, depending on Mr. Kirschner's work, that 22 holders of Class 8 claims could recover an amount in excess of 23 85 percent?

24 A It's possible, yes.

25 Q Okay. Are you aware that Dugaboy has suggested that the

Seery - Direct

166

1 Debtor should resolicit because their -- their -- the 2 projections in the November disclosure statement were 3 misleading?

4 A I'm aware that they've made allegations along those lines,
5 yes.

6 Q Okay. Do you think the November projections were 7 misleading in any way?

8 A No, not at all.

9 Q And why not?

10 A Well, the plan was -- the projections are for the plan,
11 and they contain assumptions. And it was clear in the plan
12 that those assumptions could change. So the value of the 13 assets, which aren't static, does change. The costs aren't 14 static. They do change. The amount of the claims, the 15 denominator, was not static and would change.

16 Q Okay. And were the -- were the changes in the claims, for 17 example, changes that were all subject to public viewing, as 18 the Court ruled on 3018, as the settlement with HarbourVest
19 was announced?

20 A Well, the plan -- the terms of the plan made clear that 21 the Class 8 claims would -- would be whatever the final 22 amounts of those claims were going to be. We did resolve the 23 claims of HarbourVest and then ultimately the settlement
24 announced today, but in front of -- in front of the world, in 25 front of the Court, with a 9019 motion.

Seery - Direct

167

1 Q Okay. We had finished up with some questioning about the 2 gatekeeper and the injunction provision. Do you recall that?

3 A Yes, I do.

4 Q And you had testified as to the reasons why the Debtor was 5 seeking that particular protection. Do you recall that?

6 A Yes.

7 Q In the absence of that protection, does the Debtor have
8 any concerns that interference by Mr. Dondero could adversely
9 impact the timing of the Debtor's plan?

10 A Well, that's my opinion and what I testified to before. I 11 think the -- the injunction -- the exculpation, the 12 injunction, and the gatekeeper are really critical and 13 essential elements of this plan, because we have to have the 14 ability, unfettered by litigation, particularly vexatious
15 litigation in multiple jurisdictions, we have to be able to 16 avoid that and be able to focus on monetizing the assets and 17 try to maximize value.

18 Q Is there a concern that that value would erode if 19 resources and time and attention are diverted to the 20 litigation you've just described?

21 A Absolutely. The focus of the team has to be on the 22 assets' monetization, creative ways to get the most value out
23 of those assets, and not on defending itself, trying to paper
24 up some sort of litigation defense against vexatious
25 litigation, and also spending time actually defending

Seery - Direct

168

1 ourselves in various courts.

2 Q Okay. Last couple of questions. If there was no
3 gatekeeper provision in the plan, would you accept appointment
4 as the Claimant Trustee?

5 A You broke up. No which provision?

6 Q If there was no gatekeeper provision in the -- in the 7 confirmation order, would you accept the position as Claimant
8 Trustee?

9 A No, I wouldn't. Just -- just like when I came on, there
10 were -- there are some pretty essential elements that I
11 mentioned before. One is indemnification. Two is directors
12 and officers insurance. And three was a gatekeeper function.
13 I want to make sure that we're not at risk, that I'm not at 14 risk, for doing my job.

15 Q And I think you just said it, but if you were unable to 16 obtain D&O insurance, would you accept the position as 17 Claimant Trustee?

18 A No, I would not.

19 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: All right. So, you went two hours and 34
21 minutes in total with your direct. So we'll now pass the 22 witness for cross. And the Objectors get an aggregate of two 23 hours and 34 minutes.

24 Who's going to go first?

25 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Davor Rukavina. I will.

Seery - Direct

169

1 THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead.

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if you can pull up Exhibit
3 6N, the ballot summary, Page 7 of 15 on the top.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: Mr. Morris, you're not on mute.

5 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, sir.

6 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, did you hear me? There it
7 is.

8 CROSS-EXAMINATION

9 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

10 Q Mr. Seery, are you familiar with this ballot tabulation
11 that was filed with the Court and that has been admitted into
12 evidence?

13 A Yes, I believe I've seen this.

14 Q Okay. And this says that 31 Class 8 creditors rejected
15 and 12 Class 8 creditors accepted the plan, correct?

16 A That's correct.

17 Q And since then, I think we've heard that Mr. Daugherty and 18 maybe two other employees have changed their vote to an 19 accept; is that correct?

20 A That's correct, yes.

21 Q Okay. Other than three, those three employees that are 22 changing, do you know of any other Class 8 creditors that are 23 changing their votes?

24 A Mr. Daugherty is not an employee.

25 Q I apologize. Other than those three Class 8 creditors

170

1 that are changing their votes, do you know of any other ones
2 that are changing their votes?

3 A No.

4 Q Okay. You didn't tabulate the ballots, did you?

5 A No, I did not.

6 Q Do you have any reason to question the accuracy of this
7 ballot summary that's been filed with the Court?

8 A No, I do not.

9 Q Okay. You mentioned that many of the people that rejected
10 the plan are former employees who you don't think will 11 ultimately have allowed claims, correct?

12 A Not ultimately. I said they don't have them now.

13 Q Okay. Are you aware that the Court ordered that 14 contingent unliquidated claims be allowed to vote in an 15 estimated amount of one dollar?

16 A I'm aware of that, yes.

17 Q Okay. All right. Now, no motion to reconsider that order
18 has been filed, correct?

19 A Not to my knowledge.

20 Q Okay. No objection to these rejecting employees' claims
21 have been filed yet, correct?

22 A Correct.

23 Q Okay. And no motion to strike or designate their vote has 24 been filed as of now, correct?

25 A Correct.

Seery - Cross

171

1 MR. RUKAVINA: You can take down that exhibit, Mr.

2 Vasek.

3 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

4 Q Mr. Seery, the Debtor itself is a limited partnership; I
5 think you confirmed that earlier, correct?

6 A Correct.

7 Q And its sole general partner is Strand Advisors, Inc.,
8 correct?

9 A Correct.

10 Q And to your understanding, the Debtor, as a limited
11 partnership, is managed by its general partner, correct?

12 A Correct.

13 Q Okay. And Strand, that's where the independent board of 14 you, Mr. Nelms, and Mr. Dubel -- or I apologize if I'm 15 misspelling, misstating his name -- that's where the board
16 sits, at Strand, correct?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay. And that board has been in place since about 19 January 9, 2020?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. Strand is not a debtor in bankruptcy, correct?

22 A No.

23 Q Okay. Do you have any understanding as to whether, under 24 non-bankruptcy law, a general partner is liable for the debts
25 of the limited partnership that it manages?

172

1 A I do.

2 Q Okay. What's your understanding?

3 A Typically, a general partner is liable for the debts of 4 the partnership.

5 Q Okay. And under the plan, Strand itself is an exculpated
6 party and a protected party and a released party for matters
7 arising after January 9, 2020, correct?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Okay. You mentioned that you're the chief executive 10 officer and chief restructuring officer in this case for the 11 Debtor, correct?

12 A For the Debtor, yes.

13 Q Yeah. You are not a Chapter 11 trustee, right?

14 A No.

15 Q Okay. You are one of the principal authors of this plan,
16 correct?

17 A Consultant.

18 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

19 THE COURT: Sustained.

20 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

1 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

2 Q -- one of the principal --

3 MR. RUKAVINA: I apologize.

4 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

5 Q You had input in creating this plan, didn't you?

6 A I did, yes.

7 Q Okay. And you're familiar with the plan's provisions,
8 aren't you?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. And you, of course, approve of the plan, correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. And you are, of course, familiar generally with 13 what the property of the estate currently is, correct?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay. And part of the purpose of the plan, I take it, is 16 to vest that property in the Claimant Trust in some respects
17 and the Reorganized Debtor in some respects, correct?

18 A I don't -- I don't know if that's a fair characterization.

19 Some property -- maybe some property will stay with the 20 Debtor, some will be transferred directly to the Trust.

21 Q Okay. All property of the estate as it currently exists
22 will stay with the Debtor or go to the Trust, correct?

23 A Yes.

24 Q Okay. And under the plan, the Creditor Trust will be 25 responsible for payment of prepetition claims, correct?

Seery - Cross

174

1 A Yes.

2 Q And under the plan, the Creditor Trust will be responsible
3 for the payment of postpetition pre-confirmation claims,
4 correct?

5 A Do you mean admin claims? I don't --

6 Q Sure.

7 A I don't understand your question. I'm sorry.

8 Q Yes. We can call them admin claims.

9 A Yeah. Those -- they'll be -- they will be paid on the 10 effective date or in and around that time. So I'm not sure if 11 that's actually going to be from the Trust, but I think it's 12 actually from the Debtor, as opposed to from the Trust.

13 Q Okay. But after the creation of the Claimant Trust, --

14 A Uh-huh.

15 Q -- whatever administrative claims are not paid by that 16 time will be assumed by and paid from the Claimant Trust,
17 correct?

18 A I don't recall that specifically.

19 Q Is it your testimony that the Reorganized Debtor will be 20 obligated post-effective date of the plan to pay any admin
21 claims that are then unpaid?

22 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

23 THE COURT: Sustained. Rephrase.

24 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

25 Q Who pays unpaid admin claims under the plan once the plan

Seery - Cross

175

1 goes effective?

2 A I believe the Debtor does. The Reorganized Debtor.

3 Q Okay. The Reorganized Debtor also gets a discharge,
4 correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay. And there is no bankruptcy estate left after the 7 plan goes effective, correct?

8 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

9 THE COURT: Overruled.

10 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I have the right to know
11 what the objection to my question is.

12 THE COURT: I overruled.

13 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

14 THE COURT: I overruled the objection.

15 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you.

16 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

17 Q Mr. Seery, do you remember my question?

18 A That whether there was a bankruptcy estate after the 19 effective date?

20 Q Yes.

21 A There wouldn't be a bankruptcy estate anymore, no.

22 Q Okay. Under the plan, the creditors, to the extent that 23 they have their claims allowed, the prepetition creditors,
24 they're the beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust, correct?

25 A They are some of the beneficiaries, yes.

Seery - Cross

176

1 Q Okay. And you would be the Trustee, I think you said, of 2 the Claimant Trust?

3 A Of the Claimant Trust, yes.

4 Q Okay. And you will have fiduciary duties to the 5 beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust, correct?

6 A I believe I have some, yes.

7 Q Okay. Well, as the Trustee, you will have some fiduciary
8 duties; you do agree with that?

9 A That's what I said, yes.

10 Q Okay. What's your understanding of what those fiduciary
11 duties to the beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust will be?

12 A I think they'll be -- they are cabined to some degree by 13 the provisions of the agreement, but generally there will be a 14 duty of care and a duty of loyalty.

15 Q Do you feel like you'll have a duty to try to maximize
16 their recoveries?

17 A That depends.

18 Q On what?

19 A My judgment on what's the -- if I'm exercising my duty of 20 care and my duty of loyalty.

21 Q Okay. But surely you'd like to, whether you have a duty
22 or not, you'd like to maximize their recoveries as Trustee,
23 wouldn't you?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Okay. Now, in addition to the beneficiaries, which I

Seery - Cross

177

1 believe are the Class 8 and Class 9 creditors, the plan
2 proposes to give non-vested contingent interests in the Trust
3 to certain holders of limited partnership interests, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Okay. And those non-vested contingent interests would 6 only be paid and would only vest if and when all unsecured
7 creditors and subordinated creditors are paid in full, with 8 interest, correct?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. And those non-vested contingent interests are a 11 property interest, although they're an inchoate property
12 interest, correct?

13 A I don't know. I think I testified in my deposition that I
14 -- I reached for inchoate, but I'm not an expert in the 15 definitions of property interests. I don't know if they're 16 too ethereal to be considered a property interest.

17 Q Okay.

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, will you please pull up Mr.
19 Seery's deposition at Page 215? And if you'll go to Page 200
20 -- can you zoom -- can you zoom that in a little bit? Mr.
21 Vasek, can you zoom on that?

22 MR. VASEK: Just a moment. There's some sort of 23 issue here.

24 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay. And then go to Page 216.
25 Scroll down to 216, please.

178

1 MR. VASEK: Okay. I can't see it, so --

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay. Stay, stay where you are. Go
3 down one more row.

4 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

5 Q Okay. Mr. Seery, can you see this?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Okay. So, I ask you on Line 21, "They may be a property
8 interest, but inchoate only, correct?" And you answer, "That 9 is my belief. I don't claim to be an expert on the different
10 types of property interests," --

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, can you go to the next 12 page?

13 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

14 Q (continues) "-- whether they be inchoate, reversionary,
15 ethereal. I don't claim to be an expert on the different
16 types of property interests."

17 Do you see that answer, sir?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And do you stand by your answer given on Lines 23 through 20 Line 4 of the next page?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. And these non-vested contingency -- contingent
23 interests in the Claimant Trust, they may have some value in 24 the future, correct?

25 A Yes.

Seery - Cross

179

1 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay. You can take that down, Mr.
2 Vasek.

3 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

4 Q Have you tried to see whether anyone outside this case, or 5 anyone at all, would pay anything for those unvested
6 contingent interests to the Claimant Trust?

7 A No.

8 Q Okay. Now, the Debtor is a registered investment advisor
9 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940; is that correct?

10 A That's correct.

11 Q And under that Act, the Debtor owes a fiduciary duty to 12 the funds that it manages and to the investors of those funds,
13 correct?

14 A Clearly to the funds, and generally to the investors more
15 broadly, yes.

16 Q Okay. And would you agree that that duty compels the 17 Debtor to look for the interests of the funds and the 18 investors of those funds ahead of its own interests?

19 A Generally, but it's a much more fine line than what you're 20 describing. It means you can't -- the manager can't put its 21 own interests in front of the investors and the funds. It
22 doesn't mean that the manager subordinates its interest in the 23 -- to the investors and the funds.

24 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, Mr. Vasek, please pull up the 25 October 20th transcript at Page 233.

180

1 MR. MORRIS: What transcript is this?

2 MR. RUKAVINA: October 20, 2019. Mr. Vasek has the 3 docket entry.

4 MR. MORRIS: Oh, so it's the -- Your Honor, I just do
5 want to point out that Mr. Rukavina objected, in fact, to the 6 use of trial transcripts, but we'll get to that when we put on 7 our evidence, when we finish up.

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, Your Honor, I believe that 9 you're allowed to use a trial transcript to impeach testimony,
10 which is what I'm going to do now.

11 So, for that purpose, Mr. Vasek, if you could -- are you
12 on Page 233?

13 THE COURT: And just so the record is clear, this is 14 from October 2020, not October 2019, which is, I think, what I
15 heard. Continue.

16 MR. MORRIS: Your --

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I apologize, you did hear
18 that and I did make a mistake. Yes, this is at Docket 1271.

19 Mr. Vasek, if you'll scroll down, please. Okay. No, stop
20 there.

21 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

22 Q And you see on Line 16, sir, you're asked your 23 understanding, and then you answer, "Okay." "And in 24 exercising those duties, the manager, under the Advisers Act, 25 has a duty to subordinate its interests to the interests of

181

1 those investors in the CLOs, correct?" And you answer --

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Go down, Mr. Vasek.

3 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

4 Q -- "I think -- I think, generally, when you think about
5 the fiduciary duty, and I think that we -- I want to make sure
6 I'm very specific about this, is that the manager has a duty,
7 fiduciary duties -- there's a whole bunch of legal analysis of 8 what they are, but they are significant -- that the manager
9 owes to the investors. And to the extent" --

10 MR. RUKAVINA: Scroll down, please.

11 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

12 Q "And to the extent that the manager's interests would 13 somehow be -- somehow interfere with the investors' in the 14 CLO, he is supposed to -- he or she is supposed to subordinate
15 those to the benefit of the investors."

16 Did I read that accurately, Mr. Seery?

17 A You did.

18 Q Was that your testimony on October 20th last?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Okay. Are you willing to revise your testimony from a few 21 minutes ago that the manager does not have to subordinate its 22 interests to the interests of the investors?

23 A No. I think that's very similar.

24 Q Okay.

25 A You left out the part about garbled up top where I said it

Seery - Cross

182

1 was nuanced, almost exactly what I just said. On Line 9, I
2 believe, on the prior page.

3 Q Well, I heard you say a couple of minutes ago, and maybe I
4 misunderstood because of the WebEx nature, that the manager
5 does not have to subordinate its interests to the interests of 6 the investors. Did I misheard you say that a few minutes ago?

7 A I think you misheard it. I said it's a nuanced analysis,
8 and it's -- it's pretty significant. But the manager does 9 subordinate his general interest and assures that the CLO or 10 any of the investors' interests are paramount, but he doesn't 11 subordinate every single interest.

12 For example, and I think it's in this testimony, the 13 manager, if the fund isn't doing well, doesn't just have to 14 take his fee and not get paid. He's allowed -- entitled to 15 take his fee. He doesn't subordinate every single interest of 16 his. He doesn't give up his home and his family. So it's -- 17 it's a nuanced analysis. The interests of the manager are 18 subordinated to the interests of the investors and the fund.
19 I don't -- I don't disagree with anything I said there. I
20 think I'm consistent.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. RUKAVINA: You can take that down, Mr. Vasek.

23 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

24 Q So, how do you describe, sir, the fiduciary duty that the 25 Debtor owes to the funds that it manages and to the investors

183

1 in those funds?

2 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the -- to the extent it
3 calls for a legal conclusion, Your Honor. I just want to make 4 sure we're -- we're asking a witness for his lay views.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the objection. He can 6 answer.

7 THE WITNESS: Yes. As a manager of a fund, the 8 manager is a fiduciary to the fund, and sometimes to the 9 investors, depending on the structure of the fund. Some funds
10 are purposely set up where the investors are actually debt-
11 holders, and their interests are much more cabined by the 12 terms of the contract, as opposed to straight equity holders.
13 But the manager has a duty to seek to maximize value of the 14 assets in the best interests of the underlying -- of the fund
15 and the underlying investors, to the extent that it can,
16 within the confines and structure of the fund.

17 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

18 Q Okay. And these duties as you just described them, they 19 would apply to the Reorganized Debtor, correct?

20 A They would apply to the Reorganized Debtor to the extent
21 that it's a manager for a fund, not, for example, with respect
22 to necessarily interests -- the inchoate interests that we 23 talked about earlier.

24 Q Sure. And I apologize, I meant just for the fund. And if 25 the manager, the Reorganized Debtor, breaches those duties,

184

1 then it's possible that there's going to be liability,
2 correct?

3 A It's possible.

4 Q Okay. Now, under the plan, the limited partnership
5 interests in the Reorganized Debtor will be owned by the 6 Claimant Trust, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. And there's a new entity called New GP, LLC that 9 will be created or already has been created, correct?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Okay. And that entity will hold the general partnership
12 interest in the Reorganized Debtor, correct?

13 A I believe that's correct.

14 Q Okay. And that entity -- that being New GP, LLC -- will 15 also be owned by the Claimant Trust, correct?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Okay. Who will manage the Reorganized Debtor?

18 A The G -- the GP will manage the Reorganized Debtor.

19 Q Okay. And will there be an officer or officers of the 20 Reorganized Debtor, or will it all be managed through the GP?

21 A It'll be managed through the GP.

22 Q Okay. And who will manage the GP?

23 A Likely, I will.

24 Q Okay. That's the current plan, that you will?

25 A I'll be the Claimant Trustee, and I believe that I'll be

185

1 responsible for any assets that remain in the Reorganized
2 Debtor, yes.

3 Q Okay. Right now, the Debtor is managing its own assets as 4 the Debtor-in-Possession, right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And it is managing various funds and CLOs, right?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. And right now, the Debtor is attempting to reduce 9 some of its assets to money, like the promissory notes that 10 you mentioned earlier that the Debtor filed suit on, correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And the Debtor is trying to reduce some of its assets to 13 money, like the promissory notes, to benefit its creditors,
14 correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Okay. And correct me if I'm wrong, but the Committee has 17 filed various claims and causes of action against Mr. Dondero,
18 correct?

19 A They -- they've filed some. I haven't -- I haven't looked 20 at their (indecipherable) closely, but --

21 Q Okay.

22 A -- some are preserved in the case.

23 Q You understand --

24 A In the plan. I'm sorry.

25 Q You understand that the Committee is doing that for the

186

1 benefit of the estate, correct?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And you understand that they're also doing that for the 4 benefit of creditors, correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay. And under the plan, just so that I'm clear, those 7 claims that the Committee has asserted will be preserved and 8 will vest in either the Claimant Trust or the Litigation Sub-
9 Trust, correct?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Okay. And under the plan, the Reorganized Debtor would 12 continue to manage its assets, correct?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And it would continue to manage the Funds and the CLOs,
15 correct?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And the Claimant Trust would attempt to liquidate and 18 distribute to its beneficiaries the assets that are 19 transferred to it, correct?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. And you mentioned that the Claimant Trust will have 22 an Oversight Board comprised of five members, right?

23 A Yes.

24 Q And four of them will be the people that are currently on 25 the Committee, right?

187

1 A Yes.

2 Q And the fifth is David Pauker, and I think you mentioned
3 that he's independent. David Pauker is the fifth member,
4 right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Who -- who is he?

7 A David Pauker is a very well-known professional in the 8 restructuring world. He's a long-time financial advisor in -- 9 in reorganizations. He's served on numerous boards in 10 restructuring -- restructurings.

11 Q Okay. So, other than a different corporate structure and 12 the Claimant Trust, the monetization of assets for the benefit
13 of creditors would continue post-confirmation as now, correct?

14 A I -- I believe so. I'm not exactly sure what you asked
15 there.

16 Q No one is putting in any new money under the plan, are 17 they?

18 A No. No.

19 Q Okay. There's no exit financing contingent on the plan
20 being confirmed, right?

21 A You mean no exit -- the plan is not contingent on exit
22 financing. I think you just mixed up your -- your financing
23 and your plan.

24 Q I apologize. There's no exit financing in place today,
25 correct?

Seery - Cross

188

1 A No.

2 Q Okay. So, post-confirmation, you are basically going to
3 continue managing the CLOs and funds and trying to monetize
4 assets for creditors the same as you are today, correct?

5 A Similar, yes.

6 Q Okay. And just like the Committee has some oversight role
7 in the case, the members of the Oversight Board will have some 8 oversight role post-confirmation, correct?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. You don't need anything in the plan itself to 11 enable you to continue managing the Debtor and its assets,
12 correct?

13 A I don't need anything in the plan?

14 Q Correct.

15 A I don't -- I don't understand the question. Can you
16 rephrase it?

17 Q Well, you are managing the Debtor and its assets today,
18 correct?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Okay. Nothing in the plan is going to change that,
21 correct?

22 A Well, it's going to change it a lot.

23 Q Okay. Well, with respect to you managing the Funds and 24 the CLOs, you don't need anything in the plan that you don't 25 have today to keep managing them, do you?

189

1 A No. The Debtor manages them, and I will -- I'm the CEO
2 and I'll be in a similar position with a different team.

3 Q Okay. And I believe you told me that you expect the 4 Debtor to administer the CLOs for two or three years, maybe?

5 A However long it takes, but we expect -- our projections
6 are that we'd be able to monetize most of the assets within 7 two years.

8 Q Does that include the CLOs?

9 A It does, yes.

10 Q Okay. Now, you're going to be the person for the 11 Reorganized Debtor in charge of managing the CLOs, correct?

12 A I'll be the person responsible for managing the 13 Reorganized Debtor. The Reorganized Debtor will be the 14 manager of the CLOs.

15 Q Okay. But the buck will stop with you at the Reorganized
16 Debtor, right?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay. You're going to have a team of employees and 19 outside professionals helping you, but ultimately, on behalf
20 of the Reorganized Debtor, you're going to be the one in 21 charge of managing the CLOs, correct?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. That means that you'll also be making decisions as 24 to when to sell assets of the CLOs, correct?

25 A Yes.

190

1 Q Okay. And to be clear, the CLOs, they own their own
2 assets, whatever they are, and the Debtor just manages those 3 assets, right?

4 A Correct.

5 Q The Debtor doesn't directly own those assets, right?

6 A No.

7 Q And currently there's more than one billion dollars in CLO
8 assets that the Debtor manages?

9 A Approximately.

10 Q Yeah. And the Debtor receives fees for its services,
11 correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Can you generally describe how the amount of those fees is 14 calculated and paid, if you have an understanding?

15 A How the fees are calculated and paid?

16 Q Yes, sir.

17 A It's a percentage of the assets.

18 Q Assets administered or assets sold in any given time
19 period?

20 A Administered.

21 Q Okay. So the sale of CLO assets does not affect the fees
22 that the Reorganized Debtor would receive under these
23 agreements?

24 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

25 THE COURT: Over --

191

1 THE WITNESS: That's not correct.

2 THE COURT: Overruled.

3 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

4 Q Okay. What is not correct about that?

5 A When you sell the assets, the amount administered shrinks,
6 so you have less fees.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, the answer cut out at the 8 very end. You have less--?

9 THE WITNESS: Fees.

10 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

11 Q Fees? I understand. Okay. So are you saying that there 12 is a disincentive to the Reorganized Debtor to sell assets in 13 the CLOs?

14 A No.

15 Q Okay. Is there an incentive to the Reorganized Debtor to 16 sell assets in the CLOs?

17 A To do their job correctly, yes.

18 Q Okay. And the Debtor wishes to assume those contracts
19 because the Debtor will get those fees going forward and 20 there'll be a profit, even after the expenses of servicing
21 those contracts are taken out, correct?

22 A They are profitable. That's one of the reasons that we're 23 assuming, yes.

24 Q Okay. Now, over my objection, you testified that the CLOs
25 have agreed to the assumption of these contracts, right?

192

1 A Yes.

2 Q Okay. Is there anything in the record other than your 3 testimony here today demonstrating that?

4 A I believe there is, yes.

5 Q What do you believe there is in the record other than your 6 testimony?

7 A I believe we filed a notice of assumption.

8 Q Okay. My question is a little bit different. You
9 testified that the CLOs, over my objection, have agreed to the 10 assumption. You did testify so, right?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. What is there in the record, sir, from the CLOs 13 confirming that?

14 A You mean today's record?

15 Q Yes, sir.

16 A I'm the only one who's testified so far.

17 Q Okay. Are you aware of anything in the exhibits that 18 would confirm your testimony?

19 A Not that I know of.

20 Q Has there been an agreement with the CLOs that's been 21 reduced to writing?

22 A Yes.

23 Q So there is a written agreement with the CLOs providing 24 for assumption?

25 A Yes.

Seery - Cross

193

1 Q A signed, written agreement?

2 A No, it's -- it's email.

3 Q Okay. When was this email agreement reached?

4 A Within the last couple weeks. There's a number of back
5 and forths where that was agreed to, and I believe we filed a
6 notice of assumption.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if you will please pull up
8 Mr. Seery's January 29th deposition.

9 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

10 Q Mr. Seery, you remember me deposing you last Friday,
11 correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And you remember me asking you if there was a written
14 agreement in place with the CLOs?

15 A I don't recall specifically.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay. Mr. Vasek, if you would please
17 scroll to that. Okay. Stop there.

18 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

19 Q Sir, you'll recall I also deposed you January 20th, right?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. And do you remember that we had some discussion
22 regarding whether the CLOs would consent or not?

23 A Yes.

24 Q Okay. And do you remember telling me something like that 25 like you think that they will and that's still in the works on

Seery - Cross

194

1 January 20th?

2 A I don't recall specifically, but if you say that's what it
3 says.

4 Q Okay. Well, here I'm asking you on January 29th, Line 17,
5 "I asked you before and you didn't have anything in writing by 6 then, so let me ask now. As of today, do you have anything in 7 writing from the CLOs consenting to the assumption of those
8 management agreements?" I'm sorry. Contracts. Answer, "I
9 don't believe that I do. It could be on my email I opened. I
10 don't recall."

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Scroll down, Mr. Vasek.

12 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

13 Q Okay. Then I ask, "Do you have an understanding of 14 whether those CLOs have consented in writing to the assumption
15 of the management agreements?" And you answer, "I believe 16 they have. The actual final docs haven't been completed, but 17 I believe they have agreed in writing, yes."

18 Then I ask --

19 MR. RUKAVINA: Scroll down a little bit more.

20 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

21 Q I ask, "Do you expect the final docs to be completed
22 before Tuesday's confirmation hearing?" Answer, "I don't know
23 whether they will be done by Tuesday."

24 Did I read all of that correctly, sir?

25 A Other than your misstatement. The word was "unopened."

Seery - Cross

195

1 Q Thank you. So, let me ask you again today. As of today,
2 is there a written agreement that has been signed by the 3 parties providing for the assumption of the CLO agreements?

4 A When phrased the way you did, is it signed by the parties,
5 no.

6 Q Okay.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: You can take that down, Mr. Vasek.

8 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

9 Q I think -- I'm not sure if you quantified this earlier,
10 but it might help. I believe that the Reorganized Debtor
11 projects that it will generate revenue of $8.269 million post-
12 reorganization from managing the CLO contracts, correct?

13 A It's in that neighborhood. I did not testify to that 14 earlier.

15 Q That's what I meant. And when I asked you at deposition,
16 you were able to give me an estimate of how much it would cost
17 to generate that revenue, correct?

18 A I was not?

19 Q You were? I'm sorry. Let me --

20 A Did you say I wasn't or I was?

21 Q Let me -- I apologize. Let me ask again. I talk too fast
22 and I have an accent. You have been able to give an estimate
23 of how much the Reorganized Debtor will expend to generate 24 that revenue, correct?

25 A Yes.

Seery - Cross

196

1 Q Okay. Do you remember what your estimate is?

2 A I -- I think it was around $2 million a year. It was a
3 portion of our employees plus the contracts.

4 Q Okay. So, over the life of the projection at $8.2
5 million, do you remember that you projected costs of about 6 $3.5 to $4 million to generate that revenue?

7 A If -- if you are representing that to me, I'd accept it.
8 Yes, that sounds about right.

9 Q Well, suffice it to say you're projecting at least $4
10 million in net profit over the next two years for the 11 Reorganized Debtor from managing the CLO agreements, correct?

12 A Net profit is not a fair, fair way to analyze it, no.

13 Q Okay. Are you projecting any profit for the Reorganized
14 Debtor from managing the CLO agreements post-confirmation?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Okay. Do you have an estimate of what that profit is?

17 A General overview are the contracts are profitable to about 18 the tune of $4 million over that period.

19 Q Okay. Thank you. If the Reorganized Debtor makes a 20 profit post-confirmation, is it fair to say that that would 21 then be dividended up or distributed up to the partners,
22 ultimately to the Claimant Trust?

23 A I don't think that's fair to say, no.

24 Q Okay. So, if the Reorganized Debtor makes a profit post-
25 confirmation, where does that profit go?

Seery - Cross

197

1 A The Reorganized Debtor -- what kind of profit? I don't
2 understand your question.

3 Q Okay. I apologize if I'm being too simplistic about it.
4 If a business, after it takes account of its expenses to 5 generate revenue, has any money left over, would that be 6 profit to you?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. Do you think that the Reorganized Debtor, post-
9 confirmation, will make a profit?

10 A I don't know.

11 Q Okay. Do you think that the Reorganized Debtor, post-
12 confirmation, will lose money?

13 A I think there will be costs, and the costs will exceed the 14 -- the amount that it generates on an income basis, yes.

15 Q Okay. Thank you.

16 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if you'll please pull up
17 the plan, the injunctions, and releases. 9F.

18 (Pause.)

19 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

20 Q I apologize, Mr. Seery.

21 MR. RUKAVINA: So, Mr. Vasek, if you'll go to the 22 bottom of the Page 51. Stop there.

23 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

24 Q So, I'm going to read just the first couple sentences
25 here, Mr. Seery, if you'll read it along with me. Subject --

198

1 this is the bottom paragraph: Subject in all respects to
2 Article 12(b), no enjoined party may commence or pursue a
3 claim or cause of action of any kind against any protected
4 party that arose or arises from or is related to the Chapter
5 11 case, the negotiation of the plan, the administration of 6 the plan, or property to be distributed under the plan, the 7 wind-down of the business of the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor.

8 I'd like to stop there. Do you see that clause there, Mr.
9 Seery, talking about the wind-down of the business of the 10 Debtor or Reorganized Debtor? Do you see that, sir?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. Do I understand correctly that this provision we've 13 just read means that, upon the assumption of these CLO
14 management agreements, if the counterparties to those 15 agreements want to take any action against the Reorganized
16 Debtor, they first have to go through this channeling
17 injunction?

18 A I believe that's what it says, yes.

19 Q Okay. Because the wind-down of the business of the 20 Reorganized Debtor will include the management of these CLO
21 portfolio management agreements, correct?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. As well as the management of various funds that the 24 Debtor owns, correct?

25 A Yes.

Seery - Cross

199

1 Q Okay. And would you agree with me that the new general
2 partner, New GP, LLC, is also a protected party under the
3 plan?

4 A I assume it is. I don't recall specifically.

5 Q I believe you discussed to some degree postpetition
6 losses. I'd like to visit a little bit about those. Since 7 January 9th, 2020, Mr. Dondero was not an officer of the 8 Debtor, correct?

9 A Correct.

10 Q And since January 9th, 2020, he was no longer a director
11 of Strand, correct?

12 A That's correct.

13 Q Since January 9th, 2020, until he was asked to resign, he 14 was an employee, correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And about -- I'm trying to remember. About when did he 17 resign? October something of 2020? Do you remember?

18 A I don't recall.

19 Q Okay. Do you recall if it was in October 2020?

20 A It was in the fall.

21 Q Okay. And he resigned because the independent board asked
22 him to resign, correct?

23 A Yes.

24 Q Okay. And you mentioned that the estate has had a 25 postpetition drop in the value of its assets and the assets

200

1 that it manages. Right?

2 A I believe I went through the estate's assets. The only
3 asset that wasn't a direct estate asset was the hundred
4 percent control of Select Equity Fund. I didn't talk about 5 the Fund assets.

6 Q Okay. Do you recall that the disclosure statement that 7 the Court approved states that, postpetition, there was a drop
8 from approximately $566 million to $328 million in the value
9 of Debtor assets and assets under Debtor management?

10 A Yes. That's the $200 million I walked through earlier.

11 Q Okay. And I believe you mentioned some of it was due to 12 the pandemic, right?

13 A It certainly impacted the markets. The pandemic didn't 14 cause a specific loss. It impacted the markets and the 15 ability to work within those markets.

16 Q But you also believe that Mr. Dondero was responsible for 17 something like a hundred million dollars of these losses,
18 right?

19 A Probably more.

20 Q Okay. Mr. Dondero is not being released or exculpated for 21 that, is he?

22 A No.

23 Q And while Mr. Dondero was an employee during the period of 24 these losses, he answered to you as CEO and CRO, correct?

25 A Not during that period. I wasn't (audio gap) until later.

201

1 Q I'm sorry. As of January 9th, 2020, were you the CEO of
2 the Debtor?

3 A No.

4 Q When did you become the CEO of the Debtor?

5 A I believe the order was July 9th, retroactive to a date in 6 March.

7 Q July 9th, 2020?

8 A Correct.

9 Q Okay. And when did you become the CRO of the Debtor?

10 A At the same time.

11 Q Okay. So, between January and July 2020, you were one of 12 the independent directors, correct?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Okay. So, during that period of time, would Mr. Dondero
15 have answered to that independent board?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Okay. Now, if someone alleges that that independent board
18 has any liability on account of Mr. Dondero's losses, that's 19 released under this plan, isn't it?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. And if someone alleges that Strand has any 22 liability on account of Mr. Dondero's losses, that's released
23 under this plan, correct?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Okay. And if someone believes that the Debtor -- that the

Seery - Cross

202

1 way that the Debtor has managed the CLOs or its funds

2 postpetition gives rise to a cause of action in negligence,

3 that's also released and exculpated in the plan, correct?

4 A I believe it would be. I'm not positive, but I believe it
5 would be.

6 Q Well, let's be clear. The plan does not release or 7 exculpate you or Strand or the board for willful misconduct,
8 gross negligence, fraud, or criminal conduct, correct?

9 A No, it does not.

10 Q Okay. And I'm not, just so we're clear, I'm not alleging
11 that, okay? So I want the judge to understand I'm not 12 alleging that. But the plan does release and exculpate for 13 negligence, right?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay. Where do you have an understanding a cause of 16 action for breach of fiduciary duty lies on the spectrum of 17 negligence all the way to criminal conduct?

18 A It's -- it's not -- generally not criminal, although I
19 suppose that breach of fiduciary duty could be criminal.
20 Typically, it's negligence, and that you would breach a duty
21 for either duty of care, duty of loyalty. But it could slide
22 to willful. And probably most of the instances where they 23 come up are where someone has done something willfully or 24 grossly negligent.

25 Q Okay. But -- and I would agree with you. But there are

Seery - Cross

203

1 certain breaches of fiduciary duty that are possible based on
2 simple negligence, correct?

3 A They are, and in these instances, they don't -- they don't 4 rise to actionable claims because they're indemnified by the 5 funds.

6 Q Okay. You have to explain that to me. So, the negligence
7 claim is not actionable because someone is indemnifying it?

8 A Typically, there's no way to recover because it's 9 indemnified by the fund that the investor might be in. If it
10 goes beyond that, then it wouldn't be.

11 Q Okay. So there are potential negligence breach of 12 fiduciary duty claims that might be subject to these 13 exculpations and releases that would not be indemnified?

14 A Gross negligence and willful misconduct, certainly.

15 Q Okay. Now, post-confirmation, post-confirmation, if the 16 Debtor, or the Reorganized Debtor, rather, engages in 17 negligence or any actionable conduct, that's when the 18 channeling injunction comes into play, right?

19 A I don't quite understand your question.

20 Q Okay.

21 A Can you repeat that?

22 Q Sure. To your understanding, does the channeling
23 injunction we're looking at right now -- and you can read it
24 if you need to -- does it apply to purely post-confirmation
25 alleged causes of action?

Seery - Cross

204

1 A It does apply to those, yes.

2 Q Okay. And it says that the Bankruptcy Court will have 3 sole and exclusive jurisdiction to determine whether a claim
4 or cause of action is colorable, and, only to the extent
5 legally permissible and as provided for in Article 11, shall
6 have jurisdiction to adjudicate the underlying colorable claim
7 or cause of action.

8 Do you see that, sir?

9 A I do.

10 Q Okay. And this -- the Bankruptcy Court's exclusive
11 jurisdiction here, that would continue after confirmation? Is 12 that the intent behind the plan?

13 A It has -- it says what it says. Will have the sole and 14 exclusive jurisdiction to determine whether a claim is 15 colorable, and then, to the extent permissible, it'll have 16 jurisdiction to adjudicate.

17 Q Okay. Nothing in this plan limits the period of the 18 Bankruptcy Court's inquiry to the pre-confirmation time frame,
19 correct?

20 A I don't believe it does, no.

21 Q Okay. Have you taken into account the potential that this 22 bankruptcy case will eventually be closed with a final decree?

23 A Have I taken that into account?

24 Q Well, do you know what a final decree in Chapter 11 is?

25 A I do.

Seery - Cross

205

1 Q Okay. So, help me understand. If there's a final decree
2 and the bankruptcy case is closed, then who do I go to,
3 because the Bankruptcy Court has exclusive jurisdiction, to 4 get this clearing injunction cleared?

5 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question,
6 Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Sustained. Rephrase.

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

9 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

10 Q Is it the plan's intent, Mr. Seery, that this channeling
11 injunction that we just looked at would continue to apply even 12 after a point in time in which the bankruptcy case is closed?

13 A I don't believe so.

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Again, Your Honor, someone -- I heard
15 someone's phone right when he answered, and I didn't hear his 16 answer, if he could please re-answer.

17 THE WITNESS: I don't -- I don't think if the case is 18 closed that's the intention.

19 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

20 Q Okay. What about if there's a final decree entered?

21 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. You know, the 22 document kind of speaks for itself.

23 THE COURT: Overruled. He can answer if he knows.

24 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I don't -- I don't -- I'm not 25 making a distinction between the case being closed and the

Seery - Cross

206

1 final decree. I believe in both instances they'll be pretty
2 close to the same time and we'll make a judgment then as to 3 how to close the case in accordance --

4 Q Okay.

5 A -- with the rules.

6 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if you'll please scroll up
7 to the beginning of this injunction. A little bit higher.
8 Right there. Right there.

9 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

10 Q The very first clause, Mr. Seery, if you'll read with me,
11 says, Upon entry of the confirmation order -- pardon me --
12 all enjoined parties are and shall be permanently enjoined on 13 and after the effective date from taking any actions to 14 interfere with the implementation or consummation of the 15 plan.

16 Do you see that, sir?

17 A I do, yes.

18 Q What does interfering with the implementation or 19 consummation of the plan mean?

20 A It means in some way taking actions to upset, distract,
21 stop, or otherwise prohibit or hurt the estate from 22 implementing or consummating the plan.

23 Q Okay. And is that intended -- is that clause we just 24 read and you described intended to be very broad?

25 A I -- I think it's -- if the words have meaning, yes, that

Seery - Cross

207

1 it should -- it's pretty broad.

2 Q Okay. Is the Debtor not able to state with more
3 specificity what it would believe interference with the 4 implementation or consummation of the plan would mean?

5 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

6 THE COURT: Sustained.

7 THE WITNESS: I think it's -- I think it's --

8 THE COURT: Sustained.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

10 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

11 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

12 Q Well, you just gave us four or five examples of what 13 interfering with the implementation or consummation of the 14 plan might be. Why isn't that, those four or five examples,
15 why aren't they listed here?

16 MR. MORRIS: Object to the form of the question.

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, Your Honor, I'll withdraw it
18 and I'll argue this at closing argument.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

21 Q When did the Committee agree to you serving as the 22 Claimant Trustee?

23 A In the late -- in the late fall. I've been contemplated
24 to be the Claimant Trustee. I'm willing to take -- if we can 25 come to an agreement. They have their options open if we

208

1 can't come to an agreement on compensation.

2 Q Okay. And since the Committee agreed to you being the 3 Claimant Trustee, you have reached a resolution with UBS,
4 correct?

5 A I don't think so. I think that that was before UBS, the 6 UBS resolution was reached.

7 Q I'm sorry. When did you reach the UBS resolution in 8 principle with UBS?

9 A I don't recall the exact date, but I do recall specific 10 conversations where some of the Committee members were 11 supportive. I didn't know that UBS wasn't, but I assumed
12 that some meant not all. And that was UBS, because I don't 13 think we had a deal yet.

14 Q Well, let me ask the question in a little bit of a 15 different way. Whenever the Debtor reached the agreement in 16 principle with UBS that your counsel described this morning,
17 whenever that point in time was, the Committee had already 18 agreed before that point in time to you serving as Claimant
19 Trustee, correct?

20 A I believe so, yes.

21 Q And is the answer the same with respect to the 22 HarbourVest settlement?

23 A I believe so. With HarbourVest, I believe so as well,
24 yes.

25 Q What about the Acis settlement?

Seery - Cross

209

1 A I don't believe so. I think Acis came first. I don't 2 think we settled on an agreement on Claimant Trustee until 3 after the Acis -- certainly after the Acis agreement, maybe
4 not after the Acis 9019. I just don't recall.

5 Q Okay. And the million-dollar cutoff for convenience
6 class creditors, that number was a negotiated amount with the 7 Committee, correct?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Okay. Thank you, Mr. Seery.

10 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll pass the witness.

11 THE COURT: All right. Just for purposes of time,
12 it's 3:00 o'clock, so you went 48 minutes.

13 Who's next?

14 MR. DRAPER: Mr. Taylor is.

15 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Taylor, go ahead.

16 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor. At this time, what we 17 would like the Court to do, we are asking for a brief
18 continuance and to go into tomorrow, and there is a reason
19 for that and I would like to explain it.

20 Mr. Dondero has communicated an offer which we believe to 21 be a higher and better offer than what the plan analysis,
22 even in its most recent iteration that was just changed last 23 night, will yield significantly higher recoveries. Those are 24 guaranteed recoveries. There is a cash component to that 25 offer. There are some debt components, but they would be

210

1 secured by substantially all of the assets of Highland.

2 We believe it's a higher and better offer, that the 3 creditors and the Creditors' Committee, Mr. Seery, who 4 obviously has been testifying all day on the stand, may have 5 heard some -- some inkling of it via a text or an email he 6 might have been able to glance at, or maybe not, because he's 7 been too busy, and that's understandable.

8 But we do believe it is a material offer. It is a real 9 offer. And for that reason, we would like to request the 10 Court's indulgence. This has gone rather fast. We believe 11 that in the event that it does not gain any traction, then we 12 could complete this confirmation hearing tomorrow, or it's 13 more than likely that we could. And therefore we would 14 request a continuance until tomorrow morning beginning at 15 9:30 so all the parties can confer, consider that offer, and 16 see if it gains any traction.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Your -- Your --

19 THE COURT: Go ahead. Mr. Morris? Or who is going 20 to respond --

21 MR. POMERANTZ: Your --

22 THE COURT: -- to that?

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff --

24 THE COURT: Mr. Pomerantz?

25 MR. POMERANTZ: This is Jeff Pomerantz. I will

Seery - Cross

211

1 respond.

2 I think right at the beginning of the hearing, or
3 slightly after, I did receive an email from Michael Lynn
4 extending this offer. The email was also addressed to Mr.
5 Clemente. As we have told Your Honor before, if the Committee
6 is interested in continuing negotiations with Mr. Dondero, far
7 be it from us to stand in the way.

8 So what I would really ask is for Mr. Clemente to respond
9 to think if -- to see if he thinks that this offer is worthy.
10 If it's worthy and the Committee wants to consider it, we 11 would by all means support a continuance. If it is not, I
12 think this is just a last-minute delay without a reason. And 13 if there is no likelihood of that being acceptable or the 14 Committee wanting to engage, we would want to continue on.

15 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Clemente, what say you?

16 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. Yes, Your Honor. Matt Clemente
17 on behalf of the Committee.

18 Obviously, I haven't had a chance to confer with my 19 Committee members, but there's no reason to not continue the 20 confirmation hearing today. I will be able to confer with 21 them over email, et cetera, this evening. There's simply no
22 reason to not continue going forward at this particular point
23 in time, Your Honor.

24 So, although I haven't conferred with the Committee
25 members, that would be what I would recommend to them. And so

212

1 my view, the Committee's view, I believe, would be let's
2 continue forward and we'll discuss Mr. Dondero's proposal that
3 I know came across after opening statements this morning, you
4 know, in due course. But I do not believe that a continuance 5 here is necessary or appropriate.

6 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Taylor, that request is 7 denied, so you may cross-examine.

8 MR. TAYLOR: Yes. (Pause.) I'm sorry, Your Honor.
9 I have a couple people that are in my ear. But yes, I'm ready
10 to proceed.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 CROSS-EXAMINATION

13 BY MR. TAYLOR:

14 Q Mr. Seery, I believe you can probably largely testify from 15 your memory of the various iterations of the plan analysis
16 versus the liquidation analysis. But to the extent that 17 you're unable to, we can certainly pull those up.

18 Mr. Seery, you put forth or Highland put forth on November 19 24th of 2020 a plan analysis versus a liquidation analysis,
20 correct?

21 A I think that's the approximate date, yes.

22 Q Okay. And do you recall what the plan analysis predicted
23 the recovery to general unsecured creditors in Class 8 would 24 be at that time?

25 A I believe it was in the 80s.

213

1 Q And approximately 87.44 percent?

2 A That sounds close, yes.

3 Q Okay. And then just right before -- the evening before
4 your deposition that took place on January 29th, I believe a
5 revised plan analysis versus a liquidation analysis was 6 provided. Do you remember that?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. And what was the predicted recovery to general
9 unsecured creditors under that analysis?

10 A I believe that was --

11 MR. MORRIS: Object to the form of the question. I
12 just want to make sure that we're talking about the -- and 13 maybe I misunderstood the question -- plan versus liquidation.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Could you restate --

15 MR. TAYLOR: I said plan analysis.

16 THE COURT: Plan.

17 THE WITNESS: I believe that that initially was in 18 the -- in the high 60s.

19 BY MR. TAYLOR:

20 Q It was --

21 A Might have been --

22 Q -- 62.14 percent; is that correct?

23 A Okay. Yeah. That sounds -- I'll take your 24 representation. That's fine.

25 Q Okay. And going back to the November 28th liquidation

214

1 analysis, what did Highland believe that creditors in Class 8
2 would get under a liquidation analysis?

3 A I don't recall the -- if you just tell me, I'll -- I'll -- 4 if you're reading it, I'll agree with -- because I -- from my 5 memory.

6 Q 62.6 percent? Is that correct?

7 A That sounds about right.

8 Q You would agree with me, would you not, that 62.6 cents on 9 the dollar is higher than 62.14 cents, correct?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And so at least comparing the January 28th versus -- of 12 2021 versus the November 24th of 2020, the liquidation
13 analysis actually ended up being higher than the plan
14 analysis, correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q But there was -- there was some changes also in the plan
17 analysis. I'm sorry. There were some subsequent changes that 18 were done over the weekend that were provided on February 1st.
19 Is that correct?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. And what were -- give us an overview of what those 22 changes were.

23 A What are -- what are you comparing? What would you like 24 me to compare?

25 Q Okay. The January to February plan analysis, what were

215

1 the changes? Why did it go up from 62.6 to 71.3?

2 A The main changes, as we discussed earlier, and maybe the
3 only major change, was the UBS claim amount, which went down
4 significantly from the earlier iteration. And then there was 5 the small change related to the RCP recovery, which was a
6 double-count.

7 Q Okay. And you talked about earlier about what assumptions
8 went into these analyses, correct?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And you said these assumptions were always done after 11 careful consideration. Is that a correct summation of what 12 you said?

13 A I think that's fair.

14 Q Okay.

15 MR. TAYLOR: Mr. Assink, could you pull up the 16 November assumptions?

17 BY MR. TAYLOR:

18 Q I believe that's coming up, Mr. Seery. The Court.

19 (Pause.)

20 MR. TAYLOR: And go down one page, please, Mr.
21 Assink. Roll up. The Assumption L.

22 BY MR. TAYLOR:

23 Q So, these are the November assumptions, correct, Mr.
24 Seery?

25 A I believe so, yes.

Seery - Cross

216

1 Q Okay. And what was the assumption that you made after 2 careful consideration regarding the claims for UBS and
3 HarbourVest?

4 A The plan assumes zero, that was L, for those claims.

5 Q Okay. And ultimately what did -- and I believe you just 6 announced this today and made this public today -- what is 7 UBS's claim? What are you proposing that it be allowed at?

8 A $50 million in Class 8, and then they have a junior claim 9 as well.

10 Q Okay. And what about HarbourVest? What kind of allowed 11 claim did they end up with?

12 A $45 million in Class 8 and a $35 million junior claim.

13 Q So your well-reasoned assumption, carefully considered,
14 was off by $95 million; is that correct?

15 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

16 THE COURT: Overruled.

17 THE WITNESS: The difference between zero and those 18 numbers is $95 million, yes.

19 BY MR. TAYLOR:

20 Q You solicited creditors of the Highland estate based upon 21 the November plan analysis and liquidation analysis that was 22 provided and that we're looking at right now, correct?

23 A It was one of the bases, yes. It's the plan is what --
24 what we solicited votes for, not the projections.

25 Q But this was included within the disclosure statement; is

217

1 that correct?

2 A It's one of the bases. It was included, yes.

3 Q And this is the bases by which you believe that the best
4 interests of the creditors have been met better than a Chapter
5 7 liquidation, correct?

6 A I believe this evidences that the best interest test would 7 be satisfied, yes.

8 Q And so the record is very clear, for this Court and 9 anybody looking at the record, no solicitation was done of the 10 creditor body after the disclosure statement was sent out? No
11 updates were sent, correct?

12 A Updated projections were filed, but no solicitation was -- 13 was -- there was only one solicitation. We did not resolicit.
14 That's correct.

15 Q Okay. Mr. Seery, how much are you -- after this plan, or 16 if this plan is confirmed, how much are you going to be paid
17 per month to be the Trustee?

18 A For the Trustee role, $150,000 per month is the base.

19 Q It's a base amount? On top of that, you're going to 20 receive some sort of bonus amount, correct?

21 A There's two bonuses. There's a bonus for the bankruptcy
22 case, which I'd need Court approval for, and then I'm going to 23 seek a bonus for the Trustee work, which would be a
24 combination of myself and the team for a performance bonus.
25 That's to be negotiated.

Seery - Cross

218

1 To be fair, the Committee or the Oversight Group may not
2 agree to any change, in which case we would not have an
3 agreement.

4 Q And what would happen if you don't come to an agreement,
5 Mr. Seery?

6 A They would have to get a different Plan Trustee.

7 Q Okay. So it's certainly going to have to be greater than 8 zero, correct?

9 A Typically.

10 Q Is it going to be in the nature of three or four percent
11 of the sales proceeds, or have you considered that?

12 A Oh, I'm sorry. Yeah, you mean the bonus? No. I've been 13 thinking -- my apologies. I misunderstood. I thought you
14 meant any number. I haven't -- I haven't had negotiation with 15 them. I'm thinking about looking at the full recovery of the 16 team -- for the team, looking at expected performance numbers,
17 and then trying to negotiate a structure of bonus compensation
18 that would be payable to the whole team, and then allocated by 19 the CEO (garbled) which would be made.

20 Q When predicting the expenses of the Trust going forward in 21 your projections, did you build in an amount for a bonus fee?

22 A No. It wouldn't be part of the expenses. It would come
23 out at the end.

24 Q Okay. So those additional expenses are not shown in the 25 plan analysis, correct?

219

1 A No, they're not. It's just not going to be an expense.

2 It'll be a -- as an operating expense. It'll be an

3 expenditure at the end out of distributions.

4 Q Okay. And did you subtract those from the distributions?

5 A No.

6 Q Okay. A Chapter 7 trustee is not going to charge $150,000

7 or more to monetize these assets, is he?

8 A No.

9 Q Have you priced how much D&O insurance is going to be on a
10 go-forward basis post-confirmation?

11 A I'm sorry. I couldn't -- couldn't hear you.

12 Q Sorry. Let me get closer to my mic. Have you priced what 13 D&O insurance is going to run the Trust on a go-forward basis
14 post-confirmation?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Okay. And what are you projecting that to run?

17 A About $3-1/2 million.

18 Q And is that per annum for over the two-year life of this
19 plan?

20 A Well, it's the two-year projection period, not life. But 21 I expect that that's for the two-year projection period.

22 Q Okay. So approximately one point -- I'm sorry, you said
23 $3.5 million, correct?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Okay. So, $1.75 million per year?

Seery - Cross

220

1 A Yes.

2 Q On top of the minimum $1.8 million per year that you're
3 going to be paid, correct?

4 A Well, that's -- that's the base compensation. But, again,
5 to be fair to the Oversight Committee, they haven't approved
6 it yet. So the Committee, the Committee reserves their rights
7 to negotiate a total package.

8 Q And there's going to be a Litigation Trustee, correct?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And that Litigation Trustee is going to be paid some 11 amount of compensation, correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q That has not been negotiated yet, correct?

14 A No, I believe -- I believe the base piece has. But his -- 15 I don't know what the contingency fee or if that's been 16 negotiated yet. I don't know.

17 Q And what is the base fee for the Litigation Trustee?

18 A My recollection is it was about $250,000 a year, some 19 number in that area.

20 Q Thank you. So, at this point, over the two-year period,
21 we're looking at approximately $3.6 million to you, $3.5
22 million to the D&O insurance, and approximately $500,000 base
23 fee to the Litigation Trustee, plus a contingency. Is that
24 correct?

25 A That's probably real close, yes.

Seery - Cross

221

1 Q Okay. And how about U.S. Trustee fees? You've estimated
2 of how much those are going to be during the two-year period,
3 correct?

4 A They're built into the plan up 'til -- I think it's only
5 up until the actual effective date, but I don't recall the 6 specifics.

7 Q Okay. And U.S. Trustee fees, the case is going to stay
8 open and those are going to continue to have to be paid, even 9 after confirmation, correct?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Okay. And do you have an estimate of how much those are 12 going to run per annum or over that two-year period?

13 A I don't recall, no.

14 Q Okay. Well, they're provided within your projections,
15 correct?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Okay. A Chapter 7 trustee would not have to incur any of 18 these costs, would they?

19 A I don't think they'll have to incur Chapter -- U.S.
20 Trustee fees. I don't know whether they would bring on a
21 litigation trustee or not. I would assume, since there's -- 22 appear to be valuable claims, they probably would, but perhaps 23 they would do it themselves. So I don't know the specifics of 24 what they would do.

25 Q In preparing your liquidation analysis, did you ask

222

1 Pachulski if they would be willing to work for a Chapter 7
2 trustee if one was appointed?

3 A I didn't specifically ask, no.

4 Q Did you ask DIS, your, for lack of a better word,
5 financial advisors in this case, if they would be willing to
6 work with a Chapter 7 trustee?

7 A DSI. No, I did not specifically ask them.

8 Q Okay. All right. Any of the accountants that you're 9 working with, did you ask them if they would be willing to 10 work with a Chapter 7 trustee?

11 A I didn't specifically ask them, no.

12 Q Okay. The proposed plan has no requirements that you
13 notice any potential sale of either Highland assets or 14 Highland subsidiary assets; is that correct?

15 A Do you mean after the effective date?

16 Q Yes.

17 A No, it does not.

18 Q In the SSP sale, which is a subsidiary of Trussway, which 19 is a subsidiary of Highland, or actually it's a sub of a sub
20 of Highland, you conducted the sale of SSP, correct?

21 A The team did, yes. I was part.

22 Q All right. That was not noticed to the creditor body; is 23 that correct?

24 A That's correct.

25 Q And it is the Debtor's and your position that no notice

Seery - Cross

223

1 was required because this was a sub of a sub and therefore
2 this was in the ordinary course?

3 A Not exactly, no.

4 Q Okay. Then what is your position?

5 A It was in the ordinary course. It was -- I believe it's a
6 sub of a sub of a sub, and a significant portion of the 7 interests are owned by third parties.

8 Q It is possible, is it not, that had you noticed this to 9 the larger creditor body, that you might have engendered a
10 competitive bidding situation that might have reached a higher
11 return for investors, correct?

12 A The same possibility is it could have gone lower.

13 Q But it is possible, correct?

14 A Certainly possible.

15 Q In fact, there is normally requirements under the 16 Bankruptcy Code and the Rules that asset sales are noticed out
17 to the creditor body, correct?

18 A Asset sales that -- property of the estate, yes. Other
19 than in the ordinary course, of course.

20 Q I believe you have described Mr. Dondero as being very 21 litigious within this case; is that correct?

22 A I believe so, yes.

23 Q Okay. Did Mr. Dondero initiate any litigation in this
24 case prior to September 2020?

25 A Prior to September? I don't believe so. I don't know

224

1 when he filed the claim from NexPoint. It certainly indicated
2 that -- I believe it was from NexPoint. My memory is slightly
3 off here. He filed a claim in -- administrative claim, which 4 effectively is like you're bringing a complaint, against HCMLP
5 for the management of Multi-Strat and the sale of the life
6 settlement policies out of Multi-Strat, which was conducted in 7 the spring.

8 Q And wasn't Mr. Dondero seeking document production related 9 to that sale?

10 A No.

11 Q Okay. I believe that the preliminary injunction that you
12 talked about and were questioned earlier, the plan asks to 13 enjoin (garbled) party from allowing the plan to go effective.
14 Is that correct?

15 A I'm sorry. I didn't understand your question. There was a 16 -- there was a bunch of interference.

17 Q Okay. Sure. I'm sorry about that. I don't know if 18 that's -- I don't think that's me, but --

19 A It may not be. It sounded like someone else.

20 Q The injunction prohibits anybody from interfering with the 21 plan going effective, correct?

22 A The plan injunction?

23 Q Yes.

24 A Yes.

25 Q Okay. Just so I'm clear, is the plan injunction

Seery - Cross

225

1 attempting to strip appellate rights of Mr. Dondero?

2 A No.

3 Q Okay. So, if, for instance, if he were to file any appeal
4 of an order confirming this plan, he wouldn't be in violation
5 of that plan injunction?

6 A I don't think so, because the order wouldn't be final.

7 Q Okay. But it -- it says upon entry of a confirmation
8 order, you're enjoined from doing so. So that's not the 9 intent?

10 A It certainly would not be my intent. I don't think that 11 anybody had that in mind.

12 Q Okay. And if Mr. Dondero were to seek a stay pending
13 appeal either during that 14-day period or afterwards, is that 14 plan injunction attempting to stop that -- that sort of 15 action?

16 A I apologize. You're breaking up. But I think I
17 understood your question. No, it was -- it was your screen as 18 well. No. If either this Court stays its own order or a 19 higher court says that the order is stayed, then there would 20 be no way there could be any allegation that it's interfering
21 with an order if it's not effective.

22 Q Mr. Dondero opposed the Acis sale, correct?

23 A The Acis settlement?

24 Q Correct.

25 A Yes.

Seery - Cross

226

1 Q After he opposed the Acis settlement, the next filing Mr.
2 Dondero made was requesting that the Debtor notice the sale of 3 any assets or any major subsidiary assets. Is that correct?

4 A I don't recall the sequence of his filings. I think that
5 Judge Lynn at least sent a letter to that effect. I don't 6 recall if there is a filing to that effect.

7 Q Did Mr. Dondero, through his counsel, attempt to resolve
8 that motion without filing anything further?

9 A I don't recall the specifics of the motion. I know they 10 asked for some sort of relief that -- that we thought was 11 inappropriate.

12 Q When the Court postponed any hearing on Mr. Dondero's
13 request for relief until the eve of the confirmation hearing,
14 and Mr. Pomerantz announced that no sales were expected before
15 confirmation, did Mr. Dondero withdraw his motion?

16 A Again, I don't recall the specifics of the motion. I only 17 recall the letter from Judge Lynn.

18 Q Did Mr. Dondero do anything more than object to the 19 HarbourVest deal?

20 A Not that I know of.

21 Q Did Mr. Dondero do anything more than respond to the 22 Defendants' injunction suit?

23 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.
24 I mean, -- objection to the form.

25 THE COURT: Overruled.

Seery - Cross

227

1 MR. TAYLOR: I apologize. I should have said the
2 Debtor's injunction suit.

3 THE WITNESS: Yeah, the -- I'm not sure of the 4 specific order, but certainly the communications with me,
5 which I think are prior to the order. The communications with 6 Mr. Surgent, which I believe are after the order. Certain 7 communications with Mr. Waterhouse, which were oral. Those 8 were all similarly difficult and obstreperous actions.

9 BY MR. TAYLOR:

10 Q Has Mr. Dondero commenced any adversary proceeding or 11 litigation in this case other than filing a competing plan?

12 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

13 THE COURT: Over --

14 THE WITNESS: Yeah, I don't --

15 THE COURT: -- ruled.

16 THE WITNESS: I don't believe he's commenced an 17 adversary. I'm sorry, Judge. I don't believe he's commenced
18 an adversary proceeding, no.

19 BY MR. TAYLOR:

20 Q Mr. Dondero didn't file any opposition to the life
21 settlement sale, did he?

22 A We didn't do the life settlement (garbled) Court.

23 Q Right. Again, that wasn't noticed through the -- this 24 Court, was it?

25 A It was an -- the reason was it was an asset of Multi-Strat

Seery - Cross

228

1 Fund. It wasn't an asset of the Debtor's.

2 Q Okay. Mr. Dondero did have concerns regarding the life
3 settlement sale, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q In fact, he believed that they were being sold for 6 substantially less than what could have otherwise been 7 received, correct?

8 A He may have.

9 Q And if you conduct any subsequent sales for less than 10 market value that might ultimately prevent the waterfall from 11 ever reaching Mr. Dondero, he would have no recourse under 12 this proposed plan to object to this sale or otherwise have 13 any comment on it. Is that correct?

14 A I clearly object to the thinking that that was less than 15 market value. It was -- it was more than market value. So I
16 don't -- I disagree with the premise of your question.

17 Q So, I don't believe that was the question that was asked.
18 The question that was asked is, as you move forward with your 19 -- what I will characterize as a wind-down plan, not putting 20 that word in your mouth -- but as you execute forward on your 21 plan, as these sales of these assets go through, no notice is 22 going to be provided, correct?

23 A Not necessarily. It depends on the asset and what we 24 think of the, you know, the -- the position of the parties at 25 the time.

229

1 If we have a -- if we have a transaction that's pending
2 that wouldn't be hurt by a notice and that we'd be able to get
3 the Court's imprimatur to maybe more better insulate, if you
4 will, against Mr. Dondero's attacks, then we may well come to 5 the Court to seek that.

6 The problem with noticing sales is that -- that it often
7 depresses value. That's just not the way folks outside of the 8 bankruptcy world (audio gap) sales.

9 Q So there's no requirement that either public or private 10 notice be provided, correct?

11 A No. Meaning it is correct.

12 Q Okay. And if Mr. Dondero had objections either to the 13 pricing of the sale or the manner and means by which the sale
14 was being conducted, he would be prohibited by the plan
15 injunction from bringing any objection to such sale, correct?

16 A I believe so, yes.

17 Q Mr. Dondero also had concerns regarding the OmniMax sale,
18 correct?

19 A Mr. Dondero did not go along with the OmniMax sale with 20 the assets that he managed. I don't know if he had concerns
21 with -- with our sale or OmniMax's interests.

22 Q Did Mr. Dondero ever express to you any concern that the 23 value wasn't being maximized regarding the sale of those 24 assets?

25 A He thought he could get more. I don't know that he

Seery - Cross

230

1 thought that he could get more for his assets that he was 2 managing or whether he thought he could get more for all of 3 the assets.

4 Q Other than voicing those concerns, did Mr. Dondero file
5 any pleading with this Court attempting to block that sale?

6 A Pleading with the Court? No.

7 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, I would like to confer with 8 my colleagues just very briefly and see if they have anything
9 further. And even if they don't, Mr. Lynn of my firm would 10 like a very brief moment to address the Court prior to me
11 passing the witness.

12 So, if I may have a literally hopefully one-minute break
13 where I can turn my camera off and my microphone off to confer
14 with my colleagues, and then move forward?

15 THE COURT: Okay. Well, you can have a one-minute
16 break, but we're going to continue on with cross-examination
17 at this point. Okay? I'm not sure what you meant by Mr. Lynn 18 wants to raise an issue at this point. Could you elaborate?

19 MR. TAYLOR: I will get some elaboration during our 20 30-second to one-minute break, Your Honor. I was just passed
21 a note.

22 THE COURT: All right. So, but I'll just you know, 23 --

24 A VOICE: Your Honor?

25 THE COURT: -- I'm inclined to continue with the

Seery - Cross

231

1 cross-examination. You know, this isn't a time for, you know,
2 arguments or anything like that. All right?

3 So, we'll take a one-minute break. You can turn off your 4 audio and video for one minute, and come back.

5 (Off the record, 3:33 p.m. to 3:34 p.m.)

