** In the case of a short sale, total cost ordinarily equals the cost of the asset (including commissions, if any) when purchased for delivery when the sale is closed or covered. However, as cost basis is unknown until the date the short sale is closed or covered, the value Fidelity reports in the Cost Basis column is equal to the price at which the short sale was transacted (total sales proceeds). When calculating the unrealized gain/loss, Fidelity adds the negative value reported in the Closing Mkt Value Column to the positive value reported in the Cost Basis column.

• NFS will report certain cost basis and holding period information to you and to the IRS on your annual Form 1099-B as required or allowed by law, but such information may not reflect adjustments required for your tax reporting purposes. Taxpayers should verify such information when calculating reportable gain or loss. Fidelity and NFS specifically disclaim any liability arising out of a customer's use of, or any tax position taken in reliance upon, such information. Unless otherwise specified, NFS determines cost basis at the time of sale based on the average cost-single category (ACSC) method for open-end mutual funds and based on the first-in, first-out (FIFO) method for all other securities. Consult your tax advisor for further information.

If securities held in your account are restricted for sale under your company's stock plan rules, Fidelity will use the FIFO method for lots available for sale.

For holdings purchased in a currency other than USD, the cost basis provided in USD was determined by converting the foreign currency cost into USD based on exchange rates on the trade date of purchase. For tax reporting purposes, you may be required to determine your actual USD cost basis based on exchange rates on the settlement date of purchase. Consult a tax advisor for further information.

Fidelity's cost basis information system has a cumulative lifetime limit on how much activity it can track for each individual security position in an account. For this purpose, each buy, sell, dividend, wash sale, disallowed loss, stock split, stock merger, etc., is an event. For some customers, this limit can be reached with approximately 1500 events. Cost basis information for events beyond that limit will usually show as "not available" or "unknown". In addition, any cost basis information shown may be outdated due to events occurring after the limit is exceeded. Once the limit is reached, all cost basis information for the affected position will need to be tracked and updated by the investor. Of course, investors will continue to receive confirms and account statements reflecting current transactions in their accounts. If you are uncertain if you have reached, or are near, the lifetime limit on a particular security position in your account, contact your Fidelity representative for more details.

For certain foreign security holdings, Unrealized USD Gain/Loss is broken down into market gain/loss and currency fluctuation components for informational purposes only. The market gain/loss and currency fluctuation components should not be used for tax reporting purposes. For details regarding how market gain/loss and currency fluctuation were calculated, please refer to Help/Glossary.

d - Adjusted cost basis reflects any cumulative original issue discount, premium, or acquisition premium (including any year-to-date amount). It assumes such amounts were amortized or accrued for tax purposes from the acquisition date through the disposition date (or, for securities still held, through the maturity date). Premium amortization was calculated using the yield-to-maturity method. Acquisition premium was calculated using the ratable accrual method. Any market discount accretion for this position was calculated using the straight-line method and, if applicable, recognized upon disposition. Gain/loss displayed for this position is calculated using the cost basis adjustments as described above. The adjusted cost basis used here may not reflect all adjustments necessary for tax reporting purposes (such as wash sale adjustments) and may not apply if you are using an alternative amortization calculation method. Refer to IRS Publication 550, Investment Income and Expenses, for additional information.

Amortization, accretion, and similar adjustments to cost basis are not provided for short-term instruments, unit investment trusts, or securities of foreign issuers. For fixed income securities subject to paydowns (early repayment of principal), cost basis is adjusted using a method that takes paydowns into account and calculates original issue discount, premium, and acquisition premium using a straight-line method.