6 THE WITNESS: Your Honor?

7 THE COURT: Yes?

8 THE WITNESS: It's Jim Seery. Can I turn it into 9 just a two-minute break, since I've sat in my seat, and it
10 would be better for him to just continue straight through. I
11 could use one or two minutes.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 THE WITNESS: I apologize.

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, it's been more than 15 minute. Let's just say a five-minute break for everyone, and 16 we'll come back at 3:39 Central time. Okay.

17 THE WITNESS: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor. I
18 appreciate that.

19 (A recess ensued from 3:35 p.m. until 3:40 p.m.)

20 THE CLERK: All rise.

21 THE COURT: Please be seated. All right. We are 22 back on the record. Mr. Taylor, are you there?

23 MR. TAYLOR: I am, Your Honor. My video is not 24 wanting to start, but my -- I believe my audio is on.

25 THE COURT: Okay. After you went offline for your

Seery - Cross

232

1 one-minute break, Mr. Seery asked for a five-minute bathroom
2 break, or a couple-minute. Anyway, we've been gone on a
3 bathroom break. We're back now.

4 MR. TAYLOR: Thank you. I was actually -- I was 5 still listening with one ear, --

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. TAYLOR: -- Your Honor, so I understand.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 MR. TAYLOR: So, thank you.

10 THE COURT: Are you finished with cross, or no?

11 MR. TAYLOR: Just a little bit of a follow-up.

12 CROSS-EXAMINATION, RESUMED

13 BY MR. TAYLOR:

14 Q Mr. Seery, you had previously testified that Mr. Dondero's
15 counsel had threatened you and/or the independent board, I was 16 not exactly sure who you were referring to, with suits, and I
17 believe you said a hundred million dollars' worth of suits and 18 getting dragged into litigation.

19 Is that still your testimony today, that you were -- you
20 were threatened with suit by this firm of a suit of over a
21 hundred million dollars?

22 A I believe what I was told by my counsel was that, not Mr.
23 Dondero's, but one of the other counsel, who I can name, said
24 specifically that Dondero will sue Seery for hundreds of 25 millions of dollars. We're going to take it up to the Fifth

Seery - Cross

233

1 Circuit, get it reversed, and he'll go after him.

2 Q Okay. So it was not Mr. Dondero's counsel, and you were 3 not -- is that correct?

4 A No. It was one of the other counsel on the phone today.

5 Q Okay. And you base that not upon your own personal 6 knowledge but based on some -- something else that you were 7 told, correct?

8 A Yes. By my counsel.

9 Q Thank you.

10 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor. We can pass the 11 witness.

12 THE COURT: Okay. So, you've gone, or you and Mr.
13 Rukavina collectively have gone one hour and 17 minutes. Mr.
14 Draper, you're next.

15 MR. DRAPER: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you. I
16 basically have no more than ten questions, so I gather the 17 Court will welcome that.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 CROSS-EXAMINATION

20 BY MR. DRAPER:

21 Q Mr. Seery, has the new general partner been formed yet?

22 A I don't know if they've been -- we've actually done the 23 formation, but it -- it would be in process.

24 Q So it either has been formed or has not been formed?

25 A I don't -- I don't know the answer.

Seery - Cross

234

1 Q Okay. Now, going forward, Judge Nelms and Mr. Dubel will
2 have nothing to do with the Reorganized Debtor, correct?

3 A Not necessarily, but they don't have a specific role at 4 this time.

5 Q They won't be officers or directors of the new general
6 partner or the Reorganized Debtor, correct?

7 A I don't -- I don't believe so, but it's not set in stone.

8 Q All right. Has any finance -- has any party who is the 9 beneficiary of an exculpation, a release, or the channeling
10 injunction contributed anything to this plan of reorganization
11 in terms of money?

12 A No.

13 Q Have you ever interviewed a trustee as to how they would 14 liquidate the assets or monetize the assets in this case?

15 A No.

16 Q And last question is, is there any bankruptcy prohibition
17 that you're aware of that a Chapter 7 trustee could not do
18 what you're doing?

19 A Which -- which -- what do you mean, under the plan?

20 Q No. Could not monetize the assets of the estate in the 21 manner that you're attempting to monetize them.

22 A I don't think there's a specific rule, but I just haven't
23 -- I haven't seen that before, no. So I don't think there's a 24 specific rule that I know of.

25 Q Okay.

Seery - Cross

235

1 MR. DRAPER: I have nothing further for this witness.

2 THE COURT: All right. I should have asked, we had a
3 couple of other objectors. Ms. Drawhorn, did you have any 4 questions?

5 MS. DRAWHORN: I have no questions, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. Were there any other
7 objectors out there that I missed that might have questions?

8 All right. Any redirect?

9 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may, can I -- can I
10 just take a short minute to confer with my colleagues?

11 THE COURT: Sure. You can --

12 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

13 THE COURT: -- put you --

14 MR. MORRIS: Two -- two minutes, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 (Pause, 3:45 p.m. until 3:48 p.m.)

17 THE COURT: All right. We've been a couple of 18 minutes. Mr. Morris?

19 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: What are --

21 MR. MORRIS: Just, just a few points, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: Hold on a sec. You ready, Mr. Seery?

24 THE WITNESS: I am, yes.

25 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

Seery - Redirect

236

1 BY MR. MORRIS:

2 Q You were asked a number of questions about your
3 compensation. Do you recall all that?

4 A Yes, I do.

5 Q And you testified to the $150,000 a month. Do you recall
6 that?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Under the -- under the documentation right now, your 9 compensation is still subject to negotiation with the 10 Committee; is that right?

11 A Yes, it is.

12 Q Okay. You were asked a couple of questions about the 13 conduct of Mr. Dondero. Earlier, you testified that the 14 monetization plan was filed under seal at around the time of 15 the mediation. Do I have that right?

16 A Yes. Right at the start of the mediation.

17 Q Okay. And is that the first time that the Debtor made the 18 constituents aware, including Mr. Dondero, that it intended to 19 use that as a catalyst towards getting to a plan?

20 A That's the first time that we filed it, but that plan had 21 been discussed prior to that.

22 Q And do you recall that there came a point in time where 23 you -- when the Debtor gave notice that it intended to 24 terminate the shared services agreements with the Dondero-
25 related entities?

Seery - Redirect

237

1 A Yes.

2 Q And when did that happen?

3 A That was about 60 -- now it's like 62 days ago.

4 Q Uh-huh. And you know, from your perspective, from the 5 filing of the monetization plan in August through the notice
6 of shared services, is that what you believe has contributed
7 to the resistance by Mr. Dondero to the Debtor's pursuit of 8 this plan?

9 A Well, I think there's a number of factors that 10 contributed, but the evidence that I've seen is that when we 11 started talking about a transition, if there wasn't going to 12 be a deal, if Mr. Dondero couldn't reach a deal with the 13 creditors, we were going to push forward with the monetization
14 plan. And the monetization plan required the transition of 15 the employees. And indeed, it called specifically, and we had 16 testimony regarding it all through the case, about the 17 employees being terminated or transferred.

18 In order to transfer them over to an entity that's 19 related, Mr. Dondero pulls all of those strings. And he 20 refused to engage on that. We started in the fall. We 21 specifically told employees of the Debtor not to engage. They 22 couldn't spend his money, which made sense --

23 MR. TAYLOR: Objection, Your Honor.

24 THE WITNESS: So, very -- that --

25 THE COURT: Just -- there's an objection.

Seery - Redirect

238

1 MR. MORRIS: There's an objection.

2 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

3 THE COURT: There was an objection.

4 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor. Object --

5 THE COURT: Go ahead.

6 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor. This is Clay, Clay
7 Taylor. Objection. He's directly said Mr. Dondero told other 8 employees x, and that is purely hearsay, not based upon his 9 personal opinion, or his personal knowledge, and therefore 10 that part of the answer should be struck.

11 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, it's a statement against 12 interest.

13 THE COURT: Overrule the objection. Go ahead.

14 THE WITNESS: Yeah. The difficulty of transitioning
15 this business, I've equated it to doing a corporate carve-out
16 transaction on an M&A side. It's hard, and you need
17 counterparties on the other side willing to engage. And what 18 we went through over the weekend, on Friday, was seemingly 19 that the Funds, you know, directed by Mr. Dondero, just 20 haven't engaged.

21 We actually gave them an extra two weeks to engage,
22 because it's -- they've really been unable to do anything. I
23 mean, hopefully, we've got the employees working in a way that 24 can -- that can foster and get around some of this 25 obstreperousness, and I've used that word before, but that's

Seery - Redirect

239

1 what it is. It's really an attempt to just prevent the plan
2 from going forward.

3 And at some point, the plan will go forward. And if we 4 are unable to transition people, we will simply have to 5 terminate them. And that is not a good outcome for those 6 employees, but it's not a good outcome for the Funds, either.
7 And the Funds, Mr. Dondero, the Advisors, the boards, nobody
8 wants to do anything except come in this court.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Do you recall being asked about Mr. Dondero and certain 11 things that he didn't do and certain actions that he hadn't
12 taken?

13 A Yes.

14 Q By Mr. Taylor? To the best of your recollection, did Mr.
15 Dondero personally object to the HarbourVest settlement?

16 A I -- I don't recall if he did or if it was one of the 17 entities.

18 Q It was Dugaboy. Does that refresh your recollection?

19 A Dugaboy certainly objected, yes.

20 Q And do you understand that Dugaboy has appealed the 21 granting of the 9019 order in the HarbourVest settlement?

22 A Yes.

23 Q And Mr. Taylor asked you to confirm that Mr. Dondero
24 hadn't taken any action with respect to the life settlement
25 deal. Do you remember that?

Seery - Redirect

240

1 A I do.

2 Q But are you aware that Dugaboy actually filed an 3 administrative claim relating to the alleged mismanagement of 4 the life settlement sale?

5 A Yes, I did, I did allude to that. I wasn't sure it was 6 Dugaboy, but -- but that was very --

7 Q Uh-huh.

8 A -- very early on, an objection filed in the form of an 9 administrative claim or complaint against, if you will,
10 against Highland for the management of Multi-Strat.

11 Q Uh-huh. And Mr. Dondero didn't personally file any motion
12 seeking to inhibit the Debtor from managing the CLO assets; is 13 that right?

14 A No, not the CLO assets, no.

15 Q Yeah. But the Funds and the Advisors did. That was the 16 hearing on December 16th. Do you recall that?

17 A Yeah. That was the -- the Funds. K&L Gates, the Funds,
18 and the various Advisors.

19 Q All right. Do you recall Mr. Rukavina asking you whether 20 there was any evidence in the record to support your testimony
21 that there was an agreement in place to assume the CLO
22 management agreements?

23 A I recall the question, yes.

24 Q Okay.

25 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm going to ask Ms. Canty

Seery - Redirect

241

1 to put up on the screen the Debtor's omnibus reply to the plan
2 objections.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MR. MORRIS: It was filed -- it was filed on January
5 22nd. And if we can go, I think, to -- I think it's Paragraph 6 -- I think it's Paragraph 135 on Page 71. Yeah. Okay.

7 BY MR. MORRIS:

8 Q Take a look at that, Mr. Seery. Does that -- does that 9 statement in Paragraph 135 accurately reflect the 10 understanding that's been reached between the Debtor and the 11 CLO Issuers with respect to the Debtor's assumption of the CLO
12 management agreements?

13 A Yes. I think that's consistent with what I testified to 14 earlier, the substance of the agreement.

15 MR. MORRIS: And if we can just scroll to the top,
16 just to see the date. Or the bottom. I guess the top.

17 THE WITNESS: Do you mean the date of this pleading?

18 BY MR. MORRIS:

19 Q Yeah. So, it was filed on January 22nd, right, ten days
20 ago? Okay.

21 A That's correct.

22 MR. MORRIS: I'd like to put up on the screen an 23 email, Your Honor, that I'd like to mark as Debtor's Exhibit
24 10A. And this is --

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

Seery - Redirect

242

1 Q Do you recall, Mr. Seery, you testified that the agreement
2 was reflected in an email?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Is this the email that you're referring to?

5 MR. MORRIS: If we could scroll down. Right there.

6 THE WITNESS: Yes.

7 MR. MORRIS: Okay. One -- the email below. Okay.
8 Right there.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Is that the -- is that the email you had in mind?

11 A It was the series of emails. We -- we had a -- I think I
12 testified in the prior testimony, or my -- one of my 13 depositions, that we had had a number of conversations with 14 the Issuers and their counsel, and this was the summary of the 15 agreement that was contained in these emails.

16 Q Okay. And this is, this is the same date as the omnibus
17 reply that we just looked at, right, January 22nd?

18 A That's correct.

19 Q Okay. You were asked a question, I think, late in your 20 cross-examination about a Chapter 7 trustee's ability to sell
21 the assets in the same way as you are proposing to do. Do you
22 recall that testimony?

23 A Yes.

24 Q And I think, if I understood correctly, the question was 25 narrowly tailored to whether there was any legal impediment to

243

1 a trustee doing -- performing the same functions as you. Do I
2 have that right?

3 A That's the question I was asked, whether the Bankruptcy
4 Code had a specific prohibition.

5 Q Okay. And I think, I think you testified that you weren't
6 aware of anything. Is that right?

7 A That's correct.

8 Q All right. But let's talk about practice. Do you think a
9 Chapter 7 trustee will realize the same value as you and the 10 team that you're assembling will, in terms of maximizing value
11 and getting the maximum recovery for the assets?

12 A No. As I testified earlier, you know, I've been working 13 with these assets now for a year. It's a complicated
14 structure. The assets are all slightly different. And 15 sometimes much more than slightly. And the team that we're 16 going to have helping managing is familiar with the assets as 17 well. We believe we'll be able to execute very well in the 18 markets that we (garbled).

19 Q Do you think a Chapter 7 trustee will have a steep
20 learning curve in trying to even begin to understand the 21 nature of the assets and how to market and sell them?

22 A I think anybody coming into this, the way this company is 23 set up, as an asset manager, and the diversity of the assets,
24 would have a steep learning curve, yes.

25 Q Do you have any view as to whether the perception in the

244

1 marketplace of a Chapter 7 trustee taking over to sell the
2 assets will have an impact on value as compared to a post-
3 confirmation estate of the type that's being proposed under
4 the plan?

5 A Yes, I do, and it certainly would be negative, in my
6 experience. Typically, assets are not conducted -- asset
7 sales are not conducted through a bankruptcy court, and 8 certainly not with a Chapter 7 trustee that has to sell them,
9 and generally is viewed as having to sell them quickly. So we 10 -- we approach each asset differently, but certainly in a way
11 that would be much more conducive to maximizing value than a
12 Chapter 7 trustee could, just by the nature of their role.

13 Q Is it -- is it your understanding that, under the proposed
14 plan and under the proposed corporate governance structure,
15 that the Claims Oversight Committee will -- will manage you?
16 That you'll report to that Committee and that they'll have the 17 opportunity to make their assessment as to the quality of your 18 work?

19 A Yeah, absolutely. And that's consistent with what we've 20 done before in this case. Even where it wasn't an asset of 21 the estate or was being sold in the ordinary course, we spent
22 time with the Committee and the Committee professionals before
23 selling assets.

24 Q And you've worked with the Committee for over -- for a
25 year now, right?

Seery - Redirect

245

1 A It's over a year.

2 Q And the Committee is comfortable with you taking this
3 role; is that right?

4 A I think they're supportive of it. Comfortable might be 5 not the right word choice.

6 Q Okay. I appreciate the clarification. And do you have
7 any reason to believe that the -- that the Oversight Committee
8 is going to allow you the unfettered discretion to do whatever
9 you want with the assets of the Trust?

10 A Not a chance. Not with this group. Nor would I want to.
11 There's no right or wrong answer for most of these things, and 12 the collaborative views from professionals and people who have 13 an economic stake in the outcome will be helpful.

14 Q Okay. You were asked some questions about the November 15 projections and the -- and the assumption that was made that 16 valued the HarbourVest and the UBS claims at zero. Do you
17 recall that?

18 A Yes.

19 Q As of that time, was the Debtor still in active litigation
20 with both of those claim holders?

21 A Very much so.

22 Q And after the disclosure statement was issued, do you
23 recall that the Court entered its order on UBS's Rule 3018
24 motion?

25 A Yes.

Seery - Redirect

246

1 Q And do you recall what the -- what the claims estimate was
2 for voting purposes under that order?

3 A It was about $95 million. That was -- it was together
4 with the summary judgment orders of that date. They were 5 separate orders, but that was the lone hearing.

6 Q And was that public information, that order was publicly
7 filed on the docket; isn't that right?

8 A Yes, it was.

9 Q Is there anything in the world that you can think of that 10 would have prevented any claim holder from doing the math to 11 try to figure out the impact on the estimated recoveries from 12 the -- by using that 3018 claims estimate?

13 A No. It would have -- it would have been quite easy to do.

14 Q And, in fact, that's what you wound up doing with respect
15 to the January projections, right?

16 A That's correct.

17 Q And do you recall when the HarbourVest settlement, when 18 the 9019 motion was filed?

19 A I don't recall the actual filing. It was subsequent to 20 the UBS, though.

21 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, if you have it, can we just 22 put it on the screen, to see if we can refresh Mr. Seery's
23 recollection? If we could just look at the very top.

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q Does that refresh your recollection that the 9019 motion

Seery - Redirect

247

1 was filed on December 23rd?

2 A Yes, it does. The agreement was reached before that, but 3 it took a little bit of time to document the particulars and 4 then to -- to get it filed.

5 Q And this wasn't filed under seal, to the best of your 6 recollection, was it?

7 A No, no. This was -- this was open, and we had a very open
8 hearing about it, because it was a related-party objection.

9 Q And to the best of your recollection, did this 9019 motion
10 publicly disclose all of the material terms of the proposed
11 settlement?

12 A Yes, it did.

13 Q Can you think of anything in the world that would have 14 prevented any interested party from doing the math to figure
15 out how this particular settlement would impact the claim
16 recoveries set forth in the Debtor's disclosure statement?

17 A No. And just again, to be clear, the plan and the 18 projections had assumptions, but the plan was very clear that 19 the denominator was going to be determined by the total amount
20 of allowed claims.

21 Q And, again, at the time that that was filed, you hadn't
22 reached a settlement with HarbourVest, had you?

23 A No.

24 Q And the order on the 3018 motion hadn't yet been filed; is
25 that right?

Seery - Redirect

248

1 A That's correct.

2 Q Okay. Has -- are you aware of any creditor expressing any 3 interest in trying to change their vote as a result of the 4 updates of the forecasts?

5 A Only Mr. Daugherty. And actually, they have a stipulation
6 with the two -- the two former employees.

7 Q All right. But to be fair, that wasn't -- had nothing to 8 do with the revisions to the projections? That was just in 9 connection with their settlement; is that right?

10 A That's correct. As was, I suspect, Mr. Daugherty's, but 11 he'd been aware of the settlements, just like everyone else.

12 Q Okay. You were asked a couple of questions, I think, by 13 Mr. Rukavina about whether there is anything that you need to 14 do your job on a go-forward basis. And I think you said no.
15 Do I -- do I have that right? Nothing further that you need?

16 A I -- I'm not really sure what your question means, to be 17 honest.

18 Q Okay. Fair enough. To be clear, is there any chance that 19 you would accept the position as the Claimant Trustee if the 20 gatekeeper and injunction provisions of the proposed plan were 21 extracted from those documents?

22 A No. As I said earlier, they're integral in my view to the 23 entire plan, but they're absolutely essential to my bottom.

24 Q Okay. And through -- through the date of the effective
25 date, are you relying on the exculpation clause of the -- have

Seery - Redirect

249

1 you been relying on the exculpation clause in the January 9th
2 order that you testified to at the beginning of this hearing?

3 A Yeah. Both the January 9th order as well as the July
4 order with respect to my CEO/CRO positions.

5 Q Okay.

6 MR. MORRIS: I've got nothing further, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Any recross on that redirect?

8 A VOICE: I believe Mr. Rukavina is speaking but is 9 muted, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Mr. Rukavina, do you have any recross?

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I do, yes. Thank you. I
12 apologize.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Can you hear me now?

15 THE COURT: Yes.

16 THE WITNESS: Yes.

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you.

18 Mr. Vasek, if you'll please pull up the Debtor's Omnibus
19 Reply, Docket 1807. And if you'll go to Exhibit C. Do a word
20 search for Exhibit C. It's attached to it. Okay. Now scroll
21 down. Stop there.

22 RECROSS-EXAMINATION

23 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

24 Q Mr. Seery, do you see what's attached as Exhibit C to the 25 Omnibus Reply, which is proposed language in the confirmation

Seery - Recross

1 order?

2 A I see the exhibit. I didn't know if this was -- I don't
3 know exactly what it's for. If it's proposed language, I'll 4 accept your representation.

5 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, scroll back up to Exhibit C, Mr.
6 Vasek. I want to make sure that I understand what you're 7 saying. Scroll back up. Do the word search for where Exhibit
8 C appears first. Start again. Okay. So scroll up.

9 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

10 Q So, you'll recall Mr. Morris was asking you about the 11 paragraph in here where you outlined the terms of the 12 agreement with the CLOs. Do you recall that testimony?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Okay. And then you see it says, The Debtor and the CLOs
15 agreed to seek approval of this compromise by adding language
16 to the confirmation order. A copy of that language is 17 attached hereto as Exhibit C and will be included in the 18 confirmation order.

19 Do you see that, sir?

20 A I do.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, go back to Exhibit C.

23 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

24 Q So it's correct that this Exhibit C is the referenced 25 agreement that the Debtor and the CLOs will seek approval of,

Seery - Recross

251

1 correct?

2 A The -- the -- it may be word-splitting, but I believe it
3 says that they've reached agreement and this is the language
4 that will evidence that agreement or embody that agreement.

5 Q Okay.

6 MR. RUKAVINA: Scroll down, Ms. Vasek, to the next
7 page, please.

8 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

9 Q Real quick, do the CLOs owe the Debtor any money for the 10 management fees?

11 A I don't -- well, the answer is there are accrued fees that 12 haven't been paid, but when they have cash they run through 13 the waterfall and pay them.

14 Q And I believe you mentioned to me those accrued fees
15 before. They're several million dollars, correct?

16 A It -- I don't know right off the top of my head. They can 17 aggregate and then they get paid down in the quarter depending 18 on the waterfall. And it's -- it's not a fair statement by 19 either of us to say the CLOs, as if they're all the same.
20 Each one is different.

21 Q I understand. But as of today, you agree that the CLOs
22 collectively owe some amount of money to the Debtor in accrued
23 and unpaid management fees?

24 A I believe that's the case.

25 Q Okay. And do you believe it's north of a million dollars?

Seery - Recross

252

1 A I don't recall.

2 Q Okay.

3 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, scroll down a couple of more
4 lines, Mr. Vasek. Stay there.

5 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

6 Q Sir, if you'll read with me, isn't the Debtor releasing
7 each Issuer, which is the CLOs, for and from any and all
8 claims, debts, et cetera, by this provision?

9 A Claims. Not -- not fees, but claims. I don't believe 10 there's any release of fees that the CLOs might owe and would 11 run through the waterfall here.

12 Q Okay. For and from any and all claims, debts,
13 liabilities, demands, obligations, promises, acts, agreements,
14 liens, losses, costs, and expenses, including without 15 limitation attorneys' fees and related costs, damages,
16 injuries, suits, actions, and causes of action, of whatever
17 kind or nature, whether known or unknown, suspected or 18 unsuspected, matured or unmatured, liquidated or unliquidated,
19 contingent or fixed.

20 Are you saying that that does not release whatever fees
21 have accrued and the CLOs owe?

22 A I don't believe it would. If it did, your client should 23 be ecstatic. But I don't believe it does that.

24 Q And you don't believe that it releases the CLOs of any and 25 all other obligations that they may have to the Debtor and the

253

1 estate?

2 A I -- again, I don't believe there are any, but I think
3 it's a broad release of claims away from the actual fees that 4 are generated by the Debtor. I don't believe there's an 5 intention to release fees that have accrued.

6 Q Have you seen this language before I showed it to you
7 right now?

8 A I believe I have, yes.

9 Q Okay. Take a minute. Can you point the Court to anywhere
10 where present or future fees under the CLO agreements are 11 excepted from the release?

12 A I could go through, I'll take your representation, but I
13 don't believe that that's what it -- it's supposed to release
14 fees. Again, if the fees are owed, they get paid, if there
15 are assets there to pay them.

16 Q Okay. This release and this settlement was never noticed
17 out as part of a 9019, was it?

18 A I don't believe so, no.

19 Q Okay. So, other than bringing it up here today, this is 20 the first that the Court, at least, has heard of this,
21 correct?

22 A Yeah, again, I don't --

23 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

24 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I just stated before that I
25 don't think this is a -- that there claims.

Seery - Recross

254

1 THE COURT: Wait. Slow down. I think --

2 MR. SEERY: Oh, I'm sorry, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: -- there was an objection. Go ahead, Mr.
4 Morris.

5 MR. MORRIS: The notion that this is the first time
6 the Court has heard of this is just factually incorrect.
7 First of all, it's in the document from January 22nd. Second
8 of all, Mr. Seery testified to it last week at the preliminary
9 injunction hearing. I mean, --

10 THE COURT: I -- I --

11 MR. MORRIS: -- I don't know what the point of the 12 inquiry is, but there's -- this is not new news.

13 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain the objection.

14 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

15 Q And Mr. Seery, can you point me to any document where 16 counsel for the CLOs has signed this particular confirmation
17 order or any other document agreeing to this language in the 18 confirmation order?

19 A I don't think there's any document that's signed. I think
20 we already went over that. I think the email is evidence
21 their agreement to the general terms. I don't see any 22 agreement with respect to this particular language.

23 Q Well, you have no personal information? You're going on 24 what your lawyers told you that the CLOs agreed to, correct?

25 A That's correct.

Seery - Recross

255

1 Q Okay. You didn't personally --

2 A Excuse me. That's correct with respect to this language,
3 not with respect to the agreement. I was on the phone when 4 they agreed.

5 Q Okay. And they agreed orally, you're saying, to basically
6 the assumption of the CLO management agreements?

7 A Correct.

8 Q Okay.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor. I'll pass the 10 witness.

11 THE COURT: All right. Other recross?

12 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor, I do.

13 THE COURT: Go ahead.

14 RECROSS-EXAMINATION

15 BY MR. TAYLOR:

16 Q Mr. Seery, Clay Taylor again. You worked -- I'm sorry,
17 let me restart. I believe you testified earlier, in response
18 to questions by Mr. Morris, that you didn't believe a Chapter 19 7 trustee would be very effective in monetizing these assets,
20 correct?

21 A I think I said I didn't believe that the Chapter 7 trustee
22 would be as effective at monetizing the assets as the 23 Reorganized Debtor would be, and me in the role as Claimant
24 Trustee.

25 Q And one of the reasons that you gave is you believe that

Seery - Recross

256

1 the Chapter 7 trustee had to liquidate assets so quickly that
2 it could not be effective; is that correct?

3 A Typically, that's the case, yes.

4 Q You worked for the Lehman trustee, correct?

5 A That's incorrect.

6 Q Okay. Did you work on the Lehman case?

7 A Did I work in the case? No.

8 Q Okay. Did you -- how were you involved within -- within 9 the Lehman case?

10 A It's a long history, but I was a relatively senior person, 11 not senior level, not senior management level person at 12 Lehman. I ran the loan businesses and I helped a number of 13 other places and I -- in the organization. I helped construct 14 the sale of Lehman to Barclays out of the broker-dealer and 15 then helped consummate that sale.

16 Q Okay. I believe, in that case, it was a SIPC -- the 17 trustee was a SIPC trustee, correct?

18 A With respect to the broker-dealer.

19 Q Okay. And you believe that a SIPC trustee is very -- has 20 very similar rules with respect to asset sales; is that
21 correct?

22 A There are some similarities, absolutely.

23 Q Okay. And so in that case, the trustee was in place for 24 seven years, yet you believe -- you want this Court to believe 25 that a Chapter 7 trustee has to liquidate assets in a very

257

1 short time frame, is that correct?

2 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

3 THE WITNESS: Yeah, in the Lehman case, --

4 THE COURT: Overruled.

5 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry, Judge.

6 THE COURT: Go ahead.

7 THE WITNESS: In the Lehman case, the SIPC trustee
8 spent years litigating, not liquidating. The broker-dealer
9 was sold in our structured deal to Barclays, and then the SIPC
10 trustee liquidated the remainder of the estate, which was the 11 broker-dealer, but most of it had been sold to Barclays. It
12 was really a litigation case.

13 BY MR. TAYLOR:

14 Q But it did -- that trustee did sell off subsequent assets
15 after the initial sale, correct?

16 A That trustee, I don't think, managed -- I don't know about 17 that. The trustee didn't really manage any assets. Other 18 than litigations.

19 Q You've also testified that you didn't believe or that you
20 would not take on this role without the gatekeeper and 21 injunction -- gatekeeper role and injunction being in place;
22 is that correct?

23 A Yes.

24 Q And you're also familiar with the Barton Doctrine,
25 correct?

Seery - Recross

258

1 A I'm not.

2 Q Okay. Do you believe that a Chapter 7 trustee could be 3 sued by third parties without obtaining either relief from 4 this Court -- let me just stop there. Do you believe that a
5 Chapter 7 trustee could be sued without seeking leave of this
6 Court?

7 A I think it would be difficult. I know that Chapter 7
8 trustees have qualified immunity, so I think, whether it would 9 be leave of this Court or it's just that there's a very high
10 bar to suing them, I'm not exactly sure. It's not something
11 I've spent time on.

12 Q Okay. So a hypothetical Chapter 7 trustee would have no
13 need of the gatekeeper role or injunction if this case were 14 converted to one under Chapter 7, correct?

15 A That's probably true.

16 Q Thank you.

17 MR. TAYLOR: No further questions.

18 THE COURT: All right. Any other recross?

19 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, I have nothing --

20 THE COURT: All right.

21 MR. DRAPER: -- further.

22 THE COURT: All right. I think we're done, but 23 anyone I've missed?

24 All right. Mr. Seery, it's been a long day. You are 25 excused from the virtual witness stand.

Seery - Recross

259

1 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, let's see if
3 there's anything else we can accomplish today. It's 4:18
4 Central time. Who would be your next witness?

5 MR. MORRIS: My next witness would be John Dubel,
6 Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Can you give us a time
8 estimate for direct?

9 MR. MORRIS: I wouldn't expect Mr. Dubel to be more
10 than 20 minutes or so, but I would offer the Court, if you
11 think it would be helpful, counsel for the CLO Issuers is on 12 the call, and I believe that they would be prepared to just 13 confirm for Your Honor that there is an agreement in 14 principle, just as Mr. Seery has testified to, and maybe you 15 want to hear from her. I know she's not really a witness, but 16 she might be able to make some representations to give the 17 Court some comfort that everything Mr. Seery has said is true.

18 THE COURT: I think that would be useful. Is it Ms.
19 Anderson or who is it?

20 MS. ANDERSON: That is -- it is, Your Honor. And you
21 know, I appreciate the testimony given. I certainly do not 22 want to testify, but thought it might be useful for the Court
23 to hear from us.

24 Amy Anderson on behalf of the Issuers from Jones Walker.
25 Schulte Roth also represents the Issuers. And I can represent

260

1 to the Court that the agreement as it's represented on Docket
2 1807, as more particularly described in Exhibit C, which Your
3 Honor has seen, is the agreement reached between the Issuers
4 and the Debtor.

5 There was some testimony about fees owed, accrued fees
6 owed to the Debtor. I certainly cannot speak to the substance
7 of each particular management agreement with each CLO. They 8 are all distinct and unique and very lengthy documents. I
9 will -- I can represent to the Court that any accrued fees
10 that are owed were not intended to be included in the release.
11 It is -- it is not meant to release fees owed to Highland
12 under the particular management agreements.

13 Of course, if the Court has any questions or if I can 14 provide anything further, I'm happy to. And I will be on the 15 hearing today and tomorrow, but I thought it might be useful,
16 given the topic of the testimony this afternoon.

17 THE COURT: All right. That was useful. Thank you,
18 Ms. Anderson.

19 All right. Well, Mr. Morris, shall we go ahead and hear
20 from Mr. Dubel today, perhaps finish up a second witness?

21 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I think we have the time. I
22 think Mr. Dubel is here. Are you here, Mr. Dubel?

23 MR. DUBEL: I am. Can you hear me, Your Honor?

24 THE COURT: I can hear you, but I cannot see you.
25 Oh, now I can see you. Please raise your right hand.

Dubel - Direct

261

1 JOHN S. DUBEL, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

2 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris, go
3 ahead.

4 MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much, Your Honor.

5 DIRECT EXAMINATION

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Mr. Dubel, can you hear me?

8 A I can, Mr. Morris.

9 Q Okay. Do you have a position today with the Debtor, sir?

10 A I am a director of Strand Advisors, Inc., which is the 11 general partner of the Debtor.

12 Q Okay. And can you --

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just as a reminder, I'm 14 going to ask Mr. Dubel to describe his professional experience 15 in some detail, to put into context his testimony, but his 16 C.V. can be found at Exhibit 6Y as in yellow on Docket No.
17 1822.

18 THE COURT: All right.

19 BY MR. MORRIS:

20 Q Mr. Dubel, can you describe your professional background?

21 A Yes. I have approximately, almost, and I hate to say it
22 because it's making me feel old, but I have almost 40 years of 23 experience working in the restructuring industry.

24 I have served in many roles in that, both as an advisor,
25 an investor in distressed debt, and also a member of

Dubel - Direct

262

1 management teams, and as a director, both an independent
2 director and a non-independent director.

3 My executive roles have included the -- both an executive
4 director, chief executive officer, president, chief
5 restructuring officer, chief financial officer. And I have 6 been involved in some of the largest Chapter 11 cases over the 7 last several decades, including cases like WorldCom and 8 SunEdison.

9 Q Let's focus your attention for a moment just on the 10 position of independent director. Have you served in that 11 capacity before this case?

12 A I have.

13 Q Can you describe for the Court some of the cases in which 14 you've served as an independent director?

15 A Sure. I've served as an independent director in several 16 cases that were I'll call post-reorg cases. Werner Company, 17 which was the largest climbing equipment manufacturer in the 18 world, manufacturer of ladders, Werner Ladders. You'll see 19 them on every pickup truck running around the countryside.

20 FXI Corporation, which is a -- one of the largest foam
21 manufacturers. Everybody's probably slept or sat on one of 22 their products.

23 Barneys New York, back in 2012, when they did an out-of-
24 court restructuring. I had previously been involved with 25 Barneys 15 years before that, and so I was called upon because

263

1 of my knowledge to be an independent director in that
2 situation. Have had no relationship with Barneys since it
3 emerged from Chapter 11 back in 1998.

4 I have been the independent director in WMC Mortgage,
5 which was a mortgage company owned by General Electric.

6 And I am currently serving as an independent director in a
7 company -- in two companies. One, Alpha Media, which is a
8 large radio station chain that recently filed Chapter 11, I
9 believe it was late Sunday night, and I am also an independent
10 director in the Purdue Pharma bankruptcy, and have served
11 prior to the bankruptcy and am the chair of the special
12 independent committee of directors -- special committee of 13 independent directors in that particular situation.

14 Q That sounds like a lot. In terms of other fiduciary
15 capacities, I think your C.V. refers to Leslie Fay. Were you 16 involved in that case, and if so, how?

17 A I was. That was -- for those people who may remember it,
18 that goes back into the 1993 era. Leslie Fay was a large
19 apparel manufacturer, and at the time was one of the largest 20 companies that had gone through an extensive fraud. I say at 21 the time because it was about a $180 million fraud, which 22 pales by some of the ones that have followed it.

23 I was brought in as the executive vice president in charge
24 of restructuring, chief financial officer, and was also added
25 to the board of directors. Even though I wasn't independent,

Dubel - Direct

264

1 I was added to the board of directors to have the fresh face
2 on the board in that particular situation because of the fraud
3 that had taken place.

4 Q And --

5 A Sun --

6 Q Go ahead.

7 A SunEdison, I was brought in as the CEO. Actually,
8 initially, as the chief restructuring officer, with a mandate
9 to replace the CEO, which took place shortly after I was 10 brought on board and -- because of various issues surrounding 11 investigations by the SEC, DOJ, and allegations by the 12 creditors of fraud. And so I was brought in to run the 13 company through its Chapter 11 process.

14 As I'd mentioned earlier, WorldCom, I was brought in at 15 the beginning of the case as the fresh chief financial 16 officer. And I think everybody is familiar with what happened
17 in the WorldCom situation.

18 Q All right. Based on that experience, do you have a view
19 as to whether the appointment of independent directors is 20 unusual?

21 A It is not. More recently, it has -- it had been in the 22 past. Usually, you know, they would try and take the existing 23 directors and form a special committee of the existing 24 directors. But I think the state of the art has become more 25 where independent directors are brought in, mainly because the

265

1 cases have become a lot more complex in nature, and larger,
2 and the transactions themselves are much more sophisticated.
3 And so having somebody independent has been important for 4 analyzing the various transactions. And also, quite often,
5 it's just bringing a fresh, independent voice to the company
6 on the board.

7 Q Do you have an understanding as to the purpose and the 8 role of independent directors generally in restructuring and 9 bankruptcy cases?

10 A Sure. As I kind of alluded to a little bit earlier, the 11 -- probably the most critical thing is for restoring 12 confidence in the company and in the management in terms of 13 corporate governance, especially when there have been troubled
14 situations, where -- whether it's been fraud or allegations
15 made against the company and its prior management or when 16 management has left under difficult situations.

17 Also, you know, independent thought process being brought 18 to the board is very important for helping guide companies.
19 It's quite often the existing management team or the existing 20 board may get stuck in a rut, as you can say, you know, in 21 terms of their thinking on how to manage it, and having 22 somebody with restructuring experience who provides that 23 independent voice is very important to the operations.

24 In addition, having someone who can look at conflicts that 25 might arise between shareholders or shareholders and the board

Dubel - Direct

266

1 members is important. As I mentioned earlier, the WMC
2 Mortgage situation was one where I was brought on to -- as an
3 independent member of the board to effectively negotiate an
4 agreement or a settlement between WMC and its parent, General
5 Electric. That entity was being -- WMC was being sued for 6 billions of dollars, and there were issues as to whether or 7 not General Electric should fund those obligations. And so
8 that was a role that is quite often occurring in today's day
9 and age.

10 In addition, evaluating transactions for companies is 11 important, whereby either the shareholders who sit on the 12 board or board members may be involved in those transactions,
13 needing an independent voice to review it. And, you know, I
14 have served in situations. Again, Barneys New York and Alpha
15 Media is another example where, as an independent director, I 16 am one of the parties responsible for evaluating those 17 transactions and making recommendations to the entire board.

18 And then, again, you know, situations where it's just 19 highly-contentious and having, as I said, having that 20 independent view brought to the table is something that is 21 very helpful in these cases.

22 Q I appreciate the fulsomeness of the answer. During the 23 time that you served in these various fiduciary capacities, is 24 it fair to say you spent a lot of time considering and 25 addressing issues relating to D&O and other executive

Dubel - Direct

267

1 liability issues?

2 A It's usually one of the things that you get involved with 3 thinking about prior to taking on the role because you want to 4 make sure that there are the appropriate protections for the 5 director.

6 Q Can you describe for the Court some of the protections
7 that you've sought or that you've seen employed in some of the 8 cases you've worked on, including this one, by the way?

9 A Sure. I mean, one of the first things you look to is does 10 the company -- will the company indemnify the director for 11 serving in that capacity? And if the company will not 12 indemnify, then there's always a question as to why not, and 13 it's probably something you don't want to get involved with.

14 Generally, that is something that I don't think I've ever
15 seen a case where there has not been indemnification.
16 Obviously, it would, you know, cause great pause or concern if 17 they weren't willing to indemnify. But that is important.

18 Providing D&O insurance is very important. And in most 19 situations, you know, over the last 10-15 years, if there's 20 not adequate D&O insurance -- quite often, the D&O insurance 21 has been tapped out because of claims that will -- have been 22 brought or are anticipated to be brought -- new D&O insurance
23 is something that's front and center for the minds of 24 independent directors such as myself.

25 As you -- that gets you into the case and gets you moving.

Dubel - Direct

268

1 As you start to look towards the confirmation and exit from 2 the case, things that would be appropriate, that, you know,
3 would always be something you would want to look at would be
4 exculpation language, releases. And in this particular case,
5 the injunction, or what Mr. Seery earlier referred to as the 6 gatekeeper clause, is something that is very important for 7 directors, both, you know, as they're thinking through it and 8 as they emerge.

9 Q All right. Let's shift now to this case, with that 10 background. How did you learn about this case?

11 A I had a party who was involved in the case reach out to me
12 in early part of December of 2019 to see if I would be 13 interested in getting involved. I think that was about the 14 time -- it was after -- as I recall, it was after the case had 15 been moved to Dallas and when there was a -- consideration of 16 either a Chapter 11 or a Chapter 7 trustee. I can't remember
17 exactly which it was. But there was talk about a motion to 18 bring on a trustee and get rid of all the management and the 19 like and such.

20 Q Can you describe in as much detail as you can recall the 21 facts and circumstances that led to your appointment as an 22 independent director?

23 A Sure. I, as I said, I had -- early December, I had an -- 24 one of the parties involved -- had, probably within the next
25 week, probably two or three others -- that reached out to see

Dubel - Direct

269

1 if I would be interested in participating. I met with the
2 Creditors' Committee or -- I'm not sure if it was all the
3 members, but representatives of the Creditors' Committee,
4 along with counsel, and I believe financial advisors were 5 involved. They walked me through the issues. They wanted to 6 hear about my C.V. Quite a few of them knew me, knew me well,
7 but others wanted to hear about my background and how I would
8 look at things as an independent director.

9 That went through into the latter part of December. I
10 knew that they were talking to other parties. I think it was 11 probably right around the first of the year or so that I was 12 informed, maybe a little bit earlier than that, that I was 13 informed that Mr. Seery was one of the other parties that they 14 were talking to, and Mr. Seery and I were put in touch with 15 each other. I had worked with Mr. Seery back probably nine
16 years earlier when I was the CEO of FGIC. He was involved in 17 a matter that we were restructuring, and so knew him a little 18 bit and was comfortable working with him as a, you know,
19 another independent director.

20 Then we took the time that we had to to -- or, I took the 21 time to -- from the beginning, you know, the early part of 22 December, look at the docket, understand what was taking 23 place. I -- in addition, I met with the company and its 24 advisors, in-house counsel, the folks at DSI who were at the 25 time the CRO and the company's counsel to better understand

Dubel - Direct

270

1 some of the issues.

2 Mr. Seery and I, as I said, were both selected, and we
3 went through the process of, I guess, breaking the tie, I
4 think, if I could say it that way, amongst the creditors and 5 the Debtor as to who would be the third member of the board.
6 And we were given the opportunity to go out, interview, and 7 select the third member, which resulted in Russell Nelms'
8 appointment to the board. And also during that time, we were 9 given the opportunity to have some input -- not a hundred
10 percent input, but some input -- on the January 9th order that 11 -- the January 9, 2020 order that was put in place appointing 12 us and giving us some of the protections that we felt were 13 appropriate and necessary in this case.

14 Q All right. We'll get to that in a moment, but during this 15 diligence period, did you form an understanding as to why an 16 independent board was being formed, why it was being sought?

17 A Yes. There was, my words, there was a lot of distrust
18 between the creditors and the management -- not the CRO, but 19 the prior management of the company -- and there had been a
20 motion brought both to obviously bring the case back to Dallas
21 from I think it was originally in Delaware and then there was 22 a motion to seek, you know, to remove management and put in a
23 trustee.

24 There had been a dozen years of litigation with one party,
25 about eight or nine years with another major party, and

Dubel - Direct

271

1 several other of the major creditors were litigants. The
2 other, as I understood, the other creditors, main creditors in 3 the case were all lawyers who had not yet gotten paid for the 4 litigation work that they had done. And so it was obvious
5 that this was a very -- a highly-litigious situation.

6 Q In addition to speaking with the various constituents, did
7 you do any diligence on your own to try to understand the case
8 before you accepted the appointment?

9 A Yes. I went to the docket to look at all the -- not every 10 single thing that had been filed, but to try and look at all
11 the key, relevant items that had been filed, get a better
12 understanding of what was out there. Looked at some of the 13 initial filings of the company in terms of the, you know, the 14 creditors, to understand who the creditor base was per the 15 schedules that had been filed. Looked at the -- some of the 16 various pleadings that had been put in place.

17 Q Did you form a view as to the causes of the bankruptcy
18 filing?

19 A Litigation. That was my clear view. This company had 20 been in litigation with multiple parties, various different
21 parties, since around 2008. Generally, you would see
22 litigation like the types that were, you know, that were here,
23 you know, you'd litigate for a while, then you'd try and 24 settle it.

25 It did not appear to me that there was any intention on

Dubel - Direct

272

1 the -- the Debtor to settle these litigations, but would
2 rather just continue the process and proceed forward on the
3 litigation until the very last minute. And so it was obvious
4 that this was going to -- that the Debtor was a, as I said, a
5 highly-litigious shop, and that was one of the causes,
6 obviously, the cause of the filing, along with the fact that
7 judgments were about to be entered against the Debtor.

8 Q All right. And in January 2020, do you recall that's when 9 the agreement was reached between the Debtor, the Committee,
10 and Mr. Dondero?

11 A Yeah, it was the first week or so, which resulted in a
12 hearing on I believe it was January 9th in front of Judge
13 Jernigan.

14 Q And as a part of that -- I think you testified at that 15 hearing. Do I have that right?

16 A I don't recall if I did. I might have. I might have 17 testified at a subsequent hearing. But --

18 Q But was --

19 A -- I was in the courtroom for that hearing, yes.

20 Q Was it part of that process by which you accepted the 21 appointment as independent director?

22 A I accepted it based upon the order that had been
23 negotiated amongst the parties, the creditors, the Debtor, Mr.
24 Dondero, and others. And that was the key thing that was -- 25 and approved by the Court on that date. And that was key for

Dubel - Direct

273

1 my acceptance of the role as an independent director.

2 Q And did you and the other prospective independent
3 directors participate in the negotiation of the substance of 4 the agreement?

5 A We did. We didn't have a hundred percent say over it, but
6 we were able to get our voices heard. As Mr. Seery testified
7 earlier, he was instrumental in coming up with an idea about 8 how to put in place the injunction, you know, the -- I think 9 he referred to it as the gatekeeper injunction, which was 10 obviously in this case very critical to all three of us: Mr.
11 Seery, Mr. Nelms, and myself.

12 Q Can you describe for the Court kind of the issues of 13 concern to you and the other prospective board members? What 14 was it that you were focused on in terms of the negotiations?

15 A Well, obviously, indemnification was important, but that 16 was something that was going to be granted. Having the right
17 to obtain separate D&O insurance just for the three directors
18 was important. We were concerned that Strand Advisors, Inc.
19 really had no assets, and so we wanted to make sure that the 20 Debtor was going to get -- was going to basically guarantee
21 the indemnification.

22 The -- because of the litigious nature and what we had 23 heard from all of the various parties involved, including 24 people inside the Debtor who we had talked with, that it would 25 be something that was important for us to make sure that the

Dubel - Direct

274

1 injunction, the gatekeeper injunction was put in place.

2 Q And can you elaborate a little bit on I think you said you
3 had done some diligence and you had formed a view as to the 4 causes of the bankruptcy filing, but did this case present any 5 specific concerns or issues that you and the board members had 6 to address perhaps above and beyond what you experienced in 7 some of the other cases you described?

8 A Well, as I said earlier, the fact that the litigation --
9 the various litigations with the creditors have been going on 10 for what I viewed as an inordinate amount of years, and that 11 it was clear from my diligence that I had done that this had 12 been directed by Mr. Dondero, to keep this moving forward in 13 the litigation, and to, in essence, just, you know, never give 14 up on the litigation.

15 It was important that the types of protections that we 16 were afforded in the January 9th order were put in place,
17 because we -- none of us -- none of the three of us, and 18 myself in particular, did not want to be in a position where 19 we would be sued and harassed through lawsuits for the next, 20 you know, ten years or so. That's not something anybody would 21 want to sign up for.

22 Q All right. Let's look at the January 9th order and the 23 specific provisions I think that you're alluding to.

24 MR. MORRIS: Can we call up Exhibit 5Q, please?

25 THE WITNESS: Pardon me while I put my glasses on to

Dubel - Direct

275

1 read this.

2 MR. MORRIS: All right. And if we can go to 3 Paragraph 4.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Is that the paragraph, sir, that was intended to address
6 the concern that you just articulated about Strand not having 7 any assets of its own?

8 A Yes, it is.

9 Q And can you just describe for the Court how that 10 particular provision addressed that concern?

11 A Sure. Since we were directors of Strand, which is the 12 general partner of the Debtor, we felt it was important that 13 the general -- that Highland, the Debtor, would provide the 14 guaranty on indemnification, because Highland had the assets
15 to back up the indemnification.

16 It was also pretty clear, from my experience in having 17 placed D&O insurance, you know, over the last 25-30 years,
18 that if there was no, you know, opportunity for 19 indemnification, putting in place insurance would be very 20 difficult or exorbitantly expensive. So having this 21 indemnification by Highland was a very important piece of the 22 order that we were seeking.

23 Q And the next piece is the insurance piece in Paragraph 5.
24 Do you see that?

25 A I do.

Dubel - Direct

276

1 Q Did you have any involvement in the Debtor's efforts to
2 obtain D&O insurance for the independent board?

3 A I did.

4 Q Can you just describe for the Court what role you played
5 and what issues came up as the Debtor sought to obtain that 6 insurance?

7 A Sure. The Debtors had been looking to get an insurance
8 policy in place. They were not able to do that. I happen to 9 have worked with an insurance broker on D&O situations in some 10 very difficult situations over the years and brought them into 11 the mix. They were able to go out to the market and find a 12 policy that would cover us, the -- kind of the key components
13 of that policy, though, were, number one, the guaranty that 14 HCMLP would give -- I'm sorry, the guaranty that HCMLP would 15 give to Strand's obligations, and also the -- I'll call it the 16 gatekeeper provision was very important because these parties
17 did not want to have -- they wanted to have what was referred 18 to, commonly referred to as the Dondero Exclusion.

19 So while we were -- we purchased a policy that covered us,
20 it did have an exclusion, unless there were no assets left,
21 and then the what I'll call -- we refer to as kind of a Side A
22 policy would kick in.

23 Q Okay. What do you mean by the Dondero Exclusion?

24 A The insurers did not want to cover the -- any litigation
25 that Mr. Dondero would bring against directors. It was pretty

Dubel - Direct

277

1 commonly known in the marketplace that Mr. Dondero was very
2 litigious, and insurers were not willing to write the 3 insurance without the protections that this order afforded
4 because they did not want to be hit with frivolous -- hit with 5 claims on the policy for frivolous litigation that might be 6 brought.

7 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, this is Mr. Taylor. I've 8 got to object to the last answer. He testified as to what the 9 insurers' belief was and what they would or would not do based 10 upon their own knowledge. It's not within his personal
11 knowledge. And therefore we'd move to strike.

12 THE COURT: I overrule that objection.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

14 THE COURT: I overrule the objection.

15 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. Thank you, Your Honor.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q Mr. Dubel, can you explain to the Court, in your work in 18 trying to secure the D&O insurance, what rule the gatekeeper
19 provision played in the Debtor's ability to get that?

20 A Based upon my discussions with the insurance broker, who I
21 have worked with for 25-plus years, had that gatekeeper
22 provision not been put in place, we would not have been able 23 to get insurance.

24 Q All right. Let's look at the gatekeeper provision.

25 MR. MORRIS: Can we go down to Paragraph 10, please?

Dubel - Direct

278

1 Perfect. Right there.

2 BY MR. MORRIS:

3 Q Is this gatekeeper provision, is this also the source of 4 the exculpation that you referred to?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And what's your understanding of how the exculpation and 7 gatekeeper functions together?

8 A Well, my apologies, I'm not an attorney, so just from a
9 business point of view, the way I look at this is that, you
10 know, obviously, we're -- you know, the directors are not 11 protected from willful misconduct or gross negligence, but any 12 negligence -- you know, claims brought under negligence and 13 the likes of such, and things that might be considered
14 frivolous, would have to first go to Your Honor in the 15 Bankruptcy Court for a review to determine if they were claims 16 that should be entitled to be brought.

17 Q If you take a look at the provision, right, do you
18 understand that nobody can bring a claim without -- in little 19 i, it says, first determining -- without the Court first 20 determining, after notice, that such claim or cause of action
21 represents a colorable claim of willful misconduct or gross
22 negligence against an indirect -- independent director. Do
23 you see that?

24 A I do.

25 Q Is it your understanding that parties can only bring

Dubel - Direct

279

1 claims for gross negligence or willful misconduct if the Court
2 makes a determination that there is a colorable claim?

3 A That's my understanding.

4 Q And the second --

5 A I think they have the right -- I think they have the right
6 to go to the Court to ask if they can bring the claim, but the 7 Court has to make the determination that it's a colorable
8 claim for willful misconduct or gross negligence.

9 Q And if the Court -- is it your understanding that if the 10 Court doesn't find that there is a colorable claim of willful
11 misconduct or gross negligence, then the claim can't be 12 brought against the independent directors?

13 A That is my understanding, yes.

14 Q And was -- taken together, Paragraphs 4, 5, and 10, were 15 they of importance to you and the other independent directors
16 before accepting the position?

17 A They were absolutely critical to me and definitely
18 critical to the other directors, because we all negotiated
19 that together, and it would -- I don't -- I don't think any of 20 the three of us would have taken on this role if those 21 paragraphs had not been included in the order.

22 Q Okay. Just speaking for yourself personally, is there any 23 chance you would have accepted the appointment without all
24 three of those provisions?

25 A I would not have.

Dubel - Direct

280

1 Q And why is that? In this particular case, why did you
2 personally believe that you needed all three of those 3 provisions?

4 A Well, you know, people like myself, you know, someone
5 who's coming in as an independent director, come in in a
6 fiduciary capacity. And, you know, we take on risks. Now,
7 granted, in a Chapter 11 case, as the saying goes, you know,
8 it's a lot safer because everything has to be approved by the 9 Court, but there are still opportunities for parties to, in 10 essence, have mischief going on and bring nuisance lawsuits
11 that would take a lot of time and effort away from either the 12 role of our job of restructuring the entity or post-
13 restructuring, would just be nuisance things that would cost
14 us money. And we, you know, I did not want to be involved in 15 that situation, knowing the litigious nature of Mr. Dondero
16 from the research that I had done, you know, the diligence
17 that I had done. I did not want to subject myself to that.
18 And it has proven an appropriate and very solid order because 19 of the conduct of Mr. Dondero, as Mr. Seery has testified to 20 earlier.

21 Q Do you have a view as to what the likely effect would be 22 on future corporate restructurings if you and your fellow
23 directors weren't able to obtain the type of protection
24 afforded in the January 9th order?

25 A I think it would be very difficult to find qualified

Dubel - Direct

281

1 people who would be willing to serve in these types of
2 positions if they knew they had a target on their backs. You
3 know, it was something that was clear to us, to Mr. Seery, Mr.
4 Nelms, myself at the time, that if we had a target -- we felt
5 like we would have a target on our back if we didn't have 6 these protections.

7 It just wasn't worth the risk, the stress, the 8 uncertainty, the potential cost to us. And so I don't think
9 anybody else would be, you know, willing to take on the roles
10 as an independent director with the facts and circumstances
11 and the players involved in this particular case.

12 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness. Let's see.
14 You went -- I'm going to give a time. You went 32 minutes.
15 So, for cross of this witness, I'm going to limit it to an 16 aggregate of 32 minutes. Who wants to go first?

17 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, this is Douglas Draper.
18 I'll be happy to go first.

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 CROSS-EXAMINATION

21 BY MR. DRAPER:

22 Q Mr. Dubel, prior to your engagement, did you happen to 23 read the case of Pacific Lumber?

24 A I did not.

25 Q And were you advised about Pacific Lumber by somebody

Dubel - Cross

282

1 other than a -- your lawyer?

2 A I'm not familiar with the case at all, Mr. Draper.

3 Q Are you aware, and you've been around a long time, that

4 different circuits have different rules for liabilities of 5 officers, directors, and people like that?

6 A I am aware that there are different, I don't know what the

7 right term is, but precedents, I guess, in different circuits

8 for any number of things, whether it's a sale motion or

9 protections of officers and directors or anything. So each

10 circuit has its own unique situations.

11 Q And one last question. On a go-forward, after -- if this

12 plan is confirmed and on the effective date, you will not have

13 any role whatsoever as an officer or director of the new 14 general partner, correct?

15 A I have not been asked to. As Mr. Seery testified, he may 16 ask for assistance or just -- in most situations that I'm

17 involved with, I may have a continuing role just as a -- I'll

18 call it an advisor or somebody to provide a history. But at

19 this point in time, I have not been asked to have any 20 involvement.

21 Q And based on your experience, you know that there's a

22 different liability for a director and an officer versus

23 somebody who is an advisor?

24 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

25 No foundation.

283

1 THE COURT: Overruled.

2 MR. DRAPER: Mr. Dubel has shown --

3 THE COURT: Mr. Dubel, you can answer if you know.

4 MR. DRAPER: Mr. Dubel, you can answer.

5 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry, Your Honor, I didn't hear
6 you say overruled. Thank you.

7 Mr. Draper, I apologize, could you repeat the question?

8 BY MR. DRAPER:

9 Q The question is you know from your experience that there's 10 a different liability for somebody who is an officer or 11 director versus somebody who's an advisor?

12 A Yes, that's my experience, which is why in several 13 situations post-reorganization, while I have not been involved
14 per se, and I use the term involved meaning, you know, on a 15 day-to-day basis, if someone asks me to assist, I'll usually 16 ask them to bring me in as a non -- an unpaid employee or a,
17 you know, a nominally-amount-paid employee, so that I would be 18 protected by whatever protections the company might provide.

19 MR. DRAPER: I have nothing further for this witness,
20 Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. Other cross?

22 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, Your Honor.

24 MR. TAYLOR: Oh, go ahead, Davor.

25 MR. RUKAVINA: No, Clay, go ahead.

284

1

2

BY MR. TAYLOR:

3

4

Dondero. I believe you had previously testified in response to questions from Mr. Morris that Mr. Dondero had engaged in a pattern of litigious behavior; is that correct?

5

6

7

A I believe that's the testimony I gave, yes.

8

Q Okay. And please give me the specific examples of which 9

cases you believe he has engaged in overly-litigious behavior.

10

A Well, all of the cases that resulted in creditors, large creditors in our bankruptcy. That would be the UBS situation,

11

12

the Crusader situation which became the Redeemer Committee,

13 litigation with Mr. Daugherty, with Acis and Mr. Terry. And 14

as I mentioned earlier, I'd, you know, been informed by 15 members of the management team that it was Mr. Dondero's style

16

to just litigate until the very end to try and grind people

17

down.

18

Q Okay. Was Mr. Dondero or a Highland entity the plaintiff

19 in the UBS case?

20

A No, but what was referred -- what I was referring to was 21

the nature in which he defended it and went overboard and 22 refused to ever, you know, try and settle things in a manner that would have gotten things done. And just looking at,

23

24

having been involved in the restructuring industry for the 25

last 40 years, as I said, almost 40 years, and been involved

285

1 in many, many litigious situations, it's obvious when someone
2 is litigious, whether they're the plaintiff or the defendant.

3 Q So are you personally familiar with the settlement
4 negotiations in the UBS case that happened pre-bankruptcy,
5 then?

6 A I have been informed that there were settlement
7 negotiations, and subsequently determined, through discussions
8 with the parties, that they weren't really close to -- to a 9 settlement.

10 Q But are you aware of --

11 A Mr. Dondero might have thought they were, but they were 12 not.

13 Q Okay. Would you be surprised to learn if UBS had offered
14 to settle pre-bankruptcy for $7 million?

15 A As I understand, settlements -- settlement offers pre-
16 bankruptcy had a tremendous number of -- I don't know what the 17 right term is -- things tied to it and that clearly were never 18 going to get done.

19 Q Okay. When you say things were tied to it, what things
20 were tied to it?

21 A I don't know all of the settlement discussions that took 22 place, but what I was informed was that there were a lot of 23 conditions that were included in that. And it's -- if it had 24 been an offer of $7 million and Mr. Dondero didn't settle for 25 that, there must have been a reason why. So, you know, since

286

1 the entities -- all of the entities within the Highland
2 Capital empire, if you'd call it that, were being sued for 3 almost a billion dollars.

4 Q Okay. And you say there was lots of conditions that were 5 tied to that. What were the conditions?

6 A As I said earlier, I wasn't informed of them on all the 7 prepetition settlements. That's just what I was told, there
8 was conditions.

9 Q Okay. And who were you told these things by?

10 A Both external counsel and internal counsel. Mr.
11 Ellington, Scott Ellington, and Isaac -- the litigation
12 counsel.

13 Q Okay. So --

14 A That's -- sorry.

15 Q Okay. In each of these cases, you were informed by your 16 views by statements that were made to you by other people?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay.

19 A Made -- and particularly made by members of management of 20 the Debtor, which is pretty informed.

21 Q Okay. Which members of management were those?

22 A As I just testified, it was Mr. Ellington, who was the 23 general -- the Debtor's general counsel, and Mr. Leventon,
24 Isaac Leventon, who was the -- I believe his title was 25 associate general counsel in charge of litigation.

Dubel - Cross

287

1 Q Okay. Thank you.

2 MR. TAYLOR: No further questions.

3 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Rukavina?

4 CROSS-EXAMINATION

5 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

6 Q Mr. Dubel, we've never met, although I think we were on 7 the phone once together. I know you're a director, so you're 8 at the top, but having been in this case for more than a year,
9 you probably have some understanding of the assets that the 10 Debtor has, don't you?

11 A I do, but I'm not as facile with it as Mr. Seery, 12 obviously.

13 Q Sure. Is it true, to your understanding, that the Debtor
14 owns various equity interests in third-party companies?

15 A Either directly or indirectly. That's my understanding,
16 yes.

17 Q Okay. Have you heard of an entity called Highland Select 18 Equity Fund, LP?

19 A I have.

20 Q And is that a publicly-traded company?

21 A I'm not familiar with its nature there, no.

22 Q Do you know how much of the equity of that entity the 23 Debtor owns?

24 A I don't know off the top of my head, no.

25 Q And again, these may be unfair questions because you're at

Dubel - Cross

288

1 the top, so I'm not trying to make you look foolish. I'm just 2 trying to see. Let me ask one more. Have you heard of 3 Wright, W-R-I-G-H-T, Limited?

4 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. Beyond the 5 scope.

6 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I can recall him on my 7 direct, then.

8 THE COURT: Yeah. I'll --

9 MR. RUKAVINA: But I'd just rather get it over with.

10 THE COURT: I'll allow it.

11 MR. MORRIS: All right. If we're going to get rid of 12 --

13 THE COURT: Overruled.

14 MR. MORRIS: No, that's fine.

15 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

16 Q Have you heard of Wright, W-R-I-G-H-T, Limited?

17 A I think I have, but I just don't recall it, Mr. Rukavina.
18 I'm sorry, Rukavina. Sorry.

19 Q It's okay. It's a --

20 A I'm looking at your chart here, at your name here, and it
21 looks like Drukavina, so I really apologize.

22 Q Believe it or not, it's actually a very famous name in 23 Croatia, although it means nothing here.

24 So, all of the entities that the Debtor owns equity in, I
25 guess you probably, just because, again, you're not in the

289

1 weeds, you can't tell us how much of that equity the Debtor
2 owns, can you?

3 A I can't individually, no. You know, Mr. Seery is our CEO
4 and he's responsible for the day-to-day, you know, issues. So
5 usually we look at it more on a consolidated basis and not in 6 the, you know, down in the weeds, as you refer to it, unless 7 something specific came up.

8 Q Well, would you remember whether, when Mr. Seery or the 9 prior CRO would provide you, as the board member, financial 10 reports, whether that included P&Ls and balance sheets and 11 financial reports for the entities that the Debtor owned 12 interests in?

13 A We might -- we would have seen certain consolidating
14 reports that might -- that would be, you know, consolidating
15 financial statements that would be P&Ls. Where we didn't 16 consolidate them, I'm not sure we saw the actual individual-
17 entity P&Ls on a regular basis. We might have seen them if 18 there was a transaction taking place. But again, you know, I
19 don't have -- I don't remember every single one of them, no.

20 Q And you would agree with me, sir, that the Pachulski law
21 firm is an excellent restructuring, reorganization, insolvency
22 law firm, wouldn't you?

23 A Yes, I would agree with you there.

24 Q Okay. And you would expect them to ensure that anything
25 that has to be filed with Her Honor is timely filed, wouldn't

290

1 you?

2 A I would expect that they would follow the rules.

3 Q Okay. And you have the utmost of confidence, I take it,
4 in your CRO, don't you?

5 A I have a tremendous amount of confidence in our CEO, who 6 also happens to hold the title of CRO, yes, if that's what
7 you're referring to as, Mr. Seery.

8 (Interruption.)

9 MR. RUKAVINA: John.

10 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

11 Q Okay, I think -- yeah, I think I heard that you have 12 tremendous confidence in the CEO, who happens to be the CRO,
13 right?

14 A Yes, that's the case.

15 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor. I'll pass the 16 witness.

17 THE COURT: All right. Any other cross of Mr. Dubel?
18 All right. Mr. Morris, redirect?

19 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, just very briefly, Your Honor.

20 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q You were asked about that Pacific Lumber case, Mr. Dubel;
23 do you remember that?

24 A I do remember being asked about it.

25 Q And you weren't familiar with that case, right?

Dubel - Redirect

291

1 A I'm not familiar with the name of the case, no.

2 Q But you did know that the exculpation and gatekeeping
3 provisions were going to be included in the order; is that 4 fair?

5 A I did.

6 Q And did you testify that you wouldn't have accepted the 7 position without it?

8 A I did testify that way.

9 Q And if you knew that you couldn't get those provisions in 10 the Fifth Circuit, would you ever accept a position as an 11 independent director in the Fifth Circuit on a go-forward
12 basis?

13 A Not in a situation such as this, no.

14 Q Okay. Okay.

15 MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: All right. Any recross on that narrow
17 redirect?

18 All right. Well, Mr. Dubel, you are excused from the 19 virtual witness stand.

20 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. I want to go ahead and --

22 MR. DUBEL: Do you mind if I turn my video off?

23 THE COURT: I'm sorry, what?

24 MR. DUBEL: I said, do you mind if I turn my video
25 off?

1 THE COURT: No, you may. That's fine.

2 MR. DUBEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: All right. I want to break now, unless 4 there's any quick housekeeping matter. Anything?

5 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor, but I would just ask
6 all parties to let me know by email if they have any 7 objections to any of the exhibits on the witness list that was 8 filed at Docket No. 1877, because I want to begin tomorrow by 9 putting into evidence the balance of our exhibits.

10 MR. RUKAVINA: And Your Honor, I was responsible for 11 this due to an internal mistake. The only ones I have an 12 objection to are -- is that 7? John, is that 7, right, 700 --

13 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

14 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I only have an objection
15 to 70 and 7P, although I think -- think the Court has already 16 admitted 7P, so my objection is moot.

17 THE COURT: I have.

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

19 THE COURT: So, what --

20 MR. RUKAVINA: Then it would just be --

21 THE COURT: Go ahead.

22 MR. RUKAVINA: I'm sorry. It would just be 70.
23 Septuple O or whatever the word is.

24 THE COURT: All right. So I will go ahead and admit
25 7F through 7Q, with the exception of 70. Again, these appear

293

1 at Docket Entry 1877. And Mr. Morris, you can try to get in 2 70 the old-fashioned way if you want to.

3 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, I'll deal with 70 and the very 4 limited number of other objections at the beginning of 5 tomorrow's hearing.

6 THE COURT: All right.

7 (Debtor's Exhibits 7F through 7Q, with the exception of 8 70, are received into evidence.)

9 THE COURT: So we will reconvene at 9:30 Central time
10 tomorrow. I think we're going to hear from the Aon, the D&O
11 broker, Mr. Tauber; is that correct?

12 MR. MORRIS: That's right. And that should be 13 shorter than even Mr. Dubel.

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, we will see you at 9:30
15 in the morning. We are in recess.

16 MR. MORRIS: Thank you so much.

17 THE CLERK: All rise.

18 (Proceedings concluded at 5:09 p.m.)

WHEREAS, the Issuer wishes to enter into this Servicing Agreement, pursuant to which the Servicer agrees to perform, on behalf of the Issuer, certain duties with respect to the Collateral in the manner and on the terms set forth herein; and

WHEREAS, the Servicer has the capacity to provide the services required hereby and is prepared to perform such services upon the terms and conditions set forth herein.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual agreements herein set forth, the parties hereto agree as follows:

1. Definitions.

2. General Duties of the Servicer.

(a) The Servicer shall provide services to the Issuer as follows:

(i) Subject to and in accordance with the terms of this Agreement and the other Transaction Documents, the Servicer shall supervise and direct the administration, acquisition and disposition of the Collateral, and shall perform on behalf of the Issuer those duties and obligations of the Servicer required by the Indenture and the other Transaction Documents, and including the furnishing of Orders, Requests and officer's certificates, and such certifications as are required of the Servicer under the Indenture with respect to permitted purchases and sales of the Collateral Obligations, Eligible Investments and other assets, and other matters, and, to the extent necessary or appropriate to perform such duties, the Servicer shall have the power to execute and deliver all necessary and appropriate documents and instruments on behalf of the Issuer with respect thereto. The Servicer shall, subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement and the other Transaction Documents, perform its obligations hereunder and thereunder with reasonable care, using a degree of skill and attention no less than that which the Servicer exercises with respect to comparable assets that it services or manages for others having similar objectives and restrictions, and in a manner consistent with practices and procedures followed by institutional servicers or managers of national standing relating to assets of the nature and character of the Collateral for clients having similar objectives and restrictions, except as expressly provided otherwise in this Agreement and/or the other Transaction Documents. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, the Servicer shall follow its customary standards, policies and procedures in performing its duties under the Indenture and hereunder. The Servicer shall comply with all terms and conditions of the other Transaction Documents affecting the duties and functions to be performed hereunder. The Servicer shall not be bound to follow any amendment to any Transaction Document until it has received written notice thereof and until it has received a copy of the amendment from the Issuer or the Trustee; provided, however, that the Servicer shall not be bound by any amendment to any Transaction Document that affects the rights, powers, obligations or duties of the Servicer unless the Servicer shall have consented thereto in writing. The Issuer agrees that it shall not permit any amendment to the Indenture that (x) affects the rights, powers, obligations or duties of the Servicer or (y) affects the amount or priority of any fees payable to the Servicer to become effective unless the Servicer has been given prior written notice of such amendment and consented thereto in writing;

(ii) the Servicer shall select any Collateral which shall be acquired by the Issuer pursuant to the Indenture in accordance with the Collateral criteria set forth herein and in the Indenture;

(iii) the Servicer shall monitor the Collateral on an ongoing basis and provide to the Issuer all reports, certificates, schedules and other data with respect to the Collateral which the Issuer is required to prepare and deliver under the Indenture and any Hedge Agreement, in the form and containing all information required thereby and in reasonable time for the Issuer to review such required reports, certificates, schedules and data and to deliver them to the parties entitled thereto under the Indenture; the Servicer shall undertake to determine to the extent reasonably practicable whether a Collateral Interest has become an Defaulted Collateral Obligation; and the Servicer shall monitor any Hedge Agreements and direct the Trustee on behalf of the Issuer in respect of all actions to be taken thereunder by the Issuer;

(iv) the Servicer, subject to and in accordance with the provisions of the Indenture may, at any time permitted under the Indenture, and shall, when required by the Indenture, direct the Trustee (x) to dispose of a Collateral Obligation, Equity Security or Eligible Investment or other securities received in respect thereof in the open market or otherwise, (y) to acquire, as security for the Notes in substitution for or in addition to any one or more Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investments included in the Collateral, one or more substitute Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investments, or (z) direct the Trustee to take the following actions with respect to a Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investment:

(1) retain such Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investment; or

(2) dispose of such Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investment in the open market or otherwise; or

(3) if applicable, tender such Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investment pursuant to an Offer; or

(4) if applicable, consent to any proposed amendment, modification or waiver pursuant to an Offer; or

(5) retain or dispose of any securities or other property (if other than cash) received pursuant to an Offer; or

(6) waive any default with respect to any Defaulted Collateral Obligations; or

(7) vote to accelerate the maturity of any Defaulted Collateral Obligations; or

(8) exercise any other rights or remedies with respect to such Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investment as provided in the related Underlying Instruments, including in connection with any workout situations, or take any other action consistent with the terms of the Indenture which is in the best interests of the Holders of the Securities;

(v) subject to and in accordance with the terms of this Agreement and the Transaction Documents, the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer shall determine whether to enter into any additional hedging arrangements, increase or reduce the notional amounts of existing Hedge Agreements or terminate existing Hedge Agreements, and the Servicer shall use its reasonable efforts to cause the Issuer, promptly following the early termination of a Hedge Agreement (other than on a Redemption Date) and to the extent possible through application of funds received as a result of the early termination (including the proceeds of the liquidation of any collateral pledged by the hedge counterparty), to enter into a replacement Hedge Agreement

(vi) the Servicer shall (a) on or prior to any day which is a Redemption Date, direct the Trustee to enter into contracts to dispose of the Collateral Obligation and any other Collateral pursuant to the Indenture and otherwise comply with all redemption procedures and certification requirements in the Indenture in order to allow the Trustee to effect such redemption and (b) conduct Auctions in accordance with the terms of the Indenture; and

(vii) if the Servicer, on behalf of the Issuer, desires to make distributions of Eligible Equity Securities on any Payment Date pursuant to Section 2(e) of the Preference Shares Paying Agency Agreement, the Servicer shall so notify the Trustee and the Preference Shares Paying Agent and provide the Trustee and the Preference Shares Paying Agent (for forwarding to each Holder of the Preference Shares with respect to the applicable Record Date) details of such Eligible Equity Securities in accordance with the procedure set forth in Section 3(b) of the Preference Shares Paying Agency Agreement.

(b) In performing its duties hereunder, the Servicer shall seek to preserve the value of the Collateral for the benefit of the Holders of the Securities taking into account the collateral criteria and limitations set forth herein and in the Indenture and the Servicer shall use reasonable efforts to select and service the Collateral in such a way that will permit a timely performance of all payment obligations by the Issuer under the Indenture; provided, that the Servicer shall not be responsible if such objectives are not achieved so long as the Servicer performs its duties under this Agreement in the manner provided for herein, and provided, further, that there shall be no recourse to the Servicer with respect to the Notes or the Preference Shares. The Servicer and the Issuer shall take such other action, and furnish such certificates, opinions and other documents, as may be reasonably requested by the other party hereto in order to effectuate the purposes of this Agreement and to facilitate compliance with applicable laws and regulations and the terms of this Agreement.

(c) The Servicer hereby agrees to the following:

(i) The Servicer agrees not to institute against, or join any other Person in instituting against, the Issuer or the Co-Issuer any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation proceedings or other proceedings under federal or state bankruptcy or similar laws of any jurisdiction until at least one year and one day (or if longer, any applicable preference period plus one day) after the payment in full of all Notes issued under the Indenture; provided, however, that nothing in this clause (i) shall preclude, or be deemed to estop, the Servicer (A) from taking any action prior to the expiration of such period in (x) any case or proceeding voluntarily filed or commenced by the Issuer or the Co-Issuer, as the case may be, or (y) any involuntary insolvency proceeding filed or commenced against the Issuer or the Co-Issuer, as the case may be, by a Person other than the Servicer, or (B) from commencing against the Issuer or the Co-Issuer or any properties of the Issuer or the Co-Issuer any legal action which is not a bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium, liquidation or similar proceeding. The provisions of this Section 2(c)(i) shall survive the termination of this Agreement.

(ii) The Servicer shall cause each sale or purchase of any Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investment to be conducted on an arm's-length basis.

(d) The Servicer shall not act for the Issuer in any capacity except as provided in this Section 2. In providing services hereunder, the Servicer may employ third parties, including its Affiliates, to render advice (including advice with respect to the servicing of the Collateral) and assistance; provided, however, that the Servicer shall not be relieved of any of its duties or liabilities hereunder regardless of the performance of any services by third parties. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, the Servicer shall not be required to take any action required of it pursuant to this Agreement or the Indenture if such action would constitute a violation of any law.

(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement or the Indenture, (i) any granted signatory powers or authority granted to the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer with respect to the Special Procedures Obligations shall be conditioned upon the prior written approval of the Independent Advisor and (ii) neither the Servicer nor any Affiliate of the Servicer shall have any authority to enter into agreements, or take any action, on behalf of the Issuer with respect to the Special Procedures Obligations without the prior written approval of the Independent Advisor.

3. Brokerage.

The Servicer shall seek to obtain the best prices and execution for all orders placed with respect to the Collateral, considering all reasonable circumstances. Subject to the objective of obtaining best prices and execution, the Servicer may take into consideration research and other brokerage services furnished to the Servicer or its Affiliates by brokers and dealers which are not Affiliates of the Servicer. Such services may be used by the Servicer or its Affiliates in connection with its other servicing or advisory activities or operations. The Servicer may aggregate sales and purchase orders of securities placed with respect to the Collateral with similar orders being made simultaneously for other accounts serviced or managed by Servicer or with accounts of the Affiliates of the Servicer, if in the Servicer's reasonable judgment such aggregation shall result in an overall economic benefit to the Issuer, taking into consideration the advantageous selling or purchase price, brokerage commission and other expenses. In the event that a sale or purchase of a Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment (in accordance with the terms of the Indenture) occurs as part of any aggregate sales or purchase orders, the objective of the Servicer (and any of its Affiliates involved in such transactions) shall be to allocate the executions among the accounts in an equitable manner and consistent with its obligations hereunder and under applicable law.

In addition to the foregoing and subject to the provisions of Section 2 and the limitations of Section 5, the objective of obtaining best prices and execution and to the extent permitted by applicable law, the Servicer may, on behalf of the Issuer, direct the Trustee to acquire any and all of the Eligible Investments or other Collateral from, or sell Collateral Obligations or other Collateral to, the Placement Agent, the Trustee or any of their respective Affiliates, or any other firm.

4. Additional Activities of the Servicer.

Nothing herein shall prevent the Servicer or any of its Affiliates from engaging in other businesses, or from rendering services of any kind to the Trustee, the Holders of the Securities, or any other Person or entity to the extent permitted by applicable law. Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, the Servicer and partners, directors, officers, employees and agents of the Servicer or its Affiliates may, among other things, and subject to any limits specified in the Indenture:

(a) serve as directors (whether supervisory or managing), officers, partners, employees, agents, nominees or signatories for any issuer of any obligations included in the Collateral or their respective Affiliates, to the extent permitted by their Governing Instruments, as from time to time amended, or by any resolutions duly adopted by the Issuer, its Affiliates or any issuer of any obligations included in the Collateral or their respective Affiliates, pursuant to their respective Governing Instruments; provided, that in the reasonable judgment of the Servicer, such activity shall not have a material adverse effect on the enforceability of Collateral or the ability of the Issuer to comply with each Overcollateralization Ratio and the Interest Coverage Test; provided, further, that nothing in this paragraph shall be deemed to limit the duties of the Servicer set forth in Section 2 hereof;

(b) receive fees for services of any nature rendered to the issuer of any obligations included in the Collateral or their respective Affiliates; provided, that in the reasonable judgment of the Servicer, such activity shall not have a material adverse effect on the enforceability of Collateral or the ability of the Issuer to comply with each Overcollateralization Ratio and the Interest Coverage Test; and provided, further that if any portion of such services are related to the purchase by the Issuer of any obligations included in the Collateral, the portion of such fees relating to such obligations shall be applied to the purchase price of such obligations; and

(c) be a secured or unsecured creditor of, or hold an equity interest in, the Issuer, its Affiliates or any issuer of any obligation included in the Collateral; provided, that in the reasonable judgment of the Servicer, such activity shall not have a material adverse effect on the enforceability of Collateral or the ability of the Issuer to comply with each Overcollateralization Ratio and the Interest Coverage Test; provided, further, that nothing in this paragraph shall be deemed to limit the duties of the Servicer set forth in Section 2 hereof.

It is understood that the Servicer and any of its Affiliates may engage in any other business and furnish servicing, investment management and advisory services to others, including Persons which may have policies similar to those followed by the Servicer with respect to the Collateral and which may own securities of the same class, or which are the same type, as the Collateral Obligations or other securities of the issuers of Collateral Obligations. The Servicer shall be free, in its sole discretion, to make recommendations to others, or effect transactions on behalf of itself or for others, which may be the same as or different from those effected with respect to the Collateral.

Unless the Servicer determines in its reasonable judgment that such purchase or sale is appropriate, the Servicer may refrain from directing the purchase or sale hereunder of securities issued by (i) Persons of which the Servicer, its Affiliates or any of its or their officers, directors or employees are directors or officers, (ii) Persons for which the Servicer or its Affiliate act as financial adviser or underwriter or (iii) Persons about which the Servicer or any of its Affiliates have information which the Servicer deems confidential or non-public or otherwise might prohibit it from trading such securities in accordance with applicable law. The Servicer shall not be obligated to have or pursue any particular strategy or opportunity with respect to the Collateral.

5. Conflicts of Interest.

(a) The Servicer shall not direct the Trustee to acquire an obligation to be included in the Collateral from the Servicer or any of its Affiliates as principal or to sell an obligation to the Servicer or any of its Affiliates as principal unless (i) the Issuer shall have received from the Servicer such information relating to such acquisition or sale as it may reasonably require and shall have approved such acquisition, which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld, (ii) in the reasonable, good faith judgment of the Servicer, such transaction is on terms no less favorable than would be obtained in a transaction conducted on an arm's length basis between third parties unaffiliated with each other and (iii) such transaction is permitted by the Advisers Act.

(b) The Servicer shall not direct the Trustee to acquire an obligation to be included in the Collateral directly from any account or portfolio for which the Servicer serves as servicer or investment adviser, or direct the Trustee to sell an obligation directly to any account or portfolio for which the Servicer serves as servicer or investment adviser unless such acquisition or sale is (i) in the reasonable, good faith judgment of the Servicer, on terms no less favorable than would be obtained in a transaction conducted on an arm's length basis between third parties unaffiliated with each other and (ii) permitted by the Advisers Act.

(c) The Servicer shall not undertake any transaction described in this Section 5 unless such transaction is exempt from the prohibited transaction rules of ERISA and the Code. In addition, after the initial distribution of the Class D Notes and the Preference Shares, neither the Servicer nor any of its affiliates (as defined in the Plan Asset Regulation) shall acquire any Class D Notes or Preference Shares (including pursuant to the Extension Procedure or the Amendment Buy-Out Option) unless such acquisition would not, as determined by the Trustee in reliance on representations made in the applicable transfer certificates with respect thereto, result in persons that have represented that they are Benefit Plan Investors owning 25% or more of the aggregate outstanding amount of any of the Class D

Notes, the Class I Preference Shares or the Class II Preference Shares immediately after such acquisition (determined in accordance with Section 3(42) of ERISA, the Plan Asset Regulation, the Indenture and the Preference Share Documents). The Class D Notes and the Preference Shares held as principal by the Servicer or any of its affiliates shall be disregarded and shall not be treated as outstanding for purposes of determining compliance with such 25% limitation to the extent that such person has represented that it is not a Benefit Plan Investor.

6. Records; Confidentiality.

The Servicer shall maintain appropriate books of account and records relating to services performed hereunder, and such books of account and records shall be accessible for inspection by a representative of the Issuer, the Trustee, the Collateral Administrator, the Holders of the Securities and the Independent accountants appointed by the Issuer pursuant to the Indenture at a mutually agreed time during normal business hours and upon not less than three Business Days' prior notice. At no time shall the Servicer make a public announcement concerning the issuance of the Notes or the Preference Shares, the Servicer's role hereunder or any other aspect of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and the other Transaction Documents. The Servicer shall keep confidential any and all information obtained in connection with the services rendered hereunder and shall not disclose any such information to non-affiliated third parties except (i) with the prior written consent of the Issuer, (ii) such information as either Rating Agency shall reasonably request in connection with the rating of any class of Securities, (iii) as required by law, regulation, court order or the rules or regulations of any self regulating organization, body or official having jurisdiction over the Servicer, (iv) to its professional advisers, (v) such information as shall have been publicly disclosed other than in violation of this Agreement, or (vi) such information that was or is obtained by the Servicer on a non-confidential basis, provided, that the Servicer does not know or have reason to know of any breach by such source of any confidentiality obligations with respect thereto. For purposes of this Section 6, the Trustee, the Collateral Administrator and the Holders of the Securities shall in no event be considered "non-affiliated third parties."

Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement or the Indenture to the contrary, the Servicer, the Co-Issuers, the Trustee and the Holders of the Securities (and the beneficial owners thereof) (and each of their respective employees, representatives or other agents) may disclose to any and all Persons, without limitation of any kind, the U.S. tax treatment and U.S. tax structure of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and all materials of any kind (including opinions or other tax analyses) that are provided to them relating to such U.S. tax treatment and U.S. tax structure, as such terms are defined under U.S. federal, state or local tax law.

7. Obligations of Servicer.

Unless otherwise specifically required by any provision of the Indenture or this Agreement or by applicable law, the Servicer shall use its best reasonable efforts to ensure that no action is taken by it, and shall not intentionally or with reckless disregard take any action, which would (a) materially adversely affect the Issuer or the Co-Issuer for purposes of Cayman Islands law, United States federal or state law or any other law known to the Servicer to be applicable to the Issuer or the Co-Issuer, (b) not be permitted under the Issuer's or the Co-Issuer's respective governing instruments, (c) violate any law, rule or regulation of any governmental body or agency having jurisdiction over the Issuer or the Co-Issuer including, without limitation, any Cayman Islands or United States federal, state or other applicable securities law the violation of which has or could reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any of the Collateral, (d) require registration of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or the pool of Collateral as an "investment company" under the Investment Company Act, (e) cause the Issuer or the Co-Issuer to violate the terms of the Indenture, including, without limitation, any representations made by the Issuer or Co-Issuer therein, or any other agreement contemplated by the Indenture or (f) not be permitted by Annex 1 hereto and would subject the Issuer to U.S. federal or state income or franchise taxation or cause the Issuer to be engaged in a trade or business in the United States for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The Servicer covenants that it shall comply in all material respects with all laws and regulations applicable to it in connection with the performance of its duties under this Agreement and the Indenture. Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, the Servicer shall not be required to take any action under this Agreement or the Indenture if such action would violate any applicable law, rule, regulation or court order.

8. Compensation.

(a) The Issuer shall pay to the Servicer, for services rendered and performance of its obligations under this Agreement, the Servicing Fee, which shall be payable in such amounts and at such times as set forth in the Indenture. The provisions of the Indenture which relate to the amount and payment of the Servicing Fee shall not be amended without the written consent of the Servicer. If on any Payment Date there are insufficient funds to pay the Servicing Fee (and/or any other amounts due and payable to the Servicer) in full, the amount not so paid shall be deferred and shall be payable with accrued interest on such later Payment Date on which funds are available therefor as provided in the Indenture.

The Servicer hereby agrees to waive the Class II Preference Share Portion of the Servicing Fees deposited by the Trustee into the Class II Preference Share Special Payment Account pursuant to the Indenture, which would otherwise be payable to the Servicer as Servicing Fees, on each Payment Date until February 3, 2008. After February 3, 2008, the Servicer may, in its sole discretion, at any time waive the Class II Preference Share Portion of its Servicing Fees then due and payable, in which event an amount equal to such waived portion will be paid by the Issuer as Class II Preference Share Special Payments pursuant to the Indenture. For purposes of any calculation under this Agreement and the Indenture, the Servicer shall be deemed to have received the Servicing Fee in an amount equal to the sum of the Servicing Fee actually paid to the Servicer and the amount distributed to the Holders of the Class II Preference Shares as Class II Preference Share Special Payments.

In addition, notwithstanding anything set out above, the Servicer may, in its sole discretion: (i) waive all or any portion of the Servicing Fee, any funds representing the waived Servicing Fees to be retained in the Collection Account for distribution as either Interest Proceeds or Principal Proceeds (as determined by the Servicer) pursuant to the Priority of Payments; or (ii) defer all or any portion of the Servicing Fee, any funds representing the deferred Servicing Fees to be retained in the Collection Account, when they will become payable in the same manner and priority as their original characterization would have required unless deferred again.

(b) The Servicer shall be responsible for the ordinary expenses incurred in the performance of its obligations under this Agreement, the Indenture and the other Transaction Documents; provided, however, that any extraordinary expenses incurred by the Servicer in the performance of such obligations (including, but not limited to, any fees, expenses or other amounts payable to the Rating Agencies, the Collateral Administrator, the Trustee and the accountants appointed by the Issuer, the reasonable expenses incurred by the Servicer to employ outside lawyers or consultants reasonably necessary in connection with the evaluation, transfer or restructuring of any Collateral Obligations or other unusual matters arising in the performance of its duties under this Agreement and the Indenture, any reasonable expenses incurred by the Servicer in obtaining advice from outside counsel with respect to its obligations under this Agreement, brokerage commissions, transfer fees, registration costs, taxes and other similar costs and transaction related expenses and fees arising out of transactions effected for the Issuer's account and the portion allocated to the Issuer of any other fees and expenses that the Servicer customarily allocates among all of the funds or portfolios that it services or manages) shall be reimbursed by the Issuer to the extent funds are available therefor in accordance with and subject to the limitations contained in the Indenture.

(c) If this Agreement is terminated pursuant to Section 12, Section 14 or otherwise, the fees payable to the Servicer shall be prorated for any partial periods between Payment Dates during which this Agreement was in effect and shall be due and payable on the first Payment Date following the date of such termination and on any subsequent Payment Dates to the extent remaining unpaid and in accordance with, and to the extent provided in, the Indenture.

9. Benefit of the Agreement.

The Servicer agrees that its obligations hereunder shall be enforceable at the instance of the Issuer, the Trustee, on behalf of the Noteholders, or the requisite percentage of Noteholders or the Holders of the Preference Shares, as applicable, as provided in the Indenture or the Preference Share Paying Agency Agreement, as applicable.

10. Limits of Servicer Responsibility; Indemnification.

(a) The Servicer assumes no responsibility under this Agreement other than to render the services called for hereunder and under the terms of the other Transaction Documents made applicable to it pursuant to the terms of this Agreement in good faith and, subject to the standard of liability described in the next sentence, shall not be responsible for any action of the Issuer or the Trustee in following or declining to follow any advice, recommendation or direction of the Servicer. The Servicer, its directors, officers, stockholders, partners, agents and employees, and its Affiliates and their directors, officers, stockholders, partners, agents and employees, shall not be liable to the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Trustee, the Preference Shares Paying Agent, the Holders of the Securities or any other person, for any losses, claims, damages, judgments, assessments, costs or other liabilities (collectively, "Liabilities") incurred by the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Trustee, the Preference Shares Paying Agent, the Holders of the Securities or any other person, that arise out of or in connection with the performance by the Servicer of its duties under this Agreement and under the terms of the other Transaction Documents made applicable to it pursuant to the terms of this Agreement, except by reason of (i) acts or omissions constituting bad faith, willful misconduct, gross negligence or breach of fiduciary duty in the performance, or reckless disregard, of the obligations of the Servicer hereunder and under the terms of the other Transaction Documents made applicable to it pursuant to the terms of this Agreement or (ii) with respect to any information included in the Offering Circular in the section entitled "The Servicer" and "Risk Factors—Relating to Certain Conflicts of Interest—The Issuer Will Be Subject to Various Conflicts of Interest Involving the Servicer" that contain any untrue statement of material fact or omits to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading (the preceding clauses (i) and (ii) collectively being the "Servicer Breaches"). For the avoidance of doubt, the Servicer shall have no duty to independently investigate any laws not otherwise known to it in connection with its obligations under this Agreement, the Indenture and the other Transaction Documents. The Servicer shall be deemed to have satisfied the requirements of the Indenture and this Agreement relating to not causing the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a trade or business in the United States for U.S. federal income tax purposes (including as those requirements relate to the acquisition (including manner of acquisition), ownership, enforcement, and disposition of Collateral) to the extent the Servicer complies with the requirements set forth in Annex I hereto.

(b) The Issuer shall indemnify and hold harmless (the Issuer in such case, the "Indemnifying Party") the Servicer, its directors, officers, stockholders, partners, agents and employees (such parties collectively in such case, the "Indemnified Parties") from and against any and all Liabilities, and shall reimburse each such Indemnified Party for all reasonable fees and expenses

(including reasonable fees and expenses of counsel) (collectively, the "Expenses") as such Expenses are incurred in investigating, preparing, pursuing or defending any claim, action, proceeding or investigation with respect to any pending or threatened litigation (collectively, the "Actions"), caused by, or arising out of or in connection with, the issuance of the Securities, the transactions contemplated by the Offering Memorandum, the Indenture or this Agreement, and/or any action taken by, or any failure to act by, such Indemnified Party; provided, however, that no Indemnified Party shall be indemnified for any Liabilities or Expenses it incurs as a result of any acts or omissions by any Indemnified Party constituting Servicer Breaches. Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the obligations of the Issuer under this Section 10 shall be payable solely out of the Collateral in accordance with the priorities set forth in the Indenture and shall survive termination of this Agreement.

(c) With respect to any claim made or threatened against an Indemnified Party, or compulsory process or request or other notice of any loss, claim, damage or liability served upon an Indemnified Party, for which such Indemnified Party is or may be entitled to indemnification under this Section 10, such Indemnified Party shall (or with respect to Indemnified Parties that are directors, officers, stockholders, agents or employees of the Servicer, the Servicer shall cause such Indemnified Party to):

(i) give written notice to the Indemnifying Party of such claim within ten (10) days after such Indemnified Party's receipt of actual notice that such claim is made or threatened, which notice to the Indemnifying Party shall specify in reasonable detail the nature of the claim and the amount (or an estimate of the amount) of the claim; provided, however, that the failure of any Indemnified Party to provide such notice to the Indemnifying Party shall not relieve the Indemnifying Party of its obligations under this Section 10 unless the Indemnifying Party is materially prejudiced or otherwise forfeits rights or defenses by reason of such failure;

(ii) at the Indemnifying Party's expense, provide the Indemnifying Party such information and cooperation with respect to such claim as the Indemnifying Party may reasonably require, including, but not limited to, making appropriate personnel available to the Indemnifying Party at such reasonable times as the Indemnifying Party may request;

(iii) at the Indemnifying Party's expense, cooperate and take all such steps as the Indemnifying Party may reasonably request to preserve and protect any defense to such claim;

(iv) in the event suit is brought with respect to such claim, upon reasonable prior notice, afford to the Indemnifying Party the right, which the Indemnifying Party may exercise in its sole discretion and at its expense, to participate in the investigation, defense and settlement of such claim;

(v) neither incur any material expense to defend against nor release or settle any such claim or make any admission with respect thereto (other than routine or incontestable admissions or factual admissions the failure to make which would expose such Indemnified Party to uninsured liability) nor permit a default or consent to the entry of any judgment in respect thereof, in each case without the prior written consent of the Indemnifying Party; and

(vi) upon reasonable prior notice, afford to the Indemnifying Party the right, in its sole discretion and at its sole expense, to assume the defense of such claim, including, but not limited to, the right to designate counsel reasonably acceptable to the Indemnified Party and to control all negotiations, litigation, arbitration, settlements, compromises and appeals of such claim; provided, that if the Indemnifying Party assumes the defense of such claim, it shall not be liable for any fees and expenses of counsel for any Indemnified Party incurred thereafter in connection with such claim except that if such Indemnified Party reasonably determines that counsel designated by the Indemnifying Party has a conflict of interest in connection with its representation of such Indemnified Party, such Indemnifying Party shall pay the reasonable fees and disbursements of one counsel (in addition to any local counsel) separate from its own counsel for all Indemnified Parties in connection with any one action or separate but similar or related actions in the same jurisdiction arising out of the same general allegations or circumstances; provided, further, that prior to entering into any final settlement or compromise, such Indemnifying Party shall seek the consent of the Indemnified Party and use its commercially reasonable efforts in the light of the then prevailing circumstances (including, without limitation, any express or implied time constraint on any pending settlement offer) to obtain the consent of such Indemnified Party as to the terms of settlement or compromise. If an Indemnified Party does not consent to the settlement or compromise within a reasonable time under the circumstances, the Indemnifying Party shall not thereafter be obligated to indemnify the Indemnified Party for any amount in excess of such proposed settlement or compromise.

(d) In the event that any Indemnified Party waives its right to indemnification hereunder, the Indemnifying Party shall not be entitled to appoint counsel to represent such Indemnified Party nor shall the Indemnifying Party reimburse such Indemnified Party for any costs of counsel to such Indemnified Party.

(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, nothing herein shall in any way constitute a waiver or limitation of any rights which the Issuer or the Holders of the Securities may have under any U.S. federal securities laws.

11. No Partnership or Joint Venture.

The Issuer and the Servicer are not partners or joint venturers with each other and nothing herein shall be construed to make them such partners or joint venturers or impose any liability as such on either of them. The Servicer's relation to the Issuer shall be deemed to be that of an independent contractor.

12. Term; Termination.

(a) This Agreement shall commence as of the date first set forth above and shall continue in force and effect until the first of the following occurs: (i) the payment in full of the Notes, the termination of the Indenture in accordance with its terms and the redemption in full of the Preference Shares; (ii) the liquidation of the Collateral and the final distribution of the proceeds of such liquidation to the Holders of the Securities; or (iii) the termination of this Agreement in accordance with subsection (b), (c), (d) or (e) of this Section 12 or Section 14 of this Agreement.

(b) Subject to Section 12(e) below, the Servicer may resign, upon 90 days' written notice to the Issuer (or such shorter notice as is acceptable to the Issuer). If the Servicer resigns, the Issuer agrees to appoint a successor Servicer to assume such duties and obligations in accordance with Section 12(e).

(c) This Agreement shall be automatically terminated in the event that the Issuer determines in good faith that the Issuer or the pool of Collateral has become required to be registered under the provisions of the Investment Company Act, and the Issuer notifies the Servicer thereof.

(d) If this Agreement is terminated pursuant to this Section 12, neither party shall have any further liability or obligation to the other, except as provided in Sections 2(c)(i), 8, 10 and 15 of this Agreement.

(e) No removal or resignation of the Servicer shall be effective unless:

(i) (A) the Issuer appoints a successor Servicer at the written direction of a Majority of the Preference Shares (excluding any Preference Shares held by the retiring Servicer, any of its Affiliates or any account over which the retiring Servicer or its Affiliates have discretionary voting authority (or, with respect to Class I Preference Shares held by Investors Corp. at such time, Holding Preference Shares held by the retiring Servicer, any of its Affiliates or any account over which the retiring Servicer or its Affiliates have discretionary voting authority) other than, with respect to the Class II Preference Shares, HFP; provided that, with respect to the voting authority of Class II Preference Shares owned by HFP, such vote shall not be excluded only if such vote is determined by a vote of the majority of the "independent directors" (determined in accordance with the governing documents of HFP and certified in writing to the Preference Shares Paying Agent by any of the "independent directors" of HFP) of HFP) (each such non-excluded Preference Share, a "Voting Preference Share"), (B) such successor Servicer has agreed in writing to assume all of the retiring Servicer's duties and obligations pursuant to this Agreement and the Indenture and (C) such successor Servicer is not objected to within 30 days after notice of such succession by either (x) a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes held by the retiring Servicer, its Affiliates or any account over which the retiring Servicer or its Affiliates have discretionary voting authority other than HFP; provided that, with respect to the voting authority of Notes owned by HFP, such vote shall not be excluded only if such vote is determined by a vote of the majority of the "independent directors" (determined in accordance with the governing documents of HFP and certified in writing to the Trustee by any of the "independent directors" of HFP) of HFP) (each such non-excluded Note, a "Voting Note") or (y) a Majority in Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Voting Notes (voting as a single class);

(ii) if a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares has nominated two or more successor Servicers that have been objected to pursuant to the preceding clause (i)(C) or has failed to appoint a successor Servicer that has not been objected to pursuant to the preceding clause (i)(C) within 60 days of the date of notice of such removal or resignation of the Servicer, (A) the Issuer appoints a successor Servicer at the written direction of a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes), (B) such successor Servicer has agreed in writing to assume all of the retiring Servicer's duties and obligations pursuant to this Agreement and the Indenture and (C) such successor Servicer is not objected to within 30 days after notice of such succession by either (x) Majority of the Voting Preference Shares or (y) a Majority in Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Voting Notes (voting as a single class); or nominated two or more successor Servicers that have been objected to pursuant to the preceding clauses (i)(C) and (ii)(C) or has otherwise failed to appoint a successor Servicer that has not been objected to pursuant to the preceding clause (i)(C) or (ii)(C) within 120 days of the date of notice of such removal or resignation of the Servicer, (A) any Holder of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes), any Holder of Voting Preference Shares or the Trustee petitions a court of competent authority to appoint a successor Servicer, (B) such court appoints a successor Servicer and (C) such successor Servicer has agreed in writing to assume all of the retiring Servicer's duties and obligations pursuant to this Agreement and the Indenture.

In addition, any successor Servicer must be an established institution which (i) has demonstrated an ability to professionally and competently perform duties similar to those imposed upon the Servicer hereunder, (ii) is legally qualified and has the capacity to act as Servicer hereunder, as successor to the Servicer under this Agreement in the assumption of all of the responsibilities, duties and obligations of the Servicer hereunder and under the applicable terms of the Indenture, (iii) shall not cause the Issuer or the pool of Collateral to become required to register under the provisions of the Investment Company Act, (iv) shall perform its duties as Servicer under this Agreement and the Indenture without causing the Issuer, the Co Issuer or any Holder of Preference Shares to become subject to tax in any jurisdiction where such successor Servicer is established as doing business and (v) each Rating Agency has confirmed that the appointment of such successor Servicer shall not cause its then current rating of any Class of Notes to be reduced or withdrawn. No compensation payable to a successor Servicer from payments on the Collateral shall be greater than that paid to the retiring Servicer without the prior written consent of a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes, a Majority of the Noteholders and a Majority of the Preference Shares. The Issuer, the Trustee and the successor Servicer shall take such action (or cause the retiring Servicer to take such action) consistent with this Agreement and the terms of the Indenture applicable to the Servicer, as shall be necessary to effectuate any such succession.

(f) In the event of removal of the Servicer pursuant to this Agreement, the Issuer shall have all of the rights and remedies available with respect thereto at law or equity, and, without limiting the foregoing, the Issuer or, to the extent so provided in the Indenture, the Trustee may by notice in writing to the Servicer as provided under this Agreement terminate all the rights and obligations of the Servicer under this Agreement (except those that survive termination pursuant to Section 12(d) above). Upon expiration of the applicable notice period with respect to termination specified in this Section 12 or Section 14 of this Agreement, as applicable, all authority and power of the Servicer under this Agreement, whether with respect to the Collateral or otherwise, shall automatically and without further action by any person or entity pass to and be vested in the successor Servicer upon the appointment thereof.

13. Delegation; Assignments.

This Agreement, and any obligations or duties of the Servicer hereunder, shall not be delegated by the Servicer, in whole or in part, except to any entity that (i) is controlled by any of James Dondero, Mark Okada and Todd Travers and (ii) is one in which any of James Dondero, Mark Okada and Todd Travers is involved in the day to day management and operations (and in any such case pursuant to an instrument of delegation in form and substance satisfactory to the Issuer), without the prior written consent of the Issuer, a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes) and a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares and, notwithstanding any such consent, no delegation of obligations or duties by the Servicer (including, without limitation, to an entity described above) shall relieve the Servicer from any liability hereunder.

Subject to Section 12, any assignment of this Agreement to any Person, in whole or in part, by the Servicer shall be deemed null and void unless (i) such assignment is consented to in writing

by the Issuer, a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes) and a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares and (ii) the Rating Agency Confirmation is satisfied with respect to any such assignment. Any assignment consented to by the Issuer, a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes) and a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares shall bind the assignee hereunder in the same manner as the Servicer is bound. In addition, the assignee shall execute and deliver to the Issuer and the Trustee a counterpart of this Agreement naming such assignee as Servicer. Upon the execution and delivery of such a counterpart by the assignee and consent thereto by the Issuer, a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes) and a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares, the Servicer shall be released from further obligations pursuant to this Agreement, except with respect to its obligations arising under Section 10 of this Agreement prior to such assignment and except with respect to its obligations under Sections 2(c)(i) and 15 hereof. This Agreement shall not be assigned by the Issuer without the prior written consent of the Servicer and the Trustee, except in the case of assignment by the Issuer to (i) an entity which is a successor to the Issuer permitted under the Indenture, in which case such successor organization shall be bound hereunder and by the terms of said assignment in the same manner as the Issuer is bound thereunder or (ii) the Trustee as contemplated by the Indenture. In the event of any assignment by the Issuer, the Issuer shall cause its successor to execute and deliver to the Servicer such documents as the Servicer shall consider reasonably necessary to effect fully such assignment. The Servicer hereby consents to the matters set forth in Article 15 of the Indenture.

14. Termination by the Issuer for Cause.

Subject to Section 12(e) above, this Agreement shall be terminated and the Servicer shall be removed by the Issuer for cause upon 10 days' prior written notice to the Servicer and upon written notice to the Holders of the Securities as set forth below, but only if directed to do so by (1) the Trustee, acting at the direction of a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes) or (2) the Holders of a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares. For purposes of determining "cause" with respect to any such termination of this Agreement, such term shall mean any one of the following events:

(a) the Servicer willfully breaches in any respect, or takes any action that it knows violates in any respect, any provision of this Agreement or any terms of the Indenture applicable to it;

(b) the Servicer breaches in any material respect any provision of this Agreement or any terms of the Indenture or the Collateral Administration Agreement applicable to it, or any representation, warranty, certification or statement given in writing by the Servicer shall prove to have been incorrect in any material respect when made or given, and the Servicer fails to cure such breach or take such action so that the facts (after giving effect to such action) conform in all material respects to such representation, warranty, certificate or statement, in each case within 30 days of becoming aware of, or receiving notice from, the Trustee of, such breach or materially incorrect representation, warranty, certificate or statement;

or of any substantial part of its properties or assets, or authorizes such an application or consent, or proceedings seeking such appointment are commenced without such authorization, consent or application against the Servicer and continue undismissed for 60 days; (iii) authorizes or files a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, or applies for or consents (by admission of material allegations of a petition or otherwise) to the application of any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, readjustment of debt, insolvency or dissolution, or authorizes such application or consent, or proceedings to such end are instituted against the Servicer without such authorization, application or consent and are approved as properly instituted and remain undismissed for 60 days or result in adjudication of bankruptcy or insolvency; or (iv) permits or suffers all or any substantial part of its properties or assets to be sequestered or attached by court order and the order remains undismissed for 60 days;

(d) the occurrence of any Event of Default under the Indenture that results from any breach by the Servicer of its duties under the Indenture or this Agreement, which breach or default is not cured within any applicable cure period; or

(e) (x) the occurrence of an act by the Servicer related to its activities in any servicing, securities, financial advisory or other investment business that constitutes fraud, (y) the Servicer being indicted, or any of its principals being convicted, of a felony criminal offense related to its activities in any servicing, securities, financial advisory or other investment business or (z) the Servicer being indicted for, adjudged liable in a civil suit for, or convicted of a violation of the Securities Act or any other United States Federal securities law or any rules or regulations thereunder.

If any of the events specified in this Section 14 shall occur, the Servicer shall give prompt written notice thereof to the Issuer, the Trustee and the Holders of all outstanding Notes and Preference Shares upon the Servicer's becoming aware of the occurrence of such event.

15. Action Upon Termination.

(a) From and after the effective date of termination of this Agreement, the Servicer shall not be entitled to compensation for further services hereunder, but shall be paid all compensation accrued to the date of termination, as provided in Section 8 hereof, and shall be entitled to receive any amounts owing under Section 10 hereof. Upon the effective date of termination of this Agreement, the Servicer shall as soon as practicable:

(i) deliver to the Issuer all property and documents of the Trustee or the Issuer or otherwise relating to the Collateral then in the custody of the Servicer; and

(ii) deliver to the Trustee an accounting with respect to the books and records delivered to the Trustee or the successor Servicer appointed pursuant to Section 12(e) hereof.

Notwithstanding such termination, the Servicer shall remain liable to the extent set forth herein (but subject to Section 10 hereof) for its acts or omissions hereunder arising prior to termination and for any expenses, losses, damages, liabilities, demands, charges and claims (including reasonable attorneys' fees) in respect of or arising out of a breach of the representations and warranties made by the Servicer in Section 16(b) hereof or from any failure of the Servicer to comply with the provisions of this Section 15.

(b) The Servicer agrees that, notwithstanding any termination of this Agreement, it shall reasonably cooperate in any Proceeding arising in connection with this Agreement, the Indenture or any of the Collateral (excluding any such Proceeding in which claims are asserted against the Servicer or any Affiliate of the Servicer) upon receipt of appropriate indemnification and expense reimbursement.

(iv) The Issuer is not in violation of its Governing Instruments or in breach or violation of or in default under the Indenture or any contract or agreement to which it is a party or by which it or any of its assets may be bound, or any applicable statute or any rule, regulation or order of any court, government agency or body having jurisdiction over the Issuer or its properties, the breach or violation of which or default under which would have a material adverse effect on the validity or enforceability of this Agreement or the performance by the Issuer of its duties hereunder.

(v) True and complete copies of the Indenture and the Issuer's Governing Instruments have been delivered to the Servicer.

The Issuer agrees to deliver a true and complete copy of each amendment to the documents referred to in Section 16(a)(v) above to the Servicer as promptly as practicable after its adoption or execution.

(ii) The Servicer has full power and authority to execute, deliver and perform this Agreement and all obligations required hereunder and under the provisions of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer, and has taken all necessary action to authorize this Agreement on the terms and conditions hereof and the execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement and all obligations required hereunder and under the terms of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer. No consent of any other person, including, without limitation, creditors of the Servicer, and no license, permit, approval or authorization of, exemption by, notice or report to, or registration, filing or declaration with, any governmental authority is required by the Servicer in connection with this Agreement or the execution, delivery, performance, validity or enforceability of this Agreement or the obligations required hereunder or under the terms of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer. (iv) There is no charge, investigation, action, suit or proceeding before or by any court pending or, to the best knowledge of the Servicer, threatened that, if determined adversely to the Servicer, would have a material adverse effect upon the performance by the Servicer of its duties under, or on the validity or enforceability of, this Agreement and the provisions of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer.

(v) The Servicer is a registered investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act.

(vi) The Servicer is not in violation of its Governing Instruments or in breach or violation of or in default under any contract or agreement to which it is a party or by which it or any of its property may be bound, or any applicable statute or any rule, regulation or order of any court, government agency or body having jurisdiction over the Servicer or its properties, the breach or violation of which or default under which would have a material adverse effect on the validity or enforceability of this Agreement or the provisions of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer, or the performance by the Servicer of its duties hereunder.

18. Binding Nature of Agreement; Successors and Assigns.

This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, personal representatives, successors and permitted assigns as provided herein. The Servicer hereby consents to the collateral assignment of this Agreement as provided in the Indenture and further agrees that the Trustee may enforce the Servicer's obligations hereunder.

19. Entire Agreement.

This Agreement contains the entire agreement and understanding among the parties hereto with respect to the subject matter hereof, and supersedes all prior and contemporaneous agreements, understandings, inducements and conditions, express or implied, oral or written, of any nature whatsoever with respect to the subject matter hereof. The express terms hereof control and supersede any course of performance and/or usage of the trade inconsistent with any of the terms hereof. This Agreement may not be modified or amended other than by an agreement in writing executed by the parties hereto and in accordance with the terms of Section 15.1(h) of the Indenture.

20. Conflict with the Indenture.

Subject to the last two sentences of Section 2(a)(i), in the event that this Agreement requires any action to be taken with respect to any matter and the Indenture requires that a different action be taken with respect to such matter, and such actions are mutually exclusive, the provisions of the Indenture in respect thereof shall control.

21. Priority of Payments.

The Servicer agrees that the payment of all amounts to which it is entitled pursuant to this Agreement and the Indenture shall be due and payable only in accordance with the priorities set forth in the Indenture and only to the extent funds are available for such payments in accordance with such priorities.

22. Governing Law.

THIS AGREEMENT SHALL BE CONSTRUED IN ACCORDANCE WITH AND GOVERNED BY THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, WITHOUT REFERENCE TO ITS PROVISIONS THAT WOULD RESULT IN THE APPLICATION OF THE LAWS OF ANOTHER JURISDICTION.

23. Indulgences Not Waivers.

Neither the failure nor any delay on the part of any party hereto to exercise any right, remedy, power or privilege under this Agreement shall operate as a waiver thereof, nor shall any single or partial exercise of any right, remedy, power or privilege preclude any other or further exercise of the same or of any other right, remedy, power or privilege, nor shall any waiver of any right, remedy, power or privilege with respect to any occurrence be construed as a waiver of such right, remedy, power or privilege with respect to any other occurrence. No waiver shall be effective unless it is in writing and is signed by the party asserted to have granted such waiver.

24. Costs and Expenses.

Except as may otherwise be agreed in writing, the costs and expenses (including the fees and disbursements of counsel and accountants) incurred by each party in connection with the negotiation and preparation of and the execution of this Agreement, and all matters incident thereto, shall be borne by such party.

25. Titles Not to Affect Interpretation.

The titles of paragraphs and subparagraphs contained in this Agreement are for convenience only, and they neither form a part of this Agreement nor are they to be used in the construction or interpretation hereof.

26. Execution in Counterparts.

This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts by facsimile or other written form of communication, each of which shall be deemed to be an original as against any party whose signature appears thereon, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument. This Agreement shall become binding when one or more counterparts hereof, individually or taken together, shall bear the signatures of all of the parties reflected hereon as the signatories.

27. Provisions Separable.

In case any provision in this Agreement shall be invalid, illegal or unenforceable as written, such provision shall be construed in the manner most closely resembling the apparent intent of the parties with respect to such provision so as to be valid, legal and enforceable; provided, however, that if there is no basis for such a construction, such provision shall be ineffective only to the extent of such invalidity, illegality or unenforceability and, unless the ineffectiveness of such provision destroys the basis of the bargain for one of the parties to this Agreement, the validity, legality and enforceability of the remaining provisions hereof or thereof shall not in any way be affected or impaired thereby.

28. Number and Gender.

Words used herein, regardless of the number and gender specifically used, shall be deemed and construed to include any other number, singular or plural, and any other gender, masculine, feminine or neuter, as the context requires.

29. Written Disclosure Statement.

30. Miscellaneous.

(a) In the event that any vote is solicited with respect to any Collateral Obligation, the Servicer, on behalf of the Issuer, shall vote or refrain from voting any such security in any manner permitted by the Indenture that the Servicer has determined in its reasonable judgment shall be in the best interests of the Holders of the Securities. In addition, with respect to any Defaulted Collateral Obligation, the Servicer, on behalf of the Issuer, may instruct the trustee for such Defaulted Collateral Obligation to enforce the Issuer's rights under the Underlying Instruments governing such Defaulted

Collateral Obligation and any applicable law, rule or regulation in any manner permitted under the Indenture that the Servicer has determined in its reasonable judgment shall be in the best interests of the Holders of the Securities. In the event any Offer is made with respect to any Collateral Obligation, the Servicer, on behalf of the Issuer, may take such action as is permitted by the Indenture and that the Servicer has determined in its reasonable judgment shall be in the best interests of the Holders of the Securities.

(b) In connection with taking or omitting any action under the Indenture or this Agreement, the Servicer may consult with counsel and may rely in good faith on the advice of such counsel or any opinion of counsel.

Any corporation, partnership or limited liability company into which the Servicer may be merged or converted or with which it may be consolidated, or any corporation, partnership or limited liability company resulting from any merger, conversion or consolidation to which the Servicer shall be a party, or any corporation, partnership or limited liability company succeeding to all or substantially all of the servicing and collateral management business of the Servicer, shall be the successor to the Servicer without any further action by the Servicer, the Co-Issuers, the Trustee, the Noteholders or any other person or entity.

31. Limitation of Liabilities.

The Issuer's obligations hereunder are solely the corporate obligations of the Issuer and the Servicer shall not have any recourse to any of the directors, officers, shareholders, members or incorporators of the Issuer with respect to any claims, losses, damages, liabilities, indemnities or other obligations in connection with any transactions contemplated hereby, except for any claims, losses, damages, liabilities, indemnities or other obligations caused by the gross negligence, bad faith or willful misconduct of such directors, officers, shareholders, members or incorporators of the Issuer. The obligations of the Issuer hereunder shall be limited to the net proceeds of the Collateral, if any, as applied in accordance with the Priorities of Payments pursuant to the Indenture, and following realization of the Collateral and its application in accordance with the Indenture, any outstanding obligations of the Issuer hereunder shall be extinguished and shall not thereafter revive. The provisions of this section shall survive termination of this Agreement.

32. Consent to Posting of Documents on Repository.

The Servicer hereby consents to (i) the posting of the final Offering Memorandum, the Indenture and any Hedge Agreements (collectively, the "Documents") and the periodic reports to be delivered pursuant to the Documents and any amendments or other modifications thereto on the Repository (as such term is defined in the Indenture) for use in the manner provided in the Repository; and (ii) the display of its name on the Repository in connection therewith.

ANNEX 1

Certain Tax Provisions

Unless otherwise noted, references to the Issuer in this Annex 1 include the Servicer and any other person acting on the Issuer's behalf. Capitalized terms used but not defined herein will have the meanings ascribed to them in the Indenture.

For purposes of this Annex 1,

"Affiliate" means, with respect to a specified Person, (a) any other Person that directly, or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, controls or is controlled by, or is under common control with, the specified Person and (b) any Person that is a member, director, officer or employee of (i) the specified Person or (ii) a Person described in clause (a) of this definition; and

"Person" means an individual, a corporation, a limited liability company, a partnership, an association, a trust or any other entity or organization, including a government or political subdivision or an agency or instrumentality thereof.

Section I. General Restrictions.

As provided in this Annex 1, the Issuer (and the Servicer acting on the Issuer's behalf) shall only purchase debt securities, interests in loans and other assets (each a "Portfolio Collateral") only in secondary-market transactions and shall not engage in any lending or underwriting activities or otherwise participate in the structuring or origination of any Portfolio Collateral.

A. Communications and Negotiations.

1. The Issuer will not have any communications or negotiations with the obligor of a Portfolio Collateral or a Reference Obligation (directly or indirectly through an intermediary such as the seller of such Portfolio Collateral or the Synthetic Security) in connection with the issuance or funding of such Portfolio Collateral or Reference Obligation or commitments with respect thereto, except for communications of an immaterial nature or customary due diligence communications; provided, that the Servicer may provide comments as to mistakes or inconsistencies in loan documents (including with respect to any provisions that are inconsistent with the terms and conditions of purchase of the loan by the Issuer).

2. By way of example, permitted due diligence activities may include, but are not limited to, (a) attendance at an obligor's general "roadshow" or other presentations to investment professionals, (b) direct private discussions with personnel of the obligor, arranged by a sponsor, lead bank or other arranger, and (c) other due diligence activities of the kind customarily performed by offerees of the type of Portfolio Collateral being offered, but may not include any negotiations with the obligor, employees or agents of the obligor of any terms or conditions of the Portfolio Collateral being offered.

3. Negotiations between the Servicer and the underwriter, placement agent or broker of a Portfolio Collateral are permitted solely to the extent that they are limited to responses to customary pre-offering period and offering period inquiries by the underwriter or placement agent (e.g., "If we offered you 10-year senior subordinated bonds of XYZ company, what spread would it require to interest you?" or "If you will not buy the bonds as offered, would you buy if we convinced the obligor to add a fixed charge coverage test?"). For purposes of this Section I.A., "negotiations" shall not include (i) commenting on offering documents to an unrelated underwriter or placement agent when the ability to comment was generally available to other offerees, or (ii) communicating certain objective criteria (such as the minimum yield or maturity) the Issuer generally uses in purchasing the relevant type of Portfolio Collateral.

4. The Issuer may consent or otherwise act with respect to amendments, supplements or other modifications of the terms of any Portfolio Collateral (other than a Subsidiary Obligation (as defined in Section III)) requiring consent or action after the date on which any such Portfolio Collateral is acquired by the Issuer if (a) such amendment, supplement or modification would not constitute a Significant Modification (as defined below), (b) (i) in the reasonable judgment of the Servicer, the obligor is in financial distress and such change in terms is desirable to protect the Issuer's interest and (ii) the Portfolio Collateral is described in clause 5(b) of this Section I.A., (c) the amendment or modification would not be treated as the acquisition of a new Portfolio Collateral under paragraph 5 of this Section I.A., or (d) otherwise, if it has received advice of counsel that its involvement in such amendment, supplement or modification will not cause the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a trade or business within the United States.

A "Significant Modification" means any amendment, supplement or other modification that involves (a) a change in the stated maturity or a change in the timing of any material payment of any Portfolio Collateral (including deferral of an interest payment), that would materially alter the weighted average life of the Portfolio Collateral, (b) any change (whether positive or negative) in the yield on the Portfolio Collateral immediately prior to the modification in excess of the greater of (i) 25 basis points or (ii) 5 percent of such unmodified yield, (c) any change involving a material new extension of credit, (d) a change in the obligor of any Portfolio Collateral (as determined for purposes of section 1001 of the Code), or (e) a material change in the collateral or security for any Portfolio Collateral, including the addition or deletion of a co-obligor or guarantor that results in a material change in payment expectations.

5. In the event the Issuer owns an interest in a Portfolio Collateral the terms of which are subsequently amended or modified, or in the case of a workout situation not described in Section III hereof, which Portfolio Collateral is subsequently exchanged for new obligations or other securities of the obligor of the Portfolio Collateral, such amendments or modifications or exchange will not be treated as the acquisition of an interest in a new Portfolio Collateral for purposes of this Annex I, provided, that (a) the Issuer does not, directly or indirectly (through the Servicer or otherwise), seek the amendments or modifications or the exchange, or participate in negotiating the amendments or modifications or the exchange, and (b) at the time of original acquisition of the interest in the Portfolio Collateral, it was not reasonably anticipated that the terms of the Portfolio Collateral would, pursuant to a workout or other negotiation, subsequently be amended or modified.

B. Fees.

The Issuer will not earn or receive from any Person any fee or other compensation for services, however denominated, in connection with its purchase or sale of a Portfolio Collateral or entering into a Synthetic Security; the foregoing prohibition shall not be construed to preclude the Issuer from receiving (i) commitment fees or facility maintenance fees that are received by the Issuer in connection with revolving or delayed drawdown Loans; (ii) yield maintenance and prepayment penalty fees; (iii) fees on account of the Issuer's consenting to amendments, waivers or other modifications of the terms of any items of Portfolio Collateral; (iv) fees from permitted securities lending; or (v) upfront payments in lieu of periodic payments under a Synthetic Security. The Issuer will not provide services to any Person; the foregoing prohibition shall not be construed to preclude the Issuer from activities relating to the receipt of income described in (i) through (v) of the preceding sentence.

Annex 1-2

Section II. Loans and Forward Purchase Commitments.

A. Any understanding or commitment to purchase a loan, a participation, a loan subparticipation or a collateralized loan obligation (collectively, "Loans") from a seller before completion of the closing and full funding of the Loan by such seller shall only be made pursuant to a forward sale agreement at an agreed price (stated as a dollar amount or as a percentage) (a "Forward Purchase Commitment"), unless such an understanding or commitment is not legally binding and neither the Issuer nor the Servicer is economically compelled (e.g., would otherwise be subject to a significant monetary penalty) to purchase the Loan following the completion of the closing and full funding of the Loan (i.e., the Servicer will make an independent decision whether to purchase such Loan on behalf of the Issuer after completion of the closing of the Loan) (a "Non-Binding Agreement").

B. No Forward Purchase Commitment or Non-Binding Agreement shall be made until after the seller (or a transferor to such seller of such Loan) has made a legally binding commitment to fully fund such Loan to the obligor thereof (subject to customary conditions), which commitment cannot be conditioned on the Issuer's ultimate purchase of such Loan from such seller.

C. In the event of any reduced or eliminated funding, the Issuer shall not receive any premium, fee, or other compensation in connection with having entered into the Forward Purchase Commitment or Non-Binding Agreement.

D. The Issuer shall not close any purchase of a Loan subject to a Forward Purchase Commitment or a Non-Binding Agreement earlier than 48 hours after the time of the closing of the Loan (i.e., execution of definitive documentation), and, in the case of a Forward Purchase Commitment, the Issuer's obligation to purchase such Loan is subject to the condition that no material adverse change has occurred in the financial condition of the Loan's obligor or the relevant market on or before the relevant purchase date.

E. The Issuer cannot have a contractual relationship with the obligor with respect to a Loan until the Issuer actually purchases the Loan.

F. The Issuer cannot be a signatory on the original lending agreement, and cannot be obligated to fund an assignment of or a participation in a Loan, prior to the time specified in subsection D above.

Section III. Distressed Debt.

A. The Issuer may only purchase a Debt Instrument that is a Potential Workout Obligation to the extent permitted by this Section III.

B. Neither the Issuer nor the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer shall purchase a Subsidiary Obligation from any Issuer Subsidiary.

C. Special Procedures for Subsidiary Obligations.

1. Potential Workout Obligations. On or prior to the date of acquisition, the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer shall identify each Portfolio Collateral that is a Potential Workout Obligation.

2. Transfer of Subsidiary Obligations. From and after the occurrence of a Workout Determination Date with respect to a Subsidiary Obligation, neither the Issuer nor the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer shall knowingly take any action in respect of such Subsidiary Obligation that may result in the Issuer being engaged, or deemed to be engaged, in a trade or business within the United States for United States federal income tax purposes. As soon as practicable, but in any event within 30 calendar days following a Workout Determination Date, the Servicer shall cause the Issuer either (i) to sell or dispose of any Subsidiary Obligation identified on such Workout Determination Date to a Person that is not an Affiliate of the Issuer or Servicer or (ii) to assign any Subsidiary Obligation identified on such Workout Determination Date to an Issuer Subsidiary.

For purposes of this Annex 1, an "Issuer Subsidiary" means any wholly-owned corporate subsidiary of the Issuer to which a Special Workout Obligation may be transferred in accordance with this Annex 1.

3. Consideration for Assignment of Subsidiary Obligations. Consideration given by an Issuer Subsidiary for the assignment to it of Subsidiary Obligations may be in the form of cash or in the form of indebtedness of, or equity interests in, such Issuer Subsidiary.

4. Classification of Issuer Subsidiaries. Each Issuer Subsidiary shall be an entity treated as a corporation for United States federal income tax purposes and formed under the laws of any state of the United States.

As used herein:

"Potential Workout Obligation" means any debt instrument (any such instrument, including an interest in a Loan, a "Debt Instrument") which, as of the date of acquisition by the Issuer or an Issuer Subsidiary, based on information specific to such Debt Instrument or the circumstances of the obligor thereof, is a Workout Obligation or, in the reasonable determination of the Servicer, has a materially higher likelihood of becoming a Workout Obligation as compared to debt obligations that par or other non-distressed debt purchasers or funds relating to that asset type customarily purchase and expect to hold to maturity.

"Subsidiary Obligation" means any Potential Workout Obligation (a) as to which the Issuer on any Workout Determination Date either (i) owns more than 40% of the aggregate principal amount of such class of Potential Workout Obligation outstanding or (ii) is one of the two largest holders of any class of debt of the obligor of such Potential Workout Obligation (based on the outstanding principal amount of such class of debt owned by the Issuer as a percentage of the aggregate outstanding principal amount of such class of debt) unless not fewer than three other holders and the Issuer collectively own at least 65% of such class of debt and, if the Issuer is the largest holder of such class, the Issuer's percentage of such class does not exceed the percentage held by the next largest holder of the debt by more than 5% of such class or (b) that would, upon foreclosure or exercise of similar legal remedies, result in the Issuer directly owning assets (other than securities treated as debt, equity in a partnership not engaged in a trade or business within the United States, or corporate equity for United States federal income tax purposes, provided in the case of corporate equity that the corporation is not a “United States real property holding corporation” within the meaning of section 897 of the Code) which are “United States real property interests” within the meaning of section 897 of the Code or which the Servicer reasonably expects it would, on behalf of the Issuer, be required to actively manage to preserve the value of the Issuer’s interest therein; provided that a Potential Workout Obligation shall not be treated as a Subsidiary Obligation if the Issuer obtains a Tax Opinion that, based on all the surrounding circumstances, the activities in which the Issuer intends to engage with respect to such Potential Workout Obligation will not cause the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a trade or business for United States federal income tax purposes.

“Workout Determination Date” means any date on which, in connection with the occurrence of any event described in clauses (a) through (c), inclusive, of the definition of Workout Obligation, either (a) any material action by the Issuer is required to be taken, (b) the Servicer receives written notice that such material action shall be required or (c) the Servicer reasonably determines that the taking of such material action is likely to be required.

“Workout Obligation” means any Debt Instrument as to which the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer (a) consents to a Significant Modification in connection with the workout of a defaulted Portfolio Collateral, (b) participates in an official or unofficial committee or similar official or unofficial body in connection with a bankruptcy, reorganization, restructuring or similar proceeding, or (c) exercises, or has exercised on its behalf, rights of foreclosure or similar judicial remedies.

Section IV. Purchases from the Servicer or its Affiliates.

A. If the Servicer or an Affiliate of the Servicer acted as an underwriter, placement or other agent, arranger, negotiator or structuror, or received any fee for services (it being understood that receipts described in clauses (i) through (v) of Section I.B. are not construed as so treated), in connection with the issuance or origination of a Portfolio Collateral or was a member of the original lending syndicate with respect to the Portfolio Collateral (any such Portfolio Collateral, a “Special Procedures Obligation”), the Issuer will not acquire any interest in such Special Procedures Obligation (including entering into a commitment or agreement, whether or not legally binding or enforceable, to acquire such obligation directly or synthetically), from the Servicer, an Affiliate of the Servicer, or a fund managed by the Servicer, unless (i) the Special Procedures Obligation has been outstanding for at least 90 days, (ii) the holder of the Special Procedures Obligation did not identify the obligation or security as intended for sale to the Issuer within 90 days of its issuance, (iii) the price paid for such Special Procedures Obligation by the Issuer is its fair market value at the time of acquisition by the Issuer, and (iv) the transaction is proposed to, and the ultimate purchase is approved on behalf of the Issuer by, one or more Independent Advisors to the Issuer in accordance with the provisions of Section IV.B. below. The Issuer will not acquire any Special Procedures Obligation if, immediately following such acquisition, the fair market value of all Special Procedures Obligations owned by the Issuer would constitute more than 49% of the fair market value of all of the Issuer’s assets at such time.

B. An “Independent Advisor” is a Person who is not an Affiliate of the Issuer, the Servicer or any fund managed by the Servicer.

1. The Issuer may not purchase or commit to enter into any such Special Procedures Obligation without prior approval by an Independent Advisor. If the Independent Advisor declines to approve a proposed Special Procedures Obligation, at least three months must elapse before any proposal with respect to the acquisition of debt or other obligations of the same obligor are proposed or considered.

Annex 1-5

2. The Issuer shall engage the Independent Advisor in an agreement the terms of which shall in substantial form set forth:

(a) the representation of the Independent Advisor, which the Servicer shall not know to be incorrect, that it has significant financial and commercial expertise, including substantial expertise and knowledge in and of the loan market and related investment arenas;

(b) the agreement between the Independent Advisor, the Issuer and the Servicer generally to the effect that (i) the Independent Advisor will operate pursuant to procedures consistent with maintaining his or her independence from the Servicer and its Affiliates, (ii) the Independent Advisor will have the sole authority and discretion to approve or reject purchase proposals made by the Servicer with respect to any Special Procedures Obligation, (iii) all proposals for the Issuer to acquire any Special Procedures Obligation will be first submitted to the Independent Advisor, (iii) the Servicer will prepare the materials it deems necessary to describe the Special Procedures Obligation to the Independent Advisor, (iv) the Investment Advisor will not be required to make any decision to accept or decline a Special Procedures Obligation at the price offered prior to its review of the materials prepared, plus any additional information requested by the Independent Advisor, and (v) no Independent Advisor may be proposed to be replaced by the Servicer, unless for cause or in the event of a resignation of such Independent Advisor; and

(c) such other commercially reasonable terms and conditions, including terms and conditions to the effect that (i) the Independent Advisor will be paid a reasonable fee for its services plus reimbursement of any reasonable expenses incurred in performance of his or her responsibilities, (ii) the Independent Advisor may be removed or replaced only by a majority (whether by positive act or failure to object) of the probable equity owners (as determined for United States federal income tax purposes) of the Issuer, (iii) if at any time there is more than one Independent Advisor to the Issuer, a majority of such Independent Advisors must approve any Special Procedures Obligation subject to Independent Advisor approval, (iv) an Independent Advisor may not engage, directly or indirectly, in the negotiation of the terms of any Special Procedures Obligation to be acquired by the Issuer (provided however, that an Independent Advisor may negotiate with the Servicer or the seller with respect to the price and terms of the Issuer's purchase of the Special Procedures Obligation, provided further that the Independent Advisor will not make suggestions to the Servicer or any other person about alternative or modified terms of the underlying Special Procedures Obligation on which they might be willing to approve such a Special Procedures Obligation).

3. Any servicing agreement or other document under which the Servicer is granted signatory powers or other authority on behalf of the Issuer will provide that such powers or authority with respect to Special Procedures Obligations are conditioned upon the prior written approval of the Independent Advisor

4. No Special Procedures Obligation will be presented to an Independent Advisor until at least 90 days have elapsed since the later of (a) the execution of final documentation and (b) the funding in whole or part of the Special Procedures Obligation and there will have been no commitment or arrangement prior to that time that the Issuer will acquire any such Special Procedures Obligation; provided, further, that if the person from whom the Issuer will acquire the

OHS West:260124435.7

Special Procedures Obligation is an Affiliate of the Servicer, such person will not be treated as owning the Special Procedures Obligation for any day during which it does not enjoy substantially all of the benefits and burdens of ownership (for example, because it has hedged its credit exposure to the Special Procedures Obligation).

5. The Issuer will have no obligation to, or understanding that it will refund, reimburse or indemnify any person (including an Affiliate of the Servicer), directly or indirectly, for "breakage" costs or other costs or expenses incurred by such person if the Independent Advisor determines that the Issuer should decline to purchase any Special Procedures Obligation.

6. Neither the Servicer nor any Affiliate of the Servicer will have any authority to enter into agreements, or take any action, on behalf of the Issuer with respect to Special Procedures Obligations without the prior written approval of an Independent Advisor. Except as may be conditioned upon such prior written approval, neither the Servicer nor any Affiliate of the Servicer may hold itself out as having signatory powers on behalf of the Issuer or authority to enter into agreements with respect to Special Procedures Obligations on behalf of the Issuer.

Section V. Synthetic Securities.

A. The Issuer shall not (i) acquire or enter into any Synthetic Security with respect to any Reference Obligation the direct acquisition of which would violate any provision of this Annex 1 or (ii) use Synthetic Securities as a means of making advances to the Synthetic Security Counterparty following the date on which the Synthetic Security is acquired or entered into (for the avoidance of doubt, the establishment of Synthetic Security collateral accounts and the payment of Synthetic Security Counterparties from the amounts on deposit therein, shall not constitute the making of advances).

B. With respect to each Synthetic Security, the Issuer will not acquire or enter into any Synthetic Security that does not satisfy all of the following additional criteria unless the Servicer has first received advice of counsel that the ownership and disposition of such Synthetic Security would not cause the Issuer to be engaged in a trade or business within the United States for United States federal income tax purposes:

1. the criteria used to determine whether to enter into any particular Synthetic Security was similar to the criteria used by the Servicer in making purchase decisions with respect to debt securities;

2. the Synthetic Security is acquired by or entered into by the Issuer for its own account and for investment purposes with the expectation of realizing a profit from income earned on the securities (and any potential rise in their value) during the interval of time between their purchase and sale or hedging purposes and not with an intention to trade or to sell for a short-term profit;

3. the Issuer enters into the Synthetic Security with a counterparty that is not a special purpose vehicle and is a broker-dealer or that holds itself out as in the business of entering into such contracts;

4. neither the Issuer nor any Person acting on behalf of the Issuer advertises or publishes the Issuer's ability to enter into Synthetic Securities;

Annex 1-7

5. except with respect to (x) credit-linked notes or similar Synthetic Securities and (y) any other Synthetic Securities where standard form ISDA documentation is not applicable, the Synthetic Security is written on standard form ISDA documentation;

6. the net payment from the Issuer to the Synthetic Security Counterparty is not determined based on an actual loss incurred by the Synthetic Security Counterparty or any other designated person;

7. there exists no agreement, arrangement or understanding that (i) the Synthetic Security Counterparty is required to own or hold the related Reference Obligation while the Synthetic Security remains in effect or (ii) the Synthetic Security Counterparty is economically or practically compelled to own or hold the related physical Reference Obligation while the Synthetic Security remains in effect;

8. the Synthetic Security provides for (i) all cash settlement, (ii) all physical settlement or (iii) the option to either cash settle or physically settle; provided that, in the latter two cases, physical settlement provides the settling party the right to settle the Synthetic Security by delivering deliverable obligations which may include the Reference Obligation and the settling party must not be required to deliver the related Reference Obligation upon the settlement of such Synthetic Security.

Notwithstanding the preceding paragraph, a Synthetic Security providing for physical settlement may require a party to deliver the related Reference Obligation if either:

(i) at the time the Issuer enters into such Synthetic Security, such Reference Obligation is readily available to purchasers generally in a liquid market; or

(ii) the advice of both United States federal income tax and insurance counsel of nationally recognized standing in the United States experienced in such matters is that, under the relevant facts and circumstances with respect to such Synthetic Security, the acquisition of such Synthetic Security will not cause the Issuer to be engaged, or deemed to be engaged, in a trade or business within the United States for United States federal income tax purposes or otherwise to be subject to United States federal income tax on a net basis and should not cause the Issuer to be treated as writing insurance in the United States under the law of the state in which the Synthetic Security Counterparty is organized.

9. the Synthetic Security is not treated by the Issuer as insurance or a financial guarantee sold by the Issuer for United States or Cayman Islands regulatory purposes.

As used herein:

"Reference Obligation" means a debt security or other obligation upon which a Synthetic Security is based.

"Synthetic Security" means any swap transaction or security, other than a participation interest in a Loan, that has payments associated with either payments of interest and/or principal on a Reference Obligation or the credit performance of a Reference Obligation.

"Synthetic Security Counterparty" means an entity (other than the Issuer) required to make payments on a Synthetic Security (including any guarantor).

Annex 1-8

Section VI. Other Types of Assets.

A. Equity Restrictions. The Issuer will not purchase any asset (directly or synthetically) that is:

1. not treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as debt if the issuing entity is a “partnership”(within the meaning of Section 7701(a)(2) of the Code) unless such entity is not engaged in a trade or business within the United States, or
2. a “United States real property interest” as defined in section 897 of the Code and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder.

The Issuer may cause an Issuer Subsidiary to acquire assets set forth in clause (i) or (ii) above (each, an “ETB/897 Asset”) in connection with the workout of defaulted Portfolio Collaterals, so long as the acquisition of ETB/897 Assets by such Issuer Subsidiary will not cause the stock of such Issuer Subsidiary to be deemed to be an ETB/897 Asset.

B. Revolving Loans and Delayed Drawdown Loans. All of the terms of any advance required to be made by the Issuer under any revolving or delayed drawdown Loan will be fixed as of the date of the Issuer’s purchase thereof (or will be determinable under a formula that is fixed as of such date), and the Issuer and the Servicer will not have any discretion (except for consenting or withholding consent to amendments, waivers or other modifications or granting customary waivers upon default) as to whether to make advances under such revolving or delayed drawdown Loan.

C. Securities Lending Agreements. The Issuer will not purchase any Portfolio Collateral primarily for the purpose of entering into a securities lending agreement with respect thereto.

Section VII. General Restrictions on the Issuer.

The Issuer itself shall not:

- A. hold itself out, through advertising or otherwise, as originating Loans, lending funds, or making a market in or dealing in Loans or other assets;
- B. register as, hold itself out as, or become subject to regulatory supervision or other legal requirements under the laws of any country or political subdivision thereof as, a broker-dealer, a bank, an insurance company, financial guarantor, a surety bond issuer, or a company engaged in Loan origination;
- C. knowingly take any action causing it to be treated as a bank, insurance company, or company engaged in Loan origination for purposes of any tax, securities law or other filing or submission made to any governmental authority;
- D. hold itself out, through advertising or otherwise, as originating, funding, guaranteeing or insuring debt obligations or as being willing and able to enter into transactions (either purchases or sales of debt obligations or entries into, assignments or terminations of hedging or derivative instruments, including Synthetic Securities) at the request of others;
- E. treat Synthetic Securities as insurance, reinsurance, indemnity bonds, guaranties, guaranty bonds or suretyship contracts for any purpose;

F. allow any non-U.S. bank or lending institution who is a holder of a Security to control or direct the Servicer's or Issuer's decision to acquire a particular asset except as otherwise allowed to such a holder, acting in that capacity, under the related indenture or acquire a Portfolio Collateral conditioned upon a particular person or entity holding Securities;

G. acquire any asset the holding or acquisition of which the Servicer knows would cause the Issuer to be subject to income tax on a net income basis;

H. hold any security as nominee for another person; or

I. buy securities with the intent to subdivide them and sell the components or to buy securities and sell them with different securities as a package or unit.

Section VIII. Tax Opinion; Amendments.

A. In furtherance and not in limitation of this Annex 1, the Servicer shall comply with all of the provisions set forth in this Annex 1, unless, with respect to a particular transaction, the Servicer acting on behalf of the Issuer and the Trustee shall have received written advice of Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP or Orrick, Herrington & Sutcliffe LLP or an opinion of other counsel of nationally recognized standing in the United States experienced in such matters (a "Tax Opinion"), that, under the relevant facts and circumstances with respect to such transaction, the Servicer's failure to comply with one or more of such provisions will not cause the Issuer to be engaged, or deemed to be engaged, in a trade or business within the United States for United States federal income tax purposes or otherwise to be subject to United States federal income tax on a net basis.

B. The provisions set forth in the Annex may be amended, eliminated or supplemented by the Servicer if the Issuer, the Servicer and the Trustee shall have received a Tax Opinion that the Servicer's compliance with such amended provisions or supplemental provisions or the failure to comply with such provisions proposed to be eliminated, as the case may be, will not cause the Issuer to be engaged, or deemed to be engaged, in a trade or business within the United States for United States federal income tax purposes or otherwise to be subject to United States federal income tax on a net basis.

2. General Duties of the Servicer.

(a) The Servicer shall provide services to the Issuer as follows:

(i) Subject to and in accordance with the terms of this Agreement and the other Transaction Documents, the Servicer shall supervise and direct the administration, acquisition and disposition of the Collateral, and shall perform on behalf of the Issuer those duties and obligations of the Servicer required by the Indenture and the other Transaction Documents, and including the furnishing of Issuer Orders, Issuer Requests and officer’s certificates, and such certifications as are required of the Servicer under the Indenture with respect to permitted purchases and sales of the Collateral Obligations, Eligible Investments and other assets, and other matters, and, to the extent necessary or appropriate to perform such duties, the Servicer shall have the power to execute and deliver all necessary and appropriate documents and instruments on behalf of the Issuer with respect thereto. The Servicer shall, subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement and the other Transaction Documents, perform its obligations hereunder and thereunder with reasonable care, using a degree of skill and attention no less than that which the Servicer exercises with respect to comparable assets that it services or manages for others having similar objectives and restrictions, and in a manner consistent with practices and procedures followed by institutional servicers or managers of national standing relating to assets of the nature and character of the Collateral for clients having similar objectives and restrictions, except as expressly provided otherwise in this Agreement and/or the other Transaction Documents. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, the Servicer shall follow its customary standards, policies and procedures in performing its duties under the Indenture and hereunder. The Servicer shall comply with all terms and conditions of the other Transaction Documents affecting the duties and functions to be performed hereunder. The Servicer shall not be bound to follow any amendment to any Transaction Document until it has received written notice thereof and until it has received a copy of the amendment from the Issuer or the Trustee; provided, however, that the Servicer shall not be bound by any amendment to any Transaction Document that affects the rights, powers, obligations or duties of the Servicer unless the Servicer shall have consented thereto in writing. The Issuer agrees that it shall not permit any amendment to the Indenture that (x) affects the rights, powers, obligations or duties of the Servicer or (y) affects the amount or priority of any fees payable to the Servicer to become effective unless the Servicer has been given prior written notice of such amendment and consented thereto in writing;

(ii) the Servicer shall select any Collateral which shall be acquired by the Issuer pursuant to the Indenture in accordance with the Collateral criteria set forth herein and in the Indenture;

(iii) the Servicer shall monitor the Collateral on an ongoing basis and provide to the Issuer all reports, certificates, schedules and other data with respect to the Collateral which the Issuer is required to prepare and deliver under the Indenture, in the form and containing all information required thereby and in reasonable time for the Issuer to review such required reports, certificates, schedules and data and to deliver them to the parties entitled thereto under the Indenture;

(iv) the Servicer shall undertake to determine to the extent reasonably practicable whether a Collateral Obligation has become a Defaulted Collateral Obligation;

(v) the Servicer, subject to and in accordance with the provisions of the Indenture may, at any time permitted under the Indenture, and shall, when required by the Indenture, direct the Trustee (x) to dispose of a Collateral Obligation, Equity Security or Eligible Investment or other securities received in respect thereof in the open market or otherwise, (y) to acquire, as security for the Notes in substitution for or in addition to any one or more Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investments included in the Collateral, one or more substitute Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investments, or (z) direct the Trustee to take the following actions with respect to a Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment:

- (1) retain such Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment;
- or
- (2) dispose of such Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment in the open market or otherwise; or
  - (3) if applicable, tender such Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment pursuant to an Offer; or

(4) if applicable, consent to any proposed amendment, modification or waiver pursuant to an Offer; or

(5) retain or dispose of any securities or other property (if other than cash) received pursuant to an Offer; or

(6) waive any default with respect to any Defaulted Collateral Obligation; or

(7) vote to accelerate the maturity of any Defaulted Collateral Obligation; or

(8) exercise any other rights or remedies with respect to such Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment as provided in the related Underlying Instruments, including in connection with any workout situations, or take any other action consistent with the terms of the Indenture which is in the best interests of the Holders of the Securities; and

(vi) the Servicer shall (a) on or prior to any day which is a Redemption Date, direct the Trustee to enter into contracts to dispose of the Collateral Obligation and any other Collateral pursuant to the Indenture and otherwise comply with all redemption procedures and certification requirements in the Indenture in order to allow the Trustee to effect such redemption and (b) conduct auctions in accordance with the terms of the Indenture.

(b) In performing its duties hereunder, the Servicer shall seek to preserve the value of the Collateral for the benefit of the Holders of the Securities taking into account the Collateral criteria and limitations set forth herein and in the Indenture and the Servicer shall use reasonable efforts to select and service the Collateral in such a way that will permit a timely performance of all payment obligations by the Issuer under the Indenture; provided, that the Servicer shall not be responsible if such objectives are not achieved so long as the Servicer performs its duties under this Agreement in the manner provided for herein, and provided, further, that there shall be no recourse to the Servicer with respect to the Notes or the Preference Shares. The Servicer and the Issuer shall take such other action, and furnish such certificates, opinions and other documents, as may be reasonably requested by the other party hereto in order to effectuate the purposes of this Agreement and to facilitate compliance with applicable laws and regulations and the terms of this Agreement.

(c) The Servicer hereby agrees to the following:

(i) The Servicer agrees not to cause the filing of a petition in bankruptcy against the Issuer or the Co-Issuer until the payment in full of all Notes issued under the Indenture and the payment to the Preference Shares Paying Agent of all amounts payable with respect to the Preference Shares in accordance with the Priority of Payments and the expiration of a period equal to the greater of (A) the applicable preference period plus one day or (B) one year and one day following the payment. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Servicer may commence any legal action that is not a bankruptcy, insolvency, liquidation or similar proceeding against the Issuer or the Co-Issuer or any of their properties and may take any action it deems appropriate at any time in any bankruptcy, insolvency, liquidation or similar proceeding and any other Proceeding voluntarily commenced by the Issuer or the Co-Issuer or involuntarily commenced against the Issuer or the Co-Issuer by anyone other than the Servicer or any Affiliate of the Servicer. The provisions of this Section 2(c)(i) shall survive termination of this Agreement.

(ii) The Servicer shall cause each sale or purchase of any Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment to be conducted on an arm's-length basis.

(d) The Servicer shall not act for the Issuer in any capacity except as provided in this Section 2. In providing services hereunder, the Servicer may employ third parties, including its Affiliates, to render advice (including advice with respect to the servicing of the Collateral) and assistance; provided, however, that the Servicer shall not be relieved of any of its duties or liabilities hereunder regardless of the performance of any services by third parties. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, the Servicer shall not be required to take any action required of it pursuant to this Agreement or the Indenture if such action would constitute a violation of any law.

(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement or the Indenture, (i) any granted signatory powers or authority granted to the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer with respect to the Special Procedures Obligations (as defined in Annex 1) shall be conditioned upon the prior written approval of the Independent Advisor (as defined in Annex 1) and (ii) neither the Servicer nor any Affiliate of the Servicer shall have any authority to enter into agreements, or take any action, on behalf of the Issuer with respect to the Special Procedures Obligations without the prior written approval of the Independent Advisor.

3. Brokerage.

The Servicer shall seek to obtain the best prices and execution for all orders placed with respect to the Collateral, considering all reasonable circumstances. Subject to the objective of obtaining best prices and execution, the Servicer may take into consideration research and other brokerage services furnished to the Servicer or its Affiliates by brokers and dealers which are not Affiliates of the Servicer. Such services may be used by the Servicer or its Affiliates in connection with its other servicing or advisory activities or operations. The Servicer may aggregate sales and purchase orders of securities placed with respect to the Collateral with similar orders being made simultaneously for other accounts serviced or managed by the Servicer or with accounts of the Affiliates of the Servicer, if in the Servicer's reasonable judgment such aggregation shall result in an overall economic benefit to the Issuer, taking into consideration the advantageous selling or purchase price, brokerage commission and other expenses. In the event that a sale or purchase of a Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment (in accordance with the terms of the Indenture) occurs as part of any aggregate sales or purchase orders, the objective of the Servicer (and any of its Affiliates involved in such transactions) shall be to allocate the executions among the accounts in an equitable manner and consistent with its obligations hereunder and under applicable law.

In addition to the foregoing and subject to the provisions of Section 2 and the limitations of Section 5, the objective of obtaining best prices and execution and to the extent permitted by applicable law, the Servicer may, on behalf of the Issuer, direct the Trustee to acquire any and all of the Eligible Investments or other Collateral from, or sell Collateral Obligations or other Collateral to, the Initial Purchaser, the Trustee or any of their respective Affiliates, or any other firm.

4. Additional Activities of the Servicer.

Nothing herein shall prevent the Servicer or any of its Affiliates from engaging in other businesses, or from rendering services of any kind to the Trustee, the Holders of the Securities, or any other Person or entity to the extent permitted by applicable law. Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, the Servicer and partners, directors, officers, employees and agents of the Servicer or its Affiliates may, among other things, and subject to any limits specified in the Indenture:

(a) serve as directors (whether supervisory or managing), officers, partners, employees, agents, nominees or signatories for any issuer of any obligations included in the Collateral or their respective Affiliates, to the extent permitted by their Governing Instruments, as from time to time amended, or by any resolutions duly adopted by the Issuer, its Affiliates or any issuer of any obligations included in the Collateral or their respective Affiliates, pursuant to their respective Governing Instruments; provided, that in the reasonable judgment of the Servicer, such activity shall not have a material adverse effect on the enforceability of Collateral or the ability of the Issuer to comply with each Overcollateralization Ratio and each Interest Coverage Test; provided, further, that nothing in this paragraph shall be deemed to limit the duties of the Servicer set forth in Section 2 hereof;

(b) receive fees for services of any nature rendered to the issuer of any obligations included in the Collateral or their respective Affiliates; provided, that in the reasonable judgment of the Servicer, such activity shall not have a material adverse effect on the enforceability of Collateral or the ability of the Issuer to comply with each Coverage Test; and provided, further, that if any portion of such services are related to the purchase by the Issuer of any obligations included in the Collateral, the portion of such fees relating to such obligations shall be applied to the purchase price of such obligations; and

(c) be a secured or unsecured creditor of, or hold an equity interest in, the Issuer, its Affiliates or any issuer of any obligation included in the Collateral; provided, that in the reasonable judgment of the Servicer, such activity shall not have a material adverse effect on the enforceability of Collateral or the ability of the Issuer to comply with each Coverage Test; provided, further, that nothing in this paragraph shall be deemed to limit the duties of the Servicer set forth in Section 2 hereof.

It is understood that the Servicer and any of its Affiliates may engage in any other business and furnish servicing, investment management and advisory services to others, including Persons which may have policies similar to those followed by the Servicer with respect to the Collateral and which may own securities of the same class, or which are the same type, as the Collateral Obligations or other securities of the issuers of Collateral Obligations. The Servicer shall be free, in its sole discretion, to make recommendations to others, or effect transactions on behalf of itself or for others, which may be the same as or different from those effected with respect to the Collateral.

Unless the Servicer determines in its reasonable judgment that such purchase or sale is appropriate, the Servicer may refrain from directing the purchase or sale hereunder of securities issued by (i) Persons of which the Servicer, its Affiliates or any of its or their officers, directors or employees are directors or officers, (ii) Persons for which the Servicer or its Affiliates act as financial adviser or underwriter or (iii) Persons about which the Servicer or any of its Affiliates have information which the Servicer deems confidential or non-public or otherwise might prohibit it from trading such securities in accordance with applicable law. The Servicer shall not be obligated to have or pursue any particular strategy or opportunity with respect to the Collateral.

5. Conflicts of Interest.

(a) The Servicer shall not direct the Trustee to acquire an obligation to be included in the Collateral from the Servicer or any of its Affiliates as principal or to sell an obligation to the Servicer or any of its Affiliates as principal unless (i) the Issuer shall have received from the Servicer such information relating to such acquisition or sale as it may reasonably require and shall have approved such acquisition, which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld, (ii) in the commercially reasonable judgment of the Servicer, such transaction is on terms no less favorable than would be obtained in a transaction conducted on an arm's length basis between third parties unaffiliated with each other and (iii) such transaction is permitted by the United States Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended.

(b) The Servicer shall not direct the Trustee to acquire an obligation to be included in the Collateral directly from any account or portfolio for which the Servicer serves as servicer or investment adviser, or direct the Trustee to sell an obligation directly to any account or portfolio for which the Servicer serves as servicer or investment adviser unless such acquisition or sale is (i) in the commercially reasonable judgment of the Servicer, on terms no less favorable than would be obtained in a transaction conducted on an arm's length basis between third parties unaffiliated with each other and (ii) permitted by the United States Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended.

(c) In addition, the Servicer shall not undertake any transaction described in this Section 5 unless such transaction is exempt from the prohibited transaction rules of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code.

6. Records; Confidentiality.

The Servicer shall maintain appropriate books of account and records relating to services performed hereunder, and such books of account and records shall be accessible for inspection by a representative of the Issuer, the Trustee, the Collateral Administrator, the Holders of the Securities and the Independent accountants appointed by the Issuer pursuant to the Indenture at a mutually agreed time during normal business hours and upon not less than three Business Days' prior notice. At no time shall the Servicer make a public announcement concerning the issuance of the Notes or the Preference Shares, the Servicer's role hereunder or any other aspect of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and the other Transaction Documents. The Servicer shall keep confidential any and all information obtained in connection with the services rendered hereunder and shall not disclose any such information to non-affiliated third parties except (i) with the prior written consent of the Issuer, (ii) such information as either Rating Agency shall reasonably request in connection with the rating of any Class of Securities, (iii) as required by law, regulation, court order or the rules or regulations of any self regulating organization, body or official having jurisdiction over the Servicer, (iv) to its professional advisers, (v) such information as shall have been publicly disclosed other than in violation of this Agreement, or (vi) such information that was or is obtained by the Servicer on a non-confidential basis; provided, that the Servicer does not know or have reason to know of any breach by such source of any confidentiality obligations with respect thereto. For purposes of this Section 6, the Trustee, the Collateral Administrator and the Holders of the Securities shall in no event be considered "non-affiliated third parties."

Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement or the Indenture to the contrary, the Servicer, the Co-Issuers, the Trustee and the Holders of the Securities (and the beneficial owners thereof) (and each of their respective employees, representatives or other agents) may disclose to any and all Persons, without limitation of any kind, the U.S. tax treatment and U.S. tax structure of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and all materials of any kind (including opinions or other tax analyses) that are provided to them relating to such U.S. tax treatment and U.S. tax structure, as such terms are defined under U.S. federal, state or local tax law.

7. Obligations of Servicer.

Unless otherwise specifically required by any provision of the Indenture or this Agreement or by applicable law, the Servicer shall use its best reasonable efforts to ensure that no action is taken by it, and shall not intentionally or with reckless disregard take any action, which would (a) materially adversely affect the Issuer or the Co-Issuer for purposes of Cayman Islands law, United States federal or state law or any other law known to the Servicer to be applicable to the Issuer or the Co-Issuer, (b) not be permitted under the Issuer's Memorandum and Articles of Association or the Co-Issuer's Certificate of Incorporation or By-Laws, (c) violate any law, rule or regulation of any governmental body or agency having jurisdiction over the Issuer or the Co-Issuer including, without limitation, any Cayman Islands or United States federal, state or other applicable securities law the violation of which has or could reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any of the Collateral, (d) require registration of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or the pool of Collateral as an "investment company" under the Investment Company Act, (e) cause the Issuer or the Co-Issuer to violate the terms of the Indenture, including, without limitation, any representations made by the Issuer or Co-Issuer therein, or any other agreement contemplated by the Indenture or (f) not be permitted by Annex 1 hereto and would subject the Issuer to U.S. federal or state income or franchise taxation or cause the Issuer to be engaged in a trade or business in the United States for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The Servicer covenants that it shall comply in all material respects with all laws and regulations applicable to it in connection with the performance of its duties under this Agreement and the Indenture. Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, the Servicer shall not be required to take any action under this Agreement or the Indenture if such action would violate any applicable law, rule, regulation or court order.

8. Compensation.

(a) The Issuer shall pay to the Servicer, for services rendered and performance of its obligations under this Agreement, the Servicing Fee, which shall be payable in such amounts and at such times as set forth in the Indenture. The provisions of the Indenture which relate to the amount and payment of the Servicing Fee shall not be amended without the written consent of the Servicer. If on any Payment Date there are insufficient funds to pay the Servicing Fee (and/or any other amounts due and payable to the Servicer) in full, the amount not so paid shall be deferred and shall be payable on such later Payment Date on which funds are available therefor as provided in the Indenture.

With respect to any Payment Date, the Servicer may, in its sole discretion, at any time waive a portion (or all) of its Servicing Fees then due and payable. All waived amounts will be paid to the Class II Preference Shares as Class II Preference Share Special Payments pursuant to the Indenture. For purposes of any calculation under this Agreement and the Indenture, the Servicer shall be deemed to have received the Servicing Fee in an amount equal to the sum of the Servicing Fee actually paid to the Servicer and the amount distributed to the Holders of the Class II Preference Shares as Class II Preference Share Special Payments.

In addition, notwithstanding anything set out above, the Servicer may, in its sole discretion waive all or any portion of the Subordinated Servicing Fee or Supplemental Servicing Fee, any funds representing the waived Subordinated Servicing Fees and Supplemental Servicing Fees to be retained in the Collection Account for distribution as either Interest Proceeds or Principal Proceeds (as determined by the Servicer) pursuant to the Priority of Payments.

(b) The Servicer shall be responsible for the ordinary expenses incurred in the performance of its obligations under this Agreement, the Indenture and the other Transaction Documents; provided, however, that any extraordinary expenses incurred by the Servicer in the performance of such obligations (including, but not limited to, any fees, expenses or other amounts payable to the Rating Agencies, the Collateral Administrator, the Trustee and the accountants appointed by the Issuer, the reasonable expenses incurred by the Servicer to employ outside lawyers or consultants reasonably necessary in connection with the evaluation, transfer or restructuring of any Collateral Obligation or other unusual matters arising in the performance of its duties under this Agreement and the Indenture, any reasonable expenses incurred by the Servicer in obtaining advice from outside counsel with respect to its obligations under this Agreement, brokerage commissions, transfer fees, registration costs, taxes and other similar costs and transaction related expenses and fees arising out of transactions effected for the Issuer's account and the portion allocated to the Issuer of any other fees and expenses that the Servicer customarily allocates among all of the funds or portfolios that it services or manages, including reasonable expenses incurred with respect to any compliance requirements, including, but not limited to, compliance with the requirements of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, related solely to the ownership or holding of any Securities by HFP or any of its subsidiaries) shall be reimbursed by the Issuer to the extent funds are available therefor in accordance with and subject to the Priority of Payments and other limitations contained in the Indenture.

(c) If this Agreement is terminated pursuant to Section 12, Section 14 or otherwise, the fees payable to the Servicer shall be prorated for any partial periods between Payment Dates during which this Agreement was in effect and shall be due and payable on the first Payment Date following the date of such termination and on any subsequent Payment Dates to the extent remaining unpaid and in accordance with, and to the extent provided in, the Indenture.

9. Benefit of the Agreement.

The Servicer agrees that its obligations hereunder shall be enforceable at the instance of the Issuer, the Trustee, on behalf of the Noteholders, or the requisite percentage of Noteholders or the Holders of the Preference Shares, as applicable, as provided in the Indenture or the Preference Shares Paying Agency Agreement, as applicable.

10. Limits of Servicer Responsibility; Indemnification.

(a) The Servicer assumes no responsibility under this Agreement other than to render the services called for hereunder and under the terms of the other Transaction Documents made applicable to it pursuant to the terms of this Agreement in good faith and, subject to the standard of liability described in the next sentence, shall not be responsible for any action of the Issuer or the Trustee in following or declining to follow any advice, recommendation or direction of the Servicer. The Servicer, its directors, officers, stockholders, partners, agents and employees, and its Affiliates and their directors, officers, stockholders, partners, agents and employees, shall not be liable to the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Trustee, the Preference Shares Paying Agent, the Holders of the Securities or any other person, for any losses, claims, damages, judgments, assessments, costs or other liabilities (collectively, "Liabilities") incurred by the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Trustee, the Preference Shares Paying Agent, the Holders of the Securities or any other person, that arise out of or in connection with the performance by the Servicer of its duties under this Agreement and under the terms of the other Transaction Documents made applicable to it pursuant to the terms of this Agreement, except by reason of (i) acts or omissions constituting bad faith, willful misconduct, gross negligence or breach of fiduciary duty in the performance, or reckless disregard, of the obligations of the Servicer hereunder and under the terms of the other Transaction Documents made applicable to it pursuant to the terms of this Agreement or (ii) with respect to any information included in the Offering Memorandum in the section entitled "The Servicer" that contains any untrue statement of material fact or omits to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading (the preceding clauses (i) and (ii) collectively being the "Servicer Breaches"). For the avoidance of doubt, the Servicer shall have no duty to independently investigate any laws not otherwise known to it in connection with its obligations under this Agreement, the Indenture and the other Transaction Documents. The Servicer shall be deemed to have satisfied the requirements of the Indenture and this Agreement relating to not causing the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a trade or business in the United States for U.S. federal income tax purposes (including as those requirements relate to the acquisition (including manner of acquisition), ownership, enforcement, and disposition of Collateral) to the extent the Servicer complies with the requirements set forth in Annex 1 hereto (unless the Servicer knows that as a result of a change in law the investment restrictions set forth in Annex 1 may no longer be relied upon).

(b) The Issuer shall indemnify and hold harmless (the Issuer in such case, the “Indemnifying Party”) the Servicer, its directors, officers, stockholders, partners, agents and employees (such parties collectively in such case, the “Indemnified Parties”) from and against any and all Liabilities, and shall reimburse each such Indemnified Party for all reasonable fees and expenses (including reasonable fees and expenses of counsel) (collectively, the “Expenses”) as such Expenses are incurred in investigating, preparing, pursuing or defending any claim, action, proceeding or investigation with respect to any pending or threatened litigation (collectively, the “Actions”), caused by, or arising out of or in connection with, the issuance of the Securities, the transactions contemplated by the Offering Memorandum, the Indenture or this Agreement, and/or any action taken by, or any failure to act by, such Indemnified Party; provided, however, that no Indemnified Party shall be indemnified for any Liabilities or Expenses it incurs as a result of any acts or omissions by any Indemnified Party constituting Servicer Breaches. Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the obligations of the Issuer under this Section 10 shall be payable solely out of the Collateral in accordance with, and subject to, the Priority of Payments and shall survive termination of this Agreement.

(c) With respect to any claim made or threatened against an Indemnified Party, or compulsory process or request or other notice of any loss, claim, damage or liability served upon an Indemnified Party, for which such Indemnified Party is or may be entitled to indemnification under this Section 10, such Indemnified Party shall (or with respect to Indemnified Parties that are directors, officers, stockholders, agents or employees of the Servicer, the Servicer shall cause such Indemnified Party to):

(i) give written notice to the Indemnifying Party of such claim within ten (10) days after such Indemnified Party’s receipt of actual notice that such claim is made or threatened, which notice to the Indemnifying Party shall specify in reasonable detail the nature of the claim and the amount (or an estimate of the amount) of the claim; provided, however, that the failure of any Indemnified Party to provide such notice to the Indemnifying Party shall not relieve the Indemnifying Party of its obligations under this Section 10 unless the Indemnifying Party is materially prejudiced or otherwise forfeits rights or defenses by reason of such failure;

(ii) at the Indemnifying Party’s expense, provide the Indemnifying Party such information and cooperation with respect to such claim as the Indemnifying Party may reasonably require, including, but not limited to, making appropriate personnel available to the Indemnifying Party at such reasonable times as the Indemnifying Party may request;

(iii) at the Indemnifying Party’s expense, cooperate and take all such steps as the Indemnifying Party may reasonably request to preserve and protect any defense to such claim;

(iv) in the event suit is brought with respect to such claim, upon reasonable prior notice, afford to the Indemnifying Party the right, which the Indemnifying Party may exercise in its sole discretion and at its expense, to participate in the investigation, defense and settlement of such claim;

(v) neither incur any material expense to defend against nor release or settle any such claim or make any admission with respect thereto (other than routine or incontestable admissions or factual admissions the failure to make which would expose such Indemnified Party to unindemnified liability) nor permit a default or consent to the entry of any judgment in respect thereof, in each case without the prior written consent of the Indemnifying Party; and

(vi) upon reasonable prior notice, afford to the Indemnifying Party the right, in its sole discretion and at its sole expense, to assume the defense of such claim, including, but not limited to, the right to designate counsel reasonably acceptable to the Indemnified Party and to control all negotiations, litigation, arbitration, settlements, compromises and appeals of such claim; provided, that if the Indemnifying Party assumes the defense of such claim, it shall not be liable for any fees and expenses of counsel for any Indemnified Party incurred thereafter in connection with such claim except that if such Indemnified Party reasonably determines that counsel designated by the Indemnifying Party has a conflict of interest in connection with its representation of such Indemnified Party, such Indemnifying Party shall pay the reasonable fees and disbursements of one counsel (in addition to any local counsel) separate from its own counsel for all Indemnified Parties in connection with any one action or separate but similar or related actions in the same jurisdiction arising out of the same general allegations or circumstances; provided, further, that prior to entering into any final settlement or compromise, such Indemnifying Party shall seek the consent of the Indemnified Party and use its commercially reasonable efforts in the light of the then prevailing circumstances (including, without limitation, any express or implied time constraint on any pending settlement offer) to obtain the consent of such Indemnified Party as to the terms of settlement or compromise. If an Indemnified Party does not consent to the settlement or compromise within a reasonable time under the circumstances, the Indemnifying Party shall not thereafter be obligated to indemnify the Indemnified Party for any amount in excess of such proposed settlement or compromise.

(d) In the event that any Indemnified Party waives its right to indemnification hereunder, the Indemnifying Party shall not be entitled to appoint counsel to represent such Indemnified Party nor shall the Indemnifying Party reimburse such Indemnified Party for any costs of counsel to such Indemnified Party.

(e) The U.S. federal securities laws impose liabilities under certain circumstances on persons who act in good faith; accordingly, notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, nothing herein shall in any way constitute a waiver or limitation of any rights which the Issuer or the Holders of the Securities may have under any U.S. federal securities laws.

11. No Partnership or Joint Venture.

The Issuer and the Servicer are not partners or joint venturers with each other and nothing herein shall be construed to make them such partners or joint venturers or impose any liability as such on either of them. The Servicer's relation to the Issuer shall be deemed to be that of an independent contractor.

12. Term; Termination.

(a) This Agreement shall commence as of the date first set forth above and shall continue in force and effect until the first of the following occurs: (i) the payment in full of the Notes, the termination of the Indenture in accordance with its terms and the redemption in full of the Preference Shares; (ii) the liquidation of the Collateral and the final distribution of the proceeds of such liquidation to the Holders of the Securities; or (iii) the termination of this Agreement in accordance with subsection (b), (c), (d) or (e) of this Section 12 or Section 14 of this Agreement.

(b) Subject to Section 12(e) below, the Servicer may resign, upon 90 days' written notice to the Issuer (or such shorter notice as is acceptable to the Issuer). If the Servicer resigns, the Issuer agrees to appoint a successor servicer to assume such duties and obligations in accordance with Section 12(e).

(c) This Agreement shall be automatically terminated in the event that the Issuer determines in good faith that the Issuer or the pool of Collateral has become required to be registered under the provisions of the Investment Company Act, and the Issuer notifies the Servicer thereof.

(d) If this Agreement is terminated pursuant to this Section 12, neither party shall have any further liability or obligation to the other, except as provided in Sections 2(c)(i), 8, 10 and 15 of this Agreement.

(e) No removal or resignation of the Servicer shall be effective unless:

(i) (A) the Issuer appoints a successor servicer at the written direction of a Majority of the Preference Shares (excluding any Preference Shares held by the retiring Servicer, any of its Affiliates or any account over which the retiring Servicer or its Affiliates have discretionary voting authority other than, with respect to the Class II Preference Shares owned by HFP or its subsidiaries; provided that, with respect to the voting authority of Class II Preference Shares owned by HFP or any of its subsidiaries, such vote shall not be excluded only if such vote is determined by a vote of the majority of the "independent directors" (determined in accordance with the governing documents of HFP or such subsidiaries and certified in writing to the Preference Shares Paying Agent by any of the "independent directors" of HFP) of HFP or such subsidiaries) (each such non-excluded Preference Share, a "Voting Preference Share"), (B) such successor servicer has agreed in writing to assume all of the retiring Servicer's duties and obligations pursuant to this Agreement and the Indenture and (C) such successor servicer is not objected to within 30 days after notice of such succession by either (x) a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes held by the retiring Servicer, its Affiliates or any account over which the retiring Servicer or its Affiliates have discretionary voting authority other than HFP; provided that, with respect to the voting authority of Notes owned by HFP or any of its subsidiaries, such vote shall not be excluded only if such vote is determined by a vote of the majority of the "independent directors" (determined in accordance with the governing documents of HFP or such subsidiaries and certified in writing to the Trustee by any of the "independent directors" of HFP) of HFP or such subsidiaries) (each such non-excluded Note, a "Voting Note") or (y) a Majority in Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Voting Notes (voting as a single class); or

(ii) if a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares has nominated two or more successor servicers that have been objected to pursuant to the preceding clause (i)(C) or has failed to appoint a successor servicer that has not been objected to pursuant to the preceding clause (i)(C) within 60 days of the date of notice of such removal or resignation of the Servicer, (A) the Issuer appoints a successor servicer at the written direction of a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes), (B) such successor servicer has agreed in writing to assume all of the retiring Servicer's duties and obligations pursuant to this Agreement and the Indenture and (C) such successor servicer is not objected to within 30 days after notice of such succession by either (x) a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares (voting as a single class) or (y) a Majority in Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Voting Notes (voting as a single class); provided, that if a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares and a Super Majority of the Controlling Class (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes) have each nominated two or more successor servicers that have been objected to pursuant to the preceding clauses (i)(C) and (ii)(C) or have otherwise failed to appoint a successor servicer that has not been objected to pursuant to the preceding clause (i)(C) or (ii)(C) within 120 days of the date of notice of such removal or resignation of the Servicer, (A) any Holder of the Controlling Class (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes), any Holder of Voting Preference Shares or the Trustee petitions a court of competent authority to appoint a successor servicer, (B) such court appoints a successor servicer and (C) such successor servicer has agreed in writing to assume all of the retiring Servicer's duties and obligations pursuant to this Agreement and the Indenture.

In addition, any successor servicer must be an established institution which (i) has demonstrated an ability to professionally and competently perform duties similar to those imposed upon the Servicer hereunder, (ii) is legally qualified and has the capacity to act as Servicer hereunder, as successor to the Servicer under this Agreement in the assumption of all of the responsibilities, duties and obligations of the Servicer hereunder and under the applicable terms of the Indenture, (iii) shall not cause the Issuer or the pool of Collateral to become required to register under the provisions of the Investment Company Act, (iv) shall perform its duties as successor servicer under this Agreement and the Indenture without causing the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any Holder of Preference Shares to become subject to tax in any jurisdiction where such successor servicer is established as doing business and (v) each Rating Agency has confirmed that the appointment of such successor servicer shall not cause its then-current rating of any Class of Notes to be reduced or withdrawn. No compensation payable to a successor servicer from payments on the Collateral shall be greater than that paid to the retiring Servicer without the prior written consent of a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes, a Majority of the Noteholders and a Majority of the Preference Shares. The Issuer, the Trustee and the successor servicer shall take such action (or cause the retiring Servicer to take such action) consistent with this Agreement and the terms of the Indenture applicable to the Servicer, as shall be necessary to effectuate any such succession.

(f) In the event of removal of the Servicer pursuant to this Agreement, the Issuer shall have all of the rights and remedies available with respect thereto at law or equity, and, without limiting the foregoing, the Issuer or, to the extent so provided in the Indenture, the Trustee may by notice in writing to the Servicer as provided under this Agreement terminate all the rights and obligations of the Servicer under this Agreement (except those that survive termination pursuant to Section 12(d) above). Upon expiration of the applicable notice period with respect to termination specified in this Section 12 or Section 14 of this Agreement, as applicable, all authority and power of the Servicer under this Agreement, whether with respect to the Collateral or otherwise, shall automatically and without further action by any person or entity pass to and be vested in the successor servicer upon the appointment thereof.

13. Delegation; Assignments.

This Agreement, and any obligations or duties of the Servicer hereunder, shall not be delegated by the Servicer, in whole or in part, except to any entity that (i) is controlled by any of James Dondero, Mark Okada and Todd Travers and (ii) is one in which any of James Dondero, Mark Okada and Todd Travers is involved in the day to day management and operations (and in any such case pursuant to an instrument of delegation in form and substance satisfactory to the Issuer), without the prior written consent of the Issuer, a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes) and a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares and, notwithstanding any such consent, no delegation of obligations or duties by the Servicer (including, without limitation, to an entity described above) shall relieve the Servicer from any liability hereunder.

Subject to Section 12, any assignment of this Agreement to any Person, in whole or in part, by the Servicer shall be deemed null and void unless (i) such assignment is consented to in writing by the Issuer, a Majority of Noteholders and the Holders of a Majority of the Preference Shares (excluding Notes and Preference Shares held by the Servicer or any of its Affiliates other than HFP) and (ii) the Rating Condition is satisfied with respect to any such assignment. Any assignment consented to by the Issuer, a Majority of Noteholders and the Holders of Preference Shares shall bind the assignee hereunder in the same manner as the Servicer is bound. In addition, the assignee shall execute and deliver to the Issuer and the Trustee a counterpart of this Agreement naming such assignee as Servicer. Upon the execution and delivery of such a counterpart by the assignee and consent thereto by the Issuer, a Majority of Noteholders and the Holders of the Preference Shares, the Servicer shall be released from further obligations pursuant to this Agreement, except with respect to its obligations arising under Section 10 of this Agreement prior to such assignment and except with respect to its obligations under Sections 2(c)(i) and 15 hereof. This Agreement shall not be assigned by the Issuer without the prior written consent of the Servicer and the Trustee, except in the case of assignment by the Issuer to (i) an entity which is a successor to the Issuer permitted under the Indenture, in which case such successor organization shall be bound hereunder and by the terms of said assignment in the same manner as the Issuer is bound thereunder or (ii) the Trustee as contemplated by the Indenture. In the event of any assignment by the Issuer, the Issuer shall cause its successor to execute and deliver to the Servicer such documents as the Servicer shall consider reasonably necessary to effect fully such assignment. The Servicer hereby consents to the matters set forth in Article 15 of the Indenture.

14. Termination by the Issuer for Cause.

Subject to Section 12(e) above, this Agreement shall be terminated and the Servicer shall be removed by the Issuer for cause upon 10 days' prior written notice to the Servicer and upon written notice to the Holders of the Securities as set forth below, but only if directed to do so by the Trustee acting at the direction of (1) a Super Majority of the Controlling Class of Notes (excluding any Notes that are not Voting Notes) or (2) a Majority of the Voting Preference Shares (excluding any Preference Shares that are not Voting Preference Shares). For purposes of determining "cause" with respect to any such termination of this Agreement, such term shall mean any one of the following events:

(a) the Servicer willfully breaches in any respect, or takes any action that it knows violates in any respect, any provision of this Agreement or any terms of the Indenture applicable to it;

(b) the Servicer breaches in any material respect any provision of this Agreement or any terms of the Indenture or the Collateral Administration Agreement applicable to it, or any representation, warranty, certification or statement given in writing by the Servicer shall prove to have been incorrect in any material respect when made or given, and the Servicer fails to cure such breach

or take such action so that the facts (after giving effect to such action) conform in all material respects to such representation, warranty, certificate or statement, in each case within 30 days of becoming aware of, or receiving notice from, the Trustee of, such breach or materially incorrect representation, warranty, certificate or statement;

(c) the Servicer is wound up or dissolved (other than a dissolution in which the remaining members elect to continue the business of the Servicer in accordance with its Governing Instruments) or there is appointed over it or a substantial portion of its assets a receiver, administrator, administrative receiver, trustee or similar officer, or the Servicer (i) ceases to be able to, or admits in writing its inability to, pay its debts as they become due and payable, or makes a general assignment for the benefit of or enters into any composition or arrangement with, its creditors generally; (ii) applies for or consents (by admission of material allegations of a petition or otherwise) to the appointment of a receiver, trustee, assignee, custodian, liquidator or sequestrator (or other similar official) of the Servicer or of any substantial part of its properties or assets, or authorizes such an application or consent, or proceedings seeking such appointment are commenced without such authorization, consent or application against the Servicer and continue undismissed for 60 days; (iii) authorizes or files a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, or applies for or consents (by admission of material allegations of a petition or otherwise) to the application of any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, readjustment of debt, insolvency or dissolution, or authorizes such application or consent, or proceedings to such end are instituted against the Servicer without such authorization, application or consent and are approved as properly instituted and remain undismissed for 60 days or result in adjudication of bankruptcy or insolvency; or (iv) permits or suffers all or any substantial part of its properties or assets to be sequestered or attached by court order and the order remains undismissed for 60 days;

(d) the occurrence of any Event of Default under the Indenture that results from any breach by the Servicer of its duties under the Indenture or this Agreement, which breach or default is not cured within any applicable cure period; or

(e) (x) the occurrence of an act by the Servicer related to its activities in any servicing, securities, financial advisory or other investment business that constitutes fraud, (y) the Servicer being indicted, or any of its principals being convicted, of a felony criminal offense related to its activities in any servicing, securities, financial advisory or other investment business or (z) the Servicer being indicted for, adjudged liable in a civil suit for, or convicted of a violation of the Securities Act or any other United States Federal securities law or any rules or regulations thereunder.

If any of the events specified in this Section 14 shall occur, the Servicer shall give prompt written notice thereof to the Issuer, the Trustee and the Holders of all outstanding Notes and Preference Shares upon the Servicer's becoming aware of the occurrence of such event.

15. Action Upon Termination.

(a) From and after the effective date of termination of this Agreement, the Servicer shall not be entitled to compensation for further services hereunder, but shall be paid all compensation accrued to the date of termination, as provided in Section 8 hereof, and shall be entitled to receive any amounts owing under Section 10 hereof. Upon the effective date of termination of this Agreement, the Servicer shall as soon as practicable:

(i) deliver to the Issuer all property and documents of the Trustee or the Issuer or otherwise relating to the Collateral then in the custody of the Servicer; and

(ii) deliver to the Trustee and the Preference Shares Paying Agent an accounting with respect to the books and records delivered to the Trustee and the Preference Shares Paying Agent or the successor servicer appointed pursuant to Section 12(e) hereof.

Notwithstanding such termination, the Servicer shall remain liable to the extent set forth herein (but subject to Section 10 hereof) for its acts or omissions hereunder arising prior to termination and for any expenses, losses, damages, liabilities, demands, charges and claims (including reasonable attorneys' fees) in respect of or arising out of a breach of the representations and warranties made by the Servicer in Section 16(b) hereof or from any failure of the Servicer to comply with the provisions of this Section 15.

(b) The Servicer agrees that, notwithstanding any termination of this Agreement, it shall reasonably cooperate in any Proceeding arising in connection with this Agreement, the Indenture or any of the Collateral (excluding any such Proceeding in which claims are asserted against the Servicer or any Affiliate of the Servicer) upon receipt of appropriate indemnification and expense reimbursement.

16. Representations and Warranties.

(a) The Issuer hereby represents and warrants to the Servicer as follows:

(i) The Issuer has been duly incorporated and is validly existing under the laws of the Cayman Islands, has full power and authority to own its assets and the securities proposed to be owned by it and included in the Collateral and to transact the business in which it is presently engaged and is duly qualified under the laws of each jurisdiction where its ownership or lease of property or the conduct of its business requires, or the performance of its obligations under this Agreement, the Indenture or the Securities would require, such qualification, except for failures to be so qualified, authorized or licensed that would not in the aggregate have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, assets or financial condition of the Issuer.

(ii) The Issuer has full power and authority to execute, deliver and perform its obligations pursuant to this Agreement, the other Transaction Documents and the Securities and all obligations required hereunder and thereunder and has taken all necessary action to authorize this Agreement, the other Transaction Documents and the Securities on the terms and conditions hereof and thereof and the execution by the Issuer, delivery and performance of its obligations pursuant to this Agreement, the other Transaction Documents and the Securities and the performance of all obligations imposed upon it hereunder and thereunder. No consent of any other person including, without limitation, shareholders and creditors of the Issuer, and no license, permit, approval or authorization of, exemption by, notice or report to, or registration, filing or declaration with, any governmental authority, other than those that may be required under state securities or "blue sky" laws and those that have been or shall be obtained in connection with the other Transaction Documents and the Securities is required by the Issuer in connection with this Agreement, the other Transaction Documents and the Securities or the execution, delivery, performance, validity or enforceability of this Agreement, the other Transaction Documents and the Securities or the obligations imposed upon it hereunder or thereunder. This Agreement constitutes, and each instrument or document required hereunder, when executed and delivered hereunder, shall constitute, the legally valid and binding obligation of the Issuer enforceable against the Issuer in accordance with its terms, subject to (a) the effect of bankruptcy, insolvency or similar laws affecting generally the enforcement of creditors' rights and (b) general equitable principles.

(iii) The execution by the Issuer, delivery and performance of this Agreement and the documents and instruments required hereunder shall not violate any provision of any existing law or regulation binding on the Issuer, or any order, judgment, award or decree of any court, arbitrator or governmental authority binding on the Issuer, or the Governing Instruments of, or any securities issued by, the Issuer or of any mortgage, indenture, lease, contract or other agreement, instrument or undertaking to which the Issuer is a party or by which the Issuer or any of its assets may be bound, the violation of which would have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, assets or financial condition of the Issuer, and shall not result in or require the creation or imposition of any lien on any of its property, assets or revenues pursuant to the provisions of any such mortgage, indenture, lease, contract or other agreement, instrument or undertaking (other than the lien of the Indenture).

(iv) The Issuer is not in violation of its Governing Instruments or in breach or violation of or in default under the Indenture or any contract or agreement to which it is a party or by which it or any of its assets may be bound, or any applicable statute or any rule, regulation or order of any court, government agency or body having jurisdiction over the Issuer or its properties, the breach or violation of which or default under which would have a material adverse effect on the validity or enforceability of this Agreement or the performance by the Issuer of its duties hereunder.

(v) True and complete copies of the Indenture and the Issuer's Governing Instruments have been delivered to the Servicer.

The Issuer agrees to deliver a true and complete copy of each amendment to the documents referred to in Section 16(a)(v) above to the Servicer as promptly as practicable after its adoption or execution.

(b) The Servicer hereby represents and warrants to the Issuer as follows:

(i) The Servicer is a limited partnership duly organized and validly existing and in good standing under the laws of the State of Delaware, has full power and authority to own its assets and to transact the business in which it is currently engaged and is duly qualified and in good standing under the laws of each jurisdiction where its ownership or lease of property or the conduct of its business requires, or the performance of this Agreement would require such qualification, except for those jurisdictions in which the failure to be so qualified, authorized or licensed would not have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, assets or financial condition of the Servicer or on the ability of the Servicer to perform its obligations under, or on the validity or enforceability of, this Agreement and the provisions of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer.

(ii) The Servicer has full power and authority to execute, deliver and perform this Agreement and all obligations required hereunder and under the provisions of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer, and has taken all necessary action to authorize this Agreement on the terms and conditions hereof and the execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement and all obligations required

hereunder and under the terms of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer. No consent of any other person, including, without limitation, creditors of the Servicer, and no license, permit, approval or authorization of, exemption by, notice or report to, or registration, filing or declaration with, any governmental authority is required by the Servicer in connection with this Agreement or the execution, delivery, performance, validity or enforceability of this Agreement or the obligations required hereunder or under the terms of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer. This Agreement has been, and each instrument and document required hereunder or under the terms of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer shall be, executed and delivered by a duly authorized partner of the Servicer, and this Agreement constitutes, and each instrument and document required hereunder or under the terms of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer when executed and delivered by the Servicer hereunder or under the terms of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer shall constitute, the valid and legally binding obligations of the Servicer enforceable against the Servicer in accordance with their terms, subject to (a) the effect of bankruptcy, insolvency or similar laws affecting generally the enforcement of creditors' rights and (b) general equitable principles.

(iii) The execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement and the terms of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer and the documents and instruments required hereunder or under the terms of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer shall not violate or conflict with any provision of any existing law or regulation binding on or applicable to the Servicer, or any order, judgment, award or decree of any court, arbitrator or governmental authority binding on the Servicer, or the Governing Instruments of, or any securities issued by the Servicer or of any mortgage, indenture, lease, contract or other agreement, instrument or undertaking to which the Servicer is a party or by which the Servicer or any of its assets may be bound, the violation of which would have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, assets or financial condition of the Servicer or its ability to perform its obligations under this Agreement and the provisions of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer, and shall not result in or require the creation or imposition of any lien on any of its material property, assets or revenues pursuant to the provisions of any such mortgage, indenture, lease, contract or other agreement, instrument or undertaking.

(iv) There is no charge, investigation, action, suit or proceeding before or by any court pending or, to the best knowledge of the Servicer, threatened that, if determined adversely to the Servicer, would have a material adverse effect upon the performance by the Servicer of its duties under, or on the validity or enforceability of, this Agreement and the provisions of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer.

(v) The Servicer is a registered investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act.

(vi) The Servicer is not in violation of its Governing Instruments or in breach or violation of or in default under any contract or agreement to which it is a party or by which it or any of its property may be bound, or any applicable statute or any rule, regulation or order of any court, government agency or body having jurisdiction over the Servicer or its properties, the breach or violation of which or default under which would have a material adverse effect on the validity or enforceability of this Agreement or the provisions of the other Transaction Documents applicable to the Servicer, or the performance by the Servicer of its duties hereunder.

18. Binding Nature of Agreement; Successors and Assigns.

This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, personal representatives, successors and permitted assigns as provided herein. The Servicer hereby consents to the collateral assignment of this Agreement as provided in the Indenture and further agrees that the Trustee may enforce the Servicer's obligations hereunder.

19. Entire Agreement.

This Agreement contains the entire agreement and understanding among the parties hereto with respect to the subject matter hereof, and supersedes all prior and contemporaneous agreements, understandings, inducements and conditions, express or implied, oral or written, of any nature whatsoever with respect to the subject matter hereof. The express terms hereof control and supersede any course of performance and/or usage of the trade inconsistent with any of the terms hereof. This Agreement may not be modified or amended other than by an agreement in writing executed by the parties hereto and in accordance with the terms of Section 15.1(h) of the Indenture.

20. Conflict with the Indenture.

Subject to the last two sentences of Section 2(a)(i), in the event that this Agreement requires any action to be taken with respect to any matter and the Indenture requires that a different action be taken with respect to such matter, and such actions are mutually exclusive, the provisions of the Indenture in respect thereof shall control.

21. Priority of Payments.

The Servicer agrees that the payment of all amounts to which it is entitled pursuant to this Agreement and the Indenture shall be due and payable only in accordance with the priorities set forth in the Indenture and only to the extent funds are available for such payments in accordance with such priorities.

22. Governing Law.

THIS AGREEMENT SHALL BE CONSTRUED IN ACCORDANCE WITH AND GOVERNED BY THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, WITHOUT REFERENCE TO ITS PROVISIONS THAT WOULD RESULT IN THE APPLICATION OF THE LAWS OF ANOTHER JURISDICTION.

23. Indulgences Not Waivers.

Neither the failure nor any delay on the part of any party hereto to exercise any right, remedy, power or privilege under this Agreement shall operate as a waiver thereof, nor shall any single or partial exercise of any right, remedy, power or privilege preclude any other or further exercise of the same or of any other right, remedy, power or privilege, nor shall any waiver of any right, remedy, power or privilege with respect to any occurrence be construed as a waiver of such right, remedy, power or privilege with respect to any other occurrence. No waiver shall be effective unless it is in writing and is signed by the party asserted to have granted such waiver.

24. Costs and Expenses.

Except as may otherwise be agreed in writing, the costs and expenses (including the fees and disbursements of counsel and accountants) incurred by each party in connection with the negotiation and preparation of and the execution of this Agreement, and all matters incident thereto, shall be borne by such party.

25. Titles Not to Affect Interpretation.

The titles of paragraphs and subparagraphs contained in this Agreement are for convenience only, and they neither form a part of this Agreement nor are they to be used in the construction or interpretation hereof.

26. Execution in Counterparts.

This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts by facsimile or other written form of communication, each of which shall be deemed to be an original as against any party whose signature appears thereon, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument. This Agreement shall become binding when one or more counterparts hereof, individually or taken together, shall bear the signatures of all of the parties reflected hereon as the signatories.

27. Provisions Separable.

In case any provision in this Agreement shall be invalid, illegal or unenforceable as written, such provision shall be construed in the manner most closely resembling the apparent intent of the parties with respect to such provision so as to be valid, legal and enforceable; provided, however, that if there is no basis for such a construction, such provision shall be ineffective only to the extent of such invalidity, illegality or unenforceability and, unless the ineffectiveness of such provision destroys the basis of the bargain for one of the parties to this Agreement, the validity, legality and enforceability of the remaining provisions hereof or thereof shall not in any way be affected or impaired thereby.

28. Number and Gender.

Words used herein, regardless of the number and gender specifically used, shall be deemed and construed to include any other number, singular or plural, and any other gender, masculine, feminine or neuter, as the context requires.

29. Written Disclosure Statement.

The Issuer and the Trustee acknowledge receipt of Part II of the Servicer's Form ADV filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, as required by Rule 204-3 under the Investment Advisers Act, more than 48 hours prior to the date of execution of this Agreement.

30. Miscellaneous.

(a) In the event that any vote is solicited with respect to any Collateral Obligation, the Servicer, on behalf of the Issuer, shall vote or refrain from voting any such security in any manner permitted by the Indenture that the Servicer has determined in its reasonable judgment shall be in the best interests of the Holders of the Securities. In addition, with respect to any Defaulted Collateral Obligation, the Servicer, on behalf of the Issuer, may instruct the trustee for such Defaulted Collateral Obligation to enforce the Issuer's rights under the Underlying Instruments governing such Defaulted Collateral Obligation and any applicable law, rule or regulation in any manner permitted under the Indenture that the Servicer has determined in its reasonable judgment shall be in the best interests of the Holders of the Securities. In the event any Offer is made with respect to any Collateral Obligation, the Servicer, on behalf of the Issuer, may take such action as is permitted by the Indenture and that the Servicer has determined in its reasonable judgment shall be in the best interests of the Holders of the Securities.

(b) In connection with taking or omitting any action under the Indenture or this Agreement, the Servicer may consult with counsel and may rely in good faith on the advice of such counsel or any opinion of counsel.

Any corporation, partnership or limited liability company into which the Servicer may be merged or converted or with which it may be consolidated, or any corporation, partnership or limited liability company resulting from any merger, conversion or consolidation to which the Servicer shall be a party, or any corporation, partnership or limited liability company succeeding to all or substantially all of the asset servicing and collateral management business of the Servicer, shall be the successor to the Servicer without any further action by the Servicer, the Co-Issuers, the Trustee, the Preference Shares Paying Agent, the Holders of the Securities or any other person or entity.

31. Limitation of Liabilities.

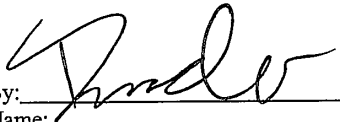

The Issuer's obligations hereunder are solely the corporate obligations of the Issuer and the Servicer shall not have any recourse to any of the directors, officers, shareholders, members or incorporators of the Issuer with respect to any claims, losses, damages, liabilities, indemnities or other obligations in connection with any transactions contemplated hereby. The obligations of the Issuer hereunder shall be limited to the net proceeds of the Collateral, if any, and following realization of the Collateral and its application in accordance with the Indenture, any outstanding obligations of the Issuer hereunder shall be extinguished and shall not thereafter revive. The provisions of this section shall survive termination of this Agreement.

ANNEX 1

Certain Asset Acquisition Provisions

Unless otherwise noted, references to the Issuer in this Annex 1 include the Servicer and any other person acting on the Issuer's behalf. Capitalized terms used but not defined herein will have the meanings ascribed to them in the Indenture.

For purposes of this Annex 1,

"Affiliate" means, with respect to a specified Person, (a) any other Person that directly, or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, controls or is controlled by, or is under common control with, the specified Person and (b) any Person that is a member, director, officer or employee of (i) the specified Person or (ii) a Person described in clause (a) of this definition; and

"Person" means an individual, a corporation, a limited liability company, a partnership, an association, a trust or any other entity or organization, including a government or political subdivision or an agency or instrumentality thereof.

Section I. General Investment Restrictions.

Except as may otherwise be provided in this Annex 1, the Issuer (and the Servicer acting on the Issuer's behalf) shall only purchase debt securities, interests in loans and other assets (each a "Portfolio Obligation") only in secondary-market transactions and shall not engage in any lending or underwriting activities or otherwise participate in the structuring or origination of any Portfolio Obligation.

A. Communications and Negotiations.

1. The Issuer will not have any communications or negotiations with the obligor of a Portfolio Obligation or a Reference Obligation (directly or indirectly through an intermediary such as the seller of such Portfolio Obligation or the Synthetic Security) in connection with the issuance or funding of such Portfolio Obligation or Reference Obligation or commitments with respect thereto, except for communications of an immaterial nature or customary due diligence communications; provided, that the Servicer may provide comments as to mistakes or inconsistencies in loan documents (including with respect to any provisions that are inconsistent with the terms and conditions of purchase of the loan by the Issuer).

2. By way of example, permitted due diligence activities may include, but are not limited to, (a) attendance at an obligor's general "roadshow" or other presentations to investment professionals, (b) direct private discussions with personnel of the obligor, arranged by a sponsor, lead bank or other arranger, and (c) other due diligence activities of the kind customarily performed by offerees of the type of Portfolio Obligation being offered, but may not include any negotiations with the obligor, employees or agents of the obligor of any terms or conditions of the Portfolio Obligation being offered.

3. Negotiations between the Servicer and the underwriter, placement agent or broker of a Portfolio Obligation are permitted solely to the extent that they are limited to responses to customary pre-offering period and offering period inquiries by the underwriter or placement agent (e.g., “If we offered you 10-year senior subordinated bonds of XYZ company, what spread would it require to interest you?” or “If you will not buy the bonds as offered, would you buy if we convinced the obligor to add a fixed charge coverage test?”). For purposes of this Section I.A., “negotiations” shall not include (i) commenting on offering documents to an unrelated underwriter or placement agent when the ability to comment was generally available to other offerees, or (ii) communicating certain objective criteria (such as the minimum yield or maturity) the Issuer generally uses in purchasing the relevant type of Portfolio Obligation.

4. The Issuer may consent or otherwise act with respect to amendments, supplements or other modifications of the terms of any Portfolio Obligation (other than a Subsidiary Obligation (as defined in Section III)) requiring consent or action after the date on which any such Portfolio Obligation is acquired by the Issuer if (a) such amendment, supplement or modification would not constitute a Significant Modification (as defined below), (b) (i) in the reasonable judgment of the Servicer, the obligor is in financial distress and such change in terms is desirable to protect the Issuer’s interest and (ii) the Portfolio Obligation is described in clause 5(b) of this Section I.A., (c) the amendment or modification would not be treated as the acquisition of a new Portfolio Obligation under paragraph 5 of this Section I.A., or (d) otherwise, if it has received advice of counsel that its involvement in such amendment, supplement or modification will not cause the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a trade or business within the United States.

A “Significant Modification” means any amendment, supplement or other modification that involves (a) a change in the stated maturity or a change in the timing of any material payment of any Portfolio Obligation (including deferral of an interest payment), that would materially alter the weighted average life of the Portfolio Obligation, (b) any change (whether positive or negative) in the yield on the Portfolio Obligation immediately prior to the modification in excess of the greater of (i) 25 basis points or (ii) 5 percent of such unmodified yield, (c) any change involving a material new extension of credit, (d) a change in the obligor of any Portfolio Obligation, or (e) a material change in the collateral or security for any Portfolio Obligation, including the addition or deletion of a co-obligor or guarantor that results in a material change in payment expectations (all as determined for purposes of section 1001 of the Code).

5. In the event the Issuer owns an interest in a Portfolio Obligation the terms of which are subsequently amended or modified, or in the case of a workout situation not described in Section III hereof, which Portfolio Obligation is subsequently exchanged for new obligations or other securities of the obligor of the Portfolio Obligation, such amendments or modifications or exchange will not be treated as the acquisition of an interest in a new Portfolio Obligation for purposes of this Annex 1, provided, that (a) the Issuer does not, directly or indirectly (through the Servicer or otherwise), seek the amendments or modifications or the exchange, or participate in negotiating the amendments or modifications or the exchange, and (b) at the time of original acquisition of the interest in the Portfolio Obligation, it was not reasonably anticipated that the terms of the Portfolio Obligation would, pursuant to a workout or other negotiation, subsequently be amended or modified.

B. Fees. The Issuer will not earn or receive from any Person any fee or other compensation for services, however denominated, in connection with its purchase or sale of a Portfolio Obligation or entering into a Synthetic Security; the foregoing prohibition shall not be construed to preclude the Issuer from receiving (i) commitment fees, facility maintenance fees or other similar fees that are received by the Issuer in connection with revolving or delayed drawdown Loans or synthetic or pre-funded letter of credit Loans; (ii) yield maintenance and prepayment penalty fees; (iii) fees on account of the Issuer's consenting to amendments, waivers or other modifications of the terms of any Portfolio Obligations; (iv) fees from permitted securities lending; or (v) upfront payments in lieu of periodic payments under a Synthetic Security. The Issuer will not provide services to any Person; the foregoing prohibition shall not be construed to preclude the Issuer from activities relating to the receipt of income described in (i) through (v) of the preceding sentence.

Section II. Loans and Forward Purchase Commitments.

A. Any understanding or commitment to purchase a loan, a participation, or a loan subparticipation (collectively, "Loans") from a seller before completion of the closing and full funding of the Loan by such seller shall only be made pursuant to a forward sale agreement at an agreed price (stated as a dollar amount or as a percentage) (a "Forward Purchase Commitment"), unless such an understanding or commitment is not legally binding and neither the Issuer nor the Servicer is economically compelled (e.g., would otherwise be subject to a significant monetary penalty) to purchase the Loan following the completion of the closing and full funding of the Loan (i.e., the Servicer will make an independent decision whether to purchase such Loan on behalf of the Issuer after completion of the closing of the Loan) (a "Non-Binding Agreement").

B. No Forward Purchase Commitment or Non-Binding Agreement shall be made until after the seller (or a transferor to such seller of such Loan) has made a legally binding commitment to fully fund such Loan to the obligor thereof (subject to customary conditions), which commitment cannot be conditioned on the Issuer's ultimate purchase of such Loan from such seller.

C. In the event of any reduced or eliminated funding, the Issuer shall not receive any premium, fee, or other compensation in connection with having entered into the Forward Purchase Commitment or Non-Binding Agreement.

D. The Issuer shall not close any purchase of a Loan subject to a Forward Purchase Commitment or a Non-Binding Agreement earlier than 48 hours after the time of the closing of the Loan (i.e., execution of definitive documentation), and, in the case of a Forward Purchase Commitment, the Issuer's obligation to purchase such Loan is subject to the condition that no material adverse change has occurred in the financial condition of the Loan's obligor or the relevant market on or before the relevant purchase date.

E. The Issuer cannot have a contractual relationship with the obligor with respect to a Loan until the Issuer actually purchases the Loan.

F. The Issuer cannot be a signatory on the original lending agreement, and cannot be obligated to fund an assignment of or a participation in a Loan, prior to the time specified in subsection D above.

G. In addition to the restrictions otherwise applicable to Loans, the Issuer shall not acquire any synthetic or pre-funded letter of credit Loan unless (1) the cash collateral deposit with respect to such Loan was fully funded by a predecessor in interest with respect to such Loan; (2) the Loan is part of a credit facility that includes another Loan (other than a synthetic or pre-funded letter of credit Loan) to the same obligor, and is being acquired in connection with the acquisition of such other Loan and from the same seller as such other Loan, with the intent to hold both parts and with the amount of the other Loan being significantly in excess of the amount of the synthetic or pre-funded letter of credit Loan; (3) such synthetic or pre-funded letter of credit Loan satisfies the requirements set forth in Section VI.B., treating the synthetic or pre-funded letter of credit Loan, for this purpose, as though it were a delayed drawdown or revolving Loan; and (4) at no time may more than 5% of the aggregate principal amount of Portfolio Obligations consist of synthetic or pre-funded letter of credit Loans.

Section III. Distressed Debt

A. The Issuer may only purchase a Debt Instrument that is a Potential Workout Obligation to the extent permitted by this Section III.

B. Neither the Issuer nor the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer shall purchase a Subsidiary Obligation from any Issuer Subsidiary.

C. Special Procedures for Subsidiary Obligations.

1. Potential Workout Obligations. On or prior to the date of acquisition, the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer shall identify each Portfolio Obligation that is a Potential Workout Obligation.

2. Transfer of Subsidiary Obligations. From and after the occurrence of a Workout Determination Date with respect to a Subsidiary Obligation, neither the Issuer nor the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer shall knowingly take any action in respect of such Subsidiary Obligation that may result in the Issuer being engaged, or deemed to be engaged, in a trade or business within the United States for United States federal income tax purposes. As soon as practicable, but in any event within 30 calendar days following a Workout Determination Date, the Servicer shall cause the Issuer either (i) to sell or dispose of any Subsidiary Obligation identified on such Workout Determination Date to a Person that is not an Affiliate of the Issuer or Servicer or (ii) to assign any Subsidiary Obligation identified on such Workout Determination Date to an Issuer Subsidiary.

For purposes of this Annex 1, an “Issuer Subsidiary” means any wholly-owned corporate subsidiary of the Issuer to which a Special Workout Obligation may be transferred in accordance with this Annex 1.

3. Consideration for Assignment of Subsidiary Obligations. Consideration given by an Issuer Subsidiary for the assignment to it of Subsidiary Obligations may be in the form of cash or in the form of indebtedness of, or equity interests in, such Issuer Subsidiary.

4. Classification of Issuer Subsidiaries. Each Issuer Subsidiary shall be an entity treated as a corporation for United States federal income tax purposes.

As used herein:

“Potential Workout Obligation” means any debt instrument (any such instrument, including an interest in a Loan, a “Debt Instrument”) which, as of the date of acquisition by the Issuer or an Issuer Subsidiary, based on information specific to such Debt Instrument or the circumstances of the obligor thereof, is a Workout Obligation or, in the reasonable determination of the Servicer, has a materially higher likelihood of becoming a Workout Obligation as compared to debt obligations that par or other non-distressed debt purchasers or funds relating to that asset type customarily purchase and expect to hold to maturity.

“Subsidiary Obligation” means any Potential Workout Obligation (a) as to which the Issuer on any Workout Determination Date either (i) owns more than 40% of the aggregate principal amount of such class of Potential Workout Obligation outstanding or (ii) is one of the two largest holders of any class of debt of the obligor of such Potential Workout Obligation (based on the outstanding principal amount of such class of debt owned by the Issuer as a percentage of the aggregate outstanding principal amount of such class of debt) unless not fewer than three other holders and the Issuer collectively own at least 65% of such class of debt and, if the Issuer is the largest holder of such class, the Issuer’s percentage of such class does not exceed the percentage held by the next largest holder of the debt by more than 5% of such class or (b) that would, upon foreclosure or exercise of similar legal remedies, result in the Issuer directly owning assets (other than securities treated as debt, equity in a partnership not engaged in a trade or business within the United States, or corporate equity for United States federal income tax purposes, provided in the case of corporate equity that the corporation is not a “United States real property holding corporation” within the meaning of section 897 of the Code) which are “United States real property interests” within the meaning of section 897 of the Code or which the Servicer reasonably expects it would, on behalf of the Issuer, be required to actively manage to preserve the value of the Issuer's interest therein; provided that a Potential Workout Obligation shall not be treated as a Subsidiary Obligation if the Issuer obtains a Tax Opinion that, based on all the surrounding circumstances, the activities in which the Issuer intends to engage with respect to such Potential Workout Obligation will not cause the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a trade or business for United States federal income tax purposes.

"Workout Determination Date" means any date on which, in connection with the occurrence of any event described in clauses (a) through (c), inclusive, of the definition of Workout Obligation, either (a) any material action by the Issuer is required to be taken, (b) the Servicer receives written notice that such material action shall be required or (c) the Servicer reasonably determines that the taking of such material action is likely to be required.

"Workout Obligation" means any Debt Instrument as to which the Servicer on behalf of the Issuer (a) consents to a Significant Modification in connection with the workout of a defaulted Portfolio Obligation, (b) participates in an official or unofficial committee or similar official or unofficial body in connection with a bankruptcy, reorganization, restructuring or similar proceeding, or (c) exercises, or has exercised on its behalf, rights of foreclosure or similar judicial remedies.

Section IV. Purchases from the Servicer or its Affiliates.

A. If the Servicer or an Affiliate of the Servicer acted as an underwriter, placement or other agent, arranger, negotiator or structuror, or received any fee for services (it being understood that receipts described in clauses (i) through (v) of Section I.B. are not construed as so treated), in connection with the issuance or origination of a Portfolio Obligation or was a member of the original lending syndicate with respect to the Portfolio Obligation (any such Portfolio Obligation, a "Special Procedures Obligation"), the Issuer will not acquire any interest in such Special Procedures Obligation (including entering into a commitment or agreement, whether or not legally binding or enforceable, to acquire such obligation directly or synthetically), from the Servicer, an Affiliate of the Servicer, or a fund managed by the Servicer, unless (i) the Special Procedures Obligation has been outstanding for at least 90 days, (ii) the holder of the Special Procedures Obligation did not identify the obligation or security as intended for sale to the Issuer within 90 days of its issuance, (iii) the price paid for such Special Procedures Obligation by the Issuer is its fair market value at the time of acquisition by the Issuer, and (iv) the transaction is proposed to, and the ultimate purchase is approved on behalf of the Issuer by, one or more Independent Advisors to the Issuer in accordance with the provisions of Section IV.B. below. The Issuer will not acquire any Special Procedures Obligation if, immediately following such acquisition, the fair market value of all Special Procedures Obligations owned by the Issuer would constitute more than 49% of the fair market value of all of the Issuer's assets at such time.

B. An "Independent Advisor" is a Person who is not an Affiliate of the Issuer, the Servicer or any fund managed by the Servicer.

1. The Issuer may not purchase or commit to enter into any such Special Procedures Obligation without prior approval by an Independent Advisor. If the Independent Advisor declines to approve a proposed Special Procedures Obligation, at least three months must elapse before any proposal with respect to the acquisition of debt or other obligations of the same obligor are proposed or considered.

2. The Issuer shall engage the Independent Advisor in an agreement the terms of which shall in substantial form set forth:

(a) the representation of the Independent Advisor, which the Servicer shall not know to be incorrect, that it has significant financial and commercial expertise, including substantial expertise and knowledge in and of the loan market and related investment arenas;

(b) the agreement between the Independent Advisor, the Issuer and the Servicer generally to the effect that (i) the Independent Advisor will operate pursuant to procedures consistent with maintaining his or her independence from the Servicer and its Affiliates, (ii) the Independent Advisor will have the sole authority and discretion to approve or reject purchase proposals made by the Servicer with respect to any Special Procedures Obligation, (iii) all proposals for the Issuer to acquire any Special Procedures Obligation will be first submitted to the Independent Advisor, (iii) the Servicer will prepare the materials it deems necessary to describe the Special Procedures Obligation to the Independent Advisor, (iv) the Investment Advisor will not be required to make any decision to accept or decline a Special Procedures Obligation at the price offered prior to its review of the materials prepared, plus any additional information requested by the Independent Advisor, and (v) no Independent Advisor may be proposed to be replaced by the Servicer, unless for cause or in the event of a resignation of such Independent Advisor; and

(c) such other commercially reasonable terms and conditions, including terms and conditions to the effect that (i) the Independent Advisor will be paid a reasonable fee for its services plus reimbursement of any reasonable expenses incurred in performance of his or her responsibilities, (ii) the Independent Advisor may be removed or replaced only by a majority (whether by positive act or failure to object) of the probable equity owners (as determined for United States federal income tax purposes) of the Issuer, (iii) if at any time there is more than one Independent Advisor to the Issuer, a majority of such Independent Advisors must approve any Special Procedures Obligation subject to Independent Advisor approval, (iv) an Independent Advisor may not engage, directly or indirectly, in the negotiation of the terms of any Special Procedures Obligation to be acquired by the Issuer (provided however, that an Independent Advisor may negotiate with the Servicer or the seller with respect to the price and terms of the Issuer's purchase of the Special Procedures Obligation, provided further that the Independent Advisor will not make suggestions to the Servicer or any other person about alternative or modified terms of the underlying Special Procedures Obligation on which they might be willing to approve such a Special Procedures Obligation).

3. Any servicing agreement or other document under which the Servicer is granted signatory powers or other authority on behalf of the Issuer will provide that such powers or authority with respect to Special Procedures Obligations are conditioned upon the prior written approval of the Independent Advisor

4. No Special Procedures Obligation will be presented to an Independent Advisor until at least 90 days have elapsed since the later of (a) the execution of final documentation and (b) the funding in whole or part of the Special Procedures Obligation and there will have been no commitment or arrangement prior to that time that the Issuer will acquire any such Special Procedures Obligation; provided, further, that the Special Procedures Obligation will not be treated as outstanding for any day on which the Issuer enjoys the benefits and burdens of ownership (for example, because any Person has hedged its credit exposure to the Special Procedures Obligation with the Issuer).

5. The Issuer will have no obligation to, or understanding that it will refund, reimburse or indemnify any person (including an Affiliate of the Servicer), directly or indirectly, for "breakage" costs or other costs or expenses incurred by such person if the Independent Advisor determines that the Issuer should decline to purchase any Special Procedures Obligation.

6. Neither the Servicer nor any Affiliate of the Servicer will have any authority to enter into agreements, or take any action, on behalf of the Issuer with respect to Special Procedures Obligations without the prior written approval of an Independent Advisor. Except as may be conditioned upon such prior written approval, neither the Servicer nor any Affiliate of the Servicer may hold itself out as having signatory powers on behalf of the Issuer or authority to enter into agreements with respect to Special Procedures Obligations on behalf of the Issuer.

Section V. Synthetic Securities.

A. The Issuer shall not (i) acquire or enter into any Synthetic Security with respect to any Reference Obligation the direct acquisition of which would violate any provision of this Annex 1 or (ii) use Synthetic Securities as a means of making advances to the Synthetic Security Counterparty following the date on which the Synthetic Security is acquired or entered into (for the avoidance of doubt, the establishment of Synthetic Security collateral accounts and the payment of Synthetic Security Counterparties from the amounts on deposit therein, shall not constitute the making of advances).

B. With respect to each Synthetic Security, the Issuer will not acquire or enter into any Synthetic Security that does not satisfy all of the following additional criteria unless the Servicer has first received advice of counsel that the ownership and disposition of such Synthetic Security would not cause the Issuer to be engaged in a trade or business within the United States for United States federal income tax purposes:

1. the criteria used to determine whether to enter into any particular Synthetic Security was similar to the criteria used by the Servicer in making purchase decisions with respect to debt securities;
2. the Synthetic Security is acquired by or entered into by the Issuer for its own account and for investment purposes with the expectation of realizing a profit from income earned on the securities (and any potential rise in their value) during the interval of time between their purchase and sale or hedging purposes and not with an intention to trade or to sell for a short-term profit;
3. the Issuer enters into the Synthetic Security with a counterparty that is not a special purpose vehicle and is a broker-dealer or that holds itself out as in the business of entering into such contracts;
4. neither the Issuer nor any Person acting on behalf of the Issuer advertises or publishes the Issuer's ability to enter into Synthetic Securities;
5. except with respect to (x) credit-linked notes or similar Synthetic Securities and (y) any other Synthetic Securities where standard form ISDA documentation is not applicable, the Synthetic Security is written on standard form ISDA documentation;
6. the net payment from the Issuer to the Synthetic Security Counterparty is not determined based on an actual loss incurred by the Synthetic Security Counterparty or any other designated person;
7. there exists no agreement, arrangement or understanding that (i) the Synthetic Security Counterparty is required to own or hold the related Reference Obligation while the Synthetic Security remains in effect or (ii) the Synthetic Security Counterparty is economically or practically compelled to own or hold the related physical Reference Obligation while the Synthetic Security remains in effect;
8. the Synthetic Security provides for (i) all cash settlement, (ii) all physical settlement or (iii) the option to either cash settle or physically settle; provided that, in the latter two cases, physical settlement provides the settling party the right to settle the Synthetic Security by delivering deliverable obligations which may include the Reference Obligation and the settling party must not be required to deliver the related Reference Obligation upon the settlement of such Synthetic Security.

Notwithstanding the preceding paragraph, a Synthetic Security providing for physical settlement may require a party to deliver the related Reference Obligation if either:

(i) at the time the Issuer enters into such Synthetic Security, such Reference Obligation is readily available to purchasers generally in a liquid market; or

(ii) the advice of both United States federal income tax and insurance counsel of nationally recognized standing in the United States experienced in such matters is that, under the relevant facts and circumstances with respect to such Synthetic Security, the acquisition of such Synthetic Security will not cause the Issuer to be engaged, or deemed to be engaged, in a trade or business within the United States for United States federal income tax purposes or otherwise to be subject to United States federal income tax on a net basis and should not cause the Issuer to be treated as writing insurance in the United States under the law of the state in which the Synthetic Security Counterparty is organized.

9. the Synthetic Security is not treated by the Issuer as insurance or a financial guarantee sold by the Issuer for United States or Cayman Islands regulatory purposes.

As used herein:

“Reference Obligation” means a debt security or other obligation upon which a Synthetic Security is based.

“Synthetic Security” means any swap transaction or security, other than a participation interest in a Loan, that has payments associated with either payments of interest and/or principal on a Reference Obligation or the credit performance of a Reference Obligation.

“Synthetic Security Counterparty” means an entity (other than the Issuer) required to make payments on a Synthetic Security (including any guarantor).

Section VI. Other Types of Assets.

A. Equity Restrictions. The Issuer will not purchase any asset (directly or synthetically) that is:

1. not treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as debt if the issuing entity is a “partnership”(within the meaning of Section 7701(a)(2) of the Code) unless such entity is not engaged in a trade or business within the United States, or

2. a “United States real property interest” as defined in section 897 of the Code and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder.

3. a residual interest in a “REMIC” or an ownership interest in a “FASIT” (as such terms are as defined in the Code).

The Issuer may cause an Issuer Subsidiary to acquire assets set forth in clause (i) or (ii) above (each, an “ETB/897 Asset”) in connection with the workout of defaulted Portfolio Obligations, so long as the acquisition of ETB/897 Assets by such Issuer Subsidiary will not cause the stock of such Issuer Subsidiary to be deemed to be an ETB/897 Asset.

B. Revolving Loans and Delayed Drawdown Loans. All of the terms of any advance required to be made by the Issuer under any revolving or delayed drawdown Loan will be fixed as of the date of the Issuer’s purchase thereof (or will be determinable under a formula that is fixed as of such date), and the Issuer and the Servicer will not have any discretion (except for consenting or withholding consent to amendments, waivers or other modifications or granting customary waivers upon default) as to whether to make advances under such revolving or delayed drawdown Loan.

C. Securities Lending Agreements. The Issuer will not purchase any Portfolio Obligation primarily for the purpose of entering into a securities lending agreement with respect thereto.

D. Exception From Secondary Market Rule for Debt Securities. Any purchase of a Portfolio Obligation other than a Loan (a “Debt Security”) pursuant to a commitment, arrangement or other understanding made before or contemporaneously with completion of the closing and funding of such Debt Security issuance shall be made only in connection with one of the following:

(i) an underwriting of a registered public offering in which the seller has made a firm underwriting commitment to the issuer of such Debt Security where none of the Servicer or any Affiliate thereof acted as an underwriter or placement agent or participated in negotiating or structuring the terms of the Debt Security (other than to comment on offering documents to an unrelated underwriter or placement agent where the ability to comment was generally available to investors and to undertake due diligence of the kind customarily performed by investors in securities),

(ii) a private placement to qualified investors (pursuant to Rule 144A or Section 4(2) under the Securities Act or other similar arrangement) in which such Debt Security was originally issued pursuant to an offering circular, private placement memorandum, or similar offering document and none of the Servicer or any Affiliate thereof acted as a placement agent or underwriter or participated in negotiating or structuring the terms of the Debt Security (other than to comment on offering documents to an unrelated underwriter or placement agent where the ability to comment was generally available to investors and to undertake due diligence of the kind customarily performed by investors in securities), or

(iii) an acquisition of or entry into a Synthetic Obligation in accordance with Section V. above;

If an Affiliate of the Servicer is acting as an underwriter or placement agent or an Affiliate of the Servicer or an employee of an Affiliate of the Servicer participated in the structuring of an issuance otherwise described in clause (i) or clause (ii) of this paragraph D, one of the following additional conditions must be met:

(x) the Servicer did not participate in negotiating or structuring the terms of the obligation or security (other than to comment on offering documents to an unrelated underwriter or placement agent where the ability to comment was generally available to investors and to undertake due diligence of the kind customarily performed by investors in securities) and the Issuer purchases no more than 33% of the aggregate principal amount of the tranche of securities (or other instruments) of which such Debt Security is a part and more than 50% of the aggregate principal amount of such tranche is substantially contemporaneously sold to one or more Persons unrelated to the Servicer (and who have not given the Servicer discretionary trading authority) on terms and conditions substantially the same as those on which the Issuer is to purchase,

(y) the Servicer did not participate in negotiating or structuring the terms of the obligation or security (other than to comment on offering documents to an unrelated underwriter or placement agent where the ability to comment was generally available to investors and to undertake due diligence of the kind customarily performed by investors in securities) and the Issuer purchases less than 33% of the aggregate principal amount of all tranches issued as part of the transaction in which the Debt Security was issued and more than 50% of the aggregate principal amount of such tranches are substantially contemporaneously sold to one or more Persons unrelated to the Servicer (and who have not given the Servicer discretionary trading authority) on terms and conditions substantially the same as those on which the Issuer is to purchase, or provided, however, in either of (x) or (y), the Affiliate of the Servicer was (or the employees of the Affiliate of the Servicer were) acting as an underwriter or placement agent (or otherwise participated in the structuring of such issuance) solely as, or solely as an employee of, a Permitted Affiliate (as defined below).

“Permitted Affiliate” means any Affiliate (i) that is a separate legal entity that is operated independently of the Servicer, (ii) whose personnel are not managed by and who do not report to the personnel of the Servicer, and (iii) whose personnel are not compensated based upon the performance of the Servicer.

Section VII. General Restrictions on the Issuer. The Issuer itself shall not:

A. hold itself out, through advertising or otherwise, as originating Loans, lending funds, or making a market in or dealing in Loans or other assets;

B. register as, hold itself out as, or become subject to regulatory supervision or other legal requirements under the laws of any country or political subdivision thereof as, a broker-dealer, a bank, an insurance company, financial guarantor, a surety bond issuer, or a company engaged in Loan origination;

C. knowingly take any action causing it to be treated as a bank, insurance company, or company engaged in Loan origination for purposes of any tax, securities law or other filing or submission made to any governmental authority;

D. hold itself out, through advertising or otherwise, as originating, funding, guaranteeing or insuring debt obligations or as being willing and able to enter into transactions (either purchases or sales of debt obligations or entries into, assignments or terminations of hedging or derivative instruments, including Synthetic Securities) at the request of others;

E. treat Synthetic Securities as insurance, reinsurance, indemnity bonds, guaranties, guaranty bonds or suretyship contracts for any purpose;

F. allow any non-U.S. bank or lending institution who is a holder of a Security to control or direct the Servicer's or Issuer's decision to acquire a particular asset except as otherwise allowed to such a holder, acting in that capacity, under the related indenture or acquire a Portfolio Obligation conditioned upon a particular person or entity holding Securities;

G. acquire any asset the holding or acquisition of which the Servicer knows would cause the Issuer to be subject to income tax on a net income basis;

H. hold any security as nominee for another person; or

I. buy securities with the intent to subdivide them and sell the components or to buy securities and sell them with different securities as a package or unit.

Section VIII. Tax Opinion; Amendments.

A. In furtherance and not in limitation of this Annex 1, the Servicer shall comply with all of the provisions set forth in this Annex 1, unless, with respect to a particular transaction, the Servicer acting on behalf of the Issuer and the Trustee shall have received written advice of counsel of nationally recognized standing in the United States experienced in such matters (a "Tax Opinion"), that, under the relevant facts and circumstances with respect to such transaction, the Servicer's failure to comply with one or more of such provisions will not cause the Issuer to be engaged, or deemed to be engaged, in a trade or business within the United States for United States federal income tax purposes or otherwise to be subject to United States federal income tax on a net basis.

B. The provisions set forth in the Annex 1 may be amended, eliminated or supplemented by the Servicer if the Issuer, the Servicer and the Trustee shall have received a Tax Opinion that the Servicer's compliance with such amended provisions or supplemental provisions or the failure to comply with such provisions proposed to be eliminated, as the case may be, will not cause the Issuer to be engaged, or deemed to be engaged, in a trade or business within the United States for United States federal income tax purposes or otherwise to be subject to United States federal income tax on a net basis.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - FEBRUARY 3, 2021 - 9:38 A.M.

2 THE CLERK: All rise. The United States Bankruptcy
3 Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is 4 now in session, the Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

5 THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. All
6 right. We are ready for Day Two of the confirmation hearing
7 in Highland Capital Management, LP, Case No. 19-34054. I'll 8 just make sure we've got the key parties at the moment. Do we 9 have Mr. Pomerantz, Mr. Morris, for the Debtor team?

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. Jeff
11 Pomerantz for the Debtors.

12 MR. MORRIS: And I'm here as well, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: All right. Good.

14 All right. For our objecting parties, do we have Mr.
15 Taylor and your crew for Mr. Dondero?

16 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Good morning.

18 All right. For Dugaboy Trust and Get Good Trust, do we 19 have Mr. Draper? (No response.) All right. I do see Mr.
20 Draper. I didn't hear an appearance. You must be on mute.

21 MR. DRAPER: I'm present, --

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. DRAPER: -- Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

25 MR. DRAPER: I'm present, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Good morning. I heard you that time.

2 Thank you.

3 All right. And now for what I'll call the Funds and 4 Advisors Objectors, do we have Ms. Rukavina present?

5 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, Your Honor. Good morning.

6 THE COURT: Good morning. All right. And I will
7 check. Do we have Mr. Clemente or your team there?

8 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. Matt
9 Clemente from Sidley Austin on behalf of the Committee.

10 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Drawhorn, do we have you
11 there for the NexPoint Real Estate Partners and related funds?

12 MS. DRAWHORN: Yes, Your Honor. Good morning.

13 THE COURT: Good morning. All right. Did I miss -- 14 I think that captured all of our Objectors. Anyone who I've 15 missed?

16 All right. Well, when we recessed yesterday, Mr. Morris,
17 I think you were about to call your third witness; is that
18 correct?

19 MR. MORRIS: It is, Your Honor. But if I may, I'd 20 like to just address the objections to the remaining exhibits,
21 since I hope that won't take too long.

22 THE COURT: All right. You may.

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Actually, Your Honor, before we go
24 there, we filed the supplemental declaration of Patrick
25 Leatham, as we indicated we would do yesterday. We just

6

1 wanted to get confirmation again that nobody intends to cross-
2 examine him, so that he doesn't have to sit through the 3 festivities today.

4 THE COURT: All right. Well, I did see that you
5 filed that.

6 Does anyone anticipate wanting to cross-examine Mr.
7 Leatham, the balloting agent?

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I take it that that 9 declaration is part of the record. As long as the Court
10 confirms that, I do not intend to call the gentlemen.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, I will take judicial 12 notice of it and make it part of the record. It appears at 13 Docket Entry No. 1887. Again, it was filed -- well, it was 14 actually filed early this morning, I think. So, all right.
15 So, with --

16 MR. MORRIS: And to avoid --

17 THE COURT: Go ahead.

18 MR. MORRIS: To -- I was just going to say, to avoid 19 any ambiguity, Your Honor, the Debtor respectfully moves that 20 document into the evidentiary record.

21 THE COURT: All right. The Court will --

22 (Interruption.)

23 THE COURT: Someone needs to put their phone on mute,
24 perhaps. Unless someone was intentionally speaking.

25 All right. So, I will grant that request. Docket Entry

7

1 No. 1887 will be part of the confirmation evidence of this
2 hearing.

3 (Debtor's Patrick Leatham Declaration at Docket 1887 is 4 received into evidence.)

5 THE COURT: All right. Anything else? There were 6 other exhibits I think you were going to talk about?

7 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Let me just go through them one
8 at a time, if I may, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: All right. So, I'm going to deal with 11 the transcripts that have been objected to one at a time. And 12 I'll just take them in order. The first one can be found at 13 Exhibit B. It is on Docket No. 1822.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. MORRIS: Exhibit B is the deposition transcript
16 from the December 16, 2020 hearing on the Advisor and the 17 Funds' motion for an order restricting the Debtor from 18 engaging in certain CLO-related transactions.

19 During that hearing, the Court heard the testimony of 20 Dustin Norris. Mr. Norris is an executive vice president for 21 each of the Funds and each of the Advisors.

22 We would be offering the transcript for the limited
23 purposes of establishing Mr. Dondero's ownership and control
24 over the Advisors.

25 Mr. Norris also gave some pretty substantial testimony

1 concerning the so-called independent board of the Funds.

2 And as a general matter, Your Honor, to the extent that 3 the objection is on hearsay grounds, the transcript -- at 4 least the portions relating to Mr. Norris's testimony --
5 simply are not hearsay under Evidentiary Rule 801(d)(2).
6 These are statements of an opposing party, and I think we fall
7 well within that.

8 So, we would respectfully request that the Court admit
9 into the record the transcript from December 16th, at least 10 the portions of which are Mr. Norris's testimony.

11 THE COURT: All right. And, again, these appear at 12 -- I think I heard you say B and then E. Is that correct?

13 MR. MORRIS: Just B. Just B at the moment. B as in 14 boy.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Just B at the moment?

16 All right. Any objections to that?

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I had objected, but now
18 that it's offered for that limited purpose, I withdraw my
19 objection.

20 THE COURT: All right. Then B -- I'm sorry. Was 21 there anyone else speaking?

22 B will be admitted. And, again, it appears at Docket
23 Entry 1822.

24 (Debtor's Exhibit B, Docket Entry 1822, is received into 25 evidence.)

1 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Next, the next transcript can be
2 found at Exhibit 6R, and that's Docket 1866. Exhibit 6R is
3 the transcript of the January 9, 2020 hearing where the Court
4 approved the corporate governance settlement. We think that
5 that transcript is highly relevant, Your Honor, because it
6 reflects not only Mr. Dondero's notice and active
7 participation in the consummation of the corporate governance
8 agreement, but it also reflects the Court and the parties'
9 views and expectations that were established at that time,
10 such that if anybody contends that there's any ambiguity about 11 any aspect of the order, I believe that that would be the best
12 evidence to resolve any such disputes.

13 So, for the purpose of establishing Mr. Dondero's notice,
14 Mr. Dondero's participation, and the parties' discussions and 15 expectations with regard to every aspect of the corporate
16 governance settlement, including Mr. Dondero's stipulation,
17 the order that emerged from it, and the term sheet, we think 18 that that's properly into evidence.

19 THE COURT: Any objection?

20 All right. 6R will be admitted. Again, at Docket Entry
21 1822.

22 (Debtor's Exhibit 6R, Docket Entry 1822, is received into
23 evidence.)

24 MR. MORRIS: Next, Your Honor, we've got Exhibits 6S
25 as in Sam and 6T as in Thomas. They're companions. And they

10

1 can be found at Docket 1866. And those are the transcripts.
2 The first one is from the October 27th disclosure statement
3 hearing, and the second one actually is from the Patrick
4 Daugherty, I believe, lift stay motion.

5 I'll deal with the first one first, Your Honor. We 6 believe that the transcript of the October 27th hearing goes
7 to the good faith nature of the Debtor's proposed plan. It
8 shows that the Debtor and the Committee were not always 9 aligned on every interest. It shows that the Committee, in 10 fact, strenuously objected to certain aspects of the then-
11 proposed plan by the Debtors. And we just think it goes to 12 the heart of the good faith argument.

13 The transcript for the 28th, we would propose to offer for 14 the limited purpose of the commentary that you offered at the 15 end of that hearing, where Your Honor made it clear that 16 employee releases would not be -- would not likely be 17 acceptable to the Court unless there was some consideration
18 paid.

19 And it was really, frankly, Your Honor's comments that 20 helped spur the Committee and the Debtor to discuss over the 21 next few weeks the resolution of the issues concerning the 22 employee releases.

23 So we're not offering Exhibit 6T for anything having to do
24 with Mr. Daugherty or his claim, but just the latter portion 25 relating to the discussion about the employee releases. And,

11

1 with that, we'd move those transcripts into evidence.

2 THE COURT: Any objection?

3 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, yes, I do object. 6S is 4 hearsay, and under Rule 804(b)(1) it's admissible only if the 5 witnesses are unavailable to be called. There's been no
6 suggestion that they're not.

7 As far as 6T, what Your Honor says is not hearsay, so as 8 long as it's just what Your Honor was saying, I do not object
9 to 6T. I object to the balance of it.

10 THE COURT: Okay. What about that objection on 6S?

11 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. One second, Your Honor. I would 12 go to the residual exception to the hearsay rule under 807.
13 807 specifically applies if the statement being offered is 14 supported by sufficient guarantees of trustworthiness and it's 15 more probative on the point -- and the point here is simply to 16 help buttress the Debtor's good faith argument -- and it's 17 more probative on the point than any other evidence. And I'm 18 not sure what better evidence there would be than an on-the-19 record discussion between the Debtor and the Committee as to 20 the disputes they were having on the disclosure statement.

21 THE COURT: All right. I'm going to overrule the 22 objection and accept that 807 exception as being valid here.
23 So, I am admitting both 6S and 6T. And for the record, I
24 think you said they appeared at 1866. They actually appear at 25 1822.

12

1 MR. MORRIS: Okay, Your Honor. I am corrected. It
2 is 6S and 6T, and they are indeed at 1822. Forgive me.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 (Debtor's Exhibits 6S and 6T, Docket Entry 1822, is
5 received into evidence.)

6 MR. MORRIS: The next transcript and the last one is 7 6U, which is also at 1822. 6U is the transcript from the 8 December 10th hearing on the Debtor's motion for a TRO against 9 Mr. Dondero. We believe the entirety of that transcript is 10 highly relevant, and it relates specifically to the Debtor's
11 request for the exculpation, gatekeeper, and injunction
12 provisions of their plan. And on that basis, we would offer
13 that into evidence.

14 THE COURT: Any objection?

15 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor. This is Clay Taylor on 16 behalf of Mr. Dondero.

17 We do object, on the same basis that it is hearsay. There
18 has certainly been plenty of testimony before this Court and 19 on the record as to why the Debtor believes that its plan
20 provisions are appropriate and allowable, and there's no need
21 to allow hearsay in for that. All of the witnesses were 22 available to be called by the Debtor. The Debtor is in the 23 midst of its case and can call whoever else it needs to call
24 to get these into evidence or to get those docs into evidence.
25 And therefore, we don't believe that any residual exception

1 should apply.

2 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, your response?

3 MR. MORRIS: First, Your Honor, any statements made
4 by or on behalf of Mr. Dondero would not be hearsay under 5 801(d) (2).

6 And secondly, there is no other evidence of the Debtor's
7 motion of the -- of the argument that was had. There is no
8 other evidence, let alone better evidence, than the transcript
9 itself. And I believe 807 is certainly the best rule to 10 capture that.

11 It is a statement that's supported by sufficient
12 guarantees of trustworthiness. Again, these are the litigants
13 appearing before Your Honor. It may not be sworn testimony,
14 but I would hope that everybody is doing their best to comply
15 with the guarantee of trustworthiness in that regard, putting 16 aside advocacy.

17 And it is more probative on the point for which we're 18 offering -- and that is on the very issues of exculpation,
19 gatekeeper, and injunction -- than anything else we can offer
20 in that regard.

21 THE COURT: All right. I overrule the objection and 22 I will admit 6U. Okay.

23 (Debtor's Exhibit 6U, Docket Entry 1822, is received into 24 evidence.)

25 MR. MORRIS: All right. Going back to the top, Your

1 Honor, Companions Exhibit D as in David and E as in Edward,
2 which are at Docket 1822.

3 Exhibit D is an email string that relates to the Debtor's
4 communications with the Creditors' Committee concerning a
5 transaction known as SSP, which stands for Steel Products --
6 Structural and Steel Products. So that was an asset that the 7 Debtor was selling, trying to sell at a particular point in 8 time. And Exhibit E is a deck that the Debtor had prepared
9 for the benefit of the UCC.

10 And if we looked that those documents, Your Honor, you'd 11 see that the Debtor was properly following the protocols that 12 were put in place in connection with the January 9th corporate 13 governance settlement. And the Committee is being informed by 14 the Debtor of what the Debtor intends to do with that 15 particular asset.

16 And the reason that it's particularly relevant here, Your 17 Honor, is Dustin Norris had submitted a declaration in support
18 of their motion that was heard on September -- on December 19 16th. That declaration is an exhibit to what is Exhibit A on 20 Docket 1822. Exhibit A on the docket is the Advisor and the 21 Funds' motion. Okay? So, Exhibit A is the motion. Attached
22 to that Exhibit A is an exhibit, which is Mr. Norris's
23 declaration.

24 At Paragraph 9 of Mr. Norris's declaration, he takes issue
25 with the Debtor's process for the sale of that particular

15

1 asset.

2 And so, having admitted already into the record Mr.
3 Norris's declaration, we believe that these documents rebut
4 the statements made in Mr. Norris's declaration, and indeed,
5 were part of the transcript that has now already been admitted
6 into evidence. So we think the documents are needed because 7 they were exhibits during that hearing.

8 THE COURT: All right. Any objection?

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, yes, I object based on 10 authenticity. This document has not been authenticated, nor 11 has the attachment. And on hearsay. And I don't think that 12 the Debtor can introduce one exhibit just to introduce another 13 to rebut the first.

14 THE COURT: Your response?

15 MR. MORRIS: You know, in all honesty, I wish that 16 the authenticity objection had been made yesterday and I might 17 have been able to deal with that.

18 These documents have already been admitted by the Court
19 against these very same parties. I think it would be a little 20 unfair for them now to exclude the document that they had no
21 objection to the first time around. They clearly relate to 22 Paragraph 9 of Mr. Norris's declaration, which was admitted
23 into evidence in this case without objection.

24 THE COURT: All right. I overrule the objection. D
25 and E are admitted.

1 (Debtor's Exhibits D and E, Docket Entry 1822, is received
2 into evidence.)

3 MR. MORRIS: Next, Your Honor, we have Exhibits 4D as 4 in David, 4E as in Edward, and 4G as in Gregory. And those 5 can all be found on Docket 1822. And to just cut to the 6 chase, Your Honor, these are the K&L Gates letter that were 7 sent in late December and my firm's responses to those 8 letters.

9 Those letters are being offered, again, to support --
10 well, the Debtor contends that, in the context of this case,
11 and at the time and under the circumstances, the letters
12 constituted interference and evinces a disregard for the 13 January 9th order, for Mr. Dondero's TRO, and for the Court's 14 comments at the December 16th hearing. And they go
15 specifically to the Debtor's request for the gatekeeper,
16 exculpation, and injunction provisions.

17 To the extent that those exhibits contain the letters that 18 were sent on behalf of the Funds and on behalf of the 19 Advisors, they would simply not be hearsay under 801(d)(2).
20 And to the extent the objection goes to my firm's response, I
21 think just as a matter of completeness the Court -- I won't 22 offer them for the truth of the matter asserted. I'll simply 23 offer the Pachulski responses at those exhibits for the 24 purpose of stating the Debtor's position, without regard to 25 the truth of the matter asserted.

17

1 THE COURT: All right. Any objection?

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, with that understanding,
3 I'll withdraw my objection to these exhibits.

4 THE COURT: All right. So, 4D, 4E, and 4G are
5 admitted.

6 (Debtor's Exhibits 4D, 4E, and 4G, Docket Entry 1822, are 7 received into evidence.)

8 MR. MORRIS: Next, Your Honor, we've got Exhibit 5T
9 as in Thomas. That document can be found at Docket No. 1822.
10 Your Honor, that document is a schedule of a long list of 11 promissory notes that are owed to the Debtor by the Advisors,
12 Dugaboy, and Mr. Dondero. But I think that, upon reflection,
13 I'll withdraw that exhibit.

14 THE COURT: All right.

15 (Debtor's Exhibit 5T is withdrawn.)

16 MR. MORRIS: And then, finally, just one last one. I
17 think Mr. Rukavina objected to Exhibit 70 as in Oscar, which 18 can be found at Docket No. 1877. Exhibit 70 are the documents
19 that were admitted in the January 21st hearing, and I believe 20 that they all go -- they're being offered to support the 21 Debtor's application for the gatekeeper, exculpation, and 22 injunction provisions.

23 THE COURT: All right. 70 is being offered. Any
24 objection?

25 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, Your Honor. I do object. Those 18

1 are exhibits from a separate adversary proceeding that has not
2 been concluded. In fact, my witness is still on the stand in
3 that.

4 And I'll note that that's another 20,000 pages that's very 5 duplicative of the current record, and we already are going to 6 have an unwieldy record. So I question why Mr. Norris -- why
7 Mr. Morris would even need this.

8 So that's my objection, Your Honor.

9 MR. MORRIS: You know what? That's a fair point,
10 Your Honor. And -- that is a fair point, and I guess what I'd 11 like to do is at some point this morning see if I can single 12 out documents that are not duplicative and come back to you
13 with very specific documents. I think that's a very fair
14 point.

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 MR. MORRIS: And with that, Your Honor, I think we've 17 now addressed every single document that the Debtor has 18 offered into evidence, and I believe, other than the 19 withdrawal of --

20 THE COURT: 5T.

21 MR. MORRIS: -- 5T --

22 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

23 MR. MORRIS: -- and the open question on 70, I
24 believe every single document at Docket 1822, 1866, and 1877
25 has been admitted. Do I have that right?

19

1 THE COURT: All right. Yes, because I did admit
2 yesterday 7F through 7Q, minus 7O, at 1877. So, yes, I agree
3 with what you just said.

4 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I apologize. And Mr.
5 Morris. I have that 5S -- or six -- that 5S and 6C, Legal 6 Entities List, have not been admitted. But if I'm wrong on 7 that, then I apologize.

8 THE COURT: Okay. 5S was part of 1866, which I
9 admitted entirely.

10 And what was the other thing?

11 MR. RUKAVINA: I'm counting letters, Your Honor.
12 One, two, three, four. 6D, Legal Entities List, Redacted.

13 THE COURT: Okay. 6B would have been --

14 MR. RUKAVINA: D, Your Honor, as in dog. I'm sorry.
15 6-dog.

16 THE COURT: Okay. 6D, yeah, that was part of 1822
17 that I admitted en masse yesterday.

18 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, I didn't hear an objection to that 19 one yesterday, and I agree, Your Honor. My records show that 20 it was already admitted.

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Then I apologize to the Court.

22 THE COURT: All right. Any --

23 MR. MORRIS: No worries. Let's get --

24 THE COURT: Any other housekeeping matters before we 25 go to the next witness?

20

1 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor. Not from the Debtor.

2 THE COURT: Anyone else?

3 All right. Well, let's hear from the next witness.

4 MR. MORRIS: All right, Your Honor. The Debtor calls
5 as its next and last witness Marc Tauber.

6 THE COURT: All right. Mr. --

7 MR. MORRIS: Mr. Tauber, if you're on the phone,
8 please identify yourself.

9 (No response.)

10 THE COURT: Mr. Tauber, we're not hearing you.
11 Perhaps you are on mute. Could you unmute your device?

12 (No response.)

13 THE COURT: All right. If it's a phone, you need to 14 hit *6.

15 Hmm. Any -- do you know which caller he is?

16 THE CLERK: I'm trying to find out.

17 THE COURT: All right. We've got well over a hundred 18 people, so we can't easily identify where he is at the moment.

19 All right. Mr. Tauber, Marc Tauber? This is Judge
20 Jernigan. We cannot hear you, so -- all right. Well, maybe 21 we can --

22 MR. MORRIS: Can we just take a three-minute break
23 and let me see if I can track him down?

24 THE COURT: Yes. Why don't you do that? So let's
25 take a three-minute break.

1 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 (A recess ensued from 10:02 a.m. until 10:04 a.m.)

4 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if we may, he'll be dialing
5 in in a moment. But I've been reminded that there is one more
6 exhibit. It's the exhibit I used on rebuttal yesterday with 7 Mr. Seery. There was the one document that was on the docket,
8 and that was the Debtor's omnibus reply to the plan
9 objections, where we looked at Paragraph 135, I believe. And 10 we would offer that into evidence for the purpose of just 11 establishing that the Debtor had given notice no later than 12 January 22nd of its agreement in principle to assume the CLO
13 management contracts.

14 And then the second exhibit that we had offered that I
15 think I suggested could be marked as Exhibit 10A was the email
16 string between my firm and counsel for the CLO Issuers where 17 they agreed to the agreement in principle for the Debtor's
18 assumption of the CLO management contracts.

19 And we would offer both of those documents into evidence
20 as well.

21 THE COURT: All right. Any objections?

22 All right. Well, I will admit them.

23 As far as this email string with the CLO Issuers that you
24 called 10A, does that appear on the docket? I remember you
25 putting it on the screen, but, if not, you'll need to file a

22

1 supplement to the record, a supplemental exhibit.

2 MR. MORRIS: We will, Your Honor. We'll do that for 3 both of those exhibits.

4 THE COURT: And then as -- okay, for both? Because I
5 -- I've read that reply, and I could reference the docket
6 number if we need to.

7 MR. MORRIS: We'll clean that up, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 (Debtor's Exhibit 10A is received into evidence.)

10 (Clerk advises Court re new caller.)

11 THE COURT: Oh, okay. Just a minute. I was looking 12 up something.

13 (Pause.)

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, you're going to file --
15 hmm, I really wanted to just reference where that reply brief
16 appears on the record. There were a heck of a lot of things
17 filed on January 22nd.

18 (Interruption.)

19 THE COURT: Okay. We'll --

20 MR. MORRIS: All right. We're just going to need one
21 more minute with Mr. Tauber. It's my fault, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: I didn't send him easily-digestible
24 dial-in instructions. He'll be just a moment.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

23

1 (Court confers with Clerk regarding exhibit.)

2 THE COURT: Oh, it's at 1807? Okay. So, the reply
3 brief that we talked about Paragraph 35, that is at Docket No.
4 1807. Okay? All right.

5 (Debtor's Omnibus Reply to Plan Objections, Docket 1807,
6 is received into evidence.)

7 (Pause.)

8 MR. TAUBER: Hi. It's Marc Tauber.

9 THE COURT: All right.

10 MR. MORRIS: Excellent.

11 THE COURT: Mr. Tauber, this is Judge Jernigan. I
12 can hear you, but I can't see you. Do you have a video --

13 MR. TAUBER: Yeah, I don't know why it's not working.

14 THE COURT: Hmm.

15 MR. TAUBER: I'm on WebEx all day. Usually it works
16 no problem.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Well, do you want to give it
18 another try or two?

19 MR. TAUBER: Yeah. It looks like it's starting to 20 come up. It's all -- pictures, so --

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. TAUBER: -- hopefully you'll be able to see me in 23 a second.

24 THE COURT: Okay. The first thing I'm going to need
25 to do is swear you in, so we'll see if the video comes up here

1 in a minute.

2 MR. TAUBER: Okay.

3 THE COURT: Can you see us, Mr. Tauber?

4 MR. TAUBER: I can see four people. The rest are 5 just names still.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. TAUBER: I can go out and try to come back in, if 8 you think that's --

9 THE COURT: I'm afraid of losing you. So, your 10 audio, is it on your phone or is it on --

11 MR. TAUBER: No.

12 THE COURT: -- a computer?

13 MR. TAUBER: On the computer. Yeah.

14 THE COURT: Okay. So you're coming through loud and 15 clear on your computer.

16 MR. TAUBER: Yeah. Like I said, we use WebEx for 17 work, so I have them on all day long without any issues, 18 typically.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 (Court confers with Clerk.)

21 THE COURT: Okay. Our court reporter thinks it's a
22 bandwidth issue on your end, so I don't --

23 MR. TAUBER: There's only two of us here at home on 24 the line right now, so I don't know why. It looks like it's 25 trying to come in, and then just keeps --

Tauber - Direct

25

1 THE COURT: I at least see your name on the screen
2 now, which I did not before.

3 MR. TAUBER: Yeah.

4 THE COURT: So hopefully we're going to -- ah. We 5 got you.

6 MR. TAUBER: There it is.

7 THE COURT: All right.

8 MR. TAUBER: Yeah.

9 MR. MORRIS: There we go.

10 MR. TAUBER: I might lose you, though. Give me one
11 second, because I have a thing saying the WebEx meeting has 12 stopped working. Let me close that.

13 THE COURT: Okay. We've still got you. Please raise
14 your right hand.

15 MR. TAUBER: Okay.

16 MARC TAUBER, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

17 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris?

18 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

19 DIRECT EXAMINATION

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q Good morning, Mr. Tauber.

22 A Good morning.

23 Q I apologize for the delay in getting you the information.
24 Are you currently employed, sir?

25 A Yes, sir.

Tauber - Direct

26

1 Q By whom?

2 A Aon Financial Services.

3 Q And does Aon Financial Services provide insurance
4 brokerage services among its services?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And what position do you currently hold?

7 A Vice president.

8 Q How long have you been a vice president at Aon?

9 A Since October of 2019.

10 Q Can you just describe for the Court generally your 11 professional background?

12 A Sure. I spent about 20 years on Wall Street, working in a
13 variety of jobs, in research, trading, and as the COO of a
14 hedge fund. And then in 2010 I switched to the insurance
15 world. I was an underwriter for ten-plus years for Zurich and 16 QBE. And then in 2019 switched to the brokering side for Aon.

17 Q And what are your duties and responsibilities as a vice 18 president at Aon?

19 A Well, we're responsible for my team and I am responsible 20 for creating bespoke insurance programs, focusing on D&O and 21 E&O insurance for our insureds.

22 Q And what is, for the benefit of the record, what do you
23 mean by bespoke insurance program?

24 A Well, each client is different, so the programs and the 25 policies that we put in place might be off-the-shelf policies,

Tauber - Direct

27

1 but we endorse and amend them as needed to meet the needs of
2 the individual client.

3 Q And during your work, both as an underwriter and now as a
4 broker, have you familiarized yourself with the market for D&O
5 and E&O insurance policies?

6 A Yes.

7 Q All right. Let's talk about the early part of this case.
8 Did there come a time in early 2020 when Aon was asked to 9 place insurance on behalf of the board of Strand Advisors?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Can you describe for the Court how that came about?

12 A Sure. One of our account executives, a man by the name of 13 Jim O'Neill, had a relationship with a man named John Dubel, 14 who was one of the appointees to serve on -- as a member of 15 Strand, which was being appointed, as we understood it, to be 16 the general partner of Highland Capital Management by the 17 Bankruptcy Court. And they -- we had done -- or, Jim and John 18 had a longstanding relationship. I had actually underwritten
19 an account for a previous appointment of John's when I was an 20 underwriter, so I had some familiarity with John as well, and 21 actually brokered a subsequent deal for John at Aon.

22 So I had, again, some familiarity with John, and we were,
23 you know, tasked with going out and finding a program for 24 Strand.

25 Q Can you describe what happened next? How did you go about

Tauber - Direct

28

1 accomplishing that task?

2 A So, there are a number of markets or insurance companies
3 that provide management liability insurance, which this was a
4 management liability-type policy. D&O is a synonym for 5 management liability, I guess you'd say. And we approached
6 the, I think, 14 or 15 markets that we knew to provide 7 insurance in this space and that would be willing to buy the 8 type of policy we were seeking and have interest in a risk
9 like this, which had a little hair on it. Obviously, there
10 was the Dondero involvement, as well as the bankruptcy.

11 Q As part of that process, did you and your firm put 12 together a package of information for prospective interested
13 parties?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Can you describe for the Court what was contained in the 16 package?

17 A Had the C.V.s, some relevant pleadings from the case,
18 court order. I'd have to go back and look exactly. But sort 19 of just general, you know, general information that was 20 available about the situation at hand and Strand's
21 appointment.

22 Q And the court order that you just mentioned, is that the 23 one that had that gatekeeper provision in it?

24 A Correct.

25 Q And can you explain to the Court why you and your team

Tauber - Direct

29

1 decided to include the order with the gatekeeper provision in
2 the package that you were delivering to prospective carriers?

3 A Sure. In our initial conversations to discuss our 4 engagement, the gatekeeper function was explained to us by 5 John. And I'm not sure who else was on the initial call.
6 And, but it was explained to us that I guess Judge Jernigan
7 would sit as the gatekeeper between any potential claimant
8 against the insureds and, you know, would basically have to 9 approve any claim that would be made against (indecipherable),
10 which would thereby prevent any frivolous claims from 11 happening.

12 Q All right. Let's just talk for a moment. How did you and 13 your firm decide which underwriters to present the package to?

14 A Again, you know, I -- my background, or my Wall Street
15 background, obviously, sort of made me have a -- it was very 16 unique for the insurance world when I switched over, so I had 17 sort of risen to a certain level of expertise within the 18 space. And, you know, our team also is very experienced, and 19 decades of experience in the insurance world. So we're very 20 familiar with the markets that are willing to provide these 21 types of policies and the markets that would be likely to take 22 a look at a risk such as this.

23 Q Okay. You mentioned that there was -- I think your words
24 were a little hair on this, and one of the things you
25 mentioned was bankruptcy. How did the fact that Strand was

Tauber - Direct

30

1 the general partner of a debtor in bankruptcy impact your
2 ability to solicit D&O insurance?

3 A Well, it's just not a plain vanilla situation, so people
4 are somewhat, you know, are -- I think -- so, the type of 5 insurance, D&O insurance, that we write is very different from 6 auto insurance, as an example. Auto insurance, people expect 7 there to be a certain amount of claims, and they expect the 8 premiums to cover the claims plus the expenses and then 9 provide them a reasonable profit on top of that.

10 Our insurance is really much more by binary. The 11 expectation for underwriters is that they will be completing 12 ignoring -- or, avoiding risk at all costs, wherever possible.
13 So anytime there is a situation that looks a little risky, so 14 the premium might be a little higher, the deductible might be 15 a little higher, but, again, the underwriters are really 16 making a bet that they will not have a claim. Because the 17 premiums pale in comparison to the limits that are available
18 to the policyholder.

19 Q And so --

20 A So, -- I'm sorry. What were you going to say?

21 Q I didn't mean to interrupt.

22 A Yeah.

23 Q Have you finished your answer?

24 A Sure.

25 Q Okay. So, were some of the 14 or 15 markets that you

Tauber - Direct

31

1 contacted reluctant to underwrite because there was a
2 bankruptcy ongoing?

3 A Well, I think that probably -- I mean, there are certain 4 markets that we didn't go to in the beginning because they 5 would be very reluctant to write a risk that had that kind of 6 hair on it, based on our experience from dealing with them.
7 And, you know, I think the bankruptcy was certainly a little 8 bit of an issue. And then, obviously, as people did their 9 research and -- or if they weren't already familiar with 10 Highland and got to know, you know, got -- I will just say for 11 a simple Google search and learned a little bit about Mr.
12 Dondero, I think there was definitely some significant
13 reluctance to write this program.

14 Q Was the fact that the Debtor -- was the fact that the 15 Debtor is a partnership an issue that came up, in your -- in 16 your process?

17 A There are certainly some carriers who won't write what's 18 known as general partnership liability insurance. So, yes, 19 that is part of that. It was part of the limiting factor in 20 terms of who we went to.

21 Q Okay. And, finally, you mentioned Mr. Dondero. What role
22 did he play in your ability to obtain insurance for the Strand
23 board?

24 A Well, that's a very significant role. As, you know, as 25 mentioned, the underwriters are very risk-averse, so the

Tauber - Direct

32

1 litigiousness of Mr. Dondero is a very strong red flag
2 prohibiting a number of people from writing the insurance at 3 all. And the ones that were writing, that were willing to 4 provide options, were looking for protections from Mr.
5 Dondero.

6 Q And what kind of protections were they looking for?

7 A Well, the gatekeeper function was a key factor. That was 8 really the only way we could even start a conversation with 9 any of the people that we were able to engage. And in 10 addition, they wanted a, you know, sort of a belts and 11 suspenders additional protection of having an exclusion
12 preventing any litigation brought by or on behalf of Mr.
13 Dondero.

14 Q Were you able to identify any carrier who was prepared to 15 underwrite D&O insurance for Strand without the gatekeeper
16 provision or without a Dondero exclusion?

17 A We were not.

18 Q Okay. Let's fast-forward now. Has your firm been 19 requested to obtain professional management insurance for the 20 contemplated post-confirmation debtor entities and individuals
21 associated with those entities?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. So let's just talk about the entities first, the 24 Claimant Trust and the Litigation Trust. In response to that 25 request, have you and your team gone out into the marketplace

Tauber - Direct

33

1 to try to find an underwriter willing to underwrite a policy
2 for those entities?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And have you been able to find any carrier who's willing
5 to provide coverage for the Claimant Trust and the Litigation
6 Trust?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And how many -- how many have expressed a willingness to 9 do that?

10 A Two.

11 Q And have those two carriers indicated that there would be 12 conditions to coverage for the entities?

13 A Both will require a -- the continuation of the gatekeeper
14 function, as well as a Dondero exclusion.

15 Q Okay. Have you also been tasked with the responsibility
16 of trying to find coverage for the individuals associated with 17 the Claimant Trust and the Litigation Trust, meaning the 18 Claimant Trustee, the Litigation Trustee, and the Oversight
19 Board?

20 A Yes. So we did it concurrently.

21 Q Okay. So, are the two firms that you just mentioned 22 willing to provide insurance for the individuals as well as 23 the entities?

24 A Correct. With the same stipulations.

25 Q They require -- they both require the gatekeeper and the

Tauber - Direct

34

1 Dondero exclusion?

2 A That's correct.

3 Q Is there any other firm who has indicated a willingness to 4 consider providing D&O insurance for the individuals?

5 A There is one that is willing to do so, as long as the 6 gatekeeper function remains in place. They have indicated
7 that if the gatekeeper function was to be removed, that they 8 would then add a Dondero exclusion to their coverage.

9 Q So is there any insurance carrier that you're aware of who 10 is prepared to insure either the individuals or the entities
11 without a gatekeeper provision?

12 A No.

13 Q And that last company, I just want to make sure the record
14 is clear: If the gatekeeper provision is overturned on appeal
15 or is otherwise not effective, do you have an understanding as 16 to what happens to the insurance coverage?

17 A They will either add an exclusion for any claims brought 18 by or on behalf of Mr. Dondero or cancel the coverage
19 altogether.

20 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. Cross of this witness?

22 CROSS-EXAMINATION

23 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

24 Q Mr. Tauber, I'm a little confused. So, the insurance 25 that's being written now for the post-bankruptcy entities, did

Tauber - Cross

35

1 I hear you say that there is one carrier that would give that
2 insurance subject to having a Dondero exclusion?

3 A So, first of all, there's nothing currently being written.
4 We have solicited quotes. So, just to make sure that that --
5 I want to make sure that's clear.

6 We have three carriers that are willing to provide varying 7 levels of coverage. All three will only do so with the 8 existence of the gatekeeper function continuing to be in 9 place. One of the three has -- two of those three will also 10 provide the coverage with -- even with the gatekeeper function
11 and the Dondero exclusion. The third one was not requiring a
12 Dondero exclusion unless the gatekeeper function goes away.

13 Q Okay. So the third one, you believe, will, whatever the 14 term is, write the insurance or provide the coverage without a
15 gatekeeper, as long as there is a strong Dondero exclusion?

16 A No. Their initial requirement is that the gatekeeper
17 function remains in place. That is their preferred option.
18 If the gatekeeper function is removed, then they will add a 19 Dondero exclusion in place of the gatekeeper exclusion. In 20 addition, that carrier is only willing to provide coverage for 21 the individuals, not for the entities.

22 Q Okay. Thank you.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: I'll pass the witness, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: All right. Other cross?

25 MR. TAYLOR: Clay Taylor on behalf of Mr. Dondero.

36

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 CROSS-EXAMINATION

3 BY MR. TAYLOR:

4 Q Good morning, Mr. Tauber.

5 A Good morning.

6 Q Are you generally familiar with placing D&O insurance at 7 distressed debt level private equity firms?

8 A I am familiar with it probably more from the underwriting
9 side, and I also worked at a fund that was distressed and had 10 to be liquidated, so I -- as the COO, so I have a fair amount
11 of familiarity, yes.

12 Q Okay. Before taking this to market for the first time for 13 the pre-confirmation policies that you have in place, did your 14 firm conduct any due diligence or analysis of comparing the 15 amount of litigation the Highland entities and Mr. Dondero
16 were involved in as compared to other comparable firms in the 17 marketplace? Say, you know, Apollo, Fortress, Cerberus, other 18 similar market participants?

19 A Well, it wouldn't really be our role as the broker.
20 That's the role of the underwriter.

21 Q Are you familiar if any of the underwriters undertook any 22 such analysis?

23 A I would assume that they did, since they all had concerns
24 about Mr. Dondero almost immediately.

25 Q Do you have any -- you didn't conduct any personal due

Tauber - Cross

37

1 diligence on comparing the amount of litigation that the
2 Highland entities were involved in as compared to, say,
3 Fortress, do you?

4 A Well, again, that wouldn't really be my role as the 5 broker. But I will say that I used to write the primary
6 insurance for Fortress Investment Group when I was at Zurich.
7 So I'm extremely familiar with Fortress, to use your example,
8 and I would say that the level of litigation at Fortress was 9 much, just out of personal knowledge, was significantly less
10 than I had encountered or than I had read about at Highland.

11 Q That you have read about? Is that based upon a number of 12 cases where Fortress was a plaintiff as compared to Highland
13 was a plaintiff? Over what time period?

14 A Again, not my role. Not something that I've done. I'm 15 just generally familiar with Fortress and I'm generally
16 familiar with Highland.

17 Q All right. So you're generally familiar and you say that 18 -- you're telling me and this Court that Fortress is involved
19 in less litigation. Could you quantify that for me, please?

20 A No, but it's really irrelevant to the situation at hand.
21 The issue is not my feelings whatsoever. The issue is the 22 underwriters' feelings and their concern with Mr. Dondero, not 23 mine or anybody else's.

24 Q So, I appreciate your answer and thank you for that, but I
25 believe the question that was before you is, have you

Tauber - Cross

38

1 quantitatively -- do you have any quantitative analysis by
2 which you can back up the statement that Fortress is less
3 litigious than Highland?

4 A I wouldn't even try, no.

5 Q Okay. Do you have any quantitative analysis for -- that 6 Cerberus is any less litigious than Highland?

7 A I don't have any real knowledge of Cerberus's
8 litigiousness.

9 Q Same question as to Apollo.

10 A Again, the Fortress, you just happened to mention
11 Fortress, which was a special case because I used to be their 12 primary underwriter. I don't have any specific -- I'm not a 13 claims attorney. I don't have any specific knowledge of the 14 level of litigiousness.

15 And, again, it's not up to me, my decision. It's the 16 underwriters' decision of whether or not they're willing to 17 write the coverage, not mine.

18 Q You mentioned that the -- when you took this out to 19 market, it had a little hair on it. Correct?

20 A Correct.

21 Q And you put together a package of materials that you sent 22 out to 14 or 15 market participants; is -- did I get that
23 correct?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And in that package, you had certain pleadings, including

39

1 the court order, correct?

2 A Yes. I believe that's correct.

3 Q And that was after your initial conversation with John and 4 -- where he pointed out the gatekeeper role. Correct?

5 A Correct.

6 Q And so when you went out to market, presumably you
7 highlighted the gatekeeper role to all the people you
8 solicited offers from because you thought it included less
9 risk, correct?

10 A It offered a level of protection that was not -- that's 11 not common. So it's, yes, it's a huge selling point for the 12 risk.

13 Q Okay. So, to be clear, you never went out to the market
14 to even see if you could get underwriting the first time
15 without the gatekeeper function; is that correct?

16 A Well, it's my job as a broker to present the risk in the 17 best possible light. So if we have a fact that makes the risk 18 a better write for the underwriters, we, of course, will 19 highlight it. So, no, I did not do that.

20 Q Okay. So, the quick answer to the question is no, you did
21 not go out and solicit any bids without the gatekeeper
22 function?

23 A Correct.

24 Q When you have approached the market for the post-
25 confirmation potential coverage, did you approach the same 14

Tauber - Cross

40

1 or 15 parties that you did before?

2 A I don't have the two lists in front of me. They would
3 have been vastly similar, yes.

4 Q Okay. And so, again, all of the 14 or 15 parties or the 5 lists that you solicited were already familiar with the 6 gatekeeper function, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And so therefore they already had that right; they're not 9 going to trade against themselves and therefore say that,
10 without it, we'll go ahead and write coverage. Correct?

11 A I -- I -- it'd be hard to answer that question. I don't 12 know.

13 Q Okay. Because you didn't try that, did you?

14 A I would have had no reason to, no.

15 Q Okay. So you don't know if a market exists without the 16 gatekeeper function because you haven't asked, have you?

17 A I guess that's fair, yeah.

18 MR. TAYLOR: I have no further questions.

19 THE COURT: All right. Any other Objectors with
20 cross-examination?

21 MR. DRAPER: I have no questions for the witness,
22 Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: All right. Anyone else? Mr. Morris,
24 redirect?

25 MR. MORRIS: Just one.

Tauber - Redirect

41

1 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

2 BY MR. MORRIS:

3 Q One question, Mr. Tauber. Is there any -- do all
4 underwriters -- any underwriters for Fortress require, as a
5 condition to underwriting the D&O insurance, require a
6 gatekeeping provision?

7 A In my, you know, 11, 12 years of experience in this
8 industry, in this space, I have never seen that gatekeeper
9 function be available, as an underwriter or as a broker. So,
10 no.

11 MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Any recross on that redirect?

13 All right. Well, Mr. Tauber, you are excused. We thank 14 you for your testimony today. So you can log off.

15 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 (The witness is excused.)

18 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, does the Debtor rest?

19 MR. MORRIS: The Debtor does rest, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: All right. Well, what are we going to 21 have from the Objectors as far as evidence?

22 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I will be very short. I
23 will call Mr. Seery for less than ten minutes. I will call
24 Mr. Post for less than ten minutes. I will have one exhibit.
25 And I think that that's it for all the Objectors, unless I'm

1 mistaken, gentlemen.

2 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, I had one witness, Mr.
3 Sevilla, under subpoena to testify, and needed a brief moment
4 to discuss with my colleagues whether we're going to call him,
5 and if so, put him on notice that he would be coming up
6 probably about -- I don't know your schedule, Your Honor, but 7 probably, I'm guessing, either before lunch or after, and I
8 need to let him know that also.

9 So I do need a brief three to five minutes to confer with 10 my colleagues and some direction from the Court to, if we 11 decide to call him, as to when we would tell him to be 12 available.

13 THE COURT: All right. Well, before I get to that,
14 Mr. Draper, do you have any witnesses?

15 MR. DRAPER: I do not.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, let's see. It's 10:34.
17 We're making good time this morning. If Seery is truly ten
18 minutes of direct, and Post is truly ten minutes of direct,
19 and I don't know how long the documentary exhibits are going
20 to take, it sounds to me like we are very likely to get to Mr.
21 Sevilla before a lunch break.

22 So if you want to -- you know, I don't know what that 23 involves, you sending text messages or making a quick phone
24 call. Do you need a five-minute break for that?

25 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor. It involves a phone

43

1 call and an email. Just a confirmatory phone call just to
2 make sure that the guy -- just so you know who he is, he is 3 actually a Highland employee, but he's represented by separate 4 counsel, and so we do need to go through him just because 5 that's the right thing to do.

6 THE COURT: All right. Well, again, I mean, I never
7 know how long cross is going to take, but I'm guessing, you
8 know, we're going to get to him in an hour or so, if not 9 sooner, it sounds like. So, all right. So, do we need a 10 five-minute break?

11 MR. RUKAVINA: And Your Honor, it might make more
12 sense to make it a ten-minute break. I suspect that Mr.
13 Taylor will be able to release his witness if he and I will 14 just be able to talk. So I would ask the Court's indulgence
15 for a ten-minuter.

16 THE COURT: Okay. We'll take a ten-minute break.
17 We'll come back at 10:46 Central time.

18 THE CLERK: All rise.

19 (A recess ensued from 10:36 a.m. until 10:46 a.m.)

20 THE CLERK: All rise.

21 THE COURT: Please be seated. We're going back on 22 the record in the Highland confirmation hearing. Are the 23 Objectors ready to proceed?

24 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Davor Rukavina. We are.

25 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Rukavina, are you

1 going to call your witnesses first?

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, I will. Before that, if it might 3 help the Court and Mr. Morris: Mr. Morris, with respect to 4 that last exhibit, I do not object to the admission of any of 5 the exhibits that were admitted at that PI hearing.

6 But I do think, Your Honor, for the record, that -- and I
7 would ask Mr. Morris that he should refile those exhibits here
8 in this case, except for those that are duplicative. Because,
9 again, there's 10,000 pages of indentures, et cetera.

10 MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much, sir.

11 Your Honor, if that's acceptable to you, we'll do that as 12 soon as possible.

13 THE COURT: All right. And let me make sure the 14 record is clear. Are we talking about what you've described 15 as 70? I'm getting mixed up now. Am I --

16 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. MORRIS: It's 70, which is the documents that 19 were introduced into evidence in the prior hearing. And Mr.
20 Rukavina is exactly right, that there is substantial overlap
21 between that and other documents that have already been 22 admitted in the record in this case. So we'll just file an 23 abridged version of Exhibit O that only includes non-
24 duplicative documents.

25 THE COURT: All right. So that will be admitted, and

Seery - Direct

45

1 we'll look for your filed abridged version to show up on the
2 docket. 70.

3 (Debtor's Exhibit 70 is received into evidence as 4 specified.)

5 THE COURT: All right. What's next?

6 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Jim Seery, please. Mr.
7 James Seery.

8 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, welcome back.
9 Please raise your right hand.

10 MR. SEERY: Can you -- can you hear me, Your Honor?

11 THE COURT: I can now.

12 JAMES P. SEERY, CERTAIN FUNDS AND ADVISORS' WITNESS, SWORN

13 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

14 Mr. Rukavina, go ahead.

15 DIRECT EXAMINATION

16 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

17 Q Mr. Seery, --

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you.

19 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

20 Q Mr. Seery, good morning.

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if you'll please pull up
22 the schedules.

23 What we have here, Your Honor, is Docket 247, the Debtor's
24 schedules. I'd ask the Court to take judicial notice of it.

25 THE COURT: All right. The Court will do so.

Seery - Direct

46

1 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

2 Q Mr. Seery, are you familiar with these entities listed
3 here on the Debtor's schedules?

4 A Generally. Each one a little bit different.

5 Q Okay. Do you agree that the Debtor still owns equity
6 interests in these entities?

7 A I believe it does, yes.

8 Q Okay. Is it true that none of these entities are publicly
9 traded?

10 A I don't believe any of these are publicly-traded entities,
11 no.

12 Q Okay. And none of these, to your knowledge, are debtors
13 in this bankruptcy case, right?

14 A No. We only have one debtor in the case.

15 Q Okay. So, Highland Select Equity Fund, LP, the Debtor
16 owns more than 20 percent of the equity in that entity, right?

17 A I believe the Debtor owns the majority of that entity.
18 That is a fund with an on- and offshore feeder. And I, off
19 the top of my head, don't recall exactly how the allocations
20 of equity work. But I believe we do.

21 Q Does 67 percent refresh your memory? Are you prepared to 22 say that the Debtor owns 67 percent of that equity?

23 A I'm not prepared to say that, no.

24 Q Okay. Wright, Ltd. Does the Debtor own more than 20
25 percent of that equity?

Seery - Direct

47

1 A There's about -- I don't recall. There's about at least
2 25 artist, designers, or designs. Wright, AMES, Hockney,
3 Rothco, all own in different places, and they all own in turn
4 some other thing. So I don't know what each of them, off the 5 top of my head, own. There's -- they're part of a myriad of 6 corporate structures here.

7 Q Strak, Ltd. Do you know whether the Debtor owns more than 8 20 percent of the equity of that entity?

9 A Stark? I don't know.

10 Q Okay. I don't know how to pronounce the next one. Eamis
11 (phonetic) Ltd. Do you know whether the Debtor owns more than 12 20 percent of that equity?

13 A Off the top of my head, I don't recall.

14 Q What about Maple Avenue Holdings, LLC?

15 A I believe, I don't know if it's directly or indirectly,
16 that we own a hundred percent of that entity. But I'm not 17 sure.

18 Q What about Highland Capital Management Korea, Ltd.?

19 A Effectively, Highland Capital Management is owned a
20 hundred percent.

21 Q What about Highland Capital Management Singapore Pte.
22 Ltd.?

23 A We are in the process of shutting it down, so I don't know
24 that -- what the equity percentages are. It's really just a
25 question -- it's -- it's dissolved save for a signature from a

Seery - Direct

48

1 Singaporean.

2 Q Okay. But did the Debtor own more than 20 percent of that 3 entity?

4 A I don't know the specific allocations of equity ownership.

5 Q Okay. What about Pennant (phonetic) Management, LP? Do
6 you know whether the Debtor owns or owned more than 20 percent
7 of that entity?

8 A I don't recall, no.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: You can take that exhibit down, Mr.
10 Vasek.

11 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

12 Q Mr. Seery, very quick, are you familiar with Bankruptcy
13 Rule 2015.3?

14 A I am, yes.

15 Q Okay. Has the Debtor filed any Rule 2015.3 statements in 16 this case?

17 A I don't believe we have.

18 Q Okay.

19 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor. I'll pass the 20 witness.

21 THE COURT: All right. Any other Objector
22 questioning? None from Mr. Taylor, none from Mr. Draper, none
23 from Ms. Drawhorn?

24 All right. Any cross -- any examination from you, Mr.
25 Morris?

Seery - Cross

1 MR. MORRIS: Just one question.

2 THE COURT: Go ahead.

3 CROSS-EXAMINATION

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Mr. Seery, do you know why the Debtor has not yet filed
6 the 2015.3 statement?

7 A I have a recollection of it, yes.

8 Q Can you just describe that for the Court?

9 A When we -- when we initially filed, when the Debtor filed
10 and it was transferred over, we started trying to get all the 11 various rules completed. There are, as the Court is aware, at 12 least a thousand and maybe more, more like three thousand,
13 entities in the total corporate structure.

14 We pushed our internal counsel to try to get that done,
15 and were never able to really get it completed. We did not 16 have -- we were told we didn't have separate consolidating
17 statements for every entity, and it would be difficult. And 18 just in the rush of things that happened from the first
19 quarter into the COVID into the year, we just didn't complete
20 that filing. There was no reason for it other than we didn't 21 get it done initially and I think it fell through the cracks.

22 MR. MORRIS: Nothing further, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: All right. Anything further, Mr.
24 Rukavina?

25 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

1 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

2 Q Mr. Seery, I appreciate that answer. But you never sought
3 leave from the Bankruptcy Court to postpone the deadlines for 4 filing 2015.3, did you?

5 A No. If it hadn't fallen through the cracks, it would have 6 been something we recalled and we would have done something
7 with it. But, frankly, it just fell off the -- through the 8 cracks. We didn't deal with it.

9 Q Okay.

10 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor. Thank you, Mr.
11 Seery.

12 THE COURT: All right. Any other Objector
13 examination?

14 Mr. Morris, anything further on that point?

15 MR. MORRIS: No, thank you, Your Honor. No further
16 questions.

17 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, thank you. You're 18 excused once again from the witness stand.

19 (The witness is excused.)

20 THE COURT: Your next witness?

21 MR. SEERY: Thank you, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I'll call Jason Post. Mr.
24 Post, if you're listening, which I believe you are, if you'll 25 please activate your camera.

1 THE COURT: Mr. Post, we do not see or hear you yet.

2 MR. RUKAVINA: Talk, Mr. Post, and I think it'll
3 focus on you.

4 MR. POST: Yes. Can you hear me now?

5 THE COURT: We can hear you. We cannot see you yet.
6 Could you say, "Testing, one, two; testing, one, two"?

7 MR. POST: Testing, one, two. Testing, one, two.

8 THE COURT: There you are. Okay. Please raise your 9 right hand.

10 JASON POST, CERTAIN FUNDS AND ADVISORS' WITNESS, SWORN

11 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may proceed.

12 DIRECT EXAMINATION

13 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

14 Q Mr. Post, good morning. State your name for the record,
15 please.

16 A Robert Jason Post.

17 Q How are you employed?

18 A I'm employed by NexPoint Advisors, LP.

19 Q What is your title?

20 A Chief compliance officer.

21 Q Were you ever employed by the Debtor here?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Between when and when? Approximately?

24 A I believe it was July of '08 through October of 2020.

25 Q What was your last title while you were employed at the Post - Direct

52

1 Debtor?

2 A Still chief compliance officer. For the retail funds.

3 Q Okay. Very, very quickly, what does a chief compliance
4 officer do? Or what do you do?

5 A It's multiple things. Interaction with the regulators.
6 Adherence to prospectus and SAI limitations for the funds.
7 And then establishment of written policies and procedures to 8 prevent and detect violations of the federal securities laws
9 and then testing those on a frequent basis.

10 Q And I believe you mentioned you're the CCO for NexPoint
11 Advisors and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors. Are 12 you also the CCO for any funds that they advise?

13 A Yes. For all the funds that they advise.

14 Q Okay. Does that include so-called retail funds?

15 A Yes. They're all retail funds.

16 Q What is a retail fund?

17 A It typically constitutes funds that are subject to the 18 Investment Company Act of 1940, such as open-end mutual funds,
19 closed-end funds, ETFs.

20 Q Obviously, you know who my clients are. Are any of my 21 clients so-called retail funds that you just described?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Name them, please.

24 A You've got NexPoint Capital, Inc., Highland Income Fund,
25 and NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund.

Post - Direct

53

1 Q Do those three retail funds hold any voting preference
2 shares in the CLOs that the Debtor manages?

3 A Yes.

4 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, if you'll please pull up
5 Exhibit 2.

6 Your Honor, I believe I have a stipulation with Mr. Morris
7 that this exhibit can be admitted, so I'll move for its 8 admission.

9 MR. MORRIS: No objection, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: All right. Exhibit 2 will be admitted.
11 And let's be clear. That appears at -- is it Docket No. --
12 let's see. Is it 1673 that you have your -- no, no, no, no.
13 1670? Is that where your exhibits are?

14 MR. RUKAVINA: No, Your Honor. It's 1863. I think
15 we did an amended one because we numbered our exhibits instead
16 of having seventeen Os and Ps. So it's 1863.

17 THE COURT: 1863? Okay. All right. There it is.
18 Okay. Again, this is -- I'm sorry. I got sidetracked. What 19 exhibit? It's Exhibit 2, is admitted. Okay.

20 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you, Your Honor.

21 (Certain Funds and Advisors' Exhibit 2 is received into 22 evidence.)

23 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

24 Q Real quick, Mr. Seery. What do these HIF, NSOF, NC, what 25 do they stand for? Do they stand for the retail funds you

1 just named?

2 MR. SEERY: I don't think he meant me.

3 THE WITNESS: Yeah.

4 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

5 Q I'm sorry, Mr. Post. I didn't hear you.

6 A You addressed me as Mr. Seery.

7 Q Oh. I apologize. What do those initials stand for?

8 A The names of the funds that I mentioned.

9 Q Okay. And what do these percentages show?

10 A The percentages show the amount of shares outstanding and 11 the preference shares that each of the respective funds hold
12 of the named CLOs.

13 Q And those CLOs on the left there, those are the CLOs that 14 the Debtor manages pursuant to agreements, correct?

15 A Yes. Those are some of them, correct.

16 Q Yes. The ones that the retail funds you mentioned have 17 interests in, correct?

18 A Correct.

19 Q And what does the far-right column summarize or show?

20 A That would be the aggregate across the three retail funds.

21 Q In each of those CLOs?

22 A Correct.

23 Q Thank you.

24 MR. RUKAVINA: Mr. Vasek, you may pull this down.

25 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

Post - Direct

55

1 Q Mr. Post, in the aggregate, how much do those three retail
2 funds have invested in those CLOs, ballpark?

3 A I believe it's approximately $130 million, give or take.

4 Q Is it closer to 140 or 130?

5 A A hundred -- I think it's 140, actually.

6 Q Okay. Thank you. Who controls those three retail funds?

7 A Ultimately, the board --

8 Q And what --

9 A -- of the funds.

10 Q What is -- what do you mean by the board? Do they have 11 independent boards?

12 A Yes. They have a majority independent board, the funds
13 do.

14 Q Do you report to that board?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Does Mr. Dondero sit on those boards?

17 A He does not.

18 Q Okay.

19 MR. RUKAVINA: I'll pass the witness, Your Honor.

20 Thank you, Mr. Post.

21 THE COURT: All right. Any other Objector
22 examination of Mr. Post?

23 All right. Mr. Morris, do you have cross?

24 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor, I do.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 CROSS-EXAMINATION

2 BY MR. MORRIS:

3 Q Mr. Post, can you hear me okay, sir?

4 A Yes, I can hear you.

5 Q Okay. Nice to see you again. When did you first join
6 Highland?

7 A I believe it was July of '08.

8 Q So you've worked with the Highland family of companies for 9 about a dozen years now; is that right?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And you were actually employed by the Debtor from 2008
12 until October 2020; is that right?

13 A Correct.

14 Q And you left at that time and went to join Mr. Dondero as 15 the chief compliance officer of the Advisors; do I have that
16 right?

17 A Yes. I transitioned to NexPoint Advisors shortly, I
18 believe, after Mr. Dondero left, but I was already the named
19 CCO for that entity.

20 Q Right, but your employment status changed from being an 21 employee of the Debtor to being an employee of NexPoint; is 22 that right?

23 A Correct.

24 Q And that happened shortly after Mr. Dondero resigned from 25 the Debtor and went to NexPoint Advisors, correct?

Post - Cross

57

1 A Correct.

2 Q Okay. You mentioned that the funds are controlled by 3 independent boards; do I have that right?

4 A It's a majority independent board, correct.

5 Q Okay. There's no independent board member testifying in 6 this hearing, is there?

7 A I --

8 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Mr. Post wouldn't know
9 that, but I'll stipulate to that as a fact.

10 THE COURT: All right.

11 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q Did you -- do you speak with the board members from time
14 to time?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Did you tell them that it might be best if they came and 17 identified themselves and helped persuade the Court that they 18 were, in fact, independent?

19 A They have counsel to assist them with that determination.
20 I never mentioned anything along those line to them.

21 Q Okay. Can you tell me who the board members are?

22 A Yes. Ethan Powell, Bryan Ward, Dr. Bob Froehlich, John
23 Honis, and then Ed Constantino. He is only a board member,
24 though, for NSOF. NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund.

25 Q All right. Mr. Honis, is he -- has he been determined to

Post - Cross

58

1 be an interested director, for purposes of the securities
2 laws?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Okay. Mr. Froeh..., do you know much about his
5 background?

6 A I believe he worked at Deutsche Bank and a couple of the 7 other -- or maybe a couple of other investment firms in the 8 past. And he also owns a minor league baseball team.

9 Q Do you know how long he served as a director of the funds?

10 A I don't know, approximately. I think maybe seven -- six,
11 seven years.

12 Q Okay. How about Mr. Ward? Did Mr. Froehlich ever work
13 for Highland?

14 A Not that I can recall.

15 Q Did Mr. Ward ever work for Highland?

16 A Not that I can recall.

17 Q Do you recall how long he's been serving as a director of 18 the funds?

19 A Mr. Ward?

20 Q Yes.

21 A I believe -- I'd be -- I don't recall specifically. I 22 think it's been, you know, 10 to 12 years, give or take.

23 Q He was a director when you got to Highland; isn't that
24 right?

25 A He was on the board of directors.

Post - Cross

59

1 Q Yeah. So fair to say that Mr. Ward has been a director
2 since at least the mid to late oughts? 2005 to 2008?

3 A I'm sorry, you cut out. Late what?

4 Q The late oughts. Withdrawn. Is it fair to say that Mr.
5 Ward's been a director of the funds since somewhere between
6 2005 and 2008?

7 A Again, I don't recall specifically. You know, I joined 8 the complex, the retail complex as the named CCO in 2015, and 9 he had been serving in that role prior to that, and I believe 10 it was for probably a period of five to seven years, so that 11 sounds in line.

12 Q Did you have a chance to review Dustin Norris's testimony
13 from the December 16th hearing?

14 A I did not.

15 Q Do you know -- are you aware that he testified at some 16 length regarding the relationship of each of these directors
17 to Mr. Dondero and Highland?

18 A I didn't review anything, so I don't know what he said or 19 how long it took.

20 Q Do you know if Mr. Powell's ever worked for Highland?

21 A He has.

22 Q Do you know in what capacity and during what time periods?

23 A He was -- I think his last title was -- I believe was 24 chief product strategist, I believe. And he was also the 25 named PM for one of -- or, a suite of ETF funds. I think he

60

1 was last employed maybe --from my recollection, 2014,
2 possibly. Or 2015. Somewhere around in there.

3 Q Okay. And to the best of your knowledge, did Mr. Dondero
4 appoint Mr. Powell to be the chief product strategist?

5 A I don't -- I don't know. I wasn't involved in the 6 decision for his appointment. I don't know how he attained
7 that role.

8 Q To the best of your knowledge, did Mr. Dondero appoint Mr.
9 Powell as the PM of the ETF funds?

10 A Again, I wasn't involved in that determination, but he 11 probably would have had a role in making the determination on 12 who was the PM, along with probably some other investment
13 professionals.

14 Q Okay. And did Mr. Powell join the board of the funds
15 before or after he left Highland around 2015?

16 A I can't recall specifically if he was already on the board
17 or was an interested member, but I believe he, you know, I
18 believe he joined shortly after he left.

19 Q Okay. So he went from being an employee and being a 20 portfolio manager at Highland to being on the board of these 21 funds. Do I have that right?

22 A Again, I can't recall specifically. He may have already 23 been on the board as an interested board member. But, you
24 know, I believe, you know, if that wasn't the case, he would 25 have joined the board shortly after leaving.

61

1 Q And Mr. Ward, I think you said, has been on the funds'
2 board since somewhere between 2005 and 2008. Does that sound
3 right?

4 A I think that was a time frame you referenced, and I think
5 that was kind of in line, walking it back. But I don't recall
6 specifically when he joined.

7 Q And to the best of your knowledge, have the Advisors for 8 which you serve as the chief compliance officer managed the 9 Funds for which Mr. Ward has served as a director since the 10 time he became a director?

11 A I'm sorry. Can you repeat the question?

12 Q Yeah. I'm just trying to understand if the advisors --
13 withdrawn. The Advisors manage the Funds; do I have that
14 right?

15 A They provide investment advice on behalf of the Funds.

16 Q And they do that pursuant to written agreements; do I have
17 that right?

18 A Correct.

19 Q And is it your understanding that, for the entire time
20 that Mr. Ward has served as a member of the board of the 21 Funds, the Advisors have provided the investment advice to 22 each of those Funds?

23 A Yes, in one form or fashion. I believe at one period in 24 time, historically, the Advisor may have changed its name, but 25 it would have been, you know, at the end of the day, one or

62

1 more -- one of either NexPoint Advisors or Highland Capital
2 Management Fund Advisors would have advised those Funds.

3 Q Is it fair to say that each of the Advisors for which you
4 serve as the chief compliance officer has always been managed
5 by an Advisor owned and controlled by Mr. Dondero?

6 A I believe so, yes.

7 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: All right. Any redirect?

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Rukavina?

11 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, was I on mute? I
12 apologize.

13 THE COURT: Yes.

14 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

15 BY MR. RUKAVINA:

16 Q Mr. Post, why did you leave Highland?

17 A It -- because I was a HCMLP employee and it was -- 18 basically, there was conflicts that were created by being an 19 employee of the Debtor and by also serving as the CCO to the 20 named Funds and the Advisors, and it coincided with Jim
21 toggling over from HCMLP to NexPoint. It just made sense more 22 functionally and from a silo perspective for me to be the 23 named CCO for that entity since he was no longer an employee
24 of HCMLP.

25 Q And by Jim, you mean Jim Dondero?

Post - Redirect/Recross

63

1 A Yes, sorry. Jim Dondero.

2 Q You're not some kind of lackey for Mr. Dondero, where you
3 go wherever he goes, are you?

4 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the question.

5 THE WITNESS: No.

6 THE COURT: Overruled. He can answer.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay.

8 THE WITNESS: No.

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor. I'll 10 pass the witness.

11 THE COURT: Any other Objector examination?

12 All right. Any recross, Mr. Morris?

13 RECROSS-EXAMINATION

14 BY MR. MORRIS:

15 Q Just one question, sir. The conflicts that you just 16 mentioned, they were in existence for the one-year period
17 between the petition date and the date you left; isn't that
18 right?

19 A I think -- I believe so, and I think they became more
20 evident as, you know, time progressed.

21 Q Okay. But they existed on day one of the bankruptcy
22 proceeding; isn't that right?

23 A Yes, I believe so.

24 Q All right.

25 MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

Post - Recross

64

1 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Post. You're
2 excused from the virtual witness stand.

3 (The witness is excused.)

4 THE COURT: All right. Your next witness?

5 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, my exhibit has been
6 admitted, I promised I'd be short, and my evidentiary
7 presentation is done. Thank you.

8 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Taylor, your
9 evidence?

10 MR. TAYLOR: First of all, given the testimony that 11 we have received just recently, we have released Mr. Sevilla
12 from his subpoena and are not going to call him.

13 With that being said, we do have some documents that we 14 would like to get into evidence. We filed our witness and 15 exhibit list at Docket No. 1874. I don't believe any of these 16 are controversial. I'm trying to keep from duplicating those 17 that are already into evidence by the Debtor. And therefore I
18 would like to offer into evidence Exhibits No. 6 through 12
19 and 17. And that is it, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Is there any objection to Dondero
21 Exhibits 6 through 12 and 17, appearing at Docket 1874?

22 MR. MORRIS: I just want to be clear that Exhibits 6
23 and 7, which are letters, I believe, from Mr. Lee (phonetic)
24 are not being offered for the truth of the matter asserted in 25 either letter.

65

1 MR. TAYLOR: That is correct, Your Honor. Just
2 merely that those requests and the words that were stated in 3 there were indeed sent on those dates.

4 MR. MORRIS: And the same comment, Your Honor, with 5 respect to Exhibits 9 through 12, that those documents are not
6 being offered for the truth of the matter asserted.

7 MR. TAYLOR: Again, just that those requests were 8 sent and those responses as stated were sent.

9 And I apologize. I missed one, Your Honor. Also No. 15.
10 6 through 12, 15, and 17.

11 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, the Debtor has no objection
12 to Exhibits 15, 16, and 17.

13 THE COURT: All right. So, so they are all admitted
14 with the representation that 6 and 9 through 12 are not being 15 offered for the truth of the matter asserted. With that 16 representation, you have no objection, Mr. Morris?

17 MR. MORRIS: That's right. I do just want to get
18 confirmation that Exhibits 1 through 5 and 13 through 16 -- 13
19 and 14 are not being offered at all.

20 THE COURT: Mr. Taylor?

21 MR. TAYLOR: So, that -- that is correct. 1 through 22 5 would be duplicative of what has already been introduced
23 into the record by Mr. Morris, so I am not offering those.
24 And do not believe that 13 and 14 are relevant anymore, and so
25 therefore did not offer those.

66

1 THE COURT: Okay. So, with that, I have admitted 6
2 through 12, 15, 16, and 17 at Docket Entry 1874.

3 (Dondero Exhibits 6 through 12 and 15 through 17 are
4 received into evidence.)

5 THE COURT: All right. Anything else, Mr. Taylor?

6 MR. TAYLOR: No, Your Honor. We are not calling any 7 witnesses.

8 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Draper, what about you?
9 Any evidence?

10 MR. DRAPER: No evidence or witnesses. The evidence
11 that's been introduced by Mr. Taylor and Mr. Rukavina are 12 sufficient for me.

13 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Drawhorn, anything from 14 you?

15 MS. DRAWHORN: No additional evidence, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, then, Mr. Morris, did
17 you have anything in rebuttal?

18 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor. I think we can proceed
19 to closing statements. I would just appreciate confirmation
20 by the Objecting Parties that they rest.

21 THE COURT: All right. Well, I guess we'll get that 22 clear if it is isn't clear. All of the Objectors rest.
23 Confirm, yes, Mr. Rukavina?

24 MR. RUKAVINA: Confirm.

25 THE COURT: And Mr. Taylor?

1 MR. TAYLOR: Confirmed, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay. And Draper and Drawhorn?

3 MR. DRAPER: Yes, Your Honor.

4 MS. DRAWHORN: Confirmed, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: All right. By the way, I assume Mr.
6 Dondero has been participating this morning. I didn't
7 actually get that clarification before we started. Mr.
8 Taylor, is he there with you this morning?

9 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, he is. He has been
10 participating. He is sitting directly to my left about 11 slightly more than six feet apart.

12 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Good.

13 All right. Well, let's talk about our closing arguments
14 and let me figure out, do we have -- should we break a bit
15 before starting? I have an idea in my brain about a time
16 limitation, but before I do that, let me ask. Mr. Morris,
17 first I'll ask you. How much time do you think you need for a 18 closing argument?

19 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, --

20 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor?

21 MR. MORRIS: -- I'll defer to Mr. Pomerantz, who's 22 going to deliver that portion of our presentation today.

23 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Pomerantz?

24 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I will be making -- yes, 25 Your Honor. I will be making the majority portion of the 68

1 argument. Mr. Kharasch will be making the portion of the
2 argument dealing with the Advisor and Funds' objection. But I
3 expect my closing to be quite lengthy, given the 1129
4 requirements, all the legal issues, which I plan to spend a
5 fair amount of time. So I would anticipate a range of an hour
6 and 45 minutes.

7 THE COURT: An hour and 45 minutes? All right.
8 Well, --

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Correct.

10 THE COURT: I'm getting an echo.

11 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, it's Matt Clemente on 12 behalf on the Committee. I'll have 15 minutes or less, Your 13 Honor. Just some things I would like to touch on.

14 THE COURT: All right. So, two hours. If I were to 15 --

16 MR. POMERANTZ: And then you need, Your Honor, to add
17 Mr. Kharasch. I think he's on. He can indicate how long his 18 part of the closing will be.

19 THE COURT: Mr. Kharasch?

20 MR. KHARASCH: Yes. I would figure my argument would 21 probably be about 20 minutes to 30 minutes.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, let me interject something 24 that I think will help everyone out. With the CLOs having 25 consented through their counsel to the assumption, the bulk of

69

1 my objection is now moot. We no longer can and will argue
2 that the contracts are unassignable under 365(b) or (c)
3 because we do have now their consent. So that will hopefully
4 help the Debtor on that issue.

5 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor, Ira Kharasch again. I was 6 not anticipating that. I believe that that will take away the 7 bulk of my argument. I'm still going to be dealing with some 8 of the other non-assumption-type arguments raised by the CLO
9 Objectors, kind of dovetailing with Mr. Pomerantz's arguments
10 on the injunction. But that will greatly reduce, Your Honor,
11 my argument.

12 THE COURT: All right. So if I say two hours of 13 argument for the Debtor and Creditors' Committee, Rukavina,
14 Taylor and Draper and Drawhorn, can you collectively manage to 15 share that two hours? Have a two-hour argument in the 16 aggregate? That seems fair to me.

17 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I think -- I think that's 18 fine, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right. And I guess I'll --

20 MR. TAYLOR: This is Mr. Taylor. And yes, I agree.

21 THE COURT: Okay. And Mr. Draper?

22 MR. DRAPER: This is Douglas Draper. I agree. I
23 agree also, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: All right. And I'm going to ask --

25 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I --

70

1 THE COURT: Go ahead.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, we -- I think we may need
3 like two hours and ten minutes, because mine was 1:45, Mr.
4 Clemente was 15, and then Mr. Kharasch. But we'll be around
5 that. And I tend to speak fast, so I might even shorten mine.

6 THE COURT: Okay. You negotiated me up to two hours
7 and ten minutes, Debtors/Objectors, each.

8 I'm going to ask one more time. The U.S. Trustee lobbed a
9 written objection, but we've not heard anything from the U.S.
10 Trustee. Are you out there wanting to make an oral argument?

11 MS. LAMBERT: Yes, Your Honor. The United States
12 Trustee is on the line. And we've been listening to the 13 hearing. I can turn my video on. I think you're --

14 THE COURT: Yes. I can hear you. I can't see you.

15 MS. LAMBERT: Okay. All right. And so the U.S.
16 Trustee feels that the issues about the releases have been 17 adequately joined and raised by the other parties and that 18 it's an issue of law. The U.S. Trustee does not feel that we 19 can add to that dialogue by, you know, wasting more of the 20 Court's time. I think it's been adequately briefed and it's 21 been adequately argued here today.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MS. LAMBERT: And we do have an agreement to include
24 governmental release language in the order. I understand that 25 agreement is still being honored. That's a separate agreement

71

1 than the issue of whether the releases are precluded. But
2 we're going to let the other people carry the water on that.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: Yeah. And that is correct. That is
5 correct, Your Honor. They asked for some information -- a
6 provision on government releases. They also asked for a
7 provision regarding joint and several liability for Trustee
8 fees.

9 As I mentioned previously, the IRS has asked for a 10 provision in the confirmation order, as have the Texas Taxing 11 Authorities.

12 We have not uploaded a proposed confirmation order, but I
13 will state right now on the record that, before we do so, we 14 will, of course, give Ms. Lambert, Mr. Adams, and the Texas
15 Taxing Authorities the opportunity to review. We expect there 16 won't be any issue because the language has already been 17 agreed to.

18 THE COURT: All right. Well, how about this. It's 19 11:23 Central time. Let's break until 12:00 noon Central 20 time, okay, so that gives everyone a little over 30 minutes to 21 have a snack and get their notes together, and we'll start
22 with closing arguments at 12:00 noon. All right? So we're in 23 recess until then.

24 THE CLERK: All rise.

25 (A recess ensued from 11:24 a.m. until 12:05 p.m.)

1 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. All right.
2 This is Judge Jernigan. We are back on the record in 3 Highland. Let me make sure we have the people we need. Do we 4 have the Pachulski team there? Mr. Pomerantz, Mr. Kharasch?

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, you do, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. For our Objectors, Mr.
7 Taylor, are you there?

8 MR. TAYLOR: Yes, Your Honor, I am.

9 THE COURT: All right. I see Mr. Draper there on the 10 video. You're there.

11 MR. DRAPER: I'm here. Can you hear me?

12 THE COURT: I can hear you loud and clear, yes.

13 MR. DRAPER: Great, because I didn't -- I'm not 14 hearing, something so I apologize.

15 THE COURT: All right. So we have Mr. Rukavina, and 16 I think I see Mr. Hogewood there as well. Is that correct?
17 You're ready to go forward?

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes, Your Honor. Good afternoon.

21 THE COURT: All right. And Ms. Drawhorn, you're 22 there?

23 MS. DRAWHORN: Yes, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Committee. Mr. Clemente, are you
25 there?

1 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor. I'm here, Your
2 Honor.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. All right. So, let me
4 reiterate. We've given two-hour and 10-minute time
5 limitations for the Debtor, and that'll be both any time you
6 reserve for rebuttal and your closing, initial closing
7 argument. Mr. Clemente, you're going to be in that time frame
8 as well. Okay?

9 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: And so, as supporters of the plan.

11 And then, of course, the Objectors, they have collectively
12 two hours and ten minutes.

13 A couple of things. I'm going to have my law clerk, Nate,
14 who you can't see but he's to my right, he's going to keep
15 time. I promise I won't be a jerk and cut anyone off
16 midsentence, but please don't push the limit if I say, you
17 know, "Time."

18 The other thing I will tell you is I'll probably have some 19 questions here or there. And I've told Nate, cut off the 20 timer if we're in a question-answer session. I won't count
21 that as part of the two hours and ten minutes.

22 All right. So, with that, Mr. Pomerantz, you may begin.

23 CLOSING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

24 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor. As Your Honor
25 is aware, the Debtor has been able to resolve all objections

74

1 to confirmation other than the objection by Mr. Dondero or his
2 entities and the United States Trustee.

3 Your Honor, I have a very lengthy closing argument, given
4 the number of issues that are raised in the objections, and I
5 want to make a complete record, since I understand that 6 there's a good likelihood that (garbled) appeal.

7 With that in mind, Your Honor, I'm prepared to go through
8 each and every confirmation requirement in Section 1129.
9 However, as an alternative, I might propose that I can go
10 through each of the Section 1129 requirements that are the 11 subject of pending objections or otherwise depend upon 12 evidence that Your Honor has heard.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: And of course, I'll be happy to 15 answer any questions that you have in the process.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: And after my closing argument, I will 18 turn it over to Mr. Kharasch to address the Advisor and Funds'
19 objections.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. POMERANTZ: Before I walk the Court through the 22 confirmation requirements, I did want to note for the Court,
23 as I did previously, that we filed an updated ballot summary
24 at Docket No. 1887. And as reflected in the summary, Classes
25 2 and 7 have voted to accept the plan with the respective

1 numerosity and amounts required. In fact, the votes are a
2 hundred percent.

3 Class 8, however, has voted to reject the plan. Seventeen
4 creditors in Class 8 voted yes and 24 objectors, which are, I
5 think, all but one the employees with one-dollar claims for 6 voting purposes, voted against.

7 In dollar amount, Class 8 has accepted the plan by 99.8
8 percent of the claims. And I will address the issues of the 9 cram-down over that class a little bit later on.

10 Lastly, during the course of my presentation, I will 11 identify for the Court certain modifications we have made to 12 address the objections that were filed on January 22nd and 13 then also on February 1st. And at the end of my presentation,
14 I will raise a couple of other modifications that I won't get
15 to during my presentation and will explain to the Court why
16 all the modifications do not require resolicitation and are 17 otherwise appropriate under Section 1127.

18 Your Honor, as Your Honor is aware, Section 1129 requires
19 the Debtors to demonstrate to the court that the plan
20 satisfies a number of statutory requirements. 1129(a)(1)
21 provides that the plan requires -- complies with all statutory
22 provisions of Title 11, and courts interpreted this provision
23 as requiring the debtor to demonstrate it complies with 24 Section 1122 and 1123.

25 With respect to classification, Your Honor, there has been

1 one objection that was raised to essentially a classification,
2 and that was raised by Mr. Dondero to Article 3C of the plan
3 on the grounds that it purports to eliminate a class that did
4 not have any claims in it as of the effective date but which 5 may later have a claim in that class.

6 I think he was primarily concerned about Class 9
7 subordinated claims. But Mr. Dondero misunderstands the 8 provision. It only eliminates a claim for voting purposes,
9 and if there's later a claim in that class, it will be treated
10 as the plan provides the treatment.

11 In any event, Class 9, as we know now, will be populated
12 by the HarbourVest claims, as well as the UBS claims and the 13 Patrick Daugherty claims, if the Court approves the settlement
14 approving those claims.

15 Next, Your Honor, Section 1123(a) contains seven mandatory
16 requirements that a plan must include. Sections 1, 2, and 3 17 of 1123(a) apply to the classification of claims and where 18 they're impaired and treatment. The plan does that.

19 There has been an objection to 1123(a)(3) raised by 20 several parties with respect to the classification and 21 treatment of subordinated claims. The concerns stem from the 22 mistaken belief that the Debtor reserved the right to 23 subordinate claims without providing parties with notice and 24 without obtaining a court order.

25 The Debtor never intended to have unilateral ability to

1 subordinate claims without affording parties due process
2 rights, and we've added some clarificatory language to so
3 provide.

4 We made changes to the plan on January 22nd, and then on 5 February 1st, and the plan addresses all those issues in 6 Article 3(j) and it talks about when a claim is going to be 7 subordinated as a non-creditor. We've also redefined the 8 definition of subordinated claims to make clear that a claim 9 is only subordinated upon entry of an order subordinating that 10 claim.

11 Mr. Dondero also objected on the grounds that the plan did
12 not contain a deadline pursuant to which the Debtor would be 13 required to seek any subordination, and we have revised 14 Article 7(b) of the plan to provide that any request to 15 subordinate a claim would have to be made on or before the 16 claim objection deadline, which is 180 days after the 17 effective date.

18 Lastly, certain former employees, Mr. Yang and Borud,
19 objection also joined by Mr. Deadman, Travers, and Kauffman, 20 objected to the inclusion of language in the definition of 21 "Subordinated Claims" that a claims arising from a Class A, B,
22 or C limited partnership is deemed automatically subordinated.
23 The concerns were that the language could broadly apply to any 24 potential claims by a former partner, and could be also read
25 to encompass claims outside the statutory scope of 510(b) or

1 otherwise relating to limited partnership interests.

2 While the Debtor does reserve the right to seek to
3 subordinate the claims on any basis, we have modified the plan
4 to address that concern and to address the concern that we're 5 not attempting to create any new causes of action for 6 subordination that don't otherwise exist under applicable law,
7 but it just preserves the parties' rights with respect to 8 subordination and deals with that at a later date.

9 Next, Your Honor, Section 1123(a)(5). I skipped over 10 1123(a)(4) because there are no objections to that provision.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Section 1123(a)(5), a plan must 13 provide for adequate means of implementation. And the plan
14 provides a detailed structure and blueprint how the Debtor's
15 operations will continue, how the assets will be monetized,
16 including the establishment of the Claimant Trust,
17 establishment of the Litigation Sub-Trust, the Reorganized
18 Debtor, the Claimant Trust Oversight Board. And the documents
19 precisely describing how this will occur were filed as part of 20 the various plan supplements.

21 1123(a)(7), Your Honor, requires that the plan only 22 contain provisions that are consistent with the interest of 23 equity holders and creditors with respect to the manner,
24 selection, and -- of any director, officer, or trustee under 25 the plan. And as discussed in the plan, at the disclosure

1 statement, and as testified to by Mr. Seery, the Committee and
2 the Debtor had arm's-length negotiations regarding the post-
3 effective date corporate governance and believe that the 4 selection of the claimant Trustee, the Litigation Sub-Trustee,
5 and the Claimant Trust Oversight Board are in the best
6 interest of stakeholders.

7 HCMFA has raised a particular objection, I think, to these 8 issues, but I will address it in the context of the 9 requirement under Section 1129(a)(5).

10 Your Honor, Section 1129(a)(2) requires that the plan
11 comply with the disclosure and solicitation requirements under 12 the plan. Section 1125 requires that the Debtor only solicit 13 with a court-approved disclosure statement. The Court
14 approved the disclosure statement on November 23rd, and 15 pursuant to the proofs of service on file, the plan and 16 disclosure statement were mailed, along with solicitation
17 materials that the court approved.

18 Now, there has been an objection raised by Dugaboy, and 19 also alluded to by Mr. Taylor in some of his comments before,
20 that the plan does violate 1129(a)(2) because the Debtor's
21 disclosure statement was deficient.

22 In support of that argument, Dugaboy points to the 23 reduction in the anticipated distribution to creditors from 24 the November plan analysis to the January plan analysis, and 25 argues that that reduction requires resolicitation. However,

1 those arguments are not well-taken.

2 First, none of the people making these objections were 3 solicited for their vote on the plan, or if they had been,
4 they didn't vote or decided to reject the plan. And to the 5 extent that Class 8 creditors, the distribution has gone down
6 -- that's the class that Mr. Taylor and Mr. Draper are 7 concerned about -- you don't hear the Committee, Acis,
8 Redeemer, UBS, HarbourVest, Daugherty, or the Senior Employees
9 making their argument, this argument, and they represent over 10 99 percent of the claims in that class. And in fact, of the 11 17 Class 8 creditors that have accepted the plan, 15 are 12 represented by the parties I just mentioned.

13 So who are the two creditors that they're so concerned
14 about? One is Contrarian, which is a claims trader that 15 actually elected to be treated in Class 7, and one is one of 16 the employees who voted to accept the plan.

17 Second, Your Honor, the argument conflates the difference
18 between adverse change to the treatment of a claim or interest
19 that would require a resolicitation under Section 1127 and a 20 change to the distribution that would not.

21 More importantly, Your Honor, the argument is specious.
22 As Mr. Seery testified yesterday, the material differences
23 between the analysis contained on November and late January
24 and the one we filed on February 1st were based on three types
25 of changes: an update regarding the increased value of assets

1 based upon events that had transpired during this period,
2 which included an increase in asset value, no recoveries, and
3 revenues expected to be generated by the CLO management
4 agreements; an update to the expected costs of the Reorganized
5 Debtor and the Claimant Trust as a result of the continued
6 evaluation of staffing needs, operational expenses, and 7 professional fees; and an update to reflect resolution of the 8 HarbourVest and UBS claims.

9 In the filing Monday, Your Honor, we updated the plan
10 projection, a liquidation analysis which revised the unsecured
11 claims based upon the UBS settlement that I was able to 12 disclose to Your Honor. And in the filing, the distribution
13 now revised to Class 8 creditors is now 71 percent, compared 14 to the 87 percent that was in the disclosure statement that 15 went out for solicitation.

16 Your Honor, there can be no serious argument that the 17 creditors in this case were not fully aware of the potential
18 for the UBS and HarbourVest creditors receiving claims. Your 19 Honor's UBS 3018 order granting its claim for voting purposes
20 was entered right around the time that the disclosure
21 statement was approved. And, in fact, a last-minute addition 22 to the disclosure statement disclosed the 3018 amount,
23 although the amount did not make it to the attachment to the 24 disclosure statement. And that reference, Your Honor, to the 25 UBS claim being allowed for voting purposes can be found at

1 Page 41 of Docket No. 1473.

2 And the HarbourVest settlement was filed on about December
3 23, two weeks before the voting deadline, sufficient time for 4 people to take that into consideration.

5 And as Your Honor surely knows, the hearings in this case
6 have been very well-attended by the major parties, and I
7 believe that if we went back and looked at the records of who
8 was on the WebEx system during the HarbourVest and UBS
9 hearings, you would find that representatives of basically
10 every creditor, every major creditor in this case in Class 8
11 participated.

12 Moreover, Your Honor, creditors were not guaranteed any 13 percentage recovery under the plan and disclosure statement,
14 which clearly identified the size of the claims pool as a
15 material risk.

16 Article 4(a)(7) of the disclosure statement, which is at 17 Docket 1473, is entitled "Claims Estimation" and warns
18 creditors that there can be no assurances that the Debtor's
19 claims estimates will prove correct, and that the actual 20 amount of the allowed claims may vary materially.

21 And if Dugaboy is arguing it was misled as the holder of a
22 disputed administrative claim and general unsecured claim,
23 that argument is simply preposterous.

24 Dugaboy cites several cases for the proposition that 25 deficient disclosure may warrant resolicitation, and the

1 Debtor agrees with the proposition as a general matter. But
2 if one looks at the cases that were filed -- that Dugaboy
3 cited to, it will see that they are clearly inapposite and 4 distinguishable.

5 In re Michaelson, the Bankruptcy Court for the Eastern
6 District of California, revoked confirmation because the 7 debtor failed to disclose in the disclosure statement a mail
8 fraud indictment of the turnaround specialist who was to lead
9 the reorganization effort and a prior Chapter 7 company he 10 drove into the ground.

11 In In re Brotby, the Ninth Circuit BAP affirmed a decision
12 of the Bankruptcy Court that the individual debtor's decision
13 to modify its financial projections on the eve of confirmation
14 did not require a resolicitation. And there, the financial 15 projections were off by 75 percent.

16 And in Renegade Holdings, the Bankruptcy Court granted a 17 motion by a group of states to revoke confirmation by the 18 debtors, who manufactured and distributed tobacco products,
19 because the debtors failed to disclose in its disclosure
20 statement that the debtor and its principals were under 21 criminal investigation for unlawful trafficking in cigarettes,
22 which was not disclosed to creditors.

23 Your Honor, none of these cases are remotely analogous to 24 this case, and they certainly do not stand for the proposition
25 that the Debtor was required to resolicit.

1       Next, Your Honor, the next requirement is 1129(a)(3), 2       which requires that any plan be proposed in good faith. As 3       Mr. Seery testified at length, and the Court has personal 4       knowledge of, having presided over this case for a year, the 5       plan is the result of substantial arm's-length negotiations
6       with the Committee over a period of several months.

7       Mr. Seery testified yesterday that, soon after the board
8       was appointed, the Committee wanted to immediately pursue down
9       the path of an asset monetization plan. However, as Mr. Seery
10      testified, the board decided that it was inappropriate to rush
11      to judgment and that it should consider all potential
12      restructuring alternatives for the Debtor. And Mr. Seery
13      testified what those alternatives were: a traditional 14      restructuring and continuation of the Debtor's business; a
15      potential sale of the Debtor's assets in one or more
16      transactions; an asset monetization plan like the one before
17      the Court today; and, last but not least, a grand bargain plan
18      that would involve Mr. Dondero sponsoring the plan with a 19      substantial equity infusion.

20      As Mr. Seery testified, by the early summer of 2020, the 21      Debtor decided that it was appropriate to start moving down 22      the path of an asset monetization plan while it continued to 23      work on the grand bargain plan. Accordingly, Mr. Seery
24      testified that the Debtor commenced good-faith negotiations
25      with the Committee regarding the asset monetization plan, and

1 that those negotiations took several months, were hard-fought
2 and at arm's-length, and involved substantial analysis of the 3 appropriate post-confirmation corporate structure, governance,
4 operational, regulatory, and tax issues. And on August 12th,
5 Your Honor, the plan was filed with the Court.

6 And although the Debtor at that time had not reached an 7 agreement with the Committee on some of the most significant
8 issues, Mr. Seery testified that the independent board
9 believed that it was important to file that plan at that time,
10 a proverbial stake in the ground to act as a catalyst for 11 reaching a consensual plan with the Committee or others, which 12 it has done.

13 As Mr. Seery testified, he continued to work with Mr.
14 Dondero to try to achieve a grand bargain plan, while at the 15 same time proceeding down the path of the filed plan.

16 He testified that the parties participated in mediation at 17 the end of August and early September to try to reach an 18 agreement on a grand bargain plan, but were unsuccessful. And 19 the Debtor proceeded on the path of the August 12th plan and 20 sought approval of its disclosure statement on August 27th,
21 2020.

22 Mr. Seery testified that, at that time, the Debtor still 23 had not reached an agreement with the Committee on certain 24 significant issues involving post-confirmation governance and 25 the scope of releases. And as a result, after a contested

1 hearing, Your Honor, Your Honor did not approve the disclosure
2 statement on October 27th, but asked us to go back again to
3 try to work out the issues, and we came back on November 23rd.

4 Mr. Seery testified that the Debtor continued to negotiate
5 with the Committee to resolve the material disputes leading -- 6 which led up to the November 23rd hearing, where we came in 7 with the support of the Committee. But as Mr. Seery has also 8 testified, he has continued to try to reach a consensus on a
9 global plan, notwithstanding the approval of the disclosure
10 statement. And he spent personally several hundred hours
11 since his appointment trying to build consensus.

12 As part of this process, Mr. Seery testified that Mr.
13 Dondero received access to substantial information regarding 14 the Debtor's assets and liabilities, most recently in 15 connection with a series of informal document requests which 16 were made at the end of December.

17 And after the Court asked the parties to again reengage in 18 efforts to try to reach a global hearing after the Debtor's
19 preliminary injunction motion, Mr. Seery testified that he and 20 the board participated in calls with Mr. Dondero and his 21 advisors and the Committee to see if common ground could be 22 attained.

23 Unfortunately, as Mr. Seery testified, the Committee and 24 Mr. Dondero were not able to reach an agreement.

25 Accordingly, Your Honor, the testimony unequivocally and

1 overwhelmingly demonstrates that the plan was proposed in good
2 faith.

3 I expect the Objectors may argue in closing that they have 4 filed a plan under seal that is a better alternative than that 5 being proposed by the plan that the Debtor seeks to confirm.
6 Your Honor, as a threshold matter, yesterday I said any 7 mention of the specifics of the recent plan would be 8 inappropriate. We are not here today to debate the merits of 9 Mr. Dondero's plan, which the Court permitted him to file
10 under seal. He had ample opportunity to file this plan after 11 exclusivity was terminated, seek approval of a disclosure
12 statement, and, if approved, solicit votes in connection with 13 a confirmation hearing, but he failed to do so.

14 What matters today, Your Honor, is whether the Debtor's 15 plan, the plan that has been accepted by 99.8 percent of the 16 amount of creditors, and opposed only by Mr. Dondero, his 17 related entities, and certain employees, meets the 18 confirmation requirements of Section 1129, which we most 19 certainly argue it does.

20 And perhaps most importantly, Your Honor, the Court
21 remarked at the last hearing that, without the Committee's
22 support for a competing plan, Mr. Dondero's plan would be dead
23 on arrival. And as you have heard from Mr. Clemente, Mr.
24 Dondero does not yet have the Committee's support.

25 Next, Your Honor, is Section 1129(a)(5). That requires

1 that the plan disclose the identity of any director,
2 affiliate, officer, or insider of the debtor, and such
3 appointment be consistent with the best interest of creditors
4 and equity holders. Courts have held that this section
5 requires the disclosure of the post-confirmation governance of 6 the reorganized entity.

7 HCMFA objects to the plan, arguing that it did not comply
8 with Section 1129(a)(5) because it didn't disclose the people
9 who would control and manage the Reorganized Debtor and who 10 might be a sub-servicer. HCMFA's objection is off-base.
11 Under the plan, Mr. Seery will be the claimant Trustee and 12 Marc Kirschner will be the Litigation Trustee. Mr. Seery
13 testified extensively about his background, and he has 14 appeared before the Court many times and the Court is familiar
15 with him. We have also introduced his C.V. into evidence.

16 As he testified, he will be paid $150,000 per month,
17 subject to further negotiations with the Claimant Trust
18 Oversight Committee regarding the monthly amount and any 19 success fee and severance fee, which negotiation is expected
20 to be completed within the 45 days following the effective
21 date.

22 Mr. Seery also testified regarding the names of the 23 members of the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee, which 24 information was also contained in the plan supplement and it
25 generally includes the four members of the Committee and David

1 Pauker, a restructuring professional with decades of 2 restructuring experience.

3 The members of the Oversight Committee will serve without
4 compensation, except for Mr. Pauker, who Mr. Seery testified
5 will receive $250,000 in the first year and $150,000 for 6 subsequent years.

7 As set forth in the Claimant Trust agreement, if at any 8 time there is a vacant seat to be filled by another
9 independent member, their compensation will be negotiated by 10 and between the Claimant Trust Oversight Board and them.

11 Mr. Seery has also testified that he believed the Claimant
12 Trust will have sufficient personnel to manage its business.
13 Specifically, he has testified that he intends to employ
14 approximately ten of the Debtor's employees, who will be 15 sufficient to enable him to continue to operate the Debtor's 16 business, including as an advisor to the managed funds and the 17 CLOs, until the Claimant Trust is able to effectively and 18 efficiently monetize its assets for fair value, whether that 19 takes two years or whether that takes 18 months or whether 20 that takes longer.

21 Mr. Seery further testified that he believes that the 22 operations can be best conducted by the Debtor's employees.
23 And while he did consider the retention of a sub-servicer, he 24 ultimately decided, in consultation with the Committee, that 25 the monetization would be a lot more effective if done with a

1 subset of the Debtor's current employees.

2 The proposed corporate governance is also consistent with
3 the interests of the Debtor and its stakeholders. The Court
4 is very familiar with Mr. Seery and the Debtor, and I believe
5 that Mr. Clemente, when he comments, will say the Committee
6 can think of no better person to continue managing the 7 Claimant Trust than Mr. Seery.

8 Mr. Kirschner is also well qualified to be the Litigation
9 Trustee. His C.V. is part of the evidence that's been 10 admitted and contains additional information regarding his 11 background. And he will receive $40,000 a month for the first 12 three months and $20,000 a month thereafter, plus a to-be-
13 negotiated success fee.

14 There just simply can be no challenge to Mr. Seery's or 15 Mr. Kirschner's qualifications or abilities to act in a manner 16 contemplated by the plan or that their involvement is not in 17 the best interest of the estate and its creditors.

18 Your Honor, the next requirement that is objected to is 19 Section 1129(a)(7). That, of course, requires the Debtor to 20 demonstrate that creditors will receive not less under the 21 plan than they would receive if the Debtor was to be 22 liquidated in Chapter 7. And on February 1st, Your Honor, we 23 filed our updated liquidation analysis, which contains the 24 latest-and-greatest evidence to support that.

25 These documents, the updated documents, in connection with

1 the prior analysis, was provided to objecting parties in 2 advance of the January 29th deposition, and Your Honor has 3 heard the differences between the January 29th and the 4 February 1st documents being very minimal.

5 The Court heard extensive evidence and testimony from Mr.
6 Seery regarding the assumptions that went into the preparation
7 of the liquidation analysis and the differences of what 8 creditors are projected to receive under the plan as compared 9 to what they are projected to receive in a Chapter 7.

10 Such testimony also included a comparison between the 11 liquidation analysis that was filed with the plan in November,
12 the updated liquidation analysis filed on the -- or, provided
13 to parties on January 28th, and the last version, filed on 14 February 1st.

15 Mr. Seery testified that, on the revenue side, the 16 liquidation analysis was updated to include the HCLOF
17 interest, which was required as part of the settlement with 18 HarbourVest; the increase in value of certain assets,
19 including Trussway; revenue expected to be generated from 20 continued management of the CLOs; and increased recovery on 21 notes as a result of the acceleration of certain related
22 notes.

23 On the expense side, Mr. Seery testified regarding his 24 best estimate of the likely expenses to be incurred by a
25 Chapter 7 trustee -- by the Claimant Trust, including

1 personnel costs; professional costs, which increase because of 2 the litigious nature this case has become; and operating
3 expenses.

4 And lastly, on the claim side, Your Honor, Mr. Seery
5 testified that the claims numbers have been updated to include
6 the settlement from HarbourVest and initially the amount
7 approved to UBS pursuant to the 3018 order and then the 8 reduction at $50 million based upon the settlement announced.
9 And like the prior liquidation analysis, the current analysis
10 demonstrates that creditors will fare substantially better
11 under in Chapter -- under the plan than in Chapter 7. In 12 fact, the projected recovery under the plan is 85 percent for 13 Class 7 creditors and 71.32 percent for Class 8 creditors, as 14 compared to 54.96 percent for all unsecured creditors in a 15 Chapter 7.

16 Mr. Seery also testified that expenses are expected to be 17 more under Chapter 11 than under Chapter 7, but he also 18 testified that the tens of millions of dollars in greater 19 revenue and asset recoveries under the plan will more than 20 offset the additional expenses.

21 As a result, the Court has more than sufficient 22 evidentiary basis to conclude that the Debtor has carried its 23 burden to prove that it meets the best interest of creditors
24 best.

25 But Mr. Dondero's counsel spent a lot of time crossing --

1 cross-examining Mr. Seery, in a vain attempt to demonstrate to 2 the Court that a Chapter 7 actually would be much better for
3 creditors. And this argument has also been made by Dugaboy
4 and the Advisors and the Funds.

5 Before I address these arguments on its merits, Your
6 Honor, I just wanted to remind the Court of the Objectors --
7 these Objectors' interest in this case. Mr. Dondero owns no
8 equity in the Debtor. He owns a general partner. Strand, in 9 turn, owns a quarter-percent -- a quarter of one percent of 10 the total equity in the Debtor. And Mr. Dondero's claim, it's 11 only a claim for indemnification. Dugaboy asserts two claims:
12 a frivolous administrative claim relating to the postpetition
13 management of a Multi-Strat, which, as an administrative 14 claim, if it's valid, would not even be affected by the best
15 interest of creditors test, because it would have to be paid
16 in full. And he also asserts a claim that the Debtor's
17 subsidiary -- against the Debtor's subsidiary for which it
18 tries to pierce the corporate veil.

19 Just think about it. Dugaboy, Mr. Dondero's entity, is 20 arguing that he should be able to pierce the corporate veil to 21 get at the entity that was his before the bankruptcy.

22 Dugaboy's only other interest in this case relates to a -- 23 a one -- point eighteen and several-hundredths percent of the 24 equity interest of the Debtor, and that is out of the money.

25 And as I mentioned previously, Your Honor, Mr. Rukavina's

1 clients either didn't file any general unsecured claims or 2 filed them and withdrew them. Their only claim is a disputed
3 administrative claim against the Debtor that was filed a week
4 ago and which, at the appropriate time, the Debtor will 5 demonstrate is without merit.

6 And I understand that, just today, NexPoint Advisors also 7 filed administrative claim.

8 So I'm not going to argue to Your Honor that these parties
9 do not have standing, although their standing is tenuous, at 10 best, to assert this argument. The Court should keep their 11 relative interests in mind when evaluating the merits and the 12 good faith of this objection.

13 The principal objection, as I said, is that creditors will 14 do better in a Chapter 7. Essentially, they argue that a
15 Chapter 7 trustee can liquidate the assets just as well as Mr.
16 Seery can and not require the cost structure that is included
17 in the Debtor's plan projections. Yes, they argue that a
18 Chapter 7 will be more efficient.

19 Mr. Seery's testimony, the only testimony on the topic,
20 however, establishes that this preposterous proposition has no
21 basis in reality. Mr. Seery testified that a Chapter 7
22 trustee's mandate would be to reduce Debtor's assets as fast
23 as possible, while he will monetize assets as and when 24 appropriate to maximize the value.

25 But even if you can assume that the Chapter 7 trustee

1 could get court authority in a Chapter 7 to operate, there are
2 several reasons Mr. Seery testified why a liquidation by a
3 Chapter 7 trustee would be far worse than the plan.

4 First, Your Honor, no matter how competent the Chapter 7
5 trustee is -- and Mr. Seery did not say he is more competent
6 than anyone else out there -- the lack of a learning curve
7 that Mr. Seery established through the 13 months in this case
8 puts Mr. Seery at such a major advantage compared to a Chapter
9 7 trustee.

10 Second, Mr. Seery questioned whether the Chapter 7 trustee
11 would be able to retain the Debtor's existing professionals,
12 even assuming they were willing to be retained. I'm not sure
13 what's the Court's practice or the practice in the Northern 14 District, but in many districts around the country debtor's
15 counsel and professionals cannot be retained by Chapter 7
16 trustee, as general counsel, at least.

17 And I could just imagine, Your Honor, Mr. Dondero's
18 position if the Chapter 7 trustee actually sought to hire
19 Pachulski Stang and DSI.

20 Third, Your Honor, regardless of whether the Chapter 7
21 trustee obtained some operating authority, the market
22 perception will be that a Chapter 7 trustee will sell assets
23 for less value than would Mr. Seery as claimant Trustee. Mr.
24 Seery testified to that.

25 The argument that the Objectors make that a Chapter 7

1 process, whereby the trustee would seek court approval of 2 assets, is better for value than a process overseen by the 3 Claimant Trust Board lacks any evidentiary basis and also is 4 contradicted by Mr. Seery's testimony.

5 In fact, Mr. Seery testified that the Chapter 7 process,
6 the public process of it, would very likely result in less
7 recovery than a sale conducted in the Claimant Trust.

8 And lastly, Mr. Seery testified that it's unlikely that 9 the ten or so valuable employees who Mr. Seery is planning to 10 heavily rely on to assist him with post-confirmation would 11 agree to a work for Chapter 7 trustee. Your Honor is all too
12 familiar with the fights in the Acis case and Chapter 7
13 trustee, and it's just hard to believe that any of the 14 Highland employees would go work for the Chapter 7 trustee.

15 So why is Mr. Dugaboy -- why is Dugaboy and Mr. Dondero
16 actually making this objection and advocating for a Chapter 7?
17 It's because they would expect to buy the Debtor's assets on 18 the cheap from a Chapter 7 trustee, exactly what they've been 19 trying to do in this case.

20 Your Honor, moving right now to Section 1129(a)(11), that 21 requires the debtor to demonstrate that the plan is feasible.
22 In other words, it's not likely to be followed by a further
23 liquidation or restructuring. Under the Fifth Circuit law,
24 the debtor need only demonstrate that the plan will have a
25 reasonable probability of success to satisfy the feasibility

1 requirement, and the Debtor has easily met this standard.

2 As Mr. Seery testified, the Debtor's plan contemplates
3 continued operations through which time the assets will be
4 monetized for the benefit of creditors. The plan contemplates
5 that Class 7 creditors will be paid off shortly after the 6 effective date. Class 8 creditors are not guaranteed any 7 recovery but will receive pro rata distributions over a period
8 of time. Class 2, Frontier secured claim, will be paid off
9 over time, and the projections demonstrate that it will -- the 10 Debtor will have money to do so.

11 Mr. Seery testified at length regarding the assumptions
12 that went into the preparation of the projections most 13 recently filed on February 1, and based on that testimony, the 14 Debtor has clearly demonstrated that the plan is feasible.

15 Your Honor, I think that brings us to Section 1129(b). Of 16 course, again, Your Honor, if Your Honor has any other
17 questions with the sections I'm skipping over. I believe
18 we've adequately covered them in the briefs and I don't think 19 there's any objection.

20 But as I mentioned before, we have three classes that have 21 voted to reject the plan. Class 8 is the general unsecured
22 claims. They voted to reject the plan. Yes. Even though,
23 based upon the ballot summary, 99 percent of the amount of 24 claims in that class voted to accept the plan, approximately 25 24 employees voted to reject the plan. And accordingly, the

1 Debtor cannot satisfy the numerosity requirement of Section
2 1126(c).

3 I do want to briefly recount for Your Honor Mr. Seery's
4 testimony regarding the nature of the claims of the 24
5 employees who voted to reject the plan. And I'm not doing
6 this to argue that the votes from these contingent creditors
7 are not valid or that the Debtor doesn't need to satisfy the 8 cram-down requirements. The Debtor understands it needs to 9 demonstrate to the Court that Section 1129(b) is satisfied for 10 the Court to confirm the plan.

11 Rather, why I do this, Your Honor, is to provide the Court
12 with context about the nature and extent of the creditors in 13 this class as the Court determines whether the plan is, in 14 fact, fair and equitable and can be crammed down to a
15 dissenting vote.

16 Mr. Seery testified that these employees originally had 17 claims under the annual bonus plan and the deferred
18 compensation plan. And as he testified, in order for claims
19 under each of those plans to vest -- I think he referred to 20 them as be-in-the-seat plans -- the employee was required to 21 remain employed as of that date.

22 Mr. Seery testified that the Debtor terminated the annual 23 bonus plan in the middle of January and replaced it with the 24 key employee retention plan that the Court previously
25 approved.

1       Accordingly, Mr. Seery testified that no employee who 2       voted to reject the plan anymore has a claim on the annual
3       bonus plan. He also testified that, with respect to the 4       deferred compensation plan, people have contingent claims
5       under that plan and that no payments are due until May 20 -- 6       2021.

7       As Mr. Seery testified, if the employees who would be 8       entitled to receive payments under the deferred compensation
9       plan do not agree to enter into a separation agreement that 10      was approved by the Court, they will be terminated before May 11      and there will no -- not longer be any deferred compensation
12      due.

13      Accordingly, while the 24 employees who voted to reject
14      the plan do technically have claims at this time they have 15      voted, Mr. Seery testified the claims will go away soon.

16      I do want to point out something that's obviously 17      painfully obvious at this point, that while Class 8 voted to 18      reject the plan, the Committee, the statutory fiduciary for 19      all unsecured creditors, supports the plan enthusiastically
20      and I believe it does so unanimously.

21      The other classes to reject the plan, Your Honor, are 22      Class 11, the A limited partnerships, and none of the holders
23      in Class B and C limited partnerships voted on the plan, so 24      cram-down is required over those classes as well. So Your 25      Honor is able to confirm the plan pursuant to the cram-down

100

1 procedures under 1129(b) if the Court determines that the plan
2 is fair and equitable and does not discriminate unfairly
3 against the rejecting classes.

4 Let's first turn to the fair and equitable requirement. A
5 plan is fair and equitable if it follows the absolute priority
6 rule, meaning that if a class does not receive payment in 7 full, no junior class will receive anything under the plan.
8 With respect to Class 8, no junior class -- junior class to 9 Class 8 will receive payment, and here is the key point,
10 unless Class 8 is paid in full, with appropriate interest.
11 NPA and Dugaboy -- Dugaboy in a brief filed on Monday -- argue
12 that the plan does not satisfy the absolute priority rule
13 because Class 10 and Class Equity Interests have a contingent
14 right to receive property under the plan.

15 Your Honor, this argument misunderstands the absolute
16 priority rule. Class 10 and Class Creditors will only receive 17 payment after distribution to 8 and 9, the unsecured claims 18 and the subordinated claims, are all paid in full, plus
19 interest.

20 And, in fact, Dugaboy, in its brief, to its credit, admits
21 that the argument is contrary to the Bankruptcy Court's 22 decision of Judge Gargotta in the Western District case of In 23 re Introgen Therapeutics. There, the Court was faced with a 24 similar argument by a group of unsecured creditors who argued 25 that the debtor's plan violated the absolute priority rule

101

1 because equity was retaining a contingent interest that would
2 only be payable if general unsecured claims were paid in full.

3 In rejecting the argument, the Court reasoned, and I
4 quote, "The only way Class 4 will receive anything is if Class
5 3, in fact, gets paid in full, in satisfaction of 6 1129(b) (2) (B) (i)," meaning that the absolute priority rule
7 would not be an issue. If Class 3 is not paid in full, Class
8 4's property interest is not -- is just -- is not just 9 valueless, it just doesn't exist.

10 Your Honor, this is precisely the situation in this case.
11 Equity interests will only receive a recovery if Class 8 and 9
12 are paid in full.

13 But Dugaboy attempts to escape the logical reading of the 14 absolute priority rule by claiming that Introgen was wrongly
15 decided and goes against the Supreme Court's decision in 16 Ellers (phonetic). Dugaboy argues that because the Supreme 17 Court decided that property given to a junior class without 18 paying a senior class in full is property, even if it's 19 worthless.

20 But Dugaboy misses the point. Like the debtor in the 21 Introgen, the Debtor here is not arguing that the property --
22 the absolute priority rule is not violated because the 23 contingent trust is worthless. Rather, the argument is that 24 the absolute priority rule is not violated; it's, in order to 25 receive anything on account of the junior -- of the equity,

102

1 the senior creditors have to be paid a hundred percent plus
2 interest.

3 In fact, Your Honor, if the plan just didn't give any 4 recovery to the equity Class 10 and 11, I bet you Dugaboy and
5 Mr. Dondero would be arguing that it violated the absolute
6 priority rule because senior classes, unsecured creditors,
7 could potentially receive more than a hundred percent of their 8 interest. And there's a case in the Southern District of 9 Texas, In re MCorp, where the Bankruptcy Court said that for a 10 plan to be confirmed, its stockholders eliminated, creditors
11 must not receive more than payment in full.

12 Excess proceeds, Your Honor, if any, have to go somewhere.
13 They can't go to creditors, so they have to go to equity. And 14 the absolute priority rule is not violated.

15 And how is Dugaboy harmed? They say they may want to buy
16 the contingent interests, and the lack of a marketing effort
17 violates the LaSalle opinion as well. And who holds the Class
18 B and Class C partnership interests that come before Dugaboy
19 that Dugaboy is concerned may have this opportunity rather 20 than them? Yes, it's Hunter Mountain, Your Honor, an entity,
21 like Dugaboy, that's owned and controlled by Mr. Dondero.

22 Accordingly, the argument that the plan violates the 23 absolute priority rule is actually a frivolous argument.

24 Turning now to unfair discrimination, Your Honor, Dugaboy
25 argued in its brief Monday that because the projected

1 distribution to unsecured creditors has gone down in the 2 recent plan projections, the discrepancy between Class 7 and
3 Class 8 is so large that that amounts to unfair
4 discrimination.

5 Again, the Court should first ask why is Dugaboy even the 6 right party to be making the objection. Its claim against the 7 Debtor to pierce the corporate veil, as I mentioned, is 8 frivolous. It's subject to objection. It didn't even bother 9 to have the claim temporarily allowed for voting purposes, as 10 did other creditors who thought they had a valid claim. Yet
11 this is another example of Mr. Dondero, through Dugaboy, 12 trying to throw as many roadblocks in front of confirmation as 13 he can.

14 But this argument, like the other ones, fails as well.
15 Class 8 contains the general unsecured creditor claims,
16 predominately litigation claims that have been pending against 17 the Debtor for years. The Debtor was justified in treating 18 the other unsecured creditors differently.

19 Class 6 consists of the PTO claims in excess of the cap,
20 which are of different quality and nature than the other
21 claims.

22 Class 7 consists of the convenience class. And it's 23 appropriate to bribe convenience class creditors with a 24 discount option for smaller claims to be cashed out for 25 administrative convenience.

1       Mr. Seery testified that when the plan was formulated, the 2       concept was to separately classify liquidated claims in small
3       amounts in Class 7 and unliquidated claims in Class 8. Mr.
4       Seery also testified that there's a valid business
5       justification to treat the -- hold business 7 -- Class 7
6       claims differently. These creditors had a reasonable
7       expectation of getting paid promptly, as compared to 8       litigation creditors, who would expect to be paid over time.

9       As the Court is aware, the litigation claims in Class 8
10      involve litigation that has been pending for several years in 11      the case of Acis, Daugherty, Redeemer, and more than a decade
12      in UBS.

13      And most importantly, as Mr. Seery testified, the 14      Committee and the Debtor had significant negotiation regarding 15      the classification and treatment provisions of the plan for 16      Class 7.

17      The Committee does have one constituent who is a Class 7
18      creditor. However, the other three creditors are all in Class 19      8 and hold claims in excess of $200 million and supported the 20      separate classification and the different treatment.

21      So, Your Honor, discrimination, different treatment among 22      Class 7 and 8 is appropriate, and the different treatment is 23      not unfair. In the February 1 projections, the Class 8
24      creditors are estimated to receive 71.32 percent of their 25      claims, but that's just an estimate. As Mr. Seery testified,

105

1 the number can go up based upon the value he can generate from 2 the assets and, importantly, from litigation claims. Class 8
3 creditors could up end up receiving a hundred percent on 4 account of their claims. Class 7 creditors are fixed at 85
5 percent.

6 Giving Class 8 creditors the opportunity to roll the dice
7 and potentially get more or less than the 85 percent offered
8 to Class 7 is not at all unfair.

9 For these reasons, Your Honor, the Court has the ability
10 and should confirm the plan pursuant to the cram-down
11 provisions of 1129(b).

12 Your Honor, I'm now going to switch from the statutory 13 requirements to all the issues raised by the release,
14 injunction, and exculpation provisions.

15 I'd just like to take a brief sip of water.

16 Dugaboy -- I will first deal with the Debtor release
17 provided in Article 9(f) of the plan, which we claim is 18 appropriate. Dugaboy and the U.S. Trustee have objected to 19 the release contained in Article 9(f). Dugaboy objects
20 because it believes that the Debtor release releases claims
21 that the Claimant Trust or Litigation Trust have that have not 22 yet arisen, and the U.S. Trustee objects because it believes
23 that the release is a third-party release.

24 These objections have no merit, and they should be 25 overruled.

106

1 I would like to ask Ms. Canty to put up a demonstrative
2 which contains the provision Article 9(f) of the plan.

3 Your Honor, as set forth in this Article 9(f), only the 4 Debtor is granting any release. While that --

5 THE COURT: And for the record, it's 9(d)? 9(d),
6 right?

7 MR. POMERANTZ: 9(d)? 9(d), correct, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Yes. Okay.

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Sorry about that.

10 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: While the release is broad, it does 12 not purport to release the claims of any third party. The 13 Claimant Trust and the Litigation Trust are only included in 14 the release as successors of the Debtor. The release is 15 specifically only for claims that the Debtor or the estate
16 would have been legally entitled to assert in their own right.

17 Section 1123(b)(3)(A) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that 18 a plan may provide for the settlement or adjustment of any 19 claims or interests belonging to the debtor or the estate, and 20 that's exactly what the Debtor release provides.

21 Accordingly, Dugaboy is wrong that the release effects a
22 release of claims that the Claimant Trust or the Litigation
23 Sub-Trust have that won't arise until after the effective
24 date. And the U.S. Trustee is simply wrong; there's no third-
25 party release aspect under the release.

107

1       The last point I will address on the release, Your Honor,
2       is who is being released and why and what does the evidence
3       show. The Debtor release extends to release parties which 4       include the independent directors, Strand, for actions after 5       January 9th, Jim Seery as the CEO and CRO, the Committee,
6       members of the Committee, professionals, and employees.

7       You have heard Mr. Seery's testimony that the Debtor does 8       not believe that any claims against the parties that are 9       proposed to be released actually exist. You have heard Mr.
10      Seery's testimony that he worked closely with the employees 11      and believes that not only have they all been instrumental in 12      getting the Debtor to the -- be on the cusp of plan
13      confirmation, but that also Mr. Seery is not aware of any 14      claims against them.

15      Moreover, as Mr. Seery testified, the release for the 16      employees is only conditional. He testified that the 17      employees are required to assist in the monetization of assets
18      and the resolution of claims, and if they do not like -- if 19      they do not lose their release, then any Debtor claims are 20      tolled, such that could be pursued by the Litigation Trustee
21      at a future time.

22      Lastly, I'm sure that the Dondero entities will argue that 23      someone needs to investigate claims against Mr. Seery for 24      mismanagement or for, God forbid, having failed to file the 25      2015.3 statements. Such claims are part of the continuing

108

1 harassment of Mr. Seery that the Dondero entities have
2 embarked on after it was apparent that nobody would support
3 their plan.

4       There is no evidence of any claims that exist, Your Honor.
5 In fact, the Committee and its professionals have watched the 6 Debtor through this case like a hawk. They have not been 7 afraid to challenge the Debtor's actions in general and Mr.
8 Seery's in particular. FTI has worked on a daily basis with 9 DSI and the company, had access to information. When COVID 10 was happening, they were looking at trades going on on a daily
11 basis.

12       So if the Committee, whose members hold approximately $200
13 million of claims against the estate, are okay with the 14 release against the independent directors and Mr. Seery, that 15 should provide the Court with comfort to approve the releases
16 as part of the plan.

17       In summary, Your Honor, the Debtor release is entirely
18 appropriate and does not affect the release of third-party
19 claims that have not yet arisen.

20       Next, Your Honor, I want to go to the discharge. There's 21 been objections to the discharge. Dugaboy and NexPoint have 22 objected that the Debtor receiving a discharge under the plan
23 -- argue a debtor is liquidating. The objection is not well
24 taken based upon Mr. Seery's testimony regarding what it is 25 the Claimant Trust and the Reorganized Debtor plan to do after

109

1 the effective date, as compared to what the limitations of a
2 discharge are under 1141(d) (3) .

3 Your Honor, Article 9 of the -- 9(b) of the plan provides
4 that as -- except as otherwise expressly provided in the plan
5 or the confirmation order, upon the effective date, the Debtor
6 and its estate will be discharged or released under and to the 7 fullest extent provided under 1141(d) (A) [sic] and other
8 applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Court. Bankruptcy
9 Code.

10 Section 1141(d) (3) provides an exception to the discharge,
11 and I'd like to have that section put up for Your Honor at 12 this point. Ms. Canty?

13 As this -- as the section reflects, and as the Fifth 14 Circuit has ruled in the TH-New Orleans Limited Partnership
15 case cited in our materials, in order to deny the debtor a
16 discharge under 1141(d) (3), three things must be true: (1)
17 the plan provides for the liquidation of all or substantially
18 all of the property in the estate; (2) the debtor does not 19 engage in business after consummation of the plan; and (3) the 20 debtor would be denied a discharge under 727(a) of this title
21 if the case was converted to Chapter 7. Here, only C applies.

22 With respect to A, Your Honor, while the plan does project
23 that it will take approximately two years to monetize the 24 Debtor's assets for fair value, the Debtor is just not 25 liquidating within the meaning of Section A.

110

1 As Mr. Seery testified, during the post-confirmation
2 period, post-effective date period, the Debtor will continue
3 to manage its funds and conduct the same type of business it
4 conducted prior to the effective date. It'll manage the CLOs.
5 It'll manage Multi-Strat. It'll manage Restoration Capital.
6 It'll manage the Select Fund, and it'll manage the Korea Fund.

7 The Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New 8 York's 2000 opinion in Enron, cited in our materials, is on 9 point. There, the Court found that a debtor liquidating its 10 assets over an indefinite period of time that is likely to 11 take years is not liquidating within the meaning of Section
12 1141(b) (3) (A), justifying a denial of discharge.

13 But even if we failed A, based upon Mr. Seery's testimony,
14 we would not fail B. The Debtor will be continuing to do what 15 it has done during the case, as it did before, as I said,
16 managing its business. B says the debtor does not engage in 17 the business after management. So while Mr. Seery testified
18 that it would take approximately two years, it could take 19 more, it could take less, and there is no requirement to 20 liquidate assets over a period of time.

21 Accordingly, Your Honor, the Debtor is conducting the type
22 of business contemplated by Section B so as not to just deny a
23 discharge.

24 As the Fifth Circuit said in the TH-New Orleans case, the 25 court granted a discharge there because it was likely that the

111

1 debtor would be liquidating its assets and conducting business
2 (indecipherable) years following a confirmation date. And
3 this result makes sense, Your Honor, because the Debtor will 4 need the discharge and the tenant injunctions, which I'll get 5 to in a moment, in order to prevent interference with the 6 Debtor's ability to implement the terms of the plan and make 7 distributions to creditors.

8 I would now like, Your Honor, to turn to the exculpation
9 provisions, which there's been -- there's been a lot of 10 briefing on it, and I know Your Honor is very aware of the 11 exculpation provisions and the Pacific Lumber case. And 12 several parties have objected to the exculpation contained in 13 the plan, based primarily on the Fifth Circuit ruling in 14 Pacific Lumber.

15 The exculpation provision, which is not dissimilar to what 16 is found in many plans around the country, including in plans
17 confirmed in bankruptcy courts in the Fifth Circuit, acts to 18 exculpate the exculpated parties for negligent-only acts as it
19 contains the standard carve-outs for gross negligence,
20 intentional conduct, and willful misconduct.

21 I do want to bring to the Court's attention a deletion we 22 made to the parties protected by the exculpation in the plan
23 and now -- were filed on February 1st. The definition of 24 exculpated parties included, before February 1, not only the 25 Debtor but its direct and indirect majority-owned subsidiaries

112

1 and the managed funds. In the plan amendment, we have deleted
2 the Debtor's direct and indirect majority-owned subsidiaries
3 and managed funds from the definition and are not seeking 4 exculpation for those entities.

5 But before, Your Honor, I address Pacific Lumber and why
6 the Debtor believes it does not preclude the Court from 7 approving the exculpation in this case, I do want to focus on 8 something that the Objectors conveniently ignore from their 9 argument.

10 As I mentioned in my opening argument, Your Honor, the 11 independent directors were appointed pursuant to the Court's
12 order on January 9, 2020. They have resolved many issues
13 between the Debtor and the Committee, and avoided the 14 appointment of a Chapter 11 trustee.

15 The January 9th order was specifically approved by Mr.
16 Dondero, who was in control of the Debtor at the time, and I
17 believe the transcripts that are admitted into evidence will 18 demonstrate that he was fully behind the approval of the 19 January 9th order.

20 In addition to appointing the independent directors into 21 what was sure to be a contentiously litigious case, the 22 January 9th order set the standard of care for the independent
23 directors, and specifically exculpated them from negligence.

24 You have heard Mr. Seery and Mr. Dubel testify that they 25 had input into what the order said and would have not agreed

113

1 to be appointed as independent directors if it did not include
2 Paragraph 10, as well as the provisions regarding
3 indemnification and D&O insurance.

4 I would like to put a demonstrative on the screen, which 5 is actually Paragraph 10 of that order. Your Honor, Paragraph
6 10, there's two concepts embedded here. First, it requires 7 any parties wishing to sue the independent directors or their 8 agents to first seek such approval from the Bankruptcy Court.
9 Secondly, and importantly for purposes of the independent
10 directors and their agents, who would include the employees,
11 it set the standard of care for them during the Chapter 11 and 12 entitled them to exculpation for negligence. Paragraph 10
13 says the Court will only permit a suit to go forward if such 14 claim represents a colorable claim for willful misconduct or 15 gross negligence.

16 And Your Honor, Paragraph 10 does not expire by its terms.

17 By not including negligence in the definition of what a 18 colorable claim might be, the Court has already exculpated the 19 independent directors and their agents, which include the 20 employees acting at their direction.

21 And because the independent directors and their agents are 22 exculpated under Paragraph 10, Strand needs to be exculpated
23 as well for actions occurring after January 9th. This is 24 because a suit against Strand for conduct after the 25 independent board was appointed is effectively a suit against

114

1 the independent directors, who were the only people in control
2 of Strand at that time.

3 After the effective date, Mr. Dondero will regain control
4 of Strand, as the independent directors will be discharged.
5 And for parties able to sue Strand essentially for negligence
6 for conduct conducted by the independent directors after 7 January 9th, Strand will then be able to seek indemnification
8 from the Debtor under the Debtor's partnership agreement
9 because the partnership agreement does provide the general
10 partner is entitled to indemnification.

11 Accordingly, an exculpation for Strand is really the 12 functional equivalent of an exculpation for the independent
13 directors and the Debtor.

14 The January 9th order was not appealed, and an objection
15 to exculpation at this point as it relates to the independent
16 directors, their agents, and Strand is a collateral attack on 17 this order. So, Your Honor, Your Honor does not even need to 18 get to the thorny issues addressed by Pacific Lumber.

19 However, even in the absence of the January 9th order,
20 exculpation of the independent directors and their employees,
21 as well as the other exculpated parties, is not prohibited by 22 Pacific Lumber. In Pacific Lumber, the Fifth Circuit reversed
23 a bankruptcy court order confirming a plan because the 24 exculpation provision was too broad and included parties that 25 the Fifth Circuit thought could not be exculpated under

1 Section 524(e) of the Code.

2 A close look at the issue before the Court, Your Honor,
3 the reasoning for the Court's ruling and why certain parties
4 like Committee and its members were entitled to exculpation,
5 reflects that this case does not prevent the Court from 6 approving exculpation of this case.

7 A careful read of the underlying briefs and opinions in 8 Pacific Lumber reveals that the concern that the Appellants
9 had in that case was the application of exculpation to non-
10 fiduciary sponsors. There were two competing plans in the 11 case. The first was filed by the indenture trustee. The 12 second was filed by the debtor's parent and lender, and was 13 deemed -- called the Marathon Plan. The Court confirmed the 14 Marathon Plan, and the indenture trustee appealed, and the 15 indenture trustee argued that the plan sponsors could not be 16 exculpated.

17 After determining that the appeal of the exculpation
18 provisions were not equitably moot, the Fifth Circuit
19 determined that exculpation was not authorized under 524(e) of 20 the Code because that section provides a discharge of the 21 debtor does not affect the liability of any other entity on 22 such debt.

23 However, and here's the important part, Your Honor: The 24 Fifth Circuit did not say that all exculpations are prohibited
25 under the Code and authorized the exculpation of the Committee

116

1 and its members. And why did the Court do that? Because it
2 looked at the Committee's qualified immunity under 1103 and
3 also reasoned that Committee members are essentially
4 disinterested volunteers that should be entitled to 5 exculpation on negligence.

6 The Court also cited approvingly Colliers for the 7 proposition that if Committee members were not exculpated for 8 negligence and subject to suit by people who are unhappy with 9 them, they just would not serve.

10 Accordingly, the Fifth Circuit based its willingness to 11 exculpate Committee members on the strong public policy that 12 supports exculpation for those parties under those 13 circumstances. And against this backdrop, Your Honor, there
14 are several reasons why the Court should authorize exculpation
15 in this case, notwithstanding Pacific Lumber.

16 First, Your Honor, the independent directors in this case
17 are analogous -- much more analogous to the Committee members
18 that the Fifth Circuit ruled were entitled to than the 19 incumbent officer and directors.

20 Your Honor has the following facts before the Court, based 21 upon the testimony of Mr. Seery and Mr. Dubel and other 22 evidence in the record. The independent board members were 23 not part of the Highland enterprise before the Court appointed
24 them on January 9th. The Court appointed the independent 25 directors in lieu of a Chapter 11 trustee to address what the

1 Court perceived as the serious conflicts of interest and
2 fiduciary duty concerns with current management, as identified
3 by the Committee.

4 The independent directors would not have agreed to accept
5 their role without indemnification, insurance, exculpation,
6 and the gatekeeper function provided by the January 9th order.

7 And Mr. Dubel testified regarding the significant
8 experience he has as an independent director during his 30-9 plus years in the restructuring community, including several 10 engagements as an independent director in Chapter 11 cases.
11 And he testified that independent directors have become 12 commonplace in complex restructurings over the last several 13 years and have been appointed in many cases, including high-
14 profile cases. We've cited to just a few of those cases in 15 our brief, but we could go on and on.

16 Mr. Dubel testified that the independent directors are a 17 critical tool in proper corporate governance and restoring 18 creditor confidence in management in modern-day
19 restructurings, and he testified that, based upon his 20 experience, independent directors expect to be indemnified by 21 the company, expect to obtain directors and officers
22 insurance, and expect to be exculpated from claims of 23 negligence when they agree to be appointed.

24 He further testified that if independent directors cannot 25 be assured that they will be exculpated for simple negligence,

118

1 he believes they will be unwilling to serve in contentious
2 cases like the one we have here, which will have a material
3 adverse effect on the Chapter 11 restructuring process as we 4 know it.

5 Based upon the foregoing testimony, Your Honor, which is 6 uncontroverted, the Court should have no problem finding that 7 the independent directors are much more analogous to the 8 Committee members in Pacific Lumber who the Fifth Circuit said
9 could be exculpated.

10 The facts, these facts also distinguish this case from the 11 Dropbox v. Thru case which Your Honor decided and which was 12 reversed on this issue by the District Court. In neither
13 Pacific Lumber or Thru was there an argument that the policy
14 reasons that supported exculpation of Committee members also 15 supported the exculpation of the parties sought to be 16 exculpated.

17 Moreover, Your Honor, the independent directors in this 18 case were pointed as essentially as substitute for a Chapter
19 11 trustee. There was a Chapter 11 trustee motion filed a few 20 days before, I believe, and the Court, in approving this, said
21 that you -- better than a Chapter 11 trustee. And Chapter 11
22 Trustees are entitled to qualified immunity. So, while, yes,
23 the independent directors aren't truly Chapter 11 trustees,
24 they are analogous.

25 Second, Your Honor, while there is language in Pacific

119

1 Lumber that says that the directors and officers of the debtor
2 are not entitled to exculpation, the issue before the Court
3 really on appeal was the plan sponsors and whether they were.
4 So I would argue that any discussion of the exculpation not
5 being available for directors and officers in the Fifth
6 Circuit opinion in Palco is actually dicta.

7 Third, Your Honor, as I discussed before, the Pacific
8 Lumber decision was based solely on 524(e) of the Bankruptcy
9 Code, which only says that the discharge of a claim against 10 the debtor does not affect the discharge of a third party.
11 However, the Debtor is not relying on 524(e) as the basis of 12 their exculpation. As we outline in our brief, Your Honor, we 13 believe that the exculpation is appropriate under Section 105
14 and 1123(b) (6) as a means -- part of an implementation of the
15 plan.

16 Importantly, Your Honor, as other courts hostile to third-
17 party releases have determined, exculpation only sets a 18 standard of care for parties and is not an effort to relieve 19 fiduciaries of liability.

20 Other courts that have aligned with the Fifth Circuit and 21 rejected third-party releases, like the Ninth Circuit, have 22 recently determined exculpation has nothing to do with 524(e).
23 In In re Blixseth, a Ninth Circuit case decided at the end of 24 2020 cited in our materials, they examined several of their 25 circuit cases that had strongly prohibited non-consensual

120

1 third-party releases under 524(e). But again, the Court
2 concluded that 524(e) only prohibits third parties from being
3 released from liability of a prepetition claim for which the 4 debtor receives a discharge. The Court reasoned that the 5 exculpation clause, however, protects parties from negligence
6 claims relating to matters that occurred during the Chapter 11
7 case and has nothing to do with 524(e).

8 The Ninth Circuit, which along with the Fifth Circuit has 9 been notorious for prohibiting third-party releases, issued
10 its ruling against this backdrop and said that exculpations
11 are appropriate.

12 Your Honor, the Objectors made a point yesterday of 13 pointing out that Strand, as the Debtor's general partner, is 14 liable for the debts under applicable law. To the extent they 15 intend to argue that the exculpation is seeking to discharge
16 any such prepetition liability, they would be wrong. The 17 exculpation only applies to postpetition matters. And to the 18 extent they argue that the exculpation seeks to discharge
19 Strand's potential postpetition liability, for the reasons I
20 discussed, a claim against Strand will essentially be a claim
21 against the Debtor because the Debtor will be obligated to 22 indemnify them.

23 Accordingly, Your Honor, we submit that if this matter
24 goes up to appeal to the Fifth Circuit, which it may very well
25 do, that the Fifth Circuit may very well come out the same way

121

1 as the Ninth Circuit and start relaxing the standard or
2 otherwise provide that the independent directors are much more
3 like Committee members.

4 Lastly, Your Honor, if the Court does confirm the plan,
5 which we certainly hope it will do, it will have made a
6 finding that the plan has been proposed in good faith, and in 7 doing so, the Court essentially finds that the independent
8 directors and their agents have acted appropriately and 9 consistent with their fiduciary duties, and it makes -- 10 exculpation for negligence naturally flows from that finding.

11 Your Honor, I would now like to go to the injunction
12 provisions, and my argument is that the injunction provisions
13 as amended are appropriate.

14 THE COURT: Can I stop you?

15 MR. POMERANTZ: We received several of -- yes.

16 THE COURT: I want to just recap a couple of things I
17 think I heard you say. You're not asking this Court, you say,
18 to go contrary to Pacific Lumber per se. You have thrown out
19 there the possibility that Pacific Lumber mistakenly relied on 20 524(e) in rejecting exculpations of plan sponsors. You're 21 saying, eh, as a technical matter, I think they were wrong in 22 focusing on that statute because that statute seems to deal
23 with prepetition liability. Okay? Its actual wording, 524(e)
24 states, discharge of a debt of a debtor does not affect the 25 liability of any other entity on such debts.

122

1 And reading between the lines, I think you're saying --
2 well, maybe this isn't what you're saying, but here's what I
3 inferred -- "debt" is defined in 101(12) to mean liability on 4 a claim, and then "claim" is defined in 101(5) of the 5 Bankruptcy Code as meaning right to payment. It doesn't say
6 as of the petition date, but I think if you look at, then,
7 Section 502 of the Bankruptcy Code that addresses claims and 8 interests, clearly, it seems to be referring to the 9 prepetition time period, you know, claims and interest as of 10 the petition date. And then -- that's 502. And then 503
11 speaks of, for the most part, postpetition administrative 12 expenses.

13 So that was my rambling way of saying I'm understanding
14 you to say, eh, as a technical matter, we think the Fifth
15 Circuit was wrong to focus on 524(e) because when you're 16 talking about exculpation you're talking about postpetition
17 liability, not prepetition liability. And 524(e) is talking
18 more about prepetition liability.

19 But I think what I also hear you saying is, at bottom,
20 Pacific Lumber was sort of a policy-driven holding where, you
21 know, we're worried about no one would ever sign up for being 22 on an unsecured creditors' committee if they could be exposed
23 to lawsuits. They're fiduciaries, we think, for policy
24 reasons. Exculpation is appropriate for this one group. And 25 you're saying, well, they didn't have an independent board

123

1 that they were considering. They were just considering non-
2 fiduciary plan sponsors. And so the rationale presented by 3 Pacific Lumber applies equally here, and just they didn't make 4 a holding in this factual context.

5 Have I recapped what you're saying?

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, that's generally --
7 generally correct, with a couple of nuances. So, yes, first,
8 I think, on a policy basis, Your Honor -- again, putting aside
9 the January 9th order, because we don't see --

10 THE COURT: Right. Right.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: -- Your Honor even needs to get to 12 this issue.

13 THE COURT: I understand.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: But if Your Honor does get to this 15 issue, we think, as a first point, Your Honor could be totally 16 consistent with Pacific Lumber because there's policy reasons
17 and there was not a categorical rejection of exculpation.
18 Okay. So if there was a categorical rejection, then it
19 wouldn't have been okay for committee members. Okay.

20 Second argument, yes, we don't think -- we think it's part
21 of dicta. It's not part of the holding. We understand that 22 other courts may have not agreed, maybe your Thru case, which 23 Your Honor was appealed on.

24 But the third issue, our argument is all they looked at 25 was 524(e). They said 523 -- 4(e) does not authorize it.

124

1 They did not say 524(e) prohibits it.

2 We think there's other provisions in the Code. And then
3 when you basically add in the analysis that Your Honor
4 provided, which we agree with, and what 524 was -- to do,
5 524(e) just says that discharge doesn't affect. It doesn't
6 say that under another provision of the Code or for another
7 reason you are authorized to give an exculpation. I think
8 it's a nuance and it's a difference there.

9 And my point of bringing up the Blixseth case -- which, of 10 course, is Ninth Circuit and it's not binding on Your Honor,
11 it's not binding on the Fifth Circuit -- is to say, when that 12 was presented to them, they saw the distinction that 524(e)
13 has nothing to do with an exculpation. And while, yes, the 14 Fifth Circuit hasn't ruled on that, and if the Fifth -- if 15 that argument is made to the Fifth Circuit, we don't know how 16 they would rule, I think that, based upon their analysis --
17 which, again, Your Honor, is no more than a page and a half of 18 their opinion, right, of a long, lengthy opinion on the 19 confirmation issues. So I think, Your Honor, with the Fifth
20 Circuit, there is a good chance that based upon the developing 21 case law of exculpation, based upon the sister circuit in 22 Blixseth making that distinction, that there is a very good
23 chance that the Fifth Circuit would change.

24 But look, I recognize that argument requires Your Honor to 25 say, okay, this is outside and -- and what Pacific Lumber did

125

1 or didn't do. But I think, Your Honor, there's several
2 potential reasons, there's several potential arguments that
3 you can get to the same place.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay. If I may just get another
6 glass of -- sip of water before my time starts?

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay, Your Honor. We're now turning 9 to the injunction provision. The Debtor received several 10 objections to the injunction provisions in -- I think I have 11 it right now -- Article 9(f) to the plan. And we've modified
12 Article 9(f) to address certain of those concerns, and we 13 believe that, as modified, that the injunction provision
14 implements and enforces the plan's discharge, release, and 15 exculpation provisions to prevent parties from pursuing claims
16 in interest that are addressed by the plan and otherwise
17 interfering with consummation and implementation of the plan.

18 I'd like to put up the first paragraph of the injunction
19 on the screen now.

20 Okay, Your Honor. The first paragraph, all it does is 21 prohibits the enjoined parties from taking action to interfere
22 with consummation or implementation of the plan. I suspect a 23 sentence like that is probably in hundreds of plans in the 24 Fifth Circuit and elsewhere.

25 Initially, to address a concern that it applied to too

126

1 many parties, the Debtor added a definition in the revised
2 plan that defines "enjoined parties," which I'd like to now
3 put that definition up on the screen.

4 The changes -- it's a little hard to read there, but you
5 have it in the -- oh, there you go. The changes made clear
6 that only parties who have a relationship to this case, either
7 holding a claim or interest, having appeared in the case, be a
8 -- or be a party in interest, Jim Dondero, or related entity,
9 or related person of the foregoing are covered. The claim 10 objectors argue that the word "implementation and 11 consummation" is vague, or vague and unclear. Your Honor,
12 these terms are both defined in the Bankruptcy Code and under 13 the case law, and they're, as I said, common features of many 14 plans.

15 Section 1123(a) (5) of the Code provides that a plan shall 16 provide for its implementation, and identifies a list of items
17 that the plan can include. Article 4 of our plan is defined
18 as "Means of Implementation of This Plan," and describes the 19 various corporate steps required to implement the provisions
20 of the plan, including canceling equity interests, creation of 21 new general partners and a limited part of the Reorganized
22 Debtor, the restatement of the limited partnership agreement,
23 and the establishment of the various trusts.

24 Paragraph 1 rightly and appropriately enjoins efforts to 25 interfere with these steps.

1 Nor is the term "consummation of the plan" vague.
2 "Consummation" also is a commonly-used term and has been
3 defined by the Fifth Circuit and the Code. 1102 -- 1101(2)
4 defines "Substantial Consummation" to be the transfer of 5 assets to be transferred under the plan, the assumption by the 6 debtor of the management of all the property dealt with by the 7 plan, and the commencement of distributions under the plan.

8 Section 1142 gives the Court authority to direct a party
9 to perform any act necessary for consummation of a plan. And 10 as the Fifth Circuit, in United States Brass Corp., which is 11 said in our material, states, said the Bankruptcy Court had 12 post-confirmation jurisdiction to enforce the unperformed
13 terms of a plan with respect to a matter that could affect the 14 parties' post-confirmation rights because the plan had not 15 been fully consummated.

16 And Your Honor just wrote on this issue last year in the 17 Senior -- the Texas -- the TXMS Real Estate v. Senior Care
18 case, and you cited to U.S. Brass to find that, in that case,
19 post-confirmation jurisdiction existed to resolve a dispute
20 relating to an assumed contract because the matter related to 21 interpretation, implementation, and execution of the plan.

22 Accordingly, Your Honor, neither implementation or 23 consummation are vague, and the first paragraph of the 24 injunction is necessary and appropriate to enforce the 25 Debtor's discharge.

1 As I said before, I will leave it to Mr. Kharasch to 2 address specifically the concerns that the Advisor and the 3 Funds have with the injunction.

4 The second and third paragraphs of the injunction, Your
5 Honor, certain parties have objected to them on the ground
6 that they constitute an improper release of the independent
7 directors as well as the release of claims against the 8 Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trust, and the Litigation
9 Sub-Trust, entities that will not have come into existence
10 until after the effective date.

11 We believe we have addressed these concerns by 12 modifications to the second and third paragraphs of the 13 injunction, which I would now like to put the second and third
14 paragraphs on the screen.

15 (Pause.)

16 MR. POMERANTZ: As that is happening, Your Honor, I
17 will -- there we go.

18 We believe that the changes that were made to these 19 paragraphs should address the Objectors' concerns.

20 First, as with the first paragraph, we have created a 21 defined term of "Enjoined Parties" who are subject to the 22 injunction which is narrower than all persons, I believe, or 23 all entities that was included in the prior plan. So we've 24 narrowed that.

25 "Enjoined Parties" are generally defined, as I mentioned

1 before, as entities involved in this case or related to Jim
2 Dondero, or have appeared in this case.

3 Second, we have removed independent directors from these 4 paragraphs to address the concern that the injunction was a
5 disguised third-party release.

6 Third, we have removed the Reorganized Debtor and the 7 Claimant Trust from the second paragraph and moved them to the 8 third paragraph. We did this to make clear that the 9 Reorganized Debtor and Claimant Trust were only getting the 10 benefit of the injunction as the successors to the Debtor. As 11 the Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trust receives the 12 property from the Debtor free and clear of all claims and 13 interests and equity holders under 1141(c), they are entitled
14 to the benefit of the injunction.

15 Fourth, we have addressed the concern that the injunction
16 improperly affected set-off rights. We added language to make 17 clear that the injunction would only affect the parties' set-
18 off of an obligation owed to the Debtor to the extent that 19 that was permissible under 553 and 1141 of the Bankruptcy
20 Code.

21 In other words, we are punting the issue for another day,
22 and there's nothing in the plan that gives the Debtor any more
23 set-off rights than it otherwise has under the Bankruptcy
24 Code.

25 Lastly, Your Honor, certain Objectors have argued that the 130

1 injunction somehow prevents them from enforcing the rights
2 they have under the plan or the confirmation order. We don't 3 really understand this concern, as the language leading into 4 the second paragraph of the injunction says, except as 5 expressly provided in the plan, the confirmation order, or a
6 separate order of the Bankruptcy Court.

7 With these modifications, Your Honor, the provisions do
8 nothing more than implement 1123(b)(6) and 1141 by preventing 9 parties from taking actions to interfere with the Debtor's
10 plan.

11 The Court has also heard testimony from Mr. Seery
12 regarding the importance of the injunction to implementation
13 of the plan. He testified that he intends to monetize assets
14 in a way that will maximize value. And to effectively do
15 that, he has testified that the Claimant Trust needs to be 16 able to pursue its objectives without interference and 17 continued harassment from Mr. Dondero and his related
18 entities.

19 In fact, Mr. Seery testified that if the Claimant Trust
20 were subject to interference by Mr. Dondero, it would take him
21 more time to monetize assets, they would be monetized for less
22 money, and creditors would be harmed.

23 If Your Honor doesn't have any questions for me on the 24 injunction provisions, I'd like to turn to the last part of 25 the injunction, which is really the gatekeeper provision.

131

1 THE COURT: All right. You may.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, the last paragraph in
3 Article 9(f) is really not an injunction but is rather a
4 gatekeeper provision. And as originally drafted, it'd do two 5 things: first, it'd require that before any entity, which is 6 defined very broadly, could file an action against a protected
7 party relating to certain specified matters, the entity would
8 have to seek a determination from this Court that the claim 9 represented are colorable claim of bad faith, criminal
10 conduct, willful misconduct, fraud, or gross negligence. The 11 specified matters to which the gatekeeper provision would 12 apply included the Chapter 11 case, negotiations regarding the 13 plan, the administration of the plan, the property to be 14 distributed under the plan, the wind-down of the Debtor's
15 business, the administration of the Claimant Trust, or 16 transactions related to the foregoing.

17 Subject to certain exceptions for Dondero-related parties,
18 protected parties were defined to include the Debtor, its 19 successors and assigns, indirect and direct, majority-owned
20 subsidiaries and managed funds, employees, Strand, Reorganized
21 Debtor, the independent directors, the Committee and its 22 members, the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, the 23 Litigation Trust, the Litigation Sub-Trustee, the members of 24 the Oversight Committee, retained professionals, the CEO and 25 CRO, and persons related to the foregoing. Essentially,

1 parties related to the pre-effective-date administration of 2 the estate or the post-confirmation implementation of the
3 plan.

4 Second, the gatekeeper provision as originally presented
5 gave the Bankruptcy Court exclusive jurisdiction to adjudicate
6 any cause of action that it determined would pass through the 7 gate. The gatekeeper provision, Your Honor, is not a release
8 in any way. Rather, it permits enjoined parties who believe 9 they have a claim against the protected parties to pursue such 10 a claim, provided they first make a showing that the claim is 11 colorable to the Bankruptcy Court.

12 Several parties, Your Honor, objected to the Bankruptcy
13 Court having exclusive jurisdiction to adjudicate the claims
14 that pass through the gate. The Debtor believes that the 15 Bankruptcy Court would ultimately have jurisdiction of any of 16 those claims that pass through the gate. However, the Debtor
17 did, upon reflection, appreciate the concern that if the Court
18 agreed to that now, it would essentially be determining its 19 jurisdiction before a claim was filed.

20 Accordingly, in the January 22nd plan, Your Honor, we 21 amended the provision to provide that the Bankruptcy Court
22 will only have jurisdiction over such claims to the extent it
23 was legally permissible to do so, essentially deferring the 24 issue to a later time.

25 And as Your Honor, I believe, in one of cases called the 133

1 Icing on the Cake, the retention and jurisdiction provisions
2 in the plan only are to the extent under applicable law and 3 are quite broad and include the things that we would have the 4 Court -- have jurisdiction for the Court, otherwise
5 determined.

6 The Court made some other changes to the gatekeeper
7 provision, and I would like to place the amended gatekeeper
8 provision on the screen right now. In addition to the change
9 I mentioned, the Debtor made the following changes: the 10 provision is limited now to apply only to enjoined parties,
11 rather than any entity. Than any entity. Much narrower. The 12 provision added the administration of the Litigation Sub-Trust
13 to the matters to which the provision would apply. The 14 provision makes clear now that any claim, including 15 negligence, is a claim that could be sought and pursued
16 through the gatekeeper function. And the provision made some 17 other syntax changes.

18 We believe, Your Honor, with these changes, we believe
19 that the gatekeeper provision is within the Court's 20 jurisdiction and it's appropriate to include under the plan.

21 But certain parties have argued that the Court does not
22 have the authority, the jurisdictional authority to perform
23 the gatekeeper function, separate and apart from whether it
24 has jurisdiction to adjudicate the claims that pass through 25 the gate.

134

1 Your Honor, we submit that these arguments represent a
2 fundamental misunderstanding of Bankruptcy Court jurisdiction
3 and the Court's authority to make sure the Debtor is free of 4 interference in carrying out the plan which I'll get to in a
5 couple moments.

6 As a preliminary matter, Your Honor, it is important for 7 the Court to remember that Paragraph 10 of the January 9 order
8 already contains a gatekeeper provision as it relates to the 9 independent directors and their agents. And as I mentioned on 10 a couple of occasions, that order is not going away, it
11 doesn't expire by its terms, and it cannot be collaterally
12 attacked in this forum.

13 The Debtor does acknowledge, though, that the gatekeeper
14 provision in the plan is broader in terms of the people it
15 protects and it applies to post-confirmation matters.

16 Before I address the Court's authority to approve the 17 gatekeeper provision, I want to summarize the evidence that it
18 has heard from Mr. Seery and Mr. Tauber regarding why the 19 gatekeeper is so important a provision to the success of the 20 plan.

21 Although the Court is all too familiar with the history of 22 litigation initiated by and filed against Mr. Dondero and his 23 related affiliates, Mr. Seery spent some time on the stand
24 testifying about the litigation so the Court would have a
25 complete record for this hearing. He testified that prior to

135

1 the petition date, the Debtor faced years of litigation from 2 Mr. Terry and Acis that led to the Acis bankruptcy case, which
3 Your Honor has said many times it's still in your mind. Years
4 of litigation with the Redeemer Committee which precipitated
5 the filing of a bankruptcy case and resulted in an award very 6 critical of the Debtor's conduct. Years of litigation with 7 UBS. Years of litigation with Patrick Daugherty. And we 8 placed all the dockets for all these matters before the Court.

9 Also, during the bankruptcy and after the Committee
10 essentially rejected the Debtor's pot plan proposal and 11 indicated -- and the Debtor indicated it would be terminating
12 the shared service agreements with Mr. Dondero and his related 13 entities, the Debtor was the subject of harassment from Mr.
14 Dondero and related entities which resulted in the temporary
15 restraining order against him, a preliminary injunction
16 against him, a contempt motion, which Your Honor is scheduled
17 to hear Friday, a motion by the Debtor's controlled -- by the 18 Dondero-controlled investors and funds in CLO managed --
19 managed by the Debtor, which the Court referred to that motion
20 as being frivolous and a waste of the Court's time. Multiple 21 plan objections, most of which are focused on allowing the 22 Debtors to continue their litigation crusade against the 23 Debtor and its successors post-confirmation. An objection to 24 the Debtor approval of the Acis order and a subsequent appeal.
25 An objection to the HarbourVest settlement and subsequent

1 appeal. A complaint and injunction against the Advisors and 2 the Funds to prevent them from violating Paragraph 9 of the 3 January 9th order. And a temporary restraining order against 4 those parties, which was by consent.

5 Mr. Dondero's counsel tends to argue that he is the victim
6 here and that the litigation is being commenced against him
7 and -- instead of by him. That response does not even deserve
8 a response, Your Honor. It is disingenuous.

9 Mr. Tauber testified that he was part of the team at Aon
10 that sourced coverage for the independent directors after 11 their appointment in January 2020 and that he has over 20
12 years of underwriting experience. He testified that at Aon he 13 builds bespoke insurance programs which are not cookie-cutter
14 programs for his clients, with an emphasis on D&O and E&O.
15 And he was asked by the independent board to obtain D&O and 16 E&O insurance after the board's appointment on January 9th.

17 Based upon the process Aon conducted in reaching out to 18 insurance carriers, Mr. Tauber testified that Aon was only 19 able to obtain D&O insurance based upon the inclusion of 20 Paragraph 10 of the January 9 order, the gatekeeper provision.
21 I know Mr. Taylor said that that was spoon-fed to the 22 insurers, but Mr. Tauber's testimony is they knew about Mr.
23 Dondero and they knew about his litigation tactics, so it is 24 not a good inference to be made from the testimony that they 25 would not have required something. They probably would have

1 just said no.

2 Aon has now been -- Mr. Tauber testified that Aon has now
3 been asked to obtain D&O coverage for the Claimant Trustee,
4 the Litigation Trustee, the Oversight Committee, the members,
5 the Claimant Trust, and the Litigation Sub-Trust. He 6 testified that he and Aon have approached the insurance
7 carriers that they believe might be interested in underwriting
8 coverage.

9 And no, he hasn't approached every D&O and E&O carrier out
10 there, and there may be, just like an investment banker
11 doesn't have to approach everyone. They are experts in the 12 field, and he testified they approached the people they 13 thought would likely be willing or interested and potentially 14 be willing to extend coverage. And as a result of Aon's
15 efforts, Mr. Tauber has determined that there's a continued
16 resistance to provide any coverage that does not contain an 17 exclusion for actions relating to Mr. Dondero or his related 18 entities. And he further believes that all carriers that will 19 -- that have discussed a willingness to provide coverage will 20 only do so if there is a gatekeeper provision, and only one
21 carrier will agree to provide coverage without a Dondero
22 exclusion.

23 Mr. Tauber testified that he believes that any ultimate
24 policy will provide that if at any time the gatekeeper
25 provision is not in place, either the carrier will not cover

138

1 any actions related to Mr. Dondero or his affiliates or that
2 the coverage will be vacated or voided.

3 Based upon the foregoing record, Your Honor, which is 4 uncontroverted, there's ample justification on a factual basis
5 for approval of the gatekeeper provision.

6 I will now turn to the Court's authority to approve the 7 gatekeeper provision.

8 There are three alternative bases upon which the Court can
9 approve the gatekeeper provision. First, several provisions
10 of the Bankruptcy Code give broad authority to approve a
11 provision like the gatekeeper provision.

12 Second, the Court can analogize to the Barton Doctrine the 13 facts and circumstances in this case and authorize the Court
14 to act as a gatekeeper to prevent frivolous litigation from 15 being filed against court-appointed officers and directors and 16 those that will lead the post-confirmation monetization of the 17 estate's assets.

18 And third, Your Honor, the Court can find that Mr. Dondero
19 and his entities are vexatious litigants, and use the 20 gatekeeper provision as a sanction to prevent the filing of 21 baseless litigation designed merely to harass those in charge
22 of the estate post-confirmation.

23 So, Bankruptcy Court authority. Your Honor, there are 24 several provisions in the Bankruptcy Code which we rely on to 25 support the Court's authority. First, Section 1123(a)(5)

139

1 permits the plan to approve adequate means of implementation,
2 and contains a long, non-exclusive list. Mr. Seery's
3 testimony is uncontroverted that a gatekeeper provision is 4 necessary for the adequate implementation of the plan.

5 Second, Your Honor, 1123(b) (6) authorizes a plan to 6 include any appropriate provision in a plan not inconsistent
7 with any other provision in this Code. There are not any 8 provisions and none have been cited by the Objectors that
9 would prohibit a gatekeeper provision. Section 1141
10 effectively holds that the terms of a plan bind the debtor and 11 its creditors and vest property in a reorganized debtor, free
12 and clear of the interests of third parties.

13 If nothing else, Your Honor, the spirit of 1141 allows the 14 Court to prevent, in appropriate cases, vexatious litigation
15 by unhappy creditors and parties in interest from torpedoing
16 the plan.

17 1142(b), Your Honor, provides that the confirmation --
18 that, after confirmation, the Court may direct any parties to 19 perform any act necessary for the consummation of the plan,
20 and requiring the party to seek court-approval before filing
21 an action is certainly an act.

22 And lastly, Your Honor, Section 105 allows the Court to 23 enter orders necessary to order other things, enforce orders
24 of the Court like the confirmation order, and prevent an abuse
25 of process which would certainly occur if baseless litigation

140

1 were filed against the parties in charge of the Reorganized
2 Debtor and the trust vehicles entrusted with carrying out the
3 plan.

4 Your Honor, gatekeepers are not a novel concept and have 5 been approved by courts in appropriate circumstances. In the 6 Madoff cases, the Court has been the gatekeeper post-
7 confirmation to determine whether investor claims are 8 derivative or direct claims.

9 In General Motors, the Court has been the gatekeeper post-
10 confirmation to determine whether product liability claims are 11 proper claims against the reorganized debtor.

12 Closer to home, Judge Lynn, Mr. Dondero's counsel,
13 approved a gatekeeper provision, arguably even more far-
14 reaching than the provision here, in the Pilgrim's Pride case.
15 In that case, Judge Lynn held that Pacific Lumber prevented
16 him -- prevented the Court from approving the exculpation
17 provision in the plan. However, he did hold that it was 18 appropriate for the Court to ensure that debtor
19 representatives are not improperly pursued for their good-
20 faith actions by requiring that any actions against the debtor
21 or its representatives, and further, on the performance of 22 their obligations as debtor-in-possession, be heard
23 exclusively before the Bankruptcy Court.

24 And Pilgrim's Pride is not the only case in this district
25 to include a gatekeeper provision, as Judge Houser approved

141

1 one in the CHC Group in 2016, which is cited in our materials.

2 The theme in all these cases, Your Honor, is that there
3 are circumstances where it is necessary and appropriate for 4 the Bankruptcy Court to act as a gatekeeper as a means of 5 reducing litigation that could interfere with a confirmed plan
6 and that a Court has the authority to approve such provisions.

7 The Objectors argue that the Bankruptcy Court does not
8 have jurisdiction to approve that provision. The Debtor
9 understands the argument as it related to the prior provision,
10 which gave the Court exclusive jurisdiction over any claim it
11 found colorable, and we've amended the plan to address that 12 issue. The jurisdiction to deal with those claims could be 13 left to a later day.

14 But to the extent the Objectors still pursue the 15 jurisdiction argument in light of the current provision,
16 they're really conflating two very different things: the 17 ability to determine whether a claim is colorable and the 18 ability to adjudicate that claim if the Court determines it's 19 colorable.

20 None of the authorities cited by the Objectors hold that
21 the Court is without jurisdiction to approve a gatekeeper
22 provision like the one here. So, rather, what they do is they 23 try to -- they argue, based upon the Craig's Stores case,
24 which is narrower than other circuits of post-confirmation
25 jurisdiction in the Bankruptcy Court, and argue that the 142

1 gatekeeper provision doesn't fall within that. But that --
2 such reliance is misplaced, Your Honor.

3 Craig held that the Bankruptcy Court did not have 4 jurisdiction to adjudicate a post-confirmation dispute over a
5 private-label credit card agreement between the debtor and the 6 bank. In declining to find jurisdiction, the Fifth Circuit
7 remarked that there was no antagonism or claim pending between 8 the parties as of the reorganization and no facts or law
9 deriving from the reorganization or the plan was necessary to 10 the claim asserted by the debtor.

11 However, in so ruling, Your Honor, the Fifth Circuit did
12 reason that post-confirmation jurisdiction in the Bankruptcy
13 Court continues to exist for matters pertaining to 14 implementation and execution of the plan. Requiring parties
15 to seek Bankruptcy Court determination the claim is colorable
16 before embarking on litigation that will impact
17 indemnification rights and affect distributions to creditors
18 is not an expansion of jurisdiction and fits well within the 19 Craig reasoning.

20 Unlike the credit card agreement dispute in Craig, Mr.
21 Dondero and his entities have demonstrated tremendous
22 antagonism towards the Debtor. And while the Debtor's plan
23 may be confirmed, further litigation has been threatened by 24 Mr. Dondero. It's in the pleadings. That's one of the 25 reasons Mr. Dondero says his plan is better. It'll avoid

1 tremendous amount of litigation.

2 After Craig, the Fifth Circuit again examined the 3 bankruptcy court's post-confirmation jurisdiction in the 4 Stoneridge case in 2005. In that case, the Fifth Circuit
5 ruled that a bankruptcy court has post-confirmation
6 jurisdiction to resolve a dispute between two nondebtors that
7 could trigger indemnification claims against a liquidating
8 trust formed as a result of a confirmed plan.

9 And lastly, as I mentioned Your Honor's decision before,
10 the TXMS Real Estate case, I think just a couple of months
11 ago, it stands for the proposition that post-confirmation
12 jurisdiction exists for matters bearing on the implementation,
13 interpretation, and execution of a plan. In that case, Your 14 Honor ruled that Your Honor had jurisdiction to resolve a
15 post-confirmation dispute between a liquidating trust formed
16 under a plan and a landlord, the result of which could 17 significantly and adversely affect the value of the 18 liquidating trust and monies available for unsecured
19 creditors.

20 And you have heard Mr. Seery testify that litigation will 21 have an adverse effect on the ability to make distributions to 22 creditors.

23 So, Your Honor, under these authorities, the Court
24 undoubtedly would have jurisdiction to act as the gatekeeper
25 for the litigation.

1       There's also an independent basis for the gatekeeper
2 provision, Your Honor, the Barton Doctrine, which the Court is 3 very familiar from your opinion in the In re Ondova case in 4 2017 and which provides that before a suit may be brought 5 against a trustee, leave of Court is required. In Ondova, the 6 Court reviewed the history of the doctrine in connection with 7 litigation brought by a highly-litigious debtor against a
8 trustee and his professionals. This Court noted that there
9 are several important policies followed by the doctrine,
10 including a concern for the overall integrity of the 11 bankruptcy process and the threat of trustees being distracted
12 from or intimidated from doing their jobs. And Your Honor's
13 language still: For example, losers in the bankruptcy process
14 might turn to other courts to try to become winners there by 15 alleging the trustee did a negligent job.

16       Your Honor, this is precisely what the Debtor is trying to 17 prevent here, Mr. Dondero and his entities from putting the 18 bad experience before Your Honor in this case behind it and 19 going to try to find better luck in a more hospitable court.

20       Your Honor, the Barton Doctrine originally only applied to 21 receivers, and over the course of time has been extended to 22 apply to various court-appointed fiduciaries, as we have cited
23 in our materials: trustees, debtors-in-possession, officers
24 and directors, employees, and attorneys representing the 25 debtor.

145

1 And I expect the Objectors to argue that there is a
2 statutory exception to the Barton Doctrine under 28 U.S.C. 959
3 and it does not apply to acts or transactions in carrying out
4 business conducted with a property. The exception, Your 5 Honor, is very narrow and was meant to apply for things like
6 slip-and-fall cases. In fact, the Eleventh Circuit in the 7 Carter v. Rodgers case, 220 F.3d 1249 in 2000, held that 8 Section 11 -- 28 U.S.C. 959(a) does not apply to suits against 9 trustees for administering or liquidating the bankruptcy
10 estate.

11 The Objectors also argue that the gatekeeper provision
12 violates Stern v. Marshal. However, as the Court acknowledged 13 in Ondova, the Fifth Circuit in Villegas v. Schmidt has 14 recognized that the Barton Doctrine remains viable post-Stern
15 v. Marshal. The Fifth Circuit reasoned that while Barton
16 Doctrine is jurisdictional in that a court does not have 17 jurisdiction of an action if preapproval has not been 18 obtained, it does not implicate the extent of a bankruptcy
19 court's jurisdiction to adjudicate the underlying claim,
20 precisely the distinction we're making here. The bankruptcy
21 court would be the gatekeeper for deciding whether the claim
22 passes through the gate, and then after will decide if it has 23 jurisdiction to rule on the underlying claim.

24 And this is important especially in a case like this, Your 25 Honor, where Your Honor has had extensive experience with the 146

1 parties and is in the best position to determine whether the
2 claims are valid or attempted to be used as harassment.

3 The Objectors will complain about the open-ended nature of 4 the gatekeeper provision, whether it will or won't apply after 5 the case is closed or a final decree is issued, and the unfair
6 burden of their rights.

7 Your Honor has a previous reported opinion where basically
8 jurisdiction does extend after a case is closed or a final
9 decree is entered, so that issue is a red herring.

10 As Your Honor is well aware, it's a decade-long -- a
11 decade of litigation against the Dondero-controlled entities
12 that caused the Highland bankruptcy. And the Court is very 13 well aware of the litigation that occurred in Acis, very well
14 aware of the litigation that's occurred here that I mentioned
15 a few minutes ago. Your Honor, it is not over, you'll be 16 presiding over the contempt hearing.

17 And if the Court needs yet another ground to approve the 18 gatekeeper provision, the Debtor submits that the procedure is 19 an appropriate sanction for Dondero's vexatious litigation
20 activities. We cited the In re Carroll case in the Fifth 21 Circuit of 2017 that held that a bankruptcy court has the 22 authority to enjoin a litigant from filing any pleading in any 23 action without the prior authority from the bankruptcy court.

24 And in affirming the decision of the bankruptcy court, the 25 Fifth Circuit commented on the reasons the bankruptcy court

147

1 gave for its ruling. After recounting the bad faith of
2 appellants, the bankruptcy court determined that the Carrolls'
3 true motives were to harass the trustee and thereby delay the 4 proper administration of the estate, in the hope that they 5 would be able to retain their assets or make pursuit of the 6 assets so unappealing that the trustee would be compelled to 7 settle on terms favorable to appellants.

8 Sounds familiar, Your Honor. The same can certainly be 9 said about what Mr. Dondero is doing in this case.

10 And to make a showing that a party is vexatious litigant,
11 the Court must find that the party has a history of vexatious
12 and harassing litigation, whether the party has a good faith
13 -- the litigation or has filed it as a means to harass, the 14 burden to the Court and other parties, and the adequacy of 15 alternative sanctions.

16 And as Your Honor is well aware from all the litigation,
17 Your Honor is well, well able to make the finding required for 18 the vexatious litigation finding.

19 But here, we don't ask for the drastic sanction of 20 enjoining from any further filings. Rather, we just ask for a
21 less-severe sanction, requiring Mr. Dondero and his entities
22 to first make a showing that he has a colorable claim.

23 The Fifth Circuit in Baum v. Blue Moon, 2007, did exactly
24 that. In Baum, the district court barred a vexatious litigant 25 from initiating litigation without first obtaining the 148

1 approval of the district court. Ultimately, the matter
2 reached the Fifth Circuit after the district court had 3 modified the pre-filing injunction to limit it to a certain
4 case, and then broadened it again based upon continued bad
5 faith conduct.

6 On appeal, the Fifth Circuit, citing several prior cases,
7 noted that a district court has the authority to impose a pre-
8 filing injunction to defer vexatious, abusive, and harassing
9 litigation.

10 And for those reasons, Your Honor, the Debtor asks the 11 Court to overrule any objections to the gatekeeper provision.

12 Your Honor, I was just going to then go to the plan
13 modification provisions, but I wanted to stop and see if you
14 had any questions at this point.

15 THE COURT: I do not. Let's give him a time
16 estimate, Nate. About how --

17 THE CLERK: Twenty.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: I have another five or six minutes, I
19 think, based upon --

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. POMERANTZ: And then I'll be ready to turn it
22 over to --

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. POMERANTZ: -- to Mr. Kharasch.

25 THE COURT: All right. Yes. You've got -- you've 149

1 done an hour and 33 minutes. So you have about, I guess, 37
2 minutes left. Okay. Go ahead.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

4 I would like to address the modifications of the plan that 5 were contained in our January 22nd plan and the additional 6 changes filed on February 1, several of which I have referred.

7 As a preliminary matter, Your Honor, under 1127(b), the 8 Debtor can modify a plan at any time prior to confirmation if 9 -- and not require resolicitation if there's no adverse change
10 in the treatment of claim or interest of any equity holder.

11 With that background, I won't go through the changes we 12 made that I've already discussed, but I will point out a 13 couple, Your Honor, that I would like to point out now. We 14 have modified the plan with respect to conditions of the 15 effective date in Article 8. First, a condition to the 16 effective date will now be entry of a final order confirming a 17 plan, as opposed just to entry of order. And final order is 18 defined as the exhaustion of all appeals.

19 In addition, the ability to obtain directors and officers
20 insurance coverage on terms acceptable to the Debtor, the 21 Committee, the Claimant Trustee, the Claimant Trustee
22 Oversight Board, and the Litigation Trustee is now a condition
23 to the effective date.

24 The Court heard testimony today and has experienced
25 firsthand the litigiousness of Mr. Dondero and his related

150

1 entities. And the Court heard testimony from Mr. Tauber and
2 Aon that the D&O insurance will not be available post-
3 effective date without assurances that the gatekeeper
4 provision will be in effect for the duration of the policy and 5 any run-off period.

6 Mr. Tauber further testified that he expected the final
7 terms from the insurance carrier to provide that if the 8 confirmation order was reversed on appeal and the gatekeeper
9 was removed, it would void -- it would either void the 10 directors and officers coverage or it'd result in a Dondero
11 exclusion.

12 Mr. Dondero and his entities are no strangers to the 13 appellate process, as Your Honor knows. They appealed several 14 of your orders, and continue the tack in this case, having 15 appealed the Acis and the HarbourVest orders and the 16 preliminary injunction. It would not surprise the Debtor if 17 Mr. Dondero and his entities appealed your confirmation order,
18 if Your Honor decides to confirm the plan.

19 The Debtor is confident that it will prevail on any appeal
20 in the confirmation order, as we believe the Debtor has made a
21 compelling case for confirmation.

22 The Debtor also believes a compelling case exists that if 23 the plan went effective without a stay pending appeal, that 24 the appeal would be equitably moot, but we understand we are 25 facing headwinds from the courts, bankruptcy court have

1 addressed that issue before.

2       However, given the effect a reversal would have on the 3 availability of insurance coverage, the Claimant Trustee, the 4 Claimant Oversight Committee, and the Litigation Trustee are 5 just not willing to take that risk.

6       We are hopeful that Mr. Dondero and his entities will 7 recognize that any appeal is futile and step aside and let the 8 plan proceed and become effective.

9       If Mr. Dondero and his related entities do appeal the 10 confirmation order, preventing it from becoming final and 11 preventing the effective date from the occurring, the Debtor
12 intends to work closely with the Committee to ratchet down
13 costs substantially and proceed to operate and monetize assets
14 as appropriate until an order becomes final.

15       None of these modifications adversely affect the treatment
16 of claims or interests under the plan, Your Honor, and for 17 those reasons, Your Honor, we request that the Court approve
18 those modifications.

19       And with that, I would like to turn the podium over to Mr.
20 Kharasch to briefly address the remaining CLO objections.

21               THE COURT: All right. Mr. Kharasch?

22               CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

23               MR. KHARASCH: Good afternoon, Your Honor. I'll be 24 as brief as possible. I know we're under a deadline.

25       As you've heard yesterday, you've heard before in other

152

1 proceedings, Your Honor, the CLO Objecting Parties, the so-
2 called investors, do have rights under the CLO management
3 agreements and indentures, including contractual rights to 4 terminate the management agreements under certain
5 circumstances.

6 What they complain about today, Your Honor, is that the 7 injunction language in the plan, including the language
8 preventing actions to interfere with the implementation and 9 consummation of the plan, is so broad and ambiguous that their 10 rights are or may be improperly impacted, especially any 11 rights to remove the manager for acts of malfeasance.

12 But the Debtor is primarily relying, Your Honor, not so
13 much on the plan injunctions but on the clear provisions of 14 the January 9 order, to which Mr. Dondero consented and which 15 provides that Mr. Dondero shall not cause any of his related 16 entities to terminate any agreements with the Debtor.

17 Yes, that is a broad provision, but it is very clear, and 18 it does not even allow the CLO Objecting Parties to come to 19 court under a gatekeeper-type provision. But that is what Mr.
20 Dondero consented to on behalf of himself and his related
21 entities.

22 Important to note, Your Honor, we are not here today to 23 litigate who is and who is not a related entity. That will be 24 left for another day. However, Your Honor, we have considered 25 these issues, including last night and this morning, and we

153

1 are going to propose -- well, we will modify our plan through
2 a provision in the confirmation order to provide the 3 following: Notwithstanding anything in the plan or the 4 January 9 order, the CLO Objecting Parties will not be 5 precluded from exercising their contractual or statutory 6 rights in the CLOs based on negligence, malfeasance, or any 7 wrongdoing, but before exercising such rights shall come to 8 this Court to determine whether those rights are colorable and 9 to also determine whether they are a related entity. If the 10 Court has jurisdiction, the Court can determine the underlying 11 colorable rights or claims.

12 This does not impact the separate settlement we have with 13 CLO Holdco, Your Honor.

14 We think that such modification addresses some of the 15 concerns raised yesterday by the objecting parties by 16 providing more clarity as to what the plan is doing and not 17 doing with respect to the plan and the January 9 order, and we 18 think it is also a fair resolution of some legitimate
19 concerns.

20 So, with that, Your Honor, we think that, with that 21 clarification that we did not have to make but are willing to 22 make, that this should fully satisfy the CLO Objecting Parties
23 with regard to their objections to the injunction and the 24 gatekeeper.

25 Thank you, Your Honor.

154

1 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Clemente?

2 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE CREDITORS' COMMITTEE

3 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor. And I actually am
4 going to be brief. Mr. Pomerantz's discussion, obviously, was 5 very, very thorough, so I'm able to cut out a lot of stuff.

6 Thank you, Your Honor. Matt Clemente, Sidley Austin, on 7 behalf of the Committee.

8 The plan, Your Honor, meets the confirmation standards and 9 should be confirmed. Mr. Pomerantz covered a lot of ground,
10 and I will endeavor not to repeat that, but there are a few
11 points that I think the Committee wishes to emphasize.

12 Your Honor, since I first appeared in front of you, I have 13 maintained consistently that no plan can or should be 14 confirmed without the consent of the Committee. Your Honor,
15 in her wisdom, understood this immediately, as it was obvious
16 -- it was the obvious conclusion, given the makeup of the 17 creditor body, the asset pool, and the impetus for the filing
18 of the case.

19 Unfortunately, not everyone came to this conclusion so
20 easily, and it took much hard-fought negotiations as well as a 21 defeated disclosure statement, among other things, and 22 tireless dedication and commitment by each individual
23 Committee member to drive for a value-maximizing plan that is 24 in the best interests of its constituencies and for us to get 25 to where we are today.

155

1 And where we are today, Your Honor, is at confirmation for 2 a plan that the Committee unanimously supports, which was the 3 inevitable outcome for this case from the very beginning.

4 I've also said, Your Honor, that context is critical in 5 this case. It has been from the beginning, and it remains so
6 now. Mr. Draper, interestingly, began his comments yesterday
7 by saying that even a serial killer is entitled to Miranda
8 rights. While I will admit that at times the rhetoric in this 9 case has been heated, I have never certainly likened Mr.
10 Dondero to a serial killer. But the record shows, and Mr.
11 Dondero's own words and actions show, that he is, in fact, a 12 serial litigator who has no hesitation at all to take any 13 position in an attempt to leverage an outcome that suits his 14 self-interest. And he has no hesitation at all to use his 15 many tentacles in a similar fashion.

16 That is a very important context in which the Court should 17 view the remaining objections of the Dondero tentacles and 18 weigh confirmation of the Debtor's plan.

19 Against this context of a serial litigator, Your Honor, we 20 have a plan supported by each member of the Official Committee
21 of Unsecured Creditors, accepted by two classes of claims,
22 Class 2 and Class 7, and holders of almost one hundred percent
23 in amount of non-insider claims in Class 8.

24 The parties that have voted against the plan are either
25 employees who are not receiving distributions under the plan

156

1 or are insiders or parties related to Mr. Dondero.

2 The overwhelming number and amount of creditors who are 3 receiving distributions under this plan, therefore, have 4 accepted the plan. The true creditors and economic parties in 5 interest have spoken, they have spoken loudly, and they have 6 spoken in favor of confirming the plan.

7 Your Honor, I'm not going to address the technical
8 requirements, as Mr. Pomerantz did that. So I'm going to skip
9 over my remarks in that regard, except I do want to emphasize 10 the remarks regarding the gatekeeper, exculpation, and 11 injunction provisions as they're of critical importance to the
12 plan.

13 The testimony has shown and the proceedings of this case
14 has shown, again, Mr. Dondero is a serial litigator with a 15 stated goal of causing destruction and delay through
16 litigation.

17 The testimony has further shown that none of the 18 independent board members would have signed onto the role
19 without the gatekeeper and injunction provisions and the 20 indemnity from the Debtor.

21 Therefore, it follows that such provisions are necessary
22 to entice parties to serve in the Claimant Trustee and other
23 roles under the plan, which, as I remarked in my opening
24 comments, are integral to providing the structure that the 25 creditors believe is necessary to unlocking the value and

1 unlocking themselves from the Dondero web.

2       Regarding the exculpation and injunction provisions
3 specifically, Your Honor, the Court will recall that the 4 Committee raised objections to them in connection with the 5 first disclosure statement hearing. In response, the Debtor
6 narrowed the provisions, and the Committee believes they
7 comply with the Fifth Circuit precedent, as Mr. Pomerantz ably
8 walked Your Honor through.

9       And to be clear, Your Honor, not only does the Committee
10 believe the exculpation and injunction provisions comply with 11 Fifth Circuit law, the Committee does not believe the estate
12 is harmed by such provisions, as the Committee does not 13 believe there are any cognizable claims that could or should 14 be raised that would otherwise be affected by the exculpation
15 or injunction, and, frankly, with respect to the release that 16 Mr. Pomerantz walked Your Honor through with respect to the 17 directors and the officers.

18       Regarding the gatekeeper, Your Honor, Your Honor
19 presciently approved it in her January 9th order, and the 20 developments since then only serve as further justification
21 for including it in the plan and confirmation order. Mr.
22 Dondero is a serial and vexatious litigator, and the 23 instruments put in place under the plan to maximize value for 24 the creditors and to oversee that value-maximizing process
25 must be protected, and the gatekeeper function serves that

158

1 protection while also, importantly, as Mr. Pomerantz pointed
2 out, providing Mr. Dondero with a forum to advance any 3 legitimate claims he and his tentacles may have.

4 In short, Your Honor, the gatekeeper provision is 5 necessary to the implementation to the plan, is fair under the 6 circumstances of the case, and is therefore within this
7 Court's authority, and it is appropriate to approve.

8 Your Honor, in sum, it has been a long road to get here
9 today, but we are finally here. And we are here, Your Honor,
10 I believe in large part as a result of the tireless efforts of 11 the individual members of my Committee, and for that I thank 12 them.

13 The Committee fully supports and unanimously supports
14 confirmation of the plan. As demonstrated by the evidence,
15 the plan meets all the requirements of the Bankruptcy Code.
16 The Committee believes the plan is in the best interests of 17 its constituencies. And therefore the Committee, along with 18 two classes of creditors and the overwhelming amount of 19 creditors in terms of dollars, urge you to confirm the plan.

20 That's all I have, Your Honor, but I'm happy to answer any 21 questions you may have for me.

22 THE COURT: Okay. Not at this time.

23 Nate, how much time --

24 (Clerk advises.)

25 THE COURT: Twenty-five minutes remaining? All

159

1 right. Just so you know, you've got a collective Debtor's
2 counsel/Committee's counsel 25 minutes remaining for any
3 rebuttal, if you choose to make it.

4 Let's take a five-minute break, and then we'll hear the 5 Objectors' closing arguments. Okay.

6 THE CLERK: All rise.

7 (A recess ensued from 2:00 p.m. until 2:06 p.m.)

8 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're 9 going back on the record in Highland. We're ready to hear the 10 Objectors' closing arguments. Who wants to go first?

11 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, this -- this is Douglas 12 Draper. I get the joy of going first.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE GET GOOD AND DUGABOY TRUSTS

15 MR. DRAPER: We've heard a great deal of testimony
16 about the Debtor's belief that the circumstances in this case
17 warrant an exception to existing Fifth Circuit case law, the 18 Bankruptcy Code, and Court's post-confirmation jurisdiction.

19 I would not be standing here today objecting to the plan
20 if the Debtor didn't attempt to extend, move past and beyond
21 the Barton Doctrine, move beyond 1141, move beyond Pacific
22 Lumber. In fact, I think I heard an argument that Pacific
23 Lumber is not applicable and this Court should disregard Fifth
24 Circuit case law.

25 Let's start with the exculpation provision. And the focus

160

1 of this case has been, and what we've heard over the last few
2 days, is about the independent directors. I understand there
3 was an order entered earlier, the order stands, and the order
4 is applicable in this case. It cuts off, however, when we
5 have a Reorganized Debtor, because these independent directors
6 are no longer independent directors. It cuts off when we have 7 a new general partner.

8 And so the protections that were afforded by that order do
9 not need to be afforded to the new officers and new directors
10 of the new general partner. And in fact, the protections that 11 they're entitled to are completely different than the 12 protections that were entitled -- that are covered by the 13 order that the Court has looked at.

14 Let's first focus on, however, the exculpation provision.
15 And I wanted to ask the Court to look at the exculpated
16 parties. Have to be very careful and very interest -- and 17 focus solely on the independent directors. But if you look at 18 the parties covered by exculpation provision, it includes the 19 professionals retained by the Debtor. My reading of Pacific
20 Lumber is that neither the Creditors' Committee counsel nor 21 the Debtor can be covered by an exculpation provision. This 22 in and of itself makes the plan non-confirmable. This 23 exculpation provision is unwarranted and unnecessary.

24 Two, --

25 THE COURT: Well, let's drill down on that.

161

1 MR. DRAPER: -- we have --

2 THE COURT: Let's drill down on that. Mr. Pomerantz
3 says that this wasn't what they considered one way or another
4 by Pacific Lumber. Debtor, debtor professionals. Okay? Do
5 you disagree with that?

6 MR. DRAPER: I disagree with that. Pacific Lumber
7 said you could only have releases and exculpations for the 8 Creditors' Committee members. And the rationale behind that 9 was that those people volunteered to be part and parcel of the 10 bankruptcy process, that those parties did not get paid.
11 Here, we have two professionals who both volunteered and are 12 being paid, and are not entitled to an exculpation under 13 Pacific Lumber. They're not entitled to a --

14 THE COURT: Okay. So you say Pacific --

15 MR. DRAPER: -- release. Now, ultimately, they --

16 THE COURT: -- Pacific Lumber categorically rejected
17 all exculpations except to Creditors' Committee and its 18 members. That's your --

19 MR. DRAPER: I agree. That's --

20 THE COURT: -- interpretation of Pacific Lumber?

21 MR. DRAPER: Yes.

22 THE COURT: Okay. All right. So you just absolutely
23 disagree, one by one, with every one of the arguments, that it
24 was really -- the only thing before the Fifth Circuit was plan
25 sponsors, okay? A plan proponent that I think was like a

162

1 competitor previously of the debtor, and I think a large
2 creditor or secured creditor. I think those were the two plan
3 proponents.

4 So you disagree -- I'm going to, obviously, go back and
5 line-by-line pour through Pacific Lumber, but you disagree
6 with Mr. Pomerantz's notion that, look, it was really a page
7 and a half or two of a multipage opinion where the Fifth
8 Circuit said, no, I don't think 524(e) is authority to give 9 exculpation from postpetition liability for negligence as to 10 these two plan sponsors. And I guess it was also -- I don't 11 know. They say, Pachulski's briefing says it was really only 12 looking at these two plan sponsors and the Committee and its 13 members on appeal, you know, going through the briefing, and 14 in such, you can see that these were all that was presented 15 and addressed by the Fifth Circuit. You disagree with that?

16 MR. DRAPER: Look, I know the facts of Pacific Lumber
17 and they -- I know what the posture of the case was. However,
18 the literal language by the opinion in it, it transcends just 19 a dispute in the case. And I think the U.S. Trustee's
20 position that this exculpation provision is correct as a 21 matter of law support -- is further evidence of the fact that 22 the U.S. Trustee, as watchdog of this process, and Pacific
23 Lumber say this cannot be done, period, end of story.

24 THE COURT: Okay. So you, at bottom, just totally 25 disagree with Mr. Pomerantz? You say Pacific Lumber is 163

1 actually a very broad holding, and I guess, if such, there's a
2 conflict among the Circuits, right?

3 MR. DRAPER: Well, that's okay.

4 THE COURT: So, --

5 MR. DRAPER: I mean, quite frankly, Pacific Lumber is 6 binding on you.

7 THE COURT: Understood.

8 MR. DRAPER: There may be a conflict in the Circuits,
9 and ultimately the Supreme Court may make a decision and 10 decide who's right and who's wrong.

11 But for purposes of today and for purposes of this 12 exculpation provision and for purposes of this confirmation,
13 Pacific Lumber is the applicable law.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Well, again, this is a hugely
15 important issue, although in many ways I don't understand why
16 it is, because we're just talking about postpetition acts and 17 negligence, okay? You know, many might say it's much ado
18 about nothing, but it's front and center of your objection.
19 So I guess I'm just thinking through, if the Fifth Circuit was 20 presented these exact facts and was presented with the 21 argument, you know, the Blixseth case says 524(e) has nothing
22 to do with exculpation because exculpation is a postpetition
23 concept, and it's just talking about standard liability --
24 these people aren't going to be liable for negligence; they 25 can be liable for anything and everything else -- if presented

164

1 with that Blixseth case, you know, there are several arguments
2 that Mr. Pomerantz has made why, if you accept that 524(e)
3 might not apply here, let's look at the reasoning, the little
4 bit of reasoning we had of Pacific Lumber, that it was really
5 a policy rationale, right? These independent fiduciaries,
6 strangers to the company and case, they'd never want to do
7 this if they knew they were vulnerable for getting sued for 8 negligence. Mr. Pomerantz's argument is that these 9 independent board members are exactly analogous to a
10 Committee, more than prepetition officers and directors. What 11 do you have to say about that policy argument?

12 MR. DRAPER: Well, I think there's a huge distinction
13 between the members of a Creditors' Committee who are 14 volunteers and are not paid versus a paid independent
15 director. And more importantly, I think there's a huge 16 difference between a member of a Creditors' Committee who's 17 not paid and counsel for a Debtor and counsel for a Creditors'
18 Committee.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. DRAPER: Look, you have -- you've --

21 THE COURT: So, at bottom, it was all about
22 compensation to the Fifth Circuit?

23 MR. DRAPER: Well, no. The Fifth Circuit policy
24 decision was we want to protect a party who wants to serve and 25 do their civic duty to serve on a Creditors' Committee for no

165

1 compensation. I agree with that. I think it's a laudable
2 policy decision. I think it makes sense.

3 However, the Fifth Circuit in its language basically said,
4 nobody else gets it. It didn't say, look, you know, if there
5 are circumstances that are different, we may look at it
6 differently. The language is absolute in the opinion. And 7 that's what I think is binding and I think that's what the 8 case stands for.

9 And look, just so the Court is very clear, when Pachulski
10 files its fee application and the Court grants the fee
11 application, any claim against them is res judicata. So, in 12 fact, they do have -- they do have protection. They do have 13 the ability to get out from under. The Court -- they're just 14 not -- they just can't get out from under through an 15 exculpation provision. And the same goes for Mr. Clemente and 16 his firm.

17 THE COURT: Which, --

18 MR. DRAPER: And the same goes for DSI.

19 THE COURT: Which, by the way, that's one reason I
20 think sometimes this is much ado about nothing. It goes both 21 ways. The Debtor professionals, the Committee professionals,
22 estate professionals, they're going to get cleared on the day
23 any fee app is approved, right? I mean, there's Fifth Circuit
24 law that says --

25 MR. DRAPER: I -- I --

166

1 THE COURT: -- says that's res judicata as to any
2 future claims.

3 But I guess I'm really trying to understand, you know, at 4 bottom, I feel like the Fifth Circuit was making a holding
5 based on policy more than any directly applicable Code
6 provision.

7 I mean, it's been said, for example, that Committee
8 members, they're entitled to exculpation because of, what,
9 1103, some people argue, 1103, which subsection, (c)? That's 10 been quoted as giving, quote, qualified immunity to 11 Committees. But it doesn't really say that, right? It's just 12 something you infer.

13 MR. DRAPER: No. Look, what I think, if you really 14 want to put the two concepts together, I think what the Fifth
15 Circuit, when they told lawyers and professionals that you
16 can't get an exculpation, was very mindful of the fact that 17 you can get released once your fee app is approved. So, as a
18 policy, they didn't need to do it in a exculpation provision.
19 There was another methodology in which it could be done.

20 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

21 MR. DRAPER: And so that's -- you have to look at it
22 as holistic and not just focus on the exculpation provision.
23 Because, in fact, they recognize and they -- I'm sure they 24 knew their existing case law on res judicata, and that's why
25 they read it out.

167

1       So, honestly, there's no reason for Pachulski to be in
2 here. There's no reason for Mr. Clemente to be in here.
3 There's no reason for the professionals employed by the Debtor
4 to be in here. They have an exit not by virtue of the plan.

5           THE COURT: But so then it boils down to the 6 independent directors and Strand post January 9th?

7           MR. DRAPER: It boils down somewhat to them, but 8 quite frankly, there are two parts to this. One is you have 9 an order that's in place. I am not asking the Court to 10 overturn the order. And quite frankly, this provision could 11 have been written to the effect that the order that was in 12 place on -- that's been presented to the Court is applicable
13 and applied.

14       However, let's parse that down. Let's look at Mr. Seery.
15 The order that's in place solely protects the independent
16 directors acting in their capacities as independent directors.
17 If somebody's acting as -- and if you want to liken it to a
18 trustee, their protection is afforded by the Barton Doctrine,
19 and that's how the protection arises.

20       What's going on here is they're extending the provisions,
21 first of all, of the Court's order, and number two, of the 22 Barton Doctrine, which are -- which cannot be -- which should 23 not be extended. The law limits what protections you have and 24 what protections you don't have. And we, as lawyers -- look,
25 I'll give you the best example. Think of all the times you

168

1 had somebody write in the concept of superpriority in a cash
2 collateral order. And how many times have you had a lawyer
3 rewrite the concept of the issue as to diminution in value?
4 The Code says diminution in value, and quite frankly, a cash
5 collateral order should just say if, to the extent there's 6 diminution in value, just apply the Code section. It's 7 written there. Smart people put it in, and Congress approved
8 it. And once you start getting beyond that, those things
9 should be limited.

10 And what we have are lawyers trying to extend out by 11 definitions things that the Code limits by its reach. That 12 goes for post-confirmation jurisdiction. That goes for the 13 injunction. That goes for the so-called gatekeeper provision.

14 And so, again, I would not be here if, in fact, they had 15 said, we have an injunction to the full extent allowed by the 16 Bankruptcy Code and Pacific Lumber. We have an exculpation
17 provision that's allowed by virtue of the Court's order. We 18 have the full extent and full reach of the Barton Doctrine.
19 Those are legitimate. Once you start expanding upon that, 20 you're reaching into matters that are not authorized and not 21 allowed.

22 And then you get into 105 territory, which is always very 23 dangerous. And that's really what's going on here. And 24 that's the tenor of my argument and what I'm trying to say.
25 The Code gives protections. It is not for us to extend the 169

1 protections. It's not for us to enlarge them, even under a,
2 gee, the other party's litigious.

3 And so that's -- let's take Craig's Store. Attempted to 4 limit its reach. Craig's Store says once you have a confirmed
5 plan, any dispute between the parties, for -- let's take an
6 executory contract. If there's a breach of the executory
7 contract, that's a matter to be handled aft... by another
8 court. It's not a matter to be handled by this Court. This 9 Court lets the parties out.

10 And in this case, it's even worse, because you basically
11 have a new general partner coming in, you have an assumption
12 of various executory contracts, and you have a -- Strand is no
13 longer present.

14 If you adopted Mr. Seery's argument, anybody who appeals a
15 decision, questions what he does or how he does it, is a 16 vexatious litigator. That's not the case. And the fact that 17 we are appealing a decision is a right that we have. It
18 shouldn't be limited, and it shouldn't be held against us.
19 Courts can rule against us. That's fine.

20 And so that's really what the focus is here and that's why
21 I gave the opening that I had. We are willing to be bound by 22 applicable law. And quite frankly, the concept that the 23 exigencies of a case allow a court to change what applicable
24 law is is problematic. I gave the criminal example as a
25 reason. And the reason was that, in certain instances, the 170

1 application of law may allow a criminal to go free. It's a
2 problem with our system and how we work, but that's what the 3 law does, and it is absolute in its application.

4 Let me address the so-called gatekeeper provision. The 5 gatekeeper provision, in a certain sense, is recognized in the 6 Barton Doctrine. It's jurisdictional, and it says, to the 7 extent you're going to litigate with somebody who served
8 during the bankruptcy, who was a trustee, then you have to 9 come to the bankruptcy court and pass through a gate. It
10 doesn't say you have to pass through a gate for a reorganized
11 debtor who does something after a plan is confirmed and going 12 forward. And so that's -- there's a distinction.

13 And if you look at Judge Summerhays' decision, which I
14 will be happy to send to the Court, in WRT involving -- it's 15 kind of (indecipherable) and Mr. Pauker, where, in that case,
16 the trustee, the litigation trustee, spent more litigating
17 than it had in recoveries, and Baker Hughes filed suit. Judge
18 Summerhays said, look, the Barton Doctrine only applies to a
19 certain extent. It is limited once you get into post-
20 confirmation matters and related-to jurisdiction.

21 And so, again, the Barton Doctrine is what it stands for.
22 We agree with it, we recognize it, and it should be applied.
23 The Barton Doctrine, however, should not be extended, should 24 not go past its reach, and should not go past the grant of 25 jurisdiction for this Court.

171

1 And so you have in here, though they have -- they have
2 tried to hide it in a limited fashion, this gatekeeper
3 provision. The gatekeeper provision, as currently written,
4 covers post-confirmation claims that somebody has to come
5 before this Court to the extent there's a breach of a
6 contract. That's not proper, and it's not covered by your 7 post-confirmation jurisdiction. To the extent there's an 8 interpretation of an existing contract and an interpretation
9 of the order, you do have authority, and I don't question
10 that.

11 THE COURT: But address Mr. Pomerantz's statement
12 that there's a difference between saying you have to go to the 13 bankruptcy court and make an argument, we have a colorable
14 claim that we would like to pursue, and having that 15 jurisdictional step required. There's a difference between 16 that and the bankruptcy court adjudicating the claim.

17 MR. DRAPER: Well, there are two parts to that.
18 Number one is there's an injunction in place from an action
19 taken post-confirmation against property of the estate. We 20 all agree at that, correct? And we believe that the 21 injunction applies to post-confirmation action against 22 property of the pre-confirmation estate. We all agree to
23 that.

24 However, if in fact there's a breach of a contract
25 postpetition that the parties have a dispute about, that

172

1 contract is now no longer under your purview once the contract
2 has been assumed. And so they shouldn't have to make a
3 colorable claim to you that a breach of the contract has 4 occurred. That should be the determining factor for another
5 court.

6 That's, in essence, what Craig's Store says. Your 7 jurisdiction and the jurisdiction of a bankruptcy court is 8 limited. It's limited by Stern vs. Marshall. It's limited by 9 your ability to render findings of fact and conclusions of law
10 versus render a final decision. That decision has been made
11 not by us, it's been made by Congress and it's been made by 12 the United States Constitution.

13 THE COURT: All right. And I think we all agree with 14 you regarding the holding of Craig's Stores and some of the 15 other post-confirmation bankruptcy subject matter jurisdiction
16 holdings. But Mr. Pomerantz is arguing that this gatekeeping
17 function is warranted by, among other things, you know, there
18 was a district court holding, Baum v. Blue Moon, or a Fifth
19 Circuit case, that upheld a district court having the ability
20 to impose pre-filing injunctions in the context of a vexatious
21 litigator. So, you know, that's a strong analogy he makes to 22 what's sought here. What is your response to that?

23 MR. DRAPER: My response to that is a district court
24 can do that. A district court has jurisdiction to make that 25 decision. And quite frankly, a district court can sanction a

1 vexatious litigator under Rule 11.

2 So, in fact -- again, you have to bifurcate your power
3 versus the power that a district court has. And that 4 gatekeeper provision is allowed by a district court because
5 they had authority over the case. You may not have authority
6 over being the gatekeeper for a post-confirmation matter that 7 you had no jurisdiction over to start with.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. DRAPER: That, that's the distinction between 10 here. That's -- what's going on here is they are -- they are 11 mashing together a whole load of concepts under the vexatious
12 litigator and the anti-Dondero function that fundamentally 13 abrogate the distinction between what your jurisdiction is 14 pre-confirmation versus your jurisdiction post-confirmation.
15 And that --

16 THE COURT: Do you think --

17 MR. DRAPER: -- is sacrosanct.

18 THE COURT: Do you think Judge Lynn got it wrong in 19 Pilgrim's Pride? Do you think Judge Houser got it wrong in 20 CHC? Or do you think this situation is different?

21 MR. DRAPER: There are two parts to that. I have 22 told Judge Lynn, since I have been working with him, that I
23 think Pilgrim's Pride is wrongfully decided. However, having 24 said that, Pilgrim's Pride and those cases dealt with claims
25 against the -- the channeling injunction affected actions

1 during the bankruptcy. It did not serve as a post-
2 jurisdictional grant of jurisdiction to the bankruptcy court.
3 It did not pose as an ability -- as a limitation on a post-
4 confirmation litigator or a post-effective date litigator to 5 address a wrong done to them by an independent director of a
6 general partner.

7 In a sense, Judge Lynn's determination, and Judge Houser,
8 is consistent somewhat with the Barton Doctrine. Now, do I
9 agree that they're right? No. But I understand the decision
10 and I understand the context in which it was rendered and I
11 don't have a huge problem with it.

12 So, again, let's parse what we're trying to do here.
13 Number one, we are -- we have to bifurcate post-confirmation
14 jurisdiction or post-effective date jurisdiction and what you
15 can do as a post-effective date arbiter versus what you could 16 do pre-effective date and pre-effective date claims. And 17 again, that's the problem with what's written here. It is 18 designed one hundred percent to expand your post-effective
19 date jurisdiction through both the gatekeeper provision and 20 the jurisdictional grant that's here from your pre-effective
21 date capability, your pre-effective date jurisdiction, and 22 your pre-effective date ability to either curb a claim or not 23 to curb a claim. And that, that's the issue.

24 And again, let's start talking about the independent
25 directors. I recognize, again, that there's an order there.

175

1 But if Mr. Seery -- let's take Mr. Seery -- is acting as a
2 director of Strand but is also an accountant for the Debtor
3 and makes a mistake, he would be sued in his capacity as the 4 accountant for the Debtor, not as an independent director of 5 Strand. That distinction needs to be made.

6 What we are doing here under this plan, and what's been 7 argued by Mr. Pomerantz, is too broad a brush. It needs to be 8 cut back. The Court needs to take a very hard look at what's 9 being presented here.

10 And again, the Court's order is very clear. And this is 11 binding. I recognize that. But the protection they got was 12 serving as an independent director. The protection they 13 didn't get was -- let's take Mr. Seery, if Mr. Seery was 14 serving as an accountant and blew a tax return. Those are 15 distinctions that warrant analysis and warrant looking at 16 here. And again, it is too broad a brush that's touted here, 17 and that is why this plan on its face is not confirmable with 18 respect to both the post-confirmation jurisdiction, the 19 gatekeeper provision, the exculpation provisions.

20 And so let me address a few other things, just to address
21 them. Number one, the argument has been made with respect to 22 the creditors and the resolicitation issue and that creditors
23 could have come in looking, seen, followed the case, and 24 basically calculated and made the same calculation that the 25 Debtor made when they filed this and put forth the new plan

176

1 analysis versus liquidation analysis. And then they've also
2 made the argument, well, nobody came and complained. Well,
3 two parts to that.

4 Number one, as you know, a disclosure statement needs to 5 be on its face and should not require a creditor to go back in 6 and monitor the record -- and quite frankly, in this record,
7 there are thousands of pages -- and do the calculation
8 himself. This was incumbent upon the Debtor to possibly 9 resolicit when these material changes took place.

10 Number two, the recalculation has not been subject to the 11 entire creditor body seeing it. And anybody who wanted to 12 call them would have had to have seen the document they filed
13 on February 1st and made a telephone call basically
14 contemporaneous with seeing it.

15 Those are two things. The argument that they didn't call
16 me is just nonsensical. There's nobody -- you, you are 17 sitting here -- and I've had a number of battles over the 18 years with Judge (indecipherable), who was -- who -- and her
19 view was, I'm here to protect the little guy who's not -- 20 didn't hire counsel, who's not represented by Mr. Clemente and 21 his huge clients who have voted in favor of the plan. It's 22 the little person, i.e., the employees who would vote against 23 a plan that they so -- so desperately tried to get out from 24 under.

25 THE COURT: Well, --

177

1 MR. DRAPER: It's really a function --

2 THE COURT: -- Mr. Pomerantz argues it's not as
3 though there was a materially adverse change in treatment; it
4 was the disbursement estimate. And doesn't every Chapter 11
5 plan -- most Chapter 11 plans, not every -- they make an
6 estimate. I mean, and it's, frankly, it's very often a big 7 range of recovery, right, a big range of recovery, because we 8 don't know what the allowed claims are going to compute to at 9 the end of the day. There's obviously liquidation of assets.
10 We don't know. Isn't this sort of like every -- not, again,
11 not every other plan, but most other plans -- where there's a
12 big range of possible estimated distributions? I mean, this 13 wasn't a change in treatment, right?

14 MR. DRAPER: Well, let me address that. There are 15 two parts to that. Most plans I see that contain some sort of 16 analysis have a range. This one doesn't have a range. What 17 they've done is they've buried in a footnote or assumption
18 that these numbers may change. So had they said, look, your 19 recovery can go from 60 cents to 85 cents, God bless, they 20 probably would have been right.

21 Number two, which is more problematic to me, to be honest
22 with you, is the fact that, number one, the operating expenses
23 have increased over a hundred percent. And number two, the 24 Debtor has made a determination post-disclosure statement and 25 pre-hearing that they're going to change their model of 178

1 business.

2 The original disclosure statement said we're not going to
3 get into the managing CLO part of the business and we're going
4 to let these contracts go. However, at some point along the 5 way, they made a change. I don't know to this day, because I
6 was never furnished the backup to the expense side. I
7 understand what they said why they didn't give me the asset
8 side, but the expense side, they should have given me, and I
9 did ask for.

10 But, you know, what we have now is a more fundamental 11 problem with the execution of the plan and the expectation
12 that creditors -- what they're going to get, because, in fact,
13 the expense items have doubled.

14 I think creditors were entitled to know that, rather than 15 it having been sprung upon everybody, when I got it the day
16 before a deposition. And so those are things that I think 17 warranted a change in solicitation. Now, the result may have 18 been the same. I don't know. More people may have voted 19 against the plan. More people may have opted in from Class 8
20 to Class 7, I mean, based upon that information. That 21 information was not provided to them.

22 And so I look at two -- three things. One is a range
23 could have been given, and they probably would have been a 24 whole lot better off. Two, you have a material change in 25 expenses. And three, you have a material change in business

179

1 model. Three things that occurred between November and this
2 confirmation hearing. Three things that were not known by the 3 creditor body and not told to them.

4 THE COURT: Mr. Draper, I --

5 MR. DRAPER: Now, it may have been told --

6 THE COURT: I don't want to belabor this any more
7 than I think we need to, but I've got a Creditors' Committee
8 with very sophisticated professionals, very sophisticated
9 members. They're fiduciaries to this constituency. You know,
10 you mentioned the little guy. I'm not quite sure who is the 11 little guy in this case. I think it's a case of all big guys.
12 But, I mean, they're fine with what's happened here.

13 Meanwhile, you -- I mean, clarify your standing here for 14 Dugaboy and Get Good. I mean, --

15 MR. DRAPER: I have --

16 THE COURT: -- I know you have standing. Mr.
17 Pomerantz did not say you don't have standing. But in 18 pointing out the economic interests here, I think he said your 19 clients only have asserted a postpetition administrative 20 expense. Is that correct?

21 MR. DRAPER: No. I have a post -- I have an -- I
22 have a claim that's been objected to. I don't think my 23 economic --

24 THE COURT: A claim of what amount?

25 MR. DRAPER: I think it's $10 million. But Mr.

180

1 Pomerantz is right, it requires a looking through the --
2 through the entity that I had a loan relationship with.

3 I recognize all of those things. I don't think that's 4 relevant to whether my argument is correct or incorrect. I
5 have standing to do it. I don't think whether my claim is 50
6 cents or $50 million should change the Court's view of whether 7 the claim is good or bad.

8 THE COURT: Well, I do want to understand, though.
9 Okay. So you have not asserted an administrative expense,
10 correct?

11 MR. DRAPER: No. There's been an administrative 12 expense that's been asserted, --

13 THE COURT: For what?

14 MR. DRAPER: -- but that --

15 THE COURT: For what?

16 MR. DRAPER: I don't have the number in front of me,
17 Your Honor. I don't -- I don't have those numbers --

18 THE COURT: Okay. Well, then, --

19 MR. DRAPER: -- in front of me. I have asserted --

20 THE COURT: -- what is the concept? What is the 21 basis for it?

22 MR. DRAPER: It deals with -- Mr. Pomerantz is 23 absolutely right as to how he's articulated it.

24 THE COURT: I can't remember what he said.

25 MR. DRAPER: It deals with -- it deals with a

181

1 transaction that's unrelated to the Debtor that deals with 2 Multi-Strat. I agree with that.

3 THE COURT: Okay. So I remember him saying piercing
4 the corporate veil. Your trusts -- both of them, one of them,
5 I don't know -- engaged in a transaction with Multi-Strat that 6 you say --

7 MR. DRAPER: No, that --

8 THE COURT: -- gave -- okay. Well, you say Multi-
9 Strat is liable and the Debtor is also liable?

10 MR. DRAPER: No. Let me make two things. The 11 administrative claim deals with a Multi-Strat transaction that 12 took place during the bankruptcy. My unsecured claim deals
13 with a transaction that took place prior to the bankruptcy,
14 where we lent money to another entity that then funneled money
15 out into the Debtor. We're -- our contention is that the 16 Debtor is liable for that loan.

17 THE COURT: All right. So both the administrative 18 expense as well as the prepetition claim require veil-piercing
19 to establish liability of the Debtor?

20 MR. DRAPER: Or single business enterprise. I don't 21 necessarily have to veil-pierce.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I'm not even sure that single 23 business enterprise is completely available anymore in Texas,
24 by the Texas legislature doing different things, assuming 25 Texas law applies. I don't know, maybe Delaware does. But I

182

1 -- sorry. Just let me let that sink in a little bit. You're

2 -- okay. Okay. Let me let it --

3 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, I --

4 THE COURT: -- sink in a little bit.

5 MR. DRAPER: Okay.

6 THE COURT: These trusts -- of which Mr. Dondero is 7 the beneficiary ultimately, right?

8 MR. DRAPER: Yes. Well, and to --

9 THE COURT: So, your --

10 MR. DRAPER: Again, I have not gone up --

11 THE COURT: The beneficiary of your client --

12 MR. DRAPER: Mr. Dondero is --

13 THE COURT: The beneficiary of your client is 14 ultimately hoping to succeed on the administrative expense and 15 the claim on the basis that you should disregard the 16 separateness of Highland and these other entities?

17 MR. DRAPER: Well, let's take the --

18 THE COURT: When he's resisted that --

19 MR. DRAPER: -- unsecured claim. The --

20 THE COURT: -- in multiple pieces of litigation?

21 Right? I'm sorry. I'm just trying to let this sink in.

22 Okay. If you could elaborate. I'm sorry. I'm talking too
23 much. You answer me.

24 MR. DRAPER: Okay. What we are saying is that, in 25 essence, the party we lent the money to was a conduit for the 183

1 Debtor.

2 THE COURT: Okay. And who was that entity that
3 either --

4 MR. DRAPER: Highland Select.

5 THE COURT: -- Dugaboy or Get Good lent money to?

6 MR. DRAPER: The Get Good claim is completely
7 different. The Get Good claim is written as a tax claim.
8 Honestly, I haven't taken a hard look at it. I will, once we 9 get through this, and it may be withdrawn. The Dugaboy claim 10 is a claim that arises through a conduit loan.

11 THE COURT: Okay. But to which entity?

12 MR. DRAPER: Highland Select.

13 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, continue with 14 your argument. I'll get my flow chart out and --

15 MR. DRAPER: Well, let me -- again, I think I've made
16 the points that I needed to make. I think I've done it in a
17 sense that you -- what I think the Court needs to do is take a 18 very hard look at the jurisdictional extension that's being 19 granted here. I think the exculpation provision, in and of 20 itself, just by the mere inclusion of Pachulski and the 21 Debtor's professionals and the Committee professionals, is 22 just unconfirmable. It has to be stricken.

23 And I think the injunction and the juris... the gatekeeper
24 provision are not allowed by applicable law. If this plan
25 merely said, we will enforce the Barton Doctrine, we will

184

1     abide -- and this order the Court has entered stands, the 2     injunction that's provided and the rights that we have under
3     1141 stand, nobody would be objecting. That's why the U.S.
4     Trustee has objected, because of the expansive nature of what
5     the -- what's been done in this plan.

6             And with that, I'll turn it over to Mr. Taylor or Davor.

7             THE COURT: All right. Who's next?

8             MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Davor Rukavina. Can you
9     hear me?

10            THE COURT: I can.

11            CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF CERTAIN FUNDS AND ADVISORS

12            MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, thank you. I'll try not 13     to repeat the arguments from Mr. Draper, but I do want to 14     point out a couple bigger-picture issues, I think.

15            One, the issue today is not Mr. Dondero, what he has been 16     alleged to have done, what he is alleged to do in the future.
17     The Debtor has gone out of its way to create the impression
18     that we're all tentacles, we're vexatious litigants, we're 19     frivolous litigants. The issue today is whether this plan is 20     confirmable under 1129(a) and 1129(b). And I think that that 21     has to be the focus.

22            Nor is the issue, I think, today any motivation behind my 23     objection or Mr. Draper's or anything else.

24            And I do take issue that my motivation or my client's 25     motivation has some ulterior motive for a competing plan or

185

1 burning down the house or anything like that. It's very, very
2 simple. My clients do not want $140 million of their money
3 and their investors' money, to whom they owe fiduciary duties,
4 to be managed by a liquidating debtor under new management
5 without proper staffing and with an obvious conflict of 6 interest in the form of Mr. Seery wearing two hats.

7 I respect very much that Mr. Seery wants to monetize
8 estate assets for the benefit of the estate creditors. That's 9 his job. That's incompatible with his job under the Advisers
10 Act and, as he said, to maximize value to my clients and over
11 a billion dollars of investments in these CLOs.

12 That should not be, Your Honor, a controversial
13 proposition. I should not be described as a tentacle or 14 vexatious because my clients don't want their money managed by 15 someone that they, in effect, did not contract with. I may be 16 -- I may lose that argument. The CLOs have obviously 17 consented to the assumption. But my argument should not be 18 controversial. It should not be painted with a broad brush of 19 somehow being done in bad faith by Mr. Dondero.

20 And in fact, Mr. Seery has admitted that the Debtor and he 21 are fiduciaries to us. The fact that today they call us
22 things like tentacles and serial litigants and vexatious
23 litigants -- we all know what a vexatious litigant is. We've 24 all dealt with those. The fact that our fiduciary would call
25 us that just reconfirms that it should have no business

186

1 managing our or other people's money.

2 And then for what? Mr. Seery has basically said that the 3 Debtor will make some $8.5 million in revenue from these 4 contracts, net out $4 million of expenses. That's net profit
5 of $4.5 million. But then they have to pay $3.5 million for 6 D&O insurance and $525,000 in cure claims. But it's the 7 Debtor's business decision, not ours.

8 Your Honor, the second issue is the cram-down of Class 8.
9 There are two problems here: the disparate treatment between 10 Class 7 and Class 8, which also raises classification, and 11 then the absolute priority rule. Class 7 is a convenience
12 class claim -- is a convenience claim, Your Honor, with a $1
13 million threshold. Objectively, that is not for 14 administrative convenience, as the Code allows. And the only 15 evidence as to how that million dollars was arrived at was,
16 oh, it was a negotiation of the Committee.

17 There is no evidence justifying administrative
18 convenience. Therefore, there is no evidence justifying
19 separate classification. And on cram-down, the treatment has 20 to be fair and equitable, which per se it is not if there is 21 unfair discrimination. And there is unfair discrimination,
22 because Class 8 will be paid less.

23 On the absolute priority rule, Your Honor, I think that 24 it's very simple. I think that the Code is very clear that 25 equity cannot retain anything -- I'm sorry, equity cannot

187

1 retain any property or be given any property. Property is the 2 key word in 1129(b), not value. It doesn't matter that this
3 property may not have any value, although Mr. Seery said that
4 it might. What matters is whether these unvested contingent
5 interests in the trust are property. And Your Honor, they are 6 property. They have to be property. They are trust
7 interests.

8 So the absolute priority rule is violated on its face.
9 There is no evidence that unsecured creditors in Class 8 will 10 receive hundred-cent dollars. The only evidence is that 11 they'll receive 71 cents. Mr. Seery said there's a potential
12 upside from litigation. He never quantified that upside. And 13 there is zero evidence that Class 8 creditors are likely to be 14 paid hundred-cent dollars. So, again, you have the absolute
15 priority rule issue.

16 And this construct where, okay, well, equity won't be in 17 the money unless everyone higher above is paid in full, that 18 is just a way to try to get around the dictate of the absolute
19 priority rule. If that logic flies, then the next time I have 20 a hotel client or a Chapter 11 debtor-in-possession client
21 where my equity wants to retain ownership, I'll just create 22 something like, well, here's a trust, creditors own the trust,
23 I won't distribute any money to equity, and equity can just 24 stay in control.

25 The point again is that this is property and it's being

188

1 received on account of prepetition equity.

2 And there's also the control issue. The absolute priority
3 rule, the Supreme Court is clear that control of the post-
4 confirmation equity is also subject to the absolute priority
5 rule. Here you have the same prepetition management
6 postpetition controlling the Debtor and the assets.

7 Your Honor, the Rule 2015.3 issue, someone's going to say
8 that it's trivial. Someone's going to accuse me of pulling
9 out nothing to make something. Your Honor, it's not trivial.
10 That's part of the problem in this case, that this Debtor owns
11 other entities that own assets, and there's been precious
12 little window given into that during the case, during this 13 confirmation hearing, and in the disclosure statement.

14 Rule 2015.3 is mandatory. It's a shall. I respect very 15 much Mr. Seery's explanation that there was a lot going on 16 with the COVID and with everything and that it just fell 17 through the cracks. That's an honest explanation. But the 18 Rule has not been complied with. And 1107(a) requires that 19 the debtor-in-possession comply with a trustee's duties under 20 704(a)(8). Those duties include filing reports required by 21 the Rules.

22 So we have an 1129(a)(3) problem, Your Honor, because this
23 plan proponent has not complied with Chapter 11 and Title 11.
24 I'll leave it at that, because I suspect, again, someone will 25 accuse me of being trivial on that. It is not trivial. It is

1 a very important rule.

2 On the releases and exculpations, Your Honor, I'm not
3 going to try -- I'm not going to hopefully repeat Mr. Draper.
4 But there's a couple of huge things here with this exculpation
5 that takes it outside of any possible universe of Pacific
6 Lumber.

7 First, you have a nondebtor entity that is being
8 exculpated. I understand the proposition that, during a 9 bankruptcy case, the professionals of a bankruptcy case might 10 be afforded some protection. I understand that proposition.
11 But here you have Strand and its board that's a nondebtor.

12 The other thing you have that takes this outside of any 13 plausible case law is that the Debtor is exculpated from 14 business decisions, including post-confirmation. I understand
15 that professionals in a case make decisions, and 16 professionals, at the end of the case, especially if the Court
17 is making findings about a plan's good faith, that 18 professionals making decisions on how to administer an estate
19 ought to have some protection.

20 That does not hold true for whether a debtor and its 21 professionals should have protection for how they manage their 22 business. GM cannot be exculpated for having manufactured a
23 defective product and sold it during its bankruptcy case.

24 Here, I asked Mr. Seery whether this language in these 25 provisions, talking about whether the administration of the

190

1 estate and the implementation of the plan includes the
2 Debtor's management of those contracts and funds. He said
3 yes. He said yes. So if you look at the exculpation
4 provision, it is not limited in time. It affects, Your Honor,
5 I'm quoting, it affects the implementation of the plan.
6 That's going forward.

7 So you are exculpating the Debtor and its professionals
8 from business decisions, including post-confirmation, from 9 negligence. Well, isn't negligence the number one protection
10 that people that have invested a billion dollars with the 11 Debtor have? It's cold comfort to hear, well, you can come
12 after us for gross negligence or theft. I get that. What 13 about negligence? Isn't that what professionals do? Isn't 14 that why professionals have insurance, liability insurance?
15 It's called professional negligence for malpractice.

16 So this exculpation, let there be no mistake -- I heard
17 Your Honor's view and discussion -- this is a different
18 universe, both in space and in time.

19 And we don't have to worry about Pacific Lumber too much
20 because we have the Dropbox opinion in Thru, Inc. We have 21 that opinion. Whether it's sound law or not, I don't wear the 22 robe. But the exculpation provision in that case was 23 virtually identical. And Your Honor, that's a 2018 U.S. Dist.
24 LEXIS 179769. In that opinion, Judge Fish -- I don't think
25 anyone could say that Judge Fish was not a very experienced

191

1 district court judge -- Judge Fish found that the exculpation
2 violated Fifth Circuit precedent. That exculpation covered
3 the debtor's attorneys, the debtor, the very people that Mr.
4 Pomerantz is now saying, well, maybe the Fifth Circuit would 5 allow an exculpation for.

6 THE COURT: Well, I think he is relying heavily on 7 the analogy of independent directors to Creditors' Committee
8 members, saying that's a different animal, if you will, than 9 prepetition officers and directors. And he thinks, given the 10 little bit of policy analysis put out there by the Fifth
11 Circuit, they might agree that that's analogous and worthy of 12 an exculpation.

13 MR. RUKAVINA: And they might. And they might. And 14 again, I usually do debtor cases. You know that. I'd love to 15 be exculpated.

16 THE COURT: But --

17 MR. RUKAVINA: And I think, again, I do -- I do --

18 THE COURT: -- I really want people to give me their 19 best argument of why, you know, that's just flat wrong. And 20 Mr. Draper just said it's, you know, there's a categorical --

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Yeah.

22 THE COURT: -- rejection of exculpations except for 23 Committee members and Committee in Pacific Lumber. And I'm 24 scratching my head on that one. And partly the reason I am,
25 while 524(e) was thrown out there, the fact is there's nothing

192

1 explicitly in the Bankruptcy Code, right, that explicitly
2 permits exculpation to a Committee or Committee members.
3 There's just sort of this notion, you know, allegedly embodied
4 in 1103(c), or maybe there are cases you want to cite to me,
5 that they're fiduciaries, they're voluntary fiduciaries, they
6 ought to have qualified immunity.

7 And again, I see it as more of a policy rationale the 8 Fifth Circuit gave than pointing to a certain statute. So if 9 it's really a policy rationale, then I think the analogy given
10 here to a newly-appointed independent board is pretty darn
11 good.

12 So tell me why I'm all wrong, why Mr. Pomerantz is all 13 wrong.

14 MR. RUKAVINA: I am not going to tell you that you're 15 all wrong. I'm not going to tell Mr. Pomerantz that he's all
16 wrong. Although I am, I guess, a Dondero tentacle, I am not a
17 Mr. Draper tentacle, and I happen to disagree with him.
18 That's my right. I respect the man very much. I thought he 19 did a very honorable and ethical job explaining his position
20 to Your Honor. I believe that the Fifth Circuit would approve
21 exculpations for postpetition pre-confirmation matters taken
22 by estate fiduciaries. I do believe that they would. And I
23 do believe that that should be the case.

24 But again, I'm telling you that this one is different.
25 It's -- Mr. Pomerantz is misdirecting you. The estate

193

1 professionals manage the estate. The Debtor manages its
2 business. It goes out into the world and it manages business.
3 And as Your Honor knows, under that 1969 Supreme Court case,
4 of course I blanked, and under 28 U.S. 959, a debtor must
5 comply, when it's out there, with all applicable law.

6 So if the Debtor -- and I'm making this up, okay? I am
7 making this up. I'm not alleging anything. But if the 8 Debtor, through actionable neglect, lost $500 million of its 9 clients' or its investor clients' money, I'm telling you that 10 under no theory can that be exculpated, and I'm telling you
11 that that's what this provision does.

12 The estate and the Debtor can release their claims. It
13 happens all the time. Whatever -- whatever claims the estate
14 may have against professionals, those can be released. It's a 15 9019. I'm not complaining about that. Although I do think 16 that it's premature in this case, because we don't know
17 whether there's any liability for the $100 million that Mr.
18 Seery told you Mr. Dondero lost. But in no event can business
19 -- business --

20 THE COURT: I don't understand what you just said.

21 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I --

22 THE COURT: Mr. Dondero is not released --

23 MR. RUKAVINA: -- went through Mr. Seery's --

24 THE COURT: -- by the estate.

25 MR. RUKAVINA: I understand. I understand. But we 194

1 all have to also understand that a board of directors and 2 officers can be liable, breaches of fiduciary duty by not
3 properly managing an employee. So I'm not suggesting -- I
4 mean, I know that there's been an examiner motion filed. I'm 5 not suggesting that we have a mini-trial. I'm not suggesting 6 there's actionable conduct. What I'm telling you is that the 7 evidence shows that there's a large postpetition loss. And 8 it's premature to prevent third parties that might have claims 9 from bringing those.

10 And then I think -- I'm not sure that Your Honor
11 understood my point. Let me try to make it again. This 12 exculpation is not limited in time. This exculpation is 13 expressly not limited in time and applies to the 14 administration of the plan post-confirmation. I don't think 15 under any theory would the Fifth Circuit or any court at the 16 appellate level allow an exculpation for purely post-
17 reorganization post-bankruptcy matters. I have nothing more
18 to tell Your Honor on exculpation.

19 THE COURT: Well, again, I -- perhaps I go down some 20 roads I really don't need to go down here, but I'm not sure I
21 read it the way you did. I thought we were just talking about 22 pre -- postpetition, pre-confirmation. Or pre-effective date.

23 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, Page --

24 THE COURT: The --

25 MR. RUKAVINA: Page 48 of the plan, Section C, 195

1 Exculpation. Romanette (iv). The implementation of the plan.
2 And I -- and that's -- that's part of why I asked Mr. Seery
3 that yesterday. Does the implementation of the plan, in his 4 understanding, include the Reorganized Debtor's management and 5 wind-down of the Funds, and he said yes.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. RUKAVINA: So that's right there in black and 8 white.

9 It also includes the administration of the Chapter 11
10 case. If that is defined broadly, as Mr. Seery wants it to 11 be, to define business decisions, then that also exceeds any 12 permissible exculpation.

13 So, again, I'm telling Your Honor, with due respect to you
14 and to Mr. Pomerantz, that the focus of Your Honor's
15 questioning is wrong. The focus of Your Honor's questioning
16 should be on exculpation from what? From business -- i.e., GM 17 manufacturing and selling the car -- or from management of the 18 bankruptcy case? Management of the bankruptcy case? Okay.
19 Postpetition pre-confirmation managing business, never okay.

20 Your Honor, on the channeling -- and let me add, I think 21 it's very clear, there is no Barton Doctrine here. This is 22 not a Chapter 11 trustee. The Barton Doctrine does not 23 extend to debtors-in-possession. And I can cite you to a 24 recent case, In re Zaman, 2020 Bankr. LEXIS 2361, that 25 confirms that the Barton Doctrine does not apply to a debtor-

1 in-possession.

2 I want to --

3 THE COURT: Remind me of that --

4 MR. RUKAVINA: -- discuss, Your Honor, the --

5 THE COURT: Remind me of the facts of that case. I
6 feel like I read it, but -- or saw it in the advance sheets,
7 maybe.

8 MR. RUKAVINA: I honestly do not recall. I read it a
9 few days ago, and since then, I hope Your Honor can
10 appreciate, I've been up very late trying to negotiate
11 something good in this case.

12 THE COURT: I'd like to know --

13 MR. RUKAVINA: So, I mean, I have the case in front
14 of me.

15 THE COURT: I'd like to know about a holding that 16 says Barton Doctrine can't be applied in a Chapter 11 post-
17 confirmation context, if that's --

18 MR. RUKAVINA: Well, I have it --

19 THE COURT: -- indeed the holding.

20 MR. RUKAVINA: I have it right in front of me here,
21 Your Honor, and I can certainly -- all I know is that this
22 case held that -- it rejected the notion that the Barton
23 Doctrine applies to a debtor-in-possession.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. RUKAVINA: And maybe --

197

1 THE COURT: That --

2 MR. RUKAVINA: There it is, right there.

3 THE COURT: What judge?

4 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, it is the Southern
5 District of Florida, and it is the Honorable -- Your Honor, it
6 is the Honorable Mindy Mora.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. RUKAVINA: M-O-R-A.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. RUKAVINA: I have not had the pleasure of being 11 in front of that judge.

12 Your Honor, let me discuss the channeling injunction.
13 This is the big one for me. This is the big one. And I think 14 we have to begin -- and it's the big one, as I'll get to,
15 because Your Honor knows that the CLO management agreements
16 give my clients certain rights, and this injunction would 17 prevent those rights from being exercised post-confirmation.
18 It's not dissimilar from the PI hearing that we're in the 19 middle of in an adversary.

20 But I begin my analysis, again, with 28 U.S.C. 959. Your 21 Honor, that -- the first sentence of that statute makes it
22 very clear that when it comes to carrying on a business, a
23 debtor-in-possession may be sued without leave of the court
24 appointing them.

25 So the first thing that this channel -- gatekeeper,

198

1 channeling, I don't mean to miscall it -- the first thing that
2 this gatekeeping injunction does is it stands directly
3 opposite to 28 U.S.C. 959.

4 28 U.S.C. 959 also says that jury rights must be 5 preserved. As I'll argue in a moment, this injunction also 6 affects those rights.

7 In addition to 959, we have the fundamental issue of post-
8 confirmation jurisdiction. As Mr. Draper said, here, this 9 channeling injunction applies to post-confirmation matters.
10 Similar to my answer to you on exculpation, I can see there
11 being a place for a channeling injunction during the pendency
12 of a case or for claims that might have arisen during the 13 pendency of a case. I cannot see that, and I don't know of 14 any court that, at least at a circuit level, that would agree
15 that this can apply post-confirmation.

16 It is, again, the equivalent of GM manufacturing a car
17 post-confirmation and having to go to bankruptcy court because 18 someone's wanting to sue it for product negligence or 19 liability. It's unthinkable. The reason why a debtor exits
20 bankruptcy is to go back out into the community. It's no
21 longer under the protection of the bankruptcy court. That's 22 what the media calls Chapter 11, it calls it the protection of 23 the court. There's no such protection post-reorganization.
24 So, --

25 THE COURT: Is that really analogous, Mr. Rukavina?

199

1 Let's get real. Is this really analogous --

2 MR. RUKAVINA: It is.

3 THE COURT: -- to GM --

4 MR. RUKAVINA: It is.

5 THE COURT: -- manufacturing thousands of cars?

6 MR. RUKAVINA: It absolutely is analogous. Because 7 this Debtor is going to assume these contracts and it is going
8 to go out there and it is going to make daily decisions
9 affecting a billion dollars of other people's money. Each of 10 those decisions hopefully will be done correctly and make 11 everyone a lot of money, but each of those decisions is the 12 potential for claims and causes of action.

13 So it is analogous, Your Honor. They want my clients and 14 others to come to you for purely post-confirmation matters.
15 The Court will not have that jurisdiction. There will be no
16 bankruptcy estate, nor can the Court's limited jurisdiction to 17 ensure the implementation of the plan go to and affect a post-
18 confirmation business decision.

19 That's the distinction. The Debtor's post-confirmation
20 business is not the implementation of a plan. As Mr. Draper
21 said, there's a new entity. There's a new general partner.
22 There's a new structure. Go out there and do business,
23 Debtor. That's what they're telling you. They're telling you
24 this is not a liquidation because they're going to be in 25 business. Okay. Well, the consequence of that is that 200

1 there's no post-confirmation jurisdiction.

2 Now, Mr. Pomerantz says, and I think you asked Mr. Draper,
3 well, the jurisdiction to adjudicate whether something is 4 colorable is different from the jurisdiction to adjudicate the 5 underlying matter. Your Honor, I don't understand that 6 argument, and I don't see a distinction. If the Court has no
7 jurisdiction to decide the underlying matter, then how can the 8 Court have any jurisdiction to pass on any aspect of that 9 underlying matter?

10 And whether something is colorable is a fundamental issue
11 in every matter. That's the thing that courts look at in a 12 12(b)(6), in a Rule 11 issue, in a 1927 issue. So they're 13 going to come -- or someone is going to have to come to Your 14 Honor and present evidence and law that something is 15 colorable. Let's say that we've said there's a breach of 16 contract. Aren't we going to have to show you, here's the 17 contract, here's the language, here's the facts giving rise to 18 the breach, here's the elements? And Your Honor is going to 19 have to pass on that. And if Your Honor decides that 20 something is not colorable, then there ain't no step two.

21 And if Your Honor decides that something is colorable,
22 then isn't that going to be binding on the future proceeding?
23 And if it's going to be binding on the future proceeding, then 24 of course you're exercising jurisdiction to adjudicate an 25 aspect of that lawsuit.

201

1 I don't think that that -- I don't know I can be clearer
2 than that, Your Honor, unless the Debtor has some other
3 understanding of what a colorable claim or cause of action is 4 that I'm misunderstanding.

5 And Your Honor, I would ask, when Your Honor is in 6 chambers, to look at one of these CLO management agreements.
7 I'm sure Your Honor has already. I just pulled one out of the 8 Debtor's exhibits, Exhibit J as in Jason. And Section 14, 14
9 talks about termination for cause. Most of these contracts
10 are for cause. So, Your Honor, cause includes willfully
11 breaching the agreement or violating the law, cause includes 12 fraud, cause includes a criminal matter, such as indictment.

13 So let's imagine, Your Honor, that I come to you a year
14 from now and I say, I would like to terminate this agreement
15 because I don't want the Debtor managing my $140 million
16 because of one of these causes. What am I going to argue to 17 Your Honor? I'm going to argue to Your Honor that those 18 causes exist. And Your Honor is going to have to pass on 19 that.

20 And if Your Honor says they don't exist, again, I'm done.
21 I just got an effective final ruling from a federal judge that 22 my claim is without merit. I'm done. Your Honor has decided 23 the matter effectively, legally, and finally.

24 That's why, when Mr. Pomerantz says that the jurisdiction
25 to adjudicate the colorableness of a claim is different from

202

1 adjudicating that claim, it's not correct. They're part of
2 the same thing, Your Honor.

3 We strenuously object to that injunction, we think it's 4 unprecedented, and we strenuously object to that injunction
5 because we are not Mr. Dondero.

6 I understand the January 9th order. I'll let Mr.
7 Dondero's counsel talk about why that was never intended to be 8 a perpetual order. I'll let Mr. Dondero's counsel argue as to 9 why the extension of that order ad infinitum in the plan is 10 illegal.

11 But even if Mr. Dondero is enjoined in perpetuity from 12 causing the related parties to terminate these agreements,
13 Your Honor, the related parties themselves are not subject to 14 that injunction. That's why you have the preliminary 15 injunction proceeding impending in front of you on ridiculous
16 allegations of tortious interference.

17 So whether the Court enjoins Mr. Dondero or not in 18 perpetuity is a separate matter. The question is, as you've 19 heard, at least my retail clients, they have boards. Those 20 boards are the final decision-makers. Mr. Dondero is not on 21 those boards.

22 In other words, it is wrong to conclude a priori that 23 anything that my clients do has to be at the direction of Mr.
24 Dondero. There is no evidence of that. The evidence is to 25 the contrary.

203

1 Yes, a couple of my clients, the Advisors are controlled
2 by Mr. Dondero. Mr. Norris testified to that. You'll not
3 find Mr. Norris anywhere testifying in that transcript that
4 Your Honor allowed into evidence that the funds, my retail
5 fund clients are controlled by Mr. Dondero. You won't find
6 that evidence. There was no evidence yesterday or today that 7 Mr. Dondero controls those retail funds. The only evidence is 8 that they have independent boards.

9 So I ask the Court to see that it's a little bit of a
10 sleight of hand by the Debtor. If I am to be enjoined or if I
11 am to have to come to Your Honor in the future as a vexatious
12 litigant or a tentacle or a frivolous litigant, whatever else
13 I've been called today, then let it be because of something 14 that I've done or failed to do, something that my client has 15 done to warrant such a serious remedy, not something that Mr.
16 Dondero is alleged to have done.

17 And what have my clients done, Your Honor? What have we 18 done to be called vexatious litigants and serial litigants?
19 We've done nothing in this case, pretty much, until December
20 16th, when we filed a motion that was a poor motion,
21 unfortunately, the Court found it to be frivolous, and the 22 Court read us the riot act.

23 We refused, on December 22nd, we, my clients' employees,
24 to execute two trades that Mr. Dondero wanted us to execute.
25 We had no obligation to execute them. We knew nothing about

204

1 them. And Mr. Seery -- I'm sorry. Not Mr. Dondero, that Mr.
2 Seery wanted to execute. And Mr. Seery closed those 3 transactions that same day. And then a professional lawyer at 4 K&L Gates, a seasoned bankruptcy lawyer, sent three letters to 5 a seasoned professional lawyer at Pachulski, and the letters
6 were basically ignored.

7 Okay. Those are the things that we've done. Other than 8 that, we've defended ourselves against a TRO, we've defended
9 ourselves against a preliminary injunction, we will continue
10 to defend ourselves against a preliminary injunction, and we 11 defend ourselves against this plan because it takes away our 12 rights. Is that vexatious litigation? Is that, other than 13 the frivolous motion, is that frivolous litigation?

14 And we heard you loud and clear when you read us the riot
15 act on December 16th. And I will challenge any of these 16 colleagues here today to point me to something that we have 17 filed since then that is in any way, shape, or form arguably
18 meritless.

19 So where is the evidence that my retail funds are 20 tentacles or vexatious litigants or anything else? There is 21 no evidence, Your Honor, and the Debtor is doing its best to 22 give you smoke and mirrors to just make that mental jump from 23 Mr. Dondero to my clients, effectively an alter ego, without a
24 trial on alter ego.

25 Once these contracts are assumed, the Debtor must live

205

1 with their consequences. It's as simple as that. Your Honor
2 has so held. Your Honor has so held forcefully in the Texas
3 Ballpark case. And the Court, I submit respectfully, cannot 4 excise by an injunction a provision of a contract.

5 Also, this injunction will -- is a permanent injunction.
6 We know from Zale and other cases the Fifth Circuit does 7 permit certain limited plan injunctions that are temporary in 8 hundred-cent plans. This is a permanent one. It doesn't even 9 pretend to be a temporary one.

10 It's also a permanent one because the Debtor knows and I
11 think the Debtor is banking on me being unable to get relief
12 in the Fifth Circuit before Mr. Seery is finished liquidating
13 these CLOs.

14 So what we are talking about today is effectively excising
15 valuable and important negotiated provisions of these 16 contracts, provisions that, although my clients are not 17 counterparties to these contracts, you've heard from at least 18 three of them we do control the requisite vote, the voting
19 percentages, to cause a termination, to remove the Debtor, or 20 to seek to enforce the Debtor's obligations under those 21 contracts.

22 And again, Your Honor, it's very simple. Where those 23 contracts require cause, there either is cause or is not 24 cause. If there is not cause, the Debtor has its remedies.
25 If there is cause, I'll have my remedies. But it's not for 206

1 this Court post-confirmation to be making that determination.

2 That's not my decision. That's Congress's decision.

3 So, Your Honor, for those reasons, we object, and we
4 continue to object, and we'd ask that the Court not confirm 5 this plan because it is patently unconfirmable. Or if the 6 Court does confirm the plan, that it excise those provisions
7 of the releases, exculpations, and injunction that I just 8 mentioned as being not in line with the Fifth Circuit or 9 Supreme Court precedent.

10 Thank you.

11 THE COURT: All right. Can I -- I meant to ask Mr.
12 Draper this. Can we all agree that we do not have third-party
13 releases per se in this plan? Can we all agree on that?

14 MR. DRAPER: I don't know. I have to look at that.
15 I think what you have are exculpations and channeling
16 injunctions for third parties who have not paid for those 17 channeling injunctions or those exculpations.

18 THE COURT: All right.

19 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, was that question -- was 20 that question solely to Mr. Draper?

21 THE COURT: Well, no, it was to all of you. I
22 thought we could all agree that we don't have third party
23 releases per se. Okay. There was --

24 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, we --

25 THE COURT: -- a little bit of glossing over that in

207

1 some of the briefing, I can't remember whose. But we have
2 Debtor releases, we have --

3 MR. RUKAVINA: Yes.

4 THE COURT: -- exculpations that deal with
5 postpetition negligence only, we have injunctions, which I
6 guess the Debtor would say merely serve to implement the plan
7 provisions and are commonplace, but Mr. Draper would say maybe
8 are tantamount to third-party releases. Is that --

9 MR. RUKAVINA: Your Honor, I don't think --

10 THE COURT: -- where we are?

11 MR. RUKAVINA: -- there's any question -- I don't 12 think there's any question that the exculpation is a third-
13 party release, and that that's also what Judge Fish held in 14 the Dropbox case. It says that none of the exculpated parties
15 shall have any liability on any claim. So, --

16 THE COURT: All right.

17 MR. RUKAVINA: -- that necessarily --

18 THE COURT: I get what you're saying, but I just 19 think, in common bankruptcy lingo, most people regard a third-
20 party release as when third parties are releasing -- third
21 parties meaning, for example, creditors, interest holders --
22 are releasing officers and directors and other third parties
23 for anything and everything.

24 Exculpation, I get it, it's worded in a passive voice, but 25 it is third parties releasing third parties, but for a narrow

208

1 thing, postpetition conduct that is negligent. Okay. So I
2 think -- while there's technically something like a third-
3 party release there, it's not in bankruptcy lingo what we call
4 a third-party release. It's an exculpation means no liability
5 of the exculpated parties for postpetition conduct that's 6 negligent. So I -- anyway, I think we all agree that, I mean,
7 can we all agree there aren't any per se third-party releases
8 as that term is typically used in bankruptcy parlance?

9 MR. RUKAVINA: I apologize, Your Honor, and I'm not 10 trying to try your patience, but I cannot agree to that.
11 Whatever claims my client, a nondebtor, has against Strand, a
12 nondebtor, are gone. Whether it's a release or exculpations, 13 they're gone. So I apologize, I cannot agree to that, Your 14 Honor.

15 MR. DRAPER: Your Honor, this is Douglas Draper. I
16 can't agree, either. I think it's definitional. And quite 17 frankly, I think I'm looking at the functional effect of 18 what's here, and they appear to be third-party releases.

19 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Who is making the 20 argument for Mr. Dondero?

21 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, Clay Taylor appearing on
22 behalf of Mr. Dondero.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES D. DONDERO

25 MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, first of all, as this Court

209

1 is well aware, this Court sits, as a bankruptcy court, as a
2 court of equity. It has many different tools available to it.
3 One of those, of course, is denying confirmation of this plan
4 because of the laws that we have discussed today and that we
5 believe the evidence has shown, and I won't go into those. Of 6 course, of course, Your Honor could confirm that plan. Yet
7 another tool available to this Court is it can take it under 8 advisement.

9 To the extent that this Court decides to confirm this plan
10 and decides to confirm it today, it certainly takes a lot of 11 options off the table for all parties. There are ongoing
12 discussions, I'm not going to go into any of the particulars
13 of those discussions, but a ruling on confirmation today would 14 effectively end that, because, absent, then, an order vacating
15 confirmation, there's a lot of eggs that can't become 16 unscrambled after a confirmation order is entered.

17 So we would respectfully ask that, to the extent that the 18 Court is even considering confirmation, we don't believe it to 19 be appropriate, but at least take it under advisement for 30
20 days, or at least, in the very alternative, that it announce
21 some date which it is going to give a ruling, so that we kind
22 of know when that is going to come down, to see if any 23 positive ongoing discussions can result in more of a global 24 resolution that all parties can agree upon.

25 Addressing more the merits of the case, Your Honor, Mr.

210

1 Dondero does indeed object to the nondebtor releases, the 2 exculpations, the injunction. I believe those have been
3 covered rather extensively in the prior argument, so I wasn't
4 going to go into those here because they've been addressed.
5 Of course, I will endeavor to answer any questions that Your 6 Honor may have on those.

7 I will say I think Your Honor asked for everybody's best
8 shot as to why this is different for a Committee member versus 9 the independent trustees here. I will say my best shot is,
10 first of all, Pacific Lumber says what it says. I believe Mr.
11 Pomerantz has indicated their position that that language is 12 dicta and therefore not binding upon this Court. I
13 respectfully disagree with that. But to the extent, more
14 directly answering Your Honor's question, to me, the 15 difference is clear. Chapter 7 trustees are a creature of 16 statute. So are Chapter 11 trustees. And -- as are members
17 of a Committee that are seated pursuant to the Bankruptcy
18 Code. Those are all creatures of statute. And the 19 independent board of trustees, while there are certainly -- 20 there are some analogies that can be made, undoubtedly, but 21 they are not a creature of statute. There is no provision for 22 them under the Bankruptcy Code. And therefore I don't believe 23 that they should and can receive the same protections under 24 Pacific Lumber.

25 And so hopefully that -- that is my best shot at

211

1 answering, directly answering the question that Your Honor
2 posed.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MR. DRAPER: Mr. Dondero also has issue with the 5 overbroad continuing jurisdiction of this Court. I believe
6 Mr. Rukavina has stated that rather succinctly, too. Merely 7 ruling upon whatever claim is colorable or not certainly has 8 definite impacts. If this Court has jurisdiction to do that 9 when it otherwise wouldn't have jurisdiction, it enacts an 10 expansion, a potentially impermissible expansion of this 11 Court's jurisdiction. And for that reason, the plan should -- 12 confirmation should be denied.

13 Getting into the particulars of 1129, Your Honor, there is 14 problems under 1129(a)(2). Those are the solicitation
15 problems. Let's just kind of look at what the evidence
16 showed. On November 28th, there was a disclosure statement,
17 it was published to all creditors, and it said, under this 18 plan, you're going to get 87 cents. It wasn't a range. Now,
19 there was some assumptions that went in there, but they said,
20 under a liquidation of all these assets, you're going to get 21 62 cents.

22 The Debtors came back approximately two months later, on 23 January 28th, and said, oh, wait, we missed the boat here, and 24 actually, under the plan, you're going to get 61 cents. And 25 under a liquidation, though, you'd only get 48.

212

1 Well, the problem is, already, two months later, they've
2 already told you they missed the boat on what the liquidation
3 analysis was just two months ago. And two months ago, they 4 told you under a liquidation you'd get 62 cents, and now we're 5 telling you you're going to get less. That's at least some 6 very good evidence that the best interests of the creditors
7 isn't being met, and potentially a liquidation is much better.

8 They then came back, potentially maybe realizing that 9 problem, also because some new information came in with the 10 employees, and also with UBS, which adjusted the overall
11 general unsecured claims pool, and said, well, under the plan
12 you're going to get 71 cents, and under a liquidation you're 13 going to get 55 cents.

14 In between those iterations from November to February,
15 they found $67 million more in assets. So Mr. Seery testified
16 he believed some of that's as to market increases in values,
17 and some (garbling) investment, market -- securities. And 18 some were just in these private equity investments.

19 There are indeed some rollups behind all of these numbers.
20 I do understand why they wouldn't want to make some of these 21 numbers public, because they might not be able to get -- 22 create the upside for any particular asset class that they're 23 seeking to monetize.

24 However, we and others, including Mr. Draper, asked for 25 those rollups to be provided, and we certainly could have

213

1 taken those under seal or a confidentiality agreement, could
2 have also put those before this Court under seal and the 3 Debtor could have put those rollups before this Court under 4 seal. It elected not to do so.

5 So, rather, what you have is the naked assumptions of this 6 is what we think we can monetize the assets, or we're not 7 going to tell you what it is, but trust me, Creditors, and
